SERVICE, to Us IMPLIES MUCH

Among the things that characterize our service are personal attention to every detail of the funeral arrangement, and little acts of thoughtfulness that serve to lessen the trying strain of the hours before and during the funeral. Quiet efficiency and smoothness are the result. That, we believe, is the kind of service that wins approval.

Calls to hospitals given prompt service.

HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

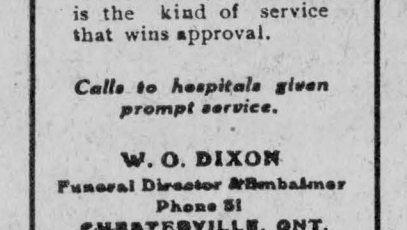

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

There passed away at her home on Maple Ridge one of the few remaining survivors of the early families of that district in the person of Mrs. James Fawcett at the advanced age of 76 years. Mrs. Fawcett had spent practically her whole life in the immediate vicinity and all her wedded life on the farm where she died. Her husband, the late James Fawcett, passed away four years ago. Six daughters and three sons survive, being, Mrs. Mahlon Barrigar, Mrs. John Ritchie, and Mrs. W. Rennick of Ottawa; Mrs. Irvin Blackwell of Smiths Falls, Mrs. Army Patterson of Mountain, Mrs. A. Froats of Nation Valley, John, Spearman and Fred of Chesterville.

The funeral on Wednesday, June 27th, was very largely attended held at the family home where Rev. R. E. Newman conducted the service after which interment was made in Maple Ridge cemetery, the pall-bearers being six sons-in-law of the deceased, Messrs. W. Rennick, Irvin Blackwell, J. Ritchie, A. Froats, M. Barrigar, and A. Patterson. Many floral tributes were received from a large circle of friends paying a last token of respect to one who held their esteem and affection throughout a long life.

St. Luke's W.M.S., Finch

The Scripture reading and Bible lesson were chosen from Genesis xxxii and given by Mrs. J. J. McMillan. Mrs. H. Gallinger offered a special prayer for unity in our missionary work. Readings were given by Mrs. A. Beckstead, Miss N. Gillies and Mrs. Thos. Sutherland on immigration in Canada, as this was the study topic for this meeting.

The Secretary, Mrs. A. Beckstead, read the minutes of the last regular meeting, which were adopted.

The roll call was answered by each member with a verse of Scripture containing the word "Confession."

The prayer in the Glad Tidings was read in unison.

A reading from the study book, "The Royal Road," was given by Mrs. Gladstone McLean, then hymn 386 was sung. Miss Grace Hamilton read an article from the Glad Tidings on the life of the late Rev. John Wilkie D.D.

A committee was appointed to arrange for the program for the July meeting to be held in the church when the Home Helpers are expected to attend. Th meeting was closed by hymn 560 and prayer by Mrs. J. J. McMillan.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Hople, Mrs. R. Wiseman, Mrs. J. Humes, Mrs. W. A. McMillan, Mrs. S. Whittaker, to whom a vote of thanks was accorded.

Heavy Storm Hits This Section

Yesterday afternoon this district was visited by one of the heaviest storms of the season when a deluge of rain accompanied by some hail and a gale of wind swept over it. No particular damage was done within the village the weight of the storm striking more to the east. At Frank Hummel's, a mile north of Chesterville, one of his silos was blown down and the ventilator removed from the other, and several large trees in his sugar bush blown down. At the Doering Stock Farm a temporary building housing a ditcher was blown away and trees uprooted. On the Finch Road the new Hydro line was in trouble where trees had fouled it. The greatest damage to trees was suffered by that beautiful avenue of maples east of Campbell's hill where five or six trees were snapped off. Near Berwick the buildings of Mills Foster are reported to have been badly damaged, and many silos overturned.

CHESTERVILLE WINS AND LOSES AT WINCHESTER

In the holiday tournament at Winchester on Monday Chesterville won their opening game form Winchester by 5 to 4 when Plantz covered himself with glory smashing out a home run in the last innings with two on and winning the old ball game. In the second game when pitted against Morewood they were not quite so successful losing out after the game looked safe with a five to nothing score only to see it slip with a final count of 8 to 5.

Mack---Smith

The Holiness Movement church, 113 avenue and 91 street, Edmonton, Alta., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, June 20th, when Cora Elizabeth Pearl Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Smith, formerly of Chesterville, was united in marriage to Mr. Willis Dickson Mack, second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mack. The Rev. J. A. Stark officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of powder blue georgette and hat to match and wore a corsage bouquet of pink white carnations and fern. Miss Clara Mack, sister of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid. She was dressed in sand crepeback satin and hat to match and wore a corsage bouquet of sweet peas. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Cecil Smith, brother of the bride. The wedding march was played by Miss Doris Brunson.

After the ceremony a delightful dinner was served to the relatives and intimate friends at the home of the bride's parents.

After June 30 the happy couple will be at home to friends at 11436 86 street.

Horticultural Lecture Well Attended

A much larger attendance than has attended a horticultural lecture in Chesterville for some time turned out to hear Mr. Henry Moore Friday evening in the Music Hall. The meeting was opened by Mr. O. D. Casselman in a short but very appropriate address on the growing of shrubs and perrenials in which he blazed the way for Mr. Moore, when he suggested the desirability of local growers confining their efforts to the more hardy varieties to the exclusion of tropical and sub-tropical varieties, which more often than otherwise result in disappointment. Mr. Casselman suggested that as nowhere on the continent do dahlias and paeonies do better than in this locality, that they presented two varieties through the cultivation of which Chesterville might become prominent.

Mr. Moore bore out all Mr Casselman had said and approved the suggestions.

While Mr. Moore wandered considerably from the subject it was expected he would talk on his remarks when confined to horticulture were very attentively listened to and much profit gained from the pictures presented showing that the desired effect was worth while striving for and within the means of almost any one in achieving.

WINCHESTER TWP. COUNCIL

The July meeting of Winchester Township Council was held at Morewood on Monday, July 2nd.

The members were all present, notwithstanding the holiday.

The chief business was the passing of road accounts, nearly $4,500.00 being paid out for road work done.

The Engineer's report on the Henderson Creek Drain was presented and in view of the small amount of filling in it was decided to take no further action at present.

The Engineer was instructed to report on the condition of the Edwin Baker Drain.

Next meeting at Winchester, on Monday, August 6th.

POTATO BLIGHT

For Potato Blight nothing is as good as Home-Made Bordeaux Mixture. The mixture is 4. 4. 40
4 lbs. of Copper Sulphate
4 lbs. of Quick Lime and
40 gallons of Water.

The reason the Home-Made is better is that the Copper Sulphate should be dissolved in 20 gallons of the water and the quick lime added to the other 20 gallons. Then when ready to apply mix equal parts of the two solutions.

If you wish to kill the bugs at the same time you may add to the mixture Paris Green or Arsenate of Lead.

Miss Edith C. Durant

The death occurred in an Ottawa hospital on Saturday, June 30th, of Edith C. Durant, eldest daughter of Merrick and the late Mrs. Durant.

