OBITUARY

LATE MRS. JOSEPHA PATTERSON

Although not wholly unexpected, the news of the death of Mrs. Josepha Patterson, of Cass Bridge, came as a distinct shock to her very numerous friends in this vicinity on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Patterson had not been in very good health for some time, but she was of an apparent rugged constitution, and her sudden passing was not looked for. Mrs. Patterson, whose maiden name was Anna Josepha Hill, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hill, of Pendleton, Ont., was in her 60th year. On her marriage to Mr. Wm. Patterson, she came to Cass Bridge and on their farm there they spent many happy years. Mr. Patterson died about nine years ago. Mrs. Patterson was of a very happy disposition, took an active part in all social affairs, and was a great worker and a member of the Winchester United Church and all its organizations, especially the Ladies' Aid Society and the Missionary Society. Kind and generous, she made many friends, and was one of the most esteemed women in the community. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. M. Jackson, Toronto, and one brother, Robert Hill, who lives in the United States.

The funeral service will be held at her late residence on Friday (to-morrow) afternoon at 1.30 p.m. and will be conducted by Rev. Mr. McKay, of the United Church. The pall bearers will be Messrs. Ford Baker, Ernest Munroe, Russell Blaney, Gordon Baldwin, Jack McOuat and Frank Hogaboam.

United Church Presbytery Meets

The regular fall meeting of the Dundas-Grenville Presbytery was held at Easton's Corners on Tuesday of this week with morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Rev. W. R. Johnston, South Mountain, was in charge, with Rev. H. M. Beach, Oxford Mills, in his usual position as Secretary.

In the election of Officers for the ensuing year, Rev. H. L. Morrison, of Kemptville, received the appointment as Chairman, and Rev. H. M. Beach was appointed as Secretary-Treasurer for the third consecutive term. Rev. J. MacKay was re-appointed a Convenor of Religious Education, and Mr. N. W. Beach continues as Secretary-Treasurer of the Laymen's Association.

A Conference of Leaders in Boys' Work will be held at South Mountain on Thursday October 11th, when minister and laymen from each church in the Presbytery will come together under the leadership of Rev. D. T. I. Forsythe, Conference Young People's Field Secretary, to survey conditions and initiate an active Boys' Programme in the Churches. The Conference will be followed by a monster Boys' Conclave gathered from all over the Presbytery to be held at Hallville on October 12, 13, 14.

A very interesting discussion took place regarding Evangelism and announcement were made of several "preaching missions" to be held at various centres.

Presbytery views with alarm the conditions existing since the proclaiming of the beer and wine regulations, it being the unanimous opinion that in places where beverage rooms operate a very serious menace to youth and everyone has been introduced.

Dr. John W. Woodside of Chalmers Church, Ottawa, brought a stirring appeal for consecration of talents and life at the evening meeting. A brief message was also given by Mr. R. M. Motherwell of Ottawa, Chairman of the Conference Lay Association.

Representatives from Winchester at the meeting, were: Rev. J. MacKay, Messrs. Thomas Annable, Oscar Wallace, Melvin Dawley.

Boxing and Wrestling Program at Cornwall

Encouraged by the success of their first venture on August 30, which attracted more than 2,000 persons, members of Cornwall Kinsmen Club are presenting their second professional boxing and wrestling show at Cornwall Athletic Grounds, on Saturday, September 15, as a means of raising funds for their boy welfare and general service work. The first bout is to be presented at 8.15 p.m., Daylight Saving Time.

The card is unusually attractive, featuring some of Canada's best known boxers and wrestlers. Ronnie Headley, of Ottawa, leading contender for the Canadian welterweight boxing title, will meet Hector Montsion, of Cornwall, in a 10-round challenge bout. Kid Formosa, of Malta, who won 81 of 82 fights during a tour of Europe and Northern Africa in the past two years, is slated to meet Ernie Booth, popular Cornwall flyweight, in a 10-round boxing semi-final. Kid Formosa is a college graduate with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, and speaks five languages. He is in Canada to seek a bout with Bobby Leitham, Canadian bantamweight champion. The boxing preliminary will introduce Kid Herman and Harry Wolfe, Montreal lightweights, in a six-round go.

The boxing bouts will be followed by an ace wrestling match between Mustapha Ahlemand, "The Terrible Turk," and the famed Young Sonnenberg. This match is scheduled to go two out of three falls, with a one-hour limit.

The Kinsmen show is presented under full sanction of the Ontario Athletic Commission. Popular prices prevail for ringside, reserve and rush seats in all sections of the big stand, which holds more than 2,500 fans. The card is the best ever offered in Cornwall and district, and should attract a record crowd.

WINCHESTER TAX COLLECTIONS GOOD

MR. N. W. BEACH REPORTS THAT THE FIRST INSTALLMENT IS PRACTICALLY ALL PAID

Councillor A. G. Suffel presided at a regular meeting of the village council in the council chambers on Friday, Sept. 7th, in the absence of Reeve Jas. H. Ross.

Mr. N. W. Beach, tax collector, was present and reported that over $11,000 of the August installment of the village taxes had been paid, which was practically 100 per cent. of the amount due. He also informed the council that a number of poll tax slips had been returned as the young men assessed were under age. A local business man, who has been in arrears of his business tax for some little time is to be instructed to pay the same by Sept. 21st or steps will be taken to collect the taxes due.

Mr. J. D. Stewart, president of the local Horticultural Society, appeared before the council and gave a very comprehensive resume of the work done during the year. An order was then passed granting the Society $25 for their care of the grounds at the local power station. It was also suggested that an avenue of trees be set out from the station to the high school along Highway No. 31, so as to beautify the approach to the town. Mr. Stewart assured the council that the Society would give the matter consideration.

Councillor Hy. Bessin reported that the new fire engine had been delivered and had been given an adequate test. The engine worked perfectly and no difficulty was to be found in the way of adequate fire protection. Mr. E. M. Shaver, village clerk, stated that two new transformers had ben purchased by the local Hydro Commission. One had been put into immediate use while the second one had been kept on reserve in case of emergencies.

The city of Guelph had communicated a request to the council that they pass a resolution demanding the re-appointment of the Medical Health Officers recently discharged by that department of the Government. No action was taken.

A discussion took place as to the plausibility of setting the date of the Municipal election back to the former date, the first Monday in January. It was decided to leave the matter in abeyance.

New relief forms have been received by the clerk with full instructions as to their use. In future any person applying for relief must furnish a complete report as to their financial position and an inventory of their possessions and obligations against the same.

The street committee was instructed to proceed with the work of repairing Main Street east from Gilroy's shop to the eastern limit of the town. They were authorized to make such repairs as they deemed necessary. Meeting adjourned.

ANDERSON BLOCK TO BE DEMOLISHED

One of the oldest landmarks in Winchester is about to disappear for the work of demolishing the Anderson block on Main St. East is now under way. Built a great many years ago, the building was originally known as the Bouck Block and for some time was one of the main business buildings in town. Later Mr. James Anderson purchased the block and converted it into a number of fine apartments which are still in use.

All tenants of the building have been notified to vacate, it being the intention of the owner to wreck the structure and transfer the materials to Ottawa where he is building several new houses. The building has played an important part in the history of Winchester and its demolition will cause quite a change in the appearance of that district.

CHEESE EXHIBIT HIGHLY PRAISED

WAS FEATURE ATTRACTION AMONG EXHIBITS AT MOUNTAIN FAIR ON SEPT. 6th & 7th

The exhibit of cheese at South Mountain on September 6th and 7th was outstanding in quantity and quality. Forty-two cheese were exhibited representing twenty-four factories, all located in Dundas County. Messrs. George Barr and Freeman Brown placed the awards and experienced some difficulty owing to uniformity and high quality. The nine highest scoring cheese in each white and colored was exhibited by the following makers, in order of highest score.

White Cheese—Wm. Coleman, Mountain; John Cameron, South Mountain. K. Weir, Winchester; Geo. Martin, Hallville; G. H. Summers, Winchester; R. Wright, Winchester; A. H. Bolton, Winchester; M. Barr, Brinston; A. Gauthier, Chesterville.

Colored Cheese—Wm. Coleman, Mountain; Cecil McIntosh, Winchester Springs; R. Wright, Winchester; A. H. Bolton, Winchester; C. H. Cark, Mountain; John Cameron, South Mountain; S. Collison, Inkerman; R. H. Grant, South Mountain; Geo. Martin, Hallville.

It is interesting to note that in total exhibit seventeen cheese scored maximum points in finish and twenty-one maximum points in color.

Much credit is due to the interest and service rendered by Mountain Agricultural Society, Instructors J. W. Coby and J. W. Bolton, and cash contributions to prizes in addition to Society, as follows:

J. W. Bolton, A. H. Bolton, Bank of Nova Scotia, Royal Bank, H. Lannin, W. Moffatt, M. F. Beach Co., Geo. Fraser, Ernie Summers, Winchester, Ont.; Bank of Nova Scotia, H. Richardson, Mountain; Bank of Nova Scotia, Chas. Patton, South Mountain; McMaster Lumber Co., of Kemptville; C. A. Moses, Osgoode Station; D. Carkner and Co., Kenmore; Wm. Beggs, Heckston; W. M. Lacey, Prescott; C. Richardson & Co., St. Mary's; H. McIntosh, Perth; Storey & McMullan, Iroquois; J. A. Sanderson, Oxford Station.

Ex-Presidents of Winchester Group Cheesemakers, 1934 President Winchester Group Cheesemakers making total prizes of approximately $150.00

On Friday P. M., Sept. 7th, a meeting was held in the Agricultural hall under the auspices of Winchester Cheesemakers Group with 25 makers in attendance. where Messrs. George H. Barr, Freeman Brown, Instructor J. W. Bolton and J. Mitchell, J. A. Sanderson and R. Carter spoke very complimentary and offered practical suggestions on continued improvement in quality and style of Canadian Cheese. It was evident that this exhibition was quite educational and admired by many of the visitors to Mountain Fair.

The above article was contributed to the Press through the courtesy of Mr. J. A. Campbell, Secretary for the Judges.

AGRICULTURAL REPRESENTATIVE TRANSFERRED

Farmers throughout this district will regret to learn that Mr. J. A. Simpson, popular representative of the Department of Agriculture at Morrisburg, has been transferred. Mr. Simpson will leave the end of the month to take charge of the County of Peel with headquarters in Brampton, Ont. The organizations and societies formed by him in this district and his tireless efforts on behalf of the farmers, have done much to bring Dundas county's stock and produce to a very high standard. As a result of his work, many prizes have been brought to this district from fairs and exhibitions.

PERSONALITIES OF LOCAL INTEREST

J. W. AULT

Of course everyone in the County of Dundas knows or has heard of "Jack" Ault, known to his intimates as J. W., and when away from his fireside, a man of no small importance, politically and in a business way. While Jack has reach the allotted age of three score and ten, he does not look it, and in mentality, and to a certain extent physically, he would pass for a man fifteen or more years younger.

Born at Shanly Corners, Elizabethtown, Grenville County, he was the third child of a family of seven boys and three girls. Of his youth, childhood and younger days he passed through what most other boys so situated have to pass, but Jack was always a bright lad, sociable, friendly, a lover of animals, and a hustler with a good business head. He started in as a cheesemaker in 1882 near Cardinal, then came to Maple Ridge. In 1884 he built the cheese factory at Cass Bridge, and from that date his success as a "cheese" man was assured. At one time he owned and operated 12 factories, but the pace was too great for even as vigorous a man as Jack, and he gradually got rid of them until, what was then known as the Ellis' factory at Winchester, came into the market, and he bought it, and has continued to operate it ever since. It was about 12 years ago when Mr. Ault bought the Ellis factory, and year by year he has added improvements, until he now has one of the best equipped cheese factories in Eastern Ontario, together with a complete pasteurizing outfit and cold storage room. He turns out on an average about 45 one hundred pound cheese per day, and some days the number reaches fifty. He takes in on an average 7,132,957 pounds of milk a year, and has paid out to the patrons $59,203.50 per year on an average extending over some ten years. He is one of Winchester's most enterprising citizens, and is known throughout all Eastern Ontario. He never fails to attend a horse race or fall fair, and is generally induced to act as Judge or timekeeper for the races.

