URVEY STAKES CAUSE SPECULATION

When the surveying gang from the Department of Highways finished their work in this vicinity, they left some intriguing questions behind in a line of stakes that seem to mean something but no one is quite sure what. If they were laying out a new route for Highway 43 to miss the village and our present antiquated bridge, it would seem that they have succeeded admirably because the survey line runs west and north from the Finch road, south of town and seems to join up with 43 again west of the White Crossing.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Popular Osnabruck Couple

A very happy event was observed on Tuesday, April 20th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Somerville, when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary and family and neighbours paid honor to fifty years of happy married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Somerville both have reached their 72nd birthday. Mrs. Somerville was formerly Janie Gilmer, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gilmer of Pleasant Valley. They have lived here since they were married. To this union were born two sons and one daughter, Ernest of Groveton, Cecil at home, Mrs. Garet Sears (Esther) of Pleasant Valley. They also have seven grandchildren and one grand child.

A six o'clock dinner was served under the supervision of Mrs. Cecil Somerville while Miss Marie Gilmer, Mrs. Harold Francis, Mrs. Bert Lattimore waited on tables. This was much enjoyed by the family, brothers and sisters of the bride and groom of fifty years. Rev. and Mrs. Simmons of Heckston, Mrs. Della Hodge of Hainsville were also present. Mr. and Mrs. Somerville received many beautiful presents including a sum of money.

During the evening neighbours of the community gathered at their home to bid them congratulations. During this time a humorous mock wedding was staged. The bride (Harold Francis) entered on the arm of her father (Mrs. Ray Grant) to the strains of "Here Comes the Bride" played by Rev. Simmons on the accordian. On the arrival of the Justice of the Peace, Mr. Hubert Robinson, the wedding party entered, the bride (Harold Francis), carrying a bouquet of cornstalk tops. The father (Mrs. Ray Grant), gave the bride away, Mrs. Gordon Francis was the groom. The attendents were, bridesmaid, Cecil Canning who carried cornstalks; best man, Mrs. Cecil Canning; ring bearer, Irving Robinson, carrying the ring on a pillow; bride's mother, Don Francis; flower girl, Lloyd Grant. After this was over a suitable address was read by Mrs. Alex Francis and Messrs. Alex and George Francis presented them with an upholstered chair to which Mrs. Somerville thanked everyone on behalf of her husband. Rev. Simmons and Mr. George Warren were asked to make a speech after which all sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows". Lunch was then served and everyone returned home leaving with Mr. and Mrs. Somerville the best wishes that they would be spared to enjoy many more years of wedded life together.

SPRING ARRIVES WITH A RUSH

The last week has found the amateur gardners and florists busily at work in the gardens and flower beds. The first part of the week was mild and warm and an open invitation to go fishin'. The kids are returning to town with vast strings of mud pouts, suckers and an occasional eel. The stories of the big sucker that got away are legion.

The Crowning Calamity

The stranger on the bus was very sad, and it took only a couple of sympathetic remarks to open him up like an accordion at a gypsy frolic.

"Marriage!" he wailed. "Marriage! That has been the blight of my life."

"How many?" asked the passenger who had primed him.

"Two," was the doleful rejoinder. "My first wife took everything I had and left me."

"Very sad," commented the other.

"Not as sad as my present plight," moaned the sad-faced victim of matrimony. "The wife I've got now has taken everything, and won't leave me."

Taking for his example the top ten men in the business, Mr. Turner showed the process that finally evolves the comic strips that are read by more people in the daily papers than any other feature.

The speaker was thanked on behalf of the club by Wm. McCloskey.

REFORESTATION PLOT THINNED

In line with keeping the demonstration wood lot south of the village one of the finest in the three united counties, a little necessary thinning was done yesterday under the supervision of Harold Durant, deputy-reeve of Winchester Township. The trees that were carefully removed were free for anyone to take away, and at the end of the day all were gone except about forty. Many lawns in the town will be sporting handsome new spruces.

