Fulton Bros. mark 58th year in business

Three members of Fulton Bros. are pictured here discussing the final plans for the opening of their new store today. After several very busy weeks of remodelling, the enlarged premises are in full use. Howard Fulton, centre, has been associated with Fulton Bros. since 1908 and a full partner since 1910. Sons Jack, left, and William, right, became partners in 1945 after the war when they purchased their uncle Charles Fulton's share.—Record Photo.

KENNETH BARKLEY SUFFERS BROKEN HIP

Tuesday night Roger McMillan's car would not start. He enlisted the aid of half a dozen willing hands for a push but still the stubborn vehicle would not start. Cliff Shay's car was pressed into service to push and the only way it was useful was to have the bumpers weighed down with a number of lads.

North on Main near the Bell building the accident happened. The pushing car lurched, the passengers on the bumpers flipped and at the same time Wallace Byers, of Crysler, came over the crest of the rise going south.

The first thing he saw was a clot of figures on the icy road ahead of him. His brakes could not hold and he slid 35 feet on the ice and in passing rolled over Kenneth Barkley, 19, son of Lloyd Barkley, of Dunbar. The young man suffered a fractured hip bone.

He was rushed to Ottawa Civic Hospital immediately. Narrowly missing the same accident was Peter Bawden who was fortunately able to scramble out of the way of the car wheels. Constable Leonard Shane investigated.

Voters out 50 p.c. on Monday with few issues at stake

Chesterville voters added two new faces to village council for 1959. They are Keith Graham and George Laflamme. The ballot called for four members and of the five names to choose from, the "X's" were lightest for councillor Erwin Merkley. J. A. "Al" Butcher topped both polls. Next year's council, headed by reeve-elect Carl Merkley, will consist of Al Butcher, Harold Sharkey, Keith Graham and George Laflamme. They will take office at the first of the new year.

Voters turned out in ordinary numbers to mark their ballots Monday. By count the vote was a little heavier than last year, but only 361 out of about 650 took advantage of their right to vote. There were 229 ballots used in Poll No. 1 and 132 in Poll No. 2 D.R.O.'s reported some voters disappointed when the polls closed at 5 p.m. In spite of repeated notice, they figured the time was six p.m. for closing.

Nine people spoiled their ballots through carelessness, but that was an average figure.

The two polls counted the votes as follows:

	Polls 1	2	Ttl.
Butcher, J. A.	156	100	256
Sharkey, H.	143	94	237
Graham, H. K. ...	154	82	236
Laflamme, G.	124	62	186
Merkley, E.	112	69	181

Fulton Bros. opening starts new phase in store management

At the beginning of this century, in 1900, R. D. Fulton opened the Fulton Block. One of the large stores there was a grocery and hardware operated by Mr Fulton's sons, Charles and Will. The store prospered and in 1908 a younger brother, Howard, joined the staff as clerk. By 1910 the call of the West was too much for Will Fulton and in that year he sold his interest to Howard and moved to Drumheller, Alta.

Fulton Bros. continued under the guiding hands of Charles and Howard Fulton until 1945. In that year several fateful things happened. In the early spring a disastrous fire occurred; when the flames had subsided the big store was gutted with a loss running to many thousands of dollars. When a decision was made to rebuild, it was decided to eventually take over the rest of the block, at that time occupied by J. F. Moriarty. The north-end post office was demolished in 1950 to make way for the new bridge entrance and shortly afterwards, the culmination of the building program saw Fulton Bros. occupying the complete block.

In 1945 too, with the cessation of war hostilities, Wm. and Jack Fulton, sons of Howard, returned home from war service. They purchased the share of the business owned by Charles, their uncle, who retired to live in Toronto. Fulton Bros. then, as now, is owned by Howard, William and Jack Fulton.

Three years ago the store entered a new phase of merchandising when it joined the ranks of IGA. From that time on, the store has shown a steadily increased business until this Fall space again was at a premium.

It was decided to further expand, and the only way to do that was to move into the warehouse side. Sullivan Bros. were called in and plans made to do just that.

Amazingly enough, the grocery store section was doubled in size yet the store was never closed in regular hours.

Today, the new store is open; it has double the space and a complete butcher shop section. It is a fine addition to the village's attractions and Fulton Bros. are to be congratulated on their building program.

W. Hough, of Whitehorse speaks at Rotary

Chesterville Rotary members were entertained Monday night when Wm. Hough, director of the government Experimental Farm at Whitehorse, Y.T., addressed the club and showed excellent coloured slides. He was introduced by Leon Marcellus and thanked by T. D. Ross. President Mel Baker presided.

Problems of farming in the Far North are considerably different than they are in this temperate climate. The speaker illustrated his points with photographs of experimental work on the Whitehorse Farm. The growing season is short and frost is common all summer long; tender plants must be developed to resist the weather, as well as mature quickly in the short season. Director Hough is an accomplished photographer and his coloured pictures were a pleasure to look at.

