"BANK STREET" IN MORRISBURG

Mr. George D. Howith, President of The Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce, replies to an editorial appearing in the Brockville Recorder and Times, on March 7th, 1935, and an editorial in the Winchester Press of March 14th, criticising the suggested renaming of the Gravel Road, Morrisburg, as Bank Street, the erection of name plates on its streets, and the numbering of houses.

"In the interest of business in general in Morrisburg, and in defence of the present advertising programme of the Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce which includes the erection of name plates and the renaming of the street leading to Ottawa as 'Bank Street,' the executive of the Chamber of Commerce feels that editorials, without reason or common sense, by the Brockville Recorder and the Winchester Press, whose comments are void of constructive phrases, and express nothing but a tinge of jealousy, are uncalled for. Morrisburg is well able to name its own streets, Main Street, Bank Street, or any other name which will have the approval of the community. It has also the privilege of erecting name plates and numbering all its homes at its own pleasure. In fairness to the business men of Morrisburg, who do not criticize municipal advertising programs in other municipalities, the Chamber feels that the criticism expressed should be withdrawn, and that an apology is due, since Morrisburg patronizes both Brockville and Winchester, and never indulges in meddling in the internal affairs of either municipality.

"Winchester can have a Chamber of Commerce or a Board of Trade if it wishes, without any interference from other such organizations, but the Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce resents any attack upon painting and decorating suggestions for the Village of Morrisburg, by the Winchester Press. Business men in Morrisburg are going to look after their own interests, without seeking outside advice.

"Since public interest is aroused as to the new name of 'Bank Street', it may be of interest to subscribers of the Brockville Recorder and Winchester Press, that the real purpose of adopting the name of Bank Street is to encourage Ottawans in using No. 31 Highway, which starts with Bank Street at the Ottawa River, and ends with 'Bank Street' on the St. Lawrence River, the total distance between Ottawa and Morrisburg being only 46 miles. For years, No. 31 Highway has been known as the Metcalfe Road, and many Ottawa motorists are not acquainted with the fact that No. 31 Highway has only twenty curves, as against seventy or more curves on other highways connecting the Capital of Canada and the St. Lawrence River. The name 'Bank Street' at each end of the road will be popular with tourists, and help overcome the old Metcalfe Road impression on the motorists' minds.

Morrisburg is quite proud of its straight, wide, cleanly-kept, main thoroughfare, and if 'Bank Street' is adopted in place of the obsolete name of the 'Gravel Road,' it will be of great convenience to Ottawa motorists, of whom there are over thirty thousand.

"Brockville and Winchester can name their streets 'Shanghai Avenue' or any other name, and they can rest assured that they will not be criticized for so doing, but rather, whatever names any municipality may adopt, they will be advertised for the benefit of the public, by the Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce.

"In concluding, it may be very prudent for newspapers in other villages to adopt the first principle of the Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce, which is, 'minding its own business and doing it well' ".

GEORGE D. HOWITH,
President,
Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce.

UNITED W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of United W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Suffell on March 14th, the vice-president presiding. Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Foster. The business of importance was the decision to have Cornwall Choir put on an Easter Cantata April 23rd. Please remember to keep this date open. More regarding it later. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Zeron.

"The Circle of Friendship," the devotional leaflet, was given by Mrs. Boyd.

Mr. Trevor Allison rendered a beautiful solo, accompanied by Mr. Darwin Stata at the piano, which was greatly enjoyed by all.

"The Beginning of Wisdom," by Alexander Duff, which was the study leaflet, was read by Mrs. Helmer. The study period was taken in the form of leaflets, read by Mrs. Blancher, Mrs. Wiggins, Mrs. Reddick, Miss Taylor, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Clark.

Hymn, "Story to Tell to the Nations," was sung. The meeting was closed by Mrs. Boyd.

A social hour followed, and delightful refreshments were served by the hostess.

ST. JAMES BOYS' CLUB WIN JUVENILE GAME

A very interesting juvenile hockey game took place last night (Thursday) at the Arena, when St. James Boys' Club defeated the Boy Scouts 6-5. The game was very exciting, and was watched by a large number of schoolboys. "Snowball" Aikman played a good game, and gives promise of becoming a good hockey player in the future. Duval was also good, but he received an injury to his eye and nose. Duval scored three for the Scouts, and Leslie Foulds bagged two. The St. James marksmen were: Ed. Jarvis 2, Reddick, Eamon, Hutt and Earl Coir, 1 each. Junior Currie played a good game in nets for St. James Club.

The Scout team, under George Tindal, was:

Goal, Arthur Tindal; defence, Duval and Robinson; wings, Ross Foulds and Bruce Aikman; centre, Leslie Foulds; subs, Ray Beckstead and Ralph Warring.

St. James Boys' Club, under Arthur Blackman, were:

Goal, Junior Currie; defence, Brock Smith and Earl Coir; wings, Ralph Coir and Cameron; centre, Hutt; subs, Eamon, Reddick, Reid, Jarvis.

A PLEASANT WIND-UP OF A SUCCESSFUL SEASON

A banquet tendered to the "Black Hawks", through the generosity of the members of the staff of the local newspaper, on Thursday evening, terminated a successful hockey season for one of the leading teams in the town league, the Hawks finishing within one goal of the top. The display of good things to eat by Mr. Henry Ing was a credit to his establishment.

The "Black Hawks" wish to thank all those who assisted them during the season, and to extend congratulations to the "Leafs", who carried away the honors in the play-offs. The four teams enlisted in the town league were the "Maple Leafs," "Maroons," "Indians" and "Black Hawks", while Williamsburg were capably represented by the "Canadiens".

Much credit is due the entire organization for the splendid sportsmanship displayed throughout the season.

TEST LANDING AT NEW DOCK

With ideal weather and an offshore wind, and a rise of 1½ feet above the nomal low water level, the Manager of the Ferry Company endeavoured to make a test landing, but had considerable difficulty in approaching the new dock on account of the shoal, which apparently runs 25 feet from the eastern point of the dock. The effort to swing out was impossible, and the rudder prevented the boat from backing up, so that the boat had to make its turn at the old landing.

It is quite apparent that extensions to the dock will be an improvement, but to those who watched the ferry, it was evident that dredging operations will be necessary from the new dock to the third crib, and around it, before a landing can be effected.

MINUTES OF COUNCIL

Special meeting of Council held in the Clerk's office on Tuesday, at 2.30 p.m.

Present: Messrs Flynn, Hessell, Roach and Jarvis.

Moved by Mr. Roach, seconded by Mr. Jarvis, that Smart-Turner Machine Co. be notified to remove pumps, as they are not satisfactory.

CARRIED.

Yea—Messrs Roach, Jarvis, Hessell.
Nay—Mr. Flynn.

Moved by Mr. Hessell, seconded by Mr. Jarvis, that all correspondence between the Reeve and Smart-Turner Machine Co. be filed with the Clerk.

Council then adjourned.

BOY OF 13 ARRESTED AS TOWNSHIP GHOST

The ghost of Burgess township, who last January was responsible for mysteriously breaking windows, walking flatirons and bouncing crockery in the home of John Quinn, on the shore of Black Lake, near Perth, Ont., is in the custody of Provincial Police.

Stripped of his nether-world shroud, the ghost turned out to be a 13-year-old Burgess boy, who is held also on a charge of arson in connection with the fire which destroyed a barn on the farm of Michael McFarland, a neighbour of his parents.

Investigations by police, following the fire, led to the arrest of the boy this week. He was taken to headquarters at Perth,and questioned.

He was said by police to have admitted setting fire to the barn, and also to have told of being responsible for the mysterious goings-on at the Black Lake farmhouse, which drew hundreds of curious visitors to the place, and baffled police and newspaper reporters.

Police turned the boy over to the superintendent of Lanark County Children's Aid Society until Friday, when he will be arraigned in juvenile court.

TOMATO SURPLUS

To those who are still a bit skeptical about being an age of plenty, it might be of interest for them to learn that the Canadian canning industry entered 1935 with a "carry-over" of 28,800,000 cans of tinned tomatoes. Obviously, the thing to do is to sell these tomatoes. It is calculated that if every family in the country consumed half a case more a year—which is under an extra can of tomatoes each month—the whole carry-over problem would be solved. As it is, the prospects are that the canning industry will have to slow up in fear of an increased carryover next year, and a slowing up means more jobs vacant and still more tomatoes unbought—Ottawa Citizen.

GOING DOWN

The government aquariam curator in Hamilton, Bermuda, claims that women take to amateur deep sea diving more quickly than men. That's probably due to the fact that men have been struggling to keep their heads above water during the last few years.—Border Cities Star.

FIRST ELECTRIC LIGHT

The remark by a Toronto professor that Edison was not the inventor of electric light may surprise a number of people, but that is quite true. The first electric lamp was produced by Sir Joseph Swan, who was born at Sunderland, England, in 1828. He was a chemical engineer who first achieved success in improvements in photography. He made a carbon filament lamp as early as 1862, and in 1880 exhibited the first filament vacuum lamp. —From the St. Thomas Times-Journal.

