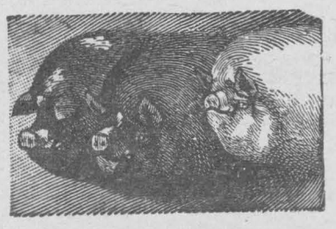
HOG MARKET PRICES ARE STEADILY ADVANCING



Here is the result of a recent experiment at the Research Farm to determine the effect of Dr. Hess Hog Special on pork production.

20 shoats were used in this test, evenly divided in two pens, 10 shoats in each. Both pens received the same feed, except one pen had Dr. Hess Hog Special added to the ground feed which was self-fed. Shoats averaged 50 pounds each at the beginning of the test, and were fed to market weight, 200 pounds each.

Time required:

Hog Special Shoats reached market weight (200 lbs.) in 106 days. Non-Hog Special shoats reached market weight (200 lbs.) in 132 days.

Feed required:

Hog Spcial shoats required 5,411.3 pounds of feed; Non-Hog Special shoats required 6,760 pounds of feed. You will note the Hog Special hogs required 1,348.7 pounds less feed than the hogs that did not get Hog Special. At current prices, that feed is worth $21.98, or $2.19 saved on every hog fattened. After charging all feed at current prices at the farm, and adding the cost of the Hog Special used in this test, which was only $3.97, the Hog Special hogs produced pork at a cost of $5.46 for each 100 lbs. gained; the non-Hog Special hogs produced pork at a cost of $6.97 for each 100 lbs. gained. Take advantage of the advancing prices and get your Hogs on the market quickly, by feeding Dr. Hess Hog Special in the daily ration. The cost is small in comparison with the gain. Try it. Put up in different size packages, priced from .....65c to $3.50

CHALLIES CHALLENGES ROEBUCK'S STATEMENTS ON HYDRO

Mr. Challies' convincing facts and figures in a recent speech in the House, in reply to Attorney-General Roebuck's attack on Hydro, a portion of which is here reproduced, elicited the favorable comment of Toronto morning and evening newspapers.

EASTERN ONTARIO SYSTEM

"The many absurd, inconsistent statements made by the Attorney-General can best be illustrated in his reference to the Eastern Ontario System:—

HON. GEO. H. CHALLIES,
Provincial Secretary and Minister of Game and Fisheries in the late Henry Government,
Who continues to disinguish himself as one of the leading members of the Legislature, in opposition, as he did in the former Cabinet.

"He stated that 'The System has suffered from acts of gross incompetence or worse;' 'the system had not been ruined though rates have been made unnecessarily high' through the purchase of power for the St. Lawrence system. The contract 'was contrary to good principle and ill-advised in view of the fact that the Commission had available potential developments elsewhere'.

"I have already pointed out that our water power resources on the St. Lawrence and Ottawa were not open to us because of Federal Liberal policies and that the powers on smaller streams are of use only as supplementary to these larger areas —that as a source of firm power for the St. Lawrence system they are too expensive. To prove my contention and disprove the fallacy of the stand of the Attorney-General, let me give you the actual facts.

"First, as to his contention that we should not have purchased Quebec power but developed our own on the smaller rivers and thus saved in the price of power.

"Take the Rideau Division which prior to 1930 developed power of one of the smaller streams at high capital cost per horse power. In 1930 this high cost power was diluted with Gatineau power purchased at 14.55 h.p. delivered at Smiths Falls netting the Gatineau Company approximately $11 to $12 per h.p. with the following results:

"1928—Power from our own streams, price per H.P. to following municipalities:

Carleton Place	$62.50
Kemptville	$67.50
Perth	$52.00
Smiths Falls	$47.60

"1930—Power from Gatineau contracts:

Carleton Place	$28.89
Kemptville	$36.86
Perth	$29.22
Smiths Falls	$25.27

"1930—Dry season in Central Ontario System, the emergency was met by hooking up with Gatineau Power at Smiths Falls.

"In the same year, power was taken under the Gatineau contract weeks before, because of the demand, delivery was supposed to start.

"1933—The power possibilities on the Trent System in October was only 40 p.c. of the rated capacity of the system.

"Gatineau Power has been the saving factor in the whole power situation in Eastern Ontario.

"This proves conclusively that with Gatineau Power, prices for power to the municipalities were almost cut in two.

"Now as to 'gross incompetence or worse,' finances almost ruined:—

"Let me give the House the financial statement of the operation of Hydro in Brockville, which is characteristic of the other municipalities in the St. Lawrence System—and to show the utter lack of knowledge on the part of the Attorney-General of history and conditions in Eastern Ontario.

"Brockville, An Example of Hydro Progress

FINED $10 AND JAILED

John J. Grainer of Toronto, formerly of Winchester, appeared before Magistrate McCormick in police court at Winchester on Tuesday, on two charges of violating the Ontario Highways Traffic Act. The first was for reckless driving, for which he was fined $10 and costs. The second was for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. On this count, he was sentenced to 14 days in the county jail at Cornwall.

Gainer had borrowed a truck from a friend in Toronto, and had motored to Morrisburg on Saturday. On Monday evening, he was proceeding north on Bank Street, between Morrisburg and Williamsburg, when he ran the truck into a ditch. Traffic Officer Rose, upon investigating, found Grainer in the truck trying to drive the vehicle through a wire fence in an effort to get back on the road. As the man was in an intoxicated condition, the officer arrested him, and turned the truck over to the provincial police, who are holding it until Grainer gets out of jail.

Four other charges of speeding are scheduled to come before the Magistrate this week.

SALARY IS SECOND

There are many categories of workers, public men, teachers, clergymen and doctors with whom money is a secondary consideration and for whom the challenge of the task is a much more powerful incentive to achievement than the most lucrative of bonuses. For which Heaven be praised!—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

TIMES CHANGE

One reason why the rich are getting along without caviar is told by Neal O'Hara in the New York Post as follows: "Half a dozen years ago the Vanderbilt family's holdings in New York Central were valued at $29,000,000 and yielded an annual income of $1,160,000. Today the same shares have a market value of less than $2,750,000 without returning a cent of income."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

"WOLF" HITLER

Now we know what is wrong with Hitler. It all comes from the fact that someone gave him the name "Adolph," which, according to Dr. Karl Plumeyer, a learned Berlin professor, is "an ancient and valorous name derived from the Edelwold or Noble Wolf, a victory-and-fortune-promising animal." There ain't any sich animile. The wolf's reputation for nobility is non-existent. And his reputation for ferociousness, so far as the human race is concerned, is fake. Perhaps that is the fact with Herr Hitler, too. Perhaps he is busy howling at the world in the hope that, just as many uninformed folk are afraid of the wolf's howl, the world will be afraid of his howl. On the other hand, perhaps he really is ferocious and is just taking the name Noble Wolf as a disguise.—Sault Star.

WOMEN IN PULPITS

Opinion differ throughout Canada as to whether women should occupy church pulpits. Not long ago Manitoba ministers voiced their approval; the Middlesex Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, meeting in London, voted against the ordination of women. The decision was very close though, the standing vote being 40 to 38. The narrow margin points to a growing sympathy for women preachers.

Many churchmen contend that the fair sex is better fitted for the role of missionary or deaconess. Others say certain women would make excellent pulpit orators. Without taking sides, one may say there isn't any doubt but that some would preach first class sermons.—Border Cities Star.

DEFECTIVE CARS

The Law Amendments Committee of the Legislature, hearing the views of the public on traffic control a few days ago, were told by the chairman of the Safety Week Committee of the Board of Trade that 1,346 cars went through safety lane last year, and only 200 were found to be not defective in some way. And he made the much more significant statement that only the better class of car went through the lane at all. The others, the cars that really needed it, never came near.

Inspector Street of the Winnipeg police department also told the committee of the results of a short period of inspection of motor cars. Out of a total of 862 cars, 692 had brakes that were not working properly, 78 had horns that were out of order, 204 had defective rearview mirrors or none at all. In the same period, more than 1,000 cars with only one headlight working were stopped on the city streets. — Winnipeg Free Press.

