BUY VICTORY BONDS

For God, for King for Country,
For homes and families too,
Across this great Dominion wide
A call goes out to you.
BUY VICTORY BONDS—the call is loud,
Turn not a deafened ear;
Cast off your smug complacency
The enemy draws near.
Don't say: It cannot happen here,
These are the words of fools,
Buy Victory Bonds, Canadians,
And give our men the tools.
Remember Hong Kong, Singapore,
And Pearl Harbour too,
Think of the men now fighting
To keep the foe from you.
They must have Tanks and Guns and Planes
If things are to be altered.
Shall it be said of you and YOU
"They died because you faltered?"

OMISSION

The editor regrets that in the obituary published last week for the late Dr. M. W. Locke, the name of Jimmie Seekings was inadvertently omitted from the list of flower bearers.

JUNIORS CLOSE SCHEDULE WITH 6-4 WIN OVER CARDS

MEET PRESCOTT TO-NIGHT AT THE LOCAL ARENA IN FIRST OF HOME AND HOME TOTAL GOAL SEMI FINAL SERIES.

Morrisburg Juniors came back to their early season form on Wednesday night to roundly trounce their arch-enemies from Cardinal by a 6-4 score, and only a great many phenomenal stops by the Card goalie saved the margin from being twice what it was. Although the win did not affect the final league standing, it certainly did bolster the morale of the team, which had been slipping badly for some time.

One of the big factors in their success was the return to the wars (or perhaps more properly from the wars) of Bun Devaul, last year's first-string centre, who played a bang-up game, despite a sprained ankle, and managed to score three times. Bun, who has been with the Royal Canadian Air Force some time has been given his furlough at a most opportune time so far as the local hockey team is concerned and his return to the line-up has added considerable strength. Other scorers in Wednesday's game were: Osler, Loucks and Hutt, one each. Peters and Smaill each scored twice for Cardinal. Stub Maud of Kemptville refereed the game, and kept it moving at a fast clip.

To-night (Friday) the first game of the total goals semi final series between Morrisburg and Prescott gets under way at the local arena, and the boys are all set to garner in a goodly harvest of goals here, before going to Prescott next week for the return game. Bun Devaul's presence on the team should help considerably in this series, as Bun is great guns as a 'money player' and the rest of the boys who have been doing some fairly good scoring feats through the season, can be counted on to give their best effort.

This may be more or less of a grudge game, as some little trouble developed when Prescott played here recently.

The Prescott Journal dismisses Morrisburg fairly easily, and figures that Cardinal is the team to beat for the marbles. Our opinion is different; Cardinal and Morrisburg have played four games this season. Each team has won two games, but the locals have scored 22 goals to 21 scored by the Cards. That gives our team a slight advantage. Only a slight one, it's true, but an advantage. We have the material to score a repeat performance of last year, when the boys took the Gill Cup for the first time. The first task is of course, to eliminate Prescott, and that should be done easily enough.

Don't forget the game is to-night (FRIDAY) at the Morrisburg Arena.

On Saturday afternoon a midget game will be staged at the local Arena, from 2 to 3 o'clock between a Morrisburg midget team and a team from Cornwall.

CARDINAL 9; MORRISBURG 7

The Cardinal club walloped the Morrisburg team 9 goals to 7. The home team seemed to set the pace all the way and Morrisburg couldn't quite make it.

The game, however, was not without its bright spots for the locals, as George Osler, who has been perhaps the most consistent player on the team this season, wrapped five goals behind the Cardinal goalie once he got the range of the net.

Nappie McIntosh grabbed the other two goals, and the Cardinal scorers were Peters, 3; Smaill 2; Owers, Holliday, Gill and Murray, one each.

George Osler must have instilled some little respect for his ability into the Cardinal players when he ran up that five goal scoring spree on Friday last. They paid pretty close attention to George on Wednesday here, and he had a hard time to break away. He did, though, and grabbed one counter before the end.

CANADA'S BLOOD BANK

Mr. Dodds, in giving his report on Red Cross activities this week said in regard to Canada's Blood Bank:

"One phase of Red Cross work, recently inaugurated, is the Blood Donors Service which is in urgent need of volunteers. If we can't go to the war, surely we can spare a little blood. Dr. Best, of Toronto, who is in charge of our blood donor service there, has just returned from overseas. He visited a number of ships of the British Navy and in no case had they any quantity of dried blood on hand for use in time of emergency. We have no reserve supply to speak of in Canada, as it takes approximately 100,000 donations to provide 20,000 complete treatments If we had a disaster, even if it were not a quarter the size of the Halifax disaster in the last war, we would not have enough reserves to supply the need."

I have not enough new donors for next Monday's load.

