Doctors press board to reassess bed closures

Winchester man taken to hospital
Nick Beuman, 71, was lifted into an ambulance after suffering minor injuries in a two-car smash-up Tues., Oct. 30. The mishap occurred at the corner of St. Lawrence and Clarence Streets when his car was hit by a car driven by Christena St. John, 72, of RR2,Mountain. Elizabeth Beuman, 64, was a passenger in her husband's car, but received only slight injuries. As of this week, Mr. Beuman was still under treatment at WDMH for a knee injury.

WINCHESTER—In an effort to reverse the decision to close 15 beds next month, doctors at Winchester District Memorial Hospital asked for and got a special meeting of the Board of Governors to re-open the subject.

Last Wednesday, 18 of the 22-member medical staff sent a motion to the board asking them to postpone the announced bed closures slated for December through March—what doctors say is the peak season for admissions.

Dr. David Flowers, of the medical staff, said the staff's main concern is that a loss of beds would hurt services and put undue stress on the medical staff.

In response, the requested special meeting was held Thursday and, according to one of the three medical representatives on the board, Dr. Raymond Dawes, the governors decided to "reassess" the situation.

"The decision to close beds has not been changed but it is being reassessed in view of concerns raised by doctors and the community," Dawes said.

He added the Board will be approaching the Minister of Health to have matters clarified regarding the status of a $2 million start-up grant expected to help get the major renewal program underway.

Two weeks ago, the hospital's executive director, James Egan, called the grant situation "uncertain" because the money had been promised under the previous Liberal government. He said no guarantees had yet been obtained from the new NDP government on whether they would respect the financial commitment.

The Board has now decided to push ahead for confirmation and has asked MPP Noble Villeneuve (PC - SDG&EG) to help them get some quick answers from Queen's Park.

Egan declined to comment on the current impasse with the doctors, saying it would be "detrimental" to continue the debate in the press.

However, contacted by telephone, Dr. Suru Chande stated the medical staff's position remains the same as before. "They are talking about closing 20 per cent of the hospital's bed capacity and that affects the public as well as the medical staff."

But Chande says the problems go beyond closing beds. He blames the current situation on a loss of credibility between the Board, administration, and the medical staff and he adds, "it's time for the Board to realize it cannot hide facts and expect to get along with the staff."

A new meeting between Egan and the medical staff is scheduled for today at which time the question of bed closures will be discussed once again.

According to Chande, the medical staff and the Board have had "excellent relations" over the years. "The time has come to mend bridges."

Winchester anticipates increased hydro charges

WINCHESTER — The rate increase for village electrical consumers in 1991 will largely hinge on how the Winchester Hydro Commission finances its capital commitments for the year.

An Ontario Hydro consultant told village council Monday that if a major $125,000 conversion and transformer replacement program is approved and partly paid for with borrowed money, rates in Winchester would have to be increased by 8.8 per cent.

Additional monies that will likely be needed to replace electrical meters, poles, conductors and other equipment could push the capital side of the commission's budget to $190,000, said Laurie Elliott, of Hydro's customer energy services office in Ottawa.

If $70,000 is borrowed to meet its budget commitments, the required rate increase will probably be 8.8 per cent, she calculated.

Although the actual size of the rate increase won't be known until council meets again on Nov. 19, an increase will probably be unavoidable, given the 8.7 per cent increase in electrical rates to municipal utilities announced recently by Ontario Hydro.

Hugh Robinson, of HDR Power, the private electrical firm now under contract with the commission, said it will cost up to $125,000 to convert the northern half of Winchester to an 8,000-volt capacity, bringing it in line with the southern portion of the village.

Colors represented in observance

WINCHESTER — Regular observers of Remembrance Day ceremonies in the village will notice a colorful addition to this year's parade to the cenotaph.

For the first time since the unification of the Canadian Armed Forces in the 1960s, the colors of all three services that existed in World Wars I and II will be proudly displayed.

Bill Lloyd, poppy chairman for the Winchester Legion Branch 108, says the Royal Canadian Navy's White Ensign, the Army's Red Ensign and the Royal Canadian Air Force's Blue Ensign will be near the head of this Sunday's (Nov. 11) parade.

Lloyd, an ex-corporal in the RCAF during WWII will carry the Blue, ex-sailor Jim Lennox will bear the White and Doug Shepherd, currently serving with the Forces, will carry the Red.

Leading the parade this year will be the Ottawa Police Pipe Band, followed by the color party, war veterans, legionnaires, cubs and scouts.

Remembrance Day memorial services will begin at 12:15pm with the march from the Legion Hall on Main Street East and proceed along St. Lawrence Street to the cenotaph, located between Winchester Public School and the Winchester District Memorial Hospital. There the traditional laying of wreaths will take place. The Last Post and Reveille will by played by bugler Bruce Cowell.

Elsewhere in the area, Osgoode Township legionnaires will hold commemorative services at cenotaphs in Kenmore (9:30am), Metcalfe (11am), and Osgoode Village (2pm).

Lloyd reports that poppy sales have been brisk in the weeks leading up to Nov. 11. Last Saturday, local boy cubs and scouts and girl guides and brownies blanketed the town in a succesfull poppy blitz.

To raise awareness of the meaning of Remembrance Day, all elementary schools in the area participated in a color poster contest. Each winner will win $20.

'Kick in the shins' unjustified reeve says of Chesterville reaction

MAPLE RIDGE — Winchester Township Reeve Claude Cousineau says he was hurt by a figurative 'kick in the shins' from Chesterville Reeve Jim Cook over a dump decision made by the township.

Cook said in newspaper reports last week that he had "kicked him (Cousineau) in the shins" for making a decision on the dump without consulting Chesterville, which runs the dump along with the township and the village of Winchester.

Cousineau couldn't be reached for comment at the time. However, on Thursday, he refuted Chesterville Council's claim that the township acted improperly.

At issue was Winchester Township's decision to hire the engineering firm of Oliver Mangione McCalla and Associates to do engineering work involving the dump at a price of $96,000.

Chesterville Council members complained they were not consulted on the matter.

But Cousineau has a different version of the story. He said Thursday that Chesterville Councillor Shirley Coons was present at the meeting when the firm was hired and voiced no objection to the township's selection.

"They (Chesterville representatives) were part of the process all along. They were there," he said.

He added that the township had to get moving on the decision in order to make the deadline date for funding.

Chesterville Council is complaining about the township's decision to hire Oliver Mangione and McCalla, the engineering firm with the most expensive bid. It should be more concerned with what will happen if dumps are not dealt with immediately, Cousineau said.

If the township ignores Ministry of Environment concerns and fails to get its landfill in top operating order, it could face large fines or even have its licence to operate withheld, meaning the dump would close.

"You talk about a kick in the shins. We are going to get a kick in the ass from the MoE," he said.

The operation certificate for the landfill site expired last week and the township has not yet received a temporary certificate of approval, he said. And there is no guarantee the township will receive another certificate, he added.

"Our certificate of approval was, as of yesterday, extinct, it's gone. And what are the Chesterville ratepayers going to say then when they have a pile of garbage up on their front lawns."

The MoE no longer has tolerance for municipalities who skirt guidelines in order to save operation costs.

Roving around the globe

by Andy McLeister
Press staff reporter

VERNON — While some of us hope to escape to the nearest sun destination for a brief respite from the winter blues, four members of the local scouting movement have slightly more ambitious plans in the works.

They're bound for Australia and the Eighth World Moot, a gathering of Rovers, the highest level in the scouting movement. The Dec. 26 to Jan. 8 international conference is the first to be held since 1967.

"Oh, yah!" exclaimed Nicole Van Wylick when asked if she is looking forward to her trip Down Under. "It's getting more and more real as we get closer to the time."

Van Wylick, 18, is a first-year University of Ottawa student. Although her family now resides in Vernon, she still retains ties through the scouting and guide movement to her home town, Chesterville.

Joining her for the journey to Melbourne, on Australia's northern coast, are fellow members of the First Winchester Springs Camp Sheldrick Rover Group, named for the scouting facilities at Cass Bridge.

Ivan Bowman, 18, of Chesterville, Rick Rodney, 19, of Winchester, and Cassandra Crowder, 19, of South Gloucester form the rest of the local delegation. Bowman attends Waterloo University while the other two are students at Carleton University.

The four Rovers from this area will be included in a 47-strong Canadian contingent. "It's quite an honor" to be selected for the Moot, said Nicole's mother, Alice. She noted that interest in international conferences to discuss scouting issues has revived partly because this one will be co-ed.

Alice Van Wylick is also chairman of the section committee that is raising funds on behalf of the Rovers who, under scouting regulations, are prohibited from publicly campaigning for the $10,000 needed for the trip on their own.

So far, the committee has raised money through catalogue sales of Regal products, a bingo held during last summer's Winchester Dairyfest, and the sale of hay to Continental Mushroom of Metcalfe. The next item on the fundraising agenda is a dance planned for this Saturday in the Greely Legion.

The section committee chairman stressed in an interview last week that the Greely dance is not geared for teenagers.

Treats galore!

For young ghosts and goblins in the region, it was an occasion for plenty of treats and few tricks last Wednesday, as police report an unusually quiet Halloween. Above left, resident Ruth Brooks handed out treats to Winchester Public School Kindergarten children when they visited Dundas Manor where they were received with much delight. After entertaining the seniors, they proudly displayed their Halloween outfits during an impromtu parade through the village. At right, students at Nationview Public School in South Mountain donned costumes to celebrate the day with a Halloween party for all grades.

Kick in shins

"But the MoE is saying, 'you've been getting off too good too long, here's what you've got to do. Do it now, or else.' And when MoE threatens you, you move."

"They don't care about anybody nickel or diming it for four or five thousand dollars, they don't care about that stuff. They just say 'do it'."

He added if the three municipalites wish to start recycling here, action must be taken. "Are we going to start recycling here or not?" he asked.

Hydro rates

At present, 4,000-volt lines carry electricity from the substation serving the northern end of the town.

The conversion will allow the utility to move the electrical flow from the northern substation to the southern half of the village during peak consumption periods, Robinson said.

Another project that may come on stream in 1991 but will not necessarily have an impact on Winchester Hydro's capital expenditures for the year is a new line to serve the Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

Mark Smelko of M.S. Thompson and Associates Ltd. in Cornwall, told council that although the hospital wants to install a new line dedicated to its exclusive use as soon as possible, a significant increase in electrical demand from the institution won't be felt until as late as 1993.

The dedicated hospital line will be needed to supply additional power when the hospital upgrades its electrical system and installs a new air-conditioning system in conjunction with the current major renewal program.

Roving to Australia

As at most adult functions, there will be a cash bar at the dance.

As tensions rise in the Persian Gulf, and oil prices increase accordingly, airfares are also beginning to spiral. The younger Van Wylick said that because of uncertainty in world oil prices, and by extension, costs of air travel, the Rovers have already paid for their seats on a Dec. 6 Continental Airways flight out of Syracuse, New York.

They had put down a deposit when they booked their flight, Van Wylick said. However, the only way they could be guaranteed a firm per-ticket price of $1,504 U.S. return was to pay the full amount in advance.

She said they opted to fly out of Syracuse because of the substantial savings they could realize by going south of the border.

When the Rovers arrive in Melbourne, it won't be five star accommodations they will be booking into. It will be tenting all the way, except the four days when they will be on "out trips".

Van Wylick said she and Crowder will spend their out trips sailing and houseboating. She opted for an activity a bit less strenuous than what the young men have lined up for them because of foot surgery she underwent last winter.

Bowman and Rodney will be on an adventure that would test the mettle of Crocodile Dundee: hiking, canoeing, bushwalking, and manhandling all-terrain vehicles in the Australian wilderness.

The rest of their stay will be spent in conference with other Moot delegates from around the world. The Moot's agenda will focus on the future of scouting.

The four Rovers have years of scouting and guide experience between them, and continue at the 18 years and over level to advance the movement.

Each Rover group takes on a major service project and for the Sheldrick Group, it's maintaining the scout facilities at Cass Bridge. The camp is located on the shores of the South Nation River. The land has been leased by the scouts from the South Nation River Conservation Authority.

Township council ponders tribunal's decision

MAPLE RIDGE - There was confusion at Winchester Township Council's meeting Monday night over the interpretation of a recent verdict by the Ontario Drainage Tribunal.

The tribunal ruled the Ontario Ministry of Transportation must pay 65 per cent of the approximately $30,000 in costs incurred so far in a dispute over drainage in the Summers-Baker Drain. Winchester Township must pay 15 per cent of the total out of its general funds.

The tribunal also ordered MTO to reconstruct a drain running underneath the Highway 31 and 43 bypass around Winchester.

But some of the verdict's points left township council unclear on what to do next.

Deputy Reeve Wyman Barton said Tuesday he was unsure whether council has to consult a different engineer to figure out how to implement the tribunal's decision.

The verdict means some residents will be re- assessed for the work done on the drain and it means the township has to take corrective measures on portions of the drain to eliminate flooding. Winchester Township resident Harry Mussell fought for years to get the township and MTO to correct a problem in the drain that was causing the flooding of his land.

