Our Column

Only two weeks till Christmas, Oh joy.

Are you doing your shopping early, and are you doing it at home.

If you have Christmas visitors tell the Press and we will tell your friends.

Now that the coal bill and taxes are paid how much can you spare Ma and the children for Christmas presents.

Don't give too much thought to your New Year resolutions, for you won't give too much thought about breaking them.

It is said that the road to Ottawa for this month will be paved with broken resolutions.

Don't place your order for 1927 calendars before seeing what you can do in that line at the Press Office.

If you don't tell your wife what you intend giving her for Christmas she won't change your mind about it.

A little chap the other day defined a friend as "a feiler who knows all about you and likes you just the same."

How about statements and bill heads, letter paper and envelopes. The Press is prepared to give you good service.

As the Christmas season apqroaches we often wonder if doctors practice what they preach. We know how they practice after the Christmas season.

There is no doubting the effectiveness of the small advt. column in the Winchester Press. Every week we have evidence of how it pays to advertise.

Christmas Day will be a public holiday for the Post Office staff as well as the rest of us. Mail your Christmas gifts early if you desire them to reach your friends.

Merchants have gone to the unusual trouble in decorating their stores for this Christmas season, and very attractive they are too. It is nice when everyone enters into the Christmas spirit.

The Perth Courier tells of a chicken in that town, on being opened, was said to have swallowed a postcard with an advertisement "How to make easy money" and a page advertisement from Eatons Catalogue. That chicken must have been a goose.

A few weeks ago we had some evidence that a municipal election was approaching, but since the frost and snow came everything in that line has settled down again. Many municipal aspirants is a sign of a healthy civic spirit and a progressive municipality. Its a bad sign to settle down to the hum-drum of life.

The value of the published reports of municipal council proceedings is very often overlooked. Not so in the State of Michigan, where a new law requires every village council to publish all proceedings of the council in the nearest newspaper, within ten days after the meeting. The newspapers have to be paid for this service.

The town of Forest has citizens who have real concern for the health, safety and pleasure of the children of the place. The heirs of a recently deceased citizen, says the Free Press of that town, have offered a gift of $2,000 to the corporation for the purchase of a play ground for the children, provided the Council will agree to provide a by-law for the maintenance of the play-ground.

Never in all history did men have so much to live for as they have now, never did they have so much to live in, never did they have so much to live with and yet, never did they seem to have so little to live by. We live in a world to-day where the very air is quivering with human speech, where the skies are actually vibrating with music and song, where every thought we think "goes shivering to the stars." Literally and actually the time has come when "deep calleth unto deep" and when "day unto day uttereth speech and night unto night showeth knowledge."

Take a Look

A subscriber came to the Press Office this week, and said, "I happen to notice that my label says my subscription is due, and has been due for some time, and I want to pay up." Of course we thanked him. But there are so many who apparently do not "happen to notice." Suppose you take a look at the label on your paper just now.

The Newspaper Business

Although it has a list of some twenty thousand ubscribers, the running expenses of publishing the Farmers Sun for the past year was $5000 more than the revenue. This gives one some idea of the cost of publishing a newspaper: and how carefully it has to be financed. No wonder so many weekly newspapers have gone out of business during the past year.

Our Gift Scarfs Beckon Busy Buyers—most attractive lot we have ever shown, Crepe and the new Silk weaved— and so reasonably priced, $1.25 to $3.95.

D. C. Bush, Morrisburg.

Sentence Sermons

The more we have:

Of real culture the less we hold our fellows in contempt.

Of real religion the less liable we are to quarrel about it.

Of real patriotism the more we hold law, all law in high respect.

Of real education the better we know what we don't know.

Of real wealth the less emphasis we place on money.

Of real courtesy the less we are bothered with rules of etiquette.

Of real argument the less need we have for bluffing.

While motoring to Kemptville a few nights ago with her husband, Mrs. Walter Cousins was stricken by paralysis. She was at once taken to Dr. Beamish's residence, where she remained until it was thought she had sufficiently recovered to be removed to her home. At one time her recovery was not expected.

The beautiful farm home of Mr. and Mrs. James Eckford, river front east, Iroquois, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, Nov. 18th, when their only daughter, Mabel Edna, became the bride of Franklin A. Shaver. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. R. Johnston, of Spencerville, a former pastor of the brides family.

Mr. Wm. Webb, Williamsburg, in renewing his subscription to the Press last week, said that his two sons, living one at Cleveland, and one at New Orleans, often refer to the cheer the Winchester Press bring them in their far away homes, and how it always comes to them as a welcome letter. If you have an absent one, why not bring happiness to them by sending them the Press for a year.

After a brief illness. Mrs. Thomas McLaughlin passed away a couple of weeks ago at her home, Dundela, the age of seventy-two years. The deceased was Isabel McIntosh, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles McIntosh. In 1880 she was married to Thomas McLaughlin and since then, she has resided at her late home. The late Mrs McLaughlin was honored and respected by a wide circle of friends.

Canston of the Hamilton Presbytery, and a meeting of the Brockville Presbytery will be held in Prescott next week to deal with the call. Rev. P. A. MacLeod, who has assumed a charge in the Presbytery of Glengarry. Mr. Cranston is a brother of Mrs. (Rev.) R. J. M. Glassford of Renfrew, formerly of Winchester.

