UNITED CHURCH HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

One of the most successful Annual Meetings in the history of the United Church was held last Wednesday evening in the Assembly Hall of the Church. Some 200 people sat down to the fine supper which was served free of charge by the Ladies Aid. An indication of the fine spirit of co-operation was that the Young People washed the dishes and cleaned up after the supper.

A sing song was enjoyed and after that the shadows of several people were thrown on the screen while the othrrs guessed who they were. The Men's Quartette composed of Messrs Epplett, Casselman, Allison and Coons, sang two numbers and Mr. J. Johnson contributed two solos.

Dr. C. A. Louden was appointed Secretary.

Reports of all Church organizations were given by their presiding officers and all could be summed up in the remarks of the chairman, Rev. R. D. Smith, when he said: "Steady growth in all departments of Church Work." General account showed a small surplus and an increase of 15 per cent. in Missionary givings was noted. Considerable interest was added to the meeting by the reports of the Junior organizations. Explorer Group by Gordon Louden; Mission Band, by Elsie Murdoch; Trail Ranger by Billy Coons, and C.G.I.T. by Patricia Cochrane.

Resolutions of appreciation were adopted as follows:: To the Ladies and Young People for their part in supper; to Mr. C. Beckstead, and to Rev. R. D. Smith for his services as Minister of the Congregation.

Four were elected to the Board of Stewards to fill the vacancies created by the retirement of four this year. They were, W. P. Allison, Morley Beckstead, B. L. Carr, J. H. Wiggins.

The following resolution was carried upon motion of W. P. Allison and seconded by F. H. Broder: "That this Annual Meeting of the United Church of Canada, Morrisburg, Ontario, express its appreciation of the kindness and co-operation of the Leader Publishing Company in giving publicity to the various activities of the church."

MR. EDMUND C. MERKLEY

One of the best known residents of the community, who after many years of successful farming in Williamsburg, was engaged in a shoe business in Morrisburg, Mr,. Edmund C. Merkley, passed quietly to eternal rest at the dawn of Saturday morning, in his 79th year.

Since his wife's death, three years ago, Mr. Merkley has lived with his sisters, on Church street, and it was there he suffered a stroke of paralysis, from the effects of which he passed away less than a week later.

The funeral service was held at the home of his sisters Monday afternoon. His pastor, Rev.S. Gartung, spoke words of comfort from Titus 1-2 linked with hymn 509 from the Lutheran Common Service Book.

MR. WM. COIR

Mr. Wm. Coir, son of the late Mr. Wm, Coir, son of the late Jas. Coir and his wife Elmira Hutt, native of Mariatown, known as Morrisburg's leading butcher for more than forty years, died at his home, Main street, on Tuesday, Jan. 19th, in his 71st year.

Early in life, the late Mr,. Coir was engaged for several years in the butcher business with the late Fred Jones, after which he established a successful business of his own in which he had been active until seven years ago, when the ill effects of a paralytic stroke forced him to retire. While able to be around, deceased had not enjoyed good health since, but was confined to his room less than a month preceeding his death.

Well and favorably known throughout Dundas County, the late Mr. Coir took a keen interest in public matters pertaining to the advancement of the community, having been a member of the Morrisburg Council for eleven years.

He is survived by his widow, who before her marriage was Miss Ida Empey. He is also survived by three sons, Charles of Winnipeg, Harry and William of Morrisburg, and one daughter, Mrs. Earl Crobar of Morrisburg, and eleven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral is being held today (Friday) from his late home to St. James Church, at 2 p.m., where Rev. S. B. Holmes will conduct the service, after which the remains will be laid to rest in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

The floral offerings included: Basket cut flowers from the employees of St. Lawrence Bakery; spray, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hutt and Miss Fannie Pickering, Montreal; spray from the Crobar grandchildren; pillow from the Family; spray, Mrs,. Etta Cassel and Family spray, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Duvall; spray, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Empey, Montreal.

DIED

As we go to press we learn of the death of Miss Winona Beckstead, daughter of Mr, and Mrs,. Ross Beckstead, Aultsville, who passed away on Thursday, Jan, 21. Funeral at United Church, Aultsville on Jan,. 23 at 2 p.m.

WANT INCOME TAX REVENUES REVERTED TO INDIGENTS

Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry united counties at the January session held in Cornwall this week, approved a memorial to the Ontario government, requesting the minister of welfare, Hon. David Croll, to study the possibility and feasibility of paying the full cost of hospitalization of indigents out of revenues raised by additional provincial income tax. The same memorial contains council's endorsements of the Ontario government's plan to pay the full cost of mothers' allowances and the province's share of old age pensions out of the income tax.

Council referred to committee an important and contentious resolution, which would petition the Ontario government to amend the Municipal Act to provide (a) that property qualifications of owner-voters in municipal elections be increased; (b) that a minimum rental be fixed for qualification of tenant-voters; (c) that tenant-voters be disfranchised for arrears of rentals; (d) that relief recipients be disfranchised; (e) that nominators and seconders at municipal nomination meetings should have qualifications equal to those of the person nominated.

New Warden.

Election of John Roger McLachlan to the wardenship was unanimous. A. A. McKinnon, reeve of Kenyon, and E. A. MacGillivray, reeve of Alexandria, were also nominated for the office, but withdrew their names in favor of Mr. McLachlan. Mr. McLachlan succeeds Arthur Flynn, reeve of Morrisburg.

A native of Lancaster village where his father was for many years a prominent merchant, Mr. McLachlan is 55 years of age. He operated a general store in Lancaster up to the time of his retirement in 1928. He farmed in early life and is still keenly interested in agriculture.

Mr. McLachlan entered municipal life during the Great War serving three terms as councillor and three as reeve. He returned in 1927 as reeve and has held the office since. He was chairman of the finance committee of Counties Council in 1936, and served several years ago as chairman of the equalization of assessment committee. He is a member of the board of trustees of St. Lawrence Sanatorium. His interest in agriculture was intensified by three terms as a director of the Ontario Agricultural Council.

MINISTERS FORM ASSOCIATION

The Ministerial Association of Morrisburg and Williamsburg was brought into being last Tuesday morning. Ministers of Church of England, Lutheran, Presbyterian and United Churches were present. Rev. J. Burkholder was appointed chairman and Rev. R. D. Smith was elected Sec'y-Treas. The meeting was held in Knox Presbyterian Manse. The Association will meet monthly on the third Tuesday,. Rev. S. B. Holmes read a most interesting paper on "The Church and the World." There followed a splendid discussion on the methods of Church Finance.

The next meeting will be held in the United Church Parsonage.

ROBERT W. MORROW

Robert Wellington Morrow, prominent farmer of Winchester Springs, and highly regarded church worker and fraternity brother in the community, dropped dead Sunday afternoon just as he stepped from his automobile after returning from visiting friends in Morrisburg.

Deceased was born at Winchester Springs, 75 years ago, son of the late Samuel Morrow and Nancy Johnston.

In 1893 he married Edith Oretta Baker who survives. Mr. Morrow lived all his life in Winchester Springs and was a life member of Knox Presbyterian church where he was a member of the board of managers. He was also a charter member of L.O.L. 580 and past master of the lodge. He had also served on many township committees

Surviving are seven sons, William S., Ernest J., Ross R., John R. and Charles Morrow, all of Winchester Springs; Johnston W. of Stittsville; Donald H,. Morrow of Nepean High School, Westboro; six sisters, Mrs. Martha Baker, Toronto; Mrs. Esther Baker, Winchester; Mrs. James Maxwell, Calgary; Mrs. Lowery Scott, Riverside, Cal.; Mrs. Margaret Irving, Los Angeles; Mrs. George Merkley, Nation Valley.

The funeral was held from his home at Winchester Springs on Tuesday at 2.30 p.m. for service at Knox Presbyterian church, Winchester Springs. Interment took place in Maple Ridge cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE THOMPSON

The death of Mrs. George Thompson occurred early on Sunday at a Brockville hospital following a long illness. She was the former Catherine Ann Bush and was born at Rowena, near Iroquois, 58 years ago.

She is survived by her husband: two sons, Ralph of Edmonton and Foster of Ottawa; one daughter, Mrs. J. Johnston of Picton; two step-daughters, Mrs. Samuel Johnston, Dundela, and Mrs. Harold Pendergast, Cornwall; two sisters, R. B. Pfeffer, Grand Rapids, Mich., Mrs. C. G. Johnson, Kemptville, and one brother, James Bush, Luscar, Alta. The funeral was held Tuesday at Brinston. The remains were placed in the vault

STAR RUBY

By Louise Jerrold

Albertine Tevans, a department store salesgirl, falls in love with Dennis Maxwell, jewelry salesman, but is worried by a rumor that he has got into some sort of trouble with his firm. Out of a clear sky, her rich great-aunt Celia Tevans, whom she has never seen, invites her for a visit. The night before she is to leave, Dennis acts very mysteriously, then thrusts a star ruby into her hand, and bolts. The next day she arrives at her aunt's estate to find two other guests—Countess Yelena Loupakoff and her brother, Count Michael. There seems to be tension in the air, and Aunt Celia's houseman and chauffeur, Bates, who always wears dark glasses, gives Albertine the creeps.

CHAPTER V.

At four o'clock, Bates served tea. And shortly afterwards, Aunt Ceila took Albertine off to rest before dinner.

Too excited to sleep, Albertine curled up on her bed and reviewed the past few hours. Michael was fascinating, but not so nice as Denny, she thought loyally. Yelena was only pretending to like her. Well, she could live happily without the Countess liking her, she decided. Aunt Ceila was an old darling. How silly it had been to be afraid of her!

She dressed leisurely for dinner. A rose-colored chiffon with a softly blurred pattern of flowers was vastly becoming. She studied her reflection in the mirror. She would wear it again some time for Denny . . . .

A knock at the door startled her. Aunt Ceila entered, rustling in black silk. A choker of diamonds and emeralds replaced the white net, boned collar that she had worn during the day. She was holding a short pearl necklace, and Albertine noticed that more diamonds and emeralds flashed from her thin fingers.

"I want you to have these pearls" she said abruptly.

Albertine was amazed. "Oh—you shouldn't—"

"Pearls," Aunt Ceila interrupted, "should be worn only while one's skin is smooth and white. What good are they to me, now that I'm wrinkled as an old apple?"

She fastened them about her niece's throat. Albertine looked at them in the mirror.

"Pearls," she breathed. "Real pearls!"

She turned, threw her arms about her aunt, and kissed her.

"I love you, Aunt Ceila," she whispered.

Three softly struck gongs sounded from below. "Dinner," said Aunt Celia, wiping her eyes vigorously.

They found Yelena and Michael already in the drawing room, Yelena in blue satin, with a necklace of large sapphires sparkling from her white throat. Michael looked handsomer than ever in dinner clothes.

The Countess seemed to have regained her good humor. She was very gay during dinner. It was Michael who spoke, in sad reminiscence, of their childhood days in Russia, of their lost estates. They were fortunate not to be penniless, as were so many of the Russian nobility.

"And things wouldn't be so bad with us as they are if I hadn't been reckless," Yelena admitted charmingly. "Your American stock market seemed such a good place to recoup our fortune. And we has so many—what you call tips—from our friends in Paris."

"Well," Aunt Ceila contributed with satisfaction, "as I told you in New York, stock market crashes and bank failures can never affect my investments. Jewels are the only safe investment.'

"You are so very, very wise, my friend," Yelena purred. "And Albertine here is so clever, too. Imagine, Michael, this child has been supporting herself. What is it that you do?"

"I stand behind a counter from 9 in the morning until 5.30 at night, selling hosiery," Albertine said.

"But Albertine's working days are over,' Aunt Celia remarked. "Everything I possess will be hers—probably shortly. And until then, she will make her home with me."

Albertine's eyes misted. She reached out and laid a hand on her aunt's, but said nothing.

After coffee in the drawing-room, Yelena said she had letters to write, and Aunt Celia left Michael to amuse himself while she took Albertine up to her suite, saying she had something to show her.

She led the girl into the bed-room and opened a small wall safe. Her hands, with the flashing jewels, trmebled as she took out a leather case and laid it on the bed.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE ALWAYS A FAVORITE

According to movie titles "The Devil Is A Sissy" and according to recipe titles, he is a "cake eater" All of which would lend us to believe that he is not the rough, tough and nasty guy we have always thought. However, we heartily approve of his taste in cake because there are few humans who don't love Devil's Food Cake.

This is a particularly good family cake because children love the flavour and it is really good for them. It is not too heavy and besides the nourishing ingredients such as butter, sugar and eggs which go into it, there is rich, energy-building chocolate which every child loves.

There is one very important point about making this cake and it should be considered first of all. That is the kind of cake flour to be used. Just any flour will not turn out the kind of Devil's Food Cake you dream about. Nor will the addition of corn starch or potato flour do the trick. Your cake is a success or failure when you purchase the flour. And to make it a success — use only the finest cake flour on the market. Years have been spent to perfect it —it has been ground and re-ground to just the right etxture for use in cake-making.

2¾ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2-3 cups butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs, well beaten
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted.
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add bakgether three times Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well; then chocolate and beat until smooth. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (350 degrees F) 30 minutes, or until done.

If you want a plain frosting, spread Seven Minute frosting between layers and on top and sides of cake. To dress up the frosting a bit, fold in 1 cup quartered marshmallows Seven Minute frosting before spreading, or sprinkle 1 can coconut, southern style, over the plain frosting while it is still soft.

There is a grand filling for Devil's Food Cake, which further makes it even more popular than before. Try this Raisin Nut Filling and note the fast disappearance of the cake.

¾ cup brown sugar firmly packed
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup water
¾ cup broken walnut meats, toasted
¾ cup cup seeded raisins
2 tablespoons cream or rich milk (about)

Heat sugar, butter, and water in skillet, and cook until a small amount of mixture forms a soft ball in cold water (326 degrees F.). Remove from fire; add nuts and raisins. Add cream until of right consistency to spread. Makes enough filling to spread between two 9-inch layers.

A FISH TIP

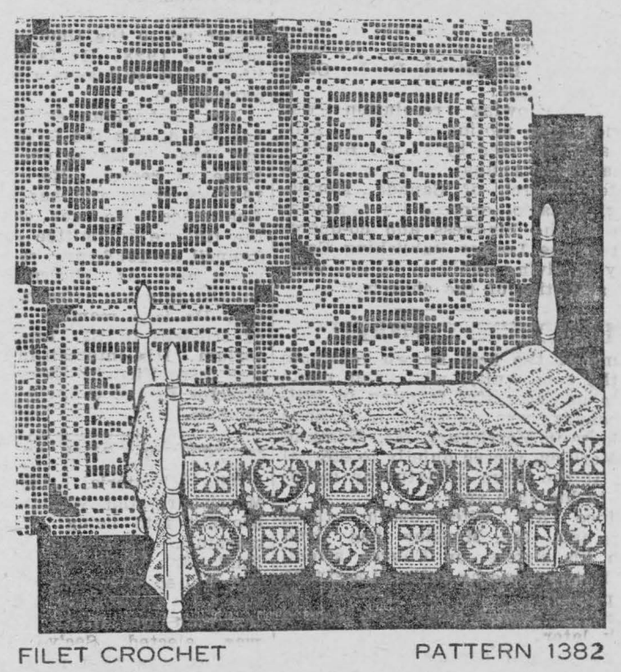
Good-sized fish, that is, fish weighing four to five pounds, are usually baked. The secret of baking fish so it is tasty lies in getting the fish done. Actually the same rules apply to baking fish as to roasting meat. The fish may be spread out in the pan, flesh side up, and baked in a very hot oven with sufficient fat to flavor well A fish of large size, however, is especially delicious if its cavity is filled with a stuffing before it is baked.

Whether the fish is stuffed or not, the same principles apply in its baking as in the roasting of meat; that is, the heat of a quick, hot oven sears the flesh, keeps in the juices, and prevents the loss of flavor Often in the baking of fish it is necessary to add fat. This may be done by putting fat of some kind into the pan with the fish, by spreading strips of bacon over the fish, or by larding it.