Jack Ault is a great lover of horses, and even to-day you may see him on the sulky seat behind his racer, and alone he will go to the local race track and have his sprint, just because it is his hobby, and gives him the recreation and pleasure that many another would spend in a less profitable way.

Politically, Jack is a Tory. No doubt about that, and no half measure. He does not dislike Liberals, and some of his best friends are of that party, but there's no compromise with Jack when politics is mentioned, so if you don't agree with his political views the best thing to do is to keep quiet.

A good citizen, one of the best, and he is behind every movement that is intended for the welfare of the town. In fact he is somewhat ahead of most of our citizens, because Jack thinks we ought to buy the fair grounds and own them as a municipality. He also favors a water and sewerage system. If Jack lives ten years more, and we have the right men in the council, he will see both of his dreams fulfilled.

A good neighbour. Never a better one. He would take the boots off his feet for any one more in need of them, and we never heard of him turning a deaf ear to the plea of one in need. Yes, and a good friend, one that not only stands by you, but will go out of his way to help you. A kinder-hearted and a bigger-hearted man you will seldom find. But Jack has a temper, and he "spits" out what he has to say whether it hurts or not, or whether it is the best thing to do or not. That is his way. An hour afterwards he will go to you and offer his hand in friendship.

Yes, J. W. is one of Winchester's interesting personalities, and one of its best citizens.

The appointment of 160 justices of the peace was announced yesterday by Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck. Those in Northern Ontario are to receive $150 a year, while those in the South will receive $100.

Among those appointed are the following from this district:

H. P. Halpin Prescott; Allan McInnis, Iroquois; Walter Beckstead, Morrisburg; M. S. Beckstead, Williamsburg; C. W. Casselman, Chesterville; D. K. McLean, Finch; C. C. Pelton, Kemptville; Dr. Calvin Morrow, Osgoode; D. A. McArthur, Russell; and Elmer Hunter, Cardinal.

Honored At Hallville

A pleasant surprise was recently tendered Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ellis, who have just been married and have taken up residence in Hallville. About fifty residents gathered at their home to welcome them to the community. Mrs. Ellis, who was formerly Miss Mildred MacMillan, of Cumberland, is well known locally, while the groom, William Ellis, of South Mountain, is one of the popular young men of the community and has numerous friends in Hallville and the surrounding district as he has been associated with the teaching staff of North Mountain Consolidated School for the past four years. He has also taken an active part in the athletic club, the community club and activities in connection with St. Andrew's United Church.

The event took the form of a social evening. Cards were played at several tables and later Mr. and Mrs. Ellis were called to the living room, where an address of good wishes was read by George Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis were presented with a beautiful hanging and table combination model Aladdin lamp. The presentation was made by James Troy. Mr. Ellis replied in a few well chosen words, expressing their appreciation of the lovely gift and especially the sentiment which promoted the giving. He expressed his warm feeling towards the people of the community with whom he had mingled for the past years and had welded a friendship which would be lasting.

Later, refreshments were served by the ladies, assisted by several gentlemen of th party, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis being the guests of hnonor.

WINCHESTER RE-UNION

The following poem so beautifully sung by Mr. Harry McKercher at the Old Home Reception in the town hall, and which was composed by Mrs. Dorothy Sproule, of Montreal, is being published at the request of a number of subscribers. The verses are sung to the tune of "John Brown's Body," and was most heartily received by the large number present on the occasion. Mrs. Sproule, the composer, was herself present.

We come from East and West
And North and South to-day,
And greet each other with a smile
To cheer us on our way;
Remembering happy days of yore,
Our hearts are light and gay,
The Re-Union Time is here.

Life has many cares and many
Trials by the way,
But there's also joy and sunshine
And a time to laugh and play;
So Winchester's Re-Union comes
To bless our lives to-day,
For the Happy Time is here.
We are given a Grand Welcome,
Flags and banners floating high;
And mingling with each other
Feel the strength of friendship's tie;
For our love of friend and neighbour
And our Home, can never die.
Though Time goes marching on.

Chorus "Marching, Marching, etc.,
For Re-Union Time is here."

Warning!

Proceedings before the Magistrate will be taken against all persons who are in default for payment of Poll Tax and Dog Tax on September 15th instant, as two notices by mail have already been given.

THE BOOK

. . . . . the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures . . . . . .

by BRUCE BARTON

THE FIRST MIRACLE

THE tenth in our list of the disciples is Thomas, a moody fellow who insisted on thinking things out for himself. "Doubting Thomas" he has been called because after the resurrection, when some of the disciples claimed to have seen Jesus, Thomas answered stoutly:

Bruce Barton

> Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.

It is unfair to Thomas to remember only his doubt and to forget that when the disciples were trying to dissuade Jesus from His last dangerous journey to Jerusalem it was this same Thomas who exclaimed, "Let us also go, that we may die with him."

There was as number eleven another Simon, whose surname, "the zealot," does not mean that he personally was of an over-zealous disposition but that he had been a participant in one of the sporadic revolutions against Roman authority.

And finally there was Judas, the only one of the twelve who was not a Galilean but who, as a member of the royal tribe of Judah, felt himself superior to the crowd of fishermen, publicans and common folk. Better educated than the rest, a man of business ability, he was treasurer.

When Jesus said, "Take no thought for the morrow, saying, what shall we eat or what shall we drink," it may have sounded all right to the other eleven, but you can imagine the look of mingled cynicism and worry on the face of Judas who had to pay the bills. Equipped by talent and training to be of larger service than any of the others, he was the only traitor.

These, then, were the "twelve" who were destined to change human history.

The public life of Jesus appears to have covered just three years: a year of organization and small beginnings; a year of dramatic deeds and great successes; a year of diminishing popularity and disappointments.

He started quietly in the little towns near His home, talking to whomever would listen where people gathered.

There was a marriage in the neighboring village of Cana, and He was invited with His mother. At a critical moment in the celebration Mary caught a look of distress in the eyes of the hostess and with quick feminine instinct divined the situation. The wine had given out. There occurred then the first miracle of Jesus, the transforming of water into wine.

Very few sermons are preached about this miracle, and it is usually glossed over as being not quite in keeping with the character of His life and work. But it was significant

OBITUARY

DR. D. A. McEWEN

Dr. D. A. McEwen, 71, for many years a well known physician in Ogdensburg, died suddenly on August 25th about 2.30 p. m. at his home 724 Pickering Street.

Dr. McEwen had not been in the best of health for several years but had been able to be about every day. He was running a lawn mower at his home on Saturday afternoon when he became ill. Mrs. McEwen aided him to a couch and at once summoned Dr. R. L. Stacey and Dr. Grant W. Cooper, but Dr. McEwen's condition was such that they were unable to aid him and his death took place a few minutes later. He failed to lose consciousness and within a few minutes of his death took his own pulse and then passed away.

David Alexander McEwen was born on a farm at Hulbert, on August 10, 1863. He was the son of David McEwen and Anne Graham McEwen, and was one of a large family. He was educated in a rural school and Iroquois High School and later attended Morrisburg training school. He taught in the rural schools of the vicinity then to Queen's University, Kingston, where he took his medical degree in 1894. He married Candace Johnson of Morrisburg in 1896 at which time he practiced medicine at Manister, Mich., where he remained for two years before going to Ogdensburg in 1898. His wife passed away at his home there in 1922. In 1924 he married Elizabeth H. Preston, instructor in the training school at O. L. A. T.

The funeral services were held at his home on Tuesday, August 28th. Rev. O. A. Redmond of Black River, a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, conducted the services. Burial was made in Ogdensburg cemetery.

He is survived by his widow and four sisters, Mrs. Hector A. Bigford, of Michigan; Mrs. K. Morrison, of Brinston; Mrs. L. Merkley, of Winchester; and Mrs. Harriet Baldwin of Inkerman. Numerous nephews and nieces also survive. A son, John McEwen, died in childhood.

Dr. McEwen was a life-long member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and a member of the board of trustees of the Ogdensburg Church. He was also a member of the Ogdensburg Lodge No. 128 A. F. & A. M., and an Oddfellow.

Dr. McEwen was respected and admired throughout the entire country where he was known for his kindly and charitable nature and friendly disposition. Numerous friends deeply regret his death and extend their sympathy to his widow and sisters.

MRS. HANNAH SALTER

Death came quietly to the home of Mr. Wm. A. Gamble, on Sunday afternoon, August 26th, about 5.30 o'clock and claimed for its own, an aged mother in the person of Mrs. Hannah Salter. Mrs. Salter came to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Gamble, about fifteen years ago, and enjoyed the best of health until the last five years, when she has been gradually failing, and the last month has been a time time of extreme weakness until the tired body, weary and worn, lay down for its last rest. Born at Toyes Hill 80 years ago, the eleventh of July, she was the daughter of the late Samuel Wylie and his wife, Margaret Harrison Mownie, and grand daughter of Rev. John Wylie, a Presbyterian minister. From a family of five daughters and four sons, all have predeceased her except the youngest sister, Mrs. Jennie Liberty, of St. Thomas, North Dakota.

She married Mr. George Salter of Winchester Springs and they lived at Winchester, also going to Calgary in 1911, where her husband died in 1914. To this union were born four children, (Pearle) Mrs. Wm. Smith, of Calgary; (Ruby) Mrs. Wm. A. Gamble, Ventnor; George D. M. Salter, Calgary, and (Mabel) Mrs. H. R. Edmison of Los Angeles, Cal., all of whom are living, also five grandchildren, Mrs. Keith Acton, Francis and Billy Smith, Calgary, Frank and George Meeker, of Los Angeles.

The funeral service was held in Knox Presbyterian Church, Ventnor, conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. W. R. MacKenzie. His text was from John 14, 21 "Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God believe also in Me." Jesus understood what he was saying to His disciples and He speaks the same to-day. In our trials and sorrows, let us keep our faith in God strong and sure and there will be no danger of it touching our heart, or soul, for only in this way can we ever press on reach the home of many mansions.

A beautiful duet "Saved By Grace," was sung by Miss Lillian Dobbie and Mr. Maurice Marshall. The burial service was under the direction of Mr. Hilliard Wallace of Brinston, the pallbearers being, Messrs. James Dobbie, John Dobbie, Ralph Cummings, Andrew, James and John Gray, with interment at Spencerville Presbyterian cemetery.

Sympathy expressed by flowers were: wreaths, Pearl, George, Mabel and families; sprays, Ruby and Will, A. B. Smail and family; Hary, Nina and Roy Coons, Mrs. Maud Lawless and daughter, Muriel; Ventnor United Church; W. M. S.; Joy Givers S. S. Class of the United Church; Ventnor Women's Institute; cut flowers, Mrs. Hannah Burnie and Mrs. Ivan Berry.

Friends from a distance included: Mr. and Mrs. David Salter, Winchester Springs; A. B. Smail and family, Miss Nina and Mr. Roy Coons, Mr. O. Wylie and Mrs. Hazel Bush, Brinston; Mr. Newton Salter and Mr. C. Anderson, Winchester; Mrs. F. R. Pratt and Mr. O. Pratt of Brockville; Mrs. M. Lawless and daughter, Muriel, Morrisburg; Mrs. H. R. Wilson, Montreal; and Mr. Ambrose Gamble, Iroquois.

