A Bright Young Life Passed Away.

Shocked beyond measure were the relatives, friends and community on Tuesday morning, Jan. 23rd, to hear of the death of Frank H. Johnston, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Johnston of Crysler. The deceased was a very bright young boy just budding into manhood, being in his 18th year. All that medical skill and loving friends could do proved of no avail to the terrible disease, pneumonia, and he passed peacefully away into the life beyond after an illness of 17 days. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his father and mother, five sisters and three brothers, besides a host of friends. The funeral took place at the family residence on Thurs lay morning, Jan. 25th, where the service was conducted by the Rector, Rev. Rollitt and Rev. C. R. Palmer of St. John's Church, Ottawa, who delivered a very impressive address, after which the remains were placed in the vault at Maple Ridge.

The pallbearers, whom he chose himself, were Roy Ouderkirk, Earl Ouderkirk, Stanley Miller, Roy Miller, Willie Burd, Cecil Boldick.

The golden gates were opened,
A gentle voice said "Come"
And with farewells unspoken,
He calmly entered home.

One of the things you may perhaps have been putting off for several "To-morrows" is that trial you were going to give the Condensery.

You know that your neighbor told you the Condensery pleased him, and you were going to give it a trial then. But somehow you didn't just then, you put it off till tomorrow.

Now is the time to start that trial. Make it a good trial too. Start it now and try it one solid year. We wager then you will try it again.

Pte. Moran Writes From Bramshott

The following letter was received from Pte. Garret Moran of the 154th Battalion to his niece Josie McMahon.

Bramshott, Camp,
Jan. 8th 1917.

Dear Niece.—

Just a few lines to let you know I am still in old England. The weather is just fine, nearly like summer. I spent Xmas in camp. We had a very good time and received lots of cake, tobacco and socks from different societies in Canada. I got about a dozen pairs of home made socks. I suppose it is pretty cold in Canada now. I like England fine. I see Fred Fox every day. He is well. I am still working in the stores but think I will go out and drill next week and get trained up for France soon. How are father and mother getting along? I hope they are well. I did not hear from Cleveland as yet. If you write to Mary tell her to write to me. Joe McMahon is well and fat as he can be. We sent another draft to the front Thursday, 143 in all. There is a fellow working in the office with me who used to make cheese in the Johnston factory. His name is Holeman and he knows all of you people back that way. Young Johnnie Allen was picked on to go in the last draft but they took him off again. He is doing fine over here. Well as news is kind of limited here, I will close hoping you are all well. If anything should happen you do not hear from me, my address will be Army P. O. London, Eng. Write soon. I remain as ever your loving uncle Garret Moran Army P. O. London, England, 633604 154th Battalion Highlanders C.E.F. Bramshott Camp.

Crysler vs. Cannamore.

Hockey was revived in this district on Tuesday night of last week, when the Crysler team played a game with the Cannamore Blue and Whites. Play was very exciting throughout the entire game and sometimes it appeared to be very rough but the heated ones were cooled off in a trip to the bench. A. B. Braithwaite and Howard Fetterly handled the game in fine style. Loughridge and Prestly starred for the Blues and Whites also Campbell, who played in the nets. Gordon Ouderkirk showed form but was held down by the locals. The game ended in favor of Cannamore, the score being 3 to 1.

The line-up was as follows:

A Western judge, the story goes, was lunching one day—It was a very hot day—when a politician paused before his table. "Judge," said he, "I see you're drinking coffee. That's a heating drink. In this weather you want to drink iced drinks. Did you ever try gin and ginger ale?"

"No," said the judge, smiling, "but I have tried several fellows who have."

How the Dundas County Schools Christmas Gift was Used.

128 Victoria St., London
Jan. 3rd, 1917.

Miss K. M. Shannette,
Secretary-Treasurer
Teachers' Red Cross Fund,
Chesterville, Ont.

