Hydro and municipal officials honoured before retirement

Long service municipal hydro officials of the village were honoured last Friday evening. They were guests of honour at a dinner held in the McCloskey Hotel sponsored by the village of Chesterville and Ontario Hydro. Chas. McMillan has finally decided to retire from municipal affairs after eleven years as reeve and several before that as councillor. Clerk-treasurer Harry C. Hummel has served the local hydro commission and village councils as clerk for twenty years. He will retire at year's end. Maintenance man Chas. Marcell has been handling hot lines since 1915. He came to live in the village here just after the war. He also retires at the end of the year. Presentations of three platform rockers were made during the evening. Pictured above after the presentations are Jack Young, Ottawa, consumer branch engineer for Ontario Hydro; clerk Harry C. Hummel, maintenance man Chas. Marcell, reeve Chas. McMillan and district manager Al Beardsall, Winchester Rural Operating Area, Winchester.—Record Photo.

Retiring officers feted by Hydro & village

Ontario Hydro and village officials Friday night honoured three long-time employees of the municipality. They were retiring reeve Chas. McMillan, clerk H. C. Hummel and hydro maintenance man Chas. Marcell.

Arrangements were made by reeve-elect Carl Merkley for the village and by district manager Al Beardsall and auditor Jerry Herrington for Hydro.

Some twenty guests enjoyed a fine turkey dinner at the McCloskey Hotel and Mr and Mrs Clarence Hagan were complimented on their fine cuisine. Keith Graham was chairman during the dinner.

Presentations were made on behalf of the village by Carl Merkley to reeve Chas. McMillan, to H. C. Hummel by Keith Graham and to Chas. Marcell by Al Beardsall. Indentical platform rockers were presented to the honoured men. Ontario Hydro also presented Chas. Marcell with a fine cheque.

Among the guests present were the reeve and clerk of Winchester village, Messrs John Fader and Chester Robinson. Other guests were Phil Garlough, Ottawa; Lorne Laurel, Herb Allen, John McConnell, Winchester; Erwin Merkley, Harold Sharkey; Jerry Herrington, Morrisburg; Jack Young, Ottawa, Hydro Consumer Engineer and one of the evening's speakers; Carl Merkley, Harry Hummel, Chas. Marcell, Chas. McMillan, Keith Graham; Al Beardsall, Winchester; Lee Vrandenburg, Ottawa; Elliott Rushton, Winchester; Geo. Laflamme and Al. Butcher.

POST OFFICE BUSY ADDED STAFF ON HAND

Postmaster Stuart Allan had the biggest day in the local office history Tuesday of this week; more business in stamps and other services was done than ever before he reported to the Record just before we tied up this edition.

Additional staff has been added to handle the rush again this year. Along with the regulars, Mr Allan, Wendell Harper, Mrs Marie Racine and Mrs Jean Loughridge, are Mrs Alf Jarvis, Mrs Orma McElheran and Mrs Oscar Olsen.

The post office staff will be able to handle your mail much faster if parcels and letters are mailed in good time before Christmas. Every effort is made to speed delivery, but letters cannot be delivered if they are not mailed. The public is asked to co-operate.

WINTER ARRIVED SKATING TO START SOON

Winter arrived with a rush this week and temperatures have been low enough to prove it. Tuesday night the night shift at the factory watched the mercury hit a low of six below before it started a climb above the line.

Ice has been making at the park at a good rate and caretaker Harold Ouderkirk hopes to have skating as soon as possible.

Glen Droppo describes tour to W.I. members

The monthly meeting of Chesterville Women's Institute was held recently in the library. The meeting opened with the singing of the Opening Ode, followed by the Mary Stewart Collect.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved by the members. The treasurer's report was read and adopted.

Roll call was answered by each member telling the place of origin and details of the early settlement of her family.

Plans were made for the distribution of Christmas candy to local children. This is to take place on Saturday, December 20, in the Community Hall at 1.30 p.m. Members voted to support the Christmas Seals Campaign as in previous years.

After the business of the meeting was concluded the president, Mrs H. W. Merkley, turned the meeting over to the conveners, Mrs Floyd Edgerton and Mrs Gerald Gilbert. The subject was Historical Research and the guest speaker was Glen Droppo who delighted the members with an account of his travels in Great Britain and the continent of Europe, illustrated by very beautiful coloured slides.

The members of the committee, which included Mrs Edwin Forward, Mrs Dwight Droppo, Mrs Richard Casselman and Mrs Frank Cox, served a delicious lunch which did nothing for the members' slimming diets. The meeting concluded in Parisien fashion with a fashion show wherein the very clever members of the millinery course modelled their own creations to the delight and envy of all present.

300 attend 4-H award night here

Over 300 Dundas 4-H Club members, parents and friends filled Chesterville Community Hall Thursday evening last for the annual 4-H Award Night. . .

The Award Night represents the final event of the year's activity in 4-H Club work and on this occasion all the trophies and prize money won by the Agricultural Club members during the year are distributed.

Big winner this year was Ralph Fawcett, Winchester, who received the Ottawa Citizen Award of $125 towards the purchase of a calf. This prize is awarded to the highest standing 4-H Calf Club member in the county. Ralph also received the Wincrest Farms Trophy emblematic of high standing in Dundas County.

