Disastrous Fire

Fire which broke out at the home of Mr. Emery Casselman at Riverside on Sunday morning of last week about 9.30, completely destroyed the building and part of the furnishings and clothing.

The fire, which is supposed to have started from a defective chimney was first noticed by Mr. Casselman whose attention was first taken up by the immense smoke which filled the attic, and he immediately gave the alarm to the neighbors and proceeded to fight the flames but the fire had already gained much headway between the walls making it impossible for the heroic fighters to extinguish the flames. But a short time had elapsed, however, before the general alarm was given and through the promptness of the neighbors in arriving on the scene much of the furniture was saved.

Mr. Casselman estimates his loss at about $1500, and carried but little insurance.—Morrisburg Leader.

Aluminum is now used to preserve the fragrance of the natural leaf in packing "Salada" tea. The bright clean sheets are closer in texture than the old fashioned lead coverings and ensure perfect protection to the fresh young leaves.

Rev. Father Salmon Dead.

Rev. Father J. J. Salmon passed away at the House of Providence in Kingston, Wednesday night of last week, following an illness of some length. A few years ago his health failed him and he retired from the active duties of a Roman Catholic priest. In 1906 Rev. Father Salmon was appointed parish priest of Morrisburg where he remained until two years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss two sisters, Mrs. Theodore White and Miss Helen Salmon, both of Montreal.

Postmaster Smyth Dead.

The community was greatly shocked at noon today, Friday, March 26th, 1915, to learn of the finding of the dead body of Postmaster Wm. G. Smyth on the railway track back of the town. His face was crushed beyond recognition by the G. T. R. Limited, which passes Iroquois at 11 a.m. While no particulars are available at this writing, and the circumstances of his death will probably never be known to a certainty, it was known that for some time past he had been suffering from a nervous breakdown due to illness and domestic worry, his wife and mother having died recently, and that in a momentary fit of depression he may have lost control of himself and courted death as the easiest way out of his trouble. Or possibly he was on his way home when the train, which does not stop at Iroquois, overtook him opposite Mrs. W. L. Redmond's residence. The facial wounds showed that he must have been facing the oncoming train, as the face bore the impact of the collision, crushing it beyond recognition.

His young wife, whom he recently married, is prostrated with grief, and is the object of universal sympathy in her irreparable loss. The two little girls, Pauline and Cecil, are left fatherless and motherless, and are deeply sympathized with.

Mr. Smyth was a man of exemplary character, and possessed of splendid ability, which had never been given the scope it deserved. He contested Dundas county in the Liberal interest some years ago against the late Sir James Whitney and although defeated, as was a foregone conclusion in this county, he put up a splendid clean fight and won the esteem of his opponents in the contest.

As a member of the local Council, Counties' Council, Postmaster of Iroquois, and church, Sabbath School and Temperance worker. Mr. Smyth won the esteem of the community no less by his faithful service than by his high minded endeavor to serve his generation to the best of his ability. He was a man among men, revered and respected by all.—Iroquois News.

Took His Finger Prints

Last week the Smiths Falls Record told of the theft of brass from a junk dealer in town and of the arrest and conviction of one of the thieves. The man gave the name of Anton Anderson. After he was lodged in the cells, sergeant Phillips took his finger prints and sent the prints to A. P. Sherwood, Commissioner of Police at Ottawa, to see if Anderson had any criminal record. Word came back to Sergeant Phillips that the man had been convicted of burglary at Kenora in 1912 and sentenced to six months in prison under the name of Karl Matson. In 1913 he was convicted of theft at Toronto under the name of Anthon Anderson and sent down for another term. The Commissioner of Police had his finger prints on file and had no difficulty in identifying him from the prints sent by Sergeant Phillips.

Parliament passed unanimously the hundred-million-dollar war vote.

The annual meeting of the Montreal Methodist conference, which includes Brockville and this district will be held in Gananoque, on June 2nd. This was decided at a recent meeting of the program committee of the Montreal conference which was held in Montreal. The program provides that the stationing committee is to meet on Monday, the 31st of May and the following day. Build Large Mill.

The McMaster Lumber Company at Kemptville, are now erecting a small temporary building on the site of the old saw mill, which was burned two weeks ago. This new building will be fitted up so as to enable the company to finish the large amount of sawing left on hand. In the near future, however, a large mill will be built on that property, as it is a convenient place for such a business, being close to railway and wharf.

Former Chesterville Boy Killed in Action.

Murdock Munro, son of Mrs. John Munro of Cornwall, was one of the killed in the casualty list published last Monday. He was with the Princess Patricia's and was doing trench work duty in France. He is remembered by many here as a curly-headed, bright little lad and many regrets are expressed at his death.

After leaving school, young Munro joined the staff of the Royal Bank, and was afterwards transferred to the Toronto and Montreal branches. He is survived by his mother, three brothers and two sisters.

The Minister of Finance announced that he would not at present need to ask power to extend the Dominion note issue beyond $26,000,000 recommended last autumn on the security of gold held in the Treasury.

Do Not Neglect to Spray Your Apple Trees.

The men who are taking care of their orchards in the Eastern Counties of Ontario are making more money per acre from those orchards than the men of any other section in the Province. Last year when Western Ontario apples were rotting on the ground for lack of buyers and markets, the men of the Eastern Counties were selling all their fruit from $2.50 to $3.50 per bbl., delivered in Montreal. Why was this, simply because our men are largely growing the varieties that the Montreal and Ottawa markets are anxious to get. Buyers were going through this district urging the growers to send on all the fruit they had and if they had McIntosh Red or Famous, they were assured of a good price.

For the man who has good clean apples of the above mentioned varieties or other good market varieties, a ready market is assured for a good article. Right now is the time to prepare to get that good article. The varieties that bring the highest prices are the most subject to fungus diseases and insect pests. We must spray to protect them. In no other way can we get a higher percentage of No. 1 apples and fruit that will command a ready market. The good article of fine quality sells itself, the poor article goes begging for a market.

At this season of the year the spraying outfit should be looked over to see if everything is in working order. The pump may need packing, some parts may be corroded out and need renewing and these should be repaired before the spraying season arrives. If you have not a spraying outfit and have twenty or thirty trees, it will pay you to get one. During the past two years a spraying outfit would have paid for itself in one year with an orchard of a dozen good trees by saving the crop, which was otherwise destroyed by caterpillars. An outfit can be purchased complete for about $23.00.

Lime Sulphur is about the safest and best spray on the market and easiest of application. For the poison material arsenate of lead should be used. It sticks to the leaves well and does not settle in the solution as quickly as some other poisons. Never use Paris Green with lime sulphur. A chemical action takes place which breaks up the lime sulphur and may cause serious burning to the foliage.

Spray four times according to the following method:—

1st. Just before the leaf has burst or on the dormant tree. Apply lime sulphur 1 gal. to nine of water.

2nd. Just when the blossom buds turn pink and before they open—lime sulphur 1 gal. to 30 of water and add 2 1/2 lbs. arsenate of lead to every 40 gals of mixture.

3rd.—Just after the blossoms fall (must be applied within a few days of their falling) Lime sulphur—1 gal. to 32 of water, add 2 1/2 lbs arsenate of lead to every 40 gals of the mixture.

4th.—About ten days or two weeks depending on weather conditions. Apply same strength as the 3rd, the arsenate of lead may be cut down to 2 lbs per 40 gals of the mixture.

Do not neglect any of these applications they are all important, neglecting any one of them may render your other sprayings nearly useless as the scab may develop at any time and when it once starts no spray will cure it.

A bulletin has been prepared by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Morrisburg, dealing with the care and management of an apple orchard in Eastern Ontario. This circular gives full directions for spraying an orchard a copy of one will be gladly mailed to anyone free on request.

The Late Wm. F. Thorpe.

One by one the sturdy pioneers of the community are passing away. The old scythe has been hung up in the barn, and the worn snath placed upon the sill, where father left them. No more will they be needed to garner the harvest as in bygone years, for lo! the reaper himself has been called from the field!

Thus our old friend, and honored pioneer, William F. Thorpe, of Hulbert, responded to the call on March 17th, 1915, in his 82nd year, following a brief illness, loved, honored and respected by the community. He was a man among men, a father of his generation, who feared God and honored the King.

Mr. Thorpe was born in the township of Williamsburg, May 14, 1833, where his boyhood days were spent. When about 12 years of age he removed with his parents to Matilda township, where he has made his home ever since. As a young man he spent 14 years lumbering, making several trips to Quebec.

When 29 years of age he married Miss Jane Shaver, of Matilda, and settled on a farm, or "clearing," as it was called in pioneer days, in the 7th con. of said township, and together they toiled early and late felling the giant forest trees, hewing out a home for themselves and the family to bless them in later years—six sons and three daughters, seven of whom survive.

Deceased was a life-long member of the Methodist church, being converted in and subsequently uniting with the old "Branch church" which stood on the farm now owned by Jacob Taylor.

It is as a church, Sabbath School and Temperance worker that Mr. Thorpe's life was most closely identified in this community, and with which his name will ever be reverently associated and commended to posterity. In the early struggle to rid the township of its many wayside saloons Mr. Thorpe did valiant service until the last bar was high licensed out of business, and for thirty years now this township has been immune from the liquor traffic. And thirty years ago, with little or no Temperance sentiment in the community, it meant something to stand up for one's principles and fight the traffic to a standstill. His quaint, humorous stories gathered from real life, and more frequently from original sources, disarmed his pro-liquor enemies, just as they had amused and entertained the Methodist class-meeting and S. S. pupils. He was the Prince of story-tellers in Dundas County, and will be remembered as such by old and young. Even when denied a closer intimacy with the warm, generous nature of the man, whom to know was to love, his influence for good was felt by his audience, whether church, temperance or political never failed to appreciate the stories and sound advice of our old friend Thorpe. At Matilda municipal nominations he seldom failed to delight the gathering with his ready wit and fund of useful knowledge gathered from his long years of experience.

