WOMAN'S BODY DISCOVERED IN HER APARTMENT

Apparently having been dead for over two weeks, Miss Agnes Moore, aged 43, who lived alone in an apartment at the corner of Main and Queen streets, Chesterville, was found on Wednesday afternoon by her brother, Edward Moore, who had become alarmed at her prolonged absence. Coroner Peter McLaughlin, M.D., was notified, and after brief inquiries, decided that death was due to natural causes, and that an inquest would not be necessary.

Shortly before her disappearance, Miss Moore, who had not been well, had been advised by her physician to undergo an X-ray examination, and relatives and other friends concluded that she had accepted the doctor's suggestion, and went to hospital without letting them know. She was last seen at a eucher on November 10th.

Inquiries were made at hospitals in Ottawa, Cornwall and Brockville without any trace of her being found. About 4.30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, her brother went to the door of her apartment, as he had done several times before, and again failed to get any response. He secured a ladder, and climbed up to the winows, and noticed something like a body covered up in bed. He called Dr. Casselman, Chesterville, and securing a key, the two entered the apartment, and found Miss Moore's body.

The late Miss Moore was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moore, former residents of Chesterville district. She spent her whole life in that vicinity, and was a member of St. Mary's parish. Besides her brother, she leaves a sister, Mrs. John Young, residing near Chelsea, Que.

The funeral was held to St. Mary's Church, and interment was made in the parish cemetery, Chesterville.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A regular meeting of the Women's Institute will be held in the Agricultural Office on Monday evening, Dec. 3, at 7.30 o'clock. Members are asked to respond to the roll by telling of a household "wrinkle" which they consider of most practical value. "Current Events" will be dealt with briefly by Mrs. J.C. Casselman. Miss Marjorie Duprau, a graduate of MacDonald College, Guelph, will tell of her course, recently taken.

There will be a contest, with prizes, for an exhibit of jams and jellies, which will be judged as to (1) flavour, (2) consistency, (3) colour, (4) neatness of labelling.

The Institute extends a very cordial invitation to the women of the town, to be present at this meeting on Monay evening, Dec. 3.

VanALLAN—BURD

On Saturday afternoon, a pretty wedding was solemnized at the bride's home at Crysler, the contracting parties being Miss Elise May Burd, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Burd, and Lloyd Elton Wesley VanAllen, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A.L. VanAllen, of Morrisburg.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W.E. Davies, B.A., minister of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, Finch.

Miss Evelyn A. Burd, sister of the bride, was maid of honour, while Kenneth H. Barkley, of Winchester, acte as best man.

The bride, charmingly attired in blue crepe, with accessories to match and wearing a string of pearls, entered the room to the strains of the Wedding March (Lohengrin) played by Mrs. W.E. Davies. While the register was being signed, Mrs. Davies sang "Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life". (Victor Herbert).

A select company afterwards sat down to a sumptuous repast served by the bride's mother. All wish the happy couple a long and prosperous life.

MRS. V. A. M. JAMIESON

The funeral of Mrs. Victoria A. Midagh Jamieson, widow of the late Dr. T.J. Jamieson, whose sudden death occurred at the home of F.H. Dougall, Merrickville, on Monday morning, was held Wednesday afternoon. The late Mrs. Jamieson was born at Mountain, Ont., 73 years ago, and was the last surviving member of a large family. During a well spent life, she had resided in Mountain, Morrisburg, Cardinal and Ottawa, Dr. Jamieson, who predeceased her last February, having practiced at Mountain and Morrisburg. The deceased had been visiting at the home of her niece, Mrs. F.H. Dougall, and her sudden death is the cause of deep regret among a wide circle of friends. One daughter, Miss Florence Jamieson, B.A., is left to mourn.

The funeral service was held at one o'clock at the residence of F.H. Dougall, with Rev. R.W. Armstrong, pastor of the United Church, in charge. Following the funeral service, the cortege proceeded to Kars, for interment in Rideauvale cemetery. The pall bearers were Wm. McCorgor, James O. Beggs, William Loucks, Ernest Smith, Jos. A. Hyndman, of Mountain, and Fred Dougall of Merrickville.

DECKHAND DROWNED IN CORNWALL CANAL

Slipping from the deck and landing boom of the Patterson Steamship Line freighter, Troisdoc, as the boat was entering lock 18 of the Cornwall canal, just west of Cornwall, Harry Smith, 28, of Gananoque was drowned at an early hour Monday morning.

Members of the crew, canal employes and provincial police worked for hours with grappling irons, after the accident, but were unable to locate the body. Tuesday morning, Jack Dundlop and Frank Villeneuve, canal employes, located the body after they had been grappling for only a short time.

Smith had been employed on the Troisdoc for less than 24 hours, having secured the job as deckhand at Montreal Sunday morning. At the time of the accident, Smith, who was heavily clothed, was attempting to swing out onto the canal bank so that he could make the cables fast when the vessel entered the locks. He was seen to swing out on the landing boom, slip down the knotted rope and drop into the water between the boat and the canal bank. He came to the surface and a life preserver was thrown to him, but he failed to grasp it, and disappeared below the surface.

Coroner Dr. C.J. Hamilton was notified, and, after hearing the details, decided not to detain the Troisdoc.

Smith, a former ward of Fairknowe Home at Brockville, came to this country in 1920, and for a period of eight years was employed by Har S. Scott, a farmer of Joyceville. Later he was employed in Reid's cheese factory, in the vicinity of Kingston, and for the past five years he has been out of touch with the Fairknowe authorities. He is survived by one sistetr, Miss Janet Smith, at present in Ottawa.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Municipal elections in the Township of Williamsburg and Village of Morrisburg, will be held on Monday, Dec. 3rd. Of those nominated on Friday last in Williamsburg Township, the following have qualfied:

For Reeve—Messrs Meredith Garlough and Eddie A. VanAllen.

For Deputy Reeve—Messrs E. Matthew Beckstead and John E. McMillan.

For Councillors—Messrs Oscar Cougler, Ross Hess, Geo. C. McKenzie and Edgar Whitteker.

In Morrisburg, the following have qualified:

For Reeve—Arthur Flynn (acclamation).

For Councillors—Messrs Fred H. Broder, Wilfred T. Coligan, Howard O. Hessell, Arnold M. Jarvis and William R. Roach.

WILLIAMSBURG W. I.

The Williamsburg Women's Institute met last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. M.W. Locke. The meeting, which was presided over by the president ,opened with the singing of the Institute Ode. The decision was made to buy a pair of glasses for a child attending school in Morrisburg, the school nurse having recommended them, as they would help the pupil considerably in her studies.

Mrs. Axworthy read the report on the cemetery work, and it was found most satisfactory. Mrs. M.O. Trickey, for the sick visiting committee, reported cards were sent to all who had been ill in the district.

A committee was appointed, consisting of Mrs. Jas. Cunningham, Miss Almeda Whitteker, Mrs. O'Brien and Mrs. Duggan, to collect clothing or any articles suitable for a family who recently lost all their possessions in a fire. They are to canvass every place in the village and surrounding country.

Rev. C.A. Adey then gave a very fine paper on "Famous Canadian Women" which was most instructive showing how the women of Canada are ,doing their part in building up a finer Dominion by their wonderful influence. Mrs. Duggan, on behalf of the Institute, tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Adey for his splendid paper.

The meeting closed with the repetition of the Institute Creed. Mrs. Locke, assisted by her mother, Mrs. A. McGruer, and Mrs. A. Whitteker, served a delightful lunch, and an enjoyable social hour was spent.

MR. EDWARD BRADLEY

Word was received of the death at Belleville on Sunday evening, of Edward Bradley, a native of Morrisburg, and a resident of Brockville for several years.

Deceased left Brockville several years ago, and had resided in Belleville, where the funeral was conducted on Monday afternoon. He is a married man with a grown family surviving. Also surviving are one sister and four brothers. They are Mrs. C. Markell, Nelson and George Bradley, Brockville; David Bradley, Morrisburg, and Peter Bradley, Potsdam, N.Y.

The late Mr. Bradley enlisted in August, 1914, with the 41st regiment draft, and became attached to the 2nd Battalion C.E.F. at Valcartier. He trained there and at Salisbury Plains, in England, and returned to Canada in April, 1916.

Faster Way Found to Relieve Headaches

NOW PAIN OFTEN RELIEVED IN MINUTES!

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it.

Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

Drop an Aspirin tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches the bottom, it is disintegrating.

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH
An Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach—ASPIRIN tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The TUDOR HOUSE

By MRS. STANLEY WRENCH

(Author of "Sing for the Moon" "Strange Lovers," etc).

SYNOPSIS

Michael .Borde, 40, unmarried, born and bred in a Birmingham slum, is now a wealthy motor manufacturer. One day he visits the countryside around his old home and rescues Daphne Eden from a menacing tramp. He falls in love and proposes. Daphne accepts and introduces him to her father, who greets him with the words "Get out of here you cur — you ruined my home — stole my wife — curse you!"

