The Morrisburg Leader

LXXXV, NO. 49 — MORRISBURG, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5th, 1947. — $2.00 PER YEAR; SINGLE COPIES 5c

Fish & Game Banquet Held Last Night

One of the most successful banquets ever put on by by the Morrisburg Fish Fish and Game Club, was held last night, Thursday, at the Curling Club.

There was an attendance of about 100 enthusiastic anglers and hunters who enjoyed the bountiful meal prepared by the ladies of the Curling Club, viewed the films and exhibits, and enjoyed short addresses by Overseer Wayne Robinso of Ottawa and Inspector Royal Baker of the Department of Lands and Forests, Kemptville.

Acting as chairman was president Leslie McCormick of the Fish and Game Club, and other speakers were Reeve Oscar Beckstead of Williamsburg Township and Reeve Fred H. Broder of Morrisburg. The speakers were introduced by Dr. Will C. Davy, a past president of the local club, and the films shown were put on by Overseer Jack Stewart of Cornwall.

The Department men from Ottawa, Messrs. Robinson and Hedlum, displayed the carcasses of two brush wolves shot earlier in the week at Shirley's Bay, near Ottawa. Mr. Robinson, in his remarks, asked local hunters to be on the watch for this type of wolf, and to destroy them as soon as they made their appearance in this district. Inspector Baker seconded his remarks and called attention also to the nets taken from the Ottawa River earlier this year by Fish and Wildlife officers, and asked the co-operation of officials and members of the local club in putting a stop to illegal hunting and fishing.

Films shown were on the subjects: Atlantic Salmon, The Koala Bears, native to Australia, and a film first shown to Ducks Unlimited, entitled "Life on the Western Marshes".

The large audience attenling the affair voted the program the best in many years.

To the Electors Of Morrisburg

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Your influence and vote of "Yes" is solicited on the By-Law for a Fixed Assessment on the Morrisburg Poultry Plant which is being submitted to the electors on December 8th.

Your approval of this By-Law will assist in expanding the poultry processing business here and the Village of Morrisburg and surrounding territory will naturally benefit. During the past year the plant payroll exceeded $25,000, which was practically all spent locally. Produce totalling more than a third of a million dollars was purchased from farmers in this area, and a considerable portion of this amount found its way into the businesses of our community with resultant profit and increased prosperity for us all.

O. J. BARKLEY.

TO THE ELECTORS OF MATILDA TOWNSHIP:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having decided to contest our municipality for the Reeveship, I take this means of soliciting your vote and influence on Monday, December 8th. The issues before us which are most important are:

1. Better roads, both winter and summer.
2. More equality of service.
3. Taxes kept within reach of the conditions as they exist today.
4. Fullest co-operation with the Council Board.
5. Full report of all Council minutes in local paper.
6. Courtesy to all and a hearty invitation to all ratepayers at each and every meeting of Council.

Having served six years as Councillor and four years as Deputy reeve I assure you I will look after your interests during 1948, both locally and in Cornwall to the very best of my ability.

If elected I promise a very careful and impartial course and do my utmost to prove worthy of your confidence.

Thanking you most sincerely for past confidence as Councillor and Deputy reeve, I now appeal to you one and all for a short trial as Reeve of our good old Township of Matilda.

Wishing you the compliments of the season,

Respectfully yours,
ORVAL SEELEY.

VICTORIOUS COLLEGIATE FOOT BALL TEAM—

The blue and white of the M.C.I. boasted it's best rugby team in many seaesons. Playing in a league composed of Cardinal, Iroquois, Morrisburg, Winchester, Chesterville, and Finch, the M.C.I. football squad finished in first place with an undefeated and untied record. The locals rolled up a total of 395 points while having only 94 scored against them. M.C.I.'s bruising line had Innes playing snap and Crober and McHaffie on the ends. West Stitt and Ian Fraser starred in the half-back position, while Ronnie Casselman directed the team from the quarter-back spot. Alternates were Art Flynn, Don Campbell, Dean Hummell, Dalton Lynch, Allan Fraser and Don Clark.

The team had poor support from the townspeople except for a few in providing transportation. This winter it is planned to have a basketball and a hockey team, and the students are hoping for more support from people who have cars.

MORRISBURG JUNIORS TO BE CALLED KRAFT CANADIANS

The Morrisburg Juniors this year will be called the Morrisburg Kraft Canadians, reason for this name being that the sweaters for the team were donated by the Kraft Cheese Company of Canada. The only other donation of equipment was a first aid kit donated by the National Drug Company. According to the President of the club, the team is in better financial condition this term than they have ever been before. Practically the whole executive is new including a new coach in the person of Harold Epps who has been putting the boys through some strenuous P. T. for the past couple of months in an attempt to get them in shape for the coming season.

Except for three imports the squad is made up entirely of home town boys. The additions from out of town are: Bill Perrington, goal, from the Ottawa Senators; Jack Devine, forward from Ottawa Montagnards and Orn Gould, defence, who hails from Cornwall.

A double schedule has been drawn up with Morrisburg, Cardinal, Iroquois, Brockville and Prescott particpatng. The frst scheduled game will be played in Morrisburg on December 26 against Prescott.

As yet we make no statements as to just what this squad will do, but next week after the exhibition game in Cornwall against Cornwall West Enders, we will say what the aggregation looks like on ice. This game will be played on December 11th, and the boys would like to see some Morrisburg supporters among the fans, so if you can make it why not go to Cornwall on Thursday next and show these lads that the people of Morrisburg are behind them all the way. A bus has been chartered and will leave at 7 p.m. Tickets are $1.25 return inlluding admission to the game. The tickets may be procured at McNeely's Drug Store.

WELLESLEY—TUTTLE

A wedding of much interest took place on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Morrisburg United Church when Betty Maud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Tuttle of Morrisburg, became the bride of David Earl Wellesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wellesley, of King, Ont.

The bride was charming in a floor length gown of tulle blue crepe buttoned down the back, with long point ed sleeves and V neck. Her fingertip vei lwas attached to a white coronet and she carried a boquet of white baby mums and roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ruth McIntosh of Ottawa, the bride's cousin, wore a gown of salmon pink crepe with square neck and short sleeves. She wore long gloves and carried a boquet of baby mums.

