SOCIAL AT DUNBAR

A Lawn Social under the auspices of Dunbar Band will be held at Dunbar on Wednesday evening Aug. 6th. Program by the band and local talent. Admission 35c and 25c.

DELIGHTFUL GARDEN PARTY

A most delightful afternoon was spent by the members and friends of the Women's Institute at the garden party held at the home of the President, Mrs. Jas. Hughes on Tuesday afternoon. The beautiful lawn with its profusion of roses and other flowers was an ideal place for such a gathering.

The out of town guests present were : Mrs. John Bolster of Vancouver, B. C.; Mrs. Edgar Forward of Ladysmith, B. C.; Mr. and Mrs. John Bogart of Woodlands, Wash, Mrs. McQue of Perth, Miss Lacey of Hillsburg, Mrs. Ford of Mountain, Mrs. Percy Durant of Winchester, Miss Evelyn Denne of Newmarket, Mrs. H. Jones of Montreal and Miss Evelyn Gamble of Kapuskasing.

Mrs. Eva McIntosh of Montreal, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Merkley's.

Mrs. D. A. Kinsman and baby June have returned to Toronto, after spending the past month at her home here..

Mrs. A. B. Brown of Cardinal, spent Thursday with Miss Laura Simser.

WILLIAM JOHN JOHNSTON PASSES SUDDENLY

With startling suddeness death came at the noon hour yesterday to William John Johnston at his home a mile east of Chesterville. Apparently in his usual health and attending to his duties without complaint Mr. Johnston was in town the day before seemingly quite well. Alone with Mrs. Johnston at the table he expired almost without warning.

Mr. Johnston was one of the most widely known and highly respected residents of Chesterville and vicinity where he had spent many years. Some time ago he met with a severe accident when he had a leg broken in a fall from a hay stack where he was assisting in the work at the home of one of his sons, but since that time although he never regained full use of his limb there was no hint of heart trouble which came so suddenly.

Mr. Johnston was in his seventy-second year and besides his widow a family of six boys and one daughter mourn the loss of a devoted husband and father.

The funeral will leave the family residence to-morrow (Friday) at 1.30 p. m. for Trinity Methodist Church when service will be conducted by Rev. R- M. Pounder, with interment afterwards at Maple Ridge.

INGRAM CROSS ATTACKED BY BULL

Mr. Ingram Cross, just North of Chesterville, had about the closest call from serious injury last Friday morning that he will ever have, when attacked by his pure bred Holstein bull. Mr. Cross was attempting to put the animal into the stable with the intention of attaching a ring and chain to its nose.. After the rain of Thursday night the barn yard was somewhat slippery and when Mr. Cross saw the bull turn on him he slipped in the mud and fell. The bull caught him and tossed him over the fence and then crashed through the fence after Mr. Cross. Fortunately the latter fell into a shallow ditch about ten inches or a foot deep, where the bull could not get room to continue his attack with the same viciousness, but kept it up and rolled Mr. Cross along the ditch some forty or fifty feet, when the bull's attention was distracted by the hired man, John French, coming to the rescue of his employer, throwing stones at the bull while seeking other weapons of attack. Mrs. Cross also coming to the rescue helped divert the bull's attention when it hesitated just long enough for Mr. Cross to reach the fence and gain a position of safety. No bones were broken and Mr. Cross has sufficiently recovered from his bruises and shock to again take up his work.

WITH THE BOWLERS

During the past week five games have been cleared off the calendar in the local bowling tournament. Two being finished on Friday night when Fred Merkley and his sharp-shooters wrung a victory from Dr. Doering's rink in the first competition and Geo. Lacey again came out victorious in the second competition with a win over the rink of W. B. Lawson.

Wednesday night three contests were staged with Merkley earning the right to go into the finals of the First competition by trimming Dr. Hutt's rink and will now hook up with Geo. Cass who had a bye on the round.

In the Second H. J. McMahon and Geo. Elliot played to a hair-raising finish, when the latter after getting away to a bad start came from behind to tie things up in the last end, which McMahon won by an eye lash on the last bowl, after many changes in position of the bowls and much excitement.

In the Third competition K. D. Lawson elemenated Henry Clarmont, sending him to keep company with the rink the latter put into the discard last week.

Tuesday evening two rinks from the locals, skipped by Dr. Hutt and Fred Merkley went over to Winchester and staged a friendly contest, the former winning his game 17 to 14, with the latter on a short end of a 14 to 16score after forcing their opponents into an extra end when the score was tied up at the end of the fifteenth.

George Cass and Fred Merkley have an idea that they can trim any other pair of doubles, which presents a fine opportunity for other aspirants to settle the matter if they do not happen to be of the same mind.

MATCHES CAUSED $7,000 FIRE LOSS

The large barn on the B. A.. Hitchcock farm on the South Racket road was destroyed by fire Friday morning The loss was $7,000 with about $3,000 insurance. Children playing with matches set the hay afire. Four children were in the barn at the time the fire started. They were Hazel and Ray Hitchock, children of Mr. and Mrs. Hitchcock, and Theodore and Clifford Crump. of Buffalo, visiting in the Hitchcock home with their parents. The Crump children were playing with matches in the hayloft and ignited the hay. Theodore rushed to the house and informed Mrs. Hitchcock, who speeded back with him and succeeded in getting the other children out safely.

Home Treatment

Mrs. Jiggins, who was reading a newspaper, observed to her husband that the journal contained an article entitled "Women's Work for Feeble-Minded."

Now Mr. Jiggins was in a reactionary mood. So he grunted and said: "I should like to know what women have ever done for the feeble-minded."

