The Late F. B. Summers.

The sad death of Mr. Fred B. Summers, a popular young man and son of Mr. and Mrs. John Summers of near Winchester, occurred Monday morning of last week. The deceased who was only 23 years of age had been a sufferer for three years from diabetes. His case took a serious turn three weeks ago, baffling the best medical skill, the end coming as above related. The deceased is survived by his father and mother, two brothers and one sister, who have the heartfelt sympathy of the community in their bereavement. The funeral was held at the house, interment afterwards being made at Maple Ridge cemetery.

Live Stock Show

The Eastern Ontario Live Stock and Poultry Show of 1912, will be remembered as one of records, when we recall that in the Dairy Test, two worlds records were made. Two Holstein cows, Maud De Kol and Rhoda's Queen, gave 276.3 pounds of milk testing 3.6 per cent fat, and phenomenal records were made by Holsteins, the Ayrshire and other dairy breeds were well represented by excellent show animals of the heavy producing and the record number of 70 entries was pronounced by many prominent breeders as the best show of producing dairy cattle ever brought together in the Dominion.

The capacity of the dairy stable at the last show was over taxed, but the coming show, to be held in Jan. 1913 will see an improvement in this department by the addition of a new wing to the present Howick Hall which at present provides insufficient accommodation for the exhibits in the various classes of stock which are increasing beyond expectations this year.

Prize lists, entry forms and other information regarding the show, may be obtained from the Secretary, W. D. Jackson, Carp, Ont.

Contracts awarded

At a yesterday's sitting of the cabinet council, a number of contracts were awarded.

A contract for a retaining wall in the harbor of Owen Sound was let the price being $18,900.

A site for the new postal station in Toronto has been purchased. It is at the corner of Spadina avenue and College street.

James Bogue, of Peterboro, has been awarded the contract for the construction of a retaining wall for the Rideau Canal at Smith's Falls. The work will cost $8,190.

A suitabie site has been purchased for the new public building to be erected in Fort Francis, Ont.

Council has approved of the contract for the erection of new Mounted Police barracks at Banff to cost $13,865.

To the Dominion Bridge Company of Montreal the contract has been awarded for the extension of the government grain elevator at Port Colborne. The extension will increase the capacity of the elevator from one million to two million bushels, and will cost $201,000.

Mr. Carey Appointed.

Mr. P. J. Carey, Chief Fruit Inspector of Western Ontario, has been appointed Packing and orchard Demonstrator for the fruit division, Ottawa.

Mr. R. R. Waddle, Dominion Fruit Inspector for the Lake Erie Counties, is promoted to the position of Chief Inspector for Western Ontario.

Demonstration Car Coming

The Ontario Department of Agriculture is sending a demonstration Car of the products from Northern Ontario to points along this line, as will be seen by advt. in the Record last week. The car will be here on Saturday, Nov. 9th.

H. H. Ross Receives Appointment.

H. H. Ross, storekeeper at Eastern Hospital, Brockville, has been appointed Appraiser of the local customs district. He was a conservative member for Dundas County in the House of Commons filling the unexpired time of his father, who died when sitting member. He will enter on his new duties on November 1st.

Young Man Killed in Works at Smith's Falls.

A young man named Herbert Hopkins met instant death in the Frost and Wood works at Smith's Falls on Saturday. He was in the act of picking up some castings when the cover of the rumbling barrel fell on his neck and crushed out his life. Deceased was 24 years of age and was a most exemplary young man. A sad feature in connection with his death is the fact that he was shortly to have been married. He is survived by two brothers who live there, and his mother who is living in England. The deceased worked for a short time on the Canadian Pacific Railway but gave that up only a few weeks ago as he thought the work too dangerous.

The Late Mrs. Munro.

There died at St. Luke's Hospital, Ottawa, on Tuesday, Oct. 1st, 1912, Abigail Helmer, beloved wife of Alva Munro, of Chesterville, Ont.

Deceased, who was in her 67th year, had undergone an operation on Sept, 24th, and was making good progress towards recovery, when septic pneumonia set in and rapidly ran its course. During all her suffering she exhibited the most remarkable fortitude and patience, retaining the full use of her faculties to the very last.

Mrs. Munro was a native of Winchester and lived most of her life in that township. On June 18th, 1872, she was married to Alva Munro. This union was blessed with four children, two of whom, Fannie and Ashton predeceased her.

Besides her husband she is survived by one son, John E. at home, one daughter Mrs. A. E. Meldrum of Ottawa, two sisters, Mrs. H. Loucks of Russel, and Mrs. W. J. Allison of Chesterville, and one brother, Mr. Josiah Helmer of Maple Ridge.

The funeral took place from her late residence, Nation Valley, on Friday, 4th inst., at 1.30 p. m. A large cortege following the remains to their last resting place in Maple Ridge cemetery.

Deceased died as she lived, with an abiding and unfaltering faith in her Lord and Saviour.

Confirmation Services.

His Grace Archbishop Spratt visited the parish of Chesterville on Tuesday, Oct. 8th, conferring the Sacrament of Confirmation on 57 bright boys and girls. The occasion was one long to be remembered by those who witnessed the impressive ceremony and aiso the dear children who participated in it.

His Grace spoke in pleasing terms of the satisfactory and intelligent manner in which the children displayed their knowledge of Christian doctrine, reflecting great credit on their pastor, Rev. J. P. Fleming, and also on their teachers for the time and care bestowed on them in preparing them for this important event.

The handsome church of St. Mary's was beautifully and artistically festooned in yellow and white bunting The altar resplendant in lights and choice flowers. The glorious sunlight reflected in various colors through the windows made a picture which gladdened the hearts of the boys and girls as they entered in procession. The boys in neat black suits with white scarfs suspended from their arms. The girls in white with veils. All harmonizing and showing in eloquent terms the respect and love they wished to testify for the great favor they were receiving. After the ceremony of confirmation several of the leading gentlemen of the congregation stepped forward and presented an address to his Grace in which was eloquently depicted the good feeling existing in the parish, particularly between pastor and people, also the satisfactory financial conditions of the parish. His Grace responded assuring them of the great pleasure it gave him to find such peace and harmony existing. The papal blessing concluded a very important ceremony in history of the parish of Chesterville.

Those assisting His Grace were: Rev. Father Hanley, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston; Rev. Father Meagher, Kemptville; Father O'Farrell, South Mountain.

To Commemorate Brock's Death.

Hon. R. A. Payne the Minister of Education, has called upon all the school boards of the Province to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the death of General Sir Isaac Brock at Queenston Heights. The defender of Upper Canada died in action on October 13, 1812. As the anniversary falls on Sunday, the Minister suggests that the celebration be held on Friday afternoon October 11, or on Monday Oct. 14.

Field Day—Chesterville Schools.

Friday afternoon Oct. 18th, has been chosen by the schools of Chesterville for their annual sports' day. A splendid programme of events is being arranged, which will be in the hands of the citizens not later than Monday, Oct. 14th. Contests will take place on the fair grounds. Parents and friends of the scholars invited to attend, and by their presence, sympathy and contributions, help to make the afternoon a success.