Japan exported 920 cars in July.

Chalmer's 3 M's Group meet at Finch

The 3 M's Group of Chalmer's United Church, Finch, held their November meeting in the church hall on Wednesday evening. The meeting opened with a sing song.

The worship service was conducted by Marion Hough and opened with a hymn followed with the Scripture reading read responsively, led by Eileen Runions. Thoughts on the theme, "Prayer," were given by Gladys Ouderkirk.

The business was conducted by the new president, Marion Hough, assisted by the secretary, Ruth Smith. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Roll call was answered by the payment of fees. It was unanimously decided to hold the meetings on the fourth Wednesday of each month.

The date set for the annual Christmas party is December 17, with Ruth Smith, Gladys Ouderkirk, Bette Staley and the president a committee to plan for same. The members were asked to come to the hall the night before to decorate. The secretary was authorized to purchase some more decorations.

It was also decided to have a Christmas carol service in the church Sunday evening previous to Christmas. Eileen Runions, Lida Henry and the president were appointed to plan for this.

A tentative committee, Lynden Hough, Harry Gove and Milburn Ouderkirk, was appointed to make plans for a skating party early in January. The sum of $20 was voted for the senior C.G.I.T. for expenses.

The meeting closed with recreation after which lunch was served by Joyce Hough, Marion Hough, Audrey Nephew and Lida Henry.

Cecil Carr named president Cancer Society

The annual meeting of the Canadian Cancer Society was held in Chesterville Public Library November 21. Minutes were read and approved and reports from the following were heard: Treasurer, secretary, women's services and campaign committees.

Before the report of the nominating committee was read, tribute was paid to the memory of the Society's late president, Mrs B. W. Campbell, by observing a minute's silence.

Following is the new slate of officers:

President, Cecil Carr; 1st vice president, Mrs H. Stewart; 2nd vice president, Mrs L. Marcellus; secretary, Mrs T. D. Ross; treasurer, Mrs J. C. Fulton; education, chairman, Eric Casselman, committee, Lorne Thompson, Jas. Fyke; women's services, chairman, Mrs G. W. Gilbert.

Council worries over '59 clerk

Chesterville council met in the clerk's office Tuesday evening for the December meeting. Reeve Chas. McMillan was in the chair and councillors Butcher, E. and C. Merkley and H. Sharkey were present as was clerk H. C. Hummel.

Hydro business was light after the minutes were read and passed. Some discussion centred around 1959 maintenance and it was decided to consult retiring maintenance man Chas. Marcell about this. A suggestion was put forward that Marcell be offered an hourly rate to do certain of the light jobs of the system.

Councillors listened to fire chief John Hehir when he reported on the fire department for the month. It was recommended that a number of hand flashlights be placed on the fire truck for emergency use. The chief's accounts for the Ball fire were entered to be paid.

Considerable discussion was held on the problem of remodelling the theatre section of Community Hall to make it a paying proposition. Some suggestions offered by interested parties were to be acted upon at once.

The auditorium came under council's scrutiny. With the new radiator system in place, work is needed to replace and repair the wall benches. That was ordered done and at the same time permission given to have a permanent cabinet built for the hall record player.

The money by-law that will be needed for furthering construction of the river dam came up for discussion, but on the advice of village solicitor Cass, must be held over until the new year. It is not possible to pass money by-laws in December.

Council bogged down about 11.30 p.m. after a long, earnest consideration of applications for the clerk-treasurer job. There are seven applications and it is most difficult to make a choice. Further consideration will be given on December 19 at the final meeting.

The following accounts were passed to be paid:

Village Accounts

PLAN CHRISTMAS PARTY MISSION BAND MEMBERS

The December meeting of Merrill Mission Band of Trinity United Church was held in the Sunday School on December 1.

The meeting opened by singing "Silent Night." The hand work for the accordian book was drawing a Christmas scene.

Mrs Butcher explained Christmas customs in Holland, also a chapter of the study book "Here Comes Dick" was read.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Tommy Forward. Shirley Cuff called the roll, with 15 members and three visitors present.

A Christmas party was planned for Saturday, December 13, at 2 o'clock. Marilyn Smith received the collection.

As Brian Smith read Scripture, Betty Lou Casselman and Linda McLean portrayed the manger scene with puppets.

The meeting closed by singing "Away in a Manger" and repeating the Mission Band prayer.

District upsets in Monday's elections

The biggest upsets in Monday's district elections were in Morrisburg and Osnabruck Township where voters elected new reeves.

In Morrisburg, Gordon Thom, making his first bid into municipal politics, defeated Reeve George E. Beavers who was seeking his eighth term as reeve of the community.

Reeve Wallace Gallinger was also dethroned as reeve of Osnabruck Township by Ivan S. Eaman who polled 659 votes to Mr Gallinger's 459.

