PAN-A-MIN-

Puts your hens in laying trim for winter egg production. Then you have music in the poultry yard. Song, scratch, cackle, an industrious hen. A hen that gets off the roost winter mornings, ready to scratch for her breakfast. A fat, lazy hen may be alright for pot-pie, but no good for laying. Add Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-A-Min to the daily ration, and see the change come over your flock. See the comb and wattles turn red. See them cheer up and hustle around. That's when you get eggs.

A 35-cent package will do 12 hens for 30 days.
A 65-cent package will do 25 hens for 60 days.
An 85-cent package will do 60 hens for 30 days.
Sold under Dr. Hess' positive guarantee.

EGGS OR WORMS, WHICH?

Intestinal Parasites—The most important problem that the poultryman has to face. It is claimed that worms cause greater losses than all other troubles. Preventing infestation is a difficult task, when grounds ar infested with worms, reinfestation of the flock is certain to be continued. ARE YOU IN THE WORM BUSINESS, or are you keeping poultry to get eggs?

VERMITROL

Is what your hens need. It is used as a flock treatment, given in the feed. Try a 1½ lb. package, only 65c. You will be pleased with the results—so will the hens.

$25,000 NEW DOCK FOR FERRY TERMINAL

It is reported on good authority that the contract for the 80 x 100 ft. dock, to the centre crib below the concrete pier, is let to Robt. Begg & Son, Hallville. The construction will be of pile and tressle work.

The approach will have a 24 foot top, for two-way traffic, with custom house enlarged, and moved to face the approach.

This is the culmination of the Morrisburg-Waddington Ferry having the most modern docks, with ramps for stern and bow forward loading and unloading, which will speed up the service to a three-minute crossing from Canada to U.S.A.

"The Leader" was informed four years ago, by Mr. George D. Howith, executive vice-president of the M-W Ferry Line, as to the program, and many obstacles had to be overcome on both sides of the river, to give Morrisburg and Waddington positively the fastest crossing on the river. It will in itself advertise Morrisburg as the greatest port of entry to the capital of Canada, and the most direct and convenient route from Williamsburg.

Owing to the heavy consistent increase in traffic, the customs house is too small. It will be increased by about 14 feet, making it an imposing office building of 30 x 30.

In the program, care was taken not to disturb boat houses, assuring yacht owners co-operation and public spirit extended in the venture.

The Reeve, Mr. Flynn, the Council and officialdom at large backed the Ferry Company in its quest for proper facilities on both sides of the river.

DOUBLE WEDDING

A most interesting double wedding ceremony was performed on Saturday last by Rev. A.J. Wilson, at the Manse, Napanee, when Doris Mary, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bowles of Morewood, was united in marriage to Herbert H. Watson, eldest son of Mrs. H. Watson and the late Mr. Watson, Winchester; and Gladys, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Casselman of Williamsburg, became the bride of Alton H. Bolton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Bolton of Winchester. They were unattended.

Both brides were charmingly gowned in powder blue silk crepe, designed on long, graceful lines, with shoes, hats and gloves in matching tones. Each carried a bridal bouquet of Talisman roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, the happy young couples left on a motor trip to Toronto, Niagara and Buffalo. While at Northbrook, Ontario, the couples were guests of Mrs. S.A. Both at a delightful wedding dinner in their honour.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bolton will take up residence in Avonmore, Ontario, while Mr. and Mrs. Watson will reside in Winchester, where Mr. Watson is a member of the staff of the Hydro Electric Commission.

STRADER—WHITTEKER

A wedding of much local interest took place Friday afternoon last at the Lutheran parsonage, Williamsburg, when Miss Lillian Whitteker, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitteker, Williamsburg, was united in marriage to Herman George, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strader, Winchestr. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C.R. Cronmiller.

The bride's wedding costume consisted of a beautiful blue transparent velvet gown, cut on long lines, and trimmed with touches of silver lace, a blue felt hat and accessories to match.

Immediately after the ceremony, the wedding party proceeded to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served to relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

Following the dinner, Mr. and Mrs Strader left by motor for Toronto, Niagara and other western points. Travelling, the bride wore a grey silk crepe dress, fur-trimmed blue coat, blue hat and accessories. On their return they will reside at Avonmore.

Prior to her marriage, Miss Whitteker was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, which were presented to her at a miscellaneous shower held in the Lutheran hall, Dunbar. The guests, numbering nearly 150, wer received by the bride's mother, Mrs Frank Whitteker. During the evening, an appropriate address was read by Mr. Fred Beckstead, after which a program of games and music was presented.

NOMINATION MEETING

A meeting of the Electors of the Township of Williamsburg will be held in the United Church Hall, Colquhoun, lot 7, concession 4, Williamsburg, on Friday November 23, 1934, between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and one o'clock p.m. for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of Reeve, Deputy-Reeve and three Councillors for the year 1935, and the election will be held on December 3rd, 1934.

All candidates nominated will have until 9 o'clock p.m., November 24th, 1934, in which to qualify.

Dated Nov. 15th, 1934.

M.S. BECKSTEAD,
Clerk.

FARMER IS VICTIM, HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

Herbert Irving, farmer, and the father of seven children, living five miles south of Chesterville, lies near death in a Brockville hospital, the victim of a hit-and-run driver, who smashed into his buggy Saturday evening as he was going home. Bernie Dutt, 21, Berwick, was arrested 24 hours after the accident by provncial police as the alleged driver of the car, and is out on $8,000 bail, charged with criminal negligence. Irving's buggy was said to be equipped with a light, which police said was lit at the time of the accident.

Irving, with his 16-year-old son, Arnold, was driving south about 8.45 p.m. when the auto crashed into the rear of the buggy, Willis Casselman and Melvin McElroy of Chesterville came upon the scene of the accident directly afterwards, and saw a car with a very bright tail light disappearing towards Finch. A headlight believed off the hit-and-run car was picked up at the scene of the crash. Irving was picked up unconscious, and rushed to a doctor's office at Chesterville. His injuries were found very critical, and he was taken immediately to Brockville General Hospital. So serious was his condition that he was not expected to live to reach the hospital. Latest reports state Irving is gradually sinking, having suffered hemorrhages of the brain. He received a fractured skull, fractured jaw and collar bone when he was pitched to the roadway. The son received minor cuts and bruises, and was suffring from shock.

Police remembered that Dutt had a very bright tail light on his auto, said to have been installed after he had been warned several times for driving without a red light showing from the rear.

Dutt was apprehended Sunday evening at his home, as he endeavouring to replace a missing head lamp on his car. The right fender of his auto had been damaged, and the glass was missing from the remaining light.

He was taken to Chesterville, along with his auto, which was stored in a garage there. He was later taken to Cornwall jail, and appearing before Magistrate McDonald Monday morning on a charge of criminal negligence, was remanded for one week, later being released on bail of $8,000. Police say he admitted having collided with something at the place Irving's buggy was wrecked, but did not stop to ascrtain what had happened.

Should the victim fail to recover, Dutt will face a charge of manslaughter. He is alleged by police to have struck a buggy at Morewood about a year ago in the same manner, only slight damage being done.

HONOUR CONFERRED ON REV. FR. A. D. RHEAUME

In recognition of his work in aiding the separate schools of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Rev. Father A.D. Rheaume, formerly of Morrisburg, has been named domestic prelate and given the title of Rt. Rev. Monsignor, it was announced Wednesday evening.

Rev. Father Rheaume was born at Lachine, Que., and studied for the priesthood at the Grand Seminary, Montreal. He was ordained in Ottawa by the late Archbishop Gauthier on December 1, 1909. Remaining in the East until 1916, he then went West, where he became pastor at Portage la Prairie, previous to taking over his present charge as parish priest of St. Edward's Church, Winnipeg.

Recently Father Rheaume was signaly honoured, when in conjunction with the silver jubilee of the founding of St. Edward's parish, he celebrated his own 25th anniversary as a priest.

Father Rheaume is widely known throughout the West for his ability as an organizer and the major portion of the credit is given him for the keeping open of Catholic schools in Winnipeg, whose closing for a time seemed almost imminent, due to lack of funds.

Rev. Father Rheaume is a former resident of Morrisburg, and has visited this town on several occasions, since going West. Miss Eugenie Rheaume, of the staff of the Department of National Revenue, Ottawa, is a sister.

DRIVER JUMPS BEFORE TRUCK LEAVES ROAD

While driving to Pakenham on Tuesday night, a large gasoline truck from Iroquois, driven by Alex Baird, skidded off the road on Bay Hill, near Almonte, and plunged through a wire fence, dropping 20 feet. The trailer, attached to the rear of the truck, loaded with six hundred gallons of gasoline, was badly damaged, and most of the gas was lost. The driver managed to jump before the truck crashed, and escaped injury. The sleet and rain throughout the greater part of the day, with a sudden fall in temperature in the evening, made the road very hazardous for driving. The truck had almost reached the top of the hill, when it lost traction and the heavily loaded trailer slid over the drop, dragging the truck after it. The truck turned over on its side, but was not badly damaged.

Even Rheumatic Pains Eased Fast Now!

BAD HEADACHES, NEURITIS PAINS OFTEN RELIEVED IN MINUTES THIS WAY

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it.

Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

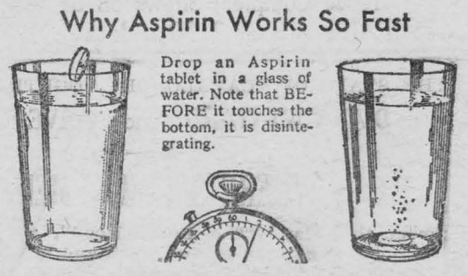
Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast



Drop an Aspirin tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches the bottom, it is disintegrating.

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH
An Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach—ASPIRIN tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The TUDOR HOUSE

By MRS. STANLEY WRENCH

(Author of "Sing for the Moon" "Strange Lovers," etc).