"The Lord gave and the Lord has taken away,
Blessed be the name of the Lord."

CRAIG—RAMAGE

An interesting wedding took place in the Manse of the Knox Presbyterian Church, Morrisburg, at 2.30 Wednesday afternoon, September 5, when Miss Isabel Ramage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ramage, of Morrisburg, was united in marriage to Rev. William David Craig, of Roblin, Ontario, son of Mr. Jas. and the late Mrs. Craig of Merivale, Ontario, Rev. Jenkins Burkholder, officiating. Both the bride and groom were unattended.

The bride wore a gown of pale beige crepe trimmed with lace with a large hat to match and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses with blue heather.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was decorated in pink. The couple left later by motor for Toronto, London and other Western points, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue sand crepe with a navy blue felt hat and accessories to match, including a fox fur, the gift of the groom.

The only guest from out of town to attend the wedding was the father of the groom, Mr. James Craig, of Merivale, Ontario.

WILL NEED LICENSE TO SELL GASOLINE

The Department of Highways was reported last week to be preparing penalties ranging from $5 to $1,000, for individuals or firms selling gasoline without government license. The penalties are expected to be placed in effect shortly and the department also is understood to be planning extension to the auditing system to keep close check on payrolls and other departmental expenditures.

Extension of the audit will be arranged with the provincial auditor's department, department heads claiming the system of auditing in the past being inadequate.

In the future, it is understood, every gasoline vendor in Ontario will have to obtain a license from the Highways Minister. Failure to obtain a license will mean a fine of not less than $5 and not more than $10 for the first offence. The second offence will call for a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $1,000.

Shipment of gasoline will be closely watched in co-operation with transportation companies in an effort to eliminate bootlegging of the product.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Strange as it seems, one of America's earliest game laws was directed, not to the protection of wild life, but to the safeguarding of domesticated beef herds. By a law enacted in 1703 in Carolina it became illegal for hunters to shoot cattle. Up to that time hunters used to stalk cattle in the woods and on grasslands, much like they would elk or deer.

Some of the herds were actually half wild, having wandered away from herds pastured on unfenced lands by southern plannters. They bore no mark of identification or brand, and to all appearances were without owners. The law, strangely, forbade only the killing of unmarked cattle.

George Clemenceau, French statesman, who is remembered widely as the "Tiger of France," had one of the strangest eccentricities on record. He put on a complete suit of clothes, complete even to white gloves, each night before he retired. The night dress of Clemenceau included an ordinary unstarched shirt, business suit, vest and all, collar, tie and shoes. White gloves he wore night and day—a habit he is said to have acquired during his days as a criminologist to keep his fingerprints off of objects which he handled.

THE UNITED CHURCH

A great challenge was brought to last Sunday morning's congregation by the pastor, Rev. J. McKay, in his first message after the holidays. The text was Luke 9:62. The plowman is held up as a model in steadfastness. To hold to it is the great secret of Christian discipleship. Jesus exemplified this persevering steadfastness in His own life. God will not let us go. His love holds on to us and is ready to pardon and restore us. The pastor said: "Let every person in his own soul resolve to give up looking back, and with a steadfast resolve go forward. God is depending on us. Go forward."

The evening subject was: "An angel standing in the sun," and the text was Rev. 19:17. Mr. McKay said the things we see depend upon the people we are.

The Christian life bestows upon everyone the power to really see and to truly understand. To the Christian is given a spiritual vision. Can we see the spiritual value of a human life in the little child, the alien, and the person who is down and out. Do we see the angel in ourselves and in Jesus Christ? In closing the pastor said: "Are you allowing God to have His way with you? Take Jesus into your life and allow Him to become your companion day by day. Now is the accepted time.

An anthem was rendered by the choir at each service. Attractive baskets of gladioli and cosmos were in evidence.

Rally Day Service in this Church will be on September 23rd because of the Anniversary Services being on September versity, wil be the special preacher at the latter.

SELLING GRASS SEED

Quite a few farmers in Matilda township had their inomes considerably augmented recently by the sale of grass seed. During the past few weeks one Iroquois dealer has been buying grass seed for a Toronto house and has shipped several car loads. Some farmers realized nearly $700 from the sale of this seed.

BOYS AND MACHINES

Give a boy a machine of some kind and he is pretty likely to be happy. That's what club leaders are finding out most everywhere. E. G. Jenkins, state boys' leader in Maryland, reports that practically all the machinery repair work on many farms is being done by 4-H club boys. In some instances it is part of their handicraft projects and in others it is independent. Where the boys need it the local club leader or county agent gives them help. The boys not only do a lot of repair work in this way but learn much about the design and care of the machines.

A 4-H boy in Kent county, Maryland, was able to turn his mechanical ability to good account. He planned and built a portable feed grinder. The power was obtained from an old automobile engine. It was mounted on a strong platform built on a small motor truck. At the rear a feed grinder of the hammer type was mounted, and the boy was ready to go. All he had to do was back up to a granary or crib, start the works and shovel in the feed to be ground. It was sacked or scooped to the storage bin, as suited best the situation. In this way he provided a valued service to dairymen in the community and made good wages for himself.

Another phase of mechanical club work is to be seen in bays along the Maryland coast where clubs have gone in for building boats and equipment. A model boat building project was the outgrowth of this work in one bay. The boys reconditioned old engines in some instances to power their boats.

LOTS OF THRILLS

There were lots of thrills and they were worth while, is the way a New Hampshire boy sizes up the 5 years of club work which he recently completed with the greatest one of all. It was his attendance as a delegate at the National Camp in Washington, D. C. At this camp he enjoyed the experience of being a reporter for the Camp mimeograph newspaper which is issued daily for those at the session.

The boy is George Gilpatrick, Jr., of East Concord, who has conducted a broad program of 4-H projects suited to his community and farm. They include forestry, poultry, gardening, and leadership, and as an important feature of the latter he has edited the Merrimack County 4-H News, a monthly devoted to the 4-H program of that county.

His first year in club work brought him what he calls "the greatest experience that had ever come in his life." After diligently carrying on a forestry project to its completion he was named a delegate to the state camp. Inspired by this achievement he continued his forestry training and made such a fine record that he was awarded his second free trip to the state assembly.

The boy's record in his 4-H projects made him eligible to attend the state camp after his third year, but instead he chose to let the trip go to others. As it happened four club members were able to take the trip in his place, and he regarded the sacrifice as well worth while.

Looking for other "thrills" he put his best efforts into his poultry work and won the junior poultry championship for the state. It brought him the invitation to talk over the radio, which was another high experience.

Something of the enthusiasm club work fires in this boy was shown on his sojourn at the National Camp. When sent out on an assignment for the camp paper he would cover it completely. Single-handed he could gather enough news items and descriptive stories to fill an issue. In his three year report on poultry projects he shows a profit of $178.00, allowing all costs.

The Family DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

WE MUST BE ALERT

This week one of my neighbor towns—a "county seat" town, was startled by the development of two cases of typhoid fever! The excitement was like that of a military invasion almost. Typhoid fever! Instantly the physicians sprang into action—the source of the infection must be found—and wiped out. It was discovered to be in the city's water supply.

Two things imperative and without delay: First, boil ALL WATER used by the population of the city,—and immunize as many as possible by giving the necessary vaccine that is now of proven value. The town is doing just that. An epidemic of typhoid must be prevented. Even as I write this, the news reached me—that one of the cases, a bright young man,—died of the fever.

I remember the Spanish-American War days; various army camps reeked with typhoid; vaccination was unknown. Came the immense World War army—all immunized—no typhoid cases that I heard of.

A case of typhoid fever in your community, if you should be so unfortunate as to have one, should bring instant investigation of the water-supply; if the water is found pure, then search all foods and sanitation within the district. Don't trust your road overseer or street commissioner to conduct the investigation. It is the duty of your physician—if he cannot do it he must have it done properly. You can't tell whether water contains typhoid by just looking at a pailful of it. Call the bacteriologist.

The typhoid germ is a "baccillus." That means "rod-shaped." Like a short section of hair—only many times smaller—invisible. The typhoid baccillus will live in well-water indefinitely. It attacks the human intestine, where the disease "runs its course." We can mmunize

INTERNAL HEMORRHAGE

Dear reader, pray that you may never encounter a case of this kind, where it is up to you to render any sort of "first aid." I cannot think of a much more serious thing than an internal hemorrhage! Here, even the doctor is extremely apprehensive.

Most internal hemorrhages are from some point in the intestine or, possibly indeed, from rupture of sutures following a deep surgical operation. Typhoid fever, once so prevalent with its horrible ulcerations of the bowel,—I have seen a patient's life go out in a few terrible minutes!

Then, fearful bleedings sometimes take place with a woman at her "change of life," when she is around forty-five or fifty years of age. These often come suddenly, and without warning, as I have seen many a time,—frightening the patient and her family almost into fits! In this form of emergency, get the patient to bed—loosen all garments at once and stop all muscular exertion on part of the patient. These cases are not very often causes of death, I am glad to say. Have a low pillow for the patient—and the foot of the bed raised a foot or more. Give cool or cold drinks—never hot—and no alcohol. Lemon juice is gratefully accepted. These patients often "bleed white" and cease automatically with the weakened heart—with no harm.

Symptoms of internal hemorrhage are: Sudden pallor of the surface; weakening of the pulse at the wrist; sudden, intensive weakness with short, "sighing" breathing; indifference to surroundings—the "sinking feeling." Then, blurring of the vision, pallor and cold, clammy sweat.

In presence of these symptoms, give no medicine or hot, stimulating drinks, without specific orders from the doctor. Maintain the most perfect quiet and smile if you can,—till doctor comes.

HOT-WEATHER TALK

WHAT a wonderful time is summer, with its warm days, cool nights, sunshine, soft moonlight, with all manner of fruits and vegetables growing and maturing for man's use—it's really a wonderful world, now isn't it? Makes me want to stay here always.

I can't help repeating—it's man that is to blame when things go wrong. Nature's law—God's laws are right. Man is almost incapable of making a good law, and, is twice as incapable of enforcing one.

To have ice in summer is a luxury—but we must exercise temperance in putting iced drinks—iced foods into the stomach. One of the most eminent doctors in my state does not drink ice-water at all—and he is never sick.

Do you know why too much ice does harm? Well, our digestive tracts in a normal state, have marvelous power in resisting germs and germ-propagation. We swallow millions of bacteria,—millions—that do us no harm. The stomach in a healthy state attends to them. But, you chill that stomach—blanch it with ice-water poured into it most of the day, what happens? The stomach ceases to make up its "gastric juice," being chilled and shrunken by the cold—just as cold acts on the surface.

Cold does not kill germs; therefore they thrive in the stomach and bowel—multiply—often cause appendicitis—and terrific attacks of "acute indigestion" and the like. No, it is dangerous to make a practice of sluicing our stomachs with iced drinks, be it ice-water, beer, sodas, or other ice-cold beverages. Don't do it.

BLEEDING

Not liable to prove distressing, unless it amounts to hemorrhage. Hemorrhages may endanger life. Serious bleeding from an extremity announces itself, and the first effectual effort should be—to stop the leak as quickly and intelligently as possible.

If one of the family is wounded in an extremity—arm or leg—we must, above all, remain calm and keep the judgment cool. Something must be done before the physician can be had. It must be done right.

If the blood "spurts," an artery has been wounded. If it flows steadily with dark blood, it is from a vein—not very dangerous. For hemorrhage a compress is needed at once. For the slow flowing from a vein, the compress, a tight roll of muslin, may be put directly over the wound, and, a girdling bandage wrapped round the limb, so as to exert the most pressure directly beneath the compress; bind and give pressure till the flow is arrested. Have all applications CLEAN. If the wound is dirty, cleanse quickly with water that has been boiled.