The verdict's wording, however, says implementation of the tribunal's decision should be referred back to an engineer. Barton said council wants to find out whether it has to hire a different engineer than the one who had carried out the work on the Summers-Baker drain.

Councillors agreed that bringing in a new firm at this stage would mean having to start engineering work from scratch.

"The implication (was) if (council) went and hired another engineer, you're looking at...increased costs again," Barton said.

The confusion was enough to prompt township Reeve Claude Cousineau Monday night to call for a meeting with the drain's previous engineer to help council interpret the tribunal's decision.

"Let's make sure we're clear on everything," Cousineau told council.

Up to now the work has been carried out by Bryan Boyd of A.J. Graham Engineering Ltd. of Ottawa. The firm has since been renamed Ainley Graham Associates Ltd. The meeting has been set for Nov. 12.

Earlier on in the meeting Cousineau favored carrying out some of the tribunal's rulings without consulting an engineer. He felt an engineer wouldn't be needed to block a culvert underneath the Canadian Pacific railroad east of Winchester.

The blockade was ordered by the tribunal to prevent water from flowing under the railroad and into the Summers-Baker Drain watershed.

But Cousineau was advised against it by Mussell, who was attending the meeting.

"I think we have to get an engineer to review this whole report" he said.

Mussell said his interpretation of the tribunal's decision required an engineer be involved on implementing all of tribunal's verdict, including blocking the culvert underneath the railroad.

Eerily quiet on Halloween

WINCHESTER— It was an unusually quiet Halloween with just a smattering of egg pranks this year, reports OPP Sgt Jim Irvine.

However, one post-Halloween incident occurred in Chesterville, Sat., Nov. 3. A car bearing a licence plate registered to Michael Saunder, RR1, Finch was pushed onto the bridge and turned over by unknown persons, police said.

Irvine called it "just a prank" and said the car must have been pushed onto the bridge because it didn't run. No one has yet claimed the car.

The Changing Face of the Countryside

PART THREE

Former urbanites find ' best of both worlds' in country

by Shana Saper
Press staff reporter

WINCHESTER — New neighbors are moving in across the way and chances are they are a city- bred family with school age kids and at least one of the adults commutes to work in Ottawa every day.

It's becoming an increasingly common scenario in southeastern Ontario's small towns and rural areas. And while nobody knows for sure how many such newcomers are arriving, nearly everyone acknowledges an influx of city folk to the countryside.

Most of them are homeowners and their first contact with the country may be through realty agents. That puts people like Butch Oldford of the Winchester office of Gale Realty in the front line of this particularly fast-growing market.

According to Oldford, about 70 per cent of the home buyers he encounters are from Ottawa. And the two main reasons they are moving out are price for the desired amount of land and "getting away" from the ills of city life. "That's why I moved out here 15 years ago," he admits.

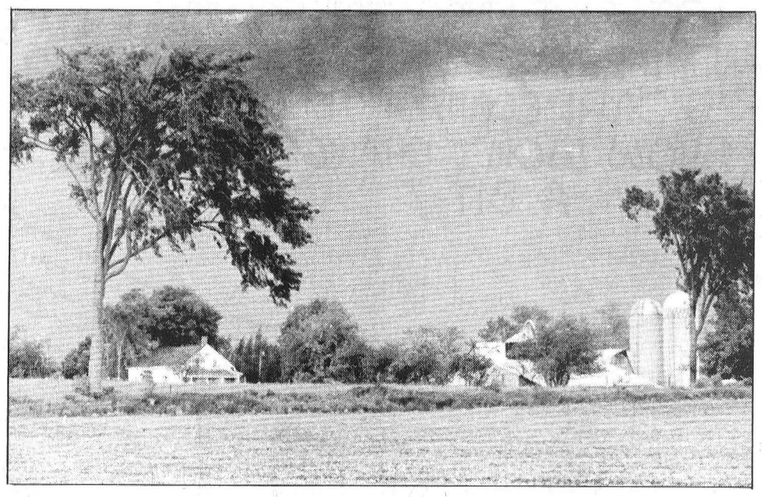
Although a computer could probably compile a "typical" profile of these new country residents, it would be unfair to say such a real person or family exists. Every person has his or her reasons for the move and perceptions of the differences.

For example, Pam and Tony O'Malley lived near Ottawa's Civic Hospital before moving to the Elma- Dunbar area three years ago. Both were originally from small towns—she from Arnprior and he from Greely—but education and employment lured them to the big city.

Pam O'Malley says there were reasons to stay in the city. She used to work for the Hudson's Bay Company and her husband still works there in construction. But when they got married and wanted to invest in a house they found it hard to do "without signing your life away".

They first thought of buying land and building a house but then they saw the house they ended up buying. "It really isn't an ordinary house," O'Malley said, and the price was right.

The rustic round-shaped log house on three- quarters of an acre sold for $55,000 and appealed to their taste for renovating. Once they moved in, they began settling into the country lifestyle.



Although O'Malley says country life was not new to her, the time she had spent in Ottawa had changed her way of thinking.

"People here know each other and everybody knows what's going on with everybody," she explains. In some ways that's good but at times she says she misses being "anonymous" like she was in Ottawa.

Now she's no longer working in the city but staying at home with their one-year-old child and that makes a difference, both positive and negative.

"I feel more secure here and we enjoy the quiet. The pace is much nicer," she says. But on the other hand, there's really no place to go out with her daughter during the day. "The thing I really miss is someplace to walk."

Dawn and Barry Exner moved to Winchester Village four years ago this fall after only a few months in Ottawa. They came from Airdrie, Alberta and found the big city cold and cramped.

"We were living on Heron Road, in a townhouse, and there was no space for the kids to play. You feel like you're losing control of them," says the mother of four.

"We started looking for a house and the real estate agent brought us out to Winchester," she says. They ended up buying an older home with a yard on a quiet street. "You have freedom with a big yard and you don't have to watch the kids every minute," she adds.

The drawbacks for Exner are the fact that the nearest Catholic school is in Chesterville, 12 km away and limited shopping. She says the children are used to the school bus and Ottawa's only 30 minutes away for extra shopping.

"I think we've got the best of both worlds here," she says. "Small, safe, friendly and within a reasonable commute to all the conveniences of a big city."

Louis Mathurin works for OC Transpo and commutes everyday from his South Mountain home. He and his wife Sandra and their two children moved out over a year ago because of the "crazy cost of living and the politicians are crazy."

And he adds: "Here, there's peace and quiet and the people are friendly. You don't feel like an outsider."

Mathurin says a lot of people seem to be commuting these days. As far as he's concerned, it didn't take him long to adjust to the 45-60 minute trip twice a day.

"The kids are freer here than in the city, you don't have to worry about your kids being snatched away." He gave the example of Halloween when his son and daughter, ages 13 and 6, were invited into neighbors' houses. "You wouldn't dare let them do that in the city," he declares.

He also compares living in an Ottawa townhouse and his own 1920s-era house in South Mountain: "You can do what you want in your own home. I don't do anything special but I like to just knock around."

Then he adds a note that is common to many newcomers to the country: "We were looking for a house for a long time and we're going to stay for a long time."

GST protest out of gas?

MOUNTAIN—Township councillors voted against supporting an anti-GST letter sponsored by the city of North York suggesting a possible cooling down in the anti-GST campaign that started up last spring.

A discussion among councillors put Estella Rose, Don Johnston, and Dwaine Berry on the same side of the debate saying the protest won't stop the GST anyway. Only deputy-reeve Ewart Simms supported the North York letter asking municipalities to join the protest. Said Simms, "there must be a better way to tax people based on income and ability to pay."

Two-car mishap

WINCHESTER—An automobile accident at the junction of Highway 31 and St. Lawrence Street occurred last Friday involving Bruce Wicks, 31, of RR4 Winchester and Muriel Miller, 67, of RR3, Williamsburg. Miller's car was westbound and failed to yield to Wick's van heading north on 31. Neither driver was injured and property damage is estimated at $6,000. Miller was charged with failing to yield the right of way.

Lest we forget

On Sunday, many of us will line the streets and gather solemnly at cenotaphs across the country to honor those who fought and died to preserve our way of life.

At the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, Canadians will observe a moment's silence to reflect on the sacrifices made by the young men and women in the first half of the century, those who left family and friends behind to endure indescribable hardship so that each and everyone of us could continue to live and prosper under a democratic system.

Every year, greying veterans remind their descendant generations that a price was exacted for the freedoms we now take for granted. Their efforts are essential for, as we move farther away in time from the events being commemorated, our collective memory dims.

Few Canadians have experienced the horrors of combat since the Korean War ended in the early 1950's (those who served with foreign forces being the major exception). As life's cycle continues to take its natural toll, living witnesses to deadly struggles will dwindle in numbers and inevitably disappear entirely.

World War II vets have entered retirement age. Fewer still survivors of the trenches of World War I are around anymore to tell us of their hellish experiences.

In light of developments over the past year in Eastern Europe, though, there may be — and should be — a revival of interest in the role our nation played in bringing about the new world order. For Canada and its allies, World War II ended in 1945. But for those nations that were sacrificed in its aftermath, over four decades of repression under Soviet communism ensued.

It could be reasonably argued that only now are we truly tasting the fruits of victory, 45 years after turning back the fascist tide. It will not be surprising if, as veterans bow their heads and remember their comrades who never made it home, they will be consoled in their grief by the realization that business left unfinished at war's end is being taken care of.

The Berlin Wall, symbolic of Germany's humiliating defeat, is no more. The Warsaw Pact is dissolving. Soviet satellites, and member republics, are defying the central authority. Communism as an economic force is crumbling. The security of peace that was sought by the Allies in the 1940s suddenly seems to be a realistic, attainable goal in the '90s.

There are still trouble spots in the world, of course. Canadian warships and planes are part of the international expeditionary force patrolling the Persian Gulf to enforce the United Nations' embargo against Iraq. On Nov. 11, we will also think of that situation, and of the gallant men and women who have taken up the banner of freedom carried by successive generations.

On Sunday, as the threat of conflict is juxtapositioned with the promise of peace, the poignancy of Remembrance Day, and the reasons for observing the occasion, should be brought vividly home to us. Because peace and security will ultimately reign supreme, "Lest We Forget" the tremendous struggles and hard lessons of the past.

Probing the grass roots

Prime Minister Mulroney has belatedly followed the example of Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa in striking a committee to travel the land and probe deeply into the collective Canadian psyche (if one exists) to discover what it will take to keep our country from falling apart.

Keith Spicer, former language commissioner and Ottawa Citizen editor, has been chosen to head this constitutional commission. Over the next while, he and the rest of his panel will seek advice from ordinary Canadians on how to resolve the constitutional impasse produced by the Meech Lake Accord.

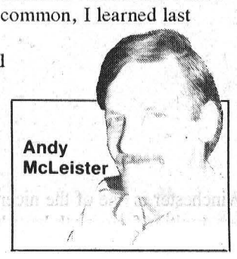
However, the prime minister would be well-advised to not pattern his commission too closely on the Bourassa model. In Quebec, the premier attempted to ensure all political factions would be represented.

To eliminate confusion and get directly to the heart of the issue, Mulroney should exercise caution in responding to the various special interest groups that are now demanding inclusion on the commission. The results of the lengthy inquiry will be diluted and irreparably distorted if they are too greatly influenced by commissioners whose vested interests in the outcome are one-dimensional.

The commission, like its chairman, should consist of distinguished open-minded Canadians who will give a fair and impartial hearing to all who appear before it.

Common ground found with Wilson

That guru of the GST, Finance Minister Michael Wilson and I have something in common, I learned last week.



He boasted that during the economic downturn of 1973, he accepted a 25-per-cent cut in pay to help out the investment firm of which he was vice-president. He was earning something less than $100,000 a year at the time, he recalled, although he couldn't remember the exact amount.

I couldn't help but feel a kind of fraternal kinship with the minister when I read of the sacrifices he made to help his company weather the economic storm of the early 1970s. I, too, accepted a reduced salary in 1973, being the civic minded fella that I am. And like Mike, I also earned less than $100,000 and can't recall the exact figure.

Where the difference lies, though, is in degrees. I don't recall exactly how much money I earned back then, but in 1973 it was considerably less than $100,000. In fact, it was considerably less than $10,000 a year— If memory serves, in those days I earned considerably less than $100 a week, as did most people in my age bracket.

In 1973, I remember taking two pay cuts, but mine came by way of layoffs due to work shortages. In the early 70's, while Michael Wilson was struggling to live on his reduced salary, the rest of us rank and file members of the taxpaying workforce were somehow making ends meet on unemployment insurance benefits when we couldn't find jobs.

Those who found and kept permanent jobs counted themselves lucky, although I don't remember being particularly bitter about my own situation. While I might have been sporadically employed, 1973 was a pretty good year, all told.