REQUIRES PATIENCE

A musician says it takes a lot of patience to learn to play the violin. Yes, but it isn't the player who needs it most.—Chatham News.

DARWIN DENIED

Where, when, how do things begin? If we came from the same ancestor as the apes why is it that the present apes have no discernible mental or moral attributes of men? We cannot create life apart from previous existence. Yet life had a starting point. Who inspired that first body? Sir Ambrose Fleming, renowned scientist, inquires these answers of those who "rationalize" the Creation. He shows that if two people mated at the time of the Flood their descendants might reasonably equal the present population of the world. If man existed untold thousands of years before that, where are the great host of descendants? Science, says Sir Ambrose, shifts perpetually. Faith is a rock. —From the London Express.

MILLIONS FOR DEFENCE

At Washington a $40,000,000 national defence program has been revealed, the money to be largely spent in strengthening the U. S. navy strongholds in the Pacific. With Japan also busy in like regard it seems possible that one of these days that ocean will not be able to justify its name.—Brantford Expositor.

SPINNING WHEEL

"The old spinning wheel in the parlor" may be the occasion for sentimental songs, but in the Province of Quebec the old spinning wheel is coming back to its original purpose of spinning the material for the home-craft productions for which Quebec has became famous.

Although many antique-loving tourists have added to their collections spinning wheels from Quebec, the supply is far from being exhausted, as there are still some 80,500 in the province. The old-time custom of home spinning and looming has experienced a great revival. Under the guidance of the Department of Agriculture, which has been encouraging domestic arts, thrifty housewives are spinning their own yarn and weaving their own cloth. Statistics reveal that there are 52,200 looms in the province.

Quebec has always been famous for its homespuns, all of which are hand-loomed. A ready market for these home products has been created by visiting tourists, and the tourists, who a few years ago threatened the very existence of the spinning wheel with their demands for antiques, have in reality contributed in some measure to the revival of the oldtime domestic arts in the Province of Quebec. — Canada Week by Week.

UNTIL IT HURTS

A British member of Parliament has had his license suspended for two years for reckless driving. In this country, a magistrate appears to hestitate as to whether a fifteen-day withdrawal is too severe.—Calgary Herald.

CHAIN OF EVIDENCE

As for the weight of circumstantial evidence, no hard and fast general rule can possibly be laid down. There is some circumstantial evidence that leaves so many loopholes that it certainly should not be held sufficient to convict.

There is other circumstantial evidence that is actually far more convincing than direct evidence. Witnesses may so easily mistake what they see, hear, taste, smell or feel; they may be unobservant, forgetful or biased and so fail to testify correctly; they may find difficulty in expressing the exact thought in their minds; but a plain statement of direct evidence always sounds very definite.

On the other hand, to convince a jury by a chain of circumstantial evidence it must be very complete, linking the accused person with the crime and excluding any reasonable presumption that another could have possibly committed it. Incidentally there would be precious few criminals convicted if circumstantial evidence were excluded — Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

BURN THE OLD PAPERS

There is nothing sacrosanct in old public documents and if the provincial government finds its space cluttered up with an accumulation it should get rid of all those which nave no special historic interest. Some of them in fact never had any sound cause for existence. They would make a fine bonfire as a feature of the next May 24 celebration.—Victoria Times.

WHY THE BEST STORY?

Telegraph editors like to make believe they are a terribly hard-boiled lot, but really, so our friend The Ottawa Journal tells us, they are "just bundles of sentiment at heart." The Ottawa Journal reaches this conclusion because of the choice of the telegraph editors of Canada of "the best news story of 1934." Pretty nearly unanimously, it seems, they said the best news story was that of the Dionne babies. It just shows you, thinks The Ottawa Journal (which still unfalteringly applauds their choice), what a lot of likeable human softies they really are.

Really, between you and us, it doesn't matter about the telegraph editors. They are like each other only in the matter of their all being telegraph editors. They are as diverse otherwise as all other human creatures are. They happen to be likeable softies because it happens to take a good deal of human kindness to sit, as they do in the way of earning their living at a daily inquest into the incomprehensibly mingled magnanimities and meannesses, the splendors and miseries of this our human life.

They knew the story of the Dionne babies was the best story by a sort of instinct, immeasurably beyond and superior to all judgment, which relates them to the fellow creatures whose doings are the raw material of their trade. Let us have no further mention of "bundles of sentiment" here. What else is that curious creature, "down to Gehenna or up to the Throne," which—because even the telegraph editors haven't been able to find a better name for him—we call man? —Vancouver Province.

THE EMPIRE

THE PEPPER GOT TOO HOT

Markets were rudely shaken recently by one of the recurring disturbances which come as a reminder of the dangerous elements that lie beneath the surface of trade and finance. The history of business life affords many examples of "booms" and "slumps" on the Stock Exchange which have had far-reaching consequences. It is doubtful, however, whether such an innocuous, if useful, household commodity as pepper has ever before held the City stage. —Glasgow Herald.

THE DOMINIONS AND DEFENCE

Mr. Pirow, the Minister of Defence in the Union of South Africa, has made a very frank and outspoken declaration as to that Dominion's attitude to Imperial defence. The Union, he said, is unwilling to participate in any general scheme worked out by Great Britain. Mr. Pirow laid some stress on the risk of internal trouble or even civil conflict which might arise if the Union Government should "attempt rashly to commit the country to participation in a future oversea war." The policy which he outlined is in general accord with British expectations. No one in this country wishes to drag South Africa into war against the will of her people. It is for them to decide their line of action if a crisis should arise. This is the principle which Great Britain has always accepted. She did not call upon Canada and Australia to aid her in 1899 or 1914, but left it to the free choice of their citizens.

DANGER FROM THE AIR

In proportion as countries are highly industrialized they present a larger mark to the invader from the air in vast urban areas, where for mile after mile the country presents an endless expanse of roofs to the flyer overhead, while here and there his trained eye can pick out especially vulnerable points like railway stations, factories, and public buildings. Some thickly populated areas in Europe, such as South-Eastern Britain, North-Eastern France, Belgium and the Rhine area, present the easiest of targets for attacks of this nature, and any measure which is calculated to diminish the peril is worthy of support.

SMALL CAR OR MOTOR CYCLE

Within the past year there has been a decline of over 14,000 in the number of motor bicycles in use in Great Britain. This fall has been accompanied by a rise of almost 50,000 in the number of light cars licensed. In the Saorstat there were over 7,700 motor cycles in 1926; by 1932 this total had fallen by over 2,000 Evidently the small car threatens the popularity of the motorcycle.

SOLUTION TO MILITARY PROBLEM APPEARING ON THIS PAGE LAST WEEK

Note to paper. To get the correct solution of this problem, draw three vertical and three horizontal lines through the square lightly so that sixteen equal squares are formed. From left to right, in rows from top to bottom, letter the squares A, B, C and so forth to and including P. The five areas of identical space, shape and infantry and artillery content, will be: A-B-E, C-D-H, F-G-K, I-M-N, L-O-P. Square "J" represents headquarters.

LESSON 46

Flowing Rhythm in Natural Leaf Forms

Fig. 162 is a splendid natural example in the rhythmical flow of the lines in leaf forms. You will also find this principle in natural landscape, and in landscape paintings.

Clip pictures from magazines. Trace with red ink the action of flowing lines of rhythm and you will be surprised what an amusing and instructive pastime this will prove to be for you, if you are open minded and your mind in a receptive mood.

A further beautiful manifestation of Rhythm is that of tone or colour, where different colours or tones of one colour are harmoniously related to each other.

Study these lessons carefully and execute the problems in your best possible manner. If difficulties arise re-read the lessons and study the illustrations thoroughly. Try always to look beneath all the variety of appearances for the underlying principle.

Now let us carry on—suppose you have been given an assignment to create a series of advertisements in one of our national magazines. There are some 20 or 30 pages of advertising in each issue. You, as an advertising designer have planned a beautiful artistic layout. It is truly a work of art. You insert it in the magazine and you are not at all satisfied with the results. You may say that you used the wrong medium, whereas you might have been using one of the best. Why didn't you get results? Probably because you were considering yourself and your product rather than the people you were appealing to and you failed to make your advertisement competitively strong in its bid for attention. For example, thumb through a copy of the magazine. Look over the advertisements. Then lay the magazine down. What pages do you remember you saw? After you have identified these in your own mind, go back and look over these pages then you'll see why you remembered them. It was their fitness to purpose, their DOMINANCE OF DISPLAY AND INDIVIDUALITY. Get this feature into your work and you will be kept busy.

EX. No. 49 for this problem let us see just what you can do in adapting suggestions for designs from natural sources such as leaf forms, suitable for drapes.

Questions will be answered in this department. Anyone wishing to receive a personal reply may have the same if a 3c stamped envelope is inclosed with the request. The Art Director, Our Sketch Club, Room 425, 73 Adelaide Street West, Toronto.