Clean the fish thoroughly, bone if desired, and sprinkle it inside and out with salt If stuffing is to be used fill with desired stuffing and sew up. Place in a dripping pan and add some bacon fat or a piece of salt pork, or place several slices of bacon around it. Bake in a hot oven for about one hour. After it has been in the oven for about 15 minutes, baste with the fat that will be found in the bottom of the pan and continue to baste every 10 minutes until the fish is well done. Remove from the pan to platter, garnish with parsley and slices of lemon and serve plain or with any desired sauce.

Superb Spread of Simple Crochet Delights Laura Wheeler Fans



FILET CROCHET PATTERN 1382

Every woman covets lovely lace accessories, yet little realizes how easily she can make them herself! Two stunning squares of filet crochet, repeated, form this luxurious spread. ## Women and Newspapers

Observes the Sudbury Star — Recently a Florida newspaper offered a year's subscription for the best answer to the question: "Why is a woman like a newspaper?" Here are a few of the answers that were sent in:

"Because you can't believe anything they say."

"Because they are thinner now than they used to be."

"Because they are easy to read."

"Because they are well worth looking over."

"Because back numbers are not usually worth what they cost."

"Because they always have the last word."

"Because they carry the news wherever they go."

But the one that copped the subscription was: "Because every man should have one of his own and not run after his neighbour's."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

The Oil Lantern Goes

The Illinois commerce commision has ordered therailroads to abolish the old oil-burning lanterns which, for nearly a century, have been carried by railway trainmen. In their stead the railways must supply battery-operated electric lanterns.

The old lanterns were inefficient and unreliable. The flame might be extinguished by a high wind. In extremely cold weather the wick refused to draw. Smoke and soot would darken the globe. A dropped lantern might start a fire. Trainmen had to run the risk of using them around tank cars and other cars containing highly volatile fluids.—Chicago Daily News.

Notable Food Discovery Results From Husband's Concern

Custard Powder and Baking Powder Invented 100 Years Ago

In 1837, the year of Queen Victoria's Accession, a young English Scientist, Mr. Alfred Bird, F.C.S., successfully carried out a period of study and experimentation, culminating with his discovery of the first Custard Powder. About the same time he further revolutionized the World of Cooking by creating a Baking Powder. It is a matter of record that both of these developments sprang from Mr. Bird's anxiety to apply his knowledge and skill for the benefit of his delicate wife, who could not digest certain foods.

Now after 100 years, the grandson of that young inventor heads the largest undertaking of its kind in the World, and Products bearing the famous family name are now sold throughout the civilized world.

It is a striking and happy coincidence that Sir Robert Bird, Bart, M.P., should celebrate in this Coronation year the Centenary of a family concern which was founded in the first year of Queen Victoria's reign.

Need Great Men

There never was a time in the world's history, probably, when there was a graver need for great men, than there is today. Important events are transpiring today which will shape the destinies of every nation on earth. New thought in the matter of government, economic control, religion and most other departments of human activity, are appearing on the horizon, demanding the judgment of the best minds that the world can produce. The masses look to their leaders for competent guidance, and this is the task of great men.

Which recalls the words of Matthew Arnold, who in defining the great men of culture stated they are "those who have a passion for diffusing, for making prevail, for carrying from one end of society to the other, the best knowledge, the best ideas of their time; who have labored to divest knowledge of all that was harsh, uncouth, difficult, abstract, professional, exclusive; to humanize it, to make it efficient outside the clique of the cultivated and learned, yet still remaining the best knowledge and thought of the time."—Chatham News.

Cost of Carelessness

In the first eleven months of this year, statistics show, the use of motor vehicles in this province increased 7.6 per cent., the number of traffic accidents increased 10 per cent., the number of persons injured in accidents increased 27.5 per cent. and the property damage was up 33.3 per cent. Eighty-four persons were killed in these eleven months, against eighty-two in the same period in 1935, and the record of death has been at least maintained in December. Accident, injury, damage are up far out of proportion to the increase in motor traffic.—Vancouver Province.

Mrs. Simpson

No matter what turn events may take, Mrs. Wallis Simpson remains a public figure for life. Down the years she is bound to crop up in the news and is almost certain to find a place in history Future historians may appraise this place, future novelists and playwrights may clothe her as a romantic figure ranking with the glamorous women of the ages for whom men laid down their worldly possessions if not their souls. Most of us in Canada know little about Mrs. Simpson except what we have found out from reading. Reports from across the Atlantic suggest an intense hatred for her on the part of certain people there who feel that she has been a siren who has lured a king from his duty and carried a throne close to the rocks. But one hears little of that in Western Canada. After all, what woman might not have her head turned by attention that appears to run to adoration from one who was the most popular king and one of the most popular and sought-after men in the world?—Regina Leader-Post.

The Good They Do

Cost of maintaining legations abroad is negligible compared to the benefits which can be achieved. They are well worth the expenditures, if only to promote more friendly relations; but there are also the concrete benefits in the way of increased trade to be considered. For some time there has been talk of a trade agreement between Canada and Belgium, and setting up a legation at Ottawa should help to pave the way.—Windsor Star.

"What Is Needed"

. . . The truth is that the authorities, sometimes with the connivance of the courts, are themselves to blame in large part for the added dangers to highway travel in Ontario. They are today reaping the harvest of light sentences and reduced charges and unless they change their ways, there is little possibility of the situation being improved.

What is needed more than anything else in dealing with the minority that persists in conducting itself without regard to the safety of others on the road is not further education, because that has been tried and found wanting but fearless enforcement of the laws that are already embodied in the highway code and an end of all the evasions that have been practised by the Crown authorities and the courts. —Brockville Recorder and Times.

Indians

The Federal efforts to better the position of the Indians have had good results in the Dominion as well as in the United States. But it is felt that much more could be accomplished for them and an enlarged program was announced at Ottawa the other day. The department will devote particular attention to improving their skill as trappers and to helping them to take better care of furs before these are marketed.

There are many other ways in which they can be given assistance that will enable them to reach a higher economic plane. The working out of the plans will be followed with keen interest, as the national responsibility for the welfare of the Indian population is widely recognized.—Edmonton Journal.

Jingle In The Pocket

The year end brought with it more tangible evidences of progress in Nova Scotia than for many dreary years. There have been the additional car order at Trenton and the prospect of more to follow; the order for steel rails at Sydney and the prospect more yet to come; and all time record shipment of coal up the St. Lawrence and the anticipated continuing demand; the even and a half percent. wage increase in steel and subsidiary plants; the doubled Christmas bonus in the pay envelope at Westville; and now another may be added to these with the extra week's wages found in pay envelope of the employees of the Oxford Foundry and Machine Company.

Laurier once said, folk did not need to be told when prosperity existed, they knew it by the jingle in their pockets. It would be far from the truth to say that everybody is prosperous, but this at least is true, that many have felt more of a jingle in their pockets than they have known for a long while.—Halifax Chronicle.

Ignorant Females

——I have been warned by three different feminine friends that if I take any more cracks at them about not knowing what drafts on a stove are there for, the said friendships will come to a sudden end. In a humble and apologetic tone of voice I could remark (couldn't I now?) if the cap fits, wear it!

How about trying to catch them young by teaching it in the schools. They could have toy stoves and the little darlings could learn, at an early age, to shut the drafts. No more foolish than lots of the rubbish taught to the sons and daughters of the hard-working and hard-up) parents at the present time.—Kamloops Sentinel.

Candid Admission

"These is nothing connected with the Press that has ever got me into such great trouble as the accuracy of the reports of what I have said." confides Lord Derby. And such admirable honest and candor is worthy of a place in the records.—St. Catharines Standard.

THE EMPIRE

When War Comes

As long as Hitler and Mussolini continue to get their way without war, Europe is in no immediate danger of conflict. But this is merely another way of saying that when war comes it will be at the time and under the conditions most favorable to the Fascist cause. Peace on these terms can offer no security.—The Nation, London.

"Mickle Maks Muckle"

The moderate investments of our thrifty classes have piled up Britain's principal assets. Well over £1,000,000,000 is invested in the Post Office Savings Banks, and National Savings Certificates, and there are many hundreds of millions more in life assurance policies and in the keeping of building societies Analysis has shown that the average holdings of stocks and shares in the railway companies, the big banks, and many of our great industries do not exceed a few hundred pounds. Like the army of workmen which reared the pyramids, the hosts of the "small men" have reared the great edifice of British wealth.—London Daily Mail.

Kind Word

Observes the New York Sun — A great many girls and boys have been encouraged in politeness by a little reward from a relative or an intimate friend of the family.

"You've been very nice to me Mary," says Aunt Almira as she departs after a visit, "and here's something to put in your bank." "Now, Mira," says mother, "you must not spoil the child; she only does as she should." "Well," says Almira, "this ain't agoin' to spoil her, and she is a nice girl."

"Tommy," says Uncle Bill, "you took good care of me; don't spend all this in one place." "Shucks, uncle, I liked to do it," says Tommy. "Bill," says father, "I won't have you givin' money to Tommy; it'll teach him bad habits; it'll make a beggar out of him." "Now Pete, you keep still," says Bill, "or I'll tell Tommy some things about you."

And Pete keeps still, the children are not spoiled, and if they think that perhaps good manners are not penalized they will help to make a pleasanter world.

Baby Weighs Nineteen Pounds at Birth

When the eleventh child of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brigner, of Waverley, Ohio, was born, he weighed nineteen pounds — only two pounds less than a year-old normal child. Two years ago Mrs. Brigner gave birth to twins, weighing a total of twenty pounds. She weighs 135.

Income is $452,000,000 Higher Than Last Year

All Classes of Nation's Business Did Better — Manufacturing Takes Precedence of Agriculture

OTTAWA— Canada's national income from all sources for 1936 was estimated recently by the Canadian Press at $4,545,000,000, which was $452,000,000 greater than in 1935 and $1,351,700,000 greater than the low year of 1933.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has records of the values created covering a considerable portion of the year for five-eights of all persons in Canada gainfully employed. With these figures as a basis and assuming the remaining three-eights of those actually working are equally productive of national wealth the national income for the 12 months was estimated.

Manufacturers produced the greatest wealth with agriculture second mining third, tourist traffic fourth, and forestry fourth. Everyone of the big industries showed increases.

Percentage increase for industries in 1936 over 1935 were as follows:—Agriculture 10.6, forestry 19.0, fisheries 3.0, trapping 9.0, mining, 20.4, electric power 9.4, construction, 3.5, repairs 8.6, manufactures, 6.

The tourist traffic is among the industries unreported by the Bureau of Statistics. Estimates from other sources, however, place the value of this industry at $250,000,000 in 1936, compared with $202,000,000 in 1935 and $117,000,000 in 1933.

At $4,545,000,000 the 1936 grand total is 11 per cent above $4,093,926,000 in 1935. The figure for 1933 was $3,193,000,000.

After eliminating the value of materials consumed in the production process and making allowance for some duplication in reports under different headings, the estimate of commodity production in Canada for 1936 was about $2,841,000,000, an increase of 42.5 per cent above $1,996,000,000 in 1933 and 11 per cent higher than $2,559,000,000 in 1935.

Weather Handicapped Crops

Partly owing to crop reduction due to adverse weather conditions in recent years, manufacturers now definitely take precedence over agriculture in net value of production. Since 1933, however, agriculture has shown an annual increase in value.

Based on 29 factors, the index of manufacturing production in the first nine months of 1936 had risen to 107.8 compared with 97.6 in the same period of 1935. The price index, on the base of 1926 equals 100, was 75.5 in November against 72.9 in November, 1935.

Employment in manufacturing was up to 103.1 for the 10 months compared with 96.7 last year.

Among factors showing heavy increases were raw cotton imports, up 31.5 per cent at 129,445,000 pounds in 11 months, and steel ingot production up 20.8 per cent at 1,010,598 long tons in the same comparison. Pig iron production showed a 15.3 per cent advance at 610,000 long tons.

Acreage of wheat planted in 1936 was up 4.9 per cent at 25,289,000 acres, but yield fell 20 per cent and the production of 233,500,000 bushels was 15.8 per cent below 277,339,000 bushels in 1935.

Higher Farm Prices

Wheat prices mounted, however, with the result that the value of production was placed at $200,085,000, which is 17.5 per cent higher than $170,333,000 last year.

All field crops had a value of $594,000,000, a gain of 16.7 per cent over $509,000,000.

During the 11 months creamery butter production increased 3.4 per cent at 238,266,000 pounds, and factory cheese output was up 15.5 per cent at 114,375,000 pounds.

Contributing to the spectacular improvement in mining, every branch of the industry except copper showed production increases in comparison. Gold was up 15.2 per cent at 2, 746,531 fine ounces, silver 9.6 per cent at 13,110,327 fine ounces, and nickel 6.2 per cent at 123,569,125 pounds. Highest percentage increases were gypsum, 44.4 per cent at 568,138 tons, and asbestos, 44.1 per cent at 204,235 tons.

An increase of 6.3 per cent in the wholesale price index of the wood and paper group to 69.4 had substantial effect on the value of forestry products. Newsprint production was up 15.2 per cent at 2,890,000 tons for the first 11 months of 1936. Exports of planks and boards for the same period were 1,565,756,000 board feet, an improvement of 47.8 per cent. Employment in logging was 3.7 per cent better, bringing the index to 127 at the end of November.

New Clipper To Have 2 Floors, Stairway

SPOKANE, Wash., — A 40 passenger Clipper ship with two floors and a circular stairway is the latest idea in gigantic airplane designing.

C. N. Monteith, of Seattle, executive vice-president of Boeing Aircraft Company, told the Chamber of Commerce his firm is building the air giant for Pan-American Airways.

Monteith said the Clipper would have a top speed of 200 miles an hour from four 1,500-horsepower motors, a wingspread of 152 feet, an over-all length of 109 feet. The 82,000 pound plane will be designed to leave the water in 50 seconds, fully loaded.

And With Many Acres Idle in U.S.!

A significant quotation comes from "Chemical Industries."

"With an eye to the large and the growing market in the United States for perilla oil, a drying agent now being used extensively by manufacturers or paint products, the Manchurian government plans to extend its perilla seed crop to approximately 600,000 tons per annum during the next five years, according to cable reports reaching C. C. Concannon, the Chief of the Commerce Department's Chemical Division."

Perilla seed can be grown in the United States, particularly in the South. In the Orient the seed yields twenty to thirty bushels an acre. The yield is 400 to 700 pounds, worth 8 to 10 cents a pound. The cake is valued highly in Japan as a nitrogen fertilized source, worth probably $20 a ton. The oil is an indispensable supplement to our soybean industry. Mixed with soy oil, it cuts the drying time down to as low as twenty-five per cent.

The Manchurian government esteems our perilla oil market so highly as to take steps expanded planting. Our government takes the trouble to get a cabled report about that. Why shouldn't our government also take every practicable step toward hastening perilla production by American farmers? So far as we know, it has done nothing whatever. More statesmanlike than public officials, the paint and varnish industry, interested in having an American supply, ha conducted tests that show the crop will grow here. — The Country Home Magazine.

Doesn't Say It

Christopher Billopp writing in the Baltimore Sun observes:

Smith meets Jones and says "Hello, Jones, how are you?"

To which Jones might, with perfect justice reply:

"I am beginning to feel my age. I have several teeth that are giving me trouble, and there are unmistakable evidences that I am on the verge of a cold. There is a shooting pain that runs up my right leg and ends in the small of the back.

"My right elbow is sore. It feels as if a tendon had been strained. My eyes are tired from having used them so much and I suspect that I do need to have my glasses changed. A callous place on my left foot is giving me trouble.

"I was nervous last night and unable to immediately drop off to sleep and this morning I awoke ahead of the alarm clock. My digestion is not what it was, and at the noon hour I did not eat my pie a la mode with the customary relish. I think I am getting a little deaf in one ear.

"I find that I am rather short-winded and I am a little disturbed about my heart. On the other hand, I am conscious of other symptoms that lead me to suspect that there is something radically wrong with my liver, appendix, gall-bladder and other internal organs. Sometimes I've buzzings in my head that lead me to suspect the beginning of some mental disorder If I were the kind of man who easily grows alarmed about himself I would go at once to a doctor and have him look me over. In fact I'm just terrible."

But, instead, he replies, "I'm feeling fine, Smith. And I hope you are the same."

To A Pekinese

Paul Rayson in the New York Sun

Smug and imperious little beast,
A canine caricature, no less,
Your self-assurance is at least
More than a lot of us possess.