Counterfeit Bills

Counterfeit Dominion bills of the one and two dollar demonstration are in such abundant circulation as to cause anxiety in the finance department, and special efforts are being made by the secret service to locate the source of supply. The counterfeits are a rather clumsy imitation, yet they appear to be taken by a great many people without question, and are especially plentiful in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Races at Morrisburg.

The races and horse show held at Morrisburg on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week proved to be very interesting. A good field of horses were present and good finishes were in evidence The first day Cardinal Pointer won the 2.20 class and Alice A., of Winchester the 2.50 class and the 2.40 class the second day. Corncracker Joe won the free-for-all after Lady Cecil had won two firsts. Lady Cecil is owned by Mr. Ed. Flynn of this place and is a little wonder. The track was heavy and this being her initiation, they decided to draw her, which gave Corncracker Joe a chance to win.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

FAITH in oneself is all right as long as one doesn't insist on other people taking one on credit. Then it breeds discontent.

Love makes the world go round, which probably accounts for some dizzy marriages.

Don't believe all the things that are told to you. There are plenty of others to believe them.

Many things are not what they are cracked up to be, but this doesn't apply to fingers in housecleaning time.

There's no accounting for tastes. Some persons really seem to enjoy a fit of blues.

One reason why some people are truthful may be that lying requires imagination.

Fleeting.

The June bug lives a very brief
And uneventful life.
He hardly gets acquainted with
His children and his wife.
His life at best is but about
A minute and a day,
And that, you see, is not enough
Surroundings to survey.

It hardly seems to be worth while,
Or so it would appear,
To take the trouble to be born
For such a brief career.
There isn't time to study French
Or learn to read and write
When one is born at early morn
And goes before the night.

The June bug doesn't have the time
Big lecture dates to fill.
He never ran for office yet.
What's more, he never will.
He hardly sees the passing show
In dropping in and out,
Nor does he clearly understand
Just what it is about.

The June bug's life is very short.
Who knows that it is sweet?
And he is lucky if he gets
A single meal to eat.
He doesn't have the time perhaps
To know he is forlorn
Because the creature ups and dies
Almost before he's born.

Improving His Mind.

"I hear your husband has the automobile fever."

"Mercy, no! He has no idea of buying a car."

"But Jack says he sees him around the garages frequently talking to the automobile men."

"Oh, he is only trying to learn the patter so he can understand ordinary conversation."

His Accomplishments.

"Has Nellie a good husband?"

"She has."

"Her ideal, I suppose. She was always talking about her ideal in her girlhood days."

"I don't know about that, but he puts the cat out every night, prepares the baby's nightly bottle for him and never forgets to water the canary in the morning."

Taking Advantage.

"Mrs. Rodgers' new suit is perfectly swell. It looks stunning on the street."

"Why, I thought she had been sick ever since it was sent home and hadn't been able to wear it."

"I think she has, because her cook was wearing it when I saw it."

A Hard Problem.

"What are you studying over, Johnnie?"

"I don't know whether to go home to supper or play hookey."

"How does the case shape up?"

"Well, it's this way. The minister is coming to supper, and we will have some mighty good eats. But he will be sure to ask me a lot of things, and I don't know whether the supper'll be worth it."

The Brute.

"And you never cry?"

"Never."

"Ah, I see! You have to keep it dry."

"Keep what dry?"

"The powder on your nose."

Obstinate.

"Try some of my corn medicine."

"It is no good on mine."

"But this is a most powerful remedy."

"It might remove the toe and leave the corn, but that is the best I could hope for."

Secret Account.

Family Physician—The trouble with your husband, madam, is that he has overdrawn his account at the bank of vitality. Mrs. Gayman—I felt sure he was deceiving me about something! Doctor, I give you my word I never knew he had any account there.—Exchange.

His Hours.

"Is that new clerk ever in?"

"Regularly."

"I'd like to see him then."

"Well, you just come when his weekly pay envelope is due and you'll be sure to catch him."

Willing.

"Caroline?"

"Yes, pa."

"Can you bake bread and cook a beefsteak?"

"No, pa; but I can make just fine fudge."

Eccentric Tides.

Owing to the effects of shore lines and other influences which are more or less obscure it is very difficult to account for the peculiarities exhibited by tidal waves in various parts of the world.

Interfering waves cause once a day tides at Tahiti and in some other places, while on the other hand in the harbors back of the Isle of Wight and in the Tay in Scotland there are three tides in a day. The latter have been ascribed to overtides, produced by the modification of tidal waves running ashore and resembling the overtones of musical sounds.—New York Sun.

Made the Sea Run.

"Ah, yes," murmured Miss Screecher after the first selection at the musicale, "I have had some exciting experiences. Coming over here from London a terrible storm arose, and I had to sing to quiet the immigrants. You should have seen the heavy sea running!"

And the big, rude man in the pink necktie gazed out of the window.

"I don't blame the sea," he muttered.

BRISTOL, N. B., JULY 25th. 1911

"I had a stroke of Paralysis in March 1910, and this left me unable to walk or help myself, and the Constipation of the Bowels was terrible.

I then took "Fruit-a-tives" for the Constipation and it not only cured me of this terrible tronble, but gradually this fruit medicine toned up the nerves and actually cured the Paralysis.

By the use of "Fruit-a-tives", I grew stronger and stronger until all the Paralysis and weakness left me.

MAKING FARM

TO grasp the idea of money making through selecting the better types of live stock farmers need to learn the story of Banostine Belle de Kol, queen of the dairy world. This Holstein cow, now five years old and owned by Dimmick & Bro., Ohio breeders, produced last year 27,404.4 pounds of milk testing 3.86 per cent fat. This means over nine gallons of milk per day, or enough to supply thirty-six families each with a quart of milk daily. If made into butter her fat production would equal 1,322 pounds of butter, or over three and one-half pounds per day for 365 days.

This is all the more remarkable because it was made without her being dry at all before freshening. No other cow has ever produced such an enormous amount of butter fat in a yearly test, and only one has exceeded Banostine's milk record.

Banostine Belle De Kol is a strong, vigorous cow of wonderful capacity and weighs in the neighborhood of 1,600 pounds. She is the daughter of Banostine Belle, who was a granddaughter of Euphrasia A., one of the greatest foundation cows the breed has ever produced. The sire of Banostine Belle De Kol is Friend Hengerveld De Kol Butter Boy.

During the time that Banostine Belle De Kol was in the test she received nearly if not all the time more or less ensilage and alfalfa. When available she received roots and mixed grain ration, the foundation of which was bran oats. She was also fed some dried

DESTRUCTIVE APPLE PEST.

Lesser Worm Continues Its Evil Work Even on Fruit In Barrels.

In a bulletin on insects which do serious damage to the apple the United States department of agriculture treats of the lesser apple worm. The larvae, it says, do not reach full development as early in the fall as those of the codling moth and may find their way to barrels with the fruit, where they continue to feed, often doing considerable damage. The picture illustrates apples thus injured as found in barrels in the Washington market, in New York city.

The lesser apple worm is probably a native insect, and it infests other fruits, wild and cultivated, including apples, haws, plums, prunes, cherries, peaches and species of crataegus. It has also been reared from the black knot of plum and from galls on oak and elm.

Its life history and habits probably parallel those of the codling moth. It is known to be present quite generally in orchards from Canada south to Georgia and west to the Rocky mountains. It has been found abundantly in apples in the Puget sound district in Washington and is known also from British Columbia.