Dear Madam,

I have received this morning from Colonel Noel Marshall of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Toronto, a draft for £546. 1. 3. to be expended by him in the terms of his telegram to me, for Christmas gifts for the soldiers in the trenches from the teachers and children of Dundas County Schools. We are delighted to have the opportunity of co-operating with the teachers and children of Dundas County, and we are sure that the men for whose benefit the money is to be spent will appreciate not only the gifts which are being sent, but the kindly thoughts for their welfare which prompted the collection of the necessary funds.

I think I cannot do better than send you a copy of a letter I have already written to Col. Noel Marshall on the subject, explaining how we have dealt with the matter. I wish we could have got out the goods for Christmas or for the New Year but in these times it is not possible to act as promptly as one would desire for many reasons. In the first place many of the factories are controlled by the Government, in the second place there is considerable shortage of labour, and further there are the difficulties of railway and steamship transportation to the front. However, I am sure you will understand we have done our best for you and I trust that what we have done will be appreciated.

Believe me,
Yours very truly
J. G. Colmer
Hon. Sec'y.

123 Victoria St. London,
Jan. 3, 1917.

Lt.-Col. Noel G. L. Marshall,
Chairman Ex. Com.
Can. Red Cross Society
77 King St. East Toronto.

Dear Colonel Noel Marshall—

I received in due course your telegrams of the 16th and 18th of December with regard to the $2600 which the teachers and children of Dundas County schools are forwarding for the Christmas Gifts of soldiers in the trenches.

I consulted General Carson on the subject who communicated with General Byng, and the suggestion was made that a portion of the money should be spent for candles for the use of men in the trenches and for Tommy Cookers, both of which articles are stated to be much appreciated. Owing to the pressure of things at Christmas and the New Year, it was impossible to get anything out in time for the festive season, but the matter has been having my special attention. The following articles will be forwarded to each infantry Battalion in the four Divisions—those being the Battalions of the Divisions which are in the trenches—within the next few days;—2 gross candles, 48 Tommy Cookers, 1 cwt. of currant cake and 3000 cigarettes in each case, telling them what is being done and asking them to arrange to have the things divided up among the men and to send a special acknowledgment that can be forwarded to the teachers and scholars of Dundas County Schools so that they may know that their generous efforts and thoughts have been appreciated.

I hope my action in the matter will be quite satisfactory to you, and to the kindly disposed teachers and school children of Dundas County. Believe me.

Yours sincerely,
J. G. Colmer.

Sapleigh—I like a girl who can take a joke.

Miss Keen—Then you stand a splendid chance of being accepted.

Counties Council Proceedings

The January session of the Counties' Council of the United Counti s of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry opened on Tuesday evening, Jan. 23rd in Cornwall. Every municipality was fully represented, with the exception of Chesterville Village, where Mr. Giles W. Bogart was elected Reeve in the regular course. Unfortunately for him, he failed by one day in resigning as a Trustee of the High School, and his opponent, Mr. Wesley Hamilton, threatened to take action unless he disclaimed the seat. This Mr. Bogart did, and a new election wss, therefore, necessary. Following is a list of the members:—

Stormont.

Cornwall Town—Geo. A. Stiles and Geo. Bergeron.

Cornwall Township—Nathan Copeland and Samuel Snetsinger.

Roxborough Township--D. D. McLeod and A. C. McKercher.

Finch Township—J. D. Rombough and A. W. McIntyre.

Osnabruck Township—David Dunbar and Adam A. Wereley.

Finch Village—D. A. McNaughton.

Dundas.

Williamsburg Township—John M. Casselman and Wm. T. McMartin.

Winchester Township— George Earl and Frank Fraser.

Mountain Township—Robt. Mulholland and Joseph S. Robinson.

Matilda Township—Eli Merkley and Thomas Johnston.

Morrisburg Village—J. H. Meikle.

Iroquois Village—G. H. Davy.

Winchester Village—W. J. Fisher.

Chesterville Village—

Glengarry.

Charlottenburg Township—Angus J. McLellan and John A. Parlinger.

Lancaster Township—James A. Sangster and R. A. McLeod.

Lochiel Township— Allan Campbell and Angus J. McMillan.

