The Great Event of The Season for Horsemen

The Chesterville Driving Club have completed details for a big afternoon's sports on Friday Oct. 13th. Arrangements have been made with the owners of Dan Forrester and Ellis Pointer, to match those two horses for a good purse given by the association. Keen interest can be looked for as both owners are equally sure of winning. Also in addition to the matched race two other good races will be put on. See special posters. By order of committee

Seven Out of Ten Wounded

Sometime after the Grenadier Guards landed in England volunteers were called for a draft for the first brigade ordered to France. And among those volunteering were ten of the Chesterville boys. So far as known up to today seven of the ten have been in the casualty list.

Pte. Percy Hummel Wounded

Mr. Herman Hummel was advised Tuesday by the Militia authorities that his son Percy had received a gun shot wound in the arm, in the recent fighting in France, and had been admitted to a French hospital. He was a member of the 87th Grenadier Guards, and one of the ten volunteering to go over to the first brigade as reinforcements.

Estimable Winchester Lady Dies Suddenly

Mrs. W. J. Laflamme, wife of village clerk W. J. Laflamme, of Winchester died suddenly at her home in that place on Monday morning. As she did not come from her room sometime after being awakened, investigation was made and it was found she had passed beyond assistance. It is understood that for sometime she had been a sufferer from an affection of the heart.

154th Batt. To Have Kilts

A large number of the Chesterville platoon of the 154th Battalion have been at their homes during the past few days on what is thought by many to be their last leave before going overseas. The announcement late last week that they were to be garbid in kilts was welcomed as settling in their minds that the battalion would be kept in tact instead of being used to reinforce other battalions now at the front. This fact should aid in securing the recruits needed to bring the 154th up to strength as those signing up will know that they will be with their friends to the end.

C. B. Rae Dead

After an illness of several weeks last Thursday evening, there passed away a figure familiar on the streets of Chesterville for a good many years, in the person of Charles B. Rae. Twenty-five or thirty years ago "Charlie" Rae was perhaps one of the best known and most popular young men of this district. Taking a good standing when passing through College he was ever prominent in athletics, excelling in many lines he was prominent in both track and field. His talent in song and speech making made him sought after on occassions when lesser lights did not feel equal to the task in hand. One of "Cnarlie's" great delights both as man and boy was his success in taking from the waters of the Nation the record catch of fish for each season either in the largest specimen of pike, bass or sucker or the greatest catch at one time.

The funeral on Sunday was largely attended, the services at the house being conducted by Rev. T. B. McCorkindale, interment afterwards being made at Maple Ridge Cemetery.

Pte. Wesley Fulton.

In another column will be found a letter from Pte. Wesley Fulton, to Dr. Miles Brown which was written a few days after his brother Bismark had been wounded and five days previous to his own casualty, notice of which was received in Chesterville on Monday. Just how seriously Wesley has been wounded is not definitely known from the meagre information in the official notice. A copy of the trench paper, "The Brazier" accompanied Dr. Brown's letter. It is printed at the front by the Canadian Scottish for the 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th Battalions, and is very readable and entertaining from beginning to end. Among the notices of those receiving King's birthday honors is Major A. G. Cameron, 13th Batt., who was awarded the D. S. O.

Among the samples of grim humor, is the following:—

Huns (shouting across to Canadians): "Say, do you know Ottawa?"

Canadian: "Yes."

Hun: "Well, I've got a wife and three kiddies in Ottawa."

Canadian: "Just put your head over the parapet for a minute and you will have a widow and three orphans in Ottawa."

Ploegsteert, which has many times appeared in the despatches is described "Once a peaceful village near a charming wood, the favorite courting rendezvous of romatic lovers. Robbed by the war of its peace, charm, romances and lovers, it became a fashionable rendezvous for members of British and Overseas Suicide Clubs.

Ribbing Up the Liberal Party

H. F. GADSBY, brilliant Canadian journalist, continues in the October number of MACLEAN'S MAGAZINE his notable series of Canadian political studies. In the September issue he dealt with 'The Duff Boom." In this October issue he tells in a non-partisan way of the forces at work at the present time in the Liberal Party of Canada. In the November issue he will have an article on the Conservative Party of Canada. This series is unique and of lively interest, partly due to Gadsby's racy style, and partly to the fact that he possesses "inside" information of a piquant sort.

