The Value of Saving

All successful men began by saving. Later, perhaps, they invested, but they first had to accumulate capital.

The first step towards wealth is to open a Savings Account. The second is to save regularly.

Come in and ask about our simple, convenient Savings Accounts. Interest compounded every six months soon amounts up.

Before he was 14 was a cook's boy in a Canadian lumber camp. At 21 he was a lumber foreman and saved money on wages of $10 a month. From his first investment in a boat in which to transport lumber cheaply his shipping venture grew to a fleet. Today —a lumberman, shipowner and merchant because early he began to save his money.

Once get the saving habit and unless you are an exeception to the rule you will find that saving money is as easy as spending money.

THE HORSE SHOW AND RACES

In ideal weather Chesterville races last week proved the attraction for the largest crowd ever gathered on the Driving Park for such an occasion. The four races carded were well filled, the contests in each case rousing the enthusiasm of the crowd to a high pitch.

The 2.40 on Thursday afternoon was changed to a classified with seven starters which Lady Rex captured in four heats with Brook King and Frisky Hal, second and third.

Lady Rex	1	1	2	1
Brook King	2	3	1	2
Frisky Hal	3	2	4	3
Frank Rex	4	4	3	5
Minnie Hal	7	6	5	4
Moscow	5	5	6	6
Victory Bond	6	7		dr

In the 2.20 four starters provided a race in every heat with a bunch of thrills thrown in for good measure Spier Olcott won the first heat but in the second at the first turn a serious mix-up occurred where it is claimed that Tropic Dawn's wheel struck Spier Olcott causing the latter to fall. Martha B. piled into the mix-up and Mercy Hunter not being able to clear it added still more confusion when she landed in the heap. Luckily there was not very serious injury, the worst being to Red Wilson, Mercy Hunter's driver, who had his neck hurt and face considerably bruised. Martha B was given the heat and Tropic Dawn placed last for interference with Mercy Hunter second and Spier Olcott third.

Spier Olcott	1	3	1	1
Martha B	4	1	3	4
Mercy Hunter	3	2	2	2
Tropic Dawn	2	4	4	3

The 2.30 on Friday was one of the best races of the meet, even with only three contestants, and had it not been for the sensational driving of Lady Rex by Jack Cameron would not have been confined to three heats.

Lady Rex	1	1	1
Mercy Hunter	2	2	3
Frisky Hal	3	3	2

The Free-for-all was the big race, and with three entries was carried into five heats before Ellis Pointer, the Chesterville horse, gained the decision. The first heat was tought out between Ellis Pointer and Spier Olcott, with the former the victor. In the second Daisy C. stepped up and led Spier Olcott home and in the third these two produced a hair raising finish, six inches only being the margin by which Spier Olcott got the decision. Seen from different angles one half the crowd in the stand thought Daisy C. had again come home first while the other section could see nothing but Spier Olcott as the winner, which was the decision of the Judges at the wire. With the third heat Spier Olcott had shot his bolt, practically leaving Daisy C. and Ellis Pointer to fight it out for first and second money which the latter landed much to the satisfaction of the large crowd. The fastest heat of the race was caught by parties in the stand at 2.11¼, but no times were announced from the Judges stand.

Ellis Pointer	1	3	3	1	1
Daisy C.	3	1	2	2	2
Spier Olcott	2	2	1	3	3

Mr. J. C. Foy of Perth acted as starter while Messrs. S. Ryan of Montreal and J. Flynn of Prescott were Judges.

New High School Staff

Mr. E. E. Ball, who resigned the principalship of Chesterville High School is in town this week packing up preparatory to moving to Collingwood, where he has accepted a position in the Collegiate. Mr. Ball's departure left the Board under the necessity of procuring an entirely new staff of teachers, and in this they have been particularly successful in securing an experienced principal and two assistants. Mr. Lincoln Might, late principal of Parkhill school a specialist in science and agriculture is the new principal, with Miss Ethel Eaton of Carlisle, late of Burks Falls school, specialist in mathematics as first assistant and Miss Elizabeth McNamara of Peterboro, specialist in art as second assistant. The Board feels that this staff is unexcelled in the county and that Chesterville school is presenting advantages which should appeal to every parent sending a pupil to a high school at the beginning of the term.

Consult Mr. A. E. Bolster, if your case can be helped by the use of lenses, he can do it for you. Free test—day or night every day—at W. G. Bolster's Drug Chesterville.

BETTER COOLING

(FARMERS CUT THIS OUT.)