The funeral, which was one of the largest ever held in the community, was held on Friday, service being conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Murray. The funeral sermon, at the request of deceased, was preached by Rev. Dr. John Mavey, of Ottawa, an old time pastor who preached the funeral sermon at the burial of Mr. Thorpe's father 44 years ago. He chose for his text 1 Cor., 16:13, "Quit you like men." Revs. Millar and Halpenney also assisted in the service. Interment was made in the Brinston cemetery.

Besides his devoted wife, a family of two daughters and five sons survive, namely, Mrs. James Flegg, Mrs. W. N. Marshall, Samuel, Mavey, Ezra, Joseph and Edward Thorpe.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. W. J. Sharra, Guy Shaver, J. B. Wright, Henry Ross, Geo. Keys and E. A. Roode.

Relieve Owners on "Farm" Lands.

Owners of "farm" land within municipal boundaries who are now loaded up with heavy general taxes and local improvement rates on property that brings them no return except on its value as farm land, and can not be sold except on that basis will be given relief by the Chambers Bill adopted by the Municipal Committee on Friday. The bill gives a rural municipality the right to give whole or partial exemption from taxation on such land, and gives an owner the right to appeal to the county judge for exemption.

The committee refused to approve of W. D. McPherson's bill to limit the debt of municipalities upon a population basis, the rate for cities being $200 per head of population. A similar treatment was accorded the proposition to permit municipalities to issue bonds and provide for instalments of interest in $100, $200 or $500 amounts, or in the multiples of these amounts. There was favorable comment regarding both propositions, but it was decided that they should stand over for a year in order to allow further consideration.

Man Burned to Death With Two Young Children.

Pictou, March 26.—James Lowry, a fisherman who lives at South Bay, twelve miles from Pictou, was burned to death with two of his children, aged four and six, in a fire which destroyed his house at an early hour this morning. Mrs. Lowry, it is understood, is visiting friends in the west. The eldest daughter, who occupied with the other two children a room upstairs, and one Ellis, who fishes with deceased, jumped from upper windows and escaped, so far had the fire progressed before being discovered. Lowry went to town yesterday with Ellis, and left for home in the evening. He was 55 years of age. The origin of the fire has not yet been determined.

Ottawa, March 25.—Public opinion and the probe of the Public Accounts Committee are having their effect. LOST GEMS OF ART

Many Famous Paintings Have Mysteriously Vanished.

WORKS OF THE OLD MASTERS.

Hundreds of Portraits by Reynolds Are Among the Missing Treasures, Besides Masterpieces of Correggio, Titian, da Vinci and Others.

There are many famous paintings by the old masters that have mysteriously vanished. They are known to have been painted, but their whereabouts has been an enigma for several hundred years.

From time to time lost pictures come again to the knowledge of the world, as when the original of the Dulwich Velasquez, the "Philip IV.," was found in a Polish nobleman's castle; when the portrait of Isabel de Valois, King Philip II.'s third wife, by Coello—the original of that by Pantoja de la Cruz in the Prado—was finally identified at the Grafton gallery, to which the Gaekwar of Baroda had lent it; when Titian's "Perseus and Ariadne" was found by Sir Claude Phillips in the bathroom of Hertford House, and Botticelli's "Pallas and the Centaur" was identified by an English critic, forgotten and unnoticed in an obscure place in the Uffizi gallery—a queer place to lose a picture in.

It is declared that no fewer than 400 portraits by Sir Joshua Reynolds have disappeared. The historians of art—the "Anonimo," Vassari and many others—speak with admiration of pictures so innumerable which have passed into the limbo of the unknown that the announcement of a discovery is rarely treated with absolute skepticism, even in the case of the greatest masters. There is plenty of room for the appearance of a number of early works by Velasquez—de Bernete gives a list of them—but especially the portrait of Fonseca, which gave to Velasquez his footing in Madrid, and more particularly the equestrian portrait of Philip IV., which placed him so quickly upon the pedestal.

Or take Correggio. There is the picture of "The Savior," a copy of which hangs in the Prado. There is the "Repose in Egypt," the "Herodias" triptych, the "St. Bartholomew," the "Young Man Fleeing From the Captors of Christ," "The Birth of Venus" and "St. Mary Magdalene" and others besides—all lost.

And Titian (a group of whose masterpieces were burned in a great English country house, where on earth is his portrait of Isabella Gonzaga and her son, which is known to us through the copy by Pordenone? Giorgione also. He is so rare a master—rare alike as to numbers and to quality—that the recovery of his "Birth of Venus" would be an event of the very highest importance in the world of art. The Anonimo speaks of it, but since his day no other writer, so far as experts are aware, has ever set eyes on it.

Although we have so many hundred canvases of that amazing genius, Rubens, the loss of a picture such as his "Cambyses and the Judge" is a distinct deprivation, inasmuch as it is said to have been one of his finest efforts. It was painted in 1623 for the magistrates' hall in the town hall of Brussels, and no less than 3,000 florins were paid for it.

We might spare, perhaps, the "Head of Christ," by Andrea del Sarto (painted in 1524), for similar works of his exist, but it is otherwise with his "Visitation" of the same year, if only because Andrea was a painter of great importance, historically considered—he who broke away entirely from Gothic rigidity and introduced a sentiment and a delightful sense of gaiety and sweetness that brought art home to hearts untouched by the earlier dignity and gravity which they felt oppressive.

The portraits of Terburg, again, are a delight, and a host of them exist (including not a few not unworthy of him, but really by the hand of his pupil, Koets), yet we cannot read without regret the list of them, as well as of his exquisite subject pictures, which M. Hofstede de Groot's researches have enabled us to make. We may even regard with relative equanimity the disappearance of Nicholas Ponsin's "Rinaldo and Armida." But on quite another plane is the mystery of the portraits which Leonardo da Vinci painted for Ludovico Sforza and which vanished into thin air as completely as his "Mona Lisa" a couple of years ago.

The jocund lady re-emerged into the light of day, but the Ludovico portraits are practically beyond hope—unless perchance even now, unsuspected of their identity, they are decorating the upper corridors of some great house (mines of unexplored wealth) or the back storerooms of minor dealers.—New York Press.

Caesar Used Elephants in Britain. Tradition has it that Caesar brought elephants with him to Britain and that they contributed to his conquest of the island. Having unsuccessfully attempted to cross the Thames, Caesar built a large turreted elephant and, loading it with bowmen and slingers, ordered them to pass the stream, whereupon the Britons, terrified at the sight of the unknown monster, fled in confusion.—London Chronicle.

Through want of enterprise and faith men are where they are—having and selling and spending their lives like ants. Thoreau.

AN ECCENTRIC RUSSIAN.

Zaharin Was a Clever Doctor, but He Had Funny Ways.

Dr. Zaharin was one of the most famous as he was also the most eccentric of physicians in Russia.

Even when he was summoned to attend Czar Alexander III. in his last illness Dr. Zaharin required the same preparation for his visit to the imperial palace as to any of his less exalted patients' homes—that is to say, all dogs had to be kept out of the way, all clocks stopped and every door thrown wide open.

Following a process of gradual undressing, he left his furs in the hall, his overcoat in the next room, his rubbers in the third and, continuing, arrived at the bedside in ordinary indoor costume. This was only one phase of Dr. Zaharin's golden theory that "you should take a rest before you are tired." Accordingly he sat down after walking every few yards and every eight steps in going upstairs.

From the patient's relatives and every one else in the house he required absolute silence until he spoke to them, when his questions had to be answered by "Yes" or "No" and nothing more. To the actual patient, however, he was courteous and considerate in the highest degree.

HENS IN WINTER.

They Stop Laying Eggs Because They Acquire Too Much Fat.

That hens stop laying as winter progresses is a fact known to every farmer and chicken fancier; also, indirectly, to every housewife through the rise in the price of eggs. The reason is explained by the Revue Scientifique, which says that the egg producing organs degenerate through too much fat. This condition is the consequence of too great abundance of food during the winter, coupled with lack of exercise, due to the narrow limits of the ordinary chicken run.

The fat invades the liver and piles up in the heart; the blood becomes sluggish and the lungs do not take up enough oxygen to insure combustion of the fat.

"The obvious remedy," says the Scientific American, "is to give less food to hens which stop laying." Mr. Brochemin, in an article in L'Aecclimation, advises that starchy foods, such as corn, rice and barley, be limited, while an abundance of such green food as cabbage, boiled clover, sorrel, etc., be given. Also the hens must be made to take exercise by giving them a large run and by mixing their food with straw, etc., so that they will have to work for their food.

HEROES OF MEDICINE.

Many an Obscure Physician Has Died For Humanity's Sake.

The physicians who have met death from diphtheria, from smallpox, from tuberculosis in the heroic discharge of duties so common as to seem trivial, cannot be computed. Time has failed to keep a record of the noble dead. A roster of their honored names is out of our power. Obscure heroes who have fallen in the strife for humanity fill our churchyards where they sleep in unacknowledged graves.

