Mrs. Harold Rombough Wins V-8 Chevrolet Legion Hall Fund Swelled by Fine Bingo

Last Friday evening Chesterville Legion staged their annual bingo in Community Hall. They played hosts to one of the largest crowds ever to assemble in the building.

Players were in the auditorium, in the clerk's office, in the theatre rented for the evening, in the boiler room and in the hallways. Wherever there was a place to sit or crouch, someone was playing. Prizes were plentiful and generous in value.

Mrs Harold Rombough, who purchased her ticket that night, had her name drawn by Grace Robinson as winner of the new Chevrolet car. The Romboughs already have a car but its age is much greater than the new Chev. The television set was won by Grace Robinson, daughter of Mr and Mrs Fred Robinson, of the Nation. Mrs Rombough is a sister of Mr David Lamoureux, of Dunbar. She took delivery of her new car on Saturday.

Trinity United W.M.S. Holds Autumn Thankoffering Mrs S. Wilson, Ottawa, Gives Inspiring Address

The annual autumn Thankoffering meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society was held in the dining hall of the United Church with the president in charge. Mrs Ross led in prayer, which was followed by two minutes silence in memory of Mrs Ingram Cross and Mrs Wesley Casselman, two former members.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. A letter of resignation was read from Mrs W. N. Fulton and it was suggested that the press reporter act as secretary for the remainder of the year. A motion was made and carried to the effect.

Mrs Ross explained the new Ways and Means cards for In Memoriam for W.M.S. workers.

Roll call was answered by 27 cards sent and 27 calls made. Mrs C. McMillan, literature secretary, read a letter stating a slight increase would be made in the price of Missionary Monthlies due to the rise in newsprint costs.

During the worship service Psalm 727 was read, followed by Hymn 26. Mrs. W. Hamilton reported $240.77 to date.

"Confession of Sin" was read, with Mrs Harold Durant reading the Scripture.

Hymn 373 was sung. Mrs Arthur Ball and Mrs Geo. Johnston received the offering which was dedicated by Mrs Ross.

Prayer for missionaries was read by Mrs F. Forward. A solo, "Count Your Blessings," was sung by Mrs Fred Cass, which was very much enjoyed. Mrs Gilroy was pianist for the entire meeting.

The special speaker, Mrs S. Wilson, Ottawa, secretary of the Conference Branch, Montreal, read Matthew 15 : 32-38, then gave a very inspiring address, stressing the need of Christian Stewardship. Mrs Wilson was thanked by Mrs R. A. Mitchell.

Mrs Ross closed the meeting with prayer. A dainty lunch was served by the ladies in charge.

It is estimated that immigration to Canada in 1955 will total about 130,000, a decline of 64,000 from the post-war peak of 1951.

W.M.S. Eastern Sectional Rally Held at Williamsburg Mrs F. L. Shankwiler Guest Speaker at Gathering

The Woman's Missionary Society Rally for Afternoon and Evening Auxiliaries in the Eastern Section of Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial was held in Williamsburg United Church October 18. Mrs Eldon Fennel was in charge of the meeting, assisted by the secretary, Mrs Murray Dillabocgh. The meeting opened with the Doxology. Mrs Dunlop welcomed the guests on behalf of the Williamsburg Auxiliary.

Devotions on the theme "Wanted Today, New Eyes" were in charge of Chesterville Afternoon Auxiliary. Miss Ellice Smith, Winchester, reported on her experience as delegate to the School for Leaders. Miss Smith urged as many as possible to attend next year because the experience had brought her new friends, much valuable information and an immeasurable amount of inspiration.

Mrs F. L. Shankwiler, Montreal, conference branch secretary of Mission Circles, was guest speaker for both sessions. In her morning message she brought valuable information from the business conducted at Dominion Board. Mrs Shankwiler said "Missionary work in the world is like a jig-saw puzzle and the United Church's contribution is only part of the great missionary effort, all of which is seeking God's plan for His Greater Design."

Mrs M. D. Fetterly, literature secretary, introduced the new reading course and said: "We are building in each department of W.M.S. and we must have good material with which to build—material which we find in the splendid selection of books on this year's reading course."

The offering was received by Winchester Evening Auriliary. Mrs Leizert, Presbyterial president, brought a challenging message on the topic, "The Price of Efficiency," basing her remarks on Nehemiah's policy in rebuilding the walls around Jerusalem. Nehemiah's example, the speaker said, is a challenge to us as officers to review our year's work, assess the needs, use our resources and give our minds to our work remembering our thanks to God.

A bountiful and delicious dinner was served by the Williamsburg Auxiliary. The meeting convened for the afternoon and Mrs A. Dillabough, on behalf of Morewood W.M.S., invited the members for the 1956 Sectional. Mrs T. D. Ross, secretary of Mission Bands, reported on the rallies held at Merrickville and Chesterville, and reminded the leaders to attend the leaders' conference at Hallville on October 27. Mrs Cecil McIntosh, supply secretary, brought to the ladies' attention the requirements for 200 vacation schools.

Morrisburg Auxiliary demonstrated very efficiently a pattern for worship service for Auxiliaries as outlined in the new Guide.

Mrs Shankwiler's message, "Through the Eyes of Others," carried inspiration from the messages Board. Referring to our new Can-Board. Refering to our new Canadians the speaker said: "Do not think of assimilating our newcomers into our way of life, rather integrate them so they can bring phases of their home life into ours and feel that they are a part of us. We must be determined to point out the thread that holds us together, Jesus Christ, because Christianity has the answer to world problems."