Daphne's father dies and she disappears. Michael explains to her friend, Mrs. Gregory, that he was misrepresented. He buys the old Tudor House owned by the Hamill-Hardy's. Mrs. Gregory promises to mail a letter from him to Daphne arranging a meeting Daphne does not appear. On the way home Michael collides with a car driven by Diana Hamill-Hardy.

Mrs. Gregory dies. Daphne hears from her solicitors.

At the solicitors she is met by her stepmother.

She drew a few whiffs, scattering ash untidily, and again Daphne shuddered.

"Well, now what about Borde?" she asked. "What is he to you?"

"Nothing," answered Daphne shortly, and was amazed at the vehemence of her own voice.

"You mean he wants to be?"

"No."

Lily Eden laid down her cigarette and finished an ice.

"My father believed you ran away with a man called Michael Borde," said Daphne slowly. "He evidently believed that to the day of his death. Then it wasn't true?"

Lily Eden looked up with that slow malicious smile.

"What's it worth to you to know ..... the truth?" she asked.

Again that dull pain pricked at Daphne's heart, becoming sharper as the minutes passed.

"I don't understand," she repeated but she guessed at what was coming.

"Well, women of your sort don't go to a lawyer's for nothing," the other went on. Richard Eden may not have had money about somewhere, or those foxy old solcitors would not be after you. Well," and her lips tightened, "I'm his wife. He didn't divorce me, for all his suspicious ways. If there is money I'm entitled to my share and I shall see that I get it too, but I'm not one to make a row when things can be done peaceably. So that's why I suggest you and me chat this over, woman to woman, and to share and share alike"

Daphne sat still for a minute, wondering how best to deal with her. It was quite evident that she did not believe her. It was equally evident that she was going to be a difficult person to shake off.

"Listen," she said "I am speaking the truth. That visit had no reference whatever to my father, Bennett and Downing wanted to see me because a woman—someone I used to work for had left me a little property."

"Property eh? Well that means money in the long run," she repeated "I can easily find out if you are telling the truth or not. But you can't bluff me my girl. You may not know it, maybe you don't, but you looked dippy enough just now, and if it is not Michael Borde, then it's another man, and you're afraid of Michael Borde stepping in."

She laughed, and lighted another cigarette, and crushed the stump of the other on her plate.

"Shouldn't have thought he was your sort either," she observed.

The End of an Ordeal

So it was true. Daphne never knew how she sat there and endured the chatter of the woman opposite whilst they drank coffee then she beckoned for her bill. Suddenly the eyes of Lily Eden hardened. It was now or never, and she put out her hand.

"Listen, Daphne," she said thickly, 'you and I have met again but we are not going to part like this. I have got to see more of you. There are things that have got to be cleared up. Listen. There are some things no woman its down with a smile. I've been waiting for some years to have my ay but I have never gotten a chance. You say your dad is dead, so it's too ate now to have things out with him, but by jove, someone shall hear—"

Daphne's lips were white as she took her bill conscious that people at the next table were listening.

"Where do you live?" she asked. "Give me your address. "I'll write, then as she opened her bag in which she had bestowed the bank notes she realised that the eyes of the other woman had seen these.

Obeying an impulse Daphne drew out a five-pound note and pushed it across the table.

"I'll write to you," she said.

The woman's fingers closed greedily over the note but her eyes were hard as they travelled over Daphne's dress. No, the girl was not well dressed. Good clothes, yes of a kind, but they were past their best. Perhaps some of what she said was true. She studied Daphne's face. Um. Thirty if she was a day. Well women were queer cattle.

She wrote down her address and looked at Daphne enquiringly.

The other shook her head.

"No I have no address at present," she said. "I can't give you a hotel address because I am leaving London tonight. I'm staying with friends in the Midlands for one night, then—" she paused, "my plans are uncertain. You need not fear," she added with a wan smile, "for now I have your address I will certainly try to help you if it is possible. Now, I am sorry I have another engagement and I must really go—"

Lily Eden gathered up her belongings and followed Daphne towards the pay desk, hugging her bag with that precious five pound note. It was a long time since she had been so flush and she tucked in a straggling wisp of hair.

"A good meal in you and money in your pocket, —goo—you can jump over the world," ran Lily Eden's thoughts, as she walked leisurely along Oxford Street, and gazed in the windows.

A red and white spotted gown—Lily Eden's eyes lighted up. It was her colour — danger signals some called it, but she knew that she looked her best in red. Should she.

With a slightly subdued feeling she passed on temptation over. No, with five pounds in her bag, she mustn't play any tricks, even though there was a fair certainty of more. Daphne was like her father, a bit of a prig, maybe a trifle religious like he always had been, but she was the type who would keep her word even if the skies fell. A comfortable sense of complacency returned, she felt quite cheerful by the time she had quite cheerful by the time she had reached a little beauty parlour. Daphne Eden was her trump card.

Besides even if she didn't turn up trumps she could always get at her through that firm of solicitors.

The warm scented air of the beauty parlour was like a tonic to Lily Eden, she sniffed this appreciatively, took a seat, whilst the girl in forget-me-not blue uniform reached out the list of bookings and ran her eye reflectively down the list of clients. In the first cubicle she could hear chatter and laughter,, and in spotless white, an attendant put her head outside for a second at the sound of a bell.

"Miss Manners—" she called sharply.

The forget-me-not sprite moved off with a murmured "Pardon me, madame," to the newcomer and Lily Eden reached out, took an illustrated periodical from the glass-topped table beside her chair. With nonchalant air she flicked over its pages, gazing at one illustration after another and studying the captions. Society folk, country house parties, the London sessions beginning. Yes, it took all sorts to make a world, and this was the world outside her ken. Yet, in a way, other worlds modelled themselves upon it. All at once she stiffened, as a familiar name met her eye.

Farm Boys and Girls At the Royal Fair

Out of the round 30,000 farm boys and girls registered by the Canadian Council on Boys' and Girls' Club Work the most skilled in juding of livestock to the number of about 300 will compete for the annual finals in a series of competitions that culminate at the Royal Winter Fair. According to A E. MacLaurin, secretary of the Council, Ottawa, the preliminary contests held in all the provinces have shown a high standard of livestock knowledge among these junior farmers, and he looks for a very close competition in the finals at the Royal Coliseum on November 20, the day prior to the opening of the Royal Winter Fair.

This competition has for the last three years attracted much attention among those interested in "keeping boys and girls on the farm." Five projects, the judging of beef cattle dairy cattle, sheep, swine and poultry are undertaken by the juniors in groups and individually.

Mr. MacLaurin reports a steady increase in the enrollment which this year in Ontarioa lone numbers 5,600 some thousand or so more than in 1933, who are entered altogether in about 290 boys' and girls' clubs in various localities.

What Does Your Handwriting Reveal?

GEO. ST. CLAIR

(Grapho-Analyst)

All Rights Reserved

(Editor's Note: These human interest problems, with which Mr. St. Clair is dealing, are similar to those that beset so many of our readers. Can this well-known Handwriting Expert help you? A friendly word, some cheerful advice, will often help you to bear your troubles easier. See the author's invitation following this article.)

"Sally," which is a non-de-plume covering the identity of a young lady living in Toronto, writes as follows: "My problem is, I suppose, similar to that of many girls in business today. I happen to be fairly good-looking, and my boss, who is, by the way, a married man of 38 years of age, keeps asking me to go out with him. Now I am not particularly staid, I enjoy good times, and am fond of getting around, and, to be quite frank, I am not worried overmuch about the moral angle in this case, because I happen to know that my boss does not get along with his wife. What kind of a man is my boss? Does his writing tell you whether he is honorable, and do you think he is the type of man with whom I can go out with occasionally, without any serious results? My own age is 23."

This is a rather different angle to this age-old problem. Generally the layman would lay it down as an axiom that a single girl should not go out with a married man—and it is still very true that a girl lays herself open to unhappiness by encouraging the attentions of a married man.

However, I do not intend to lay any stress on this feature in this case. The man's writing is so informative as to his mentality and character that a partial analysis of it should suffice to discourage my correspondent.

The writing of this man reveals an overwhelmingly conceited personality. He has an amazing impression of his own importance in the scheme of things, and, to be quite frank, he thinks the sun rises and sets on himself. His writing is very plain in this respect.

And there is another feature of it which would be enough to warn any girl to leave him alone. He is deceptive—not to be trusted for a moment. Naturally shrewd in business, he is something of a hypocrite, too, but his deceptiveness sticks out like a milepost.

Leave him alone, Sally. He can do you no good, and I don't believe that his intentions are straightforward. Probably, if you were to know the real truth of his relations with his wife, you would find that he is the one to blame. In any case, discourage his attentions. Give him no encouragement at all. After a while, he will get tired of constant rebuffs, and turn his attention elsewhere.

Mr. T., London, writes: "I am 17 years of age, and my parents are very keen on my going to college. I have always had an idea that I should like to be a doctor and my parents are offering me the opportunity to study it. But I would like to be earning money now, and a friend of mine has an opening for me in an office at quite a fair salary. What would you advise?"

There can be no hesitancy here, my friend. You would be very unwise to give up your earlier ambitions regarding becoming a doctor for the very temporary importance and self-satisfaction that money would give you in the other job. You would be sorry for it in years to come. In this case, I can confirm your parents' advice. Go to college.