Bill Hough Planning Quick Trip To Belgium

"Bill" Hough is spending a few well-earned holidays at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hough, after completing the term exams at O.A.C., Guelph.

In conversation with Bill, we learn that he is contemplating a trip to Belgium at the end of the month of May on a boat laden with meat horses. One day while reading the Record he noticed the advertisement for horses for Belgium and decided they would need a handy man to look after them on their long sea voyage. After some extensive correspondence, Bill is planing on leaving Montreal with the first boat load around the last of May. The round trip will take about a month with only a short stay in port in Europe.

ARE YOU AFRAID, TOO?

Many people suspect they have cancer and are afraid to consult a doctor because they do not know that cancer can now be controlled if detected and treated immediately by Radium, X-Ray or surgery.

Madame Curie wrote: "Nothing in life is to be feared; it is only to be understood".

And so, to stimulate more interest in obtaining the facts about cancer, the advantages of early treatment and the need for cancer dressing and transportation projects for needy patients, the Ontario Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society holds its membership drive this month.

Objective of the campaign is to obtain 150,000 dollar-or-more memberships to aid in the Society's educational and service program. Members will receive authentic literature about the disease from the Cancer Society which is endorsed by the Canadian Medical Association. Through facts obtained and passed along, a person may be instrumental in saving the life of a loved one, a friend, or even himself.

From this year's membership drive, the Ontario Branch hopes to be able to extend its services to include provision of nursing home accommodation for terminal cases or treatment cases who come from a distance to cancer clinics, during the treatment period. One dollar or more sent to the Cancer Society, P.O. Box 459, Toronto 1, or to the nearest local Cancer unit, will go toward this life-saving work.

TALK OF THE WEEK: THE LONDON ZOO

Dr. Geoffrey Vevers, Superintendent of the Zoological Society of London, told BBC Overseas listeners how the Society was founded just over a hundred and twenty years ago by Sir Stamford Raffles and some friends. The Crown granted these pioneers a few acres of land in Regent's Park for the exhibition of living animals, and two years later a charter for 'the advancement of zoology and animal physiology and the introduction of new and curious subjects of the animal kingdom.' The Society's activities fall into two categories, scientific and domestic, the former controlled by Dr. Edward Hindle. Important work is carried on in the Zoo laboratories, where post-mortems are made on every animal which dies in the Gardens. This is extremely important, as the well-being of the animal population depends to a great extent on quick reports from the post-mortem table, especially where epidemic diseases are concerned. "The scientific aspect of the society's activities is not generally appreciated by the ordinary visitor to the Gardens, but its application is of enormous importance in the running of the Menagerie," said Dr. Vevers.

"Many newly imported animals have to undergo a period of quarantine before we can show them," he continued, "there is a Zoo sanitorium for sick animals and when operations are necessary they are done under an anaesthetic, and special anaesthetic boxes have been designed for all sizes and types of animals"

Dr. Vevers has been Superintendent for nearly twenty-five years and his most difficult task since the war ended has been restocking the London Zoo and its open-air counterpart at Whipsnade. The Zoo suffered damage from bombing during the war, but kept open all the time. The collection of animals naturally dwindled when no replacements could be imported from abroad, "but during the last two years," said Dr. Vevers, "we've been literally scouring the world for animals and have organized no less than twelve expeditions to various parts. I think our collections are now nearly up to pre-war standards. From West Africap we've received chimpanzees and other mammals, birds and reptiles; from East Africa—giraffes, hippos, rhino, zebras, lions, cheetahs, leopards and antelopes; fromIndia and Ceylon—elephants, bears, rhino, tigers, leopards, birds and reptiles. From Borneo and the Malayan Union have come orang-utans, gibbons and giant pythons. There are penguins from the Antartic, and pumas, ant-eaters, tapirs, sloths, and other curious creatures from South America. The Zoos of the United States have been very helpful and we've had many gifts and exchanged many rarities from New York, Philadelphia, and San Diego. A few weeks ago we received from New York a pair of one of the most handsome birds of Central America—the quetzel or resplendent trogon, with metallic plumage and a tail at least a yard long." These rare birds came by air transport which has proved of inestimable value to the Zoo, as before such travel was a commonplace many rare creatures died during the long sea journeys' "Lien-Ho, the giant panda, was flown from China to London in less than six days," said Dr. Vevers, "during the journey Lien-Ho was kept cool by consignments of ice picked up from the various airfields.

