Junior Choir Leads In United Service

The Junior Choir, under the leadership of Mrs. Wm. Moffat and the Organist, Mrs. Geo. Fowler, led a large Congregation in the Service of Praise for Christian Family Sunday. The theme of the Service was "Character In The Home" and was centered of the story of Daniel, whose character stood him in good stead long after he left the land of his birth. The Junior Choir sang "Dare To Be A Daniel' and "Mine Eyes Have Seen The Glory". The Superintendent of the Church School, Clifton Davis, led in the Family Prayers and Danny Tucker read the Scripture Lesson.

The Minister spoke of the strength of character exhibited by Daniel in a strange land of his ability to make decisions based on inner conviction rather than outward influences and of his settled custom of Divine Worship, which gave him an ordered pattern of life throughout the shallow and shifting society in which he was called to live. Such an approach may well be the crying need of our day.

Flowers in the Sanctuary were in loving memory of James Anderson.

A TIP OF THE HAT

Just a short note of appreciation from an Iroquois resident for the "extra mile effort" of our Village maintenance crew in their raking and cleaning out of the culverts around town. Its a job well done, and adds much to the appearance of our Village in this Spring season.

conveners of Miss Sharon Young and Mrs. Marie Mearns, reporting for the Committee of Appeal, noted that over 80 requests, with brochures, had been sent out to date to churches in the area, and civic groups, for monetary assistance, and for assistance with hot-lunches at the camps. Miss Carol Ivens agreed to help this committee on the camp sites during July and August.

Following the reading of the the last minutes, Mrs. Ennis reported on financial receipts to date, with monies having been received toward the Director's salary from the Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, United, and Lutheran Churches Offices. Congregational receipts were also noted from the area.

Ideas for improving the camps this year were reqhested by the President, and following informal dischssions, the meeting was adjourned, with the next meeting to be at the call of the president, and at which time the new Director will be introduced.

The Thieves Go Free

The Ridgetown Dominion, an Award Winning Editorial

Last week we visited Kenesserie Camp, the United Church Camp area on Lake Erie, near Clearville, and stood thoroughly ashamed to represent the older generation before the young campers as they told us how water pollution was affecting them.

It is one thing to read about the problem of water pollution at Windsor, or in Hamilton Bay, or somewhere else, it is another to relate it to eighty little girls who want to learn to swim and can't go in the water because it has been made dangerous by contamination, contamination caused by us, the older generation.

Last year campers were forbidden to use Lake Erie for swimming because tests proved it was contaminated. Officials quickly as possible had a swimming pool constructed. That mark you, in full view of the broad surface of Lake Erie! Bad enough as that was, the situation this year is worse, because tests proved that the water in the pool required more treatment than safety levels permit. So there we stood last week, eighty little girls grinning o prove they were good sports, and we with our head lowered in shame, looking at the lake on our right, the pool on our left, and no place to swim.

This problem of water pollution is a local, as well as a national disgrace. We have taken one of the most beautiful areas in God's world and fouled it up by the ruthless, wanton, almost deliberate destruction of our own natural resources. We have made a slogan "Ours not to use but to destroy!" We are all guilty. Industries in search of big returns on their investment have poured wastes into the rivers to avoid expense. Farmers in modern farm methods use fertilizers which find their way into the streams. Individuals carelessly or deliberately, throw bottles, tires, old cars, junk, sewage into our waterways.

This destruction of our natural resources is "theft" just as surely as if we stole the money reserve from the Bank of Canada. Thieves who steal money are followed, captured, and unished, but thieves who steal the heritage of natural resources from our children are not stopped.

Personal liberty stops when it encroaches on the rights of others. It does not give the right to clutter, bespoil, destroy the natural resources which belong to us all. If a program of education regarding the danger of pollution is not enough, then a get-tough policy will have to be adopted with fines stiff enough to prove a real deterrent. The few must not be allowed to destroy the heritage of our youth.

As we looked at those eighty youngsters, we thought of some other children who are lucky enough to have been sent north to camps where there is still fresh air and clean water. All children do not come from families that can afford to leave a lake at our very doorstep to travel three hundred miles north in search of clean water.

And how long will those northern lakes remain pure? As lakes and streams close at home become polluted, more and more people are going north and taking their filthy habits along with them.