At this time of the year when the sun is hot, and the flow of the milk is high, remember that more water is required to cool milk to the desired temperature. The more milk you have the more water is required. Don't try to cool eight cans in water that will only cool four cans. Change the water often. Milk cooled and not kept cool will sour.

Her Husband—I was just going to say if you don't speed up a little those clothes will be out of style by the time you get 'em on.

When My Baby Came

WHEN they put that warm, fragrant little bundle into my arms and told me he was perfect, I cried. I was so happy.

Of course, I was going to nurse him. And so I did, for two months. But he didn't gain weight as fast as he should.

Then the doctor told me not to worry, and that often mothers couldn't nurse their babies.

"The nearest thing to mother's milk I know of," he said, "is Nestlé's Milk Food.

"Of course, he has to have milk in some form—and Nestlé's is pure milk only made easier to digest because the tough curds are broken up. To that they add just the right amount of sugar and cereal, so you only add water to Nestlé's, boil it, and your baby has all the nourishment he needs in the safest form."

Then, when he began to gain weight—when the dimples began to show on his knees and his plump little elbows—I knew what happiness really was!

The Nestlé Company sent me free a Mother's Book on how to take care of baby, and enough of the Food for twelve feedings.

If you fill out and send the coupon below, I know they will be glad to help you as they helped me, and as they have been helping mothers all over the world for fifty years.

Nestlé's is pure milk in powder form that is already modified and does not require the further addition of milk. Always pure and safe, always uniform, and free from the dangers of home modification, Nestlé's has stood the test of three generations and has today the largest sale of any baby food in the world.

FREE! Enough Nestlé's for 12 feedings. Send the coupon!

Juggling With Figures

The press is finding quite a little sensational news material in the proceedings of the Cost of Living Committee.

Somebody made 100 per cent. last year!

Somebody else made 400 per cent. on his original capital investment!

These things sound interesting—almost appalling. The bare headlines are likely to arouse our righteous wrath.

As the whole story is read, however the absurdity of these scare heads is revealed.

No doubt some cases of profiteering are being uncovered. But at the same time, many injustices are likely to be done to business houses which are operating in a fair, legitimate manner.

One type of business house to come in for much undue criticism is that which has grown from small beginnings.

A firm is shown to have started with a small capital investment. It has made money. That money is kept in the business. Thus the capital is increased out of the company's earnings until it is ten times as great as the original investment. The present earnings of the company are, we will say, 10 per cent. on its capital now; say our newspaper friends, the firm is making 100 per cent, on the capital invested.

By this process of reasoning, what rate of profit was the late Mr. Woolworth making on the huge chain of stores which resulted from an original investment of $50?

A business man, commenting on this peculiar attitude of the press, remarked that in his case, mathematical knowledge had not arrived at any formula for computing his rate of profit. His business started in 1881 $30,000 in debt. It is today capitalized at $900,000, all of which is paid up. But no outside capital has ever been invested in the business.

We must not let the bogey of profiteering frighten us to the point where we frown on sound business expansions —"The Teller."

"She has such an interesting face. She looks like a woman who has lived and suffered."

"I fancy she has. For years she has managed to squeeze a number four foot into a number two shoe."

"I take it that you follow agricultural pursuits," said the minister to a man of his congregation.

'What made you think that?" asked the man.

"My wife told me she saw you the other day turning over the soil."

"Oh, I was hunting for worms. I went fishing that day."

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. Reception at Nation Valley

On Monday evening last, Aug. 11th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amaziah Froats the people of that district met to welcome home Nursing Sister Ella Rae and four returned men, namely—Cpl. John Barkley, Pte. Chas. Grey, Pte. Ernest Beckett and Pte. Winterfield Froats from overseas.

The lawn and verendah were prettily decorated with the Allies Flags and Chinese lanters. A splendid programme of instrumental duets and solos and opening chorus by the young girls also short talks by Mr. G. C. Lacey and Rev. Mr. Mullin of Chesterville which were enjoyed by everyone present.

Mr. John A. Bogart acted as chairman, giving an opening address. At the close of the programme Miss Rae was asked to come to the front while the following address was read by Mrs. John A. Munroe and at the proper moment Mr. Lacey presented Miss Rae with a purse to which Miss Rae made a splendid and fitting reply. A moment after Misses Jean and Evangeline Darling sang "The Rose of No Man's land."

To Nursing Sister E. Rae.