The Harold Faulkner Trophy, awarded to the hig h standing first year member, was won by Terris Henderson, Brinston.

The Fennell Feed Trophy for high standing in the county live stock judging competition was won by Don Johnston, Winchester, while the CNE Shield, given to the high junior in this competition was presented to Lorraine Holmes, of Winchester Springs.

Other trophies and winners were the Berryholm Poultry Farm Trophy to Paul Anderson, Brinston. The Ellis Poultry Farm Award went to William Strader, Iroquois. The Chesterville Co-Op Trophy was won by Phyllis Coulthart, Chesterville.

In addition to regular prize money received by all members completing their projects, awards were made to all Calf Club members showing Holstein calves by the Dundas Holstein Club, to Ayrshire exhibitors by the Grenville-Dundas Ayrshire Club, and to Guernsey exhibitors by the Ontario Guernsey Association.

Chairman of the evening program was Donald Rose, Mountain, president of the Dundas 4-H Club Leaders' Association. In his remarks he paid tribute to the many local sponsors who assist in providing prize money for the many clubs. These include the Chesterville Agricultural Society, Mountain Agricultural Society, Dundas Federation of Agriculture; Iroquois Lions Club, Winchester 100 Club and Chesterville Rotary Club.

4-H Homemaking Club member awards were made previously at Achievement Days, but members were present in large numbers at the Award Night. Miss Joan Calder, Home Economist, introduced Homemaking Club leaders and also county and provincial award winners.

In his review of 4-H Club activities, agricultural representative Ed Pearson voiced appreciation to the many voluntary club leaders. Without their assistance it would be impossible to conduct 4-H activities on their present scale.

The evening concluded with a short period of dancing, followed by lunch served by Morewood Women's Institute.

High standing members in each of the clubs were as follows: Williamsburg Calf, Lorraine Holmes, of Winchester Springs; North Mountain Calf, Don Johnston, of Winchester; South Mountain Calg, Ralph Fawcett, Winchester; Chesterville Calf, Leslie Dawley, Winchester; Morewood Calf, Joan Porteous, Winchester; Chesterville Poultry, Caroline Babcock, Chesterville; Iroquois Poultry, Paul Anderson, Brinston; Winchester Tractor, Charles Pollock, Winchester; Morewood Tractor, Bill Smirle, Morewood; Dundas Grain, Drenna Coleman, Hallville.

Nestlé plant party held Saturday night

Nestlé (Canada) Limited plant staff members and employees and their wives held their annual Christmas dinner and dance Saturday evening. The successful affair was staged in Community Hall auditorium and over 280 persons were present.

Mr J. P. Wolff, president of the Canadian company, was present from Toronto and was one of the honoured guests.

Chesterville plant was out of production for the evening so that all employees could be at the party; with the exception of a couple of members of the maintenance staff, who had their dinner taken back to the factory, the big plant was empty.

Ladies of the Anglican Women's Guild catered and guests were loud in their praise of the fine meal served. Ronald Lynch acted as master of ceremonies.

Trinity United W.A. holds Christmas meeting officers nominated for 1959 term of office

Trinity United Woman's Association held their Christmas meeting on Thursday last in the church dining room. Mrs Graham Durant and her committee were in charge of a very interesting program on the theme, "The Visit of the Magi."

The program consisted of carol singing, the Scripture lesson which was read byMrs Durant, and prayer by Mrs Angus Smith. Mrs E. B. Bugden read the beautiful story, "The Other Wise Man" by Henry van Dyke and Mrs Chas. McMillan sang "We Three Kings," accompanied by Mrs Eric Casselman.

Mrs A. E. Jarvis, president, assisted by Mrs D. McElheran, secretary, took charge of the business period. The secretary gave her annual report. There have been 10 meetings with an average attendance of 35. During the year the group has sponsored two church suppers, a canvassers' supper, a booth at the fair, a bazaar and have catered for two wedding anniversaries.

SANTA CLAUS COMING TO TOWN

Old Santa is coming to town. He is due to arrive Saturday, December 20, and should be at Community Hall about 2 p.m.

Each year about this time we get in touch with the North Pole headquarters of the jolly gentleman through the good offices of Chesterville Women's Institute and other organizations of the village. The word this year is that Santa has fitted Chesterville into his busy schedule for December 20.

The big pack sack is guaranteed to be just brimming over with sacks of candies and stuff; kids of the community and district are asked to be on hand in the hall around 2 p.m. so Santa can say "Hello" and give out his gifts with a reasonable amount of confusion.

OPINIONS . . .
OURS AND OTHERS

A broader municipal franchise

In eight Ontario municipalities where the question was placed on the ballot, the electorate has voted in favour of etxending the civic franchise to all persons over 21. Provincial legislation designed to meet this expression of opinion is long overdue. As matters stand, thousands of persons are disfranchised merely because they occupy single rooms, though their stake in their communities is made manifest by the permanence of their residence.

At the moment, only persons living on premises assessed at $400 may vote in civic elections in Ontario. For practical purposes, the rule of thumb is to disfranchise those living in single rooms. However, large numbers of these persons are not transients, but live permanently in their communities and contribute toward municipal revenues through their rent payments. It is wholly unjust to deprive them of a voice in municipal affairs by means of an arbitrary assessment ruling.