As the years rolled on, I'm sad to report that like old friends who take different paths in life, Mike and I have drifted farther apart. He also said last week that he would be willing to accept another pay cut today, until the economy pulls itself out of the current recession.

Sorry, Mike, but I think I'll sit this one out, if I can help it. Unlike you, I still make something less than $100,000 a year. And when your latest tax grab takes place on Jan. 1, I expect my real income (in terms of purchasing power) to drop appreciably.

Some way to treat an old pal, eh?

What a week it's been around here! Boy, the Complaints Department really had a workout, and guess who took it upon himself to respond to some disgruntled readers?

Things really got backed up in the newsroom for the remainder of our seven-day publishing cycle, after Thursday was completely written off as a loss, for the news editor, at least. Seems some people took exception to an editorial we published last week, and I had to field telephone calls and personal visits the whole day long. We struck a raw nerve, it seems. But a better way to stimulate discussion hasn't been tried.

It would be unfair of me to describe in this space the details of the several lengthy conversations I engaged in with these complainants, or to defend our editorial position. After all, they have yet to take me up on my invitation to reply in writing — via our letters columns — to the original piece.

On more pleasant matters ... if you don't grasp the meaning of this week's editorial cartoon, you weren't watching the tube Saturday evening between 6:30 and 7:00. If you had, you would have seen veteran Press scribe Joe Rowan featured on Regional Contact. A few of the rest of us here made brief appearances to tell a few tall tales about Joe.

Now that Joe's famous, maybe we should start that campaign to have him appointed to the Senate that I proposed in a recent column.

Speaking of television, last week we listed various common and alternative uses for corn, but another was brought to our attention courtesy of a weekend documentary. In southern Ontario tobacco country, farmers are switching to corn as growing numbers of people butt out. They aren't growing the usual varieties, though.

The current trend among tobacco farmers is to grow corn for popping, but you won't find their product at the snack counter, or on grocery store shelves. You're more likely to find samples of their crops at electronics and appliance stores.

The popcorn being processed from these farmers' yield is being touted as an environmentally- friendly, biodegradable substitute for those foam pellets that are widely used to protect packaged merchandise.

Seventh Column

by Joe Rowan

At the going down of the sun, and in the morning, we will remember them. Clifford Chadderton, OC, SBStJ, CAE, Chief Executive Officer, War Amputations of Canada, remembers them not only on Nov. 11, but every day of every year. Cliff, a World War II veteran, has been a valued friend for many, many years and we marvel at his relentless efforts to focus attention on the incomprehensible debt society owes those gallant men and women. We marvel at such dedication because he is one of those war veterans himself... and that makes him (like us) a senior citizen. But more than that, Cliff truly understands the horrors and suffering of war. "I'm one of the lucky ones", he recently told members of an area Lions Club, "I only lost a leg". Now one might easily understand if the still-youthful looking veteran, after a quarter-century with War Amps", decided to ease gracefully into retirement. Little chance! Cliff's interests extend far beyond war veterans. Thousands of child amputees, civilian adult amputees, thalidomide victims and countless others daily hope and pray their friend will be with them for many years searching for, and finding, more and better ways to make the roads they are forced to travel just a little smoother. As noted at the beginning, this Sunday is Remembrance Day and, somewhere, you can be assured Cliff Chadderton will stand misty-eyed at a cenotaph saluting his fallen friends as a bugler sounds The Last Post, and then continue on with the "Torch" he considers they handed to him. The continuing success of Cliff's campaign relies, of course, on the understanding and generosity of the general public. Hopefully you haven't neglected replying to the association's (War Amps Canada) most recent request.

This year, with war clouds once again looming on the horizon, a more sombre atmosphere will undoubtedly prevail as names of young men and women of another generation, etched on weather-beaten cenotaphs, are solemnly read. Perhaps you're not sure of exact times and places. We've been asked to offer some assistance. Sorry, but we have only been able to contact four centres. Winchester: Royal Canadian Legion No. 108 members always program an impressive tribute in co- operation with clergy and other organizations. This year will be no different. In Osgoode Township we've been advised of services at three locations - Kenmore, Metcalfe and Osgoode. Wreaths will be laid at the Kenmore cenotaph at 9:30 in the morning; followed by Metcalfe at 11:00; and Osgoode in the afternoon at 2:00. Here at home (Metcalfe) we understand military personnel from Uplands will be joined by area Legion members, and lead a march from the Royal Bank to the cenotaph.

Thought you should know Environment Canada is on the lookout for a solution to yet another dire environmental problem. In their extensive research, they've uncovered the grim reality that cows may be the real cause of that "hole" in the ozone layer. Seems they've discovered cows burp a lot (from both ends), and the gases produced are even more hazardous than the exhaust emitted by cars, trucks and industrial stacks. We just wanted to point this out so you'll understand if you see giant transports unloading cargos at "Fawcetts", or "Smiths", or "Andersons", or "Eastmans", or other dairy farms. What they'll likely be unloading will be tons and tons of extra-strength "Alkaseltzer" and "Tums".

Because you requested it, we'll pass the word along. The Township of Osgoode Care Centre annual meeting will be convened at 7:30pm, Mon., Nov. 12, in the board room at the new fire hall. If you have questions to ask; complaints to register; or constructive proposals to offer, that's the place to be.

If you find any "errors or omissions" here this week, blame it on Brian. Because so few these days are showing any respect for our PM we thought, perhaps, we should, and follow his advice. But Holy Moses it's hard to type with the Smith-Corona balanced on a pillow, while attempting to drink milk and eat cookies. But Brian insists that's the way you should do it if you're "71"... and we are... plus.

Reflections: Clerk 'grew into job'

by Shana Saper
Press staff reporter

WINCHESTER —The Annable name is as old as the township itself. In fact, about one-half mile north of here one of the earliest sites founded was Annable Settlement. Raymond Annable was born and raised there, a descendant of United Empire Loyalists who eked out a living and left their mark on the land.

Like his ancestors, Annable was a farmer, a dairy farmer to be precise, and in the 1940s and '50s he shipped milk as far as Montreal by train and truck. But in 1962 ill health forced him into a mid-life change and a departure from his agricultural roots.

With his wife Mabel (O'Neill) and their three children (Ronnie, Gary, and Linda), he moved to Winchester Village and took up whatever work was available.

"There wasn't much in those days," he said in a recent interview, recalling the change. But a job driving a dry cleaning truck sufficed while he pursued a three-year correspondence course from Queen's University to become a municipal clerk- treasurer— his aim, a career in public service.

Raymond Annable and Mabel O'Neill circa 1945.

Although Annable doesn't say why he chose that profession, the fact that he had been a member of the local school board for years as well as clerk- bailiff for the Dundas County Small Claims Court indicates a natural gift in that direction. By 1968 he had completed his studies and landed his first municipal post.

"I started as an assistant clerk at the Municipal Building and served under Reeve George Elliott," he recounted. Chester Robinson was the clerk at that time and soon Robinson retired leaving the whole responsibility to Annable.

Referring to the early job he inherited, he says being a town clerk was a lot simpler then. "The duties weren't as extensive as they are now with all the grant applications to the different ministries."

But even then he says it was "a pressure job". "You never had 10 minutes to think something through before something else came to your attention."

Annable liked the work and says he had a good memory for the multitude of details that came his way. "It wasn't easy but I grew into the job".

Mabel Annable offers candidly that her partner of 45 years had one great advantage for success: "It was his personality," she declared. "He got along with people."

The only cloud on the horizon was his fragile health —sugar diabetes, Parkinson's disease, and recurrent heart trouble resulting in open heart surgery in '82, made the last 10 years of his office "double pressure", he now admits.

During his 20-year tenure as clerk (1968-1988) Annable served under five different reeves — George Elliott, Don Christie, G.H. Reynolds, Walter Shadbolt, and Larry Gray —and he helped realize some major changes in the village.

For example, 1972 saw the construction of a new sewer system as well as the present arena. By 1979, the Municipal Building moved from its former Main St. premises (shared with the OPP) to its modern location on St. Lawrence Street.

Annable says village life also went through some striking changes: "The village has grown with subdivisions, construction, and parking."

"Banks have changed," he continued. "Geggie's moved out to the highway, there's a new ag office, the motor licence bureau used to be here, that's gone, too."

But he adds Winchester has been changing as far back as he can remember. "I can remember when I brought milk to town in a horse and wagon," he said. And, Mabel Annable recalls the rise of Ault Foods in the village.

"There's no comparison," she said. "Farmers used to bring their milk here to be made into butter and there were lots of small cheese makers before Ault bought them out."

From a village which had prohibition until the 1950s (they called Winchester the Holy City) and through the installation of the municipal water system in 1959, Winchester changed but somehow remained remarkably stable, Annable remarks.

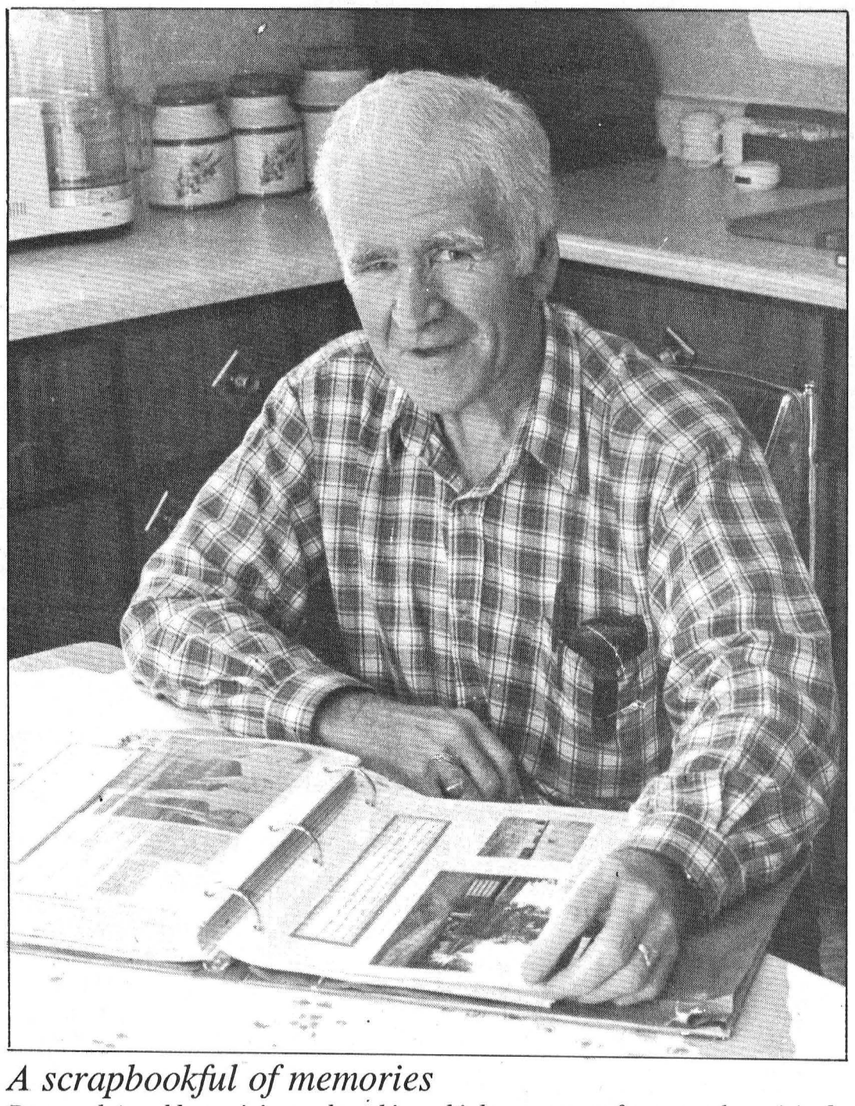
"There's got to be a balance between manufacturing and residential," he said, but to his mind, Winchester hasn't quite struck the appropriate balance yet.

"The problem is water. There hasn't been too much extra since 1959," he stated.

"Winchester is one of the nicer towns but opportunities for growth have been overlooked."

He says things could be different and he casts an eye to what the 21st century may hold in store.

"I think Ottawa is going to spread out and take up the surrounding municipalities and we'll end up being a part of Greater Ottawa." In his opinion, that would be welcome progress.



A scrapbookful of memories

Raymond Annable reminisces about his multiple careers as farmer and municipal clerk. Above, he displays the "good memory" and "personality" that made him successful in both.

Hockey association well supported

The editor:

We feel that the implications in several recent articles that the municipalities are not supporting minor hockey are totally unfounded. All the information provided seems to have come from the North Dundas Minor Hockey Association and in our opinion is very biased.

When the North Dundas Minor Hockey Association approached us for increased funding, they were asking for an additional 82-per-cent support for each player. We rejected the request and agreed to an 18-per-cent increase due to the fact (that) support had not increased for several years.

To meet their initial demand would have required one of two options. Firstly, we could have increased the municipal portion of our taxes by 2.5 per cent or, secondly, reduce the support to other minor league sports or to the various recreation associations in the hamlets.