Dear Miss Rae;—

We are met here to night to welcome home not only the young men of our community who have recently returned from across the sea but also to welcome you the only Nursing Sister from our neighbourhood.

We your friends are much pleased to welcome you to our midst again. We are glad that you have been spared along with your two brothers to return to your mother and your many friends here. Your life in our community has always declared that "the only way to have friends is to be a friend" and your many friends here have never ceased to be anxious about your welfare and safety during the past two years, which you have spent across the sea engaged in the most noble work in which womankind can ever engage.

We feel that the names of all the nursing sisters like that of the beloved Florence Nightingale will never be forgotten. On account of the noble deeds which you have done during the awful war, we feel that words cannot express what kindly feelings we entertain for you because of your loyalty and unselfishness shown those who fought the many battles for our country. We feel that yours wasa great sacrifice and because of what you have done, we whose duty was to stay at home and do our "bit" in our own land, will feel that our simple acts and sacrifices were very small, when compared to those which you have made. We feel that we shall always remember you and to be remembered for the good you have done and for the sacrifices you have made is no small remuneration in this life. Your influence, cannot, like your material goods, be removed, it abideth yea liveth forever and shall work as a lever long after you have gone to that home above and now we would ask you to accept this small gift from us, not for its intrinsic worth but as just a very slight token of the respect we bear you, we would further add that you have the best wishes of hosts of friends here for health, happiness and prosperity for the future. Signed on behalf of your many friends here:—Mabel Rae, Grace Darling, Lottie Merkley, Helen Jamieson.

During Miss Rae's welcome the returned men stood at ease and at the close Mr. Norman Moodie stepped forward and read the following address to them, with a purse presented to each by Mr. Lacey. The boys made suitable replies which was a hard task under the circumstances but they acquitted themselves like heroes and soldiers of the greatest and grandest and most God fearing Empire in all the world.

To the Returned Men

Dear Boys—

We your friends and neighbors are gathered together in this home this evening in the first place, to welcome you back to our midst after your several terms of service for your King and Country across the sea and to rejoice with your parents and the other members of the several families who have hailed you home with greatest joy. We wish you to know that we are all pleased to meet you once more and all the more pleased to know that some of you have been spared from an enduring pain and suffering, such as many of our Canadian soldiers have experienced on the field of battle and to those who unfortunately were wounded, we would say that we are pleased to know that you have recovered entirely and that you have been spared to return to your homes in fine health.

Secondly, we wish to express to you our appreciation of your noble efforts and willingness to serve your country and to fight the battles for those of us whose duty was to stay behind and serve in other spheres, in our own country, so blest as not to be the scene of awful strife and destructive warfare.

We feel that much honour is due those of you who voluntarily offered your services to serve your King as best you could, and to those of you who so willingly left your homes and your many duties there. When the great call for more men came from across the sea—when it was necessary to place everything but the winning of the great war in the back ground and when the hard task of finishing the great struggle was left to you young men, who did not complain when leaving your homes when you were doing your utmost to help with the increased food production and other things then so necessary to carry on the war. We would say that quite as much honour is due you, you may well be proud of the fact that throughout the future years of your life you can think of your names as being listed on the roll of honor among those who so nobly fought for the most worthy cause that ever men were called upon to fight in the history of the world, viz—to crush the evils which an absolute and despotic monarch has heaped upon the world and to defend the weaker countries when they were not able to defend themselves, and now that the awful struggle is ended you can rejoice and say "I have done my duty," Now we would ask you to accept these little gifts not for their intrinsic worth but as only slight tokens of our appreciation of the valued services you have rendered for us all.

We wish further to assure you that you have the best wishes of a host of friends here for every future prosperity in whatever sphere you wish further to serve, and may God keep you in strength, health and happiness throughout the future.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends.— Mrs. Peter Darling, Mrs. Enos. Munro, Mrs. G. A. Merkley.

Immediately after the addresses refreshments of ice cream and cake were served and an ample heap of mixed nuts and bon bons donated by the host.

The evening closed with a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Froats and our National Anthem.

Ottawa Exhibition to be Best Ever

If anyone class of the community has earned a holiday it is the farmers—the men and women who have been doing their utmost to produce food not only for the people at home, but also for the splendid men of the Allies who made victory possible. During the war many of them did not feel that they should take a vacation, but this year things are different. The danger is over, the time of anxiety is past, and the men on the land may rightly feel that they have richly earned a vacation. Anticipating this feeling on the part of the farmers the management of the Ottawa Exhibition—to be held Sept. 6-15—are putting on special features and attractions which will make the fair of more interest than ever to those interested in any branch of agriculture. In this matter the merchants of Ottawa are enthusiastically backing up the exhibition directors in their efforts. Plans have been already made for a big shopping week. At some time each year various merchants offer special bargains and inducements. This year the merchants by mutual consent, are making the special bargains available for exhibition visitors and are offering them a chance to make their visit to the city profitable as well as pleasant.

