TO VOTE ON GOVERNMENT STORES

Within the next seven weeks, seven and possibly eight places in Ontario will decide by ballot whether they "want" Government Liquor stores or not.

Galt, Renfrew, Matheson, Bracebridge, Wallaceburg, Alexandria and Port Rowan are sure starters, Vankleek Hill is the only doubtful case, although, like the other towns, it has made application for a vote under provisions of the Liquor Control Act and has had that application approved by the Ontario Liquor Control Board.

All eight places are municipalities which prior to the advent of the Ontario Temperance Act in 1916, were under local option, Galt, Renfrew and Matheson will vote on December 5th. The other towns, including Vankleek Hill, should it make up its mind in time will decide the "shop" issue on January 2.

The formal question they will put to their electors is: "Are you in favor of the establishment of Government stores for the sale of liquor under the Liquor Control Act?" A three-fifths majority will be required to change their present "dry" complexions into "wet" ones.

MRS. ATHADEN BARCLAY

After a very short illness, Mrs. Barclay was called to eternal rest on November 17th, at the early age of 50 years and 10 days. Her unexpected death was a great shock to her family, friends and community. She was a member of the United Church at Elma, and was of a very cheerful and genial disposition, a kind and loving mother and wife, always willing to help in time of trouble.

The funeral service was held at the Presbyterian Church, Dunbar, and conducted by her pastor, Rev. Hurst, assisted by Rev. Orak. Her text was from 1st. Corinthians, 7 Chapt., verses 29-31.

She was laid to rest at Maple Ridge Cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a loving husband and four children, Mrs. Fred Cunningham, Williamsburg, Clifford of Massena, N.Y., Hubert and Madge at home and four grandchildren.

An aged mother and father also survive. Two brothers, George of Boucks Hill and Shaler of Ottawa.

A half brother and a sister, Mr. M. A. Barclay and Mrs. Ira N. Dillabough, Elma.

The large gathering of friends and the beautiful flowers all show the high esteem in which she was held. A broken circle from husband and family, a crescent from Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hill and Mr. and Mrs. George Hill; a wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Shaler and a spray, Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham.

The pall bearers were four neighbors, John Carlyle Bismark Barclay, Andrew Allison and Ellery Merkley.

Friends from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Barclay, Massena N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cripler Rensellaer Falls, N.Y. Mr and Mrs.. Fred Robinson and Mr. Will Law Kemptville and many others.

I. O. O. F. "AT HOME"

Iroquois, Nov. 28—The members of Riverside Lodge, No. 145, I.O.O.F., entertained their friends at an "At Home" in their lodge room on Friday evening, November 18th, with a very large crowd in attendance consisting of Oddfellows, their wives and guests. The evening was spent at progressive euchre, with a prize presented to the lady getting the greatest number of points.

A very unique feature of the evening was the presentation of Veterans' Jewel, representing 25 years of membership, to three of the members, namely, G. H. Davy, B.A.; P.D.D.G.M; Alex Barclay and Chas. Burnside.

In the absence of the D.D.G.M., Bro. J. C. Sim, of Cardinal, who was expected to be present, Bro. H. Hamilton, P.D.D.G.M., made the presentation and the Brothers receiving the medals made suitable replies. The High School Orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. M. A. Epplett, M.A., of the High School staff furnished pleasing music throughout the evening

WOMENS INSTITUTE MEET AT IROQUOIS

Iroquois, Nov. 21—The Iroquois Branch of Dundas County Womens Institute held their November meeting on Friday afternoon last at the home of Mrs. Eva Hogg, with an attendance of forty-five. The Morrisburg Institute provided the program for this meeting, having been invited to do so, a few weeks ago. It was a most attractive one as follows:

Piano Solo, "Valse Impromptu," by Raff, Miss Clark.

The literary part of the program was "Fathers of Confederation" by Miss M. Allison.

"Sir John MacDonald," by Miss Elizabeth Gillespie.

"Hon. George Brown," by Miss W. Allison.

"Sir Leonard Tilley" by Mrs. John McMartin.

"Sir Charles Tupper" by Miss Laura Stewart.