One of the prettiest weddings of the fall season and one of outstanding interest took place on Saturday evening, Nov. 28, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Mundle, West Street, Prescott, when their daughter Elizabeth Luella was united in marriage to Mr. Arza Clair Casselman M. P. elect of Prescott, son of Mr. M. J. Casselman, of Morrisburg, Rev. Thomas Scott, pastor of the United Church officiating.

Morehead of Dixons, was quietly solemnized at the Lutheran Parsonage, Williamsburg, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 2nd, 1925. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Theo Iseler, and the bride was attended by the Misses Belle Fetterly and Iva Whitteker, while the groom was attended by Messrs Walter Whitteker and Clifford Casselman.

Mrs. Alfred Clement, an aged and loving mother, respected by all who knew her in this country, where she was born and lived all her life, passed to her eternal reward, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 2, after having been confined to her room for about two years. The late Mrs. Clement, who was possessed of a particularly bright and cheerful disposition, had many friends who will hear, with much regret, of her demise. Previous to her marriage, she resided in the Township of Winchester, near Chesterville, where she was born in the year 1842 Immediately after her marriage in 1865, she moved to Morrisburg with her husband, who predeccased her in September 1892. She is survived by two sons and one daughter, namely, Alfred at home, Thomas of Washington, and Nellie at home.—Morrisburg Leader.

Should Let Customers Know

Unless in case of accident there should be no shutting off of the electric power without letting customers know in some way. The power was shut off last Saturday most of the day, and many who depended on their electric stoves to do their Saturday baking, etc, were put to no little inconvenience. The same thing happened the following Monday. Now this is not fair to those who pay for the power and who largely depend on it. If it is impossible to notify users by phone that the power will be shut off between certain hours on certain days, it is not impossible to give them a signal warning the night before. But most of the local users of electric power have phones, and it should not be too much trouble for those in charge to give warning when the power is to be shut off.

LOCAL AND GENERAL JOTTINGS

Clothes Line Thieves

It would appear that there are a few sneak thieves even in Winchester. One night last week, one of them took all the towels, pillow slips and other articles from the clothes line at the residence of Mr. Frank Parker, Main Street, and a lady on Piety Hill had a blanket taken from a line that was stretched on her verandah. This is really the meaniest kind of thievery but in time the culprit will be caught and then a good term in the Government boarding house.

Minister's Son Killed

A despatch from Montreal announces the accidental shooting with a rifle in the hands of a boy of 13, of Francis, aged 12, son of Rev. C. P. and Mrs. England, pastor of the Baptist Church, at Sutton, Que. Rev. Mr. England was pastor of the Winchester Baptist Church a few years ago but only for a short time, and the little boy will be remembered by many. The accident occurred last Saturday and the boy died a few hours after the shooting.

Radio Caught Thieves

Three young men were last week sentenced to serve six months each in jail for stealing a chevrolet auto at Prescott. The owner, Mr. Brownell, got a message to the C. N. R. O Radio Station at Ottawa, which was broadcasted about nine o'clock. A garage man at Cornwall who was listening in, heard the description of the car and within an hour the car was bought to his garage. The police were notified and the men arrested, with the above result.

A Just Judge

Judge Kline, Bruce County, quashed the sentence of a local police magistrate against a Paisley hotel keeper to pay a fine of $500 and spend three months in jail. The evidence on which he was convicted was the finding of a bottle half-filled with liquor on his premises. The Judge accepted the evidence of the man's wife who stated that the bottle had been left in the shed by a traveller and that she had hid it in the wood box intending to use the liquor in her mince meat and Christmas cake. The case goes to show how sometimes a man may be convicted on wrong evidence.

The place and the time for a real bargain in a Northway Coat or a Billie Burke Dress.

D. C. Bush, Morrisburg.

Paying Your Debt

One of the sad facts in life is that we are seldom able to pay our debts to the people we owe. Often when we are fitted to help those who have aided us, they have passed beyond the need. Many a rich man feels his wealth almost a mockery because he cannot use it to make life beautiful for the father and mother who sacrifice so much to give him a start.

These debts can be paid, however, to the world in general. The kindness which warmed your heart, encouraged you, can be given to the first discouraged soul you meet. The confidence of the friend who taught you to believe in yourself is something you can pass on to some girl or boy who is discouraged.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union met at the home of Mrs. A. Sweet, Dec. 2 with a fairly good attendance.

The treasurer reported having paid fifty dollars to the Public Library.

There were a committee appointed to look after placing Literature on the Library Table. A letter read from the Provincial Treasure on the Budget Fund brought about a lengthy discussion how we might raise our allotment of one dollar per member.

Miss Fisher told the offer the Witness was making for new subscribers of sending one dollar to the Witness and the other dollar commission may be retained provided money is used for some worthy purpose, which must be named both to new subscriber and to them for publication. This was adopted and the members to co-operate with Miss Fisher in securing new subscribers. There was also a motion (carried) that chain teas be given after the New Year to raise money for the Budget.

Funeral services were held at the residence, 369 Ominica St., West, on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, being conducted by Rev. C.E. Bland and Rev. E.J. Chegwin. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and only daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) F. Martin, of Moose Jaw, also one sister residing in Ottawa. Interment was made in Moose Jaw cemetery. The sympathy of Winchester friends is extended to the bereaved ones.

Successful Bazaar

The Annual Bazaar and tea conducted by the Ladies Aid of St. Pauls Presbyterian Church, Winchester, in the Sunday School rooms of the church on Saturday. December, 5th was a splendid success.

