H. J. McFarland awarded paving contract engineering survey for Community Hall

Tuesday, August 5th, was regular meeting day for Chesterville Village Council. Number one item on the agenda was the awarding of a contract to do some paving in the village. Three tenders were in on the work and the bid of H. J. McFarland Ltd., Ottawa, at $9,706., was accepted. Slated for paving are three streets — Harper, McMillan and the balance of Riverside Drive. Of the three bids the tender of McFarland was the lowest with Dibblee seeking $12,664 and Cornwall Gravel in at $16,925. The work is to be completed by Sept. 12.

Recreation Director Doug Moses brought in the report that programs were progressing at a summer pace and said that the pool was having one of its busiest summers ever.

A great deal of discussion centred around the locking systems to public buildings, particularly the arena. At present it was voiced that too many keys are in circulation for the arena and the Community Hall.

Council decided that tighter control must be exercised over the use of keys and the posession of same. Steps will be taken the next month to assure that public buildings are made secure.

A Zoning By-Law public meeting will be held on August 26th to consider certain changes in land use in Chesterville through zoning.

Village clerk Lloyd Graham read a petition asking that a pay phone be installed in the kitchen area of the Community Hall. The clerk was instructed to check with the Bell business office to have the installation made, if possible.

An engineering survey has been ordered to discover the reasons for the fractured walls of the Community Hall. Windows and doors are jamming and the cement block face at the south end of the building has developed vertical cracks.

The survey will include underground tests to determine the condition of the soil around the building. When the findings of the investigation are established, it is planned to proceed with the necessary repair work in 1976.

The regular meeting was adjourned at 11:15 p.m. and a regular meeting of the Hydro Committee was held.

Williamsburg Twp.

Request $12,000 in subsidy money to meet commitments

The regular meeting of the municipal council of the Township of Williamsburg was held on August 2, 1975, in the IOOF Hall with all members present except councillor Glen Cunningham.

The supplementary reports on the Mattice and Williamsburg Village drains were read and adopted.

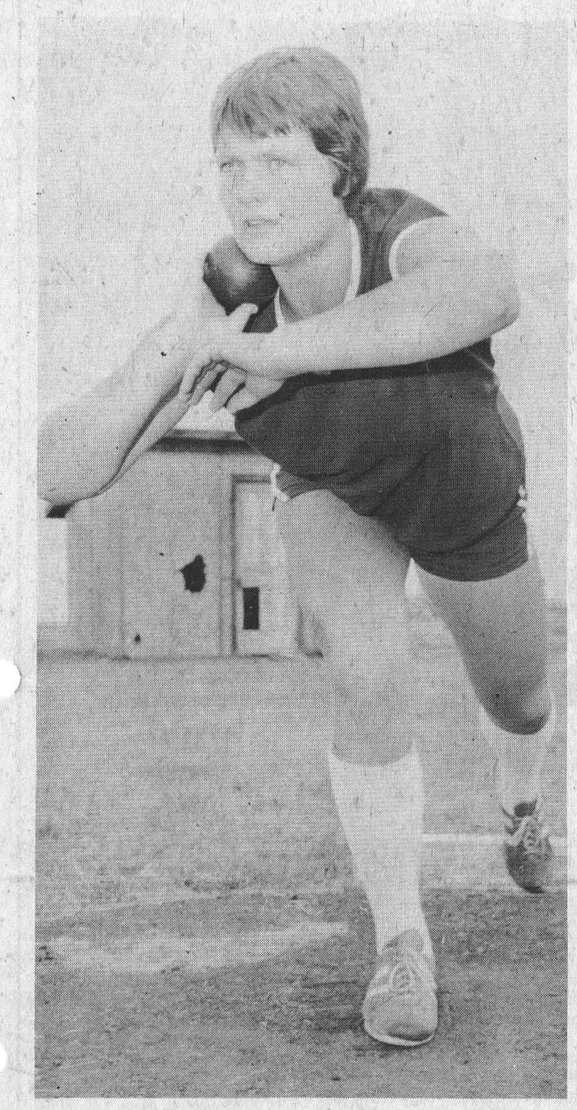
A petition of several ratepayers to have the Jennie Merkley Drain cleaned, under the Drainage Act was approved by council.

Several tenders were opened for the construction of the Van Moorsel Drain and awarded to Cruickshank Construction Co. of Morrisburg, Ont.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for tenders for the improvement of the Mattice and the Williamsburg Village Drains.

The Road Superintendent reported on the financial condition of the 1975 road program and the clerk was instructed to request the Ministry of Transportation & Communications for an additional approval of $12,000.00 subsidy money to meet Township commitments.

The O.H.R.P. was discussed and several applications studied with council appointing Harold Pemberton, Williamsburg, Ont., as inspecting director to look after the enforcement of the program.



Rose Hauch

N.D.D.H.S. Athlete . . .

Rose Hauch to represent Ont. at Canadian Jr. Championships

Rose Hauch, a student at North Dundas District High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mathis Hauch, R.R. 1, Chesterville, has earned the right to represent Ontario at the Canadian National Junior Track and Field Championships, to be held in Richmond, B.C. on August 16 and 17th. Miss Hauch won this right by finishing 2nd at the Ontario Junior Championships just a couple of weeks ago.

At B.C. the young athlete will compete in the Shot Put, the event in which she excels. All throwing events appeal to Miss Hauch as she regularly competes in the Discus and Javelin as well as the Shot Put.

It was just a short 14 months ago when the North Dundas athlete took up track and field in a serious way. Rose has always been a healthy young lady, and in the beginning really had no aspirations to perhaps someday be Canada's best Junior Shot Putter. From her original attemps she has increased the distance now by 12 feet.

Her success results not only from her athletic ability. But her determination in competition and dedication to improve have been the keys to success.

Since January 1 of 1975, Miss Hauch has tossed the Shot in 14 competitions, she has placed 1st on 11 occasions and 2nd the other three times.

The young Chesterville gal practices four days per week as well as doing her share on the family farm.

Rose Hauch now has more than won her share of red ribbons. If she continues in the years ahead as she has in the past 14 months, the Hauch's, who live along the Dunbar Road, may have to add a trophy room the the family farm house.

Kathy Workman

Kathy Workman, another N.D.D.H.S. athlete, competed in the Ontario Legion Bantam Midget Championships held in Sudbury on Saturday, August 9th.

Miss Workman placed 1st in the 80 metre Hurdles in a time of 11.6, a personal best for her.

Kingston

A league Track Meet was held in Kingston on Saturday, August 9th . . . Rose Hauch finished first in the Discus with a personal best of 36.22; Julie Holmes was 2nd in the 200 metre in a time of 25.0 and Steve Thatcher was 5th in the Men's Discus, with a toss of 28 metres.

Ontario Games

Four local athletes have qualified for the Ontario Games in Track and Field to be held August 30, 31 and September 1. The Games are an open competition.

Each region chooses the best two in each event, based on the performances in Track League comptetions throughout the summer.

Competing for this area will be Rose Hauch, Shot and Discus; Steve Thatcher, Men's Shot Put; Julie Holmes, 100 Metre, 200 Metre and Relay; Kathy Workman, 100 metre Hurdles, 400 metre Hurdles and Long Jump.

Lianna and Steven Bodzin received third and fourth place in Junior Showmanship.

About Sleeping

The French scientist Pierre Daveux reports that people who sleep on their stomachs often feel insecure in their jobs, while people who sleep on their backs tend to be proud. Curlers and pillow cuddlers need affection and protection, and people who sleep with their heads under the blanket are pessimistic.

Tran-Canada Hell Drivers

This Sunday afternoon at 2:15 p.m., in front of the Chesterville Fairgrounds grandstand, the Trans-Canada Hell Drivers will present their ever popular daring stunts. If you would like to see how you shouldn't handle an automobile . . . the Sunday show should provide the means.

Fair Days Ahead

As we head into the end of August, and turn the corner into September, we come up with several fairs in the immediate district. Avonmore gets first booking and is followed closely by Stormont County Fair, at Newington, and Chesterville's production early in September. Check the ads for times and entertainment, you'll be glad you did.

Times really have changed

Last Friday, around the noon hour, 80 vintage cars rolled into Chesterville Park, where the group enjoyed a picnic and held a bathing suit contest. The old cars created quite a stir, as local people gathered to view the handsome old machines. We still haven't established what the young lady on the left was doing in an old bathing suit contest. From the left — Mrs. Renate Intini, of Burlington, Ontario and Arthur and Natalie Hart of Chester, New Jersey. The Harts happen to have the oldest car in the rally . . . a 1909 Oakland. Renate was probably trying to prove the old cars didn't have all the good curves. — Staff Photo.

Receive $2,685

Ed Lumley, Member of Parliament for Stormont-Dundas, announced that two organizations for agricultural women in the riding have recently been awarded grants totalling $2,685. These grants were approved by the Secretary of State, The Honourable Hugh Faulkner, as part of the Federal Government's activities in recognition of International Women's Year.

The first grant was awarded to the "Women for the Survival of Agriculture" group of Winchester. This group, which has members throughout Eastern and Central Ontario, has planned an ambitious program to open lines of communication between the agricultural and non-agricultural communities, and to heighten awareness of the role of women in agriculture. The grant will subsidize the costs of secretarial facilities, printing and other information services; and enable the group to hold four study sessions during late 1975 and early 1976. Those wishing further information are asked to contact Mrs. Diane Harkin of R.R. 1, Winchester.