Pollution is caused by people, it must be cured by people. The sooner we put pressure on the authorities to make this destruction of public resources an offense that will be punished, the sooner this theft will be stopped.

Meanwhile, what can we do as individuals? We can start by throwing our own gum wrappers and beer bottles into the trash cans instead of into the lakes and rivers. We can encourage others to do the same thing. We can support every plan developed by industry or government to clean up this pollution, even if it causes us some personal inconvenience or expense. We have a vast fortune to gain if we win, we have everything to lose if we fail. We had better get started, it is later than we think.

SALT—HOPE FOR MANKIND

SALT — The Strategic Arms Limitation Talks now going on in Vienna between the Americans and the Russians are beyond doubt the most important event of our day. They are obscured by the daily tales of tragedy from Vietnam, the Middle East and many other countries.

NUCLEAR WAR CAN DESTROY US.

The ultimate, absolute and ever present threat to our world and our lives is nuclear war. At present only two countries, the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R., have the capacity to wage nuclear war and to destroy the world in the process. Each is equipped with long range nuclear Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles (ICBMs) which can be launched from their territory or their submarines. The many manned and unmanned missions to the moon and other planets have demonstrated the terrifying accuracy of these dread weapons.

THE "BALANCE OF TERROR"

For many years, the world was shielded from the threat of nuclear war by a "balance of terror". The two countries were approximately equal. Neither had the "first strike" power to destroy all the missiles of the other, which meant that if either country started a nuclear war, it would suffer devasting retaliation.

ESCALATION OF TERROR

But this precarious balance has been disturbed by the mad progress (if such it can be called) of military science. Defensively, Anti-Ballistic Missile Systems (ABMs) have been perfected to the point where they can blunt a first attack. Offensively, Multiple Independently - Targeted Re-entry Vehicles (MIRV) containing a cluster of three or more warheads, can accurately rain nuclear destruction on several targets. It is clear that neither America or Russia can or will permit itself to fall behind and they are now embarking on the development of these new nuclear weapons. The world faces an immense escallation of nuclear destructiveness unless some way can be found to stop this senseless arms race. It threatens the lives of us all and its cost, in terms of the waste of wealth and resources, will increasingly impoverish the world.

LIMITATION AGREEMENT DIFFICULT

Despite many unfavourable circumstances, including the legacy of the "cold war" and the confrontation of the two powers over Vietnam and the Middle East, they have found it possible to start these talks. The road ahead is long and hazardous. They must agree on complicated issues — how to define strategic weapons; how to limit or cut back production and deployment; how to "verify" compliance with the agreement by inspection and surveillance.

It is a task which staggers the imagination — difficult enough in a peaceful quiet world. But the world is neither peaceful or quiet and the very continuance of the talks is threatened by the confrontations of the two nuclear giants in other areas.

CANADA'S STAKE

Canada, like all other countries, is not taking part in the talks — but no country has a greater stake in their outcome. We sit between the two nuclear powers and the consequences for us of a war between them are too fearful to contemplate. We are spectators of these momentous deliberations in Vienna. Nevertheless, we and all other countries are not without influence. Both America and Russia must consider world opinion and for as long as it takes to complete the job, we can be sure that all responsible governments will exert every pressure to keep SALT alive and to push it to a successful conclusion.

In all 44 stores in Ontario and Quebec, the R. A. Beamish Stores will be holding special events to celebrate their 40th anniversary.

The company was formed by the late R. L. Beamish — first store being in Perth, Ontario in 1930. The company has grown to 44 stores which are situated in Ontario and Eastern Quebec; range as far north as New Liskeard and South Porcupine to Hanover on the west to Lachute on the east. Many of the company stores are situated in the Ottawa valley and seaway districts.

In 1965 the R. A. Beamish stores acquired six additional stores— formerly T. Eaton Co. stores; these stores are located in Woodstock, Stratford, Hanover, Napanee, Picton and Ottawa. Head office and distribution centre of the company is on Carling Avenue in Ottawa and covers over 85,000 sq. ft.

As part of the 40th celebration plan, the company is planning many new renovations and additions to present stores.

Pembroke was completed in January, Petawawa store held a big celebration in March with a large expansion, Renfrew store will reopen in May, and other store renovations are planned for this year.

R. A. Beamish Stores Company Ltd. is now headed by Harold Flagal, President, with the Executive Office located in Ottawa.

