HON. EARL ROWE, NEW CONSERVATIVE LEADER

A 42-year-old Simcoe county farmer and member of the House of Commons, Hon. W. Earl Rowe yesterday was elected as new leader of the Ontario Conservative party.

Member of the Federal Parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe, Mr. Rowe won the party leadership on the second ballot by defeating Lt. Col. George A. Drew of Guelph by 1,005 to 660. The Ontario legislature members in the race dropped out after the first ballot. In the voting, A. H. Acres, Carleton received 47 votes; Arthur Ellis, South Ottawa, had 10; Leopold Macaulay, York South, obtained 99 and Wilfrid Heighington, Toronto-St.David, received 70. W. J. Stewart, former mayor of Toronto, had 157 votes and also withdrew.

New Chieftain Cheered

Jubilant followers swarmed through corridors of the Royal York Hotel, convention headquarters, cheering the successor to George S. Henry who relinquished the leadership yesterday after holding in five years. They also cheered Col. Drew who had moved the election be unanimous and hailed him as "next attorney-general."

Mr. Rowe leads a party, pledged to repeal of legislation passed last session, giving separate schools a larger share of corporation taxes. After the convention passed a resolution establishing this policy, Mr. Rowe and the other leadership contenders promised in their pre-election adresses to carry out the policy.

Nearly 2,000 delegates jammed into the convention hall long before the time of voting. Ballot boxes were carried between the rows of chairs by young ladies and a squad of scrutineers for each candidate was on hand in the counting room waiting for the yellow slips.

Numerous speeches were delivered in the interval between voting and reporting on the result. Mr. Rowe led on the first ballot with 782, Col. Drew had 480.

Former Mayor W. J. Stewart of Toronto who placed third with 157 votes, suddenly announced his withdrawal.

Congratulated by Drew

"I wish to be the first to have the privilege of congratulating Hon. Earl Rowe," said Col. Drew. "It's been a good fight all the way through and we know we have had a good convention."

Mr. Rowe said he assumed the leadership with a keen sense of responsibility and promised to give his best to the party.

Earlier, Mr. Rowe told the convention in his pre-election address: "If you give me that leadership today and God spares me health in the days that are ahead, I shall give you victory.

"By your confidence and cooperation we shall then drive from Queen's Park a political circus troupe such as never before disgraced the public service in Ontario."

He stressed the need of laying broad and progressive plans for development of new enterprises and broadening the basis of taxation rather than levying new taxes.

Col. Kidd's Report

Col. T. A. Kidd, M.L.A., Kingston presented the report of the resolutions committee.

The first condemned the present government for "dismissing highly trained officials of the fish and game department" and for dissipating wild life. It promised a policy of preservation under a Conservative program.

Another resolution pledged the party to study the entire question of municipalities. One aim would be to achieve an equitable basis of distribution of social services and unemployment relief.

A resolution dealing with hydro condemned "political interference' of the government with hydro and promised a hydro commission on which municipalities would be represented. It also attacked the short term of new power contracts with Quebec companies.

A resolution concerning the liquor question pledged the party to a policy of control and attacked the government on present administration of the act.

Affairs of northern development should be given a distinctive place in the government policy, said another resolution. It condemned powers given the minister of lands and forests by legislation at the last session respecting reallocation of timber limits.

During the 11 years in which he has represented Dufferin-Simcoe in the House of Commons, Hon. W. Earl Rowe, has been an aggressive speaker and a strong force in support of Conservative policies. He became minister without portfolio in R. B. Bennett's cabinet Aug. 30, 1935.

Mr. Rowe has been primarily interested in the farmer and livestock man. A farmer himself, he is at home in Parliament when discussing problems affecting agriculture. He has been particularly active in debate when matter of peculiar interest to the Ontario agriculturist were before the House.

The new leader is 42 years old. He was born May 13, 1894, son of William Rowe and Isabella Watson Rowe and was educated in public and high schools of Simcoe county and at a business college in Toronto.

He was a member of the municipal council in 1918 and reeve of Gwillimbury township from 1919 to 1923. He was elected to the Ontario legislature in the 1923 election. He resigned his legislative seat to contest the 1925 federal election and was successful. He was re-elected in 1926 and 1930 and became minister without portfolio in the Bennett cabinet Aug. 30. 1935. At the general elections in October 1935, he was again elected. He is a member of the United Church.

JURY PLACES NO BLAME

At the inquest yesterday afternoon in the town hall, Iroquois, into the death of Mahlon Ault, aged 26 years a farmer living on the second concession in Matilda township who was killed when the car in which he was drving struck a freight train, the jury returned the following verdict: "It is the opinion of the jury that the train crew are not guilty of negligence and it is the further opinion of the jury that while the driver of the car (Basil Ault) may have been careless, he was not criminally responsible."

Coroner E. H. Marcellus of Iroquois officiated at the inquest and was assisted by County Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness o fCornwall.

The accident in which Mahlon Ault met his death occurred at the railway crossing north of the linen mills at Iroquois, at the west end of that town. Other occupants of the car who were unhurt, were Basil Ault, driver; his brother, Donald Ault and Wellington Keck, who received leg injuries.

Signals Were Sounded

Ira Gardiner, Brockville, engineer was the first witness to be called and during the evidence stated that he did not see the accident at all and that the train was travelling about 25 to 35 miles per hour, preparatory to slowing for the slow order still in effect at the Victoria street crossing. His evidence further showed that the bell of the tran was ringing and the whistle was blowing.

Fletcher Shoove, brakeman, stated that he saw the car driving into the and of the first car and hit by the second car of the train. Lucien Prefontaine of Brockville, Ont., fireman, substantiated the engineer's statements. Provincial Constable Frank Rose, of Morrisburg, was called and gave evidence that he found the body about fifty feet down the track between the rails. He gave further evidence of the condition of the car and train.

Basil Ault, driver of the car, said that Mahlon Ault was sitting beside him, and that they had gone to Cardinal to tow back a buggy belonging to the deceased. On their return they came down the second concession to avoid the traffic on No. 2 Highway, and at the Carmen road Mahlon Ault expressed the desire to go to Iroquois, so they left the buggy at the corner where they could pick it up on their return. He drove south towards the track, and before hitting the train swerved to the east. Mahlon Ault was sitting on the side of the car that hit the train.

Donald Ault, who was sitting in the rear of the automobile with Wellington Keck, said he did not see or hear the train. Keck's evidence was to the same effect.

Members of the jury were Edward Strader, foreman; R. J. Ellis, E. A. McInnis, W. E. Fitzsimmons, H. B. Everett, M. Hyslop, J. W. Marcellus, H. W. Hutchinson, William C. Stone, William Barclay, M. M. Davis and Colin H. Cameron.

Dr. Robertson's Eloquence

Poe himself, with all his descriptive powers and his skill in literature could not have written more eloquently than does Dr. Robertson in concluding his narrative in the following words:

"Kind words tuffed me down to a stretcher. Army blankets were then wrapped around me.

"I was picked up, cameras still clicking.

"I was put in an ambulance.

"I was taken to the temporary hospital at the mining office.

"I was taken out of the ambulance, carried into the office, and — there was my wife."

What a climax. No wonder the British purchasers of publication rights cabled "Magnificent!" after they had read the opening instalments of the narrative. Truly a magnificent story from a magnificent man. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Physical Fitness

A prominent New York doctor says that careful living during the first thirty years of existence is the sure safeguard for mental and physical fitness during the balance of the term. This sounds like a body blow for the wild oats propaganda. — Brantford Expositor.

Farm Horses

The automobile has chased the horse off the country roads to a large extent, but it is as essential as ever for the work on the farm. The Provincial Department of Agriculture, therefore does well to encourage the horse-breeding industry in New Brunswick by aiding and assisting the farmers in breeding the most desirable type of animal for farm work. — Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

No May Day Rows

Do Canadians ever stop to think what a haven of peace their country is? On May 1st all over the world there were militant demonstrations: Red armies marching in Moscow, strikers marching in France, Nazis parading in Germany, Communists demonstrating in Belgium and Spain. Here in Canada, May Day was just another day, with all the promise of Spring, with men at work peacefully in factories and on farms and in offices, and children happy in school. Truly we are a cozy corner of the world. — Ottawa Journal.

