WOULD DONATE HISTORICAL RECORDS

Jane L. Croil, of 1374 Sherbrooke St. West, Montreal, writes to Reeve Flynn, to say that she has in her possession a steel engraving of King Edward VII as Prince of Wales, date 1860, and an address presented to him at that time by the inhabitants of the County of Dundas, which she would glady donate, to be placed in some suitable place in Dundas County, permanently.

Parties interested may communicate with the Reeve, or direct to the above address.

The following is a copy of the address which accompanies the steel engraving:

"To His Royal Highness, Albert Edward, Prince of Wales;

"May it please Your Royal Highness:

"We, the inhabitants of the County of Dundas, Canada West, approach Your Royal Highness with sentiments of profound respect. We beg leave to assure Your Royal Highness that it affords us unbounded satisfaction to avail ourselves of the gracious permission accorded to us, humbly to testify our devoted loyalty to the government of your august mother, our Queen, and to express to your Royal Highness, our admiration of the many virtues which, adorning her character, have shed a lustre on the British crown, and have distinguished our Queen as the most illustrious sovereign that ever graced the British Throne.

"Your royal ancestor, King George III, liberally rewarded those faithful soldiers who valiantly, fought for their king and country in the first American war, with grants of land in Canada. Amongst the first counties thus settled was Dundas in 1784, and we are proud to have the opportunity of declaring to your Royal Highness that devotion to their Queen and to British institutions, in undiminished intensity, still animates the hearts of the descendants of the U.E. Loyalists of Dundas.

"In the visit of Your Royal Highness to Canada at this time, we recognize an act of kindness and condescension on the part of our Sovereign, demanding our deepest gratitude. While we trust it may gratify your Royal Highness to witness the loyalty of your future subjects, and while your visit inspires these subjects with increased admiration and respect for their beloved Queen, we also pray that it may have the effect of permanently cementing the friendly relations now existing betwixt the citizens of our neighbouring republic, and the subjects of Her Majesty in every portion of her vast dominions.

"Signed in name, and on behalf of the inhabitants of the County of Dundas, Canada West, the 30th day of July, 1860.

ROBBERS "KIDNAP" SAFE

Prying open the front door of one of our leading Gents' Furnishings Stores, occupied by Mr. Walter Shannette, on Main Street, Morrisburg, early Sunday morning, robbers "kidnapped" the safe, containing about $55 in American bills, and got away with the ransom, without leaving any demand notes.

The robbery having been committed at an early hour, the police were able to get but very little information to assist them in capturing the officials, and as yet have no definite clue.

That the removal of the safe was their objective, is evidenced by the fact that there was no further disturbance in the store.

The cash register, containing $1.50, a subscription to "The Morrisburg Leader," received by Mr. Shannette during the day preceding the robbery, was not taken, which further indicates that the robbers spent very little time in the building, after forcing an entrance through the front door.

The total loss to Mr. Shannette will be more than $100, with very little hope of recovering any more than the safe.

WINCHESTER POLICE FIND BOUCHETTE CAR

An automobile owned by Harold Merleau, grocery store proprietor of Bouchette, Que., which was stolen from his garage beside his home some time last Wednesday night, was found on Thursday morning last on a lonely road about one mile north of Winchester.

In the automobile were found a revolver, shotgun, ammunition, several flashlights, and some tools. A number of blank contractors' forms from F.W. Perran of Gracefield were also in the machine.

Mr. Merleau stated that he had a .16 gauge shotgun in the automobile and some shells, but no revolver nor flashlights. He said that the gas tank was full when the car was stolen.

Walter Wicks, a resident of Winchester district, noticed the car drawn up on one side of the road, and occupied by a man, apparently asleep. His suspicions aroused, Wicks notified police, who, finding the car deserted when they arrived, set a watch all day in the woods, without results. They then towed the car to Winchester.

MORRISBURG WOMAN ON W. M. S. EXECUTIVE

Mrs. N. Wilison of Hamilton was re-elected president of the Women's Missionary Society of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Canada, in annual session at New Hamburg, Ont., on Wednesday.

Unemployment and the resultant lack of finances for many members figured largely in a decision to set up a free will donation system in place of definite fees. The decision will permit those who are unable to pay regular fees to remain as active members.

Officers installed by Rev. N. Willison are as follows:

President—Mrs. N. Willison, Hamilton.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. J.R. Collins, Montreal.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. J.C. Casselman, Morrisburg.
Secretary—Mrs. Walter Klinck, Elmira.
Treasurer—Mrs. F. Veale, Hamilton.
Organizer—Mrs. W.H. Knauff, Preston.

CONGREGATIONS IN FAREWELL SERVICE

Large congregations greeted Rev. G.N. Maxwell, on Sunday, at Grantley, Berwick and Finch, when he gave his farwell message, based on the three-fold Benediction.

On Monday evening, the auditorium of Chalmers Church, Finch, was well filled with agood representation from the three congregations for a social evening prior to the pastor's departure for Lachine. Rev. C.J. Beckley of Newington, a college friend and neighbouring minister, was chairman of the gathering, and spoke of the warm associations he had had, and his regret at losing such a friend. W.C. Johnston led in community singing. An appropriate address was given by Mrs. S. Hutt of Berwick.

A group of Great War veterans was present, and Lorne Hutt read a ehlogistic address to Comrade Maxwell, and Osborne Shaver presented him with a pen and pencil, on behalf of the veterans.

Rev. and Mrs. Maxwell were then called forward, and on behalf of the three congregations, an address was read, and Miss Sarah Fader of Grantley presented Mrs. Maxwell with a purse of money, and William Elliott of Berwick presented Mr. Maxwell with a beautful silk Geneva pulpit gown. Mrs. Maxwell thanked her warm-hearted friends, and voiced her appreciation for their kindness. Mr. Maxwell also expressed his thankfulness for the gift, and expressed the wish for every success in the work of the church.

The congregations were then invited to the dining hall, where a social hour was spent.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE

Branch No. 48 Canadian Legion will hold their annual Memorial Day Service at the Monument, Sunday November 11th, at 2.30 p.m. It is expected that Rev. Mr. Mehlenbacher will give an address. All veterans, whether members of the Legion or not, are invited to attend. The parade will form up at the Legion club room at 2.00 o'clock, and march to the Monument lot, where the service will be held.

DRIVER EXONERATED IN MORAN DEATH

No blame was attached to anyone in connection with the death of Patrick Moran of Ottawa, who was killed on September 28 when the truck in which he was riding turned over at the railway crossing, two miles west of Chesterville. This was the verdict of the coroner's jury handed out at the inquest held in Chesterville last Friday afternoon, and presided over by County Crown Attorney J.G. Harkness of Cornwall, and Coroner Dr. P. McLaughlin of Winchester.

Witnesses who gave evidence at the hearing were Joseph Dufour, driver of the truck; Lucille Chartrand and George Chartrand, who were occupants of the truck at the time of the accident. These men all told the same story. They stated the truck was travelling at a speed of 30 miles per hour when they approached the curve in the road. There were no signs to indicate that they were approaching the curve. Sandy Hitsman, of Winchester, was also called, he having been the first man on the scene after the accident. Constable Garnet McLean, of Chesterville, testified that he had investigated the accident, and found marks on the road which would indicate that the truck skidded 134 feet after the driver had applied his brakes.

In giving their verdict, the jury recommended that curve signs be placed on both sides of the railway crossing at the point where the accident occurred, as this was a dangerous turn.

The charge of reckless driving which was laid against Joseph Dufour, the truck driver, was withdrawn, and bail of $400 returned to him.

GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT

The TUDOR HOUSE

By MRS. STANLEY WRENCH

(Author of "Sing for the Moon" "Strange Lovers," etc).

SYNOPSIS

Michael Borde, 40, unmarried, born and bred in a Birmingham slum, is now a wealthy motor manufacturer. One day he visits the countryside around his old home and rescues Daphne Eden from a menacing tramp. He falls in love and proposes. Daphne accepts and introduces him to her father, who greets him with the words "Get out of here you cur — you ruined my home — stole my wife — curse you!"

Daphne's father dies and she disappears. Michael explains to her friend, Mrs. Gregory, that he was misrepresented. He buys the old Tudor House owned by the Hamill-Hardy's. Mrs. Gregory promises to mail a letter from him to Daphne arranging a meeting Daphne does not appear. On the way home Michael collides with a car driven by Diana Hamill-Hardy.

Daphne was holding her hands tightly, but she gave no other sign that the news had broken her composure. First her father, and now Lorna Gregory, the only friend she had in the world. All at once remembrance of the spray of blossoming hawthorne came back, and Mrs. Meadow's distress.

"Put it outside. You'll bring death into the house," she had cried frantically.

Now news of death reached her.

"Oh, Denis," she said, in a low voice, 'this is dreadful. Thank you for coming, though. You are right, I should have worried, indeed I have worried, over not getting any reply to my last letter. I thought" ..... she turned away and her eyes fell upon the illustrated paper.

The thought had entered her mind that, knowing of this engagement, Mrs. Gregory had not written, for in her last letter to her, Daphne, for once, had revealed a little of her unhappiness.

"Come in here", she said, opening the door that led to the farmhouse parlor. "Mrs. Meadows won't be long I expect. Come in here and tell me all about it."

Two cretonne-cushioned wicker chairs beside the open window looked inviting, and Dahpne sank into one and motioned him to the other. Then she looked at him frankly.

