Jersey Breeders Met Here Tuesday

Ellis Foley, Rockfield was re-elected president o fthe Eastern Ontario Jersey Breeders' Association at the annual meeting of the association, held here on Tuesday. J.J. McKenzie, Finch was elected vice-president and J. Hume Grisdale, Iroquois, secretary.

Other directors are Russell Rennie and M .E. Waterson, Kemptville; J.W. Duvall, Newington; Joseph Eadie, Russell and P. O. Berkley, Morrisburg.

Speakers included Dr. Allen Deakin, of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa; James Bremner, secretary of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club, Toronto; A. E. Dumville, of Sardis, B.C.; A. D. Runions of Kemptville and H.W. Graham of Morrisburg.

The view was taken that feed grown on the farms is much superior to that brought from factories.

It was also felt by some that most cows were fed too much, were pressed too hard and as a result they were good producers for only two or three years, instead of for seven or eight years.

Dept. of Transport Investigating Cause Of Trouble

For some time past there have been numerous complaints in and around town regarding the interference in their radio reception, and charged that the Department was doing very little, if anything, to correct this trouble.

Replying directly to our editorial comment of a few weeks ago, the Department of Transport advises us that in most urban areas, a major portion of prevailing interference is caused by the operation of household electrical appliances. As the use of these appliances is very widespread, the most effective way of dealing with the situation is to launch a campaign, with a view to securing the co-operation of the electrical trade and the general public in suppressing such sources.

Through the efforts of the investigation staff of the Department, the public utilities in many places in the Dominion are supplying suppressor units at cost, and installing same free of charge, on their customers' equipment. The Department assists in such enterprises, by furnishing without charge, a combined notice and quetionnaire form which may be distributed by the company concerned. The consumer is requested to carry out simple tests outlined on the form which is then returned to the company's office, where arrangements are made for the installation of the necessary suppressors. All suppressors should be Hydro approved.

On March 16th last, the District Inspector visited Morrisburg and made a preliminary survey in order to determine if a similar campaign would receive the necessary support in Morrisburg. This matter was discussed at a meeting of the Town Council, with the District Inspector present, and he promised to assist in every way possible. The Department, he said, would supply the questionnaire forms, free of charge.

Already several causes for local interference have been discovered, and remedied and further steps are being planned by the district inspector so that radio reception in this district will be just as good as anywhere else in Canada.

NEWS PARADE

Arm-chair generals came into their own last week. Supplied with a multiplicity of maps of the Scandinavian front they could tell the rest of the world just exactly how the war in Norway was going. Two major battles were being waged, they pointed out, which might prove decisive for the whole Norwegian campaign — north of Oslo; and north of Trondheim, the key to central and southern Norway, connected by rail with Sweden. Heavy intensification of the war in the air was noted . . . the Allied navies being in control of sea communications, Herr Hitler was having to depend mainly on his air fleet not only for supplies for his invading army but for reinforcements; and was having to rely largely on his air-arm to fight off further Allied landings and supply ships.

Sweden On Spot

If, as was apparently the case last week, Germany was finding herself unable to consolidate her position in southern Norway fast enough, before new Allied thrusts in central and northern Norway could bog down her machine, neighboring Sweden was in the worst spot since the time of Napoleon. A German invasion of Sweden appeared, on the surface, to be only a matter of hours. But . . . for several reasons, Sweden for the time being did not fear an attack by Germany: Because she has a well-trained and efficiently equipped army of 400,000 men, and a number of strongly defended airdromes from which attacks against any invaders could be launched; again, a German invasion of Sweden was seen as immediately depriving Germany of an invaluable source of iron ore—the Kiruna iron mines; lastly, extension of the northern theatre of war to Sweden would mean that the Allies could strike at Hitler's right flank and might the more earlier oust German forces from central and southern Norway.

The War Week

Since the Germans were so obviously occupied in Norway last week, a Nazi push on the Western Front was believed deferred . . . Nazi sympathizers were being driven out of a number of European countries, chiefly Yugoslavia, where a Nazi plot against the government was nipped in the bud . . . martial law was declared in the Netherlands, Premier de Geer also making it known that Dutch overseas possessions (Japan was eyeing the Dutch East Indies) would be defended by arms . . . Italy appeared to be maintaining resistance to German pressure to enter the war at this point; but Mussolini might be expected soon to seize Yugoslav islands in the Adriatic . . . Russia re-iterated her determination "not to participate in this war" . . . A German-Rumanian trade agreement was signed during the week, Rumania agreeing to fulfil existing wheat and oil contracts . . . following Anglo-Japanese talks came rumors of British concessions to Japan in China, if Japan would help blockade Germany in the Pacific.

Canadians Are Busy

Back home, Canadian taxpayers received three warnings that the cost of waging war comes high: one, tax increases in the British budget; two, a speech by the Governor of the Bank of Canada urging people to cut down on their personal spending; three, published figures showing a thirteen per cent increase in wholesale prices . . . During the same week, the Conservative party were looking for a House leader . . . Government, packers and farmers were wondering what to do about the reduction in British bacon buying over here . . . most of the cities of the Dominion were going on daylight saving time . . . Ottawa was denying reports that Canadian troops were serving in Norway . . .

Opposing Naval Forces Compared

In November "Jane's Fighting Ships" authoritative word on the world navies, gave the following figures for principal classifications of the Royal Navy and the German Fleet:

Capital ships: Great Britain 15, Germany 5.

Cruisers (heavy and other): Gt. Britain 58, Germany 8.

Destroyers: Great Britain 179, Germany 22.

Submarines: Great Britain 56, Germany 65.

BEFORE NORWAY

Prior to outbreak of war in Norway, Great Britain had lost one capital ship, the Royal Oak, and Germany one, the Graf Spee. Great Britain had lost no cruisers, Germany two. British destroyer losses were placed at six. Germany, so far as is known, had her original complement. The Royal Navy has lost four submarines, Germany 50 to 60. Leaving out submarines, whose replacement is impossible to estimate, the apparent comparison then was:

Capital ships: Great Britain 14, Germany 4.

Cruisers: Great Britain 58, Germany 6.

Destroyers: Great Britain 173, Germany 22.