The priest continued his sermon without correcting the mistake, but next Sunday he gave out the same text correctly. "The Master fed five thousand people with five loaves and three small fishes," adding "Could you do that Pat Murphy?" "Sure," said Pat, "I would use what was left over last Sunday.

The Cheese Markets

The strength which developed in the cheese situation last week was more pronounced this week than ever and prices at the boards throughout the country scored a further advance of 1-16c to 1⅛c per lb., making a net rise for the past two weeks of 5-16c to 2 9-16c, and at the same time making new high record figures. The highest price ever realized for cheese in the history of the Canadian industry was 21⅛c per lb., which was paid at the St. Hyacinthe board today, which is ⅛c per lb., higher than any sales were made on western boards during the week, while in normal times eastern cheese generally sold 1⅛c per lb., lower than western. This very strong condition of the market is attributed principally to the keen competition on the part of Government buyers for supplies against the regular exporters, and with reference to the same the Grocer, of London, Eng. under date of Sept. 16th says. Has not Government buying for some time past put up prices? It is known that large Government purchases all the time have been made of the present season's make in Canada, but what will happen in regard to the coming production in New Zealand? It must not be lost sight of that when Government buying was made on this side the seller was competing to sell, but buying in Canada, as the Government has been doing, they have been competing to buy, and so sent the market up against themselves and the consumer.

The Ready Response

A Yorkshire mayor went to London in expectation of a knighthood, which he failed to get. His friends arranged a banquet on his return to celebrate his non-success and have a joke at his expense. When the dinner was over the mayor's health was drunk, with a request that he should tell them about his knighthood. He replied to their satirical toast as follows.

"You know, lads, I went to London. Well, the king sent for me and asked me to have a bit of lunch with him. After taking a bit we got on to the knighthood and he said, 'You know, Bill, I'd make you a knight in a minute, but it's those friends of yours I can't stand.''

CHEERFULNESS MOTTO OF THE SOLDIERS

"Are we downhearted? No!" would seem to continue as the watchword of the British army at the front. Stories are constantly arriving by mail and from newspaper correspondents to show the wonderful cheerfulness of the soldiers. In some respects war does not seem to change human nature. If a fellow is of a cheerful, fun-loving disposition at home, he will be found of a cheerful, fun-loving nature even in the midst of a fight, though there will be a grimmer quality in his humor. As an example, we have this story from the Brooklyn Eagle.

Both Canadians and Anzacs delight in the nocturnal raids made almost every night on the close-lying German trenches. On one of these recently a Canadian lieutenant worked his way unseen to an enemy dugout and suddenly peered over the top. It was a nasty, rainy night, cold and damp, and a group of Germans were seated about a little stove,

"How many of you fellows down there?" called out the Canadian in a raucous voice.

"Nein," came back a startled and ambigious reply.

"Well, share that among you," shouted the Canadian as he hurled a bomb in their midst and threw himself flat on the ground to avoid the effects of the explosion.

It appears that when Canadians are embarking for active service they are given pay-books in which their allowances are entered from time to time. The last page is a will form in blank. On the body of one young soldier killed in action the following will was found. "I give everything I have to the Home for Stray Cats, London, providing they do not take in any more black cats." It is said that this will was held to be valid, whether the home would accept the estate with this proviso being another question. Another Canadian wrote; If I should die—(cheers)—I will everything to my mother—(loud and prolonged cheers)." This will; too, was held to be valid. Another young Canadian of the Flying Corps, we are told, had not written home for months, and finally received this cable. "No letters for weeks. Is anything wrong with the boy?" He replied (collect) "Very serious matter. Boy absolutely broke. Send much money."

