LAFLEUR IS HELD IN FATAL ROBBERY

Hull, Que., Dec. 5—Paul Lafleur late today was taken to Montreal by Quebec police for further questioning in connection with the slaying of his bank-clerk companion in yesterday's theft of $15,000 belonging to the Banque Provinciale du Canada.

HULL, Que., Dec. 5—Paul Lafleur, of Verdun, 29-year-old accountant of the Banque Provinciale du Canada, was held today as a material witness in the armed-robbery slaying of Armand Nadeau, of Montreal, his 19-year-old companion, at the end of a wild ride through two cities, and eastward along the Montreal highway.

Lafleur was not placed under arrest, police said, but was confined to a cell at the Hull jail, where officers questioned him last night and today for more than 16 hours.

He was taken this afternoon to the spot about two miles east of Hull, where it is believed that Nadeau was fatally shot. Officers said that they would attempt to have him reconstruct the crime step by step.

All highways between Ottawa and Montreal were being carefully guarded by members of the Provincial Traffic Department. Bridges also were being watched, so that if any attempt is made by the bandits to go by way of Montreal, they will be trapped immediately.

The death of Nadeau was a shock to everyone. He was well liked by his fellow workers, and his efforts to resist three desperate criminals yesterday in trying to save the money in the automobile,, stamps him a hero in the eyes of bank officials.

Paul Lafleur, bank accountant who accompanied Nadeau at the time of the holdup, is a native of Verdun, being a nephew of P.A. Lafleur, M.L.A. for Verdun, and a brother of Dr. Rolland Lafleur, of Verdun. Prior to being sent to Hull, Lafleur worked for many years in the Verdun branch.

MRS. LILLA J. MELLAN

Mrs. Lilla Jane Mellan, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Zeron, of Morrisburg, died at the General Hospital, Kingston, on Wednesday, from the effects of injuries received in a car accident in Sunday last.

The accident occurred at the eastern limits of Kingston, when a car driven by Gordon Delaney, of Belleville, heading west, crashed head-on with a car driven by Miss Olive Zeron. Mrs. Mellan suffered a fractured jaw and severe injuries to her head, while Miss Olive Zeron was cut about the face. Margaret Mellan and Catherine Gallivan, who were also riding in the car, received minor injuries, but were able to proceed to Brockville.

The late Mrs. Mellan was born in Matilda Township on Nov. 12, 1886, where she resided until about ten years ago, when she came to live with her parents in Morrisburg. Two years ago she went to reside with her sister, Miss Olive Zeron, in Brockville.

On November 24th, 1913, she was united in marriage to Mr. David Mellan of Matilda Township, who predeceased her on November 6th, 1921. To them were born two daughters who survive, namely Ethel, a student at Queen's University, and Margaret, a student at the Brockville Collegiate Institute. Also surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Zeron; one sister, Olive Zeron, B.A., of the Brockville Collegiate Institute staff; three brothers, Sanford, of Matilda; Ernest, of Windsor and Mahlon of Matilda.

The funeral will be held on Saturday, Dec. 7th, at 2 p.m., at the United Church, Morrisburg, where service will be conducted by Rev. Smith, assisted by Rev. Burkholder and Rev. Knowles, of Iroquois.

The remains will be conveyed to Brinston cemetery, for interment in the family plot there.

BROCKVILLE PRESBYTERY

The regular Quarterly meeting of the Presbytery of Brockville of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was held in Knox Church, Iroquois, on Tuesday, Dec. 3rd. There was a splen did turnout of members at both the forenoon and afternoon sederunts and a long and interesting docket of business was transacted.

A call from the pastoral charge of Morewood and Russell to the Rev. A.O. Thompson, B.D.D., was sustained and provisional arrangements made for his induction at Morewood on Thursday, the 12th December, at 2 o'clock afternoon, while approval was given to the appointment of the Rev. T. Miller Revie as stated Supply in charge of South Mountain and Mountain Station.

The Presbytery agreed to defer consideration re the appointment of a successor to the late Rev. A. S. Grant, D.D., and as to a proposed Sustenation Fund for the Church, to the regular meeting in March next.

A communication from the Lord's Day Alliance was approved and sympathy given the objects they had in view.

The Presbytery approved the Allocations to congregations for 1935 and the reports of the committees to examine Session Records.

The reports of the Standing committees handed in showed that progress is being made.

The next regular meeting was appointed to be held at Cardinal on the first Tuesday in March next, at 10.30 o'clock, forenoon

ENTRANCE EXAMS, SOON RELEGATED TO LIMBO

Announcing further examination changes for 1936, Hon. Dr. L.J. Simpson, minister of education, guest speaker at the Bradford high school annual commencement exercises recently, declared "entrance examination will soon be a thing of the past. "In the future," he said, "more and more pupils will be given their entrance on the teachers' recommendation.

To save pupils attending rural public schools having to leave their homes at an early age to enter high schools, more advanced subecjects will be taught in the rural schools, Dr. Simpson announced.

"The department is anxious to cooperate with rural teachers and every effort will be made to see the curriculum is saner and more practical. More subjects will be taught and more will be accomplished in the public schools. Pupils are leaving their homes when they are too young to travel, to attend high schools," Dr. Simpson remarked.

He praised introduction of a new civic text book.

Dr. Simpson indicated that in 1936 Latin would be an optional subject.

The GREEN GHOST

by Stuart Martin

SYNOPSIS

Maud Barron awakes with a premonition of disaster. She hears padding footsteps. Rushing into her father's study she finds him dead.

Dr. Sidney Foster, a friend, is joined by Detective "One Eye" Uttock, a mulatto, who has never lost a man.

Maud Barron and Hughes return to England. Dr. Foster gives Maud his address in case of need. He receives a telegram informing him "The Ghost" has reappeared.

"She looked up at him a little timidly.

"Mr. Hughes has had to rush off to town. There was a telephone message for him. It's about the lawyers. He told me he might have something to ring up about and I was to stay. There is so much to get settled one way and another, you know. But off you go and see the country. Elsie is a rare companion, isn't she?"

"She is very buoyant."

"She is a good driver, too. Mr. Hughes has taken the big car, but the two-seater is always at your disposal. Will you wait until after lunch or go off now?"

"After lunch will do. I want some things in town anyway. I prefer to make up my own prescriptions for you."

He made out his list of drugs and requirements before lunch and was ready for the run immediately afterwards. The small two-seater was at the door, and as he and Miss Monteith went out to it she looked at him inquiringly.

"who's going to drive?"

"Whoever you like?"

"I love driving. Do you mind?"

"By no means."

"Where do you want to go? Town, or will the local drug store do?"

"Town, I think."

"Fine! That's what suits me."

They were longer getting to town than they anticipated, for the traffic blocks were many and long. It was well after three o'clock when Foster made his call and bought his drugs. When he came out of the store she greeted him with a demand.

"I say, you don't want tea in town, do you? Will you not be nice and do what I ask you? You must."

"What is it?"

"Let's go out of town and run down to Dorking for tea. I insist. My instructions were to take you a country run. This isn't the country."