The second grant was awarded to the "Union culturelle des Franco-Ontariennes", an organization for Franco-Ontarian women which has branches in rural communities throughout eastern Ontario. The grant will help cover the costs of a study session on women's affairs, planned for September, open to all interested. For further information, please contact the President of the Crysler branch, Mrs. Lucille Lafrance.

Both grants were issued as part of the Women's Program of the Department of the Secretary of State. This program subsidizes projects designed to increase public awareness of the changing role of women, and to develop information and educational resouces for women's groups.

The Parking Lot at The Community Shopping Centre was a beehive of activity last week. A carnival was held and the proceeds were turned over to fight Muscular Dystrophy. Monument to be erected . . .

In 1875 Village named after Chester T. Casselman

Chesterville Village Council members, when meeting in regular August session, took on the roles of historians, when they acted on a suggestion to have a monument stone erected at Maple Ridge Cemetery in memory of Chester T. Casselman, after whom the village was named.

The village had a couple of names, before Chesterville was chosen in 1875. In 1838 the original name was Armstrong Mills and between this date and 1875 the name of West Winchester was used for some time. The name change came about in 1875 when the CPR complained about keeping telegrams straight going to Winchester and the then West Winchester.

Chester T. Casselman for some years was a post master here in the village and unquestionably must have been a respected man.

The suggestion to have the monument erected was put forth by three ladies, Mrs. Anna Marcellus, Mrs. Geo. Crawford and Miss Jean Casselman, who made representation on behalf of the Chesterville Senior Citizen Association.

The Stone will be a standard monument of Black Barre Granite and will be placed on the Casselman plot in the Western Division of Maple Ridge Cemetery.

The Inscription

CHESTER T. CASSELMAN
Born January 11th, 1851
Died February 26th, 1918
The Village of Chesterville, in 1875, was named after Chester T. Casselman. This monument was erected by the village, in remembrance.

Park Pavilion vandalized

A person or persons broke into the Chesterville Park Pavilion some time last Friday evening or early Saturday morning and made a real mess of the place. Entrance was made through a window that was broken out. A small quantity of cigarettes was taken. The vandals spread mustard and other ingredients on the walls and floor. The break-in was investigated by the O.P.P.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Foster, Berwick are pleased to announce the arrival of their daughter, Shelley Lynne, 7 lbs. 5 oz. on Sunday, July 27, 1975, at the Cornwall General Hospital. A sister for Jason.

Muscular Dystrophy Carnival raises $90.16

Children of the community enjoyed the entertaining Muscular Dystrophy Carnival, which was held on Wednesday, August 6, from 9:30 to 12:30.

Instigator and carnival chairman, Pam McPhail, was assisted by Debbie VanGessel, Joanne and Dawn McPhail, Susan and Patricia Rance, Tony Kelly, Lonnie MacIntosh, Rudy and Ricky Grisel, Chris and Marque Laflamme and David Arnold.

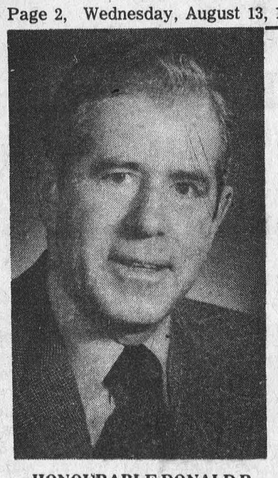
One of the highlights of the Carnival was the raffle of a "model plane", donated by Angus Pate. Brenda Sharkey was the lucky winner.

The donations of many local businessmen added to the success of the carnival.

The activity netted $90.16, which was sent to Carnivals Against Dystrophy.

Mr. and Mrs Claude McPhail served lunch to the workers following the event.

Major policy change in H.O.M.E. Plan



HONOURABLE DONALD R. IRVINE, M.P.P., Grenville-Dundas, Minister of Housing

Room 1324, Whitney Block, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario (416)965-0529

A major policy change that will put the "full ownership" concept back into the Home Ownership Made Easy (H.O.M.E.) Plan was announced by Housing Minister Donald R. Irvine.

At present qualified families may purchase houses and rent lots with options to buy at the end of five years at the then current market value. In the future they will purchase both house and land.

But low down payments, a minimum of five percent of the house price, will continue to be an integral part of the program, said Mr. Irvine.

Future purchasers will assume a first mortgage to cover 95 percent of the house price, and a second mortgage covering the market value of the land, with principal and interest charges on the second mortgage based only on the cost of the serviced land to the government.

If a resale takes place within 35 years of the original purchase, Ontario Housing Corporation may allow the second mortgage. However, interest payments would be based on the full amount of principal outstanding on the second mortgage.

"The original intent of the H.O.M.E. Plan was to enable moderate-income families to purchase their houses and the land," said Mr. Irvine.

"At one stage, the market value of the land was determined at the time families signed 50-year leases and they were permitted to buy the land after five years at that price."

However, the possibility of windfall profits on the part of the house purchaser led to a change in regulations on June 22, 1973. Since then, families continue to have the option of buying lots at any time after five years — but at a price based on the market value at the time they exercise this option, rather than at the time they signed a lease.

Despite the price stabilizing effect of the land speculation tax, some families are beginning to wonder if they will ever be able to buy the land outright, primarily because of the increasing gap between government cost and market value," he said.

"These new arragements will enable us to put the full ownership concept back into the H.O.M.E. Plan."

Under this new policy, the original H.O.M.E. purchaser will acquire title to the land and buildings, subject to mortgages, at the full market value. It will, no longer be necessary to restrict the resale of the house and therefore existing controls on resale will be discontinued.

Families who are presently leasing their lots may continue to do so if they wish. However, they will have the option of replacing the present leasing arrangements with a deed and mortgage in accordance with this new policy.

Letters detailing the policy change have been sent to each individual family leasing land under the H.O.M.E. Plan or OHC's Tenant Purchase Program which also has a lot rental component.

The United Counties Council will go down in history.

The Council certainly will go down in history because it's the first Ontario employer to ever lock out a local of the Canadian Union of Public Employees. It's refusing to let its 47 roads employees report to work because of a "rumour" that the employees might go on strike. Yet the employees have never said they were even considering strike action.

The employees wanted to continue negotiations. But the Council decided it didn't want to talk and then locked out the employees.

And what were the employees asking for? Wage parity with their Cornwall Board of Works counterparts. That's fair. After all, they work just as hard as the Cornwall employees. They're just as dedicated to their work. They're hit by the same rate of inflation. In fact most of the employees are only earning about $500 above the poverty line set for a family of four.

They're your roads. They're your employees. Phone your Reeve and tell him you want the Council to start negotiating seriously so you can get the public service you pay for.

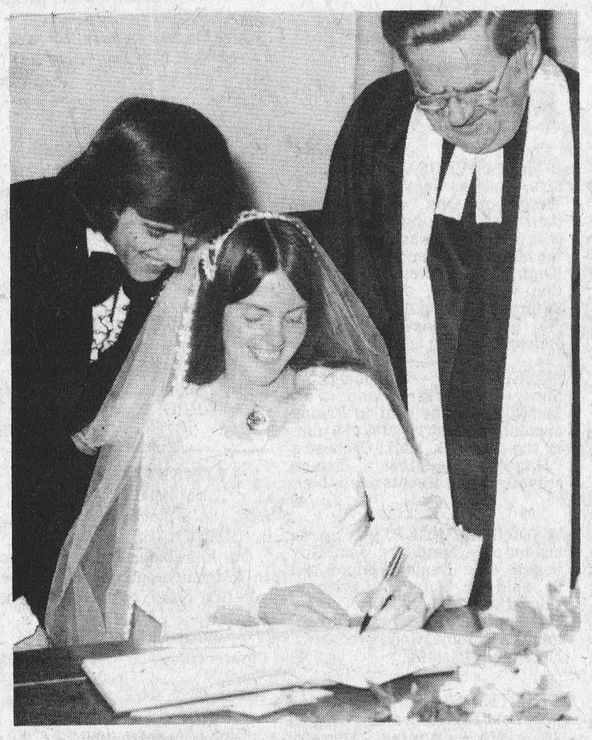
Double Ring Ceremony unites Schwerdtfeger-Reid

Marriage vows and rings were exchanged on Saturday, July 26, 1975, before Rev. L. M. Ferguson at Trinity United Church, Chesterville, when Linda Suzanne Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Reid, Chesterville, and Terry George Samuel Schwerdtfeger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schwerdtfeger, Winchester, were united in marriage.



The organist, Mrs. Joye Loucks, accompanied the soloist, Miss Colleen Coulthart, who sang "The Wedding", "We've Only Just Begun" and "Let It Be Me".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a traditional empire waist gown of sheer organza with shepherdess sleeves and a scoop neckline enhanced with gypure lace. The full skirt of the gown had a ruffled edging trimmed with venice lace and an attached chapel train. She wore a matching cap of seed pearls with a Cathedral length veil trimmed with venice lace and a silver locket, a gift from the groom. She also carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids, white roses, baby's breath and ivy.

Linda was attended by her cousin, Miss Dauna Harrison, maid of honour, by Mrs. Lorna Allison, sister of the groom, and Miss Brenda Burger, friend of the bride, bridesmaids, and by Miss Sharon Armstrong, friend of the bride, flowergirl. They chose empire waist gowns of pastel peach and mint green with shepherdess sleeves and scoop necklines. The attendants wore picture hats of peach and mint green polyester crepe, covered with white lace and carried white straw baskets of peach, white and green miniature mums and baby's breath.