With perfect poise and sober tread,
You join the afternoon parade.
Which is the leader, which the led?
It's hard to answer, I'm afraid.

Your knitted jacket has a trim
And tailored elegance. No doubt
They humour every foolish whim
A dog can think of, walking out.

Well, it's no wonder you've begun
To have delusions. I admit
That lording it is lots of fun—
Who wouldn't make the most of it?

Stationed at the apartment door,
You bark and bark with all your might,
A midget Cerberus whose roar
Is more disarming than his bite!

Cows Demonstrate Music Appreciation

GREENFIELD, Ind.—Almon Wickard installed a radio in his cowshed a week ago so he could listen to his favorite programs while milking.

It didn't occur to him, he said, that the cows would pay any attention to the contraption, but it had some surprising results. Before the installation a three-gallon bucket would hold all the milk his two cows gave, Wickard said, but now their lacteal output shows a daily increase of two gallons.

And the farmer finds that while turning away from the feed box the cows eat only about half as much as they used to.

YOUNG PEOPLES LUTHER LEAGUE MEETING

Forty members were present at the regular devotional meeting of the Young Peoples Luther League, held on Friday evening, January 15 in the church basement of St. Peters Lutheran Church. The president, Mrs. Lyle Casselman, occupied the chair, assisted by the secretary, Miss Vivian Barclay and Miss Audrey Whitteker presiding at the piano.

The topic "Poise, Ready for Anything" was presented by Mr. Eric Barclay. Many good points were produced during the topic, to convey to each Leaguer the value of poise and self control. A brief discussion pertaining to the topic, followed after which the devotional period closed with prayer.

The programme committee had planned a skating party but owing to weather conditions the program was changed to indoor baseball and ping-pong tournaments. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

AULTSVILLE Y. P. S.

The weekly meeting of the Y.P. S. held on Friday night was opened by singing the hymn, "Bringing in the Sheaves." This was followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. The scripture reading portraying the giving of the Ten Commandments to the Jews by Moses, was read by Beth Summers. The president, Garnet Gallinger, called attention to the importance which should be attached to the Ten Commandments and to the Lord's prayer.

The latter part of Moses' life was described by Edith Halpenny in a very excellent manner. The discussion period was a period enjoyed by all. Many enlightening and interesting comments and questions were considered.

The minutes of the last meeting and business items followed. The first part of the meeting closed by a hymn.

The first of a series of hymn studies was presented by Muriel Gallinger, using the old hymn, "Yield Not to Temptation,." The hymn was composed by Horatio Palmer, who was born in New York State in 1834. Several interesting incidents were described.

The regular "Study of Religions" period was led by Winnie Edwards,. She gave a very vivid account of Mohammedanism, its founder, its beliefs, and its history. Various questions were asked by the members.

The president next gave an account of meteorology, telling how the weather is forecast by the Meterological Service of Canada. The service prepares a daily weather map upon which is marked the various areas of low and high pressure which were in North America at the time of observation. The low pressure areas are generally accompanied by unfavorable weather. Since the routes of these low and high pressure areas are known approximately, the weather for any section of the country can be forecast for several hours in advance.

The meeting closed by singing "Blest Be the Tie" and repeating the Mizpah benediction,. Next week's meeting will be in charge of the literary convener, Beth Summers.

ISAAC BRADLEY CHOSEN LEEDS-GRENVILLE WARDEN

At the first meeting of the January session of the counties' council of Leeds and Grenville held in Brockville this week, Isaac Bradley, reeve of Augusta township in Grenville county, was chosen as warden. Mr Bradley has been in the municipal council since 1922, serving as deputy reeve from that year until 1929. In 1930 he retired from the field, but returned as reeve in 1931, a position he has since held. For 15 years he has attended counties council.

Warden Bradley is 52 years of age and lives on a farm on No. 2 highway, three miles west of Prescott, where his grandfather first settled 112 years ago. He is a son of the late Isaac Bradley of Augusta and is keenly interested in dairying.

The position of warden alternates between the two counties each year. R. B. Gardiner, Kitley, having held the position in 1936. His selection at today's meeting was unanimous.

HAMILTON—BELL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bell, Cass Bridge, was the scene of a fashionable wedding Saturday, when their only daughter, Miss Iva Illah Bell, was united in marriage to Stanley Benson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hamilton, of Winchester., The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. W. S. Atchison of the United church, took place under an arch, banked on either side with ferns and cut flowers.

As the bridal party entered the drawing room, Lochengrin's wedding march was played by Mr. Dixon Hutt.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown of heavy ivory satin, made on long princess lines with trimmings of pearls at the neck and waist. The sleeves were puffed at the elbows and fell in points over the hands. Her veil was of silk tulle and was worn in Spanish style, being fastened with clusters of orange blossoms. Her bouquet consisted of pink roses and maiden hair fern.

Miss Annie Strader, of Winchester, was maid of honor. Mr. Erle Hamilton, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

WILFRED H. LEVERE

The death occurred on Wednesday of Wilfred Henry Levere, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Levere, Kemptville, at an Ottawa hospital, where he had been a patient for the past three weeks. # News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Conservation Movement Making Rapid Headway

The movement for a province-wide program of reforestation and soil conservation is rapidly gaining momentum throughout Ontario. Following the original meeting in London of representatives of nine counties to form the Western Ontario Conservation Committee, a second meeting was held at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, on January 13th when representatives of thirteen Southern Ontario counties assembled to organize a second District Conservation Committee and to formulate a program of action. A third meeting was held at Bowmanville on Friday, January 15th with a large number of Eastern Ontario counties being represented.

This series of meetings has been sponsored by the Farmers' Advocate, with its editor, Mr. W. H. Porter, as the moving spirit. Warden Adam McColgan of Wellington County, presided at the Guelph meeting and an all-day discussion of reforestation, water and soil conservation and woodlot preservation took place At the conclusion the following resolution was unanimously passed: "That in the opinion of this meeting the people of Ontario, both rural and urban, are ready for a practical and constructive conservation program. It is further resolved that we recommend to the respective county councils that dofinite action be taken at their January sessions." It was recommended by the gathering that county councils set up a nucleus of a committee of two of their number, along with the county agricultural representative, to build up a strong conservation committee within each county. It was suggested that each county council make a grant of $25,.00 to its District Conservation Committee to enable the latter to carry on its work, while the appropriation for work within the individual county would be left to the discretion of each county council,. It was further recommended that county councils demonstrate their sincerity by proceeding with some definite project of tree-planting and that a survey of each county be made in order to form a sound conservation program.

As a preliminary step in the campaign, the Guelph meeting recommended that Ontario be divided into five districts, in each of which a District Conservation Committee will be formed to supervise the program. The districts are as follows: No. 1, Essex, Kent, Elgin, Lambton, Middlesex, Huron Perth, Norfolk and Oxford; No. 2, Welland, Lincoln, Haldimand, Wentworth, Halton, Brant, Waterloo; No. 3 Bruce, Grey, Dufferin, Simcoe, Wellington, Peel and York; No. 4, Ontario, Durham, Victoria, Peterboro, Northumberland, Hastings, Point Edward, Lennox and Addington; No. 5, Renfrew, Lanark, Carleton, Grenville, Dundas, Stormont, and Glengarry, Leeds, Frontenac, Prescott, Russell.

Educational programs were considered vital and it was suggested that the government prepare a primer on reforestation and conservation for use in public schools. Planting of trees by individual citizens for windbreaks and beautification purposes was urged as a coronation year feature. Plots of trees could also be set out as memorials to distinguished public men, who had rendered notable service to their country.

The serious effect of drought in lowering the water level of streams and rivers and drying up wells was emphasized. Farmers had found it necessary to draw water for their stock as far as five miles. It was also pointed out that there were too many municipal drains which were having the effect of taking moisture from the land where it was needed. Swamps were disappearing and trees being ruthlessly destroyed. All farmers must cooperate in the movement in order to secure satisfactory results.

Dr. G. I. Christie in a luncheon address predicted that this movement was destined to play a great part in the future development of Ontario. It would result in leaving a wonderful heritage for the children and grandchildren of the present generation. Planting of trees would go far towards solving the problem of conserving the water supply. Mr. E. J,. Zavitz, Provincial Forester, and Frank S,. Newman superintendent of the St., Williams Forestry Station were other speakers, the latter declaring that misuse of forest lands in the province was without parallel and that a remedy must be found. Mr. Monroe Landon, president of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, spoke on the need for a revision of the Assessment Act to provide for the exxemption of forest growth from taxation. He declared that trees were the only crop taxed and that the present assessment practice was a deterrent to private reforestation efforts.

A Central Committee representing all five districts will be set up and a brief is in course of preparation to submit to the Ontario Government.

FARMERS, BEWARE

Since many nutritional disorders and diseases of farm animals have been traced to the lack of adequate minerals in their rations, there has been an increasing demand for mineral supplements. Salesmen are known to be operating extensively throughout the Province and in some cases are offering so called "mineral supplements" which are useless and may be worse than worthless and these products may be offered at prices for in excess of that which the farmer can afford to pay.

Recently two striking instances of fradulent practice were brought to the attention of the Dominion Government Inspectors. One material consisted almost entirely of ground limestone. The other of common salt. Yet both were being sold at fantastic prices.

When in 1921 the "Feeding Stuffs' Act of Canada was drawn up the wide demand for mineral supplements was unforseen. Consequently no measures of control for their sale were incoporated in the Act. Therefore, until a revision of the said Act is completed it behoves the farmer to be on his guard against the insidious advances of these sometimes ignorant salesmen. The farmer should—first, satisfy himself that the mineral supplement is the product of a firm with a reputation to maintain and demand to be shown a statement of analysis, bearing in mind that calcium and phosphorus are the principal ingredients and that the proportion of calcium to phosphorus should be approximately two to one. The maintenance of a correct balance between these two is considered important.

Consult your Agricultural Representative or the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph if you are in doubt as to the analysis of the product which is being offered to you. Don't be fooled.

but... is that enough?

True, the radio gives you certain cold figures but it's indirect and impersonal and at best only a general indication, compared to actual telephone talks to a number of buyers. In conversations, you get the actual feel of the market; you know what's going on; where and when to sell; what grades are going best; what the picture promises; and all those other intimate details, the knowledge of which puts dollars in your pocket. The telephone, as a business agent, is truly, irreplacable.

Nothing yields so much for what it costs as the TELEPHONE

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday School Lesson(Willard) jan 8
LESSON VI.
Two Miracles of Mercy.
(John 5: 1—6: 71
Printed Text John 5: 2—9; 6: 8—15.
Go den Text— The very works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. John 5: 36.

The Lesson in Its Setting

Time—The events recorded in the sixth chapter took place in April, A.D. 29.

Place—The events in the fifth chapter all occurred in Jerusalem. The feeding of the five thousand took place at Bethsaida. Christ's walking on the sea, of course, occurred at the Sea of Galilee. The discourses that followed were all given in the synagogue at Capernaum.

1. Now there is in Jerusalem by the sheep gate a pool, which is called in Hebrew Bethesda, having five porches. The sheep gate repeatedly referred to in the Old Testament (Neh 3: 1, 32; 12: 39) is known to have been north of the temple, corresponding with the modern St. Stephen's gate, which "is the gate through which the Bedawins still lead the flocks to Jerusalem for sale."

2. In these lay a multitude of them that were sick, blind, halt. The word "halt" simply means crippled. Withered. That is, "dried up." (Cf. Matt. 12: 10; Luke 6: 6,8.)

4. And a certain man was there, who had been thirty and eight years in his infirmity. The word translated "infirmity" is a word literally meaning "weakness," and all of us must confess that we are subject to infirmities of one kind and another. However, our Lord Himself, "took our infirmities' (Matt 8: 17) and the Spirit also "helpeth our infirmity" (Rom 8: 26; Heb. 4: 15).

5. When Jesus saw him lying, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case: When our Lord came to Jerusalem, His eye rested with pity and sympathy upon those who needed help, and here the most hopless case of all the invalid multitude about this pool. He saith unto him: Wouldest thou be made whole? "This poor man probably had waited so long, and long waited in vain, that hope was dead or well-nigh dead within him, and the question is asked to awaken in him anew a yearning after the benefit which the Saviour was about to impart.

6. The sick man answered Him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me. The answer of this man shows how absolutely necessary our Lord's question really was, for it reveals utter hopelessness. He did not even say that he wanted to be made whole.

7 Jesus saith unto him, Arise, take up thy bed, and walk. It is significant that our Lord did not tell the man he was healed. He commanded him to do something that would prove he was healed of his infirmity.

7. And straightway the man was made whole, and took up his bed and walked. Christ did not half save this man from his terrible infirmity. —the man did not crawl away from the pool; he did not hobble out on crutches; he did not have to be carried out as he was carried in. When the Lord Jesus Christ saves us, He saves us from our own individual sins, as well as from sin. Now it was the sabbath on that day. The Jewish leaders immediately told the healed man that he had violated the Sabbath day because, in taking up his bed, he had broken the law which commanded men not to work on the Sabbath (Ex. 20: 10; Jer. 17: 21). The man's courageous answer is a thrilling one, namely, that the one who healed him had commanded him to do what he did.

8. One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him: There is a lad here. The word "lad" in the original, means "a little boy," and this is the only little boy who actually takes any part in the Gospel history. Who hath five barley loaves. Barley was the ordinary coarse food of the poorer people. It is not mentioned in any of the Gospels except here. And two fishes. Literally this should read "two small fishes," a word used only by the apostle John, here and in 21: 9, 10, 13. Originally the word meant "anything eaten with bread or other food: and, as salt fish was most commonly used for this purpose, the word came gradually to mean 'fish' in particular." But what are these among so many? This is a perfectly natural question, for the loaves and the fishes together were no more than enough to satisfy the appetite of one hungry person. And yet here were five thousand men, besides women and children.

9. Jesus said, Make the people sit down. It would be much easier to distribute food mong this vast multitude if they were distributed in groups of hundreds and fifties, reclining on the grass (Mark 6: 39, 40). The absolute confidence of Jesus in His ability to satisfy this great multitude is revealed in every line of this narrative. Now there was much grass in the place: As there would be early in April. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand. "The men alone were arranged in companies, or alone arranged so that any account was taken of them: the women and children being served promiscuously; who indeed, if the multitude were a paschal caravan, or parts of many such, would not be likely to be very numerous."

10 Jesus therefore took the loaves. It is not so said, but certainly it must be assumed that the little boy here offered these loaves to Jesus, or at least to Andrew. Andrew would not have known that the boy even had these loaves and fishes unless the little fellow had come down near where Jesus and His disciples were standing. Jesus never takes and uses anything of ours unless we willingly allow Him to. And having given thanks: Suppose every prayer of ours were offered invariably with thanksgiving, how many more of our prayers would be answered! (Phil. 4: 6)" He distributed to them that were set down. Of course He distributed through the ministry of the disciples to whom He gave the broken loaves. Likewise also of the fishes as much as they would. That is, as much as the people needed for the satisfaction of their hunger.

11. And when they were filled, He saith unto His disciples, Gather up the broken pieces which remain over, that nothing be lost. "Thus with the Lord of nature, as with nature herself, the most prodigal bounty goes hand in hand with the nicest and exactest economy; and he who had but now shown himself God, again submits Himself to the laws and proprieties of His earthly condition, so that, as in the miracle itself His power, in this command His humility, shines eminently forth."

12. So they gathered them up, and filled 12 baskets with broken pieces from the five barley loaves, which remained over unto them that had eaten. These baskets were the stout wicker baskets as distinguished from the soft flexible "frails," mentioned in Matt. 15: 37 and Mark 8:8.

13. When therefore the people saw the sign which He did, they said, This is of a truth the prophet that cometh into the world. This is the second time that Christ has been recognized as a prophet sent from God (4: 19; 7: 40; 9: 17; Deut. 18: 15). All attempts to escape the miraculous nature of this event violate all the canons of historical evidence, and are, on the face of them, irrational and foolish. John was there and John knew what happened.

14. Jesus therefore perceiving that they were about to come and take Him by force, to make Him king, withdrew again into the mountain Himself alone. (See Matt. 11: 12; Acts 23: 10.) This multitude only wanted to crown Him as king because they were conscious that here was one possessing supernatural power, and that, if He could perform such a miracle as they had just witnessed, He could also deliver them from the yoke of the Roman Government. They were not accepting Him as their Messiah and Saviour. (Contra, Luke 19: 14.).