"Tell me what you know," she said quietly. "Of course this is a shock, but she was never strong, so I ought to have been prepared."

Instead of speaking at once, he laid his suitcase on his knee, and opening this, took from it a folded newspaper.

"It was this made us feel you ought to know, although we don't know that it has got anything to do with Mrs. Gregory's affairs", he said. "But there was a gentleman down from London, and Mother thinks he may be her lawyer. Just read this, Miss Eden," and he passed the newspaper to her, where, heavily marked, lay something in the advertisements:

"Miss Daphne Eden, late of Trenkills Farm, Fairburn, Warwickshire, is requested to communicate with Messrs. Bennett, Downing and Downing, of Galloway House, Portman Square, London, W. 1, where she will hear of something to her advantage. Any person knowing the whereabouts of the aforesaid, if communicating with Messrs. Bennett, Downing and Downing, will be suitably rewarded."

"That has appeared several times," he said. "Mother said she and I must not do anything without your consent, but when it kept on appearing, I thought it was better to come and see you."

"You mean," she asked, "that this has something to do with Mrs. Gergory's death?"

"Well, it might be worth while finding out, Miss Eden," he said. "At any rate, it commits you to nothing, and you may be better off through it."

She nodded, asked a few questions about the chicken farm, learned that it was being carried on the same as usual, and Daphne Eden looked very thoughtful. Those paying pupils were efficient girls, all of them, but with no one at the head of things, it would be impossible to carry on. She suddenly made up her mind.

After all, Michael Borde was nothing to do with her now; there would be little likelihood of meeting him; she would go back to the cottage, and at the same time make an appointment with Messrs. Bennett, Downing and Downing, and find out what the "advantage" was.

She looked across at Denis Birch with a smile.

"Thank you for telling me about this, Denis", she said. "I shall go to London tomorrow," and she rose with an air of dismissal.

He got up, too, but his face was flushed, he seemed hesitant, and although for a minute or two she was not aware of this, gazed at her with shy adoration.

"Miss Eden ..... Daphne," he began, and then stopped short, for she was not looking at him, and her thoughts seemed far away.

WHAT THE LAWYER SAID.

In spite of their address, Messrs. Bennett, Downing and Downing were old-fashioned, and the little room, in which Daphne waited smelled fusty and as though it were seldom used. A lanky-limbed, elderly clerk with face like parchment, came in and lighted the gas-fire, glancing at Daphne almost reproachfully.

"You are five minutes ahead of time, miss," he said. "Mr. Downing will see you in a little while."

Later, he led her through another room, bulging with tin cases, files, ponderous volumes, and from their ancient, high desks, two grey-haired clerks glanced up as she passed. Daphne was reminded of a graveyard. It seemed to her as though this room was the repository of secrets, buried hopes, a cemetery of scandals.

The baize-covered door leading from this connected the outer offices with the newer building, and here light and more harmonious conditions reigned. The room into which she was ushered might have been a modern business office, and the low leather chair into which Mr. Downing waved her, after shaking hands, was comfort embodied.

"You have seen our advertisement then, Miss Eden?" he said, seating himself at the leather-topped table. "As I assured my partner, that is by far the most speedy way of reaching a client, likewise far more dignified than employing a private enquiry agent. That of course," and he placed the tips of his fingers together, smiling at her benevolently, "may be a matter of opinion, but I feel sure you will agree. ....."

She bent her head, caring little whether Messrs. Bennett, Downing and Downing employed one method or another.

"You wanted to see me....." she began, but he was not to be hurried, and Daphne had to wait whilst he carefully sauntered through a preamble of arranged conversation, slowly arriving at the point to which he wished to direct her attention.

"Our client, Mrs. Gregory, made a will two years ago," he said. "As possibly you know, she was a wealthy woman."

Daphne did not know this, but gave no sign that the news surprised her.

"When her husband Captain Gregory died out in Kenya he left everything to her, but since then the estates have been managed under our supervision and under our advice," he continued. "The property in this country too has been left entirely in our hands, Mrs Gregory being content to draw what interest she wished from the income of the various properties. As perhaps you know, the chicken farm she ran at Trenkills was a mere hobby with her, and was never seriously regarded as a paying proposition."

Again Daphne, not aware of this, gave no sign, beyond the merest inclination of her head.

"Two years ago our client made a will in which you were named as legatee," he said, eyeing her closely "The chicken farm, the freehold of the estate there, and a certain sum of money, invested properly and under wise surveillance, was left to you."

Daphne flushed then.

"I was not aware of this," she said in a low voice. "Mrs. Gregory never spoke of this to me."

He peered at her over his glasses.

"So I understood when she called me in again, the day before her death," he said. "It may appear that Mrs. Gregory had some premonition of what was to happen, for although I went down to Trenkills, at a time when I understood you were absent, she was most insistent that the new codicil should be added and witnessed without delay. As it turned out," he bowed towards her, "so far as you are concerned, my dear young lady, she was wise, for unfortunately that night she died in her sleep. Heart failure, of course. She had suffered for years. So what it means is that you are heiress to her estate, and are sole legatee. That means you inherit all personal property and monies, which are considerable, as well as certain investments which I will go into and describe."

Daphne gazed at him, too bewildered for a moment even to voice a question.

"Assuming, of course, that you will desire us to continue to act on behalf of the estate, I have prepared a rough statement here, and have likewise made arrangements, which will require only your signature, and a proportion of the money, say one thousand pounds, will be transferred automatically to your private account. Of course this represents only a small portion of the estate, but assuming that you may be glad to have command of some ready money, this can be secured, if you desire, this morning."

"Do you mean," she asked in a low voice, "do you mean there is actually more than a thousand pounds to come to me?"

Mr. Downing waited a whole half-minute for the significance of his next remark to reach her.

NEW YORK—Isabel Ely Lord, noted cooking expert, flouted the sentimentalists who long for the old-fashioned cooking of their mothers.

"There has never been better home cooking than there is today," she said. "Remember the pies that mother used to bake on Saturday to last the week? Today women bake them to order.

"Remember the fried steaks? No one would think of frying a steak today. They broil them instead.

"Remember the home made bread? There was always a heavy streak in it somewhere."

Canadian Industries and Agriculture, Inspiration of Huge New Mural

Agriculture is linked with industry in the 34-foot canvas, "Canada Builds a Great Nation," shown above, which with its 26 striking and vigorous figures of workers, depicts Canadians, as a race of builders, emerging from the handicaps of depression with redoubled energies Unprecedented in the Dominion, very modern in treatment, it was painted by the Swiss-Canadian artist, Carl Mangold, to stress Canada's fortunate position among the world's nations at the present time. The idea originated with a Canadian industrial group. Shown at the Canadian National Exhibition, the mural was an outstanding success and requests have been poured in steadily for loan exhibits including invitations to place it on view in New York and London as a symbol of this country's present-day progress.

Woman's World

NEW CHICKEN DISH

So long as sister and brother lick their chops at the thought of chicken for dinner and argue for white meat drum-sticks, the woman who must plan meals is on the lookout for new ways to prepare this favorite dish.

Not that the fried and roasted versions will be scorned, but the cook who takes pride in her art wants more compensation for her efforts than to see food disappear. The problem is to contrive new combinations of familiar materials that will win the unstinted applause of those hard-boiled tableside critics — and that's something very worth doing.

Chickens, biscuits and gravy are combined to provide the chicken turnover. So, with no extra effort, the enterprising cook can give the family a dish that will draw forth enthusiastic smacking of lips; and the problem of equable serving of white meat and drum-sticks is eliminated.

Chicken Turnovers

This is how a hotel chef prepares the chicken turnovers:

One three pound fowl, four or five carrots, two medium sized onions, one head celery, two tablespoons salt, half pound mushrooms, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour. Dough: Four cups flour, half cup butter, half cup lard or other shortening, teaspoon salt, one and a half cups water.

Wash and disjoint chicken. Boil until tender with vegetables which have been cut in small pieces. When done remove and discard vegetables which were used to make the chicken deliciously savory. Remove skin and bones from chicken and cut in neat dice. Melt butter and sauted mushrooms, which have been cut in slices for five minutes. Reserve six fine mushroom caps for garnishing. Sift flour over mushrooms and add diced chicken. Mix well and remove at once from fire.

Make the dough by mixing and sifting flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in shortening and cut in cold water. Roll on a floured board into a sheet not more than half inch thick. Cut in six inch squares. Place the chicken on the dough and fold diagonally, forming a triangle filled with chicken. Bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) and surround with buttered peas, diced new carrots, asparagus stalks and potato marbles.

And from this sumptuous looking and altogether successful dish comes an inspiration for leftovers. Just think of it, any kind of meat may be handled this way! Veal, pork, lamb, beef and all varieties of poultry that have been left from Sunday feast may make their second appearance in this thoroughly inviting fashion. To be sure, the leftover dish will be more turnover and less meat, but it's an idea worth remembering anyway.

Chicken Roll

Another excellent way to serve chicken with biscuits is to make this same dough, which is much richer than the usual biscuit dough, roll it in a sheet and spread with chicken mixture. Then roll up like a jelly roll and bake.

..... IT'S ONLY PAPER

A certain bathroom owes its festive air to a colorful border close to its ceiling line. The bathroom itself is painted a soft lettuce green, dark at the base and growing lighter toward the ceiling. The border is in a design of graceful swans. At first glance the border looks like a nice bit of hand painting, but on examination, proves to be only wall paper, bought at a few pennies a foot and pasted and shellacked.