Bleeding from an artery should be arrested by applying the compress, say, two inches or more above the wound, to permit observation. To mask the spurting does not necessarily check the bleeding. I saw a frightened attendant once, slap a wad of absorbent cotton over a slashed artery and tie it on with a strip of muslin; the aged patient nearly bled to death before I reached the bedside. This was absolutely ineffective treatment, although it hid the spurting of very red blood.

Put the compress on the same side or surface of the limb, as the site of the wound occupies. When you have the leak stopped, leave the rest to the doctor. Of course, in severe bleeding, stop all muscular effort of the patient at once. Make him lie down.

To Save Wild Life

Boys and girls of our farms and villages would miss a lot if it were not for the wild bird and animal life and natural flowers, shrubs and trees. These things are among the most attractive features of country life. They bring a wealth of beauty and pleasure into the life of every person, young or old, who has an appreciation of them.

Scarcely a day passes throughout the year in the country which is not enriched in some way by some new turn in the wild things which live and grow in the fields and about the farmstead. What a thrill to hear the first note of the robin or catch the drumming of the prairie chicken in some distant field. To see the V-shaped flight of wild geese overhead in their strange migration north or south. Or to hear the flute-like cry of the high flying crane, or the mellow whistle of the jack snipe. What a never ending object of interest is a colony of muskrat or beaver. These are only a few of what might be named.

Among the flowers, shrubs and trees are objects of rarest beauty and interest to be found in such life. The delicacy of the wild rose in form and fragrance is unrivalled by any domestic variety, many nature lovers hold. The manner of growth and survival of hundreds of flowers and plants is of fascinating interest to those who understand it. The person who knows trees is never lonesome when among them.

For all these reasons the conservation and appreciation of wild life is recognized as important subjects for study in 4-H clubs. They are ideal to supplement the regular economic projects, and are constantly receiving more consideration. Minnesota has just announced that wild life studies will be a regular project this year in 4-H clubs which wish to adopt such projects. Suggested projects thus far are winter feeding of birds, development and protection of breeding places for birds and desirable animals, fire prevention and helping to create respect for game laws.

FEWER DEAD LETTERS

Annually it costs the postal authorities of this country, as of other countries, a considerable sum of money to trace and return to the senders all of the letters, parcels and other mail matter which are improperly addressed or otherwise fail to reach the intended destination.

One may, therefore, easily understand the rejoicing on the part of the postal authorities when they are able to announce that, as a result of greater co-operation from the public, there was a reduction in the number of articles reaching the Dead Letter Office during the past year.

The department adds, however, that much more co-operation from the public is still required before the desired results may be attained, and it suggests that the following rules be observed by the senders of mail in order to prevent the letter finding its way to the Dead Letter Office:

1. Complete addressing, including use of street and number when required.
2. Use of return addresses on all mail so that undeliverable matter may be returned promptly, unopened.
3. Full prepayment of postage.
4. Careful packing of parcels.
5. Use of correct mailing lists.
6. Correct address on all stationery.
8. Tie-on labels to be avoided as, owing to these labels becoming detached, there is the danger of the article being left in the mail without proper address.

Failure to observe these simple rules in the preparation of articles for the post very often leads to delays, expense and annoyance. It also costs the people of Canada a considerable sum of money each year through the necessity of maintaining Dead Letter facilities.—Perth Courier.

WHAT TO DO

if your feelin' tired and blue,
And you don't know what to do—
Do nuthin'

if your appetite's not right,
And your waistband's gettin' tight
Stop stuffin'

if your plans are all awry,
And you think you're going to cry—
Go fishin'

If you can't see far ahead,
And you wish that you were dead—
Stop wishin'

If you know you talk too much,
And your neighbour's feelin's touch
Stop talkin'.

If your nerves are all askew,
There is one good thing to do—
Go walkin'.

If you want to win life's race,
With a smile upon your face—
Stop shirkin'.

If you have a task to do,
And would like to get it through—
Keep workin'.

My guess is that the greatest consumers of water in New York during the summer, are messenger boys. From the blistering street to the offices of all sorts all day long, they pause at nearly every drinking fountain they encounter in the hallways of the buildings.

No one can accuse the Salvation Army of not being up to date. Up on Forty-second Street they have a little platform and two young men who sing hymns in harmony. That of course, is nothing very new. But the manner of doing it all, is decidedly new! The melody is right. The harmony is good. But they've adopted the radio technique that sounds for all the world like a couple of crooners.

Suburban parts of Long Island such as Oyster Bay, are nearly an hour away from Manhattan by train and subway. And for a long time there's been much speculation about the possibility of seaplane commutation. And now it's an actuality. It's a nineteen and a half minute trip, and lands the passengers within five minutes of the financial district.

While farm produce is not one of the major items in the long list of the New York Administration's mighty works, we've been hopefully watching that last little remainder of agricultural Manhattan that lies in the northwest corner of Bryant Park. Three stalks there were, but alas, two are gone, so we can but pray the more fervently for the remaining plant, that it may grow and ripen into a lovely full ear of corn—to the glory of Commissioner of Parks Moses!

Summer amusement in New York: riding the Staten Island ferry boats to escape the heat; riding the 'round Manhattan boat for an all 'round view of the island; walking the waterfront, with barely perceptible odors of foreign wares in the huge warehouses; swimming in one of the dozens of pools in hotels and clubs; cocktails on roofs or one of the many air conditioned cocktail rooms and restaurants; riding the tops of buses up Riverside Drive and down Fifth Avenue to Washington Square.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

If you wring out lace and muslin frocks in milk instead of starch it will stiffen them sufficiently.

If a can has a bulgy appearance, or emits gas when punctured, throw it away Do not risk eating it.

When cleaning sinks, bowls or baths rub the cloth on the soap before using scouring powder.

A crushed raw potato applied to a burn will give instant relief and will, in most cases, prevent a scar.

When you boil a fowl add a pinch of bicarbonate of soda to the water. This makes it exceptionally tender.

When frying fillets of fish, always put them into the frying-pan with the skin uppermost. You will find them less likely to break if cooked this way.

A narrow shelf over the sink to hold dishwashing supplies saves many steps many steps. Paring knives and other utensils used at the sink may be hung underneath.

Do not throw away the vinegar from bottle pickles, but save it and use when making French dressing. It will add a pungent, spicy flavor.

Many housewives find almond icing for cakes expensives. Ground peanuts are often used by professional cooks, and few people know the difference.

Do not keep the dishrag after it has reached the raveling stage. It is poor economy, because its lint will leave tangled strands in the drain pipe.

Should anyone in the family be put on a liquid diet, place a little lime water in each glass of milk served. It is an aid to digestion and sweetens the stomach.

Lemons that have been kept too long and have hardened can be softened by covering with boiling water and standing on the back of the stove for a few minutes.

Never store preserves, pickles or jams on the top shelf of store-cupboard or pantry. Keep them lower down, as hot air rises and may induce fermentation.

If you wish to have your poached eggs white-topped and creamy looking, just cover the pan and let the steam cook a film of white over the yolk. They are much more attractive.

If you have made your frosting a bit too soft and the layer cake is inclined to slip off unevenly, run a few tooth-picks through the layers, holding them in place until the icing hardens.

Instead of trying to shake the dirt out of a new floor mop after starting to use it, brush it with a whisk broom. The mop will always be fluffy and clean.

When using soda to clear the drain in the sink, be sure to follow with a pan of boiling water so the soda and grease do not form a soft soap in the drain pipe and close the drain entirely.

Always hem the table linen by hand. It will mean a neater job and there will be no streak of dirt under the edge after washing, as so often happens when the linen is machine stitched.

Let the mud stains dry on the clothing, then break the crust and rub lightly to prevent driving the dirt into the material. If there are any remaining marks rub with alcohol.

Brown sugar can be softened and made easier to measure it by placing it in a flat baking pan and placing in the oven for a few minutes. However, it should be watched closely to prevent burning.

If after laundering, heavy shirts and blouses are hung separately on wooden clothes hangers, then hung on the line, they will dry more quickly and be in better shape than when pinned directly on the line.

Diced cold roast meat, 2 tablespoons peanut butter, 1-2 cup finely ground raw carrots, salad dressing, salt, and lettuce. Whip the peanut butter with salad dressing until creamy, then add to the salted carrots and meat.

THE DIFFERENCE

An inquisitive old lady was always waylaying the new minister in the street to ask him questions. One day she stopped him and said: "Mr. Smith, would you please tell me the difference between Cherubim and Serahim?"

The young minister thought wildy for a moment or two. The he replied with an inspiration: "Well, they did have a difference, I believe, but they have made it up."

ECONOMY POPULAR

If the Bennett Government at Ottawa would follow the example of the Ontario Premier in the matter of reducing the salaries of high-paid officials, and getting rid of certain useless, and well-to-do, but salary-drawing supernumeraries, they would be doing something that would meet with popular favor, even if it did not amount to much in the aggregate. Public opinion is easily swayed, and the hero of to-day may be the martyr of to-morrow. No man has worked harder for the welfare of the Dominion, and succeeded in bringing Canada through the years of depression with less suffering, and the needy better cared for, than has the Hon. R. B. Bennett at Ottawa. This fact is not only acknowledged by England and the United States, but by almost every other nation in the world, and it was no mean tribute paid the Prime Minister of Canada by that noted French Statesman, M. Prenne-Etienne Fladin, when he just recently said of Hon. Mr. Bennett:

"He is one of the most remarkable statesmen I have ever met in international affairs." Similar tributes have been paid the Canadian Prime Minister by other Foreign Statesmen. It is true that Mr. Bennett made pre-election promises that he was unable to fulfil. He was like the farmer who promised to deliver a certain amount of hay and grain to a local dealer, but before he could do so a terrible storm swept the country and his hay and grain was destroyed. The best he could do was to face the situation with courage and determination, and re-construct, re-produce. It was a hard situation to face, his creditors did not display much sympathy, and many criticized his way of going about his work. So it is with Canada's Prime Minister. He has shown a courage, a determination, a foresight, and developed a leadership that ranks him among the great statesmen of the world, and the best Canada ever produced.

Yet, Premier Bennett and his government have not seemingly realized the temper of the electorate in general. The demonstrations held, the opposition offered, the catering to the popular view that the Governments have an inexhaustible source and all they have to do is to hand out; and the charge is that they hand out grudgingly, and while enjoying plenty themselves, are apparently indifferent to the needs and wants of others.

It is hard to persuade such people of the utter fallacy of their reasoning, and until our industrial and economic conditions undergo a radical change, they will find that "By the sweat of their brow" only will they achieve, succeed and possess. The scriptural saying "the poor shall never cease out of the land," is as true to-day as when spoken thousands of years ago.

But there can be, and must be, a fairer division. Why should a combination of capitalists be permitted to hoard up food and clothing in storehouses, while millions go hungry and half clothed. It is not right, and no argument can make it right, and that is why we state that those who are, in political phraseology, "feeding out of the Government trough," when they have no need to, should not be allowed to do so. Premier Hepburn gained his victory on the "economy cry." It caught the popular ear. It got after the supposed "big" fellows. It is too early to judge the results. Evidently all is not harmony in the Hepburn Cabinet, and each Minister seems to speak like a Prime Minister. Anyway, there were too many high salaried men in the late Henry Government, and there is not much sympathy for some who have got their walking ticket. A taking stock of the situation at Ottawa might not be out of place.