At Morrisburg, newcomer Gordon Thom piled up a 244 majority over Reeve Beavers with 481 votes to the sitting reeve's 238 votes. The third candidate, Geo. Smyth, polled 64 votes.

Fire on Mary street Tuesday morning

The fire siren called out the crew Tuesday morning just at the dinner hour. A floor heater in the residence of Harold "Pete" Ball on Mary street had flamed out of control.

The fire truck, unable to turn off Main onto Mary because of the position of a hydro pole, had to take the long way around by South street.

The blaze was finally extinguished after using two tanks of CO_2 and considerable water in the basement. Oily smoke hampered the efforts of the crew and made the job especially difficult. Final damage was confined to charring and smoke and water.

Fred Whale and Jim Salmon competed in an angling contest at Oundle, Eng.

OPINIONS . . .
OURS AND OTHERS

Expensive insurance

The Ontario government has enrolled a vast number of Ontario's citizens in its Ontario Hospital scheme. The Hospital Services Commission will really be in the insurance business on the first of the new year.

With all due respect to government planners, we don't like it. No matter how we figure it, the insurance offered makes us pay more than we like to pay for; to maintain the benefits we have been getting in private plans, our premium costs have risen considerably.

Government spokesmen claim we are getting more than our money's worth with the new scheme. Maybe they are right, but this small employer has not yet been able to afford anything more than a Ford status of economy, and we hate like the devil to have to pay for a Rolls Royce model.

The government plan gives the insured unlimited bed care at public ward rates in hospital and takes care of many hospital extras and maternity benefits. That is the plan and it is all-embracing in its coverage, whether a patient is in a high cost district or a low one. The plan also will relieve municipalities of much of the indigent patient hospital costs that sometimes prove so burdensome. All this costs a person with dependents the sum of $4.20 per month.

Other standard hospital benefit plans go out of existence on January 1st when the government one begins. And that is the rub.

We were stumbling along on a reasonably even keel, usually able to remain vertical, sustained by good food and fresh air. Visits to the hospital were thankfully few and our small brood of dependents kept us reasonably flexible. When we did decide to get a valve job done or a tonsil treated, it didn't cost too much with the old plan. We also had the questionable satisfaction of knowing the benefit insurance included $1,000 life insurance; if the gears became unmeshed, there would be something there to help pay the mortician. While many of the old plan's benefits were limited, in most cases a person bought what he could reasonably afford.

The first of the new year will see quite a change. Many small employers will not push the idea of doubling their monthly payments for their employees' benefit insurance. Many workers who normally pay half the monthly premiums, in small businesses, will not feel they can afford to double their payments for the additional benefits.

While it is not necessary that people have life insurance coverage, surgical benefits, accident clauses and a rated payment of hospital room costs, we still think there should be a choice. As it will stand next year, you will take the government plan or nothing. All other private plans hinge on whether you have registered with the commission. If you still want fringe benefits, then the cost will be plenty.

Poor public relations

We have the largest waste basket in the village, and a lot of the time it is crammed to the gills with releases from kind souls who hope to get some free publicity. We recognize them for their gamesmanship, and do our best to foil their little plots. That is the reason for the big w.b.

Over the years our relations with the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada have been of the best. When we played nursemaid to herds of fat black and white cattle, their breeding and records were second nature. When we turned to the more strenuous life of a newspaper editor, we still maintained that interest, nurtured by publicity releases from the Association, that crossed our desk about twice a week. And we usually print Holstein news of local interest.

Last week Harold Merkley sold one of his fine cows for a large sum of money to a Mexican buyer. So the daily papers get a picture of the cow and her proud owner, and the "Record" who really provides the home news of the district is still looking for a picture.

Bits and pieces

Cold weather arrived the other night and caught a lot of local motorists with their heavy oil down. There was quite a little flurry of towing to get to church and a rush on the garages on Monday.

Election day in the village was notable for one thing—just about the same number of voters turned out as in other years, and it was just as difficult to decide between the candidates.

Be a candlemaker for Christmas

With the first heavy snowfall, a busy housewife's thoughts turn to the difficult task of creating something new and different for this year's Christmas decorations.

"Oh! What I could do with fancy candles," she says. If only they weren't so expensive. But our housewife can rest at ease. She doesn't need to go to such expense, providing she's willing to try her hand at making her own Christmas candles.

They're not really difficult and there are lots of ordinary household items which can be used for molds. Try juice concentrate cans, milk cartons, gelatin molds or rubber balls cut in half. Heavy cord makes a good wick.

You will find that one pound of paraffin fills three 6-ounce juice concentrate cans or two half-pint cream containers. One and three-quarters pounds fills one quart milk carton.

Select light, all-purpose dye colours such as light green, evening blue, coral or chartreuse to get a bright shade. Use approximately two teaspoons of dye for each pound of paraffin.

