Trudeau Visits Prescott

Prime Minister Trudeau seemed to be riding on the wings of prosperity, politically that is, as he made a fast visit through the Eastern Ontario communities of Prescott, Brockville and Smiths Falls. Wherever he went, he was greeted enthusiastically, accompanied by the Liberal party faithful.

Hand were outreached and dozens sought autographs as the Prime Minister took to the rural areas in what was described as almost a routine business trip, but definitely had all the appearances of a political feeling-out of the political climate in those areas visited. And the climate seemed excellent for Mr. Trudeau including a radio station telephone interview program on CJET Smiths Falls.

Gordon Blair, MP, Grenville-Carleton, accompanied Mr. Trudeau to Prescott and the other communities, along with Gervais Black, Liberal candidate in Leeds.

The trip started with a visit to Smiths Falls, then on to Prescott and Brockville. Rain almost put a damper on the Prescott ceremonies, but after a brief shower, with Mr. Trudeau taking protection under the stands, the ceremony continued.

After the strong feelings over bilingualism expressed throughout the two ridings, the reception given the visitors seemed surprising to some political observers.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau is shown with Gordon Blair, M.P. for Carleton-Grenville shortly after arriving in Prescott Saturday last. Mr. Blair noted it was an historic occasion as it was the first time a Canadian Prime Minister had visited the community.

HEAD FOR THE BEACH

Hot weather has sent residents scurrying to the beach here in Iroquois for the relief offered by the cold waters of the St. Lawrence.

Pleasant Valley Church Burned

One of the older congregations in the district is without a church this week, lightning having struck Pleasant Valley Church on Sunday night, leveling the building.

The present United Church congregation dates back to 1900, and the previous congregation using the church was Presbyterian.

Rev. Brian Gee, Iroquois, had preached the Sunday night service at the church, the last of his pastoral supply for the congregation. The loss has not been estimated and no decision has been made as to the future of the congregation.

Crops not good due to Wet weather

Heavy losses are expected this year in just about all crops as heavy rainfall has all but stopped growth in the corn and grain crops in this area.

Less than half the normal growth is apparent in some areas and farmers are worried that even with good weather, there will not be enough time for crops to catch up.

Earlier in the season, it looked like this might be a good crop year in Eastern Ontario, but with rain every other day, in most areas, it soon became apparent that disaster was not far off. In the South Mountain area, one resident said that the crops are even worse than to the south, and little return is expected from the crops.

Visit to England

Mr. and Mrs. Len Roberts left Sunday for a short visit to England to see relatives and friends.

Hospital Births

July 4/72, Mr. & Mrs. Lee Johnston, Ingleside, a son.
July 5/72, Mr. & Mrs. Brian McNairn, Williamsburg, a daughter.

July 5/72, Mr. & Mrs. Andrew Cotnam, Chesterville, a son.
July 9/72, Mr. & Mrs. Donald Hillis, Morewood, a son.

On way to Israel

Mr. and Mrs. Darcy Primrose left from Dorval airport on July 17 for Israel. Enroute, they will spend a week in the U.K.

Mr. Primrose was sent to Israel by the Automatic Electric Co. to set up a new electronics telephone system.

Outdoor Service here Sunday

An ecumenical outdoor church service will be held at Iroquois Shopping Plaza this Sunday evening at 8 p.m. and in case of rain will move indoors to the Civic Centre. The service has been called for 8 p.m.

Taking part will be Rev. D. W. MacDonald, Rev. A. Rogers and Rev. Brian Gee.

The community is cordially invited to attend.

How to kill good Faith

Canadians may have lost some of their innocence last week, The Financial Post comments. Until then, just about everyone - expert tax lawyers as well as ordinary taxpayers - had firmly believed the information they included in their tax returns was confidential. You could, the belief went, tell the tax collector all sorts of personal things about how you earned and how you spent your money. All the tax man cared about was that you paid up on what you earned. You would get into trouble only if you lied about your earnings and your deductions. Now, The Financial Post points out, this comfortable view has been shattered by the revelation that the Department of National Revenue's tax sleuths had tipped off the federal Justice Department about some business dealings of a former tariff consultant which allegedly overlapped his term as chairman of a federal tribunal. As a respected tax lawyer puts it in The Financial Post: "For decades, Canadians have been told by the government that the information they send in on their tax returns is absolutely confidential. Well, we've been conned." The Financial Post goes on to say that people who believed they had the solemn pledge of the government that whatever they reported would be used only by the tax department and, more recently, Statistics Canada, may have been unwittingly cajoled into bearing witness against themselves in ways that could lead to later legal actions initiated by the government. The Financial Post stresses the point that if the government doesn't preserve the confidentiality of tax returns, returns to Statistics Canada and similar private documents, then companies and individuals will be tempted to withhold much innocent but valuable information. Only a strong and unequivocal government statement that Ottawa will mend its ways can change this. Otherwise, the integrity of the tax collector, who knows all and says nothing, may be just one more shattered illusion - and great damage will have been done to frank dealings with government, The Financial Post comments.

