Egg Grading Station Damaged By Fire

Fire which broke out at noon on Wednesday, threatened to destroy the egg grading station in Morrisburg, owned by Mr. Thos. Connor and operated by Willard Steinberg.

The local fire brigade responded to the call, and soon had the fire under control, although considerable damage was caused by water.

The grading apparatus was fortunately not damaged, and the station was able to re-open almost immediately, and is now carrying on at capacity.

Interviewed by The Leader, Mr. Connor estimated the damage at approximately $1,000.

Taylor-Cronmiller

(From the Welland-Port Colborne Evening Tribune).

Pink and white stocks, with light candles on the altar formed an effective setting for the marriage on Saturday in St. Matthew's Lutheran church of Shirley Jean Cronmiller to Allan Wayne Taylor. The bride is the daughter of Rev. C. R. Cronmiller pastor of the church, and Mrs. Cronmiller, Kent street, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Taylor, Maple avenue. The marriage was performed at 4.00 p.m. by Mr. Cronmiller.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Harold Cronmiller, was charming in a gown of white taffeta, styled with a full net skirt, cap sleeves and long lace mittens. Her finger tip veil was caught to a white braided crown, and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Audrey Casselman of Williamsburg, Ont. and Miss Alice Seger of Welland, were gowned alike in gowns of turquoise and gold, fashioned with short sleeves, sweetheart necklines and skirts. Their headresses were of matching colored net, and they carried colonial bouquets of sweet peas and roses. Miss Beverly Cronmiller, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, frocked in white sheer with full skirt, and carrying a bouquet similar to those of the bridesmaids.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. G. Ovenden, and the soloist, Miss Margaret Minor, chose for her selections, "O Perfect Love", and "Lovest Thou Me".

The best man was Harold M. Galbraith, and the ushers were Irwin Taylor and Howard Kernahan.

A reception for 35 guests was held at 5.00 p.m. at the home of the bride where the bride's mother received, wearing a grey crepe afternoon dress trimmed with black and silver, and accessories in black. Her corsage was of pink roses. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, who wore a cone grey gabardine suit, pink flowered hat and black accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered round wedding cake, baked by Mrs. R. Sherk and decorated by A. Liptak, and also lighted tapers in crystal holders.

For her going away costume, the bride chose a gray wool dress with cap sleeves, and black accessories. An olive green box coat and corsage of roses completed her ensemble. Following a wedding trip through the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will take up residence in Niagara Falls.

Invitation To All Softballers

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association is recognized as the leader in this sport in Canada. Some 145 leagues comprised the total affiliations in 1946, spread all the way from Windsor to Kingston and Sault Ste. Marie to Niagara Falls. This seems to leave a gap in points north and east of Kingston so the O.A.S.A. in their endeavours to give all Ontario the benefit of uniform rules and other guidance would invite any centre that is interested to apply for information to either Mr. Frank Weaver, the O.A.S.A. Secretary at 526 Maple Ave., Hamilton, or Mr. Ernie Simpson, O.A.S.A. Vice-President and convenor in Eastern Ontario at 245 Colborne St., Kingston.

The Association is divided into ten different classifications, ranging from Senior "A" to Juvenile "B" depending upon both age and population basis.

If you would like to enjoy organized competition with other centres in Ontario, this is your invitation to do so.

The Canadian Legion will hold another paper drive on Wednesday next. Paper will be picked up on the Main st. in the morning and on side streets in the afternoon. Newspapers, magazines, cardboard, etc., are wanted, and citizens are asked to have these ready on Wednesday.

The two hockey games played here last week between Inkerman and the Sacred Heart team of the St. Jean Baptiste League in Ottawa demonstrated the superior ice making ability of Morrisburg Arena manager Bill Snyder. Bill has his arena open with the first in the fall, and with the last in the spring.

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

By Gwendoline P. Clarke

Last Wednesday Bob and I drove to Malton and we were just in time to see the back of Barbara Ann Scott's fur coat disappear through the doorway of a Trans-Canada plane en route to Ottawa. It was a very nice coat!

What a difference a few minutes can make. "Just five minutes more" and we would have seen Barbara Ann just fine as there were very few people at the airport other than the official send-off committee.

We did so want to get a close-up view of her, particularly as we wanted to see if she were as natural and unaffected as she appears in the press pictures and reports — and which I think is her greatest charm. But while we were disappointed it just couldn't be helped. We left home in lots of time—that is for normal driving conditions. But we found they were anything but! Really the roads were terrible. In places the snowbanks were so high it was more like driving through a tunnel. Then there were parts of the road that were flooded and if neither of these conditions existed then the road was so full of pot-holes it would have made our bones rattle had they not been so well covered! Had we driven fast enough to reach Malton on time I am sure the old Model A would have disintegrated on the way. And we couldn't take a chance on that — not even to see the world's champion skater. Not these days we couldn't.

But we had a nice drive home as we stuck to the highways, on the theory that in this case the longest way around would be the shortest way home. Going over we drove across country. May I be forgiven if I say—"And how!"

All the side roads we passed were open but the ploughs must have done some awful shoving in places. Our own lane is still blocked, up near the house. It wouldn't be but for the fact that the snow piled up higher than the snow fence. Of course it could be dug out but Partner always thinks the snow gets away quicker during a thaw if it has been left alone. And by the way, we are really learning the value of snow fencing. It not only keeps the snow back but it also prevents flooding. In a thaw the water stays behind the snowbank and gets away underneath it without any fuss or inconvenience.