"They usually marry them, my dear," replied Mrs. Jiggins sweetly.

CHIEF CAUSE OF AUTO ACCIDENTS.

One of the best laws ever enacted in Canada for the protection of motorists is the right-hand right-of-way law now in force.

Although this law has been in force for some time, still it remains unknown to many motorists, and conceptions of the moot question, "Who has the right of way?" are as varied as they are erroneous.

One man believes he has the right of way because he is driving on a street car track. This is a very prevalent opinion amongst motorists. Another thinks that North and South streets have the right of way.

The courts repeatedly have held that the law does not apply only to vehicles approaching an intersection simultaneously. If you are on the left, and in the exercise of due care, you see that unless you yield the right of way to a vehicle approaching on the right, a collision will occur, you are bound to slow down, stop, or if need be, reverse.

More accidents are caused by violation of the right-hand right-of-way law than by any other cause.

More widespread knowledge of this law, and strict obedience to it will reduce accidents.

NOVEL FEATURES FOR OTTAWA EXHIBITION

There are many new and noteworthy features for the Ottawa exhibition this year, the dates being Sept. 5th to 15th. Under the auspices of the Central Canada exhibition Association, this big annual event holds second place among the annual exhibitions on the continent.

One of the new features will be a grand historical peageant depicting the early history of Canada and the Ottawa district in particular. Four hundred performers will take part and the costuming and staging will be on an elaborate scale. This will be presented each evening of exhibition week.

Another innovation this year will be free band concerts to be given each afternoon and evening. The Princess Patricia's Light Infantry Band, under the direction of Lieut. T. W. James, will be heard on the first two days of the week and the band of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, under Capt. Alfred Light, on the remaining four days. Lieut. James and his historic band have been engaged for the British Empire Exhibition and will be heard in Ottawa before sailing. The R. C. H. A. Band has a very high reputation and the concerts promise to be a very pleasing factor in the big exhibition.

Monday will be free to children and all rides and shows on the midway will give a five cent admission fee to children up to six o'clock. The grandstand performance will be free in the afternoon for children and in addition arrangements are being made to have only a five cent charge for cones, soft drinks and other things which the little folk delight in.

The directors pride themselves on giving a full week's exhibition and every arrangement is being made to see that the show is in full swing for Monday. The midway will be the largest and most select ever presented in Ottawa and will be all in operation for the early comers. In front of the grandstand there will be a program of attractions such as not been seen before. It will be a bill of features, secured from the largest booking offices in America.

Notable departments of the Ottawa exhibition include the Pure Food Show, Automobile Show, Baby Show, and Child's Welfare Department, Dog Show, Cat Show, Poultry and Pets, Art Exhibit, Dairy Building, Horticultural display, including the Experimental Farm section; horse races, live stock and agricultural displays, exhibits and demonstrations by merchants and manufacturers and other educational and interesting features.

This year the general admission has been reduced to 25 cents and the directors are out to get a half million attendance during the week. Entries are now being received in the various departments and prize lists, and all information may be secured from J. K. Paisley, secretary-manager, City Hall, Ottawa.

OWNER TO PAY $1,400 TO GET STOLEN CAR

A Mr. McKenna, of Providence, R. I., had his car stolen from his garage in that city. After considerable time the car was traced to Alexandria in the possession of Henry Prieur, who had purchased it from Mr. Hope, also of Alexandria. The car had been sold by the thief to Mr. McDermott, who ran a garage in Montreal, and Mr. McDermott sold it to Mr. Hope. The action came on for trial before His Lordship Mr.. Justice Lennox at the last sittings of the Supreme Court at Cornwall. The defendants, took the position that the law of the province of Quebec governed and not the law of the province of Ontario, that the defendants had obtained a good title to this stolen car under the laws of the province of Quebec, and that Prieur, the present owner of the car, had obtained a good title. The plaintiff established clearly that the car had been stolen. The defendant, Hope, established clearly that he had bought the car in good faith, and the defendant, Prieur, established that he had bought the car in good faith from Hope. The judge reserved judgment at the trial, and has just delivered judgment in favor of the defendants, ordering the plaintiff to pay Hope $1,400 and costs, and ordering Hope to pay Prieur the amount he had paid for the car, the plaintiff to pay the cost of both defendants. The judge adopted the contention of the defendants, that this was a "commercial matter,," and was valid according to the Quebec code.

HALF AND HALF

When you get a little gloomy about business, jjust recall how one of the directors of a big business turned the tide of thought by asking another director this question: "Can you tell how far a dog can run in the woods?"

The young director appeared disgusted with such a question, and he answered abruptly: "He can run into the woods as far as he likes."

"No," said the older director, "when he has run into the woods halfway, he is then running out of the woods."

And that is exactly what we business men are doing today—we are on the last lap of a long and lonely trail out of the woods, and if this is not encouraging enough, bring on a better illustration.

The Women's Institute of Dundas will hold a basket picnic at Broder Park,, Morrisburg, on Friday afternoon, August 1st. Boats will leave the wharf at 2 o'clock. Return fare 20c. A splendid programme has been arranged. Members and their friends cordially invited.

A WARNING TO MOTORISTS

We are requested to state that the provincial and local police have received orders to strictly enforce the law regarding traffic. Therefore, all automobile owners are requested to be on their guard not only in town, but out in the country also, as speeding will not be tolerated.

The speed limit in towns and villages in Ontario is 20 miles an hour; in the country, 25 miles. At street intersections in towns or villages 10 miles; intersection of roads in the country 12 miles.

A fine of not less than $5 and not more than $50 is imposed for a first offence; for a second offence $10 to $100 and liable to imprisonment besides.