NOISE A NUISANCE WHEN IT'S MADE BY THE OTHER FELLOW

(From the New York Times)

New York has lived through any number of anti-noise campaigns and yet to the ordinary ear it sounds as noisy as ever. Nobody publicly defends noise, and science we are told, has pronounced against it. We learn that medical study has shown that noise impairs digestion by affecting the flow of saliva and gastric juice, that a typist under noisy conditions uses 19 per cent. more energy and loses 42 per cent. in speed. Why, then, do the anti-noise campaigns make, so to speak, so little noise in the world?

Perhaps an authority on acoustics has just innocently furnished the explanation in his very definition of the word. He defines noise as "any undesired sound." This immediately suggests the question—Undesired by whom?—and that is just where the trouble starts. Nobody dislikes the noise he is himself responsible for. Automobile horn-blowing is your way of getting me to step lively. My radio entertainment is your intolerable nuisance. Your little evening's celebration is my inability to get some sleep. Riveting is my useful work and your verge of insanity. Singing, whistling, violin-playing and loud talking in the audience are your forms of self-expression and my temptations to murder.

The dilemma is summed up in the story of the violinist who kept making wry faces while his orchestra was playing a symphony. A puzzled friend later asked him the reason. Were there sour notes? No. Was the whole thing in the wrong key? No. Was anything wrong with the tempo? No. What then? "The truth is," confessed the violinist, "I just don't like music."

The anti-noise campaign will begin to make real headway as soon as we can all agree upon just what noise is.

Ray Device Deals Painless Death Tells Sex of Unhatched Chicks

Leicester, Eng. — A new and powerful ray machine which is reported to kill "painlessly" at a distance of a few hundred yards has been built by R. C. Chadfield, inventor and lecturer at the Art and Technical College here. Eventually the machine may also be used for the determination of the sex of an unborn child.

So astounding are claims made for the machine that the Air Ministry sought a demonstration, Chadfield said, but he refused on the grounds that he does not want it "to become an engine of war."

The inventor believes that the best use of the ray would be for the extermination of agricultural pests and to aid in slaughtering animals.

He has been experimenting with its use in determining the sex of chickens. The tests so far show that an indicator goes to the left for males and to the right for females when an egg is tested, he said. Chadfield is now trying to adapt the ray to the discovery of the sex of unborn children.

Chance Encounter

By Eleanor Alletta Chaffe in the Lyric (Roanoke, Virginia).

"I am a transient . . . " Within his eyes
Strange tides were shadowed on a stranger shore:
I heard the seagulls and their secret cries,
I heard the closing of a distant door.
And down the slope of some far distant hill
I was the haunted with a heart of lead:
I was the quarry, panting, hurt and still,
My life untangling in a crimson thread . .

HIS LUMBAGO HAS NOT COME BACK

Keeps Free Of It With Kruschen

There can be no doubt about the effectiveness of the remedy this man uses against lumbago. Read his letter:—

About four years ago, I had a bad attack of lumbago. After being in hospital for two weeks taking heat treatment, I started taking Kruschen Salts. Since then, I am happy to say, I have not been troubled with lumbago. I shall still continue taking Kruschen to be sure the lumbago won't come back."—A. C. C.

Why is it that Kruschen is so effective in keeping lumbago at bay? Simply because it goes right down to the root of the trouble, and removes the cause, which is an impure bloodstream. The six salts in Kruschen keep the bloodstream pure and vigorous by promoting a clockwork regularity of all the organs of elimination.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people 'round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot . . . "weak." Have headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all!

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

He told of he organization of a troop of "criminal tribe" boys, and how through this means the "outcasts" were accepted as brother Scouts by boys of a high school troop.

Medals donated by Tom Mix, the movie star, will be listed among trophies competed for by Scouts at Toronto's Parkdale District Spring Circus and Handicraft Exhibition.

In return for use of the church hall, the Scout troop of St. James' Church, Guelph, cut and hauled wood for the church furnaces during the winter.

Reports presented at the annual meeting of the Waterloo County Scout Association recorded an increase during 1934 of 50 per cent. membership in the South Waterloo district, which includes Galt, Preston and Hespeler. The annual Scout Toy Shop had supplied gifts for 250 children.

The 1st and 2nd Fort Erie, Ont., Scout troops are engaged in a waste paper collecting competition, the money going into their respective camp funds.

Thanks through the press to business men who donated prizes was not overlooked by the Scouts of Sperling, Man., following their highly successful ice carnival.

Scouts of Revelstoke, B.C., carried out a house-to-house canvas for old magazines and books for the men of the unemployment camps in that district.

Our newest Post Scout Troop (of physically handicapped boys) has been organized in the Shriners' Ward of the Children's Hospital, Winnipeg, by Rovers of the 31st (St. Giles') Winnipeg Crew. A three-column picture in the Winnipeg Free Press showed three boys, in bed, but smilingly happy after their investiture as Tenderfoot Scouts. Illustrating the representative character of such Post Scout units, the three boys come from homes in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Ontario.

The rescue and first-aid treatment of a man found "half frozen" in a snow bank was the first aid stunt put on by the Wolves as a patrol number of the February monthly campfire of the 9th Winnipeg (First Presbyterian) Troop.

The ladies' auxiliary of the 2nd Fort Erie, Ont., Group focus their efforts. Their last card party at Legion Hall had as its object the raising of funds for the purchase of milk at the troop's summer camp.

It may not be generally known that two famous western fliers, C. H. (Punch) Dickins and W. R. ("Wop") May, who were honored with the O. B.E. in the King's last New Year's list, were former Boy Scouts. Both were members of the old 1st Edmonton Troop.

The Future

Reginald H. Wiggins, M.D., C.M., L.M.C.C.

"Child training is the most important problem before the nation today."—Frank R. Cheley.

Upon the proper care and adequate training of our children today depends the peace and order of our homes; the character, ability and personality of our citizenship to come, and the future of the race.

So that Canadian mothers and fathers might have the requisite up-to-date information of the rearing and training of their children, these articles are appearing in the press.

The press is the most effective means of making this knowledge available to those who need it.

Mothers always—and increasingly fathers too—are showing more and even more interest in this vital problem. Mothers of young children; young mothers surprised and baffled by the first unexpected resistance of a small infant to authority; older mothers unable to adapt their methods of child training (apparently successful with one child) to the varying needs of their several children. Mothers and fathers of adolescent boys and girls; fathers who really desire to know the nature and needs of their growing boys; grandmothers who find their own tried methods of discipline ineffectual and in conflict with those of their children and their grandchildren—all these desire some up-to-date and sound advice on the care and training of children and are demanding it.

As we all know, conditions in the world today are not satisfactory. For this state of affairs, we are very largely responsible. It will be our children's work to rectify matters. In later years, whether they will be capable of the task depends on the care and training they are receiving today.

(A series of these articles will appear weekly in this paper. Next week: "The Child's Physician."

THERE'S FLU IN THE AIR

Wise Precautions and Prompt Treatment May Keep You From This Disabling Affliction.

There are still many illnesses the causes of which remain unknown, writes a doctor. Throughout the world research is going on day after day in the hope that the cause and cure of these conditions may be discovered. One of these is influenza. But, although its actual cause remains a secret, there is now not the slightest doubt that it is due to a germ which is too small to be seen. It is so tiny that it can pass through a close filter which would stop the passages of many organisms.

Experiments have so far progressed that it is now only a matter of time for it to be possible to isolate this germ and probably produce an antidote. Meanwhile, we can only do what we can to prevent this disabling infection from leading to complications and to cut short its attacks as soon as we are able.

In the first place it is well to remember that influenza is infectious. It can be passed from one individual to another. Anything which tends to lower the powers of resistence makes it easier for infection to take place. Two factors seem to be worth considering; the first of these is fear. Although, at this season of the year there are usually in the air seeds of influenza, it is asking for trouble to go about in fear of catching it. When you are afraid, your general health suffers and you are less likely to resist infection. There is little to be afraid of if you do catch it. Provided treatment is prompt and your general health is good you stand an excellent chance of making an uninterrupted recovery. The second factor again concerns these same powers of resistance which are definitely lowered by the bad habit some people have acquired of setting out in the cold mornings of winter without any breakfast.

Late nights, hot stuffy atmosphere and fatigue also lower resistance.

Color Renaissance In Men's Clothes

A color renaissance in men's wear is predicted by Raymond Twyeffort, New York tailor for the swanky. "We are sick of gloom and black," he said addressing the annual convention of the National Shoe Retailer's Association. Color is the necessary vitamin to stimulate men's desires." Twyeffort displayed a dark blue cutaway coat and tailcoat with gold fixings on the lapels. He also displayed a red velvet coat for home wear, a brown cocktail-hour suit and plenty of brilliantly-check vests.

Growing Deaf With Head Noises? Try This

If you are growing hard of hearing, and fear catarrhal deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to take. Anyone who is threatened with catarrhal deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Trapnest is Best Test

Trapnesting being to the laying flock what the scale and Babcock test are to the dairy herd, it is the only means of accurately determining thep orduction of the individual hen. At the Cap Rouge Experimental Station, the hens are selected by the trapnesting method and the poor layers are marketed after their first year's laying. Hatching eggs are selected from high producers, and should weigh at least 24 ounces per dozen. Unthrifty chicks and cockerels except those from the best hens are marketed during the summer. By mid-September, the pullets which are strong, vigorous, healthy and active, which have a large, deep head, stout beak, and large, bright prominent eyes are kept, while the birds which are unthrifty or unhealthy, which have a crow head, long shallow beak or small, sunken eyes, or are off-types are eliminated.