POWERFUL NEW BATTLESHIPS

Official and semi-official reports after the battle of the Skagerrak revealed that Britain has added five new battleships, the world's most powerful, to the Royal Navy. Completion of these ships raised Britain's capital ship strength to 19, leaving at least four more building.

SKEET MEET

The spring skeet shooting season in Canada opened in April with a bang when more than a half a hundred of the best shotgun shooters in Ontario and New York State gathered at the Toronto Hunt Club to compete for the Ontario Individual Skeet Championship. More than 20,000 whizzing and ducking clay targets were powdered as the scattergun marksmen blazed away from early morning to sundown in the one-day shotgun tournament. A dozen outstanding skeet champions from both sides of the international border journeyed to the Queen City to try for the provincial individual honours.

This year's title was won by David MacEllven of the Buffalo, N. Y., Trap and Field Club, who led a strong aggregation of New Yorkers to Toronto for the provincial meet. He won the individual honours in a thrilling last-minute shoot-off with J. Harry Kretschmann of the Hamilton Gun Club after both had ended the regular 100-bird shoot with 96 targets broken. In the 25-target shoot-off the Buffalo champion posted a perfect score while the Hamiltonian missed three to end second. The Forester Gun Club of Williamsville, N. Y., won the team event.

The tournament committee in charge was as follows: Representing the Ontario Skeet Association—President, Dr. D. H. Stewart, Hamilton; First Vice-President, Dr. G. D. Beierl, Toronto; Second Vice-President, G. Alex Forbes, Hespeler; Secretary, Alex Wilson, Toronto. Representing the Toronto Hunt Club, C. B. Henderson, Chairman of the shooting committee.

MICKIE SAYS—

Says Second War Started in 1936

Famous Military Expert Liddell Hart, Believes It Began When Germany And Italy Intervened in Spain

Capt. Liddell Hart, famous military expert, believes the second great war of the 20th century began in July, 1936, when Germany and Italy intervened in Spain. This and other disconcerting observations are made in his new book, "The Defence of Britain."

The Spanish civil war changed the strategic balance of power against the democracies, Hart believes. The Munich agreement still further upset that balance.

France and Great Britain failed to recognize in time this new "broadened strategy," or the extent of the "white war," according to Hart. As a result, they have now been manoeurvred out of their strategic vantage ground, and forced back into a defensive position which is itself exposed in flank and rear."

VOICE OF THE PRESS

PROPAGANDA . . .

Propaganda is the other side's case put so well that it annoys you. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

MAIN DIFFERENCE . . .

The chief difference between a home-town doctor and the big city specialist is about $100. — Brandon Sun.

IF THEY REVOLT . . .

If the rationed Germans do finally revolt, it likely will be because they realize that living room is not so important as dining room. — Toronto Saturday Night.

COUNTY TOWNS CHAMPIONED

A Toronto lawyer declares juries in county towns are better than those in Toronto. But why restrict the statement to juries? There are many, many things in county towns superior to those in Toronto. In fact, county towns as a rule are better than Toronto — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

TOO MANY MIDDLEMEN . . .

The middleman is often of inestimable value to the producer and serves his turn to the community. But the middleman's interest has grown to an extent quite unknown, we believe, elsewhere, and the poor producer too often sees his goods passing from one middleman to another, each exacting his profit, till the farmer at one end and the consumer at the other are equally confounded — the one by the meagreness of his return and the other by the swollen price he has to pay.

This is an old story, but surely the riddle is not insoluble? There must be ways of protecting the producer, and especially the small producer, from being slaughtered in the markets. — Guelph Mercury.

Gardening ....

MOST COMMON MISTAKE

Most common mistake of new gardeners is crowding things too close together. In planning layouts it is essential that the mature height and width of the flower or shrub or tree be kept in mind and sufficient space be allowed for full growth. With newly set out permanent shrubbery, space between may be filled in temporarily with annuals until full room is required and with a slow growing tree like the maple or elm, shrubbery may be grown between for eight or ten years. But when the time comes for full room being needed, then it should be available and one must harden his heart, take an axe and thin. Crowded flowers, vegetables, shrubs or trees, soon become weak and spindly.

INFORMALITY BEST

The informal flower garden is much to be preferred for average planting. At the same time this does not mean just throwing in plants or seed. Generally the best plan is to have the larger flowers towards the rear or centre of the bed so that little things like nasturtiums, alyssum, dwarf phlox and similar kinds will not be hidden. Where the bed is to be mixed, it is well also to have late, medium and early flowers evenly balanced to insure something always in bloom.

SUMMER GARDENS

Where one has a Summer cottage that will not be visited until June, the usual practice is to start practically all the garden in flat boxes at home. Later these are taken well grown out to the garden by the lake. Such things as lettuce, carrots, beets, onions, even corn, can all be started in boxes or pots and moved very carefully. It is a good idea to start in individual berry or special cardboard box and simply remove box when planting.

SCOUTING . . .

Now it is the unhappy turn of the Scouts of Denmark, some 18,000 in nmber, to be banned by the Germans, as the invaders did in the case of Czecho-Slovakia, Austria and Poland.

A special course in Junior St. John Ambulance work for Scouts is being given at Carmichael Touse, the St. Catharines District Headquarters.

Scouts of Oil Springs, Ont., collected over 2,000 tons of wastepaper and magazines for the Red Cross. Regular collections by truck are being made every second week.

A reforestation camp for Boy Scouts from Western Ontario points will be held, May 16-19, at the Government reforestation site near St. Williams, Ont., in co-operation with the Ontario Forestry Branch of the Department of Lands and Forests. Field Secretary H. E. D. Mitchell, of London, will be in charge. The Scouts participating will be selected by their own Troops on the basis of fitness and efficiency.

"Once again the Boy Scouts Association has demonstrated its real worth and the fact that this organization is a great public asset, by collecting in a most efficient and thorough manner the election results from polling booths in Halifax and most of the large centres in Nova Scotia. As far as we have been able to ascertain, in not one instance did the Boy Scouts fall down on their job, and in consequence of their efficiency and devotion to duty the general public were able to receive the results of the polling throughout this province much sooner than would otherwise have been the case." — A. M. Mackay, General Commercial Manager, Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Co.