Miss Durant was born in Elma, but with the exception of the last four years during which she resided in Ottawa, she lived the greater part of her life in Winchester, where she was a devoted and valued member of the choir and Young Pople's Societies of the former Methodist church there and during residence in Ottawa a member of Chalmers United church.

While a great deal of her life was spent in suffering and ill-health, yet she was always cheery and patient and had a kindly word and sunny smile for all those with whom she came in contact.

Surviving her are her father, a sister, Miss Agnes and brother, Blake, of Ottawa; a brother, M. C., of Smiths Falls and three other sisters, Mrs. George Stallmeyer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Mrs. J. E. Cook, Moosejaw, and Mrs. W. M. Fulton of Chesterville.

A motor funeral was held from Burney's Funeral Parlors to Winchester United church where the services were conductd at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, July 3rd. Interment at Maple Ridge cemetery.

What's The Country Coming To

(Toronto Star.)

What's this news that comes from the wide open spaces of Ontario, the great outdoors of the province where little villages nestle in luxuriant valleys and cattle low upon a thousand hills?

The news is—and the faces of strong men who were rural athletes in their youth blanch as they hear it—is that the young men of the villages are organizing local soft ball leagues! It is true! We see references to it in the local papers.

Husky village youths who used to play baseball—who used to snatch grounders that were travelling like bullets and pick flies out of the sky, who used to play a game so fast that the eye could scarcely follow it. who could bend a club into a hard ball and knock it half-way out of the township, who could stand in the pitcher's box, tie themselves in a bow knot and curve a ball over the plate so fast that Babe Ruth himself couldn't have seen it, who could stand behind the plate, masked and padded, and rifle a ball to second so fast that Ty Cobb would have been caught sure—these husky village youths are now playing soft ball! They have shrunk the diamond to half its size. called in the outfield, are playing with a ball about the size of a young sofa pillow, and when a bad play is made they exclaim : "Oh, my!"

It must have been by processes of this sort that ancient civilization began the decline that ultimately crumbled them into dust. The cities, crowded and cramped, began something because of the deprivations imposed by their congested state, and the strong, healthy country weakly followed. This game of soft ball was devised for playing indoors in drill halls and places where baseball could not be played. It spread from there to corner lots where there wasn't room to swat a real ball. A sphere like a boxing glove with the thumb cut off was used so that nobody could hit it out of the backyard. The pitcher was required to toss it ike a girl, not throw it like a man. The catcher didn't need pads, gloves or mask—nothing was going to hurt him.

Softball is good enough game in its place. It is far better than no game at all. It is a real boon to localities where land sells at a hundred dollars a foot and only small places are vacant. As a game it compares with baseball even more favorably than ping pong compares with tennis. But in the name of those great days of yesteryear, when village teams played real ball, when umpires escaped on motorcycles and visiting teams got to the railway station by roundabout ways and on the run—in the name of the valorous past why do husky youths in the country, who have all the space in the world for baseball, fall back on a deleted, diluted, denatured form of the game and knock a pillow from hand to hand?

There are Two Sides to this Story

MOST people think of their Chevrolet dealer as a NEW-CAR dealer . . partly because of the large number of new Chevrolets which they see on the streets.

But, while new car sales are the Chevrolet dealer's biggest reason for being in business, they form only one side of his activities. He must not only sell cars but he must also exchange them.

Every good, successful Chevrolet dealer must also be a good, successful Used Car dealer.

From his experience in selling Chevrolet cars, he knows motor-car values . . He knows that it is just as important for him to sell a Used Car as a new car . . He knows that Used Car buyers have a right to as much for their dollar and are entitled to as complete satisfaction as new car buyers . . He knows that satisfied Used Car owners will eventually become prospects for new cars . . He knows the value of good-will.

In short, our business as Chevrolet dealers depends on our reputation as used car dealers. That is why you are sure of a square deal and a sound dollar-for-dollar value, when you buy a used car here. UC-7-7-28C

Fatalities Near Cornwall On The Holiday

Patrick Marquette, 30 years of age, died at the General Hospital, Cornwall on Monday as the result of injuries received when he jumped from an automobile on the provincial highway while Alphonse Decoste, 20 years of age, of East Cornwall, was drowned while bathing in the St. Lawrence river near Sheiks Island.

Mr. Marquette, accompanied by Gerald Quinn, Prescott; W. J. Carter, Ogdensburg, N.Y., and L. J. Squire, was returning to Prescott from Montreal. Some distance east of Cornwall he stepped on the running board of the machine, lost his balance and fell to the ground. He was picked up and did not appear badly hurt.

The party continued to Cornwall where he was attended by Dr. John A. McGuire. The examinaion revealed a fractured skull and he was ordered removed to the General Hospital. He died three hours later.

Mr. Decoste was a member of a party of 40 persons, who left East Cornwall in anticipation of having a picnic at Sheik's Island, at the Longue Sault Rapids. Shortly after lunch, accompanied by a brother, Wilfred, and Leonard Lalonde, he went swimming, and about 150 feet from shore was caught in the current.

Members of the party on the shore perceiving his distress threw boards out to him but these drifted away. Before their eyes he was carried below the surface. The body was recoverd a half hour later by two Indians.

No inquests were necessary, it was decided, in either the drowing or road accident.

THOSE NON-SUPPORTERS

Kingston Whig-Standard—We take off our hat to Magistrate J. M. Farrell for the beautiful dressing-down he gave the husband, "dressed like a million dollars," who appeared in police court this week to answer to a charge of non-support of his wife and two children under 16 years of age. The magistrate minced no words in dealing with the man, nor did he hesitate, in making an order for a payment of a weekly sum, to accompany it with an alternative sentence of three months in jail. This is real justice and we would have more of it—where the innocent are protected and not punished by imposing a jail sentence on the offender, leaving the innocent helpless and still without funds, rather than making the husband "toe the mark" in a civic way. But what fine specimens of humanity these non-supporters are!

Farewell For Miss A. Connor

On Friday evening last, Miss Helen Beehler was hostess to about fifty guests who assembled to bid "farewell" to Miss Annie Connor who has been employed as teacher in this section for the past six years.

The evening was spent in music and dancing. After a dainty lunch had been served the following address was read by Miss Florence Masterson:

Dear Annie, —

Six short years ago you came among us as a stranger, and during this time we have learned to know and appreciate your sterling worth.

To-night we have gathered here to say "farewell" before you leave for your new field of labor.

We will miss your cheery laughter and amiable disposition from our social circle, in which you have been ever-ready to do your share.

While evidences portray that you are not leaving for any great distance, we are not sure. We hope you will remember "your old gang" wherever your future life may lead you.

We wish you to accept these tokens of remembrance which are presented to you with the sincerest of good wishes, and would like you to remember that wherever you go, or whatever you do, you have left us wishing the very best for you and "The Best Is None Too Good for Annie."