NOT SO BAD

This much must be said about the late Ontario Premier, Hon. Geo. Henry, and his Cabinet Ministers: They have been wise enough not to reply to the many charges that have been hurled against them since leaving office. Some of the charges sounded real serious, and one was almost led to believe that there was to be a revelation of political corruption and illegal acts, the likes of which were never known in the history of the province. We hear charges of gross extravagance, political corruption, falsifying of accounts, and almost everything in the category of political wrong doing. But what do we find. No direct charges have been made. It is all just "guess work," and no doubt when all the facts are known and the truth revealed, it will be found that the late Prime Minister was all his friends said he was, a safe and sound leader. It is true that certain "supernumeries" and high paid officials have been removed from office, and the gesture is one that looks like retrenchment and economy. In this the new administration is to be commended. There is no doubt about certain government officials receiving salaries that were too high, considering the times, and the Cabinet Ministers might have lopped off a couple of thousand a year, and then been well paid. However, let us not shift all the blame on the late Government. We know of men who had two and three sons who were born and brought up on the farm. They were given a good education. In some instances the parents borrowed money on their farms to send their boys to university. When they graduated they expected the Government to find some sort of work for them. They were supporters of the Government, and surely the Government could do that much for them. And then the Parliament Buildings were crowded with "seekers," while every available job was filled, and sometimes two persons were used to do the work of one. It is the same old story repeated. We happen to know that at the present time a Secretary of a Liberal Association in an Eastern County is holding a very lucrative position, and his appointment has not yet been officially announced. This is not a mere statement, but an actual fact, and there are many such instances in the province under the present administration that time will reveal. We know the big noise is economy and retrenchment, but all the same, dismissed Conservative officials are being rapidly replaced by Liberals, and while the announcement of their appointment has not been sent abroad, they are regularly in receipt of their monthly cheque. Human nature is much alike whether labelled Liberal or Conservative.

THE OXFORD MOVEMENT

It is hard to write about something that you have little personal knowledge of or do not experience. There has been, and we suppose always will be, those who scoff and ridicule any religious movement, attributing wrong motives, and charging the leaders with a desire to parade their religion before the public.

If ever the world needed a stirring religious movement, and a getting-back to Godliness, that time is now, and any movement that is intended to exalt Jesus Christ, and lead men and women to a truer conception of what it means to be a "Follower," one who takes Jesus Christ as an example, is willing to make personal sacrifices for the good of others, to do good by stealth rather than proclaiming it from the street corners, is a movement that should not be criticized, but assisted.

We understand there is an Oxford Group in Winchester and section. We have heard of their movements and their activities, and while some of the criticism has been, well, not just the kind one would expect, the worst that can be said of them is that they are holding meetings, telling the simple story of their religious experience, and are striving to lead others into a life of greater usefulness to humanity, and it is really somewhat surprising to hear others, not the hardened sinners, but those who are church members, some in official standing, refer with a sort of sneer and contempt to the "Oxford Group."

We do not know "whither we are drifting," but there is no denying that the churches, and the cause of religion are not advancing as they should. Indeed there are many eminent writers and keen observers of the times who think that both are on the downward road. That, of course, is a matter of opinion, and the viewpoint one takes of what we term modern religion.

It was predicted that after the Great War, there would be a great spiritual awakening throughout the world, and that the church would again be triumphant. So far that "spiritual awakening" has not shown itself, and the only indication of any movement that would show a tendency toward the adoption of the simple principles of what we call religion, and living lives of truth, temperance and of uprightness, is the "Oxford Movement."

This we write, not from actual contact or, so far as we know, experience, but from what we have heard, seen and know. Those associated with the movement are "good" people, not seeking worldly pleasures, or their own personal advancements, but seeking rather to live that "good" life, and lead others by simple persuasion and example, to follow their example.

The Oxford Movement seems to have found a certain amount of favour with all Protestant denominations. Who knows but that it may be the beginning of that great "spiritual awakening" so much predicted, but seemingly so far away.

A CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

It is none of our business we know, but the rumors of the early calling of a Conservative Convention in Ontario to choose a new leader, sounds so inhumanly ungrateful and undiplomatic that we wonder at such a thought getting publicity. It was not the Conservative party that got the black eye in the June election, but one of those political accidents that happen once in a while for the general good. If Hon. George Henry had left the beer and wine question alone, if he had not given his opponents so many opportunities to misrepresent him, and if he had had the courage to reduce the salaries of Cabinet Ministers, members of Parliament, and Hydro Commissioners six months or a year previous, he would have been Prime Minister of Ontario to-day. The Conservative party in Ontario to-day is on its back, and while not badly injured, requires time to regain its breath and strength. The same vote that swept the Liberals into power is still standing sentinel, and will act as necessity dictates. It would pay the Conservative Party to lay low for a season.

ABOLITION OF COUNTY COUNCILS

The Almonte Gazette announces that the new Government may abolish Counties' Councils. On what authority it bases its statement, we do not know, but we hope that the Gazette is not proclaiming something it has no good authority to proclaim. At present the County Councils are about as much practical use as two tails to a dog, and their abolition would not be missed. They are practically under the dictation of the Provincial Government, and have been stripped of any real rights or power in administration. Even their Old Age Pension Board is now a farce. We sincerely hope that the new Minister of Education and his deputy will be able to construct something out of the present system that will take all responsibilities of School Boards from the Counties.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is stated that the headquarters of District No. 9, of the Ontario Provincial Police is to be moved from Ottawa to Smiths Falls. It does not mean much to the latter town materially, but no doubt the new government has been taking into consideration the temper of the people of Smiths Falls since the Asylum project was so unceremoniously turned down, and feels that they need a few extra men in that district.

There is no disguising the fact. So far as Napanee is concerned, the saloon is back. Naturally, after being closed for years, excesses were to be expected. For this reason, we refrained from making any comment on the disgraceful and disgusting conditions which accompanied the opening of the saloons in our town. But a month has passed, and with the passing weeks, the saloons have won neither the respect nor the confidence of the citizens. Never, in twenty years, have we seen the conditions such as are now of daily occurrence. Every evil we were accustomed to associate with the old bar days, is patently evidenced once more. The saloon is back.—Napanee Beaver

FALSE ECONOMY

(Ottawa Citizen)

Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Ontario minister of heaith, gave an estimate in London on Wednesday of the economies effected by the Hepburn government. The provincial administration, he said, had 'already saved the people of Ontario more than $2,000,000 a year."

For two months of office, that is quite a feat. If the pace is kept up it means a saving of $12,000,000 by the end of the government's first year. But it will not be kept up, and for a clear reason. The bulk of the saving so far has been achieved by dismissing government employes.

Now there is a limit to that sort of thing, even on the part of a Liberal ministry which succeeded a Conservative one that had been almost thirty years in power. You cannot keep dismissing public officials without seriously impairing vital services. Nor can grotesque auctions of ex-ministers' motor cars be held more than once.

But if it is assumed that economies can be effected at the rate of a million a month, Mr. Hepburn will still have some distance to go at the end of the year before his ambition of a cut of 50 per cent. in administration costs is attained. The expenditure of the provincial government during the last fiscal year was $53,285,000.

Assuming still further, however, that the goal of Hepburn economy is reached, and that many more millions are "saved," it will be of interest to discover just how much the welfare of the people as a whole has been improved. True, taxes may be a little less, but even that is doubtful, for there are two sides to government economy.

To take but one example, Dr. Faulkner said that "Mr. Nixon fired the game wardens to save $170,000." Is it a net saving? What becomes of fired game wardens? Do they disappear or do they, in most cases, have to seek government support in some other way—by applying for relief, for instance.

There are, of course, two kinds of economy. One consists in wise management of affairs. The other consists in indiscriminate dismissals for no sane purpose except to make a good showing for "drastic economy." And the latter kind does not set one more extra factory wheel in motion nor cause one more sale over the grocer's counter. In fact, the end result is that fewer factory wheels are turning and less provisions are being purchased.

It is a pity that such enthusiastic and well-meaning effort is not directed in other channels.

KEEPING SPRUCED UP

There is a certain moral tonic in keeping one's self spruced up. A fine compliment was paid to a woman the other day. It was: "She dresses well and lives up to her clothes." That is the value of putting on Sunday garments. One feels a call to live up to them. But how many of us heed the call? And if this is true of one's personal appearance, how true it is of the mind. We may let ourselves go to seed intellectually; we may refuse royal banquets so freely offered to us and be content with Barmecide's feasts.

Hesiod says there are people who think for themselves, those who think as others think and those who never think at all. Coleridge expresses a similar idea when he compares people to workers in diamond mines, to sponges and to jelly bags. One must keep his mental machinery spruced up or, to quote Ian McLaren, "there will be nothing in him but that which the spune puts in." Ruskin tells that the mind is less pleasant to look at than the face and for that reason it needs more looking at. He suggests that we have two mirrors on our dressing table and that we dress body and mind before them daily.

But the most important thing to keep spruced up is our soul. If, in the worrying and scurrying and flurrying of life, we miss the "quiet hour" and neglect to read the Book that Bruce Barton says nobody knows, can we wonder if our ideals sag, if the voice of conscience weakens, if your fine sense of humour dies? Our passion for rush and roar is spoiling our souls. Why can we not cultivate that strength that comes from quietness and confidence, and seek that "peace of God, our drab days will have a radiance, the which passeth all understanding?" Then, humdrum tasks a halo and every struggle a flag of victory.

COWS SOLD FOR LOW FIGURE

Forced selling of cows at from $3 to $5 each and feeding of winter feed to stock was reported here recently as continued drought left pastures in poor condition. Dairy activity was slow because of light flow of milk in the Kingston district.

Grain yields were reported above the average, while apples were expected to be light and poor in quality.

UP TO THE FARMER

The Financial Post recently reviewing the analysis made by J. S. McLean, President of Canada Packers, for the annual meeting of that organization shows clearly that farmers of Canada lost just $12,000,000 last year on hogs because the quality was not good enough. Here is the way Mr. McLean figures it out. While only ten per cent. of the 6,000,000 hogs slaughtered are exported in the form of bacon and hams this portion sets the price for the whole output. If that Canadian bacon sold in Britain in 1933 had brought five shillings more per hundredweight, it would have resulted in approximately one per cent. per pound more for live hogs, or two dollars per head, or $12,000,000 for the farmers. And there is apparently no good reason why this extra five shillings per hundredweight cannot be obtained. Danish bacon actually averaged fifteen shillings above the price paid for Canadian bacon so that it should have been comparatively easy for the Canadian hog raiser to improve his output to the tune of five shillings per hundredweight. The Government can point the way and the hog associations can supervise the breeding and give wholesome advice but it is the individual farmer who must produce the results. It is up to him.—Alliston Herald.

The fortunate bride who has heirloom family lace with which to adorn her wedding dress may be interested in the following French recipe handed down through generations for washing old lace. First wind your lace very carefully round a glass bottle. When this has been done cover the lace with a final layer of thin muslin, which you pin here and there to the lace to keep it in place. Then place the bottle in a receptacle containing cold water and a handful of the purest soap flakes you can find. Bring the water to the boil and leave it there for a good hour. Pour away the dirty water. add plenty of fresh warm water, and finally rinse in cold. If the lace is very old and stiff it is advisable to soak it in pure olive oil for an hour or so before washing.

DR. DAVID JOHNSTON PASSES

There passed away Monday evening at seven o'clock David Johnston, M.D., of Iroquois, Ont., after an illness of some weeks. Dr. Johnston was born in Williamsburg, Dundas county, July 28, 1861. He received his early education at Morrisburg Collegiate Institute and graduated in medicine from Toronto University in 1887. He came to Iroquois the same year, where he practised until his recent illness. He took an active part in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the municipality being for some years a member of the village council. He also sat as a member of the High School board. He belonged to Masonic Lodge No. 143; the Independent Order of Odd-Fellows Lodge No. 145, and other fraternal societies. In religion he was a Presbyterian, taking an active part in all church affairs, and in politics, a Liberal.