Oddities of Brisbane

Most of Arthur Brisbane's working day was usually devoted to executive detail. For twenty-five years he was editor of the Evening Journal, notes the New York Herald Tribune. In 1934 Mr. Hearst assigned to him the task of building up the circulation of the Daily Mirror. In his spare time he attended to large real estate holdings, the income from which was believed to exceed the $265,000 annual salary paid to him by Mr. Hearst. His net income from all sources, was reported in 1935 to be $1,070,000.

Although in his hard-working youth he chose to rise at 4.30 and 5 a.m., his habits gradually became retarded until he found himself retiring at dawn and rising at noon.

This tendency to hoard became manifest most curiously at mealtimes. Sometimes when dining at fine restaurants and hotels he would find himself unable to finish all the food on his plate. On such occasions he would summon the waiter and ask him if his left-over morsels would be wasted. If the waiter said that the odds and ends of food would be given to the dog pound or some other worthy charity, Mr. Brisbane would permit his plate to be removed. But if the waiter replied the food was headed for the garbage pail. Mr. Brisbane would clean his plate.

Farm Problems

Conducted by PROFESSOR HENRY G. BELL
with the co-operation of the various departments of Ontario Agricultural College

Question 1:— "Please give me information concerning the best method of applying fertilizer for canning tomatoes." — B. G., Wellington County.

Answer:— Two methods of application of fertilizer for canning tomatoes have given good results. First, where field is checked off by the marker, a handful of fertilizer is dropped at the cross checks, and is thoroughly worked into the soil before the plant is set. The second method is, after the plant is set, a funnel is placed upside down over the plant and fertilizer is dropped around the edge of the funnel. This is known as ring application. The fertilizer is then worked into the soil. This has given good results in experimental tests. Planting machines are built to work the fertilizer into the soil at the same time as they set the plants. The one principle to remember is to keep the plant roots from coming immediately in contact with too concentrated a solution of plant-food.

Question 2:— (a) "How should fertilizer be used with strawberries and what is the best analysis to use?

(b) "What is the best fertilizer to use in a garden when all kinds of vegetables are to be grown? How much should be used and how should it be applied?" J. O. T., Wellington County.

Answer:— When strawberries are set out, excellent results are obtained by working into the soil, 4-8-10 fertilizer. This should be applied and worked into the soil where the row is to be set before the plants are transplanted Where the strawberries are allowed to stand more than two years, good results have been obtained by top dressing the strawberries with about 500 lbs. per acre of 4-8-10 after the berries have been picked. In the spring, frequently good results are obtained by top dressing the strawberry bed with Nitrate of Soda using about 100 lbs. per acre. Scatter this over the plants after the dew and other moisture has dried off. This salt is very soluble and a little rain will quickly wash it into the soil where plants will use it.

(b). One of the best fertilizers to use in the garden for green vegetable crops is 4-8-10. This should be applied at the rate of little less than 1-4 lb. per square yard. Frequently it is best applied in two quantities; about 2-3 scattered on top the dug or plowed garden soil and worked into the soil by discing, harrowing and raking; the other 1-3 should be worked into the soil at the time the seed is sown or plants are set. When the holes are made for transplanting the plants such as tomatoes, cabbage and the like, have a little fertilizer dropped into the hole and soil mixed with it before the plant is set, or better still have the fertilizer worked in along the row where the plant is to be set before the transplanting is done.

Question 2 (a) : "I intend to seed down a field next year with oats as a nurse crop and this field is to be left for permanent pasture. The field is in fairly good shape now and it will receive a light application of manure during the Winter. What fertilizer practice should follow and how often will it be necessary to fertilize when we start pasturing it with dairy cattle?

(b). If I buy fertilizer with a stated analysis such as 2-12-6, how do I know that the fertilizer conforms to the guarantee and am I. as a consumer, in any way protected against fraud? I have never used fertilizer, but intend to do so next spring and would like to know that I am purchasing a reputable brand." G.R.S., Kent County.

Answer :— I would advise your using 3-10-5 fertilizer or 2-12-6 at the rate of three bags per acre. If you get a good stand of grass, you should not have to repeat the fertilizing for at least two or three years, unless the soil is very sandy. A top dressing of manure on the standing pasture will be particularly good if you alternate this with fertilizer since I assume one of your problems will be to keep up the organic matter. Have you tested the soil for the acidity? In laying down permanent pasture, it is particularly desirable that the soil be neutral or alkaline, so that you will get a good percentage of legume growth such as clover or alfalfa. If you have not tested your soil, the Ridgetown Experiment Station will be willing to do so, or you can send a sample to the Department of Chemistry, Ontario Agricultural College.

(b). All fertilizer in Canada is sold under the Fertilizers Act which makes specific provision for examining the products of the various companies selling fertilizer in Canada. This Act provides that all fertilizer must be sold under guarantee of analysis and must come up to the percentage guaranteed, otherwise, penalties are provided. A corps of inspectors under the direction of the Dominion Department of Agriculture are constantly on the road examing fertilizer stocks at the factories, en route to farmers, and on the farms. This means that fertilizer wares are constantly open to inspection These provisions of control along with the much more important fact that fertilizer companies can stay in business and increase their trade only by rendering services as guaranteed.

Movie-radio gossip

By DOROTHY

Monte Blue, a favorite with film fans for many years, plays the lead in a picture that rekindles the pioneer agricultural west of a century ago. He has the role of John Deere, in "The Blacksmith's Gift," a story which recounts the life and times of the man who gave to the world the steel plow. The action takes place in 1937 in the Illinois of Abraham Lincoln's day.

Mary Rogers, daughter of the beloved Will, has gone to work at the Twentieth Century-Fox studios where her father made pictures, and has the bungalow dressingroom which he used and which no one else has had since his death.

The beautiful Mary deserves a lot of credit. Her father's influence would have helped with a movie career, but she went out and got theatrical experience instead.

When you see "White Hunter," sympathize with Warner Baxter and June Lang in the scenes where they battle against a tropical hurricane. The hurricane was made right in the studio, of course, but was none the less violent because of that. Baxter and Miss Lang spent a whole day with that storm, what with rehearsals and retakes and one thing and another, and were black and blue when it was over, where they had been bruised by objects blown against them by the wind.

CHANGED HER SHOES FIVE TIMES A DAY

Suffered for 20 Years with Rheumatism

Try and picture the life this woman led for twenty years—changing her shoes several times a day in a vain endeavor to attain some relief from the rheumatic pains that were constantly troubling her. Then imagine her joy when she found that Kruschen was driving away the rheumatism. This is what she writes:—

"I have been using Kruschen Salts for four years. For twenty years previously I had suffered with my feet, sometimes changing my shoes five times a day, and frequently sitting without any as the pain was so great Now I can wear the same pair of shoes all day with comfort. I cannot speak too highly of Kruschen Salts. Only those who had been in constant pain with their feet for years can realize what it is to be free."—(Mrs.) E. A.

It is deposits of excess uric acid, lodging between the joints, which are frequently the cause of rheumatism Kruschen Salts contain two ingredients—sodium and potassium — which are effective solvents of uric acid.

FINANCIAL FLASHES

Ypres Cadillac is located in the heart of a proven mining area, the rich Cadillac field, and is approximately half mile from O'Brien Mines where the sensational discovery last year was made.

The property consists of ten claims, approximately four hundred acres.

Development work is being pushed forward, aggressively, by the management. Harold G. Way, M.A., Ph.D., geologist, is in charge of work on the property, and crews have recently been increased, to facilitate operations.

"I am very enthusiastic about the chances of your property," Dr. Way recently stated in a letter dated December 2, 1936, to the officials of the company.

From a standpoint of future operations, the property is very favourably situated. The road has been completed into it from Kewagama, and the new Canadian National Railway line to Seneterre, passes through the middle of the property itself. Electric power lines are within half mile.

At a meeting of unitholders of Rebair Gold Syndicate held recently, J. M. Baird, manager, reported that finances are in good shape, with arrangements made for large interests to assume the final financing upon completion of present development work. Arrangements for additional equipment, including diamond drilling, have been completed. L. W. Reed, mine manager, stated that the ore bodies were increasing in size as development work progressed. At present the main ore body has been proven to be over 1,090 ft long and 6 to 20 ft. in width and from 25 channel samples taken an average value of $20 per ton was secured.

Nay ob Gold Mines, Porcupine gold area, has been aggressively concentrating operations on the 300 and 700-ft. levels with excellent results, according to Hamlin B. Hatch, geologist. This is in line with the general plan of development previously decided upon. Upon completion of the present campaign, definite production plans can be formulated. Mr. Hatch declares. Approximately 150,000 tons of ore averaging $5 per ton has already been blocked out on 3 sides above the 700-ft. level. The 300-ft. level drift (west face) is at present in good grade ore, with consistent values ranging from $2 to $10 throughout the whole length of the drift widths. Crosscutting near the west face to the hanging wall of the vein structure definitely disclosed that the vein structure is 45 ft. wide, with sampling of 39 ft. on the hanging wall side yielding value of $8.75 over this width, while 9 ft. averaged $21.90 per ton. No 1 vein has been driven on for 600 ft. east and west on the 300 and 700-ft. levels.

Immediate development at depth of the indicated orebody on the Denison Nickel Mines property in Denison Township, Sudbury mining division, is planned by company officials. It is proposed to install a mining plant, sink a 3-compartment shaft to 250 ft. and carry out lateral work on that horizon. Drilling has indicated a consistent nickel-copper ore zone, cut at depths ranging from 175 to 1125 ft., with an average width of 28 feet. An ore length of 400 ft. was shown on surface, while a length of 500 ft. was indicated on the 1,000-ft. level. The grade averaged 1.05% copper, .81% nickel and $3 platinum and gold. Allan Anderson, M.E., has been appointed consulting engineer in charge of operations. A crew of men has already started clearing for the shaft site and a mining plant for sinking has been ordered.

E. W. Asselstine, M.E., in charge of operations at the West Shining Tree property of Bilmac Gold Mines, in a report to Toronto officials, states that the vein the 170-ft. horizon has improved in recent work. Development to date reveals that it is six feet wide, and very heavily mineralized. This vein has likewise been encountered on the 400-ft. level, and will be opened up further in the course of additional underground operations.

---

Following the commencement of drifting operations on the second level at Mooshla Gold Mines property, a wire has been received from D. M. Giachino, resident engineer, to the effect that 73 feet of drifting has been done to date on the vein at this horizon. Fifty-six feet, according to Mr. Giachino, averaged $32.18 across an average width of 31½ inches. The last 17 feet is now being assayed.

Horace G. Young, managing director of Wendigo God Mines, currently making a regular inspection of the property, has ordered the removal from above the 100-ft. level of betwee 3,000 and 4,000 tons of ore of ½ oz. grade which procedure, it is officially believed, will improve extraction and boost current monthly gold output. It is expected that work of retimbering the shaft to the present objective of 500 ft. will be completed this month. The next step will be to carry the shaft below that horizon and establish two more levels for further underground operations. The present plant and hoist is considered adequate for this purpose. The mill is stated to be currently running at a daily average approaching 65 tons, treating ore of $15 grade when in mine run of ore.

Previous reports of a highgrade strike made on the Doreva Gold Mines property during trenching operations, resulted in directors sending Lewis A. Dunham, consulting engineer, to the property in Bousquet Township to make a thorough examination of the find. In a wire to Toronto officials, Mr. Dunham states that two pits on No. 2 showing at now down 10 ft with each pit being sunk to develop high-grade stringer in vein, which are wider at the bottom of the pit and show more mineralization. Three drills are in operation, with No. 5 hole south of No. 1 showing completed to 850 ft The core shows conglomerate is 300 ft. thick and begins 600 ft. south from No. 1 showing. The core is being sampled preparatory to testing.

Butter Must Not Be Advertised In Reich

BERLIN.—Germany was told recently — by official decree and a newspaper editorial — to stop building up a taste for butter, and use street cars in preference to buses.

An official decree prohibited advertising agents from arousing yearnings for butter and other fats — of which there is a shortage — by picturing mouth-watering scenes.

Efforts to win new customers must be confined to such commodities as sugar, marmalade, fish, potatoes, cottage cheese and barley, the decree ordered.

Editorially, the newspaper Zwoelfuhrblatt urged greater use of the street cars instead of buses to save gasoline, another commodity on which the Reich is short.

Queer Things About Cats

Perfectly white cats are invariably deaf; they are sure to be, if they have blue eyes.

The Egyptians considered the cat a sacred animal, and usually mummified its remains.

The cats of the Isle of Man, and those of North Borneo are all tailless.

All of the mummy-cats unearthed in Egyptian tombs have red hair, due perhaps to the embalming fluids and unguents used in mummifying them.

There are three times as many muscles in the tail of a cat as there are in the human hand and wrist.

At the end of each hair of a cat's whiskers is a bulb or nerve fibre which makes that particular hair a very delicate "feeler."

A cat's head has a regular partition whall projecting from its side, inward, which, naturalists say, is a provision against concussion of the brain.—Our Dumb Animals.

Great Britain Has Gone Back to Beef

With a million hundredweight rise in the home production of beef and sixtyseven pounds per capita eaten in the United Kingdom last year, the London Daily Telegraph, declares that the popularity of mutton, lamb and pork is on the wane, and that the beef-eaters are coming into their own again.

In the United Kingdom between 1926 and 1932 beef and veal consumption declined from 70 to 61 lbs. per head of the population, while pig meat rose from 44 to 50 pounds and mutton from 26 to 32 pounds. By last year beef and veal consumption had increased to nearly 67 lbs. while pig meat had declined to under 44 pounds and mutton to thirty pounds.

The annual output of home-produced beef and veal has risen by more than 1,000,000 hundredweight in the past seven years. It represented 52 per cent of the country's requirements in 1935, compared to 48 per cent in 1929.

The output of home-produced pig meat increased by 2,750,000 hundredweight and in 1935 accounted for one-half of the pig meat consumed, against 39 per cent in 1929. During the same period home production of mutton and lamb declined from 46 to 43 per cen of total supplies.

World trade in meat as a whole declined by about 12 per cent, between 1929 and 1935, mainly owing to import restrictions and increased home production in importing countries. The United Kingdom is by far the largest meat importer, taking about 85 per cent of the entries of beef and veal into the eight principal importing countries, and about 95 per cent of the world's exports of lamb and mutton.

Village Improvement

Writes the New Orleans Times-Picayune — Calypso, a North Carolina hamlet, broke into the news recently by advertising in outside papers for "two used jail cells." At latest report nobody with "used jail cells" had answered the ad., but it attrtcted a lot of attention from curious folk who wanted to know why Calypso wanted "used jail cells." Until last summer, a Calypso correspondent explains, the town got by without a jail, sending its occasional offenders to the lockup of a neighboring village. Then, it appears, some Calypso booster talked the community into seeking WPA aid for public improvement. The "improvement" took form of a brick building to be used as a jail and for other municipal services. When completed, it was found that no provision has been made for the "jail cells." Hence the advertisement for "used jail cells."

At the annual meeting of the Brockville General Hospital held this week, President George T. Fulford, M.L.A., stated the total volume of business at the hospital was $68,-565.45, an increase of $11,338.98 over the previous year, and in the same period the number of patients was 1,828 as against 1,348 in 1935. The total number of patient days for the year was 25,011, and the births in the institution numbered 145. The financial report showed a deficit on the year's operations of $4,549.37.

The Department of Education will close some twenty-seven rural schools in the province early in the year, as the small attendance does not warrant keeping them open and the cost per pupil is too high. A comprehensive survey is to be made with a view to closing more schools by midsummer. In closing these schools, arrangements will be made with adjoining schools sections to absorb the pupils involved. Only schools with less than eight pupils are affected at present. Several have only three and four pupils attending. The time has come when school administration boards will have to be enlarged, one board to administer all schools in the community. This would cut the cost of education and give better results.

About sixty--five neighbors and other friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Barkley's Matilda, on New Years Eve in honor of their daughter's marriage on Dec. 12th. The early part of the evening was spent in games until eleven o'clock when Mr. and Mrs. Eckford were called to the dining room where Miss Keith McInnis read the address and presented them with a beautiful table and table-lamp, for which the young couple thanked their friends for their kindness and invited all to visit them in their new home. Lunch was served at midnight and dancing was then enjoyed by all until the wee hours of the morning.