WILL C. DAVY,
Local Chairman.

Ontario's Shipyards Build 37 Types of Ships To Help Win the War!

● Down the ways in busy Ontario shipyards comes a long line of corvettes and cargo ships, mine-sweepers and patrol boats—37 types of ships—swiftly adding to the Royal Canadian Navy and our Merchant Marine. In Canada's victory program, sea strength is of paramount importance.

And from keel-laying to launching, Hydro-Electric energy is indispensable. Day and night, thousands of workers in "the yards" use their full share of 500,000 electrical horsepower supplied by Hydro to Ontario's wartime industries. In other plants scattered all over the Province other thousands of workers on machines powered by Hydro are producing steel, engines and equipment to feed these shipyards.

Today, every Ontario citizen desires to do his utmost and can therefore take pride in the fact that Hydro is providing well over 2,000,000 h.p. to assure the victory program and to maintain all essential services.

Because Hydro is vital to victory we must all be economical in its use in shop and home—not only to conserve electricity but, also, to save many metals and materials which are essential to the production of weapons of war. Let Victory come first!

TO SAVE ELECTRIC CURRENT

Operate your electric range with the automatic switches according to directions. Cook several dishes at one time in the range oven, using only the bottom element. Never leave heating elements on 'high' a moment longer than necessary. Have your electrical dealer or local 'Hydro' keep your appliances in good repair.

Canada's pressing need of Today is the success of the NEW VICTORY LOAN.
Canada asks YOU to subscribe to the utmost of your ability.

THE GROWING BURDEN

Bell Telephone Co. Issues Annul Report

The 62nd Annual report of the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, just now in the hands of shareholders, shows the extraordinary job they had to do last year. It involved vast quantities of materials and supplies, many of them made possible through wartime substitutions. Reuse was made of some materials now largely absorbed by war manufacturing needs.

To achieve a net increase of 63,651 telephones in operation, the biggest in the company's history— they had to put in 243,530 telephones and take out 179,879. In other words, they had to handle through connects and disconnects, a total of 423,409 telephones during the year. It is interesting to note from the report that Bell telephones plus those of other systems connected with Bell lines in Ontario and Quebec, now total more than a million.

The report also points out that in spite of the unprecedented number of calls— averaging 6,486,000 local and 77,000 long distance connections daily— the speed and general standard of service were practically unimpaired.

There are now 23,276 Bell Telephone shareholders of whom 22,062 or 94.8 per cent live in Canada and hold over 71 per cent of the total shares.

Increase Your Bond Purchases

As the war lengthens, Great Britain's needs grow and grow, and as Canada's armed forces increase steadily month by month in terms of men and equipment, the Canadian Government has had to revise its estimate of what money must be obtained from the people of the country in order to prevent any slackening of pace.

No private citizen is in a position to shrug his shoulders when told about this particular problem at Ottawa. Because in this instance particularly, the Government problem becomes the problem of each citizen which the government represents. As the government revises the general estimate of new money to be found, the private citizen must revise his estimate of how much he shall subscribe to this loan and to another or others later in 1942.

Only if the majority of citizens accept the necessity for a revision of the amount of Victory Bonds they had planned to buy in 1942, will higher Victory Loan objectives be reached.

The most earnest plea which the country of Canada can make to the individual citizen at the present time, is that he do everything in his power to increase his purchases of Victory Bonds.

The Press Speaks On The Victory Loan

OLD VIRTUES NEEDED

No individual can keep up his peace time outlay and be able to take his fair share of the obligations inseparable from Canada's participation in the war. This is just as true of governments as it is of individuals.. The prudent way of living will be the simple life and it may be that this will be the healthiest and most wholesome life as well.—Amherst News, Nova Scotia.

MONEY IS AVAILABLE

Occasionally one hears the suggestion that it is going to be difficult to subscribe the $600,000,000 victory loan to be issued next month, but when it is noted that savings banks deposits in Canada amount to $1,639,000,000, the task need not be of such great difficulty. —Niagara Falls Review.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

$600,000,000 is to be borrowed from the people of Canada, not commandeered as it would be under Nazism or Fascism. It will be returned to the people with interest; it will be an investment in the future and insurance against disaster. —The Halifax Herald.

HE WILL GET IT

Canadians are to be called upon to subscribe to another war loan.. This time it will be $600,000,000. Mr. Ilsley can rest assured that he will get that amount and more probably much more.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

PUT THE LOAN OVER ANYWAY!

We must win the war in spite of the government, and lay the foundation on which subsequent administrations may reconstruct a solid and stable community after the war. We owe this to our fighting men now and our children later.. Mr. Ilsley at all events is doing his best under the most discouraging circumstances and he deserves the public's support. —Toronto Globe and Mail.

