A celebrated physician states that the brains of dead men reveal nothing. We think, with perfect frankness, the same can be said of a lot of live ones, adds the Arnprior Chronicle.

The auto season is opening with the usual excitement, according to the headlines in the daily paper. One day last week the following appeared in a daily newspaper: "Child Dead and Three Injured in Highway Accident," "Two Youths Drowned in Auto," "Owner of Beauty Parlor Killed, and Three Others Injured When Auto Fails to Make Turn," etc, etc.

A lawyer recently wrote to a country newspaper asking if there were any editors in Heaven. The editor replied, "There is but one editor in Heaven. How he got there is not positively known, but it is conjectured that he passed himself off as a clergyman. When the dodge was discovered they searched the length and breadth of the realms of felicity for a lawyer to start ejection proceedings. They couldn't find one so of course the editor was compelled to remain.

The Canadian bred Holstein cow, Berkeyeje Sylvia Posch, owned for many years by H. North of Omimi, New Zealand, is dead after a splendid service. She was milked every day for eleven years and three months, never yielding less than four gallons a day. Altogether she gave 100 tons of milk and four tons of butter. The animal was bred by A. D. Foster and Son, Bloomfield, Ont., and was purchased as a yearling and sent to New Zealand, where she spent 15 years making an exceptionally fine record. In the first year of her test she gave 16,646 pounds of milk, which yielded 50520 pounds of butter fat. In her eleventh year she had increasrd production to 27,161 pounds of milk and the butter fat at 854 lbs.

The adage, "April Showers Bring May Flowers," will hold true this year, for April will be a month of fair weather and good temperatures. So says Frankie Doe of Ogdensburg, weather prognosticator, concerning the coming 30 days. The musty pages of his old grandfather's chart with the weather recorded for the Aprils of the past 42 years, show April of 1929 as one of the most pleasant of them all. No crystal could reveal a more beautiful picture. Doe says, "the summer of 1929 is going to eclipse all previous summers in way of vacationing. There will be no summer in the past like it, and the weather is going to play its part in this, in that it will be delightfully hot, so hot in fact that most persons will need a vacation whether they are planning one or not at the present time."

League of Nations Day

On Tuesday next, April 16, a coast to coast drive for an increase in the membership of the League of Nations in Canada will be made. Public attention has been more than once drawn to the fact that for the League of Nations to function at its best, it has to have the public opinion and good will of the country behind it. Last year the drive for membership resulted in a very large increase throughout Canada and practically all our towns and villages have a few members. Through the medium of the Press the citizens of Winchester are asked to take out a membership in the League of Nations. It only costs one dollar a year and that entitles the member to receive the "Intelligence," the monthly publication of the League in Canada which keeps the public informed of all the activities of the League of Nations. Any information regarding membership, etc, will be gladly given by the Rev. G. O. Davies or at the Press Office.

Looking Backwards

Some weeks ago the Press published an interesting item of "Earlier days" furnished by Mrs. Dewar, mother of Mrs. J. Cummings, Ormond, who, we believe, is now well beyond the three score and ten, and ten more years. The Press asked for some more "reminiscence" and we are very pleased to say that Mrs Dewar will, as her time and health permits, contribute some more facts and incidents connected with the early settlement of this part of Ontario. The first of these we are pleased to publish this week.

Ormond, April 6th, 1929

Dear Mr. Ross:—

In compliance with your request of a few weeks ago I shall now try to give you a few facts regarding the early settlement of the County of Dundas.

The front of the County of Dundas along the St. Lawrence was settled by U. E. Loyalists, who crossed the river, choosing rather to live under British rule than remain in the States Those families for the most part remained on the farms the Canadian Government granted, so in a short time they were in comfortable circumstances. Not so fortunate were those who settled in the rear towuships, who emigrated from the old country, England, Ireland and Scotland, much of the land being held by speculators living in the townships along the front. Although those people sold their farms, at very reasonable prices, to their less fortunate countrymen, good farms of heavy wooded land being sold for from one to two dollars per acre. Nearly one hundred years ago one family settled on the farm now occupied by the village of Marionville. Some years later the township became settled slowly by emigrants from different parts. The County of Dundas is supposed to be the banner county of Eastern Ontario, the townships of Winchester and Mountain being for the most part a dense forest very heavily wooded. A number of speculators took the opportunity of spying out the good land. They purchased a number of farms selling those farms to the settlers who afterward arrived from Britain. A number of those farms of good land, heavily wooded, sold for $1 an acre and more for $2, one hundred dollars for a farm. But when you consider the circumstance of those people. You will understand the wonderful courage of those early pioneers arriving in a strange land with a family of young children selecting a farm in a dense forest with little money, no credit, no horses, no cattle, no implements except an axe, to conquer the great monarchs of the forest. Just think what great men our forefathers were.

Mrs. M. Dewar.

The regular meeting of the Women's Guild, of St. Matthia's Church, will be held at the home of Mrs (Rev.) G. O. Davies, on Thursday, April 18th, at 2.30 p. m.

The contract for the completion of the Cornwall's Hotel at Cornwall has been let to John Entwhistle for a figure in the neighborhood of $20 000. The contract is for the completion of the top storey of the building.

Provincial police are investigating persistent thievery of muskrat and traps belonging to trappers in that neighborhood. One of the heaviest sufferers is Orville Taylor, who resides seven miles west of Kemptville. Twenty one pelts were stolen from a shed at his home on Monday night. Other complaints have been received about the animals being stolen from traps.

Stamp Club Organized

The opening organization meeting of the Winchester Stamp Club was held at the home of Mr. W. J. Cass on Saturday, April 6. The aim of the club is threefold: 1 To increase the knowledge of philately. 2 To encourage stamp collecting. 3 To exchange stamps. The following officers for the year 1929 were elected:—

President—Fredrick Cass.
Secretary—George McKeown.
Treasurer—Sparling Dukelow.

Meetings are held every other Friday. New members will be given a small collector's outfit to begin with. Those desiring to join kindly communicate with the secretary.

Unusual Storms

Western Ontario and some parts of the east have suffered heavily during the past week from heavy rains. Rivers and creeks have overflowed, bridges carried away in many parts at a loss of millions of dollars. East of Oshawa last Saturday a cloud burst resulted in the washing away of a section of both C. P. R. and C. N. R tracks, and as a result no west mail reached here on Saturday night, and lake shore passenger trains between Montreal and Toronto on C P. R. were cancelled on Sunday. Near Oshawa on Friday night a Peterboro car with four people punged over the edge of a wash out, and two of occupants were drowned.

A Busy Man

Mr. H. B. Fetterly, besides his many duties as Inspector of Public Schools for Dundas County, is this month attending in his official capacity as D. D. G. M. of the Grand Lodge for Ontario, the Masonic Lodges in this district. Last Saturday, accompanied by a number of Masonic friends, he visited Cornwall and had the pleasure of seeing a degree conferred by officers of a Quebec Masonic Lodge, which proved very interesting and instructive. On Tuesday, with a number of local Masons, he made his official visit to the lodge at Cardinal, where they were given a splendid reception and tendered a banquet. A most enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. Fetterly will go to Cornwall this week to make arrangements for the visit of the Grand Master, Hon. Mr. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, who will make his official visit to this district sometime in May.

L. O. B. A. Meeting

About thirty-five members of Smiths Falls Lodge L O. B. A. Easter No. 8, were visitors at the local meeting of Victoria Lodge No. 817, Winchester, last evening. The purpose of the visit was for conferring degrees and the Smiths Falls Degree team did themselves justice to this end. Degrees were conferred on Mrs. Geo Robinson and Mr. Bert Smith of town, also on Mr. M. Watts, of Toronto, who was also a visitor. Lunch was served during the evening and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present. At the close of the meeting Mr. H. B. Fetterly moved a hearty vote of thanks to the visitors. The Degrees were put on with music by the following: P. W. M. Sis. Davidson, P. W M. Sis. Baird, W. M. Sis. Glyde, D. M. Sis. Harwood, Chap. Sis. Wiltsie, R. S. Sis. Leach, F. S. Sis. Meneagh, Tyler Sis. Douglas, D. of C. Sis. Bell, 1st Lect. Sis. Fayder. 2nd Lect. Sis. Tomlinson 1st Com. Sis. Steele.