Humans Soon Eating Grass

Chemists Say Powder Has All Vitamins of Fruit, Vegetables

"Please pass the grass," will be good dinner table etiquette if science confirms that man can eat grass as reported to the American Chemical Society last week.

USED IN SHAKER

Powdered grass would be used in a shaker about as sparingly as salt. It would furnish all the vitamins that come from all the fruits and vegetables.

Evidence that plain grass is the richest source of these vitamins was reported by W. R. Graham, G. O. Kohler and C. F. Schnabel, of Kansas City, Mo. They have developed a powdered grass which can be added in cooking most foods, from flapjacks to desserts.

PUT INTO BREAD

It can be put in bread, they said, without changing the flavor. And moreover, the bread and other food won't turn green, because of a method of washing out the color without destroying vitamins.

Chemical analysis shows grass contains all the vitamins from A, the infection protector, to E, the fertility promoter, excepting only Vitamin D, the bone hardener. And likewise fruits and vegetables don't contain D, although they supply chemicals which turn into D in the human body on exposure to sunlight.

Single Radio Fee Required

Canadian Householder May Operate Any Number of Sets

Hon. C. D. Howe, Federal Minister of Transport, has announced that only one radio receiving licence will be required for all radio receiving sets installed in a private residence instead of one licence for each set as formerly.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

SALLY BLAIR — heroine. She had everything that popularity could win her, except

DAN REYNOLDS — hero. He might have had Sally but while he was king on skis

COREY PORTER was king of the social whirl. So . . . But go on with the story.

Last week: Sally is injured, Dan even more seriously. And Sally wonders whether he will accept help from her since she caused the accident.

CHAPTER VII

Sally recovered from the shock of her tumble much more quickly than Doctor Barnes had anticipated. He did not know that her very speedy recovery was due to her determination that she must get better so that she could see Dan.

She would not go away without seeing with her own bright eyes how Dan was without hearing him say that he had forgiven her. Sally's father had talked with Doctor Barnes about the boy. They had agreed upon a consultation with a famous surgeon from Boston. Nothing was to be spared for the lad who had done so much for Sally, Sam Blair maintained.

Upon Sally's insistence, Dan's benefactor's name was kept secret. She was afraid he would refuse any assistance — even to see the surgeon from Boston — if he knew who had offered to send for him. Sally knew Dan Reynolds' stubborn pride. He was to be told that some unknown person, a gentleman who had taken an interest in him because of his ski-ing ability and possibilities for Olympic entry, had offered to stand all expenses. Dan must never know that this man was Sally's father and that Sally herself, was behind all this.

VISIT TO DAN

At last the day came when she was allowed to pay Dan a visit. She had looked forward to it so eagerly, so hopefully, that she was not prepared for the shock of her first glimpse of him. Could this be Dan, this thin, weak, white person, head swathed in bandages, gray eyes staring straight and still before him, in its cruel, cumbersome cast!

"You must not stay too long or get him excited," the nurse cautioned before she closed the door. Sally had an impulse to call her back. She was not sure she wanted to be left alone with Dan. Not sure she had the courage to face him.

She had waited so long for this moment and now she did not know what to do, what to say. There seemed to be only one thing, and so she said it as simply, as quickly as possible.

"Dan . . . can you ever forgive me? I'm so dreadfully sorry." So sorry that her heart was wrung with despair, that she could have knelt down beside him, giving way to an abandon of grief and remorse.

If only he would not look at her like that! Without any expression in his grave eyes, any hope in his white face. He lifted one hand, let it fall weakly onto the cover again. He made an attempt at a smile, an attempt that brought tears to her eyes.

His voice was little more than a whisper. "That's okey," he said. "I don't blame you. For the accident."

"I DON'T BLAME YOU"

Sally knew that he meant it, for Dan was not one to say anything he did not mean. Yet, she knew that there were other things, unspoken, sharp barriers between them, that he could not forgive. Her deceit. The fact that she had laughed at him. The dare that had been the beginning of their odd friendship. He was too big, too fine, to blame her for what she had done to him physically. But now he never would believe in her again.

"You're going to be all right in a little while," Sally said. She wished her voice sounded more convincing. "Doctor Hartford" — he was the Boston surgeon — "says you'll be as right as ever — in time."

Dan nodded slowly. His expression still blank. His grave eyes seemed to echo that "in time." What would he do until then, this boy who had been so swift, so sure on his feet?

"You mustn't worry about anything," Sally said. Oh, if only she could tell him that she would like to spend the rest of her life making this up to him!

He did not attempt to answer that. It was as though he felt there were no answer. After a moment of silence he said in the same low tone, "And you — are you okey, Sally Blair?"

Sally nodded; her throat was so tight she was not sure she could trust herself to speak. Yes, she was all right. That was the worst of it. Gladly she would have exchanged places with this boy, if only she could have.

"You . . . you haven't forgiven me — for the other?" She could not go away, say goodby, without asking that. Her dark eyes pleaded with him to be merciful in his answer. "For deceiving you, Dan. For being such a blind, stupid, little idiot."

"That doesn't matter now," Dan said. His look met hers, but then he turned away.

Sally knew what he meant. He felt that their worlds were farther apart than ever.

"I'M SORRY"

"I meant — everything that I said. About liking you, Dan." Sally's voice faltered. It was no use; nothing she could say could break down the barriers between them. "I'm sorry I called you a coward."

He raised his hand again, in an erasing gesture. He made another attempt to smile. "Please," he murmured. "It doesn't matter, really it doesn't." Then just for a flash this boy, whose pride was so stubborn, whose courage was so great, let her glimpse the bitterness in his heart. "Nothing matters a great deal. You see, I don't believe that I shall ever ski again."

"You mustn't say that!" Now Sally did kneel down by his bed, a swift, impulsive movement. She caught one of his hands in hers, clung to it. "Of course you'll ski again! Doctor Hartford has promised that you will! Not right away, of course. Not for years, perhaps . . . ."

"Years!" Dan said. And his voice sounded strong, but only because of the bitterness it contained, the awful despair. He even managed a little laugh. "Years . . . That will be too late," he said.