Kenyon Township—Jas. A. Macdonald and Wilfrid Kennedy.

Lancaster Village—R. T. Nicholson.

Alexandria Town--Alex. Cameron.

Maxville Village—A. H. Robertson.

The Clerk, Mr. Adrian I. Macdonell, stated that he had received certificates from the various Clerks confirming the election of the members. Some twenty-one of last year's Council had been returned, and he welcomed them back. He also welcomed the new members. The first step would be the election of a Warden to preside over the deliberations of Council.

Messrs. Davy and Meikle moved that the election be by open vote. Carried.

Reeve Stiles of Cornwall. then moved that Mr. Duncan A. McNaughton, Reeve of Finch Village, be Warden for 1917. Mr. Stiles, in a short address, spoke strongly to his motion, saying many nice things about Mr. McNaughton, characterizing him as one of the youngest members but one of the hardest workers.

Mr. D. D. McLeod, Reeve of Roxborough, seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously, and Mr. McNaughton was conducted to the chair amid the applause of his fellow-members.

The new Warden expressed his thanks for the honor. He felt that he would not be able to live up to all that his mover had said of him, but he would do his best. He and Mr. Stiles had been fellow-students at the Cornwall High School and it was a great gratification to him to be nominated by his old schoolmate. Mr. McNaughton said he would suggest that in selecting the standing committees for the year smaller committees be chosen, so that more than one might meet at a time. He asked the members to pay close attention to business and closed with a reference to the progress made along the line of good roads in this district.

Down to Business.

The first official act of the new Warden was to extend invitations to seats within the railing to Messrs. George E. Clark, James W. McLeod and W. G. Timmins, all ex-members and ex-Wardens of the Council. All accepted after expressing their thanks and congratulating Mr. McNaughton on his election. Mr. McLeod referred to the fact that the Warden was following in the footsteps of his father in remaining in municipal politics and predicted a successful year under his guiding hand.

The following correspondence was then read by the Clerk:—

The correspondence was referred to the various committees.

Mr. Sangster presented a petition from the Council of Lancaster Township, praying that the Township be detached from the Williamstown High School District. Five other petitions endorsing the above were also presented.

These were referred to the Education Committee.

The Warden invited Mr. Mark Hermiston, of Cornwall, and Dr. W. J. Gunn, of Lancaster, ex-members, to seats inside the railing, and both acknowledged the courtesy.

Notices were given by several members of their intention to introduce bylaws during the session.

On motion of Messrs. Merkley and Johnston the Reeves of the different municipalities were named a special committee to strike the standing committees for the year.

The Council adjourned for fifteen minutes to allow the committee to complete its work.

Your SPRING Suit

It's Time to Order It.

If you want your spring suit for Easter it is time to be thinking about it.

There are only eight or nine weeks before Easter and there will be many suits to be made before then, and it is always "first come : first served".

I have a beautiful range of spring suitings now in the store and while all are of the choicest quality, some little difference in the shade or pattern may catch your fancy, and if you come and pick yours out now of course you will be sure of it and we will have plenty of time to make it up.

The question of help this year is going to be the big problem, and the earlier you order your Spring Suit the less likely you will be disappointed in getting it.

And another thing—it wont cost a bit more to order it now than it will later on.

Hon. Martin Burrell's Appeal to The Farmer

For two years and a half, War, red and ruinous, has raged through the world, and still no decision has been reached. There is reason to hope that before 1917 closes the struggle for liberty will have been won, or greatly advanced. Amid the varying phases of this titanic conflict the fact stands out more clearly than ever that Agriculture is of supreme importance. Extraordinary measures are being taken by the allied countries to increase and encourage production. It is earnestly hoped that every farmer in Canada will strive to increase the food supply of the Empire. A still powerful and unscrupulous enemy openly avows its intention to try and sink all ships carrying supplies to England during the coming year. In the tremendous strain yet to come a vital factor will be an ample and unfailing flow of food to England and France. No matter what difficulties may face us the supreme duty of every man on the land is to use every thought and every energy in the direction of producing more, and still more.—From the Agricultural Gazette for January 1917.