"Special provisions are made for younger visitors to the Zoo, who have their own Children's Zoo, where they can handle all kinds of animals under proper supervision. We regard this as a very important part of a child's education, because it engenders a love of animals and at the same time dispels any fear of them. Last year nearly two and three-quarter million people came to the Zoo—which means one in fifteen of Britain's population."

THE NOBLE NATURE
By Ben Jonson

IT IS NOT growing like a tree
In bulk, doth make Man better be;
Or standing long an oak, three hundred year,
To fall a log at last, dry, bald, and sere;
A lily of a day
Is fairer far in May,
Although it fall and die that night—
It was the plant and flower of Light.
In small proportions we just beauties see;
And in short measures life may perfect be.

"Si,Si"

A favorite picture star who married well—and—often, found it expedient to get a divorce in a hurry. Her lawyer suggested Mexico. "But I don't speak Spanish," she protested. "That's all right,' said her lawyer. "Whenever there is a pause, all you have to do is say 'si, si.

When she appeared in court, the whole population of the little Mexican village turned out to witness the event. There was much emoting and bowing, and the star said 'si, si, very firmly on numerous occasions.

Suddenly the crowd gave a great cheer.

"Well, I guess I'm divorced," she said complacently.

"Divorced, my eye," said her perspiring attorney. "You have married the mayor!"

"FOOL'S GOLD" IS EVERWHERE

"Fool's Gold" is the name often applied to pyrite, an iron sulphide, pale brassy yellow in color with a metallic lustre and greenish-black streak. When in masses it is often mistaken for gold, but in crystal form pyrite cannot be easily confused with any other mineral. The mineralogy galleries of the Royal Ontario Museum display a number of the crystals. One of the most common of all minerals, pyrite is found in all kinds of rocks, with all kinds of associations, in all parts of the world. It occurs in vast beds, as at Rio Tinto, Spain, or as one of the constituents of ore veins. Colorado, Utah and Pennsylvania are among the best American specimen localities while Italy and the iron mines of the Island of Elba have produced many superb specimens. Pyrite has been mined in large quantities, not as an iron ore, but for the manufacture of sulphuric acid, so important to many of our industries. Because sulphur makes steel brittle and since it is not easily separated from the iron, pyrite is scarcely ever used as an ore for iron. Gold, one of the most important impurities in this sulphide, is often scattered through the pyrite in invisible particles, and sometimes in quantities enough to make it worth while mining pyrite for gold.

U.K. EGG CONTRACT PLEASES PRODUCERS

In the opinion of the Canadian Poultry Council, which recently concluded a three-day meeting in Ottawa, the Right Hon. James G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, has won the appreciation of the Canadian poultry industry for negotiating the new egg contract with the United Kingdom. All the directors of the Council, representing every province, were in favor of the contract.

Those attending the Council meeting, represented provincial poultry industry committees or boards set up during, or shortly before the war. Speaking for every phase of the poultry industry, these provincial boards had members on national consultative committees advising both government and industry on poultry policy. The formation of the Council which met in Ottawa, may continue this well co-ordinated work of the poultry industry.

In addition to approving the egg contract, the Council has given its support to the principles of floor prices for poultry meat. It favours considering the establishment of a poultry industry planning and marketing board. It feels that enough turkey hatching eggs should be allowed to come to Canada to maintain the present turkey industry. The Council also supports the principle of rail grading and price differences between grades as encouraging the better finishing of market poultry.

Long Wait

The pompous stranger stalked into the office and demanded to see the manager.

"I'm sorry, but he's not here," replied the secretary "Is there anything I can do?"

"No," snapped the visitor. "I never deal with subordinates. I'll wait until the manager returns."