Hogs As Prize Awards

Seven pedigreed hogs are being offered as prize awards to farmers by a lye manufacturer. Letters of not over 300 words must be accompanied by a portion of the product label and directed to one of any four subjects — the use of the lye, why it has been found the best, how money may be saved by using it, or why one insists on this particular brand. In farm paper advertising announcing the contest, pedigreeds of the prize animals are given. One reason for giving live swine as awards is because that in recent years. one of the most important uses for lye has been in connection with swine. It is utilized to ensure sanitation about hog houses and feeding yards and as a hog mange dip. —Marketing, Toronto.

Fruit Belt Blossom Time

The Niagara Peninsula, long famed as a fruit district, is attracting thousands of tourists, and their number is increasing as the days go by. The Summer weather of the past few days has been largely responsible. The buds on the cherry, plum and pear trees have burst suddenly into bloom by reason of the intense heat until, between Hamilton and the Niagara River, the whole countryside is glorious with blossoms. The peach blossoms are not yet out, but the display from other varieties of fruit trees is such as to entrance.
Toronto Mail and Empire.

Charlie Chaplin

Chaplin is the Dickens of the silver screen. His pictures are a combination of comedy, pathos and propaganda that irresistibly remind us of [illegible] great novelist reformer. Many w[illegible] disappointed with Modern Times. E[illegible]pecting a Pickwick Papers, they d[illegible] find a Great Expectations, Jack Ben[illegible]ny and Phil Baker on the air, and the Marx Brothers and Harold Lloyd on the screen, portray life as a joke, but Chaplin sees the thread of tragedy in its tapestry as well as the thread of comedy. — Hamilton Spectator.

Clay Roads

A report of road-building activities in Australia will be of interest to Western Canada. It is said that Australia is embarking on a road-building program in which ordinary clay will be used for permanent highway construction. The newspaper story says that a machine has been invented that can be used to bake ordinary clay so hard that it will have wearing strength of iron. The road is built of clay and then the machine, with a forcing-down draught of hot air and chemicals, bakes the clay, turning it into a hard-surfaced highway. Road-building is one of the problems of Western Canada, and if the Australians have something of the nature described, the matter should be looked into. — Regina Leader-Post.

A Good Turn

Four hundred boys in Winnipeg have been provided with white Sam Browne belts and will pilot children to forty schools. This will give the boys experience and will protect the other children. Careless motorists will be less likely to cause accidents. Winnipeg is doing a good turn. — The Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

The Ho-Hum Season

For all who have work to perform, and should be about the performance of the task, this is the oddly enchanted season of ho-hum. The sunshine is welcome enough, delightfully so, but there are properties in it that lead the mind to wander, cause you to yawn when you are not sleepy, and that withdraw the visible from your gaze.

It is a time when people looking out of windows gaze far and beyond anything that is to be seen. They are pleasantly wearied, for no cause whatever, and yet have a restless inner urging to take the long high-road that curves to, and disappears over the horizon. That is the way it must be with them in the sorcerous season of ho-hum. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

$100 Worth Free

When the Government of Canada agreed in the trade treaty with the United States to submit to Parliament a proposal providing for a greater measure of reciprocity in duty-free purchases made by legitimate tourists, there were fears that such action might prove unduly prejudicial to border merchants. It will be seen however, that proper safeguards have been introduced and there is little danger of such merchants being large losers under the provision.

SPORT IDOLS

Spring Fever

Baseball! Baseball! It sure is one of the greatest games to watch or play. The old gent above will back me up on that I betcha.

This is manager Jimmy Dykes' 19th year as a major ball player . . he's probably good for another ten, too.

We think we get crowds in America to ball games, etc., well maybe we do, but in England as many as 134,000 fans have paid to see a soccer game.

Toro[illegible]ed-headed hero [illegible]wl, says in two or [illegible]me he wants to quit [illegible]nd and round" business and [illegible]me to Vancouver to run for [illegible]ember of parliament. Torchy thinks and says quite outspokenly that this is his idea of a man's job.

Well folks, it sure looks like an ideal day for trout . . . I won't say more now . . . tell you all about it later.

A Record Overboard

Jean Dupuy, American born Paris publisher, pictured as he set a new world record for outboards on the Seine River by doing 119 kilometers an hour.

Indeed, in view of the fact that each year many more Americans visit Canada as tourists than Canadians visit the United States in the same category, the balance of these duty-free purchases must remain heavily in favor of Canada. This country now profits to the extent of many thousands of dollars from the duty-free purchases of United States tourists. There is every reason to believe that this privilege would have been withdrawn by Washington if Canada had not taken steps to reciprocate it. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

In One Man's Life

Chief David of the Songhees Indians, who died, remembered well the founding of Fort Victoria in 1843. He saw Sir James Douglas land here with his little band of Hudson's Bay men and build their village on the waterfront of the Songhees Reserve. He saw this village grow into a town, and big ships, driven by strange engines, come into the harbor. Finally the day came when the white man's village had spread so far that the Indians had to move away with compensation in white man's money.

All this in one man's lifetime — the wilderness turned into this modern city which travellers call one of the beauty spots of the world, the Indian hunting grounds changed into a garden! — Victoria Times.

THE EMPIRE

Brawn vs Brain

We do not want to produce a nation of muscular bullies without any brains, but today there are probably too many brainy people without adequate brawn. Both in school and after we should aim at the development of the whole man (women seem to be doing rather better)—body, mind and spirit. Only the countries that are fit in every sense will survive. World conditions are themselves a challenge we cannot, ignore. Our best defence—for peace and war — is a fit population. The world grows progressively unsafe for weaklings, whether in business, sport or pleasure. The fitter we are the safer we are from internal unrest and outside peril. — The Manchester Sunday Chronicle.

Juvenile Crime

Twenty-one used to be the age limit at Borstal schools. It is to be raised to twenty-three, this being now made possible by the happy accident that the schools have not been full for some time. This means that the young men of a wider age range, who would otherwise have gone to prisons of the usual kind, will instead get the Borstal treatment. Slowly the whole treatment of convicted persons is changing in this country, and no one is able to point to any evidence that the change is not successful. — London Daily Herald.

They Get Married

—How young men and women are working to get on married relief since the city council recently modified its time qualification rule for newly married relief applicants, was well demonstrated in the report of the relief committee at a recent council meeting. No less than three clauses in the report dealt with these cases, observes the Calgary Herald.

One case was that of a couple married in February. The woman was not previously receiving relief, but since her marriage had been put on the single girl quota. The pair asked for married couple relief, which was refused.

Another couple married in March, when the man was out of work and the woman had a job at $20 a month with board, will have their application considered. Last year the man earned $600. Since the first of 1936 his earnings had amounted to only $30.

The third case was that of a girl of 17 years belonging to a family on relief. She married in February and wanted married relief. She will not get it, but will be continued as a member of her family, getting her share of the familp quota allowed to her parents.

Movie Hates And Hobbies

Stars Proverbially Touchy—Back Slapping Is Taboo

Aside from hobbies and favorite amusements, the movie stars all have their pet hates — little things that ruffle the tempers of the gayest as well as the most serious movie folk.

Often these touchy points go undiscovered for a long time, while others are so evident that they cause the stars in question many an uncomfortable "ribbing".

One of the strangest of all pet hates is that of Herbert Marshall, who loathes phonetic spelling like "nite" for night and "laff" for laugh. "Shoppe" also causes him extreme pain, as well it might.

Marshall confessed to Gertrude Michael on the "Forgotten Faces" set at Paramount the other day that this antipathy is probably an offshoot of his desire for formality. He dislikes what might be called sloppiness, for want of a better word, and he regards phonetic spelling as one branch of this failing.

Miss Michael's own pet hate is a back-slapper. Of course, willowy blondes don't have their backs slapped very often, but Gertrude dislikes even seeing the men around her get slapped. She thinks back-slapping arises from a spirit of false camaraderie, and that back slappers are essentially phoney.