In the same house there hangs over the mantel in the living room, a really lovely flower piece. Only close scrutiny reveals that this too is only wall paper, for at a short distance it looks like a fine old painting. The panel has been framed in a wide gold frame, and shellacked with orange shellac, with a deft touch of sienna to give the aged look.

A chest of drawers in this same house looks like something very rare and very lovely. But in truth it is only an old chest of drawers, which had almost outworn its good looks. It has been treated in so simple a way that you will say, "Why didn't I think of that?"

Instead of the usual paint bestowed on poor-relation furniture, this chest has been papered in Chinese tea-paper—gold, with a soft weblike design of green. The paper was carefully pasted, and to overcome any tendency to peel, the chest was carefully sized with wall-paper sizing, according to expert advice.

When the paper was thoroughly dry, the whole chest was shellacked with water-proof shellac. Old wooden knobs were replaced with smart green Chinese tassels.

2 cups sifted pastry flour, ¾ cup shortening, 1-8 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup ice water.

Add shortening to flour and salt and work together until well mixed, then add enough ice water to hold together and roll at once on floured board.

This can be kept in waxed paper in refrigerator till needed.

Lemon Banana Pie

1 cup boiling water, juice of a lemon, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 beaten egg, bananas, 2 tablespoons corn starch, 1 cup sugar.

Add 2 tablespoons corn starch to 1 cup sugar and stir into 1 cup of boiling water. Cook in double boiler for ten minutes, then add the juice of a large lemon and the butter. Beat in the egg and spread good layer in baked pie shell. Cover with sliced bananas, then add more lemon filling and top with bananas. Cover with slightly sweetened whipped cream.

Boy's Favourite Pie

Pastry shell: ½ cup shortening, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon corn starch, ½ teaspoon baking powder, cold water to mix.

Make pastry fairly stiff, roll out and place in pie pan. While still uncooked, put in the following filling:

½ cup fine bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon melted butter, ½ cup ground cornflakes, 1 cup golden syrup.

Bake in fairly quick oven.

KITCHEN KINKS

If you have a vase or flower jar that is porous enough to let water seep through and mar the table, make it waterproof by setting the bowl in the warming oven until you melt some paraffin. Then pour the melted paraffin into the warmed vase and roll or tip about until the inside is thoroughly coated. Then , when entirely cool, you may safely use this pottery container without fear of table mars.

An Unusual Drink

An unusual and refreshing drink can be made by adding the juice of two limes to a pint size bottle of grapejuice. Add enough sugar to taste, and enough ice water to make two quarts in all.

Keeping Egg Yolks Fresh

If the white only of an egg is needed, puncture the shell and let the white drain out. Then seal the shell with a piece of tissue paper. If kept in a cool place the yolk will stay fresh and moist for several days.

Cooking Buttered Vegetables

When cooking buttered string beans, lima beans, asparagus, artichoke or cauliflower, add butter to a small quantity of boiling water (to which salt has been added) before immersing the vegetables. By this method the butter is boiled into the vegetables, thus making them richer and more tasty than when dressed with drawn butter after they are cooked.

Improving Bacon.

When removing bacon from the killet, place it for a minute on a piece of clean wrapping paper, which will absorb the surplus grease. The bacon will be daintier and more delicious.

A Colorful Frosting

In making frosting for cake, I have discovered that by moistening a pound of sugar, mixed well with two tablespoons of butter, and with strawberry preserves, instead of milk, that I have not only a frosting that tastes delicious, but one that has a lovely color.

Arresting Chair Rungs

I find that rungs of chairs keep coming loose in steam-heated apartments. I make them stay in place by taking a small piece of electric tape and placing it over the end of the rung with the sticky side out. Then I gently hammer the rung—tape and all—back into place.

Canning Baked Apples

Most familys like baked apples and here is a way of meeting the demand: Remove the cores and fill the oven with big pans of apples and syrup, just as one prepares baked apples for immediate eating. When done, put them in wide-mouthed jars, cover with the boiling syrup and seal. They keep well. When ready to use place them in a baking dish and reheat thoroughly. Serve them with whipped cream and a candied cherry. Guests think they are freshly baked.

Drying Clothes Indoors

When it is necessary to dry clothes indoors, place the clothes on a rack and turn on the electric fan. The breeze both airs and dries the clothes.

We are apt to mistake our vocation by looking out of the way for occasions to exercise great and rare virtues, and by stepping over the ordinary one that lie directly in the road before us.—Hannah More.

The procrastinator is not only indolent and weak but commonly false, too; most of the weak are false.—Lavater.

Permanent Waves By Wireless Waves

A new wireless apparatus that supplies milady with her permanent wave without the cumbersome and heavy wires being attached to her head is being used in London, England. The heat is supplied from a machine, without having any wires attached to the head and is controlled by turning a knob, similar to tuning in a radio set.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON V. — November 4.

Christian Growth —Luke 2:42-52; 2 Peter 1:5-8.

Golden Text—"But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

TIME—Christ's first visit to Jerusalem, at the age of twelve, April A.D. 8. Peter was written about A.D. 68.

PLACE—The temple in Jerusalem. Joseph's home in Nazareth. Peter labored in Jerusalem and Rome.

"And when he was twelve years old' The growth of the child Jesus under the loving care of Joseph and Mary in Nazareth is summarized in three particulars; physical growth, as the basis, then mental progress and increase in spiritual knowledge and grace. "They went up after the custom of the feast." He went up a year sooner than the law required, perhaps because his older cousin John, who was to become the Baptist, that year made his first attendance at the feast.

"And when they had fulfilled the days." The passover feast lasted eight days. "As they were returning the boy Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem." He did not mean to cause anxiety to his parents of course but he was completely absorbed in what was going on in the temple. "And his parents knew it not." Nor did he know that his parents had left the city. The freedom of life in home and school, so notable a feature in modern times, is by no means a recent discovery.

"But supposing him to be in the company." Parties were made up from the same village or from nearby villages. These, including relatives, would make a considerable number, and Mary may easily have thought that her boy was with some eighbor or friend. "They went a day's journey. From ten to fifteen miles, the entire company probably walking. "And they sought for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance." The child Jesus was evidently a sociable being and no recluse.

"And when they found him not, they returned to Jerusalem, seeking for him." How anxious were they as to what might have become of the dear boy in the great city.

"And it came to pass after three days.' One of these days was spent in the journey back toward Nazareth, a second in the return to Jerusalem, and the third in a fruitless search through the streets of Jerusalem. "At last they found him in the temple." It was strange that they knew so little of the lad that they did not look in the temple first of all. "Sitting in the midst of the teachers." During the feasts the great Jewish rabbis taught in the porches and courts of the temple. 'Both hearing them and asking them questions." These classes formed a sort of university extension course, carrying on the instruction given in the local synagogues and the schools.

"And all that heard him were amazed at his understanding and his answers' Because Jesus asked questions he grew. The mind grows by feeding on the material which questions gather and bring in.

"And when they saw him, they were astonished." Dr. van Dyke represents Jesus as listening enraptured to the great Rabbi Hillel, whose spirit was so close to his own. "And his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us?" We know that Jesus had never grieved his parents before, in his eagerness to learn, he let them go their way home without him. "Behold thy father and I sought thee sorrowing." Mary's deep love for her Son is here shown, and it must have been answered by Christ's deep love for her.

"And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? Could it be that they were not interested in the things of the Father, and so did not understand his being so? There is almost a sort of shudder in Jesus' reply. "Knew ye not that I must be in my Father's house?" The translation of the King James Bible, "about my Father's business," is equally possible, for the Greek is only "in the (things) of my Father," "the" being the indefinite article in the neuter plural.

"And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them." Fortunately for Jesus, he had parents, who while not understanding him, were yet ttender and patient with him.

"And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth." The village of Mary and Joseph, about sixty miles north of Jerusalem among the hills overlooking the great historic plain of Esdraelon, with Mt Carmel on the west. And he was subject unto them." How could the sanctification of common life be effected if not by those eighteen years during which the Lord of all dwelt at Nazareth in obscure obedience? "And his mother kept all these sayings in her heart." Nothing connected with the life of Jesus but was noted by Mary's mother-love.

"And Jesus advanced in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and men." Our Lord grew in body (stature), mind, (wisdom), and soul, in spiritual graces, in favor with God and man.

'Yea, and this very cause." Because (verse 4) the Christians to whom Peter is writing have escaped from heathen foulness and have entered into the divine life, they are now to go forward in it with hearty zeal. Adding on your part all diligence." Sloth has no place in the Christian life. "In your faith supply virtue." The figure in the apostle's mind may be that of a chain, each virtue being linked to its predecessor and successor, the whole forming a united set of characteristics.

"And in your virtue knowledge." Understanding, implying insight, circumspection, discretion, discernment.

"And in your knowledge self control Know more of Christ, and you will know more of yourself and be better able to guide yourself.

"And in your self-control patience," in the margin "stedfastness."

"And in your patience godliness." Godliness is both the test and the outcome of patience.

"And in your godliness brotherly kindness." Our attitude toward God our love of God, soon reaches out towards our brother Christians. "And in your brotherly kindness love." This is affection that reaches out beyond our Christian brothers and takes in all mankind.

"For if these things are yours and abound." These things are the Christian graces named and the consequent right understanding of divine things. "They make you to be not idle nor unfruitful unto the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. We become the best and the most active and the most efficient citizens when we contribute to the common life the gift of sweet and perfected disposition.