St. Paul boasted he was a citizen of no mean city. We may boast in the same spirit that we belong to no mean profession, to no ignoble calling, and while ungrateful beneficiaries may accuse us of practicing medicine for money, we may be sure that alike in city and in country, alike among the homes of wealth and the hovels of destitution, there exists a great body of men who by unselfishness, by fortitude, by kindness and charity, sustain amply the traditions and fulfill worthily the scope of our noble calling.

To those men what is a money fee? It is not time and study and care alone that they offer to the afflicted. It is their own strength, their sleep, their very lives that they lavish upon them, and what is a fee in exchange? Do men sell their blood for gold?—"Recreations of a Physician," by A. Stuart M. Chisholm, M. D.

Lawyers on Strike.

In 1789 John Scott, earl of Clonmell, who was lord chief justice of Ireland, made some insulting remarks from the bench to Mr. Hacket, a member of the bar, who was conducting an argument before him. A general meeting of the bar was called, a severe condemnation of his lordship's conduct voted with only one dissentient and an unprecedented resolution passed that until his lordship publicly apologized no barrister would either take a brief, appear in the king's bench or sign any pleadings for the court. This strike experiment was actually made. The judges sat, but no counsel appeared, no cause was prepared, the attorneys all vanished, and their lordships had the court all to themselves. There was no alternative, and next day Lord Clonmell published a very ample apology by advertisement in the newspapers and made it appear as if written on the evening of the offense and therefore voluntary.—London Law Times.

The Curse of Mexico.

Xochitl, the beautiful Indian maiden of 900 years ago, is responsible for the Mexican national drink, pulque, pronounced poolkay. She was the first to drink the sweet liquid from the maguey plant, cousin of the aloe, that blooms once in 100 years. The drink in its fresh state is quite harmless, but the modern Mexicans have debased it by fermentation, and it has now become the curse of Mexico. It appears to have much the same effect as some other national drinks, for it softens the brain, ruins the digestion and paralyzes the nerves. So disastrous a hold has pulque upon the poorer classes that employers of labor avoid workers from the maguey fields if they can get labor elsewhere.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Shocking Story.

"What's the show?" asked the man with a large hat and long hair.

"Hamlet," replied the man in the box office.

"What's it like?"

"That'll do. I guess I'll stroll out and see a cabaret. I'm tired of these crook plays."—Washington Star.

The Better Way.

"So you have decided to forget all party grievances and forgive your enemies?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "It is better to let bygones be bygones than take chances on being a gas been."—Washington Star.

AN OLD DUTCH LEGEND.

How Jantje the Bellringer Saved Sluis From the Spaniards.

An old statue in the steeple near the bells at Sluis, in Holland, which was originally erected in honor of Jantje van Sluis, is worked by mechanical means, which cause it to strike the bell at every hour and a half with a hammer.

Jantje was a bellringer and watchman during the eighty years' war with Spain. On the night of June 12, 1606, Du Terrail, a Spanish captain, resolved to recover Sluis, the principal fortress of Zeeland, from Prince Maurice of Orange, who had conquered it two years previously.

When the clock struck nine it was arranged that the Spanish soldiers should sound a false alarm at one gate in order to draw the Dutch soldiers away from another, thus leaving a means of ingress for the enemy.

Providentially Jantje forgot to wind up the clock till late in the evening, and, being terribly afraid of ghosts, he did it so hastily that he damaged the works. Another story avers that he was intoxicated, the result of Sluis fair, which had been held on that afternoon.

Be that as it may, Terrail waited in vain to hear the familiar striking of the old clock, and thus the attack was put off till midnight. In the meantime the garrison had suspected something amiss and were on the alert. Consequently the Spaniards were repulsed with great loss.

Jantje had accidentally saved his town, and to honor him his fellow citizens erected the bell ringing statue to his perpetual memory.—London Tatler.

FREDERICK THE GREAT.

On the 17th of August, 1786, died one of the most remarkable sovereigns Europe ever produced, Frederick II. of Prussia, called Frederick the Great. Thomas Carlyle thus describes him:

"The man is not of godlike physiognomy any more than of imposing stature or costume. Close shut mouth, with thin lips, prominent jaws and nose, receding brow by no means of Olympian height; head, however, is of long form and has superlative gray eyes in it. Not what is called a beautiful man, nor yet, by all appearances, what is called a happy."

"On the contrary, the face bears evidence of many sorrows, as they are termed; of much hard labor done in this world and seems to anticipate but more still coming. Quiet stoicism, capable enough of what joy there were, but not expecting any worth mention; great unconscious and some conscious pride tempered with a cheery mockery of humor—are written in that old face, which carries its chin well forward in spite of the slight stoop about the neck; snuffy nose rather flung into the air under its old cocked hat—like an old snuffy lion on the watch; and such a pair of eyes as no man or lion or lynx of that century bore elsewhere according to all the testimony we have."

"This is the man who, among the common people who much loved and esteemed him, was Vater Fritz—Father Fred—a name of familiarity which had not bred contempt in that instance."

Born to Fighting.

Mons began fighting. Caesar found ed it as a camp and a short time later Cicero's brother sustained a leg by Ambiorix. Its most famous siege was in 1572, delivered by Frederic of Toledo, one of the distinguished generals of Alba. The siege lasted from the end of June to the middle of September; sorties and relief were vain; the town capitulated under the most honorable conditions. In 1691 the Marechal de Luxembourg attacked the town, inflicted great damage and forced surrender. In 1709 Marlborough and Prince Eugene attacked and carried the town after a siege of 126 days. In 1749 the Prince de Conti laid successful siege. In 1792 Mons was the first fruit of the republican victory at Jemappes, and in 1794 the Austrians were subjected to a crushing defeat.—New York Sun.

The Rose of Sharon.

In Asia the rose of Sharon is considered the emblem of resurrection. Throughout Syria, Judea and Arabia it is regarded with the profoundest reverence. The leaves that encircle the blossoms dry and close together when the season of blooming is over, and the stalk, withering completely and drying in the shape of a ball, is carried by the breeze to great distances. In this way it is borne over the sandy deserts until touching some moist place, it clings to the soil, where it immediately takes fresh root and springs to life and beauty again.—London Mail.

That Explained It.

"I say, I have just come from my landlord's, and—would you believe it?—I had the greatest difficulty in the world to get him to accept a little money from me."

"Nonsense! And why, pray?"

"Well, because he wanted a lot!"—

Editor and Proprietor.

A Parting Word.

Rumour has been current for a couple of weeks past that the RECORD was about to change hands, and not without some foundation, for with to-day's issue the RECORD is published under new ownership, Mr. G. C. Lacey, late proprietor of the "Press" at Winchester, being the man, and we bespeak for him the liberal support we have received at the hands of the general public of this district during our business career as publisher for the past twenty years. We, of course, have not pleased everybody in our attitude during that time, and we do not suppose for a moment, if the new proprietor resides and continues in this business for a like period, that he will be in a different position than we are at present. If he does he will have to offer up supplications daily, and with that, we doubt if he will be successful.

We were confident that we had numerous friends and assistants, but had no idea that we had as many as we have. Those that are not are limited in this district, and I can assure the public that I appreciate their friendship highly, and it makes me feel more anxious than ever to remain and do business in Chesterville, which I expect to do, and if such is the case, I respectfully request the support that I have received in the past twenty years. Starting with to-day all subscription accounts, (dates of which appear on the label of your paper) will be payable to Mr. Lacey and also advertisements likewise, but all accounts for advertising up to March 31st, 1915, is due and payable to myself. Again thanking you most earnestly for your liberal support in the past, I remain

Yours truly
T. T. SHAW.

Introductory.

On the occasion of the change of ownership of a newspaper it is usually expected that some explanatory announcement will be forthcoming, and therefore I take this opportunity of introducing myself to the readers of The Record.

The desire to locate in Chesterville was born in the belief that this town is destined in years to come to occupy a very important position in Eastern Ontario. Its natural situation in the heart of an agricultural district, unequalled elsewhere in this banner province of the Dominion can lead to nothing but advancement. The whole surrounding district is peopled by the descendants of those whose thrift has provided incentive and the proper pride to keep in the front ranks of the agriculturalists of the world.

A district's local paper is its weekly representative, carrying in to the outside world a continuous narrative of the business and social life of that district, and as that representative is a credit to the place, so is the opinion formed from it.

The Record will at all times, under my direction, endeavor to uphold the best interests of Chesterville and its district, its only policy being the greatest good to the greatest number. I do not wish to impose on my readers what I may consider to be the best policy on any given question and The Record's columns will at all times be open to the expression of opinion by others, and I would like to make this a personal invitation from myself to each, individually.

The most essential ingredient in the composition of a local paper is news—when it is news.

Two lines of news when it is fresh is worth a column a week old. Of necessity, papers have to depend on their readers for giving them the greater part of the information which constitutes news as it is printed. You are invited to favor THE RECORD by sending in every item of news you possibly can. The only excuse you require is that it will interest you and if it does, it will interest others. I want all the news worth printing in this district.

Politically, our policy will be non-partisan. Happenings in the political arena will be handled for their news value. You can discuss the policies of the different parties from any angle you wish and our columns will be open to you, having only regard to the limits of space available.

In conclusion, I cordially invite you to call and let us get acquainted, tell what is doing or going to do and let us all "boost" for Chesterville and district.

G. C. LACEY.

Important Changes In Education Laws

Before the Legislature adjourned at midnight Thursday, Hon. R. A. Pyne, Minister of Education, introduced a number of bills dealing with the administration of his department. Some of the provisions are technical, others highly important. The law with respect to paying one-half of the grants of the Province to the School Boards and the other half to the municipal Councils is to be changed, and the entire amount goes to the boards. There is a change to be made in the constitution of the Advisory Council. Provision is made for an Administration Building for the Board of Education in Toronto. Hereafter all school trustees, members of Boards of Education and separate school trustees will have to subscribe to an oath of office. In places where it is not possible to secure a qualified Board of Trustees power is to be taken by the department to make an appointment.