"I don't mind so long as we're back for dinner."

"That's what I call a sport."

They threaded their way down Regent Street and through Picadilly Circus, swung into the merry-go-round of the traffic, and went along Piccadilly to Knightsbridge and headed for Richmond. They went through the Park and came out at the Kingston Gate, and then their course was without hindrance. It was a lovely run.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Foster, as they ran through Mickleham. "We needn't go to Dorking after all. Why not have tea here at the hotel under Box Hill, and then take a stroll up to the top? We'll get all the fresh air we need up there."

"Done! It is going to rain, anyway. Our beautiful English climate wouldn't be complete without rain."

The rain came on while they were at tea, but it cleared soon, and the sun was dipping behind heavy clouds when they started to walk up the hill. They sat down on a bench at the top and faced the sloping ground and the track to the main roadway. Away to the west the clouds were piling up, hiding the sun, but they were not rain clouds, and the rays of the sun shot out from under them like fiery ladders stretching to earth from a common centre. The smoke of Dorking rose lazily against the background of hills behind the town. A small train puffed its way southward.

"It is going to be dark early," she said, quietly. "It is always dark early when the clouds pile up like that. But it is glorious, isn't it?"

"Yes," he said. "It is glorious—and peaceful."

They did not speak for a long time, content to sit side by side on the bench and puff at their cigarettes.

Foster experienced the strange and powerful attraction of this girl once more. His mind could not separate her personality from the events of the last few days, events that seemed to follow with a weird uncanniness on the murder of James Barron in far Jamaica.

He was contemplating her when she turned her eyes and asked: "What makes you look at me like that?"

"How did you know I was looking at you?"

"I felt your eyes on me."

She had been gazing in the opposite direction while he was thinking.

"Do you always know when people are looking at you?"

"Not always. But it's different with you. I feel you doing it somehow. You do it at table often. You were looking at me when I was singing the other evening. You made some bad mistakes in the music."

"Oh!"

"But you haven't told me why you were looking at me?"

"I was looking at your hair," he said.

"My hair? It is like Maud's, isn't it? But it isn't natural like hers. Mine is dark naturally. You see the result of peroxide in mine."

"There are not many women who would be so frank," he smiled; but he liked her frankness.

"Well, it's the truth. I did it accidentally to begin with. It was then when I was on tour. I went to a hairdresser's to get myself bobbed and trimmed, and got a bottle of stuff; and when I put it on it left a bleached streak where I was rubbing it in. There was nothing else to do but to continue the process. And I'm now what you see. Do you object to peroxide?"

"It think it suits you excellently. But there is a general objection to it, as you must know."

"I have an idea there is. Do you share the objection. Don't say no if you mean yes."

"I'm not quite sure. One sees it in use by what are called fast women, doesn't one?"

She considered for a moment, her eyes lowered.

Education Not Cause of Slump

Dr. H. M. Tory Claims This Theory Both "False" And "Stupid"

WOLFVILLE, N. S.,—The theory that too much education had been one cause of the depression was termed "false" and "stupid" by Dr. H. M. Tory, former president of the National Research Council of Canada, in receiving an honorary degree of Doctor in civil law from Acadia University here at a special founder's day convocation.

"As people rise in intelligence," he said, "so rises the state." He delcared modern science has created far more jobs than it had destroyed and the very future of Canada lies in the hands of the educated men.

Dr. Tory was born in Guysboro, N. S., and received his early education there. Graduating from McGill University, Montreal, in 1890 with a gold medal in mathematics and physics, he continued his studies and helped organize the University of Alberta, becoming its first president in 1908 and holding that position for a quarter-century.

EVERY DAY LIVING

A WEEKLY TONIC
by Dr. M. M. Lappin

THE ART OF LIVING TOGETHER

Of all the problems of Every Day Living, the problem of how to live together seems to be a most difficult one for some folks. For example, a correspondent has written to ask my advice as to how he should act toward some troublesome neighbors. He writes: (I quote in part only).

"My wife and I are rather proud of our little house. We try to keep it tidy inside and out. We managed to make quite a nice little garden, but our neighbor's children made it very hard for us to keep the peace. They were continually tramping over our flower beds on the pretence of looking for a lost ball or something of the kind. When spoken to about it they were insolent, and protests to to their parents only brought the retort "Children are children and they must play somewhere". How can one live peaceably with neighbors like that?"

Well, of course, I realize that there are good neighbors and bad neighbors. There are some folks who have no consideration for the other fellow. They seem to deliberately make themselves disagreeable and it certainly is not pleasant to be around where they are. The quietest way is usually the best way with such folks.

My correspondent does not say whether he has any children, but I fancy he has not. May I remind him that parents are often a bit touchy regarding their own children and, while they themselves may find fault with them, they do not like to have others criticising them. Perhaps that accounts for the retort with which his protests are met.

I believe he could accomplish more through dealing directly with the children and leaving their parents alone. Of course, in order to get the best response from children it is necessary to understand children. Anyone who does understand children knows that they will always respond to the touch of kindliness. I think if I were in my correspondent's position, I would make it my business to win the friendship of those troublesome children. I would try to spend some time working in my garden when those childlren were playng. I would get into conversation with them and try to get them to see how a nice frontage to a house helps to make the neighborhood look nice. I would even go so far as to suggest that it would be nice if they would make a little garden in front of their own house, and I would offer to help them and to give them seeds or plants with which to start it. In this way, I would try to win their cooperation and that would be better than incurring their enmity.

Of course this method may call for a great deal of patience, but rightly adopted it will work in time and, who knows, but the friendship and undying gratitude of the parents might be won as well as the cooperation of the children? If this should be the result it will have been well worth trying.

If it is a case of deliberately and maliciously destroying property, and there seems to be no other remedy, then one can always resort to the laws that are made to protect one's property. But this should only be done as a very last resort and only after every other attempt to stop it has failed. After all, living together is an art and, in order that we might be able to practice that art, it is necessary that we should be able to see the other fellow's point of view. To go about in a fretting spirit looking for trouble is the sure way to find it, but if one can adopt the pleasanter attitude that always tries to return good for evil then life runs along much more smoothly. People generally, and children in particular, usually respond to the kindly attitude. I advise my correspondent to try and to let me know the result.

NOTE: The writer of this column is a trained psychologist and an author of several works. He is willing to deal with your problems and give you the benefit of his wide experience. Questions regarding problems of EVERYDAY LIVING should be addressed to: Dr. M. M. Lappin, Room 421, 73 Adelaide Street, West, Toronto, Ontario. Enclose a 3c stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

And I think it would be true to say that, despite the overwhelming financial opposition, there have never been so many people—young, old and middle-aged—experiencing love as there are today.—Evening Standard

HEATING HINTS by James Stewart

One mistake that a great many home owners make is in not putting enough coal on the fire. This is a false economy. A thin, skimpy fire not only burns up too fast, goes out more easily, and causes many unnecessary trips to the cellar, but it also wastes fuel.

For the most economical operation, always put on enough fuel to keep the fire-bed level with the bottom of the fire-door.