George Raft can't stand having his hair mussed, either on the screen or off. It riles him. On the other hand, Fred MacMurray revealed on "The Princess Comes Across" set that he doesn't like being told to comb his thick, curly locks. His hair is what might be termed "studied disarray," and he likes it that way.

Mae West's "free-wheeling" walk is part of her stock-in-trade for the screen, but the "Klondike Annie" star walks that way all the time. If anyone on her set lets out an off-stage laugh about the walk, Mae's remarks soon let him know his folly.

Jan Kiepura's touchiness extends to anyone who sneezes. A sneeze means somebody has a cold, and Kiepura hasn't had a cold in years. Furthermore, he doesn't intend to catch one, and when he hears a sneeze he ducks for the nearest exit. He is serious about this, but he can also laugh about it. Once he called Alexander Hall, director of "Give Us This Night," on the telephone. Al had a cold.

"Al, do you think I catch your cold talking on the phone to you?"

Modern Portia

Mrs. Lieff First Woman to Argue Case Before Commons Committee

Ottawa, — A new Portia came before Parliament recently, setting a precedent as the first of her sex to become an accredited agent before a House of Commons committee

Mrs. A. Lieff, the modern Portia, unable, because of regulations against women, to practice in her native province, Quebec, pleaded the cause of Mrs Ruth Rudnikoff Stotland whose husband, Hyman, a Montrealer, sought a divorce on statutory grounds

Mrs Lieff, wife of an Ottawa lawyer, graduated in 1928 from McGill Law School, Montreal, took a post-graduate course at Dalhousie University and was admitted to the Nova Scotia bar in 1929. She was married in September that year and went to work in her husband's office.

Mrs. Lieff said she was called by her client several days ago and that she found herself not at all nervous before the committee. "In fact," she declared, "I rather enjoyed the experience as soon as I got the swing of it." She was "rather thrilled," she added, that in the first big case she handled herself she had as opponent Peter Bercovitc of Montrea, considered one of the foremost members of the Quebec Bar.

Working Women Should Organize Into Unions

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told the National Women's Trade Union League convention recently that working women should organize into trade unions, just as men do.

"I know a great many women don't join unions," she said. "I know the reasons they give, but I have never quite understood them. I think they are unintelligent reasons."

"The last depression has been a depression of plenty. About the only thing of which there was a shortage was restraint."—Jesse H. Jones.

Farm Problems

Conducted by PROFESSOR HENRY G. BELL
with the co-operation of the various departments of Ontario Agricultural College.

The business of farming is yearly becoming more and more dependent upon facts that have been gathered regarding livestock and livestock management, crop production, soil management, disease and insect control and business organization of the farming industry. Individual problems involving one or more of these, and many other phases of agriculture, engage the attention of Ontario farmers from day to day.

Through this column farmers may secure the latest information pertaining to their difficulties. To introduce this service Professor Bell has prepared the following typical problems to indicate the information which should be given in order that a satisfactory answer can be made.

If answer is desired by letter enclose stamped and addressed envelope for reply. Address all inquiries to Professor Henry G. Bell, Room 421, 73 Adelaide St. W., Toronto, Ont.

Question:—"In constructing a farm workshop, having concrete walls, since action of frost in these parts does much damage to walls, I was wondering if the following structure would work:- A wall to extend a foot below the grade and to reach 8 ft. in height. The wall is to be banked above the grade to a height of 4 ft., and have layers of pebbles about a foot below the surface of the bank to supply the drainage and to keep the water from getting down to the base of the wall.

I would be pleased to have any advice you have to offer or a new idea which has been successfully tried.

I would like to know if such a wall would be sufficiently thick at 6 inches for the first 6 feet of its height and tapering down to 4 inches at the top. The wall would not have a greater height that 8 feet. It would also be reinforced with iron rods."

Answer:—I would advise you to build a wall with footings at the base. As to dimensions for a wall 8 ft. in in height, the wall should be 8 inches wide for the first 6 ft. of height and then taper to 6 in. at the top. The dimensions of the footings or base should be 13 in. wide in front of the wall and 2 ft. 3" at the back. The footing should be 12" deep.

The drainage can be taken care of by a 4" tile at the base of the footings. To have a bank of one foot of pebbles to within 8 in. of the top of the bank, will greatly assist drainage.

National Health to Be Furthered by Volunteer Group

Commons and Senate Unite in Non-Partisan Endeavor to Mobilize Public Opinion

Ottawa, — A Private Volunteer committee organized among members of the Senate and House of Commons expressed the intention of asking the Government to restore the grant of $20.000 previously given the Health League, a voluntary group operating in many large cities and seeking to mobolize public opinion in furtherance of good health measures.

This committee, which includes Dr. J. P. Howden (Lib., St. Boniface) chairman, Dr. James J. McCann (Lib, Renfrew South) David Spence (Cons., Toronto, Parkdale), Agnes Macphail (U.F.O.-Lab., Grey-Bruce), J. S. Woodsworth (C.C.F., Winnipeg North Centre), and Senator Cairine Wilson, will request the Department of National Health be strengthened and act as a coordinating body for the health departments of the various provinces

An effort for furtherance of resolutions passed by the Cabinet of Health when it was established last summer will also be made by the health committee. The Cabinet of Health was an outcome of the interprovincial conference of ministers and deputy ministers of health.

The committee believes a central federal organization should have power to make decisions affecting the whole country on matters it considers of national importance, for example in the case of healthy scourges such as tuberculosis and in epidemics.

COULD NOT SLEEP FOR NEURITIS

How She Found Relief

This woman suffered so much from neuritis that she found it difficult to get a good night's sleep. Other sufferers will be interested in her letter:—

"Some years ago I had a stubborn attack of neuritis in both arms. At night I turned from side to side without sleep. Then my right hand got so stiff I couldn't bend it. Next my left foot got so bad I got out of bed with difficulty. So I had to have the doctor and give up work. I was afraid I couldn't get relief. He told me quite casually to take a little salts every morning. I tried a small dose of Kruschen Salts regularly, and the remarkable difference it made in a few weeks was almost unbelievable. Needless to say I have continued it ever since." — (Miss) E.W.B.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid—frequently the cause of rheumatic pains. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist Nature to expel the dissolved acid from the system.

Control of Arms Urged by Britain

LONDON — The British Government has presented a four-point proposal for uniform international regulation of the arms traffic to the Royal Arms Commission.

It embraced a Foreign Office memorandum described as the result of 14 years of experience in international discussions.

The government, it was stated, considered an achievement of great value could be obtained if the principal arms manufacturing countries would agree to a convention accepting the folowing principles:

1. Strict national control of arms manufacture.
2. Publicity for arms produced, exported and imported.
3. Establishment of an international supervisory organ.
4. Responsibility of an international supervisory organ.
4. Responsibility to that organ for the accuracy of returns on manufacture and trade.

The memorandum also stated the government favored conclusion of an international agreement regarding arms manufacture and trade.

The Royal Commission has been investigating private arms manufacture.

How Great Britain Balances Budgets

While the British press is busy grumbling about the new British budget, the American press, by and large, expresses admiration for John Bull's budget-balancing feats and is inclined to ask how on earth he does it, observes the Montreal Star. The New York Times pursues the subject far enough to show that the United States takes its taxation principally from the corporations and the "big fellows," whereas Britain taxes the "man in the street." It produces a table of considerable interest showing how much income tax is paid in each country, after deductions, by a typical taxpayer, in this case a married man, whose income is wholly "earned," and who has to support two children.

Net Income	(Personal Income Tax) U.S.A.	Britain.
2,000	0	7
5,000	48	484
10,000	343	1,553
100,000	31,702	46,336
1,000,000	678,346	632,357

It will be seen at once that the Briton in the lower and middle brackets pays far more than his American equivalent. It is only when the very highest brackets are reached that the American approaches and, in the case of the million-a-year man, outstrips the Briton as an income-tax milch cow. In other words, this burden is far more widely distributed in Great Britain.

