Water On Way

An $18,176 contract let by the Ontario Water Resources Commission is underway in the north-east corner of the village. The contract to Beaver Construction, Ottawa, is for the excavation and installation of a water line, construction of a pump and pumphouse to serve the Winchester Water System.

Open trenching for the installation will run from the end of the present water line just north of Dufferin on Ottawa northward along the Township road to turn west at the approximate location of the new pumphouse being built on the North Street allowance.

Dundas Men Soil and Crop Leaders

Three prominent Dundas County farmers played an integral part in the success of the Eastern Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Associations annual conference in Kemptville last week. Conference theme was "More Money From The Same Acres."

President of the Eastern Ontario Soil and Crop Conference, George Suffel stated the 1967 objective: "To help the farmer make and retain more money on the same acres."

Related to the theme, Malcolm MacGregor, Dundas dairy farmer outlined to the conference his feed program which is comprised of alfalfa and corn only. Gerald Adams of Williamsburg outlined his successful method of making a living from only 70 acres of land. A challenge was issued to the conference by Hugh Blaine, of Hallville. He asked farmers to decide whether they were dairy men or cow milkers who think production records and marketing are of no concern to them. To the beef producers Mac James of Carleton Place noted his objective "Quality enough to top the market and pounds enough to make it pay."

Leading Glengarry County Holstein dairy farmer Lloyd McRae was awarded the McNish prize to the outstanding farmer in the eleven eastern counties who combines good farming practices with desire to assist fellow producers.

Quebec Agriculture Advisor to the provincial government, Dr. Mercier, lead a lively discussion on the problems and potentials of farm people in Eastern Canada. He suggested Canada was one of the underdeveloped countries of the world related to the use of fertilizer. If present technical knowledge was put into practice present production could be tripled or quadrupled. He suggested "improvement between the fences" before expansion but emphasized that farmers should not ignore the possibilities of changing to other enterprises such as cash crops.

"What's In The Next Ten Years?" was the topic outlined by Ontario's Deputy Minister of Agricuture. "Unless agricultural workers are rewarded financially some of them will turn to other pursuits. There will be some consolation, some intensive operations and we must be realistic and attempt to assess our position. But the small farm will remain," said Mr. Biggs.

K.A.S. Crops Division Head John Curties advises farmers to produce more home grown feed grains such as corn and barley since he felt that cost of dairy supplement was not likely to decrease. University of Guelph Crop Scientists summarized methods of fertilizing and establishing forage stands.

Dr. Heinricks of Swift Current, Saskatchewan, discussed forage management in Western Canada, Australia and New Zealand, giving delegates a broad insight in other areas. In the equipment field A. C. Teskey of Economics K.A.S. stated purchase of equipment should be related to knowledge that it will add more dollars to income than subtract.

Utilization of forages was illustrated by Dr. J. B. Stone. Animal Science, University of Guelph. He pointed out that cows not only digest less feed nutrients as forages mature, but they also eat less. Suggested were advantages of low moisture hay and corn silage and predicted were increased trends in this direction. On the supplementation of corn silage he pointed out there were no restrictions to feeding high quality silage to dairy cattle as soon as they would eat it.

Orvil Guy Presents O. M. M. B. Report

A first in the dairy industry—the first annual meeting of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board—brought together representatives of the fluid, industrial and cheese milk producers to discuss the entire dairy industry. Six hundred delegates representing the dairy industry were in attendance.

Vice Chairman of the Board Orvil Guy presented to the meeting the annual report of the O.M.M.B. In the report Mr. Guy outlined the work of the Board since its inception in the Milk Act of 1965. Tracing history of the first year of activity he revealed the system of formation of the County Milk Committees across the province, the advisory committees' work on milk, cheese and transportation, the development of the Board on the licence fee of two cents per hundred weight of milk sold by fluid producers and one cent per cwt. on industrial milk, the envelopement of the cheese division, settling of marketing agreements and transportation policies.

Board Chairman George C. McLaughlin in his address suggested some of the changes that will take place in 1967:

The licensing of producers for information on the location of farms for transportation purposes, for identifying producers on data processing equipment for payment purposes; about present rates of transportation, and existing routes; on existing quotas, if any; on production patterns in the industry over a set period; and distribution of dairy cows by breed.

The establishment of a long-quota policy which will provide for: the allotment of quotas to all producers who will be in the pool initially; a method of allocating quotas to new producers who enter the pool; and a system of transferring quotas from one producer to another within the pool.

The drawing up and securing agreement of the terms and conditions of sales contracts with distributors and dairies, and transport contract with haulers.

The location and establishment of regional marketing offices and the recruiting of personnel to handle the day by day direction of milk supplies from farms to plants and the many other problems connected with launching a new system of milk marketing.

The setting up in conjunction with the transporters, plants and dairy branch of a program of central impartial testing of milk for payment purposes.