Best man was Paul Steinburg of Williamsburg.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, with the rooms decorated in pink, white and silver.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. Wellesley of King; Miss Barbara Bush of South Mountain; Mr. Mac Fetterly of Iroquois.

Following the reception the happy young couple left on a short honeymoon and on their return will reside in Morrisburg.

FAMED CONCERT ENSEMBLE COMING HERE DECEMBER 17th

Under the auspices of the Morrisburg United Church Sunday School, "The Davies", Canada's celebrated concert ensemble will make an appearance at the Church on Wednesday, December 17th at 7.30 p.m. This well-known family of artists have been acclaimed wherever they have appeared and all music lovers are strongly urged to hear them.

Last week they appeared in Winchester, and The Winchester Press, in its current issue, is lavish with praise for their performance.

Don't forget the time and the date —7.30 p.m., The Morrisburg United Church, Wednesday, December 17th. The admission price is low—only 50c for adults, 25c for children.

CROWDER—SHANNETTE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 20th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Shannette, when their daughter Eva was united in marriage to Bernice Crowder, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Crowder of Inkerman.

The house was pretilly decorated with pink and white streamers.

The bride looked lovely in a light blue street length dress with black accessories. She carried a bouquet of Bettertime oses and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Lloyd Casselman, sister of the bride, was matron of honoru. She wore a dark green dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Casselman wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Benson Crowder, brother of the groom acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a light lunch was served to about 25 guests at the bride's home.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti for Kngston and other points west. For travelling the bride chose a green dress with matching accessories.

Synopsis

Chapter XVI: Conroy's attempt to cheat in the poker game is exposed by the Mexican. A gun duel follows and Michael once more finds himself surrounded by desperate henchmen.

Chapter XVII

The gambler's pasty face took on the color of death.

"You're crazy!" he shouted "There is no—"

"Well, what about that information I want?" Valdez snarled. "That ninety seconds are being ticked away with great speed."

There was a hurried shuffling toward the doors as the other men took heed of that. This fighting fool might not be bluffing.

The saloon was quickly emptied, and Valdez and Conroy were alone. Valdez' eyes shot to the loud-ticking clock on the wall.

"Your time's up, Conroy," he snapped coldly.

Even as he swung into the saddle he gave Conroy no chance to get the drop on him. He started El Cielo toward the swinging doors. One of his guns whipped up in an arc, exploded, and placed a shot squarely in the oil reservoir at the back of the big swinging lamp as Conroy scrambled back madly.

The light swayed back and forth. Another shot rang out, and the connection at the ceiling was severed. With a resounding explosion the big lamp hit the floor. Glass tinkled, there was a hiss and a roar, as the spilled oil caught the flames and burst into a sheet of burning color that in a breath of time spread across the floor.

Conroy, who up until that moment had himself thought that Valdez was running a bluff in order to force information from him, dashed for the window. Valdez had cut off any chance of his reaching the door.

"Get him, men, as he comes through the door!" Conroy howled, as he battered at the sash in a desperate effort to get out of the rapidly burning place.

Shouts and roars from outside answered him as some of his hench men raced toward the doorway where Michael Valdez, still inside, was silhouetted against the rising flames.

But Valdez was ready for that move, too. Instead of racing El Cielo through the door, he whirled his mount and gave a sharp com mand. The horse leaped through the sheet of flame as Valdez pour ed quick shots right and left, drop ping the other lamps to the floor.

Flames were leaping up the walls now, and the blazing oil from the exploded lamp behind the bar burst liquor bottles. Blue flames, coursing here and there with searching tongues, spread swiftly, to make the Palace Saloon a roaring furnace.

With a defiant shout Michael Valdez rode full tilt through the rear door. He found himself in a dead-end alley, and turned along it between two buildings, heading toward the street.

One swift glance at the alley, though, and he knew that Flash Conroy, who was now out of the burning saloon, and Conroy's cohorts were all ready for battle. They were at the mouth of the alley with the whole area covered. Men with cocked guns were awaiting Valdez's appearance.

A crackling hail of lead poured into the alley from the guns of the holed-up men searching for him with gunfire. Then Valdez took his one and only chance of getting out of the trap alive. The next instant he was racing through the rain of fire, with both his own guns blazing. As he hit the street, one swift glance picked out Conroy, in the shadow of a general store on the other side of the street, his six-gun blazing steadily.

Valdez downed the gambler neatly and cooly with one well placed shot.

"Number two!" Valdez gritted as El Cielo tore down the dusty street toward the sanctuary of the mountains.

Valdez cast a swift glance backward, but with the death of their boss, Conroy's fighting force had not dashed for their horses to pursue the fighting demon who had downed the gambler.

Half an hour later Michael Valdez felt that he was safe from pursuit. He was well into a hidden mountain trail and here he stopped to give the gallant El Cielo a well-earned breather.

Coronado was behind him now, he had accomplished most of what he had gone to that evil town to do, and already the place was half forgotten. Michael Valdez's thoughts leaped ahead.

"Deep Water Valley next," he muttered.

He rode on when El Cielo was ready to go again. And a little farther on in the mountains Michael Valdez made camp, and dropped off to sleep the moment he had rolled in his blankets and placed his head on his saddle pillow.

So deep was his sleep that the sun was high the next morning when he awoke. As soon as he had prepared his breakfast and watered El Cielo at a nearby pool, he was again in saddle. Steadily he rode on, heading for Deep Water Valley.

He had ridden all day, keeping to the obscure trails in the more mountainous sections, without meeting a soul, when late in the afternoon he was brought to the alert by a crashing in the brush. Swiftly his hand went to his gun butt, as he caught a glimpse of a rider in the brush. Then he relaxed and his hand fell to his side.

A ragged figure broke out of cover and rode toward him. One small hand was held high in greeting.

"Hello, Senor Caballero Rojo!"

Juanita de Cuevas looked weary, but her soft dark eyes sparkled with happiness.

"Didn't Padre Vincente get my letter?" Valdez said. "Thought I wrote him to keep you at the mission."