MR. WM. BOUCK

The funeral of William M. Bouck, resident of Morewood ror more than half a century, was held Wednesday from the family residence to the United church where service was conducted by the pastor Rev. John Macaskill. Mr. Bouck died on Monday morning after a brief illness.

Mr. Bouck was 71 years old, a son of the late David Bouck and his wife the former Ella Moran, a descendant of Williamsburg township pioneers who settled at Boucks Hill, the community which still bears the family name. Fifty-three years ago he went to Morewood where he conducted a blacksmith and carriage-making business. He was a former trustee of Morewood High School and a member of the United church. He was also a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters, and his death caused wide-spread regret among a wide circle of friends. Forty-nine years ago he married the former Minnie Marcellus, who died in 1925.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs,. J. O. Kerr, Mountain township; Mrs. J. H. Appleby, Gouverneur, N.Y.; four sisters Mrs. H. Barkley, Marrisburg, Mrs. S. Herriman, Boucks Hill; Mrs. E. Deeks, Winchester, and Mrs. A. Couglar, of Boucks Hill three brothers, Wesley Bouck, Aultsville; Geo. Bouck, Iroquois, and Clarence Bouck, of Toronto. One son Gerald Bouck, died nine years ago. There are also five grandchildren and one great-grandchild surviving.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received by the bereaved family.

Interment was in the family plot at Maple Ridge cemetery, where Rev Mr. Macaskill also officiated.

CELEBRATE 25th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Whitteker quietly celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage on Sunday, January 10th, at their home near Williamsburg, when a number of their relatives and friends gathered to express congratulations and felicitations. Mr. Whitteker was born near Williamsburg on the farm where he still resides and he is the third generation to live on this farm. He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Whitteker.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Whitteker was Miss Emily Dillabough, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Dillabough of Dunbar.

They were married at the Presbyterian Manse, Williamsburg, on January 10th, 1912, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. R. McCrimmon, Minister of the former Presbyterian Church, Williamsburg,. Their family consists of two daughters, the Misses Linda and Vena Whitteker, both at home.

For the silver wedding anniversary celebration which was delightfully arranged by the hostess a sumptuous dinner was served to the following guests, three sisters and their husbands of the bride of 25 years ago, namely, Mrs,. Henry Barkley and Mr. Barkley of Williamsburg, Mrs. Aden Casselman, Mr. Casselman and family of Winchester Springs, Mrs. Charles Harper, Mr. Harper and family of Ottawa. the bride's nieces, the Misses Hazel Barkley of Williamsburg and Bertha Sargeant of Elma, nephew, Mr. Hugh Barkley, Mrs. Barkley and little son and their aunt, Mrs. John E. Barkley of Williamsburg. On this occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Whitteker were the recipients of many beautiful pieces of silver. Best wishes from many friends in this district are extended to the respected couple, for continued health and happiness.

CELEBRATE 35th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Garlough were host and hostess at a delightfully arranged, six o'clock dinner at their home at Nation Valley on Friday, January 8th, the occasion being in honor of the 35th wedding anniversary o fMrs. Garlough's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac J. McIntosh of Williamsburg. Only the immediate members of their family were present for the occasion. During the evening, the guests of honor were the recipients of a beautiful bridge lamp presented by the members of their family,. On January 8, 1902 the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac J. McIntosh was solemnized at the Lutheran parsonage, Williamsburg, the late Rev. John Shunk officiating Of this marriage were born two daughters and two sons (Kathleen) Mrs. Cecil Garlough, of Nation Valley, Aden, Wilfred and Jessie, all at home.

Mrs. McIntosh before her marriage was Miss Zella Merkley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cephrenus Merkley of Williamsburg,. She was one of a family of seven, four brothers and three sisters, and of these three brothers and two sisters are still living.

Mr. McIntosh is a son of Mrs. John A. McIntosh and the late Mr. McIntosh of Williamsburg.

There were eleven members in Mr,. McIntosh's family, six brothers and five sisters, and of these five brothers and two sisters are still living.

Heartiest congratulations and good wishes are extended to the esteemed couple, accompanid by the wish that they may be spared for years yet to enjoy health and happiness.

HOCKEY NEWS

Whilst we do not usually sympathize with the player who blames the referee, it seemed on Tuesday night, that Mr, Murdock's back was turned to Pontbriand of Cardinal at the most opportune time for the centreman to pull off some dirty digs. He, Pontbriand, gave Salmon of the Morrisburg defence, an unmerciful raking over all evening, and your observer would submit that approximately fifty per cent. of the Cardinal's time should have been spent with the gentleman who held the watch in the penalty box.

As a result of the wild free-for-all staged during last Friday's game between Cornwall Flyers and Lasalle of the Ottawa City League, five persons face charges in police court on Feb. 5th. It is alleged that Yvon Renaud, LaSalle player, who was being escorted from the ice by police, was attacked by Mike McMahon, Flyer star. Renaud fought back, it is reported, knocking city constable Taylor to the ice. In the battle royal which ensued, almost every player of both teams took part. Charges have been laid against Renaud, Aurel Legris, Aurel Myre, LaSalle players, and Dr. J. H. O. Armstrong of Cornwall. LaSalle Club officials said they would prefer, and press, charges against McMahon.

Tomorrow, Saturday night, the Cornwall Canadiens will meet Iroquois, in the first senior game to be played at the Morrisburg Arena this year. Of late these two teams have developed quite a feud, and an exciting game is assured. A touch of local color will be added to the scene in the fact that Mike O'Malley, well known to hockey fans throughout the St. Lawrence circuit, for his speed, is playing for the boys from the west front.

After Tommy Gorman's Maroons were shut out 5—0 last Saturday by Canadiens, CeCil Hart, the Canuck manager sent a huge pile of towels over to the Maroon dressing room. Cecil regretted that he could not spare more, but said that these should help to wipe away the Maroon tears.

WILLIAMSBURG WIN IN WINCHESTER LEAGUE

Williamsburg Senators defeated the Maple Leafs in the first game of the Winchester Town League hockey doubleheader, by a score of 4-2. Art Summers gave the Leafs a two-goal lead in the second period, but Williamsburg came back in the final period and netted three goals in less than five minutes. The scorers were: F. Soucie, S. Barkley, R. Casselman and Marcellus, who scored the visitors' first goal in the second period.

Bezzin's Triumph

In the second game, Bezzin's outscored the Nation Valley team, 5-2. Dave Melvin led the attack for the winners, denting the twine three times, while C Hullquist and H. McDonald each scored once. J. Elmsley and L. Marcellus counted for the Valley team.

The lineup:

First Game

Williamsburg—Goal, Corry; defence, Marcellus and McIntosh; center, Barkley; wings, Sutton and Casselman; alternates, Soucie, Whittles, Smith and Hutt.

Maple Leafs—Goal, Williams; defence, Cross and McLean; center, Carkner; wings, Cameron and Summers; alternates, Wylie, McDonald, Dixon and Kenny.

Second Game

Bezzin's—Goal, Coons; defence, McDonald and Quart; center, Robinson; wings, Hullquist and Melvin; alternates, Rowat, Allison, Lannin and Curtis.

Nation Valley—Goal, Steinburg; defence, Marcellus and Williamson; center, Elmsley; wings, Gordon and Moore; alternates, D,. Munro, Shay, Smith and A. Munro.

Referee: Melvin Scott.

JUNIORS BOW TO CARDINAL, 7—1

Morrisburg's Junior Team, which has been on the short end of the score more often than usual this year, added another to the loss column Tuesday, when they dropped their game with Cardinal, 7-1. They did not disappoint their following however, in as much as they made it a battle from start to finish. The score is hardly indicative of the play, as the locals forced the visitors on many occasions to shoot the puck the length of the rink to maintain their lead. Two of the visitors' goals were undoubtedly scored from within the crease, or rather the place where the crease would have been had there been a crease. The arena management, however had neglected to place this line on the ice, and therefore the hockey executive had no grounds for protest.

From a Morrisburg point of view, the outstanding men on the ice were Denzil Dillabough and Ken Salmon. In the first period, Dillabough's crashing bodychecks produced thuds which could be distinctly heard along the cushion. Ken Salmon, who hails from Aultsville, proved to be the surprise packet of the season. Proving himself to be no respecter of persons, he stepped into big John Pontbriand on the first play of the game, and left that worthy squirming on the ice. From that time on, he became a target for all kinds of foul checks by the whole Cardinal team, but he showed he could take it as well as give it, and he made a big hit with the fans. Weir and Jitters Smith also turned in a better than average game for the locals.

Jiggs Woods and VanCamp, the Cards' defence were the pick of their team, and Casaubon was the best looking forward.

Scorers were as follows:

Morrisburg: Dillabough (Weir).

Lineup: Cardinal— goal, Jones; Defence Cameron and Van Camp; centre, Pontbriant; wings Cassaubon and Gill; subs. Woods, O'Brien, Frattura, Byers and Sayeau.

Morrisburg: goal, McCoy; defence Weir and Salmon; centre P. Smith;; wings Dillabough and Gamble;; subs Tuttle, Casselman, R. Smith, Tindal and Coons.

Referee: Hector Murdoch, Prescott.

...ELLE, W. Va. — A ... whose mind forces his ... to write figures and letters backwards, is puzzling physicians of this town.

The youngster is 11-year-old Harold Elliott, unable to advance beyond the second grade in school. His teacher, Miss Eleanor Mengert, discovered the queer quirk in his mental make-up which reverses objects he sees.

She told of unsuccessful efforts to teach him to accomplish the simple tasks of the second grade.

Calling Harold to her desk after school hours she gave him a list of numbers to copy and watched closely. He started with the figure nine—last figure on the list — and wrote it backward. Told to copy a word he started at the end.

"But when I held a large mirror to the word and told him to copy from the mirror," Miss Mengert said "he started with the first letter just as any child would."

Dr. D. L. Gallagher expressed the opinion the boy's condition is caused by incorrect co-ordination of his eyes and brain. Another physician, Dr. A. L. Osterman, of Wheeling, blames transposition of nerve centres.

Overwhelmed

Eliot Kays Stone in the New York Times:

The earth is big and round and is brimmed with wonders
Too deep for fathoming by mind or eye,
Is there more marvel in the cloud
that thunders
Or opalescent splendor of a fly?
Who can believe all that his eyes are seeing?
Are you as fair as eyes have said you are?
For we are overwhelmed in gulfs of being
That pour in on us from the last lone star.
So do not hold me to the earth forever;
Let love take wings and venture beyond space—
The earth a pin-point to his high endeavor
To look on life and see it face to face
For we are only atoms merged in being,
And what we are depends upon our seeing.

MINING NEWS

Clark Gold Mines, Kenora mining district, completed its new power house early in December and the 200 horsepower steam plant is now in operation. Additional equipment including mine cars, assay plant, hoists, compressors, etc, have been taken into the property. Diamond drilling commenced in October and by the end of November two holes had been completed. One hole 900 feet east of the shaft was put down to 230 feet. and intersected the porphyry as well as two veins which are regarded as the continuation of the veins known in the mine workings. A second hole 150 feet west and 185 feet south of the shaft was drilled to 255 feet and established the continuation of the porphyry and south vein to the west. The assay plant is nearing completion when drill cores will be assayed.

The new ore section on the third level at God's Lake Gold Mines to the west of the shaft, which two weeks ago had attained a length of 119 feet. has been extended by subsequent drifting to 195 feet, according to latest report received from the mine. For the above length the ore grades .30 or $10.50 across an average width of 4.8 feet. As a combined ore length of 659 feet had already been reported on this level west of the shaft the total is now increased to 854 feet, all but 141.6 feet of which stands to the credit of the current year's work.

The main shaft at Sladen Malartic Mines has been completed to a depth of 500 feet where a station is being cut. Extensive lateral development is reported to have been completed on the first level at 200 feet disclosing important ore structure. Drifting to westward from the shaft, located approximately 500 feet from the Canadian Malartic boundary, has disclosed ore structure for a length of over 300 feet. Widths of ore exceed 60 ft. with values up to $10.50 per ton. An average width of 40 ft. running about $8.25 is reported as indicated.

Diamond drill hole No. 37 at the Beardmore property of Wilport Gold Mines has encountered a value of $38 50 across 18 inches at a depth of 161.5 to 163 feet, with the next 12 inches yielding $6.50. At 170 feet 12 inches returned $11 20 while at 190 feet a value of $5.25 was secured across 12 inches. W. B. Airth, consulting engineer has recommended that a shaft be sunk at a point 800 ft east of the Leitch Gold Mines boundary, where the oreshoot has been proven by trenching and drilling for a length of 275 feet. Holes Nos. 3, 4 11 and 12 were drilled along this section and values as computed by J. D. Addison, show $13.33 for a width of 2.1 ft. Drilling is being continued, with the gap from Leitch boundary to the nearest hole to be tested. The "Break" from Leitch has been traced across Wilport property for approximately 2,200 feet.

Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. has renewed the option on the Ritchie Gold Mines property, east of the main Kirkland Lake camp. The large smelting company relinquished the option on December 15th last and it is understood that a portion of the equipment has been removed from the property when the last drill hole cut something of importance. It is understood that Smelters will carry through its agreement and form a new company to further explore the ground. Some $60,000 has been expended on the Ritchie property by Smelters.

A report from officials of the Brengold Mines, Ltd., states that in drifting southeast on the No. 2 vein on the 200-foot level, which was recently intersected by a crosscut, five face samples gave an average width of 17 inches and an average value of $46.06 gold per ton. The last sample reported is stated to have been fifteen inches wide and assayed 4.16 ounces.

The first gold brick poured on December 21st at Morris Kirkland Gold Mines and representing about a month's run of the new 100-ton mill consisted of approximately 509 ozs. gold and 1,000 ozs. silver having a total value of $17,000, official report. The circuit at present contains approximately $8,000 in solutions and it would appear that it has not ceased to absorb considerable values The next brick is expected to be poured January 20th. Progress of opening the mine at depth is proceeding normally. The orebody on the 1,125 ft. level at the shaft, which is proved for 190 ft. length, 8.2 ft. width of over $6 50 grade, is being extended to the east where last values were $11.20 in a drill hole, it is stated. The north crosscut on the 1,250-ft. level has reached a wide mineralized zone about 250 feet from the shaft where visible gold was found and high grade samples obtained

BRITAIN ACCUSTOMED TO CRISES

(From the Ottawa Journal)

Under this caption, "The Empire Creaks—and Rolls Steadily Onward," the New York Times prints a remarkably understanding despatch from its London correspondent, the brilliant Frederick T Birchall. Birchall asks the question: "Where do these events of the past week leave the British Constitution? and What has been their effect on the British Empire?" and his answer, a compound of comprehension and frank admiration, is a notable thing.

Birchall's article, one of those closely-woven things for which he is famous, forbids interference with its context, but one quotation may be made from it. Thus:

"In the British case, who can explain thoroughgoing democracy, wedded to monarchial pageantry, reveling in the past, quarreling fiercely and not always politely in its own political ranks, yet co-operating whole-heartedly, regardless of quarrels, in time of stress? What can you do about a people who appreciate most a joke on themselves and if one is not forthcoming invent it? What other government or people, fo instance, would enjoy and appreciate Low's biting cartoons except the British—or Americans? Who loves a lord and laughs at him when he is foolish—more than a Britisher, or again an American? And who is a more genuine democrat and individualist? It is hard to determine.

"Crises are no new experience to the British. They face them, come through them and go steadily on. This particular crisis is no exception. hat strange contraption, dream or reality, whichever it is, the British Empire, has rolled through this one and lumbers clumsily onward.

"Nobody understands it. Nobody satisfactorily explains it, because it is not understandable and is inexplicable.

"It is an interesting fact and incidentally another anomaly that all the best jests about this highly disagreeable business are British."

Reading Birchall, one recalls Emerson's famous phrase about the people "who see more clearly on a cloudy day." Yet there was one other British characteristic that came out in this crisis. It was the characteristic of humor, of capacity to not take things too tragically; the sort of characteristic one sees revealed in a people who can go in hundreds of thousands to the Derby when all Europe is in ferment, who in the midst of crisis can write letters to the Times on the authorship of some anonymous couplet.