In mild weather you can leave a little heavier accumulation of ash on the grate. The fire will then burn very slowly, yet there will be sufficient fuel in the process of burning to provide ample heat in case of a sudden drop in the outside temperature. And remember, whenever you put on fresh coal, always leave an exposed spot of live coal directly in front of the fire-door to act as a pilot light to ignite the gasses arising from the fresh coal.

Deep fire, level with bottom of fire door

Shallow fire. Wasteful and annoying

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

MAKE XMAS CAKES NOW

Eggs are sky-rocketng just as the "10-egg cake season," that of Xmas baking, opens.

While "use only tested recipes" is the first rule of a successful cook, nowhere is it more important than in making Xmas cakes, crammed full of the finest fruits and spices, held in a delicate, smooth batter made with the finest cake flour obtainable.

A good true recipe is of no use if it is not carefully followed and accurate measurements made. And, of course, the fruit, flour and eggs are not just thrown together as they come to hand — they must be added as specified in the recipe for, in a dark fruit cake, the fruit is added directly after the sugar; in a light, it is floured and added when the batter is well mixed.

The recipe for Christmas Fruit Cake here has been carefully tested and gives a perfect cake.

lb. (4½ cups) sifted cake flour
teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon mace
1 lb. butter or other shortening
1 lb. brown sugar
10 eggs, well beaten
½ lb. candied cherries
½ lb. candied pineapple
1 lb. dates seeded and sliced
1 lb. raisins
1 lb. currants
½ lb. citron, thinly sliced
½ lb. candied orange and lemon peel
½ lb. nut meats, chopped
1 cup honey
1 cup molasses
½ cup cider

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and spices, and sift together three times. Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, fruits, peel, nuts, honey, molasses and cider. Add flour gradually. Turn into pans which have been greased, lined with heavy paper, and again greased. Bake in slow oven (250 deg. F.) until thoroughly done. Cool in pans. For large loaves bake in 8 x 4 x 3 inch pans about 4 hours. For small loaves bake in 6 x 3 x 2½ inch pans about 2½ to 3 hours. Makes 10 pounds fruit cake. To store, brush lightly with port or brandy, wrap in waxed paper, and keep in air-tight container. Or brush with grape juice, wrap and store.

Old-Time Brownies is a splendid recipe to have when using egg whites in cakes because it uses five egg yolks to make wonderfully flavorsome cup-cakes.

OLD-TIME BROWNIES

1¾ cups sifted cake flour
¾ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 1-3 cups sugar
5 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon-colored
2½ squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 cup sour cream
1 cup walnut meats, broken
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together three times. Add sugar to egg yolks, creaming well. Add chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with cream, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add nuts and vanilla. Pour into deep, greased cup-cake pans, filling them about 1-3 full. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Makes 3 dozen Brownines.

Apples, rosy and full flavored, are Canada's pride at this season. They keep the doctor away because they supply valuable mineral salts.

To add pep and interest to a lunch or dinner menu, the clever homemaker can turn out Apple Cider Tang in a short time and at a very low cost.

APPLE CIDER ANG

1 package quick setting lemon jelly powder
1 cup warm water
1 cup sweet cider
1½ cups red apples, cut in matchstick pieces

Dissolve jelly powder in warm water; add cider. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in apples. Turn into indivdual moulds. Chill until firm. Unmould. Serves 6.

Poor "Apple Betty" hasn't had a new dress since Canadian housewives first served her. Cocoanut Apple Betty is a "company" dish and yet easily made.

COCOANUT APPLE BETTY

4 tart apples, pared and thinly sliced
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 cup shredded cocoanut
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
4 tablespoons butter

Arrange the layer of apples in greased baking dish. Cover with bread crumbs and cocoanut then sprinkle with a mixture of sugar and cinnamon, and dot with butter. Depeat until all ingredients are used, topping with cocoanut. Cover and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 35 minutes. Uncover and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until apples are soft. Serves 6.

Escalloped cheese and olives is a flavorsome and smartly new supper dish — the very thing for late Sunday supper or "high tea" as many Canadians still call it. And it's excellent for luncheons, too, with rye bread or bran muffins.

ESCALLOPED CHEESE AND OLIVES

1 small onion, finely chopped
3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1½ cups tomatoes, strained and heated
½ cup grated cheese
buttered crumbs
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon paprika
18 ripe or stuffed olives, coarsely chopped

Saute onion in butter. Add quick-cooking tapioca, salt, sugar, onion, and paprika to tomato juice, and cook in double boiler 5 minutes or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Place layer of tapioca mixture in greased baking dish, cover with cheese, add layer of olives, then remainder of tapioca mixture. Cover with crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 20 minutes. Serves 4.

Tomato Rabbit is one of those oddly named dishes, because a rabbit never came near it. Perhaps it descended from the old Welsh and Tomato Rarebits that were the pride of the chafing dish expert. But this Tomato Rabbit hasn't the tendency to get stringy and tough as the rarebits did because minute tapioca, not corn starch, is used to bind it.

TOMATO RABBIT

2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
1 cup milk, scalded
1 cup canned tomato soup
¼ teaspoon salt
dash of paprika
1 cup grated cheese

Add quick-cooking tapioca, salt, and paprika to milk, and cook in double boiler 5 minutes or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add tomato soup and cheese. Cook until cheese is melted. Serve on crackers or toast. Serves 4.

A CHRISTMAS GIFT FOR ALL THE YEAR

There is no such thing as a poor Christmas present. Some are just better than others. Any gift offered out of a spirit of love and friendship carries a sentiment not to be discarded lightly.

All gifts, however, do not bespeak this wish so well as they might. Household gifts lack the desirable personal touch — yet purely personal presents often wear out or change style so quickly that the giving seems an ill-chosen waste. The perfect gift not only gives instant pleasure, but lingers on to charm the receiver many, many times.

Pets make excellent gifts. Canaries, particularly, touch a responsive chord in any woman's heart. They need little care: a bit of water, some bird-food and such tiny luxuries as will make life more pleasant for them. And in return they bring their owners the gift of song from morning till dusk.

With the Christmas season coming on apace, it is well to keep this suggestion in mind. The novelty of the gift will surprise and please the receiver.

HOME HINTS

When paper hanging, use common starch instead of flour for the paste. It sticks better, is also more economical, and makes the job much cleaner.

Housewives who have no hot water supply should place the washing up bowl full of cold water on the kitchen range. It will be getting ready for use.

Each night take volets from their vases and place them upside down in a pudding dish. Half fill the basin with water, so that the flower heads are well covered, while the stalks are left exposed to the air. In the morning gently shake the water from the petals and rearrange in vases.

Linseed oil is excellent for removing rust from the range.

A novel way to scent the hair is to sew a small cachet bag inside the hat.

A wet chamois, wrung dry, will remove all lint from the upholstered furniture.

Mahogany woodwork can be washed with cold tea, or with a weak mixture of vinegar and water.

Silk and woollens can be ironed safely on the right side if they are covered with a slightly dampened cheesecloth.