"D'Arcy McGee" prepared by Miss G. Campbell, and read by Mrs. Geo. Challies.

It was an unusual program and was very much enjoyed by the Womens Institute of this town.

Mrs. Clinton Fetterly delighted the audience by her singing of "When You Come Home at Eventide" and very kindly responded with an encore.

MUSIC IN OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

It may not be generally known that in September last our Board of Education made an arrangement whereby Mrs. Harry Armstrong should teach vocal music to the pupils in the public schools. Mrs. Armstrong has now completed a term of ten weeks lessons and next week will give a written examination on the work covered by each room, the results of which will be published. She required the pupils of the higher rooms to write an essay on "Why a child should have a Musical Education," for which she donated a prize. Some very fine essays were handed in. It was difficult to decide which one should receive the prize, but ultimately the decision went to Miss Helen Lawson who received 97 marks and was so closely followed by Marion Fetterly with 95, that a second prize has been awarded Marion.

We are fortunate in having in our midst, one who is qualified to give the pupils of our schools the same privileges that the city and town schools have enjoyed for many years. The Board of Education is to be congratulated on this new departure. "The Leader" has kindly consented to publish the prize essay which follows:

"WHY A CHILD SHOULD HAVE A MUSICAL EDUCATION.

Mary awoke from a good night's rest to hear her Mother calling to come down and practise her music. She looked out of the window to see the sun shining brightly, and she also saw some of her play-mates already at play. My, how she longed to go out and play with them, but she could not, and besides, if she hurried down stairs, she would be able to go outside all the sooner.

She only practised a few minutes when she decided that she would go out and lie in the hammock just for a few minutes. As she settled herself in the hammock, she said "what is the use of having a musical education, anyway?"

Before she had hardly uttered these words she saw coming towards her a little fairy. Then it said, in a sharp voice, "I will tell why a child should have a musical education.

First, because music, real music, is beautiful, and a child cannot study it without being made better and sweeter, and bring pleasure to all who dwell in her home.

Mother loves to hear her children play, and when Daddy comes home after his hard day's work what a pleasure it is to hear his wee girlie play some merry tunes for him. An old grandmother, in her chair by the fire, loves the old hymns she sang when she was young and strong and able to go to Church."

Then the fairy, looking very wise, said, "If your Daddy died, wouldn't you be glad if you could give music lessons and earn your own living, and help Mother keep a home for the baby? Wouldn't you like to play the Church Organ, and help all the people to worship God in that way?

Then you know about those singing lessons that you are getting all for nothing down at the school and that I heard you scolding about the little bit of time it took you to practise. Don't you know,silly little girl, that the greatest gift God gave to anyone is a voice? Don't you know that practising will make your throat strong, and develop your lungs?

Then a strange thing happened. Mary opened her eyes to find that she had been asleep, the fairy was gone. But without looking twice, she ran into the house and finished practising.

ANNUAL BAZAAR AND CHICKEN SUPPER

The annual bazaar under the auspices of the Mission Circle of the United Church will be held in the Assembly Room Thursday, December 1st, opening at 3 o'clock. Many beautiful articles, hand embroidered, suitable for Christmas gifts, home-made cooking, candy, etc. A hot supper will be served from 5.30 o'clock. Supper 35c.

Costa Rica Banana Plantations Raided by Savage Leopards

Tigres—the local name for the great leopards of South and Central America—are causing such an excessive loss of human life and live stock on the banana plantations of Costa Rica that an active campaign is now being waged against them.

In a recent issue of the Diario de Costa Rica a fruit company inserted the following advertisement: "Hunters take notice: We will pay $62.50 for every leopard killed on the lands of our plantations at Banano in the Pacuare region. We will furnish food and lodging to the hunters during their stay."

Costa Rican leopards are extremely ferocious, and often weigh from 300 to 400 pounds. Their method of attack is to conceal themselves in the branches of trees above a road and then leap down on their passing victims. They have so terrified the residents of rural districts that visiting after [illegible] has been suspended unless under an escort of several armed men, and with dogs to run ahead.