Dr. J. Claire Rennie, Head of Department, Animal Science Ontario Agrciultural College University of Guelph, spoke on "Milk Recording and Tomorrow's Dairying." Richard Treshane, for ten years Chairman of the Milk Marketing Board of England and Wales, had a topic "Milk Marketing and Board Operation."

Ambitious Municipal Programs

Deliver Pins This Saturday

Centennial pins to be made available to all residents of the village will be distributed Saturday, January 14. Winchester Boy Scout group will handle the distribution.

The pins are of heavy blue plastic with numerals 1867-1967 and "Ontario" inscribed upon them in white.

Saturday, the Boy Scouts will be calling on every home in Winchester on a planned route. The Scouts will inquire of the house occupant the number of persons residing and deposit the appropriate number of pins. The pins, of course, are free. They are presented to the citizens as part of the 1967 celebration by the Centennial Program Committee.

Any one who does not receive a pin by February 1 should contact a member of the committee. Pins will be forthcoming.

Impressive First-Ever Inaugural Address

For the first time in the town's history, the Reeve is about to make an inaugural speech." It was a first, and not only as a first, but for its content and thought gained compliment from all who listened to it at municipal council's inaugural meeting Monday evening.

The village's new Reeve, George E. Elliott in his inaugural message detailed what he considered prime items for development in the present term of council. Simply broken down the Reeve wishes completion of the following projects as mentioned in his inaugural speech.

Financing of a Centennial year programme. Not extravagance but sensible allotment of funds for the Centennial programs and decorations planned for the village.

Equipping or re-equipping of various village departments. Reeve Elliott suggested the necessity for better operation of these departments, car or truck radio communication for the Police and Engineering departments. Securing a tractor for dual duty of grass mowing and snow removal. Replacement of village vehicles — trucks. Another fire siren.

Village sponsorship of a Councillor or interested citizen to membership of the Eastern Ontario Development Council and the Seaway Valley Travel Council from which the village can gain and contribute much.

A comprehensive street program to include at least two being rebuilt. Centre and Gladstone Street designated for rebuilding, with a third priority the rebuilding of the first block of Fred Street.

Introduction of mercury vapor street light units to the rest of the village in 1967. And a look to the future of the town with suggestion of twinning the existing globes or replacement with fixtures of more modern design in the business section.

Turning to the village water system the Reeve stated his satisfaction. With a new pumping station under construction the village should be in good supply for several years.

"Sewerage — I hope to have put in motion a design for the future of all the village, if and when it is to be installed at different locations."

Village properties such as the Town Hall and new Fire Hall have been recommended by Reeve Elliott for fresh paint before May 20, Centennial Day in Winchester, as well as the village workship on Gordon Street which should be identified with a sign.

"Future Planning — We should, as a Council, acquire land or option on property for Industrial Development, or apartment building. I believe there is need for a modern apartment building.

Concluding his inaugural address the Reeve said: "This, gentleman, is a part program that I propose, it is up to you how much you buy. As the Reeve I don't wish to make the decisions but to co-operate with you, the Council, and all outside organizations such as the 100 Club, Legion, Chamber of Commerce, and many others, and hope you see fit to do the same."

Aesthetically, perhaps the introduction to Reeve Elliott's address contained what could be considered of importance above the programs he outlined for suggested completion. In brief he expressed his thoughts on how a council should perform its duties and referred to the importance of this particular time in village history, a similar expression of thought to the town employees and to the citizens for co-operation with council for village betterment.

Indicating to council his intention to listen and assist their their arrival at a sensible conclusion on all matters he continued to pay tribute to the village employees for past efforts and encouraged them for the future.

To the Citizen: "I wish to charge the citizens of the village with their responsibilities to their village. The five gentlemen on this board cannot run the village — we demand your help. First, perhaps, is to keep taxes paid on time to keep the village streets clean, paper, grass, weeds, etc. Assist the Town Foreman when he has his men working on the streets by removing your cars and trucks during snow removal, or trench digging, etc. Assist the Constable — traffic, break-ins, etc. Let him know when something unusual is taking place; also to the business men — use off street parking for your cars. Above all, please call the clerk's office when you have a complaint, not a councillor or myself. I don't think the citizen realizes that if he calls the clerk's office the complaint will be filed and dealt with at the next meeting, whereas a meeting on the street is sometimes forgotten."

The Meeting

Masculine Decision Beard or Moustache?

Colourful fireworks that exploded over the village on New Year's Eve are only a sample of what is yet to come as Winchester starts swinging through Centennial year 1967. There were as many ideas as fireworks discussed at the meeting of the Programming Committee last week in the council chambers.

First order of business is announcement of a Beard Growing contest. Many people had wondered if such a contest was going to take place and the answer is yes. Awards will be made available for several different categories, so gentlemen may take note whether their preference is sideburns, full beard, moustache, or whatever.

Returning to the fireworks display, satisfaction was expressed with the New Year presentation and preliminary plans are already set for an even bigger and elaborate display on May 20th, Winchester Centennial Day. The Caravan will visit the village on that Saturday date.