The schedule of treatments recommended for the codling moth will be effective in the control of this species.

The treatment for the codling moth is limited almost entirely to spraying the trees with arsenicals, such as paris green or arsenate of lead. The latter is now principally used. In the east the poison is usually combined with a fungicide. In some sections banding of trees is also employed and under special conditions is a valuable adjunct to spraying. From two to five spray applications are given, according to the section of the country and the season.

Of all treatments the first is much the most important. This is given as soon as the blossoms have fallen and has for its object the placing of poison in the calyx cup of each little apple. This treatment may be successfully given during the eight or ten days between the dropping of the petals and the closing of the calyx lobes.

Storing Onions.

Onions to keep well must be stored in a cool and dry place. A little freezing does not necessarily hurt them if they are not exposed to frequent freezing and thawing.

JAS. CLEMENT, Agent, Dunbar

The Dundas Teachers' Institute.

Met at Chesterville on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 26th and 27th, with the president, A. A, Strader in the chair.

The roll was called at 11 a. m. when over seventy responded and enrolled as members.

The following committees were appointed:—

Nominating committee—Mr. A. Brown. Mr. Jas. Flanagan, Mr. J. E. Dawson, Miss Shannette, Miss Annabel, and Mrs Hazel.

Resolution Committee— Mr. W. A. Bowen, Mr. Ed. Strader, Miss Colborne and Miss Carrie Hunter.

Thursday Afternoon.

Mr. Zeron of the Morrisburg Public School, taught a first lesson on decimals to a junior third class. He asked pupils to write numbers on the board, and then by the decimal table drew from them that every time a number is moved one place to the left, it makes them ten times greater, and to the right ten times smaller. He got the idea of tenth by dividing a line into ten parts and taking one of them, one then from the idea of ten times smaller, drew the names hundredth, etc. He then asked them to put down the numbers in their respective columns on the blackboard. The definition of a decimal point was asked of them, and they were told it was a point that separated whole numbers from those that were not whole numbers. He also led them to see that it could be written down as decimals or fractions. A short drill followed on writing numbers in the decimal and fraction form, and reading them.

Mr. Brown opened a discussion on the U. P. E. examination. He spoke of an advisory committee to look into the papers of any candidate who failed on the U. P. E. and whose teacher believed should have been promoted. The teacher was to send in all the papers of that pupil to have them re-examined by the committee, and their decision to be final. A fee of 25c. to be charged for the examning of the papers.

Mr. Bowen thought the uniform marking would be thus destroyed. He thought if a child failed a few marks, his teacher should be his judge, and if necessary, promote him. No conclusion was arrived at.

Mr. Bowen, Mr. Durpau, Mr. Collison, Mr. Dawson and Mr. Balfour spoke against the nature of some of the U. P. E. papers, claiming they were unfair for the classes. A motion by Mr. Flanagan and Mr. Dawson, to the effect that we separate from other counties as far as the Uniform Proficiency Examinations were concerned and run our own examinations was unanimously carried.

The nomination and election of valuators for the next U. P. Examination resulted in the following being elected:—A. A. Strader, C. R. Duprau, J. E. Dawson, Ed. Strader, J. E. Zeron, George K. Casselnan, D. L. Collison, J. R. Balfour, Miss Kate Shannette, Miss Mary Marcellus, Miss Maude Casselman and Miss Emma Bates.

Prof. Sinclair Laird, of Queens University, gave an address on "Varieties and purpose of child study." He said that the teacher, the qualification and training was now taken into account. No two children were alike, and therefore no definite general idea of children can be obiained. He quoted the men who had spoken of children and books where we might get some knowledge of children.

He gave reasons to show why men of different professions studied the child.

He said studies should be based on muscular as well as mental ability. We have to understand the child before we can teach it. There were two kinds of child through history and literature, retrect. We study the child indirectly through history and literature, retrospection, autibiographies and letters The more valuable study of childhood is by the direct method, and the first and best way is by general observation. A great deal of the stupidity of the child eas been traced to some physical defect. The physical and social condition of the child plays a part in his capabilities. We should try to find out the childs knowledge of common objects, and never take too much for granted, as many children have no concrete picture of common objects although they may talk freely about them. There is a great differenee in children during the different seasons due to the season itself, and not to temperature, etc. We should try to find out who is the leader of the children, and why; who is dull, and why; and any other peculiarities we can, and why.

The obligations of a teacher to his institute were discussed by Mtss Kate Shannette, Miss Esther Bates. Miss Chester, Mr. D. L. Collison and Mr. J. E. Dawson.

An adjournment was made at 5 o'clock

Friday Morning-

The instiute opened at 9 o'clock, and after the roll call and enrollment of members, Professor Laird spoke on "Progress and Waste in Education."

all business has a regular stock-taking taking time, he said, and as education is a business therefore there should be a stock-taking time in it, A new country like ours should have a good system and enforce it. Waste may be prevented by different methods:—(1) The autocratic method—The Department—and it can help in three ways (a) By larger grants and state examinations; (b) Greater public demands; (c)The profession itself.

He asked:"Does education suit the national temperament and ideals of the public? Does it satisfy the needs of the community?He declared that desks were sometimes not the best to give the child ease and good physical position. The child ought to have a good foundation in arithmetic, reading, writing and literature. If the teacher insists on good writing, it can be had. The poor writing was due to carelessness in exercise by the teacher and carelessness in exercises by the pupils. In arithmetic there were many questions that were useless, and algeratic methods should be used if necessary. In reading we are sometimes too much interested in the mechanical and not eneough in getting the spirit of the piece. In pupils reading in school, do they continue to read after they leave school? He also showed a waste in grammar, spelling, composition, etc.

The Rev. S. A. Woods was made an honourary member of the institute.

The delegates of the O. E. A., Miss Carrie Hunter and James Flanagan, gave a clear and concise report of the differeut meetings of the O. E. A.

Mr. Brown gave an address on "Professional Reading." Professional reading was necessary to keep the teacher up to the times. A teacher should buy a book every three months or oftener, and in a short time would have a good library.

Also some good fiction should be read for recreation. A good school journal should be taken by all. He spoke strongly against the spelling and reading of today.

Be careful of the grammatical expressions, and see that all foundations are well laid, were his closing remarks.

The delegates elected to represent the institute at the next O. E. A. meetiug were A. A. Strader and Miss Grace McIntosh.

Miss Kate Shannette gave a very interesting paper "on Elementary Education in Rural and Urban Schools" Some of the many points brought out were:—

(1)The bone and sinew of our country in the agriculturist.

(2)We are standing to-day on the threshold of an educational revolution.

(3) The highest aim of the teacher should be to build character and personality.

(4)Idle time is occupied and interest is increased.

(6)Children learn to do things with their hands, hence the dignity of lador.

(6)One object is to teach them to cultivate vegetables, etc., and to study seeds, that we may recognize our friends and destroy our enemies.

Mr. Brown spoke strongly in favor of Miss Shanette's paper, and asked the teachers to consider the question, and in the near future take up the subject of school gardening.