Since many other sports operate without additional grants and some, like soccer, have a greater number of participants, we feel it is incumbent upon the participants in hockey to find additional sources of revenue in other areas. The capital costs of providing a facility for hockey are already greater and both minor soccer and baseball are managing to operate without appropriate playing fields. As well, the recreation associations are providing many more activities for a much-reduced price and already stretch their resources through fundraising and volunteer work.

In our discussions with representatives from the organization, we were told they were unwilling to attempt to increase the amount raised through fundraising. If the participants are not prepared to bear more of the cost, then more volunteer work is required. Secondly, the money spent on items such as equipment seemed inordinately high and some of their practices could be improved to reduce costs. When one sport consumes about 25 per cent of the recreation budget, we consider it unfair to request additional funds.

Further, the number of participants by areas shows that two-thirds of them come from the Winchester area. This organization agreed to an "equitable sharing of ice rentals" and yet again, this year it appears about 50 per cent of the ice-time is rented in Chesterville. We object to money designated for support in Winchester being transferred to another area. Neither should parents have to pay additional transportation because they live in the Winchester area. Our tax dollars are supporting this area and it should be utilized effectively and fairly.

Lastly, it has been insinuated that the municipalities in this area do not support hockey to the extent neighboring municipalities do. Yet in a check with Brockville, Osgoode, Russell and Metcalfe, we find ice rentals are reduced to the $52 - $56 range for minor hockey, with no further grants. Taking into account the ice-time provided in Winchester and Chesterville, ice rental costs work out to be in the $40 - $45 range for North Dundas.

We are committed to providing recreation for all the children in our municipalities. We are attempting to provide service fairly and equitably

Winchester Township councillor

Several cases are now being considered by Magistrate McCormick at Morrisburg as the result of Halloween pranks. A young boy who it is alleged was bribed to throw eggs at a certain person has pleaded guilty of the offence but the parties who influenced him as well as those who furnished him with eggs are yet to be tried.

The new concrete bridge over the Nation River three miles south of Winchester is rapidly nearing completion and, weather permitting, should be finished in two weeks. It will be one of the finest bridges in eastern Ontario.

Mrs. Robert Howes who less than a year ago moved with her husband, daughter, son, and Mr. Howes mother to their new farm south of Waddington, N.Y. was on Monday morning last victim of a fire that burned their large barns and nine head of cattle. She was apparently inside the barn trying to get out the livestock and was suffocated by the smoke and victim of the cruel flames.

Mrs. J.C. McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cummings, Ormond, is the first young lady from the district to join up with any branch of Canada's War Service forces. Mrs. McConnell, whose husband is a member of the RCAF in England, joined the Red Cross Transport Service a few weeks ago and is in training in Toronto.

Ault Creamery Ltd has begun construction on a new building to house the plant in Winchester. The new building will be annexed to the cold storage plant which was erected last fall and will occupy the same site as the present wooden structure. Granite blocks are being used to match the cold storage plant. Construction work is being carried out without any interruption to work.

A memorial to World War II vets from Osgoode Township who paid the supreme sacrifice was unveiled in Metcalfe on Sunday afternoon at the township hall by Mrs. Spurgeon Boyd, mother of two boys killed in the conflict. At the Cenotaph, which carried the names of 20 boys, were Don Morrow, M.L.A. and Dr. W.A. Taylor reeve of the township and Warden of Carleton County Council.

At a meeting held last week in the local high school, members of the local school board passed a resolution asking for the immediate organization of the north part of Winchester township into a larger school area. The resolution sponsored by Mr. F. Earle Helmer, also suggested that the representatives of the eight school sections of Osgoode Township be invited to a meeting for this purpose.

A party of 60 farmers from Winchester district enjoyed a trip to Montreal on Wednesday, Nov. 1, to visit the Wilson Meat Packing Plant. Highlights of the trip were a tour of the plant and a dinner with Mr. Ralph Bennett of the Dept. of Agriculture Marketing Service. Arthur Loucks, on behalf of the farmers, expressed thanks to Wilson's and also to Holmes Bros. of Winchester Springs who arranged the trip.

Hylo Egg Grading Station owned by Lawrence Kapeller is fast becoming a robber's rendezvous. Early last Thursday morning the Main St. business was robbed again for the fourth time in two years. The thieves are reported to have escaped with more than $115.00 from the cash box.

Special services marked the anniversary of the South Mountain United Church. Rev. Leonard Ferguson of Spencerville was the speaker and preaching from the Book of Jonah, Mr. Ferguson urged the members to stand up and be counted as Christians in church, at home, and in their workplaces. He deplored the modern tendency to "be a Jonah" and run away when the hard tasks are needed.

Maynard Richmire, 23, of Williamsburg had his right arm severed above the elbow in a saw-mill accident Monday morning. Richmire, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Richmire, was rushed to Memorial Hospital in Winchester where he was reported to be in satisfactory condition. The accident occurred at Bowman's Sawmill, Bouck's Hill.

Winchester remembered its war dead. At the cold grey Cenotaph, soldiers with bowed heads and solemn faces, neatly-clad scouts, men and women attended an impressive memorial service opened with prayers by Rev. A.J. MacDonald and led by a Color Guard headed by Basil Dawley. Ottawa's famous Cameron Highlander band wound its way from the Legion Hall through the quiet streets of the village.

The contract for the Community Centre's "phase one" was signed last week by council. Dodge Construction Company Ltd. is presently building the first phase including foundations, walls and roof. In addition, clay soil was removed and replaced with gravel to prevent the ice floor from heaving due to frost.

Traffic is again crossing the South Nation River at Nation Valley following several months of detouring Chesterville. Monday night, Winchester Township council was told that the deck is complete, but the railing and approaches still need some work. Another 10 days of good weather should finish the project.

The United Church in Mountain was reborn on Saturday as the new Mountain Township Community Centre. Lacking its bell tower on the outside and its pews on the inside, the church has been remarkably transformed into an energy-efficient hall. Reeve Ewart Simms hosted the ribbon cutting ceremony and introduced project supervisor John Palmer.

Craft Show space rapidly filling up

GREELY—Reasonable prices, a superb variety of gift ideas, and lots of prizes are promised at the Christmas Craft and Bake Sale being organized by the Greely Co-operative Playgroup this year. It will be held at the Greely Community Centre Nov. 18 from 10am to 4pm.

"We have quite a lot of local craftspeople this year, more than last year, and we're excited," organizer Anne Peterson said. "It's great to see so many talented people living here."

In addition to the many craft items, there'll be tables featuring such gifts as children's books, miniature doll furniture and lovely things to eat from the Chocolate Factory, she said.

Shoppers can enjoy light refreshments at the tearoom - especially set up for the occasion - and there will be lots of fresh, homemade goodies available at the bake table. With about 30 names being drawn for raffle wins, every shopper will also want to buy at least one raffle ticket, Peterson believes.

"There are about 30 different vendors and each one contributes a prize for our raffle," she noted, adding that there are still a few tables available for rental. Interested persons can reach Peterson at 821-4107.

There is no admission charge to this shopping extravaganza.

The Greely Co-operative Playgroup is a non-profit organization which is run and operated solely by the participating parents. All proceeds from this event will be turned over to the Greely Community Centre in appreciation for hall use for the group during the year.

"Last year we raised nearly $900 for the community centre," Peterson said, "and we're hoping to do even better this year."

New administrator meets TOCC team

OSGOODE — A new administrator is at the helm at the Township of Osgoode Care Centre on Regional Road 6. Sandra Hollington stepped into the position Oct. 29, relieving Sandy Boyd of her temporary post since the resignation of Nancy Shank.

Hollington's qualifications and excellent references were cited by TOCC board president Gwen Magee as the major factors in her selection.

"She's a very personable young woman," she said, "and she was quite interested in a rural nursing home and in becoming established in that area again."

Hollington was most recently employed at St. Vincent Hospital while attending Ottawa University to work on an honors degree in psychology. Her prior experience includes 18 years' employment as head nurse and director of nursing at nursing homes in Ottawa, Kemptville and Smiths Falls, and a five-year stint as administrator of Ellenvale Acres Nursing Home in Perth.

"I was very pleased to be interviewed for this position (at the TOCC) and happy to be accepted," Hollington said in a recent interview, admitting that she believes she has found the right nursing home with the right environment.

The new administrator sees her role as that of team leader, helping the staff to run the place with everyone pulling together to get the job done well. She values each and every staff member as an important team member.

"From the warm welcome I've received this week, I don't see any hurdles and that makes me feel good," she said.

Hollington sees next year's accreditation as a major goal to work toward this year. The Care Centre received a two-year accreditation on its first try last year, the best which can be achieved for a first-time effort.

"I expect to have no problem getting a three-year accreditation next time," she said, "particularly because of the level and quality of care here, the number of programs set up for the residents, and the caring attitudes of the staff towards the residents. The atmosphere here is excellent."

Hollington plans to continue evening studies to complete her double degree in psychology and nursing and a number of other courses in which she is interested.

Also relatively new to the Care Centre is activity director Jane McLarin, who replaced Kimberly Van Belle in September. She is assisted by part-time aide Martha Muhl.

"We are indeed pleased to see all of the positions filled," Magee said, "and we foresee great things for our Care Centre."

Each day is packed with activities in which the residents are encouraged to participate to the extent of their abilities. Two out-of-the-ordinary events on this month's calendar are a fall bazaar Nov. 17 and an evening of Christmas decorating, Nov. 30.

Oswald the Osgoodasaurus keeps tabs on OPS pupils

OSGOODE — Many special activities have been highlighting the days for students at Osgoode Public School this year. A chess club is one of the new activities, with players new to the game meeting Mondays and Tuesdays, and those wanting to improve their skills meeting Fridays.

The school's beloved Osgoodasaurus, Oswald, visits all the classrooms each month seeking buddies who display good manners and courteous behavior.

Each month a different theme is stressed. September was politeness month; October, environmental awareness; this month effort is the theme.

In each class, Oswald keeps his eyes open until he finds a buddy who most exemplifies the theme of the month. Those students are then awarded a certificate, usually at the monthly assembly.

The Parent-School Council's most recent contribution to the school library is the Junior Encyclopedia of Canada. This four-volume set is expected to be a valuable reference aid.

Pet study is the focus this week at the school. Christine Thurgur visited the primary classes Tuesday to talk about the care of pets, lost pets and the work of the Humane Society. On Wednesday, two trainers and a guide dog are special visitors from the Canadian Guide Dog Training Centre.

Tribunal blames drain dispute on MTO, township

MAPLE RIDGE — The Ontario Drainage Tribunal has blamed the Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Winchester Township for drainage woes plaguing township residents near Winchester.

The tribunal has ruled the MTO must pay 65 per cent of the approximately $30,000 in costs incurred so far in a dispute over drainage in the Summers-Baker drain. Winchester Township must pay 15 per cent of the total out of its general funds.

Harry Mussell, a township resident who has fought for years to get flooding problems from the drain resolved, took the matter to the drainage tribunal in 1987. The tribunal recommended the parties resolve the dispute themselves and hire an engineer to determine what action to take.

Mussell and two other township residents, Keith Baker and Collette Lafortune, rejected recommendations made by the engineer as well as with the cost of proposed work, and asked the tribunal in October, 1988 to resolve the dispute. Lafortune was not present at the second hearing and her appeal was subsequently dismissed.

The tribunal blamed the township for failing to follow proper procedure in approving a diversion of the drain.

"To some extent, the confusion and perhaps a part of the problem arises because the municipality went ahead and diverted the Summers-Baker Drain over the (neighboring Keith) Wagner property without any authority to do so," the tribunal said in its decision released last week.

The tribunal estimated $23,000 was spent by Winchester Township preparing for the tribunal hearings.

Reeve Claude Cousineau estimated Thursday that $30,000 has been spent so far by the township, mainly on engineering, to determine why the drain was not functioning.

If Cousineau's estimate is correct, the township must pay $4,500 out of its general fund for costs incurred so far. The balance of the costs will be paid by ratepayers with property near the drain.

The MTO, deemed a major culprit in the 15-year- ordeal, will pay $19,500 of the costs incurred. As well, the tribunal has ordered the ministry to correct previous work it had done which impeded the flow of the drain.

The transfer of 65 per cent of the costs to the MTO will significantly reduce the assessments of area property owners for proposed work on the drain.

Residents, after a previous tribunal hearing and subsequent engineering report, were to pay $49,000 of the estimated $95,000 of work proposed for the drain.

In its recently-released decision on the dispute, the tribunal faulted Winchester Township for allowing a diversion of Summers-Baker Drain West in the mid-1970s without the required completion of an engineer's report.

The township allowed the diversion across the Wagner property to provide better use of his land. In the process, a three-foot diameter culvert was placed in the drain, between a five-foot culvert upstream and a five-foot culvert downstream.

Mussell, in 1975, asked the township to replace the three-foot culvert with a culvert of a larger diameter, claiming the small culvert was causing flooding on his land. Council refused to install a larger culvert, and after years of bickering, the issue finally was brought to the tribunal.