Municipal Council

A short session of the Municipal Council was held on Mouday night. A by-law was passed appointing Mr. H. L. Lee, High School Trustee, in place of Mr. H. B. Faith who did not desire to act. A by-law restricting the running at large of dogs within the corporation was also passed, a notice of which appears in this issue of the Press. The question of the Municipal dumping grounds was under discussion. It seems that it is difficult to keep the lock on the gate, and the grounds free from trespassers. Constable Helmer was instructed to put gate and fence in good repair, and a reward of $5.00 is offered for information that will lead to the conviction of anyone found dumping refuse of any kind on the grounds without authority. Questions of replacing some of the street lights, street improvements, etc, will be dealt with at a future meeting. Reeve Ross reported that he and Councillor H. B. Fetterly had called at the Highway Dept. at Toronto, and were successful in having certain streets designated approved by the Dept. for improvements under the Counties Highway System. Because this had not been done in 1927 and 1928, the Counti s rebate to this municipality this year will be considerably less than last year, as this municipality will be required to make up out of current revenue the amount that was expended by the previous Council out of the Counties rebate for current expenses. Because of this, and other reasons it will be necessary to raise the tax rate several mills on the dollar.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Mr. J. H. Gaffrey, teller in the Royal Bank here, has been transferred to Pembroke Royal Bank. Mr. Gaffrey by his cheerful and happy disposition and obliging ways, has made many friends in Winchester, who will regret his leaving. All join in wishing him every success in his new position.

An Unlucky Car

The Gananoque Reporter of last week says:—A large Studebaker sedan, owned and driven by Miss Donnelly, Earl St., Kingston, while proceeding along the highway a couple of miles west of the Red Moon Dance hall, met with a serious accident about eleven o'clock last Friday night. A tire blew out and the large car leaped into the ditch and landed between a telegraph pole and the fence. Then it took fire and was totally destroyed. The wreck was removed on Saturday. This was the same car that crashed into the window of Phillip Thormin's fruit store here last fall and did considerable damage to his property. A gentleman passenger, who was in the car on Friday night, had his collar bone broken, but the other occupants escaped any serious injury.

Gemeroy—Fraser

The marriage of Mary Phillips, younger daughter of the late Mr. R. B. Fraser and of Mrs. Fraser, Sherebrooke Street West, Montreal, to Dr. Joseph Conrad Gemeroy, of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gemeroy, of Winchester, Ont., took place on Wednesday evening, April 3rd, at eight o'clock at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. Stanley Vipond, 14 Parkman Place, Westmount, Rev. Dr W. J. Clark officiating. Daffodils, roses and lillie-of-the-valley combined with ferns and palms were used as decorations throughout the house.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Lt. C. K. P. Henry, wore a gown of ivory bridal satin made with a straight bodice and skirt fashoned in panels of godets, from which the train, lined with tiny ruffles of pink chiffon, fell in graceful folds. Her veil arranged with a Dutch cap of old rose point lace, was caught at the back with orange blossoms. She wore ivory satin slippers with rhinestone buckles, and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and lilies of-the-valley. Mrs. Vipond, sister of the bride, who acted as matron-of-honor, and Miss Dorothy Drysdale, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in cyclamen georgette, made with an uneven hemline, with inserts of lace of the same shade, wearing slippers of cyclamen satin and carrying bouquets of spring flowers. Their only ornaments were Chanel necklaces, the gift of the bride. Mr. Willard V. Faith acted as best man for the bridegroom.

Mrs. Fraser, the brides mother, was gowned in pearl grey Marocain crepe and carried sweet peas. Mrs. N. W. Phillips, of Belleville, Ont., grandmother of the bride, wore a gown of chiffon velvet with an ermine scarf. Mrs. Gemeroy, of Winchester, mother of the bridegroom, wore Silver lace, her corsage bouquet being composed of violets A reception followed the ceremony; and later Dr. and Mrs. Gemeroy left on their wedding trip, the latter wearing a beige ensemble costum trimmed with caracul, a felt hat of the same shade, beige shoes, and carried a handbag to match. They will reside in Detroit.

Phillips of Belleville, Ont., grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gemeroy, parents of the bridegroom, the Misses Isabelle and Sarah Gemeroy, Mr. Gilbert Gemeroy, Mr. and Mrs. A. The good work being done by the Budget fund in its extended program was shown and there is great cause for thanksgiving because of the encouraging reports from the warfare against the liquor traffic in all parts of the world. A letter was read giving instructions about the sending of second hand clothing to the Indians. This was passed on to the Committee. Good reports were given of the Mirror Campaign Work. Plans for a Medal Contest also for a Mother's meeting were left in the hands of the Committees. If possible a speaker will be secured for the Mothers Meeting. The singing of the Doxology and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

Canada Pushes Research in Pulp Industry

McGill University, Government, Paper Associatoins Unite to Solve Problems

The development of the Canadian pulp and paper industry during the last decade is probably without parallel in the industrial history of the world. Dr. A. Papineau-Couture, Dominion analyst and laboratory chemist, Department of Health, Montreal, declares in a report to the American Chemical Society.

"It has brought Canada," he says, "from a position of secondary importance to one of domination in the newsprint field, with a production 70 per cent. greater than that of its closest rival, the United States, which itself is far ahead of its nearest competitor.

"It is rather surprising, and at the same time quite creditable, that it should have reached its present stage in spite of a most inadequate, almost negligent knowledge of the constitution and properties of its basic raw material, wood.

"This deficiency was keenly felt by the technical men. They showed the executive and financial leaders of the industry the necessity for filling this gap. The latter, with characteristic foresight and business acumen, realized the importance of fundamental, technical and mill research to the maintenance of the position attained in the course of the last few years.

Three Agencies United

"A plan was therefore carefully laid out for bringing together the three essential agencies capable of carrying out such research—the university, the government and the industry—coordinating their work so as to make a homogeneous whole without useless duplication and waste of effort.

"As a result, we now have the Pulp and Paper Research Institute, probably the only one of its kind in the world wherein a large and powerful industry has allied itself with the government and with a university to carry on pure or fundamental research as well as technical and engineering research, to solve the major problems facing that industry.

"The institute is a co-operative undertaking of McGill University, the Dominion Government and the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association. It is administered by a joint committee whose function is to co-operate and unify the work of the three active research organizations.

Half Million Already Spent

"Apart from the land, which belongs to the university and has been leased for a nominal sum, the undertaking represents a capital outlay of approximately $500,000. Yet it comprises only the nucleus of what is seen as its future development. The construction is practically finished and the work of installing the equipment is nearing completion. As soon as the staff has been brought up to the full strength decided progress should be made on the program which is being elaborated.

"A start has already been made. Data are being collected on known physical and chemical evaluation methods. A unique feature of this work is that it is being conducted co-operatively with similar organizations in the United States and in the chief pulp and paper making countries in Europe with the ultimate view of adopting methods which may be officially recognized as standard in international trade throughout the world."

Manitoba Company Airmen Have Flown 100,000 Miles Without Accident

Montreal — Airmen employed by the Northern Aerial Minerals Exploration Company have flown 100,000 miles over northern Canada in the last nine minths and have not met with a single acident, states John F. Hammell, president of the company. "The planes have traveled from the Alaskan coast on the west to the Labrador coast on the east, and from the Transcontinental Railway to the Arctic Circle, carrying prospectors who have gained for the company several new gold fields, as well as deposits of every known metal," Mr. Hammell added.

"Most of our flying," said Mr. Hammel, "has been done over virgin territory, never before visited by white men. We have now established flying stations all over the north country, many of which are equipped with two years' supplies. We have three major bases and twenty-six smaller bases. During the past winter eight tons of supplies and twenty-five men with equipment were flown to the Crow River properties of the company.

The Dog and the Bell

A gentleman who lived in the North of England had a splendid mastiff dog, called Ponto, who was allowed to roam about just as he pleased all over the house. His favorite place, however, was in the study under his master's writing table.

When Mr. Davis was away from home, as was often the case, Ponto, much to his disgust was chained up in the yard. From this treatment he did all he could to keep away.

On one occasion his master went for a few days' visit to a neighbor, leaving the usual orders about the dog. In vain, however, did the servants search high and low for Ponto; nowhere was he to be found and they gave up the search in despair.

In the evening, when the two maidservants were sitting quietly at work in the kitchen, they suddenly heard the small handbell in the study ring violently.

They started up in alarm, and each one wanted the other to go and see what was the matter; but neither of them dared, and they sat still.

Presently the bell pealed again, and, curiosity proving greater than their fears, they paused again, but hearing the bell once more they turned the handle and peeped in.

What was their surprise to find Ponto sitting on his haunches, with the bell in his mouth. He had evidently seen his master use the bell to summon attendance, and finding himself shut in, he thought he would try if a little bell-ringing on his own account would not get him out of his prison.

Oil Stocks Lead Trading Interest

Howey Gold Mine Has Much to Gain by Hydro Commission Contract

LAKE SHORE NEWS

By LLOYD J. MOORE
Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange

Oil stocks have superseded the golds and coppers in market prominence during the past fortnight's trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange up until the time of the panic break on the New York Market. There has been a great wave of enthusiasm which has travelled from the West and assailed the Eastern markets. The unusual spectacle of stocks doubling and quadrupling in price almost overnight has been witnessed time and again. Comparative newcomers have been sharing prominence with more seasoned stocks, such as Royalite Home and Dalhousie. There is every indication of a fairly expended period of activity in the oils of Western Canada. However, there is a danger that this will be carried to extremes that are wholly unjustified. There are plenty of precedents, so it would be well to watch the situation carefully.