FOR THE PEOPLE TO DECIDE

In this democratic land, compulsory measures are not in favour, but the public must face the fact that expenditures will inevitably increase and that the money must be provided by self-imposed discipline and unstinted investment of savings in government loans. It is for the Canadian people to prove that voluntary methods of financing are sufficient for the great national purposes to be served.—Hamilton Spectator.

Collegiate Sponsoring Concert For Victory Loan

On February 25th, the Morrisburg Collegiate pupils are putting on a concert in the interest of the current Victory Loan campaign. This is a very commendable effort by the pupils, and represents their first effort to promote anything not strictly within their own sphere. The guest speaker for the occasion will be Mr. Frank Shaver.

The meeting, which opens at 8.00 p.m. will be attended by the Morrisburg Band, which will play from 7.30 till 8.00. Musical numbers by the Glee Club Quartette and solos.

The programme will also feature short speeches by the students and a skit written by two local girls; also a short movie "Toools for the Job" especially made for the Victory Loan Drive. Everyone is welcome.

February 22nd Is Victory Loan Sunday

Church recognitioon and support of the Second Victory Loan Campaign as an essential phase of the war effort to preserve religious as well as social and national freedom in Canada will be given through observance of Victory Loan Sunday on February 22nd.

Starting off the second week of the $600,000,000 Loan drive, scheduled for Feb. 16—Mar 7th, the observation will mark the co-operation of the country's churches of the enw offering of Victory Bonds. It is expected that the churches will assist chiefly by referneces to the loan and appeals for its support. Leaders of all church denominations across the country have been asked by Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, to arrange assistance along these lines.

Ever since man first found God, the godly have been beset by the ungodly. The church has always been considered a natural enemy by those individuals and those nations which have sought power and wealth through the cruel exploitation of their neighbours and other nations.

In the light of history, it is not surprising that Hitler has seen fit to persecute the religious people of Germany and those other countries he has conquered. Enlightened citizens of the democracies which still remain free, know full well, that if Hitler is not stopped, the church and all it means will be set back for years.

Thus it becomes a logical decision that churches in Canada, whose prim ary mission is to promote "Peace on Earth" should lend a vooice in support of the practical courses whicch must be taken to stop Hitler.

A Victory Loan Sunday on Feb. 22nd is therefore well conceived. In connecting the cold hard business of raising money for the war effort with the warm soul-stirring truth that this is a war to free millions of oppressed people, Victory Loan Sunday becomes a red letter day on the calendar for 1942. God-fearing Canadians should fill the churches on that day.

Memorial Service for Williamsburg Flyer

In memory of Pilot Officer Lyle George Schell, son of Willis Schell and the late Mrs. Schell of Williamsburg, who was killed in action at Yell Island, Shetland, January 19th, a memorial service was held in St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Sunday morning, February 1st. The Memorial Service replaced the regular Sunday Service and the service in St. Andrew's United Church was cancelled in order that all residents of Williamsburg might join in the tribute.

P. O. Schell was educated at the Williamsburg Public School, the Morrisburg Collegiate and Ottawa Normal School, and prior to his enlistment in July 1940, he was principal of Williamsburg Public School In March, 1941, he received his Observer's wing at Fingal, Ont., and went overseas in July 1941 as Sgt.-Observer.

The Church was filled to capacity with friends of the family who came to pay a final tribute to the memory of one of Williamsburg's bravest sons. The pastor, Rev. C. R .Cronmiller was in charge of the service, being assisted by Rev. E. C. Lacey, minister of St. Andrew's United Church. Both ministers paid high tribute to one who had made the supreme sacrifice.

Hymns used during the service were. Eternal Father, Strong to Save God Omnipotent, Whose Power and O, God Our Help in Ages Past. The Junior Choir of girls rendered Thou Wilt Keep Him and the Senior Choir rendered Now the Loborer's Task is O'er. Miss Ethel Gordier presided at the organ. The offering received was for the benefit of the men in the services.

Pilot Officer Schell is survived by his father, and one brother Keith Schell, both of Williamsburg.

Members of the I.O.O.F. Lodge, No. 349, Williamsburg attended the service in a body and representatives of the Williamsburg hockey team were present. The beautiful floral tributes which graced the altar indicated the sorrow felt at his death and conveyed messages of love and sympathy.

CHAPTER 43

Jim's Secret

That Jim's Mexican vaquero shadow and his companion had been closer until the past few moments seemed to Silcott a reasonable guess. The man with the Mexican was Pete Yeager.

"You're looking some peaked, Homer," Silcott said. "You want to remember you're an old man and cut out cavorting at so many dances."