SYNOPSIS

Michael Borde, 40, unmarried, born and bred in a Birmingham slum, is now a wealthy motor manufacturer. One day he visits the countryside around his old home and rescues Daphne Eden from a menacing tramp. He falls in love and proposes. Daphne accepts and introduces him to her father, who greets him with the words "Get out of here you cur — you ruined my home — stole my wife — curse you!"

Daphne's father dies and she disappears. Michael explains to her friend, Mrs. Gregory, that he was misrepresented. He buys the old Tudor House owned by the Hamill-Hardy's. Mrs. Gregory promises to mail a letter from him to Daphne arranging a meeting Daphne does not appear. On the way home Michael collides with a car driven by Diana Hamill-Hardy.

Mrs. Gregory dies. Daphne hears from her solicitors.

At the solicitors she is met by her stepmother.

Daphne would hear this woman's story. Suppose ..... suppose her father had made a mistake after all. Suppose Michael Borde ..... no, she put the thought away. But it returned.

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" asked the woman with the swinging eardrops, watching Daphne, and apparently guessing that some struggle was going on within her.

Daphne was silent.

"Let's go somewhere where we can talk," suggested the other. "It's lunch time. What about a spot of food?" her eyes were ravenous. "Come on now, Daphne. Be a sport. If your dad is dead, as you say, I reckon I'm your only relation."

But Daphne shuddered, although her eyes remained calm.

"Come along then," she said quietly.

Together they went out, and the gaunt-faced clerk removed the paper covers from his cuffs, put a finger in the front of his collar, shook his head from side to side, then swallowed hard.

"Well, of all the queer things in life," he muttered "One sees strange happenings, but I'm dashed if ever I did see anything like that. As different as chalk from cheese ..... that girl to be mixed up with a creature like that."

He rubbed his hands, took the pen from behind his ear, seated himself at his desk and looked up at the row of deed-cases facing him.

"Somebody ought to warn her," he mused. "It's not my place, and I suppose if I said anything old Downing would tell me to mind my own business, but I've half a mind .... yes I have. She's the sort that would sponge on anybody, and the other is the sort who'd let herself be sponged on. Well, I don't know either. She'd manage to hold her own if it was anything she felt strong about."

Which, exactly, was what was happening now. The two had crossed Oxford Street, entered a restaurant, and greedily the woman with the rouged cheeks studied the menu.

"I'm starving," she laughed. "Didn't eat any breakfast. I'm not much of a breakfast person you may remember. Oh, of course, you were away at school when your dad and I married.... " she giggled, looked away, and Daphne gave the order gravely to the waitress.

Then she looked back at the woman who now had taken out a small mirror from her bag, and was busily engaged in making up her lips.

"Tell me one thing before we get our lunch," she said gravely. "Do you happen to know a man called Michael Borde?"

MONEY BY MENACES

There are some people who can train their features so that in no circumstances shall they display emotion, and Lily Eden prided herself on being one of these. But Daphne's question took her so much by surprise, she dropped the lipstick which she was manipulating, her mouth opened for a second, then a grim expression entered her eyes.

"Oh," she snapped, "so you're on that lay, my girl. Well, let me tell you that won't wash with me. But I never would have thought it of your dad, that I wouldn't. It was bad enough having him always nosing around," she sniffed. "But to think he's get down on me like that, and tell you. Why, you weren't much more than a schoolgirl at the time".

So it was true. It was true, then, and that dreadful story her father had poured out to her, when so excited she could hardly hold the paralyzed man still, he had talked and talked long into the night, he had destroyed her faith in mankind for ever.

No. Had he, after all done that? Daphne knew that at the back of her mind there lurked a hope that somehow, somewhere, her father might have been mistaken.

Men did strange and unbelievable things, but remembering the gentleness and kindness of Richard Eden, except when pain drove him fretful, recalling his character, Daphne shrank back as the other woman leaned towards her.

"Michael Borde," she exclaimed disdainfully. "Lummy, I hadn't thought of him for years, but when you said that and looked at me just like your dad used to, it all came back. Bit of a mug he was, too," she smiled complacently, picked up her lipstick and smiled at Daphne. "You mayn't think it, but in those days there was more than one man dippy over me, although I was married. I was some looker then, although you mayn't think it," and she seemed to pull herself together. "I've gone to bits lately," that frightened look returned to her eyes. "Money makes a deuce of a difference to a woman, especially ..... especially when you're getting on for thirty-five".

HAVE YOU Digestive Troubles?

DR. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery increases the appetite, eliminates poisons from the intestines, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, clears the skin of eruptions and blemishes and you gain in vim, vigor and vitality. This is what Mrs. Kate Sharp of 28 Emilie St., Brantford, Ont., said: "I found that for indigestion Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was a great help to me. Pains in my stomach were so severe I would double up. I was hardly able to eat anything, I would become so distressed and a gassy condition would follow. But, I had taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery only a short time when I was able to eat everything without distress."

How Best To Teach Manners

Once more a leading educator deplores the lack of politeness among young people. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, speaking at the opening services of his own institution, wonders "why it is that youth can come to full adolescent years with no apparent appreciation of the difference between good manners and their opposite."

Some blame parents, who, strangely enough, may be persons of known courtesy, liked and admired for their urbanity. In another part of Dr. Butler's address may be found a parallel which may throw some light on the subject, in which he distinguishes between attending college and getting an education. It is one thing to be forced to memorize rules of courtesy and quite another to have those rules so firmly imbedded that politeness becomes an instinctive act.

Certain educators favor college courses in manners and decry the "school of discourtesy" taught by "heavy" characters in films. They may be on the right track, but a woman whose children are models of thoughtful considerations has perhaps found a better way. "I taught my boy and two girls to be unselfish," she explains. "Courtesy is only a by-product of that teaching." A wholly unselfish person could not be discourteous even if ignorant of rules.

Modest Agreement

An advertising expert says that the average Canadian newspaper is superior in editorial and news value to the newspaper in the United States. We suppose we must pocket our modesty and reluctantly agree to this opinion.

What Does Your Handwriting Reveal?

GEO. ST. CLAIR
(Grapho-Analyst)
All Rights Reserved

Editor's Note: Handwriting will often reveal talents as well as your weak and strong characteristics. A Character Analysis might mean the beginning of a new life for you. Read the author's offer at the foot of this article).

Mr. J. Toronto writes: I am sending you a sample of my girl friend's writing, with my own, and would like to ask you what I can do about stopping the quarrels that we seem to be having so often. She is a very likeable girl in many ways and I am extremely fond of her, but we have quarrels—silly they often seem to me —and unless something is done about it, it looks as though we shall drift apart. I do not want to place all the blame on my friend, but I do believe that I am not really responsible for these quarrels. I do all that I can to have things go smoothly along—can you give me any advce?

The writing of your girl friend shows that she easily takes offence. She is inclined to 'carry a chip" on her shoulders, and often imagines slights where none is intended. The trouble with this trait is that, almost invariably, the person most concerned does not realise it.

And this trait can cause a great deal of harm. It has led to perpetual bickering between the two of you, and may easily put an end to your romance, unless steps are taken to eradicate it.

I am writing to you direct, and will enclose a separate letter covering your girl friend's writing, and it may be that, by showing it to her, you will be able to bring h me to her what a serious characteristic it is. I sincerely hope that it may be the means of stopping your quarrels.

Miss W., London, writes: How can I keep my boy friend? I am very much in love with him, and really believe that he loves me in return. Not only because he tells me so, but because of those little things that tell a girl when a boy really thinks a lot about her. But lately, he seems to have been going out with other girls. I am enclosing a specimen of his handwriting, and would like you to tell me what his real character is. Is he really as good as I think he is, and why is he going out with other girls? Does that show that he does not really love me, after all? I am so worried, and would appreciate your advice so much.

In the first place, Miss W., I want to tell you that your boy friend is reliable enough. He is a normal type of young fellow; not very intellectual, perhaps, but straightforward. The trouble in his case is that he is somewhat vain. He thinks a good deal of himself.

I have a pretty shrewd idea that he is quite good looking. The other girls have appealed to his egotism, and, feeling quite pleased, he has been going out with one or two of them.

It is significant, however, that he comes back to you, Miss W. My opinion is that he will grow out of this ostentation. Something may turn up that will give him a shock—something that wll change his self-complacency. There is a deep-rooted balance in his nature that will come to the surface before very long. After all, he is still young.

Don't make the mistake of pandering to his egotism. Do not get the habit of catering to his vanity. Be natural with him, as you have always been. That is really what has appealed to him about you, although he probably does not realise it.

Mrs. E., Windsor, writes a very pathetic letter, in which she hints at doing something drastic to end her troubles. Her letter is sad, and certainly she has had a good deal of trouble. But there is a remedy, and I have written to her direct. Next week, I will give you her letter and my reply. It will interest a good many of my readers.

Can Mr. St. Clair to help you ...In your problems, as he has helped so many others? Your handwriting tells the true story about the real YOU. Their handwriting will also show you what your friends are really like. Send specimens of the writing you wish to be analysed, enclosing 10c coin for each. Send with 3c stamped addressed envelope, to Geoffrey St. Clair, Room 421, 73 Adelaide St. W., Toronto. All letters are confidential.

University Women Support Dictionary Of Academic Terms

BUDAPEST — Educationists the world over are to benefit, it seems, by three major decisions taken at the Council Meeting of the Iinternational Federation of University Women held here early in September.

The council decided to support the publication of a Dictionary of Academic Terms. Preliminary material for such a dictionary has already been partly collected and it was decided that, since the arrangement of this material would constitute its main value to the public, the work should be placed in the hands of the most experienced experts available.

The second decision lay along the line of research, it being resolved to publish the results of work of this nature done recently by the Committee on Academic Standards. This work threw valuable light upon the stypes of university training offered in different countries.

Third, it was decided to give more active assistance to the question of international group-travel. It was suggested that more definite aid to individuals. better introductions, wiser advice generally would be beneficial, and the decision was taken that, since travel appears to be one of the best and certainly one of the pleasantest means of establishing understanding between nations, university women should make it as easily available as possible through the action of their federation.