Anyone driving a car negligently or who does any racing is liable to a fine of $25 to $100 and gaol for 30 days; for a second offence $500 and six months in gaol.

No one under 16 years of age may drive a car, between 16 or 18 he or she must have a permit; and for a livery one must have a special license.

The two headilghts must be in good order at all times, and the red one on the rear also.

Anyone driving a car while in a state of intoxication goes to gaol without a fine.

Owing to the large number of accidents due to speeding and carelessness, something must be done to protect the public at large.

SCOTTISH PLOUGHMEN FOR CANADA.

Two hundred ploughmen from all parts of Scotland, including twenty-two splendid families, recently sailed from Scotland, under the direction of Mr. T. E. Roberts, of the Department of Colonization and Development, Canadian Pacific Railway. These emigrants have capital ranging from a few hundred to a thousand pounds. Ninety of the party, hailing from the counties of Inverness, Ross, Sutherland and Caithness, were selected by Miss Anne MacDonald, Canadian Government agent at Inverness. Most of the party entrained for the West upon arrival at Quebec.

THE RIGHT WAY TO GROW OLD

"Ann," said Mrs. Lamkin to her hostess after the pleasant bustle greeting her return to the Wednesday Circle had died down, "I can't say you're looking any younger."

"Did you expect me to, Amanda," inquired Miss Tenney tranquilly. "It's only six weeks, but every day and in every way I've been growing older and older. Though as long as I'm not decrepit and keep my faculties that's nothing I'm likely to lose any sleep over."

"That's just it, Ann Tenney," said Mrs. Lamkin. "That's just exactly it!"

"What's exactly what?" demanded Lydia Peters briskly. "Ann's looking about as usual as far as I can see and about like the rest of us as far as age goes. We're not ashamed of our years, I hope; but I'd like to know what's come over you all of a sudden to sit up and take notice of them? I hardly give a thought to growing old from one birthday to the next, and I'd have supposed you didn't either, Amanda."

"So I don't, Lydia—not usually. but this morning I stared in my looking-glass real close to, and said I to myself, 'Mercy, Amanda Lamkin, what a lined, puckery, colorless, funny old thing you're getting to be! You don't look much like the girl Alonzo married, do you?"

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Ann Tenney. "Your looks are well enough, Amanda, and as for Alonzo—well, he carries his years as well as most folks, but he doesn't look much like the Lonny Lamkin I remember beauing you about in old times, not to mention that he's stout enough to make two of him."

"Except for that last little remark," said Mrs. Lamkin, chuckling, "that's just what Alonzo said himself."

"But what I'd like to know," puzzle-headed little Miss Dibley, the dressmaker, put in plaintively, "is what started all this talk and where it's leading to? I'm sure a woman past middle life who's reasonably well-preserved need never look unattractive if she dresses properly. There's a great deal in clothes."

"There's more in complexions and contours; I got that last word from my niece Alinda; she's artistic, you know," explained Mrs. Lamkin. "And what I was leading up to is how good you all look to me—every face in this circle!—since I've seen so many of those poor won't-grow-old-if-I-dye-for-it women in the city. Crinkled and curled and colored and creamed and toucked up and toned down they were, or else preened and plumped and peeled until their faces were all soft and smooth and pink like elderly babies. They weren't bad looking in a way, but they didn't seem to mean anything. You couldn't look at them and tell what kind of women had been living behind those faces all those years. They'd turned them into masks. You blessed people all look real!"

"On behalf of our gray hairs and honest wrinkles, Amanda," said Lydia Peters dryly, "thanks!"

"And Alinda says," Mrs. Lamkin's voice was heard continuing as the laughter ceased, "that artists have always loved to paint elderly faces, because life has put so much into them. When they have beauty—and they ought to have it—it is the beauty of the soul."

"Dear me," Miss Dibley murmured anxiously, "it's hard enough suiting figures and complexions, but I don't see how any dressmaker can be expected to know what is becoming to souls."

WHY BIBLE REMAINS BEST SELLING BOOK

"There are four great reasons why the Bible is the best selling book in the world," said James Wood, 84-year-old president emeritus of the American Bible Society when interviewed recently in his home in Westchester County. "First to satisy an innate longing. People want something outside themselves and know it can be found in the Bible; second, a spiritual experience urges them on to verify it through the Bible. A step higher are those who want to confirm doctrinal beliefs, and this is not necessarily through a controversial impetus; and last, that class highest up and most in number, those who want to know what is in the Bible that has made the people who read it superior to other people. This last is the most tremendous factor in its sale," says the Brooklyn Eagle.

It is recognized that English speaking people rule the world, and everybody else wants to know the reason why. It was a known fact that in the ten years before the World War the English-speaking people increased 216 per cent., while no other language reached a 100 per cent. increase.

To-day the Republic of China has more Bibles published and circulated in its territory than any other country in the world. Last year two and one-half million volumes were distributed in China, and twice as many could have been circulated if the earthquake had not cut off the supply. It is their keen interest in western ideas.

"Do you think the people buy the Bible just for literary purposes?" Mr. Wood was asked, and he replied:

"Very few. Only the highly educated are attracted because of its literary merit. The rest of the world get it because they are looking for something they cannot find, which they feel might be found in the Bible." The Bible is the best selling book in the world, and this year after year. Last year thirty million copies were sold, and while in eight years Harold Bell Wright's books, the second best sellers, have mounted up to ten million sales, the Bible has risen to 240 million copies. The American Bible Society alone sold 7,101,289 volumes, as contrasted with 4,563,067 sent out the year before, and 2,901,937 were used in the United States and 18,334 in American island possessions.