You know I can hardly believe that spring is almost upon us. The winter has seemed unbelievably short. I was telling Partner the other day that I would really enjoy the winter if it were not for the weather. And if there were a few more hours in each day I would be even better satisfied.

Oh dear, the radio is just telling us about the dreadful floods raging in England and Scotland right now. And we know so well what those floods can do and the rapidity with which they can rise. I remember going to see the floods about two miles from home when I was about ten years old. While I gazed in fascination at the swollen waters of the Stour River, flooding the low-lying houses on its banks, the streets behind me were suddenly flooded too and my way home was cut off. I had to wait until a temporary bridge was erected. That would be quite an adventure for me in those days.

You know I have often thought of those houses and the people living in them. The same thing happened almost every spring. The people knew it and yet as soon as the waters subsided they were back in their homes again, cleaning up the mess and counting the cost. What makes people act that way? Is it indifference to danger or love of taking a chance. Maybe we all have a bit of the gambler's spirit if we did but know it. One of the commonest ways of tempting providence these days is trying to beat one's gas supply. Why? Do we gain anything by it even supposing we win? And we are far more likely to lose. And it certainly costs more to have gas brought to a stranded car than to buy it at a gas station. I know because I have had it happen once. Like so many other people I took a chance. I knew my supply was low but for some unexplainable reason I didn't want to stop until I reached Hamilton. And then, how stupid I felt!

And do you know what? I am just about freezing because I took a chance on not looking after the furnace until I would be through with this bit of typing.

Works Both Ways

The little moppet upon going to bed always insisted that her bedroom door remain open. "Is it because you want to let the light in?" asked her mother. "No," came the amazing response, "it's to let out the dark."

Canadian Art Marches On

The oldest existing art society in Canada opened its 75th Annual Exhibition of members' and non-members' work on March 7th at the Art Gallery of Toronto and was attended by a record crowd of 1400 people. At the end of this month a representative collection from the exhibition will begin a tour of other cities in the Dominion.

The Ontario Society of Artists has broken many a lance for the arts and artists of this country since its first exhibition in 1872. The Royal Canadian Academy was organized at an O.S.A. meeting in 1870 and the development of a National Gallery, Art Gallery of Toronto and Ontario College of Art is the result of tireless effort of the Society.

Catholicity in Style

The O.S.A. Annual Exhibition is NOT a members show (a fact that is too often misinterpreted) but an opportunity open to all painters and sculptors in Canada to submit their works along with members of the society for selection by the Selection and Hanging Committee. A new jury is elected each year. It is their responsibility not only to select some 150 works from an average of 500 works submitted but to uphold the highest possible standard in painting and sculpture from the academic to the abstract. It is both interesting and encouraging to note that over 50 per cent of the work accepted and hung each year is the work of non-members.

Contribution to Art Libraries

A limited number of a very handsome and important catalogue commemorating this 75th Exhibition is now available through The Ryerson Press, 299 Queen West, Toronto. (Thin cover—60c. Stiff cover with spine—$1.00) Besides containing 18 reproductions of the contemporary work, the retrospective section of the exhibition from 1872 is covered by the first complete history and aims of the Society by L. A. C. Panto, R.C.A., O.S.A.

Badminton was played in India before it became popular in England in the 19th century.

CANADIAN STYLE

It's a far cry from the shapeless Mother Hubbard of yesteryear, this crisp Helen Morgan cotton house frock. Buttoned down the front, it has a narrow self belt and a perky bow tie at the neckline.

TEEN-TOWN TOPICS

By BARRY MURKAR

Have you ever found yourself in hot water over an innocent book title? Was a book title ever responsible for you being kicked out of your girl friend's house? Well, I'm in trouble—plenty. With Susie and her pop and it all goes back to a book title.

Last night at Susie's, we were sitting around shooting the guff, with nothing else to do, and I happened to mention that someone had left a copy of Betty MacDonald's "The Egg and I" at our place. This immediately brought forth the bright idea of boiling some eggs and painting them for Easter. It was my bright idea.

"You get the eggs out from the bottom of the cupboard while I look for my old box of paints," suggested Susie.

I found six eggs in a bowl, and while Susie was rummaging around in the hall closet, I put them in a pan of water. After ten minutes at boiling point, I figured they were hard enough.

"We can give them to the neighbor's kids," offered Susie, returning with a battered box of paints.

We then mixed several colors in a cup of water and dipped the eggs. After this we painted stripes of yellow, green and red on them, set them back in the bowl and put them away in the cupboard to dry.

Everything was fine. We talked of the days when the kids used to look for Easter bunnies and how our parents would hide Easter eggs and on Easter morning we would hunt all over the house for them.

"The kids next door will have a great time when they find them," said Susie, "they'll probably try to eat shells and all."

Our conversation was interrupted by a voice from the kitchen: "I'm hungry, where's my supper?"

"It's just pop," whispered Susie, "he's late getting home tonight."

"For crying out loud, what's happened to these eggs?" roared a voice from the kitchen.

"Oh my gosh," yelled Susie, "pop's on a diet of eggs, and we've used them all!"

We hurried into the kitchen, both quaking at the knees. Her pop, flushed from anger, was bending over the kitchen table, examining the colored eggs. He looked up as we entered, and the gleam in his eye made me quiver inside.