Preserve Wild Flowers

The wild flowers situation in Ontario is becoming serious, and calls for careful conservation before they become extinct in some sections.

Recently the Ontario Horticultural Association sponsored a request to the Ontario Government that the "Trillium" be ocnstituted the Provincial Flower. Very favorable comment has been made by the Press in many sections of the Province.

Parents, teachers, scout leaders, and interested flower-lovers are invited to urge the children to refrain from wholesale picking and destruction of wild flowers, especially where only a few exist. Girls and boys may greatly assist in saving the wild flowers, and parents are asked to give the matter careful consideration.

Agricultural Features

The Wilmot Township Agricultural Society in Waterloo County is to be congratulated on launching a new program. A series of educational mettings has been commenced. At the first of these, the main subjects for consideration were "Control of the Warble Fly" and "Reforestation." Two other meetings of a similar nature, but on other subjects, will be held this spring.

This organization plans to serve all farmers in the Society area, with a general agricultural program instead of being satisfied to function in the holding of a fair only.

On March 8th, the South Ontario Agricultural Society gove a complimentary dinner to members who had brought honour to the Society, and Ontario County, by winning major awards at National and International Shows. The president of the Society, Hon. W.E.N. Sinclair, was a very genial host, to representative livestock men from other parts of the Province, in addition to Directors and Members of the Society.

In presenting illuminated addresses to these leading stock men, it was evident the raising of good stock is a cherished tradition in Ontario County, as sevral families are now in the third generation of prominent stock men. Some of those honoured were—Robt. Duff & Son; Lance Beath; S.B. Glaspell; Wm. Dryden and Frank Batty.

Cleaning Out Couch

The eradication of couch grass, otherwise known as quack, twitch or scutch grass, is one of the hardest problems with which the farmer has to deal. Few people realize the enormous quantity of couch grass roots which exist in infested soil. Tests conducted by the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa show weights of roots ranging from 1,531 to 6,997 pounds to the acre—as much as a heavy crop of hay. No wonder it is hard to clean out when it spreads by roots as well as seed. Thoroughly cleaning out the roots is the one effective way of getting rid of couch. In small areas this may be done by hand. In larger areas by shallow plowing and working thoroughly with the cultivator to keep the roots turned up to the sun long enough for them to "kil". Only as large an area as can be thoroughly cleaned up at one time should be undertaken, as halfway measures are only lost time and effort.

Demand for Canadian Pears

A general survey of production of fresh pears in Canada suggests that pear acreage can be increased 20 per cent. before the domestic market reaches a saturation point. This situation, together with an increased export demand, seems to warrant consideration being given to the possibility of increased plantings, mainly of the Bartlett variety. The United Kingdom cannot get enough Canadian pears, the British market absorbing all the Canadian exports and asking for more. The 1934 statistics show that 44 per cent. of the total imports of pears into Great Britain were from Empire sources, Canada contributing les than five per cent. During the twelve months ended March 31, 1934, exports of canned pears from Canada to the British market increased 46 per cent. compared with the previous season's exports. On the other hand, fresh pears amounting approximately to 180,000 bushels are imported every year into Canada from the United States, a large proportion of this import finding its way into canned stock.

Hay Market Report

Eastern and Northern Ontario—Ther is still plenty of hay available and farmers who have held their hay since last autumn for firmer prices are now wishing to sell so that dealers are able to discriminate as to price and quality. About 400 tons of hay have been graded in Eastern Ontario during the past month for shipment to the Maritime provinces. Current prices being paid growers range from $7 to $9 per ton according to grade and class. Plenty of hay is being offered in orthern Ontario, and prices paid are somewhat lower, ranging from $9 to $12 per ton, basis shipping point.

Southwestern Ontario—A fair supply of timothy and timothy mixtures and alfalfa is still avilable in the Owen Sound district, and there has been some movement of alfalfa recently for meal manufacturing purposes. There is a shortage of hay in a number of counties in this part of Ontario, but this is being offset largely by other roughage such as corn stocks and straw supplemented perhaps with molasses, so as to winter the stock without hay. There was a fair corn crop last year in most counties, which produced a fair quantity of good silage and besides many farmers have plenty of grain, al of which lessens the need for hay. It is believed that most counties will have sufficient fodder to carry their stock until at least April 1st, at which time there should be a fair demand for hay from outside sources.

Prices being paid growers, per ton, at principal market centers, less freight costs, are: For timothy, No. 1, $16 to $17.50; No. 2, $14 to $16 No. 3, $12 to $14.;. wheat straw, $7 to $8; oat straw, $5.75 to $7.50.

BODY OF FARMER FOUND NEAR RAILS AT IROQUOIS

With his body cut almost in two, Thomas Gollidge, 35 years of age, a farmer living in the third concession of Edwardsburg township, near Matilda township, was found dead about 4.30 o'clock Monday afternoon on the north side of the C.N.R. tracks, three and a half miles west of Iroquois station. The tragedy became known when the crow of the westbound C.N.R. train, from Montreal to Toronto, reported at Cardinal station having seen the body of a man lying on the tracks about two miles east of Cardinal. The accident occurred about a mile from Gollidge's home. His left arm and leg were severed, and his body badly mutilated. The remains were taken to the W.E. Fitzsimmons funeral parlors at Iroquois, where it was later identified.

Two brothers-in-law, Earl and Howard Sayeau, in talking with Officer Frank Rose, disclosed the fact that the late Thomas Gollidge had been despondent for some time, and had been worried greatly since last Friday. It was learned that earlier in the day on which he died he had tried to drown himself in a deep creek near his home. Rescued from there, he refused to allow his wife to send for further help, and later in the day left the house and hurried out the road in spite of his wife's protests. His troubles were chiefly financial, it was stated.

Officer Rose interviewed the station agent at Cardinal, and the train crew of the westbound daily way freight, which was learned to have hit the man. It is understood that Gollidge, who apparently had been hiding in the ditch, dashed out when the train was almost up to him, and threw himself face down on the rails.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Carrie Sayeau, and seven children, namely Basil, Edna, Greta, Helena, Hilda, Patsy and David; and his mother, who resides in England.

Born in England, the late Mr. Gollidge had come to Canada at an early age. For many years he resided with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Briggs of Matilda township.

The funeral service was held at his late residence on Wednesday, conducted by Rev T. Knowles of Iroquois, assisted by the Haddo choir. Interment was in Mainsville cemetery.

An inquest is being held at Iroquois on Friday at 2 p.m.

MATILDA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of the Matilda Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. B.J. Saver on Thursday evening, March 14th, with the usual good attendance of members, and several very welcome visitors.

The meeting opened with the ode, and the Institute creed in unison. Roll call was answered by an Irish joke, and judging by the hilarity, some good ones were told. Mrs. Rumsey Peterson read an unusually interesting, instructive paper on Historical Research. Mrs. Arthur Bell gave an instructive talk on curing and drying beef for summer use. Mrs. Basil Reyonlds had charge of the recreation hour, and conducted several interesting contests.

It was regularly moved, seconded and unanimously carried that the gentlemen be entertained at the regular April meeting, and elaborate preparations were made, and an energetic program committee appointed. The gentlemen of the township will do well to watch for the announcement of the April meeting.

After the refreshment committee had served a bounteous lunch, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN TOWN LEAGUE TITLE

The hockey season came to a close in Morrisburg on Monday night, when the Maple Leafs handed the Black Hawks a 2-1 setback to annex the League title. The Hawks scored first, halfway through the second period, and led 1-0 at the end of that frame. Concentrating all their power on a quick offensive, the Leafs tied the count in the first few esconds of the third and jumped into the lead on Smith's shot two minutes from the end of the game.

The game, which was the fastest junior contest on local ice this season, opened with the Leafs getting the draw. The play was fairly even till Park drew a penalty, when the Leafs pressed in but could not beat Timmins. Park came back to the ice and Bay Millward hooked a loose puck inside the Leaf blue line, but could not get his shot away in time. Snyder, Locke and Eamon hit their stride and rushed in for the Leafs. Timmins, who played his best game of the season, saved two hard close-in shots from Locke and Snyder. Art. Coligan and Jitters Smith returned the rush, and forced Millward to his knees to save. The referees Harry Wilkens and Hermie Smith, checked up closely, and Snyder, Coligan and Len. Laurin went to the penalty box in succession. Coligan, Guay and L. Laurin carried the play for the Hawks, and gave the Leafs a few anxious moments. Coligan got his seoond penalty just before the end of the period.