The tribunal has ordered a larger culvert be installed in the Wagner portion of the drain, but only if deemed necessary by an engineer. And it has ordered the MTO to lower a culvert under highways 31 and 43 or provide a new outlet for the drain.

It has also ordered that water north of the railroad tracks, east of Mussell's property, be prohibited from flowing under the railroad and into the Summers-Baker Drain watershed.

The decision addresses an MTO culvert under highways 31 and 43, south of Winchester, cited as one of the main cause of problems with the drain.

The MTO culvert, one and a half to two feet higher than it should be, has been blamed by the township and residents as one of the main causes of ponding of water in the drain. The ponded waters become stagnant, infested with vegetation and mosquitoes and only disappear through evaporation.

"We conclude that the primary cause of the problems within the watershed is the Ministry of Transportation of Ontario culvert installed under the reconstructed Highway 31," the tribunal stated in its decision.

Mussell is optimistic the proposals in the decision will alleviate his flooding woes.

"I'm fairly happy with it," he said. But he was not pleased with the tribunal's decision to have an engineer decide if a larger culvert is needed on the Wagner portion of the drain.

"I would still like to see the Wagner culvert up to five feet," he said.

Cousineau said he was pleased with the decision. And although the process took much longer than it should have, he maintained the township acted properly in dealing with Mussell's complaints.

The township had refused, in the mid-1970s, to deal with Mussell's complaints. Cousineau said it would have been unfair to use taxpayers' money to provide better drainage for one resident.

"It was the only way to go...We had several meetings with them (the MTO) and they wouldn't budge on it at all," he said.

Since the MTO would not heed the township's request to lower its highways 31-43 culvert, taking the matter to the drainage tribunal was Mussell's only recourse, he said.

He did accept criticism levelled at the township for allowing construction of the Wagner diversion of the drain without an engineer's report, but added: "It, at the time, seemed like a reasonable thing to do."

"The hearing on April 21, 1989 was adjourned at the request of the engineer. Costs of the adjourned hearing shall be granted to the Township of Winchester in the sum of $350 to be paid by the engineering firm that prepared the report or its successor to the Township of Winchester," the tribunal stated in its decision.

Devils bend Sr. Lancers, Jr. Lancers undefeated

MAPLE RIDGE - As far as both North Dundas District High School basketball coaches were concerned Friday was a day of accomplishment here on the hardwood.

Senior Devils' mentor Peter Fortin said, "we had a target of 60 points before the game. We had scored 59 earlier this season so we wanted to hit 60."

His girls not only hit 60 they went 11 better and posted a 71-25 victory over the visiting Rothwell/Osnabruck Lancers.

The win improved North Dundas' senior record to a division leading seven wins and one loss.

Junior coach Deanna Corbett-White stated before her team's encounter with the undefeated R/O junior Lancers, "if we can hold them to 50 points and score 30 or so ourselves, I will be happy."

Well, her pre-game statement was almost letter perfect.

Her team held the powerful Lancers to 51 points and managed 26 in a 51-26 loss.

"I was happy. That was our goal and we did it," she said.

"We would need a lot of practice to beat them (R/O) but I think we could do it. I think we have the talent."

Corbett-White said her team played nervously, she hadn't seen them in that state before and their nervousness led to turnovers, costly turnovers.

With their victory, the junior Lancers rose to a perfect eight wins, no losses. North Dundas remained in the middle of the pack with three wins in eight starts.

Stacey Paquette led the Lancers with 13 points. Christine Bancroft and Valerie Robinson each dropped in 10 and pulled in 10 rebounds. Robinson forced 13 turnovers. Allison Thompson hit for eight points.

Heather Graham led the Devils scoring eight points. She hauled in 10 rebounds and played really well, especially inside, according to her coach.

Rebecca Kennedy sank seven points and finished the game playing with a badly sprained finger.

Andrea Lannin hooped six points while Tamara Bond, Laura Zrymiak and Tonia Foley each dunked deuces.

Earlier in the week the Junior Devils defeated a highly touted squad from St. Marks (Ottawa).

North Dundas recorded a 37-29, win thanks to a big game from Rebecca Kennedy who swished a dozen points made five steals and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Heather Graham scored six points and grabbed five rebounds. Tonia Foley netted six. Laura Zrymiak (5), Catie Clapp (6) and Chris Rowe (2) completed the Devils' scoring.

Seniors Win Big

Sandy Gonderman led the senior Devils to their impressive 71-25 victory here last Friday draining a game high 20 points.

Her squad led 16-8 at the quarter and 28-16 at the half.

North Dundas went to work in the second half and out scored R/O 22-8 in the third period and 21-1 in the final quarter.

After his team had hit their target of 60 points, coach Peter Fortin explained he had intended to back off but the breaks kept going his way. The girls took possession of the ball and converted most of their chances.

Besides Gonderman's big production the Devils got 17 points from Vicki Gryspeerdt. Raffaella Malaguti also hit double digits at 10.

Brenda Koekkoek (9), Shealyn Summers (5), Katie Carkner (4), Ellen Constapel (4) and Dawn Page (2) drained the remaining points.

Sonja Salmon netted 10 for the Lancers.

This week the Devils complete the regular season hosting St. Lawrence and traveling to La Citadelle.

Edge Glens

Hawks relieved as buzzer goes

ALEXANDRIA - Dominic Menard's second period goal stood as the winner here Friday as the visiting Winchester Hawks nipped the home town Glens 5-4.

Their one goal decision enabled the high-flying Hawks to remain in first place among the St. Lawrence (Jr.B) Division's five clubs.

The Hawks have 16 points on seven wins, a loss and a tie. Kemptville is one back at 15. Alexandria has 12, Char-Lan 10 and Morrisburg four points following weekend action.

Winchester led the fast-improving Glens 2-1 after a period and were cruising into the final 20 minutes up 5-1. That's when things started to get scary.

"Boy, we nearly blew it," exclaimed left winger Doug Armstrong.

"We were ahead 5-1 and fell asleep. I'm glad it didn't go to overtime we might not have beaten them (Glens). They have a pretty good team," he added.

Todd Marcellus hooked up with Armstrong and tied the game up 1-1 on a powerplay with 4:02 left in period one. Stephane Lacelle had given the Glens a 1-0 lead when he beat Eric Sakalauskas on a feed from Dan Levert at the 19:36 mark.

Armstrong teamed up with Marcellus again before the first period was over to give the Hawks a 2-1 edge.

It was all Winchester in period two as they banged in three unanswered goals.

Veteran Derek Austin did most of the damage scoring on a powerplay engineered by Jason Doucette at 12:14 and again at 3:14 from Doucette and Bill Griffiths.

Dominic Menard made it 5-1 Hawks, when he snapped in a Todd Marcellus relay on another Hawks' powerplay 1:21 before the second buzzer.

Alexandria revived their attack in the final period and scored three times to make it close at 5-4.

Marc Sauve hit from Mike Sauve at 11:09 and cut the gap to 5-2 at 11:09. Mike Sauve then blinked the red light with 1:37 and 1:07 left scoring twice on feeds from Marc Sauve. But 5-4 was as close as the Glens could come.

Alexandria fired 36 shots at the Hawks' cage while Winchester returned 30.

Glens took 12 and the Hawks 13 minor penalties.

Tonight, Wednesday November 7, the Hawks host Char-Lan Rebels. Friday the Brockville Tikis are in town at 8:15pm and Sunday (Nov.11) the Hawks travel to Kemptville to meet the second-ranked 73s.

Peterson to Clark

Scott Clark hauled in Bryan Petersen's pass in the Stampville end zone to give his school, Nationview, an exciting 13-7 victory over Stampville. Three Stampville defenders couldn't prevent the end zone reception.

Clark grabs NPS football title

SOUTH MOUNTAIN - Nationview quarterback Bryan Peterson found Scott Clark with a 15 yard pass in the dying minutes of the championship game here last Friday.

Clark's grab, made in the corner of the Stampville end zone, gave Nationview a dramatic 13-7 victory and their second Dundas County Senior Flag Football championship in two years.

Nationview struck first in a tighly played defensive struggle when Marty Walter took a handoff from QB Peterson and scampered five yards for the TD.

A missed convert left Nationview leading Stampville 6-0 at the half.

Stampville tied it up 6-6 early in the second half when QB Mike Adlington hooked up with John Domanko on a 10 yard pass and run play.

Adlington then hit for the convert passing to Andrew Thompson for a 7-6 lead.

Scott Clark then punted a fifth down single to put Nationview into a 7-7 tie.

Clark struck again as play entered the final two minutes catching Peterson's pass in the back of the Stampville end zone.

Clark put the squeeze on the pigskin and gave Nationview their 13-7 victory.

Nationview A's defeated Maple Ridge A's 32-0 and Stampville B's 36-0 and qualified for the championship round in impressive fashion.

Stampville also won their two qualifiers blanking Maple Ridge B and Nationview B teams 18-0 and 26-0.

Maple Ridge A team won the consolation event nipping Nationview Bs 6-0 on Scott Boucher's touchdown.

In a battle for third place, Maple Ridge Bs tied Stampville Bs 6-6 on QB Steve Irven's TD.

Roach pockets pair, C's blank S. Grenville

CARDINAL - Andrew Roach bagged a pair of goals here Saturday leading the North Dundas Pee Wee C Demons to a 3-0 victory over the South Grenville No. Three squad.

Mike Francis put North Dundas into a 1-0 lead when he shoveled an Andrew Roach rebound into the South Grenville net at 9:33 of period one.

Roach then snapped in a feed from Mike Douma at 8:27 of period two and opened up a 2-0 gap for the Demons.

An unassisted effort by Roach with 3:58 left in stanza two made it a 3-0 final.

Darryl Holmes and Miles Hanscomb shared North Dundas' goaltending duties.

Things didn't go as well Sunday in Morrisburg as the home town Lions skated to a 6-1 decision over Don Foley's Demons.

The game was scoreless after a period but the Lions led 4-1 after two frames.

Dave Hilson prevented North Dundas from being shut out when he cashed in a Mike Francis relay with 5:51 left in period two.

Chris Markell (2), Chris Krug, Paul O'Brien, B.J. McPherson and Dan Whitteker pegged the Lions' goals. Kristian Bygott (2), Krug (2), Markell (2), O'Brien (2) and McPherson all earned assists.

Stanley scores hat trick, leading Debs to 7-1 win

RUSSELL - Kelly Stanley scored three times here recently leading the Metcalfe Debs to a 7-1 ringette league victory over Ottawa.

Karen Gallinger also enjoyed a productive game bagging a pair and assisting on a third goal.

Deb coach Bob Robb reports his team is a mixture of players who have returned to ringette after being away from the sport for several years.

He also has some current Deb players as well as three younger Belle skaters who needed a team to play on this winter.

Robb figures this will prove to be an interesting year and if this mixture of ingredients (players) come together the team could make a run at making the Provincials later in the season.

A big first half gave Metcalfe a 5-1 lead they easily protected.

Karen Gallinger sparked that five goal explosion scoring from Barb Dewan at 10:25 and again at 9:19 on a play set up by Darlene Eastman and Kelly Stanley.

Kelly Stanley then sandwiched her first two goals around one by Michelle Gaydament (at 4:05) as the total rose to 5-1 at the half.

Kelly Stanley led the winners with three goals and two assists. Karen Gallinger fired in two and helped out on a third. Donna Meloy and Michelle Gaydament netted the other two goals.

Kim Buckland (2), Barb Dewan, Darlene Eastman, Gaydament and Virginia McCooeye racked up assists.

Juniors ring up three wins

METCALFE - Teams from Cumberland, Green's Creek and Nepean have fallen victim to Metcalfe's Junior Ringette squad.

Undefeated Metcalfe edged Green's Creek 3-1, trimmed Cumberland 5-2 and defeated Nepean 7-4 in recent meetings.

The Green's Creek encounter was knotted 1-1 at the half but Metcalfe roared back and won it 3-1 on goals by Kenda-Lee Hoffer who scored at 12:41 and Jennifer Clost who hit with 6:51 left.

Clost assisted Hoffer and Jodi Mulligan set up Clost. Mulligan put Metcalfe on the board in the first half scoring from Hoffer 1:34 before the break.

Metcalfe's defence was working again in the 5-2 win over Cumberland allowing just two goals.

It was tied 1-1 at the half with Metcalfe's goal coming from Jodi Mulligan who connected from Jennifer Clost.

Kenda-Lee Hoffer broke up the 1-1 deadlock scoring from Janice Isaac and Amy Dalgleish at 13:48 and unassisted at 7:53.

Jennifer Clost hit from Mulligan and Chantel Cousineau with 2:01 to play and then Tammy Godwin finished it off scoring on a Mulligan rebound 28 seconds before the final buzzer.

Janice Isaac and Jodi Mulligan each fired in two goals and picked up an assist leading Metcalfe to their 7-4 win over Nepean.

Metcalfe were up 2-1 at the break and blew the game wide open scoring five times in an eight minute span midway in the second half.