A Chance to do Your Bit And See What War Means.

The 256th Railway Construction Battalion (Toronto Unit, with Lieut. Col. W. A. McConnell in comand) is recruiting throughout Ontario, and any man skilled or unskilled, who can do a day's work and pass the physical standard for recruits (which standard has been considerably lowered for the unit) will be accepted. The age limit for the unit is forty-eight years. Any man who cannot get a medical examination in his own locality, may proceed to the nearest recruiting Depot, and if he is not passed he will be allowed his railway fare, and pay for time lost, at the rate of $1.70 per day.

If he is passed as fit, his pay commences immediately, and recruits will be given sufficient time in which to attend to their personal affairs before reporting for mobilization. The Headquarters of the Unit is at 24 Front Street West, Toronto.

By joining this Unit you will help in a very important way to victory to our canse. It is upon such Battalions as the 256th that the men in the fighting trenches depend for their supplies, food and ammunition; and without which they are helpless in front of the enemy; and also are unable to send back promptly their wounded for medical attention unless backed up by Units like ours.

Following are the rates of pay and allowances in this Unit;—

The Pay & Allowance on enlistment amount to $1.10 per day—average per month...$33 00

Clothing, Rations and Quarters, estimated, per month..30 00

Separation Allowance if married, or only support of a household, per month..20 00

Total $83 00

If promoted to rank of Sergeant;—

Pay and Allowance' $1.50 per day, average per month..$45 00

Clothing, Rations and Quarters estimated, per month..30 00

Separation Allowance, if married, or only support of a household, per month..25 00

Total $100 00

The above amounts do not include the Allowances made from Patriotic Funds, which are granted in accordance with the requirements of individual cases, and which average on the basis of $12 for a family of wife and two children.

So. join now and help. The Battalion will go as a Unit. Bring your friends and relatives with you.

EMPEY'S SALE A SUCCESS

The big sale of Holsteins at the Empey Stock Farm last week attracted a very large crowd of people and among them buyers from many quarters, but as usual throughout Dundas county, the bulk of the buyers will be found within the radius reached by The Record's advertising, and we have been very highly complimented by Mr. Empey on the known results achieved by it. With the constantly increasing list of subscribes the service rendered by The Record is becoming more valuable each week and to get to the good buyers of this section it is recognized there is no other way to do so.

Nineteen Sixteen was the greatest productive year in the history of the Sun Life of Canada.

Every great record hung up in the past was swept away and buried by the avalanche of new business which poured in from all corners of the field.

During Ninteen-Sixteen total new business applied for amounted to $50,229,000. This in comparison with the total for 1915 (the company's previous best) shows an increase of Seven and one half Millions of dollars.

These are wonderful figures.

A Practical Decision

Of Two Evils Choose the Lesser

By ELEANOR MARSH

There are rare instances of girls marrying men charged with some contemptible crime, the evidence of the man's guilt being overwhelming and no explanation whatever being offered. Several such cases have come to light when it has been suspected that the accused was made a scapegoat to screen some royal personage. I have one such case in mind that occurred in England twenty years ago. A baronet played baccarat with the heir to the throne. The baronet was accused of cheating. No defense was offered. At the height of the excitement an American girl married the supposed scapegoat. No explanation has ever been made.

It would be hard to find a case of love sacrifice more pronounced, even if the bride is convinced of the innocence of the husband.

A case something like this happened in my professional life. I was sitting in my office one morning when I received a telephone call that a man who had been arrested and was being held at a police station desired to see me. I went to the station at once and found the prisoner in the garb of an ordained minister. The name entered by the police was Jimmy Whiffler, alias the Rev. Miles Staples, alias Slippery Jim. I learned from the police that he was a sneak thief and confidence man, his last role being that of a three card monte sharp traveling with a circus.

The police had been looking for him for some time, but he must have had a confederate to keep him posted as to their movements, for whenever they proceeded to take him he was not there. The night before I was called for they had received a telephone message that they would find Slippery Jim in canonicals at the Ackley hotel. They went there and learned from the clerk that a man in clerical dress had come to the house during the evening.