A fourth decision was regarded less as a step forward than as a protest against the danger of steps — more than one—taken in the opposite direction. The council drew attention to what they termed the "folly" of attempting to solve present economic problems by reverting to "the form of social organization by bygone ages" in the denial to women of entry to careers for which they are well qualified.

POTATO SURPRISES

There are so many ways to cook potatoes that it makes us ashamed of being such a stick-in-the-mud as to know only the eternal boiled, baked, mashed and fried varieties.

There are all kinds of scalloped potatoes alone, done with bacon, ham, clams, cheese or sausage, for instance. And cheese, onion juice or bread crumbs will make something brand new of ordinary creamed potatoes.

The lack of individuality in flavor of this old stand-by makes the potato an excellent fat carrier. And that, with the large amount of starch the potato itself supplies, makes it one of the most valuable of the energy foods. Remember, too, that the potato has more iron than we credited it with a few years ago, and that it's efficient in reducing body acidity. In short, the combination of meat and potatoes which our mothers used instinctively is recommended now by scientists—some of them anyway.

Potatoes scalloped with bacon is a splendid luncheon dish. The large amount of milk used in this concoction adds much nourishment and with the bacon, makes a savory main dish. A crisp vegetable salad may well go with this because a contrast of texture in foods as well as a raw vegetable is needed to balance the meal. And how about a dessert of fruit, canned, fresh or dried, with a cookie to round out the meal?

Potatoes Scalloped With Bacon

Three cups thinly sliced raw potatoes, 1 small onion, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups milk, 6 slices bacon.

Line baking dish with 3 slices bacon. Put onion, peeled but not sliced, in centre of dish. Add a layer of potatoes and season with salt and pepper. Dot with bits of butter and flour rubbed together. Continue adding layers of potatoes and seasonings until all are used. Pour over milk and put remaining bacon on top. Bake 1¼ hours, uncovered, in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). If you keep the dish covered during the meal the potatoes will be appetizingly hot for second servings.

Butterscotch Cookies

One-half cup butter or shortening, 2 cups light brown sugar, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon soda, 3½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt.

If the shortening used in place of butter is not salty add another half teaspoon salt.

Cream shortening and sugar and add eggs beaten until light. Mix and sift several times flour, salt, soda, cream of tartar. Add with vanilla to first mixture and mix well. Shape into rolls about 2 inches in diameter and let stand in the refrigerator over night. When ready to bake cut slices about 1-8 inch thick and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.).

DRYING HERBS

Parsley, thyme, sage, mint—now is the time to gather in your herb harvest and dry it for winter use.

Gather them on a dry, sunny day, remove the stalks and spread the herbs on parchment paper or enamel plates. Put the plates into a warm oven or out in hot sun to dry.

When quite dry, rub the herbs with your fingers until they are reduced to fine powder. Put into small, dry bottles, and label each one accordingly.

And here's a good labelling tip. Choose glass bottles and stick your labels on the inside. They will then keep clean and will not rub off.

TASTY BREAD RECIPES

Prune Graham Bread

Two and one-half cups graham flour, 1 cup bread flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1¾ cups sweet milk, 1 cup shopped prunes,

Wash prunes and soak thirty minutes. Simmer 1 hour in fresh water. Stone and chop. Mix and sift bread flour with salt, baking powder and sugar. Add graham flour and prepared prunes. Mix thoroughly and add egg beaten with milk. Beat well and turn into well greased bread pans. Bake one hour in a slow (325 degrees F.) oven.

Date Bread

Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup brown sugar, ¾ cup milk or water, 1 egg, ½ lb. dates stoned and cut in pieces. Mix flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Add milk, egg slightly beaten and dates. Turn into greased pan and bake 1 hour in moderate oven.

Orange Bread

Three cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup chopped pecans, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, ¾ cup chopped candied orange peel.

Sift dry ingredients, add nuts and orange peel. After mixing thoroughly add milk, then well-beaten egg and pour into 2 well-greased bread pans. Let stand 10 minutes, then bake in moderate oven for 45 minutes. When partially cooled glaze top of loaves with sugar-water frosting.

SCHOOL LUNCHES

When baking bread, it is but little bother to make some cinnamon rolls for the school lunch or a date bun or two. Cake batter baked in a patty pan for an individual school treat sometimes appeals even more than a slice of the layer cake carefully wrapped. Chopped cooked beef or ham, though not enough for a sandwich spread, beaten into a small amount of baking powder biscuit dough before it is rolled out, makes a titbit for the school lunch. A little larger amount of chopped meat, seasoned, heaped on a circle of pie crust about the size of a saucer, then half the crust folded over the other half and the edges pinched together, when baked, makes a meat turnover especially enjoyed by hungry boys.

One reason why it is hard for mothers to put up lunches day after day is that usually there is no place in the kitchen for doing it without interfering with preparations for breakfast, and often the two meals must be looked after at the same time. An acquaintance solved this difficulty by painting an old commode to match her kitchen furniture, and using it exclusively for the preparation of lunches. Anything prepared for a lunch on the following day was wrapped ready for carrying, and set in the tiny cupboard where it is close at hand when the meal is assembled. In the top drawer she keeps a paring knife and a bread knife; a ball of string in a small box, and scissors to cut it; a supply of waxed paper, paper plates, saucer dishes and cups, and the "lunch box silver"; a few small screw-top jars and jelly glasses with their covers fitted on them as soon as they are washed. In a small drawer which she can keep locked if necessary, is an assortment of jams and jellies, boxed cookies, and occasional candy bar and sandwich fillings and relishes that need not be kept in the refrigerator. Another drawer holds clean paper bags in which the children prefer to carry their lunches, a big envelope containing suggestions for this meal, and a notebook in which she records good lunch menus and anything else that would help in this work.

Doubtless this convenience has much to do with her attitude toward the school lunch. She accepts it as a challeneg to her to keep her children interested in eating a good, substantial meal at noon, even though they are away from home.

A POEM A DAY

One mother sees to it that no day passes without her having read to her little ones some bit of poetry or verse within their range of interest. She uses the classic child poems but supplements them abundantly with the appealing snatches of really fine child verse from the current press. The children like the lilt of rhymes and the imagination, imagery and beauty found therein. They often call for a repetition of this or that verse which has especially appealed. Often when mother hesitates a bit they repeat the poem to the end. They are not only learning the joy of poetry but are storing away gems of beauty.

DO YOU KNOW THESE?

To clean piano keys you can use a soft cloth dampened with a solution of warm water and a little common vinegar. Take car that the moisture does not get beyond the finished surface as dampness may affect the unfinished wood.

You can use your vacuum cleaner to clean the floor mop. Place vacuum cleaner on a piece of newspaper with the suction side up, and as you take the dust off the floor, hold the mop over the vacuum, which sucks the dust and dirt from the mop.

Varnish remover combined with brass polish will make like new the most hopelessly soiled and marred brass articles.

On windy days the clothes-line pole will do better duty if, in addition to the conventional notch in the top of the pole a large nail is driven into the lower end. The nail stuck in the ground will help to hold the pole and line in place, and avoid trailing sheets and tablecloths.

Muslin sheets and pillowcases, too old to use, cut in squares and hemmed, makes splendid window polishers to be use after windows have been cleaned with ammonia water.

Evaporated milk will pour more freely if two holes are punctured directly opposite each other on the top of the can.

Half an apple placed in the cake box will keep cake fresh and moist.

IN GRANDMOTHER'S DAY

Grand-mother was constantly seeking in her days simple means of combatting household troubles. This list may be interesting to the housewife of today.

A small bag of sulphur kept in a drawer or cupboard will drive away red ants.

Rub hinges with a feather dipped in oil and they will not creak.

The odour of sweet peas is so offensive to flies that it will drive them out of a sick room.

Hand stains can be removed by washing in the juice of a ripe tomato.

A little charcoal mixed with clear water thrown into a sink will disinfect and deodorize it.

Camphor put in drawers or trunks will keep away mice.

A spoonful of vinegar put into the water in which meats or fowls are boiled makes them tender.

Mix 1 teaspoonful of cornstarch with 1 cup of salt for table use and it will not gather dampness, the salt of course.

To prevent a bruise from turning purple or black and blue according to popular belief, rub fresh lard upon it.

To remove the skins of cooked beets, let them lie a few moments in cold water and the skins will slip off easily.

Consular Wedding

Dr. and Mrs. Alfredo Lozano, the newly appointed Canadian Colombian consul general and his wife. Dr. Lozano, who, although only 32, has had an enviable diplomatic record, was recently appoiinted to the post in Montreal. He was married recently to Mrs. Calderon de Borda, granddaghter of a former Colombian President, in the Church of Guadalupe, in New York.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson VII.—November 18. The Christian as Church Member.—Matthew 5:13-16; Acts 2:41-47.. Golden Text.—We are members of His body.—Eph.5:30.

The Lesson In Its Setting

Time and Place—The passing from Matthew is taken from the Sermon on the Mount, which was spoken on the Horns of Hattin, in midsummer of A.D. 28, the second year of Christ's ministry. The passage from the Acts closely follows Pentecost, which took place on Sunday, May 28, A.D. 30, at Jerusalem.

"Ye are the salt of the earth." This figure of speech is plain and pungent. Salt is savory, purifying, preservative. "But if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? Weymouth's translation is good: If salt has become tasteless, in what way can it regain its saltness? "It is henceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men." The salt grows stale when into any form of Christianity formalism enters and prevails; and this has been the sorrowful end of many religious movements which began with love and life."

"Ye are the light of the world." It is simply a fact of history that Christianity and the Christian church have exerted on human society a moral influence which justifies the figures by which it was described—an influence more profound, more extensive, more enduring, and more presented to this age, and to the eventful than any that the world has seen.