The Turner Valley field is a remarkable zone, and its possibilities have not yet been guaged. It is still more or less a geological puzzle, inasmuch as the underlying source of the crude naptha content of the gas appears to be a multiplicity of stock flotations upon which excessive valuations are apt to be placed by the speculative public.

Lake Shore and Teck-Hughes have been advancing stride by stride in mine development without much public attention being called to their achievements during the past year. Their progress has been quite substantial and would doubtless have been heralded with much market activity if major attention had not been directed toward the base metal stocks, notably the coppers and copper zinc of Quebec, Sudbury and Northern Manitoba fields. Lake Shore now stands out as the greatest gold mine in North America. It is still much younger than its great Porcupine rival, but nevertheless gives every indication of surpassing it. Ore reserves have been increased steadily and the management has been justified in stepping up production. The record for a day's run is around 1,360 tons. Annual production is not far from $7,000,00 per annum, and net profits are probably in excess of $4,000,000, annually. This amounts to twice the total capital of the mine, which is in itself a most remarkable record.

The milling objective has not yet been reached. It is understood that the next step will be 2,000 tons, which should give an output of $10,000,000 a year and profits of $6,000,000, or $3 a share. When such a step will be made is uncertain, but there is every reason to expect it will eventually be reached and this tonnage will not exhaust the possibility of still further expansion.

Lake Shore has been developing wonderfully at depth. The size of its ore shoots combined with the high average values promice to make Lake Shore a phenomenal earner. It is not yet possible to place ore reserves at the point that will soon undoubtedly be attained, justifying a 1,600-ton milling program. When probable earnings are translated in terms of dividend, Lake Shore is not unlikely to assume a place of greater prominence marketwise than it has yet been accorded.

Teck-Hughes is similarly improving its position. The management proposes to open up the min to a depth of 4,000 feet, and with that end in view and sinking a new shaft about 600 feet south of the present one. Such a measure of success has been enjoyed thus far in the extension of development work at depth that Teck-Hughes officials are making a bold bid to probe the ultimate possibilities of the property. The mine is moving in the direction of larger production. The current year will undoubtedly bring improvement over the 1928 production record, which is not far short of $5,000,00. There is every indication that 1930 will be a still bigger year. Teck-Hughes is running Lake Shore a close contest for leadership. The opening up of six new levels down to a depth of 3,000 feet, which is now getting under way and the projected close on to 4,000 feet will expose Teck-Hughes capabilities in the way of larger production.

There is reason to expect that before fall work on the six new levels will have procured sufficiently to justify the erection of another 300-ton mill unit, which will be in line with the announced policy of the company. It is also reasonable to expect higher millheads with the increased tonnage, so that 1930 should sow a very material increase over 1928 and 1929. Among the gold stocks there do not appear to be any in our opinion that offer greater opportunities of profit and less probability of less than do Teck-Hughes and Lake Shore for a hold of several months or a year.

Howey Gold Mines, Limited, has concluded a most advantageous contract for power with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario whereby it is assured of a $25 rate for the life of the mine. This is an achievement of great importance to Howey. The contract calls for a minimum of 2,00 h.p. Power will be delivered at the mine as soon as the plant can be built at Ear Falls, where a conservation dam has been under construction for some months past. It will take approximately a year to complete the power installation. In the meantime, a 500-ton mill will be built at the Howey property. Shaft-sinking to a depth of 1,000 feet is now in progress. The last information available was that a depth of approximately 700 feet had been reached. The shaft will be completed and a sump made by July. Lateral work will be conducted on the lower four levels simultaneously, as was the case on the first four. It seems likely that the next six months will see the Howey management well on the way toward proving up the downward extension of its ore to a depth of 1,000 feet. There is plenty of ore at the present stage to warrant embarking on a 500-ton milling program. The lower cost of power will assist greatly in achieving remarkably low production casts. Horace G. Young, general manager, is figuring on a cost of $3.50 a ton. He also estimates the ore at $7, leaving a net profit of $3.50. It is becoming apparent, however, that the fourth level is showing up a considerable tonnage of ore that exceeds the above figure. It would not be surprising if further development work shows up ore which would bring the mine average to about $8,50 under actual milling tests. The tendency of the management throughout the early development of the mine has been to underestimate rather than to magnify the results obtained. In view of this conservative attitude, the management's estimate of $3.50 costs will be taken much more seriously than would otherwise be the case. It should be remembered that ore can be mined across much greater average widths than in Porcupine. In addition, it is important from an economy standpoint that the ore is confined within two walls and there is no exploring across the country to pick up shoots of mineralized material, mining costs are lessened because there is a comparatively small percentage of dead work. Because of the character of the rock there will be surprisingly little dilution when the time comes for stoping.

With over two and a half miles of lateral work done on four levels, Howey is proven as a medium-sized mine. From the Ontario Government's standpoint it is apparently worth while to make an expenditure of $1,000,000 for a power plant. The rate of $25 at Ear Falls is equivalent to $32 at the mine. This compares with a $65 rate at Kirkland Lake. There is not a mining company in Eastern Canada with the single exception of International Nickel that has such a low rate. Frim a broader standpoint the entrance of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission into co-operation with the mining business is important.

There will be some interesting developments in Howey affairs over the next few months. The power contract is a most far-reaching matter, but is not calculated to bring spectacular market action. The mill will be delivered in time to use water transportation before the close of the 1929 season. There will be interesting development news soon after the shaft-sinking program is completed. The second half of the year should be productive of constructive events in a mine-making sense. Production is about twelve months away, and is dependent on the speed with which the power plant can be completed.

Howey has an authorized capital of 5,000,000 shares of $1 par value, of which 300,000 remain in the treasury. It has approximately $700,000 in cash. No further financing is likely, as there are plenty of funds on hand for mill construction.

With the revival of prices after the disastrous break of Tuesday, March 26th, the mining market made a wonderful recovery. Conservative investment after a readjustment has taken place should prove profitable to the well informed.

Hertzog and the Empire

Leo Maxse in the National Review (London): We have never entertained any illusions concerning General Hertzog's ill-will towards the British Empire or doubted his desire to break it up. But we had hitherto supposed that his Separatism was animated by some perverted form of local patriotism. His latest manoeuvre indicates, however, that he is nothing but a party politician of that debased type which will sacrifice every national interest in order to pick up a few extra votes. Happily such men are rarely good judges of public opinion, and it is permissible to hope that there is sufficient common sense in the electorate to whom he is appealing to realize that to raise the cry of White versus Black is to play the game of the enemies of both, whether in Moscow or elsewhere.

What Makes a Frock Chic?

To the casual observer, fashions as a whole have changed very little during ing the last few years. Except for uneven hemlines, capes and a few other details that are more a matter of whim than anything else, frocks made to-day seem to differ little from those in the mode a few years ago. However, a careful survey of ready-made frocks in an up-to-date shop will convince one that there have been such changes in the details of construction that one can rob a gown of all the chic it might possess merely by finishing it according to methods accepted as quite the thing a few years ago.

Whereas ties only a short while back were either stitched with picot edging, now they are made by machine stitching doubled material, turning the work inside out and blind stitching the ends after pressing them into place. Binding at the neck that was formerly sewed in place with machine stitching is now fastened invisibly to the under side of the garment. French seams and bindings were once used even in putting in sleeves; that method gives too bunglesome an appearance for to-day, so raw sleeve edges are left alone to lie flat against the arm, unless the material frays too badly and then seldom more than overcasting with very fine thread is employed. Facings are invisibly tacked, not beautifully overcast to the material as they were a while ago, presenting an inside finish of which the maker might be proud. An interior presented by this method now stamps the effort as that of an amateur unobserving of modern ways in dressmaking.

Fully three-quarters of the painstaking work put on the frock by the average home dressmaker is not only unnecessary, but it actually stands between the frock and the chic to which the maker aspired. To-day it seems just as necessary to know what not to do as it is to know what to do! And any observing woman can learn much in this line by seeing what the clothing manufacturers are putting out.

She will note, too, the part played by new materials. No matter how new is the cut of a frock, it looks out of date if the material employed is not up to the minute. Manufacturers are very careful, also, in the matter of suiting the material to the particular style they are reveloping. They know that the wrong material, one that is too heavy or too flimsy, too soft or too stiff, one that will not drape where drapery is required or will not float where an airy, dainty effect is desired, or plait where plaits are needed—in short, materials that will not give exactly the right expression to the particular style being used—will ruin the frock utterly.

But how is the home dressmaker to know all these things? How can she choose the right material for the frock she wants to make? This information has all been gathered for her by the best pattern manufacturers of the day. In their costly laboratories expert dressmakers experiment with the actual materials and discover which of the new fabrics are best suited to the new styles. So the woman who makes her own clothes should choose a pattern for which this expensive experimental work has been done, for it will tell her just which materials will give her the best results and prevent her from making expensive mistakes.