SIX CHILDREN IN A YEAR

Records Few Couples Would Care To Break

Quintuplets born recently have aroused world-wide interest, but there is no modern parallel to the record of the Scottish weaver who, in the seventeenth century, was father of sixty-two children by one wife and left forty-six of them to mourn him, although he has no mean rival in Levi Braskow, a Canadian with forty-one children.

His first wife was responsible for six of them; his second added two dozen more; and his third completed the list with a contribution of eleven. At sixty-nine, Mr Braskaw has 29 married sons and daughters; and his living descendants number just under two hundred.

Anthony Clark, a book canvasser, acknowledged in the Clerkenwell County Court the paternity of 32 children; Mrs. Mary Jonas, of Chester, increased the population of England by 33; and Mrs Emma Hare confided to a neighbor that she had nursed 27 children.

Not long ago, three parents called upon the registrar for Whittelsey, Isle of Ely to register the births—one, of his twenty-first child; the second, his nneteenth; and the third of number seventeen—the three families thus aggregating fifty-seven children.

From Antwerp came the story of a Mme. Carlier who had given birth to six sons in one year—the first set of triplets in January and the second in the following December.

Packed Nurseries

In a Chicago divorce case in 1920 it came out in evidence that the plaintiff, Mrs Josephine Ormsby though she had been married only seven years, had in that time been the mother of one set of triplets, two pairs three single children, and one set of quadruplets— an average of two children a year.

When Mrs. Ursula Lightfoot, of Ayton, in Yorkshire died in her ninety-fourth year, she left nine children, seventy-nine grandchildren, seventy-three great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. In Couthern Georgia, a Mrs. Shiver spent her last years in visiting one after another, the homes of her descendants, who numbered 310 in four generations; and Mrs. Sarah Ann Woolf, of Utah, when she died at the age of ninety-one, left 303 living descendants, including 189 great-grandchildren and twenty-three great great grandchildren.

Six brothers and sisters, children of a settler named Webb in the Cumberland district of Kentucky, among them have lived to see 1651 of their progeny. The eldest brother, Jason, has 444 descendants; Miles takes second place with 402; then follow three sisters, with contributions of 230, 208, and 201 respectively; and the roll end with the youngest brother, whose total is a modest 166.

Not the least astonishing of family records is that of M. Gourdon, who died in Paris at the age of 101. M. Gourdon's father was born in 1731; married in 1752; and in 1753 became father of a boy who died in the same year. He married for the second time in 1820 and at the age of ninety-one became the father of a second boy, the late M. Gourdon who at the close of his long life was able to say "My brother died 171 years ago."

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Richest Farm Manure

PoPultry manure is undoubtedly the richest produced on the farm. Poultry manure, however, ferments very quickly, losing ,if left exposed, a large proportion of its nitrogen as ammonia. This fact emphasizes the desirability of systematically and frequently cleaning off the boards beneath the roosts, a plan that also conduces to the general good health and thrift of the roosts, a plan that also conduces to the general good health and thrift of the fowl. In summer the manure, previously mixed with loam to destroy stickiness and facilitate distribution, may be applied directly to the land and worked with the surface soil—its best preservative. In winter (and at other seasons when the manure cannot be used directly) it should be mixed with a fair proportion of loam, dried peat, muck sawdust, together with a little land plaster or superphosphate to fix the nitrogen. I should then be packed tightly in barrels or boxes, and stored protected from rain until required in the spring. Lime and wood ashes should not be used for this purpose, as they set free nitrogen. Poultry manure being essentially nitrogenous is particularly valuable for garden and leafy crops generally, and the majority o fpoultry keepers will no doubt do well to reserve it for this use. However, if the amount available permits ,it cam be profitably employed for the cereals, grasses, roots and corn.

Improvement of Sheep

At this season of the year when farmers are marketing their lambs and making preparations to cull out their ewe flock and place a pure bred ram at the head of the flock, many will be interested to know that ram grading is now nearing completion. A list of officially graded rams of the various breeds is available for each county at the office of the Agricultural Representative. Through the assistance of the Federal Department of Agriculture, purchasers of graded pure bred rams are enttled to the following premiums if they comply with the rules and regulations for Ram Bonus Policy.

XX Lamb $2.00.
XX Yearling, $3.00.
XXX Lamb, $3.00.
XXX Yearling, $5.00.

The Province of Ontario has made substantial progress in the improvement of its sheep industry. This is evidenced by the winnings of pure bred breeders at National Exhibitions such as the Royol Winter Fair at Toronto and the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago.

The quality of lambs marketed in Ontario is due largely to the use of purebred sires. Toronto is now the largest lamb consuming market in Canada, and provides a market outlet for good quality, well winished lambs at all seasons of the year. Graded pure bred rams are available at very reasonable prices from the various breeders of pure bred sheep, and no farmer who keeps a flock of breeding ewes should be without the services of a pure bred ram.

Straw for Winter Feed

While straw is not generally considered as a nutritious feed for live stock, yet in times of fodder scarcity it is very valuable. Horses and dry cows may be wintered entirely on straw, if supplemented by one-half to three-quarters of a pound of linseed oil meal a day, or other similar protein feed. A ration of half straw and half legume hay will carry such stock through the winter in excellent condition. Little straw should be used for bedding this year when it is needed for feed. Good oat straw contains a considerable amount of total nutrients, though practically no protein. This is why straw alone makes a poor showing as an exclusive feed for livestock, but when supplemented with a little high protein feed, its carbohydrate content can be utilized to excellent advantage. When feeding straw, always provide plenty of mineral matter in addition. Give cattle, horses and sheep free access to a mixture of 28 pounds of bone meal, 50 pounds of finely ground limestone, 20 lbs. of salt, 2 pounds of iron oxide, one-half ounce of copper sulphate and one ounce of potassium iodide.

In feeding value, oat straw leads, with barley, wheat and rye straw following in the order named. Corn fodder, when harvested before the leaves dry up and blow away, is considerably more valuable than the straw of the small grains. Sweet clover straw, after threshing out the seed, is especially valuable in a year like this.

An Interesting Experiment

Because of the extreme shortage of hay and high prices this year, a small field of excellent feed owned by William Couse of Streetsville is is of unusual interest to Ontario farmers. Mr. Couse has demonstrated that it is possible to ge an excelen yield of the best quality hay from seed sown in the same season. Moreover his crop is not of the emergency character, like green oats or millet something that requires special knowledge and special care, but is largely alfalfa with a little red clover and timothy, and unlike the emergency crops, the fied will be good for further yields of hay next year.

The field was sown about the first of May last spring with a mixture composed of 15 pounds of alfalfa, five pounds of red clover and one pound of timothy. No nurse crop was used, and the field had not been previously used in alfalfa for 15 years. No inoculation was used, but an excellent catch resulted. Owing to dry weather, the stand was on the thin side when the first cutting was made about the first of July. At that time, the plants averaged 30 inches in height, and a crop of close to a ton per acre of cured hay was taken off. Had there been the usual amount of rain, Mr. Couse believes htat twice this yield would have been secured. The hay was of execellent quality, with plenty of valuable leaves.

Aided by timely rains, the second growth was much finer and thicker, with much of the original seed, apparently, not germinating until after the firs cutting had been removed. While the first crop was almost entirely alfalfa, by the middle of summer both the red clover and timothy began to appear. This crop was cut in early October, and averaged three tons of green feed per acre, or between a ton and a half and two tons of cured hay. Mr. Couse estimated that one acre would provide pasture for a good milk cow for 140 days, if it was decided that hay was not needed.

This experiment seems to prove that it is possible even in the face of dry weather to produce over two tons per acre of cured hay from the first year's seeding. If applied on a general scale, it would indicate that winter killing of meadows on a scale like last year need not be as serious as s the case today with the hay acreage very seriously reduced. From every standpoint, the experiment appears practical, and indicates that year-old meadows, killed out in early spring, may be made to produce normal hay returns by moderately heavy sowings without nurse crops. Furthermore, as a mixture rather than straight alfalfa, is advised by Mr. Couse, the cost of the seed is very low, such mixtures as he used selling for less than straight alfalfa or red clover. Fortunately for any farmer who may wish to follow Mr. Couse's example next spring, ample supplies of home grown alfalfa seed are in sight for next spring, though red clover is going to be scarce.

MR. W. S. HUTT

The funeral was held on Tuesday afernoon in Ottawa of William Stirling Hutt, former Finch resident, who was for years a New York Central railway conductor, and of late on the staff of the Central Experimental Farm. Interment was made in Maple Ridge cemetery.

Mr. Hutt's death, which occurred at his home in Ottawa, came as a shock to relatives and friends. He had not been in good health for some time, but was expected to recover.

He was born at Finch on February 22nd, 1879, son of the late Lawrence Hutt and his wife, formerly Georgina Darling. Starting in at the age of 18 years with the N.Y.C. at Finch, Mr. Hutt was in the employ of the railway company for more than 32 years. He rose to the position of freight conductor in January, 1903, and in 1920 was promoted to passenger conductor.

In 1902, he was married at Berwick to Miss Annie MacKillop, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacKillop, and for a time they resided at Santa Clara, N.Y., before making their home in Ottawa.

ASSISTANCE LENT TO MUNICIPALITIES

The Ontario Government will lead financial assistance to municipalities beginning Nov. 1, by relieving them of the 20 per cent. contribution to cost of highway construction and maintenance, and by permitting them to share by 20 per cent. in revenue derived from authorities granted hotels and in profits from sale of beer and wines in hotels.