"I don't go to dances," protested Caldwell, feigning indignation. "And I'm not so doggoned old if I wanted to go." He added, sharply, "You're the one that looks peaked. I done heard how you was shot up couple of weeks ago."

"By amateurs," Jim explained, and pretended to catch sight of the fat little cowpuncher for the first time. "Why hello, Pete! I was just talking about you. Mention an angel and you hear the rustle of his wings. How are cases?"

The baldheaded man retorted promptly, "I'd advise you to drop that notion about me being an amateur."

"Amateurs are all right in their place, Pete," Jim told him soothingly. "Maybe you'll do better after a while. They say practice makes perfect."

Yeager snorted. "Hmp! One of these smart galoots who knows it all."

"Sometimes I think you don't like me, Pete. I got to be moving. Supper at Lieutenant Windom's house. Can't keep my friends waiting." Silcott turned to the Mexican vaquero. "Let's be going, young fellow, if you're trailing me. See you later, Pete. Don't take any wooden nutmegs."

Two Riders Appear

He sauntered down the street, leaving Yeager fuming behind him.

Before he had gone fifty yards a voice hailed him. "You doggoned old buzzard head!"

Two riders were coming up the street. One was Rufe Jelks, the other Pesky Kennedy. Rufe swung from the saddle.

"What are you doing here?" Silcott asked in astonishment.

"Why, can't a couple of cowboys come to see the elephant?" the owner of the Longhorn corral asked hilariously.

"They can but they didn't," Jim said. "Spill it, Rufe."

Jelks grinned. "We heard the Hat T had moved headquarters to Sante Fe, so Pesky and I drifted along to see if we couldn't get a job."

"You might, at that, before we are through," Jim admitted. "Rest your saddles, boys, and come into the Green Light with me for a powwow."

They walked into the saloon and took a small table. Each ordered what he wanted. Their heads close together, they talked almost in murmurs. Jim told them the most recent developments.

"Hmp!" grunted Jelks. "Thought something was doing when the Hat T hands collected Jess Lamprey and lit out with him. Knowing you were here, we figured Santa Fe would be the centre of the storm. So we hightailed it to the city."

Silcott rose. "I'm due at Lieutenant Windom's for supper. Miss Eliot is staying there. Later in the evening I'll meet you at the hotel. Adios, boys."

Kennedy spoke for the first and last time during the conference. "Don't let them knock yore block off, Red," he said.

"Not if I can help it. Be back about ten."

Stratton Surprised

Just as Stratton closed his desk and rose to go home two men walked into the office. His heart lost a beat, for both his visitors were masked and one of them had a .44 in his hand.

The lawyer's right hand fluttered down toward a drawer still open but stopped abruptly on the way. The man behind the revolver had said curtly, "don't, D. L."

He was a big heavy man with long arms and thick rounded shoulders. His resemblance to an ape was enhanced by the growth of hair that matted his throat and the backs of his hands.

"What does this m-mean?" the lawyer stammered.

The big man padded across the floor and pushed home the bolt of the back door. His companion turned the big key in the front door and pulled down the window blind.

"So we can be comfortable and not be interrupted," he explained.

Frightened though he was, Stratton noticed that his height was below the average and that he was of plump build. Where the mask did not hide his face it was high in color.

"If it's money you want—"

The ape man cut off the attorney's protest. "Can the chatter, D.L., and do as you're told. You know what we want. Cough up that letter."

As the man shuffled forward, the revolver in his hand looked as large as a small cannon to Stratton. From the hairy wrist a quirt hung. The muscles of the lawyer's stomach collapsed. He remembered what Silcott had told him of the foreman's Apache tendencies. But he made an attempt to push back the panic sweeping over him.

Stratton Threatened

"W-what letter?" he asked.

"Don't play horse with me?" the hairy ape said. He stood with his feet well apart, his head thrust forward. "If I once start I'll rip the white flesh from yore bones with this quirt."

Stratton gave up. "I haven't the Gandara letters if that's what you mean," he answered.

"Open that safe."

The attorney opened it. The fat man went through the papers inside, scattering them on the floor after he had examined each. He rifled the desk.

"If it's here and you're lying to us, I'll skin you alive," the big man promised viciously.

"I haven't got the letter."

"We know better. Red Silcott left it here."

"He took it away again. This afternoon."

A hairy hand reached out and caught Stratton by the throat. Sinewy fingers closed on the flesh. "So you're gonna get funny with me, eh?"

The face of the lawyer grew black and his eyes glassy.

"Hey, Jud, cut that out!" the fat man warned. "You'll strangle the guy before we get what we want."

Prentiss flung his victim into a chair. The lawyer coughed and sputtered. Slowly he recovered enough to gasp out a word or two.