Where a person has lived in a community for more than a year, he should be enfranchised, regardless of the value of the property he occupies. His concern with the efficient administration of his city should be unquestioned if his residence has been established.

The communities which have voted for broad enfranchisement include Windsor, London, Brantford, Fort William, Belleville, Woodstock, Leaside and Toronto. In the latter city, the affirmative vote was three to one. This expression of opinion is sufficiently wide to justify provincial legislation that would cover the whole province, rather than merely the communities which held plebiscites on the issue last year.

Montrealers want the Seaway ceremonies

Opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway during the last week of June is tentatively scheduled to take place in the Cornwall-Massena area. This seems a logical place, since the waterway is international in character and Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, President Eisenhower and Mrs Eisenhower will all be on hand for the joint ceremonies.

However, that's not the way Montreal's Tourist and Convention Bureau thinks things should be done. "There's really something wrong with Montrealers," it says, "if they allow the official opening to take place in Cornwall." The bureau's reasoning is that the project "begins at Montreal and it is here that two major locks are located."

Then it goes on to play on the old familiar theme that the seaway is basically a Canadian accomplishment. The flaw in this argument is that the present project, impressive and important as it is, represents in reality the last link in a continuous deep waterway stretching from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the head of Lake Superior. Much of the work, especially in the upper lake channels, has been or will be done by the United States. The natural channel is no respecter of boundaries.

The new locks and bridges in the Lachine section are naturally a source of pride to Montrealers, and these are the biggest and costliest part of the present phase of the deep waterway. But even these don't alter the international nature of the whole enterprise.

So Cornwall-Massena is the fitting area for the ceremonies next summer—unless the communities of Iroquois, Morrisburg and Waddington, N.Y., think it's their turn for attention.

Cars geared to climate

no Canadian cars. There are only cars designed in other countries and either built in whole or in part or simply shipped here. How senseless it is, really, that no car manufacturer ever thinks of taking climate here, and in large parts of the United States, into consideration.

One simple, but vital change, could eliminate about 80 percent of the Winter driving grief. That change involves tires—admittedly only incidentally the interest of the car builders. What we have now is tires with a large percentage of artificial rubber which is absolutely useless for traction on icy surfaces. If we must have tires like this, why, instead of frills, couldn't our cars be equipped with efficient sand boxes at the driving wheels?

Other changes will suggest themselves, such as a more efficient method of gearing for low speed and high power through heavy snow—some cars have this, but most of them do not. We are not suggesting a car equipped and built like a snow tractor. Just a few rather minor changes and some attention to a problem, the neglect of which is a standing reproach to the builders.

Bird migration

Science is slowly dispelling a mystery that has baffled mankind since prehistoric times—bird migration.

The seasonal flight of birds stimulated the interest of Homeh, Aristotle and Biblical writers. No doubt migration interested men as long ago as 40,000 B.C., for as early as that men were painting and carving images of birds.

The 19th-century ornithologist John James Audubon may have been the first bird-bander. Curious to know whether phoebes that nested on his father's property in Pennsylvania returned to the same place year after year, he fastened tiny bracelets around the ankles of five nestlings. The next summer, three of the five were back at their old haunts.

Since Audubon's time, many scientists have studied migrations and reported amazing feats. A German investigator learned that captured starlings could find their way back to their nests as far as 1,250 miles away. In another experiment, a shearwater taken from England to Boston reappeared at its nesting place in 12 days, having flown 3,000 miles across the Atlantic.

Racking their brains for an explanation, students of bird migration wondered if the creatures had a sixth sense. Speculation occasionally ranged into the realm of psychic phenomena.

In the early 1950's, experimenters began to turn up evidence that some birds use the sun as a compass. The birds they studied seemed to have a "time sense" to take account of the sun's movement across the sky.

But other birds fly at night.

Could it be they navigate by the stars? German scientists undertook an ingenious experiment to answer the question. Their subject was a warbler that migrates between Europe and the Nile Valley.

The scientists built a planetarium with a 20-foot dome. The artificial sky could be varied to duplicate the stars as they would appear at various points and seasons on the earth.

The birds were kept in a glass-topped cage beneath the dome. At migrating time they would face in the direction they should take to reach their traditional destinations. As the star patterns changed, the birds would alter their stances to stay on the proper course or return to the course. When the planetarium as an experiment put them at Lake Balkhash, thousands of miles away in the Soviet Union, one warbler unerringly pointed toward its usual starting place in Germany.

Without the stars, the birds seemed to get lost. British investigators found with radar that during an overcast migrating birds fly around indecisively. When that happens, they tend to drift with the wind, and sometimes wander far off course until the stars are again visible.

The experiments appear to support the theory that at least some birds take their bearings from heavenly bodies. Still, the mystery of bird migration is far from solved. And little is known about the physiological mechanisms of migration that give a bird the equivalent of a chronometer, a sextant, navigational tables, and a calculating machine of amazing accuracy.

A FEW WORDS

"My little puppy just bit me," said the little girl who telephoned Elmira, N.Y., police headquarters.

Thomas McCormack, the police switchboard operator, asked her whether he should take the dog away or punish it.

"Oh no," the little girl answered. "But will you come down and talk to him?"

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

It's the same every year. We tell ourselves in the middle of November that Christmas cannot possibly be only six weeks away. We, who are older, try to forget about it for a while. But they won't let us.