Have you any problems that Mr. St. Clair could help you solve? Do you want to know the truth about yourself—and your friends? He will tell you the unvarnished truth. Send specimens of the writing you want analyzed, and enclose 10c coin for each specimen. Enclose with 3c stamped addressed envelope to: Geoffrey St. Clair, Room 421, 73 Adelaide Street West, Toronto, Ont. All letters are confidential.

Five Dionne Sisters Begin to Look Alike

Callander, Ont. — So much alike are the Dionne quintuplets that necklaces bearing their names will have to be worn by the famous sisters for identification, Dr. A. R. Dafoe, their physician, believes.

Dr. Dafoe, who has watched over the "famous five" since birth, believes that the babies, now five months and one week old, are becoming more alike and that it will soon be necessary to have some definite means of identifying them.

Crowds Demand Lighter Music

Margate, Eng.—Taste in public entertainment at the seaside has completely changed since the war. At least it has at Margate, where, according to John Saxby, Margate's entertainments manager, who has had 34 years' experience of the town.

Holiday-makers are no longer content with orchestral concerts and the concert parties in vogue before the war. They want revues, cabarets and jazz. Generally, they demand lighter entertainment, and expect accommodation for refreshment.

Mr. Saxby told of this change at a Ministry of Health inquiry into the corporations application for [illegible] of $135,000 to construct and extend the pavillion and Winter Gardens. The pavillion, said Mr. Saxby, was totally inadequate to cope with the change of taste in entertainment. This year Margate has approved improvements involving an expenditure of $1,500,000.

Woman's World

By Mair M. Morgan

A friend of ours tells us she has difficulty in planning her luncheon menus. She wants to maks them as meatless as possible and asks for suggestions.

We think a thick, substantial soup followed by a salad and dessert of stewed or fresh fruit, with tea, coffee or milk, is sufficient for luncheon when dinner is being served at night. Main courses of fish and casserole dishes with macaroni, spaghetti and noodles are always good for the mid-day meal.

Cheese and Onion Soup

2 large onions, cut fine, 4 tablespoons shortening, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 quart hot milk, 2 egg yolks slightly beaten, salt and pepper, 1-2 cup grated cheese, 6 silces bread.

Cook onions in shortening until transparent; mix in the flour then add milk add stir well, cooking for 20 minutes in a double boiler. Strain and pour milk slowly onto beaten eggs. Season to taste. Toast bread, sprinkle with cheese and put one piece into each plate. Pour boiling over and serve at once.

Potato Soup

3 potatoes, 1 qt. milk, 2 slices onion, 1-4 teaspoon celery salt, or piece of celery stalk, 2 tablespoons snortening, I tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, few grains sayenne, 1 teaspoon parsley, minced.

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water until soft; drain, rub through pure strainer. Scald milk with onion and celery salt. Remove onion and add milk slowly to potatoes, stirring constantly. Melt shortening add dry ingredients, stir until well mixed, then add to hot soup. Add also minced parsley and cook 1 minute before serving. Serves 6.

Split Pea Soup

1 pt. split peas, 4 qts. water, ½ lb. salt pork, 1 large onion silced, 2 tablespoons celery, diced, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon shortening, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 sprig parsley.

Pick peas over that there may be no blemished ones among them, then wash and soak in cold water over night. In morning drain off water and put them into the soup pot with cold water and salt pork, onion and celery. Simmer 3 or 4 hours. When nearly cooked, add seasonings. Strain through sieve. Beat flour and shortening together till creamy and stir into soup; simmer 30 minutes longer. If salt pork has not seasoned the soup sufficiently, add a little salt.

Vegetable Soup

1 1-2 qts. boiling water, 1-3 cup carrots, diced, 1-3 cup cabbages, cut 1 1-2 cups potato dices, 1-2 cup onion, sliced, 1 cup strained tomatoes, 4 tablespoons butter or other fat, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 teaspoons salt 1 1-2 teaspoons chopped parsley.

Use all or any, and as many varieties of vegetables as you wish, using half as much vegetables as liquor. Wash, pare, scrape and cut vegetables fine. Then measure. Mix vegetables all but potatoes and tomatoes. Heat fat in spider, add vegetables, cook 10 minues stirring constantly. Add potatoes and cook 2 minutes longer, then add the boiling water and tomatoes and boil 1 hour or longer or until all vegetables are tender. Add parsley, season to taste and serve hot. Any cold boiled vegetables (leftovers) may be added to this soup.

Casserole of Fish

2 lbs. fish, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons shortening, salt and pepper to taste, 1 small carrot diced, 1 onion sliced, 1 cup canned tomato.

Cut fish into cubes and dredge with flour. Heat shortening in casserole and brown fish. Add seasonings and vegetables and cook tightly covered until both vegetables and fish are thoroughly cooked. If juices evaporate while fish is cooking add few tablespoons hot water as needed. Serves 4.

Salmon Pudding

1 can salmon, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 cup hot milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 2 eggs.

Remove skin and bones from salmon, rub fish fine with potato masher. Melt butter in milk and add bread crumbs and seasonings. Combine with fish. Last add well beaten eggs. Put into buttered deep baking dish and bake. Serve with a thin white sauce.

Tuna fish may be substituted for salmon, adding to recipe 1-2 teaspoon each chopped parsley and green pepper and a teaspoon lemon juice. Bake in moderate oven 1-2 hour. Tuna fish is also good creamed and mixed with green peas. Serve it on toast.

Fish Cake

1 cup cold boiled fish, salt and pepper, 1 cup cold mashed potatoes, celery salt, 1 egg, beaten.

Equal quantities of cold mashed potatoes, and shredded cold fish (dried codfish is good for this purpose: follow directions for preparing on package.) Mix, season to taste, add beaten egg, shape in rounds and cook in spider with 2 tablespoons hot butter till nicely browned.

Bean Loaf

1 can beans, 1 cup mashed potatoes, 1 egg well beaten, 1 onion, minced, salt and pepper, cracker crumbs.

add potatoes, well beaten egg and

Mash beans and rub through sieve onions. Season to taste. Form into loaf, dust with cracker crumbs and bake till nicely browned. Slice and serve either hot or cold. If hot with tomato sauce, if cold with salad dressing.

Peanut Butter Macaroni

2 cups elbow macaroni, 2 cups milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons peanut butter.

Boil macaroni in boiling salted water till tender. Drain and put in casserole Scald milk, add salt and peanut butter, boil till it thickens slightly. Pour over macaroni and bake in moderate oven for 15 minutes.

Noodles With Cheese

Cook noodles in boiling salt water till soft. Drain through strainer and pour cold water over them to prevent pieces from adhering. Make 1 1-2 cups white sauce as follows: 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups hot milk. Dissolve a speck of soda in a little hot water and add to milk. Heat butter, add flour and seasoning and then gradually hot milk. Put a layer of boiled noodles in buttered baking dish, sprinkle with grated cheese, repeat, pour over white sauce, cover with buttered crumbs and bake till crumbs are brown.

Tomato sauce may be substituted for white sauce. Take 2 teaspoons butter, 1-4 teaspoon onion juice, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 cup water, 1 cup strained tomato, 1 teaspoon salt and speck of pepper. Heat butter, remove from fire and stir in flour. Add water, stir well, add tomato, onion juice, salt and pepper, boil 5 minutes.

Macaroni or spaghetti may be used instead of noodles for this recipe.

Cheese Souffle

Two tablpespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1-2 cup scalded milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne, 1-4 cup strong cheesee, grated, yolks 3 eggs, whites 3 eggs.

Melt butter, add flour and when well mixed add gradually scalded milk. Then add salt, cayenne and cheese. Remove from fire; add yolks of eggs beaten until lemon colored. Cool mixture and cut and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes in slow oven. Serve at once.

As to the salad we suggested at the beginning of this discourse on meatless recipes, fresh tomatoes are always good, raw shredded cabbage is tasty and almost any leftover cold vegetables marinated with salad dressing and served on crisp lettuce leaves will appeal to the family.

DELICIOUS BREAD PUDDING

Soak the bread in cold water until soft and squeeze as dry as possible.

Thickly butter a dish and cover with a layer of jam—apricot is excellent. Mix the bread with brown sugar, the grated rind of a lemon, one egg, and sufficient milk to make a thin batter. Bake a golden brown in a slow oven. The butter gives it a delicious toffee flavor.

MAN OF THE HOUSE

Often the man of the family has fewer hours of enjoyment of his home than any other member. There has been an accepted theory that a man's work must all be done outside and so this condition of affairs seems unavoidable.

The woman who aims to make her home as useful and pleasant and happy as possible may do well to consider that her husband may have no place of his own that he can call private and into which he can go when he wants to be alone. Even though he may use it for only a short time after dinner, a room of his own may mean a real chance for quiet relaxation to him.

One woman, on waking to the fact that her husband had no place of his own in the house, calmly turned her own guest room into a study for her husband, "For," said she, "my guests cannot possibly need this room as much as my husband does." And what was her rtward? Her husband had been a rather gifted amateur scribbler. He had enjoyed writing now and then, but he seemed never to find a quiet place to write when the mood was upon him.