"How I teach written reading," was read by W. Bowen, Geo. Casselman, J. R. Balfour, and Miss Annabel. The discussiou brought out the following plan:—(1) Read it (2) The life of the author and other poems he has written. (3) Give a short account of the lesson as a whole. (4) Give the subject of each stanza or paragraph, the connection of paragraphs or stanzas. (5) Important pictures of beauty and meanings of words and phases. (6).Time of the year it was written, and circumstances under which it was written.

Friday Afternoon.

Roll was called at 1p.m.

"How I teach spelling." was taken up by Miss Mary Marcellus. She thought that poor spelling seemed the most difficult to overcome. She asked if we should form our plans to meet the good and poor speller? Does the phonic system make good spellers? There were three parts of spelling—the image of the word, the sound and the meaning.

The meaning should be clear before spelling a word. Carelessness in writing the word often leads to trouble. In the junior forms constant repetition is necessary to impress it on the mind. In the junior forms spelling should be taken in the morning when the little ones are at their best. In the second class the words are divided into two classes, namely, those they are familiar with, and words not so familar. The syllables that cause trouble are underlined with colored chalk, to call their attention.

The difficult words are placed in sentences, so they can get the meaning.

In second, third and fourth classes dictation is written in dictation books with pen and ink. Forms 3 and 4 use the speller, reader, geography and grammar words. In class I fifteen minutes is taken as a lesson; in class II.from 15 to 20 minutes; and in class IV. 25 minutes. Some of the methods used to help spelling are,—(1)Spelling matches by choosing sides; (2)spelling across, that is, if one side misses and the other side spells it, that side chooses the best spellers from the losing side etc.;(3) One side spells the word, and the othes side puts it into a sentence.

A short discussion of officers followed and resulted in the following becoming officers for the coming year.:—

Hon. Pres.—Mr. Arthur Brown.
President—D. L. Collins,
Vice-Pres.—Miss Mary Marcellus.
Sec'-Treas.—Chas. R. Duprau.
Executive Committee—Mr. J.E. Dawson, Mr. W. A. Bowen, Mr. J. R. Balfour.

While the ballots were being counted the Rev. Mr. Woods was called upon to address the teachers. He always took a deep interest in the teachers'work. He spoke against the idea of a teachers Union, claiming that people were wakening up to the fact they had to recognize the teachers ability and appreciate it. The teacher had a great and noble work and should reach the end in view without a union. He advised the teachers to petition the Government and get them to coupel the trustees to move as they desired.

Mr. Baker, principal of the Continuation School of Cheaterville, addressed the teachers. He congratulated them on their earnest work, and the way they stood by their association and their honored inspector.

Mr. William Styles, of the Morrisburg Herald, who, by the way, is the first newspaper reporter to attend our association, on being made an honorary member, made a few appropriate remarks.

The committee on resolutions brought in several recommendations, one of which was "The taking of one of the days of our next institute meetings for an excursion or outing."

SYRIA'S HUGE MONOLITH.

Largest Stone Ever Quarried Is a Relic of Antiquity.

One of the most interesting proofs of the wonderful civilization of the ancients is afforded by the great slab of stone at Baalbec, in Syria. This huge monolith is sixty-nine feet long, fourteen feet broad and seventeen feet in depth. It is said to be the largest piece of stone ever quarried and its estimated weight is 1,500 tons.

It is thought by archaeological scholars that this huge stone was intended by the ancient builders to adorn the Temple of the Sun near by—now, of course, in ruins. Here in one of the walls which still stand are to be seen huge slabs of stone, which careful measurements show to be sixty-three feet long and thirteen feet high.

And, more remarkable still, they are placed in position nineteen feet above the ground level. Moreover, although no sign of any cementing mixture is to be found in these ancient buildings, the stones have been squared and polished so evenly that only after the most minute search can the joints be found and when traced it is impossible to thrust the blade of a pocket knife between them!

How these things were done is a standing mystery to the scientist.—Wide World Magazine.

THROWING THE DISCUS.

Methods of the Grecian Athletes In Homeric Times.

Discus throwing was a refined form of hurling the stone. In Homeric times, and even at Olympia, a stone or mass of iron was first used for the purpose. This was held by a leathern thong, swung in a circle and hurled as far as possible. A circular or lenticular disk of bronze was used at least as early as the beginning of the fifth century.

A standard weight must, of course, be assumed for the great games. A discus now in the British museum, which seems to have been used, weighs 11 pounds 0 ounces, but whether this was the standard weight or not is not definitely known.

The thrower took his stand upon a slight elevation of limited circumference, where he could have a secure foothold and was prevented from running. Then, with a swing of the arm and a corresponding movement of the whole body, he hurled the discus as far as possible.

The value of the body movement was recognized by the sculptor Myorn in his famous statue, "The Discobolus," and is understood by the modern athlete when he swings the hammer or even when he makes a drive at golf.

The Guest House In Asia Minor.

The guest house is a real institution in Asia Minor. It is sometimes owned by an individual, but is usually the common property of the village. To this guest house, like the travelers' bungalow in India, every traveler has a right, but as all have the same rights one may have more company than he desires. However, the head man of the village will usually arrange matters for the foreign traveler, and the native guest will often courteously make way for him. In the guest house is one large room, in one part of which our horses munch their hay, with the drivers lying beside them, while in the other part we spread our rugs and set up our beds and unlimber our cooking apparatus. Some guest houses have two rooms connected by a wide opening, without a door, in one of which the animals and animal drivers sleep and in the other the pampered guests from abroad.—Dr. Francis E. Clark in National Magazine.

Proposed by Accident.

Mr. Spooner, the clergyman who became famous for those humorous misplacements of initial consonants that have become known as "Spoonerisms," is said to have owed his marriage to a characteristic slip of the tongue. He was very shy and would never have had the courage to ask a woman to be his wife, but one afternoon in a friend's drawing room he was requested to ask one of the ladies present to make tea. In doing so he blundered as usual. "Will you take me?" he said, instead of "Will you make tea?" Blushing, the lady "took him," and thus he "blundered" into a happy marriage.

Evident.

"This car," said the demonstrator, "is almost human. Perhaps you have noticed"—

"Yes, I have," said Binks dryly. "It reminds me of several men I know—been smoking ever since we left the garage, and the last hill we climbed it puffed like a porpoise. Haven't you something that is less human and more generally satisfactory?" — Harper's Weekly.

Why She Thought So.

"Mamma," said the little girl, "sister doesn't tell the truth."

"Why, Jennie," said the mother, "you mustn't say such things."

"Well, last night I heard her say, 'Charlie, if you do that again I'll call mamma.' And he did it twice more and she didn't call."—Ladies' Home Journal.

SONG OF THE WHALE.

The Humpback Is a Little More Musical Than the Bowhead.

Whales are rarely thought of as vocalists, yet according to Miss A. D. Cameron in "The New North" they really have a distinctive song of their own.

A certain Captain Kelly was the first to notice that whales sing. One Sunday, while officers from three whaling ships were "gamming" over their afternoon walrus meat, Kelly started up with "I hear a bowhead!" There was much chaffing about "Kelly's band," but Kelly weighed anchor and went to find the band wagon. Every sail followed his, with the result that three whales were bagged.

Among bowheads this singsong is a call that the leader of the school, as he forces a passage through Bering sea, makes in order to notify those that follow that the straits are clear of ice.