The story is told of a popular young Canadian officer in mufti and on crutches who appeared one day in the lounge-room of a London hotel, where their were several brother officers on leave. In reply to an invitation to "have something" he was obliged to refuse, saying that he had a crippled friend to look after. Presently the crippled friend hove in sight, also on crutches, his right leg gone at the knee. "You see," explained the first-comer, "we tossed a coin to see which one would look after the other and I lost." There is a rule in London that except in emergency cases ambulances must not drive more than five miles an hour. This slow pace is designed for the comfort of the wounded, but sometimes it has the opposite effect. A hard-hit Tommy was being conveyed to a hospital, and after a while he raised himself upon one elbow and said to the driver; "I say, would you mind driving a bit faster. This ain't no bally funeral." This recalls the story of one Tommy Dodd, who was blown some distance and seriously injured by a German shell. He recovered as he was being lifted on a stretcher, and murmured as he fainted again "Home, James."

Soldier stories of amusing happenings at the front are many. There is considerable rivalry among the Canadians and the Anzacs. The English think they are both such good soldiers there is little to choose between them. This incident happened at a canteen sometime ago when the Australians first came to the Western front, Several Canadians were within when they espied the wide-brimmed campaign hats that distinguish the Anzacs from all the other soldiers. The Canadians gave their fellow colonials a hearty welcome and an equally hearty invitation to "have something." These fraternal details have been attended to, a Canadian turned to one of the Australians.

'When did you fellows come over?" he asked.

"Just got in this morning."

"Well, what are you going to do?"

This was too good an opening for the Anzac.

"Oh," he said in a "swanky" tone, "we came over to finish what you fellows started."

"Humph," replied the Canadian, "it's a wonder you didn't first finish what you started yourself down at Gallipoli."

Then the trouble began. It was a Donnybrook affair for a time, but eventually peace was declared with renewed and mutual respect for Colonial fighting ability.

It is said that wounded soldiers home from the front, some of them so seriously hurt that they will never be able to fight again, resent curious questioning as to how they received their injuries. They do not feel that they ought to be stared at as though they were freaks. They reply briefly to questions, answering that they were hurt "Somewhere in No Man's Land." If the questioner appears to be to credulous he is apt to be regaled with a thrilling but highly imaginative account of the incident.

Death of Mrs. Geo. A. Shaver.

Cornwall Standard—The announcement of the death of Mrs. George A, Shaver(nee Lida May Warwick) which occurred at Tupper Lake N. Y. on Friday last, was a painful shock to the many friends of the family. The deceased had been in poor health for some time. She spent part of the summer in the Adirondacks and apparently was benefitted by the mountain air. After a few days at home, she left again for Tupper Lake last week, accompanied by her mother and little son, Mr, Shaver being in the Maritime Provinces on a business trip. The end came very suddenly, and the sad news had to be telegraphed to her husband, who returned to Cornwall with all speed, overwhelmed with sorrow. Mrs. Shaver was a daughter of the late John Warwick, of Cornwall, and was thirty-one years of age. Of a bright and happy disposition, she was exceedingly popular with her young friends, by whom she was held in very warm regard. The most profound sympathy is extended to the bereaved husband with his little son, to the mother of the deceased, and other members of the family.

The funeral took place on Tuesday from Mrs. Warwick's residence, Fourth Street, to Woodlawn Cemetery. The service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Harkness, of Knox Church, assisted by Rev. T. W. Cosens, of the Methodist Church. The pall-bearers were Dr. W. D. Knight, Dr. A. Ross Alguire, Dr. Lloyd MacHaffie, Messrs. F. Stidwill, C. E., Wm. Reid and T. E. Petepiece. Among the relatives and friends present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Warwick, Norwich, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Dan P. Warwick, Oaklands, Rhode Island, Mrs. T. J. McVicar Regina, Mrs. Jordan Shaver Cannamore, Rev. T. P. and Mrs. Shaver, Birchton, Que; Mr. and Mrs, Amon McConnell Morewood, Mr. and Mrs, E. L. Munharvey Cannamore.

Lieut. Wingard Died of Wounds.

