THE KING AND QUEEN VISIT U. S. ARMY AIR CORPS AND RAF STATIONS

In a two-day tour covering 500 miles, the King and Queen visited two stations of the U.S. Army Air Corps and seven R.A.F. stations. They saw clear evidence of how the two great air arms are being welded into one vast striking force. Maj.-Gen. Ira O. Eaker, commanding the American Air Force in Britain, and Brig.-Gen. Frank O'D. Hunter, Commanding U.S. 8th Fighter Command, received the Royal visitors and the King plied the American Generals and other officers with questions about their co-operation with the RAF, and how the two forces are dovetailing their efforts.

PATRIOTIC SOW

Maurice Beckstead, down Grantley way, has what he considers a most patriotic sow. Thirteen months ago she had a litter of 12 pigs and raised them all. Four of that litter were kept for brood sows. Each of these young sows has had litters of ten pigs each 37 of which were raised. In the meantime the old sow has had two more litters of 12 each, making a grand total of 76 with the loss of but three pigs.

SICKNESS COSTS WILL BE REDUCED

Some drastic changes are impending in regualtions respecting Ontario hospitals. As a beginning the Provincial Government proposes to underwrite the cost of general ward care to remove the fear of expense which deters many people from seeking early and necessary hospital treatment. This will be done either by direct payment from the consolidated revenue of the province or through a hospital insurance plan that will cover everyone. Dr. R.P. Vivian, Minister of Health, declares that hospital facilities must be extended into areas which are not now served at all; overcrowded institutions must be relieved by the provision of care in other ways of incurable cases; and necessary extensions must be provided by a comprehensive building program. The program must provide for suitable and pleasant habitation for the aged without homes of their own, and in which there can be provided nursing care for the bed-ridden. Provision must also be made for convalescence and training of those whose illnesses have been lengthy or who are prevented from returning to their usual occupations. The Minister says that the most objectional features of the present hospital program is the extent to which private and semi-private wards are carrying the financial load of public ward accommodation. Many people are occupying private and semi-private accommodation and finding the burden of payment too heavy. A reason for the high cost of private accommodation is the difference between the cost of public-ward care for indigent patients and the sum provided by municipal and provincial grants. The combined are $2.30 a day. In most hospitals the loss caused by the difference between cost and grants amounts to at least 65 cents a day, representing a heavy loss to hospitals having a high percentage of public ward cases.

PHEASANTS HAVING THEIR INNINGS

While not desiring to gloat, the announcement that hunters are meeting with poor success in their annual onslaught on pheasants in the districts set apart for the slaughter, will be received with rejoicing in many quarters. Fortunately, the shooting season is short and weather conditions and shortage of ammunition have combined to protect the birds from alert hunters and their dogs. The desirability of an open season for pheasants is surely a very debatable matter. In most instances the hunters roam uninvited through farm fields and it cannot be said that in some districts the hand of welcome is extended. Pheasants are beautiful birds and in the winter months become so tame that they frequent barns and lodge with the hens. The colorings of the birds, particularly the male, is a joy to behold and the conservation of this bit of wild life is something that should engage the attention of the Ontario Game Department.

TOO MANY EXEMPTIONS IN SMALL MUNICIPALITIES

It is felt in many quarters that the question of exemptions has become a serious problem for municipalities and that something must be done to rectify the situation if the small property owner is to receive some relief from the burden of municipal taxes. It is estimated that approximately 25 percent of the total value of land and buildings in Ontario are exempt from municipal taxation. There, is too, the question of industrial properties which have been taken over by the Federal Government for the manufacture of war materials and munitions. The authorities have consistently refused to pay municipal taxes on such undertakings and the municipalities have been forced to make up the loss in revenue by levying a higher rate on other property owners. Mayor J.P. Ryan of Brantford believes that such taxes should be paid by the Crown, charged up to War expenditure, paid for by the people of Canada as a whole and not taken from taxpayers of local municipalities where such plants are situated. On the other hand, it can be argued that the favoured localities where such establishments are located benefit by the influx of new workers but whether the average ratepayer benefits to the extent of the exemption is a mooted question.