Keep a small bottle of ammonia on the desk. A dip of the pen in the ammonia will make it as clean as new.

SAYS HIS IS SADDEST JOB

NEW YORW—Louis Oppie believes he has the saddest job in the nation's largest city.

He advanced his claim to the title at a gloomy brick building surrounded by a high iron fence at 29th Street and First avenue.

Oppie is custodian of the place. Officially it is known as the city morgue; but to him it is "tragedy terrace".

Across the street, tenement children play, unmindful of the morgue, and the life of the city whirls by.

To Oppie's care are entrusted Manhattan's unidentified dead: Suicides, derelicts and failures tossed aside by the city's rush.

The bodies are photographed, wrapped in sheets, tagged and listed in the book of unidentified dead. Then they are taken to the basement and placed in long cases.

Here are men and women who met death suddenly and alone. Some are from other cities; they dropped out of sight without causing a ripple on New York's surface.

Relatives back home wait and wonder why they do not write.

Oppie sees relatives enter the morgue, and sit on a long bench waiting their turn. He leads their grim search through the corridors.

He commutes from Jamaica to what he calls "his port of missing men."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON X — December 8
NEHEMIAH REBUILDING THE WALL OF JERUSALEM
Nehemiah 4:6-9, 15-21.

GOLDEN TEXT — The people had a mind to work. — Nehemiah 4:6.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

TIME. — All the events recorded in the first seven chapters of the book of Nehemiah took place within a period of one year, 445-444 B.C.

PLACE. — Susa, the ancient capitay of Persia, the winter residence of Artaxerxes, about eightly miles east of the Tigris River; and the city of Jerusalem.

"So we built the wall." This phrase can almost be called a piece of quiet humor. Nothing could stop these people. God was there. The king's decree was in their midst, "And all the wall was joined together unto half the height thereof: for the people had a mind to work.

"But it came to pass that, when Sanballat, and Tobiah, and the Arabians, and the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites, heard that the repairing of the walls of Jerusalem went forward, and that the breaches began to be stopped, then they were very wroth." In most editions of the Hebrew Bible, this is the first verse of the fourth chapter. Here we have a complete list of the foes of Jerusalem. Here we find the anger of these opponents reaching its highest pitch.

"And they conspired all of them together to come and fight against Jerusalem, and to cause confusion therein." The sudden arrival of hostile forces outside Jerusalem did certainly cause confusion.

"But we made our prayer unto our God." Note here the plural pronouns. Hitherto there had been a melancholy solitariness about the earnest devotion of Nehemiah. The success of his misson began to show itself when the citizens began to participate in the same spirit of devotion. "And set a watch against them day and night, because of them." Certainly prayer did not make these people carelss. Men who first speak to God and manifest dependence upon him are generally found to be those who make the wisest use of every available and honorable source for bringing about those things concerning which God has revealed his will.

"And it came to pass, when our enemies heard that it was known unto us, and God had brought their counsel to nought, that we returned all of us to the wall, every one unto his work." God has brought the counsel of the enemy to nought through the precautionary measures now taken by Nehemiah, and the enemy apparently abandoned their intention of making immediate attack.

"And it came to pass from that time forth, that half of my servants wrought in the work, and half of them held the spears, the shields, and the bows, and the coats of mail; and the rulers were behind all the house of Judah." We should gather from this verse that only in the case of Nehemiah's personal attendants was there still an insistence upon arms being carried while the work of building went on.

"Laded themselves; every one with one of his hands wrought in the work, and with the other held his weapon. And the builders, every one has his sword girded by his side, and so builded. And he that sounded the trumpet was by me." Nehemiah had kept oversight of the entire undertaking.

"And I said unto the nobles, and to the rulers and to the rest of the people, The work is great and large, and we are separated upon the wall, one far from another." "In what place soever ye hear the sound of the trumpet, resort ye thither unto us; our God will fight for us." "So we wrought in the work: and half of them held the spears from the rising of the morning till the stars appeared." Even though Nehemiah had made elaborate plans for the defence of the city while its walls were being built, nevertheless, he had confidence that his God would fight for his people. (See also Ex. 15:3-6; 14:14; Deut. 1:30; 3:22; 20:4; 28:7).

Your Daughter's Height

To tell how tall small daughter is likely to grow, take her height at the age of seven.

If she is tall, then she is likely to be tall at 16, when her growth is about complete. If medium at seven, she may always be so. If short then you need not expect a tall daughter.

The seven-year height is not infallible, but it is better for predicting than her height at the age of 11, Dr. Edwin B. Wilson, of the Harvard School of Public Health told the National Academy of Sciences.

That is the way girls grow, according to a study of 275, whose heights were measured each year from the ages of seven to 16.

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

One of the most important by-products on a farm is stable manure. The application of manure returns to the soil a large proportion of the plant food removed by crops, particularly nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. Since more than one-half of the nitrogen and at least three-fourths of the potash of manure is contained in the liquid portion the importance of saving the urine of stock is evident. The employment of sufficient litter to absorb all the liquid, tight floors and gutters, an impervious bottom to the storage area, and, in districts of high rainfall, protecting the manure heap with some sort of cover, are means by which excessive leaching and loss may be prevented.

Meal Mixtures for Pigs for Winter

For pigs newly weaned and up to four months of age the following meal mixture is recommended: middlings, 3 parts; oats, two parts; shots, 1 part; bran, ½ part. Three pounds of skim milk or buttermilk per pound of meal mixture should be fed at this stage.

The following meal mixture is recommended when the pigs are between four and five months old; Shorts, 2 parts; oats 2 parts; barley, 1½ parts; bran, ½ part. With one pound of this mixture feed two pounds of skim-milk or buttermilk.

From the time the pigs are five months old and weigh about 150 pounds, up to market weight, they may be fed the following finishing ration; Shorts, 1 part; oats, 2 parts; barley 2 parts. With one pound of this mixture, feed one and one-half pounds of skim-milk or buttermilk.

There is an abundance of hay, straw and other fodder in most areas of Canada this year due to a very favorable production season. The supply of market hay is so great generally that shipments are few at the present time, there being lots of local supply to meet the needs for the time being of even the larger cities and towns, which ordinarily are supplied in part with market hay from distant points. Only a small export demand is expected as large hay and other fodder crops are reported in the United States and Great Britain. Nevertheless export shipments to the United States from border localities should benefit after January 1, 1936, from the reduction in the American import tariff recently announced. The new import duty into the United States will be $3.00 per ton as against $5.00, an advantage of $2.00 per ton.

Farm Horse in Winter

he winter feeding of the farm horse requires somewhat more thought than when he is engaged in heavy work at other times of the year. The horse in his attitude to man differs from all other classes of stock, in that he produces energy and not food. This fact alone explains to a large degree the greater prevalence of disease with horses than with other animals. The proper realization of the relation of feeding to work done, the avoiding of overfeeding and watering, or making sudden radical changes and regularity in working and feeding generally in working and feeding generally will go far towards the prevention of common ailments in the working horse, caused in many cases by failure to observe the essential points every horseman ought to know. For the horse which is not working during the winter, or for horses which merely require what may be termed a maintenance ration, it is recommended that for every hundred lbs. of the horse's weight one pound of mixed hay, one pound of clean oat straw and one pound of turnips be fed.