For the holiday entertainment the exhibition directors this year have prepared a programme of attractions that far excells all previous years. For the show in front of the grandstand there will be horse races, the best of vaudeville offerings including many New York Hippodrome features, big comedy acts, sensational feats, balloon ascensions, airplane stunts and a general all-round programme of the highest order. In the evenings, in place of the horse races, there will be a big spectacular fireworks display, including the "Raid on Zeebrugge". The midway will be the best ever assembled in Ottawa. It will contain a hundred and one things to attract and divert. Coney Island, New York, has been visited and some of the best features there have been secured for the Ottawa fair, including Capt Sorcho and his submarine show, Dreamland Show of Freaks from Coney Island, Eden Musee, Edwards' Wild Animal Show, Diving Girls, Plantation Pastimes, Follies, Broadway Cabaret, One Ring Circus, Metz side show, "Over the Falls," and other attractions. The riding devices will include the Frolic, one of the latest devices, Tango Swings, airplane carousals, the whip, Ferris wheel, merry-go-rounds, etc.

The educational aspect of the exhibition has not been overlooked. The $25,000 cash prizes given for live stock and the splendid premium list for the products of the field and garden will ensure the best exhibits in various departments.

Then too there will be the Government's official collection of war trophies, the pure food show, auto show, baby show, dog show, poultry and rabbits, horticultural and agricultural displays, domestic science and manual training displays from the public schools, Indian schools exhibits, egg-laying contests, cheese, honey and dairy exhibits, women's and fancy work, and scores of other similar attractions.

For this year special arrangements have been made for the comfort and conveniences of visitors. Many seats will be placed around the band stands where people may rest and enjoy the music. The facilities for meals at reasonable cost have been provided so that visitors may come early and stay late, thus making a whole day at the fair for one admission. Make up your mind now that you are entitled to a good holiday and that you are going to take it during the week of the Ottawa Exhibition. The attractions you will see, the educational benefits you will derive and the good time which is assured you will leave no room for regret.

Shinn-Flat

Lightning Rods Prevent Lightning Losses

WHEN your buildings are protected with Shinn-Flat Lightning Rods, you may be absolutely sure that they're safe from Lightning damage Shinn-Flat Lightning Rods are the only kind made in the form of a flat cable—which has 36% more conducting surface for electricity than the same amount of material made into a round cable.

Lightning Can't Strike if Shinn Gets There First!

Shinn-Flat prevents the accumulation of electricity in the building, by permitting it to gradually pass from the heavily charged ground and building into the atmosphere above.

Bonded to Protect

A large Bonding Company issues a Surety Bond to the owner of every building we protect, guaranteeing that Lightning will not damage.

W. H. DAY

Professor of Physics at the Ontario Agricultural College for many years, and Canada's recognized authority on Lightning Protection is now Manager of the Shinn Mfg. Co., and assists in training Shinn Dealers thus insuring correct installation.

Chesterville Bowlers' Good Games.

Chesterville lawn bowlers have something to be proud of in the achievements of the rink sent to attend the Annual Lawn Bowling Tournament held in Ottawa last week in which there were fifty-two rinks entered, and by the appearance of the returns they certainly were right up with the best in the game in this section and the rinks from Ottawa and Montreal. High class was shown in particular against W. Brown's rink from Westmount which has won more Dominion trophies than any other rink in the Eastern Bowlers' Association. The first day the Montreal rink trimmed Chesterville by one point, revenge for which Chesterville secured next day when they put Mr. Brown and his rink out by one point. Chesterville has passed from the joke class at the tournaments and commands the respet of all the bowlers and all that is needed is a few more interested in the game and plenty of practice and all should be much encouraged when a rink can go in and fight fifty-two battles and remain in the play within one game of the finals, in the play for the cup, which they lost by only one point.