The booths were handsomely decorated and a fine display of home baking, home made candy ladies work, etc was artistically arranged and appealed so strongly to the large number of visitors that by six o'clock practically everything was disposed of.

A tasty supper was served and notwithstanding the downpour of rain during the evening a large number of people were present.

The total net proceeds of the afternoon and evening was 405.30.

The bazaar was graced by the presence of Mrs. (Rev) Glassford who came over from Renfrew to extend greetings and good wishes from Mr Glassford and herself to the Ladies' Aid and the congregation of St. Pauls Church.

During the evening the ladies were honoured by a call from Rev. Mr. Fraser, of Westport, Ontario, who occupied the pulpit on the Sunday following. Mr. Fraser is a man of dignified and pleasing appearance and member and was given a hearty reception.

The Presbyterian congregation are to be congratulated on having a ladies' organizrtion possessing marked enterprise and business ability as evidenced by the success of their undertakings.

Please Don't

A group of rough young fellows were standing on a corner, joking loudly and with rough talk, and neither changing the character of the language nor lowering their voices for passing pedestrians. One young man, as rough as any of them, and quite the equal of the worst in profanity, was in the midst of a sentence, every second word of which seemed an oath, when a woman making her way across the street, hurrying to escape the passing traffic, gained the corner, and landed almost in the midst of the group. She stood for a moment, horrified and bewildered, face to face with the young man.

"Oh please don't!" was all she said to him, but she looked him for a moment squarely in the face. It was not a wholly bad face. It turned crimson under her look, and the sentence stopped unfinished.

She was gone in a moment. A brief silence fell on the crowd, followed by a laugh at the expense of the young man whom she had addressed. But he did not join in the laugh, and after a time withdrew, manifestly uncomfortably because of the incident.

It was not long before he swore again, but when he did it the memory of that mild rebuke, "Please don't!" also came to his mind, He seemed to hear it every time he spoke coarsely or profanely. Before he would have admitted it he was making an effort to purify his speech, and when his companions noticed it and rallied him on "turning parson" he began to avoid them and to seek better society.

But in due time his old companions themselves began to respect the change which they saw in him, and to notice that he was doing better in every way. He found steady employment and became more careful in his dress. The change in him was too genuine to be sneered at, and those who in the beginning had laughed began to envy and admire him, and to seek his friendship anew.

So it came about that one young man's life was permanently changed, and others were indirectly uplifted, merely because of a gentle and timely rebuke.

The Flute Player

By Christopher G. Hazard

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

OF ALL the Christmas gifts of past years but one remained. It seemed surrounded by a charm that was all its own and that was as unaffected by the atmosphere of the bare and dingy room as a light in a dark place. The old schoolmaster took it up, looked lovingly upon it and replaced it upon the shelf. Then, advancing to the window, he looked out upon the lighted star in the church steeple that was proclaiming Christ's birthday and listened to the shouts of the merrymakers in the streets as they rose upon the snowy wind.

The old man's mind was busy with happier days. In the picture gallery of his memory visions of home cheer and gladness were upon the walls. Faces looked out from their frames with old glances of love, and figures passed before him full of the beauty of young life. Again he was in the midst of joyous and successful activities, companioned and enthusiastic. Then, as memory's mirage faded away and left but two receding images before him, he looked once more upon one who had gone to some unknown land, the son who had so mysteriously disappeared from the home fellowship and ken, and he saw again the form of her who had set out for the land that is beyond the stars, but not before she had placed in his hand the precious vase with the pictured flute player upon its side.

At the time he had not fully noted the significance of the happy urchin in the red robe as he held his flute to his lips. Pleasures and pursuits pressed upon him and left the musician unnoticed through the days and nights. But the boy had never ceased his playing, and now with some remembered melody, then with some new adventure in the world of harmony, he seemed to be waiting for the recognition and appreciation that he knew would come. A steadfast and inveterate optimist, he played on; to weariness and loneliness he played a hopeful song; forbidding dejection and despair, he became a prophet of better days to come. In solitude and uselessness he was as an only but changeless friend. To him the old man turned as to an oracle. Poverty had taken one after the other of his possessions, but had never been able to separate him from this merry genius, this incorrigibly persistent promiser.

If the prelude does not get discouraged fortune is likely to admire it and introduce the performance, and this turned out to be the reward of the industrious hope of the flute player. He did not hear the step upon the stair or the knock upon the door, and he did not see the amazement with which the schoolmaster listened to the tale of his lost son, as he embraced him and tried to realize that he had indeed come back and brought good fortune with him, but even more merrily and madly he played in the dance with which these two were to go down the future.

Habits are strange things. One can get so far into a habit of gladness as to be unable to get out of it. A face can get so used to smiling as to have no night there. A boy can become so committed to fluting as to be unable to stop. It was so with the flute player: to this day he plays and does nothing else. He sits upon another and a better shelf, but not idly. He is among happy people, but busy sending joy out into all the neighborhood. He has played the old schoolmaster young again and fixed his thought upon a life that never grows old.

Indeed, the flute player has even encouraged the schoolmaster to begin teaching again. The scholars are his grandchildren. They are not having a hard time, for they sing on their way to lessons. They are not unhappy scholars, for one of them threw a kiss to the last Christmas moon. Last summer another of them became a poetess and composed the following appreciation of nature:

A Star is shining fair;
Its gentle beams awaken
The young men sleeping there.

Again in songs of angels
The birth of Christ is told;
The young men go to greet Him
With richer gifts than gold.