The Hawks started the second period one man short, and were hard pressed to hold out the rampaging Leafs. Coligan came back on the ice and made a nice rush with Park, but Millward saved. Paul Smith came up the ice for the Leafs, Jitters Smith checked him, and made a nifty solo rush through the whole Maple Leaf team, and then shot onto Millward's pads. Leafs returned the rush and Timmins was forced to make a brilliant save. Art. Coligan and Art. Laurin went up the ice for the Hawks, Coligan passed the puck to Laurin, who shot just as McIntyre stepped into him, to open the scoring and put his team in the lead 1-0. The Hawks played a defensive game, shooting the puck when in danger during the remainder of the period. Millward, the Leafs' goalie, prevented the Hawks from scoring again. Len Laurin and Jitters Smith each visited the timekeepers before the whistle ended the period.

The third period had barely gotten under way when Snyder scored, tieing the count 1-1. Ross McIntyre was sent to the cooler, and the Hawks dug right in, but were unsuccessful. They continued their efforts when Snyder was penalized, but with no better result. Snyder came back on the ice went in on a nice play with Locke, and Timmins saved a hard shot from each of them. Eamon, Snyder and Locke rushed the play, but Timmins and Charlie Weegar held them out. Jitters Smith went right through the Maple Leafs on another solo, but McIntyre tripped him before he could shoot. McIntyre went to the bench, and the Hawks rushed the play. The Leafs shot the puck up the ice and Paul Smith came up fast, fooled Park, and came right in on Timmins, who had no chance whatever to save. With only two minutes to play, the Hawks were frantic in their effort to tie it up again. Art. Coligan drove a blistering shot right over the end screen, but the whistle blew to end the game. Final Score: Maple Leafs 2; Black Hawks 1.

For the Leafs, Snyder was probably the most effective man on the ice. McIntyre, on defence, was a difficult barrier to the Hawk forward line. For the losers, Timmins played a wonderful game in nets. He had no chance whatever on the two shots that beat him. Charlie Weegar was another standout performer for the Hawks in Monday night's encounter. Charlie, besides stepping into opposing players, is a great help to any goal-tend. Chas. was a net-minder before he played defence, and he instinctively saves any shots that come near him.

The Junior Town Hockey League this season was productive of much interesting entertainment for the few fans who supported these teams. More important still, it started developing players for a senior team for Morrisburg in thenear future. Why could not the same idea be carried out in lacrosse or softball during the summer? The teams could remain practically as they were for hockey, with very few changes.

M-W SAILORS WIN OTTAWA LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Morrisburg--Waddington Sailors last night won the championship of the Ottawa City Intermediate Basketball League, by scoring a 36-28 victory over Commerce, in the second and final game of their titular series. Having won the first match 46-30, the Sailors took the titular round 82-58.

Down sixteen points on the round when play started last night, Commerce tore right into their opponents and made a real fight of it all the way. With a good lead behind them, Sailors met this offensive with a careful defence, but confidence put them down to where the Commerce team could reach them. They had enough in reserve, however, to pull away and establish a decisive margin by winning the match.

Morrisburg-Waddington Sailors will now meet Brockville in the Ottawa and District Basketball Association playdowns. The champions go to the Island City on Monday for the first game, while the return fixture will take place in the Ottawa Y.M.C.A. on Thursday night.

N. H. L. PLAY-OFFS START ON SATURDAY

The two-game, total-goal series between Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Maroons in the Stanley Cup eliminations will be played at Montreal on Saturday, March 23, and at Chicago on Tuesday, March 26th.

Chicago, holders of the Stanley Cup, and Maroons finished second in their respective divisions in the league's final standing, Chicago in the United States section and Maroons in the International.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins, first place finishers in the International and United States sections, begin their three-out-of-five series at Boston on Saturday, March 23, play again there on Tuesday, March 26, and move to Toronto for the third game on Thursday, March 28. The fourth and fifth games, if necessary, will be played at Toronto on Saturday, March 30 and Tuesday, April 2. Winner of this series will enter the Stanley Cup final.

Third place occupants in their respective sections, Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers will open their two-game, total-goal series at New Yorgk on Sunday, March 24, and conclude it at Montreal on Tuesday, March 26th.

SERIOUS FIRE AT FINCH

A large section of Finch village was seriously threatened by fire that broke out at 10 o'clock Monday morning in Johnston and Nesbitt's feed shop there, following the explosion of a gas engine used in grinding operations. The large, two-storey tinclad building housing the feed shop and Brownlee's hall upstairs, used as a clubhouse by the returned men of Finch township, was razed by the flames in less than half an hour, also W.J. Brownlee's mortuary vault, close by. The damage is estimated at $9,000.

As the flames started to spread to buildings in all directions, on account of the shifting of the wind, the entire manpower of the village was called out for one of their hardest battles. Calls were also sent to surrounding municipalities for help, and men and equipment arrived from Berwick and Avonmore in time to assist in getting the flames under control. Students from the high school were released from their studies, and played a leading part in the hurriedly organized army of firefighters.

The spring thaw of Saturday and Sunday had filled all the ditches with water, so that there was a plentiful supply. There was no fire-fighting equipment, however, other than chemical apparatus, which was augmented by a bucket brigade. Flames were swept from the burning building across the street to the south, and extended to the Orange hall, a frame structure, and H. McMonagle's blacksmith shop. Both buildings were badly scorched, but fire that started time after time was extinguished. Mrs. J. Chisholm's home, situated to the west, about 40 feet distant, was also scorched. W.J.Brownlee's undertaking vault, a concrete structure with a wooden roof, was destroyed. Three bodies were removed before the flames reached the building. Fire also started in several other buildings, but was effectively checked by the bucket brigade. By noon, the fire was under control.

No one was seriously injred. W. Johnston, one of the members of the firm of Johnston and Nesbitt, owners of the feed store, suffered a badly cut hand, fighting the fire. He was given medical attention.

Mrs. Mary Gallinger, wife of [redacted] Gallinger, until recently of Grantley and Colquhoun, passed away on Saturday at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Cooksey, Hamilton, after an illness of four months. Mrs. Gallinger was born in Williamsburg 79 years ago, and had been a resident of Hamilton for the past three years, having formerly resided [redacted] Gallingertown.

Left to mourn her death, besides her husband, are one son, Herbert, of Winnipeg, and three daughters: Mrs. Alonzo McNairn of Aultsville, Mrs Alonzo Murphy of Gallingertown and Mrs. Albert Cooksey, of Hamilton.

The funeral service was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Cooksey, in Hamilton, on Monday afternoon, with Rev. Dr. W.W. Judd, of All Saints' Anglican Church, officiating. Interment was made at Aultsville on Wednesday afternoon.

MRS. ELIZABETH SCHAAP

On the morning of March 7th, following an illness of little more than 24 hours, there passed away at Williamsburg, Mrs. Elizabeth Schaap, wife of Oscar Schaap, of Fort Smith, Ark. Mrs. Schaap is survived by her husband, Mr. Oscar Schaap, and one daughter, Mary Elizabeth, who was with her at the time of her death; also a sister, Mrs. W. T. Goshman of Forth Smith, Ark.

The remains went forward to Fort Smith, where interment took place on Monday afternoon, March 11th.

Mrs. Schaap and Miss Schaap were well known and deservedly popular at the Circle. Mrs. Schaap was gradually responding and gaining, but a severe heart attack proved fatal.

NATION RIVER FLOODING DISTRICT ABOUT WINCHESTER

Continued mild weather and rains have caused much flooding in Winchester district this week. With fields covered with water, the creeks have become filled to overflowing, and the running water is gradually wending its way to the Nation River which is the main source of drainage for thousands of acres of farm land over a wide area.

Although a steady rise is being noted in the waters in the Cass Bridge area, this year's flood is not expected to reach the heights it did last year, when an all-time record was created The ice in the main stream has not yet broken up, and little relief can be expected from the high waters until it clears away. The old portion of the Ottawa-Morrisburg highway between the iron bridge and Winchester Springs cheese factory is at present covered with water for a considerable distance, but not deep enough to halt traffic. The road, known as the Nation road, is also flooded, and is used very little. This road is included in one of the mail routes, and when the water is too deep for wagons or trucks, a boat is used for making deliveries.

Last year traffic was held up on the main highway for several days but due to the fact that the road was resurfaced last summer, and is now about a foot higher, the water is not expected to make the road impassable.

In the meantime, farmers living in the flooded sections have removed all goods from the cellars of their homes, and have their boats tied just oustide their doors, ready for any emergency.