A WEEKEND WORTH LOSING

By Bill Smiley

There's nothing quite like a summer in Canada. We have that winter that just goes on and on and on. Then, suddenly, about the first of June, it's spring. The temperature soars, the grass grows violently and we kick off our rubbers with gay abandon.

Two weeks later, everybody has a cold, the roses are nipped by the frost, the furnace is still rumbling, and the weatherman announces triumphantly that Warton or someplace had an all-time over-night low of 40 degrees on the umpteenth of June.

By the time this appears in print, we'll probably be gasping for breath and wondering when this unprecedented heat wave will end. Don't worry; it will. Just about the time you start to get the poisonous juices of winter soaked out of you. And then it will be fall, and idiots like me will be writing columns about that refreshing nip in the air.

Nip in the air. Holy old Hughie! There was so much nip in the air early this summer that a chap scarcely needed a nip of anything else.

Oh, well, I guess it's better than living in the sweltering heat of Israel or Egypt. Though it certainly isn't any safer, as those who have been on the highways recently will attest.

Why does my wife remind me of a flicker? A flicker is a bird with a red top-knot. We have one in our backyard every summer. It flops out of a cedar tree, or maybe heaven, and flickers away all over the grass, sometimes within feet of us. I think it's a flicker, though I'm no expert. I can tell a robin from a sea gull, on a clear day, and that's about it.

Well, why does she? She doesn't have a red top-knot. But she acts like a flicker. The bird runs across the grass at a great rate. It stops, looks about, bangs its beak into the ground about twelve times, repeats the process for some period, then flies off suddenly in all directions, for no apparent reason.

And that's why my wife reminds me of a flicker. That's how our vaunted holidays began this year. I had one day off after ten months in the sausage factory. It was a Saturday, which I have off every week anyway.

It seems we had to go and see our daughter, the bride. Right away. Holiday weekend, with all the horror that entails, but never mind. Wedding pictures. Late gifts. How is she? Is the marriage working out? Motel room? Just like a flicker banging away at the grubs in the ground.

I was caught by surprise, just as a grub is by a flicker. No money and the banks were closed. The car needed a muffler. I needed about three days of intensive care.

During the same 24 hours, the flicker had phoned friends of ours who'd invited us down to lie around their pool. She had agreed that as soon as we had spent a day or two with the bride, we'd go straight to their place.

The bride is about 70 miles north, in the resort area, through hairy traffic. The friends lie about 85 miles south, through hairy traffic trying to get north. No problem. The flicker's mate does the driving.

And right in the midst of all this flickering, who calls up to see if I want to go out bass fishing but my old friend, Capt. Dalt Hudson. I'll give you three guesses. Where do you think I wanted to go?

Well, we flickered off, north. Nice day. Traffic just below manic level. Arrived late. Great dinner with new in-laws. Motel room surrounded by green, with falls rushing in background. Idyllic.

Next day, cold. Motel toilet backing up. Kids visited. Went for chilly swim in lake. Blew kids to terrific smorgasbord at hotel. Drove them home to apartment with mother cat and four kittens. Mother flicker somewhat horrified. Invited kids to lunch next day at motel. Immediate acceptance.

Midnight. Temperature about 52. Couldn't get motel window closed. Romantic falls now sounding like locomotive in trouble.

Next morning. Motel room just above freezing. Cold wind. Rain. Tottered up to main lodge for coffee. Discovered no lunch served Sundays and holidays. Kids arrive noon, starving. Give them two breadsticks stolen from table night before. Atmosphere cool.

Mother flicker starts pecking grubs again. Grubs are kids. Kids resent being grubs. Show us their "studio." Have conned government into $7,000 art programme. Looks intelligent but don't ask me to explain it. Forms, colours, shapes.