"Don't! P-please don't do that."

"Come clean then." The man towering over him cursed the choking man angrily. "Damn quick too. Or you'll taste the quirt."

Stratton Goes Home

Again the plump man interposed. "We don't want to raise a row here, Jud," he warned his companion. "I don't reckon this bird has got the letter."

"He knows where it is. Open yore trap, fellow. Where's that letter?"

"S-silcott took it."

"What did he say he was going to do with it?"

"He wouldn't tell me. Said if I didn't know I couldn't tell."

"You're lying to us."

"It's the truth. He said if you asked for it to refer you to him. I would give you the letter if I had it."

"He's speaking truth, Jud. No use jouncing him around any more. Let's get out of here."

Prentiss snarled as he turned on Stratton. "Clamp yore mouth, fellow, if you know what's good for you."

The Hat T men clumped out of the office.

Without waiting to gather up the scattered documents on the floor the attorney locked up and went home. He was weak and sick, and his throat ached from the pressure of Jud's iron fingers. His wife put him to bed and sent for a doctor.

"We've got to get a warning to Silcott," he told his wife.

She was a competent motherly woman. "Don't worry, dear. I'll take care of that. I'm going to see Russell Mosely.

He was alarmed at the anger in her eyes. "You mustn't say anything that will annoy him, Jane," he told her. "You don't know what he would do."

She nodded. "He will be reasonable, David. I'll promise that, and so shall I." Mrs. Stratton did not explain what she meant by reasonable.

Jane penned a note to Jim Silcott and sent it to the Windom house by a Chinese servant whom she could trust.

TABLE TALKS

A Sparkle of Jelly Gives Life to Salad

There is no salad more appealing than a jellied mould. It has all the advantages of attractive form, opportunities for color, arrangement and infinite variety.

Almond Salad

½ cup vinegar
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons gelatine
1 cup pineapple juice
½ cup sweet cucumber pickles
½ cup almonds
⅔ cup crushed pineapple

If vinegar is strong dilute with part water (lemon juice may be used). Cook vinegar and sugar together until it spins a thread. Soak gelatine in pineapple juice and dissolve in the hot syrup. Grind cucumber pickle through the chopper. Blanch and split almonds and add pineapple. Combine mixtures, mould and serve cold on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Cranberry Salad

Cook cranberries with just enough water to cover. Add ½ cup sugar to one cup cranberries. Have plain gelatine soaked — 1 envelope to a pint of juice — and stir in the usual way. Some prefer to strain the cranberries but a richer jelly results if the berries are not strained.

Place round flat moulds of cranberry jelly on crisp leaves of lettuce. Spread a layer of finely chopped celery over each mould. Spread salad dressing over the top and sprinkle thickly with salted almonds which have been chopped, or cut into small pieces. This is a delicious and highly attractive salad accompaniment to the meat course.

Red Cherry Salad

2 tablespoons gelatine
¼ cup cold water
Boiling water
½ cup celery (cut fine)
Juice of 2 oranges
1 lb. can red cherries (pitted)
¾ cup sugar
½ cup pecan nuts

Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in a little boiling water. Add the other ingredients except nuts. Add boiling water to make one quart liquid. Cool in individual moulds and serve on crisp lettuce leaves with mayonnaise. Garnish with pecan nuts. Serves six.

Fruit and Ginger Salad

2 tablespoons gelatine
1 cup hot water
1 pint ginger ale
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons Canton ginger (chopped)

Soften gelatine in a little cold water and dissolve in boiling water. Add ginger ale, lemon juice, sugar and salt. When partly stiffened stir in the chopped ginger. Mould individually or as a whole. Serve with a cream dressing. Served with salted or cheese wafers, the salad has an extra zest.

Canada's War Gift To Mother Country

To Contribute War Supplies Valued at $1,000,000,000

Canada is going to supply Britain with munitions of war, raw materials, and foodstuffs to the amount of a billion dollars without charge and without obligation, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told the House of Commons on Jan. 27.

Any ambiguity that may have existed in relation to Canada's financial transactions with Britain is thus effectively removed.

The billion dollars, it is anticipated, will cover Britain's purchases in this country until early in 1943.

The new arrangement will not increase Canada's financial burden, as Canada has already agreed to supply the money for British purchases of supplies. But it "will avoid the growth to huge and unmanageable proportions of a war debt which might breed serious misunderstandings and bitterness in the future." It will also definitely relieve Britain of any financial anxiety in connection with Canadian supplies Mr. King explained.