SHARP - SHOD

Hats off to the St. Marys man who had the ingenious idea, Monday morning, of attaching a pair of horseshoes to the soles of his boots. Every other expedient had falied to help him walk the icy-icy streets without slipping, but the horseshoes did it. What a boom to the blacksmiths if we would but follow his pioneering example! — St. Marys Journal-Argus.

SEVEN SVAD YEARS

Down in South Carolina a woman recently underwent an operation the full story of which moves one almost to tears. It illustrates how thorough in some souls runs the sound old principle of self-reliance, which in this case involved untold penalties. This woman consulted a physician who told her that an operation was the only thing which would restore her health. She left his office and possibly with her going she passed from his memory.

All that was years ago, but seven years after she again appeared in his office, reminded him of his advice, produced a shoe box filled with pennies and told him she was ready now for the operation. With great pain she had gone back to work, to washing, and scrubbing, and mending, and year after year had set aside the hardly earned pennies, the little she could save out of her poverty, until she had amassed the required amount, $75, and when this was gathered had returned to submit herself to the necessary operation.

Needless to say she was at once hurried to the hospital, her shoebox was safely tucked away in the safe to be returned to her when she again emerges from hospital. But what a sad seven years it must have been and how unnecessary! — Halifax Chronicle.

GOPHERS A PEST

Huge amounts are spent each year in the purchase of gopher poison. On the other hand, some of the most valuable animals which Nature has provided to maintain these and other rodents within bounds are being harried to the point of extinction in some cases. With the natural enemies of the gophers thus removed, poison makes little headway in stemming the plague, besides being an ever present menace to other forms of wild life and the cause of many tragedies to human beings.

Coyotes, weasels, hawks and badgers are invaluable as gopher hunters. It is true that the presence of coyotes around a barnyard may mean the occasional disappearance of sheep or calf in stress of hunger. But with proper supervision and the protection which a good dog affords, these animals can be kept where they belong to make their main diet on gophers and field mice.—Calgary Herald.

RUNS IN STOCKINGS

It says in the New York Sun that the United States Bureau of Standards uses an improved machine for testing hosiery. This leads the New York Sun into a chaste little bit in its editorial columns upon runs in stockings. It seems that this machine "shows that laundering, dyeing, ageing, finishing and construction all have a great effect on the . . . durability of the stockings on repeated distention." Thus, it appears, the researches of the bureau in knitting, "degumming," dyeing, finishing, ageing, laundering, redyeing, refinishing, etcetera, are helpful on the great subject of runs in stockings. But the New York Sun thinks that when a woman discovers a run in her stocking she doesn't think of what the bureau is doing.

What we feel like saying about all this is that, God bless our souls, how the times do change! The New York Sun could never have had an editorial bit about runs in stockings when it was young. Come to that, we couldn't have had an editorial bit about runs in stockings when we were young.

Runs in stockings was a subject that simply didn't arise in those days. The Province wouldn't have known. Who would have known? Stockings were out of sight then. Stockings were supposed to be out of mind then. We don't even know if they had runs in stockings then. But if they did have runs in stockings then, we'd bet they were out of sight anyhow—Vancouver Province.

ONE FATALITY

One of the most satisfying features of the police report is the substantial decline in motor accidents. The number reported last year was only 93, with one fatality, as compared with 268 and two fatalities in 1933. It would be a fine thing if Kingston could improve still further on last year's figures. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

THE EMPIRE

PRINCE AS A SCOT

The Prince of Wales has many accomplishments. He told his Scottish Corporation audience recently that he has learned Gaelic and the pipes. He made it clear to all of them that he is an excellent teller of Scots stories. He acts them to the very life, and a true-blue Scot who sat next to me said his Royal Highness' Scots accent was excellent. The Prince looks extraordinarily well in Highland costume. He wore, of course, Royal Stuart tartan kilt, with a tight-fitting tunic.—Autolycus in the London Sunday Times.

PHYSICAL FITNESS

The British Medical Association has appointed a special committee to prepare plans for improving the physique of the nation. There is no doubt that it can do with improving. But the committee may have a little difficulty on hitting on the right scheme—schemes, that is, which the English, with their ancient and well-known dislike of taking exercise "for the sake of their health," will not find too self-consciously virtuous to be tolerable. If the average man or youth were asked what he specially needed to make himself fit, he might possibly reply: "More money, more leisure and more playing fields." He might also possibly be right.—Manchester Guardian.

WEDDING GIFTS

A curious correspondence has arisen in the English press out of the display of the wedding presents which were sent to the Duke and Duchess of Kent. Criticism has been made of the number of valuable antiques which were among the gifts, and it is urged that public bodies like the Royal Academy and the City Companies should have tried rather to benefit present-day artists and designers—Belfast Telegraph.

CEYLON'S BLACK OUTLOOK

Seldom has sunshine, the traditional harbinger of happiness, so completely meant the reverse of good fortune as has been the recent and present experience in Ceylon. In his statement last week in the State Council Sir Baron Jayatilaka declared that if there was no break in the weather during the next few days a state of famine would be bound to supervene. That prophecy of woe seems to be in process of fulfilment. The weather reports continue to record the absence of rain in precisely those parts where rain is most needed to abate the malaria epdiemic and to prevent crop failure. The rainfall to date since the beginning of the year, comparing most unfavourably with the average for the corresponding period during two decades, is disastrously deficient. The far-reaching effect of this second drought, of last year, it is impossible to forecast. The crops on which the bulk of the population depend for their livelihood, badly affected as they have been already, will be in danger of complete ruin. The parching up of paddy fields and the devastation of chenas will lend a peculiar poignancy to the more prolonged ill-effects on coconut plantations which have had their full share of misfortune in other respects. This unrelieved picture of misery is evidence that Ceylon's tale of suffering has by no means been exaggerated, but that, on the contrary, there is a worse havoc than has been wrought by malaria for which the Government and the people must be prepared.—Times of Ceylon, Colombo.

Unmarried Rich Women Outnumber Wealthy Men

New York. — The wealth female of the species is more numerous than the male, a check of blue-blooded heirs discloses. While a survey revealed at least 15 wealthy and unwed women, there are apparently only nine men to match them in affluence and social position.

They are:

Alfred and George Vanderbilt, brothers and heirs to millions from the Vanderbilt side and from their maternal grandfather, Capt. Isaac Emerson, patent medicine king.

James and Woolworth Donohue, who are in line for chunks of the inexhaustible five-and-ten fortune.

Michael Phipps, who will inherit the Pittsburgh steel millions of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Phipps.

Marshall Field, merchant prince, still wealthy despite enormous allmony paid two ex-wives.

William Rhinelander Stewart, multi-millionaire playboy.

Harvey Ladow, who, despite his fortune, lives the life of a country squire in Maryland.

Charles Dunlap, heir to the Burwind coal millions.

Modern Child Likes Mother Wee Bit Better Than Father

New York. — Father rates about 61 per cent. instead of being "all right" with the modern child. Mother stands higher — 65.5 per cent.

These findings were given to the American Orthopsychiatic Association by Dr. H. Meltzer, St. Louis. He said they were based on studies of the attitudes of 150 children of elementary school age.

The children were carefully selected, he explained, to represent a cross-section of the city. They were asked for all their pleasant and unpleasant reactions, or feelings, about their parents.

Pleasant for father, including even "barely pleasant" totalled 61 per cent. On the same basis mother went four and a half points higher.

"This however," the report stated, "does not indicate a complete comedown for parents as would appear at first sight, for the definitely unpleasant reactions add up to only 5.8 per cent for both parents, 4 per cent. for mother and 7.6 per cent. for father."

A principal difference from the child's point of view is that father leans to the mental side, mother to the emotional.