FARMER'S COSTS NOT FIGURED IN SELLING

Col. J.J. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, a practical farmer in every sense of the word, points that our labor shortage today is due, not only to the enlistment of young men from the farms in the armed forces, but to an even greater degree, to the fact that the farmer cannot compete with war industries in the wages he pays his help. Good plowing lies at the foundation of all field crop production and that is the basis of our agricultural economy in Ontario. The sound plowman is the backbone of our farm life. Col. Kennedy, declares the farmer is in an entirely different position than those engaged in industry, because, although he may set out to raise 5,000 units of his product—whether it be grain, potatoes, milk or livestock—he can never be sure what his ultimate production is going to be. Then, when it comes to marketing, industry and business have another advantage over the farmer. The manufacturer knows his costs, adds his profit and fixes the price of his product. The farmer is not allowed to fix prices and has to take what the market offers him. In too many cases, that price is far out of line with what it costs him to produce his grain, milk or his pork.

THE VICTOR
By William Wetmore Story

I sing the hymn of the conquered, who fell in the Battle of Life—
The hymn of the wounded, the beaten, who died overwhelmed in the strife;
Nor the jubilant song of the victors, for whom the resounding acclaim
Of nations was lifted in chorus whose brows wore the chaplet of fame—
But the hymn of the low and the humble, the weary, the broken in heart,
Who strove and who failed, acting bravely a silent and desperate part;
Whose youth bore no flower on its branches, whose hopes burned in ashes away,
From whose hands slipped the prize they had grasped at, who stood at the dying of day
With the wreck of their life all around them, unpitied, unheeded, alone.
With Death sweeping down o'er their failure, and all but their faith overthrown.

Speak, History! Who are Life's victors? Unroll thy long annals, and say,
Are they those whom the world calls the victors—who won the success of a day?
The martyrs, or Nero? The Spartans who fell at Thermopylae's tryst,
Or the Persians and Xerxes? His judges or Socrates? Pilate or Christ?

WHY WE ARE IN THE WAR AND WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT

Why do we buy Victory Bonds? There are several reasons, all quite sound. We do it to keep personal spending from clashing with government spending, and thus we forestall inflation. We do it to have a nest egg after the war, when consumers' goods will be plentiful. We do it for many reasons that boil down to the fact that they are a careful, well-backed, productive investment.

But let us not for one instant lose sight of the basic reason. We buy Victory Bonds first of all because we democratic, peace-loving Canadians have gone to war, leaders among the United Nations, with the passionate resolve of smashing big bullets and killing a vile spirit that threatened (and still threatens even in this hour of our vastly increased strength) to frustrate the ideals we stand for—all over the world.

Our Canadian life is built on an heroic design. From small beginnings, against strenuous hardships, we made ourselves into a great nation. But never an aggressive one. And when in the waning days of peace, we saw Hitler's Germany smash Czechoslovakia (a sort of small Canada in Europe), our blood boiled. We voiced our hot indignation through our newspapers, from our pulpits, and in our neighbourly talks over the back fence. Voiced it good and plenty.

But Nazi frightfulness did not stop. War spread. We lined up with democratic powers. It was democracy versus frightfulness, tolerance versus the appalling bullying of minorities, the will to enslave versus the will to set and keep free. We were utterly sincere in our resolve—and still we are.

How much are we sincere? We on the home front can answer that question concretely by buying Victory Bonds. That isn't a new argument, but it is still the biggest one of all.

TWELFTH SEASON.

Sir Ernest MacMillan will raise his baton for his twelfth consecutive season as conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, in this week's opening concert of the 1943-44 season. Part of the program will be broadcast over the CBC Alternative Network, on Tuesday, November 2, at 9 p.m. EDT.

Inside Stuff

Mrs. Newed entered the dining room and proudly placed the turkey on the table.

"There you are my dear, my first turkey!"

Mr. Newed gazed with admiration at the bird's shape.

"Wonderful, darling," he beamed. "And how beautifully you have stuffed it."

"Stuffed it?" she echoed. But, my dear, this one wasn't hollow!"

Sound Detection of Herrings

Herring swimming about in British Columbia waters were heard not long ago by a fishing vessel a hundred feet above them. As a matter of fact indeed, herring were heard when they were 250 feet or so under water. It was a mechanical ear which did the hearing, not human.