Winchester Springs, in a humerous skit, demonstrated the necessity of submitting accurate reports. Elma Auxiliary received the offering. Mrs Reddick gave the report of the Courtesy Committee.

Williamsburg Mission Band greeted the ladies with an Indian greeting and sang two numbers which were very much enjoyed. Hymn 383 closed the meeting.

Grandmothers Guests At October Meeting Of Elma W.I.

The members of Elma W.I. were pleased to have over 20 grandmothers as guests at their October meeting which was held in the Elma Church Hall. The meeting opened in the usual manner after which the secretary, Mrs George McIntosh, read the minutes of the previous meeting, followed by the correspondence.

The roll call was answered by each member introducing the grandmother she had as her guest and gave "A quality I most admire in a grandmother."

The meeting was turned over to the committee in charge: Mrs D. A. Dillabough, Mrs Arthur Folkard and Mrs Cecil McMillan.

Mrs Dillabough gave two readings entitled "Our Yesterdays" and "Age," after which the grandmothers were asked to go to the front of the hall where a number of prizes were awarded, the winners being Mrs Burton Beckstead, Mrs Elmer McMillan , Mrs William Pemberton and Mrs Harry Carruthers.

A recitation, "When Granny was a Little Girl" was followed by two songs by Mary Ann Anderson and Gary Price: "I Heard My Mother Call" and "Mother Called My Name in Prayer." A reading was given by Marilyn Pemberton and a reciation, "I Went to See My Grandmother," was given by Linda Summerfeldt.

Violin selections were played by Mrs Hugh McMillan, accompanied by Mrs Bernice Barkley: "Just a Cottage Small by a Waterfall" and "Someday I'll Wander Back Again." Mrs Folkard gave a reading: "A Perfect Day."

The district president, Mrs Hugh McMillan, was then called to the front and she gave a very interesting address; her theme was "Growing Old Gracefully." A contest on song titles of grandma's day was won by Mrs Bernice Barkley.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem. A dainty lunch was served.

Morrisburg Man Named Magistrate

G. William Gorrell, well known Morrisburg lawyer, has been appointed deputy magistrate for Grenville-Dundas. The appointment is effective immediately and he will hold his first court in Morrisburg Friday, October 28.

He succeeds Major F. M. Cass, of Chesterville, who resigned several months ago to successfully contest the riding of Grenville-Dundas in the provincial election.

Mr Gorrell is one of the youngest, if not youngest, magistrates in the province and will hold weekly courts in Morrisburg, Winchester, Prescott and Kemptville.

RASPBERRIES IN OCTOBER

Monday of this week Mrs Ernest Beckstead, of Orchardside, brought a fine sprig of ripe raspberries to the Record Office. Her son, Walter, had picked them in their bush. The berries were ripe and plump and disproved the calendar by about two months.

Crysler W.I. Holds Regular Meeting At Ouderkirk Home

The reglar monthly meeting of Crysler Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs Wm. Ouderkirk. The president, Mrs Begg, opened the meeting with the Ode and Mary Stewart Collect, followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Twelve members answered roll call. An invitation from Berwick W.I. was accepted to attend their short course.

Mrs Delburn Baker was a delegate to the Ottawa convention. It was decided by members to send a blanket to Care.

It was agreed to cater for the Chamber of Commerce banquet.

Mrs D. Baker, convener of Home Economics and Health, gave a paper on home economics and a quiz on health which proved very interesting. The prize for the evening was won by Mrs Smirle.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Lunch was served by the hostess and assistant hostess, Mrs Servage.

"Impossible!"

"Yes, he refused to let me marry his daughter."

BREAK-IN TRIED AGAIN AT MARCELLUS MEATS

Marcellus Meats had visitors last Wednesday evening and they were not welcome. The would-be thieves used the same locale for their break-in try that other thieves did a year ago.

The window at the back of the store had been broken, and heavy iron bars twisted and bent off. Constable Wm. Hunsburger, who is investigating, patrolled the area just before he went off duty last night and at that time he saw nothing amiss.

Nowadays stories start with "once upon a time and a half."

Chesley Merkley Dies in 48th Year

The death occurred at Winchester Memorial Hospital Wednesday, October 19, of a well known resident of Winchester Springs, Chesley Merkley, in his 48th year. When he was quite young he contracted infantile paralysis and had been crippled since that time.

He was the son of the late William Merkley and his wife, Nora Jeffrey, and was born in Winchester Springs, where he attended school. His kindly disposition won for him a wide circle of friends, old and young alike, who mourn his passing.

The funeral was held Friday from the Armstrong Funeral Home, South Mountain, where the service was conducted by Rev Nathan Bowering. Mrs Clarence Thompson and Mrs Irwin Holmes sang a duet, "The Old Rugged Cross."

Interment was made at Maple Ridge Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Elburn McIntosh, Arnold Casselman, Ralph Allison, Cecil McIntosh, Irwin Holmes and Harry Holmes.

The deceased is survived by one sister, Mrs Ernest Wilson, South Mountain.

The beautiful floral offering testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Estates Awarded $34,100 By Supreme Court Jury

A Supreme Court jury last week awarded a total of $34,100 in damages to two estates as a result of a car-transport crash on No. 2 Highway one mile east of Aultsville in which three persons were killed last December 15.