The following clippings are from an Ottawa paper's comment on the games:—

"One of the features of the tournament has been the splendid play of the Chesterville rink, W. B. Lawson, W. O. Dixon, Dr. S. H. Hutt and F. E. Price, skip. They went three rounds in the Dominion match on Monday, defeating Addison of Civil Service and Hurd of Ottawas before being put out by Willie Brown of Westmount by one shot on an extra end of a hard-fought game. Chesterville got its revenge out of the Westmount rink, however, in the next match, the Eastern, when they eliminated Brown by one shot."

"Chesterville plays in the semi-finals of the Association match today and the fans are picking them to be right out in front at the finish of the competition. Skip Price has a great squad of good fellows on his rink and their wins yesterday were popular with the bowlers."

"The semi-finals in the Association Competition were also played last night. In one half W. A. Warne, of the Ottawas, was pitted against F. E. Price of Chesterville this resulting in a win for Warne by the narrow margin of one shot. They were on even terms when they began the last and Warne scored one, thus eliminating Chesterville after the visitors had made a very plucky fight in each of the big draws."

W. Lyon McKenzie King Chosen Leader of the Liberal Party

Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King is leader of the Liberal party in Canada. He was selected by the National Liberal Convention after a close contest, to succeed the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier as chieftain of the party forces, and to replace D. D. McKenzie, of North Cape Breton and Victoria, who, during the last session of Parliament, temporarily headed the Opposition in the House of Commons. Three ballots were necessary before a decision was reached, as between Mr. King, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. George P. Graham, and D. D. McKenzie. In the final one Mr. King was the victor by 38 votes over Hon. W S. Fielding, the only other candidate then remaining in the field.

The fight in its ultimate stage was a fight between a standpat Laurier Liberal and a Liberal who had upheld the policy of compulsory military service, and had leaned toward the Union Government in the House of Commons during the two sessions held since the general election of 1917. Victory rested with the man who had followed Sir Wilfrid Laurier unswervingly of opposing the resort to conscription to reinforce the Canadian army in France and Flanders.

William Lyon Mackenzie King, into whose hands has been entrusted the mantle of leadership laid aside by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, is a direct descendant upon the maternal side of William Lyon Mackenzie, a fact that has been a potent influence in winning him recoguition and preferment in the Liberal party. He was Canada's first Minister of Labor, back of his appointment were years of definite preparation for just such a post. He began his training in the University of Toronto, where he won the Blake Scholarship in Arts and Law in 1893. Later, he took a course in political economy at Chicago in 1896-7, and at Harvard from 1879 to 1900. His deep interest in labor questions led to his appointment in 1900 as Deputy-Minister of Labor, and during the eight years he served in that capacity he acted as conciliator in two score of important industrial strikes. He was called into the Cabinet of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1909, and for two years acted as Minister of Labor. In the reciprocity election of 1911 he went down to defeat with many of his colleagues, and retired from public life from the time. Some years ago he accepted service with the Rockefeller Foundation in connection with social investigations, resigning to return to Canada at the time of the general election in 1917. Hon. Mr. King, confident that the country would refuse conscription, ran as an anti-conscriptionist Laurier-Liberal in North York and was defeated.

The new leader is 44 years old, of Scotch ancestry and a Presbyterian.

Chauffeur's Examinations.

"It's all a joke—any boob can drive a car and people continue to wonder why we have so many accidents," said an automobile repair man to "The Insurance Field." "Look at a poor old stationary engineer, for instance. He has to go through a long period of apprenticeship and then take an examination before they'll give him a license to operate an engine that's screwed to the floor. It's impossible for him to run over anybody or into anything. But they'll let anyone loose on the streets with an automobile engine, even a man who's so near-sighted he can't tell the difference between a tricycle and a fire truck fifty feet in front of his nose. They ought to make an automobile driver stand a stiff examination, I tell you."—The Insurance Field.

What Character is Worth.

A curious situation has developed in the United States as a result of the War. The other nations, be u the were for so long a time in the War, as compa ed with the United States, have suffered more financially than the great Republic, for war expenditures drain a nation o money as it does of men. The United States, y reason of its briefer period in the War and the enormous amount of war material it manufactured for the other nations at high prices before itself becoming a militant, and because of the immense food supplies which it was able to furnish them has become a "credit nation." It has lent so profusely to the other nations that their credits have become more or less exhausted.

The consequent curious situation is that the United States has a superfluity of goods for sale, and the business of the other nations has insufficient credit on which to buy goods they so much need.

The question has come up, therefore, amongst the the American financiers. How far are we justified in selling goods where the chief guarantee is the purchaser's character. America's greatest private banker takes the ground "that he would rather trust men of character." Sound bankers of every country will confirm the wisdom of this opinion. They have learned its truth through wide daily experience. If a man, young or older, is known in a community to be the right sort of man, that knowledge has its money value to him in his business with the banks.