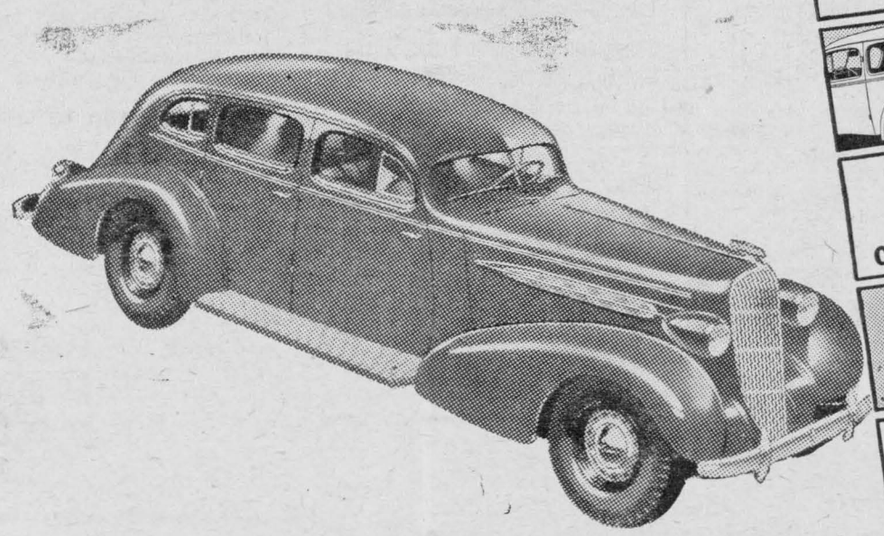
One Look Suggests a OLDSMOBILE Drive



SOLID STEEL TURRET TOP BODY BY FISHER

CONCEALED TIRE AND LUGGAGE COMPARTMENT

BIGGER HYDRAULIC BRAKES

KNEE-ACTION WHEELS with Ride Stabilizer

SYNCRO-MESH ALL-SILENT SHIFTING

LONG . . . low . . . rakish . . . with brisk streamlining that gives a realistic impression of fleetness and flashing power. One look at this new Oldsmobile makes you want to drive it. Why resist the impulse? Why not slip behind the wheel of the 90-horsepower, low-priced Six, or the big, 100-horsepower Straight Eight?

You are hardly seated when you begin to realize that here is something decidedly new in automobiles. You are immediately aware of the extra roominess, of the great width of door and seat, of the richness of appointments. Now . . . engine running? You can scarcely tell, it's so quiet. Shift silently with Syncro-Mesh Transmission, and you float away from the curb on a ride that you will long remember.

Let Oldsmobile out on highway and hill. Try not to show admiration as Knee-Action "steps" you, without "jar" or "neck-snap" over the ruts of a country lane. Notice the absence of noise and vibration at all speeds. Sense the pep and smoothness of the big, dependable engine. Then, as you come to a stop, feel the equalized grip of the husky hydraulic brakes.

Yes, by all means, drive one of these new Oldsmobiles. It's a revelation of how pleasant, and comfortable, and economical, modern motoring can be. It's a convincing demonstration of the great value which has won for Oldsmobile its description as, "The Car That Has Everything".

The TUDOR HOUSE

By MRS. STANLEY WRENCH

(Author of "Sing for the Moon" "Strange Lovers," etc).

SYNOPSIS

Michael Borde, 40, unmarried, born and bred in a Birmingham slum, is now a wealthy motor manufacturer One day he visits the countryside around his old home and meets Daphne Eden. He falls in love and proposes. Daphne accepts and introduces him to her father, who greets him with the words: "Get out of here you cur—you ruined my home — stole my wife — curse you."

Daphne's father dies and she disappears. Michael explains to her friend, Mrs. Gregory, that he was misrepresented. He buys the old Tudor House owned by the Hamill-Hardy's. Michael collides with a car driven by Diana Hamill-Hardy Mrs. Eden notices an announcement of the engagement of Michael and Diana.

Mrs. Gregory dies. Daphne hears from her solicitors.

"It's that confounded play," he said now. "Unlucky at cards, lucky at love."

Michael Borde smiled bitterly. The proverb was not true in his case, for ever since that first night when he had been drawn into playing at Lady Adderbury's house, he had been a steady loser, yet because Diana had taunted him, he had gone on playing.

"Don't be such a cad, Michael," she sneered when after that first night's exceptional success he had declared he would not play again. "You can't do such a thing. No gentleman would march away knowing he'd won a thousand pounds from a woman, aand not give her a chance to win, at least a fraction of it back."

The blue-eyed blonde next to him had smiled too. After all, she was the loser there.

"You will give me my revenge, Mr. Borde," she smiled.

"Of course, Michael. Even if you—" Diana paused, and here eyes measured themselves with his.

"You mean if I'm not a gentleman at least I can attempt to behave like one," he said, hating her at that second, as she shrugged her shoulders.

He had gone back, as Diana knew he would, but since that first evening Michael Borde had been a steady loser. Yet he was fascinated by the green table now, night after night sitting there, smiling grimly, joining in with the patter which came glibly to him after the first week, and rather to the surprise of Diana Hamill-Hardy, a favorite with the others of her set. She had sneered at him before, but a curious feeling of something approaching respect held her now sometimes as she watched him.

Turning back towards the mirror, Michael Borde frowned. Miss Crick had laid on his desk the schedule of the holidays of the staff.

Holidays. The word made him think of the country, and a sigh escaped him. He had postponed going down to Werburge Lucy again and again because of Diana's insistent demands that he should keep some appointment with her, or ..... yes, he must be honest with himself, because that fever for the tables held him here. A gambler ..... no, he smiled at the idea, although he knew his losses had been heavy.

"I shall stop when I've made up what I've lost. Nobody will get me to touch baccarat or chemmy again," he said.

THE MORNING AFTER.

Sound-proof walls. Yes, the noise of traffic was lost, but his head ached like blazes. He was feeling worn out, frazzled, altogether done in. With a quick, uneasy glance, Michael Borde opened a drawer of his desk, and took out something at which for a minute he gazed with suspicious dislike.

He had always derided the idea of drugs, sneered at men who took patent medicines, and regarded as weaklings those who pinned their faith to outside aids of any kind. Now.....

"I must do something before I go this afternoon," he said, with a glance at that locked portfolio. "I've got to get Dutch courage or something that'll give me tongue. Old Trottenleigh gets one into a corner with his country gentleman, J.P., attitude, but if the rest are cowed, I'm going to tick him off nicely this afternoon."

Nevertheless, his hands were shaking a little as he tilted a little white powder into a glass.

Multi-Motors ..... Multi Motors .. ....Multi-Motors ..... it was on his writing paper, he had been proud of the name, as proud as he was of the car he had fathered. Now there was this new Combine, bringing out a rival car, he had heard all sorts of rumors, but nobody seemed to know who was behind it, but apparently there was plenty of money. It was not only that was disquieting. Lately Multi-Motors had lost two of its most efficient managers, men, who at the end of their contract, announced simply that they no longer wished to continue working for the firm. At first Michael Borde had refused to believe this. Leave Multi-Motors? Why, not a single employee would drop out of a firm in which he had a downright living interest. They were all share-holders.

Bigger money, of course. But what did money count?

"We can't afford to let good men go. Must offer them a better screw," ran his thoughts, and he tried to remember in what way he had ever failed to be fair.

"Now, remembering this, remembering the fact that both men had left and left abruptly, again that uneasiness returned.

"I wish to goodness I'd stuck to this and left the City alone," he muttered. "If it hadn't been for Diana. ...." there he stopped short. No, he would not blame Diana, although but for her he would never have met Trottenleigh.

If it had been for Werburg Lucy, he would never have met Diana. So it was all arguing in a circle again, which seemed to him was what he was doing lately with everything. Opening another drawer, he drew from this a photograph of the old grey house, and gazing at this his face softened, so that coming in with letters for him to sign before leaving, Miss Crick caught her breath.

"Why, the Chief is looking himself again," ran her thoughts.

He looked up, smiled, laid down the picture, and pointed to it:

"What do you think of this, eh, Miss Crick?" he asked.

She studied it for a minute or so.

"Nice old house. I should think," she replied.

"It's mine," he rejoined proudly. "I saw that house when I was a boy, and it meant more to me than Buckingham Palace. I went in when I was a young man and could afford nothing better than a push-bike to get about, and I heard the organ there. Yes, they've got an organ in the Minstrels' Gallery. Just imagine it, Miss Crick, a house with a Minstrels' Gallery, suits of armor, pictures that have been on the walls since the time of King James, and a bed that Henry VIII. slept in."

A dimple appeared on one side of her mouth. He had never noticed before how attractive was her smile, but it was a long time since he had felt warmed up, willing to talk to anyone. The Tudor house had transformed him.

"Henry VIII. isn't much to crow about, I should imagine," she said, demurely. "However, it is a lovely old place. So you are going to live there when you're married?"

The telephone rang, his face changed, the troubled lines returned.

ODORLESS CABBAGE

Is Perfected After Six Years Of Research On 4,000 Cabbages

Ithaca, N.Y.—An odorless cabbage, something new in the vegetable world, was announced last week at Cornell University.

It will not "smell up the house" while cooking; yet dietically and gastronomically it is a perfect cabbage.

The way Prof. C. H. Myers of the department of plant breeding got rid of the odor proves women have been right in turning up their noses at it.

The old, familiar "smell' turned out to have been only an evolutionary hang-over which disappeared when good breeding was introduced.

It took 4,000 cabbages and six years to produce the aristocratic vegetable. Each year Professor Myers uprooted a few of the most sturdy early savoy cabbages in the Cornell experimental gardens and placed them in cold storage for about two months. This gave the young cabbages a "rest." It was part of the "hibernation" which many plants require to reach their best. Then he replanted the cabbages in greenhouses.

There an expert substituted steel tweezers for bees, butter-flies and other undiscriminating pollen spreaders. He took pollen from the antler of one cabbage flower and placed it on the pistil of another

Thus seeds were obtained perpetuating the best cabbage strains. This went on for five years, with cabbages annually getting better.