"Neither do men light a lamp." The flat clay bowl, filled with olive oil in which a wick floated, and notched at the edge or with a hole there through which the wick was drawn—the common light of ancient days in Palestine. "And put it under the bushel." The common household wooden measure, holding about a peck; ample room for a lamp under it. "But on the stand." An elevated holder with a flat top on which the clay lamp was placed. "And it shineth unto all that are in the house." Hidden light smokes, smothers, darkens, dies.

"Even so let your light shine before men" Long ago, the people thought that in the dead of winter the sun was weak and ill, and that if they lit fires it would encourage the sun to shine, help him to take heart again. Just so, by our cheerful, loving lives we can help to put sunshine into many darkened hearts. "That they may see your good works." The trouble with the great bulk of mankind is that they do not shine. "And glorify your Father who is in heaven." Oils and coals appear to be the sunlight of prehistoric ages, which God has bottled up and accordingly the simile of the candle intimates that this light of ours, which we are to let shine, is not our own, but comes to us from without, ages which are still to come. And and so we are to employ it under the direction of the higher Power which has given it to us in trust.

"They then that received his word were baptized." On Pentecost, the fiftieth day after the passover (for "pentecost" is from the Greek word for "fiftieth"), Peter had delivered a wonderful sermon interpreting the coming of the Holy Spirit, the Gift of gifts who had just been vouchsafed to the church. This sermon had stirred the consciences of all hearers, so that they begged Peter and the other apostles to tell them what they should do. The answer was that each one of them should repent of his sins and be baptized. "And there were added unto them in that day about three thousand souls." A number so great that ever since that time any large accession to the church is called a Pentecost. promises to faith filled prayer.

"And fear came upon every soul." church. We have Christ's boundless of the Day of Pentecost did not separate after their baptism, each to his home to live a life of pious meditation in the seclusion of their own hearts with God. They set them-

"And they continued steadfactly in the apostles' teaching and fellowship." The three thousand convrets selves resolutely to a life of fellowship. The Christian is one of a community. —"In breaking of bread." The love-feasts of the church, or common meals, closing with the celebration of the Lord's supper. "And the prayers." The here may hint at stated times for prayer, such as all Jews observed. Prayer has always had a large place in the life of the That is, upon all unbelievers, so mighty were the signs of God's presence with the Christians. "And many wonders and signs were done through the apostles." These were probably miracles of healing, such as the healing of the lame man by Peter and John, described in the next chapter. Christ had promised his disciples that when he returned to the Father, they should accomplish grateer works than he had one.

"And all that believed were together." The gatherings of Christians are a large part of the power of the Christian church. When they are neglected, the influence of the church is sure to wane "And had all things common." It is an illustration of the fellowship of the Christians, mentioned in verse 42. It is the beginning of the world-wide charity of the Christian church which has enormously expanded through the ages, and never has been greater than it is today.

"And they sold their possessions and goods." Possessions mean in the Greek landed property and goods indicates movables. The imperfect tense indicates that sales were made from time to time. One and another, as the need of the brotherhood required, were moved to dispose of property. "And parted them to all, according as any man had need. They acted on the maxim, from each according to his ability, to each according to his need.

And day by day, continuing steadfastly with one accord in the temple. The early Christians did not forsake the Jewish religion, but were more faithful to it than ever before. "And breaking bread at home." Here is the entrance of the new, the celebration of the Lord's supper, which was held in the homes of the church members, Christianity thus starting out as a household religion. "They took their food with gladness and singleness of heart." Those who have obtained peace with God through Christ the Mediator have not less, but more, enjoyment in their food than other men.

"Praising God." All the Christian's joy is turned Godward. It all springs from the indwelling Spirit. "And having favor with all the people." They did not aim at popularity, as the issue sufficiently showed; but they did aim at doing good, and met with gratitude for it. "And the Lord added to them day by day those that were saved." (margin, being saved). It is Christ's will for, his ideal of, a Christian church, that continuously it should be gathering into its fellowship those that are being saved.

Worry

Worry is the most useless thing in the world.

No matter how serious your trouble worry cannot help it.

Too much worry shortens life.

And too much of the worrying is done uselessly.

An intelligent mental survey of your problems will avoid it.

Separate the real from the false problems and stop worrying.

"For every trouble under the sun, there's a remedy or there's none."

"If there is one try to find it, if there is none never mind it."

In thinking of your problems always keep this in mind: Today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday.

This is an excellent guide for present troubles in the light of past experiences.

Intelligent thoughts solve problems; worry only muddles the issue.

An old man looking back over his life said: "I've had a lot of trouble in my life but the most of it never happened."

Face the issues when they are issues or about to become so, and stop worrying.

You'll live longer, be happier and be a better citizen.

Better able to take your fair share in the moral, social and religious problems of your town if—

You stop worrying.

The Art of Listening

The art of listening, like the art of thinking, is an achievement. It is not everybody that can listen carefully, and learn thereby. Perhaps it is because few people can converse well enough to hold the average person's attention. There is something to that.

There may be times when one amongst a crowd of people talking like blue streaks, remains silent. The silent one might be termed a quiet fellow. He may be quiet, yet be a good listener. Engage this quiet person in conversation and it might be surprising how much he knows.

The Chinese may not have a word for it, but the saying that it is better to have two ears and one mouth can be credited to them. Ancient Chineses sages "said a mouthful" when they uttered that remark —Regina Leader-Post.

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The total amount of branded beef sold in Canada during the month of September was 2,818,400 pounds.

There would appear to be a serious shortage of alsike for domestic needs in Canada next spring, as the 1934 production, plus the small carry-over, is not expected to exceed more than one-half normal requirements.

Timothy Seed Estimate

The total yield in Canada of timothy seed in 1934 may approximate 5,000,000 pounds, as against 4,000,000 pounds in 1933, and an annual average for the past five years of 2,000,000 pounds. The normal annual consumption is estimated at 10,000,000 pounds and from 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 pounds of this have been imported annually from the United States. Very little seed is likely to be imported this year, however, owing to the 1934 crop failure in the United States. There would appear to be a shortage of timothy seed for normal domestic requirements next spring.

O. A. C. Short Course

A short course covering many phases of the agricultural industry, will be opened to farmers of Ontario, at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, Hon. Duncan Marshall announced. The classes will be held from January 2-11, when students wil be given a holiday. Special work in livestock covering beef cattle, dairy cattle, horses, sheep and swine, will be arranged, said the Minister.

It is also hoped to have in addition to the regular instruction, special conferences on important phases of productiin and marketing. At the same time, short courses in horticulture, bee-keeping and agricultural engineering will be held. The three months' daily course and the month's poultry course will be held as usual, but will not be a part of the plan for the two weeks' course. There will also be a short practical course in emergency veterinary work.

"The time chosen will, if approved, permit the regular students, with the exception of the senior students in agriculture, and the girls, to remain at home," he said. "This will leave the dormitories and the dining hal lfor a group of about 500, available for the short course and conferenc. We should like to make a special rate of $6.00 for the ten days, or 75c per day for those who come but for a few days.

Breeds for Crate Feeding

The best breeds of poultry for crate feeding are the general purpose types such as Plymouth, Rocks and Wyandottes, or the heavy types such as Jersey Giants.

British Apple Market

The latest report from Andrew Fulton, overseas fruit representative, states that United Kingdom markets continue to receive abundant supplies of apples of the cooking type, thus preventing any increase of values for this class of fruit. On the other hand, there is a definite demand for highly-coloured red apples on all markets including Lonodn, where nglish apples are the most plentiful. hTere is a definite shortage of red barrelled apples. It is his opinion that outstanding coloured dessert apples will make slightly higher values later on. It is interesting to note that some excellent Virginian barrelled Jonathans have been yielding from 24 to 27 shilings and York Imperials have been bringing about the same. So far Ontario apples have been practically negligible in quantity, indicating that a large part of the crop is being held in cold storage for future sales and delivery.

Easy Marketing of Poultry

The early marketing of well-finished birds in commercial quantities was well demonstrated by farmers in Eastern Ontario, where the first poultry pools of the year have been held. The question as to whether or not early joultry marketing could be done successfully in a large way by farmers, from a quality standpoint, has been definitely answered, the producers in these districts having demonstrated by planning ahead that the crop of chickens from pactically any district in Ontario can be produced and made ready for sale when the market demands it. The average weight of the pool pack has been around 5 pounds per bird, with a number of boxes of Milkfed A weights over 80 pounds. The Milkfed A chickens were produced by crate feeding from 4 to 5 weeks. The carlot movement of dressed poultry from Western to Eastern points were also commenced in the third week of October.

Current Crop Report

Barley has been a good paying crop this year in many districts. Grey County reports yields of 50 to 60 bushels per acre, and prices varied for malting barley from 60c to 70c. A heavy snowfall in that region replenished the water supply and made plowing easier. Most farmers in Huron County are holding their alfalfa seed, red clover and sweet clover until late winter or early spring. Peel County reports fall wheat looking well, but acreage considerably blow average. Plowing is about finished in most localities, with complaints by some plowmen that the soil has been dry and hard. Pasture has been none too plentiful in North Simcoe, and some herds are showing the effects. The root crop, both turnips and mangels, there has been the best in years. Waterloo County predicts that farmers are going to experience difficulty in getting their cattle through the wintr on the limited supply of roughages.

Livestock in Brant is going into stables in better condition than was anticipated, while fall wheat there is in good condition for winter. Haldimand reports offers as high as $17 a ton for "barn run alfalfa," including first and second cuttings, this price unbaled and at the barn. Celery lifting in Lambton is completed, with a very much reduced crop owing to weather conditions, lack of maturity and frost. In Lincoln, young poultry of good quality is in fairly good demand, at prices ranging from 35c to 40c according to finish. Price of milk there has now been established for a period at $1.95 cwt .to the producer, f.o.b. factory or receiving station. Fall wheat looks well with a good top in Welland County, while hay supply is low and priced at $20 a ton. Condition of livestock is much improved this year in Peterborough. Shortage of water is serious in Prince Edward, many wells being dry and water in the inland lakes so low that cattle have difficulty getting to it.