In May it will be an almost solid month of activity with an interdenominational church service to be held in the North Dundas District High School on May 7, not May 14 as previously announced. An essay contest of which plans could be released next month. A birthday party to honour senior citizens is also a prime objective in the planners' outline of activity.

Around the village members noted many decorative lights are still in place from the Christmas season and they are urging citizens to leave them up for Centennial year or add to them. More lights will be placed soon by the village in centre and border sections on main arteries. Various types of Centennial decoration will be available in the village and some 1967 oriented symbols and models are already on display on homes and in shops.

An integral part of the program is encouragement of all residents to paint up, clean up, light up during the Centennial year. Home or business improvement of any type makes a very worthwhile project in the opinion of the committee and is what can be termed a personal project.

Financing of many of the committee's projects will come from municipal coffers. The committee hopes to augment this with funds made available through sponsorship of events and donations or sponsorship of events by local organizations.

CFRA J. Drouin 100 Club Speaker

Banquet meeting of the Winchester 100 Club will be in Henderson Hall, Thursday evening January 19, at 7 p.m. Guest speaker will be Jack Derouin of CFRA Sports, Ottawa.

Business portion of the meeting will install the new slate of officers.

Chamber Banquet January 26, 7 p.m.

Coffee meeting of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce Monday morning announced January 26th as the date for the annual banquet meeting of the Chamber.

Don Knapp, agriculture specialist, will be the guest speakter at the Country Kitchen banquet. He will inform members of the workings of ARDA in this section of the province.

To be installed at the meeting will be a new slate of officers.

Williamsburg Council Appoints '67 Officers

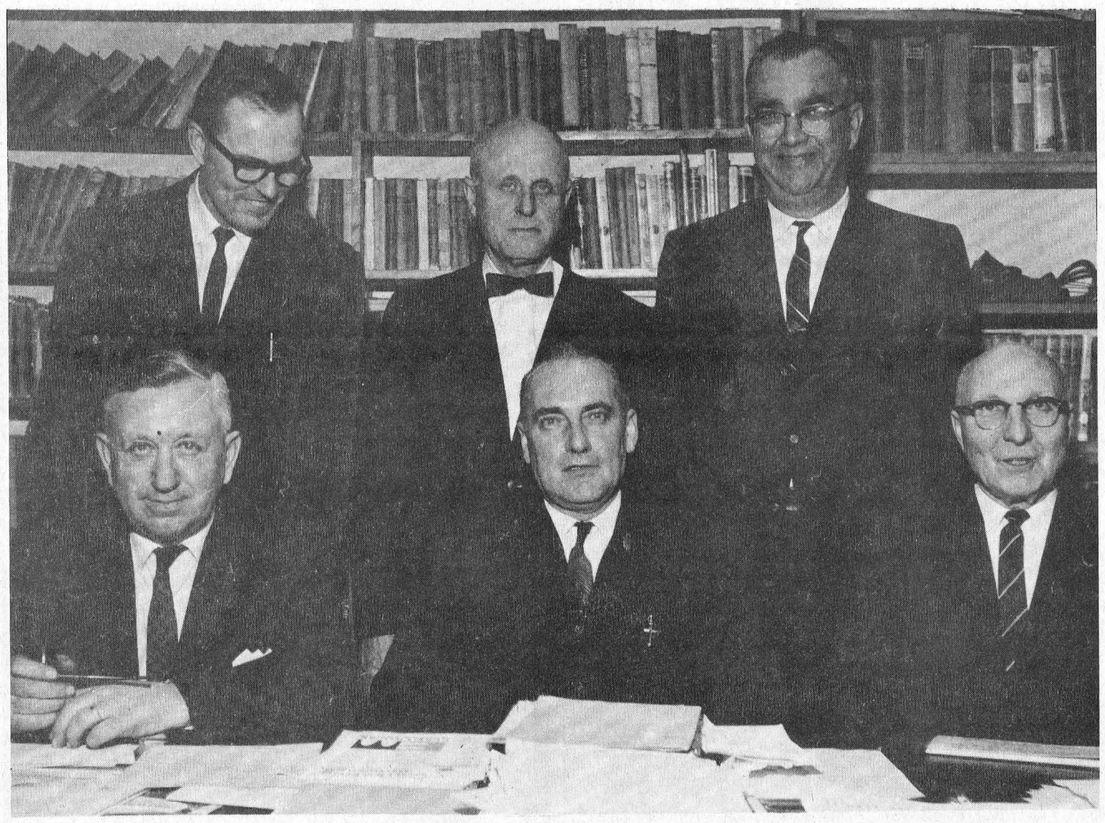
Sworn into office at the inaugural session of the Council of the Township of Willaimsburg were Reeve J. C. Whitteker, Deputy Reeve Hugh A. McMillan and Councillors D. H. Kyle, Edward Hanson and Hubert Casselman. Rev. D. L. Gordon of Williamsburg United Church conducted the invocation.