Jen Clost, Tammy Godwin and Kenda-Lee Hoffer supplied the other goals. Rebecca McCooeye, Sophia Craig, Hoffer, Heather Myers and Godwin with three picked up assists in support of the win.

Bears ruin Pee Wee Demons' opener

WINCHESTER - They kept it close for a period and a half here Monday night but by the final buzzer sounded the North Dundas Demons had suffered a 9-4 defeat.

The visiting Smiths Falls Bears posted the Upper Canada Minor Hockey Pee Wee "A" victory on the Demons' 1990-91 opening night.

The game was even 1-1 after a period but the Bears were up 5-2 after two.

Missed scoring opportunities kept the scrappy Demons from finishing closer to the big hard-skating Bears.

John Cahill led the visitors to victory scoring three goals. Adam Robbins and Dave Lemay each notched a pair. J.J. Bancroft and Steve Henderson bagged singles.

Geoff Hardy, parked on the top of the Bears' goal crease, gave the Demons a 1-0 lead when he popped in a rebound at 5:10. Robbie Raistrick and Jennifer McDonald earned assists on the play.

Robbie Raistrick then drilled in a bouncing puck with 6:42 left in period two to keep North Dundas close at 3-2.

Murray Link, who lugged the puck into scoring position all night, finally dented twine in the third period when he snapped in two goals.

Link's first was a high-rising wrist shot from 30 feet out in the slot, sailed in over the goalie's glove and hung up in the top corner of the netting. That marker came after Link stole the puck and was unassisted.

Jennifer McDonald sent Link away on a break-away at 4:55 of the final frame. Link, who was beaten by goalie Kerian Arnold one-on-one moments earlier, made no mistake the second time around and over- powered the Bear's goalie with a low, hard shot to the stick side.

Darryl Beck and Terry Wagner defended the Demons' cage.

Sunday in Long Sault North Dundas skated to a 6-2 exhibition victory over the South Stormont Flyers.

Murray Link's two first period goals staked the Demons to a 4-0 lead after one.

He scored the second period's only goal as North Dundas rolled up a 5-1 lead.

In addition to Link's three goals the Demons got a pair from Geoff Hardy and one from Robbie Raistrick.

Jennifer McDonald, Ryan Swerdfeger, Curtis Sears, Jason McDonald, Stephen Henderson (2) and Ryan Filion all collected assists.

Giving chase

A Smiths Falls Bear (R) gave chase to North Dundas' Murray Link during Monday night's UCMHL Pee Wee A contest. Link scored a pair of Demon goals and assisted on a third.

Jets lose one-goal decisions, coach cites inconsistent effort

METCALFE - Even home ice wasn't enough to inspire a win for the Metro (Jr.B) Division Metcalfe Jets.

Here Friday night they suffered a 5-4 loss to the Ottawa West Golden Knights and Sunday dropped a 6- 5 overtime decision to the Shawville Pontiacs.

The back-to-back losses have left the Jets mired in last place in the Metro Division.

Even though they had defeated Ottawa West in two previous meetings and trailed them by just one point in the standings Metcalfe couldn't knock the Knights off here Friday.

"We're lacking a consistent effort," stated Jets' coach Greg McLaren.

"We need a higher intensity level for longer periods of time. It wasn't until the last 10 minutes of the game that we played to our capabilities. If we had played the whole game like that we probably would have won by a good margin."

The opening frame was scoreless until the teams traded a pair of goals each in the final six minutes.

Metcalfe then out-shot the Knights 13-10 in the second period but were out-scored 2-1, and trailed 4-3 after two.

Ottawa scored early in the final frame and took a 5-3 lead but Ken Tricker's unassisted goal midway cut the final gap to 5-4.

Jets out-shot Ottawa 36-34 but couldn't beat Sean Howard any more than four times.

Ken Tricker (2), Darrell Warren and Scott Carter scored Jet goals. Carter, Ron Laurin, Tricker, Mark Vanderzwan, Matt Gordon and Stephane Barjolin collected assists. Shawn Bradley tended nets.

Sunday Metcalfe led the Valley Division's cellar- dwelling Shawville Jrs. by 3-2 and 4-3 counts but wound up losing 6-5 in OT.

Scott Carter scored from Mark Vanderzwan and Jim Dumelie with 8:07 left in the game and gave the Jets a 5-3 lead but the Pontiacs hit for goals with 4:45 and 3:57 left in regulation time to put it into OT.

Jets' assistant coach Todd McLaren described the Shawville overtime goal, "Their two forwards stood in front of our net unmolested while they took three shots. Poor Rusty (goalie Rusty Vachon) was completely defenceless."

Pontiac's Stephane Sgarbossa's second goal won it at 3:44 of the extra session.

Newcomer Matt Gordon scored one goal and added three assists for the Jets. Ken Tricker snapped in a goal and drew two assists. Scott Carter, Steve Regan and Mike Bond scored the other goals. Scott Reaney, Chris Wynn, Jim Dumelie and Mark Vanderzwan picked up assists.

Metcalfe acquired three new players prior to the weekend. Matt Gordon (a former North Dundas Minor Hockey product) from Ottawa high school hockey; while Steve Regan and Danny Vajcovec came over from Cumberland Grads in a trade for Al Fitzgerald who wanted to play high school hockey.

Friday (Nov.9) the Jets will host Vanier. Sunday they travel to Renfrew.

It was the second straight UCMHL tie for the Demons who were knotted 4-4 by Kemptville on Saturday.

Moore snaps in four

WINCHESTER - Keith Moore scored a natural second period hat trick and finished the game off by snapping in a fourth goal in the third period as he led the first place Aqua Fun Flyers to a 7-4 victory over the Country Kitchen Canadiens here last Tuesday.

The Winchester Town Hockey League win enabled the Flyers to hold first place with a record of three wins, a loss, a tie and a total of seven points.

Country Kitchen dropped to two (wins), three (losses) and four points.

The evening's other contest produced a 3-2 win for the second ranked CountryBoy Kings (3 wins, 2 losses) over the fourth ranked Boyd Chrysler Rams (1-3-1).

It was goalie Kevin Baldwin's second victory of the evening. He subbed for Steve Guy in the opening contest and backed the CountryBoy Kings in a 3-2 win over the Boyd Chrysler Rams.

Period one of that encounter was scoreless and tied 1-1 after 40 minutes.

Jim Pennock gave the Rams a 1-0 cushion when he scored from Gord Milne at 13:46 of the second. The Kings pulled even with 5:14 left when Larry Simms fired on a Scott Wilson relay.

Travelling Novices seek challenge

WINCHESTER - Following two one-sided victories over Morrisburg's two novice teams, North Dundas' intermediate novice travelling team is looking for a stiffer challenge.

The Demons, coached by Shawn Chambers, has decided to join the senior novice division to provide more of a challenge for the young team.

That decision means North Dundas will have two teams in the circuit, one coached by Chambers and the other by Brian Wyatt.

Chambers' Demons skated to 12-0 and 11-0 decisions over the Morrisburg squads last week.

In their second game Saturday, Tyler Shortt and Jonathan Chambers each bagged four goals. Mike Davidson, Joey Hillis and Ryan Thompson notched one each.

The Smokies hosed down S.M. Electric 12-6 and moved into a second place tie with the Lions Club, who were beaten 10-5 by undefeated Winchester Print in the evening's other encounter.

After two weeks of action the rankings show The Print with four, Lions and Smokies with two and S.M. Electric still trying to make a connection for a point.

The Smokies and S.M. Electric were dead even (4-4) after a period but the fire department zoomed into a 10-4 second period lead and rolled on to a 12-6 decision.

Pee Wee C Mustangs kick off campaign

The same day in Kemptville the No. One 'Stangs were corraled 4-2 by the home town Royals.

Here in Metcalfe Mike Goral (with two) and Trevor Thompson gave the Mustangs a 3-0 first period lead. Ryan Kelly opened up a 4-0 gap in period two scoring before Morrisburg's B.J. McPherson put the Lions back into the game.

Kevin Myers then slapped in a pair of goals and pushed the Mustangs into a 6-1 lead. Goral's third goal of the game enlarged the Lions' deficit to 7- 1 before the period was over.

HEAVY WEEK FOR HAWKS

Following their easy weekend, which saw the team playing only one game in Alexandria which they won by a narrow 5 to 4 margin, the Hawks face three big ones for a tough grind this coming week. Char-Lan Rebels start things off this Wednesday night in Winchester with an 8:30 starting time. Then on Friday night the Brockville Tikis come in for a return encounter. Hawks go to Kemptville Sunday at 7:30pm to take on the powerful 73s, who are nipping at their heels with only a one-point difference in the season's play to date. Char-Lan is rough and tough and Brockville is one of the best two teams in the Western Division. The Kemptville team is on a five-game streak and is always trouble for the locals at the best of times. If Hawks hope to keep a hold on the current first-place standing, they will want to be in their little beds early for lots of rest when they get the opportunity. There will be no easy times when they hit the ice and any of the old veterans can tell you that three big games in a row can do tricks to even the best conditioned legs. Lots of action this week, with all good games scheduled, so try and take in as many as possible.

HAWKS' HOLIDAY TRIP TICKETS ARE NOW AVAILABLE

Most people who regularly buy Hawks' trip tickets are well aware of the fact that they are now for sale. As only 250 are sold, they are not on the market for long. For a number of years the team has used this method of fundraising as their major supplier of those needed funds, and as a past winner of a beautiful trip to Jamaica, let me tell you it is a very pleasurable way of helping the team. As stated, only 250 tickets are sold and each month throughout the year some lucky couple wins one of the 12 trips to some exotic holiday spot such as the Caribbean or Hawaii. Since it has been some time since I was a winner, just maybe my number is set to be pulled again this year, so I must grab one of those chances while they are still available.

AEROBICS START PRE-CHRISTMAS SESSIONS THIS WEEK

We know that you get lots of exercise in all that running around to do your Christmas shopping, or those many trips that must be made to put the lights around the roof. However, they tell me that there is a great difference in the results you obtain from aerobics, so I thought I would pass along the message for those who might have missed the announcement of this session which started on Monday night. It's not too late to call Marie at 774-3965 and even if you can't make it every Monday and Wednesday, Marie will set you up with a program for occasional participation. Guess I will put aerobics off till the next session so I can work off some of that anticipated turkey and dressing.

DON'T FORGET YOUR POPPY

If you're anything like me, you will end up buying a dozen poppies, as they either fall off my coat or I will be wearing another when I meet that charming youngster who sells them on the corner. A great cause - so don't forget.

Divided decisions

WINCHESTER - Dick Christie piled up four goals here last Tuesday helping the Harvex Huslers to an 8-3 exhibition hockey victory over the Oxford Millers.

Christie wasn't in the line-up Friday night in Cardinal and his goal production was missed as the Huslers suffered a 4-3 loss at the hands of the Iroquois Oldtimers.

Bob Volks, Al Van Bridger and Peter McKay scored for Harvex after Iroquois had taken a 4-0 lead.

Here at home last Tuesday Peter McKay scored three and Al Van Bridger once in support of Christie's four goal effort.

Kevin Baldwin tended nets in both clashes.

Hunters ball planned

METCALFE — Tickets are now on sale for the Osgoode Township Fish, Game and Conservation Club's annual hunter's ball. Club president Paul Mussell says venison will be one of the items on the menu at the Nov. 24 soiree in the Metcalfe Community Centre. There will be door prizes, story-telling and dancing. Mussell says a special prize will be awarded to the club that's best represented at the ball. Cocktail hour starts at 6:30pm and dinner will be served at 7:30pm. Tickets at $20 per person can be obtained by phoning Mussell at 826-2959 or Doug Acres at 821- 2182.

Atoms start off slowly

WINCHESTER - North Dundas Atom C No. Two Demons have dropped a pair of Upper Canada Minor Hockey League contests to start their 1990-91 campaign.

The Demons played Kemptville's No. Two squad on Oct. 25 and came out on the short end of a a 7-3 verdict.

Scott Dellaire fired two of his squad's three goals while Ryan Moore connected for the single. Brent Sheldrick drew an assist on one of Dellaire's markers.

In their other encounter the Demons scored first but lost a 5-1 decision to the visiting Metcalfe Mustangs.

Scott Dellaire notched his third goal in two games scoring from Andre Meeks but that was North Dundas' only goal.

Brian Slowey, Danny Stobo, Clayton Viling, Adam Moss, Ford Sanders, Devon Cinnamon, Joey Geertsma and Jason Smith round out the Demons' roster.

Osgoode house prices rise

Statistics released this month by the Real Estate Board of Ottawa-Carleton (REBOC) indicate that for the first nine months of 1990, the real estate market in the Ottawa-Carleton area has dipped below 1989 levels.

The number of properties sold through the Multiple Listing Service (MLS) to the end of September this year is 7,625, eight per cent lower than 1989. The dollar volume of sales has also decreased.

However, when broken down by area, the statistics show quite a difference in the prices properties have been selling for.