Poisonous serpents also form a constant menace to Costa Rican agricultural laborers. The deadly coral snake and others almost as venomous lurk in the banana plants. Being almost the color of the foliage, they are seen with difficulty. Should the laborer be bitten in the hand or foot, the usual remedy is to slash off the wounded member with his machete, and the sight of mutilated natives of the laboring class is not uncommon. Recently the fruit companies operating in Costa Rica have obtained snake bite serum from Brazil, and it is expected that by its prompt injection many lives will in the future be saved.

MADE HER BABY PLUMP AND WELL

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a benefit conferred upon her child. Mothers everywhere who have used Baby's Own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Zepherin Lavoie, Three Rivers, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels, and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms, allay teething pains and promote healthful sleep. They are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OWL-LAFFS

BY O. W. L. (On With Laughter)

If television becomes practical a telephone call will assure us of having a speaking likeness of our friends.

No new dances are announced this season. The dance thing sort of got mired in Black Bottom.

In Paris the ladies are adopting the fad of tinting their finger nails in bands of three colors. As a patriotic citizen, if the style is adopted in Canada, we move that the colors be red, white and blue.

The night was clear and frosty. The two tramps sat in a manger. Suddenly a gust of wind blew open the door.

"Old pard," remarked the other tramp, "them thar flakes is beginning to fall."

There was a dead silence. Then the other tramp spoke: "How I wisht they was cornflakes!"

Some interesting advice on how to care for a baby, as published in a newspaper advertisement: "When the baby is done drinking, it should be unscrewed and laid in a cool place under a tap. If the baby does not thrive on fresh milk it should be boiled."

In spite of radio, telephone, telegraph, movies and the fountain pen, the printing press still holds its own as the best disseminator of news, thought and advertising.

Rook—"Will anaesthetic make me sick?"

Doctor—"No, I think not."

Rook—"How long will it be before I know anything?"

Doctor—"Aren't you expecting too much of an anaesthetic?"

Minard's Liniment for Distemper.

Havana Bars All Litter

Havana, Cuba, is probably the only city in the world whose street cleaners appear for work wearing starched linen, neckties and gloves, and with shoes luminously polished.

Six to eight men form the crew of each garbage truck, and they work on the run, a gong being sounded when the truck approaches each residence as a signal for the garbage cans to be set out. The law requires that the cans must be returned immediately after being emptied, and woe betide the careless servant who overlooks this obligation and leaves out cans for flies to reach.

Not a scrap of paper is to be found on the streets, for sweepers are always at work. Each afternoon the trees in the parks are sprayed and after midnight great watering trucks deluge the streets with such force that all dust and dirt are washed away.

TONE UP THE BLOOD AND NERVES NOW

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Have No Equal for This Purpose.

Anaemia, or lack of good blood, causes not only pale faces and white lips; it is the root of many pains and miseries. It is the cause of shattered nerves, headaches and backaches, and the always tired feeling from which so many women and girls suffer. To regain new health and strength the blood should be enriched through the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This medicine has brought new health and strength to thousands of weak despondent people.

Among those who have found new health through the use of this medicine is Mrs. Gregory J. Murphy, East Ship Harbor, N. S., who says:—"I bless the day I heard of Dr Williams' Pink Pills. Before I began their use I was in a run-down and very weak condition. The least exertion would leave me breathless and tired out. Housework was a trial, and at times I felt very despondent. A friend advised me to try Dr Williams' Pink Pills and I got six boxes. I had not been taking the pills very long until I began to improve in health, and continuing their use they restored me to my former good health. I also gave the pills to my daughter, who was aenaemic and run-down, with the same good results. Now I always have the pills in the house, and would not like to be without them"

Get a box of Dr Williams' Pink Pills from your druggist to-day, or send 50 cents to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and a box will be sent you post paid A little book, "Building Up the Blood," which explains the treatment, will be sent free on request.