One of the biggest items to celebrate the company's forty years will be the innovation of Beamish Catalogue Sales De-

The advertising department has gone to its archives and later this year intend to run an identical sale of items sold during the Perth store opening 40 years ago.

Eddie and Jake have been buddies since they could toddle. Together they hiked, fished, argued and leap-frogged the years away. If they weren't at our house, they were at Eddie's. Sundays, Eddie came along to church with us.

They did everything together, dated, played football, went to college. When they joined the Army, they went together.

Jake is coming home next week, but not Eddie. His mother brought his last letter over today. We cried together.

"Dear Mom," Eddie wrote, "Things are pretty bad. I'm glad Jake is here. We talk about home, about God, too. I know you and Dad never cared about church and all, but I think you'll be glad to know I've learned a lot about God from Jake. Whatever happens, I feel close to Him. I'm not scared."

Faith in God is your child's heritage. Take him to church today.

Is cable TV a con game?

If someone suddenly asks you to make a television appearance, take my advice. Don't. Not unless you can talk with lucidity, intelligence and wit, and have some professional advice.

I went on TV recently and it was pitiful. At least, according to my wife. I thought I was pretty good, seeing that we had no script, lousy equipment, no rehearsal, and everybody involved, including the technicians, was strictly an amateur.

Kim was watching, and she thought I was the best, too, which only goes to show you. (She confided to my wife, in private, that I seemed bored. And I was.)

But my wife kept up a running fire of comment "you look terribly thin. You were the grayest one there. Why didn't you speak up? There was no humor at all. Why did you slump in your chair like a wet rag? You put your hand over you mouth once. What a dull program."

I think she expected a combination of Fred Davis, Pierre Berton, Walter Cronkite and Johnny Carson.

It wasn't exactly a moon shot, or an NHL game, though it was just as interesting as some of the latter we've seen this spring. It WAS a dull program. It had about as much zip and flair as Ed Sullivan interviewing the reeve of Hayfork Centre about the bindweed problem.

It didn't help much that I'd just come from a harrowing day, and had had three hours sleep the night before. Or that I didn't have a clue as to what the program was about. Or that nobody else did.

I was just another victim of a new game invented by the owners of cable television. These companies are highly sought after as a means of minting your own money.

But the CRTC is leaning on them and suggesting that they produce something besides money for the owners; namely, some local "Canadian content."

Our local cable company is in the forefront. It has managed to get itself a television nadian content. Ninety per channel, and is turning out Ca-cent of it, so far, is time signals and the weather report.

But it has also produced several shows. It doesn't really matter what they are, as long as they don't cost anything.

So I've decided to cut short what promises to be an enriching life as a television performer. Fear of over-exposure.

Here's the way it went, as a warning. A chap I knew called and asked if I would appear on a panel discussion about education. I agreed. A student I knew was also to be on, plus another moderator.

We arrived at the studio on time. It consisted of a room about 10 feet square in the farmhouse beside the cable tower. A table, three chairs (we needed four), a microphone and a camera.

Two technicians were there, watching TV. They'd never heard of us. They called the manager, back in town. He'd forgotten about the show. He finally arrived, borrowed a chair for the farmer, and we did the dull show. Cold. It was shown a week later.

Now, I'm not knocking the whole idea. This sort of thing would be great for a small town, where all sorts of interesting things happen. And there's lots of talent around.

But the cable companies had better forget about how many hours of "local" content they can point to on their books, and start spending some money on trained personnel, good equipment, and organization, or the whole thing will be just another farce to slide around the rules and save money.

Two recent examples of what I'm talking about: On one show, we watched five or six buses draw up to a local school and the kids, one by one, get out. Fascinating, eh? Ten minutes. On another, we watched the residents of an old people's home for about 10 minutes, sitting in rows, facing the camera, waiting for "the show" to begin. Crass, if not cruel. But it shows on the books as Canadian content.

If it doesn't improve rapidly, it's just a con game, and should be exposed as such.

Queen's Park Comment

The question of lowering the voting age has been before the Ontario Legislature for some years now. Many arguments have been advanced on both sides of the question in the debates that have taken place on this issue, yet generally spokesmen in all parties have tended to favour lowering the age requirement.—They have argued that in this day and age, when almost all young people receive a high school education, that it does not make much sense to maintain the 21 year old barrier.