Signed on behalf of what is left of that Old Gang of Yours—Helen Beehler, Peter Manley.

The gifts, which were a case containing twenty-six pieces of Roger's silver, and a cut silver bon-bon dish, were presented by Mr. Mike Knight and Mr. Walter Beehler.

Miss Connor thanked her friends for their kindesses in a very appropriate manner. Then the pleasures of the evening were indulged in until the wee sma' hours when friends seemed reluctant to part.

Railway Crossing Accidents

With all possible warnings, signs and signals, these continue with deplorable loss of life. The only remedy seems to lie entirely in the hands of motor car drivers themselves, most of whom, no doubt, are careful and looking both ways, perhaps stopping, but at such distance from the point of danger many have their view obstructed by buildings or trees.

If they proceed to within 10 feet of the nearest rail, stop there (where perfectly safe), they have a clear view in each direction of 1,500 feet, even in a deep earth cutting on a 4 degree curve, and such extreme conditions are presented at very few level crossings in Canada. A train running at 60 miles an hour requires only 13 seconds to cover that distance, and the motorist if he attempts to cross two tracks at 6 miles per hour requires 6 seconds to do it and leave 10 feet clear behind his car. He can walk the 54 feet in 12 seconds. But is it necessary, or wise, to take such a risk? Wait still 26 seconds and allow the train to pass. It is desired herein to emphasize that the proper point to stop before going over the rails, is 10 feet from the nearest and then "Stop! Look! and Listen!"—and not two or three hundred feet away.

The death occurred at the village of Roblin, of Peter Hart, aged 107 years, the oldest resident of that section and possibly the olest resident of Eastern Ontario.

Iroquois Woman Hurt In Auto Collision

IROQUOIS, July 3. — Mr. Wm. Merkley, River Road West, driving with his family to Sunday School Sunday morning, collided with a car at the corner of King and Chestnut streets, smashing a front wheel of his own car and throwing his young son out, who, however, escaped injury. The occupants of the other car were not so fortunate. It was driven by Mr. Stevenson of Maple Grove, and with him were his wife and a friend. Although the car received no damage, Mrs. Stevenson, for whose health they were driving, was thrown against the front seat sustaining some cuts about the face and a severe shaking up. Carried to a nearby house, Dr. E. H. Marcellus was called and rendered first aid, and after resting for a time she was able to attempt the homeward drive.

Williamsburg Wo's. Inst.

The following is the report of the Williamsburg Women's Institute for 1927-1928. There were forty-three members and the twelve regular meetings were held with a majority of the members present. Besides the regular business of each meeting good programs and demonstrations were given and at several meetings refreshments were served.

During the year flowers and fruit were sent to those who were seriously ill in our village, as well as our share towards a wreath for our late beloved district president. A poor family was given aid at Christmas time, a banner made and a picture bought for the school. From a special collection a gift was presented to our pianist who was leaving to train for a nurse. As usual the greater amount of our proceeds was paid for the cemetery.

"Is it true that you have broken off your engagement?" queried the inquisitive visitor.

The young man addressed shook his head mournfully.

"No," he said, "I didn't break it off."

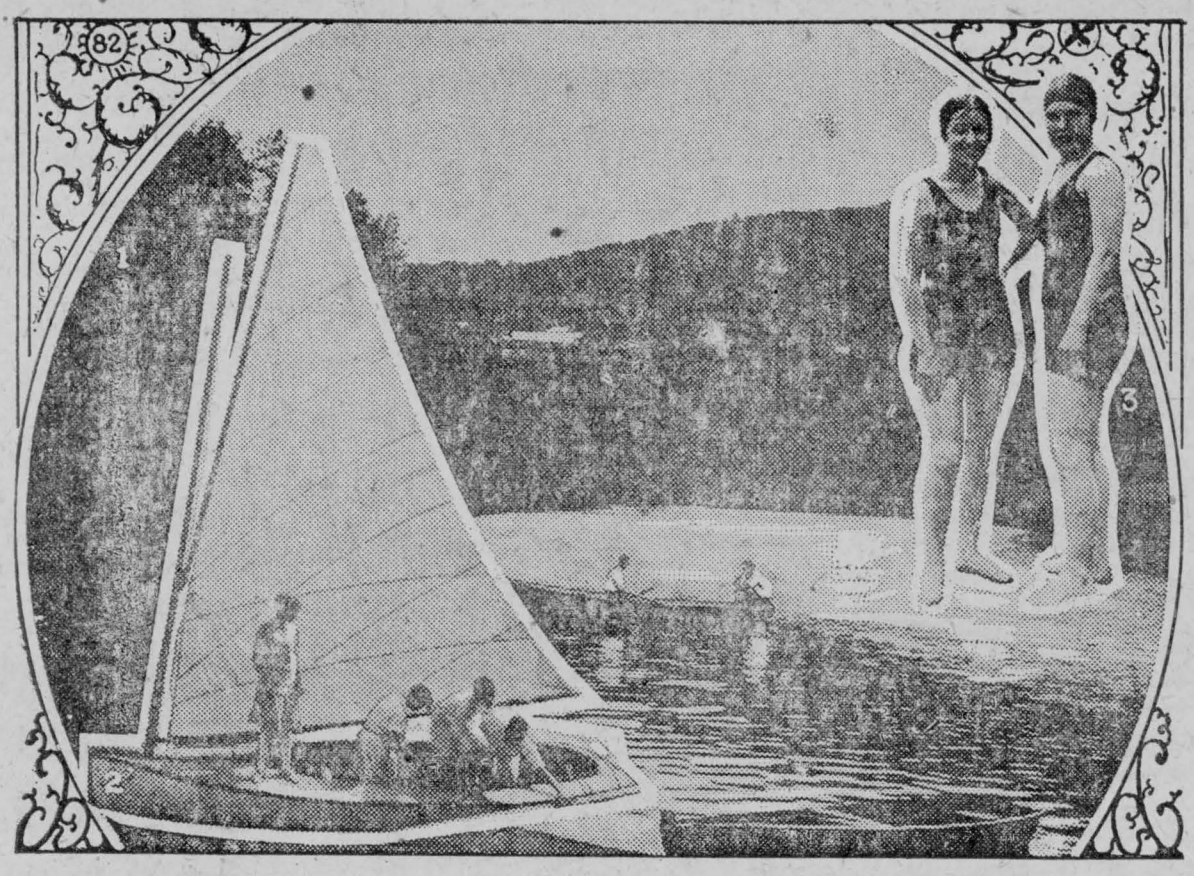

"Oh, she broke it off then?' '

The young man again shook his head.

"But it is broken off, isn't it?"

"Oh, yes," explained the moody one with delicacy. "She told me what her milliner's bill was, and I told her how much a week I got. Then our engagement just sagged in the middle and gently dissolved."

THE LURE OF THE LAURENTIANS

(1). A section of the North River at Piedmont. (2). Off for the day on the wings of the cool breezes. (3). Enjoying the best sport of all.