GALLANT GOOD-BYE

"You mustn't say that," Sally said again. But she knew that he was right. The years could slip by so quickly. There would be other boys to win points for their college, to carry off honors of the meet. Others to become champions, be hailed for the Olympics.

The nurse stood in the doorway. Sally's time was up. She raised Dan's hand to let it rest a moment against her cheek, reluctantly let it go. "Good-by, Dan." For a little while, her heart said. It could not be forever; she could not have endured it, if it had. "You'll see — some day — that I'm right." You'll believe in me. I'll make it up to you, she wanted to add. But she knew there was no use in saying such things yet. Maybe the years would take care of that, too. "And good luck," she added softly.

"You're going?" Dan asked. His gray eyes looked at her. She was so lovely, so youthfully sweet. He turned his head away, as though he could not look at her any longer. "Goodby, Sally Blair," he said. "It's been nice — knowing you." A smile trembled on his lips. That was the way to say goodby, lightly, gaily, gallantly — as Corey, or the boys of Sally's bright glamorous world would have.

But it was not Sally's way now. She bent swiftly, before she turned to leave, kissed Dan Reynolds goodby, her fresh soft lips brushing lightly, yet lingeringly, against his.

Citrate Drinks Impart Strength

Small Alkaline Sips Increase Ability to Do Physical Work

One young woman last week described to the American chemical society her ability to do physical work rose 68 per cent. in a week's trial of drinking citrates.

The experiments were reported by John A. Killian and Charles Oclassen, of New York. Small alkaline drinks of either sodium citrate or of citrate with sodium bicarbonate were given seven times a day. A little aspirin was added when it was discovered that it reduced the muscular pain.

UP 34 PER CENT.

The "guinea pigs" were six men and two women who pedalled bicycles until exhausted. The average gain for all was 34 per cent. The woman, who went up to 68 per cent., had been accustomed to complete leisure from physical work.

Love Not Enuogh In Any Marriage

A Simmons College (Boston) Institute on successful marriage has agreed that romance at best is only a flimsy basis of matrimony.

Secretary James C. Janney said, "young men and women should have their own standards of life in terms of finances and social surroundings . . . This is much better than starting only on the romantic side and saying, 'He's a chauffeur's son and his background is nothing like mine, but I love him.' "

Prepare Locks For Summertime

Forethought and Care Now Will Pay Dividends

A little forethought and preparation will assure a more tranquil enjoyment of the season ahead, writes Donna Grace, beauty editor. It will not be so long before we will be out in the sun, either on the golf course or on the beaches.

The hair like the rest of the body, needs nourishment to preserve its vigor and beauty.

A good method is to comb the hair thoroughly, then place the hands at the back of the neck, and with a pulling-up stroke, draw the hands up over the crown. With the fingers spread in this way, push the scalp from side to side.

DO THOROUGH BRUSHING

Repeat this several times and finish with circular manipulations around the head at the edge of the hairline. The circular manipulations are done with the first three fingers of each hand pressed close to the head.

A thorough brushing several times a week will help to keep the scalp loose and healthy. The circular scrubbing strokes beginning at the back of the neck and working upward are best for this.

Milk and Eggs As Health Foods

A finished product which should bring much satisfaction and praise is the dish compounded of milk and eggs. These two foods probably should be classed as the two most essential to health. It has been said by an eminent health authority, that milk lacks only one thing and that is bulk — but it is frequently spoken of as "the perfect food." Then again, milk and eggs are perfect foods for children, containing high quality proteins, the food substances required for building the muscles and other tissues. Considering the minerals, milk is one of the best sources we have for calcium and phosphorus. Eggs, while containing an appreciable amount of these, are more valuable for their iron content. And both are rich in vitamins and are therefore classed as "protective foods": Milk is economical and at present, eggs are also in that class. Here are a few favorite recipes containing these ideal foods:

ORANGE OMELET

4 eggs
4 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
½ teaspoon salt.

Separate eggs and beat well. To the well beaten yolks, add the orange juice, rind and salt. Fold in the whites beaten until stiff. Cook slowly in a well buttered frying pan. Loosen around the edges with a spatula or thin knife until cooked on bottom. Place in a medium hot oven until dry and slightly brown on top. Serve on platter with prepared orange sections an dorange sauce.

Orange Sauce

¾ cup orange juice
3 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated orange rind.
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons butter
2½ tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons butter.

Mix cornstarch and sugar all but 1 tablespoon. Put in double boiler, adding water, orange juice, and lemon juice. Stir constantly and cook until thickened. Add egg yolk and cook 3 minutes add butter and rind.

CREAMED EGGS AND MUSHROOMS

2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 cup sliced mushrooms
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
6 hard cooked eggs
salt, pepper and paprika

Cook mushrooms and green pepper in butter for five minutes. Blend in flour and gradually add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Cook 3 minutes. Add pimento and eggs chopped or cut in uniform pieces. Serve on buttered toast or freshly made biscuits buttered. Some prefer not to use the pimento and pepper.

CREAMED EGGS ON TOAST

6 eggs
5 tablespoons butter
1 and one-third cup milk
dash salt and pepper
6 slices of breakfast bacon cooked very crisp.

Beat eggs slightly, add butter, seasonings and milk. Cook in double boiler. Stir constantly and as mixture begins to coagulate, stir very thoroughly and remove from heat. Have bacon cooked and chopped; add to egg mixture, stirring. Serve on buttered toast. Sprinkle with a little paprika.

DATE CUSTARD PIE

Two-thirds cup chopped dates
2 cups milk
3 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla or maple flavoring
¼ cup chopped pecans.

Cook dates, which have been very thoroughly cleaned, in the double boiler with the milk. When dates are soft, rub through a sieve. Combine with well beaten eggs, salt and vanilla, nuts. Pour into pie plate, lined with pastry, and bake as custard pie.

CREAM PIE

½ cup sugar
One-third cup flour
One-eighth teaspoon salt
½ cup cold milk
1½ cup milk and cream mixed (hot).
3 egg yolks
1 tablespoon buter
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg whites
3 tablespoons fruit sugar
pinch salt
pinch salt.