Reeve Whitteker and Clerk-Treasurer K. C. Schell were authorized to sign all Township cheques and documents for the year 1967. Under authority of By-law 1 (1967) the Reeve and Clerk were authorized to borrow up to $150,000 to meet current expenditures.

Officials appointed were Solicitor G. W. Gorrell, Auditors John Lewars and Company; Clerk Treasurer Keith Schell, Road Superintendent L. A. Whitteker, Relief and Truant Officer Auldon Ennis.

Council approved the sale of residential land in lot 25, concession 1 by Township to Seaway Chemicals Limited, and sale of residential land in lot 30, concession 2 by Alex English.

Clerk was instructed to join the Association of Rural Municipalities and the Ontario Good Roads Association. Township Engineer was instructed to examine and report construction of the Summers Drain.



Charged With Local Government

Governing of municipal affairs in the village for the next two years rests with the gentlemen of the five man council. At their inaugural meeting on Monday evening Reeve Elliott presented to council his forecast for the coming year.

Serving the community will be, seated, Councillor Don Christie, Reeve George Elliott, Clerk-Treasurer C. R. Robinson; standing, Councillors Roy Fawcett. A. E. Dukelow and Dwight Lannin.

The Happy Ones

Official announcement has been made. There will be a beard growing contest as part of Winchester's Centennial celebrations. Why, oh why have the people in charge kept all the eager beard growers waiting so long to let them know. It seemed like they were never going to make up their minds. Best news is that the competition is on. Throw away the razors men and torture the old woman with hairy affection.

At the mention of old woman comes the possible answer to the question. It is, rather obvious. The gentlemen on the village Centennial Program Committee were naturally thinking of Christmas. The idea of being left off the little woman's list and raising her ire with hair at that particular season were to understate the situation — frightening. Now the wraps are off the idea that has no doubt been hidden behind smiling male eyes since the word Centennial first began to mean something.

Thank goodness that the unbearded committee has not made this just a contest for the longest and fullest mass of tangles. They have taken into consideration the man on the street and suggest categories for the contest. Such fancy adornments as lavish sideburns, period moustaches, and other classifications will be considered as individual classes. More information on styles of the beard a hundred years ago will be forthcoming soon from the committee but sideburns and abundant moustaches appear as popular favourites of the Confederation era.

Dame fortune smiles on all of the male species in this contest. Most of the younger lads who can not measure up to the razor will have no trouble making the contest. With the hair styles of to-day it is a mere switch of the comb from sideways to forward, a part for eyes and nose to peer out, a little styling here and there and voila, a new category.

Come the time for ball, party, festival or any occasion in the coming year, what better than a host of Sir John A. Macdonald or Sir George E. Cartiers, bearded and dressed in top hat and tails.

Gentlemen, to your beard.

Upcoming In 1967

No doubt many a fearless forecaster has fallen before the irrepressible tides of time and fate and been cast aside with a complete lack of dignity, but as long as man exists he will predict.

What will fill the pages of this journal in the upcoming twelve months will hopefully be mostly good news; but a moment's thought tells us that many sad stories of death, injury, fire, and unhappiness will spot the pages liberally, even though unwanted. There are some safe assumptions on the part of the predictor, however. That is if one gazer's foresight fails and Vietnam does not become the basis of a World War with all out atomic combat. But that is for other people to predict even though we may all worry about it.

On the local scene there are many milestones that will be reached during the year. Giant expansion at the District Memorial Hopsital will be completed, adding even more prestige and room to this institution that is now fully accredited and recognized by professional and citizen alike. Educational facilities will be at their best ever also with wrap-up of the North Dundas expansion and first use of the Public School multi-purpose room. The secondary school men may just finish building when they have to scratch their heads and worry about more.

No doubt use of the title "Ontario's Cheese Capital" as relating to Ault, and the Milk Board's warehouse will receive more promotion from many sources not the least of which should be the Chamber of Commerce. Future of highway by-pass will be ascertained also by a concentrated effort by council if necessary. No doubt too, there will be talk and encouragement for a new Post Office. In that field the federal government has let Winchester sit idly by for more than just a few years and cramped conditions and need for more modern service facilities should add strength to the request. Still speculating of course one may feel that the Legion will further a dream of starting a new building.