"So he said," Juanita said calmly. "And most certainly he got your letter. But when he told me—I didn't argue with him, senor. I accepted the room he had prepared for me, and I left during the night. That is better than to argue with a padre."

"You shouldn't have done that, Juanita," Valdez said soberly. "I've told you the outlaw trail is no place for you."

Your Handwriting and You

By Alex S. Arnott

Idealism Shown In Handwriting

"Dear Mr. Arnot," writes Miss P. A., "will you please analyse my handwriting as you so ably did for my sister. I am very fond of poetry and would like to know if my handwriting reveals talent along these lines."

The reason you are so fond of poetry is that you are endowed with a deep sentimental nature; that is to say, you think and live from the depths of your heart. The script clearly shows deep emotional feeling, emotion that moves the imagination to put into words the true feeling of sentimental things. The tallness of the letters confirm this finding, as you will observe all the stroke letters are reaching high above the other letters as though they are reaching for the sky. This is an excellent sign in itself that you are an idealist and believe in faith, nobility of thought and high ideals. The final strokes of all your words are not left at the writing line, but are carried heavenward, high above the small letters—a very good indication of spiritual reverence and also revealing a person whose thoughts are reaching higher, ever upward.

The fineness of the script, the slope of the writing, the high dots above the letter "i," and other handwriting signs leave no doubt as to gracefulness and feeling for spiritual environment. The spaciousness and general appearance of the writing indicates a very practical nature with good enthusiasm, ability and ambition.

This writing is an excellent example of a person with ability for descriptive expression of poetry.

Anyone wishing a more complete analysis please send self-addressed stamped envelope to Box B, room 421, 73 Adelaide St. West, Toronto. There is no charge for this service.

Consumers Want To Know What's What

Every woman was familiar with the pamphlet called "Consumers News" distributed through the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

National presidents of women's organizations who have inaugurated the new Canadian Assoc. of Consumers, now think this informative homemakers' pamphlet should be revived.

Since the C.A.C. is self-supporting, arrangements for publication of a monthly bulletin and other services must be financed by fees. And so, part of the consumer's membership fee will finance a peacetime "Consumers News".

In the current drive for members, volunteer campaign committees report that consumers are enthusiastic to join the new association. For districts where no consumer committee exists, women may join and receive the bulletin and services by sending 50c (postal script) to C.A.C., Box 500, Station B, Ottawa.

Sunday School Lesson

By Rev. R. Barclay Warren

Christian Fellowship
III John

GOLDEN TEXT— I thank my God —for your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now. Philippians 1: 3, 5.

Three personalities, Gaius, Diotrephes, and Demetrius are vividly set forth in John's third letter. To Gaius the letter is addressed. The salutation is unique. "Beloved I pray that all may go well with you and that you may keep well, as I know it is well with your soul." Let us ask ourselves, "What would be the state of my affairs and of my health if it were as the state of my soul?" Gaius was noted for his hospitality. The itinerant missionaries and evangelists who were labouring for the sake of Jesus were objects of his generous care. He was probably a man of considerable means and he used it to the glory of God. He was an exemplary character in the community.

Diotrephes loved to have the pre-eminence. He might be called the church boss. He would not receive John or the travelling brethren, and cast out of the church those who didn't agree with him. The editor of a church paper published an article on "Diotrephes, the church boss." He promptly received letters from twenty-three persons demanding that their papers be immediately stopped. They were very indignant over what each termed, "the personal attack made upon me in your paper." All of which proved that Diotrephes is still living.

Demetrius was probably the bearer of the letter. He was commended to Gaius as a man of truth and of good report of all who knew him.

The church is made up of individuals of varied types. There is the occasional demagogue of Diotrephes. But there are so many good people. Among the true disciples of Jesus Christ there is a closer fellowship than exists in any organization in the world. Paul was deeply moved as he wrote to the church he had found at Phillipi, "I thank God for your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now." A bond of love held them together.

TABLE TALKS

Candied Orange And Lemon Peel

Candied Orange and Lemon Peel Several Day Method

The peel made by this Several Day Method stores well. The resulting product is worth the time taken in preparation because it is so excellent.

Peel from 3 clean-skinned oranges or 6 lemons
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons light corn syrup or honey
¾ cup water

Cover peel with water. Add ½ teaspoon salt. Boil ½ hour. Drain. Cover again with water and boil until tender. A longer period is required to tenderize lemon peel than orange peel. Drain. Cut peel in strips. Bring sugar, corn syrup or honey and ¾ cup water to boil. Cook peel at low temperature in this to gently absorb most of the syrup. Cover. Cool overnight in the syrup. The following day, reheat slowly to simmering point. Cool again in syrup. Reheat and continue this heating and cooling process until most of the syrup is absorbed which will probably take several days. Drain. Spread out to dry on rack or waxed paper until surface syrup has been absorbed — one day or more. Roll in granulated sugar, or shake peel in paper bag with little sugar. Store in covered container.

Orange Salads

Serve these orange salads with a salad dressing made by blending cream cheese with lemon juice — just enough to make a creamy consistency.

Orange Cranberry Salad

Place mound of cranberry jelly on lettuce bed. Circle with orange slices. For slicing, choose navel oranges. They have no seeds and are firm-meated.

Orange Salad Piquant

Circle 8 or 9 orange slices on lettuce bed. Top with 5 or 6 small balls of cream cheese to which a little horseradish has been added.

Orange Waldorf Salad

Combine chopped celery, unpeeled pieces of apple, orange sections and raisins or chopped walnuts. Blend with a cooked dressing or a little mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce.

Last-Minute Gift Ideas For Children

If you've overlooked some child whom you'd like to remember in some simple way, have your carpenter (or your handy husband) saw out large blocks about six by four by one and one-half. Pile them in a carton covered with gay red paper and your three or four year old will be delighted, and spend many happy hours with them. Incidentally this is the type block educators favor for small tots, since they are easy to handle at an age when coordination hasn't been highly developed.

Or paint an old tin bread box with red and green stripes, or cover with gay Christmas paper and fill with all sorts of small games such as the small fry like: dominoes, Jack-straws, darts, marbles, etc. It will take on the form of a treasure chest in their eager eyes.