An important provision in the public, high school and separate school acts is authority given to the boards to provide medical and dental inspection in schools, and in the former class to give meals to pupils whose parents are unable to provide for them. The appointment of school nurses is to be optional with Boards of Education. The restriction for admission to industrial schools is lessened. The deadlock in Ottawa is dealt with in a special bill that confirms the judgment of Mr. Justice Lennox pending an appeal, and provides if the local board fails to meet the situation the Government may appoint a Commission to deal with it.

War Summary

There is a distinct lull in larger operations everywhere on both the eastern and western battle-fronts, except in the Carpathians, where the Russians are pushing their attack upon the Austrian positions in the Lupkow and Uszok Passes. The Austrian reports last night, while claiming that the Russians had been repulsed, contained the admission that the enemy's troops formerly engaged at Przemyśl are now appearing in the Carpathians. This is the first definite indication that the investment of Ciacow is not to be attempted at present, and that the whole strength of the Russian armies in Galicia is to be devoted to securing and holding all the roads through the mountains leading down into Hungary. It is not unreasonable to suppose, therefore, that the invasion of Hungary is the chief task to be attempted when the spring floods permit.

In northern Poland the siege of Ossowetz has been practically abandoned, and a German detachment which got behind the Russian lines to the west of the Niemen has been, in the language of the official Petrograd report, "annihilated." The invasion of Poland from the north has been as ineffective as that attempted in December from the West. It is not going too far to say that the capture of Warsaw is now almost as impossible as the occupation of Paris.

In the west the German wave is receding still. Yesterday, by vigorous French artillery fire, backed up by infantry attacks, the Germans were driven from positions on the Lorraine frontier near Pont-a-Mousson. There is an air of brisk confidence about this paragraph from the French report which indicates how little the French now fear German gunnery: "On Monday Fort Donaumont, north of Verdun, was struck by twenty-one-centimetre shells. Our artillery immediately settled the German batteries." The Gallic chanticleer begins to recover his voice.

The startling statement is made that Field Marshal Von der Goltz went to Adrianople not to put that city in a state of defence so that it might be used as a refuge for the Sultan, should he be driven from Constantinople, but to open negotiations with Bulgaria for the surrender by Turkey of half her territory in Europe in return for the continuation of Bulgarian neutrality. Things must have come to an almost hopeless pass in Constantinople if Von der Goltz was deputed to make such a proposal. The territory offered to Bulgaria includes Adrianople and the fairest portion of the Plains of Thrace. The Bulgars have brought Turkey to her knees by holding up shipments of artillery and ammunition en route from Germany to Constantinople, without which the Turkish defence must very soon collapse. Since Richard on Bosworth field shouted, "A horse! a horse! My Kingdom for a horse!" there has been no more prodigal offer than Turkey's proposal to cede half her European territory in return for Bulgaria's consent to the passage of a few carloads of war material.

Brockville Family To Equip Regiment.

Brockville, March 29.—Speaking here to-night before an immense audience at the launching of a two days' campaign to raise $25,000 towards the Canadian Patriotic Fund, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor-General, announced that a Brockville family had made an offer of $100,000 to the Dominion Government to meet the expenses of equipping a Canadian regiment for overseas service. He did not mention names, but it was later learned that the magnificent contribution came from Mrs. G. T. Fulford, widow of Senator Fulford, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hardy, and it is understood that it will be accepted by the Government. Mr. Hardy presided at to-night's meeting. Professor L. W. ("Trooper") Milloy was one of the speakers.

An Incentive to Make Men Fight.

Pte. Barney Quinn, who played hockey in the Peterboro City League, writing to his mother from France, says: "The Canadians have a certain amount of trenches to hold now, and I think they are pretty safe in our hands. Last trip our company had to stay in reserve and bring up the rations every night after dark to the rest. It is very exciting when you have a big searchlight turned on you and expect to be fired on any minute. It used to put my heart in my mouth but comes natural to me now. We only had one fellow shot through the leg in our company, although stray shots are whistling around after dark. Poor 'Scoop' formerly of the Review staff, was carrying some wire to the trenches, and had just put it down for a rest when a bullet cut a piece of wire right where his hand was. Another fellow right beside me was killed."

"We have three pairs of rubber boots in our section, and get a chance once in a while to dry our boots and socks. Have a little touch of rheumatism, but think it will wear off. Are having a four days' rest now. They say our soldiers have been doing some grand work. There were shrapnel shells and Jack Johnsons' going over our heads and into a fair sized village at our rear every day. There is not a person left in it, and half the houses and stores are down, as well as a dandy big church. Tony Wood's battalion, the 4th, relieved ours. Have not had a chance to see him since I left England."

"I hear they are having a hard time to get enough for the third. I guess they are too wise, but if they saw the way the towns and villages are knocked down and poor people turned out of their homes there would be more doing."

Lots Were Unregistered

Edmonton, Alta., March 31.—The waiting on Premier Sifton today of a delegation from Calgary, consisting of W. D. Spence, William Pickard and J. M. Empey, revealed an extraordinary state of affairs in connection with real estate transactions in the province. In 1912, an act was passed requiring that no lots in any sub-division could be sold unless the plan of the sub-division had first been filed, approved and registered. Some sub-division owners were so busily engaged at the time in selling lots and gathering in the proceeds that they omitted to comply with the law in this respect.

DEATHS AT NEWINGTON.

MRS. SECORD.

There recently passed away in this village one of Newington's aged residents Mrs. Solomon Secord. The late Mrs. Secord was born in Trafalgar Township, Halton County, eighty-six years ago, and was a daughter of the late James Hehir, who moved to Jordan, where she was married to her husband, the late Solomon Secord. They moved to Newington over thirty-three years ago. She had been ailing for the past two years, but became suddenly worse about four weeks ago and died on Friday night, the 19th March. The late Mrs. Secord had been a member of the Methodist Church since her girlhood, joining the church at Grimbsy. A good neighbor of Christian character, she will be greatly missed by the village as well as by her church, having taken an active part in its work.

The funeral sermon was preached on Monday in the Methodist Church by her former pastor, the Rev. Mr. Woods, of Moulinette, after which the remains were placed in the Union Cemetery in the Seventh Con., beside the grave of her late husband. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Grant, Jos. Raymond, Geo. Raymond, Stephen Brownell, I. Zeron, John McDermid.

The deceased leaves to mourn her loss two sisters, Mrs. Kelly, of Newington, and Mrs. Stevenson, of Toronto; and three daughters, Mrs. Hanes, of Jordan; Mrs. James Duvall and Mrs. (Rev.) W. Knox, of Newington; two sons, William, of Toronto, and Hilliard, of Newington, who has been station agent for the O. & N. Y. for the past twelve years. She also leaves seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. Her husband was a nephew of the celebrated Laura Secord.

MRS. JOHN NEVILLE.

A very sudden death occurred in the village on Sunday morning, when Mrs. John Neville, wife of the late John Neville, passed away at the home of her son, Oliver, on Main Street. She had been ailing for the past year, but had appeared to be improving lately. When her son got up on Sunday morning to make the fire and went to wake her, he found that she had passed away in the night. Mrs. Neville was a daughter of the late Hiram Fetterly, and was born in Osnabruk seventy-three years ago. Some years ago her husband retired from farming and they came to the village to reside. She leaves to mourn her loss six daughters:—Mrs. Geo. Countryman, Mrs. Wm. Rombough, Mrs. Frank Bush, Osnabruk;

Mrs. Chas. Colquhoun, Morrisburg; Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Riverside, and Mrs. Zeman Wert, Newington; one step-daughter, Mrs. Osborne Fetterly, Osnabruk Centre; three sons—Oliver, John, of Osnabruk, and Isaiah, who resides on the old homestead; and a stepson, Joseph, living with her here. The funeral sermon was conducted in the Methodist Church on Tuesday by the Rev. Mr. Knox, of this village. The remains were taken to Pleasant Valley Cemetery and buried beside the grave of her husband. The pall-bearers were her six grandsons:—Willard Weat, Garnet McKenzie, Irwin Neville, Lloyd Rombough and Milton and Clarence Countryman. Besides her sons and daughters, she leaves a large number of grandchildren, who all reside in Dundas and Stormont, with the exception of Flossie Wert, now Mrs. (Dr.) Cook, of Lloydminster, Sask.

ONCE A MIGHTY CITY.

Ypres, in Belgium, Was Famous When Berlin Was a Hamlet

The little Belgian town of Ypres, in Belgium, in the heyday of its greatness and prosperity ranked as large in the civilized world as Philadelphia, Chicago, Berlin and other big cities do today. Indeed it was a splendid city when Berlin was a mere hamlet of half-civilized Slavs.

It was in the days of the commercial greatness of Venice that Ypres attained the summit of its prosperity. It was an important distributing center for the traffic which came up through the Adriatic by boat, was carried overland and then scattered from Belgium to England, France, Holland, Germany and other countries. It also had great manufactures, and in the fourteenth century its population exceeded 200,000, making it one of the largest cities in Europe. Ghent and Bruges, its near neighbors, were no less prosperous. With the changing of the trade routes of Europe the wealth and population of Ypres disappeared until it has now less than 20,000 people.