The number of property units sold in Manotick, North Gower and nearby areas decreased this year to 125 from last year's 146 for the same period. Following the overall trend is Osgoode Township with numbers of units sold dropping from 170 to 132.

There is a major difference, however, in the average sale price of these units. In the Manotick-North Gower area, average prices have dropped two per cent from last year's $198,438 to $194,461, while Osgoode has enjoyed an 8.6 per cent increase from 1989's $134,502 to this year's average price of $146,237.

The average selling price of the 6,920 residential units which have sold, including condominiums, is $141,907, an increase of 3.3 per cent over the same period of 1989. The median price (the exact middle range) of those properties is $131,900, an increase of 4.3 per cent.

"We firmly believe real estate continues to be a sound investment in the Ottawa-Carleton area when compared with most other major centres across Canada," board president Pasquale Ricciuti said.

Monstrous parties

Halloween is a fun time for people of all ages, but for the youngsters it is something special. Last Wednesday (Oct. 31), district kids lived out their fantasies in innumerable roles. Pictured left, a Winchester Public School Kindergarten student gives Dracula the once over as principal Jim Shaw (with the insect antennae) controls the parade that snaked through the halls of the Dundas Manor, to the delight of residents; also at the Manor, a young hobo (above) is looking for handouts; at right, Count Dracula resurfaces with a lady friend to attend a party at Nationview Public in South Mountain.

Generous donations fill larder

OSGOODE — The larders are being laden at the Township of Osgoode Care Centre, thanks to the largesse of area business people. Arden Brooks, owner of the Canadian Tire at Heron Road, Ottawa, has donated a steer which he purchased at the Ottawa Winter Fair, while Willis McKeown of Pyper Sand and Gravel, Osgoode, has donated a lamb.

"The staff, residents and board members of the Care Centre are all pleased with the donations," said board member Helen Ball, stressing that it's not the first time these gentlemen have made these welcome contributions.

Ball reminds members and all interested persons of the TOCC annual meeting which will be held Nov. 12 at the firehall in Metcalfe, beginning at 7:30pm.

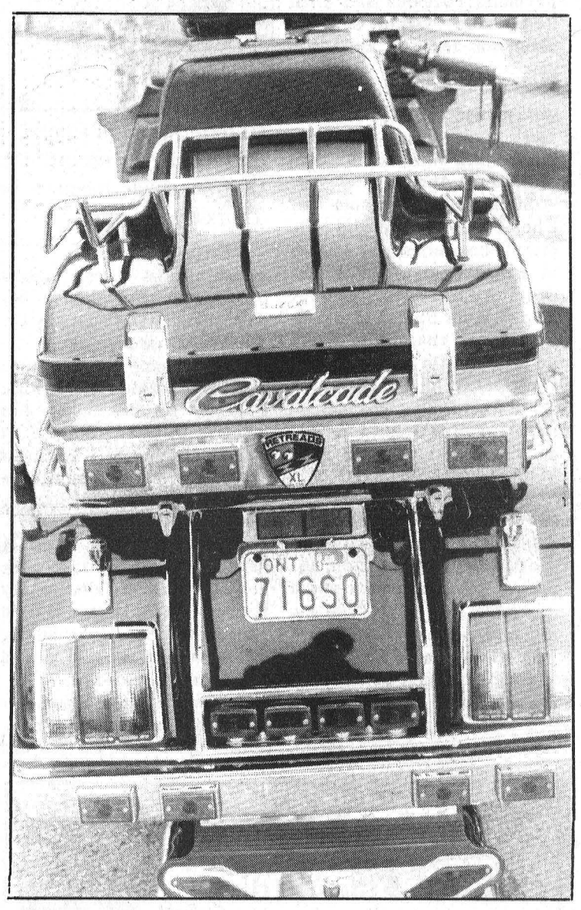
Bikers with a difference make final run of season



WINCHESTER - They rolled quietly into Winchester Sunday morning.

Their finely tuned cycles drew little attention as they converged, in some cases appropriately, on the Lions Hall for Senior Citizens on Mill Street.

Early morning church-goers paused to wonder at why 30 motorcycles were surrounding the usually deserted meeting place on a Sunday.

No, the Hells' Angels weren't in our village for a hymn sing.

80 members of the Eastern Ontario Retreads Motorcycle Club were here for their November breakfast meeting.

"We want people to realize we are pretty good guys," joked club member Reg Gibson of Winchester.

This is a cycle club with a difference.

"You have to be 40 years of age. And it doesn't matter what kind or size of bike you own as long as you like to ride," explained breakfast co-host Jack Gibson.

Retreads come from all walks of life. They gather for trips all over the country or travel on their own meeting at planned functions throughout the year. When the snow flies the Retreads use four wheeled transportation (although they don't like it) to get to breakfast their meetings.

Many retreads are retired, many are grand parents and travel with their wives or husbands. It's a family oriented bikers' club.

Hosted by Reg and Jack Gibson, this Winchester breakfast was the first in some time for this village and the first to be held in the Lions Hall.

"It was a pretty good turnout. We had 80 for breakfast and there were between 20 and 30 bikes. That's not bad because you have to remember it's November and most bikes are put away. People who hadn't put their machines away used the meeting as an excuse to take that last ride," said Jack Gibson.

Gibson explained that there are between 30 and 40 local "Retreads".

Eastern Ontario president Steve Wells (Cornwall) noted, "We have 188 memberships, that's over 300 including spouses. And our membership is very active. We hold our meetings all over our area (Renfrew to Kingston to Quebec) which gives everyone an opportunity to make a real trip out of it and see new country. Different locations make our meetings accessible to every member."

Dwaine Berry of South Mountain summed up the feelings of a Retread.

"I love bikes and riding them. I'm obsessed with it. Riding, there's nothing like it."

Berry is obviously obsessed with riding. This past summer he rode to Canada's west coast, through the western and mid-western U.S. to Kentucky and home again, in a month.

That's around 27,000 km this year. Some others have covered 10,000 km but no one seems to mind the distances as long as they are "riding".

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — Switching the Dundas Holstein Club's annual banquet from the traditional Saturday evening to a Thursday proved somewhat of a success for organizers.

Gord Milne, second vice-president of the club, said the turn-out of about 170 was up from last year's figure despite the change and felt attendees enjoyed the evening partially because of the entertainment provided by Dominic D'Arcy.

After D'Arcy provided the laughs, the club got down to the business of recognizing its members for special achievement.

Milne was named the distinguished achievement award winner for the county. The winner of the award is selected from among applicants submitted to the directors. The chosen person then competes on an Eastern Ontario level, where the winner gets a trip to the exposition in Madison, Wisconsin.

Thirty-year pins were awarded to Frank Milne, Raymond Porteous and Glen Pemberton, while C. Mac Thompson received a 40-year pin.

Afterwards, special awards were presented to winners of this year's county black and white show, which was held in South Mountain in August.

Sunnylodge Farms of Chesterville received the premier breeder banner, donated by Biccum and McIntosh; the premier exhibitor banner donated by the Bank of Montreal; the junior champion award presented by Dr. K.B. Kennedy, the reserve junior champion award from C&L Feeds and the first breeder's herd award donated by MacDonald Feed Mill Ltd.

Allison Fawcett of Winchester was also a big winner, taking the grand champion female award donated by Wincrest Farm; the reserve grand champion award donated by Kevlyndale Farm, the second breeder's herd award from Gren-Dundas Vet Clinic; best udder award donated by the Royal Bank of Canada; reserve best udder award from Weagant Farm Supplies as well as the award for the second highest production cow winning her class, which was donated by Dr. William Armstrong.

Judges like lean cheese entry

WINCHESTER — Being calorie-wise paid off for Ault Foods Ltd. of Winchester at a recent international cheese competition held in Wisconsin.

An entry by Ault cheesemaker Norm Matte placed third in the reduced-fat cheddar class at the Eighteenth Bi-annual World Championship Cheese Contest held in Green Bay.

Matte and his crew have been experimenting with low-fat cheese for five years and went into production this summer for Black Diamond. Their cheese has a fat content of 18.5 per cent, half that of regular cheddar. The gold medal went to an entry from Sweden, while the silver was captured by an entry from the United States. There were 49 entries from around the world at the competition.

In 1986 Ault Foods won a gold medal for the grand champion aged cheddar at Wisconsin. It picked up a fourth place in 1988, again for aged-cheddar.

At the annual Ottawa competition, Ault Foods picked up a number of ribbons: the grand championship for its marble cheese, and firsts for aged cheddar, for July class and for August class.

Awards ceremonies for the world competition are scheduled for tomorrow night (Thursday) in Milwaukee. Both Matte and Rejean Galipeau will attend.

Decline in net farm incomes forecast

OTTAWA — Agriculture Canada economists recently released their third quarter agriculture outlook for 1990.

Further information on the financial performance of Canadian agriculture was also released by the Farm Credit Corporation (FCC), which published the results of a financial survey of farmers. The survey indicates average farm assets rose by 12.7 per cent from Dec. 31, 1987 to Dec. 31, 1989. The FCC's survey of farm financial conditions last year indicates that while some farms continue to face serious financial difficulties, the majority of farms are in a relatively secure financial position.

Realized net income is forecast to decline by 25 per cent to $3.08 billion in 1990. The decline is due to a moderate decrease in cash receipts of three per cent, combined with a one per cent increase in operating expenses.

Regionally, large declines in realized net income are expected in the Prairie provinces as lower program payments more than offset higher market receipts. Despite estimates of the second highest level of grain production on record, incomes are expected to be lower in 1990 because the large crop will not significantly affect the amount of grain marketed in the calendar year.

A large decline is also expected in realized net income in Prince Edward Island primarily due to lower potato prices. A more moderate decline is forecast for Ontario.

As announced Oct. 13, a federal cash flow enhancement program will be offered immediately as an interim measure to assist Canadian farmers facing serious cash flow problems. Interest-free advances of $1.4 billion are expected. It is estimated the program will provide a benefit of about $95 million in interest relief.

British Columbia is the only province expected to see significant gains in realized net income in 1990, as a result of higher crop and livestock receipts and reduced operating expenses. Little change from year-earlier levels is forecast in Quebec and the Atlantic provinces with the exception of Prince Edward Island.

FARM CASH RECEIPTS

- Farm cash receipts are forecast to drop three per cent to $21.7 billion from the record high 1989 level despite forecast increases of two per cent for crop receipts and four per cent for livestock receipts.
- A sharp decline in 1990 direct program payments to producers is expected because of the high levels of drought assistance received last year and a recovery in the hog sector which will result in lower payouts under the National Tripartite Stabilization Program.

CROP RECEIPTS

- Crop receipts are forecast at $8.6 billion for 1990.
- Grain and oilseed receipts are forecast to be marginally lower due to lower prices and Canadian Wheat board final payments for the calendar year.
- The outlook for most other crops is favorable.

LIVESTOCK RECEIPTS

- Livestock receipts are forecast at $11.1 billion for 1990.
- Hog receipts are expected to increase significantly with higher prices.
- Receipts for cattle should be marginally higher with little change in dairy, poultry or egg receipts.

FARM EXPENSES

- Farm expenses are expeeted to rise slightly in 1990.
- Total operating expenses and depreciation charges are forecast to increase one per cent from the 1989 level to $18.8 billion in 1990.
- Input cost increases are expected to result from higher expenditures on such major items as fuel, machinery and building repair, interest and wages.
- Reduced expenditures on feed and fertilizer are expected to partially offset the rise in other input costs.

FOOD PRICES

- Retail food prices in the fourth quarter may decline from those in the third quarter due to seasonally lower prices for fresh fruits and vegetables.
- The increase for overall food prices in 1990, including retail and restaurant foods, is expected to be about four per cent.

LIVESTOCK

- Canadian beef production is expected to fall by two per cent in the fourth quarter following a decline of five per cent in the third quarter.
- Steady prices for slaughter cattle ($86-90 per hundredweight) are expected.
- North American pork production was down about four per cent compared to year-earlier levels for the third quarter and is expected to be near the year-earlier levels in the fourth quarter.
- Canadian hog prices are expected to remain above year-earlier levels during the fall and winter months as North American pork supplies continue to be tight.
- Pork production is expected to show an upturn in the second half of 1991.

POULTRY

- Canadian chicken consumption is now expected to rise more than five per cent over year-earlier levels of 136.6 million kilograms during the fourth quarter of 1989 to 142.3 million kilograms. The increase is in part due to a rapid growth in provincial slaughter in British Columbia, which is forecast to exceed 13 per cent over year-earlier levels.
- Domestic turkey consumption continued to grow during the third quarter of 1990, up 12 per cent over year-earlier levels.

DAIRY

- The target price for industrial milk rose by 2.6 per cent to $48.69 per hectolitre from $47.45 per hectolitre effective Aug. 1, 1990.
- Support prices for butter and skim milk rose accordingly.
- The responsibility for setting prices was recently given to the Canadian Dairy Commission by the federal government.

