ABOUT HIS MAJESTY'S HOUSEHOLD.

Salaries and Expenses Alone Amount to Considerably Over $1,500,000 Per Annum.

King George's Household is divided, for purposes of convenience, into three principal departments, the provinces of which may be described as "below stairs," "above stairs," and "out of doors." The first of these is presided over by the Lord Steward, who receives a salary of $10,000 a year; the second by the Lord Chamberlain, also with $10,000; while the Master of the Horse, to whose care the third department is entrusted, draws an annual stipend of $12,500.

The Lord Steward is the first dignitary of the Court, and presides over the hall, kitchen, ewry, pantry, wine, beer, and coal cellars, and almonry. As emblem of his authority, he carries a white staff, and he is chairman of the Board of Green Cloth. The Board of Green Cloth is where all the Household accounts are examined and passed, and on this the Treasurer and Comptroller of the Household, who are the officers next in rank to the Lord Steward in his department, also sit.

It is not these three, however, who bear the real brunt of the work. The scapegoat, upon whom devolve the duties theoretically belonging to them, is the Master of the Household, who resides in the Palace itself, investigates all accounts, maintains discipline among the ordinary servants, and presides at the dinners of the suite in waiting on King George. He is also personally responsible for the accommodation of foreign monarchs who visit England.

"KING'S PAINTER."

The department of the Lord Chamberlain, who must be a member of the Government, a Peer, and a Privy Councillor, includes the bed-chamber, privy-chamber, presence-chamber, wardrobe, house-keeper's-room, guard-room, the metropolitan theatres, and the Chapels Royal. He has control over a vast number of appointments in the Royal Palaces, from those of the King's physicians down to that of the charwoman who sweeps out the servants' rooms. He it is who calls various tradesmen to the palace, calling themselves "pur-

will never draw or sign a cheque himself, this duty being always performed for him by the Keeper of his Privy Purse.

KING'S REMEMBRANCER.

One quaint legal office in connection with his Majesty is that of King's Remembrancer. The nomination of sheriffs, the swearing-in of the Lord Mayor of London, the acknowledgments of homage for Crown lands, the recovery of legacy and succession duties, and the Trial by Pyx, all fall to his lot. The Trial by Pyx, which takes place annually in June or July at the Goldsmith's Hall, is to determine the fineness of the materials of the coinage bearing the King's head in relation to the standard specified by law. The King's Remembrancer presides at the swearing-in of the jury, and receives and records their verdict. Gold coins must be eleven-twelfths of fine gold and one-twelfth of alloy; while silver coins must contain thirty-seven-fortieths of fine silver, and three-fortieths of alloy.—London Answers.

CAUTION NEEDED.

It was in the wild and woolly West, and Slimy Sam, the crafty cowboy, suddenly bethought himself of a plan for obtaining a suit of clothes from Ikey Mosenthal's store.

"Say, Ikey, there don't seem to be much color in this yer one," as he tried on a fourth coat and vest.

"Aw, my boy, that's a thplendid color that ith," said the tradesman anxiously; "git out in the sunlight and thee."

No sooner had the artful one got outside the door than he started doing a ten-mile-an-hour sprint for home and beauty.

"Hi, hi, stop thief!" yelled the Hebrew, and gave chase.

But suddenly, to Sam's dismay, a policeman hove in sight, and, taking in the situation at a glance, drew his "shooter," after the gentle fashion "out West."

"Boss, boss," yelled the clo' man, with the frenzy of despair, "for the love of goodneth, shoot 'im in the pants. He's got my coat and vest on!"

THE POSTMASTER JOINS THE ARMY

WHO ARE SHOUTING THE PRAISES OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS IN THE WEST.

A Neighbor advised him to try them for his Rheumatism Gravel. They cured him.

West Gravelbourg, Sask., Jan. (Special). — Alexander McCarter, the postmaster here, has joined the great western army that has for its watchword, "When ailing, use Dodd's Kidney Pills." And like all others he has good and sufficient reasons.

"I was laid up with Rheumatism and Gravel," Mr. McCarter states, "and was also troubled with my bladder. I was so bad I could not do much work. A neighbor came along who had been troubled the same way, and advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did it. I bought two boxes, and, using them according to directions, was soon able to go to work."

Notice one thing: It was a neighbor who had been troubled the same way who advised the postmaster to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. He also had been cured by them. That's why he recommended them.