Ottawa Fair Results

The Special Ottawa Winter Fair trophy awarded in the Inter-County Live Stock Judging Competition was this year captured by a team from Peterborough County, the team members being Chas. Whittington and Stewart Whittington, of Peterborough, and Clare Leahy, Lakeview, coached by Agricultural Representative A. D. Runions. A total score of 2,693 points out of a possible score of 3,000 was made by the winning team, with the Grenville trio, coached by A. M. Barr, placing second with a score of 2,548 points. The reemaining teams ranking in the order named—Lanark, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Renfrew, Leeds, Northumberland, Carleton, Hastings, Frontenac, Dundas, Pontiac, Que.

In the Inter-County Seed Judging and Weed Seed Identification Competition, Renfrew County won the top award for the third time in succession at this show the members of the winning team being Hartwell Dunlop, Cobden; Kenneth Richards, Renfrew, and Eldon Smith, Cobden. Coach, F. Q. Dench, Renfrew. Lanark County (W. A. Davidson, coach) placed second, and Leeds, Peterborough and Prince Edward, third, fourth and fifth in the order named.

Poultry for Market

To a great extent the ultimate success of the poultry enterprise will depend greatly on the manner in which the products are marketed. The discriminating customer will be attracted by the well-fattened and well-dressed chicken and fowl, and will pay a premium in price for appearance as well as quality.

A success in fattening and marketing will depend to a great extent on the operator's knowledge and ability to prepare his product in the most economical and attractive fom. Special feeding for from ten days to three weeks will greatly improve the quality and pay for the extra feed and labor involved.

Only birds with strong constitutions can stand heavy feeding with limited exercise. Birds that lack vigor seldom make profitable gains in the fattening pens.

A serviceable crate, six feet long by twenty-four inches wide, and eighteen inches high, may be made from slats nailed one inch apart, with a galvanized pan beneath the slatted floor for the droopings. Partitions two feet apart will provide compartmentss two feet square, and will accommodate four or five birds according to size.

To ensure freedom from lice, dust the birds with flour of sulphur and create a good appetite by starving for the first twenty-four hours. On the second day give only slight feed and gradually increase the amount until the third day; from then until finished give the birds all they will eat twice daily at regular intervals, about twelve hours apart. Mix to a batter, thot will pour slowly from a pail, tkim-milk or butter-milk with two parts of cornmeal and one part of finely ground oats; or equal parts of barley meal and boiled mashed potatoes may be substituted for the corn meal. Feed in troughs suspended in front of the crate. A good finish should be obtained in ten to twenty-one days. Feed enough to thoroughly satisfy at each meal, but leave nothing over in the troughs to stall the birds. Starve for at least twenty-four hours before killing. Bleed by "sticking" in the roof of the mouth, and dry pluck. Grade to uniform size and quality and pack in neat boxes.

HENRY: "Angus, do you ever think of the time we started this dairy business?"

ANGUS: "You bet I do, Henry. It all started with me driving that milk route at $20 a month and board. I worked early and hard for what I got, but the turn came when the boss was willing to sell out. The Bank of Montreal knew I was thrifty from the way my savings account had grown steadily. They helped a lot by lending me some money—on good security, of course; it gave me a good start. I still worked mighty hard, but the profits made me forget I was so tired. We have a nice balance at the Bank now."

HENRY: "Yes, and you took me in as a partner and gradually we worked up to a fine herd of our own and later a modern dairy outfit. And don't forget what our wives and children did, Angus."

ANGUS: "No, indeed! Even the girls joined calf clubs and borrowed money from the Bank to buy the first fine stock. They did their bit in building up our present prize-winning herd."

Not only are the largest dairy concerns in Canada customers of the Bank of Montreal, but hundreds of independent dairy farmers as well. Large and small, they keep their business deposits and savings at the Bank and borrow at times for seasonal requirements. Many of them call on the Bank for other services, such as credit information, market conditions. Many of them have their bonds and other valuable papers with the Bank for safekeeping.

CANADA, THE EMPIRE

THE WORLD AT LARGE

CANADA

FIGURING IT IN DOLLARS

Traffic accidents cost Toronto $8,500,000 in the year 1934. It does not mean that such a vast amount of money was paid out in cash, but there were 70 deaths and 3,129 injuries. Traffic experts and insurance men have their own way of computing such matters and their estimate is that a death means an economic loss of $1,000 and an injury is reckoned at $2,500. We presume that the $10,000 figure for a death would include the loss of the individual's earning power. That would be a family loss. — Peterboro Examiner.

OUR WHEAT ABROAD

There are two things Canada requires to do to promote wheat sales abroad: First, to familiarize the people with the quality of bread made largely from Canadian flour, and secondly, to remove mental prejudices based on the repeated assertions that Canada has been endeavoring to gouge the consumer. These are important tasks. What the grain trade can do in these directions should be done, and the Government should support their efforts to the limit. — Winnipeg Tribune.

A BLIND BRIDGE PLAYER

Captain Gerald Lowry, a blinded veteran of the World War, recently was one of the champion pair at the British Bridge League Congress at Harrogate. His partner was a woman. Not only did they win but they were always the first pair to finish their hands.

Blindness has its compensations. Nature to some extent redresses the balance by developing other faculties. Captain Lowry is a remarkable example of overcoming the handicap and lives a more active and normal life than most people. He has developed his memory to such an extent that when a friend whispers the designations of his cards to him he remembers them throughout the game and where he has arranged them. When he has to play dummy, the cards named to him and he remembers them, too. The rest is easy. During the Harrogate tournament he played 32 calls and never forgot a card.

Captain Lowry before the war was an ardent golfer and amateur boxer. hit it too, and he never misses. He tees his own ball and drives by instinct. His caddie tell him where his ball lies and where he should hit it to, and re never misses. He also learned osteopathy and has built up one of the most lucrative practices in London. — The St. Thomas Times-Journal.

BY NO MEANS ALONE

Apparently it is not only Canadian and United States railways which require assistance just now, for the British government has agreed to guarantee principal and interest of a £30,000,000 loan with which the railways of that country will carry out a variety of large-scale improvements and purchase new equipment. Canada's railways are by no means alone in experiencing difficultes in regard to profitable operation. — Brockville Recorder and Times.

A GOOD TEAM

Mr. Perry J. Griffen, for some years a member of The Star's advertising staff, and more recently the business manager of the Edmonton Journal, has been made general manager of the Peterborough Examiner which has recently been acquired by Messrs. Harry Muir and Rupert Davies. With Mr. Griffen as general manager and Mr. A. R. Kennedy of the Stratford Beacon-Herald as editor, the Examiner will be capably administered. Already its editoral page has put on a more effective typographical garment, and other improvements may be looked for under the new management. — Toronto Star.