Mix the sugar, flour and salt all well together. Add the cold milk and mix very thoroughly. Add the hot milk very gradually and cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens (about ten minutes). Beat egg yolks; pour one-half of milk mixture over the eggs, beating very thoroughly. Return to double boiler, mixing with the rest of the milk. Beat with a few turns of the egg beater and stir, cook three minutes. Remove from heat and add flavoring. When partly cool pour into pie shell (previously baked). Beat egg whites until very stiff, add the sugar and cornstarch very gradually. Pour over the pie and place in slow oven until light brown.

Women Face New Responsibilities

President of Toronto Council of Women Surveys Urgencies With Which Women of Dominion Must Deal

"In our zeal for war work let us not lose sight of the ultimate goal for which we are sacrificing and suffering. We must maintain our well-established social agencies so that our men will not come back to a disorganized Canada." Such was the theme of an inspiring address of Mrs. J. R. Marshall, president of the Toronto Council of Women, to the Hamilton Women's Civic Club last week. Mrs. Marshall gave a broad survey of the urgencies that have arisen in Canada since the outbreak of the war and the fundamental problems which remain to be dealt with and which demand the intelligent thought and unselfish contribution of responsible women.

CITES PROBLEMS

Canadian women were not, she thought, to be called upon to do spectacular things in the war. But they had much to do at home.

Mrs. Marshall cited the problems of Canada with which women must concern themselves. They included training of youth, housing, nutrition, public health and hospitalization and leisure time occupation.

Women Told To "Take It Easy"

Physical Educationist Cautions Them Against Very Strenuous Exercise

Women should "take it easy" when exercising, Dean E. Hermann, of Boston University's Sargent College of Physical Education warns.

"The trouble today," he says, "is that women seem to do nothing in the way of exercise or else try to kill themselves. They don't exercise at all, or if they do, they don't bother to warm up — they jump right into violent physical activity."

LIGHT EXERCISE

Such habits may lead to serious physical injury, Hermann says. He suggests that women do light setting-up exercises and engage in different sports such as golf, rowing, canoeing, fishing, hunting, tennis, bowling and croquet.

Spring

Today the world is wide and fair
With sunny fields of lucid air
And waters dancing everywhere,
The snow is almost gone;
The noon is builded high with light,
And over heaven's liquid height,
Is steady fleets serene and white,
The happy clouds go by.

I feel the tumult of new birth;
I waken with the wakening earth;
I match the bluebird in her mirth;
And wild with wind and sun,
A treasure of immortal days
I roam the glorious world with praise,
The hillside and the woodland ways
Till earth and I are one.

INCREASED ASSESSMENTS UNPOPULAR

The general rise in assessments locally this year is causing a great deal of anxiety to property owners in Morrisburg, and a large numbers of appeals are expected at the Court of Revision. The increases, in many cases, are very substantial, and if the tax rate remains the same, will mean quite an item on the tax bills.

We are told, unofficially of course, that the tax rate will be lowered and the individual tax bills will remain about the same as they were last year. In this case, the increases might, it is argued, prove worthwhile, in the event that they were used as abasis for compensation in the possible development of the St. Lawrence. A lowered tax rate would also be a great boon to certain councillors, who have decidedly lowered the level of their popularity since taking a seat at the local board. It would be a very advantageous plank in their platform for re-election. Of course, the assessor is supposed to be acting on his own judgement of property values in making the assessments, and should not receive any instructions from the council. In this regard, we are informed by the assessor, the local council has absolutely complied with the regulations in every way. It is worth noting, however, that the same assessor was on the job last year, and property values in Morrisburg have not increased in the past year as much as the increased assessments would indicate. If the assesments were fair last year, the same assessments should be fair and just for another year. At any rate, people are asking just what factor has so enhanced the value of property in the past twelve months.

There may be some reason for the increases which is not apparent at the moment, but the taxpayers would like to know what it is; and they have a right to know—they have to pay the bills.

The attitude of the assessor is that he has used his own best judgement, and he considers his judgement is probably as good as that of anyone else in the Municipality, since he has been on the job investigating these properties.

TRANSPORTATION FACTORS GREATLY IMPROVED OVER THOSE OF 1914

During the course of this war, in which economic factors, such as the movement of supplies from the industrial front to the theatre of the war, play such a major role, Canada's transportation facilities, a tight mesh covering the whole expanse of the Dominion, are called upon to render valuable aid.

Canada is much better equipped to-day to handle large amounts of freight than it was during the last war. The Canadian railways can handle double the freight they could transport in 1914-18. Locomotives are heavier and more powerful than they were a quarter of a century ago, having a tractive effort today of 90,000 pounds as compared to 52,000. Rails on the main lines are 20 to 50 pounds heavier, and can bear a much weightier load. Box cars and other freight rail vehicles have an increased capacity from 33 to 42 tons. Speed in travelling has been stepped up to nearly double what it was in 1914.

The transport of vast quantities of foodstuffs, war supplies and of large numbers of troops from Canada's inland to the Atlantic seaboard to await convoying to Great Britain is proof of the predominant role which Canada's great railway system will play during the war.

The picture of Canadian transportation would not be complete, however, if the other major factors, which play their part in the conveying of goods and men, were not mentioned.

Within Canada's frontier lies a great inland system of water transport. Ships plying the waters of the Canadian Great Lakes are an important agency in the freighting of goods, especially wheat and other essentials from the vast production area of Western Canada.

Much improvement has also been brought about in the intervening years between this and the last war in motor transportation. Canadian highways are vastly better and hard surfaced roads throughout the Dominion are travelled daily by freight bearing trucks of enormous size.

To add a final touch to the picture, mention must be made of the gigantic strides made in air transport. Not only are thousands of miles of trancontinental and branch airlines, with valuable facilities and personnel, a prime factor in transportation, but they are contributing greatly to the Empire Air Training Plan, the biggest factor in Canada's war effort.