But now, with a room and a desk and an inviting typewriter, all for himself, he began to do a little writing every evening. In the end, he did some very creditable work and the reward was hours of happy work and many unexpected dollars.

The cost of this venture was next to nothing. The articles purchased were a huge red leather chair (it is said that all men love huge red leather chairs , three pairs of curtains, a roomy desk and some frames for her husband's cherished college pictures.

There is hardly a home which could not be squeezed a bit to provide a room for the lord of the manor. And there is hardly an investment of time and loving thought which will reward the homemaker more richly.

YOU KNOW HIM

He's always down and out, and he
Blames others for every error;
But he could see his enemy
If he looked in a mirror.

Third Divorce?

The single state is again desired by Jean Harlow (above), according to rumours from the coast which say she will soon file suit for divorce from Hal Rosson, cameraman, who is now in Europe.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CHRISTIAN AS WITNESS

GOLDEN TEXT— But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come unto you; and ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth.—Acts 1:8.

The Lesson in its Setting

PLACE—First Thessalonians was written in Corinth.

TIME—It was written during Paul's second missionary journey, probably in A.D., 52.

"Paul and Silvanus." Sulvanus is the latin form of Silas (Greek) Paul's travelling companion who took the place of Barnabas, Paul's companion on his first missionary journey. "And Timothy". Timothy was a young man of Lystra, in Asia Minor, whom Paul probably met on his first missionary journey when the apostle was stoned in Lystra. "Unto the church of the Thessalonians in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. Church is "ekklesia' in Greek whence our "ecclesiastic." It means called out," separated, a congregation that is bound together by one purpose. 'Grace to you and peace." Grace is the sum of all blessings that God bestows through Christ. Peace is the sum of all spiritual blessing that man receives and experiences

"We give thanks to God always for you all." Good counsel can only be given effectively in a good spirit. When we truly pray for our correspondents we can write to them with edification. "Making mention of you in our prayers." Paul's prayers were prayers of thanksgiving and praise. All of his letters except one (Galations) begin with expressions of thanksgiving.

"Remembering without ceasing your work of faith." That was the only faith that was genuine; that was the only faith Paul believed in—the faith that worked. "And labor of love." Paul unites these three, faith hope and love as the chief Christian graces in his incomparable hymn of love, the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians, ending with the famous estimate "the greatest of these is love." "And patience of hope." Patience is the very heart of hope.

"In our Lord Jesus Christ, before our God and Father." A hope in our Lord Jesus Christ so different from every other hope. Before our God and Father—all that is affirmed in the entire sentence being in the presence of our God and Father, securing his approval, and taking place with the utmost sincerity and earnestness.

"Knowing brethren beloved of God your election." God does not permit us to climb a ladder and go into his secret archives and turn the pages and see if a man's name is written in the Lamb's Book of Life. But he does permit us to know whether we are elect or whether anybody else is elect.

"How that our gospel." (Paul's preaching that the "good tidings of God's free love in Christ Jesus) came not unto you in word only but also in power. The Love on the Cross was not merely a historic fact but a spiritual fact and the living presence that we find in nature and in the human heart has a definite character which is the character of Jesus Christ.

"And in the Holy Spirit." This is a most necessary addition for no one can obey Christ perfectly in his own strength. He must have the aid of the Holy Spirit, or he will fail in his best endeavors. "And in much assurance.' This gives us to understand that the man that is renewed through the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ knows it and has no doubt of it in his heart. "Even as ye know what manner of men we showed ourselves toward you for your sake." Paul, Silas and Timothy are joyfully able to point the Thessalonians to themselves as showing the kind of Christians Christ wants.

"And ye became imitators of us." Paul challenged his friends in Thessalonica in Corinth and elsewhere, to take his life as a pattern. He was an example to them as they were to be an example to others and as the Lord Jesus Christ was to be an example to him and the standard for him. "And of the Lord." Our Lord has told his disciples that he would dwell in them as they in them. "Having received the word in much affiction, with joy of the Holy Spirit.." Affliction with joy! The phrase describes the life of Jesus who was the greatest sufferer the world has known, and who yet had the greatest joy in the world victory who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross despising the shame.

"So that ye became an example to all that believe in Macedonia and in Achaia." The Thessalonians had so far advanced that they who were formerly imitators had now become a model and an example to others.

"For from you hath sounded forth the word of the Lord." The sentence has a martial ring; the Thessalonian example was a trumpet like summons to Christ.

"Not only in Macedonia and Achaia but in every place your faith to Godward is gone forth." By the time the members of the Thessalonian church had listened to the reading of the letter thus far they would probably have conceived a rather more than fair opinion of themselves; but as it proceeds they would be likely to discover plenty of room for improvement "So that we need not to speak anything." The Macedonian Christians and their godly manner of life were the best evangelistic address possible

"For they themselves." That is the people to whom Paul went in Macedonia and Achaia. "'Report concerning us what manner of entering in we had unto you." Entering here refers not merely to the outward entrance, the mere preaching of the gospel among the Thessalonians; but to the access, the internal entrance which the gospel found in their hearts.

"And how ye turned unto God from idols." This turning was their conversion for conversion means a turning about." "To serve a living and a true God." Living because idols are dead; and true ,because idols are so false and empty.

"And to wait for his Son from heaven." To await in eager expectation the return of his Son from Heaven. "Whom he raised from the dead." Paul could never be long without wondering mention of Christ's resurrection the great truth which meant so much to him. "Even Jesus who delivereth us from the wrath to come Our Lord is very emphatically spoken of as The Deliverer and this ever present deliverance implies a past. He redeemed us once for all; he is ever delivering us.

LADY GAME WARDEN URGES FIELD SPORTS FOR HER SEX

Instead of Favorite Feminine Quarry—Man, She Suggests Shooting and Hunting Animals

"Hunting! There's a truly thrilling sporting experience for women!" It is Edith Stoeher of South Wethersfield, Connecticut, talking—the only woman game warden in the United States, with the five-mile fishing preserve on the Branford River and the 300-acre hunting grounds especially set aside for fair nimrods as her special provinces.

"Hunting's a thrill most women still can look forward to. Here in Connecticut, for instance, in spite of the preserve where they can hunt far from the critical masculine eye, only about 50 women turn out for the six-week quail, woodcock, pheasant and partridge season. Those who come are overjoyed that they can hunt in privacy.

ACTS AS INSTRUCTOR

"They don't resent men's presence but knowing the hunting district is theirs alone is pleasant knowledge. Most of the women are already experienced hunters, but occasionally one turns up who must be taught how to handle a gun and look for game. I have even loaned my dog to several."

Miss Stoeher is proud of her warden's uniform.

"There is something very intriguing about the brass buttons and gold badge," she laughs. "The breeches and high boots all lend dignity to the attire. Of course, I sew, but my clothes are mostly of the simple tailored designs. After wearing a uniform all day, I suppose I should lean toward fluffy-ruffle dresses, but I don't."

WARDEN'S DUTIES FUN.

When Miss Stoeher departs for the Branford or Farmington preserves, she leaves her family home in South Wethersfield about 4 in the morning.

"It's fun and I wouldn't exchange my job for anything", she says.

This woman game warden is versatile. She rides a horse with perfect ease and enjoys sports. Golf and tennis she finds are relaxing and pleasant, but there is little time for them during her busy seasons. "Music"— her eyes sparkle when she discusses her favorite art—"has fascinated me for years." She has studied voice and devotes much time to singing.

She is 28, cooks, bakes and sews a fine seam.

"And I have a hobby, too," she confesses. "It's raising setters and pointers."

She insists that with a little practice, under a competent instructor, the average woman can soon master the art of angling as well as hunting. Last season 315 young and old women fished under her careful eye. Many of the number were taught how to cast their flies and hold a reel properly.

The Man Who Wins

The test of a man is the fight he makes
The grit that he daily shows
The way he stands on his feet and takes
Fate's numerous bumps and blows,
A coward can smile when there's nought to fear,
When nothing his progress bars
But it takes a man to stand up and cheer
While some other fellow stars.
It isn't the victory after all,
But the fight that a brother makes;
The man, who driven against the wall,
Still stands up erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high,
The man who will win in the by and by
For he isn't afraid to fail,
It's the bumps you get and the jolts you get,
And the shocks that your courage stands
The hours of sorrow and vain regret
The prize that escapes your hands.
That test your mettle and prove your worth;
It isn't the blows you deal,
But the blows that you take on this good old earth.
That shows if your stuff is real.

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

he secon destimate of wheat production in the Prairie Provinces for 1934 is two million bushels lower than the prelliminary estimate of 265 million bushels made on September 11th last.

In the Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs' competition at the Royal Winter Fair, Ontario carried off the trophy in the Dairy Cattle project through the Markham Dairy Calf Club, and also the trophy in the Seed project through the Durham County Boys Grain Club.

Why Burn Straw Stacks?