When one reads of the rise and decline of these communities which flourished long before America was discovered it is interesting to speculate whether the same fate will overtake our own cities. Who can tell? To us their foundation seems substantial, but doubtless the worthy burghers of Ypres thought the same of their beloved city 600 years ago—Philadelphia Record.

NOISELESS NORWAY.

A Country of Quiet Voices, Gentle Manners and Placidity.

The population of Norway is nearly 2,500,000, but if the entire population met in a given area I venture to say that their coming and their going and their meeting would not make as much noise as one may hear every five minutes on dozens of street crossings either in New York or in Chicago.

Norway is the country of quiet voices, gentle manners and no noise. The steamers dock almost without a sound and depart as silently. At Christian sand, where we touched first on Scandinavian soil, people got on and off the steamer, farewells were waved, the crowd on the dock moved about deliberately, but no voice was raised, there was no shouting, no physical unrest expressing itself in squirming bodies or twisted features; they were almost as calm as the stars above them.

All over Sweden and Norway one is attracted by the smooth skins, unwrinkled cheeks and unfurrowed brows of both the men and the women. They have pinched faces, as of men and women who have not yet been in contact with our disease of striving to live all of life in a day. The trains slide away from the stations at the sound of a scarcely audible whistle, and there are no bells or shouted warnings; the crowds in the streets or elsewhere seem to pitch their voices out of the range of hearing of ears accustomed to the catarrhal rumble of London, the strident gabble of New York or the sibilant cackle of Paris.—The Late Price Collier in Scribner's.

Keep a Firm Hand on the Tiller.

The sails of boats are our emotions, the rudders are our characters. Our sails are breathed upon by gentle zephyrs of affection and inclination, of hope and love and of hate. They are torn by sudden gusts of passion. We are blown hither and yon by conflict of quarrelling winds, driven from our course by angry squalls. The only force by means of which we can counteract the effect of the winds and hold our course is the rudder of character.

We know that we shall be blown upon all our lives by various influences, good and bad, that our emotions—those white sails that respond to every breeze—will be played upon by every human appeal and desire. What will become of the craft that has not a firm hand on the tiller?—Youth's Companion.

Relics of Old Persia.

Shuster, the old capital of Persia, is one of Iran's wonder cities. In the dawn of Persian civilization it took a leading part. On the bank of the only navigable river the country can boast the city gets its name from the famous ruler, Shapur, who built great irrigating dams and a noble bridge across the Karun, now wrongly credited to the Emperor Valerian. Sixteen hundred years have left the great bridge, a quarter of a mile in length, with yawning gaps, but the water of the river runs today through the channels and tunnels made to fertilize a land that had not yet been overrun by the Arabic barbarians who destroyed the culture of Persia.—London Mail.

Barley water is a safe and cooling drink and is nutritious as well. REMEDY

"Fruit-a-tives" Have Proved Their Value In Thousands of Cases

WONDERFUL RECORD OF A WONDERFUL CURE

Only Remedy That Acts On All Three Of The Organs Responsible For The Formation Of Uric Acid In The Blood.

Many people do not realize that the Skin is one of the three great eliminators of waste matter from the body. As a matter of fact, the Skin rids the system of more Urea (or waste matter) than the Kidneys. When there is Kidney Trouble, Pain In The Back and Acid Urine, it may not be the fault of the kidneys at all, but be due to faulty Skin Action, or Constipation of the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" cures weak, sore, aching Kidneys, not only because it strengthens these organs but also because "Fruit-a-tives" opens the bowels, sweetens the stomach and stimulates the action of the skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

COLOSSAL SIRIUS.

This Monster Star is About Forty Times Bigger Than Our Sun.

The more that is learned about the giant suns of space the more wonderful they appear. The biggest (to our eyes) of these great supersuns is the dog star, Sirius. It equals probably thirty or forty suns like the one that makes our daylight.

The speed of light gives a ready means of comparing the distances of the sun and of Sirius, and upon the difference between those distances depends the fact that, although Sirius is in reality so much greater than the sun, it looks relatively insignificant.

Light takes about eight and a half minutes to come to us from the sun. But it takes about eight and a half years to come from Sirius!

As a minute is to a year, so is the distance of the sun to that of Sirius.

In other words, the great dog star is about 526,000 times as far away as is the sun.

But the brightness of any shining object diminishes in proportion to the square of the increase of its distance. Accordingly if Sirius were actually just as bright as the sun it ought to appear 526,000x526,000, or 276,676,000,000 times fainter than the sun to our eyes. But measurement of its light shows that it appears only about 7,000,000,000 times fainter than the sun, from which immediately follows the conclusion that its actual brightness must exceed the sun's about forty times.—Garrett P. Serviss in Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Hardening Steel.

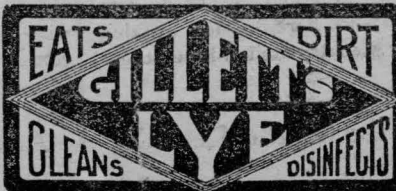

The usual method of hardening steel by immersion in oil or water or alkaline baths, it is said, results in the formation of a line of considerable tension between the hardened and unhardened parts. By the use of compressed air, however, the zones of cooling may be carefully graduated and much better results obtained. By adapting the shape of the nozzle to the work a wide range of results is possible.

Lampblack.

A German process of collecting lampblack consists in placing two electrodes in a flame rich in carbon and passing a direct electric current of about fifteen volts. The lampblack deposited on the negative electrode consists of much finer particles than the ordinary, the material being especially suitable for fine printing inks and high grade paints.

AN EYE TO BUSINESS.

Mme. Strauss Saw a Chance For Profit That Her Husband Missed

A little story told by Les Annales shows that Mme. Strauss, the wife of Richard Strauss, the composer, is a woman with a keen business sense. It is perhaps she who has made her husband's reputation as the shrewdest dealer among musicians.

One day a young musician called on Strauss and asked permission to play for him a parody on the famous composer's "Salome." Strauss granted the request. When the young man had finished Strauss was enthusiastic in his approval. "Very droll, very droll!" he cried. "It will be a success, a great success! I congratulate you."

As the young musician was on the point of leaving Mme. Strauss entered, and her husband at once began an enthusiastic explanation. "This young gentleman," he cried, "has just composed a parody on 'Salome,' a truly remarkable piece of work."

Mme. Strauss raised her eyebrows. "What terms have you made?" she asked in a low voice.

"Why, no terms."

"That is no way to do. Demand 25 per cent royalties."

And, turning to the writer of the parody, Mme. Strauss advised him, with seemingly maternal solicitude, to accept the advantageous offer that the master was willing to make him. Thus it came about that the parody on "Salome," which, as M. Strauss prophesied, was very successful, proved a source of considerable income for the Strausses.

MODERN FACTORY METHODS.

An Illustration of the Efficiency of Scientific Management.

Writing in the American Magazine on the development of the modern factory under the new principles of scientific management, Miss Ida M. Tarbell describes the importance of keeping tools and materials in order in the workshop and tells the following story:

"The promptness and sureness with which a part can be located under this system I once saw illustrated in an interesting way at the Watertown arsenal. Lieutenant Colonel Wheeler, the commanding officer, told me to select a piece in any one of the gun carriages under construction and we would take the number of it to the office and ask the clerk to tell us where that particular piece was.

"In five minutes after we had given him the number he had located the piece. I think it is not an exaggeration to say that if under the old system such a question had been asked of anybody in the Watertown arsenal it would have taken days for them to have answered it, if indeed they ever could have done so.

"As there are fifty different kinds and grades of material and 4,000 different pieces used in a disappearing gun carriage, the advantage of being able to put your hand promptly on material and pieces as well as knowing every night whether you have in stock the quantities of each necessary to carry on work does not need arguing. The gain to workmen and to management obviously is enormous."

Exploding Ice Bubbles.

The intensely cold nights of Siberia, says a writer, produce a curious phenomenon. Occasionally the silence is broken by a loud report resembling the boom of a cannon. The noise is caused by the bursting of an ice bubble on a river. The streams coming from the hills are incased in ice six to nine inches thick, and as the water descends faster than it escapes through the river the result is a heavy hydrostatic pressure. This first causes the ice upon the river to rise in mounds often six to eight feet high. For a time they seem to yield elastically to the pressure, but finally can with stand no more and burst with an explosive report. The water rushes out, soon freezing, however, and causing further explosions. The writer asserts that he has seen scores of these ice hillocks within a few miles.

Smallest Bird.

The golden crested wren is the smallest, not only of British, but of all European birds. Its average weight is only about eighty grains Troy, so that it would take seventy-two of the birds to weigh a pound. The length of the feathers is about three and a half inches and the stretch of the wings about five inches, but when the feathers are taken off the length of the body does not exceed an inch.

"Why, that's nothing," said the friend. "So have they."—Everybody's.

Farmer Ended His Life.

Owen Sound, March 28.—William Newman, a prominent and prosperous farmer living on the county line two miles east of Allenford, committed suicide yesterday morning. He arose about daybreak with other members of the family, and went out to the barn, near which he shot himself with a shotgun, death being instantaneous. Newman had been in poor health for five or six months, and had melancholy turns. Dr. W. G. Dow, coroner, of Owen Sound, was notified, and at once went out, but it was so plainly a case of suicide that he did not consider an inquest necessary.

Senator Power moved to leave the bilingual school question to the Provinces.