The best man was Mr. Angus MacIntosh, friend of the groom and the ushers were Mr. Malcolm Allison, brother-in-law of the groom and Mr. Dale Reid, brother of the bride. The ring bearer was Mr. George Armstrong, friend of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a pink floral floor length sleeveless dress and coat ensemble with pink accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The groom's mother chose a mauve floral floor length long sleeve dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, a dinner reception was held in the Church Parlour, after which the guests gathered at the home of the bride's parents. Later in the evening a wedding dance was held in the Legion Hall, Chesterville.

For travelling the bride chose a sleeveless peach dress and long sleeve short jacket ensemble with white accessories with a white cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom was attired in a pastel blue suit with navy accessories. After a honeymoon in Bermuda, the couple will reside in the Winchester area.

Moose Creek W.I.

Grandmothers entertained

The July meeting of the Moose Creek W.I. took the form of an open-air supper when the non-Grandmothers of the branch entertained the Grandmothers of the Branch at the cottage of Mrs. Chester Valley at 7 p.m. Some enjoyed a dip in the pool before being seated to a Kentucky Fried Chicken supper with all the trimmings.

A short business meeting followed with the President Mrs. Emery Brunet presiding, assisted by the secretary, Miss Florence Gentles. Plans were made to attend the Avonmore Grandmothers Night.

There will be no meeting in August. The September meeting will be convened by Mrs. Stella Beauchamp and Mrs. Leona LaFrance on Family and Consumer Affairs.

The Roll call was answered by How Many Grand-children, their names and ages?

Lucky Grandmothers were; Mrs. Adelard Emmell, Mrs. Wilfrid Montcalm, Mrs. Wm. McIntosh, Mrs. Wilfrid Beauchamp, Violet McDiarmid, Mrs. Gordon McKercher.

A door prize donated by Mrs. Grace McNeil was won by Mrs. Chester Valley. Mrs. E. L. Blair moved a vote of thanks to the non-grandmothers who entertained with such a grand supper.

Mrs. Elmer McDermid moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Valley for the use of the cottage and pool. The rest of the evening was enjoyed by just sitting and enjoying the cool, clear mountain air and the birds in the evening.

Dundas Beef Club holds Aug. meeting

The fourth monthly meeting of the Dundas Beef Club was held on August 6, 1975, at the home of Ron McKee, Winchester.

The meeting was opened by the repeating of the 4-H Pledge, then the president, Cathy Cross, asked the members if they had any ideas for the Dress-up Stall, which would be exhibited at Chesterville Fair. Some ideas were forthcoming and a final decision was reached. Members volunteered their services to work at decorating the stall.

Further discussion was held on having a display in the Exhibition Hall in conjunction with the fair. This exhibit will illustrate what the Club is actually doing and what to do to join next year.

The meeting was then handed over to the leader, John Dalrymple, who gave pointers about showing calves. He discussed grooming of the animal and the way to lead a calf.

A motion was heard to adjourn. Lunch was served and a vote of thanks was extended the McKee's for the use of their home.

The abandoned car is on the road to recovery.

There they sit.
Ugly, rusting eyesores.
Cars, abandoned in the night because they don't run anymore, they don't shine anymore. They don't do anything anymore but blotch fields and ruin landscapes.

What can we do?

We can put them on the road to recovery. Which is exactly what the Ontario Ministry of the Environment is doing.

The Ministry has initiated a program to get abandoned cars out of the fields and into recycling plants where valuable materials will be recovered and used.

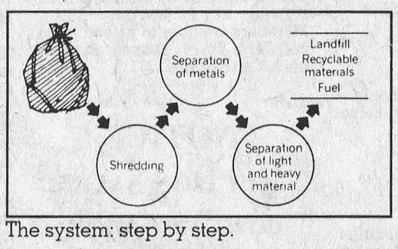
Three test programs have been completed, and a pilot project is under way in Temiskaming. The Ministry is now negotiating with 16 other municipalities in Ontario to start local programs as soon as possible.

Is it worth the trouble?

Five hundred thousand abandoned cars—that's how many are dotted across our beautiful province—say yes. It would be worth it just to get them out of sight.

But recycling abandoned cars will do a lot more than that.

Each heap will yield a ton of metal, metal we won't have to mine.



The system: step by step.

Metal we shouldn't mine, because our supply of natural resources won't last forever.

The road to recovery.

One of the main drains on our natural resources is the ever-increasing amount of garbage we all produce.

The Ministry is looking for ways to cut down on that amount.

And it's starting to re-use our garbage. Recycling abandoned cars is just one example.

Practically all of our garbage will be processed in recycling centres to be built right across the province. They'll turn garbage into valuable resources like fuel, landfill, paper, cardboard, metals.

The first of these centres is underway in North York. The rest will be strategically placed through Ontario in the next 15 years, with a transportation system and transfer stations to keep the whole network flowing.

When the system is fully operational, 90 per cent of Ontario's garbage will be recycled for re-use. The need for dumping grounds and landfill will be virtually eliminated.

It's a long and complicated road ahead.

But the route is clearly marked. And it leads to recovery.

KITCHEN CORNER

Peaches

Freeze or can Ontario peaches now for tasty winter treats. Ontario freestone peaches provide an excellent souce of Vitamin A, and with the price of sugan down to only half the level of last year, families can prepare inexpensive and tasty desserts for use long after the peach harvesting season.

Varieties such as Redhaven Envoy, Velvet and Loring are highly suited for freezing. Always select ready-to-eat peaches that have reached the peak of maturity and flavour. This may mean resorting the peaches daily to make certain only perfectly ripe fruit is preserved.

Dry Sugar Pack Method

6 cups sliced peaches
1 cup sugar
ascorbic acid

Mix sugar and ascorbic acid together following the directions on ascorbic acid package. Peel the blanched peaches, slice into a bowl, sprinkle with the sugar and ascorbic acid mixture. Continue peach by peach until peaches and sugar mixture have been well combined. Allow these to stand until sugar has dissolved and starts to draw juice from the fruit. Pack in rigid moisture-vapor-proof container, leaving ½-inch head space. Place piece of crumpled wax paper on top of peaches, to keep the fruit well covered with juice. Seal, label, quick-freeze.

Home Canning of Ontario Peaches

Purchase when your favourite variety is at peak of harvest, when flavour and quality are at their best. Sort for ripeness; allowing too firm peaches to ripen at room temperature. Make syrup for fruits according to type of syrup desired (very thin to heavy); preparing approximately 1½ to 2 cups syrup for each quart jar used.

Place peaches - a few at a time in a wire basket or in a large square of cheese cloth; plunge into boiling water for ½ to 1 minute; dip immediately into cold water; remove skins.

Cut in halves and remove pits. To keep from discolouring immerse immediately in brine made of 1 tsp. salt to 1 quart water. Drain thoroughly before placing in jars for processing. Pack fruit in jars. Using a jar funnel, fill the jar with the prepared hot fruit and syrup. Wipe rim of container with a clean towel to remove any particles. Place lids in saucepan of boiling water. Remove one lid from boiling water, cover the jar.

Mash'n Boil Peach Jam

15 cups peeled, sliced, firm ripe peaches (6 lbs.)
¾ cup lemon juice
9 cups sugar

Dip peaches into boiling water, a few at a time. Peel, then slice and measure. In a large saucepan, mash peaches, mix with lemon juice and sugar. Place over medium heat and bring to a boil. Raise heat, boil rapidly and stir often. Remove scum periodically. Continue boiling at high heat for about 25 minutes. Start to check for jelly stage. When the jelly stage has been reached, pour the hot jam at once into sterilized jelly glasses, seal with 1-8 inch paraffin, apply lid tightly. Yields 11 jars.

To test for jelly stage, run a metal spoon through the mixture. Raise the spoon, then tilt it to let the contents run back into mixture. At the point when the spoon sheets (remains coated) and the last drops 'run together', the jelly stage is reached. This jam consistently takes a total cooking time of 32 minutes to reach the jelly stage.

Peachy-Fruit Salad

2 fresh peaches, pared and sliced
2 fresh plums, pared and quartered
1 large orange, pared and sectioned
4 maraschino cherries, halved
2 tbsp. slivered preserved ginger
1 carton (8 oz.) peach or orange flavoured yogart
Sliced almonds for garnish

"The Queen and Her Maids"

The Girls vs. The Boys

Pitchers Big Doug Casselman, Gerry Belanger and Murray Hyndman will face a tough test when the Williamsburg-Brinston Pioneers meet "The Queen and Her Maids", a California based team of 4 players who travel around the world and challenge nine-man softball and baseball squads, regardless of caliber.

Rosie Black dons a red, white and blue blindfold and baffles would-be hitters with the same consistency she achieves normally. Although she has compiled a phenomenal winning percentage, 1,140 victories against a paltry 45 defeats, the essence of her 90-minute time limit exhibition is entertainment. Coupled with the focus on showmanship, it is always a legitimate contest.

Her cast includes a younger sister, Eileen Beaird, 20-year old catcher with a trigger-like throwing arm; 23 year old Debby Bevers, first baseman, leads the team in home runs with as many as 34 in one season. The 4th member of the team is a nondescript character named Lotta Chatter, who covers the shortstop position and supplies the comedy for the uniquely entertaining family exhibition.