Before you start, punch a hole in the centre of your mold just large enough for the string to go through. Run a piece of cord through the hole and tie the inside to a pencil placed across the top of the mold. Pulling tight, secure the other end of the cord to the outside of the mold by knotting and covering with cellophane tape.

Melt paraffin in double boiler or old coffee can placed in a pan of water. Colour with all-purpose dye. Remove from heat and stir for three minutes, since this dye is primarily water soluble and some of the dye will not dissolve but will settle to the bottom.

Pour melted coloured wax into mold. As paraffin hardens, fill hollow with more wax. Unmold by dipping a metal mold quickly in hot water. Cardboard molds can be peeled off.

Now, using household cement, decorate candles with glitter, sequins or seals. You can also add frosted whipped wax which is made by allowing the coloured wax to cool until a film forms on top and then whipping with a fork until it reaches a frosting-like consistency. Apply quickly. If it becomes too firm to spread, melt and whip again.

To make a ball candle fill both halves of the ball with coloured wax and allow to set. Cut heavy cord one inch longer than diameter of the ball, dip in wax and let harden. Cut a groove down the centre of one flat side of the ball. Place the wick in the groove and pour small layer of hot coloured wax on both flat sides of the ball molds and weld together into ball shape.

If you are making an angel, whip yellow coloured wax and spread on candle, covering the joint and shape the desired hair style. Sprinkle glitter on the hair. Make a halo from a wire clothes hanger and paint it with metallic gold paint. Use tiny Christmas tree balls for eyes and nose, and make the mouth of sequins.

CHECK THAT PORCH

Wooden stoops and porches tend to deteriorate quickly if there are pockets which hold water.

Check after a rain. If you see any puddles under the porch, you can usually raise the level underneath with a jack and shore up the floor.

Other places to check include the steps and porch columns; the latter often are an invitation to water to seep underneath. Chalk them up tight.

Check periodically to make sure the vent holes that air out the space under the porch are not plugged. Free movement of air will help prevent rotting of porch floor and framing.

SUCCESSFUL EUCHRE HELD AT FINCH

A successful euchre party was held in the Orange Hall, Finch, sponsored jointly by the L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. of Finch.

Prize winners were: Ladies' 1st, Simeon Ouderkirk; consolation, Mrs Ernest Montgomery. Men's 1st, Sam Gilbert; consolation, Elmer Flegg. The door prize was won by Mrs Willard Swerdfeger.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

When I was five and living on a farm near Spencerville Ottawa seemed almost as far away as Vancouver seems today. So you can imagine my delight when Mother asked me if I'd like to go to Ottawa with her and Grandma. Uncle Roy was driving in with our neighbour, Harve, in Harve's Ford touring car and we women might go along if we wished.

I was terribly excited. We didn't even own a car then so a car ride was quite an experience. And a car ride all the way to Ottawa! I'm sure I didn't sleep a wink the night before the trip.

As you oldsters remember, folks expected to have tire trouble in those days. Tires seemingly weren't built to stand many miles of gravel road. Besides Harve was never one to keep things in perfect condition. We weren't at all surprised when the first tire blew. In fact we weren't too surprised when we'd had four flats on the way in. That is how cars behaved thirty-five years ago. The men simply took the tire off the rim, patched it, replaced it, pumped it up and we were on our way—for a while at least.

But I didn't worry about the flat tires. I was having too much fun. I said those magic words, Kemptville, North Gower, Manotick, Hog's Back over and over so I could remember to tell my friends when I got home. For travelling all the way to Ottawa was an experience a five-year-old could boast about for a long time.

Uncle Roy knew Ottawa well so he directed Harve to the shopping area down Rideau Street where we women would spend our time. He left us at the back door of the Five and Ten with instructions to be there at four o'clock when we would leave for home. He and Harve went off to buy farm machinery.

Grandma, Mother and I were in a woman's heaven. All those big stores! So much to see! So much to buy! We rushed from counter to counter, from one store to the next. On and on we went unaware that our time was quickly passing.

When Mother finally looked at her watch she saw it was getting late. We must find the Five and Ten and wait for the men to pick us up. She asked directions and we trudged wearily the few blocks to the store. We took up our positions in front of the big window and waited.

We waited until 4.15 and there was no sign of the Ford and its driver. We stood longer. At 4.30 Grandma began to wonder what had happened to the men. Maybe they'd had an accident. But there was nothing to do but wait.

At five Grandma said, "If we'd known they'd be so late we might have taken Lillian through the Parliament Buildings." We could see the Peace Tower only a few blocks in front of us. But we didn't dare leave our stand.

For a long time I amused myself by looking in the big window. Then I got tired—very tired. I didn't dare complain, however, for the trip to Ottawa was worth the discomfort of aching feet and the long wait.

Mother and Grandma were obviously worried about the men. It was 5.30. Where could they possibly be?