This is a fact worth the taking note of by young men with little or no capital. They want to go into business, or to increase their business. The banks have the money, but these young men have little or no security to offer, except just themselves. It is here that character is the all in all. Spotless intergity is a young man's highest asset in entering on, or expanding in, business life.

Located Booze Joint

Tweed Advocate—A moonshining outfit for the manufacture of squirrell whiskey was seized at Flinton last week by the Inspector and local Sleuths. It appears that the still has been in operation for sometime and that the operators, two strangers in town, had been doing a land office business, but were so slick about it that it took several months to arouse suspicion in their direction. The building occupied by the distillers was rented by them on the pretense of opening a butcher shop and we understand as a blind they did manage to market a couple of veal calves. The raid resulted in the finding of a large quantity of whiskey and a considerable quantity of mesh ready to brew. The quality of the liquor was said to be number one and the men in charge were evidently experienced at the buis. As soon as the raid started the would-be butcher shop proprietors took to the highway and were soon followed by the officials in an auto, but by a bad turn of fortune the car took to the ditch before it had proceeded far and the chase had to be abandoned. No doubt they will now look for other fields in which to operate.

DANGER LURKS IN EVERY ONE OF US

We Are As Full of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Trusted in His Friends

William Howard Taft was recalling the early days of his political career. "Some of the people you predict the most success for somehow seem to drop out of the running," he said, and continued; "There was one chap I was sure was going to rise away to the top, but I don't know what ever did happen to him He wanted to be a county commissioner, but a lot of his friends were afraid he wouldn't stand a chance because he was inclined to be a little sporty, drank once in a while and played poker. But in spite of lack of encouragement Ed went to the convention. When it got round to the nomination of county commissioners, he sprang to his feet and before anyone hardly realized what was happening he said: "Gentlemen, I know it isn't customary for a candidate to speak in his own behalf, but to-day I want to break that rule. I understand, Mr. Chairman, that they say I play poker. All I've got to say is that if every man in Ohio who plays poker will vote for me, I'll be elected by a record majority." And he was, too.

The Old Gardener Says

Many of the garden flowers can be kept blooming much longer than usual by being cut back sharply when the first show of blossoms has passed. This is true even of sweet peas. If they have begun to turn yellow cut them back to within two feet of the ground and work some pulverized sheep manure or bone meal into the soil a few inches away. This will give the plants a new lease of life and they soon will be blossoming freely again. Use the same method with your Bachelor Buttons if you want to have flowers all summer. All too often Sweet Alyssum, when used as a border, looks bad after a short time. Shear off the tops and soon the plants will cover themselves again with a sheet of snow white bloom.

Queer Things

Did you ever see—
A sword fish or a stone fence?
A horse fiddle or a pig iron?
A bottle fly or a bed spring?
A tomato row or a pot roast?
A star fish or ink stand?
A fire fly or a rat tail file?
A clock spring or a cow slip?
A band box or a cat nip?
A barn dance or a chimney sweep?
And did you ever hear—
The shoe blow its horn?
A hare bell ring or
A cough drop,
A birch bark,
A pillow tick, or a
Tree top hum?
And did you ever, ever see
A board walk or a mill race?
Butter fly and the dish mop?
A hill farm and a hill mop its brow
A tree spin its top or a bee chew its gum?
Corn prick up its ears or a potato wipe its eyes?
A clock wring its hands or a table cross its legs?
A man pull up the lake or a cat take up a tree?
A girl drop her eyes, or the night fall?
An apple turn over or a clock wash its face?
Did you ever eat any door jam when the door was a jar?
Or see a peanut stand or a stone step?

Will Try to Get More for Cheese

Previous to the sale on the Cornwal Cheese Board Friday Secretary McLeo gave a verbal report of the big dairy men's meeting, held in Ottawa on Tues day and Wednesday. He said the dele gates received a most cordial greeting from Sir Robert Borden and members of the Cabinet, and had been assured that the Government would do all in its pow er to secure a better price for cheese from the British Ministry of Food. Mr. Mc Leod also informed the Board that the Canadian Cheese Export Committee had decided that no buyer on Country Boards would be allowed to do business for any one but the house he represented. The notification received was couched in the following language;

"All exporting houses are to be held responsible for the action of their buyers in the country, and buyers are to be advis ed that they must confine their purchases entirely to the exporting house they re present or discontinue operations for that house".