Take an old bread board, some meat skewers and empty spools. Paint each pair of spools and sticks a different color: red, green, blue, yellow, etc. This is a fine way to teach the the tiny children colors and is comparable to the peg-boards used in the kindergartens. Holes for the gay spools can be made with brace and bit.

Hopeless Case

An attractive young Government worker made a practice of arriving at the office a few minutes late every day. Repeated warnings by her supervisor had no effect. Finally, in exasperation, he announced: "Miss Brown, I am tired of talking about your tardiness. I am, therefore, suspending you for one day without pay. When would you like to take the day?"

"Well, if it's all right with you," she replied, instantly, "I'd like to use it up being late."

TEEN-TOWN TOPICS

By BARRY MURKAR

Parents have been blamed a good many times for cases of juvenile delinquency around the country.

In many cases, the parents were to blame; but there is another contributing factor —and that is radio. Why firms sponsor some of the programmes they do, when they could sponsor something that is entertaining, educational and informative, is beyond me.

Crime stories, chillers and thrillers have no place on the air, in my opinion. After listening to such a programme a kid can go off to bed in a state of jitters or with the idea that leading a tough life can be exciting and loaded with adventure.

We have been listening to some of these programmes lately and what we heard was a lot of bosh —whatever that is. There is nothing to them except the ingrediants for a good night-mare. How many of these programmes are there? We don't know, but these are what we have heard during the past week: The Shadow, The Hermit, The Clock, Inner Sanctum, The Whistler, and The Green Hornet.

Police sometimes admit that juveniles get their crimey ideas from these programmes — and yet a good honest firm will pay the "shot" to have them put on the air. I don't mean to bite into the way another writer makes his living — but we feel that there isn't a writer living, who is dishing out this trash, that couldn't give the kids something more constructive to think about and still make the same good money doing it.

Personally, we feel that crime stories and heart chillers should be taken off the air.

The Winter Fair

The Royal Winter Fair, the major attraction of the year for the country boys and gals, has made its debut and departed for another season. The dailies were full of stories and pictures of prize winners and contestants, many of them being of the younger set.

Among them we noticed a group of young ladies who were involved in judging cattle no less. Many young people from other provinces were on hand for the national livestock show, such as Kenneth Truseman of N.B. who took part in judging the Hereford heifer class, Joy Patterson of Calgary who brought her horse down from the west to participate. Margaret Patterson of Manitoba helped judge poultry and of course local Junior Farmers were in on the show too.

Makes Good On The Farm

A young man by the name of Dave Clark, 18, left the city two years ago to take up farming. Working on a farm at Milton, he is so enthused with the work he vows that nothing will make him go back to the life of the white collar and flashy cravat. In his second year of this work he won the championship of the Halton County Junior Farmer's Calf Club, which we think is a fine record. Dave knows that farming is a hard life, and means long hours of toil, but his aim is to make farming a real business and a paying business—and it looks as if he is on the way.

TEEN-TOWN REPORTERS

Parry Sound — Audrey Harris — The House of Zues and the House of Atlas, recently sponsored a dance, taking over the Fri.-Nite Club.

The hall was decorated by members of the house before the dance and the colors of red and white of the Atlas and the blue and white of the Zues added much to the scene. Prizes and refreshments were also provided. The boys and gals left off their old duds and really slicked up. The prizes for elimination dances, flash light dances, etc., went to Barb Gandy and Ken Peachy, Sylvia Rogers and Bill Daly, Elvira Hamilton and Harvey Elliott, Deb Barker and Ed. McGill.

The teachers were there as official hosts and hostesses, but they really wanted a good time . (I think.)

The money raised went to the Athletic Society for sports equipment.

Please! Please! Please!

Once more we ask the correspondents for this column to print all names appearing in their copy. People like to see their name printed correctly and we would hate to see the name of Joe Doe come out as Joe Shmoe, so in the future please try to remember this and it will cut our errors down to a minimum. Many thanks, gang, for your continued efforts.

MOPSY by GLADYS PARKER

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

By Gwendoline P. Clarke

It would be interesting to really know which created the greater stir last week — Princess Elizabeth's wedding or Canada's "austerity" program. Personally I thought one counter-balanced the other.

I suppose it is hard for some people to understand the British reaction to the wedding — many think it was a dreadful waste of money — money that shouldn't have been spent with Britain lacking so many of the necessities of life, and they wouldn't listen to the broadcast for that reason. I don't think people who have that opinion know very much about real hardship. It is easy to criticize under those circumstances. Naturally people who are hungry want food for the body but if people are hungry long enough they also crave food for the soul — so that they may endure their physical discomforts more easily.

Princess Elizabeth's wedding gave the British people — and many Canadians — colourful, heart-warming romance — that is, food for the soul. Listening to that broadcast did something to a person — one was conscious of a tightening in the throat. One forgot the bride was England's future queen — at the moment she was just another girl, marrying the man she loved. And that, I think, was also the feeling behind the cheering crowds on that memorable day. Elizabeth not only symbolized the British throne — she symbolized Romance. I am sure there were many persons in England who went back to their homes that day, ate an insufficient and uninteresting meal with less resentment because of that little bit of colour that had come into their lives. And after all, if the Princess had been married in a cotton dress, would it have added one ounce to the average person's ration?

And now, what about Canada's austerity program. That is not so easy to figure out, is it? Personally I think the description "austerity" is a travesty of the word and almost an insult to people who really know what austerity means. On the other hand it is a little early yet to really appreciate what the outcome will be. It will probably affect the farming class less than urban citizens but even in the country it may have unforeseen repercussions. I know it has brought a sudden end to one of my fond hopes for the future—that is an electric refrigerator. And, oh dear, how I was hoping that next summer I might be spared that ever-lasting running upstairs and down with food to and from the cellar. But I suppose if what has to be, must be — and who am I to grumble? Certainly I shall go without a refrigerator a little longer rather than pay an extra hundred dollars to get one. One gets used to disappointments these days. Last Saturday, for instance — Daughter had bought tickets for us for the Royal Winter Fair, then Partner developed some eye trouble — the inflamation just about closed one eye, and I had a touch of neuralgia so that little outing was cancelled. By Saturday night Partner was in bed and I was listening to the hockey match — the fact that the Leafs trimmed the Bruins was a little consolation. Then on Sunday morning Daughter came home for the rest of the week-end — and that helped still more.