At last the Ford and its two men came to a sudden stop then pulled to the curb at the far side of the street. Uncle Roy rushed over towards us. "We thought we'd never find you," he said in a tone of mixed relief and annoyance. "We waited for over an hour and when you didn't come we thought there was nothing to do but drive up and down the streets until we saw you. That's what we were doing when I spotted you here. Why didn't you wait where we left you?"

Grandma and Mother turned and gave each other a puzzled look. It had never occurred to them that there could be two Five and Tens in Ottawa.

PREPARING MACHINERY FOR WINTER STORAGE

Many farmers have now finished using some machines for this year, and will shortly be putting them in storage until next spring.

Care taken now to prepare them for winter storage will pay dividends, states Prof. J. R. Scott, Department of Engineering Science, Ontario Agricultural College. He suggests the following:

Thoroughly clean and inspect all machines and apply grease or rust inhibitor to exposed or wearing surfaces to prevent rust.

Remove any canvases, fabrics, or V-belts and store them separately in a cool, dry place.

Thoroughly lubricate all bearing and fittings to force out moisture.

Block rubber-tired vehicles off the ground to take the weight off the tires.

If there is no room inside a building, and a machine must be stored outdoors, a tarpaulin or plastic cover thrown over the machine will keep out damaging moisture.

Many farm machinery manufacturers outline winter storage suggestions in their machinery handbooks. Following these suggestions can save many dollars on an expensive investment.

NO PROBLEM

E. H. Bradberry, of Norfolk, Va., didn't worry particularly when someone took his dog, Scooter, from his car the other night.

The dog was returned next day.

"She's kind of easy to identify," Bradberry said.

Scooter, a trained performing dog, walks on her hind legs, pushes a kiddie car and smokes cigars.

Alcoholics Anonymous start new group at Winchester

The growing fellowship of Alcoholics Anonymous (better known as AA), have added an other group to the more than 200,000 estimated members in Canada, the United States and in over 70 foreign countries throughout the world.

Meetings are held at the Winchester Legion Hall every Friday night, at 8.30 p.m. They are open to anyone who may feel that they have a drinking problem, or that their lives have become unmanageable and cannot stop drinking on their own efforts.

A newcomer attending his or her first meeting will be astonished to find that AA members are not reformers. That they have no wish to dry up the world. Their primary purpose is to stay sober and help other alcoholics to achieve sobriety.

Once inside the door it is surprising to meet so many people, from all walks of life. The persons coming to AA for the first time will immediately feel they belong, for here they will meet old friends that possibly they once drank with in nearby hotels and others that were known as problem drinkers but who are sober today through the help nd friendship of AA.

How AA works, when so many other methods have failed, is somewhat of a miracle. It is estimated that of all the alcoholics who come to AA 50% get sober at once and stay that way, 25% do so after some relapses, and the remainder usually show improvement.

The only requirement for membership is an honest desire to stop drinking. AA has no dues or fees. They are self supporting through their own contributions. A silver collection is passed for anyone who might want to donate for lunch and coffee that is always served after each meeting.

There are no "musts" in AA. The man or woman who is sober for a week or a month is just as much a member as the one who is sober for a year or more.

Meetings are kept simple and informal and last approximately one hour. The chairman is picked from the group and this chore is rotated periodically. The speaker for the evening will relate his or her story by sharing their drinking experiences. They will tell how the AA program works for them, and suggest how they try to live up to the "Twelve Suggested Steps" which are the guide to sobriety. Sooner or later the new member will hear a story that compares with his own life story and for the first time a ray of hope may appear that he, too, may be able to stop drinking if he gives this thing a fair trial.

Help for Newcomers

Here, he will talk with people who have gone through the mill and understand what the newcomer is going through. Some had lost their family, they had been hospitalized and jailed several times. They have committed many grave offences against society ,their families, their employers and themselves. Others have never been jailed or hospitalized, nor have they lost jobs through drinking. But even these men and women came to the point where they realized that alcohol was interfering with normal living. Meeting and talking and helping other alcoholics together, they are somehow able to stay sober and to lose the compulsion to drink, once a dominating factor in their lives.

AA's have seen it work for every newcomer, almost without exception. Most of them had similar drinking patterns. Will power alone was not enough to keep sober. They have tried going on the wagon for specified periods; they have taken solemn pledges. They have switched brands and beverages. But none of the plans worked. They have always wound up, sooner or later, by getting drunk when they only wanted to have a "few."

They can smile at those recollections now, but at the time they were grim, unpleasant experiences. They were sure there was something wrong with them mentally; most were relieved, however, when it was explained that alcoholism is an illness. Only gradually did they come to appreciate that it was not the fifth or tenth or the twentieth drink that got them drunk—it was the first.