When with the use of suitable chemicals they can be converted into manure, the question, "Why burn straw stacks" is really pertinent. Straw is worth somethng more than as a beddng material, and not the least valuable is its use for the making of artificial manure. The use of 100 pounds of ammonium suplhate and 100 lbs. of lime to each ton of straw, and this thoroughly soaked with water, produces a manure of distinct fertilizer value. From three to six months are required for the organic changes to become effective, and the resultant substance has much of the appearance and practically the same value as barnyard manure.

Grain Class Winners

The Grain Class open to Agricultural Societies at the recent Ottawa Winter Fair resulted in very keen competition among Societies in Eastern Ontario, where the production of high class grain has developed so rapidly in recent years.

The purpose of the competition was to encourage the Society to foster the production of different knds of high class seed grain by its members.

The Renfrew Agricultural Society was awarded first position, with a total of 450 points of a possible 500. The lots of peas, barley, alfalfa and oats each scored over 90 p.c., wheat alone falling slighttly below this high stanard.

The leading Societies were placed as follows:

1st, Renfrew Society, 450 points.
2nd, Pakenham Society, 439 pts.
3rd, Carp Society, 434 points.
4th Vankleek Hill, 422 points.
5th, Drummond Society, 420 pts.

Burning Stubble

When stubble has been burned off and the land again seeded, after a minimum amount of cutivation, the yields of grain have proven this method to be superior to any other treatment. Objections to the burning of stubble are loss of nitrogen, loss of moisture, and some loss of soil ferility; while supporting the practice are weed control, clean crop and convenience.

Potatoes for Poultry

Farming increases in value as an occupation, just in proportion to the extent to which inciental by-products can be markete at a profit. Not only must the farmer sell all his good quality products at a fair price, but he must also find a market for as much as he can of the unsaleable product. It has been found that greater net profits per bird can be made and a finished bird of finer quality and flavor produced through crate-feeding on a ration of equal parts of middlings, rolled oats, boiled potatoes and skim milk, than is the case where corn meal is fed. Potatoes, finely ground or boiled, are proving exceptionally good for finishing poultry, particularly when fed in conjunction with the "white" grains and milk. Crate-fed poultry offers a really attractive market outlet for cull potatoes.

Cod Liver Oil and Cattle

Cod liver oil has never attained a very great prominence in supplementing the rations of the larger farm animals, because the nutrients which it can supply, or help to make available, can be procured almost equally well, and much more cheaply from the ordinary farm live stock feeds, plus a minimum of purchased supplements such as protein feeds and minerals.

There are some occasions, however when cod liver oil constitutes a valuable feed for the larger farm animals. Pigs being grown during the winter months sometimes develop an unthrifty rachitic condition, resulting from an evident deficiency of some of the vital feed elements. Such animals can often be brought into better condition by feeding cod liver oil. If trouble is anticipated, small doses of the oil will probably correct any tendency to a rachitic condition.

Preparing Turkeys

Turkey growers are now beginning to finish or fatten their birds for the Christmas holidays. It is customary to begin the process of preparing he luscious turkeys for the nation's festive dinner tables by feeding them small amounts of grain which gradually are increased until the birds are on full feed. Due to the large supply of wheat available, this grain shoul be used to advantage in the fattening ration. Wheat has nearly the same fattening qualities as corn, but does not produce the rich yellow color of flesh that yellow corn does. It is important, however, that al lgrains be free from moldiness, and that they should be fed in hoppers to counteract certain diseases that cause heavy loss. Do not confine turkeys for fattening, especially if they have been run on a range, for range birds cannot stand confinement.

32 Boys' and Girls' Farm Teams Competed at the Royal Fair

In the annual National Club Contests in connection with the Boys' and Girls' Farm Club movement, 22 club teams of two members each, representing all of the Provinces of the Dominion, competed in several live stock and field crop projects at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, last week. The actual contests were conducted on November 20, and the 64 contestants remained in Toronto until Friday evening, November 30, visiting the Royal Winter Fair and other points of interest, under the direction of the Canadian Council on Boys' and Girls' Club work. These club teams earned the right to compete in Toronto by winning their respective provincial eimination contests.

An unusual feature of these contests was the inclusion of an oral examination with a judging competition to form the complete contest ineach of he projects included in the national contest program. After several years' experience, it is felt that this form of contest provides an opportunity to measure the general ability and knowledge of the contestants, and, in turn, has the effect of encouraging, on the part of all club members, more thorough study of the projects in hand.

Reports for 1934 show a total of 1544 fully organied boys' and girls' farm clubs in Canada, with a total enrolment of 26,700 members. The projects undertaken include a variety of farm activities under the general headings of live stock, poultry, field crops and home economics. The results that are being obtained are significant and it is widely recognized that this junior club work has far-reaching economic and ducational importance.

He leaves to mourn, one daughter Mrs. Wm. Moody, of Parkdale, Oregon; two sons, Clifford and Fay of California; one sister, Mrs. Mary Saddlemire, and one brother, Mr. Ralph Empey, both of Williamsburg.

Burial took place at Portland, Ore.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Several cases were disposed of in police court this week by Magistrate John McCormick, at Winchester. A night session was necessary, in order to receive evidence in some of the cases.

Harry Edgerton, of Chesterville, appeared on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place. He was found guilty, and fined $10 and costs, amounting to $16.50.

Charles Steinbrunner, of Williamsburg township, was found guilty of having in his possession, illegally, one racoon skin. His fine, together with costs, amounted to $11.10.

Abraham St. Pierre, of Winchester township, appeared on a charge of illegally having in his possession the pelts of fur-bearing animals, namely fox, mink and skunks. A second charge of having a deer-skin in his possession illegally, was also read to the accused. He pleaded not guilty to both charges. In his defence, he told the magistrate that he had killed the fox for molesting his chickens, and that the skunks had been killed on his own farm as a further protection to his poultry. The accused stated that the mink had been killed by his dog, and that he had reported all cases to the department of game and fisheries, within ten days, according to law. Magistrate McCormick reserved his decision in this case, pending further study of the law, and a review of the evidence submitted.

Bruce Markell, of Brinston, and James Sipes, of Williamsburg, both pleaded guilty to charges of stealing dishes and other articles from D'Arcy Patrick, on the night of his fire. Markell, who also pleaed guilty to a charge of breaking, entering and stealing a bicycle, the property of Harry Johnston, Williamsburg, was sentence to six months definite and six months indefinite in the Guelph Reformatory. Sipes received a sentence of three months in the counties' jail at Cornwall.

Markell and Sipes were apprehended by Provincial Constable Frank Rose, of Morrisburg.

Voice of the Press

Canada, The Empire and The World at Large

CANADA

EMPIRE FRUIT

Canada this year has imported 100,000 cases of oranges from South Africa — five times as many as in any previous season. This is a very satisfactory volume of business of benefit to both parties, but after all it is only an introuction to the potential market in this Dominion for Empire fruits.—Ottawa Journal.

THE BRITISH WAY

Pride in achievement is a satisfying reward for most of those intangibles which build up the traditions upon which mighty empires have been been founded and upon which a people is cemented. The British race, of course has no need to shout from the housetops or to boast as noisier nations of their accomplishments. They speak for themselves.—Brandon Sun.

IN TIGHT SHOES?

If a woman wishes to be really smart this winter she must wear a colored ring on the small toe of her left foot to match the color of the nail varnish she uses on her fingers. —Yorkshire Telegram.

WONDERFUL, ISN'T IT?

Modern blessings are manifold. Today you can step into your car and go anywhere your wife says, provided your children agree —Aylmer Express.

TEAR DOWN OLD SHACKS

Whlie Cornwall is short of houses of the right size and kind, it has some that it would be better without. There is quite an assortment of decrepit old shacks scattered over the civic landscape—houses in almost the last stages of diintegration, apparently only waiting for the first good wind to flatten them. How they stand up is a mystery.—Cornwall Standard.

REMEMBERED HIS ALMA MATER

In accordance with directions contained in his will the technical library of the late Major J. Mackintosh Bell of Almonte has been dispatched to Kingston where it will be placed in Miller Hall, Queen's University, and will form the nucleus of a library in geology and geography for graduate students to be known as the Mackintosh Bell.—Almonte Gazette.

GANDHI AGAIN

Gandhi, it is said, plans to retire from leadership of the All-India Nationalist Congress, but retirement means little in the Mahatma's sedentary, but somewhat exciting life. Time and again he has been "retired" by the British authorities for preaching civil disobedience, has gone on fast and furious fasts, but has always bobbed up again, full of goat's milk orange juice and the old vim, vigor and vitality.—Border Cities Star.

PUBLIC DEBT

A United States journal, writing on government spendings warns the people that each dollar of new debt incurred by the government is a mortgage on the earnings and property of every citizen. To-morrow, it will be foreclosed in the form of confiscatory increases in the levies on incomes an additional imposts on all commerce. Your home, your means of living, constitute the collateral your government offers. Public debt, mortgages your security and that of your descendants. — Brandon Sun.

MYSTERY OF COLDS

There is no greater service medical science can do mankind than by discovering the germ or whatever it is that causes that most prevailent human ailments, the cold, yet doctors know less about the common cold than about any other of man's ills, with the possible exception of cancer. Almost everybody has at least one cold a year, with consequent discomfort and loss of work. It is estimated that more than half of all the time lost though sickness by employes is due to bad colds. —Sarnia Observer.