In Eastern Ontario, farmers are trying to reduce their stock to prevent a shortage of feed. Much success attended the All-Manitoulin Turkey Show, indicating the uniformity and quality of Manitoulin turkeys which will be marketed cooperatively for the Christmas trade.

LOG OF COURAGEOUS CANOEIST CONFIRMS HIS DEATH ON TRIP

A tin can came to the Smiths of Peterborough on Monday, and with it confirmation of tragedy bright with courage.

Found on the shore of Red Bay, Newfoundland, it contained the blurred pages of a notebook 24-year-old John Smith bought at a Peterborough stationery store just before he set out last June 18 on a journey designed to finish in fame, but which ended in death. "Log of the Pride of Peterborough" was scrawled in large ren letters across its inside cover.

The "Pride of Peterborough" was the slight canoe in which John Smith hoped to paddle from Peterborough, Ont, to Peterborough, England. Ever since a battered body was picked up at Long Point, Port Au Port, Newfoundland, September 6, his family refused to believe him dead. The body was clad in a rubber safety-suit, which Smith did not possess when he left home. But one entry in the log dispelled doubt: "July 17: Left Rockliffe Hall. Was saluted by whistle. Heavy gale from astern. Put on and wore safety belt donated by Captain Bowen. Kept very dry and comfortable in it".

The Rockliffe Hall was a vessel he had boarded in the broad lower reaches of the St. Lawrence the previous night.

A matter-of-fact record of the days and nights spent in negotiating the inland waters to the sweep of the gulf is included in the log. The can, sent by Newfoundland Wreck Commissioner A.B Harding, also contained five emergency flares, two of which had been burned.

Smith dismissed casually his passage of the St. Lawrence rapids. His conquest of the Longue Sault is chronicled in 18 words, although he was the first canoeist in history to run the north channel and live:

June 25, 9 a.m.: Left .....for Cornwall. Weather fine. Came through Longue Sault Rapids. Took worst channel. Took in three inches of water after turning around twice.

Recording his shooting of turbulent Split Rock Falls, he wrote the next day: "Kept too far out and got in worst channel. Even worse than Longue Sault. Shipped three inches of water."

On the last day of June, Smith took time out to make a rescue attempt. That was near Three Rivers. "Arrived one and a half minutes after a 12-year-old boy went under for third time. Dove in.... and combed 40 feet square, but owing to being misinformed as to where he went under, was unable to save him."

The last entry is dated July 19. On July 20 Smith set out to cross the gulf, and was never seen alive again.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Jack Steen of Morewood, charged with common assault against John Smith, of the same village, on Hallowe'en night ,appared before Magistrate John McCormick in police court at Winchester Monday morning. The accused was defended by W.J. Cass, K.C., of Winchester, and A. Flynn, of Morrisburg, acted as counsel for Mr. Smith. After hearing the facts of the case argued for over three hours, the magistrate decided that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the charge against Steen, and dismissed the case.

A counter charge was at once laid against Steen by Smith for raising a disturbance by using profane language and being drunk on the same night. After hearing several witnesses, Magistrate McCormick convicted Steen on the charge of raising a disturbance, but delayed judgment until he reviewed the evidence submitted.

Lorne Marcellus, also of Morewood was acquitted of a charge of doing damage to property on Hallowe'en night.

The court sat from two o'clock in the afternoon until ten o'clock in the evening, and the courtroom was crowded with spectators during the entire session. Two other cases are still to be dealt with, and will be heard on Friday of this week.

MRS. COOKE CASSELMAN

There passed away at her late residence, Williamsburg Township, on Saturday Nov. 10th, 1934, Mrs. Cooke Casselman, in her 63rd year. Deceased had been ill many months, and borne her suffering with great fortitude. The late Mrs. Casselman, before her marriage on Sept. 15th, 1890, was Miss Alida Duvall.

ANTELOPE NEWS

The weather in this district has been ideal for the time of year, the thermometer rgistering around 55 and 60 degrees, and no snow.

Miss Florence Bailey of Gull Lake High School is spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey.

Miss Daman of Shrubland School, Miss Benjamin of Stone Cliff School, and Mr. Springman of Kemmel Hill school all attended the annual teachers' convention in Swift Current last week, and report a good attendance.

R. Head and J. Service called at the home of W.J. Cheley on Wednesday evening last.

The usual Hallowe'en pranks were played around town, but in some cases were carried too far, when some of the school property in Kemmel Hill school was destroyed, and the lock broken on the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gale of Ravenscraig spent a few days with the latter's sister, Mrs. Lloyd Maynard, and Mr. F. Sloman and Mrs. Mummah, on their return trip from Tisdale.

Richard Head has purchased a new long and short wave Westinghouse radio from Stan Moon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid and L. Reid, of Griswold, Man., spent a few days recently with their daughter and sister, Mrs. S. Moon.

A dance was held in Mr. Louis Tessem's barn to raise funds for a Christmas treat for the children. Quite a sum of money was cleared. The teacher of Shrubland school made a cushion and the children have sold tickets on it. Over eight dolars has been raised so far. It is to be raffled off at the next dance.

Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Cheley spent a day recntly in Swift Current.

Mssrs Frank and James Nishinura and Alf Bailey are visiting the former's sister Mrs. W. Davis, near Edmonton, Alta.

A large number from here attended the funeral of the late A.N. Stacey in Webb, on Sunday last. The late Mr. Stacey has been a resident of Webb, being an undertaker, until three years ago, when he and his family moved to Swift Current, where he has been carrying on the same business.

An epidemic of diphtheria has broken out a few miles south of town, and the school children have been to Gull Lake to be inoculated. The latest report is the sick are out of danger now.

Mr. John Brothen has returned to Tatsfield, and was accompanied back by Misses Jessie and Dorothy McIntosh and Evelyn Benjamin and Wilhelm Roosen.

Mr. W.J. Cheley is erecting a new battery charger.

Mrs. McLean of Shaunavon spent a few days last week with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Johnston.

Mr. and Mrs. R.T. Attridge and son Robert, spent last Sunday wth Mr. and Mrs. Louis Livingstone.

John Olsen and daughter Darleen, and Thorwold Jensen called at W.J. Cheley's recently.

Mrs. Roy Snyder of Webb visited her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Nearing, recently.

George Ainger of Webb, has returned home from Gull Lake Hospital, where he was aw patient for some weeks, much improved in health.

Richard Head made a flying trip to Fraser Valley, B.C., and is considering buying a small place out there.

We also hear Mr. and Mrs. Sid. Moon are shortly leaving for Fraser Valley, B.C.

DUNDAS--GRENVILLE Y. P. U. SOCIETIES HOLD MEETING

The Young People's Union of the Dundas-Grenville presbytery held a winter school in North Mountain Consolidated School on Saturday last. About sixty delegates from the various societies in the presbytery were present, as well as a number of distinguished leaders in young people's work.

The afternoon session opened with registration of delegates. Afterwards the body divided into three method study groups, namely recreation, citizenship and dramatic. Miss Jean Burrows of Ottawa was the leader of the recreation group; George Jackson of Ottawa, the dramatics; Rev. C.M. Stewart of Kenmore and Nelson Sherman of Ottawa, the citizenship group. Interesting discussions were carried out by each group, the delegates receiving new ideas for convening the programs in their societies.

At six o'clock the delegates assembled in the community hall for lunch, coffee being provided by the Y.P.S. of St. Andrew's United Church, Hallville.

After the lunch hour, the method study groups were continued. A short talk was given by Miss Florence Wadell of Brinston, who is president of the Dundas-Grenville Y.P. Union. Greetings and announcements wre brought by W.H. Scrivens of Ottawa.

Mervyn Peters of Spencerville, recreation convener of the Dundas-Grenville Young People's Union, tendered a vote of thanks to all who had so willingly assisted in making this new venture of the Young People's Union such a decided success.

A fine address was given by Rev. J. Eastcott of Avonmore.

NEW CHESTERVILLE COMMUNITY HALL SWEPT BY FLAMES

The new community hall at Chesterville, which was to have been completed in two weeks at a cost of $15,000 was completely destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. Members of Chesterville and Winchester fire brigades were unable to cope with the flames, which seemed to have enveloped the entire building before it was noticed.

Harry Hummel, overseer of the building, stated he was the last to leave the building Saturday night, and that at that time all the windows were locked and the door padlocked. He also stated that the furnace in the building had been out since three o'clock Saturday afternoon, and that the fire could not have started from defective wiring, as the Hydro current in Chesterville was off from one to four o'clock Sunday afternoon. At a loss to explain how the fire could have started, authorities are conducting a rigid investigation.

The fire was first noticed about two o'clock by Mrs. James Hughes, who lives across the street, and saw smoke seeping out one of the doors. She gave the alarm, and the volunteer fire brigade tried in vain to save the two-storey brick veneer structure. Seeing that the fight was hopeless, the firemen turned their efforts to saving adjoining buildings.

The loss of the community hall is only partly covered by insurance. The building was started in June last, and was to have been officially opened on Tuesday, Nov. 27.

The building, when completed, would have housed the Chesterville Hydro office, a public library, Women's Institute rooms and dining room, and the council chambr, while the top floor was to have been a community auditorium, with seating capacity for 500 persons.

Added to the fire loss will be the loss of the tools of workmen from the district. All the tools of the carpenters and painters were in the building when it was destroyed.

As an outcome of the fire, a meeting of the citiens of Chesterville was held on Wednesday. The meeting was held with the view of obtaining the general opinion as to erction of a new building.

Reeve W.H. Casselman, chairman of the meeting, outlined the situation, and explained the town's financial standing, suggesting that a vote be taken on the matter. The vote showed that the great majority agreed upon having another community hall built, and were in favor of having a larger and better building constructed. Steps will be taken in this direction in the near future.

COMPETITION.

Of 58,000 radio sets sold in Canada during the first half of 1934, more than 8,000 were for automobiles. It may have been discovered that they interfere with reception from back-seat drivers.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

SMUGGLING PIGS.