It is Rosie's talent, however, that baffles the opposing team with her 16 varieties of underhand fastballs, curves, risers, drops, knuckle balls and change-ups thrown from the regulation mound and occasionally will deliver strikes from second base. She also jazzes up her assortment of deliveries with such unorthodox tosses as behind the back, between the legs, from her knees and other odd windmill windups.

"You Were Asking?"

(This column has been prepared as a public service by the Ontario Nursing Home Association.)

Do all Nursing Homes have registered nurses on staff?

Ontario Nursing Homes are licensed by the Ministry of Health and must meet specific regulations in the Nursing Homes Act 1972 regarding nursing staff. Nursing Homes are staffed by Registered Nurses, Registered Nursing Assistants and Health Care Aides. All nursing homes have a Director of Nursing, who is a registered nurse. All nursing home residents who are eligible under the Extended Care program must receive a minimum of 1½ hours nursing care daily. Every nursing home has a registered nurse on call at all times. The nursing program is carried out under the direction of the resident's physician.

How do nursing homes and other extended care facilities help elderly people remain active?

Activity programs are vital to residents of extended care facilities. Programs are designed to help people keep mentally alert and happy, so they continue to take an interest in life. Crafts, social activities, and participation in outside activities make it possible for the elderly to lead full active lives. Recently, a service club in Metropolitan Toronto donated an oven and regrigerator to a nursing home so residents could bake and prepare favorite recipes. The two appliances will be located in the activity room, where residents will be able to enjoy using them under the supervision of the Home's Activity Director.

MacDonald — Maher

Marriage vows and rings were exchanged before Rev. A. Matthews on Friday, June 27, 1975 at 7 p.m. in Woodgreen United Church, Toronto, when Bonnie Catherine MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton R. MacDonald, Finch, and Vaughan Alexander Maher, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Melville Maher, Toronto, were united in marriage.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride wore an empire styled gown of organza over satin. Lace appliques emphasized the V-neckline and cuffs of the long full sleeves and were scattered over the ruffle-edged skirt that extended into a short train. A lace headress held her circular veil of tulle. She carried a basket of yellow roses and white carnation and baby's breath.

Maid of Honour, Mrs. Bonnie L. MacDonald, Cornwall, sister-in-law of the bride, wore a matching styled gown of yellow dacron printed with pink rose sprays and lined with pink taffeta. It featured a sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. It was trimmed at the ruffled hem and on the sleeves with yellow rose appliques. She wore a white picture hat trimmed with yellow ribbon and pink rose appliques. She carried a basket of yellow daisies.

Glen Colebrook of Oshawa attended the groom as bestman.

At the reception held at the Town and Country Restaurant the guests were received by the bride's mother wearing a three-piece ensemble in pale blue polyester knit with silver accessories and pink orchid corsage. Mrs. John Harding, aunt of the groom, wore a pink lace pattern gown with cape collar, white accessories and a mauve orchid corsage.

For travelling to Miami and a Carribean Cruise the bride wore a pink and blue plaid ensemble with blue accessories and orchid corsage.

Prior to her wedding the bride was honoured at a Community Shower held in Newington United Church and a miscellaneous shower by her friends and fellow employees in Toronto.

The Leisure Years: Boredom or Fulfilment?

Retirement. The word conjures up visions of endless hours of happy freedom. Why, then, is it such a disillusioning experience for so many people?

The natural tendency is to look forward to devoting unlimited time to travel, hobbies, grandchildren, sports and entertainment. All of which are enjoyable. But when one actually comes to fill day after day in these ways, life can soon pall. Fulfilment is not achieved so easily.

What's missing, according to psychologists and human relations consultants, is involvement in interests outside one's self. Taking part in community affairs, charities, church work or worthy-fund raising projects offers such opportunities. Can you teach English to a new Canadian? Offer volunteer service to some social agency or hospital? Take a part-time job? There are many other ways you can make a worthwhile contribution.

As for hobbies, they can be wonderfully rewarding outlets for one's interests and energies. They can even prove to be the basis of a profitable second career. But to get the most out of any hobby, start taking it up in earlier years. Later, you'll have the necessary skill to allow you to get infinitely more fun and satisfaction out of your efforts. Especially if it's the kind of hobby you can share with others.

Above all, leisure years are brightened by friendships, both old and new, and by maintaining a lively interest in the fascinating world around us. Given reasonably good health, you may well find that the November-December years are the best of your life.

The Worker's Responsibility

Not all the responsibility rests upon management. Every worker has obligations to himself and to his employer.

Work is an individual thing, even if one does it in company with a gang or a group or on a production line. It is a person's own to do well or ill, to improve or debase.

A progressive worker is miles apart from the person who depends upon luck or a union or his personal winning ways to get him what he wants out of life. A good apple-polisher is not always a good grower of apple trees.

There are some basic truths that should be known to all workers and prospective workers, even though at times they seem to be obscured by passing events.

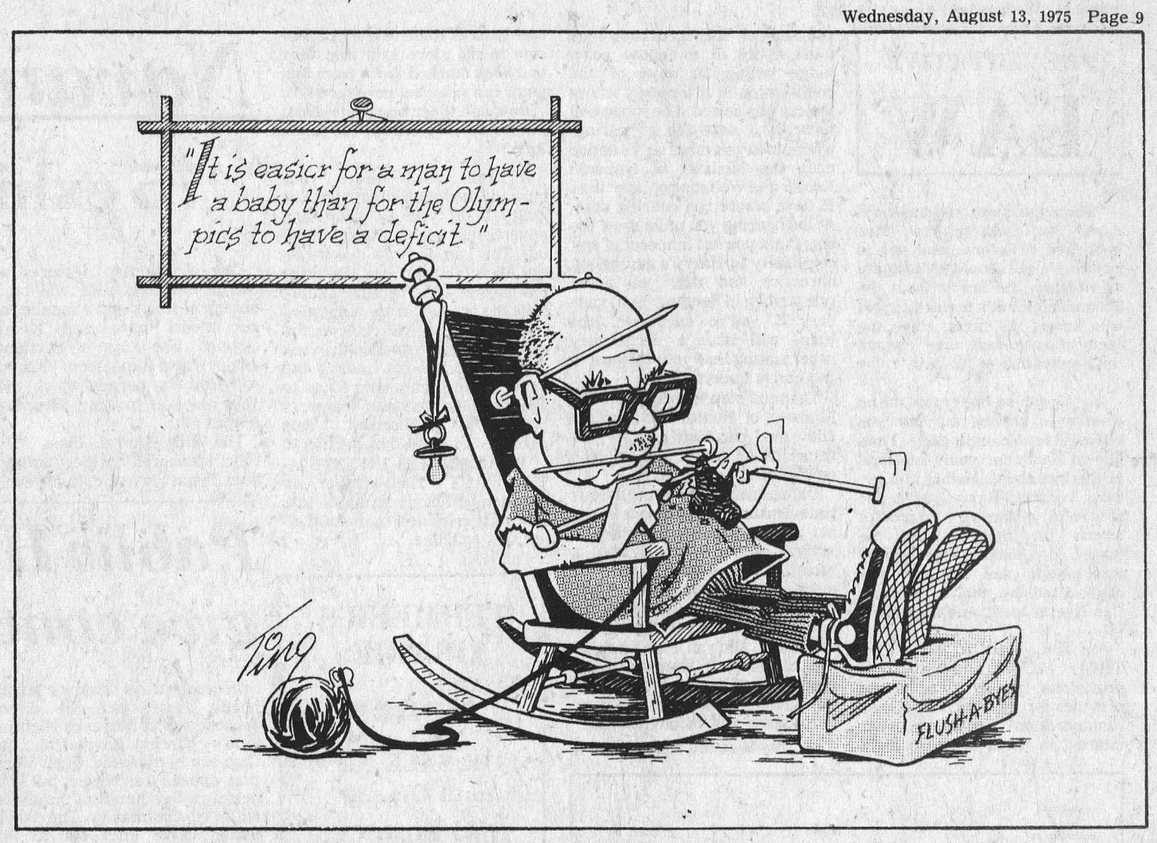
You should know what your job requires of you and where you stand in it. You have to conform to the rhythm of the plant or office: if you are a member of a rowing crew you cannot show rugged individuality in the way you dip your oar even if you are convinced that your way will push the shell along faster. You are entitled to hold you job only so long as you fill your position efficiently.

It is worth while to use all you equipment and to develop new skills, and thus make work exciting and absorbing. Everyone should remain in a state of growth and interest. Sir William Van Horne, who progressed from railway telegraph operator to push through the Canadian Pacific Railway to completion and to end his working life as president of the board of directors, said "What interests a man cannot be called work."

If your interest seems to be dwindling, do a little self-analysis. Have you kept up so as to remain capable of handling the job efficiently? Is your education adequate to enable you to cope with new and complex situations? Does your personality enable you to work smoothly with other people? Are you satisfied that the job you are doing is useful to society?

In addition to the care lavished on raising the standard of living we need a movement to raise the standard of thinking. No one will deny that some jobs are more interesting than others, but it is also true that one mind is more interested and thinks on a higher level than another.

The animal part of man's nature prompts him to avoid difficulties, to follow the lines of least resistance, to be satisfied with existing; but every mature human being feels the need to stretch his mind, to be intellectually aware, to replace the brute instincts with responsible action.



Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: What did you think of the 27-year-old waitress in Somers, Conn., who is filing suit because she was fired for refusing to shave the hair off her legs?