If you're troubled with Kidney Disease in any form—Backache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, or Bright's Disease—ask your neighbors. You'll soon find one who has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

ABSENT-MINDED BELINDA.

Little Happening Makes Her Liken Herself to Grandfather.

"You know the old, old story," said Belinda, "about grandfather and his spectacles, how one day when he wanted them he couldn't find them, and how they looked and looked and looked for them, on the floor and under the table, and around everywhere, and how they finally found them on grandfather's forehead, where he had pushed them back from his nose?"

"Well, this morning when I came to put on my slippers I got one on and I couldn't find the other, and I looked and looked and looked and looked just everywhere for that other slipper, and where do you think I finally found it? Why it

Casselman—Bowman

A very quiet but pretty event took place at the Lutheran Parsonage, Morrisburg, at 6 o'clock, Wednesday,
Dec. 28th, when Elodia Mae, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M.
Casselman, Rowena, became the happy bride of Mr. William Bowman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bowman, Glen Becker, the Rev. L. M. Mc-Creery officiating. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride, where only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present and partook of a bounteous repast. The bride looked charming in a dress of navy blue silk and large picture hat of black with green trimmings. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl set crescent brooch. The many handsome and costly presents which the bride received showed the high esteem in which she was held. Mr. and Mrs.
Bowman have the sincere wishes of their many friends for a happy and prosperous life.

The Leader

three supporting the motion and two against. The council discussed the best method of enforcing the by-law prohibiting ashes from being dumped on the street corners. A by-law was passed making spitting on the sidewalks a punishable offence. The by-law in connection with cleaning the snow from private property evoked quite a few arguments, Councillor Rose contending that the council should continue the use of the snow plough while Councillor Steed was firm in demanding the abolition of same. He pointed out that the hogs back left by the plough resulted in more law suits than anything else under the sun.
Councillor Osborne pointed out that even councillors present erred in the matter of cleaning their own sidewalks.
The by-law carried, three for, two against. Reeve Wingard proposed an adjournment until Friday, Feb 10, which carried. Foster Hilliard delighted the audience with a pianoforte solo, which brought the meeting to a close.
Friends present remarked on the able manner of councillors and the short time it took to get through so much business. The meeting on Feb. 10th will be a debate on provincial prohibition.

MORRISBURG BRANCH. B. A. HERRING, Manager

the King and Queen, and all the Courts and Leves, Coronations, Royal marriages, christenings, funerals, etc.

There are many curious offices in the Lord Chamberlain's department. The duties of the King's poet, or Poet Laureate, are well known; but not many people realize that there exists a parallel office in Art. The King's Marine Painter is Mr. Edward de Martino, and, just as the Poet Laureate is expected to commemorate great events in verse, so Mr. Martino is expected to commemorate great naval victories on canvas. The King's Bargemaster is Mr. W. G. East, who has control of his Majesty's "barge"—it more closely resembles a magnificent gondola—on the Thames; while a special officer is appointed to look after the King's swans—the Keeper of the Swans, he is called.

Another strange office in this department is that of his Majesty's Armorer. Kings, of course, no longer fare forth to wield their battleaxes in hostile lands, so that the duties of this gentleman have developed along very peaceful lines. His special care is the King's collection of armor, and the detection of "faked" articles offered for sale. When a piece of armor is offered to his Majesty, the would-be vendor first sends a photograph of it to the King's Armorer, Mr. Guy Francis Laking, who then shows it to the King. If it appears genuine, and is approved, Mr. Laking inspects it personally; but how rarely purchases are made may be gauged from the fact that in six years 1,080 pieces were offered to King Edward, of which only three were bought.

"OUT-DOOR" DEPARTMENT.

The "out-of-doors department" of the Master of the Horse includes the stables and coach-houses, the stud, mews, and kennels. He is always a member of the Government of the day, as is also the Master of the Buckhounds, whose duty it is to attend the Royal Hunt, and lead the procession of Royal equipages at Ascot, where he may be seen on horseback in a gorgeous uniform of green and gold, wearing, as the insignia of his office, the couples, or noose which holds two dogs, of a hound. The real management of the Royal stables and studs, however, again falls on the shoulders of a lesser official—the Crown Equerry. He has plenty to do—quite unlike the ancient, hereditary office of Grand Falconer, held by the Dukes of St. Albans.