That was the great gift—the gift of humor and of a sense of proportion—which gained British conquest in this last crisis. Mr. Britling not only saw it through; more than that, and more important Mr. Britling saw through i

New Kind of Oat

An absolutely new kind of oat has been grown by a Mr. W. Barker of Babingley Hall, King's Lynn. It has the advantage of possessing no husk, so that its yield is approximately double hat of the present English product. The straw has an excellent nutritional value, too, being rich in albuminoids, carbo-hydrates, and oil. This type of oat is grown at 45 lb. per acre and yields 24 cwts., while the ordinary variety is grown at 168 lbs. per acre and yields the same quantity. When one considers the saving in labor, it will be realized what an advantage this has over the average good pedigree grain.

BIG NUGGET

As a sequel to the finding of the big gold nugget which has been sent to England by the Southern Rhodesian Government for display at the Empire Exhibition, further exploitation of the giant neighbor mine where the nugget was found, has been made. This has resulted in the discovery of the lost giant reef which at one time promised to be the biggest thing in gold mining in Rhodesia.

Court Evidence

A Mennonite was in court at Hamilton because the family car had been driven by his wife, and she did not possess a permit. When it was asked that the oath be taken in court the Mennonite explained that his religious training led him to believe the Word of God was too sacred to swear upon. He assured the court he would speak only the truth. There was nothing much to the case; the wife will get a permit and the costs of $1 were paid. We are quite certain the Mennonite would speak the truth and nothing but the truth in court. In that way they are a great people and they can be trusted. In districts where hey live they also add a touch to the Saturday markets in cities which is distinctive. Their produce is always as clean as it is different. Apart from that we believe it is a fact that the word of an honest man in court is worth more than the oath of a good many other people. Taking an oath on the Bible does not prevent perjury Any magistrate of the primary court will admit there is perjured witness offered before him many times a year; and yet it is all on oath. — Peterboro Examiner.

AUDITORS' REPORT

TO THE SHAREHOLDERS, THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA:

We have examined the above Statement of Liabilities and Assets as at 30th November, 1936, with the books and accounts of The Royal Bank of Canada at Head Office and with the certified returns from the branches. We have checked the cash and the securities representing the Bank's investments held at the Head Office at the close of the fiscal year, and at various dates during the year have also checked the cash and investment securities at several of the important branches.

We have obtained all the information and explanations that we have required, and in our opinion the transactions of the Bank, which have come under our notice, have been within the powers of the Bank. The above statement is in our opinion properly drawn up so as to disclose the true condition of the Bank as at 30th November, 1936, and it is as shown by the books of the Bank.

EQUALIZATION OF ASSESSMENT, UNITED COUNTIES AS FIXED BY JUDGE, COSTELLO

In the Matter of the Equalization of the Assessment of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry; and in the matter of an appeal by the Counties' Council of the Corporation of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry as set forth in By-Law No. 2558 of said Council to confirm the Equalization of Assessment of the different Townships, Towns and Villages in the said United Counties for the year 1937.

Both the appellant and the Counties Council have in regular manner consented that the final equalization of the assessment be made by me, the Judge of the County Court of the United Counties.

The taking of evidence commenced on the 24th of August, 1936, and after many interruptions the hearing of the case and argument were concluded on the 22nd of December, during which time there were 53 witnesses examined and about 100 exhibits filed.

The following counsel represented the different interests:

C. J. McDougall, counsel for Cornwall Township, the Appellants.

W. B. Lawson, K.C., Donald MacDonald, K.C., and Lionel Chevrier counsel for the United Counties.

J. G. Harkness, K.C., counsel for Cornwall Town.

Arthur Flynn, counsel for Morrisburg.

I appreciate the assistance rendered and arguments presented by all counsel engaged.

Usually in matters of this kind, the Court depends to a great extent on the sales that have been made in recent years in the different municipalities. Registrar's abstracts of these sales were furnished, but it was found that in the rural parts very few sales were made, and on examination it was found that perhaps the greater part of these sales were in winding up estates, forced sales, or deals and trades for other land, and not for a value found by a sale by a willing seller and a willing purchaser. This is largely due to the recent depression in agriculture and particularly in the dairy industry which is the main agricultural industry of these parts.

Another condition arose becouse many of the assessors did not appear to take into account how values of lands in rural parts may be affected by location, whether with a river frontage or on a paved and improved Provincial and County Highway. Another difficulty arises on account of the rapid industrial development in the outskirts of the Town of Cornwall. The larger industrial plants of Cornwall are situated outside the town limits and many sub-divisions have been opened up and sold or partly sold and new buildings rapidly erected.

At the outset, I called the assessors of each of the municipalities and examined them as to the values on cross-sections of their municipalities, and they were subjected to examination and cross-examination by the different counsel. After this, and the filing of the abstracts of sales, the inquiry was thrown open to all or any of the counsel who afterwards tendered evidence of other experts or quasi experts as to values not only of the lands on the valu of which the assessors had been examined but on other lands in the various municipalities and also to make comparisons of the values of similar lands in different municipalities. The conflicting testimony given in many instances rendered it difficult to arrive at fair and equalized values. In solving these difficulties raised by such a situation, I was forced in many instances to ely upon knowledge of local conditions and values possessed by myself, as I have practised law or been on the bench in these Counties for more than forty years, and I believe there are very few who have travelled the roads and seen more of all the twenty-one municipalities than I have.

I have carefully examined the assessment rolls of all the municipalities with the assessors, and have adjusted and added to the business assessment of each municipality, and these additions have been added to the business assessment which were returned to the clerk of the Counties.

In arriving at the values in each municipality, I have taken the values placed on the different parcels by the witnesses and the sale values, when I considered such values given were fair and given by competent valuators, and have compared the same with the assessed values in the rolls, and in that way arrived at a percentage for the whole municipality as between assessment and actual value and worked from that to what I consider a fair, actual value of the whole municipality.

In the Townships, except the Township of Cornwall, I have not differentiated between farm lands and the properties in small unincorporated villages, but have included a fair number of the values and assessments in each of these villages with those of farm values in the same municipality in arriving at the percentage.

In the township of Cornwall, I have included the Villages of Moulinette and Mille Roches with the farm lands according to the method above set our for other Townships.

In the township of Cornwall, I have included as urban property the land from Lot "D" to Lot 17 in the Front Concession. Arriving at a proper valuation of this area presents my greatest difficulty. The assessor has included as farm land the greater part of many of the sub-divisions which have been divided into town lots and which should have been assessed as town lots. These sub-divisions have been partly sold in lots, and they were rapidly being built upon. In most of these there were prices of unsold lots fixed by the promoters of the sub-division. It has been argued that these vacant and unsold lots should be valued at the prices so fixed, but this would hardly be a fair basis, as one should take into consideration the carrying charges until sold, the commissions for sale, and the chances that some may not be sold for many years or may fall back into farm lands, so I have made a very considerable reduction from the sale prices of these unsold lots.

As the Township of Cornwall is the Appellant, and a great deal of evidence was directed towards the values of the lands and buildings in that municipality, I think it proper that I should set out more in detail how I arrived at the values on which equalization should be based in that municipality.

I set out in the following statement how the valuation of the township which should be the basis of equalization has been arrived at:

| Sub-Division | Assessment. | Values. |
|---|---|---|
| Blacklock | $ 10,400. | $ 21,500. |
| Lafave | 7,000. | 27,350. |
| Villeneuve | 4,000. | 78,800. |
| Riverview | 189,925. | 381,230. |
| Lorneville | 371,025. | 781,107. |
| East Lorneville | 29,000. | 50,000. |
| Gladstone & Laurierville | 464,950. | 857,807. |
| Beaconsfield | 243,200 | 486,400 |
| Fairview | 31,800. | 67,450. |
| Laflecheville | 89,950. | 149,916. |
| Smithsville | 57,650. | 96,086. |
| Cornwall Terminal | 4,000. | 12,685. |
| | $1502,900. | $3,010,331. |
| Lot D to Lot 17, Front Con. except above subdivisions | $ 302,075. | $ 500,346. |
| Industries fixed assessment in above area | 1745,950. | 1745,950. |
| All other property in Township not included above farm lands, Mille Roches and Moulinette, etc. | 2064,945 | 2130,097. |
| | $5614,870 | $7386,724. |
| New buildings erected but not assessed | | 178,000. |
| Error in assessment roll | | 22,680. |
| Business assessment as returned to Counties' Clerk | 734,675. | 734,675. |
| Buiness assessment added by the Court | | 59,912. |
| | $6349,545. | $8381,991. |

It may seem strange that although the sub-division values of the Township of Cornwall have been increased by about 100 per cent from the assessment value and the controllabble values (other than fixed assessment) have been increased in all about 30 per cent, still the equalized value has ben increased in from the value set out in the By-Law appealed against by only 1.388 per cent. I do not propose to elucidate this apparent anomaly. It has taken me many days of study to find it out, and I am satisfied that I have arrived at a proper conclusion

The town o fCornwall must bear a larger proportion of the Counties' rates than it has hitherto done. I found the assessor of the town to be most efficient in his work, and their case was ably presented by counsel, but I have come to the conclusion that instead of bearing 20.48 per cent of the Counties' rates, the town must bear 22.97 per cent of thes rate.

The rural municipalities have been scaled down to some extent, but not in every instance. Changes were made on account of evidence submitted, but on the whole there has been no marked changes.

I now submit the final findings as shown in the following schedule:—

| | Value Lands & Buildings. | Business. | Total. | Percentage. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cornwall Town | 9,395,000. | 1,244,365 | 10,639.365 | 22.972 |
| Cornwall Township | 7,587,404. | 794,587. | 8,381,991. | 18.098 |

ONTARIO HOUSE TO OPEN JANUARY 19

The third session of Ontario's 19th legislature will open Jan. 19, several weeks earlier than usual, Premier Hepburn announced following a cabinet meeting the early part of the week.

Formality at the opening will be dispensed with. The legislature opened Feb. 11th last year after being postponed from January 21 due to the death of King George V.

The premier said the early session was necessitated by development in connection with power contacts. He said legislation would be introduced to establish the sovereignty of the province in connection with civil rights but would not elaborate on the form of legislation planned.

It was believed in government circles the legislation would be intended to forestall a possible unfavorable decision by the Privy Council in the appeal of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission against a decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal.

Ruled Measure Invalid.

In a suit brought by the Ottawa Valley Power Company, the Ontario court ruled the Ontario legislation cancelling contracts with Quebec power companies invalid and that the Ottawa Power Company could sue the Hydro Commission, without the attorney-general for unfulfilled contracts.

"It is our intention to pass legislation to precede any decision by the Privy Council," Mr. Hepburn said. The Privy Council will likely hear the Hydro appeal early in February.

Meanwhile at Osgoode Hall Tuesday the Ottawa Valley Power Company filed a writ claiming $1,483,239 from the Hydro Commission.

The writ alleged the amount was payable under a contract with the commission dated Jan. 15, 1930, for power delivered or made available to Ontario from Dec. 1 ,1935 to Nov. 30, 1936. Under the contract the commission was to pay for power during the 12 months covered in the writ at rate of $120,000 a month.

News And Information For The Busy ...

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The Farm Weedlot

Except in unusual circumstances, such as high priced land for garden or fruit purposes, every farmer should aim to maintain at least 10 per cent. of his farm as a woodlot. This percentage of course will vary somewhat from farm to farm. The advantage to the state in maintaining this percentage has been recognized by granting an exemption from municipal taxation for fenced woodlots up to that amount.

Outside of the desirability of such a policy from an aesthetic standpoint, the many features of which are apparent to all nature lovers, we believe the policy a commendable one from an economic standpoint.

A farm with a good woodlot is easier to sell and brings more money than one without,. It provides fuel for the home and lumber for buildings and repairs. It gives work in the winter, tending to relieve unemployment. In fact the scientifically managed and properly cared for woodlot may be regarded as winter agriculture and the woodlot area may be as profitable as any other part of the farm.

Compulsory Legislation

Alarmed by the ruthless destruction of wooded areas in Norfolk purchased for the purpose of supplying fuel for tobacco kilns and which is being completely denuded of all forest growth, the Simcoe Rotary Club held a meeting in November 1936 for the purpose of considering this question. A committee was appointed to drift a policy to cope with this situation and present it to the proper authorities. The committee has met and a draft bill is now being prepared embodying the principle of not allowing the cutting of any trees under 10 inches, two feet from the ground, without the permission of a county forester.

While we do not like too much prohibitory and compulsory legislation it would seem that the gravity of the situation demands some such drastic measures.

STAR RUBY

By Louise Jerrold

Synopsis of Story so Far:— Albertine Tevans, alone in the world, works in a department store. She meets Dennis Maxwell, young jewelry salesman, who shows her considerable attention. One of Albertine's fellow workers says she has heard that Dennis got into some sort of trouble with his firm, and Albertine notices that he behaves very mysteriously. He speaks one night of being on the lookout for a sandy-haired man with a drooping eyelid. Out of a clear sky, Albertine's rich great-Aunt Celia, hom she has never seen, writes to her, asking her to visit her. The night before she is to leave, Dennis slips something into her hand to keep for him, then dashes away. It is a ruby!

CHAPTER III.

Albertine gasped. The jewel in her hand must be worth a small fortune! She had read about star rubie, and she knew that she was looking at one now. How had Dennis happened to be carrying anything of such value? In terms of his little car and his scale of living, it didn't make sense.

And why had he asked her to take care of it? Why hadn't he put it in the vault at his store for safe-keeping? Unless — Albertine inhaled sharply—unless the stone didn't belong to him! She discarded the thought immediately. But of what was he afraid? Of what was he always so watchful?

She stared nervously as the lowered blind of her open window flapped in the July breeze. Ridiculously enough, the night seemed of a sudden to be full of peering eyes. She dropped down on her bed and tried to think of a hiding place for the ruby where it would be safe until morning.

For, of course, she simply could not keep it after that. She would ask Dennis to come and get it before her train left tomorrow. She would tell him that the responsibility was too great.

She tilted her hand so that the light fell on the smooth, rounded surface of the ruby, in the heart of which was a star. It was lovely. It was fit for a queen. It must be very valuable. Was there some connection between this gem and the secret something that had been worrying Denny?

She stood up slowly. She would have to find a hiding place. On the dresser was a powder puff. Slitting it an inch, she dropped the jewel inside, then sewed the puff up again, and put it under her pillow. The ruby would be secure until morning.

She spent a restless night. She dreamed of Dennis—that he was in danger. In the dream, there was a man with sandy hair and a drooping eyelid, like the person Dennis had thought he had seen. And there was a girl—Carrie Williams—who kept saying, "Watch your step with that guy . . . He got into trouble . . . trouble. . . trouble."

Albertine awake, trembling, her heart pounding. She slipped her hand under her pillow for the powder puff. The ruby in its covering seemed to burn in her hand like a live coal.

After that, she slept only fitfully, until seven, which was her customary rising hour. She thought, with a wry smile, how she had looked gorward to the luxury of sleeping past that time this first morning away from the store. And now—she could not. She was too nervous and worried.

At eight-thirty she telephoned Tanman-Roan, but only the janitor answered. At nine o'clock, she tried again. This time, the switchboard girl took her call. No, Mr. Maxwell was not in . . . No, he wasn't expected . . . He had taken the midnight plane to New York.

Albertine hung up slowly. Denny had said that he might have to go to New York, so that news wasn't surprising. What she could not understand was why he hadn't told her that he was leaving last night. It could only be because, for some mysterious reason, he hadn't wanted her to know. He hadn't, of course, anticipated that she would try to reach him at the office.

And the ruby—she would have to keep it now.

Her train left at ten o'clock. She had bought a seat in the chair car, and settled down to a magazine. But she stared unseeingly at the printed page.

Where, she thought miserably, had her thrill of anticipation gone? She had looked forward so eagerly and excitedly to this trip. But now, the thrill had disappeared. It had vanished, she decided, with the knowledge that Dennis had flown to New York without letting her know. Dennis was in trouble. She was sure of it. That was why she was hating the extra miles the train was putting between them.