Reported more or less in the children's own words the typical father is "a person who works and supports you, does things around the house, takes you out places, plays games with you, helps you with homework, participates in outdoor activities, gives you money, has such qualities as sweetness and kindness, participate in indoor activities, and who trains you to mind."

Mother is "a person who does house work, does things for you, works and supports you, has such qualities as sweetness and kindness, take you out places, plays games with you, helps you with homework, buys food and clothes for you, scolds you when you do wrong and gives you things."

Increased Demand For Horses And Cattle In Province Is Reported

Toronto. — Brisker and increastd demand for horses and all types of cattle in most sections of the province was the bright spot in the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Reports from Ontario county said farm sales are bringing the best prices in more than three years and there is a keen demand for horses at about $25 average for good farm horses. Ordinary grade cows brought $35 to $48 with bred sows selling around $30.

Peterborough county reported active demand for good quality purebred Shorthorn bulls of serviceable age with sales ranging from $60 to $100 depending on type and age. Milk cows are sought in Glengarry. An order was received from the United States for 115 good Holstein cows at prices varying up to $65. Cattle buying is fairly active in Prince Edward county.

In Huron county there is a brisk demand for horses and good prices are being realized. Farmers are in a more hopeful frame of mind regarding cattle prices, the report said. A recent sale in Grey county brought $40-$45 for grade cows and more than $100 for horses.

Although shortage of hay still faces Ontario farmers, cattle have come through the winter season in good condition and creamery production is holding up reasonably well considering the shortage.

Dufferin county reported a large percentage of livestock is being carried along in fair flesh and will be turned on grass in good condition but there are some "very thin" cattle. Even with favorable grass condition, the report said, it will take these cattle well on to fall to make up and be in reasonable condition for market.

Haldimand country creamerymen reported production is holding up well but some found quality of product lower and in Lincoln county there is a "very heavy" demand for hay at present with dairymen and others looking for outside sources of supply.

Livestock in Middlesex county are being carried along in fair condition and by careful conservation of feed supplies most farmers will have sufficient hay and rough feed to carry them through to spring.

First Aid Depots Along Highways

First aid stations will be established along Western Ontario highways as son as the necessary financial arrangements between three societies interested in the venture are worked out.

The cost of setting up the system along No. 2 highway, Toronto to Windsor, would be about $3,000, it is said.

The subject was up for discussion at the Ontario Motor League annual meeting this week and members of that Association are enthusiastic about it.

The scheme is undertaken jointly by the St. John Ambulance Association, the Canadian Red Cross and the Motor League.

It has been in operation for more than a year on No. 2 Highway from Toronto to Montreal, and reports declare it has been of great assistance in saving lives and alleviating suffering following motor accidents.

There is nothing definite as to when it will be instituted in this part of the province. It may be this year, and it may not, depending on circumstances.

Nature is an Aeolian harp, a musical instrument whose tones are the re-echo of higher strings within us.' —Novalis.

HE FELT MISERABLE AFTER MEALS

Acute Indigestion Relieved By Kruschen

The treatment which put this man right must surely be worth trying in every case of indigestion. Read what he says:—

"Two years ago I suffered very much from indigestion, loss of appetite, and a most severe pain in my back. Food soured in my stomach. I felt most miserable after meals, and had no desire or appetite for them. A friend advised me to try Kruschen Salts. I did so, and I am most happy to testify that after a short time I felt the greatest relief. I continued taking Kruschen till I felt myself quite better and a new man. I feel as light-hearted as I did twenty years ago."—W. B.

What Kruschen did for him it will do for everybody else who suffers from indigestion as he did. The fact is that "the little daily dose" of Kruschen first stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid indigestion, and then ensures a complete, regular and unfailing elimination of all waste matter every day.

If Your Ears Ring With Head Noises

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Gardening

By Gordon L. Smith

ARTICLE NO. 4

DIG-DIG-DIG—

Cultivation is even more important than good soil or fertilizer. A constantly cultivated garden, will withstand much drought for the simple reason that this stirring of the top soil prevents evaporation of moisture, and it also keeps down those robbers of plant food and water, weeds. The mechanical texture of heavy clay can be remedied by good cultivation. Cultivation is necessary especially during the early part of the season and more particularly after each shower. With some of the many hand, horse or tractor drawn garden cultivators on the market, this task is done quickly and without the old-time backache.

KILLING OUT—

Most damage to shrubbery, perennial flowers, roses, strawberry patches, fall wheat and other plants occurs during March or April. It is not the extreme cold of January and February that causes the trouble, but the alternate freezing and thawing and the drying winds of early spring. On fine days things start to grow and the sap comes up from the roots, but at night frost returns and injury results. Crowns, and stems are burst, fruit buds frozen, and grass and other perennial plants heaved out of the soil, their tiny roots broken and exposed to the high drying winds. Protection in the form of snow, straw, leaves, or old vegetable refuse, is advisable at this time and is especially necessary in Southern exposures where the difference between midnight and noon temperatures is much more extreme than elsewhere. This protection must stay on until the dangerous period is passed and then removed gradually. If left on too long, however, growth is spindly and backward.

A SHORT CUT—

Good sized potatoes by early July can be produced in most parts of Canada, and this is the time the crop is really appreciated and worth some money. As soon as the ground works up nicely, a small planting may be risked. To further hurry things along, for two or three weeks before planting, it is advisable to spread the seed potatoes out in some frost proof place where they will get as much sun as possible through the window. Soon, healthy, stout sprouts will appear and if planted carefully, so as to avoid breaking off, the crop will be through the the ground in a day or two.

Canada Relaxes Her Customs Regulations Affecting Tourists

Ottawa.—Customs restrictions affecting tourists will be somewhat relaxed, a statement issued by Hon. R. C. Matthews, Minister of National Revenue, indicated.

A change of particular interest to Canadian motorists who travel abroad has been made in the regulations pertaining to tourists' automobiles. There have been instances of collection of duty and taxes from Canadians on their return after touring abroad, on compulsory repairs effected to their motor vehicles outside of Canada, either as the result of an accident, or of unforeseen mechanical defects which developed during the tour. Hereafter, the returning tourist will be required to satisfy the collector as to the bona fides of his case, and will be called upon to pay duty only on those repairs effected abroad which can not be regarded as compulsory.

Included in other changes in the revised regulations are two which affect the non-resident temporary visitor in Canada. In the past, the tourist who arrived by automobile with a considerable quantity of tourists' outfit, such as guns, fishing tackle, golf clubs, tennis racquets, cameras and other sporting and pleasure paraphernalia, was required to complete two forms, one for the automobile and another for the outfit. While these forms are being retained as separate units to be used as occasion demands, the automobile permit will now take the form of a combination of the two, so that only one document will be required to be prepared and completed at the frontier.

The other important revision affected the temporary admission at frontier ports of tourists from abroad whose visit is confined to points within the jursidiction of the frontier port of arrival. Hitherto they have been allowed a 24-hour stay without the issuance of a permit. This period has now been changed to 48 hours to cover week-ends and holidays.

TOBACCO OUTLOOK REPORTED BRIGHT

Increasing Demand on Home Market — Improved Marketing Conditions.

The general outlook for Canadian tobacco in 1935 is brighter than has been the case for the past two or three years, in view of the greatly reduced production during 1934, the increasing demand on the home market, and a moderate stimulation of overseas interest, according to the Tobacco Division, Dominion Experimental Farms. The 1934 flue-cured crop has been disposed of rapidly at increased priced as a result of improved marketing conditions and competition between domestic and export purchasers.

In Canada there are five general types of tobacco grown, namely flue-cured, Burley, dark, Quebec leaves are thin and of fine texture. Three extensively grown varieties are Comstock Spanish, Resistant Havana and Connecticut Havane 38. The cigar and pipe varieties referred to are grown only in the province of Quebec.