ASPIRIN

Headaches may be swiftly and safely relieved by an Aspirin tablet. A most efficient remedy, and there's no after effect; its use avoids much needless suffering. Try it next time; see how soon its soothing influence is felt. Just as helpful when you have a cold; neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago. Just be certain you get real Aspirin—the genuine has Bayer on the box, and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Two More Cases of Feminine Illness Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, N. S.—"I had terrible feelings, headaches, back and side aches and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every month and nothing would do me good. My husband and my father did my work for me as I have two children and we have quite a big place. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little book about it through the mail, and my husband sent to Eaton's and got me a bottle, and then we got more from the store. I am feeling fine now and do all my work and am able to go out around more. I tell my friends it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that makes me feel so well."—Mrs. VICTOR RICHARDSON, Barrington, Nova Scotia.

Dull Pains in Back

St. Thomas, Ont. — "I took four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found great relief from the dull, heavy pains in the small of my back and the weakness from which I suffered for five years after my boy was born. After taking the Vegetable Compound and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I am feeling better than I have for the past seven years, and advise my friends to take it."—Mrs. F JOHNSON, 49 Moore Street, St. Thomas, Ont.

LOCALS

Mrs. Maria Gertrude Knapp, aged 101 years, died at Watertown, N.Y. last week. She was a native of Prescott. She fully retained all her faculties until death, being able to read without the aid of glasses.

The Older Boys and Leader Conference held at Iroquois, November 19th and 20th, the second to be held in Dundas County, was a great success. A large number of boys were in attendance. Mr. Scharfe, a student at Queens University, Kingston, and Rev. Frank Langford of Toronto, were present and conducted the meetings. The Clergymen of the County were also present. Saturday afternoon was devoted to sports, but owing to the wet weather, many stunts were enjoyed in the Town Hall with a banquet in the United Church School room at 6 o'clock. The closing meeting Sunday evening was most impressive and inspiring, led by Mr. Langford, whom the boys will always be glad to meet again.

The Eastern Star Chapter, of which a number of Iroquois ladies are members were entertained last Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar LaBarre, at their home, King St., East, Iroquois. The entertainment provided for the guests was Five Hundred, and an unusually pleasant time was spent. Approaching the hour of midnight very excellent refreshments were served and after a hearty vote of thanks to the hostess, the party dispersed.

Enjoy Radio as You Never Have Before

You will never be satisfied with radio sets built on ordinary principles after once experiencing the flawless performance of the new Westinghouse Batteryless Sets.

All the scientific resources and engineering skill of the vast Westinghouse organization have been combined to make these sets the greatest achievement in the radio art.

They embody all the latest improvements, including one-dial control, new Oval-Cone loud speaker and one of the greatest achievements in radio history—the new Westinghouse "AC" Radiotrons, which operate directly from the light socket, eliminating the great disadvantages of so called batteryless sets of the past.

The tone quality of these new sets is perfect. Distant stations are brought in loud, clear and without distortion. One dial control makes them as simple to operate as turning on an electric light. Let us give you a demonstration in your home without cost or obligation.

Another Word of Warning

AS PREDICTED last year, radio sets without batteries, chemicals, chargers, attachments, etc., are now the standard. In another year or so battery-operated sets will be obsolete, almost worthless, wherever current is available.

Those considering the purchase of a radio operating without batteries should bear in mind that there are two types of "electric" radios:

(1) Those that are built to operate direct from a light socket; made in one factory; complete in one cabinet —all ready to operate, and—

(2) Ordinary electric sets that can be "adapted" to light-socket operation by installing a so-called power unit, which power unit generally consists of a "B" Eliminator, a storage battery and a charger.

You still have the "A" battery; you still have chemicals, but the charger is connected to a light socket, and so they are termed "socket-power." This latter type serves very well for those who already have a battery operated set, but cannot afford to [illegible] it in for a new genuine Batteryless Model, but when buying a new radio supposedly "Batteryless" be sure to get the type that is completely batteryless and built to be so.

Of this type the "Rogers Batteryless" is the only one with any record of proven performance behind it. Conceived in 1923 and introduced in 1925 it is the first and only time-tested radio set, complete in one cabinet, made in one factory and operating direct from any alternating current socket (and in most cases without an aerial).

Moreover the Rogers was conceived, developed, perfected and made right in Canada and was the World's first successful Batteryless A/C radio set.