"Whose—whose idea was this?" he demanded, "all I can eat is eggs and I come home hungry to find these—these," his words died amidst coughs and sputters.

"Barry thought it would be—", "You," he cut in, "I might have known. If you aren't stuck in the driveway, you need a jack to fix a tire. Every time you come around here something happens."

"I—I didn't know about the diet," I gasped. "Honestly we only painted the eggs for something to do, to put in the time."

Her father sank into a chair, muttering and stroking his forehead.

"Run next door and try to borrow two eggs," ordered Susie. I ran next door, and to the next and the next. Finally at the fourth house, the lady let me have a can of powdered eggs.

"Did you have any luck?" asked Susie, as I came in out of breath.

"There's four eggs in there," I replied, handing her the can.

She got a bowl and started to take off the lid. Her father watched closely. As the lid came off and the powder started to come out, he roared at me, "Another of your smart alec tricks. Get out! Get out!"

Susie followed me to the door. She was mad too.

"That was stupid of you," she said, "now I'll get it for letting you go to get the eggs." No use trying to explain, I thought.

On the way home, I thought of the evening's events. Do other guys get into trouble like I do, I wondered. Jeppers, I'm always in a mess. I know what I'll do. I'll take up a dozen eggs tomorrow night and that will fix me with her pop.

As I walked in the front door, I noticed a book lying on the table. "The Egg and I" was the title. Browsing through it, I noted the trouble the author had had with chickens and eggs. On the cover was a picture of the author. You and your eggs, I grumbled and trudged off to bed.

Rocket Precautions

Australia is tightening security precautions for the rocket experiment range in central Australia.

This move is an attempt to prevent repetition of the Canadian atom spy experience, when a number of persons were convicted of spying for the Soviet Union. Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Minister for External Affairs, told the House of Representatives at Canberra, Australia.

... Buy By Grade ...

Grading of foods under Dominion Government supervision and marking of packages so that the consumer may buy by grade, is of definite assistance to the Canadian homemaker. Grading is of value to her whether she knows about grade regulations or not, but infinitely more so when she knows the grades for various products and looks for the grade mark before buying.

We in Canada enjoy a special privilege. Canada is the only country in the world where so many foods are regularly graded and marked for the retail buyer.

The slogan "Buy by grade—buy with confidence," has been adopted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the Home Economics section of the Consumer Section say that real economy as well as satisfaction is the reward for buying by grade.

Eggs sold in Canada are graded. The highest grade A1 eggs are the finest quality obtainable. These are not always available and are of course high in price. Grade A eggs are also of excellent quality. Both these grades have firm jellylike white which hold its shape. They are therefore perfect for poaching or frying as well as cooking in the shell. Grades B and C—have less firm whites which spread when the shell is broken.

Some homemakers boast that they always buy the best. Grading of commercially canned fruit and vegetables makes it better buying in many cases to use the lower grade. To have the most suitable product for the special purpose, and at a low cost, is real economy. Fancy Quality canned fruits and vegetables are as nearly perfect as possible and therefore are to be used where appearance is important. Company desserts or salads are beautiful when fancy products are used. For family use in regular meals Choice Quality products are very satisfactory as they are good in appearance and tender and flavourful but not necessarily uniform in size or colour of pieces. Standard quality lacks uniformity. Pieces may be broken but food value is equal to the higher grades.

Baked Crispy Pears

6 canned pears (Choice quality)

Drain pears—roll each piece in cereal flakes, place hollow side up in a greased baking dish. In centre of each put 1 teaspoon of jelly. Pour juice around pears. Bake in a moderately hot oven 375 deg. F. 15 minutes or until browned.

Corn and Cheese Souffle

4 tablespoons flour

1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 cup milk
1 cup grated cheese
4 egg yolks

4 egg whites

Melt fat, add flour, salt and pepper. Add grated cheese and stir until melted. Pour over beaten egg yolks, add corn and mix well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased casserole. Oven-pouch in a moderate oven 350 deg. F. until set—about 50 minutes. Serves six.

Communists Claim 17,009,000 in World

Communists throughout the world now total 17,009,000 delegates to the Conference of British Empire Communist Parties were told in London, England.

Charts prepared by the Communist Party of Great Britain and displayed at Conference headquarters said 56 countries had parties which, though not necessarily calling themselves Communist, were based on the teachings of Marx, Engels, Lenin, and Stalin.

Soviet Russia, the charts said, has 6,000,000 Communists, Italy, 2,200,000, the United States, 74,000, and Great Britain 43,000.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER IX: By accident McCale encounters a detective from a rival agency who is willing to sell some information. Rocky, McCale's assistant, reports on the Bigelow's activities at the mansion. He tells how both Vallancour and Christopher Storm called on Veronica during the evening.

CHAPTER X

He slid the money over to the big man. He had the exasperating feeling that he'd been cheated. He shrugged it away.

McCale had set his alarm for seven-thirty the next morning. It had shrilled in vain. A feeble ray of sunshine flickered across his face as someone shook him by the shoulder.

"Hey, boss," Rocky was saying, "it's almost nine o'clock. Your beautiful girl secretary will be here any time now. I've got a pot of java perking."

McCale began to dress as Rocky headed for the inner sanctum. It didn't take him long.

"Well," he said, between sips of the hot black liquid, "let's have your birds-eye or key hole view of the goings on of last night."