Financial assistance has been extended to Britain for some time. Britain has paid for a large portion of its purchases in this country in sterling exchange, which has been on deposit in London and which cannot be used in Canada. Manufacturers and producers in Canada have been paid for these exports by the Dominion Government in Canadian dollars, and to cover these payments the Government has raised money by taxes and loans.

Loan Plan Proposed

In the past the British Government has been paying for a portion of its purchases by its exports to Canada, but these are necessarily diminishing. Britain has also sold Canadian Government securities held in Britain. It also has interest and dividends received from Canadian securities owned by Britain.

These revenue sources have covered only part of Canada's war exports to the United Kingdom and the surplus of sterling in British banks to Canada's credit has been steadily growing.

To clarify the situation the Dominion Government has made the suggestion to the British Government that this surplus should be onverted to a loan of $700,000,000 in Canadian funds.

The loan will be without interest during the war, and as soon as practicable after the war some rate of interest should be mutually arranged. The loan will be reduced by any sales to persons outside of Britain of Canadian securities held in that country.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the House of Commons paid warm tribute to Canada for its generous credit of £200,000,000 worth of munitions and food to Britain.

This gift is regarded with feelings of keenest appreciation and satisfaction, it was officially stated.

On How To Behave When Out of Doors

The boy who helps a timid woman to cross a traffic artery, the automobile driver who waits for an elderly pedestrian who is caught between the change of traffic lights, the girl who is quick to pick up a parcel for a shopper with overloaded arms, the man who gives quick indication of willingness to step aside so that another man may also have room on the sidewalk.

The driver who slows down so that a commuter may pass safely from the curb to the street-car he is trying to catch, the trolley-car conductor who goes to the trouble to re-open his doors for a late-comer, the man-in-a-hurry who doesn't want a newspaper but still can remember to be gracious when telling the newsboy so—

People like these make one think Confucius did not speak quite in vain when advising us all to behave when out of doors as though "entertaining a distinguished guest."—Christian Science Monitor.

What Science Is Doing

WHAT'S A SNOWFLAKE?

A snowflake—being ice—is a mineral with a chemical composition of H_2O, and a hexagonal crystalline form like that of the gem stone beryl.

Snowflakes start as ice crystals, formed — usually on a tiny particle of dust—when water vapor is cooled below freezing. Sleet and hail, on the other hand, result from the freezing of water droplets after condensation.

Normally it takes about 10 inches of snow to equal one inch of rain.

Because of the air spaces between fallen flakes, a heavy snow blanket has unusual insulating properties, and may keep the temperature of the ground close to freezing while the temperature above the snow is below zero.

Of trillions of snowflakes no two are ever exactly alike.

FERTILIZER

Fertilizer from coal, in the form of sulphate of ammonia, is increasing in application. During 1941 it is estimated agriculture will need 400,000 tons of nitrogen, of which 122,000 tons will be in sulphate of ammonia, produced from coal in the by-product coking process.

Axis Air Losses Are Double British

Air losses of the Axis up to the end of 1941—even exclusive of losses in Russia—have been double those of Britain, it was announced recently.

The Air Ministry said Axis losses had been 8,559 planes, and Britain's losses 3,962.

It gave this breakdown: Over and around Britain, Axis 3,692, British 887; over Europe, Axis 940, British 1,875; Middle East, Axis 2,875, British 711; Western front, Axis 957, British 379; Scandinavian front, Axis 56, British 55; at sea, Axis 39, British 54.

In addition Admiralty records listed 570 other Axis planes destroyed at sea by British warships and armed merchantmen.

Have You Heard?

Two Irishmen arranged to fight a duel with pistols. One of them was very stout, and when he saw his lean adversary facing him he raised an objection.

"Bedad!" he said, "I'm twice as big a target as he is, so I ought to stand twice as far away from him as he is from me."

"Be aisy now," replied his second. "I'll soon put that right."

Taking a piece of chalk from his pocket, he drew two lines down the stout man's coat, leaving a space between them.

"Now," he said, turning to the thin man, "fire away, ye spalpeen, and remember that any hits outside the chalk mark don't count."

While on patrol duty a member of the Home Guard came across a watchman asleep in his hut.

The sirens had just previously sounded. Shaking the old man, he shouted: "Wake up; don't you know the siren's gone?"

Sleepily he murmured: "We'll, I'm not surprised. The people round here'll take anything."

A minister advertised for a man-servant. The next morning a well-dressed young man rang the bell.

"Can you start the fire and get breakfast by 7 o'clock," the minister asked.

"I guess so," relied the young man.

"Well, can you polish all the silver, wash the dishes and keep the house neat and tidy?"

"Say, parson," answered the young fellow. "I came here, to see about getting married, but if it's going to be as much work as all that you can count me out right now."