The translation of the Bible again surpasses that of any other work. It has been translated into 770 different languages and dialects, and according to the reference librarian of the New York City public library, Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress ranks next. It has been translated into 107 languages and dialects, making the Bible farther reaching by seven times. The American Bible Society has made 137 of these translations of the Bible, Mr. Wood said. "It is interesting to note that China has thirty-nine dialects to struggle with, while her neighbor Japan, on a little volcanic island, has a universal language and no dialects whatever; and the Japanese are learning English more rapidly than any other people in the world. The circulation of the Bible last year in the Island Empire just doubled that of the year before.

"The earthquake wrought great havoc in the work of the American Bible Society, for prior to the disaster, the city of Tokio printed more volumes of the Bible than any other city in the world, not excepting New York and London. All of the society's plates for its editions of Japanese Scriptures, most of its Siamese Scriptures, were simply a mass of molten copper. The Philippines suffered most, for the plates for the Scriptures in twelve different languages of the islands were destroyed. Bayreuth is the great printing centre for Bibles in the language of Egypt, Arabia and Syria. Tokio is the centre for Japanese, Siamese, Korean and the Philippine languages. The rest of Asia,, outside of China, is supplied by the British and Foreign Bible Society. The printing is done in England, where one can get a better Bible for the money than any other place in the world.

"The American Bible Society labors under great difficulties because it is not financied as well as the British and Foreign Bible Society," Mr. Wood said. "They have large trust funds, the income from which is used to enable them to sell Bibles below cost. The American Bible Society is able to sell only at cost, except when it gives them away outright, and consequently the British and Foreign Bible Society constantly undersells the American Society.

"And by the way," he added, in closing, "the world circulation of the Bible Society increased last year seventy-five per cent. and the strange part of it is that the American Bible Society did not have any more money than it had the year before to promote this circulation. The desire for the Bible was so strong that more books were sold and fewer given away."

THURSDAY JULY 24TH, 1924.

TARIFF CUTS CUT REVENUE

It has not taken long for the tariff reductions announced in the last Budget to make a big hole in the national revenues. The average person knows quite well that if you cut away one source of revenue without providing a compensating one, and at the same time keep expenditure at the old level, you are bound to have a deficit. This is nothing more than an ordinary common sense conclusion. But the King Government thought that it could take a chance on the revenue. Now it finds itself confronted by a yawning deficit.

From the beginning of the current fiscal year the Customs collections have been slipping. There were so many rumours of drastic reductions in the tariff that business interests naturally grew nervous. They were afraid to venture out. In April Customs collections fell $500,000 behind those for the same month last year. In May the tariff reductions came into effect and there was a loss of $1,500,000; and in June the reduction was $2,000,000 as compared with June 1923.

Having increased the sales tax last year, the King Government had to back up on its action during the present session, and it is found that during the first three months of the current fiscal year their excise tax collections have fallen behind those of the same period in 1923 by $12,000,000. So on these two important sources of revenues there was a loss of $16,103,000 during the three months ending June.

There has been much loose talk to the effect that the Government can afford to disregard to some extent the tariff as a revenue-producer. In the days of the Laurier regime the Liberals did not think so, for they collected as much as 60 per cent of their revenue through the tariff. Now when more than three times as much revenue is required, the Liberals evidently think that the tariff may be whittled away.

There is a strong demand for reductions in the income tax. The income tax has been so reduced this year in the United States that the average person over there now pays about one-third less than he would pay in Canada. Our people know this, and they complain bitterly. The effect is to encourage emigration of income paying citizens and still worse to discourage enterprise and deaden business. But how can the income tax be reduced appreciably if the tariff is to be lowered so that a deficit, rather than a surplus, confronts the country?

The United States Government, realizing that there would be a strong demand for the reduction of the income tax, and for the abolition of vexatious way taxes generally, three years ago prepared the way for such reductions by providing a compensating source of revenue. What did it do? Why it fell back on the tariff. During the fiscal year ending June 30 th it collected $545,000,000 through the tariff, or 70 per cent more than it did three years ago. It had a surplus of $505,000,000, which was applied to the reduction of the debt.

Revenue has been falling behind quite rapidly during the first three months of the present fiscal year, but the worst is yet to come. Business is depressed and consequently revenue will suffer. If expenditure were being reduced it would not be so bad, but it is not. The only thing that is being cut is the revenue, and in proportion as the tariff is cut away, away goes all the necessary protection that industry in this country has enjoyed.

The King Government has taken a gambler's chance on the revenues, just as it took a gambler's chance on the tariff. the result is that the country is heading for serious trouble. The Liberals of the Laurier regime, when the country had only to raise a little over $12,000,000 a year for interest charges, thought it necessary to raise 60 per cent. of their revenue through the tariff. What would they think of their present-day successors who, though they have to raise twice as much for interest think they can whittle away the tariff without damage?

A man nearly 80 years of age walked ten miles from his home to an adjoining town. When he reached his destination he was greeted with some astonishment by an acquaintance. "You walked all the way!" the latter exclaimed. "How didyou get along?" "Oh, first rate," the old man replied, "that is, I did until I came to asign, 'Slow down to 15 miles an hour.' That kept me back a bit. ...

Here and There

Comparative figures on the hydro power installed in the United States and Canada show that the latter is far in the lead in respect of horsepower installed per 1,000 of population. The United States has 10,455,000 h.p. of installed water power against Canada's water power installations of 3,227,414 h.p. The horse-power per 1,000 of population in the United States is 95, but in Canada it is 350.