The all-male jury placed responsibility for the accident with Brights Wine Co., owners of the transport and its driver, Russell Peacock, 27, of Niagara Falls, Ont.

The truck demolished a westbound car and killed Lyle O'Shaughnessy, 55, of Williamsburg, who was Unitd Counties' assessor, his daughter, Helen, 23 and Mrs Marion Gathleen McHaffie, 33, of Morrisburg.

The O'Shaughnessy estate was awarded $24,250 and the McHaffie estate, $9,850.

Another transport owner, R. J. Campbell and his driver, Newell Falkingham, 47, of Durham, Ont., were cleared of all responsibility. Campbell's truck allegedly was driving behind the O'Shaughsessy automobile when the accident occurred.

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

A Toot on Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en will be with us again next Monday evening. The kids, young and old will be on the streets, costumed and masked, following the ancient custom of crying "Charity." As always the townsfolk will be generous and the baskets and sacks will receive a fair share of bounty or booty, depending on the size of the kid and the approach.

Times change and some of the changes are to the good. The days of malicious damage done in the name of Hallowe'en are nearly gone and there are very few sighs of regret. The oft told stories of shot shells filled with salt emptied at tormentors by solitary homeoweners are nearly all past history now. That also is good.

Last year we did run up against a piece of foolishness in Chesterville that will not bear repeating; it is doubtful the perpetrators will try blowing our fire siren out of season, and it might be well for any would-be pranksters to remember that the law has sharp teeth for anyone foolish enough to do it.

Let the kids have their fun, but do not spoil the night by senseless pranks.

Night School to the Rescue

It is a curious thing, but every day in every way we humans are getting funnier and funnier. Now that is not an original thought—it was probably uttered by No. 1 who got off his hands and feet and stood upright and called himself a man. What brought it to mind more forcibly than usual was a TV programme we were glancing at the other night between sessions at our typewriter. Among other things, the programme had to do with an interview with a character who was classed as a professional handyman, or fix-it-yourself specialist. And that is what got us going.

Here in Chesterville, Jim Cunningham, principal of the High School, sends out word, through these columns of course, that night school will soon get rolling. Included among the mundane things like typing and such will be woodworking, leathercraft and allied hobby pursuits. And believe it or not, a large number of women will be out in the shop manning the lathe and power saw. Along with the ladies with a bent for the square and rule will be the usual number of male characters who feel knowledge gained will help to fill in spare time a little more profitably.

In this enlightened day, most of us have had the course when it comes to fundamental schooling. It was a dreary time, at the time, that school business and when it finished and the final June rolled around there was great celebration. Then the funny business begins. It would seem there might be something one could do with spare time other than going down to the corner and chew the fat. Winter has set in and now that the stove burns oil and the bush yields only fence posts, it might just be possible to find time to do something other than eat, work and sleep.

We find today's generation of breadwinners have more time on their hands than they thought possible when school stopped. What to do? They go back to school. It may not be to actual classes as the night classes are, but the Mr Fix-its are everywhere, busily poring over the latest hobby, mechanical or semi-mechanical magazine, learning by doing a whole new method of filling up daylight and nighttime spare time.

Isn't it funny! We spend our treasure in evolving a technocracy that will give us more spare time, more time to get away from hard work. Then we take up a hobby that absorbs practically all that spare time, and very often turns out to be harder work than we work at at the office or in the field.

Light Along The Way

"Christianity is religion of joy. The New Testament is full of it."

In the rash cruelty of life it seems impossible to know real and lasting joy. Yet even a cursory examination of the New Testament reveals how full of joy the hearts of the early Christians were. It is true that the Master is often "saddened" and "angered." He turns away from His opponents in sorrow over the "hardness of their hearts." He is continually tired, physically, mentally and spiritually, and seeks rest in some lonely place with His followers and His Father. But, in spite of this, He goes forward from one challenge to another joyously thankful to be about His "Father's business," "steadfastly setting His face" against all odds to do his Father's will. All the tragedy of His life can not rob Him of the joy that comes from fulfilling that will.

There are two things that man must find in life: A task worth doing, and a goal for which to live. The story of the Rev Samuel and Anna Gaudin ("Anna and the Indians"), is a thrilling tale. Although they "lost" themselves for over forty years among the Indians of Nelson House and Cross Lake in Northern Manitoba, these two yet discovered the joy of life in ministering to their "brown brothers." Their quiet tale of heroism is one of the long endless series of those who have found that joy which no tongue can measure, and which is part of every heart that has turned to God. Life must ever be a struggle, but those who seek to please God in all they do know a sense of joy which is otherwise unattainable. Any humble, honest task can be done to the "Glory of God," and when it is so done it will mean joy to him who does it.

All that man does he does with some purpose in view. Too often, however, he orients his life about some centre that is not sufficient to bing any real sense of joy. Jesus was adamant about one thing: That there is only one goal for men to seek, the Kingdom of God. "Seek ye FIRST the Kingdom of God," He commands. Life would be more joyous for all if man took that command seriously. Much upon which he spends himself would go, as the waste that it is; and the rest would be differently done. It is only by seeking a worthwhile goal that man can attain his full stature and "come to himself." In the light it casts upon him the shadow of his petty evils dissolve, and the weakness of self is overcome in the strength from above. God is ever ready to grasp the hand that seeks His, and to lead it forth in that faith and trust by which alone joy is born and sustained in the heart of man.