The flute player is setting this to music. This scholar has already learned to write. She has proved that by producing an invitation to one of the school sessions in this form:

Dear Aunt Fanny:
Please come Friday, if you can; and if you can't come, don't come.

She is not a flatterer, however, when she said one day, "Grandpa, you don't look a bit over twenty."

The Minister and the "Vamp"

By Mary Graham Bonner

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

NOW the minister was young and enthusiastic and eager. He loved his work, he loved the parish. He loved the people. They were a bit too talkative at times. They did enjoy telling him just how he should preach and act and think and do. But it was all so well meaning that it failed to annoy him. Sometimes when he might have been annoyed he became amused instead. It was so much the better way.

The minister was extremely attractive. Every woman in the parish knew that. Every man admired the minister, too. His was a most engaging personality.

But things became a trifle awkward when it appeared as though the minister could not talk to any one of the opposite sex for more than ten minutes without arousing observations.

And how weary he did get of being told he mustn't take the last piece of cake in a dish. It was so tiresome a bit of so-called witticism.

He realized that it might be difficult for a minister to be permitted to choose a wife for himself. He somehow had a new admiration for ministers who appeared to have done their own matrimonial choosing.

He feared that one might even take almost anyone to dodge the constant comments and chatter on matrimony which an unmarried man seemed to encounter.

And then the minister fell in love! Oh, madly and rapturously in love. And with a girl from out-of-town whom people said was not the type for a minister's wife, at all, at all. And the minister had said he hadn't looked for a type, he had picked out the one he had cared for.

He even heard people whispering the word "vamp." "A vamp who had ensnared him," someone said. He inquired the various definitions of the word "vamp." He almost failed to be amused; he became so angry. And this was the joyous Christmas season when love and good will should have been in the hearts of his people!

A man told him a "vamp" was a dangerous delight.

A woman told him a "vamp" was a woman without principle.

A young boy told him a "vamp" was a misunderstood, innocent lady with sense enough to appreciate that "men" of seventeen were not children.

An oculist told him that a "vamp" was an adept at the possible uses of the eye muscles.

An old man said a "vamp" was a dear little girl.

And a mother told him a "vamp" was a dangerous creature from whom every mother should keep a son as from a deadly poison.

A young girl told him she envied a "vamp" and wished she could be called one.

And a father told him that a "vamp" was one from whom it is best to keep away the son, but whose society it was all right for an older man to enjoy.

He sought the dictionary's version and found "Vamp" described as dealing with such things as feet, short hose, parts of boots and shoes, music, and various other things.

They were making the Christmas decorations for the church when the minister came into the chapel and told them all of his engagement.

"The wedding is to be on Christmas eve," he said.

Everyone stopped winding ground pine and looked amazed. They muttered congratulations, and then the future wife appeared and worked with them.

And then they all began to feel better. For while they had been gossiping and quarreling pettily as they had worked, the future wife of the minister brought with her the spirit of the Christmas season. Perhaps she wasn't a typical wife for a minister they concluded, but she was an ideal wife for a minister.

For she lived and breathed goodwill and cheer and her gaiety freshened the very atmosphere of the place and gave them new incentive.

The minister called her his "vamp!" His definition of one was:

"A Merry Christmas in real life!"

ABOUT SENATE REFORM

Although there is much written and said about Senate Reform in Canada, there appears no definite policy in view, except the one advanced by Hon. MacKenzie King, and that is, to convert prospective appointees to Liberal views, pledge them to carry them out, and then hope for the best. Of such a silly and futile policy no more need be said. To reform the senate there must first be the consent of the several provinces, and to secure this there should be a policy of representation by provinces. The Senate should be elected not appointed. Senators could be elect- at the same time member of the House of Commons are elected, and limiting the number to provincial population, the number of Senators could be reduced by one half, and the country suffer none from it. Such a policy could be worked out, and agreed to by the several provinces, if properly handled, for we believe there is a fairly general opinion that the present Canadian Senate is not only a partisan assembly but an almost useless one and not particularly ornamental either.

AN EDITOR'S LUCK

When the Orillia Packet came to our desk last Saturday morning and we opened to "The Page" our eye was arrested by an advertisement by the George's Drug. offering a guaranteed fountain pen for 69c accompanied by a copy of the advt. We thought it our only chan ce of ever owning a fountain pen and was about to clip out the notice and mail it when we discovered that the offer expired on Friday. Always something to take the joy out of life. Will the Packet Editor please tell this Drug Store man that his gift surprise was too limited in time.

THAT DETOUR NUISANCE

Contracts for road building next Spring and Summer will likely be awarded during the next few months. In every contract should be a clause compelling the contractor to make a reasonably good and safe detour when it is necessary to make one. Last season it is claimed that tourists from the United States to Canada spent a sum not less than forty million dollars, which is no doubt a reasonable estim ate. But visitors who spend that amount of money in Canada are deserving of consideration, to say nothing of the home claim. Anyway it is up to the Ontario Legislature to see that detours on roads in Ontario are safe detours.

THOSE DEFERRED ELECTIONS

The Brockville Recorder and Times says:—Color, by the way, is lent to the impression that an appeal to the people by him is not far distant by his declaration that none of the vacant seven seats in the Legislature are to be filled at by-elections until after the next session. The undesirability of winter elections is the reason advanced by the Premier for his decision, but those who are reputed to be "in the know" express the opinion that they will not be filled until the general election which will be held next spring. It is a bit hard upon the seven constituencies concerned to be unrepresented during the session which is in prospect at which important matters are expected to arise for disposal, and the Peterboro Examiner thinks that the Premier's decision to defer the by-elections will do much to strengthen the opinion now quite widely held that Canada has too many lawmakers and pays too much to maintain its governments. If seven ridings can manage without representation at Toronto during an important session and neither their interests nor those of the province suffer, there will be many people who will come to the conclusion that it might be possible materially to reduce the size of the Legislature without any impairment of its efficiency or any suffering to the ratepayers of the province.