Dr. Johnston is survived by his widow, and two step-daughters, Mrs. C .P. Shepherd of Campbellford, Ont., and Miss Marguerite Harkness at home. He is also survived by one brother, Thomas, on the old homestead in Williamsburg, and two sisters, Mrs. D. Currie, of South Mountain and Mrs. John Hepburn of Victoria, B. C .

The funeral service was held yesterday in the Presbyterian Church there. Interment was made in Point Iroquois Cemetery.

WASH THE APPLES

(Detroit News)

Health authorities are warning those trying to keep the doctor away by eating an apple a day that the doctor's services may be needed if the apple is not properly cleaned before eating. It is not sufficient to follow the time-honored schoolboy practice of giving the apple a scrub on the shirt sleeve.

All this comes about through a combination of circumstances. In these latter years the only good apples come from the trees whose foliage has been sprayed with poison. In ordinary seasons most of this spraying is completed early and a normal rainfall probably has a part in washing away a residue of poison before the fruit ripens.

This year spraying was the more necessary because the drouth encouraged insect pests, and of course in a drouth little rain washes the apples. So far no case of sickness nor death has been ascribed to poisoning from eating fruit. It would be foolish to abandon the apple-eating practice from fear of spray poisoning.

But it is well enough to take the health authorities advice and give the apple a bath. It is a wholesome practice anyway.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER

Printers use the letter E oftener than any other letter, but that is not the only thing peculiar about it. In the optometrical world it appears at the top of the long distance chart used by optometrists in testing eyesight. Canada Optometrist, ruminating about the letter E says:

Some one has advanced the opinion that the letter E is the most unfortunate character in the English alphabet, because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger, and in hell all the time.

But we call attention to the fact that it is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, and the commencement of ease, and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no life ,no heaven. It is the centre of honesty, makes love perfect, and without it there would be no editors or news.

If it were not for the letter E man would have no home-mate, for it is the beginning and ending of Eve. It starts the young lover's engagement and completes their marriage. It is the most fortunate for it always comes in late and yet it is always in time. It will make butter better and put finish to taste, and after all it has done and is doing, it is only the beginning of the end.

Not counting this paragrah, however, there is one more letter T than there are E's in this article showing "that it is the exception that proves the rule." Count them yourself.

BICYCLES AND CHILDREN

The Perth Expositor draws attention to a grave danger to children that should be heeded. It says:

"During the past few weeks there have been a number of close calls of boys and girls in town being either killed outright or at least severely injured, as the result of careless riding on bicycles. Just last week a boy, through downright carelessness, ran plum into a motor car, but fortunately neither the bicyclist nor the auto driver was going very fast, and the only result was a bad scare on the part of both. It is useless for the press to warn the children of the danger they run, for that is a duty devolving upon the parents, and every father and mother should impress upon their sons and daughters the absolute necessity of using precaution while riding when crossing streets in the centre of blocks. At crossings pedestrians have some rights, but in the centre of blocks they apparently have none.

FLIES ARE SO STUPID

Flies become a nuisance this time of year. Until now it seems they have been content to go hopping about elsewhere, but in recent days they have taken to coming in here. What they expect to find we have not the slightest idea. And yet they sit on the parliamentary guide, the dictionary, look over all the papers and sit on the top of one's head. Flies are mean that way. We are sure flies are stupid. Right near to this building there is a restaurant which keeps open long hours each day and night. If they knew anything at all they would not be wasting their time around an editorial office where no victuals enter. They would be snooping around the restaurant next door or departing on an excursion to the grocery store on the street. Even a brindle cow knows more than to pasture on a concrete highway surface, and a dog knows enough not to start chasing a cat when dinner dishes are being cleared. But the flies seem to be such stupid things. —Walkerton Times-Herald.

PARTRIDGE SEASON IN OCTOBER

The deputy minister of Game and Fisheries for the Province of Ontario intimated this week that there would be at least two open seasons for partridge this fall.

The first season—for a week—will start on October 8th, while the second would be in the deer hunting season from November 5 to 20, unless these dates are changed in the meantime.

There will be an open season—in certain counties—for pheasants, the deputy minister stating that people who pay a dollar for a gun license must have something for their money. He also intimated, relative to pheasants, that this fowl should be given a year's rest and if the numbers had increased sufficiently that there would be a general shoot in the province next year. He didn't like the way pheasants were being reared in this province and unless they show a greater increase to justify the expense, the province would quit propagating them.

"People want to fix the world, when the fact of the matter is that the world is fixing them."—Henry Ford.

A PROPHET DISHONORED

THE death of John the Baptist was the first warning Jesus had of the fate in store for Him. Cast into prison for denouncing the licentious marriage of Herod, John was sacrificed to the wicked request of the wife, Herodias, and her abandoned daughter, Salome.

Bruce Barton

And when the daughter of the said Herodias came in, and danced, and pleased Herod and them that sat with him, the king said unto the damsel, Ask of me whatsoever thou wilt and I will give it thee. . . .

And she went forth, and said unto her mother, What shall I ask? And she said, The head of John the Baptist. . . .

And immediately the king sent an executioner . . .

And brought his head in a charger, and gave it to the damsel: and the damsel gave it to her mother.

The death of John cast a permanent shadow over the heart of Jesus and added greatly to the force and bitterness of His denunciations. His rejection by His home town, Nazareth, was another blow. It is easy to imagine the high hopes with which He had turned His steps toward it. He had already succeeded in Capernaum and near-by cities; He had made a great stir in the capital. For the first time in history the name of Nazareth was linked with the name of a national character. He would go back to His old friends and neighbors, give them the glad tidings, heal their sick, and share with them the joys of success. But the town received Him scornfully. You may have fooled them in Capernaum," the cynical faces said, "but little old Nazareth isn't so slow. You're no prophet; we know you. You're just the boy who used to work in the carpenter shop."

He could do there no mighty work because of their unbelief.

His mother and brothers wavered, feeling it unsafe to be closely connected with one who was stirring up so much opposition. They urged Him to go up to Jerusalem.

For even his brethren did not believe in him.

So, deserted by those who ought to have stood by Him most staunchly, abandoned by this popular following, supported only by His original little group of disciples, and they wavering and in doubt, He made His way back to Jerusalem to face the events of that last great week which the Gospels give us in such full detail.

In the final hour of tragedy even His disciples were missing. Only a few stricken women huddled at the foot of the Cross, and the last word of faith was spoken not by a friend but fell from the lips of a crucified thief:

Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.

So He died, and those who had demanded His blood regarded their triumph as complete.

"SALES & SERVICE"

WHY THE FORD USES TRANSVERSE SPRINGS!

A Good Spring must not only be comfortable—it must be safe. It must also assist operation economy as well.

A Transverse Spring—that is a spring set crosswise—gives comfort. It is like the wings of a bird—the tips move most, while the body remains steady.

In rounding a curve, one side naturally lists downward. Transverse Springs do not lift up the opposite side. They actually decrease the car's lean-over.

Transverse Springs also make steering and braking exceedingly safe. The Ford Car is not driven through its springs, hence the axles do not see-saw back, interfering with normal braking and steering.

Unsprung weight is that part of the car weight that does not rest on the springs. It must be low in proportion to the spring weight for true economy and to prevent excess jarring of frame and body. In the Ford Car it is low due to the use of Transverse Springs.

"The FIRESIDE PHILOSOPHER"

By ALFRED BIGGS

When in doubt ask your conscience.

* * *

If you're honest there is no need to mention it.

* * *

Don't clutter your mind with useless information.

* * *

Try to make your interest in life grow with your years.

* * *

You can't measure education by its earning capacity.

* * *

Anticipate the stupidity of others and make provision for it.

It is easier to disarm opponents with the truth than with deceit.

A short time ago an Ohio father caught his young son playing with matches and promised him a whipping if he caught him again. Recently the lad set fire to a straw stack; the fire spread to two barns and the loss was more than $6,000. If the father had remembered that old adage, "Never put off until to-morrow what you can do to-day," he would probably still have had his barns.

A motorist stopped at a wayside general store and inquired of the rustic proprietor, "What have you in the shape of automobile tires?"

"In the shape of automobile tires I have wreaths, life preservers, and doughnuts," was the quick reply.—Battalion.

HOME MUSIC

A street musician was recently in Aberdeen. He whistled all through the granite city without getting a single copper. As he passed the last door he turned to an old native who sat sunning himself on the doorstep.

"Man," he said, "I havena' got a copper in the hale toon."

"Na, I'm no' thinkin' ye wad. Ye see, we do a' oor ain whistlin' here."

THE OPTIMIST

Don't sigh nor cry, or dim your eye
With tears of sorrow—
Though dark to-day, the skies of gray
Will clear to-morrow!

Just sing and bring your songs to ring
In joy and gladness—
A smile, a laugh, a bit of "chaff"
Will banish sadness.

Though life's dark plots and tangled knots
Are hard to ravel,
A smile, meanwhile, smooths many a mile
You have to travel.

Though dark the way, one shining ray
The path discloses;
Though thorns are bad, be glad, be glad
The thorns have roses!

—Mrs. Nettie Ramsey, Richmond, Mich.

THE FAITHFUL FEW

When the meeting's called to order
And you look around the room,
You're sure to see some faces
That from out the shadows loom.
They are always at the meeting,
And they'll stay until its through.
The ones that I would mention
Are the "always faithful few."

They fill the many offices
And are always on the spot,
No matter what the weather,
Though it may be awful hot.
It may be dark and rainy,
But they are tried and true.
The ones that we rely on
Are the "always faithful few."

There are lots of worthy members
Who will come when in the mood,
When everything is convenient,
They can do a bit of good.
They are factors in the meeting
And are necessary too;
But the ones who never fail us
Are the "always faithful few."

If it were not for these faithful,
Whose shoulders at the wheel
Keep our Division moving
Without a halt or reel,
What would be the fate of meetings
When we have so much to do?
They sure would be bad failures
Without the "always faithful few."

KEEP A-GOIN'

If you strike a thorn or rose,
Keep a-goin';
If it hails or if it snows,
Keep a-goin';
'Taint no use to sit and whine,
When the fish ain't on your line,
Bait your hook and keep on tryin'
Keep a-goin';

When the weather kills your crop,
Keep a-goin';
If you tumble from the top,
Keep a-goin';
S'pose your out of every dime
Gettin' broke ain't any crime,
Tell the folks you're feelin' fine,
And keep a-goin';

When it looks like all is up,
Keep a-goin';
Drain the sweetness from the cup,
Keep a-goin';
See the wild birds on the wing,
Hear the bells that sweetly ring,
When you feel like sighing, sing,
And keep a-goin'.

DEFINITIONS OF HOME

A London Magazine asked the question "What is home?" Seven of the answers which the editor called 'gems' were selected and published, and are as follows:

Home—A world of strife shut out, a world of love shut in.

Home—The place where the small are great and the great are small.

Home—The father's kingdom, the mother's world and the child's paradise.

Home—The place where we grumble the most and are treated the best.

Home—The centre of our affection, round which our heart's best wishes twine.

RULES

Lecturer—In rearing children the golden rule should be applied.

Voice in Audience—I use a plain wooden one on mine, and it works just as well.