Paid $1,200 For His Influence
 Oshawa, March 25.—The Public Accounts Committee started this morning to follow up another large sluice through which money has been flowing to the middlemen. The developments were as sensational as those in the medical supply case. J. H. McQuarrie, one of the Ontario Department's Transport Committee members who was on the stand most of the morning, admitted that in 1912 he had signed an agreement with a Mr. Wyllie of the Gramm Motor Company of Berlin whereby Wyllie had paid him $1,200 for using his influence with the Minister of Militia in selling to the department three Gramm motor trucks. The original of this agreement is now in the possession of Mr. Carvell, M. P. McQuarrie then went on to tell about the purchase of the motor trucks for the first and second contingents, aggregating many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Funeral In Prescott of Canadian Aviator.
 Prescott, Ont., March 22.—The funeral of the late Lieut. W. F. Sharp, the Canadian aviator accidentally killed some weeks ago in England, took place from the residence of his uncle, J. W. Sharp, here this afternoon, the remains being accorded full military honors by the 66th Rifles. Capt. Bald, Byers, Whiteley and Kerfoot marched beside the gun carriage as pallbearers. Business was practically suspended in town during the funeral. Interment was made in Prescott cemetery after the services conducted by Rev. Wm. Howitt at the Methodist church.

Bounty On Wolves Is Increased To $20
 To overcome the danger to life and property in Northern Ontario by wolves the Fish and Game Committee of the Legislature, acting on the suggestion of Hon. F. G. Halifax, March 29.—Mrs. Borden, mother of Sir Robert Borden, premier of Canada, died at ten minutes past three this morning, at her home at Grand Pre.

Mrs. Borden was in her ninety-first year, and all through her life had enjoyed remarkable health until two years ago, when she was stricken with paralysis, which was the immediate cause of her death. Sir Robert was present at his mother's bedside when death came.

MOISTURE AND DUST.

Why This Rain Combination In the Air Shows a Red Sun

An old weather proverb runs, "A red sun has water in his eye," and the condition which gave rise to it is explained by Professor W. J. Humphreys of the United States weather bureau in a discussion of some useful weather proverbs.

The condition that most favors a red sun is a great quantity of dust—especially smoke particles—in a damp atmosphere. Smoke alone in sufficient quantity will produce this effect, but it is intensified by the presence of moisture.

The blue and other short wave length colors of sunlight are both scattered and absorbed to a greater extent by a given amount of dust or other substance, such as water vapor, than is the red, and this effect becomes more pronounced as the particles coalesce.

Hence when the atmosphere is heavily charged with dust particles that have become moisture laden we see the sun as a fiery ball.

It has been known that this dust has much to do with rainfall, since it was proved by the physicist Aitken years ago that cloud particles, and therefore rain, will not under ordinary conditions form in a perfectly dust free atmosphere, but will readily form about dust motes of any kind in an atmosphere that is sufficiently damp. A red sun, therefore, commonly indicates the presence of both of the essential rain elements—that is, dust and moisture.—Rocky Mountain News.

COURT TRIALS IN FRANCE.

Three Judges and Two Sets of Jurors In Each Criminal Case.

Most interesting indeed is it to watch the trial of a criminal in Paris, especially when defended by a woman. French procedure is quite different from ours.

There are two sets of jurors, who must sit throughout the trial, so that any mishap to any juror in the group selected to determine the facts is prevented from retarding the trial by the immediate substitution of one of the jurors from the second group. Three judges always sit in all the assizes at every trial.

The prosecuting attorney, beginning with the words "I accuse," reads the indictment to the prisoner and does not speak again. The presiding justice does all the questioning, and there seem to be no rules of evidence to restrict his questions. The defending attorney at the close of the trial addresses the jury. He has the last word before the judge's charge.

A word here about the criminals of France. I have never seen a worse looking lot than those "Apaches." I was told that they are the descendants of criminals, and they looked it. Comparing them with our criminals, I was led to state that the United States had no criminal class, and it will be our own fault if we permit a criminal class to exist.—Mary M. Lilly in Case and Comment.

The Blushing Tree.

The blushing tree gets its name from the change of hue it assumes when the rain falls on it. As the drops drench the leaves, gradually but unmistakably the green tint gives way to pink. In a few minutes the green fades from sight. Only in a few half hidden spots beneath broad branches and on its trunk is there a tinge of green to be seen. After an hour or more, when the shower is over, the tree assumes its familiar green once more. Certain tiny insects, and not the tree itself, change color. These peculiar parasites are possessed of the power of chameleons. In the warm sunshine they are greener than the tree on which they live, but when the chilly rain falls upon them they contract their tiny backs and become a pretty pink in tint. Millions of these change the entire appearance of the tree and make it seem to be blushing.

Anti-suffragist.

Southerners are notoriously fond of hot rolls, but they have a confection called Sally Lunn which is even more highly prized among them. It is not the sort of thing one has every day. It is for special occasions.

"Uncle William," said the housewife to the much spoiled old family servant who presided over most of the domestic arrangements—"Uncle William, don't you think it is about time for us to have some Sally Lunn?"

"Naw'm, Miss Mary, naw'm. Don't let's have none er dat. I ain't never had no fancy for dat female bread!"—New York Post.

He Objected

A surgeon was explaining a very uncommon case to his students and finished up as follows:

"This, gentlemen, is a very rare tumor indeed. In all my thirty years' experience I have never come across one like this, and you will see me remove it to-morrow."

"No, you won't," said the patient. "If that's all the experience you've had of this sort of thing I'm home."

DIAMONDS IN SUGAR.

We Know They Are There, Because Science Has Extracted Them.

Although at first thought the statement seems incredible, it is perfectly true that a lump of sugar may be converted into diamonds.

Not all the substance of the sugar of course will enter into the composition of the diamond, but only the carbon that it contains. Sugar consists of carbon united with oxygen and hydrogen.

It is an easy matter to separate out the carbon, and in certain experiments for the production of diamonds this sugar carbon has been employed.

The diamonds so produced were of course very small and destitute of commercial value, but still they were real diamonds, and the chemical result achieved would be no greater in principle if they were as big as the Cullinan.

Scientists have often expressed the hope that an improvement in the process of manufacturing diamonds may be effected whereby the necessity of dissolving the carbon in molten iron may be dispensed with, and the required combination of great pressure with great heat may be brought about by some such operations as squeezing the carbon between red-hot metal plates.—New York World.

Got In Her Answer.

"Maria," said Mr. Jollyboy very solemnly, thinking to take a rise out of the wife of his bosom, "I heard of a dreadful operation which was undergone by a girl. She seemed in danger of losing her sight, and the clever ophthalmic surgeon who operated on her found—"

"Yes!" breathlessly interposed Mrs. Jollyboy. "Found what?"

"That the poor girl had a young man in her eye!" rejoined hubby, with a chuckle.

Silence reigned supreme for the space of five minutes, at the end of which time Mrs. Jollyboy said quietly:

"Well, of course, it would all depend on what kind of young man it was, as there are many men she would have been able to see through." And, with a serene smile, Mrs. J. resumed her knitting.—London Express.

First Carrier Pigeons.

The sport of pigeon flying dates back 100 years, although the Egyptians trained pigeons to serve as messengers 4,000 odd years ago, and their example was followed by the Assyrians, the Chinese, the Greeks and the Romans. The first pigeon race was organized in Belgium in 1818, and two years later a bird was flown from Paris to Verviers, where its arrival was hailed by a procession with brass bands. In England the first pigeon race was held in 1875 from Newcastle-on-Tyne to Bexhill. The sport caught on rapidly, especially in Lancashire and Yorkshire, and such long distance flights as from Manchester to San Sebastian (700 miles) have been achieved.—London Standard.

BUY FROM A WELL ESTABLISHED COMPANY.

The most important point in selecting an automobile is to know the reputation of the Company—"Who is Behind" it.

New makes of automobiles come and go year after year.

The question of service should also be considered carefully. Do not buy an "orphan" car for which you may have difficulty in securing repair parts and service, after purchasing.

The McLaughlin Carriage Co., Limited, of Ottawa, is one of the oldest vehicle industries in Canada—built up on Canadian capital—in business for over forty-five years building high grade carriages, and in the eighth year of automobile manufacturing.

This company has such an extensive organization that an owner can secure dependable service at any of the twelve branches conveniently located throughout Canada.

Every McLaughlin Buick has the famous VALVE-IN-HEAD Motor, that is guaranteed to produce and deliver more power than any other motor of equal size of any make, and on a lower consumption of gasoline.

In Montreal, the Branch Salesroom is located in the Somner Building, 260 Ontario St. West, and the garage, carrying a large stock of extra parts, is at 1570 St. Lawrence Building.

Votes For The Soldiers

Ottawa, March 29.—The refusal of the Liberal members of the election law committee to agree to a scheme to enable soldiers to vote is not deterring the Government from taking the necessary steps toward preserving the franchise to the men on active service. At the opening of today's sitting, Hon.
C. J. Doherty presented the report of the special committee elections.
He stated that the committee has been unanimous on everything submitted except the matter of votes for the soldiers, which it now referred back to the House. He told Sir Wilfrid Laurier that there had been no communication with the war offices on the subject of soldiers voting in the trenches.

Later in the day Mr. Doherty gave notice of the following resolution: "That it is expedient to make provision to enable every male British subject of 21 years of age or upwards, serving in the military force of Canada, in the present war, to exercise his electoral franchise, and that the cost incurred in carrying out the provisions of any act to be based upon this resolution may be paid by the Governor-in-Council out of any unappropriated moneys in the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Canada.

used for the manufacture of iron pipes, factory smoke stacks, farm machinery and repairs, has been proposes to manufacture shells, the demand for which has been so great since the war began. The iron works were the property of Young Bros., who had retired some years ago after a successful business career, and the foundry has been run under lease for the last four or five years.