The waitress claims her boss is sexist and that a woman has as much right to have hairy legs as a man.

The boss says he asked the woman to remove the hair from her legs after several customers complained that it spoiled their appetites.

The waitress insists no customer mentioned a word to her about her hairy legs until her boss made a point of it. "Then," she said, "everyone began to eyeball me."

My husband, who is in the restaurant business, agrees with the boss. I'm on the other side. Where do you stand? — The Battling Browns in Battle Creek.

Dear B's: If the court says women waitresses have to shave their legs, they should require male waiters to shave theirs, also.

A sensible alternative would be a requirement that waitresses, and waiters who wear knickers or Bermuda shorts, should wear opaque stockings while on the job.

Dear Ann Landers: I meant to get this letter to you for Mother's Day. After reading the gripe from the woman who dreaded visiting her mother in a nursing home for an hour on Sunday, I decided to send it late as it is. Here's the poem I wrote a few years ago:

A babe in your arms, I warmed to your caresses.
Too young to walk, my faltering steps were guided by your outstretched hands.
When confidence arrived, you gradually released your hold.
I did not understand.
Maturity brought new life, without memories of your sacrifices.
I regret that now.
As you grow older, come close
so I can hold you.
Because now I remember.
It is my turn to love, and guide,
and support you, Mother.
I shall not fail.
Signed: A Son.

Dear Son: The poem is lovely and your signature a surprise. I expected it to be "A Daughter."

Thank you for sharing a beautiful sentiment.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother has given me permission to write for your advice. The problem is hers, not mine.

Mom's sis (I'll call her Aunt Lulu) lives out of state. She keeps making up lies about my mother's health in order to take long weekends off work. Aunt Lulu especially likes to leave her job on Thursday and return on Tuesday. She has told Mom, "If anyone from the office calls to check, please cover for me." No one has ever called so Mom has never had to lie.

Yesterday Mom received a beautiful letter from a woman who works with Aunt Lulu expressing concern over her "recent surgery." She closed with, "Our priest said a special mass for you and I am praying daily for your recovery."

How should Mom respond. — Everybody's Healthy Here.

Dear Ev: Mom should write and tell the woman she appreciates her concern but the reports of her surgery have been grossly exaggerated. She should then instruct Aunt Lulu to find another alibi because she will no longer cover for her.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap.

Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

New Moped Legislation goes into effect

TORONTO — New legislation defining mopeds and their operation goes into effect immediately, Minister of Transportation and Communications John R. Rhodes announced recently.

The new legislation now makes it illegal for anyone under 16 years of age to operate a moped on Ontario roadways.

It also makes it illegal for anyone to carry a passenger on a moped.

Under Section 1 of The Highway Traffic Act, a motor assisted bicycle or moped must not weigh more than 120 pounds, it may not have a piston displacement of more than 50 cubic centimetres and it may not have a hand or foot operated clutch or gearbox driven by the motor and transferring power to the wheel. A moped must have pedals which are operable to propel it at all times and it may not be able to travel faster than 30 miles per hour on level ground within a distance of one mile from a standing start.

Municipalities have also been given the authority to ban mopeds on roadways under their jurisdiction where the speed limit is 50 miles per hour or more.

Additional legislation requiring licences for both the moped and the driver and the wearing of helmets will become effective at a later date.

Old Fort Henry

Some Great Escapes You Never Knew About

This is a story of how dozens of bold, daring men, facing formidable odds and mighty foes, stole past the sentries, crept across 30 feet of dry ditch and scaled the 40-foot sheer limestone walls of Fort Henry, the Citadel of Upper Canada.

Think again! This is not the story of an invasion, for Fort Henry was never attacked. These were not enemy invaders, but enemy prisoners, making a break for freedom.

The mortar was barely dry at Fort Henry before it received its first prisoners, soon to be its first escapees. In July of 1838, John Montgomery, a Toronto tavern-keeper found guilty of treason in the Rebellions of Upper Canada, organized a group of 14 fellow prisoners being held in one of the Fort's lower casemates.

Thanks to a little bribery and a lot of chopping, scraping and chiselling, they managed to tunnel through the limestone walls of their cell and make their way below ground to Fort Henry's reverse fire chambers. One by one they crawled through a man-sized gun embrasure and disappeared into the dark and stormy night, promising to meet again in the safety of New York State. All but two escapees crossed the St. Lawrence River to the United States, where they lived until their pardon some years later. British and Canadian troops no longer garrisoned Fort Henry at the time of the First World War, when it was pressed into service as a prisoner-of-war camp. Two decades and one massive restoration job later, Fort Henry's walls once again confined German prisoners, who proved that there's more than one way to break out of a fortress.

The first successful attempt was by no means glorious. One prisoner made it out of the Fort hidden in a pile of dirt in a garbage truck, only to be immediately recaptured.

As if taking a hint from this hiding trick, two more prisoners concealed themselves in pianos rented to the German officers' recreation room. According to plan, the pianos were returned to a local music store with the prisoners wedged inside. Upon arrival, the truck's "passengers" desperately tried to kick their way out, but were heard by a suspicious store employee. In amazement he watched a body emerging from one of the swaying pianos; then he slammed a piano bench across the hole, leaned on it and yelled. Another imaginative escape was thwarted.

Another pair of prisoners, by chipping away loose stone around a rifle loophole, crawled out and walked across the frozen St. Lawrence River ice to the safety of the American shore, wrapped in white sheets for camouflage and protection. In spite of their hardship, they refused legal entry and returned to Fort Henry.

The largest mass escape took place during a concert at Fort Henry, when 19 men dropped into an abandoned soldiers' privy and tunnelled for freedom through a narrow sewer leading into Lake Ontario. All but three were recaptured in the vicinity, by cottagers, farmers and a joint police and army seach party.

How would you break out of the Citadel of Upper Canada? Under, over or through the walls. Whatever you choose, don't plan your escape strategy until you've had a chance to enjoy the daily music and drill of the Fort Henry Guard. Old Fort Henry in Kingston, Ontario, like Upper Canada Village in Morrisburg, is restored as an historical and recreational site by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Iroquois, Ont.

The Editor,
The Chesterville Record,
Chesterville, Ont.

Dear Editor:

There have been many voices — some of them mere whisperings, some actually spoken, which, now over the past year have come into full cury but ALL these voices asking, beseeching and even demanding the same thing — A Nursing Home in our own Dundas County.

There have been obstacles, one might even say road blocks, some of them legitimate, but the zeal and thoroughness of a few individuals, backed by some groups, with a weighty file of correspondence, countless interviews and intense research have resolved these difficulties.

Now there remains two more hurdles to overcome. One being the examination of two men who are interested in obtaining the licence to run it; the other choice between two suggested sites.

Let us first consider the sites. Number one site faces the highway with a cemetery not too far distant. If you wish to spend your sick and declining days between "the quick and the dead", you will opt for this site. But who wants to? The number two site is the one favoured by the other licence's, Drs. Parisien and McLeod. It is on a high elevation along the St. Lawrence affording a wide view of the river, boats passing by and the lights of the Iroquois Dam in the distance. The Doctors mentioned above, if granted the licence and the river site, will contribute to the needs of the whole man: doctors and nurses to fulfil man's medical needs, the river with its quiet motion, contemplating and healing to his sense of beauty and, hopefully, a chapel to meet his spiritual needs. Too often have we visited nursing homes — so called — where we have seen our friends living in conditions that leave much to be desired.

This "other voice" comes from a very old lady in Dundas County who may one day be requiring care in such a home. With this in mind, I have made it my business to examine these two sites as well as to make a complete unscheduled tour of "Parisien Manor" in Cornwall. I have come away convinced that if Drs. Parisienne and McLeod are granted the licence to build OUR Home on the river site, we can be assured that the needs of our sick and elderly will be taken care of along ALL lines. Surely, my friends, the choice is obvious.

Keep THIS is the forefront of your minds. Our Dundas Home is non-ethnic, non-sectarian and non-political.

PREVENTATIVE LAW

"These questions and answers, based on Ontario law, are published to inform and not to advise. No one should try to apply or interpret the law without the aid and advice of a trained expert who knows the facts, since the facts of each case may change the application of the law."

Q. My friend Harry told me he wanted to borrow my car one weekend for a camping trip. I had known Harry for years and had no qualms about lending him my car. Actually Harry spent the weekend running narcotics across the border from the States. On Sunday night Harry was caught and my car was confiscated by the authorities. Can I get it back, and if so how?

A. The NARCOTICS CONTROL ACT, under whose provisions the car was seized provides for its return or a cash renumeration equal to your interest in it. In order to avail yourself of this provision you must apply to a county court judge within 30 days of the confiscation in the county where the car was seized. The judge will then set a date for a hearing, whereupon you must serve notice upon the Minister of National Health and Welfare not later than 15 days before the hearing date. At the hearing you must show the court that you are innocent of any complicity in Harry's smuggling narcotics and that you acted reasonably in lending him your car. If you're successful the judge will issue a declaratory order stating that your interest in the car is undeminished.

The next step is to apply to the Minister of Health and Welfare and the car will either be returned or you'll get a cash equivalent of your car.

Unfortunately the procedure is time-consuming and even if you act promptly you'll probably be without your car for a least a month. (If the car is used as evidence it may be even longer). Remember, too, that if you do not act within the thirty days as set out in the Act you could lose all interest in it. If Harry has any property or money it would be advisable to sue him for your court costs and inconvenience.