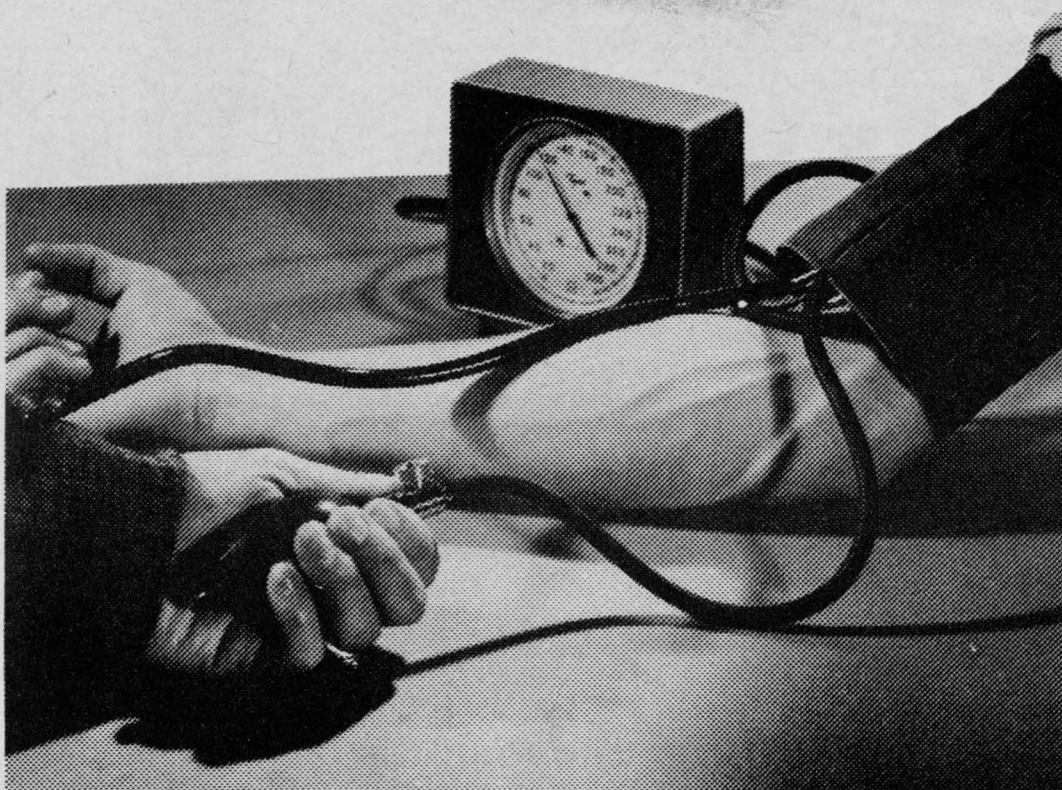

Finally, head for home in rain and bumper-to-bumper. No breakfast. No lunch. No brains. Nothing but intense desire to see normal abode of habitation.

Arrive. Collapse. Faintly revived by hot soup. Sleep thirteen hours.

Up this morning to find own toilet backing up (or is it a dream?), vacuum cleaner on blink, and mother flicker already making new plans for further forays.

Aren't you sorry you aren't a school teacher, with all those "holidays"?

UPTIGHT

The doctor tells you your blood pressure is up. Slow down, he says. Relax.

Let's face it. If you're "uptight" there ARE things to do about it. Follow your doctor's orders, yes. Take a deep breath, and look at the beauty of the world around you. Help other people with their problems.

But add one extra little prescription. Go to church. Just sit there and let God's peace engulf your anxiety.

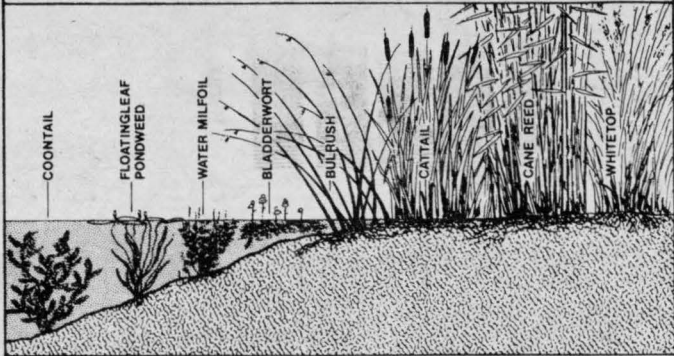

Chances are that when you walk out the door something new will have been added to your dimension in living.

MARSH PLANTS — An example of plant succession in a fresh-water marsh. Submerged plants are represented by Coontail (having no roots it either floats or may be anchored in the mud.) Floating-leaf pondweed and Water milfoil in shallower water. Closer-in the rootless Bladderwort forms dense mats. In the shallows grow Bulrush and Cattail. Around the marsh edge the tall Cane reed has large mat-like root systems, supporting dense stands that may be semi-floating. Beyond the Cane reed a common plant is often Whitetop grass, which when conditions are right develops heavy growth.

Pleasant Valley

Yellow mums, white shasta daisies and an evergreen arch formed the setting for the lawn wedding of Carole Ann, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Gilmer of Pleasant Valley and Randall Montgomery, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marriner of South Mountain at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 8, 1972.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Brian Cee of Iroquois. The wedding music was played by Miss Bonnie Graham. Joe Marriner, brother of the groom, was the best man. The bride's brothers, Richard, Rodney and Reggie seated the guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white organza flopped with pink, blue and yellow flowers, with long full sleeves with deep cuffs and bracelet neckline. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink, blue and yellow mums and white shasta daisies. She was attended by her sister, Anita, as junior bridesmaid, who wore a matching gown over yellow and carried a basket arrangement of yellow mums and white shasta daisies.

The bride's mother chose a floor length gown of blue chiffon and a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom's mother chose a floor length gown of blue polyester crepe and a corsage of pink roses.