Color, too, has much to do in the making of a chic frock. Every person, each season, has her best points, and color plays a large part in bringing these out and subduing undesirable characteristics. For instance, beautiful eyes may be made more beautiful and even eyes of an indifferent color may be given a glint the owner never dreamed possible, by just the right shade of the right color. A blue too brilliant will make even lovely eyes look faded, while a softer shade will add to their blueness. It is difficult in an a limited market for the average woman to find ready-made a frock exactly the right shade of the right color, which is also the right style. Unless she can be her own dressmaker she is often embarrassed in finding what she needs, unless she is so fortunate as to look pretty in any pretty dress.

There is no better way of selecting colors than the method followed in the ateliers of the great Paris couturiers. Here, the customer stands before a full-length mirror and drapes the end of a bolt of material around her face. Both she and the saleswoman study the effect of various colors against her face and learn, by comparison, which brings out the best points in her skin, hair and eyes.

Of course, every stout woman knows that a white costume will add size to her appearance, while black and navy blues will diminish it. But she need not confine herself entirely to dark colors and shades of dark blue, dark gray, dark green and dark brown. By choosing the neutral shades of the season instead of the vivid ones, and dull-surfaced fabrics of inconspicuous design instead of shiny materials with sharply outlined figures, she may permit herself a wider range of color for a becoming frock than she had thought possible.

Contrary to the belief of the average woman, color is as complicated a matter as style. It requires constant study, for not only do the fashionable tones change each season, but woman's complexions and figures change, too, from season to season. One cannot assume that because a color was becoming at one period in one's life it is always a safe color to choose. Nor is it wise to select a certain color because of its popularity alone. A shade that is exceedingly smart may do dreadful things to one's eyes, skin, hair and general figure.

There was a time, and not so very far back, either, when the woman who so studied to have her frocks express her individuality was considered silly and vain. But to-day it is recognized that it is the woman of higheset intelligence who is always well dressed. "It takes real intelligence," says one of the great dress designers in Paris, "to keep yourself so well informed that you can choose the few superlatively good things that you need each season. It takes charcter to buy nothing else, to forego charming but unnecessary, unsuitable or inappropriate things. It takes energy and foresight to keep your clothes neat, fresh and orderly. It takes unselfishness to make the unremitting effort to be at your best always for the sake of the added happiness that your charming clothes afford to those around you."—Christian Science Monitor.

COUNT SAM NG CANNIBALS

for Weird "Wedding" to Ruffian of Southern Seas—English Clown Performed the Ceremony.

"And you think that a pretty woman, alone and unarmed, could venture into the remotest corners of the earth and live in the jungle haunts of primitive men without coming to grief?"

The duchess, a leader of Parisian society, chuckled, but the face of the Countess Titayna did not flinch. "I will prove it can be done," she announced. "In a year's time I shall be back here in Paris and let you judge for yourselves. I shall sail from Marseilles as the only woman on a French schooner, and go by way of the Panama Canal to the Pacific. I shall take my chance with the Fiji Islanders, the head-hunters of Sumatra, fanatical jungle men of Cochin China, and the rascals of Polynesia."

That was a year ago. Titayna, as the young Countess du Caylar-Toiras is known, has kept her promise and won her bet, says an article in Tit-Bits.

"My worst experience was aboard a Polynesian convict ship," she said: "The ship was manned by about twenty vicious-looking convicts who were not allowed to set foot on land.

"No sooner were we clear of Papeete than I began to feel anxious. The only decent fellow was the cook, it seemed to me. Vana was thirty, lithe and strong as a panther, and had been sentenced to four years for killing a man who refused to exchange wives with him.

"I played cards with the crew and had all of them subdued except a murderer named Gham, who one night, about 3 a.m., crawled toward me. I gave him a cigarette and tried in vain to get him into conversation. I might as well have tried to caress an angry cobra. I had bought a small automatic at Papeete, but with a sweep of his fist he knocked it from my hand. Then the unexpected happened. From behind a pile of boxes another man jumped up. It was Vana. In a moment the two men were wrestling on the deck — then there was silence. Gham lay dead at my feet.

"'I must save myself by swimming,' he said.

"I knew it was reckless for me to remain on the ship, so I jumped with him, and it was more than an hour before we reached a palm-fringed island.

"'This is the island of Vana-vana,' said my guide. 'My ancestors were great in these forests, and I have hidden twenty times as many pearls as you can count on your fingers. They will be yours.'

"Then Vana called a man from one of the huts. He was white, and spoke French with an English accent. Vana told him to marry us according to Western law. He made us hold hands and mumbled something in his funny French.

"'I will bring the pearls now,' said Vana, and when he had gone I handed a purse to the preacher, telling him I must get to Tahiti. 'Come now, be quick,' I added, in English.

"My boy will take you to Tematangi,' he said, and a little later I was in the canoe with a boy.

"'Good-bye, madam,' the strange man said, 'and don't worry. I'm no preacher.'

"'But who are you?'

"I took of sadness passed over his face. "I've been marrying people for sixteen years on this island,' he said. 'I am an Englishman, and used to be a clown in a circus'."

Thackeray.

In common with ordinary citizens Thackeray had occasionally to bustle in order to find the quarter's rent, so that we find him writing, in 1841, an urgent letter to his publisher stating, "I want to make up £17 10s. for my landlord, whose rent was due, July 1st." He was then living at 13 Great Coram street, his first London house after his marriage, although he had shared one at 18 Albion street with his improvident friend, Major Smyth, the prototype of Col. Newcome. Along with many other letters and manuscripts this Thackeray note was recently offered for sale in Lonodn.

Another letter contains the remark: "I think the chief good I got out of Charterhouse was to learn to hate bullying and tyranny, and to love kind-hearted, simple children."

Find Old Cannon Ball.

A relic of a bygone day in Toronto, one that dates back possibly to the war of 1812, or earlier, has been unearthed in the process of excavating the foundations for the new eastern stables of Toronto's street cleaning department on St. Lawrence street. Here, twenty feet below the street level, in the bed of an ancient creek, now filled in and forgotten, the workmen found a six-pound cannon ball that probably was hurtled in some forgotten engagement. A number of timbers and tree trunks also uncovered were still sound and in excellent condition.

Important Mineral Substances.

The most important mineral substances required in food are the salts of iron, iodine, phosphorus, calcium (lime), manganese, potash, and soda. Iron is required for the blood. The red coloring matter, largely composed of iron contained in the red corpuscles, carries the oxygen taken in by the lungs all over the body.

Machine That Talks.

A cigarette machine which automatically "talks" to the purchaser as packets are delivered has been installed in a New York shop. "Cork tips protect the lips," says the machine with one brand of cigarette. "It's toasted" and "Thank you" are spoken as other brands are delivered.

Khartoum-Pretoria Flight.

Two South African Air Force machines flew recently from Khartoum to Pretoria in four days, a distance of about 3,000 miles. This suggests the possibility of the Cape to Cairo in six days.

SYSTEM AND REGULARITY

How dependent the general public is on system and regularity. And how dependent they are on the ability, the foresight, the skill of the great men and the genius of our age. We travel over the country in luxurious railroad couches without a thought of accident, delay or inconvenience. We drive over miles of smooth highway and complain bitterly if we meet with a slight bump or jar that disturbs our comfort. All is the result of a well planned, well worked gigantic system, the result of the brain power of a comparatively few. Last week the Ontario people had a rude and costly interruption. Nature, after all, plan and scheme and build as we may, is a mightier power, and when let loose laughs at the punny plans and building of mere man, and suddenly descends to tear down and destroy what the brain of man conceived indestructible. Rain and wind destroyed and carried away bridges, railroad tracks, cement roadbeds. Trains were held up, travellers were compelled to seek temporary accommodation. The mail service was disrupted. Letters expected, letters that were to bear messages of hope and cheer, did not arrive as expected. The daily newspaper that so many depend upon for their daily news, and which have in a way become as much a part of our regular life as our meals, failed to come to hand. You could see the effect, the disappointment, the concern and the impatience on the faces of almost everyone. All of which goes to prove that the "High-up" as they are sometimes called, because of their positions of trust and responsibility, are more important to the general welfare and the comfort of the people than they are given credit for. The great system of universe that keeps this old world of ours in place is overruled by a power that is not dependent on material force. Let us do homage to the great minds that provide comfortable transportation, regularly of living and other material comforts. But let us not forget to daily give thanks to that great Divine power who overrules this universe,

THE WHISPERERS

If there is a bigger and more dangerous nuisance in a small community than the common gossip, it is the persistent and cunning whisperer. Singular to say, this contemptible habit, or vice, is more common among men than among women. The Whisperer is a man you never can trust behind your back. He always has a smile when you meet him, but the moment your back is turned he will have something to say about you that he would not dare to say to your face. He is also a coward. He has not the courage to even show toward you the feeling of dislike and distrust he would like to inspire in others toward you. His attention and his remarks are most frequently directed toward the man in a public position, the man who is trying to do something for his community. The latter is too busy a man to pay much attention to the "Whisperer," but he knows him at sight. He sometimes catches a glimpse of him across the street, or with a group of men, as he is slyly and cunningly making insinuating remarks about the man who is too busy to notice him. If the busy man comes up to the group, the "Whisperer" will either look innocent and try to square himself, or sneak off to somewhere else to spit out his poison. Oh, yes, we have some of that kind right here in Winchester. Some, too, who pretend to be real good Christian men, who attend Church regularly, and, oh well, you know the kind. What a nuisance they are anyway. But so are many more things in life, but even the nuisance help to keep other people busy.