The Spring Floods in the Laurentians have in no way affected the fishing in that district, sportsmen returning to Montreal have stated, adding that the fish are biting better than previous years and that the catch has exceeded their past records.

The Laurentians, so popular during the winter for skiers, enjoy in reality a year round favour in the eyes of holiday hunters, and have at every season some particular attraction to offer. At present the fishing is bringing many sportsmen up into the mountains, and as usual this is proving to be of the best.

The Mont Tremblant district is perhaps the most attractive and interesting in the Laurentians. This mountain was known to the Indians as "Manitou Ewitchi-Saga" signifying, the "Mountain of the Dread Manitou," and the legendary dominating power of the range, beneath whose wrath the whole district trembled.

There are beautiful lakes not far from Mont Tremblant, Lake Gauthier and Lake Ouimet, where a hotel and summer cottages have been built and good fishing abounds. The district north of Mont Tremblant is a pathless wilderness stretching as far north as the Arctic Circle, with no settlements whatever. The only human habitations are those of lumbermen and hunters, who canoe up the Devil's River and the intervening lakes during the fall of the year, making their permanent camp about one hundred miles north of Mont Tremblant.

Access to this recreation land is provided by the Canadian Pacific Railway from Montreal to such places as Shawbridge, Piedmont, Ste. Marguerite, Val Morin, Ste. Agathe, Ivry, St. Faustin, Labelle and Mont Laurier, and the end of the line. The line running north from Ottawa to Maniwaki is no less liked and carries many anglers northwards from the capital for a spring vacation with rod and line at this time.

Broiler Chickens For the Best Trade

Broiler chickens, when properly finished, are eagerly purchased by householders and restaurant operators who regard them as a high class delicacy. Unfortunately during the months of highest production the price these birds bring runs low because so many of them are marketed in a thin unfinished condition. On this subject the Weekly Egg and Poultry Market Review, issued by the Dominion Live Stock Branch at Ottawa, has the following to say under date of May 29th:

> "Complaints are still being received concerning the poor, unfinished quality of broilers reaching the market. Birds of this type, in addition to bringing a poor price themselves have an adverse effect on the prices of the better grades."

It is true that the marketing of the entire broiler crop within a space of about two months has a depressing influence on the market but these birds could be moved into consumptive channels much more readily were they properly finished and suitable for a high class trade.

Investigations into broiler market conditions which are at present being conducted by the Dominion Live Stock Branch, indicate that a number of retail dealers not handling broilers would be quite willing to do so could they secure the quality of birds essential for their trade. The retail market is essentially high class and it is very difficult to find an immediate outlet for the thin, unfinished birds.

Had Narrow Escape

Conductor P. Lever, Smiths Falls railroad employ, tells of a severe accident which he witnessed last Wednesday in charge of C.P.R. Freight train, No. 902, and it is evident that Mr. Lever had a very narrow escape from serious injury.

The freight, in charge of Conductor Lever, was switching at Winchester when an automobile driven by A. McIntosh of that pace, crashed into the moving train at the crossing. The driver was blinded by the glaring headlights of an automobile halted on the other side of the train and did not see the moving flat cars, crashing into the train.

Conductor Lever had barely time to step aside as the car struck and but for his quickness might have been severely injured in the crash. The motor car was badly injured being almost totally wrecked.

Cuba will impose a head tax of $3 upon all entering the island, and what might perhaps be described as a tail tax of $8 on all who leave. This is reminiscent of the invention of an iron man with outstretched arm erected in some cities in the old days. He bore the legend, "Depost 5c in the slot and I will hold your horse." When the coin was inserted and the reins gripped in the mechanism, another sign came into view, "Deposit 25c in the slot and I will let go."

Cheerful Visitor: "Can you tell me the name of Noah's wife?"

Small Boy (brightly): "Joan of Arc."

Ethel—My Scotch uncle sent me his picture this morning.

Louise—So? How does he look?

Ethel—I don't know. I haven't had it developed yet.

Sleep Insurance for Sleepy travelers

If you are planning a trip by aeroplane, automobile, boat, bus, bicycle or railway train — surely your object is to have a good time.

The only logical end of a perfect day is a good night's sleep, and no time is a good time if you've got to wander around from pillar to post trying to find a bedroom. That happens too often.

Ensure a good night's sleep by telephoning ahead for a room. It is the only sure way. The very fact of having removed the doubt will make you light-hearted — more capable of enjoying your trip.

Twin Ignition HIGH COMPRESSION MOTOR

12 Spark Plugs [Airplane Type] instead of 6

The new "Twin Ignition" motor, in the new Advanced and Special Nash "400" models, is a truly amazing development in power.

It is a high-compression motor, with two ignition coils, instead of one, two spark plugs per cylinder, instead of one, 360 sparks per second at top speed, instead of 180, to thoroughly and economically burn the highly-compressed gases.

It sets a precedent in motor-performance among all motor cars.

Nash "400" Advanced Six models are now capable of 75 to 80 miles per hour with no effort at all.

Nash "400" Special Six models do 70 to 75 with consummate ease.

Another major advantage of the "Twin Ignition" motor is economy —more power, more speed, less gasoline.

Drive a new Nash "400" and you'll see what Twin-Ignition and high compression have done to give the world a new and finer motor car.

The new* NASH "400" *Series

Grade Farm Products

No farmer would expect to sell at a good price a barrel filled with onions, cucumbers, turnips and potatoes all mixed together. It is almost foolish to expect to get the best market price for a barrel of a single product in which all sorts are dumped without regard to size, color or cleanliness.

By neglecting to properly grade their produce, many farmers must sell it for much less than might be obtained for the same stuff by exercising a little care in preparing it for the market. In discussing this important phase of marketing an expert says:

"Quality and uniformity in grains, fruit, cotton, potatoes, dairy and poultry products command a premium from the buyer. A crate of large, clean eggs of uniform color will bring more in a central market than one in which small, dirty, many colored eggs are included. Dirty potatoes of mixed sizes sell poorly alongside of clean ones that have been graded."

The difference in price between graded and ungraded products often means the difference between profit and loss in farming operations.

Recent Canadian Visitor Meets Strange Death

Captain Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier, whose fame was world-wide, was drowned yesterday in one of the strangest falatities in the history of commercial aviation.

The plane in which he was a passenger was crossing from Croydon, near London, to Brussels when the financier disappeared. His valet and two stenographers as well as the pilot and mechanic of the plane, were present, and did not notice the incident, and it was not until the arrival at Brussels that it was learned that Captain Loewenstein was gone.

The British Air Ministry announced he had been drowned.

The plane landed on the beach west of Dunkirk, France, at 8 p.m. The pilot informed the authorities that while the plane was crossing the sea Captain Loewenstein, wishing to go to the washroom, opened the wrong door and fell out.

Captin Alfred Loewenstein, whose death is reported, was a colorful visitor to Toronto May 2 last. Heralded with no little interest as an international financial figure, his arrival was an impressive one. His entourage consisted of ten persons, a valet, secretaries and stenographers; a suite of six rooms at a Toronto hotel barely sufficed to contain the party; and the trans-oceanic telephone service received while he was here gave patronage such as was entirely unaccustomed emanating from Toronto.