Here and There

The sea fish catch on both coasts in Canada for the nine months ending September, 1925, was worth $19,997,076, as compared with $18,118,456 for the same of 1924, an increase of $1,883,620.

A gold medal has been awarded to the Canadian Pacific Railway for the Company's exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. On one side of the medal is a portrait of the Hon. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, while on the other is a scene on the exhibition grounds.

E. W. Beatty, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, stated recently that more liners of the "M" type would be built to replace older liners, such as the Marloch, Marburn and Montreal. The new ships will be similar in all respects to the S.S. Montclare and Montrose. The Marloch, Marburn and Montreal will be sold.

A fish caught in Shuswap Lake, British Columbia, after a forty-minute fight turned out to be a monster rainbow speckled trout, weighing 17¾ pounds, with a length of 36⅛ inches and a girth of 24¼ inches. It was mounted and exhibited in the windows of the Dominion Express Company, Montreal, before being shipped to the owner in England.

Live stock exchanges are to be formed in Montreal to prevent the sharp decrease in the number of cattle. In the period 1920-1924, there was a reduction of 331,000 head of cattle in the province of Quebec. Because of the low prices for live stock, the Quebec farmer has refused to face the long period of feeding and tending, and kills the calves.

A seven passenger twin-engine flying boat, which it is said will revolutionize the aerial fire-fighting methods employed by the Government protective patrols, is being tested at the Dominion Government Airdrome at South Marsh, near Ottawa. If satisfactory it will be flown to Manitoba where it will take on fire preventive duties in one of the most important forest areas.

The 1925 total of dividends paid and declared by gold and silver mining companies in Northern Ontario is $10,402,174, representing a gain of $2,013,131 over the dividend record of 1924 and constitutes the greatest record for Canadian precious metal mining industries. From 1904 to 1925, since silver was discovered in Cobalt in 1904 and gold found in Porcupine and Kirkland Lake in 1909 and 1910, records show total dividends of $150,774,199 from these fields. The aggregate profits are now averaging $1,000,000 a month.

Bettering the world record of 3,447,624 bushels of all grains marketed on C.P.R. western lines Thursday, November 19, A. Hatton, general superintendent transportation of the system, has reported that 3,559,000 bushels were marketed on Friday, November 20. From August 1 to November 20 inclusive, 143,078,445 bushels of all grains have been marketed at stations adjacent to Canadian Pacific Railway lines as compared to 109,651,136 bushels for the same period last year, an increase of about 35 per cent.

Sponsor of what is confidently expected to be the most brilliant winter season in Quebec, the Winter Sports Club has been launched under the patronage of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, Hon. N. Perodeau; Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Premier of Quebec; Mayor J. Samson of Quebec, and Mayor Demers of Levis. The major events of the season are the International College Ski competition on December 30; the International Snow Shoe Convention, February 6-7; and the Quebec Dog Derby, the date for which has not yet been fixed.

The Squirrels' Christmas

by Martha B. Thomas

© 1922, WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

"MY DEAR," said Mrs. Squirrel to her husband on Christmas morning," do you realize that we have absolutely nothing in the cupboard?"

Mr. Squirrel stroked his whiskers and gave a thoughtful flirt to his tail.

"You remember that yesterday morning we gave those shiftless Chatter-Reds the very last nut we had," went on Mrs. Squirrel, putting her paws in her apron pockets (a very bad sign, I assure you; it meant that something was going to be done, and done quickly).

Mr. Squirrel went on stroking his whiskers. This seemed the only reply he could muster. He knew the facts of the case as well as his wife. Hadn't he invited the Chatter-Reds in? Hadn't he felt sorry for them because they looked so cold and hungry? Didn't he know that all fall, when the nuts were thickest, the Chatter-Reds had frolicked instead of getting in their winter supply? Didn't he caution them a hundred times, and hadn't they been rather saucy about it? They had! and yet, the day before Christmas they looked so forlorn he couldn't bear it. How they had lived as long as they had was something he did not like to think about. So in they trooped, five of them! They said very little and their noses quivered expectantly. The youngest of them, Charlie Chatter-Red, began to whimper. They could not stop him. And at last he said it right out loud. He said, and the tears rolled down his little cheeks like marbles spilled out of a boy's pocket, "I'm so hungry! I haven't had a thing to eat for two days!" And then he buried his head in his mother's lap and howled. It was all very sad. Mr. Squirrel had a consultation with his wife. They went in a corner to talk it over. When you yourself have just one nut left the day before Christmas, it takes a long time to decide to give it away. And one of the reasons that they had just one nut left was the fact that for some weeks past they had been helping these same shiftless Chatter-Reds! But Mrs. Squirrel was kind in spite of her sharp tongue, and she said that she supposed it was their Christian duty to help out unto seventy times seven! So the last nut, a fine, fat one it was too, was brought forth. Mr. Chatter-Red almost bowed himself in two with gratitude and all the little Chatter-Reds danced about like Indians. They whirled up so much dust in Mrs. Squirrel's living room that every one began to sneeze. At last they went home. And Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel stood and looked at one another. But they said nothing at all.