Smuggling of little pigs from the States into the Canadian West is said to be on a grand scale. The prices are much better in Canada and there is also the premium on the Canadian dollar. It is a remarkable thing that the Canadian hog-raiser is getting a better break than the American farmer who has had government subsidy to reduce the number of swine stock by millions.—St. Catharines Standard.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

Not so many years ago Ontario was rich in nut trees, beechnut, sweet hickory, sweet chestnut and hazelnut, but these have been generally depleted until there is but a sprinkling of them left. Canada is a large importer of nuts in spite of the fact that the native nuts are of fine flavor and excellent in food value. There are large tracts of land unsuited for agriculture which would show a fine return if planted to nut trees.—London Free Press.

NEW YORK AND LONDON.

"If a man wants to know only what is new, certainly he should go to New York, but if he wants to know what is sound and profitable, he should go to London," writes Herbert N. Casson, in an article on "British Efficiency". Mr. Casson, who is a Canadian by birth and lived in this country until he was 24, spent 20 years in the United States and the last 20 years in Great Britain, so he is in a better position than most to draw comparisons.—Sault Star.

MOST FAMOUS NEGRO.

The most famous negro on this continent, Richard B. Harrison, was 70 years of age last week, when he began his third American tour in the leading role of "Green Pastures." It was his regret that he could not open in this city, where he was born, of fugitive slave parents, in a house on Wellington Street, near Clark's bridge, since destroyed by fire. But this time London will be included in the itinerary of "Green Pastures," and Mr. Harrison's "old home town" will do him suitable honor."—London Advertiser.

IN LINE OF DUTY.

The epidemic of infantile paralysis in Nelson, B.C., reminds us that 137 doctors, nurses and laboratory workers in Los Angeles were stricken during their fight against the disease recently. The layman seldom thinks of the risks to which these people subject themselves in their efforts to save the lives of others.

In some epidemics the doctor and nurse can be protected by serums or vaccines. In others, however, there is no certain protection. Doctor and nurse must take their chances with everybody else—and, of course, by going into sick rooms daily, and undermining their resistance through overwork, they simply increase the danger to themselves.

This is a thing worth remembering. It is too easy to overlook the quiet unassuming heroism that members of the medical and nursing professions are constantly displaying, day after day, in the performance of their duties.—Victoria Times.

LEFT-HANDERS.

No longer is a left-handed boy or girl compelled to use the right hand in most Canadian schools, and it has been found that the left-handers are not behind their contemporaries who use the more normal hand. In the Caledonia Public School, it has been found that the eighteen left-handed pupils all are among the leaders in their classes. Fortunately, nowadays no effort is made to force children to use the hand found least natural and the results are all to the good.—Niagara Falls Review.

PERFECT FOGHORN.

It is said that the siren of the new giant Cunarder will be the loudest voice on the seas. In time of need, as in an Atlantic fog, it will carry ten miles over the waters. This mighty voice will boom forth from three "throats," and instead of being upright as other liner's sirens are, its mouths will stand out, like eight-foot guns, in different directions from the funnels. A light pressure on a switch will start the siren song. "Its note may be reproduced in miniature on the piano by striking the note A right down among the unsingable notes—two octaves below middle A." But whilst it will carry so far, its mellow depth is such that it will not disturb passengers. Of all the notes on the piano this was found to be the ideal for nerve-comfort.—New Outlook.

PEDIGREE CARDS

Every German will in future be compelled to carry his pedigree card. Any admixture of foreign or Jewish blood, even if three generations back, will be a black mark. The British people may be thankful their ancestors had no such foolish tests. They are a racial mixture, and that is one source of their strength.—London Advertiser.

FIRE PREVENTION.

It is not generally known, but St. Catharines has a very unique and effective system of fire prevention. As soon as a here-today-gone-tomorrow merchandiser stocks up his premises, he is called upon by the hard-boiled Chief of the Fire Department and informed right off the bat that the premises must be kept clean and tidy from fire hazards and that no fires at all are permitted in St. Catharines under any circumstances. The premises, too, are regularly inspected. The best part of the system is that it works.—St. Catharines Standard.

SERVES GOOD PURPOSES.

To teach children the dangers that attend motoring, a New Jersey inventor has perfected a toy which reproduces traffic accidents. This saves the kids the trouble of looking out the window.—Border Cities Star.

A SQUARE MEAL.

A British United Press correspondent describes a gigantic eating competition which took place at Rouen, France, not long ago. It was open only to men weighing more than 200 pounds. This was the menu served to the competitors, and it had to be consumed within a specified time: A kilo of brill with Hollandaise sauce, a plump chicken, a whole leg of mutton with suitable vegetables, a hefty Livarot cheese and a huge apple pie. The collation was washed down by two bottles of white wine, two bottles of Burgundy and four bottles of cider. The winner had no trouble in meeting the requirements, and is apparently none the worse for the exploit.—Calgary Herald.

CANADA'S BEST CUSTOMER

Canada's exports to the United Kingdom in September totalled in value $24,539,000, compared with $2,418,000 or 10 per cent. The wheat export rose from $8,772,000 to $9,713,000 planks and boards from $867,000 to $1,656,000 aluminum from $187,000 to $1670000 nickel from $422,000 to $774,000 stone and its products from $6,000 to $114,000. Other increases were in fruits barley fish, furs raw hides, paper, pulp wood wood pulp, machinery, acids, soda. — Brandon Sun.

REVOLVER MENACE

King Alexander of Jugoslavia, dead by the fire of a small hand gun, is the successor of tens of thousands of people high and low, who have died by such weapons in the hands of murderers. No good reason exists why such weapons should be available to thugs or madmen. Such weapons are of no good use to anybody in the world, except perhaps to policemen. No good reasons exists why their manufacture or sale or possession should be permitted by the government of any civilized country.—Ottawa Journal.

THE EMPIRE

IN BLOOD AND TEARS

Only when there is some terrible disaster like the tragedy at Gresford Colliery do we remember for a moment the price that is paid every day in blood and sweat and tears; on land, under the land, on the sea and in the air, to bring us home our daily comforts. Try to remember it always and be grateful.—London Sunday Express.

THE REALITIES OF WAR

War in the abstract is a thing that terrifies nobody. Such sentences as "They're still fighting in South America," or "The Far East is at it again," fail to arouse even the casual interest of the aver ge European. But that is not a thing to pride ourselves upon. There is in reality nothing abstract about war. It affects the welfare of millions of the world's citizens for many years after the firing of the last bullet. It is only when death stalks in our own homes that we humans take fright.

THE GREAT HOUSES OF ENGLAND

Lord Lothian has predicted that within a generatio.. hardly any of the large historic houses of Great Britain will be lived in by the original families. That is probably true; but need it be taken too tragically? Is it not possible to find some public use for these great mansions? In many cases this has actually been done already. For good or evil, the old country life is passing rapidly away; but the old mansions can still perform national service—perhaps greater than ever before—as centres of the new restless democratic life of the day. They may become museums or sanatoria or simply show places. They certainly need not become useless.—London News Chronicle

Champion Visits Birth Place

Jimmy McLarnin came back to Dublin where he was born, according to the family records. Alderman Byrne, the Lord Mayor of Dublin, is shown pointing out interesting history in the Mansion House at Dublin to the champion welterweight. Pop Foster, his grizzled manager, at the right, looks on. McLarnin was claimed by both Dublin and Belfast as a native son. Like a good diplomat he has admitted the claims of both cities in his Irish tour.

WHERE DEER ARE TOO PLENTIFUL

That deer have become a serious pest in many parts of New Zealand can no longer be disputed. The damage they are doing entirely outweighs their sporting value and the Department of Internal Affairs should accelerate rather than check its campaign of destruction. Its operations have bee severely criticised by English visitors, sometimes in terms that disclose complete ignorance of the real issues. They dismiss in a word the case for destruction or assume that it has been magnified out of all reason. It certainly is the desire of the Dominion to provide for visitors the widest possible range of sport but as far as deer are concerned far too much is at stake to allow the considerations of sport to sway policy.—The Auckland News.

LEARNING ABOUT THE EMPIRE

The announcement that in future one of the requirements for candidates at the higher examiations for Whitehall is to be an acquaintance with the overseas Empire, is one of the most heartening that has been made for some time. If one could forget that this is the year of grace 1934 it might not be difficult for Colonists to wax enthusiastic over the new requirement which ought to have been enforced long ago. Even though the acquaintance is purely a paper one, it is all to the good that such knowledge should be insisted on. The information possessed by the average Englishman on the affairs of, say the West Indies, is regrettably little, but if this innovation by the Civil Service Commissioners has the anticipated effect on the educational system of English universities and schools, many neglected outposts of the Empire may become much better known.—Trinidad Guardian.

Maple Products Increase

Canada's maple sugar and syrup industry is forging ahead once more with an increase of $987,309 being estimated for the 1934 produition as compared with that of 1933. An increase of 580,185 gallons of maple syrup and an increase in value of $909,171 is estimated for the 1934 output as against the 1933 production, the figures being 1,842,500 gallons valued at $2,468,800 for 1934 as compared with 1,262,315 gallons valued at $1,559,628 in 1933. With regard to maple sugar the estimated production is 4,954,000 pounds valued at $577,850 for 1934, as compared with 5,785,130 pounds valued at $499,713 in 1933. In 1933 the average price per pound of maple sugar was 9 cents against 12 cents in 1934. The combined value of the industry is thus $3,046,650 and compared with $2,059,341 in 1933 shows an increase of $987,309 or 47.9 per cent. The values for the 1934 crop are preliminary and subject to revision as the full production has not yet been sold.

Told By The Ring

There is an amusing old theory that a ring worn on the first, or index finger was a sign that the wearer was willing to marry, but not "bespoken," when the engagement took place, a ring was worn on the second finger. On the third finger, of course, it said that the wearer was married; while those independent people who desired to publish to the world that they were neither desirous of, nor interested in, marriage, put a ring on the little finger. But apart from engagement and wedding rings, to which the third finger of the left hand is now dedicated, most people put rings on any finger they fancy. — Answers Magazine.