Man In Rubber Ball Goes Safely Over Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., July 4.—For the third time in history man conquered the mighty Niagara today when Jean A. Lussier, of Springfield, Mass., went over the Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side in a specially constructed rubber ball while a crowd of 150,000 people, lining the river banks on either side, cheered and applauded him.

The start was made from Cayuga Island, about three miles above the falls at 2.30 o'clock and Lussier was rescued from the bridge eddy below the falls at 3.20 o'clock by William Hill, daring riverman, alone in a row boat.

At first it was feared the giant ball might be carried down-stream into the rapids. Lussier plunged over brink at 3 o'clock.

When Hill reached the ball it was right side up and it was a matter of only a few minutes until it was towed ashore and opened. The first to greet Lussier with a resounding smack on his cheek was his sister, Madame J. P. Cautiere of Sherbrooke, Que. The only bruises Lussier suffered in his perilous journey were of a minor nature. There was a small mark on his right temple, another on his left shoulder, and a spot on his left shoulder-blade, all received, he said, in the terrific bouncing while his strange contrivance was passing through the rapids above the falls.

Police Judge Bertman of Camden, N.J., hasn't much use for tattlers, as Charles Bubeck found out to his sorrow. Bubeck spread the report that he had seen a young couple kissing and the girl in question had Bubeck arrested. The judge said to him : "What business was it of yours? Ninety days."

RINSE !

"When you're doing a washing, success is all in the rinsing," said a splendid laundress the other day. "If people only spent a tenth of the energy they do, on the washing part, and kept the rest for rinsing, they'd have whiter clothes.

"Nearly all the trouble in clothes that go from one greyness to another, is that they are not sufficiently rinsed. I have tried to drill the virtues of the rinsing water into women who have come to me with their troubles about discolored clothes, but I felt after they had gone, that they'd pay no attention, but would go on with their bleaching powders and so on."

Care in rising is specially necessary when silks are concerned. You can boil cottons and so get out discoloration, but once half dirty water has been dried into silk the damage is indelibly done.

THURSDAY, JULY 5TH, 1928.

While the adoption of a new prayer-book was being debated in the English House of Commons and rival groups of religionists prayed in Westminster Abbey for and against its adoption worldly clubmen laid bets on the result. Odds 7 to 4 favoring the prayer-book gradually changed to 5 to 4 against. The House of Commons rejected it by the vote of 266 to 220.

Practically everyone in Joliet, Ill., except the inmates of the state penitentiary, went to the railroad station one day recently to greet home coming victorious heroes. Not battle-scarred veterans, but members of the local band, who for the third year in succession had won first prize in the national high school band contest, of which John Philip Sousa was chief judge.

Argentine boys, like most youthful "sheiks," set great store by their luxuriant mops of hair, slick or wavy. Senor Amaluzzo, shrewd superintendent of Argentina's reform schools, knows this and turns the knowledge to account in disciplining his wards. He says: "When an Argentine boy is very bad I cut his hair. They love their hair and that's what hurts them most."

"Lining" the Hymns.

Did you ever, when fifty years younger, attend camp meeting where the preacher "lined" the hymn for the congregation? At such a gathering far out in the wondering woods, the preacher gave out the tune and then went on,

"The light is poor, my eyes are dim;
I cannot see to read this hymn."

To his astonishment the congregation sang the words as given out. He could not stop it. With some impatience he blurted out:

"I did not mean to sing that hymn,
I only said my eyes were dim."

This, too, they sang. So he gave it up, pronounced the benediction. and they all went home just partly saved unto the Lord.

Ideas About Food

Popular ideas about food are a strange admixture of truth and fiction, according to a recent article by Dr. Lieb, an authority on diet, Particularly is this the case with respect to notions of what is good for people, or not good for them, under varying circumstances.

For example, bananas and nuts were long thought to be hard to digest, but if the bananas are ripe and the nuts are chewed sufficiently they are among the most easily digestible of foods.

The prejudice against raw foods is also unwarranted it is said. Raw corn, wheat and other startches in moderate amounts are completely digested, while raw potatoes are 78 per cent. digestible. The craving of some children for raw potatoes may be indulged in to a reasonable extent without harm, and the same is true of raw cabbage and lettuce.

Drinking water during meals was thought to be harmful to the digestion but for normal persons it is now declared to be beneficial if sipped in between swallows of solid food.

Forcing children to eat spinach or other foods which they do not like is not good for them, as the feeling of repulsion which they experience hinders digestion.

While the doctor does not say so in as many words, it appears that a rather safe rule of diet is to eat what one likes, provided it dies not produce any disagreeable after effects. And, regardless of advice, that is what most of us insist on doing anyway.

Counties' Council

The June Session of the Counties' Council of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry opened at the Council Chamber, Court House, on Monday night, June 25th, with the Warden, Angus A. MacDonnell, in the chair. The Clerk, Mr. A. K. MacMillan, opened the session by calling the roll and all but two or three members answered their names, they coming in a few minutes later, so that there was a full attendance of members. The list is as follows:—

Warden MacDonell said he was pleased to see the members back looking fit and prepared for the strenuous duties of the session. He asked that every consideration be given to all matters that might come before the Council and suggested that the chairman of the different committees gather their members as speedily as possible, so that business could be brought before Council. He thought it would be well for the Equalization of Assessment Committee to meet at the first opportunity.

The Warden's remarks were received with applause.

On motion of Messrs. Vincent McDonald and W. A. Murray, the minutes of the January session, being printed and distributed, were adopted in Council.

The Clerk, A. K. MacMillan, read a list of fifty-two letters which he had received since the January session.

Messrs. Glenn A. Shaver and Wallace Gallanger moved that the correspondence be referred to the several committees to which it belongs. Carried.

The Clerk read a letter from the Maxville Village Council, asking that Council create a new High School District in Maxville at the present session in order that the district may be brought into being by Jan. 1st, 1929.

Messrs. Charles F. Marselis and Roy Schell moved that the request be referred to the Education Committee for consideraion and report. Carried.

Several members gave notice of their intention to introduce by-laws for various purposes during the present session.

Dr. J. Howard Munro, Reeve of Maxville, and Mr. Fred McLeod, Reeve of Kenyon, moved a resolution of condolence with the family of the late Alex. J. McEwan, of Maxville, a former member of Council; and Mr. D. A. McIntosh, Reeve of Finch Village and Mr. Henry C. Nugent, Deputy Reeve of Finch Township, moved a similar resolution in connection with the death of the late James D. Rombough, a former representative from Finch Township. In each case the resolutions were ordered to be inscribed in the minutes and a copy forwarded to the families of the deceased.

At the request of the Warden, both resolutions were carried by a standing vote.

As there was nothing further to bring before the opening session, the Council adjourned to meet at 2 p.m. on Tuesday.