"Very well, take a seat." said the secretary and went on about her work.

About an hour later the man got impatient.

"How much longer do you think the manager will be?" he demanded.

"Oh, about two weeks,' was the calm reply. "He started his vacation yesterday".

Mistaken

He was sitting in the suburban train reading his evening paper. The man beside him got up and left. As he turned the pages he noticed on the vacated seat a new pair of gloves.

There wasn't a moment to lose; he snatched them up, dashed to the exit, threw the gloves on to the platform.

Then he returned to his seat. But his look of faint self-satisfaction vanished when the man on the other side of the vacant seat leaned across and said:

"I say, old man—would you be good enough to tell me just why you threw my gloves out?"

Identified

A kindly old soul asked the seven children of an acquaintance to luncheon. The youngsters ranged from three years to fourteen. As they streamed in, the old lady's brain reeled and their Christian names failed her.

"And which one are you, dear?" she asked a solemn boy of seven.

"Me?" he said, importantly, "I'm the one with the spectacles."

Some people who shudder at the mention of cancer, heart disease and cerebral hemorrhage will take risks while driving and walking. And if they get hurt, they will often say, "Oh, well, accidents will happen." Of course they will happen if commonsense precautions are taken. 'Dont shudder at the thought of lingering death by disease while sticking out your chin for sudden death by traffic accident.

Another Scotch Story

It was the day appointed for the Rev. Donald McDonald for catechising some of his congregation, but, unfortunately the good clergyman had received an invitation to dinner for the same day and forgetting his previous engagement, had accepted it.

Just as the minister was mounting his gig to depart, he perceived the first of his class entering the garden, and the remainder coming over the fair Scottish hill. He was instantly aware of the mistake he had made, but his ready wit soon came to his assistance.

"What have you come for, John?" he asked addressing the first comer.

"An' dee ye no' remember, sir, ye bade us come to be catcheesed?"

"Oi, aye; weel, no' to keep ye going further, John, was it a horned coo or a hemmel that Noah took into the ark?"

"Deed, sir, I canna tell."

"Weel, turn back and ask the other folk the same question and if they canna answer it, bid them go home and find oot."

And with that the Rev. Donald Mac Donald drove away to his dinner.

Resourcefulness Rewarded

A travelling salesman was anxious to establish business relations with an important industrialist. The man he wanted to see was noted for being almost impossible to reach.

The salesman entered his office and handed his card to the receptionist. It was taken within, and through the partly opened door, the salesman saw the executive tear the card in half and toss it into the wastebasket.

The receptionist returned and stated that her employer would not see him.

"May I have my card back?" asked the salesman.

Silently embarrased the girl reported to her superior who sent her to the salesman with a nickel and a message that he was sorry, but the card had been destroyed.

More than equal to the occasion, the salesman drew another card from his pocket and gave it to the girl. "Take this back to him and tell him I sell two cards for a nickel."

He got his interview and his order.

Nothing can work me damage, except myself; never am I a real sufferer but by my own fault.—St. Bernard.

DIRTY EGGS NOT HELPED BY WASHING

Canadian farmers know that washing eggs to clean them is not a good practice, as it only helps to make the eggs go bad more quickly. Instead they rely upon the cleanliness of nests, and in this way avoid the penalty under the Canadian egg grading regulations, which places washed eggs into Grade C, at a loss of from 12 to 25 cents a dozen less than Grade A Large.

But this regulation is not nearly as severe as the penalty which confronts the Irish farmer who washes his eggs. Back in 1941 the Irish Department of Agriculture introduced penalties of a fine of $40 for the first offence and an $80 fine and up to three months' imprisonment, or both, for the second offence. This drastic legislation quickly reduced the quantity of dirty eggs being produced, and curbed the attempts to wash them. Now dirty eggs received from Irish producers average less than two per cent and sometimes less than one per cent.