Producing such a set that will give uniform performance in all localities under all conditions is not easy. The first year or two brings grief. Now, in its third year, with thousands of sets in active operation from coast to coast the Rogers has proven its merit.

Don't experiment. It may cost you dearly. Look for the name "Rogers"; look for the Rogers A/C Tubes with the top clips and be sure, then you'll have no regrets later.

DOMINION OF CANADA VICTORY LOAN BONDS

MATURING 1st DECEMBER, 1927

THE BANK OF MONTREAL, at all of its Branches in Canada, is prepared to accept the above bonds for redemption at maturity.

For the convenience of owners of the bonds, the Bank of Montreal will accept the bonds at any time prior to December 1st, and will make payment in each case on December 1st, either by issuing a cheque or by placing the amount to the owner's credit in the books of the Bank, as the owner may desire.

After November 30th you will not be able to get a MOTOR VEHICLE OPERATOR'S LICENSE without examination

After November 30th every applicant for a Motor Vehicle Operator's License will be required to pass an examination of fitness and ability before an inspector of the Department of Highways. This examination will take some time and will cost a fee of $1.00.

It will be assumed after the above date that every experienced and capable driver will have heeded the law and secured a license.

If you have been careless in not applying for your Motor Vehicle Operator's License, you will save yourself inconvenience, time and money, by making application now. An application form can be secured at any garage.

Licenses are now issued without examination to those who have driven a car at least six months and for at least 500 miles, and also have no physical or mental disability which may interfere with the operation of a motor car. The fee for a license is $1.00 and licenses now issued will be good until December 31st, 1928.

Licenses must be carried by drivers at all times. In case of accident or infraction of The Highway Traffic Act, drivers without Motor Vehicle Operator's Licenses cannot be considered as experienced and competent.

$10.00 Fine

Without a Motor Vehicle Operator's License you have no authority to drive a car in Ontario. The penalty is a fine of $10.00. Production of the Driver's License may be demanded at any time by any policeman or traffic officer.

If you have not yet secured your license you are subject to fine at any time, and if you wait till after November 30th to apply you will have to undergo and pass the driver's examination.

Obey the law. Save yourself time, inconvenience and expense by getting your Motor Vehicle Operator's License without delay.

CEDAR GROVE

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lane on Wednesday last when a number of friends and neighbors gathered to celebrate Mr. Lane's birthday. The evening was spent with music and singing. Miss Grace Gallinger gave several selections on the Hawaiian Guitar which were enjoyed by all.

A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess to which all did ample justice. Mr. W. Wereley gave a short address and presented Mr. Lane with a substantial purse. Although taken by surprise, Mr. Lane responded in a few well chosen words All joined in singing "For He's A Jolly Good Fellew" and wishing him many happy returns of the day. The pleasant evening was brought to a close by singing "God be with you till we meet again."

A GREAT FAVORITE

People often wonder how it is that almost in every home they visit in any part of the Dominion they will find The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal is the favourite paper of the household. But when one thinks of the make-up of that great publication at the extremely low price of one dollar a year, it ceases to be a wonder. The Family Herald and Weekly Star is undoubtedly Canada's favourite, and Canadians are justly proud of it. It is a wonderful combination—newspaper, agricultural journal, and family magazine—all three in one, at a cost of two cents per week. Our readers can make no mistake by giving it a trial.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Death strikes Garrett Folsom while bathing at Ocean Town, N.J. After being perfunctarily examined by a doctor, the body is brought to the Hotel Majusaca, where an inquiry is starter.

Folsom's bathing companions had been Roger Neville, Mrs. Helen Barnaby and Carmelita Valdon. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to Ned Barron, known as the copper king.

Then the startling announcement is made that Folsom had been stabbed to death in the water. Ross, his valet, is questioned, as are Barron and his wife, but no light is shed on the mystery.

Anastasia Folsom, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a pichaq, an Oriental knife, and that it and its scabbard had been purchased on the boardwalk.

It is also established that Croydon Sears is a fancier of curious knives. Anastasia engages Titus Riggs to work on the case. He asks permission to go through the dead man's effects.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVII.