The Council resumed on Tuesday afternoon, but no business was transacted. A couple of hours were occupied in listening to addresses on educational and health matters. Warden Macdonell first invited Mr. J. B. McDougall, of the Educational Department, Toronto, to address Council, and Mr. MacDougall spoke at some length on the importance of school attendance and the necessity of appointing the best possible school attendance officer in each municipality and urged the Reeves and Deputy Reeves not to be too close in the matter of salary, as a good official was worth a reasonable recompense.

Dr. W. J. Bell, Deputy Minister of Health, Toronto, introduced the question of the establishment of the proposed Tuberculosis Sanitarium in Eastern Ontario, in which several counties and a few separated towns were asked to co-operate in the construction and maintenance. While the counties and towns concerned would be expected to pay half the cost, the Province would pay the other half. The estimated cost of the bulding was $200,000. He asked the members to give the matter serious consideration, quoting statistics to show the need of such an institution in Eastern Ontario.

Dr. D. A. Carmichael, of Ottawa, of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association and Superintendent of the Royal Ottawa Sanitarium, also spoke of the great need of another such institution in this section of Ontario. He told of properly separating tuberculosis patients from other members of the family and the community at large if any hope was held out of combatting the dread disease.

Dr. J. P. Maloney, of Ottawa, District Officer of Health for Eastern Ontario, also referred to the need of another Sanitarium and read a copy of the resolution passed by a number of Councils favoring its establishment. At present, he said, there was no Sanitarium in Eastern Ontario where patients could be properly treated. The Ottawa institution was a city affair and only took in outsiders when there were vacancies, and that was very seldom and there was constantly a long waiting list. The result was that people in the East had to be sent to Muskoka, Toronto, Hamilton, Ste Agathe, Que., or Saranac Lake, N.Y. This meant heavy expense in transportation and friends and relatives could not go often to see the patients. The object of the Government in establishing another Sanitarium in Eastern Ontario, was to make it more ready of access. With the motor car so widely used, any section of Eastern Ontario could be reached within a few hours, where it would now require days to go to and return from any of the other institutions. The idea was to establish the Sanitarium at some point where it could be readily served by rail, water and highway, and thus make matters easy for both the patients and relatives. Another factor in its location would be that it would be situated near where hospitals were already established, in order that the service of surgeons would readily be available in case of need. Dr. Maloney asked the members to give the question serious thought before they arrived at a decision.

Mr. A. E. Currie, manager of the Cornwall branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, spoke briefly to the Council on banking matters.

The question of the establishment of a Tuberculosis Sanitarium was referred to the Fianace Committee, on motion of Dr. J. Howard Munro and Charles F. Marselis.

Messrs. Roy Schell and Charles F. Marselis moved a resolution of condolence in connection with the death of Arthur N. Barkley, a former member of Council for Williamsburg Township; and Messrs. J. R. Blair and J. A. Morrison moved a like resolution referring to the death of Hugh McDiarmid, a former member for Roxborough Township. Both were ordered inscribed in the minutes and copies forwarded to the relatives of deceased.

The resolutions were carried by a standing vote.

The Council then adjourned until 2 p.m. on Wednesday.

The balance of the session will be reported in our next issue.

DUCK AND BROOD HOLD UP TRAFFIC

Sightseers in front of Buckingham Palace recently watched with interest a company of the Royal Grenadiers, with band playing and colors flying, march into the forecourt of the palace to mount guard during the King's investiture, the guests at which included Sir Nana Offri Atta, picturesque African potentate.

A moment later the police sergeant on traffic duty again waved his arm and traffic from six converging streets stopped instantly The crowd surged forward in the belief that royalty was arriving. The second procession then came in state—the mother duck belonging to the palace, who considered the fine afternoon justified taking her eight children for a walk in the adjacent St. James' Park. She waddled gravely across the broad sweep in front of the palace, even halting at the Queen Victoria monument to rest her brood.

Only the most decorous smile escaped the hundreds of chauffeurs delayed in the course of driving their masters to the palace.

Horses and Cattle Maimed Welland Youth Arrested

With the arrest of a nineteen-year-old youth, Welland police have ended the reign of terror under which Humberstone Township farmers almost feared to leave their horses and cattle ungurarded overnight, lest they find only mutilated bodies in the stalls next morning.

The youth, whose arrest is due to the energetic work of Provincial Constable S. H. Bush and Inspector John Miller, is said to have admitted the offences which stretch over the past two years. Since his arrest another serious offence has been charged against him, and the whole record is such that it was deemed advisable to have him placed under observation in a Toronto mental hospital. He is now in Welland jail, and will appear in police court on July 4th.

Farmers were finding their horses and cattle, either dead or maimed so hideously, that a veterinarian's pistol was the only merciful recourse. Sometimes the animal's tongue was cut out; oftener there were injuries that could have been inflicted only by a maniac. No estimate of the number of animals injured or done to death can at present be secured.

PLENTEOUS PREPARATION

The girls ran down the path and climbed into the automobile that stood near the road.

"Emmy Lou, you see that they keep their hair combed," said Mrs. Esher, placing the twins' suitcase before them. "They had no rest until they had it cut!"

Emmy Lou smiled as she glanced at the fluffy heads. "Don't worry, mother; I'll keep them straight," she said as she set her daintily shod foot on the running board.

Mrs. Esher looked suspiciously at her married daughter's new car. "Why didn't you bring Frank along?" she asked.

Emmy Lou smiled as she took her place at the wheel. "He was down at the office. Don't you trust me?" She laughed. "See what a good driver I am!"

The car moved slowly down the shady lane, but when the trees hid the farmhouse it shot swiftly along the road. Mrs. Esher lingered to gather a bunch of scarlet geraniums from the plants that surrounded the porch.

The sunlight fell on the shining floor of the kitchen as she entered. Her face wore a look of satisfaction as she took a custard pie and a small frosted cake from the table and placed them in the pantry. She hung behind the door the gingham apron that she had worn and, shaking the folds from a snowy white one, tied it round her ample form. Then she glanced at the clock and drew an easy chair out on the porch. "Two hours until supper time and the Saturday's work all done," she thought. "How the girls worked! The visit to their sister's will do them good."

Mary Esher enjoyed the quiet rest; she seldom had a holiday; even Sunday was a day of toil. Squire Esher insisted that his family always attend church, and afterwards he always invited some friend home to share their dinner. When the Eshers were first married Mary had enjoyed the company just as much as the squire had; it was usually some young couple whom they both knew, and the women would prepare the meal in the roomy kitchen while the men talked.

As time passed and the children came her work became more tiresome, and she often longed for a day of rest. But the squire had become so accustomed to company and a good dinner that the pair seldom were alone on Sunday. He was proud of his fine home and boasted that his wife was the best cook in the county.

After the brick road to the county-seat was completed his city friends began coming out. It was a fine drive, and once they had tasted one of Mary's dinners they did not need a second invitation. From a pleasant day spent with girlhood friends, as it once was, Sunday had become to Mary Esher a day of drudgery.