(Montreal Gazette, Oct. 2nd)

When it became known here yesterday among friends and acquaintances of Lieut. Hume S. Wingard, of the South Wales Borderers, that he had died from wounds received on September 21st there were general expressions of regret that another young man of great promise, popularity and ability had fallen a victim to the great war. The news most especially caused a gloom among members of the editorial departments of the various city newspapers, where Lieut. Wingard had gained many friends while working for The Gazette and other city newspapers. He was one of the first volunteers in the city after war broke out, enlisting as a private with the Grenadier Guards. At Valcartier he became a corporal, and was a sergeant by the time the First Contingent reached England. There he, with other promising non-commissioned officers of education, character and initiative, was taken to help in the training of sections of the great Kitchener armies, which England was then exerting every atom of her strength to produce. He was stationed with a regiment of South Wales Borderers, being the only Canadian officer. The soldiers were hardy fellows, most of them Welsh miners, and they gave a good account of themselves in France, and later in Macedonia when the battalion took part in the rearguard action at the time that the Serbs were driven from their country. It was touch-and-go with the battalion for a time, and Lieut. Wingard was fortunate to come out of it without a scratch, though on one occasion a lucky mist was was all that saved the battalion from destruction. Later Lieut. Wingard broke his leg by a fall from a rocky hill while reconnoitring, and as it was a compound fracture he was invalided to England, and afterwards permitted to spend two months in Canada. While in Canada he got word that he had been promoted to a captaincy, but when he went overseas again, he discovered that this would entail his remaining in England. He preferred to go to the front as a lieutenant, and he has been taking part in the fighting on the Somme ever since. A recent letter to a friend in the city stated that he had been gassed, but that as it was carbon monoxide he did not expect the effects to be lasting. There was a hope expressed yesterday that the news might not be true, as Lieut. Wingard was reported killed on the occasion that his leg was broken in Macedonia, but it was stated by two friends yesterday that his sister had received official notification from the British War Office.

Lieut. Wingard has contributed poetry and short stories to various magazines during the three or four years that he had been in newspaper work. The London Times accepted a war poem which he had written for a competition started by that journal. He was mentioned in dispatches for work done in his first campaign. His home was in Morrisburg. His parents are both dead, but four sisters remain to mourn his loss.

Don't Carry Liquor.

If the new Temperance Act has its weak spots it also has its teeth, as one Renfrewite has already found out. It prohibits carrying liquor on your person. You can't have a flask in your hip pocket nor carry a bottle of strong stuff in your grip. If you do, and you get found out, you are straightaway minus $200 or you go to jail. A man from town took three bottles of gin from Renfrew to Wilno in his valise. He gave several people in the township of Sherwood a drink of the liquor. When he returned home, Inspector Connolly happened to meet him at the station, and, observing him to be in an intoxicated condition, had him brought before Police Magistrate Devine, who fined him $10 and costs for violating Sec. 55, subsection 3 (for being drunk in a public place), and also $200 and costs for violating Sec. 41 by having liquor in his possession in a manner contrary to the Act. The clause reads as follows:

41 (1)—Except as provided by this Act, no person by himself, his clerk, servant or agent shall have or keep or give liquor in any place wheresoever, other than in the private dwelling-house in which he resides, without having first obtained a license under this Act authorizing him to do so, and then only as authorized by the license.

OVERCOATS
For Fall and Winter

These are a necessity not a luxury.
It's a pretty hard year to make selections when buying a stock of these goods, and I keep clear of the outlandish patterns of some of the material, that has kept my stock right down to the choicest models. Coats a man can wear any place and any time and know people are not wondering where he "found it." There are good many different kinds at different prices and the values are as good as the looks.
There are Boys' coats in the lot, too.

As a reminder—My stock of Rubbers is a big one and they are a lot cheaper than wet feet.