But it was a thankless task. Mostly the documents were of no greater importance of of no evidently suspicious character. It was plain to be seen that Garrett Folsom had packed the lot while in Chicago and brought them to New York, to be attended to there.

For there were various matters that concerned New York business men, and some contracts and estimates that had to do with New York firms. But of anything touching on a nefarious pursuit, or unlawful bribery or corruption, they found no trace.

That is, until the very last, when Dan Pelton turned the little suitcase upside down and gave it a final shake, and an inconspicuous pocket in the lining flipped open. Out dropped a small memorandum book.

It was old and worn, and had evidently been hidden in the pocket purposely.

The two men pounced upon it and found it to be full of various notes and dates, which obviously referred to private matters.

"Whatever it's all about," Pelton said, "it's not meant for the general public. But many of the entries date back and many of the notes are crossed out. I fancy he had this book in use for years."

"Looks so," agreed Riggs, "but I can't see as it's going to mean much to us, unless we can make out who the people are."

"Well, hree's one that seems familiar. Toward the last, note the initials C. R. S. And repeated several times."

"And who may C. R. S. be?"

"That's just it. He may be, possibly, Croydon Rochester Sears."

"Croydon Sears! Impossible! That man's white clear through. I don't know him very well, but I do know him, and I know nothing but good of him."

"That doesn't count, Riggs. If there was a black spot on his past, you wouldn't know it,—but Garret Folsom might have."

"Can you get head or tail to these notes about C. R. S.?"

"They are vague, and yet they are definite, too. Definite in expression, that is, though vague in meaning or allusion."

"Such as?"

"One says, 'C. R. S. Keep on enterhooks.' Another, 'Screw a little tighter.' And another, 'Refer to secret, but lightly.' It seems to me such notes can only mean that uncle held a club over the head of Mr. Sears."

"Do you know Sears well?"

"Not so very. But I've known him in a general way for years. And I'd back him to the last ditch. His reputation is unassailable. But Uncle Garry may have known of some plot. Early indiscretion, or something. There's no use pretending uncle was perfect, just because he's dead."

"Pelton, you use the word blackmail with a careless touch. It's a dangerous and uncertain game. More than in most ventures; if you push your victim too far, you come to a cropper yourself."

"Well, Garrett Folsom wasnt the man to come croppers. If that's the case, then I'll bet he never pushed a victim too far."

"He did—if he was murdered for doing so."

Pelton stared.

"Meaning, in plain English, the suggestion that he was hounding Sears about this 'secret' which unquestionably existed, and that in consequence, Sears bumped him off?"

"Meaning that it is certainly among the possibilities."

"Then, I say, as I said from the start, I'd rather let sleeping dogs lie, drop the investigation, and let the bones of Garrett Folsom rest in peace."

"The investigation will not be dropped!" cried a strident voice, and Miss Folsom stamped into the room. "I heard what you said, Dan, as I neared the door. And it's not up to you to say what shall be done. I engaged Mr. Riggs; he is working for me, and I forbid you to interfere in any manner!"

"Oh, come, now, Aunt Stasia," said Pelton, "you don't want to uncover a lot of stuff that would reflect on Uncle Garrett's character, do you?"

"Nothing like that can be unearthed! There is nothing in my brother's life that may not be shown to the light of day! Don't you suppose I knew my brother! And he has been murdered, and for some reason or other you are trying to hush things up! First thing you know you'll get yourself suspected!"

"Good Lord, auntie, how you do go on!"

Even in this serious situation Dan was amused, as he always was, at his aunt's vehemence.

"I'll thank you, Dan, to keep out of it all. You can't help, and if you could you wouldn't. Now take your finger out of the pie and leave the investigation to those who are capable of conducting it."

Her scorn, as shown on her haughty face, might have withered one less used to it, but it was old stuff to Dan Pelton.

"All right," he said, "but don't blame me when you find you have brought public ignominy and shame on the memory of the man you loved so well."

"What do you mean?"

He looked at Riggs and shrugged his shoulders.