Piloted by the clerk, a sergeant and two men went to the reverend gentleman's room and knocked. When he opened the door and saw the police he assumed surprise, which was to have been expected. He was told to put on his clothes and when he took them up for the purpose feigned to be dazed, wondering how they got into his room and declaring that they were not his and asserting that he was Arthur Poindexter and had come to the city late the evening before to visit his fiancee, the daughter of one Hugh MacDonald, a merchant in high repute. His name was on the register as Arthur Poindexter.

Such is a synopsis of the matter from the time of his arrival at the hotel to the moment of my arrival at the police station. He was conducted to a private room, where I was left alone with him. I asked him why he had sent for me, and he told me that he had asked the sergeant for the name of a criminal lawyer and I had been recommended.

Notwithstanding the apparent complicated condition of the case it seemed to me to be very simple. All he had to do was to send for his fiancee or some member of his family for identification. I proposed this to him, but he did not seem to place the reliance on it that I did. He said that during the winter he had made a trip to Florida, where he had met the lady who had become his fiancee. He had not yet met a single member of her family. Indeed, he did not see how the young lady herself could vouch for him. She had accepted him after a couple of months' sojourn at the same winter resort, her acceptance, of course, being conditional upon his presenting satisfactory credentials and the approval of her parents.

This certainly put a more serious phase upon the matter. Whatever faith the girl might put in him, her family would likely take the ground that she had met a scamp, who had fortunately been exposed before any serious harm had been done. I changed my mind about notifying Miss MacDonald or any of her family until I had had time for consideration. Indeed, the prisoner seemed greatly distressed at the idea of her being informed of his plight until he was ready to prove that he was not the man he was accused of being.

The case was puzzling. He claimed to have gone to the hotel in an ordinary business suit. When he was awakened by the police there on the chair on which he had placed his clothes was a suit evidently worn by a clergyman. But the most damning proof against him was that in the rogues' gallery was a photograph of the Rev. Miles Staples, and if it was not a photograph of the prisoner it was certainly very like him. I asked him if he had a brother who had gone to the bad, and he replied that he had no brother whatever nor was any member of his father's family living.

It seemed to me that unless I could find the party who had telephoned the police of his presence at the Ackley House I would have a difficult job to prove he was what he claimed to be. I had no great confidence in the identification of his friends, for once throw a doubt on a person's identity and one may get evidence against him as well as for him. But the ultimate proving that he was Arthur Poindexter was not the fundamental point, for he might be Poindexter and all the rest of his aliases as well.

I suggested attending to the matter of bail at once, and, this having been disposed of, I took my client from the jail, he bought other clothes and we went to my office. What was of immediate concern to him was that he was expected by his fiancee, and his nonappearance would trouble her and count against him. Nevertheless we both agreed that we had better get together such evidence as would convince her—if it were possible to convince her—that her lover was what he pretended to be and his arrest was a mistake.

The only evidence I sought which my client did not furnish was at the hotel. I questioned the clerks there, but none of them had any special memory as to Mr. Poindexter's arrival, and it would not have counted for much if they had.

Having made this investigation I returned to my office, where I found my client, who presented his credentials, which were as follows: Arthur Poindexter was a gentleman of means, given to travel. He suggested my telephoning his bankers, which I did, and they vouched for him. I also telephoned several of his friends in his home city, whose stories all agreed. I became convinced that he was what he purported to be and that some trick had been played upon him, by whom or for what purpose I could only conjecture.

Having made up my mind to this, I proposed to him that I should call upon Miss MacDonald and explain the situation. I could plead her fiance's cause to better advantage under the circumstances than he could himself. He agreed with me, and I set forth on my quest.