In making known the new regulations to govern sale of beverage rooms as from the beginning of the province's fiscal year, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn stated that all beer parlors would be forced to close at 11 p.m. instead of midnight. Clubs and dining rooms, however, will be permitted to continue sale to 12 p.m.

There was no suggestion of a bribe to the municipalities in the Government's policy of making cash contribution for the 20 per cent. share in the liquor profits, said the Premier. There was to be no departure from other phases of the present rules governing sale, he added, but he reiterated his invitation to all municipalities to make use of the local option provision.

The profit-sharing plan was to aid municipalites in their financial problems, said the premier, and elimination of the 20 per cent. highway contribution was only granting the various centres "their just dues".

Previous Governments, he added, had encroached on nearly all sources of revenue open to the municipalities and "in fairness to them they should not have to pay a share for construction of provincial highways, because the gasoline tax already is paid to the government for the purpose of building and maintaining roads."

MR. A. M. COOKE

SHOCK-PROOF STEERING

I'M in the habit of buying a car "on time", like most other people. I'm buying a Chevrolet—and saving money! Here is why:

Comparing cash prices, I found that you can buy a Chevrolet Standard Series Six for less than any other car in Canada. And that the Master Series Chevrolet, with all its extra features, costs no more than the others in its class.

Naturally, low cash prices mean that the cost of buying on monthly payments is going to be low, too. So I investigated the GMAC plan, on which Chevrolet cars are sold.

I found that GMAC is General Motors' own time payment plan. The manufacturers of Chevrolet stand squarely behind every time-payment sale.

I found that the GMAC financing rates have been recently reduced—making it cheaper than ever to buy on this plan.

I found that every Chevrolet sold under the GMAC plan is fully protected by insurance—Fire, Theft, Accidental Physical Damage and $50 Deductible Collision Insurance.

And I found that one of the biggest reasons why the GMAC plan costs less and gives more is because more people buy on this plan than on any other.

I'm buying a Chevrolet on the GMAC plan, because I've found that there's a lot of difference in time payments—and that you save when you get the facts.

EUROPE'S DEFECT

Travellers who return from Europe are fond of telling the great number of ways in which Canadian life is more pleasant than European. But it remained for a newspaper correspondent to get down to the real essentials. This man remarked recently that the chief trouble with Europe is that you can't buy decent tomatoes or corn on the cob there. — Vancouver Sun.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE

Overflowing congregations are causing several English cathedrals to enlarge their accommodation. This increasing interest in religion is not confined to any particular area of the country, nor to any class or society. Blackburn in the heart of the cotton industry of Lancashire is to spend 190,000 pounds on additional space for public attendance at its cathedral services.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

SLEEP ORGIES

There can be orgies of sleep, says Lord Horder, the King's physician. Young people should not be denied adequate sleep, "but," he continued, "when young people between the ages of 20 and 25 still come down to their breakast at any old time after father has gone to business—that is encouraging orgies of sleep; and I would put it in the same category as bad habits which are induced by alcohol and hypnotic drugs and should be resisted.—Moncton Transcript.

DOLLS

There are considerably more than 2,000,000 dolls made in Canada in a year, dolls of all kinds. These charming playthings for Canadian babyhood and girlhood run into real money, without taking account of the imports. The factory prices for those two millions made in Canada aggregates about $312,000.—Bureau of Statistics.

VINTAGE YEARS FOR SARDINES

There is a Scot named Moar who is a licensed victualler in Old London —who features sardines on his menus

Mr. Moar is an authority on sardines, and speaks of their vintage years with the same affection as an Italian innkeeper speaks of wines. He has his cellar for storing them for years, turning the can over once a month so that the olive oil will properly seep through the fishes.

For those who are interested in sardines, take Mr. Moar's word for it that the best vintage years in modern times are 1908, 1910 and 1917. The 1908 vintage is so rare now that Mr. Moar only serves them to his special friends and on special occasions. He lays down the principle that sardines are not "fully matured" until they have been kept in the can for 25 to 30 years. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THRILLING FORTY YEARS

It may well be doubted whether the Canadian club ever entertained a man with a more unique careers or a greater hero, than Sir Wilfred Grenfell, its recent guest. As a young medical man he chose to cast his life among the fisherfolk of the Labrador Coast. There he has labored for two score years and his work has awakened the interest of the English speaking world For years he has advocated that Labrador should become part of Canada. He has established hospitals and also schools, and acted as a preacher, teacher, physician and surgeon, magistrate, evincing the keenest and most sympathetic interest in the various problems of a seafaring coast people. He has aroused an interest in agriculture and horticulture and other spheres of activity, until the residents feel that their efforts are no longer restricted to fishing. He has invented a cloth for suiting, and performed many other notable services. The narration of some of his experiences thrilled the large audience present. As a marked recognition of his great work to this little known section of the Empire, His Majesty conferred on Dr. Grenfell some years ago the Order of St. Michael and of St. George. In fact, he was the first to receive this distinguished order for missionary work. He ranks as one of the great heroes of our time.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

STAY AWAY

A correspondent writing to the Beacon-Herald from the Sturgeon River gold field gives advice regarding the equipment one should take there. He says that it is well to bring $200, mostly in small bills. Better still, he adds take a chance and lose your $200 at home. He is certain the greenhorn or the little fellow has not got a chance in the new field.—Stratord Beacon-Herald

SOMETHING TO AIM AT

CHEAPEST AND BEST

Sir Charles Higham, British advertising specialist, finds that bread the cheapest of all foods heads the list of nutritive foods. Widespread acceptance of that simple truth would soon bring about disappearance of the surplus of the world's wheat.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

CAN BABIES ALWAYS DO WELL?

Dr. Alan Brown, of Toronto, told a gathering in that city that there are 307 diseases which a child can have but of that long list only 100 are formidable. He also stated his belief that the 100 diseases are preventable.

At times we read of folk who reach the age of 90 or 95 years and they recall with a triumph which sounds something like boasting that they have never been sick in bed a day in their lives. We take it that such people having felt miserable at times, kept on puttering about and probably took their bitters standing up rather than leaning on the elbow in bed.

When Dr. Alan Brown says children's sickness is preventable to the extent of 100 per cent, we cannot with technical intelligence combat such a claim, but with the perversity of a layman's mind we can doubt it. The Dionne children have had splendid treatment and much care has been invested in their health, but it was not many weeks ago that they had some sort of trouble in their little tummies and innards generally. One started the performance and it ran right along until it had tagged the entire five.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

WHERE JOHN D. MISSED

When Mr. John D Rockefeller built Radio City in New York, the world was told the ultimate in music halls had been achieved. Never had anything so fine been erected as a theatre. It was supposed to have all the latest wrinkles in equipment, and a few things that were considered years ahead of any one else.

But one old-fashioned, yet ever popular performer could not stage his show in Radio City. He was Thurston the magician. When the man of magic went to arrange for his act he found they had not put a trap door on the stage.

So Thurston did not play the world-famous music hall. For the slickest of magicians is just an ordinary individual when the stage has no trap doors. —Border Cities Star.

LOOKED THE JAIL OVER

A Regina lawyer who took his client defendant in a wife-beating case, to visit the provincial jail, was able to report to the magistrate trying the man that he expected no further difficulties. His client had been much impressed. Judges have been known to sentence people to church attendance and jail inspection might be an effective deterrent, particularly if wardens could be induced to set the stage a little beforehand.—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

THE EMPIRE

INFANT MORTALITY In SCOTLAND

It is unfortunately the case that the infant mortality figures for Scotland compare badly with those for England and Wales. The 1933 rate in Scotland was 81, and in Glasgow it was as high as 97. The difference is probably due partly to the greater severity of the Scottish climate and partly to inferior housing conditions.—Glasgow Herald

PATERNAL THOUGHTFULNESS

Lord Cambridge is among the fathers who likes his daughter to wear something exclusive so that he can always recognize her in the park.

SINGAPORE'S EXAMPLE

"Buy British' is not merely a slogan. It is sound advice and at the present time it is supported by an appeal to the loyalty of the people of Hong Kong to support British Empire Trade in the battle for overseas market with foreign rivals. We congratulate Singapore on its enterprise in holding its second British Trade Fair and wish them the success they deserve. "God helps those who help them selves," and it must be truly said that the Straits have acted up to this saying. Two years ago they were in the depths of slump and now, by their energy and foresight they have pulled themselves out of the mire. Rubber and tin have both pulled round, and to prove their enterprising tendencies, they immediately run a British Fair. Could not Hong Kong take a leaf out of Singapore's book?—Hong Kong Press.

SOUTH AFRICAN PROBLEMS

South Africa is faced with many problems that do not affect more fortunately situated countries. Its vast distances and scattered population introduce difficulties of organization and finance that are unknown in older lands. Its poor whites constitute a problem that can only be paralleled in the Southern States of the U.S.A. And our native problem is peculiarly our own. All these matters are important enough to have attracted the attention of the greatest living auhorities, and their accumulated knowledge is now to be placed at our disposal, for which we have to thank the South African members of the New Education Fellowship who attended the big world conference of the Fellowship at Nice in 1931, ad who then had the vision and iniative to draw attention to the Union's difficulties.—Johannesburg Times.