"You see, madam," and Tite Riggs concluded frankness was his duty, "we're run across some notes and papers that seem to show Mr. Folsom had some people at his mercy."

"At his mercy? What do you mean by that?"

"That their reputation were at his mercy. That he knew their secrets and it gave him a hold over them."

"My brother knew the secrets of many people. He was the confidant and counsellor of many. If that gave him a hold over them it was the hold of gratitude and thankfulness for his assistance."

"Aunt, you're priceless! I think, Riggs, you'd better tell her all."

"Mr. Riggs will most certainly tell me all."

Miss Folsom's eyes began to glitter and her voice took on a dominating tone that had, nevertheless, Dan noted, a slight tinge of fear in it.

"Then, Miss Folsom, to put the matter in a few words, we have found some papers—"

"You told me that before."

"Some papers that indicate transacions or arrangements of a nature far from creditable to Mr. Folsom."

"Speak out more plainly. What are they?"

"I'll read you some, instead."

He opened the worn notebook and read:

"'F. L.: Positive of the perjury matter. J. N. S.: No doubt of the truth of K's report. T. C.: Have absolute proof of his guilt.'

"Now, I'm sorry to hurt you further, but on another page a series of large numbers would seem to indicate sums paid by these individuals, as the figures are opposite the initials we have noted, and the dates are consecutive and recent."

"I think, Mr. Riggs, you read a meaning into those notes to suit yourself. I think, if truth were known, they represent the friends who, as I told you, consulted with my brother and he advised and helped them. The figures, of course, we cannot understand, but none of it is one iota of proof or even an indication that my brother had any unlawful hold over these people."

"I have not seen such great faith, no, not in all Israel!" murmured Pelton, who was fond of quotation.

"Be quiet, Dan," said his aunt. "Now, Mr. Riggs, you seem extraordinarily blind to facts, as you call them. If these are facts, I mean in the way you interpret them, then it is clear that my brother's murderer must have been one of these victims, as you put it, of his tyranny. If so, I want that man found and hanged, and I will accept the consequences of any opprobrium that may bring to my brother's name."

"Then you want me to go ahead and investigate these notes, if possible, irrespective of the outcome?"

"Go ahead, full steam!" declared Miss Folsom.

"THE INVESTIGATION WILL NOT BE DROPPED!" CRIED A STRIDENT VOICE AND MISS FOLSOM STAMPED INTO THE ROOM.

Plan ahead!

AN ATTRACTIVE AFTERNOON OR EVENING FROCK

There are sure to be many occasions when a smart frock like the one pictured here will be found useful. Shirring forms an attractive trimming across the hips, at the front of the shoulders and top of the sleeve frills. For daytime wear the becoming convertible collar is suitable, while the sleeveless frock with the collarless round neck is appropriate for the evening. A note of contrast may be introduced by a strip of ribbon down the front and across the sides. No. 1663 is for Ladies and is in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 38 requires 4⅝ yards 39-inch, or 2¾ yards 54-inch material. View B requires 1⅛ yards less 39-inch material; 2¼ yards 2-inch ribbon. Price 20 cents the pattern.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number and address your order to Pattern Dept., Wilson Publishing Co., 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto. Patterns sent by return mail.

What the Japanese Eat

It is interesting, says an editorial writer in The Lancet (London), to study the food problems of a practically homogeneous race which is changing from an agricultural to an industrial character. A great deal of work has been done by the medical staff of the Japanese Army on the dietaries adapted to their countrymen when doing light, moderate and heavy work, and recently Prof. Shozo Toda, of the Kyoto University, has discussed in The Japan Medical World the actual consumption of food in Japan. Says the London paper:

"Japan is one of those fortunate countries which produce nearly all the food they need. Some rice, beans, sugar, eggs, and wheat flour are imported, but very little else, the total excess of food imports amounting, it is believed, only to about 11 per cent of the nation's requirements. It is calculated by Professor Toda that the mixed population of Japan, 56 million in all, requires the same amount of food as 43 million adults. After careful inquiry he has corrected the statistics of food production and consumption, which would appear very greatly to underestimate the production of vegetables other than cereals and fruits.