Aluminum Tank Stands Three Stories High

Twin of a tank which will be erected in a new plant near Mexico City is the 45 foot high all-aluminum tank installed in the new extension to the Chesterville plant of Nestlé's Milk Products (Canada) Limited. The vertical aluminum tank rises through all three stories of the newly constructed Chesterville building and is of welded design with a conical bottom. The tank is made of Alcan 2S plate and has a diameter of 16'6", one of the largest aluminum tanks ever construted in Canada. It was built for the Nestlé's Company by Canadian Vickers Limited, Montreal.

Part of the highly confidential process for turning raw milk into powdered milk, the tank contains a special aluminum platform on the inside, complete with a series of sprays. This platform is raised and lowered in the tank for cleaning purpose.

Raw milk, sprayed into the tank, comes through the bottom opening as powdered milk. Also installed at the Chesterville plant are four smaller aluminum storage tanks, built of Alcan 2S alloy plate of welded design, in which the powdered milk is stored. These tanks are horizontal and rectangular in shape with the bottoms tapering off to a small opening. The tanks are roughly 10 feet long and 5 feet wide.

In the making of milk products (chocolate, etc.) where absolute cleanliness is an essential, aluminum serves as an ideal metal, for it will not rust or affect the contents of the tank in any way. In addition, the tank is easily kept clean and is attractive in appearance. Ease of lubrication and erection were also achieved by the use of aluminum for these tanks.

Church News

MOREWOOD UNITED

Services of the Morewood United Church were conducted on Sunday by the minister, Rev. W. J. Copsey. The lesson at the morning service was taken from Gen. 28;10-22, the story of Jacob's dream of the ladder set up on the earth and the top reaching to Heaven. The theme of the sermon was "Sensing the Presence of God" based on the sixteenth verse, "Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and he said, Surely God is in this place and I knew it not." It was stressed that God is always about, in this place, in these times, in these events, but to sense His presence, the soul must be in tune with Him. Earth's crammed full of heaven and every common bush is aflame with God; but only he who sees, takes off his shoes."

The anthem rendered by the choir was "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name". Mrs. S. Barrington was at the organ.

The theme of the evening service was the Parable of the Sower illustrated with lantern slides. The sermon stressed the sowing and reaping in the physical and spiritual realms. The seed must be good, and the soil must be fertile, if the harvest in the realm of nature or the realm of the spirit is to be happy and abundant. The sowing and the reaping are related, and the Christ who scatters the good seed will also put in the sickle when the harvest is ripe. A number of illustrated hymns added to the effectiveness of the service. The song service was lead by the choir under the direction of Mrs. S. Barrington.

HOLY TRINITY

This past Sunday was observed as the Festival of St. Mark, Evangelist and Martyr, at the Church of The Holy Trinity. As Sunday was also the 60th anniversary of the Lord's Day Alliance, prayers were offered for a Christian observance of Sunday as a day of worship, rest, and recreation—the Rector's sermon also being on this theme.

During the course of Evensong, the Rector dedicated two gifts given to the Church. The first was a hand-embroidered green Burse and Veil, made by the Embroidery Guild of Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa, and given as a Thank-Offering by a local family. The green Burse and Veil is used during the Communions in Trinitytide and part of Epiphanytide. The second gift was a pair of glass Altar candlesticks, symbolizing Christ as the "Light of the world," given by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Toronto.

An old story but a good one.

A man who had been bitten by a dog found his wounds wouldn't heal, and consulted a doctor. The physcian, alarmed by the appearance of the wound, had the dog caught and examined. The dog had rabies. As it was too late to give the man a serum, the doctor told him he would have to die of hydrophobia.

The poor man sat down at a desk and began writing. The physician sought to comfort him.

"Perhaps it will not be so bad," he said. "you needn't make your will now".

"I'm not making my will," replied the man. "I'm writing out a list of the people I'm going to bite."

Pioneer Of Limerick Road Passes
Denis Kearney, 86, Is Widely Mourned

The citizens of this district were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Denis Kearney, one of their most respected residents. Mr. Kearney, the sole survivor of his family, died at his home on Friday morning, April 16th, 1948, at the age of 84 years.