The listening "ear" was an echo sounder, an instrument intended primarily as a depth-sounding aid to navigation but tested in this instance as a device which might tell whether there were herring down below and at what depth levels in the water.

The sounder proved its effectiveness as a herring spotter, and possibly it could be used also in detecting other schooling fish, but it is not an inexpensive piece of apparatus and it remains for future operations to show whether it would be economically feasible to put it into extensive use.

The British Columbia tests were made last winter by members of the Pacific staff of the federal Fisheries Research Board from a fishing vessel which one of the large fish-producing companies had equipped with a sounder for the purpose. Earlier experiments of the same kind in Norway and elsewhere had been reported successful but the British Columbia people were "from Missouri" and wanted to be shown.

Tests were made of different places along the coast, and the sounder found herring. Its truthfulness was verified, in several instances at least, when experienced fishermen, using a weighted "feeling wire" such as they often use in their own operations, reported that where the sounder said there were herring they found herring, too, and at depths corresponding to those recorded through the mechanical ear. Incidentally, the tests showed that the echo sounder has a number of advantages over the "feeling wire" as a means of determining where herring are—one of them the fact, as cited by a Research Board man who had part in the tests, that "the exact depth and thickness of the school and some idea of its density can be obtained at a glance"— but, of course, it also costs much more than a simple piece of wire.

In principle the sounder is comparatively simple, though perhaps laymen might be inclined to regard it as something of a wonder-worker, especially when the fact is added that it can write as well as hear! By means of a transmitter the sounder sends a high frequency sound impulse downward into the water and then, through a receiver installed near the vessel's keel, picks up the echo when the echo is reflected upward from the sea bottom or intervening obstruction. When the echo is heard, the instrument writes down the depth it had come from, though that description of what happens may not be exactly as the expert would put it.

When transmitted sound impulses encountered bodies of herring, in the British Columbia experiment, back came echoes to the receiver apparatus. The mechanism went to work on them, so to speak, transformed them into electrical energy, amplified the energy, and applied it to a pen which automatically wrote on a slowly-moving strip of sensitized paper markings which corresponded to the depths from which the reflected sounds had come. And that is another way of saying that the pen marked down on the paper just how far the herring were below the water surface.

Farmer... Father of Fliers Recommends Victory Bonds to you...

● Lou Neilly is a typical Ontario farmer with 85 acres just north of Bradford. Two of the Neilly sons joined the R.C.A.F. One son was killed in service. The other is a Flight-Lieutenant on active service. A bond buyer himself, Lou Neilly personally sold $200,000 worth of Victory Bonds in the first four loans to people of his own township.

• • •

When Lou Neilly leans across a fence and chats with neighbors he often talks about Victory Bonds, and that it's everybody's duty to buy them. He says something like this—his message to you:

"The biggest chore in my life is doing what I can to win this war. I want my son and his pals, your sons, to get everything they need to do their job over there—wherever they are. I want too, to put aside what savings I can into Victory Bonds to give my oldest boy a fresh start when he takes off his uniform. You can put savings a great many places, but there is only one place where your savings will give our boys in service the help they need now. Everybody knows that Victory Bonds are as good as dollar bills—and that you can borrow on them any time you need cash—but we should buy bonds as our duty to our fighting men."

CONTROL DISTRIBUTION OF CANNED VEGETABLES

A system of controlled distribution of canned vegetables has been organized by the Prices Board to meet consumer needs during the winter months. The effect of this will be shortly to move into retail outlets, as the supply of fresh vegetables declines, the stocks of canned vegetables which were "frozen" in the hands of packers and wholesalers last July.

FARMERS AND FARM WORKERS

If Your Farm Work has Slackened for the Winter, You Are Needed Elsewhere in Essential Employment

Highly essential work—very important in Canada's war effort and for the welfare of the Nation—is threatened with shortages of workers. One of the few sources of men available for other high priority jobs is those men on the farm who will not be needed at home during the Fall and Winter. Heavy needs must be met in many lines—producing fuel wood and other necessary forest products; in base metal mines, in food processing, in railway track maintenance. If you live on a farm and are not needed at home during the Fall and Winter, you are urged to answer this national appeal.