Denny. Just saying the name to herself made her heart beat faster. Oh, she loved him! And in his arms, with his lips pressed hard against hers, she had believed that he loved her, too. It was all so confusing. She leaned her head against the back of her chair and closed her eyes. What had he meant when he had said he hadn't the right to kiss her?

Would he write to her? She hoped so. She recalled momentarily how startled he had seemed, how queerly he had spoken, when she had told him where she would be. She laid her hand over the powder puff which was pinned beneath her dress. He would have to write to her about the ruby, anyway.

She wondered about Aunt Celia. Her letter, with its invitation to come to Tevansville, had seemed cordial, but Albertine remembered that her mother had said that Celia Tevans was a tyrannical old woman. Still, it was more than twenty years since she had disinherited her nephew, Albertine's father. Maybe she had changed. Maybe she was lonely now. And being lonely was a desperate, lost sort of feeling. Albertine knew.

Albertine was the only passenger to get off the train at Tevansville, and there was apparently no one to meet her. She waited a minute uncertainly, then walked to the end of the platform to make sure.

She saw a young man in shirt sleeves with a police star pinned to his shirt, sitting astride a motorcycle, one foot on the ground. He tossed away the cigarette he had been smoking as she approached.

"Looking for someone, Sister?"

"Miss Tevans," she said. "I—well, I thought she'd send a car——"

"Her car's probably acting up. It's about twelve years old." The young man grinned, then went on talking, with a glance at the shabby bag at Albertine's feet. "You'll find the old girl all right to work for, but she's bossy and likes her own way pretty much. I guess she runs her house like she runs this town. But all you've got to do is humor her. A Russian duke or something and his sister are staying with her now. They came back with her from New York a couple of days ago."

"Oh," said Albertine faintly. A Russian duke and his sister! Aunt Celia alone was terrifying enough.

"Looks like her old hearse coming now." The man pointed across the railway tracks. "Well, don't let her put anything over on you, sister. And" he added, with another grin, "maybe I'll be seeing you one of these nights."

A large limousine drew up to the platform and stopped. A man in a chauffeur's cap and dark glasses got out.

"Miss Tevans?" he inquired smoothly. "Sorry to be late. There was a little trouble."

It seemed to Albertine that his lips twisted derisively as he put her shabby bag in the car. Self-consciously, she got into the back seat. This was her first ride in a limousine, with a chauffeur and everything. She supposed that she should be thrilled, but she wasn't. Only a curious feeling of dread persisted.

"I WAS ALL NERVES"

FOR young girls growing into womanhood, for women in middle life going through the "change," or those who suffer from headache, weakening drains, backache and nervousness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just the vegetable tonic needed. Read this: Mrs. William Roy of 18 Pelham Road, St. Catharines, Ont., said: "I was all rundown and seemed to be 'all nerves.' I did not feel at all well. I could not do a day's housework without feeling tired to death. Headaches also sapped my strength. # The Royal Bank of Canada Shows Increased Profits

Total Assets Up $55,000,000 — Deposits by the Public Increased $71,000,000 — Liquid Assets 66.07% of Liabilities to the Public.

The Annual Balance Sheet and Profit and Loss Account for the year ending November 30, 1936, issued by the Royal Bank of Canada to its shareholders, reflects a very substantial growth in practically all departments of the bank's business. Features of the statement are improved earnings, and striking increases in deposits and liquid assets. Total assets are shown at $855,588,457, an increase of approximately $55,000,000 during the year.

Public Deposits Increase $71,000,000

Shareholders will doubtless note with satisfaction the high esteem in which the bank is held as evidenced by the unusually large increase in deposits by the public, the total now being $726,548,253, an increase during the year of $71,000,000. It is interesting to note that deposits are higher than in any previous Annual Balance Sheet, with the exception of that for November 30, 1929. Deposits by Dominion and Provincial Governments are down $14,000,000. A noteworthy development is the increase in non-interest bearing deposits from $194,000,000 to $310,000,000. This is, of course, accounted for mainly by the discontinuance of interest on Current Accounts, which also explains the reduction in interest-bearing accounts of $45,000,000.

Current Loans Reduced

Ordinary loans show a reduction of $32,000,000. Current loans in Canada are shown at $175,872,378, a decrease of $41,000,000, while advances outside of Canada increased by $7,000,000. It is understood that the decrease in Canada is due principally to the liquidation of wheat loans, brought about by the sale and export of the large carryover which had accumulated during the last few years.

Call and short loans in Canada are practically unchanged at $26,154,218. Call loans outside of Canada decreased $5,000,000 and are now $14,624,255.

Strong Liquid Position

As might be expected under existing conditions, the liquid position is exceptionally strong, total liquid assets being $513,230,273, an increase during the year of $90,000,000. Of this amount $179,280,978 is represented by cash on hand or on deposit with the Bank of Canada and other banks, while $241,639,440 is represented by Dominion and Provincial Government securities. The outstanding change in liquid assets is an increase in the holdings of Government securities of $53,000,000 and an increase of $18,000,000 in other bonds, debentures and stocks. The increase under this heading is understood to be represented altogether in short-term, high-grade corporation bonds. Total liquid assets are 66.07 per cent of liabilities to the public, which is, of course, a reflection of present monetary conditions rather than of deliberate policy.

Profits Show Healthy Increase

Lower yields on Government securities and the smaller volume of commercial loans have naturally had an adverse effect on income, but this has apparently been more than offset by the reduction in interest paid on deposits, increased operating efficiency, and improved earnings in other directions. Profits in previous years have been shown before the deduction of Dominion and Provincial taxes. This year, for the sake of uniformity in bank statements, net profits are shown after taxes have been deducted. Net profits amount to $3,504,241.84 and on a comparable basis with last year show an increase of $202,000.

Dividends paid absorbed $2,800,000; $200,000 was appropriated to Bank Premises and $200,000 contributed to Officer's Pension Fund, leaving a balance in Profit and Loss Account of $1,913,796, an increase of $304,000 as compared with the previous year.

Annual Balance Sheets issued to date show that the Canadian banks have never been in as strong a position as they are at present to meet any commercial demands that may arise.

The Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders will be held at the Head Office of the bank at 11 a.m. on January 14th, 1937.

Chocolate Bottom Pie
Chocolate Layer

Two squares unsweetened chocolate; 1 cup milk; 1-2 cup sugar; 1 1-2 tablespoons cornstarch; dash of salt; 1-2 teaspoon vanilla; 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Light Layer

One egg yolk, slightly beaten; 1-2 cup sugar; dash of salt; 2 cups milk; 1 envelope gelatine, 1 egg white, stiffly beaten; 1-2 teaspoon vanilla; 1-2 cup cream, whipped.

Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Combine sugar, cornstarch, and salt; add gradually to chocolate mixture and cook until thickened, stirring constantly; then continue cooking 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add vanilla and cool. Turn into pie shell.

Combine egg yolk, sugar, salt and milk, and cook in double boiler 5 to 7 minutes, or until scalded, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and add gelatine, stirring until dissolved. When slightly thickened, fold in egg white and vanilla. Spread over chocolate layer in pie shell. Chill until firm. Top with whipped cream.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Stains and Their Removal

Washday brings the usual number of articles which have been stained or spotted in some manner. Most common household stains are easily removed if promptly treated— and the majority of these stains require only a 10-minute soak in cool or lukewarm water, followed by a hot suds bath. There are, however, the old stains, or those which have been "set" by improper treatment, which frequently present quite a problem.

As a general rule:

(a) Grease stains are removed by a solvent or an absorbent.

(b) Coloring matter requires a bleach.

(c) Sugar and syrup are effectively removed by warm water.

(d) Resinous (gummy) substances may be cut with a solvent like alcohol or turpentine.

One stain may fall in two or more classifications, and in such a case, several different treatments might be necessary for thorough removal. An ice cream spot for instance, would leave sugar, grease, and coloring matter and might require the use of a solvent, a bleach and perhaps an absorbent for thorough removal.

Absorbents commonly used: Cornmeal, French chalk, cornstarch, and Fuller's earth.

Bleaches that are very effective for stain removal are: Ammonia (a 10 per cent solution, purchasable at your drug store is best); hydrogen peroxide, borax, javelle water, oxalic acid (dissolve 1 lb. of oxalic acid crystals in a cup of warm water and label it poison); lemon juice.

Solvents commonly used are: Water, chloroform, carbon tetrachloride, which may be purchased from your druggist; turpentine, lard. Some solvents are inflammable or explosive and should be used with much caution. The use of gasolene, benzine, or naptha is not recommended because of this danger.

Method of Application: — The method of application must be regulated to a certain extent by the type of material to which it is applied, but here are some general suggestions:

1. Place fabric on a flat surface, over a protecting surface.

2. If the spot is moist, apply the absorbent until it has taken up all the excess moisture; then shake or brush off.

3. Follow with an application of the absorbent rubbed in gently to avoid injuring the fibres.

4. Allow to stand two hours, or over night. Brush off.

5. Apply a warm iron to wrapping paper or white blotting paper placed above and below the fabric.

Bleaches:— Bleaches will remove the dye from colored fabrics and unless carefully rinsed out, will weaken the fabric.

2. Apply the bleach with a medicine dropper.

3. Rinse at once by pouring lukewarm water through the cloth.

Never allow a bleach to dry on the fabric. Ammonia is one of the few bleaches which may be used on silk and wool. Hydrogen peroxide and borax are also suitable.

Solvents:

1. May be used on silk and wool.

Water—warm, especially good for syrups and sugary substances.

Chloroform—fats, greases, oils.

Denatured Alcohol—gum, flypaper and varnishes.

Turpentine—paints.

Lard—black grease stains, like road oil. Rub into stain until lard discolors. Rub excess lard off with a cloth and follow with carbon tetrachloride.

Bread As Energy Food In Demand in The Army

That bread is our best energy food is evidently recognized by the army, judging from the amounts of it their dietetic experts prescribe, and the tons of it avidly consumed by cadets and soldiers. There seems to be a lesson here for the rest of us.

The kitchens of West Point daily turn out a variety of bread and rolls for the three whopper meals served the cadets every day. These energetic students, who perform mental and physical tasks all day long and must be in the pink of condition to do it consume large amounts of breads with other foods.

Actual figures on the amount of bread needed for soldiers have just been released in the Middle West, where about 25,000 of the young men are gathering for a week's camp in Southern Michigan, during the maneuvers of the Second Army. Members of the National Guard of two States and two divisions of the regular army are included.

From the 47 different foods which the army authorities have prepared for the encampment, the following list will give some idea of the appetites to be appeased, and the proportion of foods to be used. Bread heads the list, followed by potatoes and good red beef. These figures for the week are in pounds:

|---|---|
| Bread | 172,026 |
| Potatoes | 159,903 |
| Beef | 105,337 |
| Butter | 32,840 |
| Chicken | 17,530 |
| Bacon | 15,418 |
| Eggs, doz. | 20,870 |
| Pies | 78,502 |
| Ice cream, gals. | 3,131 |

That should give us some idea of the values fixed by the army authorities, who must get the most energy possible into the diets, keep the soldiers in the peak of good health, and at the same time watch the costs. Doesn't that sound like the family budget problem?

Higher Living Costs Likely For Next Year

WASHINGTON — Smart shopping by the purchaser of the family's food supplies is advised by United States Government experts with a warning food costs will go higher.

After a nationwide study the consumer guide, published at the Agriculture Department, said 'careful buying will be necessary during the first half of 1937, when the full price raising effects of the drought will be felt."

Retail food prices in recent weeks were said to have reached the "highest level since 1930" but the price study added they were "still 29 per cent. below" 1929 peak in recent years.

They said it has required $1.40 in recent months to buy the same amount of food that a dollar bill purchased in March 1933.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely, and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Canada's Gold

Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and natural resources, expects that within five years Canada's gold production will reach at least $200,000,000 annually and perhaps $225,000,000. Apparently good progress is being made in discovering that pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.—Kitchener Record.

It's a Moot Question

Chang has kidnapped Chiang in China, and it is feared Chang may hang Chiang if Chiang does not choose to join Chang and bang the Japs in China. The question is:—will Chang hang Chiang or will Chiang chip in with Chang and drive the Japs out of China?— Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Handy Stuff to Have

Canada has rounded the corner, and, having set the course, has but to continue. Trade is growing; earnings of the people are increasing and the rich mineral heritage is being revealed as vaster than the most optimistic imagined. It is not gold alone. Total mineral production will exceed that of last year, when it was valued at $312,000,000. But gold pays bills anywhere, provides currency backing, whether we believe it or not, and is a handy commodity to have in the public vaults for future stability. Other nations are increasing their resources. Canada manifestly is reaching a position where it will be possible to do the same.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

New Breed of Sheep

The successful crossing of a limited stock of Russian caracul sheep, from which fashionable furs are obtained, with other more common breeds is reported by United States Agriculture Department experts. As a result, they said, farmers soon may produce considerable broadtail, Persian lamb and caracul fur. Importations of the three mounted to about $3,000,000 in the last five years.—Montreal Star.

Colonies Are Expensive

Judging from the demands of certain countries for colonies, the impression is given that such territories are sources of wealth, but that has not been the experience of the great holders of colonies. Indeed, according to figures compiled to the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Germany and Italy have spent far more than their total colonial trade on their colonies, instead of showing a profit. Japan also has spent far more on her colonies than she received. Britain and France also spend more on colonies than they collect. The fact is that more often than not, colonies produce deficit rather than surpluses.—Niagara Falls Review.

Dim Those Headlights!

If only one out of three motorists are courteous enough to dim their headlights when approaching another car, it is high time the other two-thirds were made to realize the error of their ways. An Edmonton motorist, struck by the number of night traffic accidents blamed on glaring headlights, made four 80-mile trips at night over highways around this city. He found on one drive that one-third of the drivers he met dimmed their lights voluntarily or in response to a "wig-wag" signal. On the other three drives, the proportion of courteous drivers was even less.—Edmonton Journal.

Sitting on the Lid

Lethbridge has sat on the lid of its strong box for six long years of the depression. The result is that we have accumulated sufficient funds to pay more than 65 cents on the dollar of all our bonded indebtedness. Its financial standing is the best of any city of its size in Western Canada.—Lethbridge Herald.

A New Idea

Czecho-Slovakian authorities have an idea of their own about promoting traffic safety. "Directions for finding the nearest doctor are being added to all permanent traffic signs near dangerous curves and traffic intersections" in that country, reports an American commercial attache from Prague.—Brandon Sun.

Huge!

[illegible]ion of Soviet Republics, or [illegible]ia, is a country of im[illegible]d potentialities. It [illegible]land to Behring [illegible] seventh of the land surface of the earth. A speaker in Halifax in order to make his audience appreciate its great extent, once said: "We sitting here in this room today are nearer Moscow than a Soviet citizen at the other end of Russia, say Vladivostok." Which statement is exactly true as anyone may ascertain by consulting the distances in a map.—Halifax Chronicle.

It Hits the Spot

Russell T. Kelly, who is one of the most astute advertising and merchandising men in Ontario, in a recent address before the Midland Chamber of Commerce, urged that local business men should cultivate the surrounding trading areas. He declared: "Every advertisement, whether of a local or outside firm, is an invitation to these people to buy there. While a large number of outside newspapers come into a town each day, it is the local newspaper which governs purchasing locally."—Simcoe Reformer.

Youth

Youth is prone to protest against restraint, but without restraint it is certain that society cannot long endure.—Hamilton Spectator.

Old Order Changes

In the old days, the Fergus voters' lists used to be full of "Spinsters." They have nearly all disappeared, having turned into Stenogs, Students, Clerks, Teachers, Nurses, Maids, Musicians, Tel. Ops.—Fergus News-Record.

Submarine Safeguards

Italy and France have joined Britain, United States and Japan in humanizing submarine warfare by undertaking that before an enemy merchant ship is sunk, its crew, passengers and papers must be put in a place of safety, and open boats are not to be so regarded unless near a shore or a rescue ship. Unfortunately these arrangements do not seem to stand up under actual test.— The Moncton Transcript.

Danish Settlers

The Danes apparently seek wide-open spaces where their industrious people may find opportunities not now apparent in their small territory at home.