Walruses and seals and all true mammals that have lungs and live in the water have a bark that sounds strange enough as it comes up from hidden depths. Every lookout from the masthead notices that when one whale is struck the whole school is "gallied" or stampeded at the very impact of the harpoon; they have heard the death song.

The sound that the bowhead makes is like the long drawn out "hoo-hoo-oo oo-oo!" of the hoot owl. A whaler says that the cry begins on F and may rise to A, B or even C before slipping back to F again. He assures us that with the humpback the tone is much finer and sounds across the water like the note from the E string of a violin.

JEFFERSON'S BONES.

He Prized Them Highly Until Dr. Wistar Saw Them.

It is said that when Thomas Jefferson journeyed from Monticello to Philadelphia on his way to take the oath of office as vice president he carried a lot of bones in his baggage. The bones, alleged to be those of a mammoth, had been found in Greenbrier county, Va., and sent to Monticello, where they were set up by Jefferson, who, it appears, entertained a somewhat exaggerated notion of his attainments in natural history and who stood sponsor for the bones as those of "a carnivorous clawed animal entirely unknown to science."

It was not until after Jefferson reached Philadelphia that he was undeceived, for at a glance the learned Dr. Wistar saw that they were the bones of the common sloth, several specimens of which he showed the Virginian. Jefferson, it is related, was greatly chagrined, especially as his discovery became known as Megalonyx jeffersonii.

It has been pointed out that indirectly no less a naturalist than the great Buffon may have been responsible for Jefferson's error. It was the Virginian's practice to send Buffon specimens and information, and with the subtle flattery of a courtier the French naturalist wrote:

"I should have consulted you, sir, before publishing my natural history, and then I should have been sure of the facts."—New York Sun.

The Foster Mother.

There is a story told about a hen which was intrusted with a sitting of ducks' eggs to hatch. When the young brood went down to the water she was frantic with anxiety, but the second year, when her next brood of ducklings went to swim, she was scarcely troubled at all, and the third year she would fly to a stone in the middle of the pond and from her coign of vantage watch the ducklings swim round her with evident pride. The fourth year she was allowed to hatch her own eggs, and when she discovered that the infant chicks had no intention of taking to the water she flew to the stone in the middle of the pond and clucked frantically to them to swim out to her.

Cheerful For Him.

Not long ago a stock of crockery was sold at auction, and Mrs. Wilson attended the sale. When she returned her face was radiant with joy.

"You must join the cremation society," were the first words she said to her husband.

Mr. W.—What for?

Mrs. W.—I've bought such a lovely vase to hold your ashes! You have no idea how it will set off the mantelpiece.

Her Gentle Hint.

Borem—Some one must have been joking Miss Suburbs about me and told her I owned the street railway system here. Porem—What makes you think so? Borem—Why, I was out to call on her last night, and every time she heard a car she said, "There comes your car, Mr. Borem."—Judge.

The Laws.

"I care not who makes the country's laws," said the "sharp" lawyer, "if"—

"If what?" his colleague asked.

"If they continue to put in verbiage that may be variously interpreted."—Chicago Record-Herald.

WILLIAMSBURG.

A daring robbery occurred on Saturday evening in Mr. Melvin Barkley's store at Bouck's Hill. As the rush of Saturday evenings' business was over, Mr. Melvin Barkley and son, Genzmer, retired to the living rooms overhead, with some members of the Lutheran chnrch choir to practice some pieces for the following Sunday morning service. They left Keith to lock up as usual lingering customers retired to their homes he decided to close up the store. He left the large gasoline lamp burning, bolted the doors leading to the stores, leaving the south door open which leads to the house below and telling his brother, Genzmer, he was going to retire. Shortly afterwards Mrs. Barkley heard a noise below and calling Gemzer asked him who was in the store. Taking in the situation at once they rushed down stairs to the store below and found that the till had been rifled of the days proceeds, some coin and bills had been overlooked by the robber. Hastily they procured a lantern to search for tracks in the soft earth outside. As they stepped out of the south door, lying in the mud was some $40.00, a little further on $10.00 more was secured, having been dropped by the robber either purposely or carelessly in case he was caught and not wishing to have them find the money It was a very bungly job, and a very lucky one for Mr. Barkley considering that the store was well lighted and dropping the loot, it appears to be the work of an amateur. We have been informed that Mr. Barkley has been losing sums of money occasionally. The store at Bouck's Hill during the past few years has been visited by robbers owing to its isolation at this time of year. All stores, shops, residences in outlying districts without police protection should be securely fastened and a ready reckoner close at hand to assist in case of emergency. Mr. Barkley is out about $20.00. The days proceeds was all in the till. No clue has yet been found as to who the robber was and where he went.

County Court.

The non-jury sittings of the County Court were held at the Court House at Cornwall last week, His honor Judge O'Reilly presiding.

Hays vs. Robertson—Action to recover penalty of $400 under section 199 of the Ontario Election Act. An elector named Isadore Brunet went to the poll at Farran's Point, about 3 p. m. on the day of the last election for the purpose of casting his vote. He is unable to mark his ballot and owing to injury received at some time, he is unable to articulate distinctly. The deputy returning officer Isaac Robertson could not understand Brunet when he tried to say who he wished to vote for, and a dispute arose between the scrutineers as to how the ballot should be marked. Finally Brunet forced his way out of the compartment and sat in a corner of the polling booth

Mr. Hawn, the Liberal scrutineer, went to the door and and ordered the constable to shut it and refused to allow anyone in to vote until Brunet's ballot had been marked. From the evidence it appears that Robertson several times ordered the constable to let the voters in but Hawn and the constable refused to admit anyone while the other voter was in the booth. Robertson also offered to mark the ballot at the table if the scrutineers would keep quiet, but this was not acceded to by Mr. Hawn.

During the cross-examination, the plaintiff Mr. Robert Hays, suddenly collapsed, being seized with an attack of weakness of the heart. He was unconscious for a time and doctors had to be summoned to the Court Room to revive him. He was not in a condition to continue his evidence, and the hearing was postponed until he is well enough to appear.

Mr. Geo. A. Stiles appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. J. G. Harkness for the defendant.

Lighthall vs. McDonald—Judgment in terms of consent minutes in favor of plaintiff for $225 and $50 costs. Geo. A. Stiles for defendant.

Brunet vs. Robinson—Case stands on account of order for security for costs. G. A. Stiles for plaintiff; G. I. Gogo for defendaut.

Cameron vs. McMaster—Case settled between the parties. McLennan & Cline for plaintiff; Gogo & Harkness for defendant.

Several appointments to the staff of Queen's University are announced.

Three Brothers Will Be Hanged

Halifax N. S., Oct. 8.—The three Graves brothers, accused of the murder of Kenneth Lea, were tonight found guilty and sentenced by the chief justice to hang on Jan. 15 next.

In June last the three accused brothers, Alfred, Fred and Harry Graves came along the road near Port Williams singing, swearing and half intoxicated. They were asked to desist by Lea as they approached his house and stopped in front thereof. Finally, Lea said that if they did not stop he would shoot. They came on Lea's grounds and in a fracas which followed one of the men struck Lea with the butt of the gun and as he did so the gun was discharged and Lea was badly wounded dying two days later.