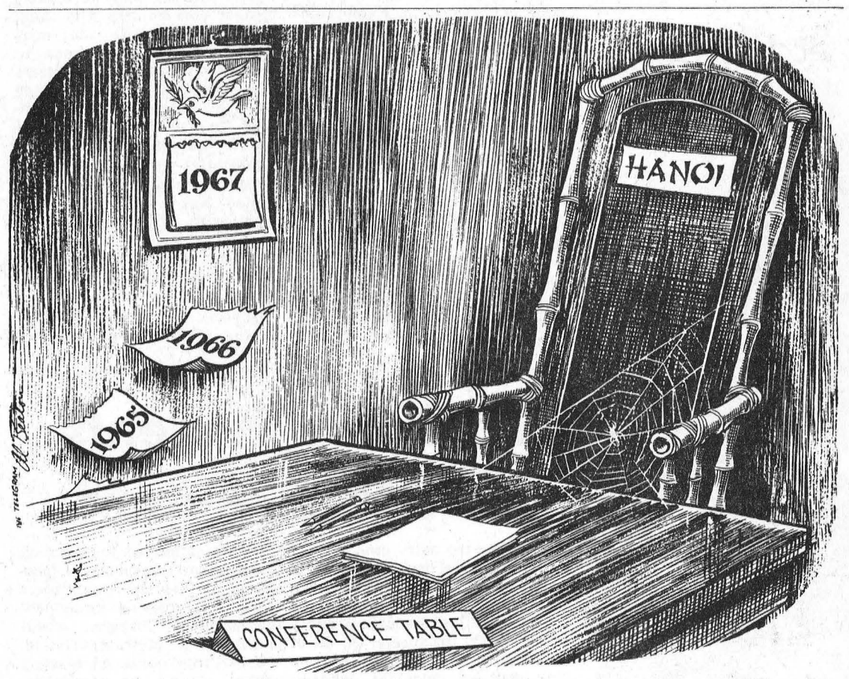
Naturally there will be the usual building of new homes, redesigning of businesses and possibly announcement of a long rumoured and suggested third subdivision for the village. One other item that may gain a strong foothold in Centennial year could be the need of a new Community Centre. At least a new building and better still a new building with artificial ice facilities. Of small expenditure but still of importance should be the start of a recreation field for ball, soccer, football, etc. in the park or some other central village location. Certainly the local ball team last year found a school ground location tripled their crowds and collections.

Municipally we can look forward with some confidence to an improved lighting system on more streets, sidewalks improved or constructed in many areas, and much needed street improvement. With expanded facilities in the Town Hall we can hope for a permanent staff in the Department of Transport Drivers' Testing office, and possibly in the Public Library a little improvement of shelving and decoration. And no doubt next door the Clerk's office will get a new safe and maybe a new door lock.

Looking at the village trucks it doesn't seem out of the way for some changes there. Still mobile, a safe prediction is for the continuance of the excellent snow removal system that has kept the village clean of the white stuff in the main. Excepting, of course, the little dead-end streets where the howl of the snowed-in taxpayer is bound to reach council's ear. The same of course can be said of street cleaning with sweeping once a week not predicted but recommended.

A closer look at tourism and Winchester may be forthcoming in 1967 with realization that this town does not have to miss the boat. Whether campers stop overnight, or stop to browse or shop, they should be made welcome. They spread the good word and local people may pick up a few dollars. There are tourist attractions in this village too, not the least of which is Ault Milk Products where guided tours for tourists proved very successful.

Predictions for the future might more appropriately be termed hopes because what people suggest is usually what they wish will happen. So it goes.



Meditations . . . by REV. CECIL W. TUININGA

Hebrews 12:29—"For our God is a consuming fire."

Fire is man's friend and foe. It furnishes power, light, heat, warmth, etc. but can also destroy our homes, forests, possessions and lives. The writer to the Hebrews had especially in mind fire's destructive powers when he wrote the above words. Men rightly fear fire, but at the same time value its refining work. God is such a fire, Whose holiness refines but also destroys.

At first sight it may seem rather impersonal to speak thus of the Almighty and Living God. It does not seem to do justice to his honor or majesty. Yet the apostle in writing to the Hebrews is not hesitant to speak of God that way. He does this, however, in a context that is designed to make men see God's holy splendor as well as His holy indignation against all unholiness. As is so disturbingly as event today, was also a danger to the Hebrew church, that of emptying out, or in a measure, nullifying the Gospel message. The Gospel message is an urgent and earnest call to hell-deserving sinners to "flee from the wrath to come" before it is too late. For that Day is coming when the apostate and unrepentent sinners will cry ". . . to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?"—Rev. 6:16-17).

We live in a time when this message of the Gospel is spurned or considerably altered and softened. It seems that our concept of God's love dims it, or recoils from it. Many protest this idea of a God of wrath Who will visit mankind with judgment, and the return of Christ, as we read of it "When the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ; Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power." It is because our concept of God has altered and changed. For God is love, and it is the fierceness of the jealousy of an eternal, infinite and holy love that burns against all unholiness and consumes all that is unholy.

Actually, the difficulty we have with the Gospel message is that the law of God is at the bottom of it. That law is God's perfect and unalterable demand of love for all mankind. In the light of that perfect Law we stand utterly condemned as we are by nature. Only the atoning death of God's only begotten Son can save us from the condemnation of the perfect Law. He died on the cross for us. There He bore in body and soul the wrath of God against the whole human race. It is that message that make the Gospel the "good tidings of great joy" but also a message of eternal condemnation to all who spurn it. It is man's great folly to try to hide from or supplant that blessed Gospel message. Rather, let us accept it and be eternally saved from the wrath to come.

SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

Those wonderful years

By the time this appears in print, I expect that I shall have severed an association of 17 years with the weekly newspaper business. And it is not without some sadness that I do so.

Sometimes it seems that our life is governed by accident, that we have very little control over it.

Had the war lasted a few months longer, had I taken a different course at university, or gone to a different college, I would not have met my wife. And had I not met that particular girl at that particular time, I would never have been in the newspaper business, nor would I be writing this column.

Accident again took a hand. We were in the city. I had enrolled in a post-graduate course in English. University teaching was the objective.

Came the tragic news that my brother-in-law (on my wife's side) had been drowned in a boating accident. He owned a weekly newspaper.

We hastened to the scene, to be of what comfort we could. And I pitched in, as ignorant as Mrs. Murphy's cow, to help keep the paper going for a week or two, until other arrangements were made. Eleven years later, I was still there.

From the beginning, I was fascinated. This was better than the world of Chaucer and Spenser and the Romantic poets, the whole fleece-lined world of the scholar. This was life.

There was an exciting tempo to it that suited me. Monday was a day of desperation. No news, no editorials written, nobody wanted to buy an advertisement that early in the week. The linotype operator was getting owly because you couldn't keep him busy and he knew what was coming.

Tuesday, the pace accelerated rapidly. The news began to pour in. You madly dashed off two sparkling editorials. You tried to make a sensible story of the donnybrook at last night's council meeting. You hit the street and sold ads, whether it was raining or snowing or blastingly hot.

Wednesday was even moreso. Complaints, callers, classified ads piling in, and the inevitable merchant waltzing in, after the deadline, with a big ad you simply hadn't room to print. Proof-reading away behind. People in looking for free publicity. People in just to chat about town affairs, or their grandchildren. And the linotype operator, dangerous to the point of being lethal, within a radius of 12 feet of his machine. Work often till midnight, putting the sheet to bed.

Thursday was decision day. Too many ads. Can we leave this one out? Too much country correspondence. Which reporter will be least infuriated if we leave her stuff till next week? Short a column of front page news. Where can we dig it up? The photos haven't arrived. Rush to the bus station; see if they're in.

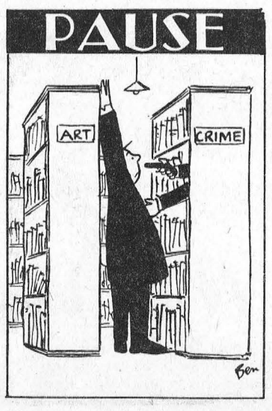
But by about 10.30 a.m., she was on the press, and the comforting thump and rumble of the old machine was reward enough for all the scrambling. There was solid satisfaction in folding, stamping and mailing the finished product. You felt as good as though you'd just wrestled an alligator to a split decision.

At any rate, I was hooked. Formed a partnership with one of the printers, and we bought the thing. We didn't have 40 cents apiece. But we went out like a couple of pirates, hit every friend and relative we knew, scratched up the down payment, outbid every competitor because we had nothing to lose, and took on what was probably the biggest mortgage on any weekly newspaper on the continent.

They were great fun, those first few years. There wasn't much caviar or champagne. Every spare nickel went into the debts. But we made it, and made a host of good friends among weekly editors on the way.

But I can tell you that running a weekly newspaper is one of the roughest games in town. Holidays are almost unknown. Long hours are the rule. Somebody is always sore at you. And you'll never be rich.

I'll miss it. Some of it. And I'll always have warm memories of it. But I hope to keep in touch through this column, which will continue as usual.



Centennial Report

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

Aviation has made a great contribution to Canada's development and I am still hoping, at this date, that there will be suitable recognition of that fact in next year's Centennial celebrations.

I am referring to civil aviation and, in particular, the bush flying era of the twenties and thirties. In those days of northern development, when aeroplanes were still relatively flimsy things, more freight was moved through our north country than anywhere else in the world and the tonnage figures rivalled those of the Suez Canal.

The bush pilots who flew by the "seats of their pants" without modern navigation aids have stamped their names in Canadian history and have left colorful legends known to many all over the world. Wop May, Whitey Dahl, Sandy MacDonald, Grant McConachie, J. H. Tudhope, J. Romeo Vachon, Punch Dickins — these are but a few which come to mind. Some have taken the last flight beyond the cirrus clouds; others are still around.

Bush flying, the two world wars and imaginative, daring and courageous men gave Canada its aviation heritage. Canada also received the world's recognition for being an important aviation country when the headquarters of the International Civil Aviation Organization were established at Montreal. Many Canadians don't realize that delegates from more than 110 countries are based at Montreal to set and maintain standards, procedures and recommended practices for civil aviation throughout the world. (An associated agency of the United Nations, the International Civil Aviation Organization is the only UN body based in Canada.)

