WHAT ARE INSULATED CONCRETE FORMS? (ICFs)

Insulated concrete is a type of construction that uses rigid polystyrene forms to hold reinforced concrete. Forms are assembled then the concrete is poured into them. Unlike traditional concrete walls the forms are not removed and are part of the strength and insulating of the walls.

NUDURA has designed a unique, patented T Form Unit that is now being introduced. These molded, polystyrene forms take all the labor out of creating a T-Wall connection at the same price per square foot as the Standard Form units. The forms are designed in two different configurations to allow stability and will be available in all five standard NUDURA core thicknesses. The new T Form Unit is now available through Innovative Building Products.

NUDURA is the new-generation Integrated Building Technology that is vastly superior to conventional framing methods. Building technology has seen rapid advances in recent times, with builders and developers looking for newer, more efficient ways to build structures that are stronger, more comfortable and energy-efficient, while allowing for flexibility of design and lower future maintenance costs. With NUDURA, you can save time and money and get a stronger, more comfortable and more energy-efficient building.