And here it was Christmas and nothing in the cupboard!

"At least we can be thankful that we have no children," said Mr. Squirrel. "They won't have to go hungry on Christmas day."

Mrs. Squirrel had nothing but a snort in answer to this. Mr. Squirrel crossed the room and stood looking out of the window. The landscape was not very cheerful—gray sky, bare trees and a cold wind that made one shiver just to hear it. A Merry Christmas indeed!

"I'm So Hungry."

Mrs. Squirrel still had her paws in her apron pockets. She seemed to be thinking very hard. The harder she thought the more she cocked her head on one side. She actually seemed in danger of bending it so far it would break off. Then the idea came. Back snapped her head! Out came her hands from her apron pockets! Over to Mr. Squirrel she marched and nudged him with her elbow.

"My dear," she said, "I have thought of something!"

"What is it?" demanded Mr. Squirrel whirling about.

"Put on your best coat, polish up your shoes, take your silver-headed cane and we'll go for a walk on Christmas morning!"

"But Sabrina," (that was Mrs. Squirrel's name) he protested, "I really can't see what taking a walk has to do with getting anything to eat."

"You begin to get on your coat and shoes, and I'll tell you," answered Mrs. Squirrel.

She whisked about like a girl. You would not have believed she could be so spry. While she was tying her bonnet under her chin she told her plan to Mr. Squirrel.

'Sandy," (that was Mr. Squirrel's name) "the children living in the big house across the road always have a stocking full of good things on Christmas morning. I have seen them come out and scatter crumbs to the birds and tie bits of suet on the twigs of trees. Perhaps if we went walking by they would throw us some nuts. We don't care to beg, but it is only fair that they who have so much and are so kind-hearted should spare us a little on Christmas morning."

Mr. Squirrel thought this an excellent plan, and gave his shoes such an extra polishing that they nearly put his eyes out.

It all happened just as they had hoped. When they approached the big house across the road, there were the children outdoors scattering crumbs and grain. One boy was climbing a tree with a bit of suet tied to a string in his hand. There was a good deal of shouting and laughing going on, and to tell the truth the squirrels were a little timid. But when one is hungry, it does not pay to be afraid.

As soon as the children caught sight of them they shouted louder than ever.

"Oh, oh!" they cried, "see Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel! How nice they look! Let's give them some nuts!"

And if you will believe me, those generous boys and girls that lived in the house across the road poured out such bags of nuts and goodies that Busy the Rest of the Morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel were busy the rest of the morning taking them home. And they asked the Chatter-Reds to join them and fill up their larder, too!

So every one had a Merry Christmas and Mrs. Squirrel did not have to put both hands in her apron pockets for months and months!

Christmas Inconsistency

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

TWO men were finishing their Christmas shopping late one Christmas eve.

"Let's call a taxicab," said one. "We have so many bundles and it is starting to rain."

A little boy offered to get them one. He only had to go a few steps before he found one. And he held the door open wide for the two men as he had seen carriage starters and automobile starters do.

He had been looking for odd jobs that evening. His Christmas money was not very much, and he did want to get just a few Christmas presents to give away. He had already made some. If he could only get ten cents now he would have enough. That would buy his mother's present. He wanted to get her a pink carnation He had seen such beauties, and they were ten cents apiece.

One of the men paid no attention to him. The other fumbled at his pocket. "Here, don't be silly, you'll give the child bad ideas," said his friend. "He really didn't do anything. He will think he can beg for anything. That's a bad influence you're exerting," he muttered on, as the man who had fumbled at his pocket drew forth a shiny ten-cent piece and gave it to the boy, whose pale face and dark eyes lighted up in joy.

Later they stopped in at a restaurant to have something to eat. The man who had reproved the other for the ten-cent tip to the small boy handed the waiter a large tip in advance, which made the waiter fawning in his attentions.

"We'll get better service," he explained, "and then, too, it's Christmas time."

But the friend who had been reproved said: "You don't think you're exerting a bad influence by any chance, do you?"

And the boy bought the carnation and went home, successful and happy, but the waiter snubbed the next customer because he failed to get an exorbitant tip.

Raisin Nut Gems.

Two cupfuls flour, 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder, ¾ teaspoonful salt, 2 tablespoonfuls sugar, ½ cupful raisins, ¼ cupful walnut meats, 1 well-beaten egg, 2 tablespoonfuls melted butter or shortening.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Add raisins and nuts, cut in pieces. Add milk and beaten egg and mix well. Stir in butter. Pour into greased gem pans and bake in moderate oven 30 to 35 minutes. This makes about 12 gems.

Ambling Along With the Trail Riders

(1) Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance. (2) Lunch on the Wolverine Plateau. (3) One of the Guides. (4) On the Wolverine Plateau with Tumbling Glacier in the background. (5) Chief Louis Arbel with his Kootenay Indians.

The Official Ride of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, commenced this year on the morning of August 8th and ended at Wapta Camp on the night of the tenth. Over a hundred members participated. They rode across country between Marble Canyon, on the Banff-Windermere Highway, to the Bungalow Camp at Lake Wapta.

The Riders, among them a number of prominent society people, scientists and artists, all travelling on horse-back, blazed a new passage across the Wolverine Plateau. Six countries were represented: Canada, the United States, Australia, France, the West Indies and England. The artists, of whom there were six, made sketches of the virgin scenery along the route of the newly discovered trail.