Canadian military aviation will receive recognition next year in the various air shows, with vintage and modern aircraft, and fly-pasts which are planned along with events such as the Armed Forces' Military Tattoo and other spectaculars. The first international free balloon race in Canada also will be a big feature on the prairies during the summer of 1967 and the Centennial International Abbotsford Air Show, at Abbotsford, B.C., will be held August 11, 12 and 13, 1967.

The National Air Museum at Ottawa has been developed into one of the best of its kind in the world and it, with its collection of aeroplanes from World War I to today, is a tribute to military aviation and, to a limited extent, civil aviation. (I am pleased that recent acquisitions of vintage aircraft and plans for more are making the foundations for a historical bush flying collection at Ottawa.)

I still have hopes that non-government organizations or associations will spark interest in further events to recognize general aviation next year.

A handicap air-race for vintage aircraft and displays from the twenties and thirties could be organized by aviation historical associations and flying clubs working together, I'm sure. It's not too late and a meet or race would attract many Canadians by road and by air. Those aviations enthusiasts in the United States and other countries who recently have developed a boom in antique aircraft restoration and aviation historical interest also would attend in great numbers, I'm sure.

The Seventh Column

Perhaps this year with EXPO in full swing and countless celebrations across the nation marking Canada's 100th birthday, Canadians will finally decide that they have something to shout about. Just being a Canadian is enough. Trouble is a lot of us just don't give a damn. And much of the time we're ready to criticize too freely. Matter of fact, one of the great problems of Canadian television is their endless desire to base a lot of their programming on Canadian satire. Let's start building this year. We have a great country. We have a culture . . . and it's called Canadian.

For instance, the week-end sports scene brought this home more than ever. Here we are a budding giant, yet with only 20 million people. Against other more populated areas we rank high on the list. How about this: Elaine Tanner, the young British Columbia swimmer, rated as the best in the world. Nancy Greene who piled up all the points in Germany over the week-end to substantiate our claim that she is the world's top woman skier. And what about hockey? Despite the Russians and one or two other European countries Canada is still the best by a considerable margin. Anyone who saw the Centennial Invitational tournament last week will agree. Canada's national team won it all. And although the hockey is highly entertaining it is still not the NHL. And Canadian players make up the NHL — the best in the world. And we're not so bad in track. Harry Jerome does the 100 yards in 9.4 seconds. And we've won in rowing, bob sledding and others. And this is the year to shout these accomplishments and the many others in medicine, science, the arts, from our roof tops for all the world to hear. Maybe then we'll take a little more pride in this friendly giant of a nation called Canada.

Shades of the Smith Brothers. Winchester Centennial committee has announced that there WILL be a beard growing contest in Winchester starting now and continuing until May 20th. At that time a host of suitable prizes will be awarded to the winners in the various categories. If you can stand the itch for the first seven days there isn't much to it. Local barbers, however, may have second thoughts because a lot of beards are going to have to come off after the contest is over. If you don't want a long beard, try a short one. They were just as popular in days of yore. And if you don't like the beard idea how about growing the sideburns. They were really popular. Sorry fellas, no prizes for long hair. The beard growing contest should prove lots of fun. And already a few of the enthusiastic types have got a head start. But there's lots of time. So throw away the electric razor or the shaving cream and blades and get in the swing of things.

Still on the Centennial theme the committee in charge has announced that Centennial pins will be distributed to all Winchester citizens this Saturday. Winchester's active Boy Scout troop has volunteered to do the job and they will be around some time this Saturday with your pins and a card from the Centennial committee. When the boys come to your home simply tell them the number in your family and you will receive a pin for each one. When you get the pin, wear it. They are quite attractive.

And in case you have forgotten the date yesterday, January 11, was the birth date of Sir John A. Macdonald. And Sir John A. is one of the main reasons the rest of us are around this year celebrating our first 100 years of nationhood.

Winchester 100 Club's annual Winter Carnival comes up the first part of February. And it's not too soon for all the young lovelies to consider entering the Carnival Queen contest. It is just possible that a Centennial Queen will be chosen from the Winchester entrants. This is not definite but plans will probably be finalized in the next couple of weeks.

Metcalfe Lions Are Good Santas

(By Joe Rowan)

Metcalfe and District Lions Club proudly reports that no one in their area was forgotten at Christmas. There were hampers loaded with the necessities for a complete dinner for those in need; there were smaller boxes of goodies for senior citizens and shut-ins, and besides all this, a huge lighted tree adorned the front lawn of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

To make all this possible the Lion members were working: first there was the Christmas Cheer Broadcast, then the sale of chocolates, and the all-out blitz to have a "Lions Christmas Tree in Every Home."

The Christmas Tree project is growing steadily. In its first year only a few trees were sold; last year, well over a hundred were sold, and this year 228 were distributed. It is hoped in the future that every home in the district will be buying their tree from the Lions.