Wedding guests were present from Vancouver, Charlottetown, Mooseonee, Montreal, North Bay, Toronto Belleville, Peterborough, Ottawa, Brockville and the South Mountain area. After the ceremony, a dinner was served in the United Church Hall, South Mountain, by the ladies of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Marriner are spending their honeymoon in Western Canada.

Prior to her marriage, Miss Gilmer was honoured at two showers, one given by Miss Bonnie Graham and another by Mrs. George MacIntyre and Mrs. Frank Shaver.

On their return, they will be residing in Peterborough. Mr. Marriner has a BA from Trent University and Mrs. Marriner is completing her studies.

THE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT PEOPLE

Toronto 315, OntarioCare of bulbs after flowering

Tulips, daffodils and other bulbs are capable of producing blooms for several seasons - if they are given every chance to build up food after they have flowered in the spring, says Russ Comme, horticultural specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

All flower heads should be removed when they wither. This allows plant food produced in the leaves to be stored in the bulb instead of developing seeds. Leave the foliage until it begins to die, usually 3 to 4 weeks after flowering. When the stems are dry, the leaves can be pulled easily from the bulb. The dead foliage can be added to the compost pile.

If bulbs have been left in the garden for several seasons, they should be dug up after the flowers and leaves have faded. Discard bulbs too small to produce blooms. Re-plant them in the fall so the bulbs can develop a mature root system for next season's flowers.

Insect and plant disease may also appear in June. If control measures are taken early, there will probably be less trouble throughout the season. A general insecticide such as Malathion or Sevin will control most garden insects. Care should be taken in the application of any herbicide or insecticide.

ADELAIDE
DANIELS*SAYS*WHY ARE YOU FAT?

Have you tried dieting and decided that you're the only one in the world with your own set of problems?

Take heart: The fact of the matter is that you're a Canadian resident and just like three out of seven Canadians — overweight. We're the third heaviest nation in the world and overweight is one of our major health problems.

I think that at some time in life practically every Canadian will have a weight problem. Most of your friends who aren't overweight will be, sooner or later. So, if you learn how to lick it now, you're well ahead of the game.

Why are we fat? My feeling is with all the machines (cars, aeroplanes and trains) moving faster, we move less. Living has changed from being rural and active to being urban and sedentary. We spend hours sitting whether it's at a desk or watching television and chances are we ride not walk most places we're going.

But our cooking and recipes are still the recipes from the strenuous early days, when people were more active, worked more physically and only sat down at mealtime and occasionally before they went to bed.

So today many of us are still eating the wrong foods such as fat meats with gravy, hot breads loaded with butter, potatoes with more butter, fats and sugars of all kinds into and onto everything we eat from cream soups to doughnuts.

Women often make heroic efforts to diet but when it comes to feeding their families they tend to follow the cooking habits of their mothers. They feel that using a sugar substitute or omitting butter in cooking is not good enough for their husbands and children.

In planning menus and preparing meals, remember that if your children and husband are not overweight now, they may be sooner or later if you insist on developing food habits in them that will addict them to rich creamy sweet foods loaded with carbohydrates and fats.

The reverse is actually true. By keeping meals simple for yourself you also do the family a favour.

The solution is to teach them how good foods taste when they're simply cooked and served without excessive amounts of sugar and fat.

REPORT FROM QUEEN'S PARK

DONALD IRVINE, M.P.P.

In previous columns, I have had occasion to mention the great impact of the Reports of the Committee on Government Productivity (GOGP) in the broad reorganization the government is now undergoing. In the late days of the session just concluded, Premier Davis announced the creation of a new commission which may well do the same thing for the legislature itself. Called "a commission to study the legislative assembly... with particular reference to the role of the private members," it is truly bipartisan in its make-up. Mr. Dalton Camp will be the chairman and the members are Mr. Farguar Oliver, a former Ontario Liberal leader and Mr. Douglas Fisher, columnist and former NDP member of the House of Commons. As Mr. Davis pointed out when he announced the make-up of the Commission on June 14th, "unlike most, if not all other bodies constituted by the Legislature, there is no built-in government majority".

The Members of the Commission are all well-known for their independent thinking and respected for their ability and effectiveness. Their terms of reference are very wide and they can expect the utmost co-operation from all sides of the house.

As a private member, I look forward to their interim recommendations in the hope that measures will be introduced which will permit me to serve you more effectively and efficiently. The first interim report could be issued as early as this fall and I will report it at that time.

As I mentioned in my last column, another significant announcement was made on the last day of the session. The Premier advised the house of the creation of three Select Committees of the legislature to undertake studies in three separate fields -- the operations of the Ontario Municipal Board; All-Terrain Vehicles (with

Gordon Blair, Member of Parliament for Grenville-Carleton, announced today that the Secretary of State has approved a grant of $1,320, to help pay the travelling expenses of twelve members of the Metcalfe Branch of the Carleton East District Women's Institute for a visit to Roblin. Manispecial emphasis on snowmobiles; and Land Drainage. I am very pleased with my own appointment to the Select Committee on the Ontario Municipal Board. Unlike the others we have been asked to report by October 31. This means that we will have a great deal of work to do over the summer, but in view of the importance of the study, I am sure that my colleagues are looking forward to it as much as I am. Our first meeting is on Wednesday, July 19th.