In other words no business is to be done for anyone else than the exporting house. Every exporter is to be held re sponsible for the action of his buyers.

Seven buyers were present Friday, and all offerings were 25 cents less freight and cartage in Montreal.

Fanning-mill Selection

The true function of the fanning-mill is to remove weed seeds, light grain and any coarse material that may be present For this work it is indispensable; no seed should be sown which has not been thor oughly cleaned and graded. There are, however, certain limitations to this method of selection which are not always appreciated by the grain grower.

All impurities cannot be removed by the use of the fanning-mill as is some times claimed. It is true that a large part of them will be removed, but there are always kernels of wheat, oats and barley that cannot be separated. A short, plump pin oat cannot be removed from wheat nor can a long, plump kernel of wheat be removed from oats. Barley and oats present a very difficult problem and the per cent of impurities remaining is much larger.

Fanning-mill selection maintains the yield of a pure variety, but does not in crease it as many suppose. The constant increase in yield that some have obtain ed from year to year has been due to the fact that originally their seed was im pure, and the larger seeds happening to be the most productive, were selected to the exclusion of the smaller and less pro lific grains. Also, by the accidental mix ture of a few large seeds of another sort, it can be easily understood how the type of variety may be altered if fanning-mill selection alone is practised. However, this possibility can be avoided, and should not deter any person from the use of the fanning-mill. Unless the grain is thoroughly selected by this method, seeds that are low in vitality will be sown, the result being either a defective germination or else weak plants that are handicapped throughout the season by a poor start. Grain from such plants is in ferior in size and plumpness and reduces the quality and yield of the general crop.

To grow pure grain of strong vitality, the fanning-mill must be used in con junction with the seed plot. In this way fanning-mill selection reaches its highest point of efficieney. All plants that are different in type can be removed before harvesting and this leaves to the fanning mill only the work of rejection of the weed seeds and inferior grain. This com bination ensures pure grain and maxi mum production.

At the Complaint Desk

An Interview That Had a Curious Sequel.

By KATE AUSTIN.

For the third time Marian Macrea rose from the uncomfortable settee that faced the complaint desk and ap proached the young woman seated be hind the wide window, who was talk ing to the checker.

"Of course it gave her a good chance to let us all know what nice white arms she has, but my mother 'd see me in my grave before she'd let me go to a ball in any such costume as that."

"Will you kindly ascertain whether they have found my parcel yet?" inter rupted Marian, tapping the desk light ly with the tips of her gloved fingers.

The young person flung her an impa tient look.

"What parcel?"

"The one about which I inquired at intervals for the past half hour."

"What's your name, and what's wrong with the bundle?" inquired the girl in bored tones.

"You took my name twice and tele phoned the delivery department, and I am waiting for their report. Why do you not call them again and see wheth er the parcel has been located?"

"Say, do you think I want to get the delivery boys down on me? If they find it they'll tell me quick enough"—

"If"— echoed Marian, her delicate face flushing under the girl's cool im pertinence.

"Well, I'll take your name and ad dress and drop you a postal when we find it."

"Indeed, you will not. I want it now," said Marian, and she walked away from the window with head high and nostrils quivering.

"Wonder if she's going down into the subcellar to get it," giggled the young person to the checker. "It is funny how some swells think they can come in here and run this store. I guess she doesn't know we've got a system here."

Then while the girl continued her ac connt of the fancy dress ball Marian crossed to the main aisle, found a floor walker and asked to be directed to the superintendent of employees. Five minu utes later she was ushered into the presence of a smooth faced, square shouldered chap who looked as if he had received his training on the foot ball gridiron rather than as stock boy in a big department store.

Richard Burnside had risen from the lowest ranks in the store where he was now superintendent, studying practical business methods by day and physical culture and English branches at the Y. M. C. A. rooms by night.

Now he stood beside his desk, Ma rian Macrea's card bent between his fingers. He looked the slender, grace ful figure over with the keen eye of a man accustomed to seeking good mate rial for his staff and decided that she must be a reporter or magazine writer hunting information about the condi tion of the working girl. He had met many such since he had become super intendent.

"What can we do for you, Miss Ma crea?" he inquired, offering her a seat.

"I merely called to ask you whether your complaint department had been organized for the convenience of your customers or to browbeat them so ef fectually that they will endure almost any inconvenience rather than make complaint?"

Richard Burnside sat down rather suddenly. This was not just what he had expected.