Quite naturally the prospect of life without alcohol seemed pretty sad and dull. They feared that their new friends in AA would be drab, and most of all, evangelists. Little did they know that they were to meet human beings much like themselves and they also found that for the first time in their lives they had just started to live the way they always wanted.

Slogans like "First things first" started to make sense. This kept reminding them that their sobriety must come first. Without sobriety they would soon lose everything. Another slogan, "Easy does it," helped to lead them along without getting all excited over the daily little problems that they still had to face. They had to realize here and now that what took them 10 or 20 years to get into could not be cleared up overnight. A third slogan that could be mentioned would be "Just for today." This one made them realize that there was nothing they could do about their past; it was gone. Worrying about it just wouldn't help. Tomorrow may never come and there was not too much they could do about this. Today seemed to be the only day they could do anything about. If they are sober today, they will be in a much better condition to face tomorrow if it does come.

AA's appreciate that nothing they can say will have any real meaning until the alcoholic himself is ready to admit, as they once did, that alcohol has him licked and wants help. Probably the best attraction to someone

The annual meetings of Knox Presbyterian Church Ladies' Aid and W.M.S., Crysler, was held at the home of Mrs Alex McLeod.

Carl Thibodeau, 28, escaped custody in magistrate's court by pleading guilty to another man's charge, paying the fine and leaving.

Toronto police said he jumped up in answer to someone else's charge when the other prisoner was asleep. Thibodeau was charged with receiving stolen goods.

BOD'S SCRAPBOOK—At the age of 21, Maurice Bodington left his home in New Westminster, B.C., and headed for Broadway with only $15 in his pocket. During his early days in the American theatre and later, in his 30 years of Canadian radio, he has maintained a scrapbook of anecdotes and experiences. It is on this wealth of memories that he draws for his present weekly radio broadcast called Bod's Scrapbook which he gives each Sunday over CBC's Dominion network.

TRANQUILIZING AGENTS VALUABLE FOR ANIMALS

The tranquilizing drugs which are being used and discussed so much in the human field of medicine are now finding a useful place in treating animals, reports the Ontario Veterinary College. Among the many uses the drugs appear to have are the quieting of thoroughbred horses for training or other purposes, making dogs and cats easier to handle, and for making sows more at ease at farrowing time.

There is even evidence to suggest that beef cattle gain faster, and dairy cows produce more when they are maintained on adequate levels of these new drugs.

According to the College, they have proved quite safe, even when tested with several doses per day over a period of time, much longer than most veterinarians would wish to use them.

Veterinary authorities agree that many more uses for the tranquilizing agents will become known in the near future.

Godthaab, Greenland, was founded in 1721 by Danes.

USE ONE ARROW, ANYWAY

The U.S. Air Force used an unusual missile to get rid of two bobcats who moved onto a jet fuel tank at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

The missle was an arrow. The launching apparatus was a bow.

Airman James R. Moore, an amateur archer, was called in because rifle shots could have touched off the fuel tank.

Moore's first arrow, launched from 25 yards, killed one bobcat. The other was wounded by the second arrow and bounded off into the desert.

TOURING CANADA IN MILK WAGON

A 35-year-old English nurse has decided to stop at Port Arthur for the Winter after completing 1,000 miles of a journey across Canada in a horse-drawn milk wagon.

Audrey Goodchild, of Seaford, Sussex, took eight weeks to reach Port Arthur from Galt, behind her ten-year-old horse, Bill. Her travelling companion is a German shepherd dog, called Jade.

She made up her mind to travel across the country while working as a nurse in a hospital at Brampton, Ont. After the horse plodded down the main street of Port Arthur, finishing a stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway, she found a job for the Winter in the Port Arthur General Hospital.

Miss Goodchild said she slept in a bed only three times during the first stage of her milk wagon tour. At other times, she slept in the wagon.

She said in an interview that the trip wasn't too bad.

"The bears were a bother though. One of them gave Bill a fright one night and he hasn't liked them since.

"I don't like crossing the Rockies for that reason. They tell me that the bears are bigger than ever out there, and much more fierce than the ones we've met so far."

However, she hopes to stop next Winter at Banff, in the heart of the Rockies.

Miss Goodchild is all in favour of her means of motive power. "Bill," she said, "seems to know exactly what to do without being told."