Q. My husband bought a set of cuff-links in Montreal for $25. The sign in the store said that they had been marked down from $40. I saw the same set here for $4.95.

How can there be such a great difference in price for the same item?

A. The store where your husband bought his cuff-links is guilty of a type of misleading advertising, known as pre-ticketing. This can occur in two ways: the manufacturer sets the price too high and the retailer simply sells the product at the suggested (exhorbitant) price; or when the retailer sells at less than the very high list price but marks the price tag in such a way so as to appear to the customer that he is buying at a discount. This practise is outlawed by Section 36 of the COMBINES INVESTIGATION ACT. The retailer in question will likely be liable to a fine and prohibited from continuing this practice.

Navan Fair

'75 exhibition to host Parade and Variety Nite

One of the new features at Navan Fair this year will be a parade of floats and a number of old model cars and steam engines. The Sons of Scotland Junior Pipe Band from Ottawa will lead the parade which will take place at 10 a.m., Saturday, August 16.

The 30th Annual Class "B" Fair, sponsored by the Cumberland Township Agricultural Society, will begin Thursday evening. It will be officially opened by Bob McKeown of the Ottawa Rough-Riders. That same evening another new attraction will be a Variety Night featuring a log-sawing contest, a tug-of-war, a pancake flipping contest, as well as a local talent contest.

An intermediate men's fastball tournament also begins on Thursday evening in the lighted ball park, and continues Friday night, all day Saturday, Sunday afternoon and evening.

On Friday all the cattle are judged indoors in the arena. The Ottawa Valley Ayrshire Show is featured that day at Navan besides the open shows for Holstein, Jersey, Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn cattle. Other Friday judging includes the grains, field crops, fruits, vegetables, flowers, domestic science, homecrafts, junior and senior work.

Friday evening will feature a giant fashion show in the Community Centre Hall with local ladies modelling their own creations. At that time the 1975 Cumberland Township Baking Queen will be crowned. The first light horse show will go on at the same time in the arena. The bingo, midway and booths as well as the beer garden will all be in full swing that night.

Home-cooked meals will be served in the upstairs dining hall both Friday and Saturday at noon and again in the evening.

The first Navan Fair Parade starts off Saturday's activities, and all the exhibits will be on display. There will be light and heavy horse judging all day, a pet show and parade in the arena at 1 p.m., along with a poultry exhibit consisting of many varieties.

That evening another light horse show is staged in the arena, and the Country Kings" will provide dance music in the upstairs hall.

Sunday afternoon there will be light horse jumping and a local pony show, with the Junction Riding Club from Hammond putting on a special show.

A new feature on Sunday afternoon will be the judging of many varieties of sheep. Also the local fire departments will have a horseshoe tournament while the fastball semi-finals are going on. That afternoon a big outdoor chicken barbecue is the attraction for hungry fair-goers.

In the evening the Fair Directors are staging a calf-roping contest, open to anyone, and the steer draw will be held following the ball tournament finals. The "Elusive Butterflys" will play for a teen dance in the hall to round off the four days' activities.

Public Health Nurses give community counselling

In many ways, today's public health nurses are the direct descendants of Florence Nightingale's nursing teams on the Crimean battlefields. Their work may appear less heroic, but it is performed at the site of the action out in the community. The public health nurse goes out to the patient; only rarely does the patient come to her.

The PHN's day might start with a visit to a school in the district she covers. There, she confers with the principal about children who may need help with a physical problem, such as poor vision affecting classroom work, or with a behavior problem such as over-aggresiveness or chronic lateness.

To get to the root of that problem, the PHN may follow up with a visit to the child's home before suggesting a course of action her recommendations will be based on knowledge of the individual, the family, the problem — and the community resources for help.

Much of the rest of her day is taken up with home visiting.

For example, the PHN goes to homes where there's a new baby, advises about feeding and development and, especially, tries to find out how the family as a whole is adjusting to the new arrival.

Actualy, says the Winchester Public Health Office, they may already know the mother, since PHNs conduct pre-natal classes for prospective mothers and fathers.

These classes are just one aspect of what the Public Health Office sees as the PHN's important role as a counsellor, providing a personal health service with an accent on preventitive medicine.

"We keep in mind a total view of health, including the family, community and social factors that can affect it", says the Winchester Public Health Office.

The public health nurse also does follow-up visits on pre-school children, providing information to parents about diet and immunization and safety in the home. There is also on-the-spot continuing care providing for patients with tuberculosis or other communicable diseases. The PHN also provides guidance in such areas as birth control, parent-teenager relationships, drug abuse and nutrition.

These mobile community health workers are Registered Nurses who have taken additional special training.

A simple telephone call to our Public Health Office will bring a health nurse to help you. She will either provide that help directly, or, because she knows what and where all other community health agencies are, she will help you by putting you in touch with the one that can serve you best.

Berwick Girls win tournament in 8th inning

Berwick Recreation Centre's first Midget Girls Softball Tournament was a giant success as seven teams battled for top honours in the A and B division.

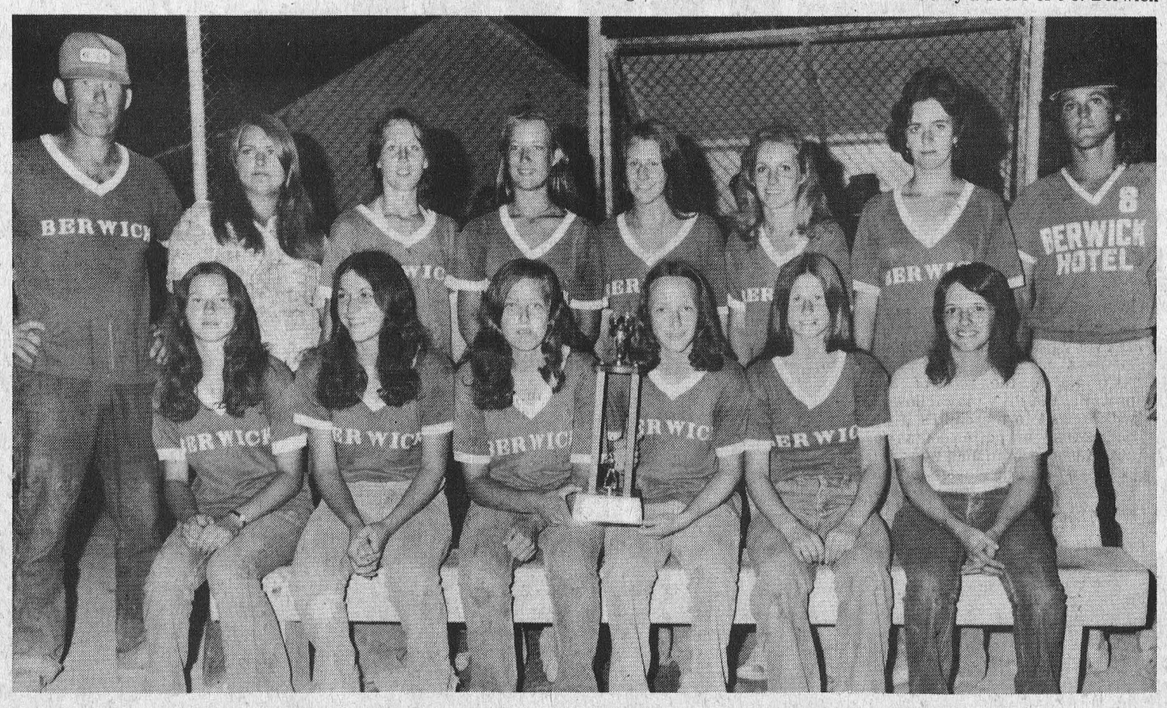
Ideal weather conditions, set the scene for the first game on Sauturday afternoon. In the tournament opener; Finch was matched against Russell and came out the winners, by a score of 22-8. The following games saw Berwick defeat Williamsburg 16-6; and Chesterville, by default was awarded the game against Ingleside.

Action resumed Sunday afternoon under favorable conditions. Chesterville gained a birth in the finals by pulling off a 16-5 victory over Mountain. Williamsburg eliminated Russell by a score of 18-5. The next game was a hard fought battle, between Finch and Berwick as the game saw Finch retired from further play by a score of 8-7.

In the "B" division final, Ingleside, despite the handicap of having only 8 players, still posed a challenge to Williamsburg, but were defeated 19-10. Williamsburg then left the tournament with the "B" division trophy and the most valuable player award going to Donna Barkley.

The Championship "A" final, saw Chesterville matched against Berwick, in what proved to be the most exciting game of the tournament. The game was a closely fought battle until the 6th inning when Chesterville pulled ahead by a score of 9-5. Berwick never lost their confidence as their pitcher, Kathleen Vanier kept her team in the game. With two girls on base in the 7th inning Lois Hehir entered the game. With the count 3 & 2, tension mounted, Lois rose to the occasion and whacked a towering home run deep in the right field, bringing her team to within 1 run of tying the game.

The skillful base running of Marianne Petke proved to be too much for Chesterville's team, as an over throw allowed the tying run to come in. Berwick never looked back! As the 8th inning began Berwick kept Chesterville scoreless by 2 breathtaking catches by left fielder Diane McMonagle. The 3rd out was a team effort. Bonnie Windsor, Chesterville's pitcher never lost confidence as she struck out the first batter. The next two batters drew walks. with the winning run on base, Helen had a hard-hit drive into left field, thus giving Berwick top honours in the "A" Division. Diane McMonagle copped the most valuable player award for her fantastic fielding ability.