Farmers engaged in essential work during the off season will be allowed to return home when needed. Also, those on postponement under Mobilization Regulations will continue on postponement while in approved essential work during the slack on the farm.

Please answer this vital call NOW.

Her car stalled at the corner. The light changed colours, red, yel green, several times while she tried to start. Then a cop walked over, put his foot on the running board and said:

"Yes," shouted the manager, "and they'll know the result at least 10 seconds before you will."

A Chicago man who is a great believer in efficiency hung up a sign in his office one day last week. It said "Do it now."

HOW TO KEEP HENS FROM DYING

The easiest way to get more poultry and eggs, with both feed and equipment scarce, is to reduce poultry losses. There are many things flock-owners can do to reduce losses.

1. Sell old hens not needed for breeders, or else house hens and pullets in separate buildings.

2. Scrape, sweep, scrub and scald the laying house floor before putting layers in. After floor is dry, use a good disinfectant on floor and walls. Clean and disinfect all equipment.

3. Give layers elbow room—four square feet of floor space per bird for light breeds, four and a half for heavier ones. Provide at least 20 lineal feet of mash hopper space (open at both sides) for every 100 birds. Have one nest for every six birds. If trap nests are being used, one for every four birds.

4. See that layers have at least five to seven gallons of water daily per 100 birds. Remove chill from water in cold weather, so birds will drink all they need. Water is the cheapest thing in a hen's ration ;eggs are mostly water.

5. Provide ventilation without drafts.

6. Select pullets carefully at housing time. Reject those that are lame undeveloped and those that have grey eyes with irregular pupils.

7. Keep a clean supply of grit before the layers at all times; also oyster shell or some other good source of calcium.

8. To maintain body weight, feed mash moistened with water or skim milk (or mash pellets) at noon—as much as the layers will clean up in a half-hour.

9. Cull hard and often to save feed and reduce losses. Birds won't be disturbed so much if culled at night with a flashlight.

10. Act promptly if disease starts. Get an acute diagnosis from a veterinarian or a poultry specialist who knows what it's all about. Remove dead hens from the laying house and completely burn them or bury them so deep that dogs, rats or other animals can't get at them.

11. Get rid of rats; they waste feed and spread disease.

12. Don't let chickens have the run of the barnyard and hog lots.

Absent-Minded All Right.

"This afternoon we will take Mr. Frog apart and see what makes him croak," said the professor to his zoology class. "I have a frog in my pocket to be used as a specimen."

He reached into his pocket and drew out a paper bag which he emptied on the table. Out rolled a badly squashed ham sandwich.

The professor mopped his brow. "My goodness," he stammered. "I distinctly remember eating my lunch."

Thinking Aloud?

"But, my dear," bleated the poor little henpecked husband, "what have I done now? You've been talking for half an hour, and I haven't said a word."

"No," snapped the wife, "you haven't said anything, but you've been listening in a most aggravating manner and I'm not going to stand for it."

Henry Cassidy, Maple Ridge Passes After Heart Attack

The sudden death of the late Mr. Cassidy came as a shock to his many friends and neighbours of the community. The deceased was born at Nation Valley and the son of the late James Cassidy and Sophia Barclay.

Mr. Cassidy had been suffering from heart condition for the last month, but had always been able to be about his work, until about 10 o'clock Friday morning. Suddenly taking a severe pain in his chest while at work in the field with his wife, went to the house and rested until noon. He went out to the field and helped his wife unhitch the horses and brought them to the barn. He ate a real hearty dinner and went out to the field again in the afternoon where he stayed until chore time. He carried out the milk and pumped the water as usual. Mr. Cassidy came in the house at six forty-five but was unable to eat any supper. He laid down for a few minutes, then got up in the chair again remarking his heart could not last much longer. Mrs. Cassidy wanted to summon the Dr. but he said he would be allright in a few minutes. He called for his wife to help him to bed, but before she could get him, he fell with his face to the floor. She raised him up on her arm, assisted by a young son Earl, where he died in her arms about five minutes later. He tried to speak to his wife a couple of times, but was unable to do so.

A neighbour, Mrs. Gordon Guy, got there just before he passed away and Ross Young just a few minutes after.