WHEAT

- A record world wheat crop is expected for 1990-91 due to very good growing conditions in major producing areas.
- International wheat prices declined about 35-40 per cent from June to September and are projected to be significantly lower than in 1989-90.
- Canada will harvest its second largest wheat crop at 31.0 million metric tonnes. Prices have likely now bottomed out and should improve during the winter.

COARSE GRAIN

- Canadian coarse grain production will increase to 25.6 million metric tonnes due to excellent growing conditions.
- World coarse grain consumption is expected to decrease marginally but should still be above production.
- Corn prices will be close to last year's level, while other coarse grain prices such as oats and barley will be lower.

VEGETABLE OIL

- World soybean production is expected to decrease due to a reduction of U.S. production.
- Decreasing supplies of Canadian canola and U.S. soybeans should keep canola prices firm.
- Flax prices are expected to remain sharply lower than 1989-90 levels as a result of higher production.
- Strength in U.S. soybean prices will carry over into the Canadian market.

HORTICULTURE

- Moderate price increases are expected for the 1990 Canadian apple crop.
- Potato prices are expected to decrease slightly due to increased production.
- Honey prices will remain relatively stable for the remainder of the year.

Making use of the whole plant

Some local farmers have found a market for the corn stalk after the corn is picked. The stalks are round baled and sold to the Continental Mushroom plant where they are used in a compost mixture for growing mushrooms. A spokesman for the mushroom plant says although the plant has almost as much of the stalk as it can use for this year,round baling stalks is a good concept for dairy farmers wanting to get the most out of their corn. Continental Mushroom pays $45 per tonne for the stalk.

High quality yields

WINCHESTER — Despite a delayed harvest, corn and soya yields appear to be fairly good, says the area's crop specialist.

According to Gilles Quesnel, almost all the soybean crop is off with "slightly above average yields."

He says this year's yields are not quite as good as the bumper crops of the past couple of years, but are much better than was originally anticipated. The soybean quality is also fairly good, he said.

About one-half to two-thirds of the grain corn is already harvested, says Quesnel, adding that a week of good weather is still needed to finish.

Yields are average — again better than was expected considering the crop was about 10 days behind, says Quesnel. Corn quality is good, however, bushel weight is slightly lower than the average 56 pounds per bushel. Moisture content is averaging 25 per cent throughout the area, but is starting to come down, he added.

There is a small problem with pink mould in some areas, but it is not as prevalent in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry counties as it is in the more northerly parts of Eastern Ontario, says Quesnel. Stalk lodging is also a bit of a problem this year due to an increase in stalk rot and corn borer infestation.

Quesnel says the lodging problem will worsen the longer the corn is left in the field and could result in major harvesting troubles for farmers if we were to get high winds or wet snow.

Field conditions aren't too bad after a week of nice weather, but untilled fields are still a little sticky. Quesnel predicts another week of good weather would allow farmers to finish harvesting the remaining corn.

Barkley-Purdy marry

On Aug. 18, 1990 St. John's United Church in Brockville was the setting of a very pretty wedding, uniting in marriage Greg Barkley, son of Bruce and Lenora Barkley of Inkerman, and Cheryl Purdy, only daughter of Winston and Marion Purdy of Brockville. The service was performed by Rev. Pierce.

The bride's matron of honor was Bridget Holmgren and the bridesmaids were Barb Mack, Tracy Maddison, Sue Gonczowski, Wendy Thorpe and Jamie Lee Ferguson, all friends of the bride. The groom's best man was Scott Fetterley. Ushers were Terry Barkley, brother of the groom, Richard and Billy Purdy, brothers of the bride, Eric Winter , friend of the groom and Chris Ferguson, cousin of the bride. Kathy and Daryl Miller, niece and nephew of the groom, were flower girl and ring bearer.

A wedding hymn was sung by Rev. & Mrs. Larry Mack, uncle and aunt of the groom, during signing of the register.

Reception followed in the Roebuck Hall. The happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls. They now reside in Brockville and both are employed at Computer Assembly Systems Ltd.

Doctor warns of drug dependencies

by Joan Zandbergen

The annual fall meeting of Zone 35 of the United Senior Citizens of Ontario (USCO) was held Oct. 17 in the Matilda Hall, Dixons Corners. At noon the meeting was called to order by Hilda Kirkby, president. After singing "O Canada" and praying the Lord's Prayer together, the head table was introduced by Rita Partridge, as follows: John Niles, minister of the Matilda charge of the United Church; Dr. Jacques, guest speaker; Art Buckmaster, past president; Harlan Helmer, treasurer; Leilah Helmer, 1st vice president; Hilda Kirkby, president; Rita Partridge, 2nd vice president; Doris Hyndman, secretary; Joan Zandbergen, recording secretary.

Grace was said by Rev. Niles, and a delicious potluck lunch was enjoyed by all.

After dinner, Dr. Jacques spoke to us about over-the-counter drugs, for example those which are sold without a prescription and advertised on television, radio and in magazines. We were advised not to take these longer than one or two weeks. If the condition for which you took the drug is not improved after that period of time, your doctor should be consulted. There can be very serious side-effects when different sorts of drugs are taken together, and your doctor will need to know what you have been taking.

After a question and answer period, Dr. Jacques was thanked by Leilah Helmer and presented with a basket of apples and apple products. He then left immediately to attend patients at his clinic.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by Doris Hyndman and accepted as read. Harlan Helmer gave his financial report. Each club then made a presentation about their meetings and activities during the past year. Zeta Godard from Morewood gave an excellent report about the USCO convention, which she and her husband attended on behalf of Zone 35.

After calling three times for nominations from the floor without any response, Art Buckmaster declared that the officers of the board will stay as they were in the past year.

After singing "God Save the Queen", the meeting came to a close. Immediately after the meeting a flu shot clinic was held in the same place.

Eliza's Best Wednesday

Carol Sargent with a copy of the children's book she illustrated.

Chesterville illustrator publishes first book

Local authors co-write children's historical novel to fill teaching void

CHESTERVILLE — An area woman hopes to illustrate that history can be fun and interesting through a new book called Eliza's Best Wednesday.

Carol Sargent, an educator at Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg, drew illustrations for the recently-published book which depicts a day in the life of a young girl in the 1860s.

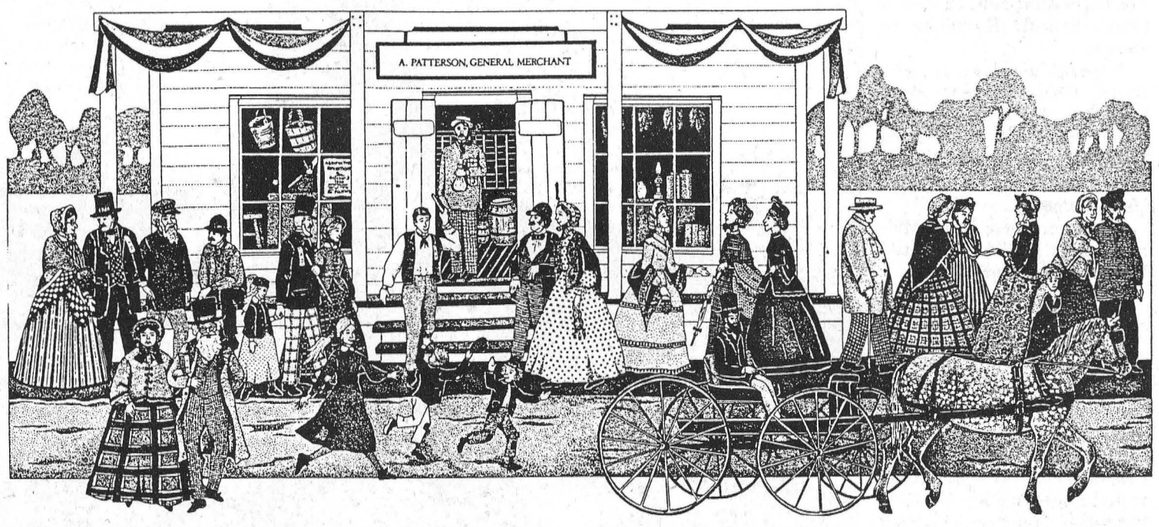
She and the book's two co-authors, Louise Burchell of Spencerville and Catherine Lalonde of Ingleside, hope to give children a much-needed window into nineteenth century life through a historically-accurate work of fiction.

Work on the book was a four-year labor of love for the three women. Sargent drew 35 illustrations for the book, each depicting a point or theme contained in the text on that page or the facing page.

One of her major illustrations, a street scene in front of a fictional store, took her 40 hours to complete.

She drew each illustration first in rough on onion paper, and then drew the final copy in pen and ink.

Sargent used a special technique called layering to give texture to her drawings and to convey a feeling of the time period to readers. She won't even guess how many hours of work went into the drawings.



This illustration, drawn by Carol Sargent, took 40 hours to do. It's one of 35 she drew for the historical fiction Eliza's Best Wednesday.

"It's a lot of hours work. I really ly couldn't give you an amount of time," she said in an interview.

Time spent was of no concern to her. She enjoyed what she was doing and that was all the motivation she needed to get the job done.

Now that the project is finally completed, Sargent, a graduate of the University of Guelph's fine arts program, couldn't be happier.

"This is something I've always wanted to do. I always wanted to illustrate a book," she said. "It's actually happened. It's just so nice to have your name on a book."

The main goal of the book is to provide an account of life in that time period, while at the same time being entertaining, Sargent said.

The authors went to great lengths to ensure that the work - although it was fiction - was historically accurate.

"The details of the book were thoroughly researched so that we try to portray as clear a view of early Canadian history as we can," Sargent said.

The trio took on the project because they feel there is a lack of historical fiction geared to children. "We did it because we thought there was a need," she said.

Sargent and Louise Burchell work at Upper Canada Village and Lalonde, who formerly worked at the village, now teaches grades 7 and 8 students at a school on the Akwesasne Indian reserve.

The three, while working at the village, were continually asked by teachers what type of reading material was available for students about 1860s life for use in the classroom.

The book focuses on the quiet, simplistic lifestyle enjoyed by families in the mid-nineteenth century. It shows how important a relatively small event like a fall fair was to people in the 1800s.

The simplicity of life at the time is further conveyed in the book through the pride taken by Eliza in her entry in a contest at the fair, a crock of butter. The contest is the highlight of the fair for Eliza and also the focal point of the book.

Sargent and the two co-authors are promoting the book locally, and so far have met with success. In a recent book-signing at Kemptville, they sold 84 books in just two hours.

They are leaving widespread promotion of the book for its publisher to handle. Sargent believes the story is pertinent to all Canadian children. "It's a good story to go anywhere," she said.

They hope the book may even be picked up by school boards as required historical reading for their students.

But the book will have to acquire a reputation first. It must become known as a quality work before school boards will consider it as required reading, Sargent said.

Church bazaar nets over $2,100

by Betty Larmour

The Ladies Aid of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church met Monday evening, Nov. 5 at 7:30pm in the church hall. President Norma Duncan opened the meeting with an appropriate reading titled "The Church Bazaar". Hymn 538, "Onward Christian Soldiers", was sung, accompanied by Violet Wilson on piano.

Janet Clapp handled the devotion time. Roll call was answered by 17 members. Secretary Vivian Strader read October's meeting results. All agreed to cater two dinners, one in January and another in February. Margaret Johnstone reported taking fruit baskets to two patients in hospital. June Johnston sent eight cards.

Treasurer Elizabeth Morrison gave her report on the prosperous tea and bazaar held on Saturday, which realized over $2,100 with some monies still to be added. The amount of $1,000 has been bequeathed from an estate. The members were all in agreement to give $5,000 to the board of managers.

Our next meeting is scheduled for Dec. 3 at the church hall at 6pm and is potluck. Come and bring a friend.

The meeting closed with "The Lord's Prayer". Bea Elliott and Isobel Lewis served lunch.

Centre removes 'literacy' stigma

WINCHESTER — The Tri-County Literacy Council's Dundas satellite has been given a name that should erase the negative connotations that supporters feel the term "literacy" carries.

The local organization, and its new location in the village-owned building at 512 St. Lawrence Street will henceforth be known as the Dundas County Learning Centre.

Local literacy advocates conducted a name-the- council contest at various community functions throughout the summer. And last week, Learning Centre president Sue Hanson-Johnson announced that the chosen winner is, in fact, a literacy student, June Garlough of the Chesterville area.

The centre's board of directors felt choosing a name that avoids use of the term "literacy" would encourage functionally illiterate adults to use the service. "We just have to keep saying it's okay," said Claire Bonneville, who is co- ordinating formation of the local group on behalf of the Cornwall-based tri-county council.

Hanson-Johnson also announced an open house for the St. Lawrence Street quarters, where the centre occupies two rooms, will be held on Dec. 8.

NEVER AGAIN!
a War Amps video series

"In a war, everyone suffers... we must never let it happen again."

The War Amps believes it has a responsibility to warn younger generations about the true horrors of war. Who better to recount the battles as they really happened than the veterans who experienced war first-hand? The NEVER AGAIN! videos provide historical accounts of Canada's participation in the First and Second World Wars and Korea.