I have pleaded many causes before a jury, but never one requiring such care as this. I was obliged to keep constantly in mind that, with the exception of a season at a winter resort, my client was a stranger to the lady. I proceeded with the utmost caution, stating the case from the reverse of which it has been stated here. I pictured her lover coming to town, buoyed with expectation of seeing her the day after his arrival; his being obliged to spend a night at a strange hotel; his going to bed and being awakened to find that a mistake had been made; his astonishment at seeing a clergyman's clothes where he had placed his own; his horror at being led away to a police station. Then I gave her the information I had elicited concerning her lover's identity and the excellent character that had been given him by his friends.

The young lady heard me through without a word, then astonished me by her marvelous penetration into the intricacies of the case.

"I would not think," she said, "of introducing to my family as my fiance a man under such a charge. Some one, for some unknown purpose, has turned him over to the police as a criminal. He suffers from a misfortune which is as much mine as his. You may prove that he is Arthur Poindexter, but I don't see how you can prove that Arthur Poindexter is not a confidence man. In other words, I see no hope for him. As to my action in the matter his misfortune only draws me closer to him. What do you propose?"

"What I propose is made much easier for me and for my client and for you by your remarkable appreciation for the conditions. Two courses are open to him: Either to stand trial, pleading not guilty, or to jump his bail, which would be a bagatelle for one of his means, and disappear."

"Which do you recommend?" she asked after some thought.

"The latter course."

She sat thinking. I arose from my seat, went to a window and stood looking out, giving her time to consider. Presently she said:

"Tell him, please, that if he decides to follow your advice I will marry him and go with him. But on no account will I inform my family of what I intend to do. It would only make trouble for all of us without changing my resolution."

I returned to my office, where I found Poindexter and reported with enthusiasm what I considered his fiancee's noble sacrifice. I was some time in convincing him that the best thing he could do for both parties was to accept it. A marriage was arranged for the next day at my office, and immediately after the ceremony the bridal couple went on board a steamer sailing that night for a foreign port.

In due time an article appeared in a newspaper stating that Arthur Digby, alias Jimmie Whiffles, alias the Rev. Miles Staples, sneak thief and confidence man, had jumped his bail, taking with him as his wife a young lady well known in the highest social circles.

Naturally the marriage made a great stir in the social world and, for that matter, among those who did not know the parties.

Two years later Mr. and Mrs. Poindexter returned to America vindicated. The real Jimmie Whiffles, Rev. Miles Staples, etc., was captured and made the following confession: One evening in the Ackley hotel he saw a man who resembled himself. Jimmie was in canonicals at the time, and after the man (Poindexter) had gone to bed he stole up to his room, unlocked the door with a pair of pliers, stole the inmate's clothes, went to a bathroom, took off his canonicals, put on the stolen suit and replaced the former in the sleeper's room without awakening him. Then Jimmie went to a telephone booth and notified the police where they would find their quarry.

Practically the young couple's decision was a wise one. Of two evils they chose the lesser.

WHY I should select a Mutual Policy!

FIRST -Because in a mutual company the assets are the sole property of the Policy-holders.

2—Because in a mutual company ALL of the profits go to the policy-holders.

3—Because in a mutual company the executive is directly responsible to the policy-holders: ALL the directors are policy-holders' directors.

4—Because mutual companies hold the record for stability.

5—Because mutual companies have all the "safety-first" features of stock companies with mutuality thrown in.

6—Because the largest American companies are already mutual or seriously considering mutualization, and already more than one-half of legal reserve insurance is mutual.

7—Because mutual companies are not built up in the interest of the FEW, but of the MANY.

Therefore I will take for mine

Watching By Machinery

It has been found possible to connect telephone transmitters with machinery so that the manager of a factory can know whether or not his workman are doing their full amount of work. He can tell by means of the vibrations whether the machines are working fast or slow. By turning a switch he can also tell whether the machines are running smoothly.

This transmitter will do away with overseers, for telephone apparatus is not human, and therefore tells no lies and shows no favouritism, but is just to all the workers.

If a workman at the lathe stops his machine to light a pipe the telephone transmitter will record the moment the machine stops, and the moment it recommences, and if another workman feels slack and operates his machine with a lazy hand, he can't deny the fact—should he be called to the manager's room—that he wasn't working at his usual rate.