"Nothing sensational to report, boss, outside of a lot of nervous running in and out till about one a.m. I had a look-see at about everyone but the dame called Victoria. She'd gone out someplace to dinner when I got there and must have slipped in without my lamping her, if she came home at all."

"No trouble with the servants?"

"I only saw the butler. Very superior guy. He kept looking in the dining room where I was sitting with an eye on the door. I don't know whether he thought I was going to snatch some of the finger-bowls or sample the family bourbon. Anyway, he kept popping up at odd moments until around ten-thirty. Say, what a parade of junk they've accumulated."

"Yeah. What do you think of the set-up? In general, I mean. Atmosphere—that kind of thing."

"I may be wrong, but outside of the little old lady, they're a bunch of screwballs. She's okay. A little jumpy, but for that matter, the whole caboodle ain't my idea of what I've been led to think of as calm, quiet, unruffled bluebloods. They're all as jittery as a hang-over."

"Definitely."

"Well, here's five to your one that there's something cooking that's going to smell to heaven."

"You've no taker in me." McCale grinned and lit a cigarette.

"Smart, as usual. The old dame acts as though she was walking through a bad dream but doesn't dare wake up."

"Very aptly put."

"She meets me last night, shows me around, sort of impersonal-like. So far as she was concerned, I might have been the plumber's helper come to repair a leak. Very cool and calm, but burning up with something inside her. Acts all the time as if she's scared stupid but won't admit it if it kills her."

Rocky poured himself a second cup of coffee and took a deep breath before he continued.

"She went to her room early—about nine. I didn't see her after that. Veronica, the bride and joy," he looked at McCale to see whether he was amused by the play on words, "of the old lady—she is that, isn't she—it sticks out all over—stayed home all evening, too. She was in the back library most of the time."

"Did she look good to you?"

"Oh, yeah, if you like the placid type. She had two visitors. Guess?"

"I'll buy it. Don't play guessing games with me so early in the morning."

"Well, the present and the past Glamour Boy Number One, and good old dog-like, ever lovin' Chris."

"Oh. He impressed you that way? Christopher Storm, I mean?"

"Remember, I only got a short gander at the past and present crown princes, as they entered and left. He was the second one, by the way. Mr. Big came first."

"Go on."

"Well, I'd just got settled in the silver and crockery department when Johnny Weismuller comes swinging from tree to tree calling for his mate. Such a flutter they get into over him, don't they? The butler scuttled around after him as if he'd just brought the fatted calf. Then the bride-to-be comes down the stairs in a flurry. But a flurry, I said. And he just tells her he's off to dinner with some friends. She looks at him with the trust of a bird fascinated by a python. You know—'What enormous eyes you have, Grandmother.' And off they go to the library."

"I take it you don't warm to Romeo."

"Not me. Obvious as heck, don't you think?"

"I don't know. The boy's got something. Just what is it?"

"It's a old as the world, chief. The Vallancour can just make his eyelashes go boo."

"Take that needle out of your arm. He's in love with the girl."

"All right. So he's in love with her."

"What's your impression of the girl? You didn't show a great deal of enthusiasm."

"I guess I don't like 'em quite so wide-eyed, chief. She's nice. You know what I mean—nice—and when you've said that, you've said everything. Right out of a Mignon Eberhart novel, if you get what I mean. Just beautiful and wispy and too dumb to take off her rose-colored glasses."

Rocky had already settled for himself the fact that Veronica Bigelow was both beautiful and dumb. McCale leaned back in his chair and smiled, for Rocky was a good guy, most amusing.

Searching for the coffee pot, Duke's eyes slanted up quizzically at Rocky as he said, "Well, boy, what's the word on Christopher Storm, now that you've dusted everyone else off?"

"J. P. Marquand has done him to a turn, on both sides and in the middle. More than once. That guy was born to the Yankee purple, has gone to the best schools, and never stepped out of line in his life. He may be a little shocked at the Bigelows, but they are Bigelows, aren't they? So they couldn't be wrong. Veronica has tossed him overboard, but would he say a word about it? Would he ride up in his Stanley Steamer and rush her off to the nearest Justice of the Peace before she makes a fool of herself? No sirree. It just isn't done by people in our set, doncha know?"

"He did come to see her."

"Oh, yes. Had a short confab with her in the library. I didn't get a chance to eavesdrop, of course, but I did see them when they said goodnight at the door. He had the most miserable little-boy-who-has-been-kicked expression on his puss when he kissed her good-by."

"He kissed her?"

"Don't let it throw you. It was just the old I'll-be-a-sister-to-you act. She sort of put her head up and he gave her a solemn brotherly kiss on the forehead before he went into the night like the last act of an old melodrama. I could have spit in his eye, the dope!"

"My, my. You are taking this to heart."

"Not so you'd notice it. Well, do I go on in the order of their appearance?" he asked, a sour smile on his lips.

Rocky waited a moment, looking at McCale. "Oh, of course. No offense, pal."

Rocky waited a moment, looking at McCale skeptically, not quite sure he wasn't being made fun of. Then he resumed.

"Let's see. First there's Mr. Stephen. Now there's a jumpy guy. Surly, wedded to the bottle, too."

Comes in all decked out for the night life. Soup and fish. Gave me the once-over and had a few quick straight ones. When the butler stuck his nose in the door, he spat out, 'Tell my mother I'm going out this evening.' Not his wife, mind you—his mother."

"Mama's big boy."

"Oh, sure. He and his wife don't get along, I take it?"