Do you know that no grocer can be sure of getting the same quality of tea in bulk twice running? It is impossible for him to have the extensive machinery that makes it possible to blend the choicest teas in varying proportions to form an absolutely uniform tea like "Salada". So true is this, that many grocers will neglect quality and only think of the greater profit that bulk tea affords them.

Red Cross Work.

Owing to the zeal of our Red Cross workers the committee were able to send to the Society at Ottawa for shipment to headquarters across the Atlantic, a very full supply of clothing, etc., consisting of: 78 pairs socks, 84 hospital shirts, 47 night shirts, 4 scarves, 3 pairs wristlets, 8 doz. bandages and 8 head bandages.

The scarves and wristlets had been knitted for the N. Atlantic sailors, but had been sent in too late to go with the last consignment to Halifax.

Of the eight dozen bandages sent the society are indebted to the guild (Anglican) for a donation of 14; also the 8 head bandages.

There was not sufficient material available to supply all those who were willing to do work for our soldiers, hence a complete return cannot be finished until next month when it is hoped a further shipment will be made.

express their gratitude to all those who have so warmly supported them in their efforts toward this very necessary work.

Red Cross Society Endows Bed.

In answer to an appeal for the endowment of one or more beds for the Duchess of Connaught's Hospital at Cliveden, England. The secretary of our local society, feeling that she could not make another general appeal to the community who had so generously responded to every call made so far for this work, and who had in less than a month furnished such a splendid lot of necessities for our soldiers, asked a few people to make a five dollar contribution, and in a few hours the hospital bed endowed by Chesterville was an accomplished fact. The following ladies furnished the necessary amount: Miss Annie Lawson, Mrs. Fred. Sanders, Mrs. F. McCloskey, Mrs. G.
W. Bogart, Mrs. J. Craig, Mrs. O.
D. Casselman, Mrs. Isaac Fulton,
Mrs. D. Allison, Miss K. M. Shennette and Mrs. W. B. Lawson.

The secretary, Mrs. Lawson, would be glad to receive further contributions. $50 will furnish and equip a bed for a year—equip it with all the necessities; and shall the $50 not be raised. Any lesser sums could go toward the furnishing of another bed.

It might be interesting to those who are not already familiar with the facts to know that the Canadian Hospital is housed in the beautiful home donated by Mr. Astor, an American by birth, and that the desire is to make the accommodation 1000 beds. It is staffed by Canadian doctors, the nurses are Canadians, and it will be the chief hospital for Canadians, who are brought from the front sick or wounded.

It was particularly requested that the effort should not interfere with regular Red Cross work, but it seemed to make a very special appeal to our Canadianhood.

The bed will be known by the name of our town.

Dr. Magee Loses Civil Action.

Daily Province, Vancouver, B.
C., March 24.—Madame Phela Marton, who was the complainant in a sensational case at the last Assizes, in which a jury twice disagreed over a serious charge laid against Dr. C. F. Magee, was victorious this morning in the Supreme Court in a suit brought against her by Dr. Magee for the return of property. Madame Mar-ton was not called upon to offer any evidence by Mr. Justice Clement, who stated on Dr. Magee's own evidence, he must find that Madame Marton was properly in possession of the property which Dr. Magee claimed.

The property in question was conveyed to Madame Marton by Dr. Magee a year ago, at a time when the doctor broke off relations with the woman who had accompanied him to Canada from Austria. In claiming for its return Dr.
Magee alleged that coercion was used by Madame Marton and her solicitor Mr. J. Edward Bird to secure the conveyance of the property, and that Madame Marton had not left Vancouver as agreed at the time the conveyance was made.

Mr. J. K. Kennedy appeared on behalf of Madame Marton this morning as Mr. Bird was a witness in the case. The judgment of Mr.
Justice Clement confirms Madame Marton in her ownership of the property. Dr. Magee was ordered to pay the costs of the unsucces-ful suit.

Rumor That Bank of Ottawa May Purchase Bonds of Ottawa-Pres- cott Road.

If the provincial government decides to undertake the construction of the Ottawa-Prescott road, there will be no difficulty in financing the work. The news has leaked out in banking circles that the directors of the Bank of Ottawa held a meeting a few days ago and agreed to purchase the entire bond issue to the extent of $600,000, to finance the project. The debentures would be guaranteed by the provincial government for five years and the commission which would be appointed to supervise the construction and maintenance of the road would not have to dispose of the bonds for five years. The action of the Bank of Ottawa in undertaking, as it is pretty well understood it has done, to purchase the whole bond issue, is expected to give great impetus to the project for the construction of the road.
Most of the municipalities along the route of the proposed highway have been heard from favorably, and prospects for the construction of the road now look brighter than ever before. Members of the Ottawa-Prescott Highway Committee have apparently been doing some quiet, but effective work in the last few days, although they are reticent for the time being concerning the progress that is being made with the scheme at Toronto.

Is it not remarkable how some tea merchants reduce the quality of their teas in sympathy with the rising markets? Admittedly the auction prices of teas on the London, Calcutta and Colombo markets have risen to an extraordinary level and there seems little respite ahead. Nevertheless, we will continue to supply the public with the same high standard of quality that they have learned to rely upon in Salada packets. Salada has always been kept "up to standard" and never "down to a price" and we will never depart from this principle which has earned us such appreciation. If market prices make it impossible to supply Salada at present prices then the cost to the retailer and consumer must go up.

Winchester Mourns Its Grand Old Man.

On the verge of having completed a span of life extending to within a few days of four score and ten, there passed away in Winchester last Friday night one of the outstanding figures of Winchester township, in the person of William Bow. Of sturdy Scottish parentage, he was born in the city of Aberdeen, Scotland, in the year 1825, and after spending seventeen years of his life there, where he secured a good education, he came to Canada and to Winchester where a sister had preceded him and settled. Having had more advantages in education than many of the early day settlers, it soon fell to his lot to be the teacher in the community and his services were in demand wherever clerical ability was needed. Although amply fitted mentally, for the more scholarly work, a strong constitution in a robust body soon lead him into the front ranks of the attack on the forest at that time covering the district, and so proficient did he become in the art of hewing that he was long known as champion among his fellow workers. Many of the sticks of timber dressed by his blade were among the rafts to reach Quebec. He was not a riverman, and once the timbers were bound together by the withes of his cutting and ready for the current of the St. Lawrence he turned his face again to the north.

For many years he was identified with the commercial life of Winchester and was postmaster for sixty years, until a couple of years ago.

He was perhaps more widely known in his capacity of police magistrate than through any other public service. During his long tenure of office many and varied were the cases which were reviewed for his judgment. It was always with fear and trembling that the guilty appeared before him. He dealt justice as warranted by the evidence and did not allow sentiment to mingle with his decisions when stern methods were necessary to turn the erring from the downward paths of crime.

He left his native land brought up in the Presbyterian faith, but upon landing in Winchester township allied himself with the first organized church there, the Methodist of which until the day of his death he was a most devoted member and lived the life of a Christian gentleman, an inspiration and an example to all who knew him.

The remains were placed in the vault at Maple Ridge Cemetery on Monday.

A Fatal Accident At Finch

A terrible accident occurred in Maple Avenue on Thursday March 25th. Mr. George Fetterly was sawing wood for Mr. Abe Eligh. The belt came off the saw and when he went to get it his foot was caught and he was taken up to the engine and his right leg was mangled so that it had to be amputated above the knee. The operation was performed by Dr. E. H. Marcellus, assisted by Dr. Dickey, but Mr. Fetterly was so badly injured that he died about 1 o'clock Friday morning. The body was taken to Wm. Brownlee's undertaking establishment, where it was embalmed and taken to his home. Great sympathy goes out to the sorrowing friends in their hour of affliction. Mr. Fetterly was 42 years of age. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, father and mother, one sister, Mrs. Wm. Bocker, Buffalo, N. Y.; four brothers, Roy H. of Wetwood, Alta.; J. Bernice Earl W., of Toronto; and Oliver, of Ottawa. The funeral was held from his late home on Monday afternoon to the Methodist Church in the village. Rev. Dr. Meyers conducted the service. The service at the grave was conducted by the I.O.O.F. of Finch, assisted by other sister lodges. The pallbearers were Messrs. James McMartin, George L. McLean, Hiram McMonigal, Murdock McIntosh, Wm Shaver and Aaron Shaver. A beautiful wreath was placed on the casket by the I.O.O.F. of Finch. Among those who attended the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wert, and daughter, Miss Olive Wert, Miss Alice Rosseau, Mrs. B. Barringer and Mrs. A. Conlen, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Fetterly and Mr. James and Miss G. Fetterly, of Colquhoun; and Earl W. Fetterly, of Toronto. Interment took place in the Finch Cemetery.

DUNDONALD'S SECRET AWAITS
BRITAIN'S NEED.

Writer Speculates on the Nature of the Celebrated Scheme of Defence Which Was So Horrible in Its Nature That the War Office Locked It Away—It May Have Involved Great Burning Glasses.

A most interesting speculation as to the nature of the secret war plan laid before the British Government by the famous Admiral Cochrane (Lord Dundonald) appears in an article by Mr. Edgar S. Maclay, who expresses the belief that Cochrane's discovery was neither an explosive nor a poison, but an adaptation of the "burning glass." Dundonald's "war plan" has never been disclosed. It was first laid before the British Government in 1811. Its author declared that it was capable of destroying any fleet or fortress in the world. A committee consisting of the Duke of York, then commander-in-chief; Lord Exmouth, a famous naval officer; Lord Keith, and the two Congreves, experts in explosives, considered in secret Admiral Cochrane's plan, and pronounced it to be "infallible, irresistible, but inhuman." On this ground it was not adopted, and Cochrane gave a pledge never to use it for any other country than his own. During the Crimean war the secret plan was again brought forward by Lord Dundonald, then an old man, and once more it was set aside as too terrible and inhuman for use in war. The details of the proposal are unquestionably still preserved in the pigeon holes of the War Office, and if Britain's existence were at stake the "secret plan" might be called into use.