Now as she sat in her cosy chair she was thinking how nice it would be to rest a whole day. Tomorrow they would be alone, since the girls would spend the day with their sister.

All their children except the twins had married and gone away. Jerry lived in the white house across the fields; Mary lived on the big farm down the river; and Emmy Lou, the madcap of the family, had married Judge Afton's son and gone to the city to live.

While the squire's wife rocked back and forth she was planning how without offending her husband she could obtain many such Sundays as the one in prospect. He was so set in his ways that she seldom argued with him, but usually gained her point by strategy. "I'll bake his favorite pie," she mused, "and make that pudding he likes. We'll not eat half the chicken I'm cooking for supper, so I'll just fry what's left. After he's eaten a good dinner and we're resting I'll make him see how nice it is to be alone. Just our own family."

The sun was going down; the chores were all done, and the squire was coming from the barn. Mary's book lay unheeded on the porch, and she was leaning forward in her chair to catch a glimpse of the sunset.

"It seems pretty quiet, mother," the squire remarked while he stood with his cane against the wall. "Where did you say the twins have gone?"

Mary looked a little uneasy. "Emmy Lou came over in that new car of hers and took them along back. I don't see as a great car like that is anything for a woman to be driving."

"Never you mind," said the squire chuckling. "What Emmy Lou can't drive no one else can." He was laughing softly; Emmy Lou was dear to him.

There was a tender light in his eyes as they rested on the face by his side. "Where do you s'pose Emmy got the daring?" he asked. "Do you mind that little black mare you used to ride? The very Old Ned was in her."

The old lady's eyes kindled with recollection. "O pa, she was a beauty!" she exclaimed.

"So's Emmy Lou's car," replied the squire, grinning; and then he added: "I was thinking how Emmy always manages to get everything she wants. Do you mind the time I told her not to dare put her saddle on the colt Jerry was breaking, and the very next day I met her coming down the lane on Jerry's saddle and the colt all white with foam but meek as a lamb?"

"Colts are a heap safer than cars," replied his wife.

"Speaking of cars," said the squire, "Jack Wells drove one through from Ohio. You remember the little codger Jack Hoffman raised? Well, that's Jack. He has taken his own name again. I met him in town and asked him and his wife out for tomorrow."

Mary bit her lips to keep back an angry retort. Hot rebellion filled her heart. She thought of the one pie and the small plate of chicken she had prepared for Sunday. Her easy day was slipping from her with no thought from the squire, who would sit on the cool porch while she worked in the hot kitchen . Once she had spoken to him about the extra work on the Lord's Day, but he had replied that hospitality was in accordance with the Scripture.

A daring thought came to her as she looked at him sitting at his ease with only a few chores for the morrow. Her lips curved in merriment, and her eyes were wonderfully like Emmy Lou's.

When she spoke her voice was calm. "That will be nice," she said "I haven't much prepared,—it's too bad the girls are away,—but I guess I can manage if you help me."

The squire readily agreed.

The next morning Squire Esher gave a start when the alarm sounded. Then, realizing that it was Sunday, he turned over for another nap. "No need to get up quite yet," he thought.

He had settled for a good forty winks when Mary came to the door. "It's time to get up, pa," she said. "There are a few things to prepare for dinner, and we'll be late for church if we don't hurry."

He reached for his shirt and was was putting it on when she handed him his clean overalls. "You'd better put these on. There are a couple of chickens to be dressed."

He laid the white shirt back and donned the overalls. When he entered the kitchen it was a quarter of five. Mary turned a pleasant face from the pies she was making. "Just cut off the heads of the two chickens in the red coop," she said, brushing the flour from her hands and tucking back a stray lock of hair. "I'll heat the water while you milk."

The squire dashed cold water over his face and mopped it dry; then, turning, he picked up the milk pails and went to the woodshed for the hatchet.

By seven o'clock the pies were cooling and the chickens were in the pot. After breakfast the squire picked up the evening paper.

Mary glanced up from the lettuce she was arranging in the ice box. "Pa," she remarked as he adjusted his glasses, "take that wooden pail outside the door and go down to the patch and dig me a few hills of new potatoes."

Pa reluctantly laid down his paper and rose slowly. The potato patch was at the far end of the farm.

"Don't you have potatoes in the cellar?" he asked.

"They don't cook a mite nice, and you'll have plenty of time to get the new ones; I can't be ready for quite a while yet." She hastily closed the refrigerator and disappeared down the cellar stairs.

He sank back into his chair and began reading, but when he heard the sound of returning footsteps he laid down the paper and quickly reached for his hat.

Jack Wells and his wife brought another couple out to the farm; Jack said he wanted them to see a real farm. The flattery pleased the squire, and as he led the way to the cool porch he looked at Jack. "I'll show you my alfalfa meadow and herd of Jerseys," he said. "I've gone into stock raising."

They were deep in a discussion of farm topics when Mary appeared. "You'll have to excuse pa," she said. "I'm sorry the girls are not here to help me."

The squire looked appealingly at the two women, but their white hands were folded in their laps. He rose and followed his wife round the house to a low table that stood against the ice house; he always put up plenty of ice. It did not seem like Sunday, he said, without ice cream.

Mary wiped the perspiration from her face as she handed him an apron. "The custard is all made. I'll get the cream while you crack the ice. You better tie that apron round you."

The squire sweat and churned and churned and sweat, but the cream did not freeze. Mary always told the girls to put plenty of salt with the ice, but this time in packing the can she herself had used very little.

The old man drew a long breath as he looked at the freezer once more. "You've plenty without the cream, ma,' he said.

"Yes; I've enough, but it wouldn't seem like Sunday," she answered.

He looked up suspiciously as he heard the words, but Mary's back was toward him, and she was disappearing into the kitchen.

She soon came to the door with a basket on her arm, but hesitated as she saw him patiently churning away while he wiped his forehead on his sleeve. Just then her glance fell on the dainty pie and the small cake. She stepped decidedly forth. "You look warm, pa," she said. "Go down in the meadow and get me some corn, and I'll finish the cream." She gave him the basket, and when his back was turned she dumped more salt on the ice.

When the squire came up the hot, dusty road he heard merry laughter from the porch. He set the basket down and untied his apron, but as he started round the corner of the house Mary called to him. When he turned she lowered her voice: "Go over to Jerry's and ask Sadite o lend me her sherbet glasses and six napkins. My napkins are on the grass, bleaching."

She picked up a basket and a small pail. "Take this pail and come round by the peach orchard on the hill and get me some everbearing strawberries from the new patch. Hull them as you pick them and I'll have dinner ready when you get back. "We're a little late now. When you come back," she cautioned him, "keep along the fenc anl don't come in the front gate."

He looked across the shimmering fields and, taking the basket, followed the well-worn path to his son's house.

Filling his pail with berries was a tedious task; it was hard for him to stoop since he had become so stout. When the pail was full he found a stone under a chestnut tree and sat down to hull his berries. When he had ended his task he glanced at his distant alfalfa fields and his sleek cattle. He arose painfully and rubbed his cramped knees. "I wouldn't walk over there to show my stock to a king!" he muttered.