WHY THEY STARTED

The familiar metal grilles and bars so common in most banks originated back in the gay nineties, according to an article appearing in the journal of the Canadan Bankers' Association. And therein lies a story. It seems that it was Christmas eve, and that even in those days clerks had to work overtime. A thief managed to get inside the premises and hurled a brick at the glass partition behind whch were stacked bags of sovereign. Showing what would normally have been very good judgment he scooped up the largest bag and made his getaway in one of London's "pea-soupers."

Unfortunately for the enterprising young man one of the clerks had appropriated that particular bag with which to carry home his Christmas dinner. It was one instance where the thief literally obtained the goose but lost the golden egg.

However, the incident impressed officials of the bank with the need for more adequate protection. Result — cages and bars — Brockville Recorder.

BIRTH OF THE MOVIES

In Paris the other day was observed with appropriate ceremonies the 40th anniversary of the first motion pictures made in Europe. Louis Lumiere made them, with his brother August, since deceased, and Louis for the anniversary celebration ran off these ancient films. They showed the arrival of a train at a French railroad station,, two men in a rowboat and a comedy on the exploits of a gardener with a water hose. Each film was about three feet in length. They were made in 1894, but they were not shown until March 22, 1895, when they astounded an audience of French scientists gathered in the basement of a Paris hotel.

But the Lumieres, it appears, were second to Thomas A. Edison. Edison, according to the Encyclopaedia, Britannica, began his experiments as early as 1887, and on October 6, 1889, demonstrated his kinetoscope in his laboratory at Orange, New Jersey. He obtained a United States patent ian '91, but it was not until April 14, 1894, that his machine had its first pubic showing — at 1155 Broadway, New York. That was 11 months before the Paris showing.

Thus 40 years or so encompass the history of the moving film. For a long time after 1894 it was considered little more than a toy, a device suited to the amusement of children. Few then realized its tremendous potentialities or foresaw its development. — Ottawa Journal.

STINGLESS BEES

Bee-keeping would perhaps be more popular in this country if it was not for the danger of being stung by these busy insects. It may be of interest to those who are afraid of these stingers, and who would like to gather their own honey, to know that a breed of stingless bees has been discovered in South Africa, and that the Zoological Society of England has arranged to have a stock of them shipped for experimental purposes.

These Manpasi bees, however, are only about the size of a large house fly, and it remains to be seen whether they can live in other than their native climate and produce sufficient honey to make it worth while keeping them. In Africa the children seek out the Manpasi nests and gather the honey, for which there is a ready sale.

What we need in this country, however, is not so much a stingless bee as a stingless mosquito. The bee only uses its sting in self-defence, whereas the mosquito "bites" one without the least provocation. —Stratford Beacon-Herald.

THE EMPIRE

MARCHING FORWARD

Britain still marches forward. Savings per head of the population in England and Wales have gone up from £3 7s 11d in 1934 to £3 15s 7d in 1935. Retail sales have increased by 8 per cent since 1934 and by 12 per cent since 1933. And look at the 40,000 drop in unemployment announced by Mr. Chamberlain. We are reaping the reward of the confidence that four years of stable government have created. — London Sunday Express.

BRITISH WHEAT

Home-wheat prices are influenced more by competitive imports from the Continent of Europe than by imports from Canada, Argentine, or Australia, because this European wheat is more strictly comparable in quality. The fact that France's crop this season is put at 18 per cent less than last year's reduces the possible competition that home wheat has to face. This scheme in aid of home-grown wheat, as we pointed out recently, is the most popular among farmers of all the plans so far tried to relieve the economic troubles of British agriculture. On paper the scheme looked so complicated that many M.P.'s confessed that they could not understand its intricacies, and not a few believed that it would prove unworkable. Far from these fears being realised, the wheat quota is the simplest of all devices in its actual operation. — Glasgow Herald.

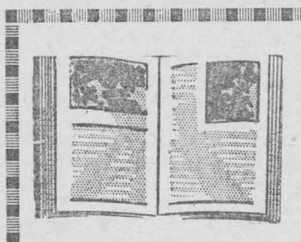

AUSTRALIAN - N. Z. TRADE

The citizens of the Dominion are anxious that every facilty for mutual trade between Australia and New Zealand should be established. The experience of the past, however, has been most discouraging. Mr. Coates and Mr. Masters were in Australia at the ned of last year on a commercial mission, and numbers of opportunities have been made for Australian Ministers to discuss trade questons on the spot. Yet the major questions remain unsolved. New Zealand last season strictly regulated the import of oranges from South Australia the only source of supply in the Commonwealth because that State is free from Mediterranean fly, and consumers had to pay excessive prices. As to the embargo placed by the Commonwealth on New Zealand potatoes, the best that can at present be hoped is that prohibition may be replaced by equative regulation. The situation is a small-scale exemplification of the narrow economic natfonalism that is obstructing trade throughout the world. — Auckland News.

The Book Shelf

BY MAIR M. MORGAN

The season of "reading" is with us. Cold winds, flurries of snow drive us indoors where a comfortable armchair beckons. Now is the time to catch up on your reading. And what an array of good books. Look over the following list — either for yourself—or as a present this Christmas:

GILBERT and SULLIVAN by Hesketh Pearson (Musson's, Toronto). At one time or another we all have attended our first Gilbert and Sullivan opera and enjoyed ourselves immensely. It is only seemly that this famous partnership should be presented in such a way that we meet Gilbert and Sullivan as human beings so that we find an explanation of their famous partnership and their equally famous quarrel, in their strangely dissimilar natures. There are many amusing anecdotes throughout the book and it is with regret that one finishes this recounter of two truly extraordinary characters.

THE ASIATICS by Frederic Prokosch (Musson's, Toronto) is a travel novel everyone will want to read who enjoys a tale well-told in exquisite prose. Here we meet Antoine Samazeuith, a tall powerful fellow, handsome, strong as an ox, free of all conscience, incapable of unhappiness, born lucky.

Zara, a Turkish girl, travelling toward an unknown destination. Uncouth, yet possessing great affectionate eyes and hair that shone like water under moonlight.

Ahmed, an ingratiating young Persian, who longed for the West, but was incurably under the spell of his Eastern shiftiness.

Ursule, lovely but disquieting, faithful in her fashion, but capable of surprising gestures and emotions.

All these and many more are woven into an amazing tale, which so engrosses the reader that it is difficult to arrive back in everyday surrounding, when the book is finished.

MR. FINCHLEY'S HOLIDAY by Victor Canning (Musson's) is another delightful, bizarre adventure from this author's pen. Those who have read "Polycarp's Progress" will need no introduction to this author's characters. For those who have not enjoyed the amazing antics of Mr. Canning's heroes, they should not miss a moment, but hop out, grab a copy and accompany Edgar Finchley, eminently respectable, on his supposedly convential three-week holiday at the seashore.

ARE THE LAKE LEVELS RISING?

(From the Owen Sound Sun-Times)

October report of the Hydrographic Service shows that the water levels of the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes, while lower than in September of this year, are from 2 to 5½ inches higher than in October, 1934. The comparative levels, month by month, for this year, have been higher than last, and a slight average increase over 1933 was reported last year. Are the lakes coming back?