It should be added, of course, that the Federal income tax does not tell anything like the entire story in American, since various States also mulct the citizen in income taxes, and since the United States provides a plethora of nuisance taxes—such as the New York City sales tax—much as we do in Canada. But the general picture remains tolerably true, with the Americans "soaking the rich" more and more.

Death Takes No Holiday

Observes the Manchester Sunday Chronicle: "The holidays mean more cars on the road, more people walking around. And that means more accidents. Here is an appeal to drivers. Heed it. Remember death never takes a holiday with the rest of the world."

In Berlin a noisy automobile is confiscated by the police and fitted with a muffler at the owner's expense.

HAVE YOU HEARD

One seldom hears of a woman cashier running away with her employer's money, says an exchange. But when she does she generally takes the boss along with her.

Old Friend—I'm glad to find you as you are. Your great wealth hasn't changed you.

Candid Millionaire—Well, it has changed me in one thing. I'm now "eccentric" where I used to be impolite, and "deliberately witty" where I used to be rude.

The young man grasped the hand rail of the last car and swung himself up to the rear platform, gasping for breath. It was plain that he was quite winded. A bronzed, heavy-set, middle-aged man eyed him with disfavor. "When I was your age, young man," he remarked, "I could sprint down the station walk and catch a train without puffing like that."

"Yes, but I—missed this one—at the—last station," panted the new arrival.

King Solomon, he of the thousand wives, was called to the telephone. It was his physician on the wire.

Doctor (enthusiastically)—I have big news for you!

King Solomon—What is it?

Doctor (excitedly)—Thus far today, you are the father of 16 children.

King Solomon—Just a moment. I'll connect you with the bookkeeping department.

Man—You seem to have a bad cold, old man. What are you doing for it?

Friend—Today I'm doing what Jone's told me to do. It's Smith's day tomorrow, and the next is Anderson's. If I'm not better by Monday, and if I'm still alive, I will try your remedy. Will you please write it out for me on this memo pad?

Most of us are hard up or very poor these days, and we are looking eagerly forward to the time when our pocketbooks will be full of crisp bills again. And when that time comes we will begin to complain because times are not better and the money is not rolling in faster. No matter how much we may succeed in accumulating, we are never satisfied.

Rastus Jackson and his wife had separated, and a neighbor was interested when she saw Rastus slip into the yard and disappear into their house, Deciding to investigate, the neighbor hurried to the back door and met Rastus emerging with a washtub tightly clasped in his arms and dragging a washboard and clothes wringer after him.

Neighbor—Whut yo' kwine to do wid dem, nigguh?

Rastus (very emphatic) — Pawn 'em. Dat woman ain't gwine to vamp no other nigguh wid mah weddin' presents!

Every cross-word puzzle fan is sitting up nights trying to invent something that will take its place and make as much money.

Daughter (as the radio ground out the last notes of the latest thing in jazz)—Did you ever hear anything so perfectly wonderful?

Father—No, I can't say I have, although I once heard a collision between a truck load of empty milk cans and a freight car filled with live ducks and geese.

DID THEY KILL HIM?

"While building a small structure in his back yard last week, Tracey Mariner had the misfortune to step into a hole, wrenching his back badly. Knowing the need of the family, several neighbors chipped in and completed the job."

Mrs. Youngbride (telephoning grocer)—I want you to send me two pounds of beefsteak.

Grocer—What kind would you like.

Mrs. Youngbride—I'd like it rare, please.

Calgary Housing Conditions Bad

CALGARY.—The health department could declare "no end of places as being unfit for human habitation," but its hands are tied, as people cannot be turned out into the streets, Dr. W. H. Hill, City Health Officer, reported to Mayor Andrew Davison in a statement concerning investigations into Calgary's housing conditions.

To Start Drilling Gateway Property

Arrangements have been completed for drilling at the Gateway Patricia property adjoining Central Patricia it was announced by the Mines Development Department of H. R. Bain and Company who are underwriting the property. Boyle Brothers, of Port Arthur, who will conduct the drilling will take the drill into the property as soon as aeroplane transportation to the field is resumed. This is expected almost immediately. Diamond drilling follows a complete land survey of the claims which had already been arranged.

Gateway Patricia, 1080 acres in area, is the property immediately adjoining Central Patricia on the west. With definite values reported by previous owners who conducted a small, exploratory drilling campaign on a few of the northern claims, additional interest attaches to the present drilling owing to the fact that about a month ago it was reported in the Northern Miner that Central Patricia, in an exploratory campaign had intersected $14 ore, 1,200 feet nearer the Gateway boundary. In addition Gateway is on the line of strike of Central Patricia's main ore bodies for a distance of one mile.

In addition to the drilling campaign a complete electrical survey of the property will be undertaken.

To finance development 700,000 shares of Gateway are being currently offered to the public. Remaining in the treasury for future development are 1,500,000 shares of half the original capital of 3,000,000 shares.

Save the Wild Flowers

Every Spring nature lovers are saddened by the wanton destruction of wild flowers that add a touch of color to the woods observes the Kitchener Record. The violets, Spring beauties and trilliums that once graced hill and dale in profusion are becoming scarcer from year to year. It is a pity to see these wild flowers gradually disappearing. If at all possible they should be preserved for posterity.

Probably it is too much to ask people to refrain from picking the blooms, but they should at least comply with the request not to uproot them.

Had What Can't Be Acquired

When Elie Spivak of Toronto was judging violin classes at the Stratford Musical Festival he listened to the playing of a young man from London and gave him 92 marks, which is running high, comments the Peterborough Examiner. One must indeed show a merit to go over the 90 mark at the Stratford festival. In making his comment Mr. Spivak said in part: "The boy had that amazing quality of greatness — he has a quality that cannot be acquired."

That is interesting; a "quality that cannot be acquired." It means that no amount of hard work which another less gifted person might put on the work would produce the quality that this contestant from London possesses. We believe Mr. Spivak would agree with the claim that a teacher could not impart that quality to a student; the teacher might instruct in methods of technique; might perfect the style, but back of it all would be that strange thing, "a quality which cannot be acquired. That view runs at cross purposes to the claim that "genius is actually the capacity for hard work." According to the finding of Elie Spivak, himself a musician of rare accomplishment, two people could devote the same energy and attention to the study of the violin, and one would outstrip the other because he might have that "quality which cannot be acquired." We are inclined to believe that view is correct and can be substantiated by experience and example in many lines of effort.

Such a contest as that at Stratford gives opportunity to bring talent to the surface; it can there be submitted to those who are competent to recognize it and pass judgment upon it. To the one who has "it" in any particular line of musical effort the judges can state with a certain degree of assurance that there is a future for the competitor who has that quality or talent "which cannot be acquired." The development of that talent will ultimately give us great musicians in our own right. And the truth is we need them.

Prairie Problems

Immigration is not a welcome word in these days of unemployment, but I believe the time is not far distant when a selective form of immigration will be both desirable and possible. I have in mind particularly those fitted and willing to engage in mixed farming on small holdings on a basis of sef-sustainment rather than for export. True, large areas in the West are not suited for mixed farming, and the local market there is definitely limited, but wheat will continue for years to be the major item of agricultural production on the Prairies. Fortunately, the world outlook for wheat is gradually brightening. Some progress is being made in regaining for Canadian wheat the goodwill of millers and the wheat trade generally in Great Britain. But present and prospective prices are such as to call for the minimum of production costs and the highest possible grades. Only in this way may our wheat farmers compete successfully in world markets. Meanwhile, Canada as a whole must seek to obtain, by trade agreements and otherwise, markets that have been lost in Great Britain, Continental Europe and the Orient. I think we have learned the lesson that our business is to sell it at world prices rather than to hold it for speculation or with a view to forcing higher prices.—John Imrie in Canadian Business (Montreal).

In the course of his address the king thus referred to the international importance of Scouting: "The Scout Movement in its best and widest form is international, and that in these days is a thing of very great importance. I would like you all to remember when you have grown up, when your Scouting days are behind you and you are working in some form ol employment this international aspect, because this country will always have to take a leading part in the affairs of the world."