Seven Indians were in the party, six being Kootenays under Chief Louis Arbel, while the seventh was Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance who gave a lecture on the Indian Races of Canada to the Canadian Club of Montreal during the winter, and is rapidly becoming famous as an authority upon Indian affairs.

The artists included Leonard Richmond, R.B.A., and A. L. Leighton of England; Carl Rungius, Belmore Browne and Richard M. Kimbel, of New York, and R. Palenske of Chicago. Paris was represented by the Duc de Nemours, who recently purchased a ranch near Calgary.

This was the second annual Ride and Pow-pow of the organization. On the morning of August the eighth, motor cars conveyed the Riders from Lake Louise and Banff to the point of departure on the Banff-Windermere Highway. There guides and horses were in readiness and the party immediately mounted and the Ride commenced. The trail led up Tumbling Creek, past Tumbling Glacier and on the Wolverine Plateau where lunch was 'served'. The ride then proceeded along the Plateau with the Wolverine Palisades, Mount Helmet and the Washmawapta Icefield and Waterfalls on the left, giving the riders a view of the Ten Peaks on the right.

That night camp was pitched on the Goodsir Plateau and before retiring the campers gathered around the fire for the usual sing-song, in the shadow of the cliff which rises sheer six thousand, five hundred feet above its valley.

On the second day the ride led down to Goodsir Creek and up McArthur Creek, past Lake McArthur. That night was spent on the shores of Lake O'Hara, the camp there being placed at the disposal of the Trail Riders by the Alpine Club of Canada. The day ended again with a sing-song.

On the third day, August 10th, the final ride was made from Lake O'Hara to Wapta Lake, where the expedition was concluded with a Pow-wow, sing-song and pale-face dance at Tipi Camp. It is expected that another ride of a similar nature will take place next year as the undertaking impressed those who took part as one of the most enjoyable outings they have experienced. Not only does the Ride provide an uncommonly pleasant holiday for sportsmen from Canada and the United States, but it also serves the excellent purpose of making the scenery and the fishing and hunting facilities of the Rockies known abroad.

The United Church

Last Sunday might be called Laymen's Day, although the pastor presided at both services.

Mr. W. J. Cass took the prayer at the morning service. Rev. J. A. Waddell in his opening remarks explained why the laymen were taking the day's services. It was because the Board deemed it best to have the claims of the Maintenance and Extension fund presented from a layman's view. Mr. Sweet told why this appeal is necessary speaking of the legal expenses incurred in the carrying out of Union, and extension of the missionary programme. Mr. H. B. Fetterly spoke of the task at home and abroad. He showed how great the need is among even the English speaking people in the West, also of the demand for workers among the foreigners coming to our Country. He spoke of the necessity of maintaining our Colleges and Deconess' Homes, as well as the Superanuation and Widow's and Orphan's Fund. Then he spoke of the extensive work in China, Korea, Formosa Japan, India and many other parts. Mr. N. W. Beach then told what our allotment is $3000, which includes $600 to the Connexional funds paid out of the Budget. This means that there needs to be an increase of at least 40% in our Missionary givings this year.

Mr. Eagleson in dealing with our moral obligations brought before us a picture of a decaying Church which he described as one that does not support missions. God's plan of making the gospel known to all is through us. We have blessings but with these we must assume responsilities. He urged all to give freely and willingly, even making sacrifices. He said it is not the amount we give that counts so much as the spirit in which we give it, and in this plain and practical way showed us, it is our privilege to help carry the gospel to the heathen. Mr. Geo. Earle, the Missionary Sec'y explained about the canvass and asked the men whom he had selected to go on with this work.

Two splendid addresses by young men were given in the evening. Mr. Wm. Agnew spoke on the relation of young people to missions. He said that young people do not realize the gigantic task before the Christian Church to-day to spread the Gospel, and also if the missionary worker knows that he has the young people at home behind him what an inspiration it must be. If the young people of to-day do not catch the spirit and enthusiasm of missions how is the work to be carried on in the future? He spoke of the Home Mission work in our land referring to the three young people of our town who had heard and responded to the call, viz. Mr. George Edwards, Miss Jessie Elliott and Mr. Earl Johnston. He then said that each of us have a chance at this time of year to do missionary work in our own community. Mr. Cecil Dukelow spoke on the relation of young people best help Christianity in our own community? Many of our duties lie at home and this is where the large majority of us are called to serve. We should realize the beauty of service and be united in spirit. He appealed to the young people to help the Church financially and by the way they responded by signing up on the subscription lists, his appeal was effective. Cecil quoted a great deal of poetry while Wm. carried us off in mind to these heathen countries, showing us their vast extent and population with so few missionary workers. The United Church has a reason to feel proud that there are young men who have caught the right vision and who are willing to use the ability God has given them in this way to help in the task that lies before the United Church.

The amount subscribed on Sunday was $1647.50 which was encouraging considering the weather. Canvassers are this week calling on all who were not present on Sunday and it is confidently expected that the objective will be reached.

An anthem was sung by the choir in the morning service in which Mrs. P. Duront took a leading solo part. Miss Jean Beach took the solo part in the anthem of the evening in which there were other admirable parts taken by two or three or more voices. Mr. Earl Walker, of Ottawa also favored us with a solo at the evening service.

Obituary

A very large funeral bore silent witness to the esteem and affection that the community had not only for the family but for the deceased.

Stricken about 5 weeks ago with paralysis Mr. Christie lingered on without seeming to realize any severe pain or suffering; rejoicing that this light affliction endured would but mean an increasing weight of glory.