"Your surmise is a good one, I think."

New Method Used to Harvest Honey

A streamlined technique for harvesting honey from Northern Manitoba's wild flowers is being planned by a farmer in the small Saskatchewan town of Tisdale, 70 miles west of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan border.

The farmer, B. Baines, last year shipped more than 50,000 pounds of honey from his mobile apiaries.

His technique is described as being simple. In the spring he spots three or four hives in isolated areas, surrounding them with electrically charged fences to discourage roaming bears. In the fall he gathers the honey and prepares the hives for the winter.

Northern flowers, Mr. Baines says, appear to enable bees to produce a more concentrated honey than the normal, generally pure white and greatly in demand on the market.

ENGLAND HIT BY FLOODS

First it was snow storms, now floods that are crippling England. From London where the swollen Thames River has contaminated the municipal water supply an emergency call has gone out for tank-truck loads of drinking water. At Maidstone, in Kent, the River Medway rose to its highest level in 27 years, flooded its banks and then the town. The customers at an inn (left) waded through water to get a drink at the bar and a housewife (right) wears boots to do her housework. To complicate matters, another round of blizzards and gales hit the country over the week-end.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

1. Should a woman's title be left off the envelope when writing a business letter to her and one does not know whether or not she is married?
2. Is it good form to talk about one's self?
3. What is the most popular way to make a public announcement of an engagement?
4. Is it proper to place the elbows on the table while eating?
5. Is an entire outfit of new clothes necessary for the bridegroom?
6. At what age should boys and girls be introduced in proper form?

ANSWERS

1. No; address the envelope with the prefix "Miss". 2. There are many people who have the idea that to talk about one's self is bad form; however, most people do not think so. If the story one has is amusing or inst-uctive, there is no reason why it should not be told.
3. The newspaper announcement is the most popular. 4. This practice

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I remove clogged ink from steel pens?

A. Dip them in a strong solution of ammonia water. This softens the ink and it can be easily wiped off.

Q. How can I prevent olive oil from becoming rancid?

A. Add two medium size lumps of sugar to each quart of olive oil as soon as it is opened to keep it from becoming rancid.

Q. How can I clean white kid gloves?

A. Pure alcohol is preferable to gasoline for cleaning white kid gloves. It dries quickly and without the unpleasant odor of gasoline.

Q. How can I tell if an egg is fresh?

A. A fresh egg is indicated by a rough surface and how quickly it dries when it is taken from boiling water.

Q. How can I clean the window shades without using water?

A. The effect will be very satisfactory if a rag is slightly moistened with paraffin oil and then rubbed over the window. After a few minutes, polish with a clean dry cloth.

Q. How can I make a needle-book that will not permit the needles to rust?

A. If a needle-book is made of chamois, instead of the usual flannel, the needles will not rust.

Sunday School Lesson

Jesus Lays Down His Life
John 18: 37-38; 19: 10-16, 25-30.

Golden Text.—For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

Palestine, the homeland of the Bible, has been strangely a land of great beauty, idyllic happiness, and somber, terrible tragedy.

Goodness, wisdom, visions of peace and happiness and plenty, and ideals of righteousness and truth are forever in the heritage it has given to the world. But violence, hatred, evil, and all the fruits of evil have been all too manifest from the beginning in Cain, who slew his brother, through all the history of the Jezebels, Herods, and other perpetrators of iniquity.

All the beauty, tenderness, and goodness of that land, with all the tragedy of hate and violence, were comprised in the brief earthly life of Jesus of Nazareth.

The law of vicarious sacrifice, of giving of life for others was written deeply into the history and religion of Israel. Among biblical scholars there has been much controversy as to how directly and in what way the 53rd Chapter of Isaiah, with its portrayal of the Suffering Servant, referred to Jesus.

But plain readers, whose common sense judgments are often sounder than those of hair-splitting critics, have had little doubt about the matter. They have read that chapter seeing how Jesus fulfilled its vicarious law and its spirit.

Just how early in His earthly ministry Jesus became conscious that His ministry was to be fulfilled in His death is not clear. Nor is it clear whether or not He assumed at first, as the disciples did, that His ministry might involve the setting up of an earthly kingdom.

What is plain, however, is that Jesus came to foresee and to accept fully the fact of His sacrificial death. He was the Good Shepherd about to lay down His life for the sheep.

We tend to speak of the cross lightly. We wear it as a piece of jewelry or a symbol, but how much does it mean to us of the reality of sacrifice and suffering? How much are our lives given for others?

3 THINGS THE CORNISH BRIEF DEMONSTRATES TO PREMIER DREW

The Brief submitted to the Royal Commission on Education by the Inter-Church Committee on Protestant-Roman Catholic Relations was largely the work of Prof. Geo. A. Cornish, B.A., the Executive Secretary of the Committee. It is usually referred to as the "Cornish Brief."

The most outstanding feature of the Brief is its exposure of the extent to which the Roman Catholic Separate School system has supplanted the Public School system in Northern Ontario.

1. The ROSS Appeasement Policy of 1902 Was Bad

The Cornish Brief shows that the Betrayal of the Public School in New Ontario started in 1902, when the dying Ross Government passed Section 21 of the Separate School Act, allowing the first school in unorganized and unsurveyed townships to be a Separate School instead of a Public School. Ross was a party-first Premier and Minister of Education.