This variation in lake levels is something no one, so far as we know, has tried to explain, but there seems to be a fairly even rise and fall over periods of about ten years. Over the last 15 years, however, there has been a steady fall.

The reason for this last is not hard to find, when we consider that there has been a constant campaign of channel-deepening. Dredging has been done and canals enlarged, with the natural result that more water has been brought from the head of the lakes, and as Lake Superior — the only one, by the way, to show no material drop since 1860, when the first records were made—is virtually dammed by the Sault rapids, more water has been going into the sea than came into the rivers and lakes.

The falling levels are easy to explain — deeper channels, the Chicago drainage scheme, deforestation; but the rising levels are a different matter, for they do not seem to depend on rain or snowfall, but go on as we said, in cycles.

If the levels are really on the upgrade it will be good news for shipping, as an inch of depth makes a difference of thousands of dollars in cargo capacity. Good news too, for lakeside summer resorts, some of which have almost been put out of business by recession of the water. All interested will be hoping the periodic rise is under way.

1935 WHEAT CROP DOWN

Bureau Now Places It At 2,000,000 Bushels Under 1934. — 273,971,000 Total.

OTTAWA—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates Canada's 1935 wheat crop at 273,971,000 bushels, about 2,000,000 bushels less than that of 1934.

Second Estimate

The crop report containing the second estimate of the wheat yield brought production down from a September 11 estimate of 290,541,000 bushels to place it slightly below the 1934 yield while estimate yields of most other cereal crops were higher than those of last year.

The report said the 1935 season was similar to that of 1934 in that threshing returns did not fully substantiate first estimates of grain production.

Oats at 416,369,000 were almost 33,000,000 bushels less than in the September 11 estimate but still well above 1934 production of 321,120,000 bushels.

Estimates of other cereal crops in bushels with 1934 figures in brackets: Barley 87,512,000 (63,742,000); rye 10,610,000 (5,423,000); peas 1,581,000 (1,588,000); beans 1,117,000 (813,600); buckwheat 7,972,000 (8,635,000); mixed grains 39,567,000 (37,926,000); flaxseed 1,433,000 (910,400); corn for husking 7,765,000 (6,798,000).

Yields Per Acre

Average yield per acre in bushels with the averages for 1934 in brackets: Wheat 11.4 (11.5); oats 29.5 (23.4); barley 22.5 (17.6); rye 13.8 (7.4); peas 16.9 (16.7); beans 17.3 (14.3); buckwheat 21.0 (21.2); mixed grains 34.3 (32.7); flaxseed 6.7 (4.0); corn for husking 46.3 (42.2).

The report said reduction in this year's estimates was caused mainly by frost damage in Saskatchewan and Alberta. The bureau was forced to reduce the barley estimate by 7,000,000 bushels while flaxseed and rye also came down as threshing returns failed to support previous computations. The fall wheat crop of Ontario is estimated at 12,601,000 bushels compared with the earlier figure of 13,267,000.

Prairie Provinces

"For the three Prairie Provinces, the second estimate of the yields of the five principal grain crops in bushels follow with the 1934 figures in brackets: Wheat, 256,000,000 (263,800,000); oats, 263,947,000 (172,040,000); barley, 66,115,000 (44,742,000); rye, 9,347,000 (4,381,000); flaxseed, 1,330,000 (827,000).

"By provinces the yoelds are as follows: Manitoba, wheat, 18,800,000 (37,100,000); oats, 32,937,000 (26,752,000; barley, 23,533,000 (17,298,000); rye, 1,885,000 (1,134,000); flaxseed, 157,000 (180,000). Saskatchewan, wheat, 132,000,000 (114,200,000); oats, 136,399,000 (64,288,000); rye, 5,218,000 (1,320,000); flaxseed, 1,055,000 (542,000). Alberta, wheat, 105,200,000 (112,500,000); oats, 94,611,000 (81,000,000); barley, 18,860,000 (15,041,000); rye, 2,244,000 (1,927,000); flaxseed, 118,000 (105,000).

Frost is Blamed

"The second estimate of 1935 wheat production in the Prairie Provinces is 16,000,000 bushels below the first estimate of 272,000,000 bushels made on September 11. Most of the reduction is due to frost damage in northern districts of Alberta and Saskatchewan that was not apparent two months ago."

The report said movement of the 1935 crop to market was considerably later than last year but about the first week in September marketings increased perceptibly and by the ninth week of the crop year, starting on August 1, the cumulative total exceeded that of 1934. The cumulative total was still greater than that of 1934 at November 1. At that time total deliveries and platform loadings were 146,899,210 bushels compared with $14,427,423 in the corresponding period last year.

How To Spend $5,000

To the Editor of The Globe: Re M. I. Williams's letter, "What to do With $5,000?"

1. I would take $4,500 of it and take out a Government annuity. Why? Help my Government; therefore help the people.

2. Take some of it to help some one less fortunate, and see that some families in our neighborhood got a good square meal for New Year's. Why New Year's? Because at Christmas they generally get a lot, and on New Year's Day, starting off another year, very little. Give them a good start for 1936.

3. Pay some of my obligations and score out some of the indebtedness owing me from those who cannot pay at present, or send a receipted bill for Christmas.

I think when one is favored with a gift of this kind it behooves one to remember the Creator by remembering those who are needy, especially the children and the elder folk.

Hands are Most Important Asset

Can Express Any Emotion or Instinct, Declares Constance Collier

Hands are more important to the actress than perhaps anything else she has to depict emotions with. So believes Constance Collier, famous English stage star, who makes her American talking picture debut shortly. "Watch your hands—study what you can do with them," is her principal advice to younger players essaying screen fame.

"Eyes may mirror the soul," she says, "and are very important, especially in pictures, but with the hands one can express any emotion and any instinct. For instance, to depict fear, nothing can be so expressive as one's hands, properly used. There is a psychological reason. In the presence of sudden terror, the first instinct of a human being is to protect one's face. Hence the hands involuntarily travel upward.

"This does not mean the use of any conventional gestures, which of course should be avoided. The idea is simply to let one's hands do what one's subconscious thoughts direct. Instinct is one of the most valuable assets to actor or actress, yet many try to avoid using it."

Molly-Coddling May Down The Children

Dr. Emanuel Miller, eminent psychologist, said in a recent lecture: "There is a very large percentage of parents today who never gain the confidence of their children.

"Children can be doomed to failure by parents mollycoddling, and others may suffer from nervousness for the rest of their lives as a result of too strict parents.

A few of the symptoms of nervousness which should be looked out for in the young child was explained by Dr. Miller. There was the case of the excessively boisterous child who needs careful study.

"As a rule this kind of child is suffering from a feeling of anxiety and fear," he sad. "The restless child is another type which should not be overlooked.

THE FUTURE

Worry not about the possible troubles of the future; for if they come, you are but anticiptating and adding to their weight; and if they do not come, your worry is useless; and in either case it is weak and in vain and a distrust of God's providence.—Tryon Edwards.