Within the flue-cured type are many varieties and strains. As this tobacco is used for cigarette purposes a fine-grained, thin-textured leaf is required. Popular varieties are Yellow Mammoth, Bonanza, White Stem Willow Leaf, and Gold Tip. The Burley varieties are used for pipe mixtures, smoking plugs, and cigarette blends. They possess very large, broad leaves of medium fineness and texture. A few years ago the market demanded thick, tough coarsely textured leaf, but these requirements have changed to that of fineness and thinness.

The outstanding feaure of the pipe, and cigar. For each of these types there are grown ten to fifty varieties and strains. The pipe varieties have fewer leaves and the leaves themselves are short, thick, heavy-bodied and early maturing. The varieties most commonly grown are Canelle, Petit Havane, Belge, Little Dutch, Parfum d'Italie, and Oburg Vincent. In the cigar type the past year has been the organization of the flue-cured industry under the Natural Products Marketing Act. Growers' associations continue to play an important part in the development of the industry. In the past such organizations have been primarily concerned with co-operative marketing under a pooling contract. In the more recently formed associations, however, general service to the members has been the chief motivating force, while such marketing activities as have been undertaken have been on a voluntary basis, and mainly concerned with the packing and disposal of unsold surpluses remaining in the hands of growers. In addition to the organizations in operation in 1934, two new ones were formed, one in the flue-cured area in Ontario and the other in the cigar leaf district in Quebec.

CHILD'S PHYSICIAN

Reginald H. Wiggins, M.D., C.M., L.M.C.C.

"To prevent is to forstall the necessity of a cure"—Reginald H. Wiggins.

Where the future and welfare of the race is concerned the child's physician (the Pediatrist) steps forefront of the Men of Medicine, as he advises on the care and training of future citizens and consequently plays, next to the parents and teachers, the biggest role in determining the health, the efficiency and the personality of future citizens.

In his endeavour to benefit the child he must not overlook five essentially vital points which more than anything else contribute to their goal — the welfare of the child.

1. The first and foremost the child is a spiritual being and that this side of his nature must be given opportunity to flower and develop.

2. That he has a mind in the making, which when properly trained, can be guided and directed towards the accomplishment of much good in the world.

3. That, as the child's environment affects the child from birth to old age and from hour to hour, and very largely determines what he will become, it must be taken into consideration, mainly the home influence and the influence of the parents and the school.

It is but a base, ignoble mind that mounts no higher than a bird can soar.—Shakespeare.

Doubt whom you will but never doubt yourself.—Bovee.

Those who raise envy will easily incur censure.—Churchill.

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Ontario produced about two-fifths of the Canadian commercial strawberry crop in 1934.

Canadian hay as required in Belgium must be No. 1 extra, mixed, 75 per cent. timothy and 25 per cent. clover. Hay enters Belgium free.

Expansion of the sale of canned goods on the domestic and export markets offers the most hopeful outlet for an increased productioon of vegetables in this province.

Observations extending over a long period, indicate that thin sparse pasturages for sheep encourage the growth of the finer grades of wool, while thick, lush grass increases the proportion of the coarser grades.

The total value of Canadian field crops harvested in 1934 is now estimated at $544,974,600 compared with a revised estimate of $453,598,000 for 1933. This increase of $91,376,600 is due mainly to higher unit prices.

British Apple Market

Mr. A. Fulton, overseas fruit representative, advises that prospects for Ontario apples in Great Britain for the balance of the season are far from encouraging, although a reaction is expected, after the deplorable market conditions of February, as common storage apples from Nova Scotia and English sources are now practically finished. In order to get values up to remunerative levels before the season finishes in about three weeks' time, it will require shipments of outstanding quality and condition to regain confidence of the buyers. Owing to the slump in prices and the arrival of apples in an unattractive condition, the trade have lost interest in the business as they see no hope of recovery with present supplies. Everyone feels that it will take fresh apples to stimulate business, with the result that attention is now being directed to the Australasian season opening up towards the end of March, when the first steamers are expected to arrive. Under these conditions, Mr. Fulton cannot foresee high prices for Ontario apples again this season.

Much sunshine and a fair amount of rainfall during the summer of 1934 unodubtedly provided proper conditions for a bountiful storage of sap in maple trees. With frosty nights and mild days during the sugaring season, an abundant crop is expected this year.

A fire prevention expert recently stated that fire loss on farms would be substantially reduced if a ladder were part of the equipment of every farm. A ladder kept in a convenient place makes any roof fire quickly accessible, and provides the means for occasional inspection of chimneys and flues.

Potato Prices Up

The following are the prices of potatoes paid to farmers in Ontario on January 31 and February 28, 1935, after one month's operation of the Eastern Potato Marketing Board which commenced to function on Feb. 4:

Per 90 lb. Bag	Jan. 31	Feb. 28
Orangeville	17c	35--40c
Allistion	15c	35c
Uxbridge	15--17c	35--40c

Prices showed a similar upward trend in the Maritime provinces, where the marketing scheme is also in operation.

Horticultural Notes

House Plants—Nearly all smooth-leaved plants are greatly benefitted by applications of water to their foliage, provided the sun is not allowed o shine on them while wet. But plants having hairy leaves, like the loxinia and the Rex Begonia, are almost invariably injured by the application of water to the foliage. Bear this in mind, and be governed in showering your plants by the peculiarities of their foliage.

Transplanting—In putting out plants in the garden, choose a cloudy day for it, if possible. Water wel when you plant. Shade for a day or two, or till they begin to grow.

Geraniums—These are hot weather plants: they like hot rooms and steam heat, but they cannot be expected to produce many flowers unless they are placed in a sunny, south window, free from curtains. They prefer heavy soil and must not be grown in pots too large, else they will not bloom so profusely. Cut them back each fall to make them bushy, otherwise they will fill too much window space. Good house plants of geraniums are obtained by taking slips in Summer and growing the plants in pots until winter.

Ferns—The less finely divided leaf sorts of Boston ferns are the most successful. Ferns generally do not prefer the full sunshine, and must be kept from cold drafts. The soil which suits them best is one derived from decayed sod or leaf-mold. Ferns need an abundance of water, but poor drainage and "wet feet" should be avoided. Syringe the plants often if they are to be kept healthy.

O. A. C. Royal

The annual exhibition or College Royal put on by the students of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, has grown to be one of the outtsanding events in the College year. Started eleven years ago by the late Prof. Wade Toole, it was designed at first simply to give the students some idea of the technique of preparing and showing animals. Since the first show, it has grown until all major departments of the College now take part, and in addition to the showmanshhip contests, there is a competition for the Wade Toole Memorial Trophy for the best educational exhibit.

The grand champion showman this year was Bruce Innes, a third year student. oFr the fourth time since it was presented, the Animal Husbandry Club won the Wade Toole Trophy with their splendid display of methods by which injuries to animals may spoil meat. A moving placrd with a sries of legneds explained how blows, horn-gore and other injuries to live animals had their effect on the carcass.

In second place was the Field Husbandry Club, with a striking display of the value of soybeans, while third was Agricultural Science, with a graphic and picturesque exhibit which showed how barn fires may be combatted. The Poultry Club, with a display showing the improvement made in the preparation of poultry in the last forty years, was fourth, while the Dairy Club with an ice-cream exhibt was fifth.

Trophes, together wth other lesser prizes and awards, were presented at a ceremony in the War Memorial Hall, when Dr. G.I. Christie, president of the College, and other speakers, were heard.

WILLIAMSBURG FACTORY PATRONS' MEETING

(Contributed)

As announced to th patrons of Williamsburg cheese factory ,a meeting was held with the consideration of signing up with the Cheese Factory Patrons Association, with the object in view of selling their cheese direct to British market. The meeting was called to order, and A.E. McGruer was asked to take the chair. E. Trickey was appointed secretary of the meeting.

Mr. Joss, secretary of the Cheese Patrons' Association, who was present, was asked to address the meett ing. In presenting his scheme, he stated it was the intention of the organization to have a representative in Great Britain and sell direct to the old country importers. He expected to make shipments of chese when his arrangemnts were perfected regularly, and he expected to finance his scheme by drawing on the importer to the extent of 75 per cent. of the value of the cheese, the remaining 25 per cent. would be paid by the Provincial Government. He also expects to gather a fund by asking the Dominion Marketing Board to assess all cheese purchased in the Dominion five cents per 100 pounds, and the fund be turned over to the Cheese Factory Patrons Association.