Private W. Fulton Writes to Dr. Brown

Somewhere in France
Sept. 16, 1916

Dear Uncle,

A few lines this evening, although there really is not much which I am permitted to relate of anything transpiring around here. I have thought very frequently of writing you and thus fulfil my promises, but I presume you hear from us through mother and the boys. If it was not for the censorship, letter writing would be much easier for us and much more interesting to those who read, but the fact remains for obvious reasons. And after all you get in the papers many interesting anecdotes and descriptive scenes, etc., it would however require a clever pen to properly describe the scene which just now surrounds me. It is an almost ideal September evening. Our big guns in the not far distance are beginning to open up for the evening bombardment. Numerous aeroplanes and more numerous observation baloons are to be seen—but they are seeing more than being seen. We are bivouacking out in the open near the town of———, for the first time in our months of soldiering. It is interesting and at once picturesque and unique to see the men individually, but more usually in groups of two or more, making up a suitable cover for their comfort in case of rain or cold. Many kinds of available material are used in various ways; ammunition boxes and rubber sheet being the principal thing used, but of designs and methods there is no end, except it would be with this same number as the Battalion Roll.

You have doubtless read before this where the Canadians are now on the western front, and helping in the general push which is being made with success. We were several days in the trenches, then out a few days and will soon be in again.

On Sept. 5th Bismark was hit in the head and body by an exploding shell which killed one man and wounded seven. He is in hospital, but I don't know where as he has not written, and there is no way of tracing beyond the 1st casualty clearing station, but I am quite confident that he will receive the best of care and attention. He is fortunate that it was not more serious. Frank Merkley was hit with a piece of shrapnel which went through his arm, a day or two after Bis. was hit, and the boys tell me he is now in Liverpool.

A goodly number of German prisoners are coming out here nearly all the time, many of them are very willing prisoners and are only too glad to get safely across into our lines. The wounded ones are given the same attention as our own. I saw one of our men even carrying a wounded German on his back, taking him to our dressing station.

We have had fairly fine weather of late. Around here there is a great deal of grain cut which the farmers have not stacked yet. France seems to be a great agricultural country, the crops are fine too, in this district, and I fancy it prevails mostly all over the European countries. There are large areas of cultivated land without any fences or buildings, but comprising many different plots of grain etc., and the farmers live in little old and dirty village communities which are often prettily situated and with beautiful trees.

Enclosed is one of the "trench journals" which may interest you.

I am quite well. With kindest regards to each and all at your home, I remain

Very sincerely yours
W. N. FULTON.

P. S., Sept. 17—In a letter from Bismark this a.m., he is in hospital in London.

Ontario's Champion Hen

Toronto, October 3.—Ontario's agricultural college at Guelph has produced, according to the records in the hands of tho Department of Agriculture, a world record beating hen. For some years now the poultry branch at the college has been specializing upon the barred rock species as a utility breed of poultry, both for egg and meat production. During the past year one member of the flock laid 310 eggs. This is the greatest number of eggs laid by any hen of this breed in one year, so far as official world's records are obtainable.

The world's record in egg-laying for hens of all breeds is 314 eggs in a year, and the Ontario Champion had ten days of her twelve-month still to go when she fell a victim to the heat and suddenly departed life. Her demise is believed to have spoiled a new world record, since to the time of her death she was laying an egg a day as regularly as clock-work.

New Method of Raising Money From Parishioners.

A new method of raising money for church purposes was adopted by the parishoners of the parish of St. Raphael's Glengarry county, in the contribution of over one hundred head of young cattle for the benefit of the funds of the parish, in view of the numerous expenses that have been incurred for recent improvements, were somewhat depleted. A large number of people attended the sale at which the cattle were offered. The hammer was wielded by D. D. McCuaig of Bainsville. The stock was all good, the competition spirited, and the prices secured were exceedingly satisfactory. The total amount realized was over $2,000, which gladdened the heart of the parish priest, Rev. D. A. Campbell. In view of the success of this sale, it is intended to hold another at an early date. The scheme beats a picnic all hollow. Bad weather does not interfere with a sale, and, taking into consideration the work involved, the amount realized was far ahead of any scheme that has yet been tried.

G. C. LACEY,
Editor and Proprietor

Pte. Arthur Hummel Writes
Trenches and Hospitals

Sept. 11th, 1916.
Northern General Hospital
Ward No. 1
Leicester, Eng.

Dear Mr. Warren,—

I have often thought of writing to you but it is only now that I have the pen ready to go ahead.