Quite outside of these great departments are his Majesty's purely personal attendants, such as his Secretary (Sir Arthur

It is pleasant to the taste, and the price, 25 cents, is within the reach of all.

AN OLD AND WELL TRIED REMEDY.

Bibliophile (aghast)—I beg your pardon, madam, but that book your little girl is playing with is an old and exceedingly rare first edition. Caller—Oh, that's all right, Mr. Bibbert. It will amuse her just as much as if it were nice and new.

It is a Liver Pill.—Many of the ailments that men has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

THE TUNE OF THE ENGINE.

Engineers, both locomotive and stationary, judge of the condition of their engines largely by their "tunes" when running. Every engine has a tone of its own, and an experienced engineer, with bandaged eyes, could unhesitatingly pick out an engine to which he was accustomed. As a locomotive roars along the rails, the engineer is always listening, though subconsciously, to its familiar tune, and if there comes the slightest discord, or if the tone changes, he knows instantly that something is wrong and makes an investigation at the earliest opportunity. He may have no ear for music, but the change in the tone of his great machine will be at once noted.

"Why did he have to come here of all places?" she demanded of the four walls. "Why couldn't his sister live in San Diego or New York?"

She walked the floor treading lightly in her stocking feet so the others would not hear her. She must not fall into Joe's hands under any circumstances. The love he felt for her would not keep him from being utterly cruel in trying to force from her the whereabouts of the diamond. However, he would never get the stone; she was certain of that. She would die at his hands before she would tell him where it was.

"He shall never have it!" she vowed to herself. "And he may not kill me until he does. But Joe knows ways of torturing his victims that would be worse than death. And I will be no exception." She shuddered and it was not from the cold, damp air which blew in from the Pacific. It was stark, naked fear of the future that sent wave after wave of shivers over her slim body. Tears came to her eyes. "I don't want to die," she sobbed and fell on the bed. "I want to clear myself with Dan. He must know that I am not a thief and believe in me once again."

It was nearly dawn when she finally drifted into sleep, only to be awakened again by insistent knocking on her door. She opened sleepy eyes, then sat up startled.

"Who is it?" she cried, heart pounding excitedly.

"Let's go fishing," called Art cheerily.

"Fishing?" she repeated as if she had never heard of the sport before. "Oh! Fishing." She relaxed. "Is it time to go now?"

"Sure it is," he told her with an amused chuckle. "Get up, sleepy

"I even dislike eating here, because my mother-in-law keeps talking about high prices. She does all the buying, and she has so many leftovers! She won't let me do anything. Don't you think I should cook for my husband? He works at night. At 23, I'm a good cook; I did a lot of it for my own family."

"I spend most of my time in my room. I hate to go downstairs, my mother-in-law always watches what I do. They both get on my nerves, though I know they don't mean to. My husband gets burned up, too. I would get a job, but I can't find a night job, and a day-time one would make it almost impossible to be with my husband at all."

"If my in-laws say or do something again that I don't like, I know I'll move, and fast—even if I have to go alone. I'm all mixed up, Anne Hirst. Can you help me?"

It Is Her Home

* I hope I can. You can make your life easier, and your husband's and his parents' too. It hinges on the simple little trick of putting yourself in his mother's place.

* The home you are living in is head. Ma is going to loan you some slacks and a shirt to wear. And I just packed a lunch basket, sardines mostly."

"I'll be with you in a moment," she said and crawled wearily from the comfortable bed.

After she was fully awake and into the fun of fishing, Honey forgot her troubles for the minute and enjoyed herself, not that she was a very good fisherman. Art seemed to have all the luck. Once she called him Dan. He did not notice and she thought with pain in her heart:

"Dan is calling for me—he needs me. That is why I said his name just now. Oh, Dan, my darling, I love you! I will come soon—very soon, I hope."

Art spoke just then. "Ma said Mrs. Riba invited us for dinner tonight, in your honor. She thinks we are sweethearts."

Honey's heart seemed to pause in its beating and a cold chill rushed over her body, taking away all warmth and security.

"But she has company now," she faltered.

"That won't matter. It's probably her brother. She has one living in Los Angeles. I believe his name is Danburne. You may know him."

"The name is familiar," she replied from between stiff lips. She fished in silence for a while and he was inclined to do the same. But suddenly, she inquired: "How good a lawyer are you, Art?" There was no gaiety in her tone, only dead seriousness.