For the benefit of those of you who may not be familiar with the concept, I should explain something about select committees generally. Unlike a standing committee, which is continuous and considers different questions within its subject field that may be referred to it, a select committee is created to study a specific topic. When it has examined every aspect of the matter to its satisfaction, including receiving briefs and holding hearings, it prepares, and presents its report to the Legislature and disbands. From these reports, many important pieces of legislation will flow.

GORDON BLAIR M.P. GRENVILLE-CARLETON

Room 532c, Centre Block Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, Ontario, 992-0511

Approves grant of $1,320.

toba, July 21 to July 31.

The purpose of the grant is to enable members of the Metcalfe Branch to meet with members of Roblin's Women's Institute and to have an opportunity to compare their lives, which are influenced by the urban complex of Ottawa, with those who live in an essentially rural part of the country. The members of the two Women's Institutes will also discuss the other economic, social and cultural aspects of farm life in the two provinces, including differences in crops and marketing arising from the concentration on dairy production in Ontario and cereals in the west.

This grant is made under the Travel and Exchange Program administered by the Citizenship Branch and is designed to encourage Canadians to take part in group exchanges which will enable them to get to know both their country and their fellow Canadians better.

It is understood that with the exception of one person, none of the Ontario women has visited Manitoba before. Home stays in Roblin have been arranged for all the Ontario visitors.

Letter to the Editor

Since my family and I arrived in Iroquois in 1967, I have been most impressed with the municipal staff employed by the Corporation of Iroquois.

On certain occasions it was a pleasure for me to read in your fine publication, of certain citizens who have sent you letters commending the work of these people.

Regrettable, public recognition of these men and women are too few and far between.

I hedge to refer to anyone in particular, due mainly to the fact that each one excels in their particular role.

In addition to the staff, which are on the Corporation's payroll, I would further wish to include the many volunteers who have or are contributing to the betterment of our community.

On several occasions, these people have served their community far beyond the line of duty.

Regardless of the season of the year, the Village of Iroquois is always in readiness, thanks to these many people.

My top priority, personally, is recreation. For a community our size, we should be extremely proud of our recreational facilities.

For example, Central Ball Park has had a complete face lifting over the past five years.

With the development of an excellent Minor Ball Programme and a fine Intermediate ball club to utilize the facilities provided at Central Ball Park, it must be a consolation to the Corporation's work crew to see their efforts not going in vain as well as the Village Council.

With the improvements of the ball diamonds and the park in general, it has given this community one of the finest ball parks in the area.

Of course, there is still much to be completed, but this work has to be done on a gradual basis. The only annoying factor is, to my way of thinking, there should be many more citizens attending and supporting the events that are scheduled at the park.

With the upcoming ball tournament, it offers everyone the opportunity to attend several ball games and witness the many improvements that have been completed in the past five years.

In conclusion, may I take advantage of your newspaper to publicly compliment the entire staff and personnel of the Corporation of Iroquois for their excellent work and efforts in making "Iroquois the Best town by a Dam Site".

Perhaps to summarize, all of us should take this message to heart:

"Are you an active member -
The kind that would be missed,
Or are you just contented
That your name is on the list?"

Do you attend the meetings
And mingle with the flock,
Or do you stay at home
To criticize and knock?

Do you take an active part
To help the work along,
Or are you satisfied
To only "Just Belong"?

Do you bring in new volunteer members
And help the old ones stick,
Or leave the work to just a few
And talk about the clique?

Naw, folks - think this over
For you know right from wrong,
Are you an active community member
Or do you "Just Belong"?

Sincerely,
Leo J. DeBellefeuille

Dollars and Good Sense

How are we coming on the "checkless" society, that futuristic world where all charges would be made automatically and money would almost never be seen?

The advent of the bank credit card took us a giant step closer to this world, of course, but now a pilot study program in California is seeking to eliminate the final hurdles.

The study actually began in 1968 and after four years of work by the banks of Los Angeles and San Francisco, the program is ready to be tested.

The key is the clearing house to exchange prearranged paperless entries between different banks. How does it work?

First, an employer will make arrangements with his bank to process paperless entries and give his employees individual authorization agreements. Those employees who want to participate in the program will authorize their companies' to automatically deposit their paycheck in any bank of their choice. He also authorizes his own bank to accept the payments.

The employer would then deliver a magnetic tape containing employee account number information and net salary payments to his bank. That bank would keep the entries for employees using it and forward a tape containing entries for other banks to the Automated Clearing House which will balance, sort and distribute the entries to the banks involved.

The employee would continue to get a statement of earnings, but no check. The paperless entries thus greatly reduces clerical work and bank congestion on paydays. For the employee, there is no danger of a lost or stolen check and the trip to the bank is eliminated.