PUNISHMENT ALONE WON'T BREAK CHILD'S BAD HABIT

Parents Will Have to Exercise Patience, Perseverance and a Discreet Supervision

The constant repetition of an act makes it a habit in time. Parents must not think they can break a habit in a child merely by punishment or scolding. As the habit took some time to form so will it take patience and perseverance to overcome. There must be co-operation on the part of the child.

If the little one is told gently and firmly that such a habit is not nice; if the parent exercises a discreet supervision so that every indulgence in the habit can be checked, then, in time, the habit formation will be broken down and the child will forget its existence.

We should not shock or frighten children when trying to wean them from a habit of which we disapprove. A young child has no perception of wrongdoing and he will be unable to understand our vehemence and anger.

We cannot, however, agree with many modern writers on the behavior of children when they state that a child should never on any account be punished for continuing in the ways from which we have tried to turn him.

Certainly, it is cruel and senseless to punish a baby or a tiny toddler. At that age we must distract the little one's attention either by giving him a toy to play with, by changing his position in his cot, and, most important of all, by searching for and removing any underlying source of irritation which may have induced the habit. But, as the child gets older, certainly when he is over three years of age, though the habit is not wrong in itself, yet the child must be taught obedience.

PUNISH WISELY.

A slap on the hands will make more impression on a lively child than any amount of talk. The slap must come at the right moment, it must not be saved up and delivered at bedtime when the child has forgotten what it is all about.

With an older child a reward will often make a very deep impression and will help him to remember that he must not please himself in all his fads and fancies.

FIRMNESS REQUIRED

Parents must be firm in their treatment of children. A child who is allowed to indulge every whim is not the happiest child. Parents write often saying they have reasoned or tried to reason with their children, but that bad temper and obstinacy have triumphed and the child has refused to obey. Please remember we are talking now of children up to 12 or 14 years of age.

Well, to these parents, we point out as delicately as we can that they are handling their children wrongly. Certainly all normally intelligent children are susceptible to the voice of reason, especially when it does not pronounce too loudly against their own desires. But the voice of authority is the one to which they will listen at all times if they have been properly brought up.

Many parents are worried about little ways and habits which their babies manifest. Thumb-sucking is one which is difficult to cure. Provided the baby does not persist unduly in the habit, it is really not worth worrying about.

It is usually when the infant is dropping off to sleep that thumb-sucking is resorted to as a sedative. Taking the thumb gently from the mouth when the baby is drowsy will not disturb him. If baby indulges in thumb-sucking when he is wide awake, then it should be an easy matter to distract his attention to other things.

HARMFUL TO BREATHING

The habit in itself is harmless, but there is the same objection to it as there is in allowing baby to suck a dummy or "soother" practically all day long. It induces a wrong method of breathing; the habit has also been said to cause the formation of a high, narrow palate.

Head rolling and head hanging are also distressing to watch. They may occur in normal children who have discovered this means of passing the time . When present to a marked degree there may be some degree of mental deficiency in the child, or, again, it may be induced by a physical cause, such as teeth-cutting or ear ache. As the child gets older this habit is usually forgotten.

Toddlers may develop the habit of rolling over on the abdomen and going to sleep with the face almost buried in the pillow. The pyjamas should not be tight and the bedclothes should be light and warm. A long pillow propped against the child's side and legs in bed will prevent his rolling over on his face as he drops off to sleep.

In all cases where children do not sleep soundly or indulge in habits which are distressing to parents the child should be examined by a doctor.

Where no physical ailment can be discovered, gratifying results have been obtained by means of suggestion on these children. This means can only be applied, of course, to children who are old enough to understand what is being said to them. One boy of eight was assured that when he had a favored toy in bed with him, all would be well.

Such was his faith that there was no sad accident in bed that night and in time the boy was completely cur-

MINOR HABITS.

Nail biting, finger cracking and other minor habits can usually be cured by a firm parent. Children pick up these habits from others, and we believe firmly in discipline in such cases. They do not occur like other habits when the child is asleep and therefore not to be blamed; they are indulged in when the child is wide awake and probably bored. Plenty of occupation will soon give a child something more useful to do.

Parents should remember that childhood is a period of novelty and experiment — sometimes conscious and sometimes unconscious. Each child is a problem in itself, but with encouragement and a little necessary discipline childhood grows into splendid manhood.

Bridge Players Realize Dream

North Bay, Ont., — Four women today reported realization of the bridge player's dream, four hands with 13-card suits.

At the home of Mrs. A. Brown last Friday night, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. T. Lafrance, Miss M. Kelman and Mrs. E. Cavanaugh were playing contract. Mrs. Cavanaugh shuffled, Miss Kelman cut.

Mrs. Brown held 13 spades; Mrs. Lafrance, 13 hearts, Miss Kelman, 13 diamonds, and Mrs. Cavanaugh, 13 clubs.

The women looked at their hands in astonishment so acute that they revealed their contents cancelling the bidding.

Doctor Comments On Conditions In Europe

Dr. Geo. Wilson, in a letter to his aunt who resides near Perth Ont., and given to the Perth Expositor for publication, tells of his trip through Russia and other European countries, and some of the opinions he expresses in this unprejudiced and no doubt candid expression, are somewhat revealing.

Dr. Wilson is Professor of History in Dalhousie University, Halifax, and has the degree of M. A. and Ph. D., and is one of the many bright young men of Perth district who has won distinction in his chosen profession.

The party are spending three months on their tour, and are visiting many of the European countries, meeting men there and going fully into conditions as they find them and paying careful attention to the many forms of government and how they are functioning. His experience while in Russia was not unpleasant, and he saw much that revealed to him that "Soviet" Russia was not all as bad as it sometimes painted His accounts and opinions after his visit to Austria are enlightening. He writes:

"We have been moving in high society. Yesterday forenoon we met Dollfuss' successor, Dr. Schuschnigg I have seen few men who made a better impression than the new chancellor. He made us a little speech and then went back to his work trying to govern this country. He is 37, his hair turning grey, wears glasses and looks like a scholar and a gentleman.

"The more I see of Europe the more desperate seems the situation. Nobody can be certain but there might be a war any time. Hard times discontent, fear, hate are on every side. I doubt if there is a more stable government than that of Russia or one that wants peace more. Hitler, however is a most dangerous character. Hitler can talk and can kill people, but he cannot give work or build up trade. Germany is faced with economic collapse

"Austria is just a cat's paw. Hungary is desperately dissatisfied. Jugo-Slavia is ready to fight Italy if she interferes in Austria. I might go on and on. It is not just countries that are prepared to fight with one another, there are classes in the countries which are ready to fight one another too."

Languages of The World

Whitaker's almanac estimates that among European languages, English is the mother tongue of the largest number, 180,000,000; Russia second with 140,000,000; then German, 80,000,000; French, 70,000,000; Spanish and Italian, each 50,000,000; Portugeses, 25,00,000. Among all the languages of the world, Chinese is spoken by the largest number, about 400,000,000 if the various dialects are included. Doctor Vizetelly's figures, as given in the World Almanac, are rather different. He gives English as spoken by 160,000,000 and understood and used by 60,000,000 more who do not consider it their native speech; German spoken by 90,000,000; French spoken by 45,000,000 but understood and spoken by at least 75,000,000 more; Spanish, 55,000,000; Italian, 45,000,000; Portugueses, 30,000,000.

Football At Sing Sing

— Admission of the public to a football game at Sing Sing is in keeping with the policy of that institution. Those from outside are similarly welcomed at entertainments in the Winter. It is not yet the custom to permit the football team to play return games.

But all things come to those who wait. Next year, instead of the eleven from Williamsburg going to Sing Sing, the prison team may go to Williamsburg. Who knows? It would hardly be mort surprising than it would have seemed a few years ago had it then been proposed to make a prison a sports arena and a theatre drawing patronage from beyond the prison walks.

There was once a belief that it was appropriate to shut hardened offenders away from society. But that was before it was discovered that they might win fame on the football field, with the murderer who made a brilliant play moving the visitors to join in singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." —Boston Transcript.

Autumn Evening

The air is a cool linen robe, a sacred
And mystic cloak;
From eathern altars drifts the faintly
acrid
Clean smell of smoke.
Upon a walk which elm-tree shadows
dapple—
Trees still bronze green—
A squirrel lets fall a hard half bitten
apple
In sudden spleen.
A cast-off serpent-skin of brown
leaves crackles,
Beneath my tread;
Like winged black stars of evening
stream the grackles
Low overhead.

Guessing the Cheese

London—Monday was a great day at Simpson's in Cheapside, where "City" men congregate for lunch and the daily ceremony of "guessing the cheese."

For the first time in two years and six months, the cheese was correctly guessed—weight, height and girth. The correct guesser was E. W. Johnson. The figures were, Height, 12½ inches; girth 31½ inches, weight 30 [illegible]

The ceremony dates back to 1723. Whoever guesses correctly has his name printed on a card, framed, and put up on the wall behind the chairman's table. To mark the occasion, champagne and cigars are on the house."—New York Times.

Why at 40 You Think You're "GROWING OLD"

It's Frequently Just an "Idea." Not "Old Age." And According to Scientists, May be Something No More Alarming Than A Touch Of Acid Stomach

At about 40, many people think they're "growing old." They're tired a lot. Have headaches. Stomach upsets. Dizziness. Nausea.

Well, scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is merely an acid condition of the stomach. The thing to do is simply to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed.