Reporter (to veteran of Libyan campaign): "Was there any shade in the desert?"

Soldier: "Yes, but I couldn't get in it."

Reporter: "Why not?"

Soldier: "Well, have you tried to sit in your own shadow?"

When Macpherson came home from work he told his wife: "I'm joining the Army, Maggie. I'll just take my tea and go along and 'list."

"Oh, Sandy," she exclaimed, "what ever has put into your head to be a soldier?"

"Weel, it's this way," he explained. "I've been giving a penny a week to the comforts fund for two months now, and I'm joining up to get my parcel!"

Father took his small son to church. At one stage of the service the clergyman announced:

"We shall now sing hymn number two hundred and twenty-two. 'Ten thousand times ten thousand.' Two hundred and twenty-two."

The puzzled lad nudged his father.

"Dad," he whispered, "do we have to work this out?"

The Buckley way. The new improved Buckley formula now all medication—no syrup, not only brings quicker relief but gives you more for your money. But be sure it's the genuine . . . 41-1

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

MODERN ETIQUETTE

1. Is it proper for women to shake hands with each other when being introduced?
2. Where should one place the pits when eating olives?
3. Should the listener to a conversation gaze constantly at the speaker?
4. Does good form demand that an announcement of an engagement be made promptly?
5. How should one eat cheeses?
6. Is it a hostess' duty to see that conversation doesn't lag?

Answers

1. Women may or may not shake hands with each other, as they prefer. Unless the one who is about to offer her hand is sure that it will be agreeable, she will do well not to be too hasty about making this advance. 2. Put the pits on the side of the dinner or bread and butter plate. 3. He should be attentive and look at the speaker, but not with a hypnotic gaze. Looking out of a window or off into space is disconcerting to a speaker and is a sign of ill-breeding. 4. Yes. This may be done by sending a notice to the newspaper, or by issuing engraved announcements to friends and relatives, or by means of an announcement party for the close friends and relatives. 5. Soft cheese should be spread on a cracker with a knife. Hard cheeses such as American, may be eaten either with the fork or the fingers. 6. Yes, it is her duty to direct the conversation. There must be no perceptible silences that make the guests feel as though their hostesses were tired and wish they would go.

Soviet Railway Gauge Handicap To Nazis

The difference in the gauge between the Russian and German railways has been a handicap to the Nazis. All their transport by rail has to proceed to the German end of the line and then be transshipped to Russian trains, which use a different width between the rails.

This has prevented the Germans sending Nazi rolling stock on into Russia in the wake of the army. And, as the Russians have been destroying their rolling stock or getting it back out of German reach, the Nazis have not been able to use Russian freight cars and trucks.

The original idea in making the railways of different gauge was to hinder a military invasion of Russia, Proof of the wisdom of the action is being had daily on the Russian front.—Windsor Star.

Just How Cold Is Soviet Winter?

Just how cold is it? Frosts begin in European Russia on Oct. 1 the ground is stone-hard by Nov. 15. Average temperature is 20 below zero in January and stays below till April, with occasional drops to minus 54, except along the Black Sea, where it may rise to 5 above. Winds of near-hurricane force are weekly affairs. Ukraine farmers expect frost as late as May 24. The Soviet June is recommended, however, by all Russian poets, regardless of politics. (P. S. The Winter lack of sunshine, vitamins and out-door exercise has an enfeebling effect on the Russian people, the books say).

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

Russians in Canada Mobilize For Victory

Canada's 35,000 citizens of Russian origin including 16,000 Doukhobors most of whom reside in Western Canada have mobilized their total strength not only to help the land of their adoption win their war against the Axis powers but to ensure success for the forthcoming Second Victory Loan Campaign.

The National Executive of the Russian Committee maintains 28 organizing and secretarial branches in Canada. Posters bearing Russian characters will, before the campaign proper begins on February 16th, be distributed among those Russian communities. Circulars in which Victory Loan literature has been translated from English into Russian will soon be distributed to all those 35,000 Russian Canadians. Russian language publications in Canada have undertaken to devote all the space required to publicize Canada's war aims and Victory Loan objectives in the Russian language so that not a single Russian Canadian may be without full knowledge in both directions.

This is the first time since Canadian citizens of Russian origin became organized in Canada in their own interests that they have volunteered as a united group to aid a national cause of this kind.

"We intend to give our whole strength to your campaign," said K. Okulewich, Organizing Secretary of the committee in a recent interview. "We want your Victory Loan Campaign to be an overwhelming success. We intend to help by distributing literature to our people prepared by us in the Russian language. We intend to send our organizers and even canvassers. When the campaign proper begins we intend to have our people volunteer their services to local campaign committees to help in any way possible. We command the support of every Russian Canadian in this country and we are satisfied that every man — and woman — associated with our organization will give his fullest support to this important Victory Loan Campaign."