A Talk on Cattle

Winchester, April 2nd.

Editor of Winchester Press:

Dear Sir:

Mr. R. B. Faith, an old-time resident of Winchester, and now Director of extension work for the Holstein Friesian Association of Canada, addressed a well attended meeting of Farmers and Breeders from different parts of the county held under the auspices of the Dundas Holstein Breeders Club. In speaking of the Association and its work, Mr. Faith stated the Holstein Friesian Association was the largest live stock association in Canada, its assets being over one hundred thousand dollars. The registrations and transfers during the past year exceeded those of the other five breeds of Dairy cattle combined, the registrations for export alone being four thousand. At the present time the demand for Holstein cattle exceeds the supply. China and Japan, also many other foreign countries, are in the market for Canadian Holsteins. The Province of Quebec is also buying Holsteins very extensively. Last year Byron Jenvey, sales agent for Oxford County Club, sold $150,000 worth of Holstein cattle for Oxford County alone. As Dundas is noted for its fine herds of black and white cattle it would seem like good business if our farmers and live stock breeders would try and secure some of this trade With this in view a Holstein Breeders Club has been formed with Mr. D. McNaughton as President, H. S. Carkner vice-president, and A. W. Springstead as secretary. Mr. Cameron, of Mountain, was appointed sales agent and a number of directors from different parts of the county were also appointed. A meeting of the Officers and Directors will be held in the Council Chamber, on Tuesday, April 9th, to complete the organization and draw up a constitution. Mr. W. R. Cummings, of Gold Dollar Farm, Ottawa, gave an interesting address on the opportunities the breeding and developing of Holstein cattle afforded the young man on the farm today, especially along the line of R. O. P. work. Mr. T. A. Spratt, of Billings Bridge, also paid tribute to the many excellent qualities of the black and white cattle. That considerable interest was created by the above addresses was evidenced by lively discussion in which a number of prominent farmers took part.

Correspondence

Mr. Editor:

In last week's editorials you published an article from the Midford Sun regarding legislation that is being put through widening the gauge of sleighs to 4 ft 9 ins. The Sun considers that this will mean considerable hardship to the farmers. In my humble opinion I do not believe it will be a hardship but that rather it is a needed change for the better.

In the first place, the present gauge of sleighs is much too narrow making it very easily to upset and in deep snow a great deal of trouble is caused by horses crowding. If the gauge were widened, both of these difficulties would be overcome. It would also make it possible to run cars for the greater part of the winter, though in winters of deep snowfall it would require considerable plowing to keep roads open. But taking it all around I think it would be a big help.

The cost of changing the sleighs would vary with different types of sleighs but should not be over $20 or so to lengthen cross bearers and widen the pole, etc.

The plan to make everybody change at once is the only sensible way as sleighs of different widths would ruin the roads for everybody. Of course that fine of $50.00 is pretty steep but none of us would be forced to pay it. All we'd have to do is widen our sleighs!

A Farmer.

...ells and showers! There ... Friday evening at Mr. Gil... for Mr. John Kennedy. A large crowd of well wishers were present.

Mrs. A J. Kennedy is to be congratulated on her program for Young Peoples. She was lucky in having it in holiday week when she had some school teachers to help Miss Kattie Briggs gave a violin selection accompanied by her mother. She later told us some interesting facts about our Canadian Royal Farm. Mr. John Briggs made everybody laugh over some experiences he said he had on Spark Street. Miss A. Kennedy rendered some fine music on the mouth organ and Mr. W. Hammond fairly made the accordian speak. Miss Isobel Kennedy recited. There were 3 new and interesting contests. To prove how well the papers were read the prize winners were, Miss Helen Dalgleish, Miss Allison Kennedy, Mrs. W. Bowman, Messrs H. Hughes, Alec Campbell and Alec Stevens. The meeting was closed without refreshments because most of the people were going on to the shower. There is to be a pie social at next Young Peoples so surely the boys will get enough pie for once.

The call of Isaiah to his great life work was the theme of the message of Sunday morning, the text being Isa. 6:1. This was an unforgettable experience in the life of this young man. He felt a sense of the reality of the presence of God, a consciousness of his own sin, and He got a vision of God that led him to service. God became more real to him than the difficuities before him. This experience we all require. The holiness of God became real to him and with that came the realization of his own sin. The call to service was very real and definite. God is seeking today to give us visions of our duty and the work He has for us to do The pathway of service is a great privilege. God's promises can only be fulfilled through consecrated men and women. The brief message of the evening was in keeping with the thought of the Cantata and the text was Gal. 6:14. The pastor said that some glory in possessions, in social standing, in education, etc, but Paul repudiated any of these gloryings. He had simply one thing of which he boasted and that was the Cross of Christ. We should glory in the cross because of its awakening powers.

Special selections from the cantata, "Olivet to Calvary" were given both morning and evening, also the Hallelujah Chorus. The soloists were Mrs. Steele and Mr. J. D. Stewart. These numbers were most creditably given by the members of the choir present, a number being laid aside with colds. Mrs. W. R. Potter and Miss Mabel Waddell kindly assisted. Mr. Potter's organ music was especially fine and he is to be congratulated upon the results, considering the difficulties in the way.

Next Sunday night, Miss Clara Allison will speak on Missionary work on behalf of the Mizpah Mission Circle Thankoffering.

The Man Behind The Plough

I'm not so much at singing as those high-falutin' chaps,
My voice it may be husky and a little loud, perhaps,
For I've been a-poughing, with a lazy team you see
And they've kept me pretty busy with my git up, whoa, haw gee,
But if you'll pay attention, I've just a word to say,
Its all about a great mistake you make, and do it every day,
In dealing out your praises and I wish to tell you now,
That too often you forget the man who walks behind the plough.

You talk about your learned men, your wit and wisdom, rare,
Your poets and your painters, they get praise everywhere,
They're well enough to make a show, but will you tell me how
The world would ever do without the man behind the plough?

I like your great inventions, and I'm glad you're getting smart,
I also like your music, cause it kinda stirs my heart,
But 'twill never fill the stomach of real hungry man,
So boys don't be too anxious to leave the good old farm,
Your father's strength is failing, soon he'll need your youthful arm
If you're honest in your purpose, at your feet the world must bow,
For the greatest of the great men is the man behind the plough.

OUTPOST HOSPITALS PERFORM GREAT SERVICE

Canadian Red Cross in Forty-Four Districts On Frontiers Treats Over Fifteen Thousand Persons With Very Small Death Rate.

By ANNE ANDERSON PERRY

During the past fifteen to twenty-five years, while immigrants have been pouring into Canada and settling on the frontiers there have been thousands of the most courageous and enterprising of our citizens in remote sections living from fifty to a hundred miles from doctors and nurses. Often, indeed families have been born and have died having had neither physician, hospital or the care of a nurse.

It was for people such as these, living in isolated communities, that the Canadian Red Cross, after the war, brought into being the outpost hospital, a unique institution, nto known before in any country, but which is today being imitated in many other lands. Frequently the smallest type of outpost is in charge of only one nurse who has to attend to the nursing service of five hundred to a thousand people. Her outpost is indeed rather a Health Centre than a hospital ,and Red Cross records are filled to the brim with tales of the heroic and invaluable work done by these skilled, devoted women in places where such aid is indispensable to the welfare of individual settler and community alike. Figures just released by the Red Cross for the rast year show that six new outposts have been put in operation in 1928, these bringing the total number of such hospitals throughout Canada to forty-four, in the Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, New Ontario and New Brunswick.

Some 15,202 men, women and children were treated in or through the Outposts in the past year, with a death rate of a little over one per cent., this record being all the more remarkable when it is recalled that many of the 82 nurses resident in these institutions. have. to meet all kinds of emergencies without the aid of medical men. 759 births occurred in the outposts, while the outpost nurses attended 180 women in their homes for their confinements. in only 50 of the latter cases was there any medical attendant, the nurses supervising successfully 130 maternity cases. In all frty-four outposts there is accommodation for 302 adult patients and for 64 children and during the past twelve months 1,557 operations; 350 of which were major, were performed by visiting surgeons. In-patients numbered 4,367, while 9,896 out-patients came to the outposts for medical or surgical care.

As hospital days of patients numbered 47,202, in all the outposts over the entire year and among the many other odd jobs done by the nurses in charge was the medical inspection of 3,864 school children in 176 schools in Northern Ontario, where 112 health talks were also given, it may readily be deduced that the Outpost nurse —particularly perhaps in the 23 New Ontario hospitals—has little time on her hands for rest or pleasure.