The news of Santa Claus parades in the big cities seeps through our cotton-plugged ears. The stores begin to unpack their toys and Christmas gifts. The newspapers make suggestions about what to buy "Him" or "Her." The organizations we belong to plan their Christmas parties. Suddenly about the end of November somebody starts to sing Christmas carols. The D.J.'s dust off the old copies of "It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas." We take off our dark glasses and look around and sure enough it does.

Already we've received a few Christmas cards. Not many, mind you, but enough to make me watch a little more diligently for the mailman to arrive. And the other day he left a big carton full of Christmas gifts, all neatly boxed and wrapped in gay paper. Now there should be a law against having Christmas parcels arrive on the eighth day of December. I know the postal authorities insist that we mail our cards and gifts early. It's all right for them. They don't have to spend three weeks with a lot of glamourous-looking packages that say "Please don't open until Christmas."

And speaking of packages I have quite a few to wrap in the next week or so. It's fun to make them look beautiful and exciting. I'm really not an expert at it, of course, but I do enjoy it.

I've always balked, however, at spending half as much as the gift is worth for fancy paper, ribbons and bows. So I look for inexpensive wrapping ideas.

Left-over wallpaper is a very good way to hide the box that houses a gift. It is gay and bright and isn't cut up into those disgusting little sheets that seldom fit.

Now something I've been doing for a long time is making my own seals from last year's Christmas cards. It takes a good pair of scissors, the patience of Job and a little time, but the results are amazing. I can make great, big, gay seals that I've never seen equalled in the stores. Sometimes there are three or four reindeer, cherubs or poinsettias on one card which can be used so attractively on one parcel.

Of course I find I like plain wrapping paper as a background for these attractive seals. Usually I get plain tissue in red, white, green or navy. But this year I'm looking for wide, white shelf paper. It is heavier and will hide the gift better. I'd like some black tissue paper for a change if I can find some.

Often on long parcels I use red paper on one end and white on the other. A bit of cellulose tape will hold the two together. Sometimes scraps of tissue can be used to make a striped parcel of red, white and blue.

Gloves, hose, a scarf, etc., can be tucked into an empty cylinder from the aluminum foil box. This can be wrapped with tissue a little longer than the cylinder and the protruding ends fringed to look like a Christmas cracker.

I had fun a couple of years wrapping wrecking bars to look like candy canes. But now my friends are all supplied.

We usually find some parcels under our tree that are there just for laughs. My electric mixer didn't arrive in time for Christmas as it should have. So instead I got a picture of it very carefully clipped from an advertisement, boxed and wrapped.

The year Mother asked for a watch she got an old pocket watch neatly wrapped with a note saying "Here is the watch you wanted." The real one was far down among the parcels.

A promisory note makes a good present. I got one from Dad one year that said "I will make your coffee table and lamp tables." And later a parcel contained enough money to buy the material.

Money is a very welcome gift. And if it is given in an original way—like dividing it into several attractive parcels—it is even more welcome.

So how about a little ingenuity in your gift wrapping this year. It's fun.

FORMER DENTIST FINDS LOST TRIBE

The "lost tribe of Karamoja" in a remote region of Africa's Uganda has been found and is a most interesting people, says William Treutle.

A former dentist in Tacoma, Wash., he had an old ambition to seek a "lost" tribe, and when his doctor told him to relax in another environment if he expected to live, he decided to try it.

He sold his business, travelled to Africa, met and married petite Eleanor Claff, whom he met by chance in an airport in the Belgian Congo. The couple travelled thousands of miles in the least-known parts of Africa.

In their own isolated region of Uganda where no white men may own land and few may travel, "the Karamojans live in the early Iron Age, though they are descendants of the legendary Ham, the son of Noah," he said.

"The men go naked, cattle is their only currency and they're ruled by a council of elders.

"Their diet is liquid: Blo[illegible] from the cattle, milk from th[illegible] goats and beer made from wild maize that grows in their otherwise desolate country.

"The men don't do much but carry spears. The women do the washing, the blood-letting and caring for the children. Infant mortality is high.

"Occasionally the people have their cocktail parties ,when they drink their maize beer. If anyone breaches good manners he is ostracized forever, meaning that he has to drink alone for the rest of his life.

"Marriages are by trial. That is, the family bargains, the husband-to-be pays over so many cattle and takes the girl to his house for a year.

"If his mother still likes her after a year's trial, she agrees to the marriage."

His wife chimed in: "Th[illegible] seem to be the happiest kind of people I have ever met. Just as my husband said when we had watched their way of life for a few weeks—'who is civilized?'"

Local delegates attend UCO convention held recently

The United Co-operatives of Ontario will meet contract farming competition from other companies according to Lloyd Gallinger, of Gallingertown, official delegate from Chesterville and District Co-Op and the United Dairy and Poultry Co-operative.

Over 600 delegates and visitors representing some 60,000 farmers and other patrons of farm co-operatives heard Alden McLean, of Muirkirk, president of UCO, report that a substantial amount of money had been appropriated for use of the local co-operatives to assist them to meet competition from other companies through contract farming. "Your directors believe that contract farming and vertical integration have some advantages and should be used where they help the farmer," he told delegates. "However, we believe that farming should be controlled fy farmers and to make that possible the farmer may contract with his own Co-Op where he is part owner rather than surrender his own independence to non-farm corporate enterprises."