The deceased was the son of the late John P. Kearney and his wife Elizabeth McMahon. Denis Kearney lived his entire life on his farm in Limerick, four miles south-east of Chesterville. He was an outstanding citizen in this locality, owing to his many sterling qualities. Mr. Kearney was always a straight forward honest friend and helper, winning to himself a host of admiring acquaintances. He was a devout member of St. Mary's Church.

Surviving to mourn the loss of a devoted husband and father are his wife, the former Sarah Grady of Berwick, four sons and three daughters, Reverend Father Michael D. A little son Henry Bernard, predeceased him some years ago.

The funeral, which was very largely attended, was held from his late residence on Monday morning, April 19th, to St. Mary's Church, Chesterville, where Requiem Mass was celebrated at ten o'clock by Rev. Father J. C. LeSage. Interment took place in the McMahon cemetery where Rev J. C. LeSage also conducted the services at the graveside.

THEY TELL WHAT MAKES WEATHER

"Watch this may and I'll explain why we had that sunny weekend you were hoping for," Gil Clarke (right) of the Dominion Public Weather Service, tells Bill Bessey, CBC announcer, just before a broadcast of Clark's weekly program "Clearing Up the Weather." (Saturdays at 6.00 p.m. EST, on stations of the Trans-Canada network.) The weatherman refers to this meteorological map on each broadcast, when he tells what makes a storm, why cold ronts suddenly appear, or what sort of weather listeners may expect when their joints ache!

Wise Papa

"Pa," said Hector, looking up from the book he was reading, "what is meant by 'diplomatic phraseology'?"

"Well," replied Pa, "if you were to say to a homely girl, 'Your face would stop a clock,' that would be stupidity, but if you said to her, 'When I look into your eyes, time stands still,' that would be diplomatic phraseology!"

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT

By J P McEvoy

Rushin' to the office, rushin' out to eat,
Rushin' back and rushin' home,
Down the rushin' street.

Rushin' up an' rushin' down, rushin' in an' out,
Say, what's all the rushin' fer?
What's it all about?

Rushin' after money, rushin' after fame;
Climbin', pushin', shovin',
It's a dizzy game.
Steppin' on each other's heels, let me by—
Look out!
Say, what's all the pushin' fer
What's it all about?

What's the use of rushin'? Let us loaf a while,
Watch 'em push an' run an' grab,
We'll just sit an' smile.
As they scramble down the road,
gaily we will shout:
"Say, what's all the rushin' for?
What's it all about?"

PINAFORE AHOY!

Braving the shipboard breezes in appropriate nautical garb are these singers from the CBC production of the Gilbert and Sullivan light opera H.M.S. Pinafore, to be broadcast on May 4. At left, in jaunty plumed hat, satin breeches and gold braid is Eric Tredwell, baritone, as the First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Joseph Porter; next to him, in the tartan bonnet, is contralto Nellie Smith, as Little Buttercup; sharing a smile with her is Edmund Hockridge, baritone, as the commanding officer of H.M.S. Pinafore, Captain Corcoran; the lady in fine silks and wind-tilted hat is Jean Haig, soprano, who will sing the role of the captain's daughter, Josephine; in the white middy is William Morton, tenor, as "the smartest lad in all the fleet" — able-seaman Ralph Rackstraw. H.M.S. Pinafore will be the first in a 13-week CBC series of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, broadcast on the Dominion network, Tuesday at 8.30 p.m. EDT.

GARDEN CHATS:

By Lillian Allison

Hello Neighbour: Say, we were out for a drive the other day—just looking around. Really, I think the observance of National Clean-Up Week in our neck of the woods would be a good thing for us all. Now please don't take offence, dear neighbour, at anything I say. Your place looks very well, don't you think? Better just look at it again though from the road to make sure. Of course you intend to take away those dead branches on the front lawn. That will make a difference. But even with them there your place is much tidier than your neighbour's.