It took an extra inning of play for the Berwick Midget Girls' team to defeat the Chesterville entry by a score of 10-9. The game, a real thriller, kept everyone on the edge of their seats until the final run was scored at the bottom of the eighth inning. Seven teams competed for the championship during the two-day tournament hosted by Berwick Community Centre last week-end. Folk art contest to be featured at Chesterville Fair Sept. 5, 6, & 7th Geny and John Goddard a few short months ago took up residence in the south end of the village . . . Chesterville hasn't been quite the same since Geny appeared on the scene.

This energetic lady can be seen bouncing along the sidewalk, doing some shopping, pedaling madly along the street on her little bicycle, as she travels downtown and back; catching the bronze swimming class at the pool five days a week and even finds time left to be the moving force behind a Folk Art Contest.

Geny will have an art studio set up in the arena the three days of the fair, Sept. 5, 6, and 7.

To create some interest ribbons will be awarded to the winning entries, which will be judged at the Chesterville Artists Guild's Workshop, to be held on September 17th.

The contest is open to all people living in the Chesterville area. And can include drawing, sketching, sculpture, poetry . . . with each piece relating to life in the country.

There will be a special award to art work including the following — weeds, tree bark, fungus and cow manure, the four must be used. It is recommended that the last item on the list get a good coating of varnish — no further explanations.

On your entry form it is requested that you include your age, name and address. If over 18 you can just mark adult.

As was stated in the beginning things just haven't been the same since Geny came to town. It makes you wonder what scheme she'll dream up next. Be sure and visit Geny's Art Studio in conjunction with Chesterville Fair, and if you are so inclined a bit of work could win you a prize.

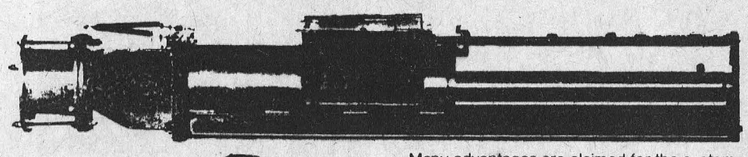
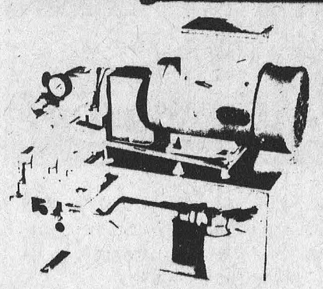
Ram and Power Pack For Underground Disposal Systems





Many advantages are claimed for the system . . . . the power unit can be positioned anywhere in the barn and the manure heap is located at any convenient spot since the tube can be placed underneath yards or roads without difficulty. There are few moving parts in the system, link chains and stable cleaner stackers with their corrosion and freezing problems are eliminated. The system works equally well with all kinds of manure, from liquid to material containing long straw. Solid wastes including straw, sawdust, and wood shavings used as bedding material are handled with no problem at all. Solid manure is forced underground to the end of its run at ground level. As the manure is forced out of the pipe, it forms a uniform solid pile with a hard crust as surface moisture dries. Fresh manure is inside the pile and, as the fresh material is unexposed, flies in the area are kept to a minimum. Usually, the pile is situated on a concrete pad, poured for the purpose, which gives easy access to front-end-loaders for easy removal to spreader equipment.

Drop opener to Munster

Chesterville's Intermediate Fastball Team is currently in a play-off series with Munster. Game One is now history with the local lads being dropped 2 - 0. The series will be the best of five.

Stan Woods was on the mound in game one, he gave up only two hits, and had seven strike outs in going the distance. Munster scored a single run in the 4th and another in the 5th.

Chesterville had 6 hits against Munster but were unable to keep the drive going as they advanced men to third base in both the 4th and 5th innings, with no one out, only to leave them stranded there at the end of the inning.

Play-off action resumed in Chesterville on Tuesday night of this week.

Tournament Action

In tournament action last Saturday, at Brinston, Chesterville's first game against Safeway, from Smiths Falls, turned into a real cliff-hanger in the end, as the teams went 14 innings to get a winner.

Dave Dixie, of hockey fame, was on the mound for Smiths Falls, while Keith McRoberts and Stan Woods each took seven innings for Chesterville.

At the end of seven innings the game was all even at 1-each. In the top of the 14th, Smiths Falls drove home four runs and Chesterville in the bottom of the inning had two, to lose the game 5 - 3.

Smiths Falls had pretty well taken the stuffings out of Chesterville in the 14-inning session. Chesterville was back on the diamond only 45 minutes after the first game. Williamsburg handled the tired lot by a score of 7 - 0.

At the league level a Most Valuable, Best Offensive and Best Defensive player will be cited at the end of season play. Each team makes their choice and submits the names to the league executive. Chesterville's choice has been — Stan Woods, Most Valuable Player; Gary Barkley, Best Defensive Player and Lester Holmes, Best Offensive Player. When all the team choices have been submitted, there will be furthur balloting to determine the ultimate league winners.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our appreciation to our many friends for the kind messages of sympathy received after the death of a beloved sister, Mrs. Olive Marmor in a Rochester Hospital.

Pens or Hutches help to keep calves healthy

Dairy farmers have traditionally had problems keeping newborn calves healthy and alive. Many times the only means of breaking the disease cycle in an old facility is to move to a different environment. Outside pens, or calf hutches, may serve as an immediate, low cost way of solving this problem.

This approach has been used in Michigan, and by some farmers in Ontario, apparently with great success even in colder months of the year.

Some of these structures have been built recently at Kemptville College to examine the feasibility of housing newborn animals in individual hutches thoughout the four seasons of the year. These structures are made of ½" plywood and measure 4' x 4' x 8' with one end open away from the prevailing winds. Calves can be tethered or restrained by enclosure with page wire fencing.

Calves were placed in the hutches as soon as they were dry after birth. This was started in April of 1975, but the snow and cold did not appear to hamper calves at all. It is important that the calf be dry and out of drafts. With these conditions met, the temperature does not appear to be critical. Calves required no treatment and gained as well or better than calves raised in conventional warm housing. This work will be continued until the spring of 1976, so anyone wishing to see this method of housing are encouraged to visit Kemptville College at any time.

Although these outside pens have year round potential, they are probably of special value to dairymen who are having severe disease problems in their present housing facility.

Dundas County Women's Institutes tour Pennsylvania

For their second annual Bus Tour, the Dundas County Women's Institutes, chose to visit a section of South Central Pennsylvania. In all, 86 ladies, including many from this area, and representing 10 Dundas County Women's Institutes, spent three days recently visiting the Amish section of Lancaster County and the town of Hershey, Pennsylvania, better known as Chocolate Town, U.S.A.

The tour was organized and conducted by Mrs. Howard Mellan of the Matilda W.I. Branch, with Mrs. Stanley Sloan of Spencerville as her assistant during the trip. Arrangements for transportation were made by Strader's Bus Lines of Iroquois, with Bill Murdock of Iroquois and Ralph Armstrong of Peterborough as drivers.

This year this section of Pennsylvania had a special appeal for Dundas County people who have endured several weeks of drought conditions. In marked contrast, the fields of Lancaster County were green with thick clover and other crops; the corn crops, especially, were an unbelievable height, the result of ample rains and careful cultivation.

Despite the emphasis on tourism in Lancaster County, the Amish farms of the area retain the practices which reflect their simple religious beliefs. No powered machinery of any kind is used on these highly productive farms; all field work is done with horses and broad-backed mules, except in some instances where an air-cooled gasoline engine may be used for baling hay or similar work. No electricity is used on these farms, except where state regulations require refrigerated coolers for storage of milk; in these cases, the electric power stops at the milkroom; it is not used elsewhere on the farm, neither in the barns nor in the homes. Power for pumping water for the herds of cattle or for other farm requirements is usually supplied by windmills; quite frequently, water wheels in small adjacent creeks may be used as well, both of these methods represent a NATURAL type of power, and are therefore acceptable to the Amish farmers.

On the roads, from the busiest highways to the quiet country concessions, one can see all types of buggies and wagons, drawn by fine horses; state law requires slow-moving signs and battery-powered lights on these vehicles, but otherwise, they mingle with all sorts of modern types of transportation and add interest to the scene. Most small villages have buggy and carriage shops, harness shops, furniture shops, etc. where the needs of these gentle folk are provided for. The group from Dundas County enjoyed a traditional Pennsylvania Dutch meal, and a house tour, as well as their 3½-hour tour of the Amish countryside. For those accustomed to restaurants where a portion of each food is placed on the plates, the huge platters and bowls of food served in the Pennsylvania Dutch style were amazing, to say the least.

For everyone, it was difficult to believe that less than 500 miles from Dundas County, there is such a peaceful yet prosperous way of rural life!

In the town of Hershey, the group toured Chocolate World, a unique building in which the Hershey Company undertakes to simulate all aspects of the chocolate industry from the work done on the cocoa plantations in the tropics to the manufacture of the many chocolate and cocoa products put out by the firm. In addition, the visit of the Dundas group to Hershey coincided with the annual Pennsylvania Dutch Days held there; many of the old-time crafts and products were exhibited, and more of the excellent Pennsylvania Dutch food was enjoyed.