St. Thomas Sees Electric Farming

St. Thomas, Oct. 7.—The Hydro Electric Commission's farm outfit has arrived in this district, and today a demonstration was given on the farm of Warden Anderson, on the outskirts of this city. The Great North-West Telegraph Company extended the temporary use of its poles, and a wire was carried from the city limits to the farm, where a transformer reduces the current from 2,200 volts to 220 and 110 volts.

A large number of Elgin farmers were present and took great interest in the scientific exhibition of farm work preformed by electricity. Wheat was threshed at the rate of four bushels per minute. Wood was sawn and dinner cooked for the company present. The power also churned butter, milked eight cows at once, worked a feed cutter and other farm machinery.

W. N. Macnish was in charge of the outfit. The Hon. Adam Beck was present at the demonstration, and helped explain the advantages of Hydro power on the farm.

700 Sign Power Petition.

London, Ont., Oct. 7.—Seven hundred farmers of the township of Yarmouth, in Elgin county, have signed a petition to the Hydro-Electric Commission asking that they be furnished with energy from the Falls as soon as possible. This is one result of the campaign conducted through the district by Hon. Adam Beck with his demonstrating outfit.

Start Work in May Next.

At the annual meeting of the Morrisburg and Ottawa Electric Railway company, held in St. Patrick's hall Tuesday afternoon, officers and directors were elected and it was decided to commence work on the new road next May.

There was a large attendance at the meeting and everybody appeared sanguine in regard to the prospects of the road. The following are the directors for 1912: Messrs. J. Oliver, J. C. Kilt, R. E. Reardon J. W. Bogart of Morewood; W. C. Strader of Williamsburg; Hector McDonald and R. J. Biggar of Ottawa. The new officers are: President, J. C. Kilt; vice-president, Hector McDonald; secretary-treasurer, R. A. Bishop. Mr. G. D. Kelley will be legal representative and Mr. G. L. Blatch auditor of the road. The financial statement showed sufficient funds ready for a start and everything in good shape.

According to the charter the line is to be run from Ottawa to Morrisburg. The proposed route will take in Leitrim, South Gloucester, Greely, Metcalfe, Ormond, Winchester, Winchester Springs, Williamsburg and Glen Becker, but it may be varied while the matter of entrance in the south part of the city has yet to be definitely announced. The distance is 47 miles and gasoline electric cars will probably be utilized, President King having seen them in operation in Ohio and Indians.

The matter of awarding the contract for the road's construction has yet to be dealt with but there is no doubt an early start will be made.

$100 Reward, $100.

THE LITTLE PAY

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

beet pulp, especially when fresh roots were not available. Her grain ration from the first was gradually increased to twenty-five pounds or a little more, but later reduced to as low as nine pounds per day.

As near as can be estimated, the average amount of grain fed was twelve or fourteen pounds daily. She also received, when it was available, green corn with the stalks and also green clover and any other green feed that might be available, including feed from the pasture.

A cow of fair qualities produces four gallons of milk daily. She is not worth keeping for a dairy unless she will do this, and remember it takes no more feed, room or labor for one giving five gallons than for one giving three or four.

This reasoning applies with equal force to other kinds of stock, but more particularly horses and swine. It requires only a little intelligent care in selection to raise a horse that will bring $250 to $500, whereas $150 to $200 is the price of an ordinary animal. The feed bill is not a dollar more.

In raising cows breeding and selection will produce animals that will earn $100 to $150 a year or that will sell for $100 to $500, while the indifferent kind are worth next to nothing.

There is the same difference in breeding hogs. The gain comes chiefly after the owner has produced something a little better than ordinary. This truism applies to poultry, fruit and farming generally.

TWO WAYS WITH HOGS.

Care Taken With Animals Repaid Owner In Amount of Pork Yielded.

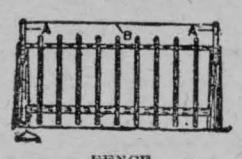
The results of different treatments of hogs came to my notice last spring, when a neighbor sold two average pigs eight weeks old to a man who did not have any other hogs, says a West Virginia correspondent of the American Agriculturist. He bought the two hogs to make pork the next fall and, of course, wanted to give them a good chance to do their best. They were fed wheat middlings, milk and scraps from the table, in addition to the pasture they gathered. They were grade Chester Whites, farrowed in April. These two pigs dressed between 150 and 175 pounds each when about seven months old.

The pigs that had not been sold and out of the same litter were allowed to run on pasture, and when corn was ready to feed they were fed enough corn to put them in pork condition, but when slaughtered at about the same time as the other two they only weighed sixty-five to seventy pounds each. There was a difference of nearly 100 pounds between these well fed hogs and their mates not so fed, and it was wholly due to different treatments. It is easy to see which was the more economical pork producer—the well cared for hog or the one which got enough feed to barely live until fattening time. The difference in value was almost $10, as pork sold at 10 cents a pound here last fall. The two well cared for hogs did not eat near $10 worth of feed from the time they were separated from their mates until they were slaughtered.

Toss those aggravating rocks from the wagon track before the freeze-up or you may just count on jolting over them all winter long.

It Frightens Them.

Do your chickens or your neighbor's fly over your picket fence into your garden? If so nail a little strip to each post and stretch a white twine string about six or eight inches above the top of the pickets. The same plan will apply to woven wire fencing. A white twine string stretched along each panel of fence has all the horrors of the inquisition for a hen, and she will positively avoid it. The sketch will give you the idea (AA strips, B string).—A. G. Humphreys.



FENCE.

Little Farm Hints.

Never mix sun slaked lime with manure, as it will cause the escape of ammonia, one of its most valuable elements.

Clean out the chaff and bayseed on the barn floor and scatter it over bare places in the lots and pastures. This scattered seed represents good money value, and it should be put to good purpose.

If you want spinach for use in early spring, at the time when dandelion greens are ripe, sow seed in September or October. Frequently it does not winter well, especially if not protected by covering lightly with litter.

Where practicable the fruit orchards should be planted in autumn. Among the principal advantages are leisure time, better physical condition of soil and the early establishment and consequent earlier growth of trees. Owing to its less hardy nature the peach is to be excepted from the fall planting.

HANDY WAGON JACKS.

Six Forms of This Appliance, Which Is Always Handy About the Farm.

The diagrams represent six of the most convenient wagon jacks. Exact specifications and minute directions are not necessary, as any farmer can determine for himself the kind of material to use and the best way to make a jack for his particular requirements.

The ease of adjusting to suit the height of the object to be raised will commend the jack in Fig. 1. Use for the base piece a 4 by 6 inch scantling, five feet long, making the notches on one of the flat sides, reaching about half the length of stick. The two uprights holding the lever are three feet long and notched on the front. The brace which rests in the notches on the base sill is made long enough to suit a low down wagon when resting in the front notch. The lever is four and one-half feet long. The illustration shows plainly how the wagon is held when once lifted. The entire device is held together by five bolts.

In Fig. 2 a 3 by 6 inch plank does for the sill, and the uprights may be inch boards five inches wide at the bottom, tapering to three inches at the top. The lever is adjusted to the height of the wagon by the holes in the uprights. A short chain fastened to the sill is hooked to the staple or eye bolt in the lever to hold it when desired.