Survived by his widow, the former Gertrude Lottie, Quackenbush of Kemptville whom he married 27 years ago, he leaves three sons, Spr. John Cassidy and Pte. James Cassidy serving overseas and Earl at home; three daughters, Wilda of Ottawa, Mrs. Lester Bryan (Hilda) of Mountain and Elizabeth at home; also one brother and four sisters.

The funeral service was conducted on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. W.E. Wright, of Chesterville United Church. Remains were laid to rest in Maple Ridge cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs. Albert Fulton, Fred Fulton, Ronald Fulton, Drury Fulton, Ross Young and Gordon Guy.

List of floral offerings, testifying the high esteem in which the late Mr. Cassidy was held were the following: Pillow—Family; Wreaths—Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bryan, and Kathleen Cassidy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Scarfe, Miss Audrey and Ada Scarfe; Basket—Mr. Albert Fulton and Staff of Vail's Laundry; Cut Flowers—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Link and Mr. and Mrs. Benson George.

Those attending the funeral from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Eli Quackenbush, of Kemptville; Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lapland, Heckston; Mr. James Raymond, Mr. Arthur Aegar of Kemptville; Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Belair and Mr. James Casey, Hebert Killeen, all of Ottawa.

Thinks His Seed Sold Pretty Wel

Twenty-four dollars per bushel for seed grain may seem like a lot of money, but that is the price received by Mr. Clem H. Ketcheson, 5th concession, Sidney Township, when he exhibited two bushels of grain at Welland Fair this Autumn.

Well known as an exhibitor at fairs in the bay of Quinte district, Mr. Ketcheson shipped a bushel each of oats and wheat to Welland Fair, instructing officials to sell the grain following the exhibition rather than have it shipped back to the owner. A week or two following the fair, Mr. Ketcheson received a cheque for $48 from fair officials, but no intimation was made as to what prizes he might have won.

Not knowing whether he won prizes at the fair, Mr. Ketcheson is nevertheless well satisfied and considers he got what might be a record price for his seed grain.

They'll Do It Every Time.

Modern Child

Little Tommy had spent his first day of school. Mother was anxious to know how he had got on.

"What did you learn, dear?" she asked.

"Didn't learn nothin'," came the discouraging reply.

"Well, then, what did you do?" mother persisted.

"Didn't do nothin'. A woman wanted to know how to spell "dog" an' I told her. That's all."

Remember

Father Time is a duel personality. He is a veritable Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. At once and the same time he is kind and he is cruel.

If we want proof of this, we need only cast our thoughts back to the days of 1915-18. Since that period Time graciously healed most of the wounded Canadian hearts which then ached in loneliness and begged piteously for one more touch of the missing hand and lips of those stilled forever in the mud of Europe. But Time also dulled our memories of the horrible pain and grief which swirled in the wake of predatory German generals.

Only fourteen year after 1918, Only fourteen years after 1918, rise again as a threat against world peace, Time had blurred our minds. We do not readily recall the inhuman heart-breaking experiences of the first World War. There was no overpowering urge in our breasts to stamp out the smoldering fire of conquest before it became an unmanageable holocaust. Time had so softened our recollections of the tragedy in that short space, the rewakening of the German militaristic spirit did not warn us to meet and overpower it immediately.

Have we yet learned how wicked Time can be?

It is only four years ago since the stiff-necked goose steppers ran bayonets through the frail bodies of old men and women in Poland, led little children into fields to shoot them down with machine gun bullets. But three years have passed since the Germans bombed old and young civilians out of the towns and cities of Belgium, to choke the highways against the apporach of the opposing armies—and then bombed and machine-gunned these helpless creatures along the roads. Will we let Time make us forget that now?

It is about three weeks since the Nazi monsters looted the city of Naples and mercilessly murdered inhabitants because they expressed their dislike of the German cause. Can we forget that also?

For four years, thousands of the finest of our Canadian youth, destined to live happy lives among us, have fallen victims to German guns. Is our sorrow from their loss already cooling?

Or are we keeping fresh those bitter memories of the past since 1939, arousing in our hearts a grim determination to end this senseless parade of wars for a long, long time?