HIGH HEELS

If we could only begin to adopt the footwear which had scarcely a heel at all a large measure of our foot disabilities would disappear." This is the view expressed by Prof. John Fraser, Edinburgh in addressing the autumn convention of the Incorporated Society of Chiropodists.

He condemned the style of socks or stockings for children in which the point was not opposite the great toe, and deprecated shoes in which the inside line is twisted and the toe space cramped. But who is going to set a new fashion? The woman who chooses high heels feels that she must be in the fashion, and the hosier and shoemaker makes what he knows will sell. That elusive customer who mysteriously dictates the vagaries of fashion has much to answer for.—Weekly Scotsman.

Part-Time Jobs Good for Students

Madison, Wis.—It would be a good thing if all students would have to do something to help support themselves while in college, Scott H. Goodnight, dean of men at the University of Wisconsin, declared in a talk to educators attending the Institute for Superintendents and Principals, held at the State University recently.

Dean Goodnight spoke on the relationship between student employment and the quality of students' work in the university. Twenty years ago, the dean said, he thought employment was a bad thing for the student, but his experience with students since then has convinced him otherwise. He discovered that it wasn't employment but other factors which interfered with college work. He cited several cases of working and nonworking students and found that their scholastic grades did not vary much.

In one study taken at the university, 57 cases of students who were entirely self-supporting were compared with 57 cases of nonemployed students, all in their freshman year. The average grades at the end of the school year were virtually the same, Dean Goodnight said. Of 152 freshman students in an engineering class two years ago, 21 received honor rating at the end of the year. Out of this number 16 did not do outside work and five did. Of 13 students from the group who dropped out of school, only three were doing outside work.

In another class of 177 students, 24 were on the honor rating, and of those eight did outside work. Of the 17 who dropped out of school, only two were those who were working their way through school. Miss Susan B. Davis, assistant dean of women, in studying the cases of 80 women students who had a percentile average of from 90 to 100, said that neither health nor employment affected their programs in school, the dean explained.

Arbor Day Revived to Aid Forestry in New Zealand

Auckland, N.Z.—Arbor Day, introduced into New Zealand many years ago, but gradually neglected, is now being revived, which is taken to be a sign of awakening of national consciousness toward trees.

New Zealanders are beginning to realize how they have wasted their national forest estate. This year, Arbor Day was celebrated by ceremonial tree-planting in several places, and the Governor-General gave an eloquent address on the value of native forests.

Germanized Church Leader Faces New Challenge

Reichbishop Ludwig Mueller is in a new battle for supremacy of his church over all others. The Protestant church of Bavaria has issued a manifesto challenging his authority. In this picture he is seen, hand upraised, at a Nazi Christian meeting in the Sportspalast, Berlin. With him is his deputy, Dr. Kinder.

By Jack Cooke

All kinds of peeves, criticisms and arguments to get off our chest this week. Must reply to that letter from four enthusastic admirers of this column first. Here 'tis just as they wrote it. Dear (you'll wonder too, after reading the rather choice lines that follow) News of the Air Editor: We just wonder what ever gave you the idea that you were a critic of music? Personally we think you should be writing essays on daisies and pansies, as they seem to be more in your line.

Personally we do not like Carmen Lombardo's singing ourselves, but if you could sing half as good, you would not be editing a half pint hick town paper.

Just what in your opinion (look, they give us credit for having one) is a good orchestra? The Crazy Water Crystal Balladeers, or Alf Hannigan? (We believe there might be some real good ole subtle sarcasm in that last paragraph, but then boys must be boys or half-wits).

You apparently don't like Wayne King, but what is your opinion compared to 100,000,000 North Americans.

So as one music critic to another,

We remain,

James Pickering, H. E. Spall, C. E. Gray, K. MacMillan.

And thus ends the letter.

Well, mine friends, as one music critic to four quarters of another m.c, we fail to see exactly what you're driving at. We can assure you with the deepest sincerity that our experience in the horticultural line has been entirely inadequate, hence our services as an essayist on daisies and pansies, would, we believe be sadly ignored. Still, it should be an absorbing subject and might be taken up seriously as a hobby. But then, of course, you would with your apparent familiarity of the matter, know better than us, as to whether or not it is an interesting as we in our abysmal ignorance, anticipate it would be.

But then we're hedging aren't we? Well suppose you m.c.'s write me again some time and state just a trifle more definitely what part or parts of our analysis of dance bands you find it hard to stomach.

In the meantime think of that chap no doubt as moronically inclined as we seem to be, who, on attending the Lombardo's grand opening at the Cocanut Grove last season, listened very quietly while Guy asked the crowded floor what they would like for an encore, whereupon the same chappie probably more moronic than ever piped up—Isham Jones!

Roxy's latest reprimand of radio is just as timely and true as his others have been. He says in part "Today, the stop watch, rather than the masques of comedy and tragedy are the gods of radio. The ease and naturalness of an artist's performance are undermined when he becomes clock conscious. Yet the time limits of a radio performance are such that clock-consciousness developes. It is the fault of the producers, who, instead of leaving a lot of latitude in a program try to stuff in every possible feature."

We are of the opinon that Roxy is the greatest showman on radio. Witness his glorious programs which retain their air of delightful informality.

In one of the current radio mags. Paul Whiteman is quoted as saying: "It's hard to tell whether Ramona is a better blues singer or piano player. Good heavens! Mr. Whiteman do you consider Ramona a singer, be she ever so blue. Admittedly she does play a very fine piano. But sing? No never.

It is said that Rudy Vallee is on the outs with N.B.C., and now comes the big surprise. Will Osborne his old rival is being heard regularly on the Red network. We can't imagine Vallee losing much sleep over it though. By the by the crooner and Alice Faye are really that way inclined. Honest!

Borrah Minnevitch and his Harmonica Rascals are still very much in our picture, as witness their grand broadcast to Byrd way down souther than south.

Lawrence Tibbet's singing on the Packard program marks a new high in entertainment for the winter season.

Listened to the Pontiac half hour last night. It lack that something with which hit programmes are built. And in passing put us on record as saying that Al Goodman has the finest of all commercial orchestras. Frank Black or no Frank Black.

Plums, orchids cheers or what have you to Sigmund Spaeth for his pat on the back to John Charles Thomas. 'He possesses the finest vocalism, the smoothest, most velvety quality to be found in any singer today."

Mary Carry and Isobel Price on that Kleenex program emanating from CFRB are just about as 'ousylay" as expected. Perhaps if Miss Carry sang a bit more in tune, it would help matters infinitely. Oh, well, we've dished out the hemlock profusely enough for this week so, with a plug for "Let's take a walk around the block" we bid you all "Heigh-ho" till next week.

Economic Misfortunes Depress Dutch Women

Amsterdam.—Women of the Netherlands are retreating a little after having attained most of the objectives of feminism in the years immediately following the war.

They are being driven back by the economic misfortunes of this little state. Female employees of the Government must resign upon marrying, and the practice carries on to commercial fields.

But it is not a "back to the kitchen" movement such as goes on in Germany. The woman of the Netherlands expects to reclaim her rights when the clouds of the depression scatter.

Dresses are modish and hair is shortened, even though Queen Wilhelmina will admit to her presence no women with bobbed hair or cut-out dresses. Society women must make a choice, either to follow the court or follow fashion.

Lifting of U. S. Hay Duty Explained to Canadians

Montreal.— The proclamation of President Roosevelt regarding the lifting of the duty on Canadian hay exported to the south only authorizes such importations into the United States to be free of duty under considerable limitations, the object of the law being to provide for areas where, due to the drought, extraordinary conditions prevail.

This was pointed out in Montreal by wholesaler dealers in hay who claimed that the original announcement had left Quebec farmers "in an excited condition".

Sees Need For Trained Crew

Sopwith Admits Rainbow Handled Better Than Endeavour

New York.—Future challengers for the America's Cup must have crews at least approaching the efficiency of those of the United States defenders, T. O. M. Sopwith, owner and skipper of the latest British challenger, Endeavor, told a group.

"I've never seen such pr[illegible]s you have got your crew down [illegible], he said. "It's a terribly hard standard to live up to, but it's a standard we have got to get close to if we want to compete with you."

Sopwith said he meant no disparagement of his own crew, largely composed of amateurs recruited at the last minute, but that there was no question Rainbow, the successful defender, was much better manned.

Sopwith amused the gathering by reciting a remark made by one of his crew while adjusting a fitting on the metal mast of the boat during one of the races.

"In God's name what would Lord Nelson say if he saw us setting a mainsail with a wrench?" he quoted the man as saying.

City Welfare Gardens Yield $15,000 Harvest

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Fifteen thousand dollars worth of vegetables is the 1934 production of the city's welfare subsistence gardens, according to Mr. Roy Lodge, super|visor.

The garden idea began a year ago when the Kent Garden Club saw the possibilities of utilizing vacant acreage for this purpose. City officials approved and donated land. Civic-minded persons loaned other lands free for the project. Tools were provided. Last year there were 273 plots, which yielded nearly 4000 bushels of garden stuff, valued at about $6000.

Motor Accidents Increase

T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways of Ontario reports an increase in motor accidents for the first seven months of 1934 over the corresponding period of last year. During this period there were 4,674 accidents or 4.7 per cent more than last year. The increase in fatalities was 10.9 per cent while the estimated property damage loss from reported accidents was $443,094 or 7.2 per cent more than in 1933. The greatest rate of change in total accident was in collisions involving bicycles with an increase of 14.9 per cent. Possibly this increase in accidents is simply due to the fact that 1934 traffic was much heavier than for several years past.

