Two Vacancies Iroquois Council

Nominations for municipal elections may be turned in to the clerks of the municipalities in Ontario this Thursday, Friday and Monday until 5 p.m. and by announcements today, there will be a change in Iroquois Council.

Reeve Ken Kirkby has announced that due to business and health reasons, he will not be seeking reelection in the village. Councillor Jack Saver has also stated that due to business pressure he will not be standing.

The three other present councillors, Jack Fetterly, Mrs. Helen Smith and Jim Styles have announced that they will again seek reelection to the village council.

In making the announcement that he would not be running for office again, Reeve Kirkby said he was making the announcement before nomination date so that village residents would have time to think about the composition of their next council and that he hoped whoever decided to run for the reeveship and council would be prepared to give the task the great amount of time that it required.

A public meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 21st in the Civic Centre at 8 p.m. to give every candidate an opportunity to speak to the public. With many people having too little time to actually canvass the village, it was felt that more people could be reached more easily in this manner. At that time, the present Reeve and Councillors will give a report of their tenure of office, including a statement of the finances of the village, salaries paid to staff, programs that are underway and programs that have been planned for the future.

Still In Doubt

Since the federal election the country has been watching the tide wing slowly back and forth as the odd seat changes hands and more importantly we have all heard the varied comments from political leaders.

In most cases the minority party leaders are jockeying their comments as though we were all ready for another election in this country in the next couple of months or so. Or even by next Spring.

Should that thinking continue it is more than likely that the government will be brought to a standstill in whatever it tries to do. Now that the Liberal party has had time to assess their loss of favour in the country, no matter what the reason, we feel certain that even Mr. Trudeau will heed the signals and take appropriate action.

In this likelihood any party that would bring down the government will also have to answer to the people of Canada and while a lot of hot air is being blown around neither Mr. Caouette or Mr. Lewis are anxious for that kind of battle.

The people have spoken and whether Mr. Trudeau or Mr. Stanfield form the government, all Canadians ... and that even includes our federal politicians . . . should remember that the first thought should be for the welfare of the country.

Mr. Trudeau says he will lead the government and with this we would have no quarrel, as long as he remembers that all Members of Parliament are elected to serve their country...not just the leaders.

Here's for a better tomorrow and a stronger Canada...for all Canadians.

Remember?

This weekend, Canadians will be attending ceremonies marking the obervance of a remembrance of the men and women of this country who gave their lives for their country.

And also remembering the many veterans who are still suffering the effects of war.

As each new generation comes along there are fewer and fewer left to remember this aspect of Canadian history. Too few still remember dark days of war and as the years move along even those who were around in those days, tend to forget the gloom and desolation of war on mind and body.

The Royal Canadian Legion carries on a tradition of remembering their comrades and as the attendances dwindle at such remembrance services, the fight to attract attention to the service paid gets harder to fight. But fight on they do and we all owe a great debt of gratitude to the men and women of the Legion for the sacrifices they have given and are still giving on our behalf.

Come this weekend we hope that as many as possible have the time to spend that hour of remembrance with fellow residents in reverence and honour for our loyal citizens.

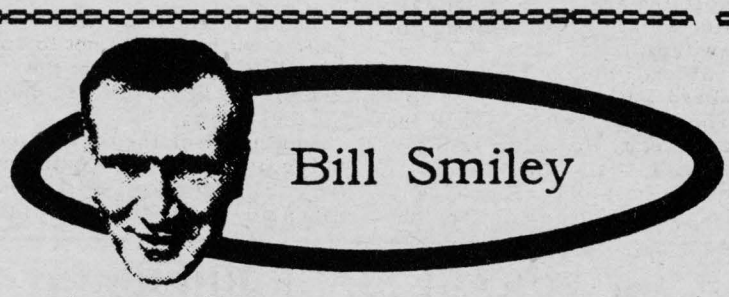
HOW I HELPED GET OUT THE VOTE

by Bill Smiley



Today I was discussing newspaper columnists with some of my senior students. It was a perfectly legitimate exercise in the teaching of English, but the devils know that if they can get me off track, bragging or reminiscing, I might get carried away and forget to give them their homework assignment.

Therefore, someone craftily introduced the subject of this column. Sly questions, leading me further and further away from the original point. It worked. Most people are never happier than when they're talking about themselves or their work. I took the bait.

"I suppose you write four or five ahead", suggested one lad.

A lot of people have this loony idea. I tersely told the truth: that I write it right on the deadline, even though I have a whole week to work on it. I'm usually galloping to the post office to catch the last possible mail. There are 168 hours in a week, and I use the last two of them.

(I can hear some editors and readers sniffing and muttering, "They read like it, too".)

But I've discovered that it is psychologically impossible for me to turn out a column unless the guillotine is hanging over me. I've tried it in the summer holidays, but have given up. On each occasion I'd sit there, looking and feeling stupid, tear out of the typewriter sheet after sheet, crumple it, and try again. Nothing doing.

I am constantly telling budding writers to establish a regular work pattern. Afraid it's a case of "do as I say" rather than "do as I do."

Oh, they get a lot of good advice. Constantly I extoll the work habits of people like Leacock and Hemingway, who got up early and worked steadily for so many hours. Then one of my little inner voices snaps, "Why don't you do it yourself?" My other little inner voice snaps right back, "Hell, I'm not a writer, I'm a columnist." Saved again.

When youthful writers ask me what to write about, I tell them to write about what they know and do and feel. This time, I follow my own advice. If I didn't, I wouldn't have enough material to keep me going for a month.