The dinner was successful, but two very tired people sought rest after their guests had gone. "Mother," said the squire as he dropped wearily into a chair, "are all your Sundays like this?"

"Not quite so hard. I had planned a quiet day and hadn't much prepared."

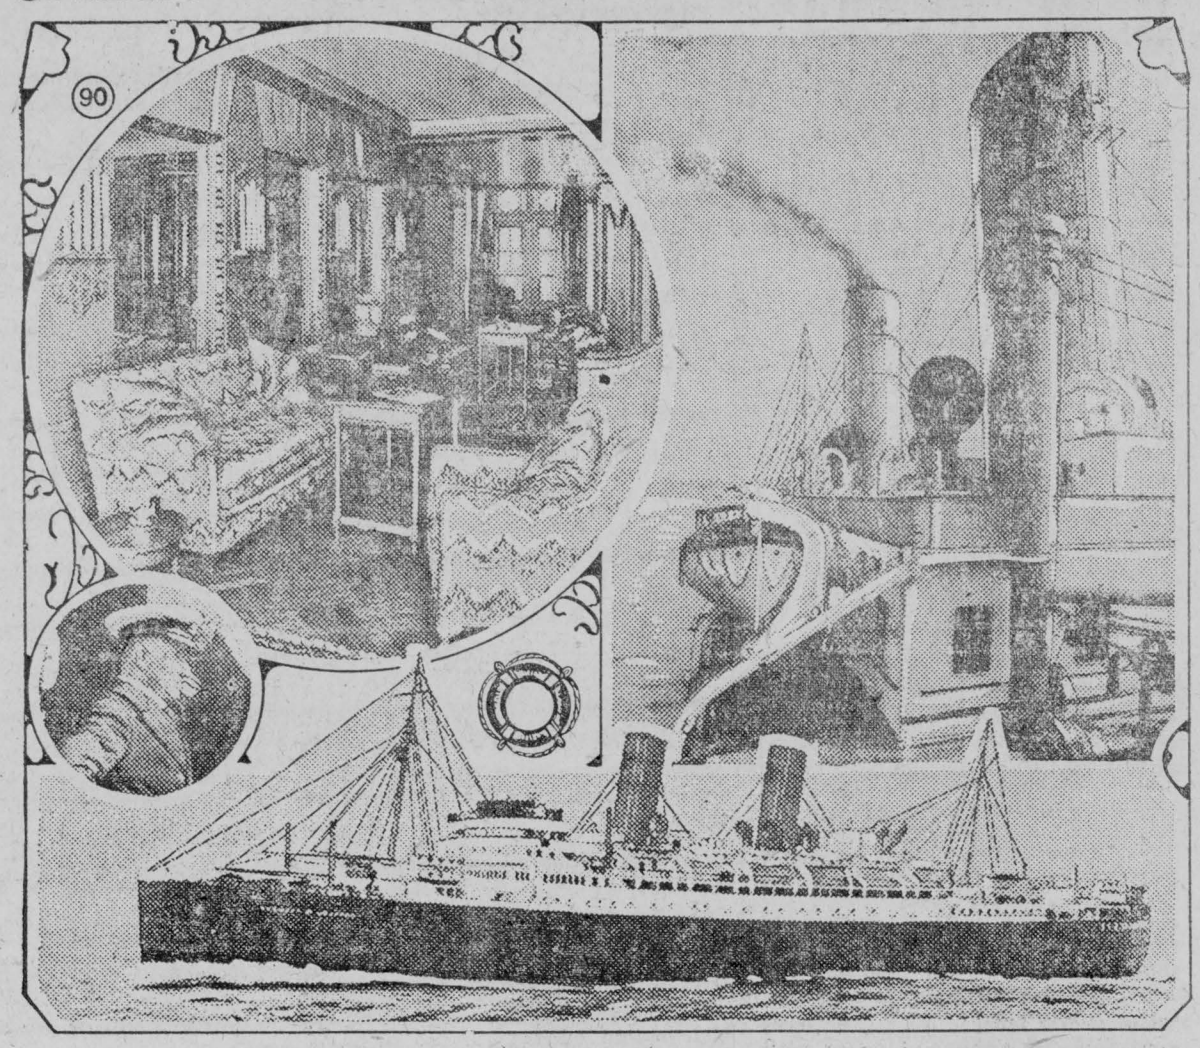

"You sure prepared a-plenty today," said the squire, laughing. He laid his tired hand on the arm of her chair. "Mother, all your Sundays shall be quiet days," he said seriously. "We'll cut out the visitors."

CABIN LINERS SET NEW STANDARD

Upper right—A general view of the vessel looking aft. Upper left—An interior view showing the cabin smoking room with its luxurious decorations Lower—"The Duchess of Bedford" as she appeared when coming up the St. Lawrence River. Inset—Capt. H. Sibbons, commander of the "Duchess of Bedford."

PROOF that the St. Lawrence route is rapidly increasing in popularity and that an era of continued prosperity is predicted for her ports, is shown by the addition of four new cabin class liners of the new "Duchess" type to the Atlantic fleet of the Canadian Pacific.

The Duchess of Bedford, leader of this quartette of the largest liners to Montreal, arrived in that port at 8.45 p.m. June 8th, having completed her maiden voyage in exactly seven days after leaving Liverpool. The liner is over 20,000 tons gross register, is oil burning, two-funnelled, and measures 600 feet in length and 75 feet in width. She will carry Cabin Class, Tourist Third Cabin, and Third Class passengers. In each class broad deck space is available, and accommodation is far superior to more expensive quarters on Atlantic liners of not long ago. The three sister ships of the Duchess of Bedford, now under construction in the shipbuilding yards of the Clyde, are the Duchess of Atholl, Duchess of Cornwall, and Duchess of Richmond.

The discoveries of radio engineers have aided in making the Duchess of Bedford an outstanding marine personality. For instance, while the ship's orchestra is playing in the Cabin Dining Room the music is relayed by means of microphones and amplifiers to the Tourist Third Cabin and Third Class Lounges and decks. Loud-speakers also simplify the transmission of orders to the forecastle, crow's nest, and docking-bridge.

Other interesting facts about the construction of the Duchess of Bedford are that the twin propellers weigh 16½ tons each, and the 186 foot steel shafts connecting them with the powerful turbine engines weigh about 108 tons. Nearly two million rivets were used in the ship, totalling 1,000 tons in themselves, some of the plates having as many as 650 rivets each.

The advent of the "Duchesses" greatly increases the passenger and freight services maintained by the Canadian Pacific on the St. Lawrence route. The schedule of passenger sailings had already been increased this summer by speeding the "turn about" of the Empresses from a four-weekly basis to meet the expected expansion of traffic. The "Beaver" class of ships, newcomers to the St. Lawrence also, have been placed by the Canadian Pacific on an exclusively freight service. They run regularly between Montreal and London and continental ports, making almost as good time as the passenger liners.