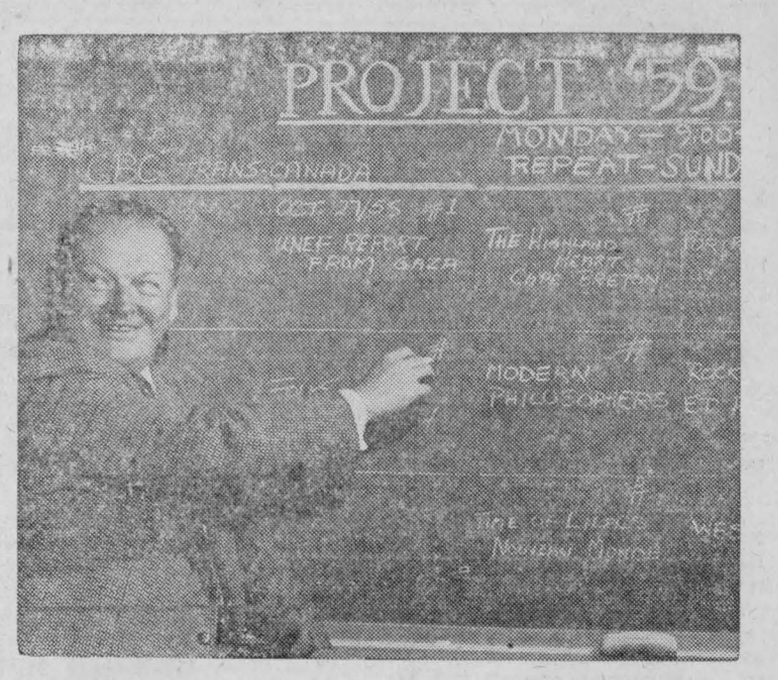

YULE LOGS MADE FROM PAPERS

To enjoy a real, old-fashioned Christmas this year, make some Yule logs out of old newspapers. Chemicals are the secret of these brightly1burning logs. When newspapers are rolled tightly, tied and soaked in solutions of different chemicals, they burn slowly and produce a rainbow of coloured flames. The logs take about a month to dry, so better start now if they are to be ready for Christmas.

Put two pounds coarse salt into a pail—preferably a polythene or wooden one, since the chemicals will corrode metal—two pounds bluestone and two gallons boiling water. Now add one ounce of any of the following chemicals, depending on the flame colour desired: strontium nitrate which burns with a red flame; bismuth nitrate which burns crimson; antimony chloride which burns blue; barium-chloride or borax, both of which give a green flame; or potassium chloride which burns purple.

Put the rolled-up newspapers into the solution and let them soak until the liquid is absorbed. Don't use slick paper magazines because they won't absorb liquid easily.

Dry the logs on a rack till they are completely dry. When they are put on a holiday fire they'll burn with an array of glowing colours.

HARRY BOYLE, CBC producer responsible for the radio show "Assignment," has been given another task. He is shown lining up the opening schedule of a new hour-long series, "Project '59," which will include dramas, actualities, music and topical events all dealt with in exciting new ways. "Project '59" will be broadcast each Monday starting October 27 and repeated Sundays over the Trans-Canada network of CBC radio.

KEEPING FARM CATS IN GOOD HEALTH

The farm cat, an animal so important in controlling rats and mice on the farm, is becoming more and more difficult to keep healthy. The disease most common in our cats today is known as cat distemper or more accurately as feline panleukopenia. The disease is caused by a virus and spreads very quickly among kittens and young cats.

Usually the disease exhibits itself as an intestinal disorder where the cat refuses food and loses condition very quickly. Usually the disease is fatal.

According to the Ontario Veterinary College, cat distemper and a disease of mink known as mink enteritis appear to be caused by the same virus agent. For this reason it is important that mink ranches be kept free of infected cats.

The disease can be prevented best by a regular program of vaccination. On farms where the disease is a problem it may be necessary for a veterinarian to

TOO REALISTIC

A filmed documentary of an actual spinal operation was too realistic for some 100 lawyers in Hartford, Conn., the other day.

One lawyer suffered a heart attack, said a doctor who assisted him.

Two others were found unconscious on the floor when the film ended.

Scores of the lawyers, who specialize in personal injury lawsuits, said they nearly fainted in the darkened auditorium. Some put their heads between their knees. Others just closed their eyes.

The film, entitled "Sciatic Pain and the Intervertebral Disk," was presented as part of a two-day medico-legal seminar.

CHRISTMAS COOKIES

WITH EXTRA COMPANY in the house during the holidays there are bound to be raids on the cookie jar. When friends drop in to wish you a Merry Christmas you will want to give them a warming cup of tea or coffee and pass a plate of Christmas cake and cookies.

Little English Christmas Cakes

2 cups brown sugar
2-3 cup butter
2-3 cup sour milk
3 eggs
1 tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. cloves
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup raisins
1 cup nut meats
¼ lb. citron peel
¼ lb. chopped green and red marashcino cherries mixed.
Flour to stiffen

Cream the butter, add sugar; add beaten eggs, mix well; add sour milk. Mix soda, salt and spices to nuts mixed with raisin, citron peel and cherries which have been dredged with flour; add to first mixture; add flour to stiffen so mixture may be dropped from a spoon. Drop very small teaspoons of the batter onto a greased tin far enough apart so they will not touch when baked. Brush with sweet milk and sprinkle with granulated sugar just before putting in the oven. Bake at 350 to 400 degrees until done.