His loved ones did all humanly possible to save him, but he passed away Thursday morning.

Coming to this community about 30 years ago William Christie by his kindly and sociable disposition quickly won his way into the affection and esteem of his fellows. Noting his good sense and kindly disposition honors were soon conferred upon him, he being elected to the Council and School Board, rendering good service for many years.

He was a devout member of the Inkerman United Church, being a Trustee for many years. His attendance and liberality will be missed by many, as he never failed to respond to any appeal for help or to do anything that he could for the welfare of the Church and his fellows.

The funeral Service was held in the United Church, Inkerman, on Saturday afternoon last, the church being filled with sorrowing relatives and friends.

The Minister, Rev. C. H. Brown was assisted in the service by the Rev. J. W. Clarke, of Hallville. The text James 4, 14, "What is your Life? was briefly expounded by the pastor and sympathy for the relatives together with sincere words of appreciation of the worth of the deceased were expressed.

The Interment was in the Knight's Cemetery, the casket being covered with beautiful floral tributes from relatives, friends and the school section in which he resided.

Born one mile west of Mountain Station, the eldest son of Duncan Christie and Eliza Pearse, Wm. Christie was in his 79th. year. He leaves to mourn his loss, his loving widow, three daughters, Mrs. T. S. Stewart and Mrs. John Cameron, Mountain, Mrs. Sidney Smith of Osgoode Station and two sons, Harry B. of Mountain, and Wm. D. of Bloomville, N. Y.

Relatives from a distance attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Christie and two daughters. Bloomville, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. John Christie, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Christie, Mr. Eldon Christie and Miss Annie Ryan, of Watertown, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barrigar, Mr. Ed. Suffel of Smith Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Christie and Mrs. Geo. and Miss Annie Walker, of Winchester.

The pall bearers were his three grandchildren, Messrs Wm. and Duncan Cameron and Harry Smith and his three nephews, Herbert and Willis VanAllen and Ivan Christie.

"Until the day break and the shadows flee away."

Does Education Pay

What a question!

Does it pay to prepare the ground before sowing the seed?

Does it pay to polish the precious stone before putting it on the market?

Does it pay to plane and sandpaper the board before putting it into the piece of furniture?

Does it pay to sharpen the tools before working with them?

Does it pay to know things rather than live in ignorance?

Does it pay to have a mind rather than be a mere animal, and be directed by those who have minds?

Does it pay to think, and if so, to think with a trained mind rather than with an untrained one?

Does it pay to be a leader rather than a follower?

Does it pay to make the most of the faculties God has endowed one with, or to let them lie dormant?

Does it pay to be one of the capable of the human race or to be one of the inferior?

Does it pay to prepare oneself to do large things or to remain satisfied to do small things and let others take the advanced positions?

Does it pay to get an education? Only the lazy and ignorant answer, No.

Pay? Surely it pays—manyfold. There can be no better investment nor one anywhere near as good.

Let no youth be deceived. Ask any of those who are educated. Ask the wise of any generation. Be sensible. Get the education while you have the chance. Prepare to live a happy and a prosperous life.

Winter Time is Carnival Time in Banff

Banff in winter time is fairyland. Shafts of the sun strike the white snow-covered mountains and valleys of the Canadian Rockies, changing them into a landscape of flashing irridescence. Colors — blue, red, green and purple — dance over the scene, as gaily costumed devotees of the snow shoe, the skate and the sleigh move in the pastel of the great outdoors.

Fancy skaters swing gracefully into intricate figures on the rinks. Ski jumpers thrill the spectators with their marvellous leaps through the air from the ski jump on the top of a nearby mountain. Ski-jorers dash down the Bow River behind fleet mountain ponies. Blanket-coated snow-shoe trampers take the trail to the snowy woodlands. In the evening, the brilliant scene is softened by the silver gleam of the moon.

Winter time is carnival time in Banff. February 3rd to 17th has been set for the 1926 Winter Carnival, and Mrs. Basil Gardom has been chosen as the fair Queen. A splendid palace of glittering ice, sparkling with myriads of bright colored electric lights is being built for the chosen beauty. With true regal pomp and splendor she will be crowned and seated on her throne as the culminating triumph of the carnival.

Trains pull into the station at Banff. Passengers on their way west stop off to disport themselves in the snowy, gay little town. Passengers on their way east delay long enough to see the famous ski jumpers breaking world records. Passengers from both east and west with Banff as their objective, and snow shoes, skates and skis in their luggage, hurry to attend the festivities in honor of the carnival queen.

CREDIT is the basis of modern business. Credit it is that supplies funds or goods for immediate business needs, against a future promise to pay. Credit—confidence—faith—they are largely one.

Credit is an intangible enough thing, yet some firms value the credit they enjoy as being one of their best assets. In the vast credit structure, with its many negotiable instruments, this Bank fills an indispensable place. Cheques are sent everywhere for collection, foreign or domestic drafts are discounted or held for collection, loans are made and information upon the credit standing of buyers is secured. All the many financial transactions incident upon foreign trade are conducted. More than that, the Bank makes continual surveys of business conditions, markets, transportation facilities, production and consumption figures both at home and abroad, for the use of its customers.

The Bank of Nova Scotia has been serving Canadian industry for nearly 100 years. Its experience, records and resources, the assistance of 320 branches and sub-branches—supplemented by a courteous personnel—are all gladly placed at our customers commands.