Mr. Maclay's idea is that Dundonald had adapted to the purposes of warfare the then recently-invented "burning glass." The essential idea of this singular device was the arrangement of several hundred mirrors in a great frame, at such angles as to catch and concentrate the rays of the sun on any desired spot. The power of these concentrated rays was so great as to explode any magazine, quickly set all woodwork in a flame, and to cause the instant death of any human being who came within the influence of their scorching breath. It was claimed that so great was the heat generated in these concentrated sun rays they could be swept along a line of advancing troops, causing each man to drop dead the moment the rays fell upon him.

While difficulties were encountered in adapting "burning glasses" to naval warfare, not one of them was insurmountable. The rolling and pitching motion of water craft was easily accommodated in a manner similar to that employed with "floating" compasses, whereby a degree of stability was acquired sufficient to maintain a direct line with the sun and transmit its concentrated rays to the desired objective. As to the delicate mechanism or fragile nature of these glasses being shattered by hostile shot, it must be remembered that a century ago ordnance was of a comparatively low power; so much so, in fact, that it was the rule rather than exception for opposing war craft to hammer each other for hours and sometimes days without any being sunk—and the thickness of planks in militant craft then was only about four inches.

It would have been an easy matter to fortify the small space occupied by a frame of "burning glasses" with timbers massive enough to render them impervious to shot—the narrow slit through which the concentrated rays were to be projected against an enemy affording an infinitesimally small target for the cumbersome cannon of those days. With this "horrible" engine of death and destruction thus protected, it was quite possible for a war craft to approach close enough to an adversary to set the latter instantly afire. Perhaps if the baby-killing Zeppelins ever become a real menace the secret war plan may be resurrected for their destruction.

Traveling Schoolmasters.

Rural education has been solved in one part of Australia by the employment of a traveling schoolmaster. He conducts his class in a district of Queensland where a ranch of 25,000 acres is considered small. In order to gather enough pupils to fill a one-room schoolhouse it would be necessary to draw on the entire country within a radius of 500 miles. So, instead of supporting a number of struggling educational institutions in semi-populated localities, the Australian Government engage a traveling schoolmaster, who is an expert motorist and a hardy tourist. For his use they have purchased an automobile, and in his car the traveling teacher goes from farm to farm, making stops of two or three days at each, distributing books and mapping out courses of instruction by which the youngsters can easily teach themselves. The pupils are treated to lengthy holidays every year, as the school terms are curtailed by heavy rains that sweep Australia during the spring and often continue through the summer.

Ruskin on Wagner.

The source of the following extract has been unable to trace, but it is our readers' John Ruskin went to hear one of Wagner's operas at Covent Garden, and the day following he wrote to a friend: "Of all the bete, clumsy, blundering, boggling, baboon-blooded stuff I ever saw on a human stage, that thing last night (The Meistersinger) beat—as far as the story and the acting went; and of all the affected, sapless, soulless, beginningless, endless, topless, bottomless, topsi-turviest, tuneless, rernannelpiest, tongs and boniest doggerel of sounds I ever endured the deadliness of, that eternity of nothing was the deadliest, as far as the sound went."

Geographical Advice.

Readers of the war news who have some difficulty in remembering where the Falkland Islands are may be helped by the recollection of one of Ian Maclaren's stories. After a disaster to an emigrant ship many years ago, some of the survivors reached those islands. When the news came home the minister of a Scottish church to which some of the emigrants had belonged prayed thus:

"Oh, Lord, we pray Thee to be with our brethren, stranded in the Falkland Islands, which as Thou knowest, are situated in the South Atlantic Ocean."

DIAMOND TRADE RUINED.

With Gems to Burn, London Dealers Are Living on Charity.

Few commercial activities have been hit so hard by the war as the diamond and jewelry trade.

One London dealer has in his safe a rope of perfect pink pearls. He is certain that a year ago Lord —, who possesses a marvellous collection of gems, would have given $500,000 for it. But Lord — is "somewhere in France," and has other things to think about.

The average diamond dealer has all his capital sunk in his stock. There is a man with quite $1,250,000 worth of stones who has been living on the charity of his friends for months past. And there are many similar cases.

Hatton Garden, the London street which is the great world centre of the diamond trade, would have gone bankrupt long ago if the Government had not stepped in and lent a helping hand. As it is, many homes have been sold up because the owners, who could literally stuff their pockets with diamonds, could not provide their families with the bare necessities of life.

The matter is complicated by the fact that the diamond trade all over the world is controlled by one of the most powerful trusts in existence. The trust is composed of the little ring of financiers who control the mines. By regulating the output they keep the stones at an artificially high price.

And so the gems in the Hatton Garden safes are practically valueless at the present moment. Will the public ever be willing to pay the old fancy prices? It is more than doubtful. The war has sobered everyone in Britain, even the "smart set" and the "vulgar rich."

In any case, the diamond merchants must look forward to several lean years and heavy losses. For the moment they are ruined. But even when the war is over and trade becomes more or less normal again, they will not be able to dispose of their stocks at the old prices. They will lose hundreds of thousands of pounds.

The merchants and brokers are not the only people who are suffering. The cutters are also idle. For some years past London has been slowly but surely winning from Amsterdam the reputation for the finest diamond cutting and polishing. More and more of the best stones were coming to London to be cut. Now the cutters are only too glad to get any stones to cut, and at starvation prices.

One of the leading London firms, which a year ago was employing half a dozen skilled cutters earning anything up to $40 a week each, now has only one man, who not only does all the cutting, but all the clerical work as well; and he is glad to get $10 a week, instead of the $50 he used to earn as foreman.

Babu English.

The following bright sample of English "as she is spoke" in Burma was sent for publication to a Rangoon contemporary:

"Kindly publish this following new in your paper by due date.

"It is very strange to say being fought of Crow and hen in our East Rangoon, Yegyaw quarter on the 17th November, 1914, about 5 p.m., when I went and see that, those boys and girls are also there looking 'the Crow and hen fight' the crow under the breast of hen being assuited, but the hen with its peak packed the crow, about three or four times, which lasting about half an hour, having one eye of the crow out, the nearly captured two of them, and the crow was found one eye blind and one foot broken.

"From the first it seemed the crow dismounted to prey where there three or four fowls are pasturing, I see in spite of the crow assuited to the hen first, the hen defended, I have never seen this kind of creature secured attack to each other so oppressively.

"Kindly correct above errors and publish without fail. — Yours truly, No. 94 Yegyaw, Rangoon."

[A sub-editor's life in Burma must indeed be a strenuous one.]

"Dry" Canteens for Canadian Soldiers

Toronto, April 4.—"Dry" canteens for every military unit in Canada are being established by the department of militia forthwith. Official notice was received at Exhibition on Saturday afternoon from Major General Hughes.

The notice stated that it was an advance copy of a general order which would be issued by the department. It was stated that a canteen would be established for each unit of the army during the period of the war.

These canteens are to be organized, administered and placed on under the supervision and the direction of the department, and each unit and canteen are to be inspected daily.

The canteens are to be maintained solely for the benefit of the units and are not to be used for any other purpose.

John McMartin Makes Big Gift

Cornwall, April 5.—John McMartin of Cornwall has made a donation of $100 to the Red Cross of Gienegary towards sending a nurse to the hospital at La Paine, France, and Miss Elizabeth Kennedy of Apple Hill has been chosen for the position. The La Paine hospital is the one in which the Queen of the Belgians is interested, and visits often. Prof. De Paige, a Belgian, is in charge and Dr. Mallock, a Canadian, is on the staff. Miss Muriel Gault, of Montreal, is a nurse in this hospital.

A request was recently cabled to Canada for 20 nurses, and the sending of Miss Kennedy by Mr. McMartin is in answer to this appeal. Mr. McMartin has also placed $500 at the disposal of Long Sault Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, Cornwall, for the sending of a nurse from Cornwall and Stormont, but the lady has not yet been selected for the position.

In his letter accompanying the donation Mr. McMartin intimated that as it was impossible for him to go himself as a soldier, he felt it his duty to do what he could to lessen the hardships and distress of those who were doing the fighting.

Explicit.

BUY FROM A WELL ESTABLISHED COMPANY.

The most important point in selecting an automobile is to know the reputation of the Company—"Who is Behind" it.

New makes of automobiles come and go year after year.

The question of service should also be considered carefully. Do not buy an "orphan" car for which you may have difficulty in securing repair parts and service, after purchasing.

The McLaughlin Carriage Co., Limited, of Ottawa, is one of the oldest vehicle industries in Canada—built up on Canadian capital—in business for over forty-five years building high grade carriages, and in the eighth year of automobile manufacturing.

This company has such an extensive organization that an owner can secure dependable service at any of the twelve branches conveniently located throughout Canada.

Every McLaughlin Buick has the famous VALVE-IN-HEAD Motor, that is guaranteed to produce and deliver more power than any other motor of equal size of any make, and on a lower consumption of gasoline.

In Montreal, the Branch Salesroom is located in the Somner Building, 260 Ontario St. West, and the garage, carrying a large stock of extra parts, is at 1570 St. Lawrence Building.