A panel discussion held jointly by UCO and UDPC on the morning of the second day supported Mr McLean and the Board of Directors in their view. The panel discussion on "Co-operatives in Integration," chaired by Ray Lougheed, of Barrie, 2nd vice president of UCO, brought out the point that co-operatives were the logical farm organization to undertake contract farming agreements with farmers. Panel members were Dr Dave Hopper, O.A.C., Guelph; Bob McKercher, Seaforth; H. Scmidt, Baden, and Hamish McLeod, UCO Production Department manager.

Dr Hopper reported that contract farming was definitely on the increase, but he indicated that this type of farming would not likely be as popular for hogs and eggs as it has been for broiler raising. Geo. McCague, president of UDPC and 1st vice president of UCO, said after the meeting that vertical integration was a logical move for the two provincial co-operatives. UCO could supply the contracts and backing for its members to undertake contract farming in poultry and eggs and the dairy and poultry co-op would be able to market the products to the best advantage of members.

Highlight of Meeting

A highlight of the meeting was the address of Hon. T. C. Douglas, Premier of Saskatchewan, who spoke at length on the place of the co-op movement in present civilization. He indicated that a capitalistic society could not supply a perfect solution for people nor could communism but that a co-op society which contains public, private and co-op businesses would provide the best solution for a sound and rewarding civilization. Mr Douglas spoke to more than 1,000 guests at the joint banquet on December 1.

The story of an outstanding year for the co-op movement in Ontario was enfolded in the directors' and general manager's reports. Hugh Bailey, general manager, Weston, reported that the UCO had a total volume of business exceeding $70 million in 1958, more than $11,500,0000 over last year's volume. Total earnings were $846,388, nearly double that of last year. Patronage dividends of $740,000 from these earnings would be paid out to member co-ops it was announced. Nearly all departments of UCO showed substantial progress with the grain marketing division and the petroleum department showing the greatest advance. The grain marketing division made history in the past year when it became the sole marketing agency for a farm commodity group—the Ontario Wheat Producers Co-Op.

It was the first time that the UCO had undertaken this type of program and it was the first time another farm organization had approached UCO to request it to be sales agent. Since then the Ontario White Bean Growers have also engaged the UCO for the same purpose. It was announced that the Grain Division is planning to build a 3,000,000 bushel grain terminal in the Chatham area.

A new program just gaining momentum among the co-ops is the retail farm supply store program for local co-ops. Guelph, Beaverton and Lindsay Co-Ops have already started on the program and many other local co-ops are waiting to begin.

UDPC delegates heard anew the reports of their directors. The reports emphasize the reasons why UDPC was formed several months ago. One of the main purposes is to provide poultry and dairy products to large retail outlets in quality as well as quantity. The UDPC is an outgrowth of what was the dairy and poultry marketing division of UCO, plus local co-ops at Blyth and Dundalk. The UDPC begins operation with merely $2,500,000 in assets, with UCO as the main investor.

A session was devoted to young farmer discussions on the co-op movement and current farm problems. Dave Pelletterio, of Guelph, chaired a panel report on the afternoon of the second day. Panel members were Harvey Homan, Corbyville; Bob Tanning, Waterford; Harold Dodds, Georgetown, and Ron Schmidt, Stratford.

Delegates to the UCO convention were Lloyd Gallinger, Russell Sirvage, Paul Monast, Harold Winters and John Coyne.

John Coyne reports a dividend from UCO of $2,780 for the year 1958.

TO ARMS

A driving school in Rotterdam, Holland, now gives each woman graduate a sling for a broken arm.

The head of the school explains that the sling may save their marriages.

"Dutchmen do not like to be put in the ridiculous position of sitting beside their wives while the women are at the wheel," he says.

"They do not feel manly, and their friends may tease them if they see them there."

Therefore, the husband is supposed to wear the sling, and it will look as if he cannot drive because his arm is broken.

BIG WINNER—Six-foot-5-inch singer, Mike Darrow, ex-radio announcer from Edmonton, was first winner of CBC's Sunday night Trans-Canada Talent Show. He received his prize, a certificate and a $100 cheque from Denny Vaughn, who is emcee of the show. Sylvia Murphy, attractive radio and television songstress, was one of the judges. Trans-Canada Talent Show is touring Canada in search of new voices, variety acts and musicians who show promise. Mike Darrow will compete in the finals with the other winners for the grand prize of $1,000.

Be safe from fire at Christmas

Following are some of the special Christmas precautions and other general rules everyone can follow for a safer, fire-free Christmas:

Keep the Christmas tree outdoors until ready to set it up. Base of the tree should be cut off at a sharp angle and set in a narrow-necked container of water. Check the water level daily.

Place the tree in the coldest part of the house. Shut off all radiators or hot air registers within 10 feet of the tree.

Never use any cotton or paper for decoration on the tree.

Use only electric lights in good condition for tree decoration. Never use candles.

Turn the lights off when retiring. Inspect the tree daily and if any needles around the lights have turned brown change the position of the the lights.

Never locate the tree near a stairway or other opening which might provide an updraft.

Remove the tree as soon as its needles start falling. This is a sure sign that the tree is dried out.

All Christmas decorations should be at least seven feet from the floor to protect them against careless smokers.