The program is known as the Special Committee on Paperless Entries (SCOPE), and its activities are being watched carefully by a number of other banks outside California. If it proves successful, the "checkless" society, or more properly, the "cashless" society, will be on its way.

Divine Rulership District Assembly Of Witnesses

What can 'divine rulership' give to all mankind that human rulership has not provided?

That question recently attracted 9,453 persons to Lansdowne Park in Ottawa for the climax address of the 'Divine Rulership' District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Arnold W. MacNamara of Toronto delivered the main address entitled, "Divine Rulership - The Only Hope of All Mankind."

"Human rulership is very disappointing," he said. "Since humankind is imperfect, it has been imperfect human rulership."

"The United Nations has been the biggest thing that mankind has been able to offer for urgent human needs, but it has failed to provide secure hope. Mankind is at its wit's end."

Mr. MacNamara said Bible prophecy shows a divine rulership has been established in heaven which will shortly take over earth's affairs to mankind's blessing.

"The kingdom of Jehovah God through Jesus Christ is the only hope of all mankind," he said. "It is the divinely appointed stronghold to which to turn for freedom and life in endless happiness."

The local delegates who attended the convention report a new Bible translation called The Bible in Living English was released for the first time in Canada during the conference. Its translator, Steven T. Byington, was never religiously associated with Jehovah's Witnesses.

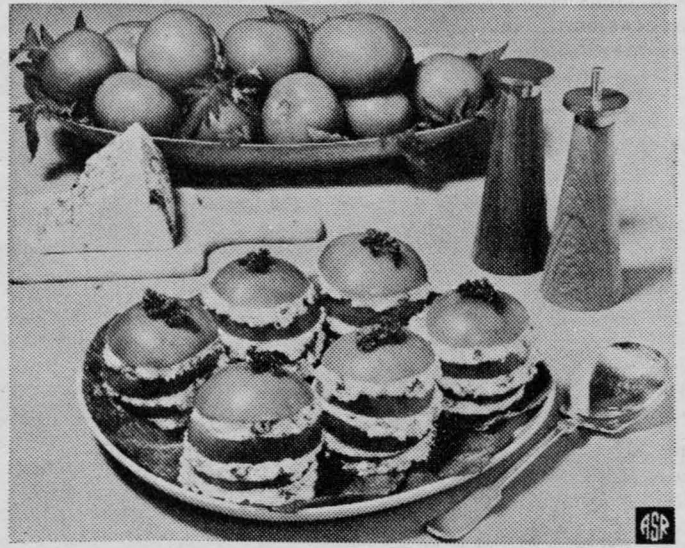

The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, which is one of the world's leading Bible publishing agencies, is the sole printer and distributor of the new translation.

Outstanding world-wide increase was reported during the convention. For 20 years, from 1949-1968, the Witnesses averaged 63,000 new baptisms per year. In the past few years the figure has jumped to 145,000 new Witnesses baptized annually and a spokesman said it appears that 150,000 or more will be baptized in 1972. At the Ottawa convention, 140 persons were baptized.

More than 1.6 million Witnesses are active in 208 lands, conducting free home Bible studies with some 1.5 million households.

A local spokesman said the work in other countries is basically the same free Bible educational service offered locally and for which Jehovah's Witnesses were recently commended by the Boston, Mass., City Council.

Tomato Tuna Stacks Are Super Salads

What a great thing it is to have fresh, red-ripe, juicy tomatoes in good supply at market. Serve a platter full of tomato slices for an easy way to deal with salad. For a fancier fresh tomato dish, try Tomato Tuna Stacks, a fine luncheon or supper idea. Tomatoes are sliced, each slice piled with tuna salad and stacked. Fun, thrifty and nourishing, tomatoes have excellent nutrition. One medium size tomato provides 57% of the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C for an adult for a day, more than a fourth of the vitamin A and a twelfth of the iron, but only 35 calories.

Tomato Tuna Stacks

1 can (6½ or 7 ounces) tuna	1/8 teaspoon pepper

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

HE LIKES SPORTS

When you are 10 and life has not been kind to you, you really need a family to make you feel wanted and loved.

Robert is a slim, healthy boy with blue eyes, fair skin and blonde hair which he likes to wear long. He wants to be adopted so he will have parents like other boys — a warm, loving mother to be proud of him and a father to take a real interest in him and do things with him.

Sociable and outgoing with delightful manners Robert wins friends readily. He is active and enthusiastic, sometimes to the point of being aggressive. He enjoys sports, with basketball, football and hockey the favorites.

Robert rides many miles a week on his bike. If he is given a choice of outings, he usually chooses a picnic. He is fond of music, especially the pop variety.