Very deliberately, but convincingly, Marian told her story, from the indif ference of the clerk who had first wait ed on her to the impertinence of the young woman at the complaint desk. When she had finished Burnside lean ed forward, his hands clasped between his knees, his face boyish no longer, but seamed deeply with lines of anx iety.

"Miss Macrea, you have been treated outrageously, and so have many of our customers, and I, the superintendent of this store, cannot find a remedy, be cause I cannot handle women employ ees. I can handle the boys in this line because I know boys, but the indiffer ent, the insolent woman employee is beyond me."

He glanced up to meet Marian's sym pathetic glance. Impulsively he told her of his humble beginning, the pride with which he had accepted his new work and his many vexations and tri als with incompetent help.

"I have had five girls at that com plaint desk, each less satisfactory than the one before her. If I could just find a girl with judgment, discretion and good manners—but you can't ex pect to find such a girl for $12 a week, can you?"

His big gray eyes were lifted to Marian's brown ones.

She laughed a queer, chuckling littl laugh that seemed to fairly bubble up from her slender white throat.

"Do you think I would fill the bill I would like to earn $12 a week."

"You?" gasped Burnside, his glance traveling from her neat boots to her trim tailored hat.

"Why, yes When I came in here I never thought of such a thing, though I have been wanting a position of some sort. I believe I would know whether a woman had a just com plaint or was trying to cheat the firm and I have always been complimented on my tact. I know I have patience, because I have been—companion to an invalid for several years. If you would consider the proposition I can furnish references."

"I don't give a fig for references You're engaged. Can you begin Mon day? I'll put that girl back where she belongs—in the mail order depart ment."

And that was how Marian Macrea walked out of the Barnes Bros.' store with a job in her pocket and an odd little smile playing around her lips.

Three months passed. Burnside was no longer worried about the conduct of the complaint department. In fact he argued that the reason he dropped in to talk complaints over with its pre siding head was merely as a relief after other worries. It was a pleasure to see a department run so smoothly And all over the big store the same atmosphere was beginning to assert itself. There were weekly talks to the women clerks, at which reports from floorwalkers and complaining custom ers were offered; little lectures on the smoothing out of tangles and the ad justment of differences were given. The sales girls took a new view of selling goods and handling customers and none knew that these talks were all planned out in a charming little up town apartment, where the superin tendent and the head of the complaint department gravely discussed store problems while the invalid mother for got her own pains in listening to the new interests of her daughter.

Then came the great day when James Barnes, Sr., returned from his trip around the world. Richard Burn side had no need to give account of his stewardship. Others had done so in letters that encircled the globe, and so one bright spring morning the head of the house sat in his superintendent's office saying the sort of things that warm an employee's heart when there came a tap at the door, and a girl with soft brown hair and eyes entered the office, her hands filled with report slips.

"Mr. Barnes, I want you to know Miss Macrea, the very capable"—

But Mr. Barnes, quite apoplectic, was sparring for wind.

"Marian, what in the world! If you wanted something to do why didn't you go in for settlement work?"

Richard Burnside felt the little office spinning around as Marian crossed the room and patted the apoplectic fore head soothingly with her slender white hand.

"Dear Uncle Jimmy, do not have a stroke. With the head of the firm globe trotting and everything mother and I had in the world in this store, I felt I had a right to come in here and see that our small investment was safe. You couldn't expect Jimmy or Howard to do it when one has a new motor and the other a new yacht."

Ten minutes later Marian laid her reports on Burnside's desk and turned to leave. He held the door open for her, and as she flung him a cheery smile she stopped suddenly. His face looked old. His eyes were heavy, as if they had watched something very love ly and dear pass out of his life. She paused irresolutely and glanced over her shoulder. Mr. Barnes, Sr., was just passing through the opposite door way into the mail order department.

"You will be up tonight, as usual? I want to talk over the question of a new rest room for the girls."

Richard Burnside's face went a shade paler, and he spoke in a voice he had never used to her before.

"Certainly, if you wish it."

"Of course I wish it." She tried to speak gayly, but her voice trembled "Don't you understand? I want ev erything to go on just as it has before Oh, why do you make it so hard for me?" His face was still stern, but she persisted. "I—I want you to tell me— what—what I would not let you say the other night—because now I know it was all for myself—don't you under stand?"

She passed out like a flash and drew the door shut behind her. Richard Burnside leaned heavily against it breathing hard, but the light of youth had come back to his eyes.