RIVIVAL OF CHIVALRY

In a recent issue of the London Times, a report was given of a dinner of Knights of the Round Table Club, when the principal address had for its theme the need of Chairs of Chivalry at the universities The speaker said he had a practical purpose in putting it forward, and the idea was welcomed by the audience. "The Professor of Chivalry the speaker hopefully anticipated, would be an authority on the medieval romances, acquainted with the whole literature of chivalry, but his task would be to revive in the unversities, and through them in the whole country the lost spirit of an earlier age."—Halifax Herald.

GOOD EXCUSE

Dead leaves should be allowed to remain unraked because they enrich the soil, according to a garden expert after our own heart.—From the Sudbury.

SHE" STAY

"Greta Garbo" a Hollywood despatch says, "signed a new contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer today at a reputed salary of $300,000 a picture, and announced that she would not return to Sweden." The last part of the despatch looks like a waste of perfectly good money in telegraph tolls.—Border Cities Star.

THE SPAN OF LIFE

The span of life is enlarging and that includes the span of physically fit life. The forties are undoubtedly a time for beginning cautious living but no man should be turned down for a job because he has turned the fourth decade.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THE BEST

Premier Doumergue of France, is proposing changes in the constitution, which will give the cabinet greater power. The moves are along the lines of the British parliamentary system, which the test of time has proven is the best system of government for man by man yet devised.—London Free Press.

GOLD AND SILVER

The old saying that the yellow races prefer the white metal while the white races prefer the yellow metal holds good. It would be very difficult to wean the Chinese from their affection for silver. The efforts which have been made in India with the same end in view failed conspicuously.— Hamilton Spectator.

A BUSY TOWN

Quite recently, one of our business men was telling us that he had ome work for a young man to do, and had a hard time finding such a person who was unemployed, and finally had to get an older man to do the work. Just at the present time, Tavistock's four major industries are working full time, and in fact, one is working 24 hours a day, and another 10 hours a day, with sometimes two and a half hours overtime, two or three times a week. Show us another village of this size where a young man unemployed is hard to find.—Tavistock Gazette.

COMMON COLDS

Two California professors have challenged existing theories. It is said: "They have not been able, they say, to infect one person with the cold of another. Inoculation will not work, and they doubt very much the theories held almost as household axioms about the disease being highly catching. They think also that germs are a result, not the cause of the disease. Some day presumably we shall know. — Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

THE EMPIRE

THE TOLL OF THE ROADS

Official figures show that the terrible weekly increase in road deaths ceased some time ago. And now for several weeks a downward tendency has set in. But a really successful crusade against road accidents will have to go much deeper. It will have to tackle the whole road system. So long as pedestrians and all kinds of traffic are mingled chaotically together on one road surface Traffic will have to be sorted out properly. That will be a long business of building modern roads with verges and separate tracks for different sorts of traffic. The longer the job the quicker it had better be started.—London Daily Herald.

THE COMMON COLD

The announcement that the executors of the late Sir Henry Royce's estate have in terms of his wishes decided to devote a tenth part of his estate to founding two research fellowships for discovering a cure for the common cold and influenza will be universally welcomed. This is an act of real benevolence which we all hope will triumphantly achieve its purpose, for there are few indeed who are proof against what must be regarded as being both the least and the greatest of human ailments. Even if we ignore the serious consequences of complications that often follow a cold there remin the loss of time and efficiency with which the milder types of infection are inevitably associated.—Glasgow Herald.

INVENTIVE WOMEN

Nearly all the psychologists agree that the feminine mind is quick and instuitave, but always imitative, never inventive, and now, with the example of Mrs. Richardson of Shepherd's Bush, before them, they can guess again, for she has won the first prize at the International Exhibition of Inventions with her device for finding and identifying radio stations. She may puzzle the psychologists, but will surprise nobody who has seen the improvements any woman can make with string, hairpins, match-sticks and other simple tools, on the crude man-made gadgets of her own kitchen. But woman still rocks the cradle by hand. —Manchester Sunday Chronicle.

AWAITING CONQUEST

Britain gained the mastery of the seas not by the multitude of her people, but because of the intrepidity of her navigators. The air is now waiting to be conquered. We should see that we master it just as we controlled the seas. It is not in warships that we have dominated the oceans, but in commerce and ships of commerce. So also in airships of commerce we must make our advance. — London Express.

TIPS

The illogicality of the system of tipping and the desirability of extirpating it are emphasized anew in the volume of "The Survey of London Life and Labor," published today. Nothing would please the public more than to be rid of the practice. It operates unfairly as between man and man, since one person gets tipped and another does not.— London Daily Mail.

BRITISH GUIANA'S PROBLEMS

Houses roofed with gold and streets lined with diamonds were what the early explorers confidently expected to find in British Guiana. But the vision faded and, though a quantity of diamonds and gold has been taken out of the country during the last 400 yrs., British Guiana today is almost as much awaiting development and settlement as it was in Raleigh's ime. As Sir Edward Denham the former Governor, once declared, if the resources and wealth of British Guiana are to be tapped, it can only be by the advent of men and money on a scale to determine the problems of this "undeveloped asset of the British Empire.' Assyria immigration will not solve a title of British Guiana's problems. It may bring some local benefit in the long run, however and may also serve to direct world-wide attention to the vast possibilities of this woefully undeveloped of all Britain's possessions in the neighbourlood of the Caribbean — Trinidad Guardian.

Toronto Surgeons Lengthen Man's Leg

Toronto, Ont.—Orthopedic surgeons at a hospital here are bringing to fruition a test case in which they seek to make the legs normal of a man born with one shorter than the other.

The patient, or clinical subject, is George McKay, 20, whose left leg was three inches shorter than his right when he entered the hospital several weeks ago. He is being subjected to corrective principles evolved eight years ago by a St. Louis orthopedist, in which weights are used to stretch the abnormal leg.

McKay's leg has been stretched two inches in five week, doctors say, It will be normal.

Although the mineral content of honey is very small it is worth noting, says the Dominion Apiarist, that such elements as lime and iron, necesary to the well-being of the human body are present.

Hair-Dyer Loses When Cook Sues

Risks, Says English Judge

London.—Judge Sir Alfred Tobin gave his views on women's hair during the hearing of a case against a hairdresser. "We always heard of grey hairs being treated with respect," he said.

When counsel commented that women did not seem to like it the the judge said: "The most beautiful thing a woman can have is beautiful white hair."

"Burning Sensation

The action was brought by Mrs. Blodwon Gullick 40, a cook in a private house, who claimed $500 damages from a hairdresser or injury to her head by alleged negligent application of a hair dye. She went to the hairdresser to get her hair dyed because it was showing streaks of grey. He applied a solution which caused a burning sensation. A doctor said she was suffering from oedema of the scalp and diffuse erythema—the one a swelling and the other a rash.

Mrs. Guillick was awarded $250 damages with costs, and Judge Tobin said he thought the case was of general importance. He held that it was the hairdresser's duty to warn women of any risks run.

Wear Old Clothes Until Threadbare, Germans Advised

Berlin—Dr. Karl Gordeler, Herr Hitler's new price "dictator," took action against rising prices today, ordering National Socialists to wear their old clothes "down to the last thread" and threatening profiteers with "merciless" treatment.

He told Germany "no one loses one bit of his dignity if he wears threadbare clothes," while "he acts against the nation's interests if he hoards clothing."

In an address explaining his functions as commissar for control of prices. Herr Gordeler criticized the tendency to alarm and spoke reassuringly about the raw materials situation.

He said prices and wages would be maintained at the same level and "every unjustifiable price rise will be mercilessly dealt with."

Declaring his chief duty would be to prevent the rise of prices of necessities he warned manufacturers that they must be content with small profits and instructed merchants to refuse to sell unusual quantities of any commodity.

The surplus of imports over exports was reduced to 52,000,000 marks (approximately $20,800,000) as compared with 161,000,000 marks during the second quarter.

When Experience Didn't Count

A motor car had just knocked down a man, fortunately without injuring him. The young woman driver faced him determinedly.

"I am sorry it happened," she said. "You should take more care when you are walking. I have been driving a car or seven years.

"Well," replied the victim, "I am not a novice myself. I have been walking myself for fifty-seven years."

Car Accident Toll Mounts in Ontario

Toronto.—Automobile accidents in Ontario or the first nine months of 1934 were 9.2 per cent above the same period last year, with the death toll at 360, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways announced recently. The minister declared the figures "clearly indicate that stricter measures must be adopted." These stricter measures be continued would mean increased fines and jail penalties. Increases in the suspension period for licenses of drivers convicted of offence also will appear. 'There were many more cars on the road this year than last," the minister said.