Mr. Joss was listened to with much interest by those present. After Mr. Joss had asked the patrons of the factory to sign up, Mr. McGruer, who was chairman, and who is the Director of the Eastern Dairymen's Association for the County of Dundas, arose and addressed the meeting, and said that although not actively engaged in dairying, he still retained a keen interest in the dairy industry, and that in the past he had, along with others, been able to be of much service to the dairymen in putting through measures that were of much financial benefit and concern to the dairymen whom he had th privilege of representing. He pointed out to the meeting that it was nescessary to ship the cheese weekly as the cheese factories are not equipped with cool curing rooms.

As this question is of such vital importance to the dairy industry and dairymen as a whole he thought it should be placed before them from every angle.

Suppose there is a shipment of cheese sent to Great Britain and the importer is not financially able to remit, where are the finances to come from to reimburse the dairyman?

Mr. McGruer also said the cheese is sold for a certain amount on the boards at the week-end, and if the price in the Old Country market does not warrant the same returns when the exportr cables for prices, the result is he has to hold them for better prices. How can this organization expect to get same returns on the Old County Market on a falling market?

He also thought that we were a long way from the English market, and that our cheese would no doubt be many days afloat before we would know the price we would receive. He knew, he declared, the stress the farmers were passing through, but he could not see any advantage in this new scheme, as this organization was going to sell tot he same trade as the exporters do. He cited cases where a number of exporters had found it unprofitable, and had gone out of the business. He also said it was childlike for an organization to think that any marketing board would discriminate against a number of firms in the cheese trade, firms that have been in the trade for a number of years, by imposing oon the trade five cents per hundred pounds, and turn the fund over to an organization just starting.

He also said new ideas sometimes sound fine and new fields look green but when your signature is on the dotted line and should you take less money for your cheese, things will not be so pleasant.

Mr. McGruer stated that he thought the proper medium of disposing of cheese was through the cheese boards. He cited that boards were being held in Prescott County, Glengarry County, and the board held in oCrnwall, and he said the cheese sold in Dundas County were mostly sold on the ruling of Cornwall Board, and he has heard it stated the cheese of Dundas County was a drag on the Cornwall board. He said there was a Cold Storage established at Winchester. Arrangements could be made to have the cheese trucked to Winchester. We could have the services of a grader, and the cheese would be graded, after that they could be placed for public competition on a cheese board at Winchester. Mr. McGruer still believed in the old adage that competition is the life of trade.

Mr. Joss asked that the petition be passed around, and two of the farmers signed the petition favoring his scheme.

The evening was spent in dancing, and at 11 o'clock the young couple were called to the floor, and a very appropriate address was read by Miss Mary Garlough. The presentation of six dining room chairs, a rocking chair, and eight-day clock and a pair of Ibex blankets was made.

EXONERATE TRAIN CREW IN FATALITY

At the inquest into the death of Thomas Gollidge, held in the W.E. Fitzsimmons undertaking parlors at Iroquois, the jury returned the following verdict: "That Gollidge deliberately threw himself in front of the way freight train on westbound track about 4.25 on the afternoon of the 18th day of March, 1935, between mile posts 102 and 103 on the Canadian National Railways, and we consider his death unavoidable by the train crew."

The inquest was held before Coroner Dr. E.H. Marcellus, who questioned the several witnesses. Identification was sworn to by Earl Sayeau, brother-in-law of the deceased. The only eye-witness of the affair was Engineer Edward Donald of Brockville who stated that he saw a man at the edge of the north track who, when the engine was even with him, suddenly swung on to the rails and met the engine head-on. He further stated that the train had been running about 40 miles per hour, and that he immediately applied the emergency brakes and when he walked back to the scene, the body was about three car lengths back of the van. He said that the man acted so quickly that he had no chance whatever to stop sooner.

The last witness to be called was Conductor Robert Serviss of Brockville, who was riding in the van and who stated that he felt the emergency brakes go on and felt the caboose run over an object.

Upon investigation, he found the body of a man about three car lengths down the track. He had the body removed to the side and went on to Cardinal station, where he reported the accident.

ANNUAL MEETING, EASTERN ONTARIO LACROSSE LEAGUE

Announcement was made at the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Box Lacrosse Association held in Cornwall Wednesday, that an Ottawa team would enter the Cornwall and District loop this season. The understanding, it was said, was verbal, but accurate. With an Ottawa team in the league the circuit should be considerably strengthened, and this will add to the increasing enthusiasm in the game.

Royal Baker, Cornwall, was the unanimous choice of the representatives as president of the association for the 1935 season and other officers elected were: Z. Bonneville, Cornwall, first vice-president; Dr. D.D. McIntosh, Alexandria, second vice-president; Archibald McDonald, North Lancaster, third vice-president, and Rene J. Laframboise, Cornwall, re-elected secretary-treasurer by acclamation.

No definite action was taken in the formation of the league, but it is understood that at least six teams will be entered. Entries will close before the next meeting, the date of which will be announced later.

In addition to more than 30 box lacrosse enthusiasts present at the meeting, were Fred C. Waghorn, president of the O.A.L.A., and Gene Dopp, secretary of the O.A.L.A., representing the C.A.L.A.

FROM A STAFF OF SEVEN
TO SIX THOUSAND STRONG

From less than a corporal's guard to the equivalent of six regiments — this graphically illustrates the growth of the Bank of Montreal's staff in 117 years.

On the 23rd of August, 1817, the first four employees of the Bank of Montreal were appointed. They were the cashier, an accountant, a paying teller and a second teller. Shortly afterward a discount clerk, a second bookkeeper and a porter were added.

These seven constituted the original staff when the modest establishment on St. Paul Street in Montreal opened its doors on Monday, November 3rd — an establishment which was destined to play a conspicuous and beneficial part in the development of Canada's resources.

Throughout the many decades that have followed, the Bank of Montreal has made increasing effort to provide a banking service always adequate to meet the requirements of Canada's development.

The original staff of seven has grown to 6,300, loyally serving the public through 500 branches extending from sea to sea — and overseas.

The TUDOR HOUSE

By MRS. STANLEY WRENCH

(Author of "Sing for the Moon" "Strange Lovers," etc).

SYNOPSIS

Michael Borde, 40, unmarried, born and bred in a Birmingham slum, is now a wealthy motor manufacturer One day he visits the countryside around his old home and meets Daphne Eden. He falls in love and proposes. Daphne accepts and introduces him to her father, who greets him with the words: "Get out of here you cur—you ruined my home — stole my wife — curse you."

Daphne's father dies and she disappears. Michael explains to her friend, Mrs. Gregory, that he was misrepresented. He buys the old Tudor House owned by the Hamill-Hardy's. Michael collides with a car driven by Diana Hamill-Hardy. Mrs. Eden notices an announcement of the engagement of Michael and Diana.

Mrs. Gregory dies. Daphne hears from her solicitors.

"Let me answer it, Mr. Borde," she said swiftly. "You're just leaving. I can deal with them....."

He smiled, and that rather boyish look returned to his face.

"Good girl," he said. "I believe you would, too. However, this may be....." he took up the receiver.

"What the ..... what the blazes are you talking about .....?" she heard him say as she waited "The Gallery ..... good Lord, no. Why what do you mean? Miss Hamill-Hardy gave instructions ..... here, I say, hold on a minute. Who are you? What are you? Who the devil do you think I am....."

He spluttered and raged. Miss Crick watched his face aminated with fury, wondered again, then as he jammed down the receiver and sprang to his feet, he caught sight of her.

"I'm due in the city," he cried. "Look here, Miss Crick, I'm obliged to ....." he stopped short, rubbed his forehead with a gesture of helplessness, then seized a telephone directory.