A number of provinces in Canada have of course already lowered the voting age. Saskatchewan started the trend in the 1950's and put the age limit at 18. In Quebec the age limit is also 18. In British Columbia and Alberta they weren't quite as adventuresome, but the limit was put at 19.

Why then hasn't anything been done in Ontario. It's the old, old story of talk, talk, talk, rather than any action. Despite the pious sentiments of the government, it now appears that young people will again be denied the right to vote in the next provincial election.

I hope that this will not be the case. I hope it won't becouse in this age of youthful unrest there is a very great danger of young people becoming alienated from our democratic political process. Obviously one way of stopping that alienation will be to lower the voting age.

Moreover, there is another reason that has reared its head why young people are to be denied the vote. A number of Conservative back-benchers on the Select Committee on Election Laws are obviously scared that young people will come out and vote against the government in the next election if they are given the opportunity to do so. Well, this is the worst kind of political reason for denying people rights, and I hope that the more important question of political alienation will recommend itself to these Conservatives, and that they will come to see the necessity of doing what they promised to do.

Time and The River Move On

For more than two hundred years, in canoe and bateau, sloop and frigate, paddle-wheeler and ocean freighter, the St. Lawrence River has borne the life flow of our province and of our nation.

As of May 15th, for the ninth and by all counts most successful season, it affords an extraordinary passage to our past.

Within two unique riverside communities, Old Fort Henry and Upper Canada Village, life proceeds while time very carefully stands still.

Old Fort Henry, straddling a rise of land above Navy Bay and the city of Kingston, was originally constructed in the years following the war of 1812 1814 to protect what then promised to become the capital of Canada and the southern terminus of the Rideau Canal.

It was acknowledged by 1836 as the mightiest military bastion west of Quebec, and a more than sufficient deterrent to Yankee "Manifest Destiny".

Following a long period of decline and partial ruin, the Fort was restored and in 1938 was opened to the public.

It has since become a living museum of the British garrison period of 1867.

Precision drills are performed daily by a corps of college students spiffily attired in regimental dress.

With split second timing and nineteenth century finesse, these summer recruits parade, present arms, and even discharge a muzzle loading cannon, to the delight and astonishment of the many visitors.

On Wednesday evenings during July and August a spectacular sunset "Retreat" ceremonoy is staged, with volleys of cannon fire echoing and re - echoing across Dead Mans' Bay, and out over the St. Lawrence.

The Fort's fife and drum corps display is not quite as loud, but in its own way is just as impressive.

And, of course, nothing can compete with the Fort itself: the battlements and iron gates, the walls twelve feet thick, the pains takingly refurbished quarters for the officers and the enlisted men, the supply rooms, the repair shops, and kitchens, the actual work in progress repairing and remaking the costumes of the time.

In its long history the citadel of Upper Canada was never assaulted.

Now it is yours for the taking.

Some eighty miles downstream, a little east of Morrisburg and not far from the site of the Battle of Crysler's Farm, Upper Canada Village presents a second aspect of our past.

The village, increasingly popular with visitors to the region, brings together more than forty authentic pre-confederation structures, countless tools and artifacts, and a host of costumed pioneers who literally animate the setting.

The buildings themselves, including homes, churches, taverns, craft shops, a blockhouse and a farm, have been meticulously restored, and, taken altoogether, present a coherent account of the evolution of our pioneer society.

Like that society, Upper Canada Village is surprising self-sufficient. Wool and linen are spun and the fiber worked into rugs; wood is sawn and crafted into period furniture; butter, cheese and candles are made; the land is tilled; all these things as they were done one hundred years ago, save that we can watch. The stagecoach clattering down the King's Highway, the river barge just through the locks, bring nothing to the village but atmosphere.

And all of this is to be found within walking distance of — or should you prefer, a mini-train ride to — a battle memorial museum, a riding stable, an eighteen hole golf course, a maple sugarbush, a wild-fowl sanctuary, a railway museum, a marina, a landing strip for light planes, camping, swimming and fishing facilities, as well as a first class motel and a restaurant.

Such a set-up lends credence to the notion of Utopia.

And, were all this not enough, the Upper Canada Village development is but one of fourteen fully-equipped parksites, covering a total of 6700 acres, and conveniently located along the Seaway. More than 2300 camp and trailer sites are available.