What shall I write about is the first question to settle? Well, I am not going to be too particular about a subject so I shall try to write about trench life and wind up with some remarks about "Life in the Hospital in Blighty," if you will bear with me.

To know just where to commence is question number two, and where or when to stop, which might concern you some, will be question number three.

Life in the trenches is on the whole full of interesting experiences a few of which I will mention here in brief.

The thing that interested me most, and I believe my comrades also, was watching aeroplanes several thousands of feet high dodging bursting shells from anti-aircraft guns. It was a very thrilling experience. Thousands of shells filled with high explosives were bursting around, under and above the nervy airmen who seemed to regard them as so many snowballs, for such they looked to be. Of course they were not Canadian snowballs. On this occasion they were of such a nature as to keep the wary aviator constantly on the alert as I don't imagine he liked the idea of a speedy descent to terra firma. He was one of our daring aviators and during his flight over the German lines to ascertain the position of their trenches, surrounded on all sides by the puffs of white smoke from these shells, we on Mother Earth look on with keen interest. Evidently the German gunners are getting a true aim for a big shell bursts quite near the flying speck. We hold our breath expecting to see our hero fall to the earth—but no, we are agreeably surprised, once again he escapes and having found out all that he desires to know, safely returns to our lines and reports to he dquarters. As a result of these reports our artillery is able to direct its fire on the German trenches and thus the dirty work begins. After the artillery ceases fire the trenches are generally blown to pieces, more or less, all along the line, along which the fire has been directed, the trench is heaped with dead and wounded, many are buried alive, and others escape. Our boys then make a raid in the dark and entering the Hun trenches take prisoners all who surrender, and shoot or bayonet all who resist. This goes on continually on both sides but with little success to the Germans at the present time, as our artillery is becoming so dreadful to the Huns that in almost every bombardment half of the Huns get killed and the other half frightened to death. They very seldom make a charge because they are terribly afraid of our bayonets. Every Tommy will bear me out in this. The Huns set out with the idea of winning this war with their powerful guns but alas, they did not reckon with a power that was to be, the power which today is, and tomorrow will be far greater than the Germans ever dreamed of.

This is a hurried account of the war from air to trench. Another scene of considerable activity is constantly taking place, by both sides, under ground. Down deep hundreds of feet by places, our men are busily engaged working their way under the German trenches when they get where they think Germans are numerous above in trenches, very high explosives with long fuses are ignited and a mighty explosion tells a tale. So both sides on land and sea are operating in the air, on the earth and beneath the earth if we look at the sea as we do the land and call it earth. And so the war goes on. Both sides are fighting fiercely but our enemies are growing weaker and are losing ground every day. Bill Kaiser at the time when hope was high, before the war, said in one of his eloquent speeches to his people "Woe be to them who raise their sword against me." Now his words are changed. "Keep the foe out of the Fatherland," are his words from a speech uttered lately on a far different occasion.

I will not say much about life in the trenches as it would take too much time and space. A few things I might mention. One is provided with such comforts from the Quartermaster's stores in the line of dry goods as make us feel that we need not complain. There is no getting away from the fact that modern conveniences are a scarcity but very few go there expecting the same. Some things one misses at first, but time teaches one to forget to some extent little needables or at least what one considers as such. Some wise man who never was in the trenches, Socrates I believe, once said. "The fewer our wants, the nearer we resemble the gods." Now Socrates and brother Solomon must have been related to each other. Anyway all ancient truths express in fewest words our thoughts and feelings about conditions which exist today. On the whole, life (if that is the right word) in the trenches is a great experience, even when the big German guns are active. The excitement which prevails has a far different meaning to one present than the meaning given in a Webster dictionary, therefore one learns something concerning which Webster, great man as he was, knew little. But someone at this juncture might let loose a happy thought. "What if a bullet gets your number and ?" Well I suppose one leaves the infantry, and joins the happy flying corps. Then you or they can tell Socrates and Webster and all the others their experiences while in the infantry.

While in the trenches, especially the front line, one can see an exhibition of fire works at nights that out rivals any exhibition at any time or pl ce as seen from a grand stand in any time of peace. The Germans send over many colored flares near our trenches so they can see where to fire. Of course we do the same and most of the dirty work is done at night. We sleep during the day time, some poor fellows sleep very sound indeed, in the bottom of the trenches or in the dugouts.