Well, it looks as if winter is trying to pay us a visit at last. So far we haven't done too badly. Son Bob has got all his ploughing done and the worst is over insofar as our new highway is concerned. It will be even better if we get a frost. To walk down the road now means carrying about ten pounds of clay along on each shoe. That is hardly conducive to comfort.

What You Should Know about TRAVEL RATIONING

Why?

Canada's supply of U.S. dollars will no longer stretch far enough to permit all the purchases of goods and services or all the travel in the United States that has taken place in the past. It is, therefore, necessary to reduce our expenditures of U.S. dollars in many different ways. As one of these steps, the Government has decided that the use of U.S. dollars for pleasure travel spending must be reduced. To ensure this reduction in a way that is fair to all, an annual "travel ration" has been established. As in the past — a Form H permit is required by anyone taking out of Canada more than $10 U.S. or more than a total of $25 in Canadian and foreign currencies.

Pleasure Travel

Regulations now provide that the maximum amount of U.S. dollars which any Canadian resident may obtain for pleasure travel purposes is $150 per year. In the case of children of eleven years and under, the amount is $100. There is no restriction on the number of trips as long as this annual allotment is not exceeded. Any U.S. dollars obtained for one trip and not used on that trip must be brought back to Canada and exchanged for Canadian dollars at a bank immediately on return. No credit for these funds can be allowed against the annual ration for subsequent trips.

Personal Purchases of U.S. Goods

A Canadian tourist should remember that the new restrictions applying to imports from the United States govern his personal purchases there. He may not bring back any merchandise which has now been prohibited or which may now only be imported on a quota basis. The list of goods covered by the new import restrictions is an extensive one. Tourists contemplating any particular purchase in the United States would be wise, before leaving the country, to ask Canadian Customs Officials if this purchase will be admitted.

SHORT STORY

The Runaway Boy

By SHIRLEY RAY

Someone was coming down the stairs. The still and darkened house seemed to amplify each soft footfall to Rhoda who hoped the sound of her own breathing would not give her away.

Now the steps, still guarded and cautious, were in the hall, and then only a few feet from where she stood. There was the sound of a hand on the doorknob and the door swung open. A small form slid past her. The door closed again and the sudden return of darkness stirred Rhoda into action. She grasped the knob and flung the door open.

"Where are you going, Jimmy?" she asked sharply.

The small boy stared at her from the bottom step. He lowered his eyes and scraped the toe of his shoe in the soft dirt.

"Going away," he mumbled.

"Come sit down, Jimmy," she said. "We may as well have a good-bye talk."

Jimmy sat next to her, his bundle in his lap.

"Now," said Rhoda, "Where are you going?"

"Going to hitch-hike to the city." His eyes met Rhoda's for the first time. "Pinky Duggan hitch-hikes all over," he informed her.

"Pinky Duggan?" she repeated.

"You know Pinky's mother," Jimmy said.

"Oh, yes, I know," Rhoda replied.

"Pinky lives in the city. He goes to the movies every night," Jimmy continued. "In this old town we have only one movie."

Rhoda was thinking of saying exactly the same thing to Jimmy's father that Jimmy was now saying to her.

"There's nothing to do in this small town, Jim. We don't even have a choice of two movies."

His voice filled with enthusiasm, Jim went on.

"There are tall buildings and big electric signs that go on and off and double-deck buses and everything in the city."

"I tell you, Jim, this pokey town drives me crazy. I'm used to the city. I like the bright lights and the traffic and the noise!"

"Pinky says only jerks live in a town like this," Jimmy declared.

"I can feel the hayseed sticking out all over me. I saw Kay Duggan today—we used to work together in the city—and I realized what a bumpkin I am."

Rhoda sighed. "Yes, Jimmy, the city is nice." She felt helpless. She was this boy's mother. She should know what to say, what to do. But she was at a loss for words.

There was a long silence.

"Mom, Pop doesn't let me do anything."

"Jim, I'm not old. I want to go places, do things, get out of this rut."

Jimmy reached into his pocket and brought forth two shiny cubes. "Look Mom. Pinky swapped 'em for my Boy Scout knife."

Maybe it was the sudden chill in the breeze. Maybe it was the sight of the white dice in the small hand. Suddenly Rhoda did not feel helpless any more.

"Jimmy," she said. "I used to live in the city in an apartment, the same kind that Pinky Duggan lives in now. There are lots of families in one big building. You can't run through the house or turn the radio on loud or make any noise. You can't even have a dog, Jimmy."

His eyes were wide.

"No dog?" the boy repeated.

The two sat in silence. The night was bright but not cold. There was a half moon and a few scattered but bright stars. At last the little boy rose and started up the stairs.

"Still going to the city Jimmy?"

"I guess not, Mom."

Rhoda sat for a long time. Then she got up and went into the house. Her hand groped in the darkness until it grasped the handle of a suitcase. She was glad that Jimmy hadn't asked her why she was up, fully dressed, at this hour of the night.

Inexpensive Gifts Can Be Made With Christmas Cards

MOST of us have stored away in attic boxes and desk drawers, Christmas cards from last year and the year before that we just couldn't bear to throw away.

These cards can be transformed into charming Christmas gifts with a little ingenuity and a minimum of time on your part.

Lampshades are always welcome — and here's a novel idea for designing a special gift for a special person. If your friend is partial to floral arrangements, town or country scenes, cats, dogs, or whatever, select the cards accordingly. Take a plain parchment shade, brush entire outer surface with clear shellac and let dry partially. Meantime brush the back of the cards with shellac and expose to air for several minutes until shellac reaches a sticky consistency. Apply cards to appropriate spots and press

EVEN THE FIRST . . . Since the first Christmas card was made, they have been saved and utilized for the making of artistic gifts. During and since the war the demand for the cards for those in hospitals has reached a new high. Our wounded have been supplied with thousands of cards which they use in making gifts.

down. Brush entire lampshade surface, including newly applied cards, with the shellac. Let dry. The shellacking process may be repeated any number of times as each application serves to increase the durability of the lampshade. Pierce holes, about an inch apart, around top and bottom edges; lace with ribbons.