As was noted with the opening of the parks nine years ago: "Canada can boast few such attractions where so much of history, entertainment, and holiday amenities are concentrated in one compact area."

Will Hull change camps?

Athletes are "untouchables" in sports dealings until the "right deal" comes along.

Now that Chicago Black Hawks are looking ahead to the June draft and the 1970-71 season, the Chicago Sun Times broke the story that Bobby Hull probably will wind up with Toronto Maple Leafs next season.

General manager Tommy Ivan refused to deny the story, saying "nothing is farfetched . . . We will sit down one of these days and discuss the past season. I can't make any comment now on trades."

Which is about all any general manager can say unless it comes to discussing the coach. Then if management uses the phrase, "we are giving him a vote of confidence," watch out! That means he is about to be fired.

A trade involving Hull makes a lot of sense, more so than many major sports deals involving superstars still in their prime.

For one thing, Hull and the Black Hawk management have had confrontations the last two years Last year, Hull refused to report despite admitting his contract was binding. When players start ignoring contracts, it is time to take a firm stand. The Hawks refused to give in and Hull returned to hockey. Where else could he make that kind of money? The endorsements would soon dry up if the hockey career ended.

When Chicago had the best team on paper a few years back, rumors spread throughout the NHL that Stan Mikita was available. Management felt Chicago needed new blood to win the Stanley Cup and at that time, Hull was an "untouchable."

Despite the team's poor record, Hull filled Chicago Stadium and when you aren't winning, you can't afford to upset the fans (unless, of course, you are situated in Toronto where the Leafs ignore all the rules).

Now that Hawks have finished first, management can afford to dump Hull and collect some top players in the process. Toronto could use a top scorer, but it is doubtful if Leafs would be willing to part with enough players to satisfy the Hawks.

If Hull does come to Toronto, it will be the second time the Hawks have sent a superstar to Leafs in a multi-player deal. Max Bentley, still in his prime, was picked up by Conn Smythe in the 50s and the dipsy-doodler helped Leafs to a string of Stanley Cups.

Leafs, too, have given up their best — dealing Frank Mahovlich to Detroit for Normie Ullman.

And hockey isn't alone when it comes to peddling the stars.

Baseball's greatest player Herman (Babe) Ruth, was traded by Boston Red Sox in 1920 to the New York Yankees. The Babe at that time was the best pitcher in baseball and the Yankees made him the best hitter of all time by switching him to the outfield.

In recent times, Cincinnati Reds dumped their all-star Frank Robinson, to Baltimore Orioles. That was in 1966, and Robinson promptly led the Orioles to their first World Series. In the process, he led the league in homers, runs batted in and hitting to collect the league's most valuable player award. He won the same title at Cincinnati, the first player to win the crown in both leagues.

Football has had its share of name trades, too. Hal Patterson and Sam Etcheverry were the heart of the Montreal Alouettes when owner Ted Workman completed a trade with Hamilton Tiger Cats. Etcheverry quit Canada for the National Football League while Patterson helped Hamilton to three Grey Cups. The Alouettes never recovered, nor did Workman. Etcheverry is back this year as coach, and for the first time since his playing days the Alouettes appear headed in the right direction.

None of the trades mentioned here were designed to make immediate money for the owner. When it comes to selling for profit, every sports owner has to take a back seat to the late Connie Mack who kept baseball in Philadelphia by building pennant winners and then selling the stars.

Times are hardly tough in Chicago, but don't be surprised if Robert Marvin Hull steps on the ice in Chicago next season as a visiting player. That's sport!

Wed In Lanark Ceremony

On March 28th, 1970, St. Andrew's United Church, Lanark, Ontario, was the setting for a pretty wedding, when Diane Deacon, daughter of Mrs. Eileen Deacon and the late Willis Deacon, and Wayne Shaver, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Shaver, RR1, Iroquois, were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony. Rev. Charles Judd officiated, and Mrs. Franklin Boyd of Lanark played the wedding music.

The radiant bride entered the church on the arm of her elder brother James L. Deacon, wearing a floor-length gown of white Arnel crepe, fashioned with a fish-tail train, neckline and sleeves being trimmed with crocheted lace. The three-quarter length Mantilla veil also had an edging of the same lace. Both were made by the bride's mother. She carried deep pink American Beauty roses.