Pilots Spend Leave Ferrying Bombers

Now we know the aerial equivalent for a busman's holiday.

Trans-Canada Air Lines reports that two of its pilots, Capts. George Lothian and Malcolm Barclay, are back at work again. Trans-Canada gave them a three months' leave.

They spent it ferrying bombers across the Atlantic.

There was no mention of what they did in their spare time.

Don't suffer longer; try Ru-Ma today and if you are not pleased with the results, your money will be refunded by any druggist. This is a generous offer to all rheumatic sufferers

Need Stressed For High-Quality Seed

A warning to seed producers in Canada to prepare to meet the demands from European countries for high-quality grain seed to replenish war-ruined stocks was issued recently by G. A. Scott, assistant plant pathologist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Registered Seed Growers' Section of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association, at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, Mr. Scott asserted that Canadian producers of healthy, high-quality seed were not now in a position to meet the demands that would undoubtedly be placed upon them after the war. He advised the seed growers to take every possible step toward that goal.

He told of experiments now being made at each of the five main experimental farms in Canada to produce foundation seed that would be free of seed-born disease such as rust and smut.

Work — Grow Slim

With all this talk of corsets and rubber shortage, it seems the first thing to do is to remember and be comforted in the knowledge that old Mother Nature provided every human figure, free of charge, with a good 2-way stretch girdle of muscles in criss-cross formation over the abdomen. See any physiology book or look at the human figure chart in the doctor's office. Moreover, this fine natural girdle of muscles may be developed by bending, kicking, stretching and other well known exercises from a loose flabby girdle into one that is taut, snug and firm enough to hold figure flat in front and comparatively small at the waistline, if man or woman is willing to take to serious daily exercise.

'Close Shave' Allen Gets a Bit Cautious

Having passed through all manner of escapes and experiences—including the sinking from under him of the British cruiser Galatea—while voyaging nearly 100,000 miles as AP correspondent with the British Fleet, Larry Allen made a solemn pledge upon arriving in New York for furlough:

"I am going to try," he said, "to learn to swim."

Letters from Overseas

The editor has received two very interesting letters from members of last year's championship hockey team, both of whom are now in uniform. They are ex-coach Raymond 'Hook' Reid, and defenceman Artie Tindal. Both write wishing to be remembered to their former teammates as well as other friends. Here is what the Hook says:

Dear Art: Will you tell the boys I hope, and I am very sure, they will take the cup again this year, and hope they will advance farther than before. I sure wish I could be there coaching them again.

And this from Artie Tindal:

Dear Art: Will you give the boys on the team my best wishes for success this season I would like to be there to play again, but you know, Art, someone has got to go to war and it might as well be us. I saw in the Leader you had some write-up about me, and I can tell you I sure won't let the folks at home down. When I get in there, I will show those Germans what fighting is! You know I used to be pretty good at that last winter.

All the boys from Morrisburg are fine. I see them all every once in a while.

W. M. S.

The February meeting of the W. M. S. of the United Church of Canada met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. Stata.

The president, Mrs. H. Reddick was in the chair and had charge of the opening exercises. Mrs. Payton had the worship period, the theme being—The Bible, the Guide to Faith's Conduct. The study period was taken by Miss Taylor, assisted by several members and told of the troublesome times in China following the revolutions in 1911-1926.

During the course of the program, a very interesting letter was read, which had been received from Mrs. Irwin Hilliard, now in China.

The meeting closed with prayer after which a social half hour was spent over a cup of tea.

MILITARY TRAIN COMING TO CORNWALL

Word has been received that the Military Equipment Train will be in Cornwall on February 23rd, and that the equipment will be on exhibition from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m.

This train consists of the newest and finest war equipment, including tanks, shells, guns, and every kind of modern military equipment. It is the finest army show ever made available at one time to the public.

This is the only stop made by the train in the United Counties, and it would be well worthwhile for any from this district who are planning a trip to Cornwall, to endeavour to be there at the time of this exhibition.

Last Saturday night about 100 members of the Curling Club enjoyed a social evening after a 2-day mixed bonspiel. After supper which was served at 10 o'clock, a program with Dr. Geo. Gorrell as chairman was enjoyed by all.

IN MEMORIAM

We seem to see in the soft light
A face we loved the best.
We think of Mother when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off west.
We miss you more, Mother as time goes on
Than we did on the day of your going,
For absence can never close our hearts,
The lamp of our love still is glowing
Your heart was the truest in the world, mother,
Your love the best to recall;
For no one can take your place, Mother,
You are still the dearest of all.