Very varied are the shapes assumed by Red Cross Outposts. Some are tiny houses on the extreme frontiers of settlement; some are well equipped, eight to twelved roomed hospitals in railway towns where the C.N.R. has been glad to supply building and equipment while the Red Cross attends to operation; some are temporary affairs in caboose or cabin such as the one conducted this year at Woman Lake from June to December for the in-trekking miners and settlers; while still others may be fine new buildings provided by municipalities or districts but under Red Cross management and partial support.

The four new outposts put in operation in Northern Ontario this year are situated at Coe Hill, Redditt, Bonfield and Bracebridge while one has been promised at Kakabeka Falls and two others have been requested at Emo and Red Bridge. One was opened in January at Rabbit Lake, Saskatchewan, and another at Clair in New Brunswick, while a district nurse was supplied in the North Bay section and a Red Cross car and nurse in the vicinity of Thunder Bay.

It is not difficult to vision what the outpost hospital means to the new settlers in our hinterlands who have to meet life with small means and their naked hands. Think, for instance of that far north outpost at Pouce Coupe in Alberta, five hundred miles west of Edmonton. Just a two roomed house but well equipped and well "manned" with two intrepid nurses set in a districts as big as some provinces, where the settlers are scattered over hundreds of miles of territory. Or of that one at Carragana in Saskatchewan. which is twenty miles from Prairie River and forty-five from the nearest doctor; or of the one at Lion's Head at the extreme tip of the Bruce Peninsula in Ontario where the isolated farmers and fisherfolk were long in need of such service; or of the life saving stations in Rorketon in Manitoba or Fisher Branch where the single nurses-in-charge have performed prodigies of valor ,initiative and skill; or. at St. Leonard's. in New Brunswick where a five bed House of Mercy makes a comfortable, healing sanctuary for the sick from the lumber camps; or the tiny Red Cross hospitals at Nakina and Hornepayne in northern Ontario where remote railway employees receive healing and help; or in Kirkland Lake and New Liskeard wehre two outposts serve adventurers to the great mining districts.

The policy followed by the Red Cross in establishing an outpost is that the society goes only where it is asked to go and after a very through survey has been made of the type of locality, population, needs and financial possibilities. If it is decided that an outpost is badly needed and the community is unable to even finance a building or equipment, then national societies, the railways or welfare organizations are approached and support is usually forthcoming. By adopting this policy and then taking over costs of operation and management, the Red Cross is able to conserve its resources for inevitable deficits, and, in time, in numbers of instances has held on until the communities were able to take over the institution as a municipal or district undertaking. For, by expecting the people to rally to the support of the outpost it is found that excellent results are obtained. Not many months ago a unique Outpost was opened at Bonfield in Northern Ontario, where an almost exclusively French and Catholic population accustomed to centering all their activities about the church, were to be served. It was an experiment, but with the able support of the project by priest and nuns, with a local Red Cross organization formed to undertake the furnishings, and a building supplied by the municipality, the outpost was successfully launched. Every room was tastefully furnished and decorated by the women of the settlement who murescoed the walls, painted the woodwork, wove the rugs, made and hung the curtains, besides raising money to buy all the furnishings. To-day this outpost is the pride as well as the most highly treasured utility in Bonfield and the enterprise is no longer an experiment.

The Red Cross outpost has demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that every community wants and needs a small hospital; it has shown that one way to reduce maternal and infant mortality is to provide prenatal as well as natal and post natal nursing care for the mother; it has rendered comparatively safe the settlement in remote districts which was once so perilous a matter for the family of the pioneer; and it 's going far to prove that the money invested by itself or communities which finance outposts is in the nature of a very profitable investment.

SOPHISTICATED CHIC.

A patterned wool jersey in bright red tones uses plain crepe de chine in harmonizing red shade for collar and cuffs and inset pocket, piped with black grosgrain ribbon, which is repeated in scarf tie. The belt is black lacquer. It's so simple, so smart and wearable, and made at a small outlay. It's a dress that can be worn so nicely all through the spring without a coat. Style No. 403 is designed in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Plain jersey in French grey with slate blue silk crepe collar and cuffs, piped in silk crepe, a grey background with narrow stripes in blue tones, which is also used for scarf tie, is especially attractive, because it's so unusual. The belt can be made of self fabric or worn with a suede belt in slate blue tone. Chambray, linen, pique in geometric print, wool crepe, printed silk crepe, and featherweight tweed suitable. Pattern price 20c in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

White Rule in East Africa

Stephen Gwynn in the Fortnightly Review: Tutelage is only justified as a preparation for some period when tutelage will cease. But in West Africa withdrawal may be more easily contemplated because there is no permanent settlement of white men. In East Africa the problem is different, for apparently there are large regions where the European can perpetuate his race, as at the Cape. From the standpoint of the native population, there is a strong case for maintaining a system fo indirect rule—directing, developing and devising native law and custom instead of abolishing them; and there is no likelihood that this will be carried out with full regard for the native interest except under the rule of a bureaucracy like the Indian Civil Service.

Joyous Jingles By Gifted Rhymsters

On the other hand, if you have any ideas for a feature to take the place of Limerick Corner, let us have them. Editor, Limerick Corner, Associated Publishers, 73 Adelaide St. W., Toronto.

V.O.N. Headquarters Supplies Nurses With Buttons And Other Things

When five people undertook to remind the Victorian Order nurse in one of our western towns that she had lost a button from the front of her uniform, it was time for the nurse to write in to Central Office at Ottawa and "ask for more." Eight bronze buttons to each Victorian Order nurse and 300 Victorian Order nurses across Canada equals 2,400 buttons and some extra ones for emergencies.

Not only does Central Office in Ottawa supply the nurses in each of its districts with button for their uniforms. The National Headquarters is the liasion officer between the Victorian Order nurse and the Canadian public she serves so well. Each local Victorian Order district is largely autonomous, but receives guidance from Ottawa in matters of policy. The National Office also sets standards of service, provides supervision and assists through correspondence and by visit in solving local problems and strengthening relationships with other national and provincial organizations.

According to figures published recently in Central Office, Victorian Order nurses in 1928 made a total of 628,000 visits in Canadian homes. Of these, 133,925 were to maternity cases.

The Chicago Undertakers' Association says that a funeral costs less than half as much in Chicago as it does in New York. Mass production certainly cuts down the high cost of dying.

Trade of Canada continues to increase. For the twelve months ended February 28th, the Dominion's total trade was $2,631,229,401, an increase of $283,583,063 over the previous corresponding twelve months. This total is made up of $1,380,424,443 exports and $1,250,804,958 imports.

Puddings With Strange Names

If there lives a cook to-day who can boast of 365 ways for making a pudding, it is scarcely possible that she could say that every pudding is named. Bread pudding is bread pudding, if it calls for one egg or three. But this was not the way of an English woman who compiled some years ago a pudding book containing 365 pudding recipes, one for every day in the year.

"Plum Pudding" ushers in the New Year, with "Courtin' Cake" coming soon after. This "should be eaten as soon as baked, if not, heat, slice and butter." A "Kiss-Me-Quick pudding" falls on the St. Valentine's menu; "Spinster's Pudding" and "Bachelor's Pudding" coming to the table in the same month. "Grandfather's Pudding" calls for a glass of brandy in the ingredients, and "what is left should be fried next day." "Welcome Guest" is set for a March day; "Auntie's Pudding" contains much treacle; with the seeker after pudding advice challenged by the recipe for "Minnie's Pudding," which, when cold, is sprinkled with "some Hundreds and Thousands." Nowhere in the book can one find enlightenment as to what are "Some Hundreds and Thousands."

"Fool's Pudding" is scheduled for April 1: "Blow-away Pudding," "Garden of Eden," "Paradise," and "Half Pay" falling in the summer months. A surprise comes with "Elder Flower Pudding," which turns out to be pancakes with a half cup of elder flowers.

The "Baby Teeth" and Their Care

Paradoxically speaking, the care of baby's teeth should begin before they arrive.

Symptoms of tooth eruption in the young child are, as a rule, not lacking. Locally there will be slight inflammation, with swelling; the area in which the tooth will erupt showing a tenseness and shinyness of tissue. The child will exhibit a tendency to bite at anything such as its toes, fingers, etc., and evidence a general irritability and restlessness, accompanied, possibly, by a slight fever.

Should the eruption of the tooth seem too tardy and cause the child considerable pain, the family dentist should be consulted.

As soon as the first tooth has erupted use a soft brush and clear water for the daily brushing. Later, when the child has reached the age when it will not swallow everything that is put in its mouth, a little good dental cream may be put on the brush.

However, along with these efforts, attention should be given to a correct diet, and the parent should insist on proper mastication of its food by the child.

Little children should not be allowed to eat candy or other sweets; they are ruinous to the young teeth.

It would not be too early to take the child to the dentist at two and a half or three years of age, and thereafter at intervals of from three to six months, as may prove necessary. In this way, small cavities can be detected early and treated with practically no discomfort to the child, and so the teeth are preserved from further and extensive decay.