THE SCRUB COW'S EPITAPH

I'm an old scrub cow with a warbley hide
And a ring-streaked and speckled bull calf by my side.
He's ashamed of his mother, I'm not proud of my son;
Of pride in our ancestry there's room for none.
My dam was a blue cow with horns and legs long,
While dad was a brindle Jones bought for a song.
They were long-haired, thick-hided, wild eyed and boney;
Now one is in cans, the other boloney.
I have always meant well and tried to do right,
But trying's not doing, if you haven't the might.
I had a good home, with plenty to eat,
And a boss whose good nature could not be beat.
In fact, he was "easy"—no judge of a cow,
For he called me a good one—an error, you'll allow.
But the test association threw a wrench in my gears,
And shortened my life by a number of years.
The boss got excited and joined with the rest
To see how his herd would stack with the test.
Well ,the tester arrived with his bottles and scale,
And as soon as I saw him I fairly turned pale.
For he certainly looked like the kind of a guy
That could see through a sham with one glance of his eye.
So he started to weigh, and to take samples, too,
While the boss told what each one would probably do.
Till he came up to me, when the boss says, "Young Fellw,
Her milk's awful rich, though it's not very yellow."
"She's a mighty good cow, so her milk must be cream, Since she never milks heavy nor long, it would seem."
Three two was my test, when it should have been seven,
And that's why I'm well on my way to cow heaven.
That is if I'm lucky and my good intention
Bears weight with the judge who tomorrow will mention
My sentence of fate, which is long overdue.
So here is my epitaph, now that I'm all through.
One favour I crave—be so kind if you would—
Inscribe on my gravestone: "She gave all she could."

THOUGHTS OF CHEER AND COMFORT

"My sheep hear My voice and I know them and they follow Me," John 10, 27. He is "the Light" ahead that makes the pathway plain.

He is "the Leveller" who makes the rough and rugged places smooth.

He is the "well of water ever springing" when all other streams run dry.

He is the Perpetual Presence when companions grow cold, and loved ones pass away.

He is the all-sufficient Provider when supplies are running low.

He is rest, when the limbs are weary and the frame is weak.

He is the above One "able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy." (Jude 24.)

"Follow on to know the Lord!". Hosea 6, 3.

"Earthly friends may fail or leave us,
One day soothe, the next day grieve us,
But this Friend will ne'er deceive us,
Oh ,how He loves!"

A SMILE

"Nobody ever did add up
The value of a smile;
We know how much a pound is worth,
And how much is a mile;
We know the distance to the sun,
The size and weight of earth,
But no one here can tell us,
Just how much a smile is worth."

HELP, MADAM!

Mrs. Bing—"They say the Government is going to control everything."

Mrs. Sting—"Well, it's going to have an awful time with that Jones boy who lives next to us."

THE ROAD AND THE WAY

THE Jews of the first century were widely scattered. They had large families and a small country. There were colonies in almost every important city in the Mediterranean section, but they had times of home-coming at the several annual feasts in Jerusalem. The disciples took advantage of these occasions to preach to crowds that came from widely scattered places, and so quite early there began to be followers of Jesus, not only throughout Palestine but in Egypt and as far north as Antioch.

Bruce Barton

It was in Antioch that need was first discovered for a name that should distinguish between ordinary Jews and the Jews that recognized the leadership of Jesus, and "the disciples were first called Christians at Antioch. Up to that time the followers of Jesus had simply spoken of themselves as of "the Way." The first name of Christianity was "The Road."

In all these early movements Peter was the foremost figure. He developed a gift of speech that surprised his friends, and he never lacked courage. But presently there came on the stage a new figure of vast influence. One of the early preachers, Stephen, had given special attention to those Christians in Jerusalem who had not been born Jews but had come in as proselytes. He was arrested and condemned to death, and was executed by stoning.

Doubtless the people who did the actual throwing of the stones were for the most part of the rabble, but "a young man named Saul," a zealous Pharisee, looked on with approval at a sentence which he as a member of the Sanhedrin, or high court, had helped to pass. Those who threw the stones laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul.

This young man named Saul was an ardent persecutor. He heard that the Christian faith was spreading as far as Damascus and he obtained letters to the Jewish authorities there for the arrest of any who were of "the Way." He left Jerusalem very eager to carry out his errand, but with a growing inward uneasiness. He was mentally "kicking against the pricks" or goads of his own conscience. He remembered Stephen, whose face during his trial and execution had been "like the face of an angel."

Riding along the road toward Damascus at midday, which is not a good time for a man to be riding there, he was stricken down by what may have been sunstroke: but with it came, as he believed, a voice saying, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" Saul's companions saw the blinding light but did not hear the voice. Saul asked, "Who art thou, Lord?" And again the voice came, "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest."

HINTS FOR THE HOME
by NANCY HART

Easier than scouring dirty pots, add a little washing soda to water and boil it. It saves work and saves the pots.

A simple way to remove discoloration from aluminum pots is to boil water in the pot, adding a little vinegar to the water.

* * *

After washing cut glass in hot soapsuds, leave them to drain. When they're dry, use a Turkish towel to polish them. The Turkish towel gets into the cuts readily and leaves no lint on the glass.

* * *

Use old tissue paper to wipe grease from pots and pans. It saves many washings of dish cloths and dish towels.

* * *

Two-thirds boracic acid and one-third powdered sugar sprinkled on shelves and baseboards will kill roaches and water bugs. The combination is poisonous to them.

* * *

Cover your kitchen table with linoleum instead of oilcloth when your old cover wears out. It will last much longer and cleans just as easily.

* * *

Pot holders made like thick pockets will protect the hands from steam and spattering hot grease.

* * *

Large casters with good bearings attached to a small kitchen table will save much lifting. Roll the table to the refrigerator, stove and sink instead of making dozens of trips between them.

* * *

Clean windows with a rag dipped in paraffin and you'll have a brilliant high polish. Use tissue or any soft paper for a polisher.

* * *

Egg stains may be rubbed from silver with the aid of a bit of table salt.

* * *

Keep your stored silver free from tarnish by simply placing a bit of camphor ice along with it.

* * *

Silver that is not badly tarnished is easily cleaned by boiling it in an aluminum pan with salt water. Drain, and then rub with a piece of chamois.

* * *

Heavy aluminum frying pans or griddles will clean up most easily by placing them over a hot flame. Grease or burns and the worst stains will come off and the pans will clean up brightly.

* * *

Sticky, soiled leather on furniture may be best cleaned by rubbing with a piece of cheesecloth moistened with banana oil and following it up with a clean soft cloth.

* * *

Keep bamboo furniture in good condition by going over it occasionally with equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine.

* * *

An easy way to polish windows is to rub them with a chamois dipped in a full strength or strong solution of rubbing alcohol.

* * *

If you like your bronze ornaments clean and polished, rub them with a little furniture polish and wipe them clean with a dry cloth.

* * *

A decidedly attractive way of preparing baked potatoes is to remove them from the shell after cooking, mash them with butter, salt and pepper and a well-beaten yolk of egg. Then replace them in the half-shells and brown them in the oven. They taste better and they're much more easily handled at the table.

* * *

Even the most delicate fabric may be cleaned of ink-stains with a teaspoonful of lemon salts diluted in a saucer of hot water. Soak the fabric a short while, paint over it with a brush dipped in a solution of glycerine and water and follow that with a few drops of ammonia solution.

* * *

Save time and trouble in washing a stack of dishes by passing each dish under the hot water faucet before regular washing. The worst of the grease goes down the drain and the washing is much easier, requiring fewer changes of water.

When roasting lamb or beef, shake a pinch of cinnamon on the bottom of the oven before putting the meat in, and allow it to remain while the meat is cooking. You avoid the heavy odor of the oven usually associated with cooking either of these two meats.

S. Waffle, of Ottawa, was taken suddenly ill at his Trout Island cottage and had to be brought to the village and taken to Smiths Falls hospital in an ambulance where he was operated on for appendicitis. At latest reports he is resting comfortably and his many friends hope soon to see him back on the Rideau. It was most fortunate that his family physician was camping nearby and was quickly summoned.

What a funny old world this is getting to be. In years gone by farmers hauled their wood to the towns in the winter by sleighs, and got all the money there was in the deal. Now trucks have robbed the farmer of a share of his profit, as the owners go through the country, winter and summer, buying up wood and trucking it distances of forty or fifty miles. Incidentally, these heavy trucks are playing the mischief with the roads paid for in taxes by the farmer.

FARM AND GARDEN INFORMATION

WINTER FOOD SUPPLY FOR BEES

Every colony of bees when ready for the winter should have at least forty pounds of food stored in order that they may have sufficient to carry them through until new nectar is available in the following spring. Only the best clover or buckwheat honey should be used for this purpose. Failing this, use the required amount of pure cane sugar made into syrup at the rate of two parts of sugar to one part of water.

INDIGESTIBLE POULTRY FEEDS

Of the slaughter-house by-products for the feeding of poultry, meat meals or meat scraps are by far the most commonly used and are the standard animal protein supplements to poultry rations. They vary greatly in analysis according to the amount of bone material they contain but are usually purchased on a guaranteed analysis. The poorer grades containing quantities of hoof and horn should not be tolerated as poultry feed as these products (hoof and horn) are practically indigestible to poultry. With a little experience, it is possible to tell at a glance whether the brand is suitable for feed or not, but, if in doubt, pour a little boiling water on a sample, and the smell arising should settle the matter even with the inexperienced. If the odor is foetid the sample is unfit for food.

FISH MEAL FOR POULTRY

The results of an experiment conducted for five years at the Dominion Experimental Farm show that fish meal is an excellent substitute for other protein feeds for poultry, and that it is as good as beef scrap or beef meal for the poultry ration. During the test there was no complaint from consumers as to any fishiness or off-flavor in the eggs.

THE BUMBLE FLOWER-BEETLE ON FRUIT AND CORN

At the present time a considerable number of inquiries are being received from farmers about a beetle—The Bumble Flower-Beetle or Brown Fruit Chafer, which is attacking corn and ripened fruit. This insect is a yellow-brown beetle, one-half inch or more in length, with its wing covers sprinkled all over with small irregular spots. In late summer it is found every year, in greater or less numbers, feeding on the pollen of flowers, on ripe fruit—peaches, pears, grapes and apples—and also on corn, but it is rarely responsible for serious damage. It has not been observed that the insect has caused commercial injury in Ontario, and consequently the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Vineland Station, Ontario, has never had occasion to advise the adoption of any control measures, other than hand-picking of the beetles.

FARMERS MUST PRODUCE

To the man in the street, any attempt to increase production in these days of depressing world surpluses seem a waste of time, or even worse. He forgets, says Mr. L. H. Newman, Dominion cerealist, that the problem of the individual farmer differs vastly from that of the nation as a whole, in that the capacity of the farmer to carry on and pay his way is measured in no small degree by the yields he realizes per acre. To the farmer, the acre is his unit of production. If his average yield per acre, whether converted into milk, mutton or beef, or disposed of in their raw state, are not sufficiently high to enable him to meet his obligations, he must either succumb entirely or be forced to adopt a standard of living which removes him as an important problem of keeping the wheels of commerce moving.

FACTS ABOUT NO. 534

Here are a few startling facts about the new super-liner No. 534, the name conferred upon which will be announced shortly before she is launched by Queen Mary at Clydebank, Scotland, on September 26:

The ship will be at least 1018 feet long register 73,000 or more gross tons. She will cross the Atlantic from England and France in four days. The cost of the superliner has been estimated at $30,000,000.00.

The vessel will have eleven decks, one the first class promenade being 750 feet long, just 35 feet less than the entire length of the Mauretania. She will be five times the length of the original Cunarder, the Brittania. The height to the masthead will be 250 feet. The rudder will weigh 163 tons. The Aquitania's is but half this weight. The steel plates range from eight feet in length to 30 feet, and weigh from 200 to 6000 pounds.

There will be 2,000 portholes and windows, the panes of glass ranging from 12 inches in diameter to large oval panes two feet in height. The anchor cables, wire hawsers and ropes for the ship will be more than four miles in length. The anchors, of special design, will be the world's largest. There will be 60,000 cubic feet of refrigerating space. The automatic steering gear will be the largest on any ship.