"Snag and Snaffle .... who the devil are Snag and Snaffle .. housebreakers, furniture dealers or what?" he snapped. "In my house .... in my house .... moving things .... taking down that organ .... curse them...."

He flicked over the leaves, found the number, then followed a tornado of talk, and Miss Crick waited, till, as he finished, mopping his brow, he looked up and saw her standing there.

"I was telling you about that organ," he said in a curiously low voice, "the organ in my gallery. That firm ....." he pointed to the telephone, "rang me up just now to know what was to be done about it. They are taking it down ..... taking it down ..... my organ....."

He smiled.

"I'm going down to Werburge Lucy now," he said. "I've stopped it, but what in thunder has been going on whilst I've been busy here, heaven knows. Now look here, Miss Crick," and he rattled a list of directions, "you've got to be snappy. Get on to Trottenleigh first, tell him he'll have to hold up his darned board of directors till I get back tomorrow. I'll drive down ..... quicker than by train ..... yes, they must hold up everything till I get back tomorrow. I'll 'phone him...."

He went on talking breathlessly, whilst Miss Crick hurriedly took down in shorthand as many directions as she could get coherently.

Suddenly he broke off and brought down his clenched fist on the desk.

"Gosh, Florrie," she said afterwards, "there's somebody going to catch it in the neck when he gets down to that old Tudor house of his. Not half. If it's that Miss Hamill-Hardy who has been giving orders to have his blessed organ taken down I wouldn't be in her shoes for anything."

The other girl laughed.

"Don't you worry. He'll be as soft as butter when he gets there. He'll have worked off his temper by that time."

AN ANGRY SCENE.

The scent from a thousand roses met Michael Borde as he turned into the Long Drive, where the lilacs had tossed their plumes two months ago. Werburge Lucy was as famous for its roses as its lilac-tide, and the lovely old damask blooms were to be found here as as well as all the newer kinds. Pausing at the brow of the hill, to look down at Werburge Lucy, he could see the blaze of its summer garden, but thrilled with pride, knowing the old grey house was his.

Then all at once Michael Borde remembered why he was here now, and drove on again, frowning.

Diana had stipulated, and Michael had agreed, that a suite of rooms should be given to her and modernized as she wished. To his amazement, and a little to his dismay, she had selected the rooms, rather cut off from the rest of the house, which in days gone by had been nurseries and schoolroom.

He had telephoned most emphatically, stopping the work which Snag and Staffie were handling, forbidden thom to proceed with anything further until he reached the house, so angry at first that he had scarcely stopped to consider that Diana herself, although not actually staying at Werburge Lucy, would probably be there.

Suddenly he saw her, standing in the formal garden, her figure outlined against the yews.

"Now for a row," he told himself. "May as well get it over, though, and better out of doors than in."

It would do her good to be handled roughly, told the truth for once. She, and her sort, thought they could do as they pleased .... he'd show her what it meant to meddle with things that didn't concern her.

To-day is the only day we have,
Of to-morrow we cannot be sure;
To seize the chance as it comes along
Is the way to make it secure.
For every year is a shorter year,
And this is the truth sublime:
A moment misspent is a jewel lost
From the treasury of time.

What Does Your Handwriting Reveal?

(Graphologist)

All Rights Reserved

(Editor's Note: Letters come in every day testifying to the help that this well-known handwriting expert has been able to extend to readers. Perhaps he can help YOU, too. He invites you to write to him. See the following article for details).

Here are some more replies to correspondents. Readers may find some of their own difficulties and problems dealt with here.

Miss D. C. — Your writing reveals you are somewhat disposed to enlarge apparent slights and resent them. Yours is not a nature that easily forgives; and this is where you might start to develop a broader point of view. Do not be in too much of a hurry to impute 'baser' motives to others. Do not be quarrelsome, nor allow yourself to get too easily irritated. And, above all, don't carry a chip on your shoulders. There is no surer way to lose your popularity and your friends.

You are, perhaps, inclined to be a trifle fussy. It is all very well to be methodical and to deal carefully with things that come up from day to day. But don't overdo it. It ceases to be a virtue and becomes a nuisance not only to yourself but to others.

Mrs. M. G. A. — In regard to your singing — keep at it. It is no use getting downhearted and spasmodic about it. There is only one way in which you can expect to get anywhere in this, and it is by keeping at it. You have a gift for this, and it would be a pity to ignore it, or not to try earnestly to get the best from it, merely because of a few passing disappointments. Remember Robert Bruce and the spiders!

Miss S. writes as follows: "I am 17 years of age and in love with a man of 39. My parents do not approve of my having anything to do with him, and yet he wants to marry me. I think the world of him, and do not know what I should do if I had to give him up. What do you advise?"

I believe that you would be doing a very unwise thing to marry him. His writing tells that he is of a domineering nature, is selfish, and undoubtedly is very set in his ways. He is not at all of the generous or sympathetic type. Your own writing, on the other hand, shows you are inclined to be variable and changeable. You are, I think, more "in love with love," than with your friend. In any case, you are too young to do anything serious in this matter at the present, and it will do you no harm to wait a while.

Mrs H. L. — The writing of your husband knows that he has a facile mind and finds it easy to express himself. He is never at a loss for words.

He shows his feelings very readily, and is of a high-strung nature, apt to get easily excited when things do not go just right, or as he expects. He is not particularly generous, and as a matter of fact is rather the reverse.

He is capable of a great deal of feeling and is jealous. This is an unfortunate trait and might cause a lot of trouble if it is allowed to grow.

Mr. H. B. S. — Your writing shows you are very emotional, Mr. S. You do feel things very much. There is, however, a tendency for you to be changeable and inconsistent. You often vary in your moods, and the result is that you often jump from one thing to another, without giving the proper attention to one thing in particular. Your enthusiasm grows hot and cold. You easily get interested in anything, but too soon grow tried of it, and turn your attention in another direction. This results in lack of concentration and prevents consistent effort, and if you continue to go along in this way, you will get nowhere.

This trait is the cause of your love affairs and the troubles you have had arising from them. The same thing occurs with your friends. People find you difficult to understand and because most people don't like to go to the trouble of solving human puzzles, they lose interest in you.

Would YOU like to have YOUR handwriting analysed? And perhaps you would like to know the truth about your friends? Mr. St. Clair can help you as he has helped so many others. In order to get your personal character analysis, you must send for a copy of Mr. St. Clair's new Chart — the Graphochart, which contains over 100 illustrations and shows how to read your own character and that of your friends from handwriting. It is fascinating and very interesting. Send 12 cents for your copy of the Graphochart, and an additional 10c for each specimen you want analysed. Send with a 3c stamped addressed envelope to Geoffrey St. Clair, Room 421, 73 Adelaide St. W., Toronto Ont. Letters will be treated confidentially, and replies are mailed as quickly as is possible.

DELICIOUS FISH DISH

Here's a case where a good recipe and culinary ingenuity will turn canned salmon into a dish you will be proud to bring to the table, and diners, like Jack Spratt, "lick the platter clean." Serve it with cold sliced beet and potato chips and you will have a delicious main course for Sunday night supper.

Jellied Salmon Loaf.

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin, 1 pint warm water, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ½ teaspoons salt, ½ cup mayonnaise, 2 cups flaked canned salmon, 1 cup diced celery.

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add vinegar and salt. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in mayonnaise, salmon, and celery. Turn into loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Serves 8.

HOT BREADS FOR BREAKFAST

Our breakfast menus have undergone a radical change since the days when our fathers and mothers set up housekeeping. The crisp, ready-to-eat cereals have lightened the task of the homemaker. Eggs in one form or another have generally replaced the array of meat dishes that used to be considered indispensable. Fruit has become an almost invariable feature of the menu for the first meal of the day.

In respect to hot breads, however, our breakfast habits have not greatly changed. We still feel that muffins, scones, toast or a piping hot slice of corn bread help us to leave the table feeling well fortified with good food for the day's work; and with so many varieties of hot breads to choose from there is every reason to continue to give them the important place they deserve.