Before going to the trenches it is not hard to see the change that comes over the faces of all the boys. Nearly every soldier carries a pocket testament or a bible and they do not fail to use them. As one walks through the trenches it is no uncommon sight to see the boys seeking comfort and guidance from the word of God, the most natural thing in the world to do. Who are the boys? They are not as some might say, ministers' sons and preachers or bible students, but boys of all classes, creeds and conditions. This is not only true of my own battalion, where I was an eye witness, but boys of many battalions, scores of them have told me the same truth as I have nice interesting talks with them, often in this hospital. Yes, it is one great blessing to the young men in this war, more clearly than ever before has the truth of a future life been brought home to them. With the consciousness of this fact, naturally preparation for the better life follows, and feeling my own weaknesses and limitations with my brave comrades I have gained greater spiritual strength than I ever had before. I know some fellows who feel that it would be a sin to kill Germans, so they get the job of stretcher bearers. While it is quite true stretcher-bearers do noble work, I can't for the life of me see the point. If a person comes over to fight I think they should fight, but some think differently. No one in the world is too good to fight. The best saint is the one whose eyes twinkle with the remembrance that he was once a sinner. If I see a person who claims or acts as though he wae too good to be among any of ths other boys on occasions not out of the ordinary, I look at him more curiously t' n I do at any uncommon animal in the London Zoo when I am there.

Perhaps I am drifting. I always think of a little fellow in our Battalion when I mention the boys. While drilling in England he was considered to have had the record for swearing. One day our Captain, a witty Irishman, walked into a hut where our young friend was inventing new swear words in almost every sentence of a yarn he was spinning. The young fellow evidently was unconscious of the officer's presence. Old John (as we called him) puffed away peacefully at his pipe and when our friend had finished, he stepped meekly forward with the following remark. "My says he I am an old soldier. I have been in the army for thirty years and I thought that I knew how to swear but nothing after hearing this." He took a puff at his pipe, then added, "Well, that boy is an artist." Our little friend would not shake off the habit as much as we tried to help him to do so. One day he was sent to France in a draft that preceeded our company. The first trip to the trenches is one which this boy will long remember. He was in one of the worst fights, if not the worst of this war, in which the Canadians lost a great number at Hooge on June 2nd. Very few lived through it, but fate spared our artist. He came back to tell us of his narrow escapes and everyone could see a different boy. Before he was talking to us very long he told us this, "When I went into that trench I went in swearing, but believe me, I was praying before I came out." We all believed as much even before he spoke. Needless to say our much admired friend is now an older but wiser boy and his language has improved.

This must be getting too lengthy when I get started I sometimes forget that people get tired reading, but I am writing at length to make up for not having written before.

In conclusion I'll give you a few thoughts about a wounded soldier in a hospital. The worst part of being wounded is staying in bed for many days and with some it is many weeks. The best part of being here is getting better. There are fifty beds in this ward which are often all in use and there are nearly 3000 patients in the wards on these grounds. They are going and coming every day. Of these 3000 there are not very many bad cases. Wounded soldiers get every care and attention and unless very bad recover rapidly. Of 50 patients in this ward only six or eight keep their beds, and this I know is the case in most wards in this Base Hospital. Your windy writing friend has put in a good time here. They must think I'm sick or they would send me to a convalescent hospital. The doctors know more about me than I do myself. Wonderful the knowledge some people have, but I'm not kicking about it. Don't expect to see France for a long while if I see it at all. May see Canada first.

If you will forgive me for all this, which, if you finish will take a lot of your time, I'll promise never to do it again. If I was well I might act differently, so you know the reason.

Messrs. Mason and Allen are well.

Write if you have time,
Sincerely yours
ARTHUR.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building-tonic, free from any harmful drugs. Try it.