The Rising Price of Brides

The rising price of brides in several distant lands is turning young men's fancy into a financial nightmare.

In eastern Nigeria buying a bride has pecome so expensive that a government committee proposes price control and rationing. Fifty years ago a tall comely Ibo girl might cost $50, and an ugly old made three goats. Now a $300 bride is a bargain. A well educated girl comes as high as $840.

In West Pakistan, soaring abductions of 13- to 16-year-old-girls are blamed on high parental price tags. Suitors unable to pay resort to kidnapping instead.

Among many remote tribes, the bride price can be the biggest outlay of a man's life. Through the Bismark Archipelago it may come to 15 to 200 strings of shell money. In Samoa it includes canoes and pigs.

A would-be bridegroom in New Guinea's wild interior pays the girl's father in dog's teeth. Once he had to give his bride two human heads as well. A Bangala of the Upper Congo in Africa had to furnish his father-in-law four slaves, two male and two female.

A Basikuma swain, in the territory southeast of Lake Victoria, pays a first instalment of 60 sheep. Then he must work for his bride's father for two years. A Banyoro pays with cattle as fast as he can, but any children born in the meantime belong to the father-in-law until each is paid for separately with a cow.

In place of cash, a suitor may have to trade his sister for a wife. Australian aborigines exchange female relatives for brides. In Jammu, a father with no daughter to exchange finds it very hard to obtain a wife for his son.

Often a wife must be bought with years of servitude to her family. The Tiperahs of the Chittagong Hill Tracts in Bengal require a young man to work three years in his father-in-law's house before he can be formally married. In Palembang in southern Sumatra, a suitor contracts to work off his wife's price even if it takes all his life. If he dies before the debt is paid, his children continue in bondage until their mother is at last fully paid for.

Among the Kenal, Alaskan Eskimos, a man merely appears without explanation in his beloved's home and begins to cook, clean and heat the baths. If his suit is approved, he remains as a servant for a year.

According to the Book of Genesis, Jacob served Laban, his mother's brother, for seven years to win each of his cousins, Leah and Rachel. Aristotle writes that in ancient Greece men bought their wives, paying in oxen. The Anglo-Saxons, when Christianity first reached them, purchased brides. A maiden brought twice the price of a widow.

Babylonia and Assyria developed perhaps the most highly organized system of bride-buying. All marriageable girls were auctioned off twice a year in front of the temple. Those with beauty brought good prices, the money thereupon being turned over to the homely girls as dowries. Thus every girl acquired a husband, whether by beauty or by money.

Even today the bride price, where it is found, often is a touchy point of pride. Just as California's Hupa Indians ranked a man by the price his father paid for his mother, so Kaffir women among Africa's Bantus scorn a girl not bought with many cattle.

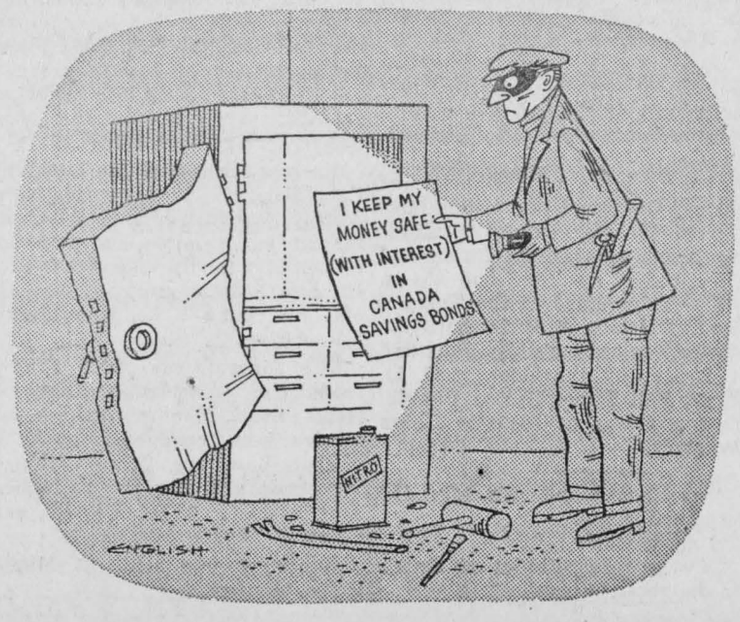

BLOODHOUND TAKES BREAD

Storekeeper Henry Topoll, Kalamazoo, Mich., had to get up early to find out who robbed him of 75 loaves of bread in six months.

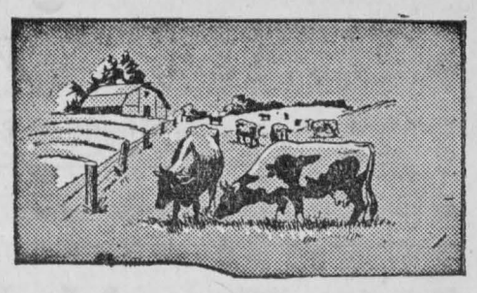

Topoll told police he saw a bloodhound take a loaf out of anewly delivered box of bread and wander down the street with it in his teeth.

He said the dog apparently knew the days and the early hour when bread deliveries were made to his store.

He took only white bread, Topoll added.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

"What! Another new suit!" the M.C. said to the girl commentator on the radio the other day.

"Of course not," she replied right off the script. "You've seen this suit dozens of times.

"Well, it looks different to me," read the man in his best radio voice.