Burn all waste Christmas wrappings immediately they are no longer required.

Cotton batting and paper decorations, if not flameproofed, will ignite easily and burn with great intensity, as will untreated Santa Claus whiskers and certain cloth costuming. Lighted candles should never be used in Christmas festivities of any kind.

BRICK BY BRICK

For eight pence, a parishioner can own a brick in the new St. Ann's Church hall in Chingford, England.

Church officials hope to sell every brick before it is built, and then find buyers for windows and door frames.

The Devil's Knell on Christmas Eve

Of all the bells of Christmas there is none more strange than that of the Devil's Knell which rings out on Christmas Eve from the parish church of Dewsbury, Yorkshire.

The tenor bell, called Black Tom of Soothill, is tolled once for every year of the Christian era, the last stroke being timed for midnight.

The story goes that in ancient days a certain Thomas de Soothill slew one of his servants, and to atone for his crime gave this bell to the church with the request that it be rung every Christmas Eve. The people of Dewsbury used to believe that the knell, or solmen ringing, would keep the Devil out of the parish for 12 months.

In recent years a midnight service has been held in the church, and the knell, if uncompleted by midnight, has been interrupted and finished afterwards.

GALLINGERTOWN

Extend sympathy

(Held Over)

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr Joseph Heagle and family on the death of a loving wife and mother.

Personals

Mr and Mrs Hubert Gallinger, Gary and Brian, Ingleside, were recent guests of Mr and Mrs Fred C. Gallinger.

Ingleside 4-H Club plans Achievement Day

Ingleside 4-H Club met recently at the home of Mrs R. J. Trimble. The meeting was opened with the 4-H pledge given by seven members. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Carol Trimble.

A discussion followed on the design book covers for the members' notebooks which will be on display, along with various bedroom accessories made by club members, on Achievement Day, to be held the latter part of January.

Junior members were given instructions on judging of these articles which will be their job at this time.

Following the business session, members worked on articles such as dresser scarves, waste paper baskets and chair pads.

Another work session is scheduled for the near future.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

TWELVE DAYS

In ancient pagan rites the 12 days following their December 25th Sun Festival was a time devoted to the expulsion of evil.

Torches were lighted, bells jangled and kettles clattered to set up a hue and cry that was raised to an ear splitting roar, to drive out all wandering witches, ghosts and demons.

The last, and twelfth day, January 6, which was Christ's first birth-date, and which we now call Epiphany, marked the conclusion of the heathen rites.

It was set aside by the Christians to commemorate the coming of the Magi and the first manifestation of Christ to his new followers.

SAMPLER

Police are investigating the case of the bring-your-own bread burglar.

Officers said someone forced his way into the home of Wm. Bischel, of Yonkers, N.Y., raided the refrigerator and made sandwiches with some of the contents. But he brought his own bread for the indoor picnic and left some of it behind.

Aside from forcing the door, taking some victuals and leaving the refrigerator door open so that other food spoiled, the burglar did no damage and took no valuables.

SOON WALKING

It appears Lester O. Green, of Redwood City, Calif., finally is afoot.

First, he lost his automobile driver's licence because of a drunk driving conviction.

He got a motorcycle—and was forbidden to ride that after he was arrested on another drunk driving charge.

Next, policeman John Hacker reported he caught Green drunkenly pedalling a bicycle.

Judge Edward Ryan told Green to show up on two charges, drunk driving and driving on the wrong side of the highway.

"And you'd better learn to walk," added the judge as he ordered Green to abandon his bike.

ONTARIO

Ontario Department of Transport announces your

POINT SYSTEM

Effective February 1, 1959

to make Ontario's streets and highways safer

The Point System is designed to protect pedestrians and the millions of careful motorists from the small minority of negligent drivers who abuse the privilege of operating a motor vehicle.

Protects good drivers—corrects bad drivers. The good drivers will be safer than ever before. Forgetful motorists will be encouraged to improve their driving habits.

Proof of the effectiveness of the Point System in reducing accidents is provided by its success in other provinces and in the United States.

It is designed to save lives—including yours.

How the POINT SYSTEM works

Points will be added to the driving record of motorists upon conviction for offences as listed below.

12 points within a 2-year period will bring licence suspension for 3 months. An additional 12 point accumulation within a 1-year period will bring 6 months' suspension.

A driver with 6 points will be advised of his record and asked to improve his driving.

At 9 points the motorist will be asked to attend an interview and show cause why his driving privilege should not be suspended. He may be placed on probation or have his licence suspended if his attitude reflects irresponsibility.

Points are deducted from the record 2 years after the date of conviction. After a period of suspension, a motorist will begin with no points against his driving record.

Each motorist will receive a folder describing the Point System in detail when applying for his 1959 Driver's Licence.

POINT SYSTEM SCALE

POINTS	VIOLATION
12	Criminal negligence involving the use of motor vehicle
12	Driving while intoxicated
12	Driving while ability to drive is impaired
12	Obtaining licence by misrepresentation
	Upon conviction for any of the above offences, suspension is mandatory for at least 3 months
9	Failing to stop at scene of accident
5	Careless driving
5	Racing
5	Exceeding speed limit by 30 m.p.h. or more
3	Exceeding speed limit by more than 10 m.p.h. and less than 30 m.p.h.
3	Failing to yield right-of-way
3	Failing to obey a stop sign or signal-light
3	Failing to report an accident
2	Exceeding speed limit by 10 m.p.h. or under
2	Improper passing
2	Failing to share road
2	Improper turns
2	Failing to signal

New association formed for Ninth School

A Home and School Association has been formed by the parents and teacher of S.S. No. 11, the Ninth School. This new organization will link the residents of the school section in a program to aid both the parents in their understanding of the program and needs of the school and the school in utilizing the fine co-operation in the section.