New Seed Potato Certified WARBA

The new Warba potato is without a doubt, the finest origination of a century in the early potato class. It has been tried in many parts of United States and Canada and all results have shown that it is fully two weeks ahead and more productive than the well known early variety Irish Cobbler. Its shape is roundish skin and flesh white, eyes about the same depth as those of the Cobbler variety, but pinkish in color. It cooks well, is delicious and keeps very well. Our trial at Macdonald College last Summer, has convinced us that it will soon be the leading early variety of potato for our northern climate. While our stock lasts:

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Late Sown Vegetables

Fine quality vegetables may be produced from late seeding. Swede turnips, carrots and beets may be sown as late as the middle of June and still have time to develop to a desirable size for winter use. The land should be well prepared and rich in plant food. Should dry conditions prevail the seed should be sown on the level rather on ridges.

Field Crop Situation

Over 13,000,000 acres of land in Ontario are used for the production of field crops, which have a market value of more than $140,000,000 annually. The maintenance of high crop production is closely associated with livestock-raising and other branches of farming. Most of the grain and root crops for the last five year period are below the acreage level of a few years ago. Some of the land is in grass. Consideration should be given to the breaking-up of more old meadow lands on which the crop has become thin and weedy. Higher per acre yields, greater purity and better quality in crops harvested would help to increase returns. Seed-cleaning plants have been established within the reach of many farmers and full advantage should be taken of every opportunity to clean and grade the seed which will be used this year.

Raspberry Plantations

Where manure is not applied to raspberry plantations until the spring, a cover crop is also advisable to prevent too late growth of cane. As the advent of mosaic disease is making it advisable to renew plantations more frequently, the grower who is unable to get large quantities of manure will find that shorter rotation lends itself more to the cover crop and mulch system, for each new plantation may be preceeded for a season by a crop of clover or alsike which, when turned over, will leave the soil in excellent condition for the new plantation. This method of renewal, say every six years, with proper green manuring, cover crop or mulch, and adequate quantities of commercial fertilizers, will render it possible for respberry growing to take its place beside orcharding, in being more or less independent of the failing and increasingly expensive supply of manure.

Cattle Exports to U.S.

Canada sold the United States approximately 103,000 head of cattle during 1935, the largest number in many years, and in addition moved across the border approximately 21,000 head of calves, the largest number of that class since 1930. There were also approximately 6,000,000 lbs. of beef sold to the United States in 1935, as against approximately 330,000 pounds in 1934.

Exports to the United States since the 1st of January, 1936, up to mid-March have been more moderate than during the corresponding period of 1935 and have been made at somewhat lower price levels. This situation is reflected in th domestic price in Canada. Late in February, order-bought cattle were going forward to Great Britain in moderate volume, with bookings to the extent of between 2,500 and 3,000 head extended to the middle of April. The outcome of these shipments will not necessarily determine during the rest of the year.

An upward reaction to prices is expected as the year advances. The situation as it existed during the first quarter of 1936 was therefore complex and rather hard to analyse. Undoubtedly, some further increase in cattle marketings in Canada over the very substantial increase which occurred in 1935 is anticipated.

Weed Seeds on Farms

The seeds of most annual weeds when embedded in the soil retain their vitality for several years. The seeds of the mustard family and others, when ploughed down after ripening, seldom germinate the following year and not until they are brought near the surface by further cultivation. Light surface cultivation during the early autumn serves to stimulate germination in freshly ripening weed seeds. Thus, a considerable proportion of them may be destroyed, while, on the other hand, by deep ploughing the difficulty is simply deferred to succeeding years.

The germination of weeds, as well as other seeds, is affected by heat. Many kinds of weed seeds, such as some grasses and mustard will germinate in the late autumn or early spring when the soil is cold. Others, such as buckwheat and lamb's quarters, require a warmer soil, and the seeds of foxtail and purslane continue dormant until stimulated by the heat of summer. Late autumn or early spring cultiva tion is not effective in destroying the seeds of woods that will not germinate unless the soil is warm.

Some of the worst seeds are so prolific in the production of seeds that relatively clean fields may become badly contaminated in two or three years if the weeds are allowed to go to seed. For instance, a single plant of wild mustard, stinkweed, foxtail pigweed, or campion produces from 10,000 to 20,000 seeds; worm-seed mustard about 25,000; shephed's purse about 1,500,000. With such productiveness, soils become quickly infested with weed seeds, although, on account of their inconspicuousness, their presence is not fully realized.

Crops and Markets

"The Ontario Agricultural Outlook Report 1936" is the title of a very interesting booklet summarizing crop prospects for the current year, recently issued by the Department in cooperation with the Ontario Agricultural College. Copies can be secured from the Department or through your local agricultural representative. Brief extracts from the booklet will appear in this column during the next few weeks.

One of the features is a survey of the extent and importance of Ontario agriculture. More than 39 per cent of Ontario's population live on the 192,000 farms. In 1935 Ontario agricultural products were valued at over $300,000,000 The new wealth created through farm output and the increased buying power of this large farm group has an important bearing on the welfare and progress of trade and commerce.

Ontario farmers are favoured and eceive a direct benefit from the local market. Ontario has a population of 3,500,000 which receives nearly 41 per cent of the total income of Canada. It is estimated that 41 per cent of all Canadian sales of food products to consumers are made by Ontario stores. It is important therefore to Ontario producers to cater to the home demand and to place upon the Ontario market the highest quality foodstuffs which are always in keen demand.

Ontario farmers are deeply interested also in wider markets. A surplus of beef cattle, hogs, cheese, butter, fruit, honey, tobacco, poultry and other products must be sold in other provinces and in markets outside of Canada. For instance, of the beef cattle exported to the United States in 1935, Ontario farmers supplied nearly 30 per cent, while nearly 74 per cent of the cheese produced in Canada was made in Ontario factories. In the export of many millions of pounds of bacon and lard to Great Britain, United States and other countries during the past year, Ontario producers have played an important part, since on their farms have been produced nearly 37 per cent of the total hogs raised in Canada.

JOHN SR.: "Well, son, I'm glad you are doing so well with the outfit. You are going through my old experiences of hard but satisfying work. We are happy now to rest."

JOHN JR.: "You deserve to rest after all your years of hard work and I realize I owe all this opportunity to you and mother. I have often heard you say how successful she was with the poultry and dairying end of the business."

JOHN SR.: "Thank you, son, but we don't deserve all the credit. In 1900 when we had only a homestead and preemption, with shack and barn, and had to haul water five miles and drive 20 miles to market, the Bank of Montreal made me the seasonal loans I needed to carry on. In five years we had clear title to the 320 acres and three years later owned 640, with good buildings and equipment. The bank kept on lending for harvesting and feeding, because I carried out my contracts and kept my credit good. You remember, son, we sold out in 1919 for cash, and were able to retire. You were lucky to rent the old place, for it's a good one."

JOHN JR.: "I am lucky, father, and I am trying to live up to your reputation."

FARM BUILDINGS BURNED

Houe and outbuildings on the farm jointly owned by Alexander Beckstead and Fred Beckstead and situated in the 7th concession of Williamsburg township 5½ miles south of Chesterville were totally destroyed by fire shortly after midnight with a loss in the neighborhood of $5,000. Insurance on the property had been cancelled ayear ago.

The blaze broke out in a frame portion of the brick dwelling where a fire had been burning in a brooder stove earlier in the night. Besides the house buildings destroyed included a wood shed, garage, pig pen, two barns 40 by 46 feet, poultry house and drive shed. Mr. Beckstead's car, a pure bred bull, hens and chickens were also lost.

After she had discovered the fire which had gained considerable headway, Mrs. Beckstead ran to a neighbor's home to telephone an alarm. Neighbors succeeded in removing part of the contents of the house and also saved a barn on the form of Frank Todd, which took fire from flying sparks, from destruction. Two of the volunteers, Glen Kerford, of Hallville, and Orrin Wert, of Dunbar, were slightly injured about the hands fighting the blaze.

For a while the home and barns of his brother, Mahlon Beckstead, adjoining were threatened by the fire, but the wind continued to fan the flames away from these buildings and they were saved.