"That's because I'm wearing different accessories today," the lady confided. Then she went on to instruct us women listeners in how to get the most out of our clothes.

Change your accessories often, she advised. You can make an old suit look like new by adding different scarves, blouses, gloves, etc. Experiment with unusual colour combinations, different jewellery and so on, she suggested. But don't wait until you're getting dressed to go out, warned the commentator. Take an afternoon and try the various colour ideas.

She sounded as if we had drawers and drawers and cupboards and cupboards full of blouses and scarves and hats and jewellery of every shade and colour under the sun. That we could try a whole set of red or green or powder blue accessories with the old grey suit to see which we liked best. I got a laugh out of that one. I could try on al l the accessories I own in ten minutes flat—and not hurry.

But the lady commentator isn't alone in suggesting that we women "accessorize." (And I despise that word.) Somebody is forever telling us to "buy a little, basic, black dress." Then we can dress it up or down for any occasion. We'll always be well dressed if we have a basic black, they claim.

And of course that is partly true. I've seen women who could tuck a bright scarf into the neck of a drab-looking, plain dress, add a sparkly pin somewhere and come out looking ready for a party. They can pin on a bunch of artificial flowers and glamorize the simplest costume. They can knot a rope of pearls in the right place, add a pair of earrings and look like a picture in a magazine.

Of course they can. But I can't.

I've tried the scarf idea plenty of times. I know the basic principles in wearing it too. You take a nice, filmy scarf and a dress with a big V-neck. You arrange the scarf so that it follows the V in the dress and shows only an inch or so of the scarf down each side, That's the way they do it.

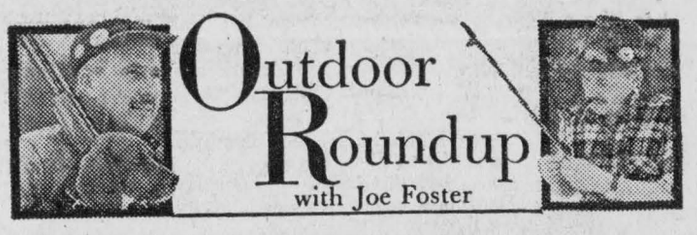

But when I try it it won't stay put. Before I get downstairs the blessed scarf is in a roll around the back of my neck. Or one side has pulled out of the V completely. If I try pinning it down solidly I can't straighten up my neck without tearing the scarf. So I usually get annoyed and throw the thing back into the drawer.

If I attempt to wear earrings and a necklace of some kind I invariably feel like an ad for costume jewellery when I look in the glass. So I jerk off the necklace as soon as possible.

Artificial flowers look fine on other people but before I find the proper place for a bunch of tea-roses I commence to feel like a fool. The dainty, little, coloured handerchief that peeks mischievviously out of someone else's pocket looks loud and disgusting in mine. Those gay, wide belts that my taller, slimmer friends wear don't flatter me a bit.

I don't have much luck with coloured accessories either. If I decide on powder blce gloves and scarf for the occasion I find the powder blue gloves are too dirty to wear. If white shoes and hat seem appropriate for a wedding, for instance, I decide that I couldn't possibly stand so long in my white shoe s without developing bunions or something. If a red purse is in order I have to vote it down as it is too small to carry the pencil, note book, compact, car keys, etc., that I require.

So I've found it is wise to buy a big, black purse, one pair of plain, comfortable shoes and a dress that isn't a basic black and doesn't need to be glamorized and wear them "as is." For try as I will I can't make little scarves and big pins and ropes of beads and dangling earrings and handerchiefs and pretty belts "do things" for me. I simply can't "accessorize" so I've given up trying.

In a few days now it will be November, a month of occasional sun and frequent gray days, a month looked forward to all year by the small game hunter. Now most of the leaves are down, with here and there the russet of an occasional oak to catch the slanting sunlight and contrast with the bare branches of the surrounding trees. By this time, too, there has been some rain, you can move through the woods quietly and you can see and be seen.

It Shakes Me

Driving into town the other day with a friend of mine, who I hadn't seen for quite a while and, quite naturally, after a few perfunctory infuiries as to the health of our respective families, we got to talking of hunting and fishing. What shook me was his telling of what had happened to one of his closest friends a couple of weeks back, and this makes one stop to wonder just how well some of the hunters who wander through the bush these weekends can see, even with the leaves down. This friend of his and his brother were hunting deer north of Montreal and they had been successful in knocking over a fair sized doe, which are legal game in that zone of Quebec. Why they didn't rig their kill on a pole and carry it out between them I don't know, in any event, the chap who shot the white tail decided he could get it out on his back, which he proceeded to do, all this time wearing a red cap and shirt of the same hue. What happened? Well, some trigger-happy nimrod pulled the trigger of his trusty 30-30 on the deer being toted out and got this poor fellow through the neck. By some miracle the shot didn't prove fatal and the victim is now recovering in the hospital.

How Long Will It Be?

Before the Quebec authorities get wise to the fact that there are some areas in the province, which because of the population density and the number of hunters taking to the bush each weekend, where the carrying of rifles should be prohibited, and when I say rifles I include 22's. Of course the biggest hue and cry against this proposal will come from the deer hunters. Personally, here in eastern Canada, with most shots at deer well within the hundred yard range, it is my feeling that a shot gun with a single barrel sighting plane and loaded with rified slugs or a heavy buckshot is about as useful a weapon as you'd want for bagging venison.