This year, the sixth, the new quality appeared. The cabbages have lost their odor, but retained all the other qualities.

Winter Woods

Through cracking woods my boots have made
A stippled trail of sullen black;
A solitary, winding track
Across the snow; and flake by flake
The marks fill up as I look back
Behind me from this little lake.

The farms I passed are hidden now;
I only hear the bells around
The cattle's necks; some wailing hound,
Whose lonely voice is strangely clear
Across the still and frozen ground;
No other sound can reach me here.

How darkly brooding round the lake
Those firs are there, where someone stopped
A while before I came, and chopped
A hole to catch a trout or so;
His tripod made of pine boughs lopped
And tied is left here in the snow

No whistling boy goes strolling by
To wake the silence, break the charm;
Was that a cow on Parker's farm?
No, his is down the road a spell—
It's old John standing near our barn—
Old John who swings the supper bell!

Rubber Street Paving May Save Ancient Colleges at Oxford

Oxford, Eng.—Rubber paving may be the remedy which will save many of Oxford's ancient buildings now being shaken to pieces by modern traffic.

By providing a soft cushion for the trucks and busses which rumble through Oxford's streets, Sir Michael Sadler, Master of University College hopes to keep the four-century-old cloisters and quadrangles from tumbling into ruins. His own college is one of those most seriously menaced.

He proposes that an experimental strip of rubber paving be laid at a cost of $135,000 on High Street, the city's main traffic artery and the chief highway to London. By 1940 he hopes to see other important streets similarly paved, and two by-passes built to route most of the highway traffic outside of the university district.

Describing traffic vibrations as "a creeping sickness attacking the stone and plaster of the ancient buildings," Sir Michael said that some of the finest architectural relics of England are being gradually destroyed. Recent experiments showed that the "vertical vibrations alone are roughly equal to the force of a blow given each square yard of the structure by a ton of weight falling from a height of one foot every day of the year." These shocks are set up by nearly 17,000 motor vehicles passing through the university district daily.

University, Queen's Oriel and Brasenose Colleges and the famous Magdalen tower are in the greatest danger. The Tudor stonework was never meant to stand such wear and tear, Sir Michael pointed out.

1. Take 2 Aspirin Tablets.

2. Drink full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

3. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 Aspirin Tablets in a third of a glass of water and gargle. This eases the soreness in your throat almost instantly.

Ache and Discomfort Eased Almost Instantly Now

When you have a cold, remember the simple treatment pictured here . . . prescribed by doctors everywhere today as the quick, safe way.

Because of Aspirin's quick-disintegrating property, Aspirin "takes hold"— almost instantly.

Just take Aspirin and drink plenty of water . . . every 2 to 4 hours the first day—less often afterward . . . If throat is sore, use the Aspirin gargle.

But be sure you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin Tablet. Aspirin is the trade mark of the Bayer Company, Limited.

SECOND DAY MEALS

At this period of the year the family appetite is likely to be more critical of second and third day forms of the Sunday main course meat or fowl. Even a slight touch of imagination that lends novelty or variety to the second or third day menu, will be hailed with acclaim and blessings!

There are many ways of varying and extending the meat flavor through a considerable quantity of material which otherwise would be quite lacking in distinctive taste. For example, the meat may be served with light, delicious dumplings, preferably in the same dish with it. It may be blended with light, flaky crusts as in meat pies, or meat rolls, or served on crisp toast or hot biscuits.

With a special sauce over it, the meat may be served up as a most interesting centre for borders of steaming rice or mashed potatoes, with perhaps a sprig or two of parsley here and there for a dash of color. Vegetables borders offer endless possibilities for interesting and ingenious dishes.

Salads should be chosen for their lightness, color contrast, and vitamin possibilities, in menus for "in-between" meals. Much the same test should be used for selection of desserts. Quick appeal to the eye is important at this season of the year, and psychology becomes as necessary as salt!

Twelve O'clock Pie

Shoulder of mutton, carrots, onion, 1 cup mashed potato, 5 potatoes, 1 teaspoon baking powder, salt and pepper, 10 tablespoons flour.

Boil shoulder of mutton, with carrot and onion; then cut up; then add potatoes, separately boiled and cut up; and put all into a baking dish. Make crust by mixing smoothly the mashed potato to which a tablespoon of shortening has been added plus the flour which has been sifted with baking powder and seasoning. Bake about twenty minutes in a hot oven. This may be served the first day as lamb stew, without potato crust and made over the second day as a pie.

Tomatoe Cardinal

This dish represents an excellent way of using up small quantities of mutton or beef. Canned or fresh tomatoes may be used, if fresh they are skinned and sliced, if canned just drain off liquid.

Place a layer of tomato in a baking dish, then a layer of sliced meat and a little chopped onion and over this dredge flour, salt and pepper. Repeat until the dish is nearly full, then put in an extra layer of tomato and cover the whole with a layer of pastry, bread crumbs, or cracker crumbs.

When the quantity of meat is small it may be "helped out" by boiled potatoes or other suitable vegetables. A few oysters or mushrooms improve the flavor. Bake in a moderate oven about forty-five minutes.

Sussex Stew

Free cold roast meat from fat, gristle and bones, cut in small pieces, slightly salted, and put into a kettle with left-over gravy or water or both —enough to cover it. It should simmer until almost ready to break in pieces, then onions and raw potatoes, peeled and quartered, should be added. Cook until the potatoes are done, then thicken the gravy with flour. Serve on slices of toast or with dumplings.

Dumplings

Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2-3 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Work in the butter, add milk gradually. Roll out to a thickness of ½ inch and cut with biscuit cutter. Put in a buttered steamer or drop on top of stew and steam for twelve to fifteen minutes.

If the stew is prepared from chicken or veal the dish is called a fricassee.

Beef in Cabbage Leaves

Two cups beef, chopped, salt and pepper to taste, 1 small onion, chopped, ½ cup cooked rice, 2 large tomatoes, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar, 8 large leaves cabbage.

Season meat highly with salt and pepper and onion; add rice. Soak cabbage leaves in hot water a few minutes to make them less brittle. Roll a portion of the meat mixture in each leaf. Place them in a kettle with the rest of the ingredients, add a little water and let simmer and stew until cabbage is tender and well browned.

Beef Loaf

Two cups beef, chopped, 1 teaspoon chopped onion, salt and pepper, ½ cup bread crumbs, ½ cup cold water.

Mix all ingredients together, then form into a roll about six inches long; lay strips of bacon over the top or cover with buttered paper. Place in a baking pan and bake in a quick oven about 30 minutes; if bacon is omitted baste every 5 minutaes with ¼ cup fat drippings melted in 1 cup boiling water. Serve plain or with brown mushroom sauce poured around it.

Meat Pie

Use left-over meat from roast, (veal, lamb, pork or beef) cutting it in 1½ inch pieces. Heat in left-over gravy adding some sliced onions and any other left-over vegetables you may happen to have. Pour into baking pan lined with pie crust, finish off with top crust pricked with fork to allow steam to escape. Bake till nicely browned.

A top potato crust may be put on this kind of pie isteat of pastry crust.

Mexican Beef

Slice beef and reheat in the following sauce: Cook an onion, finely chopped, in 2 tablespoons butter 5 minutes. Add 1 red pepper, 1 green pepper and 1 clove of garlic, each finely chopped, and 2 tomatoes peeled and cut in pieces. Cook 15 minutes. Add 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce, ¼ teaspoon celery salt and salt to taste.

Corned Beef Hash

Remove skin and gristle from cooked corned beef, then chop meat. When meat is very fat, discard most of the fat. To chopped meat, add an equal quantity cold boiled chopped potato. Season with salt and pepper, put intt a hot buttered frying pan moisten with milk or cream, stir well until mixed, spread evenly, then brown slowly underneath. Turn and fold on hot platter.

Lamb on Toast

Remove dry pieces of skin and gristle from remnants of cold roast lamb, then chop meat. Heat in well-buttered frying pan, season with salt, pepper and celery salt and moisten with a little hot water or stock. Or, after seasoning, dredge well with flour, stir and add enough stock to make thin gravy. Pour over small slices buttered toast. Veal may be used instead of lamb in this recipe.

Scalloped Lamb

Remove skin and fat from thin slices cold roast lamb and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover bottom of buttered baking dish with buttered cracker crumbs; cover meat with boiled macaroni, add another layer of meat and macaroni. Pour over tomato sauce and cover with buttered cracker crumbs. Bake in hot oven till crumbs are brown. Boiled rice may be substituted for macaroni, and cold roast pork, beef, or ham used instead of lamb.

Blanquette of Veal

Reheat 2 cups cold roast veal cut in small strips in 1½ cups white sauce. Serve in a potato border and sprinkle over all finely chopped parsley.

WASHING WOOLLENS REALLY SIMPLE TASK

From the point of view of general utility a sweater answers more questions, more satisfactorily, than any item of clothing that a woman wears . . and what is equally important, fits so comfortably into even the slimmer budgets. Yet how often, when the frilly yellow sweater, or the jade green "twin set," or the blue pullover is the only thing that could possibly match your accessories, you pull it out of the drawer and find an annoying stain—or that certain gray dinginess that comes so quickly after a few wearings.