Diane chose as her attendants Miss Janice James, Kingston, as maid-of-honour, and Mrs. Barbara Parr, Kingston and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Sharon Deacon was bridesmaids. Her little neice Tracy Lea Deacon was flower girl. They were identicallly attired in floor - length dresses of deep rose Arnel crepe and matching pill-box hats, and each carried bouquets of white crysanthemums. Tracy was very pretty and sweet in a white floor - length dress, her headband and dress both being accentuated with the same rose crepe as the bridesmaids. Her flowers were pink roses and white mums.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Garry Parr of Kingston, and ushers were Mr. Myles Deacon, of Lanark and Mr. Aden Shaver of Iroquois. All wore black tuxedos and white buttonaires.

Mother of the bride chose to wear a beige and blue paisley double-knit dress and mink stole. Her accessories were matching blue hat and gloves with beige shoes and purse. Her corsage was of pink roses. The groom's mother was becomingly attired in a Brocaded silk yellow dress having a three-quarter length coat of the same material with a yellow hat and matching accessories Her corsage being rust-coloured roses.

About a hundred guests were served a delicious dinner by the Lady Clyde Rebecca Lodge in the Oddfellow's Hall. Rev. Chas. Judd acted as Master of Ceremonies and kept the festivities rolling with his constant good humour. Mr. Cecil King, uncle of the bride proposed a very touching and appropriate toast to which the groom ably responded. A short period of music and dancing following the dinner added to the general get-togetherness of the wedding party and guests.

The young newly-weds enjoyed a two-week honeymoon trip to Florida, returning to take up residence in Parkwood Hills, Ottawa.

Prior to her marriage the bride was feted at three showers. Mrs. Wilson Creighton was hostess to a kitchen shower to which neighbours were invited. Her sister-in-law Sharon and aunt and cousin, Marjorie and Connie King arranged a large miscellaneous shower in the Legion Hall, Lanark for relatives. Miss Janice James of Kingston also had a miscellaneous shower having Diane's former office associates and friends as guests.

The groom also was presented with sums of money from his former school chums in Iroquois, and from the Division of Dept. of Highways in which he works. Then on May 2nd, the neighbours and friends from his home community had an enjoyable party in the Township Hall, Brinston, where the young couple was presented with another goodly sum of money.

"WONDERFUL", B"EAUTIFUL", "VERY SINGABLE"

These were some of the adjectives voiced by the large, ecumenical audience following the singing of the "Prescott Folk Mass" at St. John's Anglican Church, Prescott, Sunday night.

The folk-song type of music set to the ancient liturgy sung by a choir of juniors and seniors from the Anglican, Roman Catholic, United and Lutheran Churches. Guitar accompaniwas by Tim Negris of the Berean Christian School, Maitland; Andrew Jozefowicz and Tom Kaemmer of St. Mark's; Peter Alexander, Randy Moore and Miss Carole Clarke of St. John's. The music was under the direction of J. A. Morris.

Canon the Rev. Frederick Payne was the celebrant, assisted by the Rev. J. C. Reisberry of the Parish of Edwardsburg, Cardinal.

On the invitation of the rector, the service was truly ecumenical as many from other denominations in Prescott and the district participated in the communion.

Following the service, refreshments were served during a social hour by members of the Evening Build, ACW, to the choir members, their families and friends. In appreciation of the assistance given to the group Tm Negrs of the Berean School was presented with a gift by the director.

Canon Payne told the large number of young people in the congregation that Christ offered them a challenge in a time when the word was that "protest" must change the mode of life. He told of the commissioning of Miss Kathy Henry of St. John's in St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, Friday night, as an officer in the Church Army, to which she has given her life as a Sister.

One of the young men commissioned at that service, he said, was picked up on the street not too long ago, a life thought to have been wasted on drugs. Here was a challenge to young people to help those who had lost their way, and needed counselling and Christian help.

The music for the Folk Mass was composed by the Rev. Ian Mitchell, an Episcopal priest of Chicago. Two of the "regular" hymns sung were given modern settings, and the closing hymn was an ecumenical effort, the words being composed by the Rev. Sister Marie of St. Mark's Convent, set to the lilting tune of "Eidelweiss" from The Sound of Music.

"Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory", with the traditional tune, opened the service. The 23rd Psalm was set to the rollicking "Happy Wanderer"; another popular tune from The Sound of Music, "Do Re Mi", provided the music for "Loving Shepherd of Thy Sheep"; during the communion, two spirituals were sund by the choir, "Let Us Break Bread Together" and "Kumbayah".

Assisting as servers were Carny Warren, Tom Beatty and Mark Blad. The sidesmen were also teen-agers, Kevin and Gary Shay, Greg St. Louis and Jim Windsor.

TRIP TO NEW YORK

The students who attended the excursion to New York once again thank Mr. Mallon for providing them with such a rewarding experience. From the time of their arrival Wednesday night to their departure Sunday morning all absorbed as much as possible. Thursday consisted of a bus tour through the most significant parts of the city, dinner in China-Town, a lecture tour of the United Nations, attendance at the Merv Griffen Show and a wonderful evening at the Bavarian Hofbrau where music, dinner and dancing were excellent.

On Friday morning, after a restless night, the students headed for a most interesting tour of the Lincoln Centre, Mayden Planetarium and the Museum of Natural History. After luch most of the group visited Rockerfeller Centre and enjoyed a tour of the NBC Studios while a few attended the Johnny Carson Show. At four all gathered in the observatory at the top of the RCA building. To end Friday's schedule the group attended the three-hour performance at Radio City Music Hall. The ballance of Friday evening was free time of which all took full advantage. Saturday morning found the group at the famous Coney Island visiting the world's largest Aquarium. The ballance of the day was also free time. During the afternoon those who wished attended the Broadway Play, Fiddler on the Roof, which they will always remember.

Although the excursion is classed as a pleasure trip, it cannot be denied that the students gained some education from their experiences. They have acquired a better knowledge of people, and city life with its advantages and disadvantages. Some have even returned with a better appreciation of their own homes.

Dollars and Good Sense

by William J. Martin

This column is a regular weekly feature prepared by the Family Financial Counseling Service of Avco Financial Services, P.O. Box 2820, London, Ontario. All questions submitted to the above address will be answered in print or by return mail. Names will not be used in print. — However, all questions should be accompanied by a complete name and address.

Dear Mr. Martin:

Thanks very much for your recent help. Your suggestions and direction for living within a budget in our family was just what we needed to do for a number of years. I can tell you that it really hurt at first to keep buying the things we wanted, rather than really needed. But we got into the budget habit and it really pulled us out of our financial dilemna. Now that we are out of the woods and things are going pretty well, my husband is beginning to disregard our budget and spend more on things that we shouldn't. I tell him that if we don't stick to our budget, we'll be right back where we were. Can you help us again?

Mrs. N. H.

I'm glad that I was able to help you, Mrs. H. Let's hope that I can help you again.

Incidentally, your problem is not uncommon to a lot of families who have lived within a budget for a year or two and who start to feel sorry for themselves and how much they have deprived themselves of. They start to slide away from their budget and find themselves right back in trouble again.

While I've always maintained that once a family gets a good budget they should stick to it. I don't mean that it must be absolutely inflexible. Things change. Your needs vary. Perhaps your salary increases. Maybe you get a large debt paid off. Should you stick with the same budget? I don't think so. I believe that it's time you re-evaluated your budget, made adjustments to compensate for the changes in your financial situation and your life. Maybe it's time, too, that you can consider some of those purchases you have deprived yourself of over the past year or two. Perhaps you can afford that sofa now. Or that new car. Or whatever.

I'm not suggesting that you go on one big, wild spending splurge. Rather, however, I think you might be able to adjust your budget so that you have more spendable income. In other words, living within a relatively tight budget for a certain period of time has enabled you to get back on your feed and to actually see a little light at the end of the dark.

But a reminder, please! Don't get too careless again with your spending habits. Don't completely disregard the budget. Remember what happened before and that you must still manage your income and outgo, no matter how financially sound you may be. Good luck and keep me posted on your pragress.