Prize Winners Winchester Township Rural School Fair

The Winchester Township School Fair held at Maple Ridge on Sept. 26th was well attended. The children, in spite of a bad season, had a very creditable showing of products. It would appear that the interest in this annual event increases from year to year. It is fast becoming a social community day for the township. Mr. Geo. Earle, Reeve of the township was fortunate in securing the Pipe Band of the 154th. They stopped over at the fair and gave some fine selections. The lady judges were Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Bradt of Morrisburg and the gentlemen judges, Mr. R. E. McKinsty, Ottawa and D. E. McRae, Alexandria Mr. Wesley Hamilton, Chesterville awarded the prizes for the School Parade. This Parade was a very excellent feature of the days proceedings.

TWO LONG YEARS HE SUFFERED

"Fruit-a-tives" Made Him Feel As If Walking On Air

ORILLIA, ONT., Nov. 28th. 1914.

"For over two years, I was troubled with Constipation, Drowsiness, Lack of Appetite and Headaches. One day I saw your sign which read "Fruit-a-tives make you feel like walking on air." This appealed to me, so I decided to try a box. In a very short time, I began to feel better, and now I feel fine. I have a good appetite, relish everything I eat, and the Headaches are gone entirely. I recommend this pleasant fruit medicine to all my friends".

Mild Winter Predicted.

A report from Winnipeg says:—Indians assert that the coming winter will be one of the mildest in recent years. They base their assertions on the following signs:—

The oak trees have no acorns.
Squirrels are seldom seen.
Muskrats have not started to build.
Fur-bearing animals have thin coats.
Bark on poplar trees is loose.

There are some other signs they go by for their assertion that the winter will be mild and short. They are seldom wrong.

WHY I should select a Mutual Policy!

FIRST—Because in a mutual company the assets are the sole property of the Policy-holders.

2—Because in a mutual company ALL of the profits go to the policy-holders.

3—Because in a mutual company the executive is directly responsible to the policy-holders: ALL the directors are policy-holders' directors.

4—Because mutual companies hold the record for stability.

5—Because mutual companies have all the "safety first" features of stock companies with mutuality thrown in.

6—Because the largest American companies are already mutual or seriously considering mutualization, and already more than one-half of legal reserve insurance is mutual.

7—Because mutual companies are not built up in the interest of the FEW, but of the MANY.

Therefore I will take for mine

No Sunday Milk Delivery.

Chesterville, Oct. 5th, 1916.

Dear Mr. Editor:

The opening of the factory of the Maple Leaf Condensed Milk Co. last Sunday to receive milk during the day has aroused a widespread feeling among the better class of citizens of Chesterville and vicinity. While several of the farmers entered upon the innovation of a Sunday delivery accepting the new situation as a matter of course, the number was not large. The public sentiment of the community at this menace to our Canadian Sabbath, expressed itself in a deputation of citizens, which waited upon the management on Wednesday forenoon, asking that the establishment close its doors against further milk delivery on Sunday. The deputation consisted of the Reeve of the village, Mr Wesley Hamilton, representing the unanimous views of the council; the Lord's Day Alliance president and secretary, and all the resident clergy of the town, Rev. Fr. Crawley of the Roman Catholic Church, Rev. T. B. McCorkindale of the Presbyterian Church, Rev. G. Nussey of the Holiness Movement Church, Rev. H. E. Warren of the Methodist Church. The deputation received every consideration at the hands of the management, discussing for an hour the problem of the Sunday milk. The management were actuated soley by a desire to produce a first-class manufactured commodity, combined with the most economical labor for all parties in handling the milk. The fewest possible men would be employed and the milk put through only the preliminary process for saving it for the week day manufacture. The deputation were a unit in its views that the widespread feeling of the community could not endorse the continuance of the Sunday delivery and manufacture. The pulpits had already spoken against all Sunday delivery. One of the deputation had already interviewed 40 of the leading milk dealers of the community, who were practically unanimous in refusing to deliver any milk on Sunday. The farmers had never found it necessary to open the factories and thought the present conditions did not necessitate a Sunday delivery. The management and the deputation were unable to arrive at any settlement of the matter. The general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada, Rev. Dr. Rochester, is coming from Toronto this week to investigate the local conditions.

Yours truly