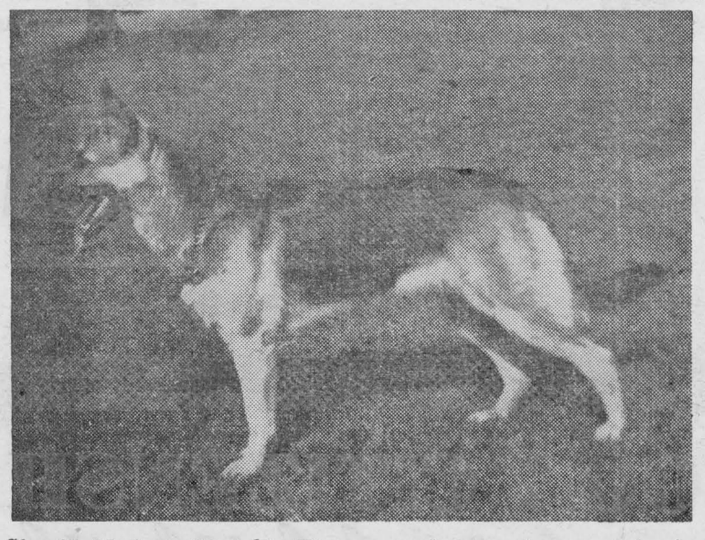
Wastebaskets, too, make attractive gifts. The cardboard variety, either oval or square in shape, can be secured in your local 5 and 10 or department store. Cover with plain paper or gift wrapping. Shellac, mount cards. Re-shellac—as with the lampshade.

Another trick! Select three cards of uniform size and theme—either religious, scenic or peasant, etc. Place them in inexpensive cardboard or wooden frames. Take a long strip of heavy satin ribbon with sewn-on bow at one end. Attach frames to ribbon in Victorian manner, i. e., one over the other. Then sew a hook on back of bow so ribbon may be hung from the wall.

A useful and colorful gift for the man of the house—especially if he happens to be a pipe smoker—is the large box of kitchen matches artistically "camouflaged" so Mother won't object to its presence in her newly "done over" living room. Cover all surfaces, with the exception of the sanded striking area, with strips of colorful designs taken from Christmas cards. Paste the cutout Christmas card designs on one or both of the large surfaces—shellac, allow to dry, and repeat process.

One of the simplest to make, yet most effective small gifts, is the bookmark. Cut out, in rectangular shape, the Christmas card design of your selection. Then tape a strip of good quality ribbon—either satin or grosgrain—to the back of the card so that the ribbon extends about three or four inches beyond its bottom edge. Scotch tape can be bought at most stationery and gift shops in colors, now, and it lends a more festive air than the usual transparent tape. It's a good idea, too, to give the card a coat or two of shellac so it will resist fingerprints and smudging.

Two blocks of wood, painted in pretty pastels, mounted with Christmas cards and shellacked are just the thing for the guest room bookends. In similar fashion wooden boxes can be "dressed up" with cutout floral Christmas card designs to serve as cigarette containers.



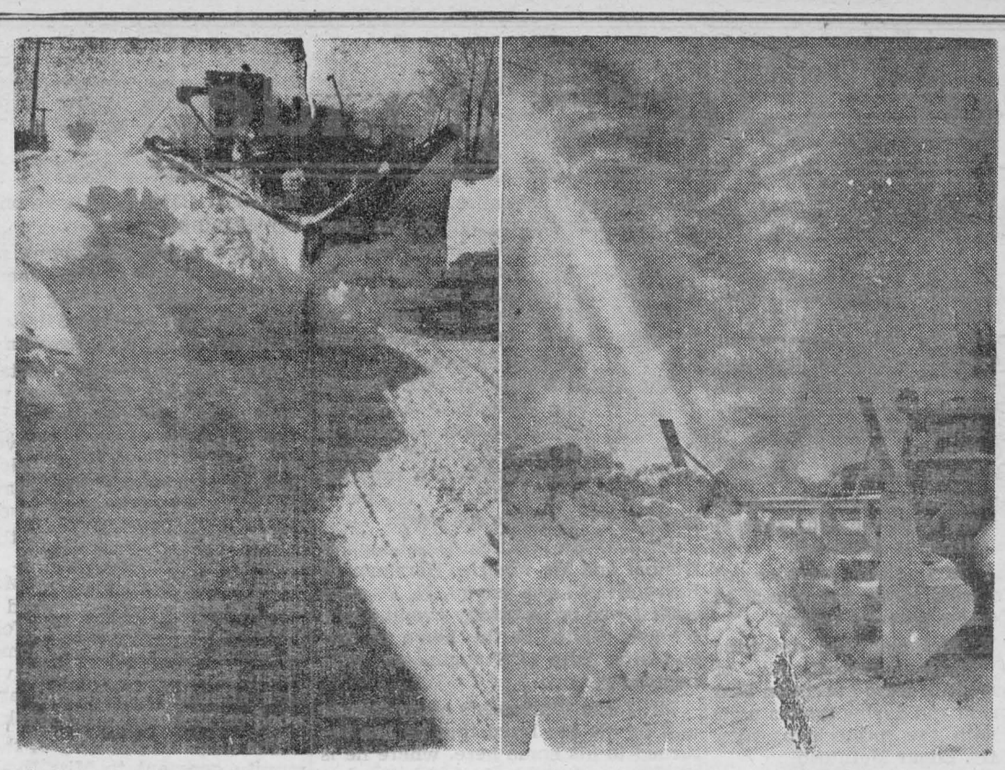
Should Mothers Model?—The young lady posing so sedately above placed 3rd at the 1947 Royal Winter Fair, just a month or so after giving birth to a family of six. Last year she was acclaimed "best of all breeds" and her record at Dog Shows and Field Trials on both sides of the border is highly impressive. "Starlite of Barrimor" is her official name.

Shepherd Dog Scores 'Perfect' In Show Ring

Most people dream of winning an Irish Sweepstakes Grand Prize with the very first ticket they buy—but it's an experience which doesn't come to many. While the comparison may be a little far-fetched, George Taylor of 215 Brock Ave., a Toronto milkman seems to have done something rather similar in his first experiment at training a dog for the show ring.