It's A Lucky Family That Gets This Salad

A dignified salad with a dignified name, Manor House Salad, easily made with the fresh vegetables of early summer and combined with jelly, is one which any homemaker can be proud of.

No wonder a salad such as this comes by such dignified a name. And it has a real Canadian note in the words Manor House. One pictures a turreted French Canadian home in the Laurentians or on the St. Lawrence, where meals were events of old world courtesy and pleasure. Manor House Salad is as decorative as its name and also as dependable for its healthfulness and good taste, as any seigneur might demand.

For luncheon, after tennis, before a veranda bridge party, or for evening supper on the lawn, everyone will like Manor House Salad.

It is a salad that combines fresh green vegetables with a cream cheese base and all in an attractive setting of transparent and cool-looking jelly. It is both light and yet nourishing.

Manor House Salad

1 package lemon quick-setting jelly powder, 1 pint warm water, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ cup vinegar, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 2-3 cup cooked cauliflower, 2-3 cup cooked peas, 2-3 cup cooked carrots, sliced.

Dissolve jelly powder in warm water. Add seasonings and vinegar. Chill. When slightly thickened add ½ cup mixture to mayonnaise and beat with rotary egg beater to blend. Turn into ring mold. Chill until firm. Chill remaining jelly powder until slightly thickened. Arrange layer of vegetables in small groups on firm mayonnaise layer. cover with thickened jelly powder and chill. Add another layer of vegetables and cover with thickened jelly powder and chill. Add another layer of vegetables and cover with thickened jelly powder. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Serves 6.

THIS WEEK'S WINNERS

Ham and Beans

Take a chunk of smoked ham. The bone will do if you have sliced of all you can for frying. 2 qts. water, 1 cup beans, 1 small onion, 2 medium sized potatoes (cut fine), parsley, beat the yolks of one egg, add ¼ cup flour, and stir very rapidly with your hand, and add that, if not salty enough from the meat, add salt to taste and add more water if too thick. Grated horse radish is very good to eat with the meat.—Mrs. J. Juergens, R.R No. 4, Mildmay, Ont.

Liver Menu

1 pound liver, 1½ tablespoons bacon fat, 1 cup stock, 1 cup tomato juice, 1½ tablespoons flour, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 small turnip (cubed), 2 carrots (sliced), 1 onion (sliced), 1 bay leaf, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup celery (cubed).

Cut liver into 2-inch squares, roll in bacon fat. Remove from fat, add vegetables and brown slightly. Combine liver, vegetables and seasonings. Pour into casserole, cover and bake in a moderate oven 1½ to 2 hours, uncover during last half hour. If desired, liquid in casserole can be thickened to give a gravy. This recipe makes six servings.—Margaret A. Smith, Port Elgin, Ontario.

Promised Land

Garrett Oppenheim in the New York Times.

"Behold," my guide said. "This is the land you dreamed.
At sunset or in golden aftermaths
Of work well done." Up from that valley streamed,
Grave, hurrying bands, intent on diverse paths
And some were close—so close that I could feel
The wind of their great haste—their faces, masks
Carved with the awful quiet of their zeal,
Their cold eyes luminous with holy tasks,
With tasks that were not mine, whose work would fall
To busier hands than mine would ever be
Eternal sunset like a painted shawl,
Was on that land far as eye could see
And there, remembering vows I had not kept,
I lowered my gaze, and looked toward home, and wept.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON IX. — May 31.
THE LAST SUPPER—Luke 22 : 1-38
Printed Text Luke 22 : 7-23
GOLDEN TEXT—This do in remembrance of me. Luke 22 : 19.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time—Thursday evening, April 6, A.D. 30.

Place—Jerusalem and principally the Upper Room.

"And the day of unleavened bread came, on which the passover must be sacrificed." All leaven was most carefully and scrupulously put away on the afternoon of Thursday, the thirteenth of Nisan. At sunset of that Thursday, the fourteenth of Nisan would begin. It is an amazing fact that, while the passover is still kept by Jewish people throughout the world, no sacrifice is offered. Ask your Jewish friends why no sacrifice is offered.

"And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and make ready for us the passover, that we may eat." On this occasion, Jesus entrusted a most important mission of the two disciples closest to him.

"And they said unto him, Where wilt thou that we make ready?"

"And he said unto them, Behold, when ye are entered into the city, there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water; follow him into the house whereinto he goeth." It would be a very unusual sight in the East, where water is drawn by women, to see a man bearing a pitcher of water, unless he were a slave, or unless we have here a reference to the Jewish custom of the master of a house himself drawing the water with which the unleavened bread was kneaded on Nisan thirteen.

"And ye shall say unto the master of the house, The Teacher saith unto thee." Here is a definite indication that this man was a disciple and follower of the Lord Jesus. "Where is the guest-chamber?" However, there is nothing definite in the New Testament to indicate that all these events took place in the same house. The upper stories of the house, especially the rooms erected on the flat roofs, are the upper rooms of which the New Testament speaks. They were not used as the usual family dwelling-rooms and could be quickly turned into guest-rooms. "Where I shall eat the passover with m disciples?" It is wonderful to behold the love that Christ had for his disciples this last night, in that, rather than being preoccupied with his own approaching death and preparation for it, he longed to have fellowship with those whom he had appointed to be his witnesses, to comfort them, and to instruct them.

"And he will show you a large upper room furnished: there make ready. And they went, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover." No one has ever followed the command of the Lord Jesus but he has found all the circumstances attending his following to be exactly as the Lord indicated, and that the Lord has actually gone before him and made the excution of his commands possible.

"And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the apostles with him. And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer." This is the only feast of the Jews in which Christ is said to have desired to participate. The deep desire was the result of his longing to fulfill his mission on earth, that is, to die for the sins of the world.

"For I say unto you, I shall not eat it, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God." Some have concluded from this verse that Christ did not partake of the passover himself. No one can speak finally on this matter. What is clear is that the Lord was certain of a kingdom yet to come in which he and his disciples would be gathered together (see, especially, Matt. 26 : 29).

"And he received a cup, and when he had given thanks." The Passover was observed among the Jews in the time of our Lord in the following fashion: The company having taken their places, two or three flat cakes or thin biscuits of unleavened bread (Ex. 12 : 18), and four cups of red wine mixed with water, being on the table before the master of the feast—(1) He took one of the cups, called the cup of consecration, and gave thanks, tasted the cup, and passed it round. (2) Water was then brought in, and first the president and then the others washed. (3) The table was then set with the bitter herbs (lettuce, endive, beet, succory, and horehound), the sauce called charoseth (made of dates, raisins, figs, vinegar, etc., pounded and mixed together), and the paschal lamb. (4) After thanksgiving, the president took a portion of the bitter herbs, about the size of an olive, and, dipping it in the sauce, ate it, as did the others. (5) The second cup of wine was filled, and then followed the haggadah or showing forth (1 Cor. 11 : 26). A child or proselyte present asked, What mean ye by this service? (Ex. 12 : 26), and the president answered in prescribed washion at great length. The first part of the Hallel (Ps. 113, 114) was sung, and the second cup was solemnly drunk. (6 The president again washed his hands, and, taking two of the cakes of unleavened bread, broke them, gave thanks, and distributed them to the company, each of whom took a portion, dipped it in the sauce, and if any stranger was present, he was presented with a portion, but had no other share in the meal, a custom which sheds light on Jesus' giving the sop to Judas. (7) The paschal lamb was then eaten. (8) After thanksgiving the third cup, or cup of blessing (1 Cor. 10 : 16), was handed round. (9) Thanks were given for the food received; the fourth cup, the cup of joy, was drunk, the second part of the Hallel (Ps. 115-118) was sung, and the company separated. If you have a truth, if you have a vision, if you have a new way of looking at things, divide it among yourselves, do not keep anything hidden under some secret cover of your own.

"For I say unto you, I shall not drink from henceforth of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come." This is but an amplification of his former word recorded in verse sixteen.