"I've only practised two years, but I won all the cases I ever had. Is that what you wanted to know?" he asked, looking over at her with probing eyes.

* sick husband. I'm my daughter—

* is already talking about her "rights."

* Her pattern of living has been distorted by her son's marriage. * She doesn't ask that you help her at all, and she tries to make you feel at home. Yet she has a routine to follow—a routine in which it is upsetting to fit a younger woman who wants to serve her husband. She likes to be in her own kitchen alone, as you would be in yours.

* Try to put yourself in her place. * You are, in a sense, a guest in her house. Conduct yourself like a guest—eager to help, but not interfering. Perhaps you can fit yourself in assisting her, following her ways of doing things. * Or, if your husband's hours permit, you and he to have dinner together, you might arrange to prepare that dinner yourself. * hind. It works well all around. * affection for those she leaves behind. * Why not try it?

Living in the home of someone else shows up our breeding and tolerance. If you try to reverse your position, you will better understand how much you can help. Anne Hirst can help you realize this, if you write her at Box 1, 123 Eighteenth Street, New Toronto, Ontario.

Morrisburg Defeats Alexandria 3-2

Morrisburg Intermediates scored a comfortable 3-2 win over Alexandria Maroons at the Morrisburg Arena on Monday evening, in one of the best-played games here this season. The small crowd present was treated to good hockey all the way, with not a single penalty called against either team.

Alexandria showed better combination plays than the locals, but had difficulty scoring due to their poor shooting. The visitors went two up in the first frame on goals by Daoust and Macdonald. In the second period the score was tied with counters by Wes Stitt and Ron Casselman. Doyle counted the winner for the home team in the final frame, after a good rush, and a scorching backhand shot. Both goalies were tested on numerous occasions in the remainder of the game, but foiled all opponents.

The game was capably handled by Dick Hutt of Morrisburg and N. Laperle of Alexandria.

The Teams—
 Alexandria: Goal, Deslauriers; defence Ryan and J. Guindon; centre, Reasbeck; wings, F. Guindon and Macdonald; subs, Daoust, Bouger, Poirier, Tessier and Dion.

Morrisburg: Goal, Dafoe; defence, Tuttle and Doyle; centre, Tindal; wings, Stitt and Casselman; subs, Lockhart, Workman, Whittaker, J. Vaughn, Daoust, Kirkby and Cassell.

Then followed the election of officers as follows: A. J. Armstrong, People's Warden; Orval Millward, Rector's Warden; S. G. Finnie, Treasurer; Margery Weegar, Envelope Secretary; delegates to Synod to be appointed at a later time; Vestry Clerk, D. H. Weir; Sidemen, A. Prunner, S. G. Finnie, R. Morash, D. H. Weir, R. D. Cassell, C. B. Robinson, T. R. Parker, A. G. Taylor, E. Organ, B. Mullin.

Then followed the reading of those who had departed this life during the year. Members of the Vestry stood while the prayer for the departed was offered. The meeting then adjourned after which refreshments were served.

The annual meeting of Holy Trinity Church, Riverside was held last week in the basement of the church. The attendance was good in spite of the inclement weather. The annual meeting of the Women's Guild preceded the Vestry.

The Rector opened the Vestry with prayer and this was followed by the reading of the minutes of the previous annual meeting. The year had been a good one, the Rector said in his address. All obligations had been met, a power mower bought, and the cemetery restored to its former tidy condition. The Women's Guild had been active and had raised a considerable sum. He thanked the wardens of the church and the Guild for their co-operation and Mrs. Gillard for her work with the altar linen.

The Warden's report was given by Mr. Lagorrah Millward, People's Warden, showing a small balance at the end of the year. Mr. Sherwood Stoddart, the Rector's Warden presented the Missionary Report, the best in a few years. Mrs. Roy Styles, the treasurer of the Women's Guild presented an excellent report of that body. All reports were received and approved.

The election of officers resulted as follows: People's Warden, Mr. L. Millward; Rector's Warden, Mr. S. Stoddart; pres. Women's Guild, Mrs. Murray Styles; treas., Women's Guild, Mrs. Roy Styles; sec. Women's Guild, Mrs. Georgina Styles.

The Vestry then adjourned and was followed by the serving or refreshments by the Women's Guild.