Now, confidentially, can you imagine how shiftless he is? You know that old fence along the driveway was a disgrace five years ago, yet he continues to look at it day after day and never does anything about it. And say did you ever notice that pile of junk by his woodshed? I'll bet if the Japs had it for scrap they could start another war. Of course, I couldn't count everything while driving by, but I did see the runners off an old sleigh, the remains of an ancient fanning mill, four rusty milk cans, the front seat of a Model T Ford, two buggy wheels and a cream separator. Maybe they're sentimental souvenirs. but wouldn't you think he'd put them out of sight?

Be it far from me to criticize, but that fellow across the road from you (I can't remember his name) has a shed there by the house that may fall on him some day. If he'd only take a little time, he could tear it down now much easier than he will clean it up after the next wind storm. His place would be quite attractive if it weren't for that shed and, of course, that dilapidated picket fence.

Have you seen that house with the brush around it out on the next road from your farm. You'll remember when you were small that the people who lived there planted some little cedars and spruces, lilacs and honeysuckle all around the house. The chap who lives there now must have lost his ax for there hasn't been a branch cut there for years. The two spruce trees at the east side of the house have grown almost to the eave. The lilac has taken over at least a third of the lawn and the cedars are knarled and dying. Really, his place is a "has been". Of course, he doesn't have to paint the house any more. No one can see it anyway.

Your cousin down at the corner has a very nice home indeed since they fixed it up. I've heard her tell about all the junk they drew to the swamp. I wondered how the former owner could have possibly collected so much. She wasn't too happy the year they ploughed the lawn and the children tracked in mud all summer, but she's glad now that it is so level and green. Those young trees and shrubs they set out are doing well too. She told me that all the improvements didn't cost them a cent—just hard work. It is —wonderful that such a change can be made with so little money spent.

I wonder why all the farm homes in this part of the country couldn't be made more beautiful. Usually it doesn't cost much. A clean-up job is the most necessary in most cases, then a plant-up programme follows with a paint-up campaign ending it all, if you can afford it. The first two tasks really make a difference. Let us make this National Clean-Up Week.

Your Society is planning to do some work soon. Mr. Class of K.A.S. was in town to-day with some suggestions for improving the Community Hall grounds. We have a man hired to spade the beds at the Reforestation Plot as soon as they are fit. Now we're wondering what happened to the plans to care for the grass. It should be done now, so, Mr. Councillors, how about a little action? Did you forget about it?

See you all next week, Neighbours.

THE GARDEN IS HELPED BY MULCHES

Mulching is the gardener's term for the covering of leaves and soil about a plant to prevent alternate freezing and thawing in winter, and to conserve moisture in summer. Mulching is not done to keep the plants warm, it is designed to keep them cold.

Sudden changes of weather, especially a warm spring sun followed by a frosty night, causes the soil to heave and to break tiny roots. Most winter killing comes by coaxing out an unwary sprout, only to be frozen by a sudden return of zero weather.

Sometimes a parasol of hardwood eaves over the plant will prevent this. Less hardy perennials often need special mulches, as they cannot stand the cold wet-packed leaf mulch.

Whenever straw is used, care must be taken or it may form a nesting place for mice. The mice feed upon the bark of trees and shrubs, or roots and bulbs, often killing them. A dusting of red pepper from the kitchen will help to spoil their fun.

Now that the sun has melted off the snow covering, it is well to loosen the mulch around such bulbs as tulips and hyacinths to keep them well sovered. If they start up too early, the late frosts may spoil the bloom, so a little extra mulch over those valiant first soots will pay dividends in fine bloom later on.

On these lovely spring days, with the sun warm on your back, it is sometimes a temptation to do a thorough clean-up job, removing all leaves and debris. But while the nights are still cold, and there may yet be frost, it is best to just loosen the mulch so that it will dry and allow the air to penetrate. The rougher material can be raked away and burned.

Then, round the middle of May the mulches may be carefully removed, the beds raked over to work the finer parts into the ground, and the rest added to your compost pile.

All summer the borders or open spaces around plants need to be kept loosened with a fork or cultivating hoe. This loosened soil provides air and also forms a dust mulch that prevents rapid evaporation of moisture.

An "F. D. R." Story

This was one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's stories.