2. The FERGUSON Appeasement Policy of 1927 Was Worse

The Cornish Brief shows that this Ross bid for Roman Catholic votes was out-bid by the Ferguson Government in 1927, when the then Premier and Minister of Education, G. Howard Ferguson, nullified Regulation 17, "for say five years", and enabled these illegal "Separate" Schools to be turned into French-speaking schools. The Brief shows that French-speaking classrooms increased from 362 in 1927 to 882 in 1928, to 984 in 1930, to 1,074 in 1931 and reached 1,471 by 1944! (It had been elected on a platform of abolishing French French Schools.

3. The Present DREW Appeasement Policy is Worst of All

The worst blow to the Public School system was still to come. In 1943 the C. C. F. offered to pay from 5% to 70% of the cost of these and all other Separate Schools out of public funds. Mr. Drew out-bid them by offering to pay 50%. Mr. Hepburn in 1945 raised the bid to 90%, and Premier Drew then went "up to 95%".

These three party-first, vote-catching Premiers and Ministers of Education have sacrificed the Public School in New Ontario and many other parts of the province. The Cornish Brief demonstrates clearly that the Department of Education should never be in the hands of a Party Leader. The result has always been a "sell-out" of the Public Schools and a new "grab" of public money for Roman Catholic Separate Schools.

Roving Dogs Are Worrying Deer

Roving dogs are taking a terrific toll of our deer, the finest game animals found in this part of Ontario, so that all sportsmen, hunters and conservationists are demanding action against the dogs. Dog owners are reminded that it is an offence under the Game and Fisheries Act (Sec. 39-4) to allow a dog to run at large during the closed season for deer in a locality where they are commonly found, and that officers are authorized to kill such dogs. Officers seldom have to use this authority as the owners usually take the necessary action themselves, but the situation is so serious now that offenders should not be surprised if they are prosecuted.

Instances of dogs running deer are reported from all sections. Two deer were driven into Kemptville, of which one had to be killed, and the other was rescued; Overseer J. Alf-ord and N. L. Walsh, Game Overseer of Gananoque found an exhausted three year old buck badly mangled by two hounds and two collies; several have been killed and reported in Lanark County; and in Mountain Township of Dundas the collies have been making the deer miserable.

Dog owners should tie up their dogs, but if they do not comply, neighbours might well advise them to do so and report any one who persists in offending. The deer have no chance to escape from a dog in the snow and humanity demands that they be given protection.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

TODAY ON THE Nile
THEY KNOW

CANADA

ALL OVER the world today, Canadian products are known—and Canada's modern greatness recognized—as Canadian initiative builds our export trade to totals undreamed of in the past. During the war we became the second exporting nation of the world. TODAY our exports, with a value more than 2½ times as great as those of pre-war years, make an immense contribution to modern Canadian development, benefiting all business, creating new and greater opportunities for all Canadians.

Furs and Fish were Canada's first exports. Our trade in the beginning was a monopoly of the merchants of Old France; next it was almost exclusively with and through Britain. By 1860, though, we were controlling our own commerce.

Down to the end of the 19th Century, our chief exports were sawmill and timber products. Next in importance were cheese and fish. The great wheat exporting era began with the 1900's. By 1939 newsprint had become our most valuable export.

World War II's demands spurred our production and exports to unprecedented heights. Canada's huge shipments of foodstuffs and munitions were one of the greatest contributions made by any nation to the successful prosecution of the war.

GERARD HEROD of Oakville, Ont., was a clerk in a department store nine years ago. At the age of 24 he added $400 savings to his natural interest in machinery and began to manufacture red clay flower pots. Initial difficulties were overcome by determination and his native Canadian enterprise. Today his firm, Dominion Potteries Limited, produces more than a quarter of a million dollars worth of pottery a year.

MR. HEROD says: "Canada proved a land of opportunity for me. She is a land of even greater opportunity for young Canadians commencing their careers today. Now, more than ever before, there are within Canada's borders rich rewards to be won, successful careers to be achieved."

JUST IN FUN

Real Funny

He was telling her his family history. "My grandfather was a poor, hard-working clockmaker. When he died he left his estate, which consisted of two hundred clocks, to my father," she said. "How interesting," she said. "It must have been real fun winding up his estate."

Woman

A woman may put on a riding habit and never go riding. She may doll up in a skiing outfit and never go skiing. We have seen women don swimming outfits and never go swimming. But when a woman puts on a wedding gown—she means business.

"Mrs. McGillicuddy! Are you having an affair with the superintendent?"

Let's Be Explicit

The couple were on one of those three-week cruises to the West Indies. While the wife was enjoying herself to the utmost, her husband was most unhappy. An observing fellow passenger commented: "Your husband appears to be a poor sailor." To which the wife frigidly replied: "My husband happens to be in the real estate business."

Protection

"According to the evidence of the witnesses you were caught just as you were getting out of the window with the contents of the till in your pocket. Now, what excuse have you got?" and the judge leaned back in his chair very complacently.

"I knew it," answered the prisoner, "and I shall always be grateful to the men who caught me. When I have these somnambulist fits I am in danger of falling out of windows and hurting myself."

"That idea never occurred to me," remarked the judge pensively.

"It has occurred to me," remarked the prisoner with unconscious humor.

"That being the case I will direct a warder—"

"To release me?"

"No, but to see that an extra bar is put across your cell window for fear you may fall out."