Will Rogers Pictures Dawes, As Envoy, Greeting the King

Hurrah for Dawes as Ambassador to England. I can see Charley at one of those afternoon tea orgies saying, "If this is tea, somebody made it out of Chicago river water. Bring me a couple of saucers full of coffee."

Picture him with that old swayback pipe and his feet on the desk a telling King George, "Hell and Maria, George ,it certainly seems good to get mixed up with some real bloods after what I been a roosting with for four years in that Senate."

They will have to call out the King's Own Royal Horse Guards and Dublin Fusileers to throw him down and get those knee breeches on him.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P.S.—He is going first to San Domingo to check up their finances. That ought to keep him busy for almost a quarter of an hour.—In New York Times.

British Settlers

Britannia (London): No condemnation of British political parties, no futile recrimination of the Canadian immigration policy, can hide the fact, patent to all observers in Canada, that the inclination of native Canadians is toward a firmer alliance with the United States rather than any tightening of the ties with the Old Country. Englishmen deplore this tendency, and, from my own knowledge of this country for twenty years, I am satisfied that American influence is far greater now than at any other time and is rapidly growing.—H. Stewart Abbiss, of Vancourver, B.C.

The Immigration and the Dole

Toronto Telegram (Ind. Con.): The protest of the District Trades and Labor Council against the continuance of the dole to British workmen who migrate to Canada is timely. A new country cannot be built up on the dole system. Canada, the land of opportunity, has no place for settlers who cannot take advantage of their opportunities. And the man who is able and willing to take advantage of his opportunities can make a living in Canada without any outside assistance

Kicking Him—Why?

Back from a trip to Boston, Mass., Bob Breckenridge, of Owen Sound, says that in an out-of-the-way corner of a Boston graveyard stands a brown board showing the marks of age and neglect. It bears the inscription, "Sacred to the memory of Eben Harvey, who departed this life suddenly and unexpectedly by a cow kicking him on the 15th of September, 1853. Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Farmers and the Tariff

Victoria Times (Lib.): Why the farmers of Canada are overwhelmingly against proposals of the high tariff party is easily understood. The value of the agricultural industry of the country at the present time is approximately $8,000,000,000 and the value of last year's production reached the large total of nearly $1,400,000,000, or more than half of the national debt of Canada. They could not have made this progress under any restrictions which would hamper their trade and increase their cost of production.

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is to-day. Every druggist has it.

OWL LAFFS

BY O.W.L. (ON WITH LAUGHTER)

When we are able to see over the telephone we will get a lot of pleasure in calling wrong numbers.

A farmer's son attended a big "doings" in town and stayed over to watch the dancing at night. He hadn't been out in the world much, and he was deeply impressed with the girl's clothes at that dance.

"Some of the ladies' clothes I see here," he said, "put me in mind of a barbed wire fence."

Somebody asked him why.

"Well,' said he, "it's this way—they appear to protect the property without obstructing the view."

A British bishop was considerably upset and confined to his bed when he received a note one Friday morning from the vicar of a village in his diocese: "My Lord—I regret to inform you of the death of my wife. Can you possibly send me a substitute for the week end?"

To many the idle life is the ideal life.

Girls believe the difference between a misfortune and a fortunate Miss is an engagement ring.

Willie was dejectedly walking home from school and his woe-begone appearance attracted the attention of a kind hearted old lady.

"What is troubling you, my little man?" she asked.

"Dyspepsia and rheumatism," replied Willie.

"Why, that's absurd," remarked the old lady. "How can that be?"

"Teacher kept me in after school because I couldn't spell them," was Willie's dismal answer.

Unemployment and Emigration

Britannia (London): A producer is also a consumer, and if we send away a producer with his family we are getting rid of perhaps four consumers, and that surely means that our home manufacturers are losing valuable customers. The Dominions and foreign countries are all increasing their producing plants behind tariff barriers, and making it more difficult for us to find consumers overseas. Where then is the advantage of sending away the consumers we already have? A generation ago the Colonies purchased their manufactured goods very largely from us, and our emigrants still remained customers for our industries, but this is not the case to-day. Emigration may be highly necessary to keep the Empire British, but whether it will relieve our unemployment is a subject on which I want more enlightenment.

Dominion Status

Toronto Star (Ind.): It appears to be impossible for a certain kind of mind to entertain the idea that there can be a permanent relation between Britain an dthe Dominions far more satisfactory far more certain of enduring, than a colonial relation of subordination and dependence. The statesmen of the Empire who at the last Imperial Conference evolved the British Commonwealth of Nations perceived clearly that great and flourishing Dominions must inevitably arrive at the head of their experience as colonies and that they must have a larger and freer scope of action within the range of the British system. The old idea was that a colony must forever remain a colony or it must grow up and move out. The Imperial Conference devised a plan whereby the Dominions could grow up without moving out. There has been no conception so fine and inspiring in the history of the British people.

Don't be a rheumatic cripple!

"I THOUGHT I was going to be a cripple for life with neuritis and rheumatism." Mrs. Simon Rae, R.R. 2, St. Mary's, Ontario, says this in a letter. And many other women at the present moment are suffering so severely from rheumatism that they, too, feel depressed and despondent.

But Mrs. Rae found relief in the time-tested remedy, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This famous discovery of a Canadian doctor, by enriching and purifying the blood, renews vitality and attacks rheumatism at its very source.

"I suffered for four years and nothing seemed to help me," says Mrs. Rae. "After taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I am now able to do all my own work. I feel that there is nothing like them."

Byng Reveals True Story of Mutinous Troops at Calais

Says Movement Collapsed When Labor Strike .. Ended

TALK WITH LEADERS

Explanation Offered by Great Soldier Answering Churchill

London—Lord Byng has at last revealed the true story of the strike and mutiny of British troops at Calais in January, 1919.

Winston Churchill gave a narrative in his record book which contained bitter animus against British Labor. He puts the blame for mutiny on the Labor Corps, which he describes as: "the least disciplined part of the army, which had seen the least of the fighting, and was most closely associated with political Trade Unionism."

Mr. Churchill goes on to speak of Byng bringing two fighting divisions against the mutineers, and "the soldiers of these divisions were roused to indignation at the news that demobilization was being obstructed by comrades of theirs who had in no wise borne the brunt of the fighting."

Bubble Pricked

This account sounds plausible and it fits in with class prejudice against political trade unionism and the romantic glorification of fighting troops. But Lord Byng pricks the bubble of Churchillian rhetoric. Byng says there were two distinct elements of trouble. The first was the strike based on grievances; the second was a mutiny against discipline.

The strike was by the Labor Corps. The mutiny was by fighting troops who had returned from leave.

Lord Byng met and talked with the leaders of the strikers and he was convinced they had legitimate grievances.

Byng says: "These men were reasonable. They were all of the artizan type, sound knowledgeable fellows able to face facts."

Byng had no difficulty in fixing an agreement and getting the men back to their duties. The mutiny among returned leave men collapsed when the strike was settled and when Byng showed he held the big stick.

Graveley Misled

If troops under Byng were really roused to indignation, as Churchill says, against non-fighting units, they had been gravely misled and misinformed, and if the situation had been handled by a general more impulsive than Byng then there would no doubt have been a collision.

Churchill regards political trade unionists as prone to faction and agitation.

Byng found the men of artizan type, sound, reasonable, and able to face facts.

West Indian Trade

St. John Telegraph-Journal (Ind.): The people of the West Indies desire to enlarge their trade with Canada. They wish not only to sell more in this country, but buy more. They want closer contact with the business interests of the Dominion. They are looking to Canada as a "big brother." There has been an increase in trade and a very marked increase in the last ten years. It is most gratifying to learn that there was an increase last year of $2,200,000 in the sale of manufactured goods over the figures of the preceding year. We have a right to anticipate a larger increase in the current year, and a steady growth thereafter.

You see we need cruisers enough to outscrap the other nations either way.

Interesting Facts About Dept. of Health

Many Things Told About of Interest to Ontarians

KEEP MANY RECORDS

In the vaults of the Dept. of Health is kept the original registration of every birth, marriage and death occurring in the Province of Ontario. Approximately seven million records are now on file; more than 133,000 birth, marriage and death registrations are added yearly to the records; over 42,000 certificates are issued each year, while the number of searches reach a yearly total of $50,000.

REGISTRATION A SIMPLE MATTER.

The parents are required by law to register the birth as soon as it occurs, and it is a simple matter to fill out the blank post card which is supplied free for this purpose. The child and its parents derive certain advantages from this prompt registration, not the least of which is that the record is preserved and official certificate may at any time be secured for entrance to school, to prove inheritance, age, to vote or to marry, for life insurance or passport purposes, as well as for many other requirements throughout life.

WHY DO PEOPLE DIE?