A steady increase in the volume of wheat exports from Canada is noted in the monthly statement issued by the Bureau of Statistics. In April, 1924, 6,085,465 bushels in all were exported, as against 5,143,304 in April, 1923. Included in these figures are 32,805 bushels sent to the United States, 2,972,469 to the United Kingdom and 3,080,191 to other countries.

Approximately 80 per cent of Manitoba's wheat acreage has been seeded, despite the general lateness of work on the land occasioned by unfavorable spring weather. Practically every district correspondent reports a reduction in the wheat acreage, with corresponding indications that barley and flax acreage, in particular, will be increased.

Alberta provided the bulk of the wool sold by the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association last year, 1,062,613 pounds, of the total of 2,843,365 pounds of the 1923 clip, coming from this province, according to a statement made by the general manager of the Association. Ontario growers took second place, with 636,076 pounds, followed by Manitoba - Saskatchewan, 459,583 pounds. Sundry shipments totalled 345,599 pounds.

The value of the building permits issued in 56 Canadian cities showed a large increase during April, as compared with March, 1924. Representative cities authorized buildings to the value of $13,452,359, as compared with $9,162,763 in the previous month. Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and New Brunswick registered increases in the value of building permits issued.

Except in sheep, Canadian livestock and livestock products show an increase in shipments to the United States all along the line in the January-February period of this year, compared with the corresponding months of last year. Cattle shipments in the period were 11,190, compared with 10,310; beef 923,400 lbs., compared with 446,800 lbs.; bacon 81,700 lbs.. compared with 30,100 lbs.; pork, 165,300 lbs., compared with 90,800 lbs.. and mutton 2,400 lbs., compared with 700 lbs.

The first annual pow-wow of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, which will be held July 17-18 at Yoho, will take place in a big sun-dance lodge decorated by Stoney Indians. The order aims to encourage travel through the Canadian Rockies, outdoor life, nature study, and forest conservation, and to honor early explorers. Many noted authors and artists have joined and E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has donated $1,000 towards expenses.

The Canadian Pacific S.S. "Empress of Canada" arrived at Vancouver, B.C., on May 24th, following a world cruise of five months and nearly 30,000 miles. The passengers witnessed a remarkable eruption at Hilo, in the Hawaiian Islands, on May 17th. After a public welcome at Vancouver, they left for the East, stopping en route at Banff Springs Hotel for a dinner-dance. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific, who met the ship, said that she had done important missionary work in carrying the Canadian Ensign over the Seven Seas.

Arrangements are well under way for entertaining the members and friends of the Canadian Teachers' Federation during their trans-Canadian tour, which will take place August 4th-12th over the main lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in a train specially provided for their accommodation. Fort William, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Edmonton, Banff, Lake Louise, Vancouver and Victoria are all planning festivities. The Canadian Pacific is preparing to give the teachers a royal time at their beautiful Rocky Mountain resorts and the people of Victoria, where the subsequent convention will be held, will also help to make their stay in that city a memorable one.

Uncle Toby Alarmed

After having been laid up for a very long time Uncle Tobias Feebles recovered sufficiently to be able to ride to town in his son-in-law's flivver.

"Well, how did you like it, Uncle Tobe?" asked a neighbor, after they returned home.

"Pretty well, thank ye, Addison," replied the ancient man. "But I was right sorry to see that they had had a turrible epidemic of typhoid fever—mighty nigh all the women folks had their hair cut off."

TAKING CARE OF THE HONEY CROP

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Honey is a perishable article no matter whether it is left in the comb or extracted. With care it can be kept in good condition for long periods, especially in the extracted form. Nectar, as stored by the bees, contains a high percentage of water, which must be evaporated before the honey can be extracted. When the cells are filled and the right amount of evaporation has taken place, the honey is sealed over and is then considered to be "ripe". It is not advisable to extract honey until at least three-fourths of the cells are capped, especially in regions where the honey is inclined to be rather thin. Comb honey should be left on the hives until all cells containing honey are sealed but should not be left on any longer than this or the sections are likely to become travel stained.

The honey should be extracted as soon as possible after the supers are removed from the hives and if done while still warm, more honey will be taken from the combs. After the honey is extracted it must be strained to remove all foreign matter. Straining may be done through fine cheesecloth or by letting the honey stand in tanks for two or three days, when all foreign matter will have risen to the surface. If the honey is well ripened, it should be placed in the final containers at once, before it starts to granulate, but if it is too thin it should be left in the tanks a short time for further ripening. Honey should be stored in a dry place, as it readily absorbs moisture from a damp atmosphere. Honey ripening in tanks should stand in a warm, dry room. Ripened honey in containers ready for market will keep better in a cold, dry place. Section honey should be stored in a well-ventilated room where the temperature is high and constant or moisture will condense on the cappings and be absorbed.

WHY SOME PEOPLE ARE LEFT HANDED

Are you left handed? If you are it very likely worries a good many people, particularly your parents and your teacher. It shouldn't worry them. And really it is a great waste of useful time to make you right handed. You see the trouble is—if there is any trouble,—is in the brain. For some reason or other the nerves of our bodies cross over so that the left side of the brain controls the right side of the body and the right side the left side. Usually the left brain is a little larger, so it takes command and makes the right side of the body leader. But always remember that left handed people are just as handy and clever as right handed people. Of course, they look odd when writing or using their left hand at the dinner table. But after all "looks" don't count so much when work has to be done. Many a left handed pitcher has won the baseball game.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY IN FITZROY

Carp Review—Early Monday morning John Connell, 15 year old son of Mr. Michael Connell of Fitzroy township with two large cans of milk set out to deliver the milk at the cheese factory on the tenth concessio of Fitzroy. After he had travelled about five miles from his father's farm he noticed three men approaching, and as they came abreast of his vehicle one of them grabbed the bridle reins of the horse while the others commanded the driver to dismount which he was reluctant to do. To hasten proceedings and to evidently frighten the driver one of the trio discharged a revolver close to the boy. The hold-up men then proceeded to search young Connell and relieved him of his watch and chain and other belongings. They also took the cans of milk out of the express and left them by the roadside, later driving off with the horse and express wagon in the vicinity of Galetta.