"Starlite of Barrimor" is the official name of this beauty, who also bears the distinction of C.D. after her name—meaning Companion Dog. She is the daughter of an American Champion and started her impressive string of Show Ring victories at the age of ten months by rolling up a score of 98 points at the Port Colborne Show last year. A month later, at the German Shepherd Dog Club field trials at Clarkson she again topped a large field with a perfect score of 100; and at the 1946 Royal Winter Fair she was acclaimed best of all breeds with a mark of 99.

In March of this year, at the age of 17 months, she was top dog in her class at Detroit, placing second a few months later at the Buffalo Show. In her first trial at Companion Dog work she got slightly over 190 points out of a possible 200, defeating all dogs. This year, at the Royal Winter Fair—3rd was the best she could do—but the reason for this was no doubt the fact that she was less than a month in training after raising a family of six puppies. Altogether Mr. Taylor's experience with this dog has been one to encourage the small breeder. "Starlite of Barrimor" is the first shepherd Mr. Taylor ever owned or trained and is a great credit to both dog and trainer.



Headed by a 10-ton, 200-horsepower all-wheel drive truck, similar to the above on the left, two "flying columns" will be used by the Ontario Highways Department this year to hit the snow-blockade in the southern snow belt. Included in the column will be a rotary blower as shown on the right which will be used to widen the hole punched out by the 10-ton truck.

Want A Wife? Here's A Tip

Most of the lovelorn advice that we've ever seen (and we've seen plenty of it) was addressed to the girls, whereas it has long seemed to us that the boys are in far more urgent need of such advice. So we will introduce a novelty at this point by offering the hardest-headed and most constructive tip we can think of to the great majority of young men contemplating matrimony; to wit:

The thing to do, according to an article in Collier's, is to look around for a demanding, ambitions, energetic and goodnatured young woman, fall in love with her, and marry her as promptly as you can.

She needn't be beautiful, though, of course, beauty helps. She needn't be wealthy, because the above-mentioned qualities will almost guarantee that both you and she will be plenty well off in due time.

If you are the typical, rather indolent, happy-go-lucky, not too energetic male, this gal will furnish you the inspiration to effort that you need. She won't lead you into an easy life; but she will mainspring you into an exciting and satisfying one if you'll just stick along with her.

It was demanding, ambitious and generally good-natured women who stimulated the pioneering of this country from the Alleghenies to the Pacific—and who today stimulate American men to keep bringing home to the wife and family more and more of what it takes. That is one of the biggest factors in our success as a nation to date.

So if you're the easy-going type, as most of us men happen to be, just find yourself an up-and-coming young woman and marry her pronto. Leave the clingers and the droopers, the dumb beauties and the spoiled darlings to the exceptional self-starters and go-getters who can push ahead under their own steam exclusively.

The Arc de Triomphe was built in Paris in 1806 to commemorate the victories of Napoleon.

Canada's Finest IN THE SERVICE OF THE PUBLIC

THE WEATHER MAN

His training and experience have prepared him for one of the world's most demanding jobs: that of understanding every whim of the weather, every sensitive variation in atmospheric conditions. These he records and studies and finally interprets for the benefit of the public.

Men like this, some of Canada's finest, are in the public's service—at your service.

DAWES BLACK HORSE BREWERY

One of a series of advertisements in tribute to those Canadians in the service of the public

LITTLE REGGIE — By Margarita

Canada to Operate Atlantic Weather Station—Wearing clothing designed as protection against icy spray and wind is AB. Malcolm Judson of Charlottetown, member of crew of Canadian frigate St. Stephen assigned to station "Baker" in the North Atlantic weather reporting, radio beacon and rescue service. New mast aboard vessel is topped by a radar aerial which will be used in making meteorological observations. Other instruments for giving direction and speed of wind at sea level are fastened to ends of yardarm.

New Radio System For Ontario Police In Operation Soon

"We will be able to patrol thousands of square miles of territory with as much ease as we once policed a ten-mile area," said an official of the Ontario Provincial Police in speaking about the new radio system, soon to be in operation. "In the event of an emergency it sometimes took us hours to mobilize our forces. Now the same thing can be accomplished in a mater of minutes."

The new Ontario network will eventually serve a fleet of 300 radio-operated police cruisers, and is rated by experts as the largest and most modern setup of its kind on the North American Continent.

Four-way communication is one of the features of the system — station-to-station, station-to-car and car-to-car. General Headquarters of the Provincial Police at Queen's Park will also maintain direct contact with the network.

Number 5 District Headquarters of the Provincial Police, comprising the counties of Peel, Ontario and York, will be the first to inaugurate the new system, with headquarters at Aurora. Receiving and sending equipment have been installed between the master station at Aurora, two 60-watt sub-stations at Brampton and Whitby, and the 24 cruisers operating in this district. Frequency modulation units developed during the war eliminate static entirely.

A new wrinkle is the magnetic despatch map. Each dispatcher will have a map of his district showing all traffic arteries, villages, towns, cities and other vital information being shown on a linen framework. Magnetized pieces of metal, molded in the likeness of police cruisers, are moved from place to place each time a position report is received from a cruiser. By this method the despatcher can tell at a glance the approximate position of each of his cars.

Altogether there will be nine Provincial Police Districts operating under the new system in Southern Ontario, and a survey has already been started for its extension to Northern Ontario. Similar systems have been so successful in Michigan and other parts of the United States that police everywhere are hailing it as the greatest step forward in many years in the battle against crime.

Famous Racehorses From British Stock

The world's bloodstock buyers are looking forward to the December sales at Park Paddocks, Newmarket, England, where they will be able to buy for their own studs some of the finest of Britain's bloodstock. It is not generally realized that the modern racehorse of every country in the world is descended from United Kingdom stock. No breeder today will risk crossing his stock with any horse of doubtful ancestry. Instead they depend on the General Stud Book, published in London for 150 years, for the line of the horse. These volumes contain entries of all the famous racehorses, now scattered throughout the world.