Introduce Bills To Update Laws

Government legislation again fills the Legislature's Order Paper — or agenda, as Ministers were busy introducing new Bills to update existing laws administered by their Departments or to bring new legal concepts into law. Considerable debate centred around Bills to provide a grant of $25.00 per university student at all provincially assisted universities to the coffers of the municipality in which each such university is situated: another somewhat similar Bill provides for increased per capita provincial grants to the new regional municipalities of Ottawa-Carleton and Niagara and some changes in methods of apportionment of similar grants to Metro Toronto. The first Bill indicates a change in long standing policy whereby university property, being non-taxable for municipal purposes, provided no income to the local authorities responsible for providing services such as streets, water, sewage, etc. The Minister indicated this to be but the first step towards making all educational institutions and properties available for some degree of municipal taxation, or payments in lieu of taxes.

Outside of the House there were announcements of great interest to all of us. The Minister of Municipal Affairs announced the creation of the new Regional Municipality of Muskoka and followed the announcement by introducing on the following day in the House the Bill required to erect this new municipal two tier structure. And on the Wednesday, Prime Minister Robarts unveiled the Government's plans for the development of the Metro Toronto hinterland from Oshawa on the east as far west as Kitchener-Waterloo and north to the area of Barrie and Owen Sound. This new concept provides for development of large park and recreation areas within easy reach of the dense population now (and ever increasing) along the north shore of Lake Ontario and for satellite cities to be developed around some of the existing municipalities surrounding Metro.

There was also introduced a Bill to preserve the Niagara Escarpment stretching from Niagara Falls past Hamilton and up to the Bruce Peninsula. The new law provides for the cessation, of all industrial and mining activities along the several hundred except under Ministerial permit, miles of the Escarpment and strict control of commercial undertakings in an area stretching for two miles on either side of the Escarpment.

The Departmental Estimates of Public Works were examined, debated and accepted without any great problems being met nor unusual items discovered. This Department being the housekeeping department for government is responsible for the housing of all Government offices and workers, provision of all supplies and equipment, and operation of all Government institutions.

TODAY'S CHILD

Toronto Telegram Syndicate

This chubby darling is Paul, 14 months old. Of Italian, English and Jewish descent, he has big blue eyes, long dark lashes and light brown hair. He is in good health except for occasional eczema which is easily controlled by medication. At the moment eggs and oranges are being kept out of his diet.

Paul is an active boy who likes to be on the go. Crawling is faster than walking for him so far. He makes friends quickly with children, but takes a little time to feel easy with strange adults and new surroundings.

This dear little fellow will have to go to a new home soon because his foster parents are moving out of the country. The Children's Aid Society hopes he will be adopted quickly so this sometimes-timid child will have only one move — to a loving permanent home.

To inquire about adopting Paul please write to Today's Child, Department of Social and Family Services, Parliament Buildings, Toronto 182. For general adoption information ask your Children's Aid Society.

Think of all the cool things about a frost-free refrigerator freezer.

Every housewife should have one. Frost never forms. Not in the big refrigerator section. Not in the big freezer section. So there's no defrosting. Ever. And you know what that means.

No more dripping water to mop up. No more waiting for frost to melt. Your ice cube trays won't stick any more. No more re-freezing frozen foods.

You'll have more storage space, because you'll be free of all frost accumulation. And your frozen foods won't stick together.

Think about it.

Think of all the extra space you'll have for stocking up on food bargains.

And besides all that, think how much more attractive your kitchen will look with a sleek new frost-free refrigerator freezer.

St. John's In The News

Last Sunday evening, the Rev. Leslie Dean was the guest preacher at Evensong in St. John's Anglican Church, Iroquois. The occasion was a Service of Thanksgiving to honour him and Mrs. Dean previous to their departure from this community and to have as our guests for the evening the Iroquois United Church Congregation.

The Scripture passages were read by Mrs. Dean; the Recording Secretary, Ambert Brown; and the Reeve of Iroquois, Ken Kirkby. St. John's choir sang the anthem "Hail, Festal Day". Despite unfavourable weather, the church was filled to capacity for the occasion, and a good fellowship hour followed in the Parish Hall.

At the morning service, Terri Lynn Kay Brennan was Baptized into Christ's Church, with the Church school children gathered at the front to witness and share in the important event.

Honoured at the Christian Family Service were two families who are contributing in a remarkable way, the George Eddy family with the choir, and the Claus Knoefell family who manage St. John's Communications. Also presented with a small token of appreciation were Dr. and Mrs. Greaves, who continue to enjoy an active part in the life of St. John's Church.

This week, the Rector, Rev. Allan Rogers is conducting the three minute devotional theme over CFJR Brockville.