Potato Harvest of 1934

According to the preliminary estimate recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the total production of potatoes in Canada in the year 1934, will be 47,241,000 cwt from 568,800 acres or 83 cwt. per acre, as compared with a revised estimate of 42,745,000 cwt. from 527,700 acres or 81 cwt. per acre in 1933, and 46,017,000 cwt. from 564,000 acres or 82 cwt. per acre, the average for the five years 1928-1932. By provinces the yields in cwt. per acre are, in order as follows, with last year's figures within brackets: New Brunswick 128 (115); Prince Edward Island 120 (100 British Columbia 113 (96); Nova Scotia 112 (91); Quebec 97.7 (101.0); Ontario 69.6 (64.2) Manitoba 50 (63); Alberta 53 (58) and Saskatchewan 31.4 (50.0).

There is an increase of 7.8 per cent in the 1934 potato acreage over that of 1933. In addition the yield per acre in Canada was 2.5 per cent higher in 1934 than in 1933, so that the total production is placed at 10.5 per cent above the 1933 level.

Mary Looks Ahead

Mary Pickford Interviewed by the Kansas City Times

—I had some interesting talks with Marconi," she said, "and he tells me television is much nearer than we think. It's going to be a staggering blow to the movies, but I think they will survive it. It seems certain to bring back the legitimate theatre but for a time at least, there will be a tendency to have all mechanical entertainment played direct to the home.

"I believe there will be perhaps three producing organizations, one of the type of hokum that is just plain moron fodder, one for popular entertainment of a fairly high level and one for things of real artistic worth. I believe each unit will be ample to place receiving sets in your home and that these sets may have meters. You will pay for your entertainment as you pay for long distance telephone bills.

"Probably each unit will have broadcasting stations in the main divisions of the country. This should be a promising thing for the talent of the country."

Heat From Cold Coal

Russian farmers have discovered a way to speed up the ripening of their cotton crops by a month or more. They use coal to warm the cotton plants without burning the coal.

This seeming paradox is being performed at Kazakstan. Obtaining heat from coal without burning is the application of a simple fact of physics that dark colors absorb the heat in the sun's rays better than light colors.

The Kazakstan farmers simply spread coal dust lightly over their fields; about one hundred pounds to an acre. The darkened surface of the land is a better absorber of heat during the day and reradiates more of it as warmth during the night.

The higher average temperature of the land during the growing season, therefore, shortens the time necessary for the crop to mature by over a month.—Science.

Scientifically Raised Twins Not At All Alike in Foot Tricks

Judging by the experiences of Johnny and Jimmy, twins who are growing up in a scientific playroom in New York, the right age to take up roller skating is about seven months.

Johnny was a good roller skater about the time he was celebrating his first birthday. Jimmy confined himself to more natural courses concerning roller skates, such as biting them, until he was 2 months old. Then he tried to use the skates or getting around, but his efforts cost him a great series of ingenious spills, and two months of application brought little progress.

What scientific observers want to know is wheher the highly trained Johnny had any real advantage over Jimmy, who just grew up like Topsy while his little brother was learning a series of astounding feats. Johnny seems no brighter at solving problems the pair are made to work out in their play, and when they started even at riding the tricycle. Jimmy learned to pedal like a champion of the six-day meets while his precocious brother was still crying for his skates.

$26,000,000 Revenue Gain

Canada's Earnings For Seven Months Soar; More Also Spent

Ottawa—Recovery of business is reflected in the Dominion revenue statement for the first seven months of the fiscal year. Total ordinary revenue shows an increase of $26,000,000 for the period April to October, inclusive.

The big producer was the sales tax, which, with excise taxes, yielded $63,863,000 since April 1, or $8,000,000 more than the corresponding period last year.

Customs revenue, totalling $45,000,000 was $9,000,000 ahead of last year, excise duties totalling $26,000,000 were $5,000,000 up, income taxation yielded $49,404,000 and $1,000,000 better than last year, while the gold tax thus far has brought in $3,873,145.

Ordinary expenditure for the first seven months of the fiscal year was $11,000,000 more than in the like period of 1933, $5,000,000 of which was accounted for by increased interest on the public debt and $2,500,000 for old age pensions.

Loans and advances to provincial governments so far this year have totalled $23,862,558. Unemployment relief for the seven months under review totalled nearly $23,000,000, or nearly $6,000,000 more than in the corresponding period of last year.

No 'Plane Allowed On Coat-of-Arms

Airplanes Are Not Heraldic, Say Noted Authorities

London—"Airplanes are unknown in heraldry." That is the official reason why the Duke of Bedford cannot honor his wife, the "Flying Duchess," in a new coat-of-arms.

The duke had prepared a new armorial shield. One of the quarterings showed an airplane. But the Herald's College, final authority in such matters, said "No."

Never since the days of chivalry had any coat-of-arms borne a flying machine. So airplanes are barred.

"I wonder what today's knights and dames of the air will think of that," says the duke.

He has hung the shield he had prepared for the duchess among all the other coats-of-arms among all duchesses which blazon the walls of Woburn Abbey.

The present duchess was the only one who did not bring a coat-of-arms to the Duchy of Bedford when she married.

She was Mary du Caurroy Tribe, daughter of Archdeacon Tribe of Lahore.

But since she became world famous by reason of her flying exploits in all parts of the globe, the duke—in true line with the spirit of chivalry — determined to commemorate her deeds for their descendants by a coat-of-arms. He has failed.

INDIAN SUMMER

Do you know the origin of "Indian Summer?

Funk and Wagnalls New Standard Dictionary describes Indian Summer as "a period of mild weather occurring in the autumn, with hazy atmosphere usually along the horizon, and a clear sky." Indian Summer is a term usually applied to any period of exceptionally fine weather occurring during October or November, but the weight of authority seems to place it in November. It is impossible to define it by exact dates. This short period of warm or mild autumn weather is characterized by an almost cloudless sky, a hazy or a smoky atmosphere, and a temperature which is mild in the daytime, but cool at night. It is preceded by "Squaw Winter"—a cold spell when the thermometer first dips below the freezing point. The name is of American origin, but is now used also in Great Britain and corresponds to the British St. Martin's Summer (St. Martin's Day being November 11) when the period occurs in November, and to St. Luke's Summer, or Little Summer of St. Luke (St. Luke's Day being October 18) when it occurs in October. In Germany it is known as "Old Woman's Summer." There is no foundation for the popular belief that the Indian Summer weather was predicted by the American Indians in conversation with the first European settlers, or for the legend that the term "Indian Summer" was employed by the early settlers at all. Neither this term or anything corresponding to it is to be found in any Indian language.

HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT

Do you know the author and complete nursery rhyme "The House That Jack Built?"

Nobody knows who originated the rhyming story called "The House that Jack Built." It is described by the Funk and Wagnalls New Standard Dictionary as "an old English nursery story told in cumulative form, every preceding statement being repeated with the introduction of each new one. Similar tales occur in the Hebrew, among the native tribes of Africa, etc." Following is the nursery tale: "This is the house that Jack built. This is the malt that lay in the house that Jack built. This is the rat that ate the malt that lay in the house hat Jack built. This is the cat that killed the rat that ate the malt that lay in the house that Jack built. This is the dog that worried the cat that killed the rat that ate the malt that lay in the house that Jack built. This is the cow with the crumpled horn that tossed the dog that worried the cat that killed the rat that ate the malt that lay in the house that Jack built. This is the maiden all forlorn that milked the cow with the crumpled horn that tossed the dog that worried the cat that killed the rat that ate the malt that lay in the house that Jack built. This is the man all tattered and torn, that kissed the maiden all forlorn, that milked the cow with the crumpled horn, that tossed the dog that worried the cat that killed the rat that ate the malt that lay in the house that Jack built.

SPIRIT OF CANADA

Special Day to Each Province Feature at Royal Winter Fair.

Each Canadian province is celebrated at the Royal Winter Fair by a "day" specially dedicated to showing its products and exhibits. This linking of all Canada through common interests in agriculture and nationality was instituted at the first Fair in 1922 and has been continued uninterruptedly ever since. It catches "the spirit of Canada."

The days with their mottoes are:

Wednesday, Nov. 21—"All Canada Day, also Children's Day.

Thursday, Nov. 22—British Columbia, "Our only Pacific Province."

Friday, Nov 23—Maritime Day, jointly, "The three Atlantic provinces."

Saturday, Nov. 24—Quebec Day, "Quaint French-Canada."

Monday, Nov. 26—Alberta Day, "Rugged as the Rockies."

Tuesday, Nov. 27—Manitoba Day, "First of the Prairie Provinces."

Wednesday, Nov. 28 — Saskatchewan Day, "Golden West of Wheat."

Thursday, Nov. 29—Ontario Day, "Last but not least."

"Provincial days are observed," says Colonel Harry McGee, President of the Fair, "because they continue the policy of the Royal Fair, of promoting agriculture and fostering a spirit of broad Canadianism. The increasing interest being given by all the provinces to this feature is a matter of much satisfaction.

"Canadian Day, the first day of the Fair, is devoted to showing broadly and nationally the essential unity of Canadian farm interests from coast to coast. The above mentioned Fair days are devoted to focusing public attention on special features of one or other of the provinces."

"In this way," Colonel McGee added, "every province and locality receives from it benefits otherwise unobtainable for it is an axiom that all local agricultural effort logically leads upward to the Royal; and, just as logically, the influence and benefits of the Royal flow outward to the nine provinces and to their regional subdivisions."