New York "Poor Man's Courts" Eases Order to Pay Claims

New York.—The Court of Small Claims known as the "Poor Man's Court," has taken a leaf out of the book of the large scale manufacturer and recognized the installment plan as a legitimate method by which defendants may pay off judgments outstanding against them.

At its weekly session presiding Justice Pelham St. George Missell of the Manhattan branch of the court, signed two orders taking into account the phenomena of "hard times" in requiring the defendants to pay.

Mrs. Henry Gollin, of the Bronx, who had run up a bill of $18 for dental work, was instructed to pay her dentist, Dr. Charles Weiman, $1 a week until the entire amount was paid off. Dr. Weiman brought into court an X-ray illustrated report of the work he had done for the defendant to support his claim.

The other "installment judgment" was rendered against Mr. George E. Horn, who was ordered to pay $1 a week to Mr. Adolph E. S. Faigle, plaintiff, until the sum of $48 for sales commissions due him was paid in full.

Proofs of a photograph which did not please the client, a radio which would not work and a Jewish prayer shawl which developed holes after a visit to the cleaner were among the subjects of litigation which won verdicts for the plaintiffs or were settled in the court room.

The dissatisfied sitter in the photographer's studio recovered $3 of his $5 deposit from the photographic company.

The owner of the radio receiver won a judgment for the purchase price of $15 after the defendants produced a model as exhibit A, plugged it in to three different outlets in the court, but no sound issued from it.

Remarking that "the court notes that it does not work," Justice Bissell awarded the plaintiff the full purchase price.

Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel announced the opening of a conciliation court to which attorneys may take cases when there is a chance of settling them The new tribunal is intended to clear court calendars and seed trials. It will be called each afternoon while the Supreme Court is in session.

Royal Poultry Show Outdoes Record

Once again the Royal Winter Fair [illegible] its own record in the Poultry division. Twenty-nine Specialty Clubs American and Canadian, will hold their Club shows and in some cases, their annual "meets" in conjunction with the Royal. This is an increase of three clubs over the previous record, and as secretaries in each case anticipate increased representation for their specialties a larger total exhibit is already assured for the Royal's Poultry Show at the Coliseum on November 21st-29th.

Individual enquiries at the Royal Winter Fair offices from smaller non-associated bird exhibitors show keen enthusiasm prevailing in the local "fancy." As the present fall season has been specially favourable for the birds being in good condition the prospects for a Poultry show of high standard are even brighter than they were at the corresponding period last year.

Pet stock exhibits which include rabbits, cavies, and other furred animals, as well as the sections for the ducks, geese, turkeys and game birds are equally promising.

A missionary in India was having an earnest talk with a Hindoo whom he hoped to convert to Christianity.

"Come, now," said the missionary, with gentle persuasion, "wouldn't you like to go to heaven when you die?"

The son of India shook his head in polite regret.

"I do not think," he said, "that heaven can be very good, or the British would have had it years ago."

Veterans' League To Meet Again

Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, K.C., Will Be Guest Speaker At Dinner November 10.

Toronto —The second annual dinner of The University Veterans' League will be held in the Royal York Hotel here on Saturday, November 10th. Last year the first dinner, on the night of November 11th, the beloved Corps Commander, Sir Arthur Currie, lay on his heathbed.

This year. Lieutenant - Colonel George A. Drew, K.C., nationally known exponent of Great Britain's war achievement, and of Canada's, will be the guest speaker.

In spring of 1933 The University Veterans' League was formed. It aims to perpetuate the comradeship of the Great War, and to call forth again in the present crises of the nation and the Empire those qualities of leadership so superbly displayed by Canadian University men in that great crisis.

Specific applications of this purpose have been to study and endeavor to solve present-day problems; to assist veteran University men out of employment in getting re-established; to assist unemployed ex-service men in sustaining and recovering their morale which has been shaken by the depression and the exigencies of the relief system; to furnish constructive support and leadership which has been neglected by returned officers and men since the war; and to endeavor to assist in the creation of an atmosphere of international good-will.

Some months ago, in response to that inspiring message of the late Sir Arthur Currie, Lieutenant-Colonel T. R. Loudon, Chairman of the International Committee of The University Veterans' League, proceeded to Europe to interest college graduate ex-officers in the promotion of international good-will and was encouraged with the results of his mission. It was Colonel Loudon's belief that action to eliminate private profit on the manufacture of armaments would meet with the desired general support and that, if it were adopted, mutual international confidence would result.

Pulp Value In 1933 Lower

Decrease Under Previous Year Is 9%; Half 1929 Total

Ottawa.—Gross production of the pulp and paper industry last year had a value of $13,415,492, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This was a decrease of 9.01 per cent. from the value of $135,468,492 in 1932, and was just slightly over half of the gross production in the peak year of 1929, when the value was $243,674,246.

In 1933 there was a net loss of three establishments in the industry. One pulp mill, one combined pulp and paper mill, and one paper mill in Ontario closed down, while one pulp mill resumed operations. In New Brunswick one pulp mill closed but another resumed, while in Manitoba the only mill manufacturing pulp and paper closed down.

The 70 mills in Canada manufacturing pulp produced 2,979,562 tons last year, valued at $64,114,074, as compared with 2,663,248 tons in 1932, valued at $64,412,453. This represented an increase of 11.9 per cent. in quantity, but a drop of less than one-half of one per cent. in value.

The 67 mills making paper in 1933 produced 2,416,810 tons of paper and other products, valued at $97,030,429, compared with 2,290,767 tons, valued at $114,115,570 in 1932. This was an increase of 5 per cent. in quantity and a drop of 19 per cent. in value.

The total capital invested in the industry in 1933 was $559,265,544, compared with $597,550,013 in 1932. Employees last year numbered 24,037, with a total payroll of $26,591,049 as against 24,561 employees in 1932, with a payroll of $28,346,128.

New Zealand Plans Reseearch in Wool

Auckland, N.Z.—The New Zealand Government has introduced a bill to impose a levy of not more than 4d. a bale on all wool produced in the country, and to use the fund so established for wool reseadch.

The fund is to be administered by a research committee appointed by the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, and is to be used to improve the quality of New Zealand wool, to study sheep raising problems, and to extend publicity in respect to the use of wool.

New Zealand, one of the great wool-producing countries, has made little joint effort to improve flocks and fleeces. The Prime Minister points out that wool producers are today open to attack from manufacturers of alternative fibers. The grower has been content to raise his wool, put it on the market, and let it look after itself, but now he is beginning to realize that everything he has been so confident about is on trial.

FINANCIAL FLASHES

Silver Continues to Hold Limelight

The steady advance in the price for Silver in both London and New York continues to hold the attention of the financial world. Buying by the United States government is still the main factor in the situation and has lead to a protest being filed by the Chinese government against the U.S. policy. They contend that the steadily advancing price for the white metal is hurting their export trade and is depleting their stocks of the metal. Apparently faced with huge reductions the government has placed a ten per cent. levy on silver exports and in addition an equalization charge will be imposed on exports which will be equal to the deficiency which may exist between the theoretical parity of Chinese silver exchange with London and the rate of exchange officially fixed by the Central Bank of China. It is assumed that this step was taken to protect the silver reserves of the Chinese banks just as the United States and Great Britain have taken steps in the past to prevent a heavy drain on the gold reserves of their banks.

The pros and cons of the Chinese situation are too complicated to be of interest to the average person and it is only mentioned as being one of the factors affecting the general silver market, which is of real interest to many readers. Many mining companies who have silver content in their ores will gain substantially through the higher price for the metal Of particular interest, however, is the fact that, in the Great Bear Lake district, Canada has the only new silver field of importance, which has been discovered since the days of the Cobalt boom about 1904-1906. The higher price for silver will undoubtedly lead to more intensive efforts on the part of operators in this area. Work during the past four years has resulted in one producer being brought in while at least two others will be in production in 1935. That only a very small fraction of the favorable ground has been prospected is a well known fact, but with transportation facilities improving and costs showing a steady downward trend it seems certain that much more activity will be seen in the district during the next year. The writer has interviewed several engineers and geologists who have spent the past summer in the area and their enthusiasm on the outlook is very sincere. Substantial profits have already been made by many on investments made in companies operating in the Great Bear Lake and adjacent territories but if all reports are anywhere near correct, it seems to be assured that they are relatively small to what can be anticipated for the future.

Steel Company of Canada

Officials of this company are reported as expressing satisfaction over business conditions as they have existed during the past few months. A steady flow of orders is being received by the company and volume is large enough to keep a substantial part of the plant operating steadily.

Howey Gold Mines Earnings

Official announcement is made for the third quarter of the current year. Howey Gold Mines Ltd., showed total revenue of $367,502, as compared with $471,000 in the previous quarter. Tonnage treated during the third quarter was 123,654 tons and mining costs, before depreciation, taxes, etc., were $1.80 per ton. The company has declared a dividend of four cents per share, payable on December 1st to shareholders of record October 31st. Two previous dividends paid were at the rate of 3 cents per share, so that present declaration brings total payments for the year up to ten cents per share.

McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd.

For the six months ending September 30th, McIntyre Porcupine Mines showed gross income of $4,143,509 and net income after all charges amounted to $1,910,135 or about $2.39 per share. This compares with $2.20 per share for the same period in 1933.