Bran corn meal muffins will whet the breakfast appetites of the entire family, and in addition the bran content will help to provide the "bulk" that all normal people require to keep the system working properly.

Bran Corn Meal Muffins

3 tablespoons shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg (well beaten), 1½ cups milk, 1 cup all-bran, ¾ cup corn meal, 1½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 4½ teaspoons baking powder.

Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs, milk, bran and corn meal. Sift flour with salt and baking powder and add to first mixture. Stir only until flour disappears. Bake in greased muffin tins in a moderate oven (375-400 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes.

Yield: 12 muffins.

Bran Banana Muffins.

2 tablespoons shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg (well beaten), 1 cup sour milk, 1 cup all-bran, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ cup chopped banana.

Cream shortening and sugar; add egg, milk and bran and let stand while measuring remainder of ingredients. Sift flour with soda, salt and baking powder. Cut banana in small pieces and add to sifted dry ingredients. Add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears.

Bake in greased muffin tins in a moderate oven (400 degrees F.) for 20-25 minutes.

Yield: 16 small or 8 large muffins.

CAKE FOR COMPANY

Cake for dinner. Cake for a bridge lunch treat. Cake and coffee at night before the guests say "au revoir." Cake is surely popular.

Popular, too—and envied—is the hostess who can make unusual cakes. She has not followed the beaten path. She has stepped aside and discovered new delights while exploring the by-ways.

And if these unusual cakes are inexpensive as well as delicious—just so much more surely has the hostess scored.

Here is a recipe for such a cake:

Magnolia Cake

6 eggs, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 2½ cups pastry flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Separate eggs; beat yolks until thick and lemon color. Add 1 cup of the sugar gradually, beating constantly. Add boiling water very slowly, then vanilla extract. Sift flour and baking powder together 3 times. Fold into first mixture. Beat egg whites until stiff; add remaining one cup sugar gradually, beating constantly. Fold into mixture. Bake in a very large ungreased tube pan in moderate oven at 350 degrees F., for 1¼ hours. Invert and let cool in pan. When cold, split into three layers; spread with Mint Cream Filling. Cover top and sides thickly with marshmallow frosting. Makes 1 ten-inch cake.

Mint Cream Filling

¾ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, 2 egg yolks, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon mint extract, Green food coloring.

Mix sugar (except 2 tablespoons), cornstarch and salt. Add water slowly and cook over boiling water until very thick, stirring constantly. Add egg yolks mixed with 2 tablespoons sugar; cook 3 minutes longer. Beat until smooth. Add butter; cool. Add mint extract and color a delicate green.

CUSTARD TO SUIT ALL

Baked custard can be sophisticated enough for the most discriminating adult taste, and at the same time simple enough for the child's dessert, if it is well made and if the flavor is varied from time to time. It is especially good with a foundation of sweetened condensed milk.

Careful cooking is essential to a good baked custard. The best way is to place the dish containing it in a pan filled with hot water to the depth of the custard and bake in a slow oven. This insures a firm, even texture, and prevents the separating that occurs sometimes when the custard is baked too fast. A knife blade inserted will come out clean when custard is done.

Baked Custard

¾ cup sweetened condensed milk, 2¼ cups hot water, 3 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, Grating of nutmeg.

Blend sweetened condensed milk with hot water and pour gradually over slightly beaten eggs. Add salt. Pour into a baking pan or custard cups. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 40 minutes or until custard is set.

Baked French Custard.

¾ cup sweetened condensed mik, 2¼ cups hot water, 3 eggs, ¼ teaspoon salt, 6 halves of canned peaches. Nutmeg.

Blend sweetened condensed milk witht hot water and pour gradually over slightly beaten eggs. Add salt. Place halves of peaches in buttered baking dish. Pour sweetened condensed milk mixture over top of peaches; sprinkle with nutmeg. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 40 minutes or until custard is set. Serves 8.

HOMELY HINTS

Here are some hints for the home, none of them related except in the work of making things easier for the home worker.

Here's first aid for the leaking faucet in the form of a little oil poured into the top of the faucet. This causes the washer to swell and so prevents the leak. When loose cretonne chair covers are soiled but not enough to send to the cleaners or launder oneself, rub soiled parts such as arms and seats, with a clean rag soaked in special cleaning turpentine. The dirt will be removed instantly.

Linen can be whitened by the use of turpentine. Make a lather of soap flakes and warm water, add a small cup of turpentine and steep the soiled linen in the mixture. Leave for two hours or all night, then wash as usual. Spots on waxed floors can be removed by rubbing with a cloth dipped in turpentine and then polished with a piece of soft fabric, such as flannel. Borax is a most useful agent in the home, as we have pointed out before, and egg stains will come out of linen very quickly if the article is soaked in cold water to which a little borax has been added.

Lime placed in a damp closet will dry it and take away the musty smell A teaspoon of ammonia added to a bowl of warm water will remove fruit stains from the hands, and a cup of pure malt vinegar added to a warm bath will remove muscular stiffness.

New kid gloves are sometimes quite difficult to put on for the first time and so often strech and split. Take a damp towel, place the gloves between the folds and leave them there for a few hours before wearing. The damp will stretch the skins and the gloves will be easy to handle.

QUIET THINGS

By Mary Charlotte Billings.

When days are full of discord,
And every moment brings
Its share of strife and worry,
I think of quiet things—
Quiet things and calm things—
Lovely things like these:
Dim woods at nightfall,
Snow on hemlock trees.
A cherry tree in blossom,
Cobwebs hung with dew,
Yellow leaves drifting down.
With sunlight slanting through.
Behind closed lids I see them—
Again and yet again—
Curling wisps of wood smoke,
Violets in the rain.

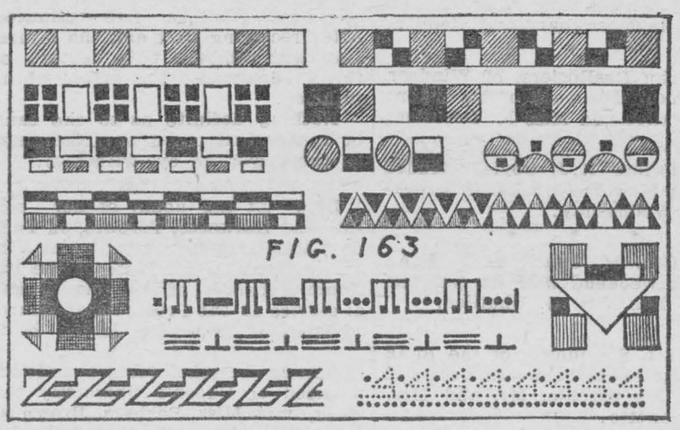
Requests have been made by our students for suggestions on Rythmical Arrangements of Tomes, Measures and Shapes, and Borders of Straight Lines and Dots.

FIG. 163. Illustrates 15 examples which may be used as a basis for innumerable designs. Take some of these suggestions and change to modern touches and you will be surprised how easy it is to adapt any given form and with a few new touches here and there bring an old or used design motif right up-to-date. Remember in adapting an old or used design, you should always try to improve upon the source of data to which you are using as the basis for creating a new design. You will have a lot of fun and pleasant surprises await the result of your own ingenuity along these lines of creative design.

EX. NO. 51. Get some grey or other colored paper (not too dark), similar to that used in small photo albums. Make some designs for surface patterns, using straight lines and dots. Trace your designs on tracing paper. Get a piece of the carbon paper used in typewriters, place it face downwards under your tracing and transfer your tracing to the tinted paper. Press just firmly enough to give you a legible line. Finish in drawing ink. Make two of these drawings alike. Then on one of them paint with Chinese white any parts of the design which you think would look well in white. FIGS. 164-5-6 of LESSON NO. 48, gives you some suggestions as to arrangements. The light lines indicate the pencil lines or lines of the ruled paper. In making these drawings use the brush wherever possible, as you will develop more freedom in that way, and bear in mind the principle of design which you are trying to express, viz., Rhythm, which is related action and movement throughout the design.