Her Head Felt Like A Ton Weight

Put Right by Daily Dose of Kruschen

After suffering with severe headaches for nearly twenty years, it must have seemed like heaven to this woman when she was free of them, as a result of taking Kruschen Salts. Here is the letter describing her earlier sufferings:—

"I have had headaches for years. When I was 11 years of age I had them so badly that my mother had to take me away from school. They never got much better, ad I am now 30 years of age. Seeing Kruschen Salts advertised so much, I thought I would try them. That was two months ago, since then I have felt a new person. In the mornings when I get up, my head does not seem to be a ton weight, like it did before taking Kruschen Salts. I think Kruschen is wonderful." — (Mrs.) E. D.

Headaches can nearly always be traced to a disordered stomach, and to the unsuspected retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them forming again—and you'll never have to worry any more. And that is just how Kruschen Salts bring swift and lasting relief from headaches.

Australia Census Lists 6,724,305

CANBERRA, Australia, — Official figures show that on June 3 of this year Australia's population was 6,724,305. Males predominated, numbering 3,409,336, compared with 3,314,969 females.

The gain in population for the year was 47,908, or 1,350 more than the gain in the previous year. A fall of [illegible] in the natural increase was more than balanced by an improvement of 1,598 in the migration figures.

The natural increase during the first six months of 1935 was 25,451, compared with 24,939 in the corresponding period of the previous year. This, in the opinion of the Commonwealth statistician, is indicative of at least a temporary slackening of the fall of the natural increase rate.

Clay and Salt For Gravel Roads

Department of Highways Experimenting on Schomberg-Alliston Road.

A mixture of clay and common salt is being used in the new formula with whirh Ontario's Department of Highways is experimenting for the surfacing of gravel roads, it has been learned.

Successful salt highway construction has been reported from New York, Michigan, Vermont, Maryland and other parts of the United States, where it is claimed that the salted roadways provide a hard, non-skid dustless surface at a much lower cost than asphalt or concrete.

The new surfacing is being tested on a few miles of the Schomberg-Allandale Road, while in northern Ontario it is also being used to see how it will stand the severe winter is the north. Salt or calcium chloride is used in proper proportion to the amount of clay and gravel to keep the surface moist, and this damp clay maintains a uniformly hard surface. It is suggested that these salt roads may eliminate the deep holes and ruts which develop in gravel roads.

Salt is used rather than calcium chloride because of the difference in cost.

NO EXPORT

Canada As League Member Prohibits Export of Arms To Italy

To what does Canada commit herself when, as a good member of the League of Nations, she accepts the decision of its Assembly to prohibit the export of armaments to Italy?

A proclamation in an extra of the Canada Gazette furnishes the answer to this question, enumerating as it does the various articles which it is now illegal to export, re-export or transport to Italy or any Italian possession:

Category I—

1. Rifles and carbines and their barrels.
2. Machine guns, automatic rifles and machine pistols of all calibres and their barrels.
3. Guns, howitzers and mortars of all calibres, their mountings, barrels and recoil mechanisms.
4. Ammunition for the arms enuuerated under 1 and 2 above, filled and unfilled projectiles for the arms enumerated under 3 above, and prepared propellant charges for these arms.
5. Grenades, bombs, torpedoes and mines, filled or unfilled and apparatus for their use or discharge.
6. Tanks, armoured vehicles and armoured trains.

Armour of all kinds.

Category II—

1. Vessels of war of all kinds including aircraft carriers and submaries.

Category III—

1. Aircraft, assembled or dismantled, both heavier and lighter than air, and their propellers or air screws, fulselages, aerial gun mounts and frames, hulls, tail units and undercarriage units.
2. Aircraft engines.

Category IV—

1. Revolvers and automatic pistols of a weight in excess of 1 pound 6 ounces (630 grammes) and ammunition therefor.

Category V—

1. Flame throwers and all other projectors used for chemical or incendiary warfare.
2. Mustard gas, lewiste, ethyldichlorasine, Methyldichlorasine, and all other products destined for chemical or incendiary warfare.
3. Powder for war purposes and explosives.

Expect during the period of war, Canada, essentially a peaceful and peace-loving country, has not devoted herself very intensively to the manufacture of armaments. Their production from year to year in Canadian factories does not reach a very great volume. It thus involves no remarkable sacrifice on her part to subscribe to the ruling of the League of Nations in regard to the export of arms and munitions which have been listed. But she, of course, will suffer to a considerable extent from loss of her export market in other commodities which are associated with peace rather than war.—Brockville Recorder & Times.

BRUNO-MASKWA GOLD MINES LIMITED

has every indication of a

HIGHLY PROFITABLE GOLD MINE!

The company controls two groups in Eastern Manitoba, one lying southeast of Gunnar Gold (now erecting a 150-ton mill) and the Maskwa group due south of the Rice Lake gold camp. At the present time, substantial crews are actively developing both groups. At Bruno, commercial and frequently high grade values over considerable widths and lengths have been discovered. No. 1 vein has been opened up over 300 feet; two additional veins, from 2 to 6 feet wide, have been opened up for several hundred feet.

At Maskwa, a shaft has been sunk on the vein to a depth of 125 feet. Ore on the dump, extracted from open cuts, averaged $40 to $50 in gold, with additional silver values. E. M. Dowman, Mining Engineer, states: "This is one of the few properties I have seen that would pay to run with a small mill." Present financing is for mill erection and further underground development.

This stock offers enhancement both market-wise and mine wise.

Chicken thieves have been very active during the past few weeks in the Prescott and Kemptville districts, and provincial police are aiding county constables in an effort to "clean up" the person or persons engaged in the thieving. In discussing the practice, Magistrate McCormick intimated that any persons convicted before him on such a charge would be dealt with to the full extent of the law, as chicken stealing is a most despicable practice that must be stopped.

Hilliard Levere, Edwardsburg, and William Lewis, Matilda township, arrested by Constable McLeod, of Prescott, the former charged with breaking and entering the factory of Fred Marshall at Matilda, and stealing four cheese, and the latter for having stolen goods in his possession, appeared before Magistrate Wright in court at Brockville yesterday. Levery pleaded guilty, and was remanded until Friday, Dec. 13 for sentence. Lewis pleaded not guilty, and his case will be heard at Morrisburg on Friday of next week.

Telegrams carrying the protest of the Woodstock Ministerial Association against the execution there this month of Mrs. Elizabeth Tilford have gone forward to Prime Minister W.L. Mackenzie King and Hon. E.C. Lapointe, minister of justice. The telegrams urge commutation of sentence on grounds that "we, as a ministerial association, are opposed to capital punishment," and "in view of the knowledge that has come to several members of our association we are convinced that Mrs. Tilford has shown herself for a period of years to be of unsound mind."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, Charles Graham Reid, who was called away Dec. 8, 1932.

We had a treasure once
He was our joy and pride
We loved him, ah, perhaps too well
For soon he slept and died.
All is dark within our dwelling
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.