Sidewalk Scene

It was one of those exasperating sidewalk situations when a man and a woman, coming in opposite directions, jockeyed to the right, then to the left, together, in an awkward effort to pass each other. When the snarl was finally unraveled the man politely tipped his hat and said: "Well, good-by. It's been fun knowing you."

Prize Rookie

Lee Carey, 17, U. of Arizona freshman, is the Cleveland Indians' prize rookie of 1947. He plays outfield, and was given the highest bonus for signing ever paid by Cleveland, reportedly $15,000. He'll continue his college work and play ball the rest of the time. He's 5-11, weighs 175.

An Englishwoman in The Jungle

By Enid Fernandes

Miss Enid Fernandes, a British Red Cross worker, spent a year travelling in Malaya taking aid to the sick. After a short leave in England she returned to take the post of State Rural Welfare Officer in Pahang. Writing as she was about to go back, she relates some of her experiences.

My leave in England is drawing to an end and within a few weeks I hope to be back in Malaya, to take up work in Pahang as State Rural Welfare Officer under the Social Welfare Department of the Government of the Malay Union.

I am eager to be back, for there is still a good deal of sickness among the people who live deep in the Malayan jungles, and after a year's work among them I feel I have gained their confidence. I know I have learned to love and respect them.

I arrived in Singapore from England on September 6th, 1945, when the Japanese were still in the town and as I walked down hot country roads I saw many hundreds of displaced Malaysians, Javanese, Chinese and Indians, most of whom were starving and ill. The British Military Administration was already working wonders for the relief of these unfortunates and gradually they were collected into improvised camps where, for several weeks, I helped to look after the sick.

Embarrassing Faith

At the end of November 1945, I was asked by the Director of Medical Services, British Military Administration, Malaya, to go to Kuantan on the East Coast of Pahang to undertake welfare work in that area. Barbara Lomas, a British Red Cross trained nurse who could speak Cantonese and Mandarin, went with me and took charge of the hospital in Kuantan which was overflowing with sufferers. The District Officer, himself a Malay, asked me to try and ease the distress among the sick and needy in the surrounding villages, the neglected rubber estates and the jungle hamlets. I fixed up a British Red Cross 15-cwt. truck as a travelling dispensary and the Hospital lent me a Tamil dresser and a Tamil attendant, and we set out.

The monsoon was at its height and we worked under considerable difficulties, but by the end of three months we had a weekly program covering 29 kampongs, seven rubber estates and several isolated settlements, and had dealt with thousands of sick people with very marked success. Indeed, I was much embarrassed by a widely spread rumour that "Missie" could cure illness and pain in three minutes. "Go to Missie she will cure you", they told each other and people who had been blind and crippled from birth were carried to me in baskets. But all I could do was to give them aspirin and treatment for their tropical ulcers, sores, skin diseases and other ailments. I had a small tent made and fixed to the side of my truck in which I tackled their skin diseases; in this I scrubbed the bodies—before applying healing lotions—of hundreds of Malays, Javanese and Tamils and a few Chinese and Sakais who had wandered into the camp.

Awkward Situations Averted

At first the idea of being personally scrubbed by "Missie" was greeted with considerable apprehension, but I explained that this was necessary before applying the lotions sent to me by the State Health and Medical Officer. (Those lotions were extraordinarily effective, by the way, disinfecting and healing at the same time.) The shyness quickly wore off and within a very short time whole families would arrive and ask for treatment and what might have been an awkward situation passed off with considerable humour.

On several occasions I came across very sick people lying in their houses with maggots dropping from their sores and ants actually streaming in and out of holes in their limbs. One of these cases was a poor old man in an isolated village. The ants had eaten two large holes in his leg, and when I arrived he was semi-conscious; I attended to him and with the help of two young men we slung him in a kind of hammock attached to a bamboo pole and carried him to my car. When I left for my leave he had been in hospital for 3½ months, but his wounds were almost healed and he was in very good spirits.

Deep in the Jungle

It was not only sickness I had to deal with; there was also appalling poverty and need. One day when I had been visiting a village I was told of a family who wished to come and see me but could not because they possessed only one garment between them and that was being worn by the man—the head of the family. When I went to their home they covered themselves with their floor mats. I made a garment for each of them and they were touchingly grateful.

On many occasions I penetrated into the jungle to visit remote hamlets, some of which were reached either on foot, with the headman of the area or a relative of the sick leading the way, or in a small native boat on one of the winding rivers. On these occasions my impending arrival would be announced to the surrounding country by the beating of a drum. The Malays told me I was the first white woman to enter some of these settlements, and certainly I was an object of considerable curiosity to the children.

Hazardous Journeys

During the monsoon period these journeys were particularly hazardous—or at least they felt so to me when crossing crocodile-infested rivers on long, thin palm trees, or swinging by my hands over pieces of damaged bridges with medical supplies slung around me. I think one of my worst moments came one day when the Malay leading my column stopped in the middle of crossing a river on an attenuated felled tree to enquire how I was getting on. His bare feet were curled nicely round the trunk, but my leather shoes slipped dangerously. Had he not responded to my cry of "Hurry" I should have fallen in. After this experience I discarded my shoes and took to flexible sandals.

VOICE OF THE PRESS

Originality Wanes

Perhaps it is a sign of decadence, but some of the women's Spring hats now on display actually look something like hats.

—Windsor Star

Reason to be Careful

Autos killed 33,000 people in the United States in 1946. That's exactly 33,000 reasons for driving carefully.