Two rather rowdy young darkies, in whose minds shrilling police sirens were insolubly connected with great personal trouble and inconvenience, were walking along Pennsylvania Avenue, in Washington one morning when they became suddenly aware of a long black car bearing upon them, preceded by siren-sounding motorcycles in awesome number.

"Who dat?" stammered one of the Negroes.

"Why, you wall-eved ignoramus," rejoined the other, "dat am de President ob de United States!"

"Yeah?" said the first Negro. "Whut he done?"

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! At the time of writing the weather tempts one to wash all the Winter woollies and hang them out in the Spring breeze. However, when one reads of places for washing clothes such as they have in New York, one wonders! There the homemaker can take her bundle down to the corner laundry where she is assigned a washing machine. She puts the clothes in the machine, a quarter in the slot and turns on the water, adding the required amount of soap, sets the dial and then settles down to read any of their magazines. In fact there is a note at the top of each story as to reading time. Finally she takes her wet wash home and hangs it out in her own backyard.

Coming back home, we made a brief survey of laundering costs. Whether to send the weekly wash to commercial laundries or to buy an automatic or semi-automatic machine and do the job at home, is a problem for many women.

Laundry practices of city and farm families were compared and found to be similar. Few families soaked the wash and most homemakers used the same suds water for all the clothes. A majority put the clothes through rinse waters for the entire wash. Except for actual sudsing, very little hot water was used. Farm women do their wash at home but few have stationary tubs and ironers.

Laundering costs approximately twenty-five dollars a year with the non-automatic washer, minus rinsing facilities, and slightly more than twenty-five dollars with the automatic machine. These compare favourably to commercial laundries where a wet wash can be done for you.

Although there are not many repair jobs necessary for the carefully operated washing machine, costs are necessarily higher for automatics. Major points in the automatic's favour are their energy saving qualities, no puddles to mop and a cleaner wash.

The homemaker must decide for herself which she can afford to save most—time, money or labour.

1. Hard water for laundry purposes prevents thorough cleansing. A zeolite tank is the most efficient way to soften water and it pays dividends in soap saved and in longer life to fabrics. For delicate fabrics (woollens and nylons) use one teaspoon of borax per gallon of water; mix well, then add soap. Washing soda or other commercial softeners are fine for linens and cottons—but only if added before the soap.

2. To whiten cotton and linen fabrics (white or colourfast) you may bleach with chloride of lime solutions. It is most necessary to rinse in 3 waters afterwards, otherwise any remaining bleach will weaken the fabric. Blueing will brighten delicate fabrics which cannot be bleached. To prevent streaking, it must be thoroughly mixed with the last rinse water.

3. Ironing is a time-consuming job and can be tiring. To reduce labour, hang the wet clothes carefully. Shake out and hang bed linen, towels and face cloths, square with the line. When they dry, shake again, fold and put away. Fold towels and press them. Sitting on a stool to iron the straight things and a good firm ironing board at the proper level both make the job easier.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. A. F. T. asks: for best method to wash woollens.

Answer:

1. Use lots of warm water(never boiling hot).

2. Soften with borax (about 1|3 cup for average tub). Add soap dissolved in hot water first.

3. Shake out free dust. Measure knitted garments.

4. Never operate machine for knitted goods and others which require only 5 minute washing. Place in another suds if badly soiled.

5. Squeeze, do not twist to remove water from light garments. Or place woollens through a wringer with light pressure. Hold the fabric up as it goes through wringers to keep its shape.

6. Hang woollens in a warm breeze to dry. Never let garments freeze, nor place near direct heat.

7. Shrunken and felted woollens may be partially restored by steaming. Use a heavy pressing cloth quite wet. Stretch carefully while pressing over cloth, but do not press dry.

Miss P. J. asks: How can I take an ink stain out of a pink woollen sweater?

Answer: If it has not been washed yet, use lemon juice or salts of lemon solution. Apply on the spot, leave 15 or 20 minutes, rinse it out and apply again. Soak ink from stain into a blotter.