The Best So Far

There are, of course, books of all kinds and almost without number that deal with hunting and fishing, some in a general way and others that specialize on some particular aspect of these sports. Every now and then one comes across a particular book that seems to leave everything else you have read on the subject miles behind. And so it is for my money with John G. MacKenty's "Duck Hunting," published for the first time in Canada in 1953 by the Copp Clark Company, of Toronto.

The Contents

Copiously illustrated with excellent photographs by the author, the subject material has been treated in an extremely lively manner and although packed full of facts, makes for really entertaining reading. In this book you will find the different types of ducks accurately and concisely described. You can read in detail how to build and camouflage blinds, what boat to use and how to load it, what gun to buy and how to use it, the clothes

Excellent Progress on Cornwall Dyke Reported Much Care and Materials Needed for Huge Project

With nearly four months' work completed on the Cornwall dyke, for Ontario Hydro's St. Lawrence power development, some indication of the shape of things to come now is apparent. Already the outline of the broad base portion of this dyke is a familiar sight to motorists travelling No. 2 Highway between Cornwall and Mille Roches, just west of Hydro's main administration area.

When completed in 1957, the dyke will be approximately 3½ miles long extending from the north end of the main power dam and generating station in a northwesterly direction to the present hamlet of Mille Roches. It will be a massive size, rising to a maximum height of 80 feet in some places and having a maximum width at the bottom of 460 feet.

Gordon Mitchell, director of the St. Lawrence Power Proejct, said that excellent weather had favoured the work on the dyke which commenced the latter part of June. This work was on schedule, and he said that present operations would continue as long as weather permitted. However, it was expected that compaction work would be halted soon and would not be resumed until spring. In the intervening period, stripping and excavation operations will be carried out.

Use Much Material

Construction of the 3½-mile-long dyke will require large quantities of material. It is estimated that some three million cubic yards of compacted earth fill will be used, and about 340,000 cubic yards of sand and gravel in the pervious sections, also 180,000 cubic yards of rip rap, a heavy stone, for protection against wave action along the water side of the dyke.

However, because of the soil conditions in this area, one of the problems is to make certain that the material for the dyke is placed on a firm foundation. The soil structure consists of very dense formations of glacial till in the high places and very soft formations of marine clay in the valleys, which is unsuitable to build on. Therefore, it was necessary to locate the dykes to cross a minimum of marine clay and where found to excavate it. This will necessitate the stripping and excavation of some 1,500,000 cubic yards, including the removal of nearly 500,000 cubic yards of marine clay in three major sections.

While dyke work is in progress, an Ontario Hydro technical group consisting of a divisional engineer, a resident soil engineer, a geologist and several technicians carry out investigation work. They check closely on all phases of dyke building including soil conditions and compactions. Their work actually started more than two years before dyke construction began, studying soil foundation and materials to be used in the dyke.

Affords Great Protection

One of the interesting features of this dyke is the great protection afforded. When tightly compacted, the dyke material will weigh 145 pounds per cubic foot.

The dyke consists of four sections. The contract for the fourth section, which includes the dyke closure to permit the diversion of Cornwall canal, was awarded just recently to C. A. Pitts General Contractor Limited, Toronto. The firm building the other three sections of the dyke is Atlas Construction Co., Ltd., of Montreal. The function of the dyke closure and diversion is to avoid interruption to shipping in the Cornwall canal during the completion of the construction of the Cornwall dyke. A concrete structure is to be built on the line of the dyke adjacent to the existing canal, to allow for a temporary diversion of the canal through the dyke.

The Cornwall dyke, together with the main power dam and the south to bring any real sense of joy. Jeswill form an integral part to impound the water of the St. Lawrence River, forming the power pool—a big lake stretching for 40 miles upstream.

Miss Vivian Ouderkirk Bride-Elect Honoured at Berwick

Berwick Community Hall was the scene of a miscellaneos shower in honour of Miss Vivian Ouderkirk, one of this months brides-to-be.

She was escorted to a gaily decorated chair by Mrs Hector Courville, to the strains of "Here Comes the Bride," played by Mrs George Richer. Mrs Wilbert Ouderkirk, mother of the bride, and Mrs Alex Smith, mother of the groom-to-be, came to the front of the hall and corsages were pinned on each by Miss Lillian Droppo.

An address was read by Mrs Ernest Montgomery and stressing "Love Thy Neighbour" as the best policy. The gifts were opened by the bride, assisted by the mothers, and were passed to the guests.

A short programme followed. Miss Mary Casselman played a few musical selections on the piano. Misses Carol Moran and Ardele Richer gave two tap dancing numbers. Miss Marguerite MacLean and Mrs Robert Armstrong sang a duet, "Flow Gently Sweet Afton." Misses Noreen and Elaine Foley sang "Seventeen" and Side by Side," accompanied at the piano by Mrs Bernard Foley.

A paper entitled "Courtship in Grandmother's Time" was read by Mrs Ernest Montgomery.

Miss Ouderkirk then spoke, in a few well chosen words, her thanks for all the beautiful gifts and invited the ladies to visit her in her future home.

A dainty lunch followed and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close. A bride's book was signed by the guests.

Fire Threatens Russell Hotel Damaged

Russell House, one of the historic landmarks in the Russell area, was damaged to the extent of $20,000 early Tuesday morning in a fire that threatened the entire village for a time.