The local Association will have membership in the Provincial Federation of Home and School Associations Inc., and looks forward to a working association with the council for Ottawa area.

Officers of the new Association are: President, Mrs Dwight Marcellus; vice-president, Russell Marcellus; secretary, Mrs Frank Casselman; treasurer, Mrs Gosse Dam; program convener, Eric Barclay; social convener, Mrs Halford Crump; membership convener, Dwight Marcellus.

The first meeting is to be held on January 5 when it is expected a film on civil defence will be shown.

Icy road conditions lowers attendance at Auxiliary meeting

Hospital Auxiliary members met in the assembly hall of Winchester District Memorial Hospital on Thursday evening, December 4, for the regular monthly meeting. Mrs M. A. Black was in the chair. Owing to icy road conditions, many units were not represented.

Miss Elliott, the treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $161.24 after disbursements of $167.45 were made for convention fees, linens and upholstering.

Mrs Mulloy, reporting for the hospital, said that November had been the usual busy month in all departments. She also had on display the plates with picture of the hospital, complete with wall hanger, which are being sold by Inkerman unit for $2. Anyone wishing to obtain one or more may contact Mrs Mulloy. They make nice Christmas gifts.

The Readers Digest subscription has again been renewed for use of the patients. Tickets on a lounge-type chair, very kindly donated by the Hon. Fred Cass, Q.C., M.P.P., will be sold at a later date.

An invitation was received from Cornwall General Hospital Auxiliary to attend their annual charity ball to be held in the Royal Hotel, Cornwall, on Friday night, January 23.

Plans are complete for the staff party, also Christmas decorations at the hospital and favours for the patients' trays. Members of Chesterville unit will sing carols at the hospital on Christmas Eve.

The membership drive is progressing and it is hoped that all units will add to their numbers this year and exceed last year's total of 1,211 members.

Morewood unit asked that a show case be placed in the waiting room to display hand-sewn and hand-knitted garments for children, and which other units might use as well. Mrs Gerald Gilbert, of Chesterville, offered to look into the matter of procuring a suitable one.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, January 8, at 8 p.m., in the assembly hall.

Holstein Breeders hold annual banquet at Hallville

A crowd of 250 people were on hand for the annual banquet of the Dundas Holstein Breeders Club held at Hallville. A delicious turkey dinner was served by the Young Women's Study Group of the Hallville United Church.

Hugh Blaine, president of the County Holstein Club, was the capable master of ceremonies, while Reeve W. A. Cameron welcomed the gathering to Mountain Township. Special guests for the event were Mrs Jean Casselman, M.P., and Mrs F. M. Cass, and also the presidents and Canadian Association directors from all adjoinging counties.

Guest speaker of the evening was H. S. Lannin, Winchester, who gave an illustrated talk on the Lannin family's early summer trip to the British Isles and Europe. The excellent photography and lovely scenes shown by Mr Lannin were thrilling to all present.

One of the highlights of the annual banquet is the presentation of various awards made to the County breeders for outstanding achievements. Notable among these was the award of Veteran Breeders Pins by R. Grant Smith, fieldman for the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada to W. A. Cameron, of Mountain, and J. T. Mulloy, Inkerman. To qualify for the award one must have been a member of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada for over 40 years. Mr Cameron has 41 years of membership having started in purebred Holsteins in 1918. Mr Mulloy, now 86 years old, started in the Holstein business in 1918.

The Biccum and Poapst Trophy for the Premier Breeder Award at the Dundas Black and White Show was presented by Howard Biccum to Allison Fawcett, Winchester, and the Premier Exhibitor banner was presented by R. Grant Smith to Basil Dawley, Wincrest Farms, Winchester.

A new trophy awarded for the first time this year was the Royal Bank of Canada Award for the best dam and daughter pair at the Black and White Show. The trophy was won by Harold W. Merkley, Chesterville, and was presented by A. C. Ross, Royal Bank manager, of Winchester. Mr Merkley was also runner-up for both Premier Breeder and Exhibitor Awards.

The presentation of a true-type model to the Club's immediate past president, Orville Smail, Brinston, was made by Harry Holmes, of Winchester Springs. Mr Holmes paid tribute to Mr Smail's excellent work and devoted service during his term of office.

Malcolm Graham, of South Mountain, fittingly concluded the program with a vote of thanks to all who contributed to the enjoyable evening.

The longer sawdust is left on the workshop floor, the more of a fire hazard it becomes. The wise craftsman sweeps up the sawdust before he leaves the shop.

Windows that aren't opened at all during the cold weather can be easily weatherstripped if you use either a caulking tape or liquid stripping that hardens after it is applied.

Wrap parcels well for mailing before Christmas

If you want that Christmas package to arrive at its destination—and all in one piece—pack and wrap it well.