The ship will be driven by single reduction geared turbines with steam from high pressure watertube boilers. There will be four screw propellers, each driven by an independent set of machinery. The driving machinery will be placed in two separate engine rooms. Four turbo-generators will supply power to the auxiliary machinery. Three others will supply light and power for the hotel services in the ship. Oil fuel will be used.

The propellers will each weigh 35 tons and measure 20 feet from tip to tip. There will be 257,000 turbine blades, varying in length from two to 18 inches and geared to the thousandth part of an inch. The Clyde river has been widened and deepened for the launching at a cost of $400,000

The new super-liner is being built in the yards of John Brown & Co., Ltd., where the Aquitania was built. There will be three funnels. The first funnel will be more than 70 feet in height, the other two lower. This arrangement will keep the decks and ventilators clear of funnel gases. The hull of the first Cunarder, the Brittania, could be passed through any one of the funnels of the new superliner.

The ship will contain fifty miles of plumbing pipes. The electric lighting system is sufficient to service a city of more than 150,000 inhabitants, such as Albany, Trenton, Jacksonville. Steam will be generated in 27 enormous boilers. The number of tubes in the main and auxiliary condensers will approximate 60,000. The electrical wires used would reach from New York to San Francisco and then 400 miles out into the Pacific Ocean.

The giant's stacks will be 30 feet in diameter, exceeding the Holland Tube, the world's largest, between New York and Jersey City, by six inches. From the keel to the top of the foremost funnel is equal to the height of an 18-storey building. The engines of the 534 will generate 200,000 horse power—enough to tow Staten Island across the Atlantic.

The make-up of the ship will require 35,000 tons of steel. The catering department will contain 200,000 pieces of crockery. Ten miles of carpets will be used in covering the ship's floors. Tableware, including knives, forks, spoons, etc., will total 100,000. The ship's decorations will cost $2,500,000.

Her steadiness will be assured by a million-dollar gyroscopic device weighing 300 tons. This device will keep the ship steady in the roughest water. The captain's bridge will be 100 feet above the water line. The steamer's ventilators will be large enough to swallow a subway car. The sun deck will contain shady garden lounges, palm courts and swimming pools, giving a tropical aspect to the surroundings during all the seasons. The steamer will be insured for aproximately 7,000,000 pounds.

PARENT RESPONSIBILITY SHOULD NOT END AS SCHOOL WORK STARTS

As the bathing suits are packed away and school clothes cover most of the summer's tan, many a parent is tempted to stow away a little of the responsibility of parenthood. With something like a sigh of relief, the child is turned over to the school for the greater part of the day. This is just the time, however, when parents need to be very much on the job as the children come home with their lists of studies, necessary supplies, their comments, and observations concerning their teachers and fellow students.

In one home even the smallest beginners are allowed to purchase their own supplies, accounting for the money spent. It is a source of delight to the new seeker of knowledge to choose between a pad with a dog on the cover and one displaying the flag of his country. He has to make a decision and then abide by it. He can be effectively helped in the beginning of his education if he is taught at home how to take care of his school supplies and the reasons for doing it.

Where there are elective studies to be considered, the parents through their intimate knowledge of the child should be able to give helpful guidance. The reason for taking an elective subject should be thoughtfully discussed in the home.

Little children nearly always admire and love their teachers. When criticism appears, it needs to be wisely considered and overcome if possible. The right attitude toward the teacher is an important factor in the child's mental growth. By visiting the school, talking with the teachers and also inviting them to the home, dislike and criticism are often displaced by affection and admiration.

Youthful friendships are frequently deep and lasting so it is important to watch their formation. We can best know the ones who are attracting our children by inviting them to the home to share the family games and outings. September seems to be an opportune time for parents to go hand-in-hand to school with the child.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
by Rev Charles E. Dunn

Isaiah Contrasts False and True Worship.

Lesson for September 16th. Isaiah 1.

Golden Text: Psalm 24:3,4.

This stirring sermon of the prophet Isaiah is a thrilling call to reality. The Lord, argues the prophet, will not tolerate worship, however elaborate and ceremonial, whose fruits do not manifest the earmarks of righteousness.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

The heart of the lesson is to be found in the 16th and 17th verses. "Wash yourselves clean, banish your evil doings from my sight, cease to do wrong, learn to do right, make justice all your aim, and put a check on violence."

What does this mean in terms of today? Were Isaiah now alive I imagine that his message would sound something like this: "The fundamental cause of our existing social anarchy is a selfish insistence upon individual rights. Unless a workable strategy of social planning is developed, suicidal chaos will inevitably result.

"The millions who can find no work tragically demonstrate the obsolete character of our economic system. They are not Belgian refugees or victims of a flood or earthquake, but the dupes of a stupid, unjust social order over which they have no control. To effectively release them from their plight the State and Federal Governments must provide adequate relief funds, launch large-scale construction programs, and establish unemployment insurance.

"The Church should take a leading part in the gigantic struggle for social reconstruction. Her stake in the fight is momentous, for the basic social and ethical problems of our industrial civilization, are deeply human and personal. She must keep herself well-informed, and must ever be on the alert to hazard much for righteousness. This is no time for complacency. The Society of Christ must be profoundly discontented with things as they are.

GIRLS ARE CLEVER

If a check were made of the 4-H girls who are wearing some very smart outfits when they go places it would surprise a lot of people to know these same outfits were made of very inexpensive materials. It might be a mild shock to some to learn these outfits were even made of materials which no one would have thought of saving in our past periods of prosperity — materials such as old feed sacks, fertilizer bags and garments which had hung in the attic for a generation.

In Kent county, Michigan, a young lady came to a clothing project meeting with a piece of black broadcloth which had an interesting history. This young lady's grandmother purchased the cloth back in 1893 to make a dress to wear to the world's fair in Chicago. But the hard times which fell on the country made it impossible to go and the material was stored away. Now it is to be made into a coat for the owner to be worn to this year's world's fair in Chicago.

In Pennsylvania the club folks have some interesting figures of what the girls have done with waste materials. Some 850 garments were made from flour sacks and burlap bags last year, reports Miss Harmony Stewart in charge of extension activities at State College for club members. Some of the garments were made without any actual cash expenditures. Miss Clara Syphrit of Jefferson county spent as little as 20 cents for bright buttons and dye, and when she completed her dress it was comparable to those selling in smart New York shops for $27, her club leaders stated.

In another eastern state the case is reported of a girl making towels out of material which is woven by hand on a loom in the girl's town.

It is not the purpose of club projects to induce girls to use such materials if they can afford better, but by their use many girls have been able to make garments required in projects which they would not have been able to do if they had had to purchase new materials.

SHERRIFFS MAY GO.

Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn intimated on Tuesday that the office of sherriff in the province as a separate administrative unit, might be abolished shortly with the exception of a few cases. Such a step would be taken, it is thought, in the interests of economy and efficiency.

The plan under consideration would link the sherriff's office, where possible, with other posts such as the county court clerk and county jailer. Only four counties—Essex, York, Wentworth and Carleton—would be excepted.

MARINE DISASTER COSTS 133 LIVES

A tragedy, costing the lives of 133 persons, occurred on Saturday last when the Ward liner Morro Castle suddenly caught fire while enroute to New York from Havana.

Occurring at an early hour in the morning, the blaze trapped many of the passengers in their staterooms where they perished. It is the belief of several of the ship's officers that the fire was the work of an incendarist. The liner carried a total number of 558 persons including a crew of 240 men. Only 425 survived the disaster.

On Wednesday evening, Sept. 5th, a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr .and Mrs. Frank Kirkwood in honour of their daughter, Jean's approaching marriage. A large number of friends were present. The address was read by Mrs. Frank Salter, and a basket of gifts were presented by the Misses Muriel Jackson and Doreen Salter. Jean replied in a very pleasing manner and the crowd sang "For she's a jolly good fellow." A duet by the Misses Evelyn Cheney and Thelma Weaver was much enjoyed by all. Supper was served about 12 o'clock. The evening was then spent in cards and dancing.

KENMORE Y. P. S.

After a summer vacation Kenmore Y. P. Society came to life and started the fall activities by a very pleasant evening spent at the home of Mrs. R. E. Kinkade. A perfect opening was made by Rev. C. M. Stewart leading in a snappy sing-song. The main item in business was the electing of a new president Stuart Armstrong receiving the honour. The young people enjoyed themselves on the lawn where they built a camp fire and had a weiner roast.

BOG FIRES DOING MUCH DAMAGE

Starting early in the summer in a bog near the Pet road, fire has travelled far into the fields on the farms located nearby. The fire has followed the mucky soil to such a depth that very little can be done in the way of checking it. Hundreds of acres of land have been burned over and some field crops destroyed. Robert Hoy, whose farm is in the midst of the fire, has suffered field crop loss, and Walter Lawrence has had hard fighting to protect some of his fields of grain. Acres have been burned to the depth of two and three feet.

In some places the fire has endangered the road, and the municipality has ordered barrels of water placed along the roadside to prevent the fire from spreading. Already several places in the road have been damaged and will have to be rebuilt.

CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO

A serious motor accident happened in Iroquois on Tuesday afternoon of last week when Mildred Johnston, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Johnston who reside in the vicinity of Brinston, was accidentally struck by a passing motorist when she ran across the highway opposite an Iroquois garage. The little girl had gone to town with her aunt and grandmother and had been left near their auto on the north side of the street, while they crossed over to a store on the south side. The little girl attempted to cross the street and ran in front of a car driven by N. A. Voizard, of Montreal. Mr. Voizard was proceeding at a moderate rate of speed and immediately applied his brakes but could not get stopped quickly enough to avoid hitting the child. She received a severely lacerated cheek and forehead requiring 24 stitches to close. No blame was attached to the driver by Provincial Traffic Officer Eugene Rose who investigated the accident.

FAREWELL GATHERING

An enjoyable time was spent on Thursday evening of last week when a number of young people, friends of Miss Evalene Barkley, gathered in the S. S. room of the United Church, Williamsburg, to bid her farewell prior to her departure this week for Ottawa where she will go in training at the Civic Hospital. The evening was spent in games and contests. Refreshments were served with Mrs. Strader McIntosh and Mrs. Ward Casselman in charge, after which the presentation of a disguised alarm clock in colorful modernistic case was made to Miss Barkley on behalf of her friends, by Rev. C. A. Adey.

RATES TO BE REDUCED

The first direct announcement from the minister of agriculture concerning the Kemptville Agricultural School has been related by Principal W. J. Bell when he stated to The Citizen that the boarding rates at the Kemptville Agricultural School would be reduced from $5 per week to $3.50 in an endeavor to ease the burden on parents who were anxious to give their children the opportunity of attending the school during the coming term. Mr. Bell also stated that a two months short course was being arranged for the girls which would be held from February first to March 31st, 1935.

BILLY WILSON VISITS US

The office of the Winchester Press was brightened and cheered by a call from "Billy" Wilson ,of Gananoque, known not only throughout Canada, but in the United States, as the big booster for "The town where the gates are always open," and "The Gateway to the St. Lawrence." Mr. Wilson was, for many years, mayor of Gananoque, and is manager of that town's Publicity and Tourists' Bureau. Billy radiates sunshine and cheer wherever he goes, and while he has of late years suffered physical afflications, and undergone two operations, mentally he is as bright and alert as a youth, and our old office seemed brighter after he went out. It's that friendly, kindly, cordial attitude that he fortunately possesses. He was on his way to Ottawa and came around by Winchester to see his old friend "Jim" Ross. Wasn't that kind. Say, Billy, if the writer ever goes through Gananoque without stopping to say " Good Day," he deserves to be shot.