The solution to this irritating state of affairs is so easy and so economical. With a pure, fine soap — lukewarm water — and a little ordinary care you can whisk your sweaters back to their original loveliness in only a few seconds. Here are a few simple rules which will help you:

1. Always test new colored woollens in lukewarm water before washing for the first time. If you're washing a handmade sweater, test the wool you made it from; if not, test an inconspicuous bit of the garment such as the end of the belt.

2. Before washing lay sweater, or any other knitted garment, on a piece of fairly stiff paper— and draw a pencil outline. This is unquestionably the best guide for reshaping sweater while drying. If this is not practicable, measure the garment carefully — noting sleeve lengths, width and depth.

3. Use lukewarm water.

4. Woollens use up a lot of suds. Don't hesitate to make more if needed.

5. Woollens must never be rubbed —or they will tend to mat. Just turn the garment inside out and squeeze suds gently through and through.

6. Rinse thoroughly in three lukewarm or even cool waters.

7. After rinsing roll woollens in a dry Turkish towel. Remove excess moisture by gentle kneading.

8. Place your outline on a firm surface (a rug or carpet serves very well) and carefully ease your garment back to its original measurements, pinning it firmly to the outline.

Never hang knitted woollens on a line, they quickly pull out of shape. And never allow them to dry on a radiator or in the sun. Excessive temperatures, whether of heat or cold, are very bad for woollens.

9. When dry, pin marks may be removed by pressing with a damp cloth and a moderate iron.

This is really all you should know about washing sweaters and other woollens. If you follow these directions, and use a pure, safe soap, even baby's finest things — or the most colorful sweater, will respond in the required manner and emerge as good as new!

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PETER DESCRIBES THE CHRISTIAN LIFE — 1 Peter 3:8-18. GOLDEN TEXT. — Sanctify in your hearts Christ as Lord. 1 Peter 3: 15.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

TIME. — The date of the Epistles of Peter cannot be absolutely determined. It is commonly understood that his first Epistle was written, probably, in 60 A.D.

PLACE. — Some believe that the reference to Babylon in 5:13 is to the actual city of Babylon on the Euphrates River, but it is more generally believed that it refers to the city of Rome.

"Finally." The apostle has been speaking especially of the relationship between husband and wife, and now comes to instruction that has to do with Christians. "Be ye all likeminded." The adjective implies like the corresponding verb in Rom. 12: 16; 15:5, and elsewhere, unity of aim and purpose. "Compassionate." The Greek adjective is sumpathes, from which comes our word sympathy. It means, literally, suffering with another.

"Loving as brethren." See also 1 Pet. 1: 22. It is St. John who most fully develops this virtue (1 John 2: 9-11; 3:10-17; 4:20, 21). "Tenderhearted." Also in Eph. 4:32. The history of the word affords an interesting illustration of the influence of Christian thought. It was used by the Greek writers, especially Greek medical writers, to describe what we should call the sanguine or courageous temperament. By St. Peter and St. Paul it is used for the emotional temper which shews itself in pity and affection. "Humbleminded." Humility before God (Acts 20:19), and toward our neighbor (1 Pet. 5:5; Phil. 2:3).

"Not rendering evil for evil." A verbal reproduction of the precept of Rom. 12:17; 1 Thess. 5:15, an echo of the spirit of the teaching of Matt. 5:39. As this clause forbids retaliation in act, so that which follows forbids retaliation in words.

"Or reviling for reviling." Christ was reviled (John 9:28), but he reviled not again (1 Pet. 2:23). "But contrawise blessing." Our conduct toward others is never to be a negative refraining from doing harm, but a positive bestowal of real blessing. "For hereunto were ye called, that ye should inherit a blessing." The consciousness that we, as Christians, are called to obtain a blessing, should be an incitement to us to bring blessing to others.

"For." These next three verses are quoted from the Septuagint version of Psalm 34:12-16. "He that would love life." Literally, he that willeth to love life. "And see good days." Not necessarily in outward prosperity, but in the favor of God; days of suffering may be good days in the truest sense. "Let him refrain his tongue from evil." There is probably no aspect of life so continuously emphasized by all writers in the New Testament, aside from faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, as that of the terrible dangers and sinfulness of evil speaking. "And his lips that they speak no guile." The word translated guile originally meant a bait, by which fish were caught, and from this it came to mean any lure, or snare, and, finally, craft, deceit. This is a word that can be applied to promoters of worthless stock, to dealers in valueless real estate, and many others in our modern life, by whom so many thousands of people have lost their life-savings.

"And let him turn away from evil, and do good." For similar instruction, see Ps. 37:27; Rom. 12:9, 21. "For the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous." The disciples of Christ were to find peace and calmness in the thought of the omniscience of God. He knew all, and would reuire it. "And his ears unto their supplication." James 5:16 speaks of the relationship between righteous conduct and answered prayer. "But the fact of the Lord is upon them that do evil." In the Psalm from which this is quoted this phase is followed by, to cut off the remembrance of them from the earth (Ps. 34:16), but Peter stops short and leaves room for repentence.

"And who is he that will harm you." The verb is used elsewhere to describe the treatment suffered by Israel when in bondage in Egypt (Acts 7:6, 10), and in speaking of Herod's persecution of the Church (Acts 12:1). "If ye be zealous of that which is good." Set the good firmly before you! Then be zealous! Such is the strong, definite virtue which is the fruit of the sanctified life.

"But even if ye should suffer for righteousness' sake. As many have done, and as even some of these early Christians were to do before their race was finished. Peter does not say if a man lives blamelessly he will always be free from cruel treatment. "Blessed are ye" They are blessed who so suffer, because theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

"And fear not their fear, neither be troubled." See Isa. 8:12, 13. The command amounts to this, be not affected in heart by the fear which they strive to inspire into you.

"But sanctify in your hearts Christ as Lord." One of the most beautiful, profound, and yet practical phases in the entire Scriptures. We sanctify or hallow one who is holy already, when we recognise the holiness, and honor what we recognize.

"Being ready always to give answer to every man that asketh you a reason concerning the hope that is in you." We might read it; be ye ready always to give justification to any one who would require you to justify the hope that is you. The hope that is in us is the Christian hope. "Yet with meekness and fear. This fear is not the fear of God exclusively, nor that of men, but the aspect of the mind as regards both: proper respect for man, and humble reverence of God

"Having a good conscience; that, wherein ye are spoken against, they may be put to shame who revile your good manner of life in Christ." Such a conscience is a good companion for our days, and a good bedfellow for our nights.

"For it is better, if the will of God should so will, that ye suffer for well-doing than for evil-doing." A fifth reason for our patiently enduring wrong and persecution. This consolation is understood rather by secret meditation, than by many words. If we suffer unjustly, it is not by chance, but according to the divine will. God wills nothing or appoints nothing but for the best reason.

A map of the moon, indicating its mountains and prairies and all the other features on its surface, is being made in Washington from photographs taken from about 239,000 miles—the distance of the earth from the moon.

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished With Every Pattern

The material used for this distinctive dress is rough crepe silk print that resembles a monontone. It is an advanred spring idea that smart women are wearing now to freshen their winter wardrobe. The original was periwinkle blue. A navy blue ruffle adorned the neck, a most pleasing combination.

Another very liked idea is black crinkly crepe silk with lingerie neck ruffle of white or pastel shade starched lace.

Almond green woolen with brown taffeta neck trim is still another lovely scheme.

Style No. 2783 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38 and 40-inches bdst.

Size 16 requires 3 1-8 yards of 39-inch material with 3-8 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 15c in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto.

An ominous 10-months' silence in Kingston penitentiary was broken last night when fires started—apparently simultaneously—in two work departments of the big prison and 50 convicts locked themselves in one of them with the flames. Guards smashed down a steel door leading to the boot and clothing workshop and led the revolting prisoners to their cells as flames raged less than 50 feet away, in the building where mail bags are manufactured. Prison officials refused to discuss the developments in any way.

Mrs. Eliza Keyes celebrated her 91st birthday at her residence in Winchester this week, and was the recipient of many phone calls and messages of congratulation. During the day numerous friends and neighbours took the opportunity of calling on Mrs. Keyes, and extending best wishes for continued health. The aged lady is one of Winchester's oldest and most esteemed residents.

Holstein Breeders' Clubs in practically every County in Eastern Ontario were represented at a central conference in Kingston, where the needs of each section were discussed and plans made for adequate field service to meet the situation. Seventy-five delegates and Agricultural Representatives heard Dr. T.F. Robertson, Brockville, state that the demand for blood tested Holsteins in Eastern Ontario was so great that buyers had to be sent away without cattle, and later Mr. G.M. Clemons, Secretary-Treasurer of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, in the course of a brief address, pointed out that transfers in head offices were running over forty per cent. ahead of last year. The conference was arranged by the Executive of the Eastern Ontario Branch, and was presided over by Mr. J.R. Henderson, Portsmouth.