Fig. 3 is about the same, but the attachment for holding the lever at any point desired is an improvement on the chain The blacksmith can make this from wagon tire. An inch strip of the same material is fastened across the uprights for the bar to catch on.

Fig. 4 is very simple. The upright pieces are 1½ by 3 inches, three feet long, and the sill is a 2 by 4 resting on its narrow edge. The lever is notched on top, and a heavy wire looped over it holds it in position.

The very convenient jack in Fig. 5 is, with the exception of the lever and the catch cleat, made of 2 by 4 scantling. When mortised together as shown it makes a very strong jack. The lever may be one and one-half inch stuff, about four inches wide at the large end, and the cleat to hold it is of the same material.

Another way of making this last jack is shown in Fig. 6. The upright scantling, instead of the lever, is notched, and a quarter inch wire is used to engage in the notches and hold the lever in the proper position. The wire loop is kept from slipping where it crosses the lever by means of a staple driven over it into the lever.—Farm and Fireside.

BEAUTIFY THE FARM.

If you would keep your boys at home
Go beautify the farm,
Repaint the house, trim up the trees
And give the place a charm.
Give them a pride in where they live;
Make home a place of rest,
Where peace and plenty both abide,
And they will love it best.
—Farm and Ranch.

Crops For Silage.

Any crop grown for forage may be preserved in the silo. The crops most generally used, however, in this country are corn, clover, millet, alfalfa, cowpeas, soy beans and the various sorghums. But Indian corn is a great silage crop.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Handy Seed Dropper.

An old garden hose about three and one-half feet long attached to a funnel that fits snugly makes an excellent dropper for garden and field seeds. No stooping is necessary.—Farm and Fireside.

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

OUTWITTED A LION.

Clever Tactics of a Plucky and Ingenious African.

The little bushman of South Africa is not only small in size, but feeble in mind. Yet there is on record an encounter between a bushman and a lion which shows the man as cool in danger and fertile in resource.

This bushman, while a long way from his home, was met by a lion. The animal, assured that he had his victim completely in his power, began to sport and dally with him with a feline jocosity which the poor little bushman failed to appreciate. The lion would appear at a point in the road and leap back again into the jungle, to reappear a little farther on.

The bushman, however, did not lose his presence of mind and presently hit upon a device whereby he might outwit his foe. This plan was suggested by the lion's own conduct.

Aware that the beast was ahead of him, the bushman dodged to the right, and, feeling pretty sure of the lion's whereabouts, resorted to the course of quietly watching his movements.

When the lion discovered that the man had suddenly disappeared from the path he was a good deal perplexed. He roared with mortification. Then he espied the bushman peeping at him over the grass.

The bushman at once changed his position, while the lion stood irresolute in the path, following with his eye the shifting black man. In another moment the little man rustled the reeds, vanished and showed himself at another point.

The great brute was first confused and then alarmed. It evidently began to dawn upon him that he had mistaken the position of matters and that he was the hunted party.

The bushman, who clearly recognized the situation, did not pause to permit the lion to recover his startled wits. He began to steal gradually toward the foe, who now, in a complete state of doubt and fear, turned tail and decamped, leaving the plucky and ingenious little bushman master of the situation.—Harper's.

GREAT HORN SPOONS.

The Ones That Are Made by Natives of Southern Alaska.

Horns of the Rocky mountain sheep, the buffalo and the mountain goat are made into dishes, ladles and spoons. Some of these are carved, while others are both carved and inlaid with shell. The decoration is sometimes geometric, but often a conventional representation of animal forms. This is especially true of the spoons of the Indians on the coast of northern British Columbia and southern Alaska. A few of these spoons are so large, so wonderfully artistic and so well made from the horn of the rare Rocky mountain sheep that even a moderately good one may appropriately be called a "great horn spoon." These are of a rich, golden yellow color. By far the greater number of horn spoons in this same region are made of the horn of the mountain goat, and these are black. A few have black handles of goat horn and golden bowls of sheep horn. All these handles are usually carved to represent traditional or mythical men, animals or monsters belonging to the lore of the individual family, just as among our people silver spoons bear the family monogram.—Detroit Free Press.

Church Tower Belfries.

Probably you have noticed that the openings in the belfry of a church are usually filled with a number of slanting boards, sometimes covered with lead. These are improperly called louvres, and many persons imagine that they are so arranged as to keep out the rain. The right name for these slats is abatsons, a word that means to throw down.

Their use is not to keep out the rain, because the wet does not hurt the bells at all and rain can beat in through the openings very easily. They are designed to turn the sound of the bells downward, so that persons on the ground can hear them better. In the middle ages some of these abatsons were beautifully carved and decorated. —New York Press.

The Game of Lacrosse.

The game known as lacrosse was originally played by the Canadian Indians, and from them adopted successively by the French and English settlers, and by them introduced to the United States. The object of the game is to drive the ball through goals situated at each end of the field. The players are usually twelve on a side. In 1867 the Lacrosse Association of Canada was formed, and an Indian team visited Great Britain, creating great excitement. The game is one of real importance in the English sporting world.

Clearly Incompetent.

"Have you ever been married before?" asked the license clerk.

"Great heavens, young man!" exclaimed the experienced prima donna. "Don't you read the papers?"

Whereupon she wired immediate instructions to discharge her press agent. —Washington Star.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE GOOD OLD TOWN.

OFTEN I think of the beautiful town
Where I dreamed my youth away,
And this is the sort of dream I have—
That I'm going to go back some day.
But not till I've made my little pile,
Till I own some mines and mills,
That I may put on a nice large front
As I burn up a few big bills.

Often in fancy I ambulate
Down through the village street
Dressed as a swell from a great big town
From my head to my dainty feet,
Cutting a swath the whole street wide,
As they do in the story books,
And showing the ones who are gaping there
How a millionaire really looks.

Then I can hear the people say
As their ancient minds unfold:
"I knew him once, and I knew him well,
When he was a three-year-old.
Who would have thought he would grow to be
A handsome and wealthy swell,
Throwing his money right and left?
My, but he's doing well!"

That is the way that my thoughts run on
As I sit in my bedroom small
With hardly enough to pay for my rent
Or to dress for a social call.
That is the plan as I mix the dope
I will carry out some day.
But just at present, to tell the truth,
I cannot see my way.

Foxy Father.

"What handsome new porch furniture Mrs Green has!"

"Yes, and it is so comfortable too."

"I am surprised at her getting it. She told me in the spring that her husband had said positively that they couldn't afford anything new."

"Oh, that was before the new minister became so attentive to Mabel."

"What!"

"Yes. I think the Greens look upon the furniture as a good investment."

Some of the Disadvantages.

"Are your folks going away for the summer, Jones?"

"Haven't found out yet."

"Depends on your boss, eh?"

"No; depends on my man."

"Your man? What man?"

"The one I bet on. If he wins they go; if he doesn't win, why, nobody ought to expect a vacation presidential year, anyhow."

Changed His Views.

"Where do you spend your vacation this year, Jones?"

"I'm not going to take any."

"But when I saw you last year you were declaring that no man could do his employer's work justice unless he had at least two weeks' vacation during the year."

"But, you see, I've set up for myself."

An Infallible Method.