Newspapers Used For Saturday Night Bath

Newspapers have a variety of uses besides furnishing news and helping the manufacturer dipose of his products through advertising. In many countries they are used extensively for wrapping parcels, while in Mexico they furnish fuel for the Saturday night bath. Water is heated in cylindrical wood-burning water heaters which have a small storage capacity and fuel ranges from old newspapers to wood kindling. Cooking is done generally over charcoal burners, which is practically the only cooking stove used by the poorer classes, while practically all of the homes of the higher-income classes are equipped with grates for charcoal fires. There is no use of coal for domestic purposes and wood is only employed in open fireplaces and water heaters, and, therefore, coal and wood stoves are unknown except in the area near the American border. Oil stoves are coming into greater use in recent years, the Mexican Government endeavoring to change the cooking and heating methods of the people in order to conserve the forests which have suffered serious depletion as a result of the tremendous consumption of charcoal. Electrical stoves, ovens and other heating appliances are used only by the more wealthy classes.

RETURN TO SCENES OF WAR TIME

British Members of Hospital Units in Serbia Re-Visit Country Where They Were on "Active Service"

Three British ex-V.A.D.'s, who served in Serbia (now part of Yugoslavia) during the war and after the Armistice, returned recently after 12 years' absence, on a pilgrimage to see the places and people they knew on service. The visitors were Miss Vera Holme, from Birkdale, near Liverpool; Miss Margaret Greenlees and Miss Margaret Ker, from Scotland.

Both Miss Holme and Miss Greenlees were members of the Scottish Women's Hospital Units on active service during the War and after the Armistice, both in Serbia and on the Salonika front. Miss Ker took part in relief work in Serbia after the war.

All three left Belgrade for the last time in 1922, when their relief work came to an end. But they compacted to return together some day, and this year the opportunity came. It was before the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia in Marseilles.

ROADS CHANGED.

Miss Holme, who was an ambulance and lorry driver on the Balkan and Bessarabian fronts from early 1915 until late 1917, said her first impression on re-visiting Belgrade was the changed condition of the roads.

"Those war-time roads!" she exclaimed. "When we were here practically no roads existed such as you have today—just tracks in the mud. Sometimes we were stuck all night in the mud, miles from anywhere. Sometimes the roads were so bad and full of holes, one actually tried the open country instead. Do you remember those roads, Margaret Greenlees? ..... And now today, the roads everywhere are fine, modern ones, and Belgrade is simply unrecognizable for new buildings."

SERBIA'S PART

"We love Serbia," declared Miss Holme, "and that is why we have come back. Somehow many people in England seem to have forgotten all about Serbia and the brave, gallant things she did in the war. But we have not forgotten.

"Not everybody remembers either today what British women did out here. Some thousands of British women must have served on the Serbian fronts during the war. Figures like Dr. Elsie Inglis, Lady Berry, the Hon. Evelyn Haverfield — all of whom are dead now—and Dr. Emslie-Hutton, and Dr. Katherine plish this purpose. Every drivers' licensing law, moreover, might well require that a record of any convictions of the licensee for unsafe driving be written on his card. This record need not be presented in court, but it does afford pertinent information to a traffic officer and will result in greater certainty of reporting habitual offenders to the licensing authorities. Now it may be that some of these persons are not willful offlenders but merely incompetent drivers. That distinction does not lessen the damage they may inflict. Such persons should resolve either to improve their driving or else forego that privilege. For driving is a privilege, and should be treated as such.

U.S. Newspaper Advertising Gains in September

Chicago—An increase in retail advertising of nearly 5,000,000 lines was the big feature of September in the newspaper advertising field, an analyisis by Advertising Age of figures based on advertising activity in 77 cities reveals.

The total volume of advertising in the newspapers compared in September was 135,068,000 lines, a gain of 4,132,000 compared with the corresponding month of last year. But classified, which gained over 1,100,000 lines, another reflection of increased business activity, was the only classification besides retail to show a gain.

General advertising declined slightly to 23,000,000 lines, the loss being less than 1 per cent., however. Automotive advertising, which made a big increase in August, was off 10.5 per cent., the total for September being 6,527,000 lines. Financial was also slightly below last year with a total of 1,860,000 lines, a decrease of 5.5 per cent.

Reggie McNamara, the ageless wonder of the 6-day bike-race world climbs aboard his velocipede next week at Madison Square Garden, New York, to start his 113th contest of this type. Reggie is a grizzled veteran, but bears his 51 years more lightly than many of his rivals who are half his age and less.

Some of his more serious wounds, sustained during the 30 years of his professional career, are 11 fractures of the collar bone, 3 broken ribs, fractures of the skull, nose, jaw, both arms and one leg. He's been in and out of hospitals so much that he married a hospital nurse.

Reggie has finished in 1st place 16 times, 2nd 11 times, 3rd 16 times, 4th 12 times.

"They'll have to build them faster and stronger," he says, "or they won't ride me off the saucer until I'm 60".

Montreal Canadiens finally crashed the win column in the N.H.L. on Tuesday, when they triumphed over Lester Patrick's New York Rangers, in Madison Square Gardens, and intend to keep right on crashing till they make up for those 4 straight losses which they sustained in their first 4 games. They will have plenty of chance to bear out their intentions on Saturday, when they meet their old enemies, the Boston Bruins. The boys from Bean Town have made a much better showing this year than last, and are in 2nd place in their section standing. Georges Mantha, injured Canadien wingman, may see some action, but he will be used sparingly, if at all.

Other games in the N.H.L. tomorrow are as follows: St. Louis at Toronto and Montreal at Rangers. are favored to win these games, but the blue-shirted Rangers may spring a surprise win. They have recently moved their old war-horse, Bill Cook, back to the forward line with brother Bun, and Frank Boucher. This leaves the Patrick clan short on the defense, but Lester expects to sign another rearguard shortly.

To the Electors of the Township of Williamsburg.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

On Monday, Dec. 3rd, you will go to the polls to cast your vote to elect the men who will represent you on our Municipal Council for 1935. Having decided to stand for Councillor, my name will appear on the ballot, and if you see fit to elect me, I shall do all in my power for the benefit of all concerned.

I thank you in anticipation of your vote and influence.

ROSS HESS.

Williamsburg, Nov. 30th, 1934.

ELECTION CARDS

To the Electors of the Village of Morrisburg.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I take this opportunity of again expressing my appreciation of the splendid majority you gave me last year, and trust that my services during the year have been such as to warrant your confidence in me as Councillor for another year.

Yours truly,
WM. R. ROACH.

Nov. 30th, 1934.

To the Electors of the Village of Morrisburg.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Your vote and influence are respectfully solicited for Arnold M. Jarvis for Councillor for 1935, on Monday Dec. 3. I have served on the Morrisburg Council during the year 1933. If elected, I will strive to see that the welfare of our village will be fully protected. I also stand for the economical management of all civic affairs, and I am a true friend of the working man.

My name appears 4th on the ballot paper.

ARNOLD M. JARVIS.
Morrisburg, Ont.,
Nov. 29th, 1934.

To the Electors of the Village of Morrisburg.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I will appreciate your support on Monday, 3 December, in the election of Councillors for the year 1935.

Yours sincerely,
F.H. BRODER.

To the Electors of the Township of Williamsburg.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

For a number of years I have represented you on our Municipal Council, in the capacities of Councillor, Deputy Reeve and Reeve.

During these years, matters of great importance, as well as of minor importance, have had to be dealt with, both in our local council and at the Counties' Council. In dealing with all these matters, I have always tried to be fair to my colleagues, and to the other municipalities comprising the United Counties, but in solving all our problems, I have, first, last and always, taken into consideration the good or bad effect such matters might have on the people of our own municipality.

In this manner, I have endeavoured to manifest my interest, as well as my appreciation of the confidence you have placed in me during these past years.

If, on December 3rd, you re-elect me as Reeve of our Township for another year, I shall continue to put forth every effort for the bettering of conditions for the people of our Township. Should you, however, decide to the contrary, I shall abide by your decision, without the least feeling of resentment against anyone whomsoever.

E.A. VANALLEN.

Williamsburg, Ont.,
November 30th, 1934.

To the Electors of the Township of Williamsburg.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having been urged by a large number of ratepayers to allow my name to appear on the ballot as a candidate for the office of Deputy Reeve, I take this means of soliciting your votes and influence in the election being held on Dec. 3rd. Having served you before as Councillor and Deputy Reeve, I again ask you for your support, and if elected, I will work for the best interest of the whole Township.

Your obedient servant,

E. MATTHEW BECKSTED.
Friday, Nov. 30, 1934.

To the Electors of the Township of Williamsburg.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

On Monday, December 3rd, you will be called upon to elect your Municipal Council for 1935. I have already served you as Councillor for three consecutive years and if you feel that my services have been such as to warrant your confidence and support for another year, I shall manifest my appreciation by serving you to the best of my ability, as I have done in the past.

I thank you for your past confidence, and solicit your vote and influence on Monday next.

G.C. McKENZIE.