"The values show a marked deficiency of fat. The ratio of physiological demands of food calories of the European and Japanese are 100:85, based on weights and body surfaces; and on this basis the Japanese eats more than the European this being mainly due to the large proportion of rice consumed in Japan. This cereal appears to be very digestible in all respects, and although poor in protein and very poor in fat, especially meets the taste of the Japanese. The protein consumed by the European is largely derived from land animals, whilst the Japanese relies mainly on fish, in so far, that is, as he consumes animal food.

"Although the consumption of fish is going up, 'the modern urban people in Japan are inclined to take a simple food of polished rice with some subsidiary diet. . . . This monotony of dietary produces malnutrition. . . . Moreover, it seems to be a chief cause of the increase of beriberi. The growth of population has been approximately proportional to the production of rice. Disease, or a higher rate of mortality, does not seem to follow a poor rice year, but crime does. The present position of Japan is not favorable to cattle-raising on a large scale, but larger batches of fish might easily be made and something done to use a greater proportion of the total catch for food and less for manure. The problems of a population which has so rapidly altered its habits must, in the nature of things, be difficult."

Now is the Time

Look to Protection of Trees From Mice and Rabbits, For Winter

As each spring comes around complaints come in of damage from mice. As much of this can be prevented by precautionary measures taken in the fall we venture once again to remind our readers that the time is now opportune to guard against such loss. This may be accomplished in two ways: (1) by the use of building paper, and (2) by th use of wire or metal protectors. The building paper is a very cheap means of protection from the standpoint of material but, as it lasts only the one season, is extravagant of time through the necessity of wrapping the trees each fall. Single-ply white or grey building paper is used. Tar paper may be used, but is not recommended as there is a possibility of injury to the trees. The paper is cut into strips about six or eight inches wide and the full length of the roll, which is generally about thirty inches. The paper is wrapped fairly snugly around the trunk of the tree and tied with binder twine top and bottom. After tying, a little earth is mounded up around the base to prevent rodents working under the paper. This paper is generally removed in the spring.

The other method, the use of wire or metal, is more permanent, more expensive in material, but cheaper in labor, for the metal protectors last for a long period of years. Fine meshed galvanized wire netting is the most lasting material. It is fastened by small pieces of wire and is made large enough to allow for the trunk expanding as the tree grows.

Another very satisfactory and cheaper material is made from expanded metal, such as is used in building. It is better when both galvanized and dipped in paint, in which state it may be obtained from the factory. This material is fastened round the trunk by small wire fasteners as is the wire netting. It is advisable to stick the ends of these wire protectors in the soil so that there will be no danger of the mice working from underneath.—M. B. Davis, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The Angry Moose That Answered

Many animals are curious, and birds, too, for that matter. One who can imitate their natural calls with even a fair degree of accuracy is pretty sure to get a response. Veteran guides themselves do not understand why a bull moose will so frequently answer the fraudulent call of the birch bark horn in the hands of a man.

"I've listened to perhaps a hundred moose calling," said a Maine guide recently, "and it seemed to me that no two were exactly alike. Some were short cries, others prolonged wailings. Others would start with a high whine and descend down the scale.

"I was up in the Allegash region late last Fall before the rivers and lakes had frozen up. An old Indian had showed me how to fashion one of the most ingenious birch bark horns for moose calling I had ever seen, and one evening I tried it out.

"My cabin was near Five Finger Brook on the shore of Teal Pond, a small body of water about a half mile across and four or five miles long. I was delighted when I got an answer from a long way off, over by the Allegash Mountains. Well, we sassed each other back and forth for several minutes, until I got tired and turned in.

"Two hours later I was awakened by a crashing and splashing outside. It was a clear, moonlight night. Opening the cabin door, I peered out. There, standing on the shore, shaking himself and pawing the beach, was a big bull moose. He must have come miles to answer the call I had forgotten all about. And when he reached the pond he didn't go round—just took the shortest route and swam it!

"He was madder than a wounded wildcat when he found that he had been fooled and he snorted and bellowed around there for some time before he began to calm down. I shut and barred the cabin door and didn't do any more moose calling that night."