While the production figures shown in the company's statement are based on mint returns, they do not state that they represent total bullion production for the quarter. It is hinted in some quarters that they are following the policy they are said to have done before in that they may be holding some of the gold produced in anticipation of higher prices for the yellow metal The company are reported to have made an extra profit of around half a million dollars by following this plan before. It would thus seem that, if the assumption is correct, the management are anticipating a further increase in the price for gold in the not distant future.

Shawinigan Water and Power

This company's gross earnings for the nine months ending September 30 are reported at $8,962,677 an increase of some $330,000 over the same period last year. Net earnings after expenses amounted to $5,244,201 against $4,689,550 in 1933.

The regular dividend of 12 cents per share has been declared payable on November 15th to shareholders of record October 25.

Canadian Gold Production

Canadian gold production in August amounted to 264,870 ounces as compared with 245,516 ounces in the previous month and 257,607 ounces in August 1933. For the first eight months of the current year production totalled 1,944,196 ounces.

Average New York price for the yellow metal was $34,19 so that production in August was worth $9,055,-905 based on this price. All of the provinces showed a gain in production for the month over July, with Ontario's figures being 185,391 ounces.

Because his wife, from whom he has been separated, refused to see him, William Charles Newell, 50, of Cornwall, last night drank the contents of a bottle believed to have contained poison, and died in a hospital in Montreal. An inquest will be held. Police learned Newell had gone to Montreal to see his wife, who lives with a son. When his son told him Mrs. Newell would not see him, Newell waited until the son's back was turned, and drank the contents of the bottle. A doctor was called and ordered his removal to hospital, where he died.

MRS. L. W. MULLOY

The death occurred suddenly on Friday last, at her residence on Point Iroquois, of a well known citizen, in the person of Mrs. Jean Munro Mulloy, widow of the late Col. L.W. Mulloy.

Born in Antwerp, N.Y., 59 years ago, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Silas Munro, she received her early education at the schools there, and afterward at Syracuse University. From there she went to Boston Conservatory of Music to study. She then spent twelve years in Italy studying under that country's most famous maestros, who developed to perfection the wonderful coloratural voice which was to make her famous.

Coming to Amercia, she was at once associated with the Metropolitan Opera and sang successfully there for some years. In 1909 she married the late Col. L.W. Mulloy in St. James Church, Montreal, and then retired from her career until the war broke out, when she, in company with her husband, toured Canada several times, recruiting. Her fine talents served her as writer, composer and artist and she gave her full time to the service of her country when the need was great. Later she resided in Kingston, where her blind husband was lecturing in the Royal Military College. After the war, Col. Mulloy and Mrs. Mulloy moved to Iroquois, where the colonel studied, graduated in and practised law.

The late Mrs. Mulloy had not been well for some years, but her sudden death was a great shock to all who knew her.

The funeral service was held at her late residence, Point Iroquois, on Sunday. Rev. T. Knowles, United Church pastor, was assisted by Rev. Wm. Merrilees of Knox Presbyterian Church, Iroquois.

The late Lt.-Col. L.W. Culloy, who predeceased her three years ago, was buried in a private cemetery on his estate, overlooking the St. Lawrence river, and it is known as the Lorne Mulloy memorial cemetery. Here Mrs. Mulloy was laid to rest beside her husband.

COUNCIL TO ADD 80 MILES TO ROAD SYSTEM

Despite determined opposition of all urban and several rural representatives, the council of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry counties voted last week to add approximately 80 miles to the counties' road system, bringing the total to more than 410 miles. The present system includes 198 miles of paved highway and 132 miles of gravel road. The vote on the measure resulted in a deadlock at 16-16, with Warden John D. McDonald of Lancaster township casting the deciding ballot in favor.

One of the most important features of the six-day autumn session of council was the adoption on Saturday of the report of the resolutions and memorials committee, providing that a delegation be sent to Toronto to personally present to Premier Hepburn, memorials on the following matters:

Council urges amendment of present legislation to permit municipalities to call in debentures issued at high rates of nterest and to issue new debenures at an interest rate more in keeping with the present interest value of money. It was pointed out that debenture indebtedness comprises a major tax burden in most municipalities of the province, and refinancing is necessary.

Pointing out that the counties' share for the maintenance of indigent patients in hospitals has mounted from $3,000 in 1927 to an estimated peak of $61,000 for 1934, council will memorialize the legislature to reduce the per diem rate.

Council will ask for revision of the present system of taxation. It was felt that the present system, based on taxation of land and buildings alone, places the burden on those least able to pay, and that it would be more equitable if a tax were imposed on the huge sums on deposit in savings banks.

Need for revision of the Municipal Franchise Act will be urged upon the government. Reeve W.H. Casselman of Chesterville, informed council, as an example, that a $600 property in his municipality gives six persons the right to vote in municipal elections. The property is jointly owned by four persons living outside the municipality. It is tenanted by two persons, who have been on relief for some months past.

Council will ask for the restoration to county councils of many powers stripped from them in recent years. It was felt that county councils, considered to be the most democratic form of government in Canada, could be much more useful if their lost authority were restored.

Memorials will also stress the desirability of legislation to prevent fixed exemptions granted by local municipalities applying to the county levy and the desirability for legislature to extend the time in which debts may be outlawed.

KING'S SON MAY BE CANADA'S NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL

According to London, Eng., publications, there is a "strong movement to secure His Majesty's permission to appoint the Duke of Kent as next Governor-General of Canada". Youngest son of Their Majesties, the Duke of Kent is being married this month to Princess Marina of Greece.

It is understood there is "steady pressure in influential quarters to send the popular 'young marrieds' to succeed the Earl of Bessborough".

It is stated further that Canada's political leaders believe "nothing could be more popular than the sending of the Duke of Kent and his lovely wife-to-be to the vice-regal lodge in Ottawa.

"Their youth would appeal to the spirit of youth in the Dominion, and it would be equally popular in the United States, where the British royal family is regarded with peculiar admiration and affection," one paper states.

SPORT FLASHES

Next Thursday marks the opening of the hockey season for the National League, when Chicago Black Hawks invade St. Louis, and Boston Bruins visit Toronto Maple Leafs.

Tomorow, Saturday, is the second and final game of the play-offs between Morrisburg and Winchester in the Dundas County football league. Winchester won the first game last Saturday by a score of 8-2. The local boys were disheartened, however, on that occasion, when they scored a touchdown that was disallowed. They will put everything into an effort to win tomorrow.

No organiation work has been done to date towards a senior hockey team to represent Morrisburg this year. It is reported, however, that there will be a crack junior team from this village. Another rumour says that Cardinal will walk off easily with the St. Lawrence League honours.

M.C.I. RUGBY TEAM DEFEATED

Morrisburg Collegiate football team was defeated 8-2 by Winchester High School squad there on Saturday last, in the first game of the Dundas County finals. The visitors started off strong in the first period and collected two points when McIntosh made good on kicks.

The Winchester team were faced with stiff opposition, and were badly outplayed until near the end of the second period, when they settled down and succeeded in tying the score, when Boyd and Weir each scored a point by kicking to the dead line.

In the third period, Boyd, of Winchester, made one of the most sensational plays of the game. He came in possession of the ball at the 40 yard mark, streaked down the right touch line, avoiding five Morrisburg tacklers, and gave his team five points when he made a touchdown. In converting the play, he collected another point on a neat placement kick. From this stage of the game until the end, Morrisburg pushed the play, but were unable to elude the Winchester tacklers.

The last game of the series will be played in Morrisburg on Saturday afternoon.

The line-ups:

Morrisburg—Flying wing, A. Coligan; halves, Schell, Robinson and McIntyre; quarter, Jenkinson; snap, Lane; insides, Weegar and L. Coligan; outsides, Eamon and McIntosh; middles, Salmon and Fetterly; subs, Whittaker, Casselman and Tuttle. Team manager, Mac Ault.

Winchester—Flying wing, Elliott; halves, L. Dixon, Boyd and W. Summers; quarter, Weir; snap, Coons; insides, G. Holmes and Quart; middles, Ball and D. Dixon; outsides, Rowat and Wilson; subs, Dawley, Stewart, Ault, Cass, Peterson and E. Holmes. Team manager, Bill Servage.

Referee, E.J. Spinks, Winchester; umpire, Geo. C. Power, Morrisburg; head linesman, Gordon McDonald, Ormond.

HEMLOCK BOUGHS DEFEATED AGAIN

Hemlock Boughs sustained their usual weekly beating last Tuesday, at the hands of the Seven Aces.

Although the Boughs led the score and the play until one minute before the end of the game, their good work was all undone in a short time. Johhny McCoy scored two goals in quick succession during the last five minutes, to tie the score 5-5, and Harry Ing flashed the winning counter past Timmins with about 5 seconds to go.

Timmins, in net for the Boughs, showed the best goal-tending, without exception, that has been seen in the arena this year. Johnny O'Malley, in the opposite goal, also played a steady game. Other players showing to advantage were: Charlie Weegar and Maurice Wilkins for the Boughs, and Charlie Ault and Harry Ing for the winners.

The game's marksmen were as follows:

For the "Aces"—John McCoy, 3; Raymond Reid 1, W. Monpetit 1, Harry Ing 1.

For the "Boughs"—Arthur Laurin 2; Maurice Wilkins 1, Basil Millward 1, Leonard Laurin 1.

These teams meet again next Tuesday at 7 p.m. for a final game. The Boughs are determined to win it in a decisive manner, and have every intention of "whitewashing" their arch-enemies. A good fast game is assured.