Use a double-faced corrugated cardboard, not a shoe or other thin cardboard box. Leave at least two inches between the merchandise and the container and pack with crumpled newspaper or other material to absorb shock.

Wrap the outside with heavy wrapping paper (plain) and tie with strong cord. If the package is sealed, it must contain the notation that it can be opened for postal inspection.

For extra assurance, have the packages insured. Also, insert a small piece of paper with the recipient's address as well as your own. If the outside is damaged, your package may still be delivered.

Fragile items should be packed individually with some absorbent material, especially if they could leak.

Most anything can be sent through the mail except liquor, firerams, explosives, inflamable materials and obscene articles.

The "Lord of Misrule" was a person in England around 1066 who presided over his subjects with absolute power only during Yule. For this job he was paid well.

BEATS FORECASTERS

Danish weather men admitted the other day they have been beaten by an electronic brain in forecasting the weather.

They fed the electronic brain the same information that was available to them and asked it to predict for the next week.

The brain correctly predicted a storm and did a far better job than the forecasters.

"The electronic brain is not distracted by the decades of experience that sometimes sneak into the work of the human forecasters and slant their predictions" said Dr Lang Rasmussen of the Copenhagen Meteorologic Institute.

Length of the Mississippi River, now estimated at 2,350 miles, constantly changes because sand bars change its course.

SAW A BEAR

A Mountain Iron, Minn., woodcutter, surprised by a large bear about to pounce on him, used his chain saw to kill the beast.

Arnold Anderson was cutting pulpwood the other day when he looked behind him and saw the bear, standing on her hind feet, less than two feet away.

Anderson pulled his power-driven saw from the tree he was cutting, whipped around and ripped open the bear's stomach. The animal fell dead and Anderson passed out, apparently from fright.

TENDERFOOT AGAIN

Philadelphia delicatessen owner Albert C. Williams, 50, is a western fan.

After a hard week with the bagels and bologna, he likes to practice the fast draw in the open spaces.

Sunday he packed his shooting iron and took off.

But he was quicker on the trigger than he was on the draw and the result was a slug in the shoe.

Now he's a genuine tenderfoot.

DECEMBER SALADS

IF YOU INCLUDE A SALAD in your menu every day (and I hope you do) the time of year has arrived when you probably spend a good deal of time wondering how to add variety. Don't neglect cranberries as a salad ingredient. Cranberries combine well with salad fruits such as orange, pineapple, peach, apple or apricot and, as well as adding flavour, they add colour that is in keeping with the Christmas spirit.

Frozen Cranberry Salad

2 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese
¾ cup mayonnaise
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1 cup cubed jellied cranberry sauce
1 cup crushed pineapple
¼ cup chopped celery
1 orange
1 grapefruit
1 cup finely chopped shredded cabbage
1 tbsp. chopped onion
2 tbsps. thinly sliced radishes

Blend cream cheese and mayonnaise together. Fold in whipped cream. Then fold in cranberry sauce cubes, crushed pineapple and celery. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze. Serve on crisp lettuce and garnish with orange sections.

Dissolve gelatine and salt in hot water. Add lemon juice. Section orange and grapefruit, reserving juice. Add water to this juice to make one cup. then add gelatine mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold grapefruit and orange sections, cabbage, onion and radishes into gelatine mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise.

Jellied Cranberry and Peach Salad

1 pkg. lemon-flavoured gelatine
2 tbsps. sugar
¼ tsp. salt
1 cup hot water
1 cup peach juice
2 tsps. lemon juice
2 cups fresh cranberries, ground
1 cup drained, diced canned peaches

Dissolve gelatine, sugar and salt in hot water. Add peach and lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in cranberries and peaches. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce.

Frozen Pear Salad

2½ cups pears
2 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese
Syrup from canned pears
6 tbsps. French dressing
Maraschino cherries

Cut pears lengthwise; place in refrigerator tray. Soften cheese; add pear syrup; blend. Add French dressing; pour over pears; freeze until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce and garnish with green and red maraschino cherries.

Cabbage and Grapefruit Salad

1 pkg. lime flavoured gelatine
½ tsp. salt
1 cup hot water

LIFE ISN'T DULL FOR BRICKLAYER

The Manchester Guardian reproduces this letter written by a bricklayer to his firm:

"When I got to the building, I found that the wind had knocked some bricks off the top. So I rigged up a beam with a pulley at the top of the building and hoisted up a couple of barrels full of bricks.

"When I fixed the building, there was a lot of bricks left over. I hoisted the barrel up again and secured the line at the bottom, and then went up and filled the barrel with the extra bricks. Then I went down to the bottom and cast off the line.

"Unfortunately the barrel of bricks was heavier than I was and before I knew what was happening the barrel started down, jerking me off the ground. I decided to hang on and half way up I met the barrel coming down and received a severe blow on the shoulder.

'I then continued to the top, banging my head against the beam and getting my fingers jammed in the pulley. When the barrel hit the ground it burst its bottom, allowing all the bricks to spill out. I was now heavier than the barrel and so started down again at high speed.

"Halfway down I met the barrel coming up and received severe injuries to my shins. When I hit the ground I landed on the bricks, getting several painful cuts from the sharp edges.

"At this point I must have lost my presence of mind because I let go the line. The barrel then came down giving me another heavy blow on the head and putting me in the hospital.

"I respectfully request sick leave."