There is a message being spread throughout the land in these days of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign. Its purport is, "Let's not become complacent."

But here is a yet more potent slogan for us at this moment. It is contained in one word:

"Remember."

If we will keep green the indescribable horrors of this war, if we will remember that these were perpetrated by the Germans and will be repeated again and again unless we completely crush the German militaristic spirit, we won't need any warning against complacency.

We will pour our dollars into Victory Bonds as never before, speed our work in war factories and take increasing pride in the actual job of extermination which our men are carrying out at the battle front.

PRINCESS ALICE USES LITTLE RHYME

Giving a fillup to an earnest address, and with a merry gleam in her eyes, Princess Alice concluded her remarks yesterday to the Eastern Ontario Women's Institutes with what she said was a "vulgar little rhyme, which I found the other day."

"The Lord gave us two ends to use,
One to think with and the other to sit with,
The war depends on which we choose,
Heads we win, tails we lose."

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

A WORD OF CAUTION

TO MEN OF MILITARY AGE AND TO THEIR EMPLOYERS

National Selective Service Civilian Regulations authorize the Minister of Labour to require that male employees furnish their employers with evidence that they have not failed to comply with National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (i.e., the Military Call-Up).

It is intended that an order will be issued shortly, requiring employers to carry out the necessary check on their male employees, and to report any men who do not produce the required evidence of compliance.

The check up will cover every male employee who has reached the age of 18 years and six months and has not reached his 38th birthday. The man will have to show evidence in one of the following forms:—

(a) A man discharged from the Armed Forces following service during the present war should have his discharge certificate. A discharged man who has not a certificate should apply for one in the following manner:—

Army—District Officer Commanding, Military District in which discharge took place.

Air—Records Office, R.C.A.F. Headquarters, No. 5 Temporary Building, Ottawa, Ont.

Navy—Secretary of Naval Board, Ottawa, Ont.

(b) A man who has responded to a direction from a Registrar of a Divisional Mobilization Board, to report for medical examination under Mobilization Regulations, should have either a certificate of unfitness or an order for postponement of military training from the Divisional Registrar. (A man entitled to either document who has lost his copies should immediately apply to the Divisional Registrar who issued the original, for a duplicate.)

(c) A man who has been rejected on application for voluntary enlistment in the Army since the beginning of the war, should have a certificate showing that he was rejected through medical unfitness. (If a man entitled to such a certificate does not possess it, he should apply to the District Military Headquarters of the District in which he applied for enlistment, in order to procure the necessary form.)

(d) A man in the designated classes who has not reached his 38th birthday, who was married as at July 15th, 1940, or who, having been married before that date, is a widower with children, must be prepared to furnish evidence, such as a marriage certificate or birth certificate of a child, to show that he was married before July 15th, 1940, and that he is now either married or is a widower with children.

(e) A man who has reported for enrolment in the Army under an Order—Military Training issued under the Mobilization Regulations and who has been rejected should have a certificate showing he was rejected through medical unfitness. If a man entitled to such certificate does not possess it, he should apply to the District Officer Commanding the Military District in which he was rejected.

(f) (i) A man who is not subject to the Mobilization Regulations because he is an enemy alien who has not made application for naturalization may obtain a certificate from a registrar of his Divisional Mobilization Board indicating that the Mobilization Regulations do not apply to him and such certificates must be obtained by all such enemy aliens:

(ii) A man who is an alien and neither a national of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, the United States nor Yugoslavia and has not applied for naturalization may be relieved of his duty under Mobilization Regulations, but he gives up his right to future Canadian citizenship after the war; where such men have applied for such relief and been granted such status, certificates will be issued by registrars in appropriate cases.

This caution is issued to facilitate compliance with the order which is proposed. A reasonable interval will be allowed to permit men to provide themselves with whatever document, as referred to above, they may be entitled to hold.

Employers are requested to give notice of this proposal to their male employees, to facilitate the operation of the order when issued.