The first report of the hold up was made by John Connell to his father after the youth had walked back the five miles to the farm. Mr. Connell, Sr., notified Constable Johnston of Galetta and the latter set out in a motor car. The trail of the alleged holdup men was first picked up on the seventh concession and was followed almost into Galetta village, when the motor car with the contsable drew up alongside the rig containing the three men. When Constable Johnston displayed his police badge and told the men to come with him, they jumped from the express wagon and for a time escaped in the bush. Two of them were later captured in the village of Galetta and several hours afterwards, after scoring the roads of Fitzroy and Torbolton townships, the other man was captured near Woodlawn station. They gave their names as John Beaufort, aged 22, Gilbert Roy, aged 19, and George Sarasin, aged 18, all of Montreal. When cornered none of the trio offered resistence, and the revolver which it is alleged one of them possessed at the time of the hold up was found near the spot where the men jumped from the express near Galetta.

YOUNG CANADIAN WINS KING'S PRIZE IN BRITISH SHOOTING CLASSIC

Private Burke, Ottawa, won the Kink's Prize Saturday, when his score of 230 out of a possible 250. At the 900-yard target he totalled 66.

At the 1,000-yard range Burke obtained two inners second and eight shot, his total at this range being 73, which with 66 at the first range in the King's Prize final Saturday and his aggregate of 91 in the second stage Friday totalled 230.

Burke finished his shooting for the King's Prize early in the competition, and although those around him assured him that no aggregate made by the other competitors could beat him, he laughingly declined to accept their assurance. "Wait till I have won," Burke modestly replied to photographers eager to get busy taking his picture as the King's Prize winner of 1924.

Congratulated By Prince

At length, when the last shot in the match had been fired, Burke, the victor in the great competition, with a mighty crowd pressing around him, was conducted to the Prince of Wales, who heartily congratulated the young Canadian on his prowess with the rifle.

"I am very glad to have seen the shooting," His Royal Highness declared. The Prince, who is to present the prizes to the Bisley winners this evening, made it a point to be present when the final was being shot.

Lord Cheylesmore, president of the National Rifle Association, and Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London also congratulated Burke.

Thereupon the press photographers who had been held in leash thus far, got busy at once. There were at least 30 of them ready to "shoot" the Ottawa victor.

"Rapid fire," the Prince remarked to the camera grigade.

"Would your Royal Highness mind shaking hands with the King's Prize winner?" one of the press photographers requested.

The Prince at once graciously complied and again a fusilade from the cameras opened upon Burke, with the Heir-Apparent to the Throne being in the picture.

Burke, with a sprig of maple in his tunic, was hoisted aloft in the famous chair which had borne previous King's Prize winners and was carried by his fellow teamsmen on the customary tour of Bisley Camp.

Private Desmond Burke, the 19-year-old boy from Ottawa, this year's winner of the King's Prize of £250 and the National Rifle Association's gold medal and badge, is one of the youngest marksmen that ever shot for Canada at the Bisley Meeting.

Throughout the match for the premier event, Pte. Burke shot very consistently. He won the bronze medal for the best aggregate in the first stage, with 103 out of a possible 105. In the second stage, in which the three hundred best scores in the first stage qualified, Private Burke, with 91, was one of eleven Canadians who succeeded in reaching the final stage, for which 100 of the best scores in the second stage qualified.

A FICTION THAT'S A FACT

A customer walked into a hardware store and asked the price of a hammer. "One dollar," said the hardware man. "I can order one by mail and get it for seventy-five cents," said Mr. Customer. "Sure you can." said Mr. Hardware, "and I'll sell you the same hammer for the same cost, here it is; it's a cheaper lighter hammer, but I'll sell at the same price you can get it by mail." "Good enough," replies Mr. Customer, "just hand it over and put it on my account." "Nay, nay, brother," comes back Hardware, "this is a mail order transaction, and it's cash with the order." The customer dug up seventy-five cents and reached for the hammer, but was waved aside. "Not yet," said the grinning hardware prince, "keep on digging. If you sent by mail the money order costs you five cents, the stamp three cents, and the postage on the hammer would be three cents; kindly lay eighteen cents more upon the counter." The customer saw the point and produced the required amount; but again the hammer was held away. "Excuse me," said the hardware man, "but this is a mail order proposition. Now you have just ordered the hammer and you wouldn't expect it for several days, so come in some time next week and I'll hand it to you."

The value of Ontario's mineral production for the first quarter of the present year, as shown by a report of the Department of Mines, has increased $2,333,000 over the corresponding quarter of last year, the total being $11,575,151 and $9,241,853 respectively. Silver was the only metal of importance to record decreased production during the period under review.

Among the passengers sailing on the Canadian Pacific liner "Montlaurier" for England on July 8th, was E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway. While in England, Mr. Beatty is scheduled to address the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World on July 17th on the subject of "Building an Empire with Advertising."