The Lions have still another slogan: "All work and no play and good members stray away." With this thought in mind they entertained their wives at a Ladies' Night during the holiday season, and at this party reluctantly bid farewell to one of their most active members, Lion Freddie Overdulve. Lion Freddie, a member of the R.C.A.F., has been posted to Germany for three years, and he will be sadly missed by the club. To show appreciation the members presented Fred and his wife Terry with a lovely poloroid camera.

Work is under way on the hockey program and it is hoped some non-members will volunteer their help for this worthy work with the children.

New Years Party At Marvelville

Marvelville Community Club ushered in Centennial 1967 with its 21st New Years Eve Party. Young and old enjoyed dancing to the music of Ken McCallum and Murray Little in the school.

At the stroke of twelve the door of the old year was closed as a finished book" and the new Centennial year 1967 was hailed with great gusto. Whistles, laughter and shouts of good will prevailed.

Mrs. Helen Lewis Hosts Vernon Anglican Guild

The Christmas meeting of the Anglican Ladies' Guild was held at the home of Mrs. Helen Lewis. The president, Mrs. Frank Acres, opened the meeting in the usual way with prayer. Mrs. Lewis had the devotional period.

No. 14 - no more

(By Joe Rowan)

R.C.S.S. No. 14 Osgoode, has passed into history. Records in the Township office show that in the year of Confederation, 1867, this little school was playing its important role in the education of the early settlers, supported then by the Ottos Tobins, Leaghys, Herberts, Kellys, Langleys and others.

Last week, at the Annual Meeting of C.R.C.S.S. Osgoode, held in the modern 8-room school at Metcalfe, old No. 14 officially became part of the combined system, which covers about two-thirds of the entire Township with its bus transportation system.

The meeting was well attended and the following board was elected: John Crogie, Kenmore; Bert Velthuis, Osgoode; Bert Van Rens, George Van Berlo and Joe Rowan, of Metcalfe.

A very close co-operation between the Public and Separate School Boards is evident in Osgoode, where the Public School Board, due to lack of space in their own schools, are using one of the Separate School rooms, and in the same spirit of goodwill, some of the Separate School pupils are transported on Public School buses.

The ratepayers present urged the board to take a close look at their transportation system, with increased bus inspection and care not to have the buses on the roads when conditions were hazardous.

New Judging Milk Method For Ont. Farmers

Agriculture Minister William Stewart of Ontario says a new method of judging milk to determine payment to farmers will be introduced across the province this year.

Mr. Stewart told the annual convention Thursday of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board that infra-red rays will be used to find out the amount of fat and protein in the milk.

Ontario will become the first area in the world to use the new system on such a wide scale, he said.

Prof. D. A. Biggs, head of dairy chemistry at the University of Guelph, said the new method is faster and reduces the possibility of human error inherent in the centrifuge test now in general use in southern Ontario.

In an interview, Prof. Biggs said eight infra-red milk analyzers costing about $16,000 each, are to be imported from England to supplement the two already in use in the province.

The new method should eliminate complaints from some farmers that their milk has been judged unfairly, Prof. Biggs said.

Williamsburg Greets You Centennially

A bright Centennial greeting awaits all visitors to Williamsburg. The Centennial greeting is in the form of a large sectioned Maple Leaf symbol at each entrance to the village on Highway 31. The symbols as the dark hours approach take on added beauty with bright illumination and can be seen far back the highway approaches.

The lighted symbols were purchased at a cost in excess of $100 each. Reaction to the signs has been that the cost was well worthwhile.

IN MEMORIAMS

ST. PIERRE—In loving memory of a dear daughter, Yvonne St. Pierre who died accidentally on January 13, 1966.
We seem to see in the soft dim light,
A face we love the best;
Recalling her as the sun's last rays,
Go down in the far-off west.
We miss her more as time goes on,
We can never close our hearts;
And the lamp of our love still burns.
Her heart the truest in all the world,
Her love the best to recall;
None on earth could take her place,
She is still the dearest of all.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers. 36p

History Made At South Gower Church

South Gower Baptist Church made history for the church by holding a service on Christmas Eve as this is, as far as can be recollected, the first time a service of this nature has been held. It was very well attended.

Rev. G. A. Cawfield gave a series of appropriate readings, the congregation joined in the singing of Christmas carols and hymns, the South Gower Baptist Church Orchestra led by Deacon Cedric Coleman rendered selections before and during the service. Mrs. Cedric Coleman was at the organ and Mrs. W. Logan at the piano. Mr. Stanley Wallace led the choir in praise and also sang solos, one by special request, "The Stranger in Galilee." Miss Jane Gibson's singing was much enjoyed as was Mr. Atkinson's (Junior) contribution with his guitar accompaniment. Rev. Mr. Atkinson pronounced the Benediction.

The church was beautifully decorated for this joyous sacred occasion.