Too Precious

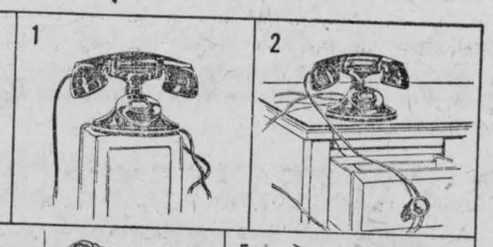
A minister was called out late one night to visit a man who was very ill. After he had done what he could for the man, who was at death's door, he asked the relatives why he was fetched.

"I don't think I know you," said the minister. "Haven't you a minister of your own?"

"Yes," was the reply, "but we couldn't risk him with typhoid."

"Please take good care of your Telephone!"

A damaged telephone may be hard or impossible to replace — repair parts are scarce and material for new equipment has gone to war. So please guard your present telephone with extra care. Here, for instance, are six common causes of damage:



AVOID THESE MISTAKES:

1. Never place your telephone on the wall box or on a narrow shelf. Keep it on a wide, firm table or desk.
2. Be careful that the cord does not loop over the drawer handle or knob. Opening the drawer may pull the telephone over; closing it may pinch and damage the cord.
3. Keep your telephone cord unkinked—twisting may injure the wire and necessitate replacement.
4. When painting, protect your telephone with a cloth or paper. When washing floors or woodwork, be sure that the cord does not get soaked with water.
5. Always replace the receiver carefully. Banging it down may injure the delicate mechanism inside. (Be sure it is placed correctly on its support, too, to avoid causing a "busy" signal.)
6. If you have dial service, please do not use a pencil or other sharp point when dialing. It disfigures and damages the dial and often causes a wrong number as well.

"Shell Out" for War Services

Hello Homemakers! Memories of hilarious Hallowe'en pranks made us wonder what the younger generation may think of next. The initiative and energy of the kids who go out witching on the 30th of October may prove expensive when we try to find a handyman to repair the night's damage.

Before the war many organizations sponsored "magic" parties; householders bought candles and nuts to shell out to youthful masqueraders and mothers held candy-making parties in the homes. This year amateur vandalism and oodles of candies and nuts are "out".

Many have already made plans for Hallowe'en. Organizations have planned war service campaigns. Householders in some localities are purchasing printed Milk for Britain tickets and the costumed teams are to receive these as their loot, turn them into the school or place of meeting where the children may gather for a chaperoned party. After all, what would Hallowe'en be without grandma's dress or father's pants to disguise you. Such fun as costume parades, bobbing for apples and pin the tail on the donkey until the masquerade is over, will conclude another memorable Hallowe'en.

ECONOMY PUMPKIN PIE

Pastry One Egg

2 tbs. shortening, 2 tbs. cornstarch, ¾ cup brown sugar, ¼ tsp. nutmeg, 1 tsp. cinnamon, ¼ tsp. ginger, ½ tsp. salt, 1¼ cups cooked and strained or canned pumpkin, 1 small can (¾ cup) evaporated milk, ½ cup milk, 1 egg.

Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry and bake in hot oven of 400 degrees F. for 10 minutes.

While pie shell is baking make pumpkin filling:

Melt the shortening in top part of double boiler. Blend in the cornstarch, brown sugar, spices and salt. Add the pumpkin and milk and mix thoroughly. Cook over boiling water, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes. Pour hot mixture over slightly beaten egg, mix well and place in partly baked pie shell. Reduce oven heat to 325 degrees F. and bake pie for 30 to 35 minutes or until pumpkin is set.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

REFRIGERATOR PUMPKIN PIE.

No Eggs.

1 tb. gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1½ cups milk, 1½ cups cooked and strained or canned pumpkin, 2 tbs. butter, 2 tbs. molasses, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 tsp. ginger, 1 tsp. cinnamon, ¾ tsp. salt, flaked corn cereal pastry crust.

Soak the gelatine in cold water. Combine the milk, pumpkin, butter and molasses together in double boiler. Combine the sugar, ginger, cinnamon and salt and add to the liquid mixture. Add softened gelatine, mix thoroughly and cool. Pour into a 9-inch flake corn cereal pastry crust. Chill well in an electric refrigerator before serving.

FLAKED CORN CEREAL PASTRY

¼ cup butter, 1 cup flaked corn cereal crumbs, ¼ cup sugar.