Try this. You'll feel like another person! Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'", or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

Also in Tablet Form:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

World Business Conditions

The current monthly letter issued by the Royal Bank of Canada deals extensively with business conditions throughout the world and reads in part:

In Great Britain and in the countries of the Scandinavian peninsula the total volume of production in 1934 exceeded that in 1928. In Europe, with the exception of those countries which have maintained the gold standard or a semblance of that standard, conditions have continued to improve and throughout the world the countries which are loosely classified as being members of the sterling bloc have lead the way in slow but consistent recovery. In Japan, production is said to be 40 per cent. in excess of that in 1928, and throughout Latin America trade has improved materially as compared with last year. In Canada, improved prices for wheat and other agricultural products, the increasing production of the mining industry, and the exceptional expansion in forestry are indicative of the improvement which has become quite general throughout the country

In Canada, and in many other countries, discussion of immediate internal business conditions is followed by speculation concerning prospects in the United States of America. Frequently, the summary is stated in the following form. "While business is not improving as rapidly as we might wish, yet prospects seem distinctly favourable provided there is no major reversal in the United States. The U. S. controls a sufficient proportion of the world's wealth and its total volume of consumption is so large a proportion of world consumption that no competent forecast of internal conditions can disregard the developments which may occur in that country." In contrast with this summary of business which is a fair statement of the situation which prevails in many countries, consider the summary which might be written within the United States. "In spite of a certain lack of financial confidence and despite the lack of activity in construction and durable goods, the total volume of business has shown substantial improvement above the low level of 1932, and it is still possibe that a recovery in the last months of the year may bring the total volume of production for the year above the totals attained in 1933. Certainly, unemployment has been reduced and prospects favour continued improvement unless there are unfortunate developments abroad." Both this statement and the previous one are expressions of the inter-independence of business conditions throughout the world. Within the United States excessive pessimism as to world conditions retards improvement, and doubt as to prospects in that country holds back business in other countries.

Teck Hughes Report

Net earnings of $3,029,906 are shown in interim statement of estimated earnings by Teck Hughes Gold Mines Ltd., for the year ended August 31st. This is equal to 63.03 cents per share which compares with 67.17 cents per share in the previous year. For the twelve month period the report shows gross income of $6,248,359 which is approximately the same as last year. Total operating costs amounted to $2,476,515 to which was added $625,811 as estimate for taxes and $253,005 for depreciation, leaving a net balance from operations of $2,893,026 to which is added $136,880 as the credit re bullion tax offset against Dominion income tax in 1934.

A comparison of the current statement with that for the preceding year would appear to indicate that the new bullion tax, put in effect this year is largely responsible for the decline in per share earnings as with the exception of this item, income and disbursements were fairly well balanced for the two years.

Noranda Mines, Ltd.

For the nine months ending September 30th, Noranda Mines Ltd. reports net profit of $4,088,929 which is equal to $1.82 cents per share which compares with $3,033,436 or $1.35 per share for the same period in 1933. Reduction in recovery and increased costs reduced earnings for the third quarter to 40 cents per share as compared with 73 cents for the first quarter and 69 cents for the second.

Buffalo Beardmore Drilling

This syndicate is diamond drilling on the seven veins which have been discovered on its properties in the Beardmore-Long lac area. Surface exploration has given encouraging results on both the company's holdings On the group at Jellicoe the first drill hole has reached a depth of some 450 feet at time of writing and 35 feet of well mineralized core is being sent down for assay. It is planned to sink a shaft on this group when the present drilling campaign is completed. Fourteen veins have been uncovered on the Beardmore group and a number of assays have given excellent values. Shaft sinking on this group is now well under way and an extensive underground development campaign is planned for the next few months.

October Dividends Higher

Dividends distributed during October by Canadian corporations listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange as shown in the current monthly Bulletin, record an increase of more than a million and a half dollars paid to shareholders as compared with the corresponding period of 1933.

October dividends were declared by 76 companies totalling $10,752,553, bringing payments for the year to date by listed companies to $119,496,157. This figure is also an increase over the $94,241,509 shown in October last year.

Net increase of the month was primarily due to the added bonuses and increased dividends disbursed by some 15 companies, which more than offset the reduced payments of several of the utilities and financial institutions.

Classed according to groups, the following amounts were disbursed by companies listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange:

Utilities	$3,711,938
Mines	2,814,271
Finance	1,041,784
Miscellaneous	1,029,279
Oils	735,674
Liquors	520,552
Foods	469,775
Steels	429,280

Wheat Price Pegged

Effective November first Winnipeg has pegged the price of wheat at 75 cents for the December future and 80 cents a bushel for the May future. This action was taken at the request of the federal government after John I McFarland, general manager of the central selling agency of the Canadian wheat pools had stated that there was a renewal of the outside selling which had been recently complained of. Duration of the pegged price was not set. Last year from August 15th to September 14th a pegged price of 70 cents a bushel was in effect.

Canadian Pacific Railway

In report recently issued Canadian Pacific Railway Co. shows net profits of $13,670,107 for the first 9 months of 1934 as compared with $9,971,451, for the same period in the preceding year. For September profit was $3,033,580 as against $3,003,328 for the same month last year. For the nine month period, gross earnings were $90,900,318 compared with $81,982,529 in 1933.

Letters A La Mode

"Your favor received and contents noted
We beg attention to prices quoted."
O, why do we write such bromidic bunk?
Such obsequious twaddle, lacking in spunk,
Why talk about favors when there are not any?
Why say that you "beg" when you don't beg a penny?
Surely its better to write as you'd speak,
With words that are virile, not moss-grown and weak!
Forget when you dictate, you're writing a letter,
Talk man-to-man, you'll find that it's better.
Imagine the other chap's sitting right there—
Close by your desk in your visitor's chair.
And the first thing you know, after awhile,
He'll forget old stuff and write in your style,
Finding you're human, he'll be inclined too
To see that his business keeps going to you!

A World Telephone Census

A review of telephone facilities recently completed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, shows that in January, 1933, the last period for which comparable figures are available, there were in use approximately 33,000,000 telephones. Of these, 17,424406, or nearly 53 per cent were located in the United States. Germany held second place with 2,960,401; third place, Great Britain and Northern Ireland with over 2,146,409; France had 1,292,254; and Canada 1,261,245. Sixth place goes to the other side of the globe, for Japan had 965,390.—Scientific American.

Coal Carving Develops Into Novel Art in Britain

Manchester, Eng.—Coal carving is a novel art which Mr. Alan Brough, a sculptor here, is fast developing.

Since executing "Black Hercules," a study of a Lancashire miner, at work, carved in a block of coal, he has completed two busts in coal, of the collier type of Lancashire manhood and womanhood. Mr. Alan Brough states that he is finding out the idiosyncrasies of coal, and for some subjects he considers it to be good.

Eden in Sweden To Win Markets For British Goods

Stockholm, — England's efforts to win a fresh hold upon Scandinavian markets, especially in Sweden where economic recovery has made great gains reached a high point with the arrival of Capt. Anthony Eden, Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs.

Captain Eden came in the role of a trade disciple as well as that of disarmament mediator. His visit was regarded as perfectly timed in view of the present wave of sentiment against Chancellor Hitler and Germany which prevails in Scandinavia as a result mainly of the German church situation.

The Swedish press warmly welcomed Captain Eden, denying there was any political significance in his trip from Copenhagen, Denmark through Oslo.

The ENERGY VALUE of Cod Liver Oil PLUS SPEEDY ASSIMILATION

With emulsified oils digestion begins at once in the stomach. Ordinary oils must first combine with the pancreatic juices—to form an emulsion—before they can be assimilated.

Scott's Emulsion is more quickly and easily assimilated than plain Cod Liver Oil because it is already emulsified. Scott's Emulsion is rich in body building hypophosphites of lime and soda—PLUS values you get in Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. 1A

In reply to his letter to the Bureau of Biological Survey at Washington, announcing the shooting of a duck carrying a band on its leg, Mr. Harry Meikle has received the following information from this Bureau in a letter which reads, in part, as folows: "The Biological Survey is in receipt of your recent communication. The bird carrying band No. 34-612118 was a Black Duck male banded 1-15-34 at Ithaca, N.Y., by Dr. Arthur A. Allen. The bands are attached to the birds by volunteer co-operators, both in the United States and Canada, who serve without pay. Success in the bird-banding work is therefore dependent upon the reports of persons in both countries on such banded birds as come to their attention." The letter is signed "W.C. Henderson, Acting Chief," and expresses appreciation of Mr. Meikle's co-operation.

DORLAND FOUND GUILTY

Without the slightest emotion showing on his face, Albert Dorland heard the foreman of a General Sessions jury at Toronto, announce last night that the jury had found him guilty of armed robbery and theft of a car in connection with the $24,-034 hold-up of the Toronto stockyards branch of the Bank of Montreal on July 26.

The hearing of Dorland's trial lasted for 14 days. A great deal of interest centered upon fingerprints found on the license plates of the stolen car. Besides fingerprint experts of the Toronto Police Department, experts from Montreal were called, both by the Crown and defense, as witnesses.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to offer our sincere thanks to all our relatives and other friends who so kindly assisted during our recent bereavement.

Cooke Casselman and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Branch No. 48 Canadian Legion, Morrisburg, desire through the press to thank all who assisted in making Poppy Day such a grand success. To the young ladies of Morrisburg and Iroquois who sold poppies in these towns, as well as at Williamsburg we are extremely grateful. To the citizens who purchased wreaths, and also to those who contributed towards wreaths to be placed on the Monument, as well as the Municipality of Morrisburg for a wreath, we are indeed thankful.

FRED S. BRODER,
Secretary
Branch No. 48, Canadian Legion.

SPORT FLASHES

Harry Wilkens, the local boy who tried out with the London Tecumsehs this fall, has turned down an offer to play professional hockey, and will do his puck-chasing this winter in the Toronto Mercantile League. This is one of the best amateur leagues in Canada, and the games draw as many as 14,000 spectators.

* * *

Toronto Maple Leafs, of the N.H.L., won their third straight victory of the current season last night, and now lead the league in the number of games won. The Leafs, as usual, pulled their famous "last minute act," when burly Chuck Conacher blasted a terrific shot right past goalie Roy Worters, of New York Americans, with 8 seconds of play remaining.

* * *

Results of other games in the National League last night are as follows: Montreal Maroons 3, Chicago Blackhawks 4; New York Rangers 2, Detroit Red Wings 8.