—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Too Much Laziness

Work has never been so unpopular as it is today. It's beginning to appear that the human race will soon have to learn to live without working or it will perish from the face of the earth.

—Kitchener Record

Thounds Thilly!

Hear about the young couple who played kith and kin every evening?

He said: "Can I kith you?"

And she said: "Yeth, you kin."

Still Best System

With all its faults, democracy is the only political system under which people can get rid of Governments of which they disapprove in a peaceful and orderly manner.

—Kingston Whig-Standard

Another In Error

In Montreal a business manager gave a 15-year-old boy $12,000 to take to a bank for deposit. The boy got on a train, but was taken off with the money he had planned to spend somewhere somehow. Whatever he was guilty of, he was not the only one at fault in this case.

Peace Motive

Perhaps we need a better motive for peace than fear of war.

—Vancouver Province

And Now?

In the old war days our only enemies were our enemies.

—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

In Other Words

President Truman told Congress that the main threat to a high volume of housing is "the high level of current housing prices relative to the volume of consumer income." He meant houses cost too much.

Education

Education is not learning; it is the exercise and development of the powers of the mind; and the two great methods by which this end may be accomplished are in the halls of learning or in the conflicts of life.

Future of Island Bases in Pacific

By implication, if not by direct word, the United States has indicated Pacific islands she now holds will be turned over to United Nations trusteeship as soon as that organization sets up effective world security machinery. It is well understood these islands will be retained only so long as they are necessary to American, and therefore Pacific, defence plans. These islands are weapons of American security every bit as much as the atomic bomb. It would be insanity to surrender either the A-bomb or the islands to the care of the United Nations without iron-clad assurance their use will be safeguarded.

Something OR Nothing

Remember the story of the monkey who tried to withdraw a fistful of nuts through the narrow neck of a jar?

Because he wasn't content with getting one luscious nut at a time, he ended up by getting nothing instead of something.

That story is worth remembering today. Greedy grabbing of goods still in short supply can have the same result—nothing instead of something. Inflated prices, like the inflated paw of the monkey, can as surely prevent each of us from getting his fair share of available goods.

Canadians have had the wisdom to be content with a moderate "something," knowing that as production increases that "something" will grow larger and larger.

This is good sense, and is founded on the principle that

MODERATION is the key to CONTINUED ENJOYMENT,

a principle to which the House of Seagram has always subscribed.

Men who Think of Tomorrow

Practice Moderation Today!

Better To Help Turkey Now Than Rescue Her Later

Qualified informants in Istanbul say Turkey must have American financial aid if it is to keep its army of nearly 1,000,000 men fully mobilized as a barrier against possible Russian encroachments.

Turkey has been on a full mobilization status for seven years. More than 60 per cent of its total national income goes to maintain the army, most of which stands guard along the Turkish-Russian border east of the Black Sea and on the Turkish-Bulgarian frontier, where it shields the strategic Dardanelles.

The Turks say the cost of keeping so many men under arms is so heavy that it is draining the nation's fiscal resources and jeopardizing its economic structure. This has caused the nation to abandon plans for industrialization of its economy, which is held to be imperative if Turkey is to develop a "decent economic order."

The building of highways, railroads, hospitals, and schools also has been neglected.

"A weak Turkey could only invite trouble," one Government spokesman commented. "It would be more far sighted and much less costly in the long run to help her today than have to try to rescue her at some later day." Despite the country's heavy military expenditure, its army at present is not well equipped.

The Turks maintain they are the only neighbor Russia has that has consistently and emphatically resisted all Soviet pressure which they felt tended toward expansion. They have steadfastly refused to allow Russia a share in defense of the vital Dardanelles.

700,000 Employed In U.K. Coal Mines

Nearly 700,000 persons are employed in British coal mines. This is twice as many as are employed in the bituminous coal mines of the United States, says The Chicago Tribune. Our 350,000 miners produce three times as much coal as Britain's 700,000 miners do. The average output per miner is one ton per day in Britain and six tons per day in the United States. If American miners turned out no more coal on the average than British miners do, it would take two million men to obtain our present supply. If prices remained the same as they are, the miners here could be paid only $2.50 a day.

HYDRO USERS

• The wintertime power shortage in Southern Ontario has been relieved with the coming of spring and the longer hours of daylight. In the winter months the shorter and darker days create a maximum demand on your Hydro system. Conditions in this winter season are such that Hydro plants are loaded to the point where it becomes necessary to ask for the co-operation of all Hydro users in saving electricity by every possible voluntary means. In the spring and summer season the urgency for conservation is not so great as in the fall and winter.

The voluntary saving of electricity in homes, offices, theatres, stores, and in industry, greatly relieves this condition. Your response was very helpful. To those who so willingly co-operated during this emergency period, Hydro says, "Thank You."

In many localities Hydro stations and lines are overloaded because of the delay in obtaining necessary new equipment. Therefore, do not waste electricity—use Hydro wisely at all times.

"SHE'S STILL TALKING!"

KEEPING CONVERSATIONS BRIEF is just one of the ways of practicing the master rule for the best telephone service... "Do unto others as you would like them to do to you—and do it first".

THIS YEAR ALONE we are spending $3,500,000 so that more farms may have telephones with fewer people on each line.

FOR BEST RESULTS FROM YOUR TELEPHONE:

1. Keep calls brief.
2. Space your calls.
3. Avoid "listening in".
4. Give right-of-way to emergency calls.