Melt the butter in a 9-inch pie pan. Add the flaked corn cereal crumbs and sugar. Mix well and press the pastry firmly around the sides and bottom of pan. Chill before filling.

TAKE A TIP

Listen to Mrs. Kate Aitken over CFRB each Friday evening a 8 p.m. Your question sent to the Mixing Bowl may be discussed during this programme.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. J.C. asks: Recipe for Quick Drop Doughnuts.

1¾ cups once sifted pastry flour or 1½ cups once-sifted bread flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. grated nutmeg, 1 egg, ¼ cup corn syrup or liquid honey, ¼ cup (lightly packed) brown sugar, 1-3 cup milk, fat for deep frying.

Measure the flour and add baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Using a rotary beater, beat the egg until very thick and light; gradually beat in the syrup or honey, then the brown sugar. Sift in the dry ingredients a third at a time, alternating additions of the flour with the milk, and combining after each addition. The mixture should be of drop consistency—if the batter seems thin, sift in a little additional flour, with an extra 1-3 teaspoon baking powder. Heat shortening to 365 degrees (hot enough to brown a cube of white bread delicately in 55 to 60 seconds.) Dip a spoon in the hot shortening and use to drop small spoonfuls of the batter into the frying kettle. Brown on one side, turn and brown second side; lift from the fat and drain—serve them hot or cold. If desired, a thin sugary coating may be given to the doughnuts by sifting a little icing sugar or fruit sugar, and some ground cinnamon over the top. Yield: 18 small doughnuts.

DISEASES OF THE ARTERIES

Diseases of the arteries ranked third among the ten leading causes of death in Canada in 1940. For the most part this is a disease of the upper age brackets, although a few deaths are recorded each year in the age group 20 to 45. Osler has said: "A man is as old as his arteries". Thus, a man of 30 years may have a condition of the arteries similar to that of a man of 60 years of age.

Just how long the arteries will last depends in the first place on the quality of arterial tissues a person inherits. Whole families may show a tendency to arteriosclerosis. In the second place, a man having received good equipment from his forbearers, may subject his body to bad treatment—over-indulgence in intoxicating liquors, over-eating, continual high-pressure under nervous strain, and over-work of the muscles, all of which tend to increase the blood pressure. These in turn cause a breakdown of the tubes containing the blood.

Diet and rest will lengthen the span of life, but just as a rubber band will not regain its lost elasticity so too hardened arteries cannot be rejuvenated and must be accorded the same care given all worn out machines. Sex appear to have very little bearing upon disease of the arteries as males and females are affected in almost equal proportions.

During the fifteen year period from 1926 to 1940 an annual average of 7,737 deaths due to disease of the arteries was recorded, or a fifteen year total of 116,048. In 1926 the crude death rate for this cause per 100,000 of the population was 54.2. There was a sharp rise to 1930 when the rate was 67.6; in 1931 it dropped to 57.5 and rose again very sharply to 103.3, showing an increase of 79.7 percent. in nine years.

"BATTLE OF BRITAIN" SEEN BY MANY

Last night the longest que ever seen waiting for a chance to see a show at the Community Theatre reached well out onto the street. The picture gave a glimpse of the awfulness of a bombing blitz, but it could hardly be said to have been enjoyed. The presentation of the show here was not good, with many cracks in the film and other little annoyance. If "The Happy Gang" are really happy their looks on the screen must be something else again.

Sandy (entering Edingburgh garden): "Have ye a nice cucumber?"
Gardener: "Aye, here's one. That will be 5 pence."
Sandy: "Too much. Have ye no' one for tuppence?"
Gardener: "Ye can have this for tuppence."
Sandy: "All right, here's the tuppence. But don't cut it off; I'll be calling for it in about a fortnight."

Your ordinary fire policy does not cover all of the above hazards . . . but the Preferred Property Damage Policy Gives this broad coverage on Dwellings and Apartment Buildings

Its cost is equitable; that's why every property owner can well afford it. You never know when a catastrophe may strike your property, especially from fire, windstorm or smoke, to say nothing about damage from lightning or hail, or when a roof or wall may collapse from weight of ice and snow.

The Preferred Property Damage Policy is one of the broadest forms of Property protection issued.

Enquire about this contract. We will give you full particulars.