"And he took bread, and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and gave to them, saying." The passover is finished. Our Lord now institutes what we have come to designate as the Lord's Supper. It had no part in the original passover feast. It was entirely new, and belongs distinctly to the Christian church. "This is my body which is given for you." The bread is a symbol and type of the body of Jesus. Note the word given. Christ is God's unspeakable gift to us.

"This do in remebrance of me." The passover itself was a memorial One thing above all else would our Lord have us remember concerning himself—his death.

"And the cup in like manner after supper, saying, This cup is the new covenant in my blood, even that which is poured out for you." This is the second cup mentioned by Luke in this evening event. There is an evident reference here to Ex. 24 : 4-8; Jer. 31 : 31-34.

"But behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table." Judas did not participate in the Lord's Supper. The fact that the hand of Judas was on the table with Christ means that Judas pretended to be the friend of Jesus, when, in his own heart, he knew he was about to betray him.

"For the Son of man indeed goeth, as it hath been determined: but woe unto that man through whom he is betrayed!" This betrayal had been determined, not so much by the chief priests and by Judas, as by God himself (Acts 2 : 23; 4 : 27, 28; Rev. 13 : 8).

And they began to question among themselves, which of them it was that should do this thing." It is amazing that the disciples seemed to have had no idea that it was Judas who was to be guilty of this dastardly deed. Each one, apparently, thought he, himself, could possibly be guilty of such an act, though he had never conceived of it before (Mark 14 : 19).

Ideal for Tennis

Here's something smart for tennis in a halter-back dress. The bodice buttoned up to a little shirt collar does flattering things to your appearance. The skirt adds two jaunty patch pockets.

The removable cape makes this model so useful off the court for spectator sports wear. And it doesn't hide the smart collar of the dress, either.

Almost any fairly firm cottons, linen weaves or tub silks are suitable to carry out this quickly made ensemble.

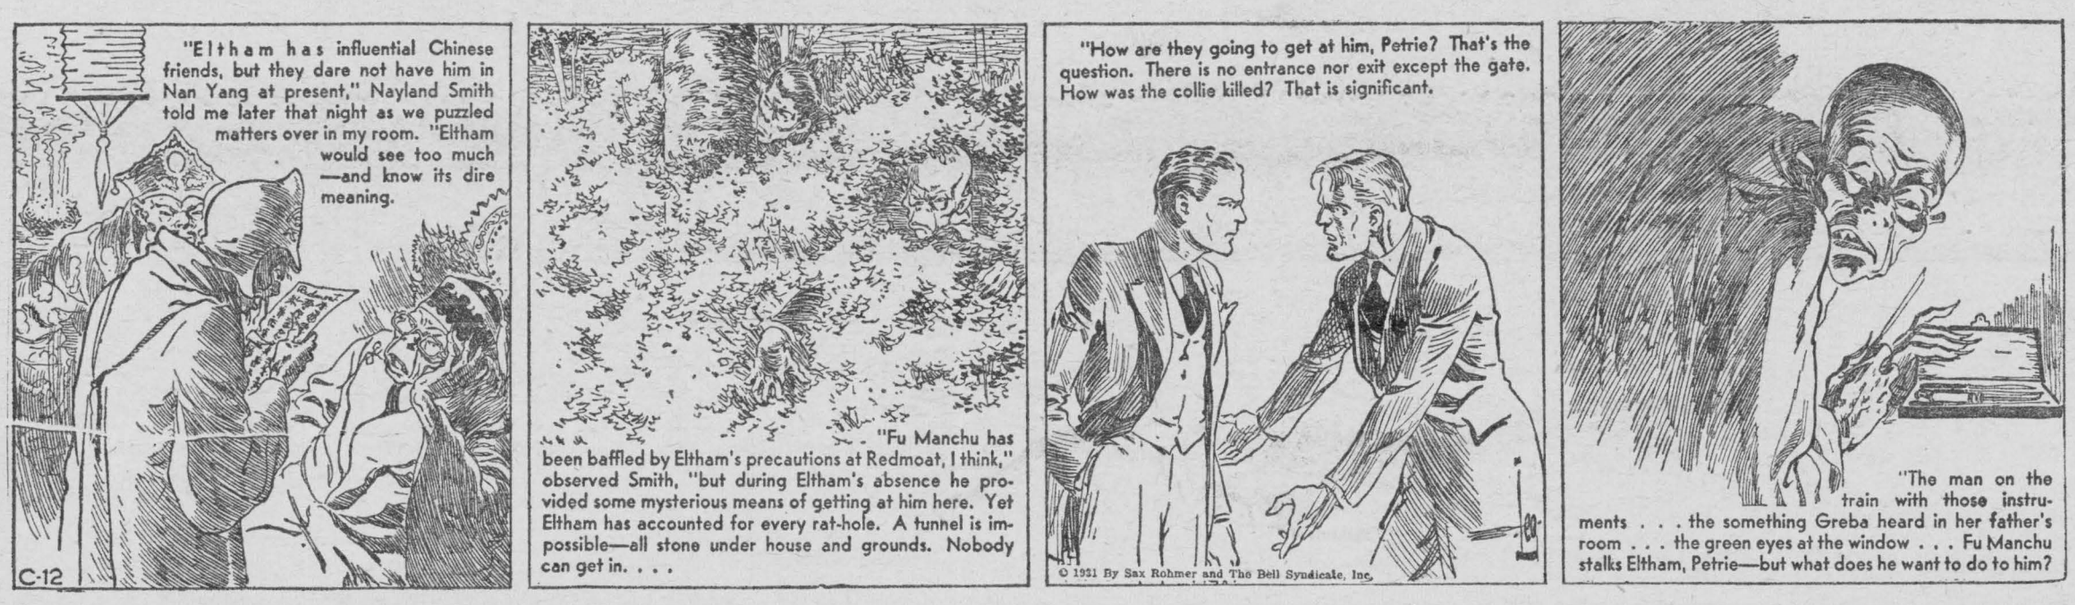

Style No. 3066 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 3⅜ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 1½-inch ribbon for neck bow, for dress and cape.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of pattern wanted. Enclose 15c in stamps or coin (coin preferred); wrap it carefully, and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide Street, Toronto.

Child is Rubber-Stamped With His Home Life

If Parents Are Gracious, Kindly and Tolerant Little Folks Will Possess These Qualities

A lily will sometimes grow in a barnyard and ivy has been found in a castle garden. Such exceptions are true of human beings too. Occasionally we find a child of rare beauty and grace living in the lowest type of home; and its reverse, the tough little hoodlum in the midst of culture and refinement who defies every attempt to make a gentleman of him.

But as a rule the child is rubber-stamped with his home life. Whether parents are conscious of it or not, their children are out in the world telling the complete story of their every word and act.

If parents are gracious and kindly to their neighbors, small Joan or Peter will possess the same earmarks of culture. It happens that culture is not made up of the newest type of candle-sticks or roses in a vase, but of courtesy. We often mistake the symptoms for the real thing. There is nothing to good-breeding if it is not built fundamentally on graciousness to others.

IMITATION FACES EXPOSURE

It is common for parents to think that home life will rub off, if it has been a casual sort of thing, a medley of quarrels, carelessness. and disorder; to take it for granted that Peter will be polished off in college and by mixing with gentlemen; or that Joan can camouflage her innate rudeness by learning to imitate the gentler girls with whom she is thrown.

While such things do have their effect, what is bred in the bone will tell. It is the easiest matter in the world to detect the spurious, and the veneer invariably wears thin when one is off guard or laboring under excitement. Also, unless kindness is first and not second nature, selfishness continues to be the invariable habit that colors every action.

There are other requisites of good breeding, of course, besides courtesy and kindness.

PLEASANT HOME LIFE

Tolerance toward others, sportsmanship, neatness of person, a certain reserve of speech, ability to keep confidences, to endure small upsets without verbal complaint. These and many other traits of like kind are characteristic of the thoroughbred.

If you would have your children grow up to be real gentlemen and ladies, dear mother and father, it would be wise not to allow the daily examples of home life to spoil their chances for the future. It is wise to keep close watch on the ongue, and to control temper. If the child sees his parents in battles of uncontrolled fury, it gives him a sense of right in repeating it himself.