Discovered by Mrs Lorne Wade, about 3 a.m., the blaze wasn't brought under control until nearly 5 o'clock. It started in the shed at the rear of the two-storey frame building, owned by former Ottawa Rough Rider Wm. Linegger, burned out the north wall of the hotel and gutted the kitchen, diningroom and upstairs bedrooms.

Brigades from Russell, Vars and Embrun and many volunteer workers from the district turned out to lend a hand.

Conveners, Mrs Clair Robertson and Mrs Wendell Henry, took charge of the contest, the winners being Mrs Hattie Henry, Mrs Watson Ouderkirk and Mrs Eddie Hunt.

Mrs Anderson favoured with a couple of solos, accompanied by Mrs Robert Starkat the piano.

The penny-round-up baks are to be handed in soon.

Announcement will be made about the Armistice service at the Cairn on Novemer 11.

Mrs Eddie Hunt replied on behalf of the grandmothers for the pleasant evening they had enjoyed.

RETURNING TO CANADA

Among the soldiers returning from service with the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in Germany are Pte. A. J. Boisclair, Crysler and Pte. W. J. Nicol, of Chesterville.

Three small boys were sitting on the curb. One was playing with an airplane, one was playing with a fire engine and one was reading Esquire.

A kindly old gentleman asked them what they wanted to be when they grew up.

The first replied that he wanted to pilot a jet plane.

The second replied he wanted to be a fireman.

The third, looking up from his magazine, replied, "Aw, it isn't important, I just want to grow up."

Many Answering Appeal From Parks Commission To Equip Museum

Cannon balls, oxen yoke and a complete blacksmith shop are among the varied items already contributed to the proposed Seaway Valley museum.

George H. Challies, chairman of the Ontario-St. Lawrence Parks Commision said the response to an appeal for historical relics has been excellent.

"People appear to be keenly interested," he said.

The commission intends to set up the museum in Seaway Valley as a memorial to the places which will be flooded when the waters of the St. Lawrence are backed up by the gigantic seaway and power project.

Tentative plans call for the shifting of the Crysler Farm monument to higher ground and construction of a new base. A memorial cemetery will be built around the monument with headstones of district pioneers gathered from land which will be flooded.

Mr Challies said it was hoped two or three buildings, typical of the early district homes, could be moved somewhere to a site somewhere near the Crysler battlefield. He said they would be completely furnished with relics from the Seaway Valley area.

The Parks Commission made an appeal to Record readers in last week's issue to anyone who has any articles which might be of interest to contact officials at the commission's office in Morrisburg. Articles will be collected.

"Will you still love me when I'm old and grey, George?"

"Of course, dear. Look how fond I still am of my rusty old bicycle.

PURINA FEEDING PLAN FOR THE MILKING HERD

Purina research and customer experience both recommend a 16 per cent milking ration. Higher protein may increase output for a few weeks, but it does not last.

Vary the mount of milking ration according to production and the kind and consumption of hay. "Rule of thumb" rates: High-quality hay —Holsteins, 1 lb. 16 per cent ration to 4 lbs. milk; Jerseys, 1 to 3; medium-fat breeds, in between. With poorer hay, Holsteins may need 1 to 3; Jerseys 1 to 2.

Always grind grain for cows coarse. If it contains much corn or wheat, lighten it up with Bulky-Las. Many prefer to roll wheat. Unless good hay is unusually scarce and high-priced, it cuts costs to feed all that your cows will clean up. "Rule of thumb": Without silage, 2 lbs. hay per day per 100 lbs. body weight (20 lbs. for 1,000 lb. cow) . . . with corn silage, as low as 1 lb. per 100 lbs. body weight.

Silage: Corn, not over 2½ lbs. per day per 100 . . . grass, not over 3 lbs. (As silage averages 20 to 30 lbs. per bushel, this means about 1 bushel per day to a 1,000 lb. cow.)

If you have lots of grain, mix 400 lbs. chop or rolled grain and 100 Cow Chow Concentrate.

Also included is a helpful chapter on things not to do, for the hunters who might fall into dangerous habits while concentrating on getting their quarry. Without a doubt this is a book that I have enjoyed more than any other that I have read on this subject. An excellent addition to the sportsman's library.

BAKED IN A CASSEROLE

A flavourful casserole of meat, fish or vegetables seems to have a special appeal for supper on a cool fall evening. Here are a few recipes that are economical, tasty and easy to prepare.

From the point of view of the cook, a casserole supper has the advantage that it may be prepared ahead of time and be all ready to pop in the oven without further fuss. Then, it can be brought to the table in the dish in which it was cooked, thus eliminating extra dish washing.

Egg Noodle Casserole

2 cups noodles
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
2⅛ cups tomatoes
1 cup grated Canadian cheese
¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
⅛ tsp. salt
6 hard cooked eggs

Cook noodles in boiling salted water; drain. Brown onion and green pepper in hot fat. Add tomatoes and simmer five minutes; add cheese. Melt butter; blend in flour and salt. Stir in tomato mixture; cook and stir until thick. Place half the noodles in bottom of casserole; slice three eggs over noodles; top with half the tomato mixture. Repeat layers, covering egg slices with tomato mixture. Bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes.

Dried Beef Rice Casserole

1½ cups water
1½ cups cooked rice
1 can vegetable soup
1 cup milk
¼ cup grated cheese
1 cup dried beef pieces
1 cup soft bread crumbs
2 tbsps. melted butter

Combine all ingredients except crumbs and melted butter. Pour into greased casserole. Top with buttered crumbs. Bake in moderate oven 30 minutes.