Additional variety on the tour was provided by an evening at Summer Stock Theatre where the comedy "Spinoff" was presented by New York actors; a visit to the grounds of the Cloisters where an 18th century religious group had endeavoured to lead a true Christian life in a communal setting provided added interest. There was even time for a few hours' shopping in a huge mall near Lancaster City; the entire enclosed mall was carpeted, with cushioned seats everywhere for the weary, and at the very centre, a 40-ft. waterfall surrounded by miniature trees and flowers was eye-catching.

Along with the numerous attractions of the countryside, the group was favoured with excellent weather during most of the tour; the interest expressed by everyone indicated the general enjoyment of it, and there is a likelihood that a similar tour may be undertaken in the near future.

Russell: 14

Anyone who attended the Bantam Softball Tournament held in Winchester last week-end will testify that you don't have to be entertained by the big league to get excitment. Winchester, the host team, was down six runs in the 7th inning, but determination proved to be the winning factor in the game, as the boys came through with the six runs, and went on to defeat the Russell entry 16-14 in extra innings. The game that had a little bit of everything ended a day-long tournament in which seven teams battled for the championship. Front row, from the left, Wade Levere, Glen Mackler, Randal Docksteader, George Bell, Peter MacLeod, Dean Williams, Peter Guy, James Utman. Back row, from the left, Gerry Helmer, Doug Last, Paul Helmer, John Cooke, Paul Gibson, Doug Duncan, Bruce Beattie, Norm Sarault. — Staff Photo.

Aug. 31 deadline for Ont. Beef Calf Income Stabilization Program

The Agricultural Office has received many inquiries into this new program. This program was recently announced by the Honourable Wm. Stewart, the Ontario Minister of Agriculture and Food. The deadline for applying this year is August 31st, 1975. Application forms are available at the Agricultural Office, Winchester.

The objective of the program is to stabilize the income of beef producers in Ontario. It is anticipated that by so doing the program will encourage a continuing steady supply of Ontario produced stocker calves. The program is long term in scope and designed to benefit those producers who plan to continue in beef calf production.

The main features of the program are:

a) the program is voluntary and open to all beef calf producers in Ontario

b) participating producers must join the program for a five year period and must sign a contract to that effect

c) each year participating producers must supply farm data including the number and type of beef cows on the farm as of July 1st (August 31, 1975). For the purpose of this program beef cows are defined as cows which have produced a calf. Any cows from which industrial or fluid milk is sold cannot be registered in the program. It is the responsibility of the participating producers to adequately describe beef cows enrolled in the program so that they can be identified.

d) participating producers pay an annual fee per beef cow enrolled in the program

e) the Ontario Government contracts to make a grant per cow to participating producers in those years in which beef stocker calf market prices fail to return a basic income over and above operating costs for efficient beef calf producers.

Calculating the Grant per Cow

a) A price guarantee per pound is established for stocker each year. The guaranteed level is designed to cover operating costs plus a percentage of fixed costs on an efficient operation. For 1975 the price guarantee is 50c a pound.

b) the weighted average price of Ontario produced stocker calves is established each year during the months of September, October and November, based on sales at major selling points in Ontario.

c) the grant is based on producing a 450 lb. calf and 85 percent calf crop

d) therefore, in years in which the market price is less than the guaranteed price the grant per cow will be 450 x 0.85 x (price guaranteed minus the market price)

e) the grant will be made in December to you, whether you sell your calves or not.

As mentioned earlier the forms are available at the local Agricultural Offices. The deadline for enrollment is August 31st.

Any farmers wishing more information contact the Agricultural Representative or attend the information meeting outlined in the coming event section of this paper.

As I See It

By Mike Rowden

PRIDE GOETH BEFORE A FALL

Years ago, when I lived on the outskirts of Toronto, in Scarborough, I built a home and had a fine garden in the rear, plus the usual postage-stamp-size lawn in the front.

The garden had several small fruit trees, a few raspberry bushes and the rest was mainly potatoes, beans, peas and all the rest of the 'garden truck' that any thrifty homeowner and gardener knows will save a large amount on the food bill, but rarely does.

A good garden, growing all those luscious fruits and fresh vegetables can draw friends and neighbours for miles, quicker than a fallen plum draws flies. It will also draw the birds at about the same rate.

One bird, that was drawn like a magnet to our little bit of Eden, was a Robin. Not just an ordinary run of the mill Robin, but one, that if his family tree could be traced, no doubt led back to Royal Robin blood. At least that was the attitude it displayed. Proud, arrogant and certainly the best dressed of Robins, he took over the garden as his chosen domain. And would fight anything and everything at the drop of a feather, to maintain what he considered his God given rights, other Robins or other birds of any kind, cats, dogs and even human beings. When he was successful, which was pretty well all the time, that bird would strut across the lawn, and how he could strut, head held high, bright eyes agleam and oh so proud of himself.

Naturally this fighting spirit needed all the energy the bird could muster . . . so needless to say he foraged constantly, when he wasn't protecting his property, with the result that the dew worms took a beating. He would cock his head and listen and with a couple of quick hops garner another snack.

While watching some Robins at this job, one notices they usually spot the worm, grab which ever end is handy, then tug and relax, tug and relax, until finally the unfortunate worm is dragged out of its hole and onto the lawn. Where the bird pecks it into insensibility before dining.

Our proud Robin was not one to mess about, wasting time in this fashion. His method was more direct and more in keeping with his character. Once he spotted his intended meal, he would grab the available end and pull, in a tremendous tug-of-war with his earthbound adversary. Determined to show his mettle and get his dinner as quickly as possible, so as to get back to protecting his domain.

One day, he made the mistake of picking on a worm, who no doubt, if his ancestry could be traced, was equally as impressive as the Robin's. In addition, as worms go, he was big and strong.

The harder the bird pulled, the more the worm resisted and for good reason. The proud Robin reared back, balanced himself on his tail to gain more leverage and pulled harder. Still the un-co-operative worm remained anchored . . . although by this time better than half its length had been drawn from the ground.

The bird could have probably let go and taken a fresh hold on this luckless dinner, closer to the hole it occupied, but that wasn't its nature. The Robin's creed was obviously, "once you get a good hold, don't ever let go until he's all out."

With this philosophy in mind and being too proud to let go, once battle had been joined, he added the power of beating wings to his efforts. It was too much for the worm's constitution, he snapped in two and the Robin catapulted over backwards with the sudden release of his pulling.

Lying on his back for perhaps three or four seconds, amid a small flurry of feathers, he looked ridiculous. Still holding onto the portion of the worm he had managed to acquire. He shook his feathers into place, looked around, as if wondering whether anybody or anything had witnessed his undignified pratfall, then quickly flew up onto a branch and had lunch.

VISIT CHESTERVILLE PARK

Premier Davis to visit Fort Henry August 23

The Hon. William G. Davis, Q.C., Premier of Ontario, will be the inspecting officer at a joint ceremony at Old Fort Henry in Kingston, Saturday evening, August 23, 1975, at 7:30. On this occasion, the Fort Henry Guard will "hand over" the Fort to visiting units of the United States Marine Corps from Washington, D.C.

The Changing of the Guard is the highlight of the ceremony, marking the U.S.M.C.'s seventh visit to Old Fort Henry. The following evening, August 24, the Fort will be returned to the hands of the Fort Henry Guard. Lt.-Gen. Samuel Jaskilka, Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps, will be the inspecting officer at this ceremony.

On both occasions, visitors to Old Fort Henry will be treated to a spectacular display of music, marching, drill and gunfire, in which all units will participate.

Old Fort Henry's limestone walls will resound with booming brass when the U.S. Marine Drum and Bugle Corps presents its program, ranging from stirring martial music to popular selections of today. Then, scarcely a sound will be heard as members of the U.S.M.C. Silent Drill Team execute a series of breathtaking spins and tosses with their ten-pound rifles. This razor-sharp team demonstrates its proficiency by performing a ten-minute precision drill entirely without verbal command.

The Fort Henry Guard, recreating the British Army of 1867, marches to fife and drum music of Queen Victoria's day and displays drill and battle tactics of the infantry of the line.

The friendship that has grown between the U.S.M.C. and the Fort Henry Guard over the past 20 years is a souce of pride to Canadians and Americans alike. It began with the Marines' first visit to Kingston in 1954, when Fort Henry was handed over to a foreign power for the first time in its history.

The following year the Fort Henry Guard travelled to Washington, D.C. to parade at the historic Marine Barracks, beginning a tradition of exchange visits. Friends were made and gifts exchanged, among them a set of keys to Fort Henry presented to the Marines and a Marine Drum, now a prized possession of the Fort Henry Guard. In respect to their Honorary Commander, General Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., retired, a former Commandant of the Marine Corps, the Guard marches off parade to the Marine's Hymn.

What makes this relationship remarkable is that the two units have very little in common. The U.S. Marine Corps, with its 200-year history of glory and distinction in battle, is very much an active, modern military unit, whose members are trained year-round for combat. Fluttering from their Battle Color are 42 streamers representing the military campaigns in which Marines have participated.

The Colors of the Fort Henry Guard, however, bear no battle honors, but the names of the 33 British and six Canadian regiments who served at Fort Henry from 1812 to 1940. The Guard, created in 1938, is not a fighting unit, but a commemorative one. Members of the Fort Henry Guard are Canadian high school and university students, trained during the summer months at Old Fort Henry.

The two units do share an esprit de corps and pride in their separate traditions. The annual joint ceremonies are much more than a pleasant custom. The friendly bond uniting these two groups is symbolic of the peace and goodwill existing between their two nations.