Sports – And One Thing or Another

By FRANK MANN HARRIS

("A Sixbit Critic")

Back in the days when we were briefly connected with the wrestling business, there was one especially valued regular customer—a prominent and wealthy lawyer, whose name you would probably recognize, and who always used to purchase six or eight of the highest-price seats for himself and his friends. Their frantic enthusiasm, while a bout was in progress, was really something to see. But one day, meeting him on the street, we found him in a most critical state of mind. He said he'd begun to suspect that wrestling wasn't on the level—and that he wasn't going to give it his patronage any longer.

Asked for his reasons he told how, on Thursday evening, he had seen one of the main-bouters carried from the arena apparently very badly injured—and next day had heard rumors that the wrestler lay in hospital suffering from concussion and possible skull fracture. He had even been thinking of sending flowers until—happening to pick up a Buffalo Saturday paper—he had been amazed to note that this very same grappler, miraculously restored to health, had taken part in a torrid bout in that city the previous evening. "So I think it must be crooked, and I've had enough," he concluded.

However, knowing something of the ways of sports fans, we weren't too much surprised to see him in his regular seat the following week, yelling his head off in a frenzy of excitement. "Even if they are all a bunch of fakers," he explained, rather shame-facedly, afterwards, "while they're in there they make me feel that they're trying to tear one another apart—and I'm not going to miss it."

Somehow, we couldn't help thinking of this gentleman lately. The sport of boxing has been shaken by a series of scandals, the latest being the very smelly La Motta-Fox affair in New York. "These fakers are killing the game!" wailed the sports scribes from Coast to Coast. So what happens? The Joe Louis-Joe Walcott heavyweight thing—a worse 'overmatch' than David vs Goliath because Walcott won't be allowed to carry rocks, and probably couldn't win even if he did—will draw a sellout gate of over a quarter of a million. And if they'd had the crust to charge $100 'tops' the place would have been just as crowded. The moral Aw—just write your own!

Perhaps you have noticed something of the same kind too—but to us the most amazing thing about the recent Ottawa announcement of various new bans and 'austerities' was the number of our friends who had been preparing for winter trips to Florida or California. Previously, we had heard nothing of any such intentions—but as soon as news came that all such unnecessary travel was "Off" their moans of disappointment were pitiful to hear.

When we pause to watch a game of corner-lot football among the small fry, we always note about ten forward-passers, or pass receivers, to every kid willing to get in there and learn the rudiments of line-play—and this in spite of the fact that every coach in the business would give his eye-teeth for the kind of front-rank material that has made the Toronto Argonauts supreme over the years.

Similarly, as we see younger generations taking their licks at becoming future hockey stars, we cannot help noticing that it is practically always the smallest kid in the gang who is set to guard the nets. All the others are up there emulating Apps, Richard and the rest of the great goal-getters. Those who aim to become Turk Broda's, Bill Durnan's or Frankie Brimsek's are few and far between.

Perhaps this is only natural, as goal-tending is — according to those who do it for a living — a thankless business. Still, if we were advising any kid who really wanted to shine at hockey, our advice would be to take a real whack at twine-tending. Just think of what the Chicago Black Hawks would give for a goalie of anything like the class of the three just mentioned, for example, right this minute.

The whole world is suffering from a severe attack of the jitters—worrying over a heap of things that will probably never happen and which, if they do, we are helpless to prevent. We can't help wondering if a lot of it isn't due to most of us trying to absorb far more news of the world than we can digest. We know one man who, in addition to reading three daily papers, listens to at least six daily newscasts and news commentaries, and is in a constant state of apprehension that threatens his mental and physical health. His great-grandfather didn't even hear of the Battle of Waterloo till six weeks after it was decided—and wouldn't have been a bit better off if he'd had a play-by-play decription right from the battlefield.

It may be a sign of the times—and then again it may not. But spectators at Big League hockey games are getting much more critical than they have been in the past few seasons. Booing, and that special sort of hand-clapping which is by no means applause, both break out among the fans at the slightest provocation; and players who have been wont to hear their slightest move greeted with approval are having their ears shocked by the raucous Razzberry and shouts of "Get in there and show us something."

Well, retail merchants with plenty of goods on their shelves find buyers more "choosey" than when there is a buying panic on; and although attendances have shown little sign of falling off as yet, it may be that hockey customers, too, are looking for quality, and are getting a bit tired of having a combination of speed, skating and duck-on-the-rock passed over the counter as "Canada's greatest sport."

PILES Nothing else you can buy has the same internal action as PYLTONE PILE REMEDY. This liquid (taken by mouth) is compounded from special Balsamas, Gums, and Plant-Extracts. It gets results because it goes directly to the internal cause of Piles. That's the reason for its success on the most stubborn cases. This modern way of treating that internal trouble gets results that last. One bottle of PYLTONE is enough to prove its healing power or price refunded at once. That's our guarantee no matter how long standing your case may be. Your Druggist has it; or can order it for you.

The Annual Thankoffering Meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran W. M. S. was held in the Castleman Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening, November 25th. The worship service was in charge of the president, Mrs. Hugh Shannette, assisted by other members. The program consited of singing hymns and a very pleasing pageant was presented by a group of ladies from Williamsburg Lutheran Church. Two musical selections, one a duet by Mrs. Mullin and Mrs. Johnston and the other a solo by Mrs. Robt. Burns, added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. The ladies of St. Paul's served refreshments and a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

Morrisburg Board of Trade

Morrisburg, Ontario, November 30, 1947

To the Citizens of Morrisburg:

Morrisburg is gradually becoming an industrial centre through its excellent facilities and the cooperation of its citizens.

On December 8th you will be asked to vote on fixed assessment by-laws for the Morrisburg Poultry (O. J. Barkley) $1,500 and Morrisburg Hosiery $3,000. This fixed assessment is to be given for ten years and do not include school or local improvement taxes. These by-laws are similar to those by which fixed assessments were given to Beavers Dental Products and Pyramid Paper Propucts, Ltd., and we would ask you to give them your favourable support.

Neglect to vote may cause their defeat as a two-thirds majority is necessary.

SUPPORT YOUR INDUSTRIES AND THE GROWTH OF YOUR TOWN BY BEING AT THE POLLS DECEMBER 8th AND VOTE: "X" FOR THE BY-LAWS.