Excellent reports as to the hunting in the Caribou district of British Columbia are being received. F. W. Pridham and Fred. Shaver recently returned from a month's sport in that district with an excellent specimen of grizzly bear weighing about 1,400 pounds. They saw moose, caribou, deer, black bear, pheasants and grouse, and consider the district a hunter's paradise.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Bond Dealers' Association of Canada at Toronto recently, the President declared that during the 12 months ending May 1st, $507,917,000 worth of Canadian bonds had been distributed, this being by far the largest total issued in the Dominion in any post-war year. The most striking feature in this connection is that about 89 per cent. was absorbed within the borders of Canada.

On June 18th Winnipeg, Man., celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its incorporation. From a struggling frontier village of the 70s, Winnipeg has forged into the position of third largest city in the Dominion, with continental repute as a railroad centre. It is the Gateway of the West and 100,000,000 bushels of prairie grain pass through it to the head of the lakes, whence it goes to the markets of the world.

Twenty-five officers and 200 men of the Royal Navy, from the special service squadron headed by H.M.S. Hood, enjoyed a trip through the Rockies over the Canadian Pacific lines while their ships were anchored at Vancouver recently. The sailors, who made a point, in true naval style, of seeing and doing everything, were enthusiastic over the scenery at such show-places as Banff and Lake Louise, which they declared the most beautiful they had seen in all their world cruise.

To add encouragement to the raising of high-class swine, which is being fostered by the governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Canadian Pacific Railway is awarding a championship cup to the Boys' and Girls' Swine Clubs winning the club competitions in these provinces. The cups are for annual competition, but will become the property of the club if won for three years in succession. Medals will be awarded individual members. This year winning teams resident on the Company's lines will also be granted a free trip to the Royal stock show at Toronto.

The Arts, Science and Letters Society of the Province of Quebec recently sent a questionnaire to the various parishes of Quebec and Montmorency counties, seeking information as to the age and size of families residing in those territories. It was discovered that the family of Ismael Bedard had remained on the same land at Charlesbourg since 1629, that the largest family in Montmorency was that of Hector Laliberte, of St. Jean, Island of Orleans, who has 20 children living, and that Joseph Gagnon, St. Pierre, Island of Orleans, has the largest number of living descendants, 210.

What the Scot Forgot

In illustrating his point in a speech in St. John, Newfoundland, the other day, Earl Haig told this story:

"A man, dying, left a will in which he gave legacies to three friends—an Englishman, an Irishman and a Scot—on condition that they each of them put £5 in his coffin to be buried with him. The Englishman, after the manner of his kind, put in a £5 note. The Irishman put in another, which he had thoughtfully borrowed from the Englishman. The Scot took out both £5 notes and put in a cheque for £15, payable to bearer.

"To the Scot's great surprise, he heard two days later that his cheque had been presented and cashed. He had forgotten that the undertaker was a Welshman."

HELEN TRAYES DROWNED WHILE SWIMMING IN THE RIVER AT WILLIAMSTOWN

A very sad accident which greatly shocked the people of the district, occurred on Wednesday afternoon, July 9th, when Miss Helen Trayes was drowned while swimming in the Black River, a little below the village of Williamstown. Her sister, Edith, and Helen McDonald were the only others in the water. All were good swimmers. They had been swimming about fifteen minutes and were about to leave the water when it was noticed that Helen, who had been floating about in the centre of the river slowly put both hands to her face and disappeared. Her companions did everything they could to rescue her, but as the water was about fouteen feet deep and not very clear they could not find where she had gone. It was twenty minutes before helper arrived from the village. A few minutes later, largely through the continuous attempts of Alex. Stevenson and Clarence Cattanach, the body was recovered. Dr. Robinson was present and every effort was made to revive the unfortunate girl, but after two hours working it was seen to be in vain. Miss Trayes was a general favorite with old and young and her untimely death has cast a gloom over the village. She leaves to mourn her loss her, mother, Mrs. M. Trayes, two sisters, Mary and Edith Trayes, and one brother, Ross Trayes, B.Sc., who is in Northern Quebec and was unable to be present at the funeral.

Painful Confession

Billy was in tears when he came home from school.

"Teacher whipped me because I was the only one who could answer a question she asked the class," he sobbed.

His mother was indignant.

"Why, I'll see about that! What was the question, Billy?"

His eyes lighted reminiscently.

"She wanted to know who put the glue in her ink bottle!"

"The Dunlop Trail"

Summer Resorts of Ontario in a Nutshell for the Motorist.

"The Dunlop Trail" is the "new-idea" touring book, which represents the first attempt to lay Ontario before the holiday-seeker in such a way that he can motor over the Province systematically.

The whole story of Ontario is told in sequence—Ontario from Winnipeg to Cochrane, to Windsor, to Montreal—yet the book only comprises forty pages, and is pocket size.

Not a reference page from cover to cover—in other words, you get the whole story of a district when you are at the two pages covering that particular district. No advertising of any kind in "The Dunlop Trail."

All maps and illustrations specially drawn; all material specially compiled. Think of this feature: All your mileage figured out for you over the entire Province—the first time this has been attempted in the history of motoring.

In "The Dunlop Trail" you find every River and Lake trip in Ontario that has a schedule; also special Train trips; combination Auto, Boat and Train trips; the first complete list ever published of places in Ontario where Summer Hotels are located; every Golf Club and Camp Site in the Province, and real information, where you want it, about steamer and ferry services for taking autos aboard.

In order to keep the circulation of "The Dunlop Trail" in the proper channel a nominal price of fifty cents has been put on it. Any Garage or Tire Dealer in Ontario will take your order for "The Dunlop Trail" or you can procure it direct from this Company at any of the Ontario Offices mentioned below.