Too much gloom should not be felt over the last week end's results of the war in Norway. Rome was not built in a day, and it is absolutely ridiculous to think that the Allies or any other army or combination of armies can decisively beat so well organized a force as the Third Reich possesses without losing a battle. The Nazis will be defeated, of course, in Norway and everywhere else, but it will take time; it will mean reverses and disappointments for the Allies, and enlightenment, we hope, for the poor deluded "neutrals", but in the end, the cause of Christianity and justice will triumph and both Hitler and Naziism will be dead, very dead, issues.

An American flyer from Alabama recently arrived in Ottawa to offer his services to the R. C. A. F. He was so "broke" financially, that he had to apply at the police station for a night's lodging, until he could see the recruiting officers in the morning. A kind-hearted policeman staked him to a dollar to tide him over. This kind of spontaneous help from Uncle Sam is warmly appreciated on this side of the border, and goes a long way in strengthening the "good neighbours" relations between the two countries.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON V
ISAIAH GIVES GOD'S INVITATION
Isaiah 55
Printed Text, Isa. 55:1-11
Golden Text — "Seek ye Jehovah while he may be found; call ye upon him while he is near." Isa. 55:6.

LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time — Not definitely given, but probably about 701 B.C.

Place — Jerusalem.

The things talked about in this lesson are the things which all men in every age most deeply long for, and strive for, — joy in their own hearts, prosperity in their lives and in their nation, and abiding peace. These are the things that God wants men to have, but they can be permanently possessed only if the way of the Lord here unfolded is followed.

INVITATION TO DISILLUSIONED

Isa. 55: 1. Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. 2. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. Three inescapable realities, existing in the soul of every man without God, are here set forth in strikingly picturesque and symbolic language: man is described as thirsting, as hungry, and as having exhausted his resources upon those things which failed to bring the satisfaction he expected from them. With this divinely accurate analysis of man's innermost needs are also announced God's abundant ability and gracious willingness to supply these needs freely; for the thirsty there is water; for the hungry wine, milk and bread; and for those who have spent their money for the things which failed to satisfy, joy and peace for their hearts.

In almost every word of these two verses God's love for man, and God's desire that man should be satisfied, God's knowledge of man's restlessness and dissatisfactions appear; the whole of the second verse is a great plea on the part of God with man to no longer expend his money on the things that never satisfy, but to receive freely by grace, from him, his bounteous gifts, that their souls should delight themselves in fatness.

EXHORTATION TO ISRAEL

3. Incline your ear, and come unto me; hear, and your souls shall live: and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David. 4. Behold, I have given him for a witness to the peoples a leader and commander to the peoples.

5. Behold, thou shalt call a nation that thou knowest not; and a nation that knew not thee shall run unto thee, because of Jehovah thy God, and for the Holy One of Israel; for he hath glorified thee. No doubt this particular paragraph refers more particularly to the nation of Israel as a whole than to individuals, though of course, a nation is only made up of individuals, and cannot do anything good or evil except through the actions and words of the individuals in the nation.

There is a backward look here to Israel's great and glorious king, David, with whom the Lord had made a deeply significant covenant in the early days of his life.

SEEK THE LORD

6. Seek ye Jehovah while he may be found; call ye upon him while he is near: 7. let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto Jehovah, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. Here is the very center of our wonderful chapter — the climax, as it were, of the gracious invitations here extended by an infinitely loving God. Four things God asks man to do: to seek the Lord, to call upon the Lord, to forsake the ways of wickedness, to return to the Lord. Four things God promises if man will do what God asks: if he seeks the Lord, he will find him; if he calls upon the Lord, he will be heard; if he forsakes his way and returns unto the Lord, God will have mercy upon him; and God will abundantly pardon him.

8. For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith Jehovah. 9. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. God's way of dealing with sin is lifted above all human example. It surpasses all our own thoughts. God's pardon is undisturbed and unhindered by any sense of personal resentment, though sin is an offense against him; in its freeness, fullness, his pardon melts away also that which it forgives.

10. For as the rain cometh down and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, and giveth seed to the sower, and bread to the eater; 11. so shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.

The rain never descends in vain. It makes the earth fertile, beautiful, and lovely. So would it be with God's truth in the moral world.

Would Conserve Resources Here

Canadian Scientists Organize To Save Our Birds, Animals, Fish, Forests, Water Supply From Depletion

A new onslaught is to be made against the forces which are decimating Canada's natural resources, it was disclosed following a recent meeting of Canadian scientists at Queen's University.

The Canadian Conservation Association was brought into being at this meeting. Among its founders was Prof. V. C. Wynne-Edwards, of the department of zoology at McGill University, and B. W. Taylor, Quebec provincial biologist and director of fish culture.

EXPERTS WORK ON IT

One of the first objects of the association will be to obtain accurate information on all the sporting and conservation groups of the Dominion. The association hopes to act as an advisory body for the whole of Canada on problems of conservation involving birds, animals, fish, forests, and, as well, the problems of soil and water conservation, which are important in some parts of Canada.

The association has a limited membership and includes sportsmen, biologists, foresters, engineers and other experts, as well as members of the civil service. Its membership is drawn from every province. The president is Dr. John D. Detwiler, of London, Ont.

FROM THE OLD LAND

Everyone enjoys the robust humour of the British Variety Halls —and lately the radio stations are featuring more of the peppy songs and broad gags from Lunnon Town. While several excellent programs of this kind are featured during the week — three in particular stand out in our opinion.

First, Revuedeville from CKOC on Sundays at 2.30 is worth a half-hour of anyone's time in our opinion — and a close runner-up is the Let's All Go To the Music Hall show on the CBC chain from Toronto on Saturday nights at 9.30.

Both of these shows feature well-known British stars in songs and stories — that sparkle!

Then there's a good variety show direct from the Old Land on Saturday afternoon at three — when the BBC offer the Garrison Theatre. With all these, and others in a similar vein, Old Country folk need never feel lonesome.

NEW RADIO GAME

WOR, the Mutual Network station in New York, is always coming up with a new idea for a radio game — and their latest is one that is both educational and entertaining. Dr. Henry Lee Smith, of the Faculty of Columbia University, is Master of Ceremonies on the program — Where Are You From? And believe it or not, Dr. Smith, from your pronounciations, or dialect if you like, tells you where you came from and received your education.

On each question Dr. Smith explains just what in the statement his guest has made, led him to his decision — and seven times out of ten Dr. Smith is right.