At least the consul general for Denmark was in Western Australia during the first two weeks of October examining the possibility of group settlement areas being taken over by Danish immigrants. In Denmark, he said, a special government department concerned with emigration had asked Danish diplomatic and consular representatives to study the immigration position in the countries in which they lived. The farms on the group settlements, he said, were good if worked properly, and would be satisfactory if the conditions offered by the government were such that they could be profitably taken over for dairying by the Danes.—Brandon Sun.

THE EMPIRE

Empire Migration

It is more than 20 years ago since the steady and uninterrupted flow of migration from Great Britain to the Dominions and Colonies ceased to be a regular feature of the Empire's corporate life. It is true that various specialized efforts have been made in the meantime—in South Africa, for example, by the 1820 Memorial Settlers' Association — with varying degrees of success, to establish British emigrants in the Commonwealth overseas. But unless what we have termed "the steady uninterrupted flow of migration" from Great Britain can be resumed and maintained on the old pre-War level, nothing is more certain than that some of the outstanding qualities of the British race will be lost for ever, both in Britain itself and in the Dominions, Colonies and dependencies. —Johannesburg Times.

Disease Found Among Lobsters

But No Danger In Eating the Meat

HALIFAX — Believed to be the first time chitinovorous bacteria have been reported to attack the shells of living animals, an "epidemic" among lobsters kept in close confinement for a considerable tme, has been discovered by Dr. Ernest Hess of the Dominion Fisheries Experimental Station.

A few isolated lobsters landed directly from the fishing grounds and affected by the same shell disease have been observed in different parts of the Maritimes during the past Summer, he said, in a paper read before the Nova Scotia Institute of Science. The scarcity of these cases showed that "the disease is of no alarming nature except when the lobsters are kept in large numbers in pounds or floats," the scientist assured his listeners.

Some tissues of plants and animals particularly the shells of crabs, lobsters, shrimp, the wings of some insects and the cell walls of some molds contained a substance called chitin a horny covering. Bacteriological examination of the affected parts yielded cultures of bacteria which were able, in the laboratory, to digest pure chitin. They were called chitinovorous for this resaon, Dr. Hess explained.

During the past five years microorganisms which are able to attack and decompose such chitin have received increasing attention. These organisms are quite common in nature, such a the bottom mud of the fresh water lakes, sea bottoms, soil, compost heaps decaying crabs and even in the intestines of living birds, bats, frogs and fishes.

The scientist emphasized the fact that the shells only are affected and the meat is in no way injured. No danger exists, in any case, to the consumers of lobster meat whether this be canned or freshly boiled lobsters, be declared.

Realize War's Costs Now

The Toronto Globe and Mail comments:— It is after wars are over that the cost must be counted. The trouble does not end with victory. There are the bills to be paid; but more important than these is the continued toll on human life that is levied during the years of peace. From Vienna comes a dispatch discussing this subject, based on figures said to have been collected from official sources. These statistics indicate what has been going on throughout the world in hospitals and homes where men are gradually succumbing to war injuries.

It is stated that, among all nation combatants in the great war, 8,538,000 men were killed or died of wounds during the campaigns; also that of 19,000,000 wounded who were treated after the Armistice more than 15,000,000 have passed away as a consequence of war service, and that there still are living 4,237,000 men carrying through the years wounds received in action.

Thus more men died of wounds after the war was over than were killed in action. As the years pass and these wounded veterans are weakened by age, the peacetime casualties become more numerous. These figures illustrate the staggering price humanity must pay for military operations. Yet the voice of many Old World countries appears to be "still for war." Britain alone of these nations realizes the meaning of martial conflict, and that is one reason why she continues a powerful influence in efforts to preserve world peace.

History of King Names Set Forth

Latest King Albert Died In 860 A.D.—Origin of "George"

If the Duke of York had not preferred to inherit his father's prestige as George VI., instead of becoming Albert I., he would have been—the New York Herald-Tribune points out —"the first King Albert to reign in England since 860 A.D.

SOME WILL OBJECT

To this statement some persons who are familiar with the line of England's early kings are not unlikely to object that there has never been an English King Albert at any time in the past. But they will be overlooking the fact that Albert, like Elbert, is simply short for Ethelbert, (which appears in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle as Aethelbriht, Aethelberht and Aethelbryht), and that Alfred the Great had an elder brother who ruled England for five years and died 1,076 years ago.

"The fuller form of the name Ethelbert is commonly but not too satisfactorily translated 'noble-bright.' In the early Anglo-Saxon days (and the name is a very old one) the title 'aetheling' was given to none but scions of the several royal or heroic lines that are traced in the old genealogies to Wuotan (Odin), and even to his divine forebears. 'Atheling,' therefore, seems to have meant 'of divine stock' rather than simply noble. So in an age when the bestowal of a name upon a child was an invocation of good fortune upon him, to call him Ethelbert would be much like saying: 'May he shine like the gods.' This is not a mean ambition for a prospective King, and the name is certainly more appropriate to the office than George, which is derived from the Greek for 'peasant.'

TEUTONIC NAMES

"It may be interesting to note in this connection that, apart from Georges, the Jameses, Stephen and John, no King of England from Alfred's time to the present has had any but an ancient Teutonic name, redolent of heathen aspirations. Alfred means the wisdom or counsel of the elves, the spirit of light. Ethelred is noble-wisdom, or more likely divine wisdom. Edward means guardian of wealth, or as it seems to have implied in rougher times, guardian of the spoils, meaning the leader of a raiding party who distributed the loot. Harold is Norse, the Anglo-Saxon equivalent being Hereweald, meaning the power of the army, or, at an earlier time, of the raiding party.

"Walter (Wealdhere) is the same name with the same meaning, turned end for end. William, or Wilhelm, which some translate pompously, 'the helm of resolution,' is in reference to, ancient myths of a magic 'wishing helmet,' the 'wishing cap' of later fairy stories.

ONE OF OLDEST

"Henry is one of the oldest of all being one of the appellations of Tiu (Zeus), most ancient and obscure of the Indo-Germanic gods, meaning probably ruler of the clan or patriarch (if the German Heinrich should be Heimreich). It invokes upon a child the care of the old heathen god. Richard appears to mean simply firm ruler. Least pretentious of all is Charles, or Carl, since cerol in Anglo-Saxon meant man, or man-at-arms, then servant, and finally churl."

SHEEP 16 DAYS IN SNOW

During a heavy snowstorm near Impendhle, South Africa, 1,000 sheep were buried under a drift and were found fit and well 16 days later. They were covered so completely that no trace of them was found until the snow had partially blown away.

Dedicates New Homes

Using an old-fashioned kerosene lamp of the type which lighted his home when he was a boy, Henry Ford dedicated the first of Detroit's new American homes by passing the lamp in front of an electric eye which automatically flooded the house with the latest in incandescent illumination.

At New Peak

88,000,000 Total —Amherstburg Has Record Navigation Season

AMHERSTBURG. — Eighty-eight million tons of freight, with a value of nearly $1,300,000,000, a new high, passed the port of Amherstburg during the 1936 navigation season

The number of vessels to pass Amherstburg this year exclusive of passenger steamers and pleasure craft was 21,747. Of these 10,922 were upbound and 10,825 down bound. The vessel passages in 1935 were 18,179. The principal cargoes carried were coal ore, automobiles and grain.

Prior to the opening of the new Ingstone channel early in September, both up and down-bound vessels used the new channel after its completion During the last week of navigation, many down bound vessels used the new channel because the lights along the Amherstburg waterway had been stored in winter quarters and ice floes were forming in the eastern channel.

SPORT HOT SHOTS

By KEN. EDWARDS

Mr. Sportsman! Do you thrill to the tug of a fighting fish on the line? A small warrior the size of a bass or something as large as a cow? If so, let us talk it over a bit.

Down in Nova Scotia the big-game fish is the Tuna. There, every year they harpoon them weighing as high as three-quarters of a ton. No other sea fish possesses more spunk and fighting spirit than this living thunderbolt of stream-lined fighting fish.

The capture of a 792-pound Tuna in 62 hours of continuous struggle in 1934 was the longest battle known.

The files tell us that Michael Leiner, of New York, holds the record for quick kills in Nova Scotia waters. He caught 21 tuna fish for eight days in 1935, the largest, a 450-pounder, was boated in 46 minutes and the smallest, 95 lbs. in 3½ minutes.

You all know of the famous novelist, Zane Grey, maybe so, but, did you know too, that in 1924 he caught a 758 pound Tuna, that remained a world record for rod and line angling until 1933 when Michell Henry captured one 857 pounds? It was Thomas Howell, of Chicago, who captured the largest Tuna ever taken on rod and line. The giant fish tipped the scales at 956 pounds.

The heart of the Tuna is considered a very great delicacy, and is said to be nearly as big as a basket-ball.

Look us up next week, Mr. Sportsman, we're going swordfishing . . . . happy angling!

World's Arms Trade $43,600,000 In 1935

GENEVA. — The total known trade in arms and war materials during 1935 amounted to $43,600,000, the League of Nations announced recently. The League said it would be rash to accept the figure as covering world-wide trading in armaments.

The figures were contained in the 12th edition of the "statistical year book on the trade in arms and ammunition." They include only arms and materials manufactured for war purposes, excluding sporting arms and ammunition.

The highest point in the past ten years was reached in 1929, the League declared, when exports were valued at $71,200,000. The lowest was in 1932 when, in the period of the world conference for reduction of armaments, it was $37,700,000.

After the conference disbanded, conflicts in several sections of the world resulted in an increase in exports of arms and munitions which prevailed through the next three years.

"Tables show the general world economic depression that set in in 1929—1930 had a much lesser effect on exports of arms than on commodities in general," the Year Book commented.

"The latter fell off considerably from 1930 but a decrease in arms exports between 1930 and 1932 inclusive, was relatively much smaller while since 1923 there has been an increase which has not been observed in trade as a whole."

Analyzing exports, the Year Book cited these figures:

Great Britain headed all other arms exporters up to 1933 inclusive, but the British position in 1934 was taken by Czechoslovakia whose exports were 21.1 per cent. of the world's total compared to 20.6 for Great Britain.

Exports from France also decreased. In 1935 the French shipments were about 14 per cent. of the total as against 26 per cent. in 1932.

"In the days of Queen Anne the newspapers had great writers and small circulations. Now we have large circulations. I am not quite sure how to finish that remark."

—Winston Churchill.

M.C.I. DEFEAT WINGS AULTSVILLE DEFAULT TO MAROONS

GOALKEEPERS PENALIZED

Two goalkeepers were penalized Monday night, in the regular Junior Town League doubleheader. In the first game the M.C.I. sprung a mild surprise by defeating Red Wings 5-2. Aultsville defaulted the second game to Maroons, when Baker, the acting captain, led his team off the ice in protest against a penalty to Ken Jarvis, defenceman.

First Game.

Orval Millward, the Wing goalie, was out of his usual position in front of the cords, Monday night, due to a hand injury. Orval played defense, and his place in the nets was taken by Harold 'Dinty' Myers. Almost as soon as the game started, Bay Millward of the Wings took a penalty for upsetting McIntyre, and the students, after a lot of milling around in front of the net, put one past Myers. George Tindal was credited with the goal and Weir got the assist. Gib Coons and Charlie Weegar were penalized in quick succession. Shortly afterwards Dint Myers saved a couple of nice ones from the Coons brothers (Gib and Bill, before he took a penalty. Orval Millward guarded the twine while Myers was off, and stood off the M.C.I. until Tindal hooked in his second goal of the game, this time, on an assist from Tuttle. Jitters Smith took a penalty, and Jim McIntyre was out of luck as he missed what looked like a sure goal. The Wings finally got going and showered the M.C.I. cage with shots from Reid, Millward and the Smith brothers, Jitters and Harry. Jitters finally connected for a goal in the last second of play in this period.

The second period started with good hockey being displayed by both teams, and the Wings striving hard to even it up. The students were hard pressed until Weir and Timmins got together for a goal on a nice play, Tuttle was penalized, and Marcellus saved several hard shots from Cliff Reid. His good luck ended, however, when Harry Smith pushed one past him on a play with Bay Millwad.

At the start of the third period, Tuttle of the School, batted the puck over the boards to relieve the pressure of the Wing attack. At the face-off Millward nearly got through on a lone rush, but was checked by McIntyre. The Wings, playing wide open at this time trying to overcome the lead against them, left Myers unprotected in the nets, and he lived up to expectation and made many brilliant saves. Tuttle took a penalty for boarding Coir, and was followed to the bench by Cliff Reid of the Wings for a similar penalty. Tuttle returned to the ice and scored a nifty goal on Myers, while Weegar was resting in the box, and duplicated the feat a few minutes later. The Wings rushed the play, but were unsuccessful and the game ended 5-2 for M.C.I.

Second Game

The second game was awarded to Maroons by default, when, with the score tied 2-2, Ken Jarvis, while shooting the puck down the ice, struck referee Gord Smith, and, refusing to take a major penalty, left the ice with his team.

Jarvis, Aultsville, shot his team into the lead after two minutes of play in the first period. M. Baker, Aultsville goalie, took a penalty when he allegedly interfered with 'Scotchie' McIntyre. Jarvis tended the nets till he returned and succeeded in keeping them clean, although some fine plays were made against him by Eamon, McIntyre and Gamble. Jarvis and Beckstead made several good rushes which were broken up by Locke and Eamon. Dan Locke dinged the twine, finally, assisted by John Macdonald, and made another dangerous rush a few minutes later.

When the second frame started, Jarvis, who had been serving a penalty, returned to the ice which relieved the pressure on his team considerably. Eamon, McIntyre and Gamble tore in on Baker in a smart attack, and Howie whizzed a shot past Baker, which the latter didn't see. McIntyre and Lock drew penalties in succession and were followed by Brown and Salmon of Aultsville. Baker, (Aultsville goalie) continued his great work in the nets, making a sensational save from Dillabough when the latter was right in the crease. McIntyre took a three-minute penalty, which he protested. He was still in the box when the 3rd period started, and Jarvis, Casselman and Price gave O'Malley (Maroon goalie) many anxious moments until McIntyre returned. Dillabough made a smart play, getting in the clear, but could not get his shot away on account of a rolling puck. Howie Eamon came right in and was stopped by Jarvis. He then tried a long shot which almost fooled Baker. Casselman of Aultsville, promptly returned the rush, and scored, making it 2-2. Play became a little rough and body checks became a little stiffer. Aultsville shot the puck the full length of the ice and in so doing Ken. Jarvis hit referee Gord Smith with the puck, and was promptly awarded a major penalty. Refusing to take the penalty, he called Baker, the captain of the team to argue the point, and the team later skated off the ice. The referee awarded the game to Maroons by default.

Tuttle and Weir Lead for Scoring Honors in First Weeks of Play

First official scoring statistics release by Gordon Thomas shows that Tuttle is credited with two goals and 1 assist while Weir has 3 assists. Jarvis of Aultsville leads the penalty parade with 7 minutes.

JOHN S. ANDERSON

One of the outstanding personalities of South Mountain passed away on Monday evening in the person of John S. Anderson. He was in his 87th year and was looked on as the young "old man" of the community as he had taken an active part in public and social activities until recently when his health had ben impaired to some extent.

He was a life-long resident of South Mountain. In religion, the deceased was a member of St. Peter's Anglican church and was an outstanding member of the Oddfellows.

The funeral service was held in St. Peter's church, South Mountain, on Wednesday at 1.30 p.m. where the Rev. G. O. Davies of Winchester conducted the service.

He leaves two children, Mrs. Wright of Gananoque and Robert Anderson of South Mountain.

MRS. HARVEY KERR

The funeral of Mrs. Harvey Kerr of Hallville was held Monday to Reid's Mills United church where the funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Donald Morrison, assisted by Rev. Revie of South Mountain Presbyterian church. The full choir was in attendance with Mrs. Geo. Carlyle at the organ. Mrs. N. Taylor was the soloist.

Mrs. Kerr leaves three small children, her baby only a few days old and deep sorrow and sympathy was emphasized by the large number of friends and acquaintances who were present at the funeral and who called at the home to offer condolence to her husband and family. The deceased was 30 years of age. She and her husband had recently moved into a new home. Mrs. Kerr was the daughter of Mrs. Hoy and the late Joseph Hoy of Hallville who predeceased her only a few months ago.

She leaves her husband, three small children her mother, Mrs. Hoy; one sister, Mrs. Bert Cummings, Ottawa, and two brothers, Russell and Robert of the same district.