Potato Cheese and Bacon Casserole

3 large potatoes
4 small onions
1 tbsp. flour
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
¼ cup grated Canadian cheese
½ cup milk
Bacon slices

Into a greased casserole place layers os seasoned, sliced onions and potatoes in the same manner as for escalloped potatoes. Sprinkle with flour. Sprinkle grated cheese over the top. Pour on milk. Top with bacon slices. Bake in a moderate oven one hour. Cover when bacon is crisp.

Corned Beef Casserole

1 six ounce pkg. macaroni
1 can corned beef
1 cup grated Canadian cheese
1 can cream chicken soup
1 cup milk
¼ cup chopped onion
1 cup buttered crumbs

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water till tender. Drain and rinse well. Combine remaining ingredients except crumbs and place in greased casserole, alternating with layers of macaroni. Top with buttered crumbs. Bake in moderate oven one hour.

FIND REMAINS ICE-AGE HORSE

Remains of a rare ice-age horse which roamed North America 10,000 years aga have been found in a gravel pit near Fort Qu'Appelle, 50 miles northeast of Regina.

Bruce McCorquodale ,paleontologist at the provincial museum of natural history, said that from the same gravel pit also came the teeth and a portion of a tusk of a wooly mammoth, and what appears to be part of the skull of a musk ox.

He explained that a modern type of horse evolved on this continent 5,000,000 years ago and migrated to Asia. Those horses that stayed behind were wiped out during the ice age. It was not until the 14th century that Spanish explorers re-introduced the horse to North America.

LEMONADE REPLACES BEER

Some folks in England have been watering their plants with beer to make them grow.

This struck Joseph Henderson, of Haltwhistle, Eng., as a criminal wast of brew, so he experimented. He reported recently he has dosed his chrysanthemums with three cups of lemonade weekly and has one plant 10 feet tall.

High School Principals Hold Conference At Prescott

The principals and vice-principals in Mr Walter Zeigler's inspectorate held a very successful conference at Daniels' Hotel, Prescott, during the weekend of October 14 and 15, when problems of administration and teacher supervision were discussed.

O. H. Nickel, of Kemptville, presided at both the Friday evening and Saturday morning sessions and Inspector Zeigler took a leading part in all the discussions. T. B. Higginson, of Finch, with six of the members of the conference as pupils, conducted a literature lesson which was later thoroughly discussed by the members. From the discussion many helpful suggestions emerged regarding the best methods of providing assistance by principals to beginning teachers on their staffs. As the evaluating of teachers is more and more becoming a responsibility of principals, this "model" lesson proved extremely helpful.

At the Saturday morning session, J. E. Cunningham, of Chesterville, gave a very interesting account of the tour which four of the Eastern Ontario principals made in company with Mr Zeigler to Belleville, Seaforth, Goderich and Collingwood last spring. He commented on the many favourable features they had noted in the various schools they had visited. The delegation was particularly interested in getting information about noon hour supervision, the operation of cafeterias, the rental of gymnasiums, principal-teacher relations, and the organization, financing and control of bus transportation. Mr Cunningham was able to pass on to the conference the findings of the visitors on these various topics, and further information was pooled through the discussion that followed his report.

J. T. Smith, of Alexandria, led a discussion on staff meetings and outlined the procedure that was followed in his school in the formulation of policy by principal and staff.

A report on uniform rating of teachers was presented by Ralph Froats, Cornwall Collegiate Institute and Vocational School. He had associated with him as members of the committee, Vernon Ready, Kingston Collegiate and Vocational School, and Reg Cousins, of Prescott. The committee submitted a classification scheme which was discussed by the conference, and amended as a result of suggestions by Mr Zeigler and other members.

It was agreed that the conference had been extremely successful, not only because of the exchange of helpful information of particular interest to principals and vice-principals, but also because of the many personal contacts that were made by those in attendance.

IN MEMORIAM

CRUMP—In fond and loving memory of my beloved husband, George Crump, who passed away suddenly October 31, 1951.

I miss him when I need a friend,
On him I could always depend;
He cheered my way, he soothed my pain,
God grant someday we'll meet again.
My lips cannot speak; I love him,
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how I miss him
In my home that is lonesome today.

Sadly Missed by Wife.

REHEARSALS UNDERWAY LEGION-SPONSORED SHOW TO BE HELD HERE

Rehearsals are underway for the forthcoming production, "Holiday Ahoy," under the direction of Miss Lola Wilkin, which the Chesterville Legion will sponsor Thursday and Friday, November 3rd and 4th in Community Hall here.

The cast will include between fifty and a hundred local people, some of whom impersonate famous TV, radio and movie celebrities. Others take the parts of Indians, cowboys and sailors, and even Fiji Island women.

The scene of the show is laid at dockside on the day the famous ship, the S.S. Holiday, is to start her maiden voyage. The captain and others have gathered for the great occasion.

A flashback of the experiences of the Captain's career furnishes the basis for several scenes in the show. One of these shows a boatload of children of servicemen who were passengers on one of the Captain's voyages. The nurse in charge of the children entertains them by telling stories.

A story of the Wild West is enacted by the small fry of Chesterville. Chorus groups have been chosen from the local high school girls.

Circle the dates of November 3rd and 4th on your calendar.