If you get some faintly ruled paper used in designing, known as "squared" paper, you will save much of your time, and also find that the squared paper will tend to assist you in creating new motifs, easily and quickly.

Then you may get some grey or other colored paper (not too dark). Now you may try out creating designs in various colors and what a delightful occupation this is for amateur designers.

If you prefer it, you can rule the paper yourself, using a hard lead pencil and keeping the lines very light, so that they will be easily rubbed out. Make a rhythmical arrangement for a border, using only straight lines and dots, somewhat similar to the borders shown in the lower section of FIG. 163. Use your own judgment as to the width of Questions will be answered in this department. Anyone wishing to receive a personal reply may have same if a 3c stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed with the request. The Art Director, Our Sketch Club, 73 Adelaide Street West, Toronto.

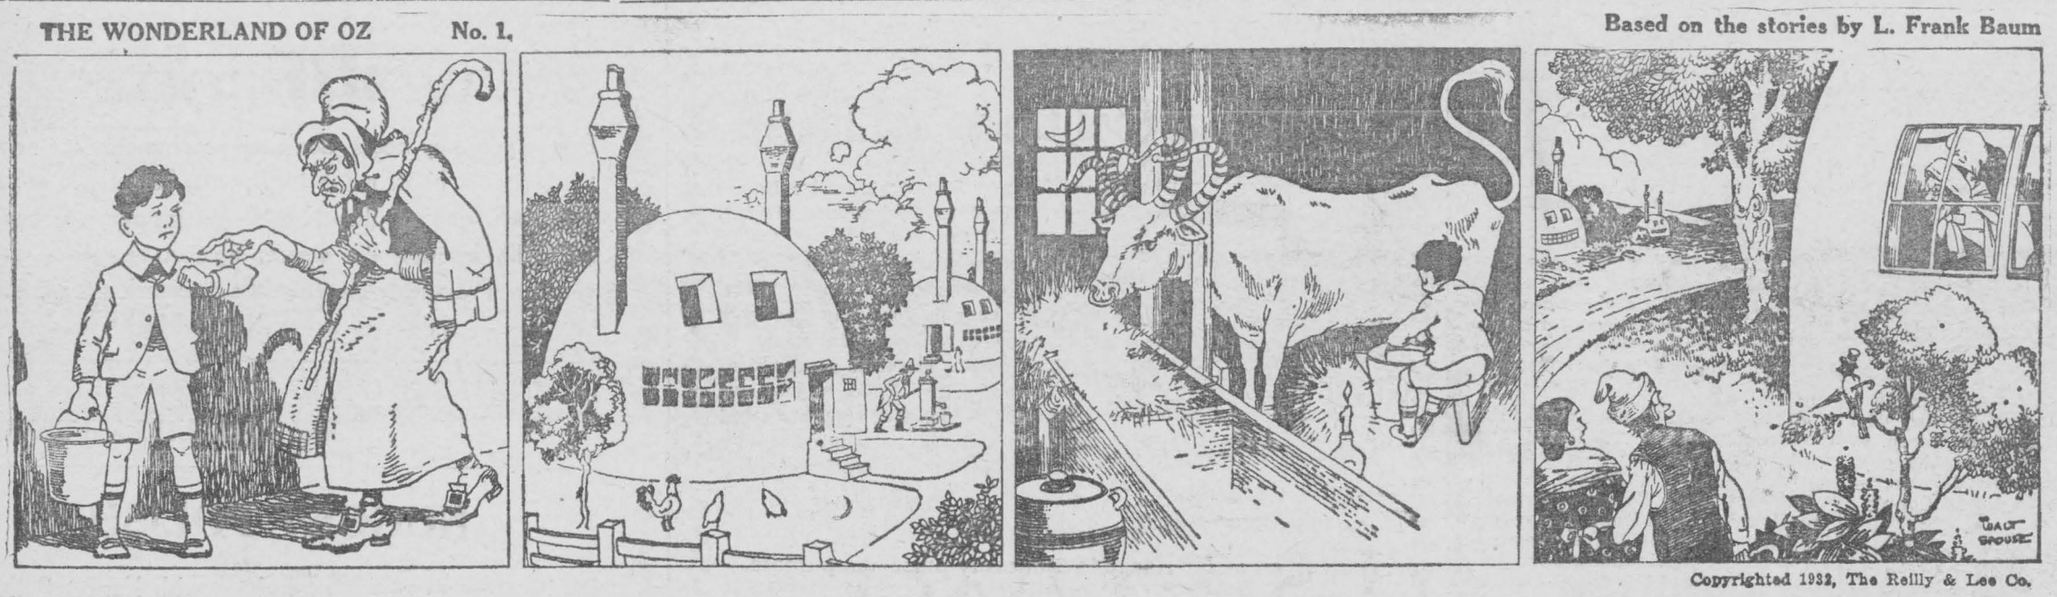
THE WONDERLAND OF OZ No. 1.

Based on the stories by L. Frank Baum



In the country of the Gillikens, which is in the north of the land of Oz, lived a youth called Tip. There was more to his name than that, for old Mombi, with whom he lived, often declared that his whole name was Tippetarius but no one could be expected to say all that when just Tip would do. Old Mombi, it must be confessed, was not very kind to Tip. She made him perform many hard tasks and often beat him.

Tip and old Mombi lived in one of the dome-shaped farm houses which are peculiar to the land of Oz. One or two neighbors lived nearby, but as there were no children for many miles, Tip had no playmates. For this reason, Tip did not find life so hard as you might suppose. Like most young boys, he managed to steal time from his tasks to go walking in the woods, to chase rabbits, and to gather hickory nuts in the fall.

One of Tip's most important duties was to milk the four-horned cow which was Mombi's especial pride. Early in the morning, before sunrise, he would go out to the stable to brush and milk the cow. After that he would carry wood for the fire, fetch the water, and finally, after breakfast wash the dishes. Then, old Mombi would set him to work in the fields. But Tip would often slip away from his task to play. Consequently he grew to be a strong and healthy boy.

But despite the fact that life was not as unpleasant for Tip as it might have been, the boy frankly hated old Mombi. His dislike for her was shared by others, too, for the old woman did not enjoy the best of reputations. Her neighbors, the Gilliken people, had reason to suspect her of indulging in magic arts, and therefore both feared her and hesitated to associate with her.

In a turbulent forty-minute struggle that produced many thrills, Morrisburg-Waddington Sailors trimmed Brockville Rowing Club last night at Ottawa, to the tune of 40-25, and captured the Ottawa and District Intermediate cage honors by a two-game round score of 77-68. By their victory, the Sailors qualified to enter the Canadian Intermediate playdowns, and will start the long trek leading to Dominion laurels next week.

With the calendars stating that we are well into the first week of official spring, we have been informed that May flowers are blooming. The robins are beginning to pair. Sunday was the first day that killdears have been heard. Song sparrows are common everywhere. Other spring birds noted were red-wing blackbirds, grackles and blue-birds. The ice in the river has opened away leaving a wide channel with plenty of ice still along the shore. The yield of maple syrup is just average. Ther is still plenty of snow in the woods where it is protected, but everywhere else it has disappeared.

The Irish Play, "His Dream Girl," put on Thursday evening by the Y.P. League of the United Church, was highly successful, and delighted the large number of their friends present. The following composed the cast: Helen Froats, Nellie Cameron, Marjorie Warring, Phyllis Deeks, Raymond Smith, Arthur Colquhoun, Stuart Martin, Charlie Tuttle and Carmen Reddick. All these young players took their parts most satisfactorily, under the leadership of Mrs. (Dr.) MacIntosh and Miss Alyce Cameron, who also supervised the attractive decorations. During the intermission, Messrs Trevor Allison and Arthur Casselman sang very pleasing solos.