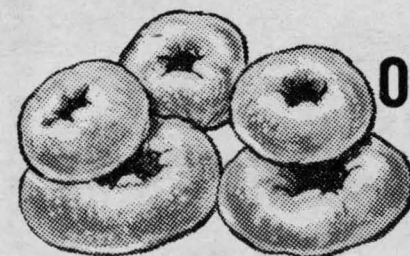

In grade four, he is an average student and, there is indication he will do better when his anxieties about the future are resolved and he feels settled in a home of his own.

This lad spent two years in a treatment centre for emotional problems, and he has made a good adjustment to family life in a specialized foster home. He is now ready and eager to move on to an adoption home.

Robert needs parents who can set firm limits but be able to do so in a warm, loving manner. They will need to realize that he has memories of people and events that are important to him. There should be no other children in the family close to Robert in age.

To inquire about adopting Robert, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information, write your Children's Aid Society.

United Church hires young musicians to encourage modern music

The United Church of Canada has commissioned two young rock musicians to encourage the use of modern music in its churches.

Ron Klusmeier and his wife Kris will visit a number of churches across Canada to perform, hold workshops, and consult with groups about ways to use music to put new life into church services, and to encourage increased community use of churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Klusmeier are in their mid-twenties and are both Americans who graduated in music and literature respectively from a liberal arts college in Wisconsin. They've been in Canada since November 1969, and Ron has been organist and choirmaster at Erindale United Church near Toronto since 1970.

Until recently, the Klusmeiers made their living as professional performers with the rock group, Birnam Wood, touring Ontario playing in bars and clubs. Ron plays the guitar, organ and other key instruments. Kris sings, and plays piano and organ well enough to accompany choirs.

Since May 1, 1972, the Klusmeiers have been working five afternoons and evenings per week at Erindale United Church, where they have formed a number of choirs, an orchestra and a drama group. Most of the people taking part in these projects are not members of the United Church, Ron says.

"The church wasn't being used except on Sundays," Ron says. "Our original proposal, which was specifically for Erindale, was that the community could become involved in a program of the arts using the church which is a centre and has facilities which can be a real asset to the community."

Both Ron and Kris are pleased that the national office of the United Church, through the Division of Mission in Canada, has taken up their ideas and asked them to "give leadership in music" across the country. Congregations or presbyteries desiring their services are asked to arrange bookings through the Division office.

"Music and the arts have been patronized by the church since the 12th Century," Ron says. "Any significant music of this century has been developed outside the church, which is quite a radical change from the past. As music shifted out of the church, the church hasn't followed after it. Even 100 years ago many of the things done in the church were very new and subject to controversy."

"Somewhere along the line, the church forced music out by its hostility to new forms of expression. It's our idealistic hope to get some of it back into the church."

Married at Trinity United Church

The Trinity United Church, Chesterville, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Sat., July 8, when Miss Betty Ann Brownlee, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mansel Brownlee, was united in marriage to Mr. Gary Roy Merkley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Merkley, all of Chesterville.

Rev. L.M. Ferguson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Joyce Loucks presided at the organ and Mrs. Virginia Ferguson was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in an A line gown of crepe Ligoda, cut on empire lines. It had a scoop neckline, long tapered sleeves and a built-in train. The gown was enhanced with venise guipure lace on the bodice and down the front of the skirt. A french coronet crown held her silk illusion cathedral-length veil which was edged with matching lace. Her only adornment was a strand of cultured pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of shasta daisies and yellow sweetheart roses entwined with ivy.

Mrs. Jack Cross (Lorraine) of Ottawa, sister of the bride, was matron of honour and Miss Janet Quartus Ottawa, niece of the bride was bridesmaid. Miss Dawn Latourelle of Mountain, niece of the groom, was flower girl. All wore identical floral print gowns of polyester crepe in mauve and yellow with mauve picture hats. Each carried a basket of yellow and mauve mums.

Mr. Micheal McMahan was best man. Ushers were Mr. Bill Latourelle, brother-in-law of the groom and Mr. Brian Brownlee, brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a mauve sleeveless, floor length gown with matching lace shawl and white accessories. Her corsage was of mauve carnations.

The mother of the groom looked elegant in a heavenly blue floor length lace gown, with a corsage of deep pink carnations and white accessories.

A reception followed in the church dining hall. Later, the happy couple left on a wedding trip to Pennsylvania. For going away the bride chose an ensemble of deep pink with white accessories and an orchid to compliment her attire. On their return, they will take up residence on Ralph St. in Chesterville.

Prior to her wedding, the bride was honoured by the community to a miscellaneous shower held in the Trinity United Church.

Also, one was held in Morrisburg by some of her teacher-friends. Mrs. Nora Angus and Miss Wilma Angus were the hostesses. On the last day of school, the teachers of Iroquois Public School honoured her at a luncheon. Mrs. Merkley will resume her position as kindergarten teacher at the Iroquois Public School in September.