If the deaths of residents were not registered, the Department would not be in a position to know what diseases were causing Ontario's people to die. But the registration of deaths is now very thoroughly done, and it is of interest to note from the latest report that we lost 35,909 residents in 1926, but 20,849 of these were due to ten causes, distributed as follows:

Disease	No. of deaths	Rate per 100,000 population
Heart Disease....	5,132	163.1
Cancer	3,116	99.0
Diseases of the Arteries	2,718	86.3
Pneumonia	1,9d2	60.4
Tuberculosis	1,835	58.3
Influenza	1,588	50.4
Bright's Disease ..	1,56E	49.8
Apoplexy	1,405	44.6
Broncho-pneumonia	970	30.8
Infantile Diarrhoea	615	10.5

The toll of lives which heart disease, cancer and disease of the arteries are taking yearsly, is so heavy—and, unfortunately, increasing from year to year—that the Department feels all possible advertising should be given to these figures. Nothing that can lessen the ravages of these three principal causes of death should be left untried.

HOW TO APPLY FOR CERTIFICATES

When a certificate is required, write to the Department of Health, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, stating

(1) Whether birth, marriage or death certificate is desired.

(2) Name of person.

(3) Where birth, marriage or death occurred, and when.

Fees to accompany application.

Schedule of fees is as follows:

Search, 50c.

Copy of certificate, $1.00.

Birth certificates for use in connection with school athletics are issued at a charge of fifty cents when applied for by school principal.

For purposes of mothers' allowances act, death certificate of father, marriage certificate of father and mother and birth certificates are supplied free, when application is made through local secretary of the Mothers' Allowance Board.

Application by a soldier (soldier's widow or children) for free certificate for pension purposes should be accompanied by evidence from the D.S.C.R.

British Mission Hope to Recover Russian Markets

Many Interests Represented on Unofficial Committee Welcomed by Soviets

London—An industrial mission comprising 80 business men representing 150 British firms with a total capital of £250,000,000 left London March 25 for Moscow to endeavor to recover the Russian market.

The mission is claimed by organizers of the Anglo-Russian committee here as "the most comprehensive and influential combination of commercial interests that ever left England." The list of firms represented comprises a number of the best-known engineering, textile and other manufacturers of Britain.

Members of the mission will be guests of the Soviet Government, which has arranged receptions and social engagements in their honor. They will spend three weeks in Russia. Promoters of the mission have received assurances that the Soviet will welcome British co-operation in public works, and that an opportunity will be given for discussion of settlement of debts and other pending questions.

Ernest Remnant, editor of the English Review, who is a member of the mission, said in an interview: "When we get to Russia there will be no occasion for anything but candor. British industry need not and cannot pretend it does not need orders. Equally Russia does not pretend she has ready money to pay for them. But both parties know Russia has assets—huge natural resources and a hard-working population. All that is required is to create confidence on the part of the creditor that he can be satisfied that those assets will fairly be applied to meeting the credit of supplies."

There are no politicians upon the committee which took the initiative in promoting the missions.

Immigration

London Daily Express: An unfortunate idea is beginning to take possession of the Dominions. They are coming to suspect immigration from the Mother Land as an effort on our part to shift the burden of the unemployed to their own shoulders. It is a completely superficial view, but they are not to be blamed for holding it. The bungling way in which successive British and Dominion Governments have handled the problems of settlement within the Empire is mainly answerable for this unhappy impression. Examine it in the light of history, and especially of imperial history, and its incompleteness is laid bare at once. What great Britain offers the Dominions is much more valuable than any export of machinery, goods gold. We offer them British stock—the same stock that has built up the greatness of the United States, of Canada, Australia and New Zealand. It is by far the most precious gift we can make.

Astrology Listed as a Quack Science

The so-called science of astrology and the making of horoscopes is ridiculed by Prof. C. J. Kullmer, Ph. D., in the March "Pictorial Review."

"The most recent discovery of the astronomers is that our sun with its little family of eight planets belongs to the Milky Way universe of stars, and that there are tens of thousands of such universes of stars at measurable distances, visible in their telescopes, off there is space, and yet there are people who turn away from science to astrology.

"This much is certain: There are no reputable 'schools of healing'; there is only one science If any one distrusts the universities of America, he may turn to the universities of high-grade small nations like Holland, Switzerland, Japan, Finland, Denmark. He will find everywhere only one science, that based on 'experiment'; but he will find no astrology, no mention even of any of the 'healing' vults that flourish under the 'freedom' of America."

Train Children's Taste in Clothes

Children should be trained in taste in clothes by being allowed to help in the selection of their clothing at an early age.

During the years one learns how to do everything else, this knowledge of good taste in clothes should also be acquired. The ability to enjoy clothes, far from being something to frown down, is distinctly an asset in later life.

It is now possible to gratify children's love of gay clothes even on a very small income, although the small income means that one must put more thought into buying. Lady Astor remarked that the most entrancing thing in America was the loveliness of the children's clothes in the New York shops. Yet clothes almost, perhaps quite, as lovely may be had in the drygoods store in a remote town, or found on the pages of the mail-order catalogues.

One of the matters over which mothers and daughters are most likely to disagree is the question of what is suitable or appropriate to wear. Here there is no doubt the conservative must make concessions, but she can begin when her daughters are young to build up a feeling for appropriateness.

Chevrolet Demonstration

From the famous Bluenose fishing fleets of Lunenburg and the iron mines of Sydney to the logging camps of British Columbia is a far cry. Yet the several hundred people who were fortunate enough to gain admittance to the special Chevrolet Chassis Lecture and Demonstration held in Melvins Garage hall last night, viewed these scenes and many more from the leagth and breadth of the Dominion, illustrative of the nation's vast natural resources and scenic wonders.

"Chevrolet Across Canada" is the title of the highly educational moving picture which was specially taken for the Chevrolet Motor Company of Canada and was shown here under the auspices of Melvins Garage, local dealers. Chevrolet cars and trucks were seen playing their part in the Nova Scotia fishing and mining industries or doing their bit in the building of good roads in the Prairie Provinces. Gathering the nation's wheat in the Canadian West, the same sturdy vehicles were shown beside the combines loading grain for speedy transportation to the elevators.

Thrills of another kind were seen in Ontario where numbers of Chevrolet trucks do service as fire engines. A fire truck was pictured making a record run and fighting and putting out a real live fire. A horrible railway accident was narrowly averted through the efficiency of the car's four wheel brakes.

Most of the principal Canadian cities visited by the camera man were shown on the screen. In Montreal the audience saw the large fleet of Chevrolet cars and trucks in the service of the Bell Telephone Company. At Toronto were seen fleets of two dozen Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Express trucks starting out on their runs.

The towering Rocky Mountains, pictures of Banff and the placid waters of Lake Louise, the tall timbers of British Columbia, and bathing scenes at English Bay, Vancouver, were among the scenic pictures of the Chevrolet film.

Following the moving picture film, an interesting and instructive description of the inner workings of the new Chevrolet Six was afforded the audience by means of an illustrated lecture delivered by Mr. S. D. Hubbell, of Oshawa, Chevrolet expert.

Trustees' Convention

The trustees and ratepayers convention at Toronto, April 2nd to 4th, was attended by a splendid representation from the rural districts. The rural trustees had three meetings for themselves in Convocation Hall and filled it each time to capacity.

Each evening they met together with the general association, and listened to speeches from the Minister of Education, Dr. Tory and Dr. Beland also music given by forty-two girls from one of the Toronto schools under the leadership of their teacher. This part of the program was particularly fine, as was also the community singing.

Forty-six resolutions on the order paper were debated, some turned down without much discussion and others passed. We are, according to the Minister of Education, going to have the fifth class taught in the Public Schools. The teachers were mostly against this and said so, but the Minister is for it. The Minister also urged the teaching of music in the Public Schools, and there will be grants for that also. They are trying to plan out some better way for the teaching of agriculture in the school both elementary and high schools. They talk about a month's course on poultry, another month on dairying, another on bee-keeping etc. which shall go on monthly throughout the term, taught by experts travelling among the schools of the Province. This should fill a long felt want in our schools.

The debate on, "Resolve that the township board is better than the old trustee board" was very interesting. The speaker for both sides were good mostly, and brought out their arguments very well. The Judges decision on the debate was; "We did not take into consideration the merits of the bill or its demerits, but find that the affirmative handled their arguments with more skill than the negative." Some of the papers made it appear that the judges decided in favor of the bill, but that is their decision taken down warm from their lips and it had nothing to do with the bill as you can see. After the debate a vote was called for on the bill, and although a few wanted to discuss it they were shouted down and a vote called for without discussion. The trustees stood up in mass against the bill. When those opposed were asked to stand only three as far as I could see, stood up for the bill. Then the people rose and left the hall and for a great many the convention was over. They had done their duty, done what they were sent to do, and we hope, perhaps against hope, that this bill is dead forever.

We did not attend the Thursday morning session but a party of us went to see the Niagara Falls and I must say that I spent one of the greatest days of my life there. Perhaps some other time I may write that story.

Robt. Carkner.