"I wish I could cure Edward of being so careless of his personal appearance."

"I can tell you how to do it."

"I wish you would."

"It's very simple. All you have to do is die. Widowers always begin to spruce up about the second month."

Some Consolation.

"It must be very trying to sell tickets to a show."

"Why should it?"

"You can't see the performance."

"No, but you can hear the comments of the people who wish they had their money back as they come out."

"Closed For the Game."

"Me grandmother's dead.' the office boy said,
Caressing his eyes with his sleeve
"Too bad," said his boss, with a shake of the head
"You must take a day off for to grieve."

"I've a pain in me dome," was the bill-clerk's moan
As he rubbed his knob, which was hairless.
"You'd better lay off," said the boss, with a cough.
"Your headache might make you careless."

The rest of the force, with no sign of remorse,
Killed their relatives off. 'Twas a shame!
And the boss, with a glance at his calendar askance,
Hung a sign out—"Closed for the game."
—Philadelphia Ledger.

Move to Be Commended.

"I was out in the woods hunting yesterday, and I shot a man who was wearing one of these fuzzy hats."

"Well?"

"I am afraid people may think I did it intentionally."

"Afraid! Why, man, if they think that you will get all the more credit."—Houston Post.

Unexpected Flippancy.

We hardly look for humor in a medical dictionary, yet one recently published defines "shout" as "an unpleasant noise produced by overstraining the throat, for which great singers are paid well and small children are punished."—Boston Transcript.

At Her Feet.

It was a beautiful act-o-ress
Who wrote to a distant friend.
With only a minute, as you might guess,
In writing a note to spend.

She took the city directory
As a perch for her little shoes
And wrote in her scrambled chirography
Her budget of breathless news.

"I'm making a hit," she told her friend—
"A hit that cannot be beat.
The run of the show will never end.
The whole town is at my feet."
—Wilbur D. Nesbit in Judge's Library.

But He Didn't Care.

Bacon—For each person in the United States a dozen paper napkins and a third of a pound of tea are imported from Japan every year.

Egbert—If that is so somebody's getting my napkins and I'm getting somebody's tea.—Yonkers Statesman.

Too Smooth.

"I won't play poker with that fellow any more. He's entirely too smooth. He bobbed up last night with four aces."

"What's wrong about that?"

"I had dealt him four queens."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Limerick.

Sweet Alice of olden Vincennes
Was courted by all the young mennes,
But she put them aside
With a high air of pride,
Saying, "Wait till you hear me say whennes."
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

For Economy's Sake.

"What made Mr. Chuggins buy an automobile?"

"His wife persuaded him by calling his attention to the economy of having gasoline on hand to clean gloves with."—Washington Star.

Faithfulness.

"You have a tremendously faithful dog, sir. As you turned to speak just now a strange dog tried to take your meat, and just as he was going to snatch it your own dog ate it up himself."—Fliegende Blatter.

Far Rougher.

If Dolly Madison took snuff,
We naturally feel regrets,
And yet it isn't quite so rough
As if she had used cigarettes.
—Washington Star.

Obedient to the Limit.

Salesman — Shirt, sir? Yes, sir. Will you have a soft fronted or a stiff bosom?

Customer—Soft fronted. The doctor says I must avoid starchy things.—London Tit-Bits.

Disproved.

"Don't you believe the level of human intelligence is gradually rising?"

"No. On the contrary. Never before were there as many writers of popular songs as there are today."—Chicago Record-Herald.

What to Take.

The sky is blue and cloudless, too,
The sun is bright and yellow,
But take no chances; take instead
Your tried and true umbrella.
—Detroit News.

It Just Lapsed.

"Yes, I was once engaged to a duke."

"And what cruel obstacle came between two loving hearts?"

"Oh, nothing particular. We just let the option expire."—Washington Herald.

Too Gentle.

Lady Visitor—That new girl of yours seems very nice and quiet.

Mistress—Yes, she's very quiet. She doesn't even disturb the dust when she's cleaning the room.—Chicago Journal.

Here is something The News has been looking for a long time—a stingless bee! We have got him at least, and The News editor is jubilant, for he can now add this useful industry to his fruit, vegetable and weed crop. The stingless bee is the latest product of man's ingenuity. Mr. Burrows, an apiarist of the town of Loughton, in Essex, England, after two years experiments, has obtained a species of bee can be handled safely. He mated the Cyprian drones and Italian queens, the result being the production of the harmless insects which, however, are splendid workers. It is claimed they are liable to disease than the ordinary honey-gatherer. It appears that the new product has a sting, but it is useless as a weapon of offence. Yet they die when they lose it. -Iroquois News.

Armstrong—Shaver.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Holden, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shaver, of Hulbert, to Dr. Webster J. Armstrong of Iroquois, took place at 6 o'clock Saturday, Sept. 28th, at the residence of the bride's father. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev D. Mick, of Brinston. Miss Annie Tindale of Iroquois, played the wedding march. The bride, who was given away by her father wore a gown of ivory mousseline satin with lace and pearl trimmings and veil of Brussels net and orange blossoms, and carried a boquet of white roses. The bride was attended by Miss Pearl Donnen, gowned in pink marquisette over silk with touches of blue, and carrying pink roses and ferns. W. D. Armstrong of Ottawa was best man. Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong left on a trip to Boston and New York, the latter travelling in a tailored suit of navy serge with hat of black and white plush. On their return they will reside in Iroquois.

Thanksgiving Night.

As previously announced in the Record the Epworth League of the Trinity Methodist Church are holding a concert on the evening of Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 28th. They have secured the services of one of the foremost preachers and orators in Canada, Rev. Hugh Pedley, D. D., of Emmanuel Congregational church Montreal. Dr. Pedley is a most popular preacher particularly with students and the young man and young woman of Canada's great metropolis. His subject is a very ordinary one "A Box of Matches," but he will undoubtedly treat it in an extraordinary and masterly manner. Seats will be placed on sale next week.

The young people of the church are doing a great favor to Chesterville in affording an opportunity for the people to hear "Hugh Pedley."

Harriston ratepayers carried a by-law to raise 11,000 for installing an electric light plant.

Under the new supervisor of the rural mail delivery, work on the extension of the service is being actively pushed forward and two hundred new routes have been established in Ontario and Quebec during the past three months Though the work became somewhat disorganized for a short period after the change of government due to the fact that the new government contemplated a new extension of the scheme, it is now in good condition.

Fifty Boards Have Registered Protest.

Upwards of fifty Separate School Boards in as many Ontario municipalities have now passed resolutions similar to that of the Ottawa Separate School Board opposing the new bilingual regulations of the Ontario Government, according to a statement made by President C. S. O. Boudreault of the French-Canadian Educational Association of Ontario.

A meeting was held last night at St. Eugene, Ont., where such action was taken. In every case where resolutions are passed they are forwarded to the Education Department of Education. The association has adopted a method of faciliating such action. Printed requests that more French he taught in the schools are sent out broadcast to parents of school children attending these schools, are signed by them and then sent in to the Separate School Boards. The latter, when they receive a sufficient number of such requests, act on them and pass resolutions which are promptly forwarded.

"The movement has spread over the whole Province now." said Mr. Boudrault. "We expect practically every Separate School Board in Ontario to join with us."