OFF THE CUFF

By Charles Edwards

We've just about recovered from the first of the many weddings that we'll be involved with over the summer. It went quite smoothly, considering all the possible areas where things could go awry. We ran things on a pretty tight schedule, this time, by leaving the stag for the groom until the night before the wedding. Some of the old hands at the marriage game got to swapping stories about previous stags and weddings that they've attended. A couple of the stories could possibly be rated for general audiences, perhaps with parental guidance, so we'll pass them on.

The first one deals with a traditional stag for the groom. It could only have happened on an armed forces base with the party being held in the mess hall. As sometimes happens, the groom-to-be had a little more to drink than might be considered sociable. In actual fact he got so rip roaring drunk that he passed out. His friends, not to miss such a golden opportunity, rushed him over to the base hospital. Since they knew a few of the right people it was only a matter of minutes until they had him in a body cast from his waist to his shoulders.

A few hours later when he woke up, they "explained" his condition by telling him that he had fallen down a flight of stairs while drunk and had broken a bone in his back. Then they helped him dress and hurried him to the church, where he was married, cast and all, to a somewhat startled bride. As if this wasn't bad enough, they let him go away on his honeymoon with the cast still intact. It wasn't until after the trip that they told him the truth about the cast. They're probably still running.

The other story concerns a newly married couple on their honeymoon. The groom had conscientiously phoned ahead for a reservation and had been told that there was no problem and, yes, they would hold a room for him. Later that night they arrived at the motel, all covered with confetti and were given the key to their room - a room traditionally assigned to honeymooners.

But it just so happened that there had been another wedding that day and there was another honeymoon couple in the motel. It's not too hard to guess which room they were in. Our friend put his key in the lock and flung the door open, only to find the other couple doing what newlyweds so often do. It's kind of a tricky position to find yourself in. You can't very well say you've come from room service with the ice and you can't stand around making long-winded apologies. The best thing to do is to beat a hasty retreat which is exactly what our friend did. It's not necessarily the recommended way to start off a honeymoon, but it certainly makes the regular run-of-the-mill wedding look dull by comparison.

To perform at Crysler Park

On Sunday, July 23rd, 1972, the Kingston Grenadier Drum and Bugle Corps will perform at Crysler Park starting at 2:30 p.m.

Galvanized Containers Not For Cooking

Don't use galvanized pails or tubs to prepare or store foods, advise food specialists. Any food, particularly if it is acidic (such as tomatoes and fruits) may dissolve enough zinc from the container to cause symptoms of zinc poisoning.

Zinc, in its pure form, or in the form of galvanized iron, is used to make containers that consumers are often tempted to use for cooking. Galvanized pails or tubs are large and convenient to use for lemonade punch at a community picnic or when preserving large quantities of fruit or vegetables. Consumers are advised not to follow this practice.

Small amounts of zinc are normally present in the human body, and some zinc is found in the average daily diet. Excessive amounts of zinc, however, can result in nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, cramps, rapid pulse and weakness. The amount of zinc dissolved from the container depends on the acidity of the food. The weak acids used or formed during cooking can dissolve sufficient zinc to cause these symptoms. This includes food products such as milk, vinegar, alcoholic beverages, soup, and olive oil. Foods such as tomatoes, apples, or lemonades are higher in acid and create a more serious problem.

If consumers have cooked foods in galvanized containers they should discard them. If considerable expense would be caused by discarding the product, a private laboratory can be contacted to determine the level of zinc in the food.

Suggestion for prevention of farm accidents

1. Lift and handle heavy objects in a way to avoid strain, or possible back injury or hernia. Bend the knees, not the back.
2. Protect hands - wear leather gloves.
3. Protect eyes from dust and chaff - wear safety goggles.
4. Protect feet - wear safety boots or shoes.
5. Protect head - wear a safety hat where there is danger of bumping your head, being struck by falling or flying objects or a fall or slip.
6. Wear a dust mask when working in heavy dust or chaff.

7. Protect skin and head from hot sun, and don't work too long a time in a hot confined place.
8. Ensure that nightfall does not catch you on the road without adequate safety lighting.
9. Take an occasional break with refreshments. This will keep energy up and accident producing fatigue down.
10. When working with machinery, be constantly alert.
11. Pay attention to safety precautions marked on equipment.

In Memoriam

RIDDELL - In fond and loving memory of a dear father, Alton Riddell, who passed away suddenly July 12, 1971. One sad and lonely year has passed Since my great sorrow fell. The shock that I received that day, No one can ever tell. You bade no one a last farewell, Nor even said good bye; You were gone before I realized, And only God knows why. God gave me strength to meet it, And courage to bear the blow, But what it meant to lose you, Dad, No one will ever know.

So I really wish that you, Dad, Were here with us again To hear your laughter, love your ways And chase away our pain. But through my tears, I stop to think How happy you must be My dear Dad near our Lord And yet still close to me. So to my Mom and brother, When I see grief in their eyes, I can only say And I hope they realize, Oh, Mom and John, Please do not weep. Our Dad is happy At peace in his sleep". Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Pat.