"Show me the child and I will have a portrait of the parents," has been uttered by more than one wise man. Those who hope their offspring may outshine the old folks are doomed to disappointment if they have neglected the first offices of the moulding process. As in everything else, prevention is better than cure.

Diphtheria in Toronto

Comments the Toronto Star: In Toronto, diphtheria's ravages were reduced from 1,022 cases and 64 deaths in 1929 to 22 cases and no deaths at all in 1934. This was a record which, under present circumstances, the city could not expect to duplicate, and in 1935 there were 46 cases and 8 deaths, an insignificant number when compared with the record of 1929 and earlier years, before toxoiding of the city's children was undertaken.

It is the toxoiding of children which has wrought the change. Since 1929, 125,000 have been given this diphtheria-preventing treatment. It is not absolutely certain in every case, but results seem to indicate that the claim made for it—95 per cent. efficiency—is more than justified. Its success is such that no parents can afford to leave their children unprotected when such a simple treatment is available.

The regrettable fact is that many parents have neglected this simple precaution. Of 100,000 Toronto children between 6 and 14, about 35,000 were said recently to be without immunization. And of 50,000 pre-school children 30,000 had not been treated. These 65,000 little folk are the nucleus of a possibly serious epidemic.

Wealthy Young Englishman Weds Beautiful Model

"Buster" Tonge's Bride Was Formerly Felicity Seddon of the London Stage.

Every time rich young Maurice ("Buster") Tonge looks at the L—Z section of the London Telephone Directory he sees on the front cover the face of the girl he was once engaged to marry—Miss Susan Bligh, last year's most beautiful debutante.

He has to look inside to find the number of the girl he married recently, Miss Felicity Seddon, former actress and London's most beautiful mannequin.

They married secretly at Caxton Hall register officer, flew to Majorca for their honeymoon so quickly after the ceremony that the bride had not time to collect her trousseau.

Mr. Tonge, thirty-two years of age, inherited part of $2,000,000 International Tea Company Stores fortune of his Newmarket-land-owner father, Mr. G. A. Tonge, eight years ago.

BROKEN ROMANCE

His engagement to Miss Susan Bligh, niece of the Earl of Darnley, was announced in May last. It was broken off fourteen days later. No reason was given Early this year the romance of Mr. Tonge and Miss Seddon (that is her stage name) began.

She is twenty-four year old Felicity Margaret Seddon Woldblood, daughter of the late Brigadier-General E. H. Wildblood, of the Royal Tank Corps, who died in 1926, shortly after his return from the Waziristan campaign.

To find Miss Seddon's telephone number Mr. Tonge had to use the L—Z half of the London Telephone Directory.

On the cover of this directory since November last has been the colored photograph of Miss Susan Bligh.

The Treasure of Elba

Efforts to salvage the "Treasure of Elba"—a mysterious cargo believed to have been sunk off Elba in the time of Napoleon — are to be made shortly by the Italian salvage ship Artiglio.

This is the vessel that recovered about $5,000,000 worth of gold from the British liner Egypt which sank off Ushant in 1922.

It is generally believed that the treasure consists of valuable works of art taken by Napoleon from Italian museums. The ship conveying them to Marseilles, called the Luce or the Polluce, sank in a storm just off the coast in 1799. A carriage made entirely of gold, and gold ingots valued at $1,000,000 are said to be in the wrecked vessel.

Quebec Province has waterpower resources estimated at 13,000,000 horsepower.

Baby Food

Combinations of Vegetables and Fruits Are Favored

When baby's solid food diet consists of just two or three teaspoonsful of vegetables a day, it's really quite a problem for mothers to get much variety into his meals.

Unfortunately it isn't practical to prepare just a few teaspoons of carrots one day, a few tablespoons of spinach the next. And the result in most homes is that baby gets the same vegetables day after day, or that you are forced to the extravagant practice of throwing away perfectly good foods.

What most mothers haven't realized until recently is that this lack of variety in baby's diet may lead to imperfect nutrition. No single vegetable or fruit contains all the minerals and vitamins that babies need. In view of this fact, the recent introduction of solid foods for baby in combinations is quickly winning the approval of leading doctors everywhere.

Three combinations of vegetables are offered. Spinach, carrots and peas are included in one; tomatoes, pumpkin and string beans in another; and beets, peas and asparagus tips in a third. There is also a combination of prunes, pineapple juice and lemon juice.

All of these combinations of baby foods were recommended by leading baby specialists to provide a diet of balanced nutritional values, and all are prepared by a special method of homogenization which makes them far easier to digest and much more nourishing than the same foods prepared by sieve straining.

Perhaps some inspired Burbank of the future will succeed in growing a single vegetable or fruit that furnishes all the vitamins, minerals and other food essentials needed to satisfy normal nutritional requirements. But in the meantime, mothers can solve the problem by feeding baby homogenized foods in balanced combinations .

"Science repeatedly has shown its ability to transcend the limitations of the human intellect. It has crashed through physical barriers too fast for our minds to encompass."

Lesson They Never Learned

Two persons were killed and sixteen injured in automobile accidents on Western Ontario highways over the week-end.

That is a pretty good record considering the fact that spring has scarcely come to Western Ontario yet. When warmer weather comes and cars get really going on the highways, if that rate is maintained, we may look forward to an eventful summer.

One of the fatalities was the old story of a man driving a horse ve hicle after dark without carrying a light. The other was the still older story of trying to beat a locomotive over a level crossing.

The injures received, most of them very serious, were from the usual run of accidents—too much speed to hold control; passing on a hill, head-on collisions, etc., that had their ending in sixteen people going to the hospital, from which some will emerge sound; some maimed for life, and some may never come out alive.

Everyone of those drivers knew the risks of highway motoring. Everyone of them had seen or heard of the other fellow meeting injury or death in week-end accidents, and no doubt every one of them had condemned those other fellows for their careless disregard of safety driving under similar circumstances to their own.

But they never learned the lesson. Neither will many others. This week-end many more will go to the hospital and a few more will go to the cemetery. And next week-end it will be the same.

Apparently the numan race is incapable of learning lessons of caution or even common sense, as far as motoring is concerned. —The Huron Expositor, Seaforth.

Motoring Under the Alps

It will be possible to motor under the Alps, between Switzerland and Italy through the famous Simpion tunnel, if plans submitted to the Swiss Federal Railway authorities are carried out.

The plans are for the establishment of a motor road through one of the two railway tunnels. The work of conversion is expected to cost some three million Swiss francs —about $100,000 at current rates.

MRS. ALLAN GARLOUGH

Not enjoying good health throughout the past year, and undergoing a serious oparation in Brockville General Hospital about fifteen months ago, Mrs. Allan Garlough passed away on Tuesday morning, May 26th, 1936, at her home about one mile North of Williamsburg village. Mrs. Garlough was compelled to take her bed about two months ago when her illness assumed serious proportions, but many of her friends were unaware of any change for the worse and the news of her death on Tuesday came as a distinct shock.

Mrs. Garlough was born in Williamsburg sixty-three years ago, the daughter of the late Jeremiah Shannette and his wife Mary Ann Cremo, her maiden name being Mary Eilen Shannette. She spent the greater part of her life in Williamsburg village where she won and retained the friendship of all who knew her by her genial, kindly disposition and her death is regretted by many friends. She was an expert dress maker and before her marriage enjoyed a large patronage. In the year 1914 she married Mr. Allan Garlough who survives her; also surviving are one sister, Mrs. Willis Schell of Williamsburg, and three brothers, Mr. George Shannette of Williamsburg, Henry and Walter Shannette of Morrisburg; Two brothers Ralph and Milton Shannette predeceased her. A number of nephews and nieces also survive.

The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon from her late residence to St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg, of which she was a faithful member. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, and was largely attended by sympathizing relatives and friends

The pall-bearers, nephews of deceased, were Lynden Shannette, Ernie Shannette, Keith Schell, Lyle Schell, Hugh Shannette and George Shannette.

Many beautiful tributes were in evidence, showing the high esteem in which deceased was held.