The Wild West Deglamorized

McGill Study Leaves Us Only the Wide Open Spaces to Conjure With — No Real Cowboys

Devotees of wild west films and literature are due for a distinct shock when they read the latest volume from McGill University, entitled "Pioneering in the Prairie Provinces." It is the joint work of Dr. C. A. Dawson, head of the department of sociology at McGill and Miss Eva R. Younge, research assistant in the department of social research. The book is one of a series of nine on the general topic "Canadian Frontiers of Settlement."

The "wild and woolly West" is deglamorized to the 'nth degree in this latest sociological study, a product of several years research work in the Prairie Provinces. The volume humorously points out: "Scenes are still enacted and deeds are celebrated in song by cowboys and cowgirls, many of whom have never been west of Brooklyn or Toronto."

HARD TO MAKE LIVING

Under the heading "Typical Communities in Action," the volume states that "the favorite social gathering is the dance," and "in the summer-time the big event is the annual sports day." No mention is made of the colorful round-up, but there is detailed description of the task of making a living and of the trials and difficulties which face pioneers and their descendants in building up the fabric of communal life. The highlight of the "progress" it seems, is the mounting load of debt as living standards go upward.

Farm Notes . . .

Beauty Culture For Farm Homes

In a remarkable address by Mr. C. H. Hodge, editor of the Farmer's Magazine, Toronto, on the occasion of a recent meeting of the Quebec Horticultural Federation, in Montreal, the topic was the beautification of farm homes in Ontario. With the aid of coloured lantern slides the speaker described the transformation of the homes of those who entered competitions sponsored by his paper.

As Mr. Hodge expressed it, we owe to our children the enduring memory of an attractive home, one that in after years they can recall with pleasure and pride.

Mr. Hodge showed how marvellously the appearance of a farm home can be improved by a little trimming and painting, by tidying up around it, giving some care to the lawn and especially by planting flowers. The other day the writer heard of a man who offered a house for sale at $3000.00 and found no bidder. He then spent $40.00 on a paint job and sold the house easily for $4000.00.

Surroundings of the Home

The Ontario Crop Improvement Association has for its slogan: "Better rural conditions through crop improvement." It is a strange anomaly that many a farmer who takes great pleasure and pride in his thriving field crops, cultivated and fertilized with consumate care, is indifferent to the immediate surroundings of the farm house. Thanks to Mr. Hodge, it may now be said that "the old order changeth, yielding place to new."

Plans Are Laid For 1941 Census

War or peace, the decennial census of Canada will be taken on the schedule in 1941. Officials of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics are busy preparing for the counting of heads and the compilation of hundreds of volumes of figures which give a complete picture of the growth of Canada in wealth and in population.

On June 2, 1941, some 16,000 enumerators will start ringing doorbells from coast to coast, asking questions and filling in the answers on big sheets of paper.

They will count, not only the men, women and children in Canada, but the horses, cows, pigs, sheep and poultry. They will note racial origin, religion, occupation, age, wages, employment or lack of employment, livestock and acreage in crop on farms.

BETWEEN 11,000,000 AND 12,000,000

Population of Canada at the last census, in 1931, was 10,376,000. Since then it has been increasing at the rate of about 100,000 a year, according to estimates based on the births and deaths, immigration and emigration. So the next census probably will show a population of between 11,000,000 and 12,000,000.

Most notable changes will be shown in the increases in particular districts, cities and towns. The mining area of Northwestern Quebec, for instance, will report many thousands of people where there were only hundreds in 1931.

Mussolini Steps Into the "Warlight" Again

After a period of silence during which the most astute foreign observers could not say whether he would support Germany or the Allies, Premier Mussolini is once more taking a warlike stand. Last week he appeared to be pondering whether or not to plunge Italy into war. He is pictured here delivering his most recent martial speech in Rome.

- HAVE - YOU HEARD?

A fat man, riding to his home on a crowded bus remembered quite suddenly that he had two five-dollar bills in his coat pocket. Thrusting his hand into the pocket, he was surprised to find the hand of a fellow-passenger.

"So," he shouted, angrily, "picking my pockets, eh?"

"Let go my hand!" bellowed the other.

"Thief!" shouted the fat man.

"Rat!" hissed the thin man.

Then a timid-looking man in their vicinity said, "If you two gentlemen don't mind taking your hands out of my pocket, I'll get off at the next stop."

—o—

"Grace is surely not going to marry that living skeleton of a man. He's nothing but skin and bones."

"Why not? He'll make her a rattling good husband."

—o—

A young doctor returned to his native village and called upon the old family physician.

"I suppose you intend to specialize," remarked the latter.

"Oh, yes," replied the young man; "in the diseases of the nose; for the ears and throat are too complicated to be combined with the nose for purposes of study and treatment."

Thereupon the family physician inquired: "Which nostril are you concentrating on?"

—o—

What's in a name? Well, it'll be a long time before any British baby is christened Adolf.

—o—

Three men, tired of the world, went to live on the top of a mountain.

A year passed, and one of them said, "It's peaceful up here, isn't it?"

Another year passed and the second man said, "Yes."

Another year passed, and the third man said, "If you two chatter like this I shall have to go home."

—o—

Shocked Old Lady: "And on the way up here we passed twenty-five people in parked cars!"

Young Hostess: "Oh, I'm sure you're mistaken. It must have been an even number."

Taken to Morgue 'Dead' Man Sore

A "dead" man picked up on a downtown Montreal street last week turned out to be very much alive when they got him to the morgue—in fact, he protested.

"Hey! get me out of here quick," yelled 44-year-old Adrien Chaumont when he revived a few minutes after being carried into the morgue building, near where he collapsed during a sudden attack of illness.

After first-aid treatment, Chaumont was removed to hospital in an ambulance.

Demand For Seed Grain Very Heavy

In Ontario This Year, Department of Agriculture Reports

Heaviest demand in years for good seed grain was reported from many parts of the province by the Ontario Department of Agriculture in its weekly report.

Most Durham County farmers with seed to sell have disposed of practically all their supplies. Free movement of seed in all other wheat-growing sections was reported and quantities were said to be plentiful.