The Future

The Managers and Faculty of the CORNWALL COMMERCIAL COLLEGE realize that the institution has taken such rank among the commercial schools of the country, and has secured such a measure of public confidence, that by earnest effort alone can they hope to meet the expectations of its large constituency. That effort shall not be wanting. The C.C.C. has long been a leader in the march of progress in this department of education, and it is the intention of those into whose hands its interests are placed to so improve it that its position shall each year be more clearly defined.

Commercial education has never before attracted so much of public attention as it is receiving at the present time; nor was the value of work which commercial schools are accomplishing ever before so thoroughly appreciated.

IS OBEDIENCE A VIRTUE?

On Sunday evening last Rev. Roy M. Pounder preached in Trinity Methodist Church, Chesterville, from the text, Psalm III. 10:"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," his subject being, "Is Obedience a Virtue?"

To this question there would seem at first sight to be only one possible answer. The mother, overburdened with the cares and responsibilities of the home, would reply, "Certainly, obedience is a virtue. When my children obey me promptly and cheerfully, half my burdens are lifted." The teacher loving order, and dreading that chaos into which a school so easily degenerates would also reply in the affirmative. "Without obedience," would be the reply, "the school could not properly exist for a single day". The legislator is so determined that the laws which he makes shall be obeyed that he directs their enforcement by penalties. The judge punishes disobedience with fines and imprisonment. The military leader, realizing that a single act of disobedience might bring fatal disaster to a whole army in battle, holds before his troops the grim alternative of obedience or the firing squad. In the church we find that the more highly centralized the authority the greater the stress laid upon the virtue of obedience. To think and speak and act as the church requires is to be a model ecclesiastic. Thus to our question, "Is obedience a virtue?" the parent, the teacher, the legislator, the judge, the military leader and the ecclesiastic make answer in the affirmative.

Moreover we find that obedience is enjoined in both the Old Testament and the New. "If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat of the good of the land," says the prophet Isaiah. Jesus says, "Why call ye me Lord, Lord and do not the things which I say?"

Obedience secures order and effectiveness in home and school, in church and state. It trains to habits of right living. It teaches us to disregard inclination when this would lead us in the wrong way, and to perform disagreeable duties regardless of our dislike of them.

Therefore obedience is a virtue.

Why then take time to prove so obvious a proposition?

Just to make my position clear before I proceed.

I make haste to add that obedience is not the highest form of virtue. And this for three reasons.

In the first place its motive is too often fear. The child fears the strap. The would-be law-breaker fears a term in jail. The employe is afraid of losing his job. The soldier shudders as he hears that Private So-and-So was shot at dawn for desertion. The dread of public opinion causes most people to conform to social standards of which they may sometimes disapprove.

Fear makes a man a slave. It gives him a hunted look. To do what one loathes doing, because fearing the consequences of refusal—why, the negro, picking cotton under a Southern sun, was no worse off than that.

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," says our text. Yes, but surely not the end. Even children have sometimes been taught to be afraid of God. They have learned to regard Him as a sort of glorified policeman, a celestial spy upon their actions. Unless fear passes into awe and love it is only the beginning ofwisdom. To strive to do God's will because we fear the consequences of refusal both for time and Eternity, is infinitely wiser than a mad disregard of God but falls very far short of the Christian secret of a happy life.

In the second place, obedience may prevent the fullest self development. It is much easier, sometimes, to do as we are told than to think and act for ourselves, but it is not always the best for us. Character is developed by assuming full responsibility for our actions.

In the third place, we should outgrow the necessity of obedience. In the home it would be considered absurd to seek to command boys and girls of twenty as you would the children of ten. It is true that we sometimes need a little more authority in the home. We have swung from one extreme to the other from undue strictness to almost complete laxity. Yet the fact remains that with the growth of the children authority becomes a vanishing quantity.

In connection with almost every marriage ceremony the question arises as to the insertion or omission of the word "obey". As a matter of fact the word does not occur in the Methodist form of the ceremony. There is no reason why it should be there. The utter absurdity of accepting the subordination which obedience implies must be very apparent. Marriage is a relation of absolute equality. Companionship, comradeship, deep, mutual, far-reaching influence, spontaneous and joyful acceptance of each other's point of view, so far as possible these, and not obedience constitute the ideal of marriage.

Because obedience is too often prompted by fear because it some times prevents the fullest self development and because we should outgrow the necessity for it, we conclude that obedience is not the highest form of virtue.

If obedience is the keynote of the Old Testament, freedom is the keynote of the New.

The supreme Christian virtue is not obedience, but freedom—freedom, not merely to do what we like, or what we ought to do, but freedom to do what we ought to do, because we like to do it.

TO CAN RHUBARB

Canning rhubarb as a filler for pies or for other uses throughout the winter is a simple and rapid process. Fill a glass jar with rhubarb and not peel it, for much of its fine, sun-warmed flavor is on the outside. Put on a new rubber ring. Set the jar under a cool water faucet and fill to overflowing with water, but on no account shut off the water until the top has been clamped on. This makes it absolutely air tight and it is almost sure to keep well.

If the water supply is questionable, boiling it and cooling is sometimes advised. Cranberries are successfully canned without cooking in the same way, but they must all be good ones to start with.

Inquiry as to methods used by people who retort that they cannot put up rhubarb successfully by this method shows that the water tap, almost invariably, was shut off before the top had been clamped on. This should be done while the water is running into and over the jar.

Country folks who have to depend on well water can count on sure success by filling and sealing the jar of rhubarb several inches under water, in a large milk can or deep pail. Jars and rubber rings should be scalded in boiling water. If the rhubarb is put in whole cut the strips to fit the jar, pint or quart, only up to the base of the neck. If cut in pieces fill to the top. In this case they will have to be held down by the finger, as water floats them out.