This recipe makes a large number of cookies and is an excellent one with which to stock the cookie jar at Christmas time. These cakes also freeze well.

Scotch Cakes

This is an old-time recipe for a very crisp, thin, rolled cookie.

½ cup butter
½ cup lard
1 cup sugar
¼ cup cold water
¼ tsp. flour
5 to 6 cups all purpose flour

Do not think this will be better by using all butter instead of half lard. Measure five cups flour into a bowl; add sugar, salt and cut in fat as for pastry. Add cold water and mix as you would pie dough. Add flour to make a dough that may be rolled. Just as in making pie crust the less the dough is handled the better will be the results. Roll very thin, cut in cookie shapes, place on cookie sheet, prick with a fork and bake at 400 degrees till light brown. Watch carefully as they are apt to burn quickly.

Shortbread

This is my favourite for Christmas time.

1 cup butter (do not substitute)
1-3 cup fruit sugar
2 cups flour

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and cream together thoroughly. Add flour to form a stiff dough. You may need more than the two cups but be careful not too add too much as then your shortbread will have a floury taste. Turn dough onto a lightly floured board and knead more flour in until the dough begins to crack. Roll about ¼ inch thick and cut in Christmas shapes. Bake in 325 degree oven until lightly browned.

To add a Christmasy touch, sprinkle with fruit sugar coloured with a few drops of food colouring before baking.

Orange Hard Sauce

1-3 cup butter
1 cup fruit sugar
1-3 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. orange juice
1 tsp. grated orange rind

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually. Add flavouring, including orange rind; chill. This sauce is excellent when served with plum pudding.

Two years have passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still.

Sadly missed by husband Calvin and family.

Boulerice–McMillan

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, Morrisburg, on Friday morning when June Anne, elder daughter of Mr and Mrs Hugh McMillan, Elma, was united in marriage to Rudolph J. Boulerice, son of Mr and Mrs Arthur Boulerice, of Morrisburg. The ceremony was performed by Rev W. L. Terrion.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a teal-blue suit with pink accessories and wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Miss Iris Collins, Ottawa, attended the bride as bridesmaid and wore a suit of shepherd's check with grey accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr Ted Boulerice assisted his brother as best man.

For the wedding, the bride's mother wore a grey sheath dress with turquoise accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs Boulerice, mother of the groom, wore a blue dress with brown accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following a breakfast reception, the happy couple left for a month in the southern United States and Mexico. On their return they will take up residence in Morrisburg.

IN MEMORIAM

DROPPO—In loving memory of Mrs James Andrew Droppo who passed away December 10, 1953.

The month of December is here,
To us the saddest of all the year.
So quiety and qlickly came the call,
His sudden death suprised us all.
A day of remembrance, sad and bitter to recall,
A dearly loved father missed by us all.

Ever remembered by wife Olive.

Neighbouring Auxiliaries hear Miss L. Simpson at Morewood

Members of the Auxiliaries from Section 4 of the Brockville Presbyterial met in the Presbyterian Hall, Morewood, on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Lil Feeley presided during the afternoon and the guests were warmly welcomed by Mrs W. C. Hunter.

The Presbyterial president, Mrs Harold Graham, presented life membership certificates to Mrs A. Carkner, by Chesterville Auxiliary, and to Mrs D. Fry, by Dunbar, Chesterville and Morewood members.

Mrs G. Crawford, Chesterville, and Mrs A. Folkard, Dunbar, were in charge of devotions.

Mrs D. Fry introduced the guest speaker, Miss Lily Simpson, a missionary home on furlough after spending 30 years in India. She was dressed in native costume and told of general conditions in India and of her work in the hospitals. She brought her talk to a close with a most interesting questionnaire.

Mrs C. A. MacGregor thanked Miss Simpson for her most inspiring address and wished her continued success and a pleasant time while on furlough.

A generous offering was taken and donated to Miss Simpson for her work.

A social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

SWEARS REVENGE ON INDIA'S FLIES

Unwise were the flies that plagued Keshoprasad Varma, of Lucknow, India, when he was shaving 10 years ago.

Varma, trying to shoo them away, dropped his razor, stepped on the blade and badly gashed his foot. On the spot, he pledged revenge against the entire fly dominion.

Now Varma has been granted a patent for an apparatus he claims is the most efficient fly catcher ever invented.

It consists of two chambers. One is lighted and has a removable top. Its floor is covered with a sugary paste. When the floor is well covered with flies, Varma slams on the top and turns out the light. The flies then go through to the next chamber where they are exterminated.

Varma says the trap is based on the simple fact that flies are attracted by lights and sweets, repelled by darkness. He has learned all about their habits from 10 years of study.

The Uttar Pradesh state government has granted Varma 2,500 rupees ($500) to perfect his fly trap. He said this should enable him to go down in history as India's foremost fly exterminator.