Wheat has come through the winter in excellent shape, it is reported and it was given extra protection by additional snow in April. At the same time, snow and rain has held up planting of the new crop.

Considerable increase in the amount of fibre flax to be grown in the Goderich district was noted. Grass and new seedings are coming well in Norfolk.

What Science Is Doing

HEART PAIN EASED

Use of a newly-developed oxygen mask has resulted in the discovery that inhalation of oxygen in high concentrations (80 to 100 per cent) produces "dramatic" abatement of intense heart pain.

SAVES AMPUTATIONS

Necessity for limb amputations because of the tearing of big blood vessels may be obviated by the use of heparin, an anti-coagulant extracted from beef lungs, Dr. Gordon Murray of the University of Toronto said last week. Experiments with it promise miracles in saving limbs of soldiers who have big blood vessels torn by gunshot wounds.

—o—

MAGNETISM KILLS BACTERIA

Use of high frequency current to kill bacteria and fermentation molts is being tested with successful results at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Milk was placed in the magnetic field produced by the high frequency current and it was found that it kills all kinds of bacteria. Similar effects have been achieved by passing the currents through the milk.

COLD VACCINE FORETOLD

A vaccine giving immunity from the common cold may be perfected within the next few years.

Dr. Russell L. Cecil, professor of clinical medicine at Cornell University, said that "evidence is already at hand to indicate that immunization against the influenza virus is feasible and effective."

VITAMINS FROM ELEMENTS

The United States Department of Agriculture has found in natural gas, coal, acetylene, limestone and water the raw materials for making man's hormones.

The discovery promises a cheap source of a class of remedies, vital to life and health, which at present are among the scarcest and most expensive on the druggist's shelves.

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I easily clean soiled spots on wall paper?

A. Sprinkle some starch liberally on a damp cloth and apply to the paper, using a circular motion. If there are some particularly bad spots, go over them several times.

Q. How can I make neat holes in a leather belt?

A. Heat a steel knitting needle red hot and burn in the necessary hole; this makes a professional-looking job.

Q. How can I keep cut sections of a cake fresh?

A. Take two slices of bread and stick these against the freshly-cut surface of the cake by means of toothpicks.

Q. How can I wash a chamois skin and prevent its hardening?

A. When washing the chamois, put a few drops of ammonia into a basin of water and rinse. Do not wring, but dry quickly in the sun or over a fire, rubbing well with the hands to prevent its hardening.

Q. How can I clean painted woodwork effectively?

A. Boil two or three onions thoroughly, and the water in which they are boiled will clean painted woodwork very nicely, leaving the surface clean and glossy; no soap is required.

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE

Q. Is it permissable to call a person by his nickname?

A. Yes, if you are well acquainted with this person, and know that he does not object. A girl who has just met a young man should never address him as Bud, Junior, Shorty or Red.

Q. What is the average time that should elapse between an engagement announcement and the wedding?

A. The average time is six to eight weeks.

Q. When giving an informal dinner, how should the hostess let her guests know where to sit?

A. The hostess should stand at her place and tell each one.

Q. Is one ever permitted to use a toothpick, when in the company of others?

A. Never. If some particle has lodged in a tooth and it is very uncomfortable, one should leave the room and attend to it.

Q. What are the most important things about a "thank you" note?

A. The two most essential things are that it be written promptly, and that it has the ring of sincerity.

6. In leaving a public dining room with a girl, should the man allow the girl to go first?

A. Yes. The girl precedes.

On some 50 deep reconnaissance flights made by night by the Royal Air Force only four aircraft are known to have been lost through enemy action.

European Farm Areas Analyzed

Bulgaria, Lithuania, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Poland Are Most Heavily Agricultural — Northern Europe Chiefly Industrial

An analysis prepared by the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome shows that the Farm Axis in Europe, as it may be called, is a line extending from Great Britain on the northwest to Bulgaria on the south-east, representing the range from the highly industrial to the agricultural areas. Along this line is found an increasing proportion of the population occupied in agriculture, with the minimum of 6 per cent for Great Britain, then Belgium with 17 per cent, Germany 29 per cent, Hungary 53 per cent, Yugoslavia, 79 per cent, to Bulgaria, with the maximum of 81 per cent.

BULGARIA MOST AGRARIAN

In the other large agricultural countries in Europe, the percentages are: France 36, Italy 48, Spain 56, and Rumania 78, while in the more northern countries the proportions are: Holland 21 per cent, Norway 29 per cent, Sweden 36 per cent, Latvia 66 and Lithuania 77.

In the group of chief agricultural countries, more than three-quarters of the occupied population is engaged in agriculture. This group includes Bulgaria, Lithuania, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Poland. This is "agrarian Europe" par excellence.

At a special non-jury sitting of county court in Cornwall, Judge F. T. Costello dismissed an action brought by Thomas Edward Kane of Iroquois, against the Caldwell Linen Mills, Limited, of the same village, seeking damages for wrongful dismissal and breach of contract. Morrisburg is the only Village in the district to remain on standard time this year, all other towns along the river having already put their clocks ahead an hour or they will do so this week end. At a vote held in December, Morrisburg turned down the fast time and as a result many citizens find it confusing when they travel into any of our neighbouring towns or cities. It does, however, allow one hour longer for drinking beer on Saturday night, which no doubt compensates for any other disadvantages of the slow time.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

The weekly Scout meeting was held in the United Church basement on Tuesday night. Only one member was absent. The Patrol Leaders were presented with their hat pins. Gordon Louden and Ryerson Mattice have completed their four weeks probation and may now try their Tenderfoot tests. There was a close race for the pennant this month. Until the very last game the Beavers, under Edwin Rice were leading by a substantial margin. Then Carl Crober's Wolves unexpectedly moved up and tied them. In the play-off the Wolves won and became Honour Patrol. The Bulldogs under Jack Davies did some clumsy work and were dogged by bad luck. The final standing was: Wolves 19; Beavers 18; Bulldogs 8.

In a week or two the Scouts are going to start on their second class tests. This could have been done before, but it was thought better to have them brush up on their Tenderfoot Tests first. Most of the Troop can now do these very efficiently.