"Yah, but whut kinda stuff?", they retort in their impeccable teenage English.

This is a variant on the adult query I've heard so often, "Where daya get all them ideas for your little articles?"

Well, folks, I wish a butler would appear once a week with a little silver salver bearing a piece of paper, and announce, "Your idea for this week, sir." But he doesn't, and I probably wouldn't know what to do with it if he did. Besides, I don't have a butler, dammit.

However, I do have a wife. Occasionally, in despair, I'll say, "What in the world am I going to write about this week?"

She"ll say, "Write about spring" or something about as helpful. I respond, "O.K." and write a column about spring. Nothing to it.

Just before the election, something came up that might have been material for a column. An old friend phoned. My wife answered. She called, "Paul wants to know if the Liberals can put a sign on our lawn", frowning and shaking her head at me.

Airily I said, "Sure, I don't care.", though I hadn't decided which way I was going to vote. Hand over the mouthpiece, she hissed at me, "No. I don't want a sign on our lawn."

Broccoli and sliced turkey combine with a savoury Holland imported Gouda sauce in an easy variation on an old classic main dish.

Gouda Divan

LOCAL or imported broccoli can now be had throughout the year. A delicate vegetable, it takes on new character as a main dish when combined with sliced turkey or chicken enrobed in a rich sauce. You will find Holland imported Gouda ideal for the sauce since it does not become ropey or stringy in the sauce and forms a good crust when broiled.

1 bunch broccoli
6 large slices cooked turkey
salt and pepper
1 cup cooked rice
(⅓ cup raw)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
nutmeg
14 ounces grated imported Holland Gouda cheese

Cook broccoli quickly in a large amount of water. Refresh with cold water and drain. Arrange turkey in the bottom of a large, flat casserole. Spoon well-seasoned rice over turkey. (Rice tastes better if cooked in chicken stock). Place broccoli spears on top. Season with salt and pepper.

Melt butter. When bubbling add flour. Cook and stir for a moment or two, taking care not to let it brown. Turn off heat and add milk. Beat until smooth and cook over medium heat until thick. Season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Fold in 10 ounces grated Gouda cheese. Pour sauce over broccoli and sprinkle with remaining Holland imported Gouda cheese. Bake in a 375° oven for 30 minutes, then brown cheese under the broiler.

Get Your Snowmobile Ready For Winter Action

Snowmobile time is here again, and, now is the time to start getting that snowmobile in shape for the coming season. Here's what the service engineers recommend you do before you take that snowmobile out this year:

First, flush out the fuel tank, clean it thoroughly and then refill with a fresh mixture of gasoline and oil. Regular gasoline works best in snowmobile engines.

Second, run the engine at low speed until it has warmed up. Then, if necessary, adjust the carburetor. According to the experts, a slightly rich mixture is best and will provide both longer engine life and the best possible performance under varying operating conditions. An exceptionally lean mix, they say, can cause engine damage. If the engine runs rough after carburetor adjustments are made, the plug may be dirty and need replacement. If the plug is replaced, check the spark gap and be sure plugs are tightened properly.

Third, lubricate all wear points but be careful not to spill grease or oil on belts or the track. The lubricants can damage these parts.

Fourth, check the tension on drive track and drive chain and adjust if necessary. Also check track alignment and adjust this, too, if it is required.

Fifth, check the ski alignment. Skis should be parallel or slightly toed-in.

Do all that -- it won't take long -- and your machine will be ready for another season of fun and excitement on the trail.

Take Up Our Quarrel

(a guest Editorial)

This November 11, we remember with profound respect those who have paid the great sacrifice in the cause of freedom, honour, and justice during the world and lesser wars of our century.

But we do not forget, indeed we greatly respect those distinguished people who humbly move in our midst, deeply mindful that a 'short time ago' they stood shoulder to shoulder with their comrades, men who "lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow; loved and were loved, and now who lie in Flander's Fields."

Freedom, honour and justice are the light of the torch that we cannot expect to receive and keep burning without price. And the cost to be met by each of us is everyday vigilance and a firm determination to take up the quarrel, a quarrel against evil in all its forms.

Mr. Paul Claxton, Sports Officer of Canadian Legion Branch 370, is a man who has been a tireless worker in the sports and recreation field for several years. Paul has been involved in many sports as a promoter and behind the scenes and without the efforts he has poured forth, many events over the years would never have gotten off the ground in our community. Presently, he is recovering from an illness that has set him back considerably. To Paul: I know that everyone is wishing for you to have a very speedy recovery and to get back into the scene very shortly.

Today, we once more wish to appeal to all local groups to pass onto us any newsworthy sports or recreation news for release to keep the community informed of your events.

If some of you feel depressed at Canada's performance in hockey against Russia and Sweden, then cheer up. Imagine how the United States felt when Russia turned them back in basketball at the recent Olympics.

Big Frank Mahovolich of Team Canada has been so impressed with the U. S. S. R. athletes that he recently stated, "Give them a football and in two years they would defeat any team in the C. F. L."

Team Canada played its best and the effort should be appreciated. If we are the sportsmen we expect them to be, then we should applaud their efforts win or lose.

Walter Baker Statement

In a statement today, Walter Baker, newly elected Progressive Conservative member for Grenville-Carleton, commented on reports that the programme for implementation of bilingualism in the Public Service might be "modified" by the inclusion of a so-called "grandfather" clause affecting more senior Public Servants.

While such a modification might be welcome as a first baby step, the Trudeau Government ought not to assume that they or any one else can rest on their oars, he said.

It is no accident that the majority given the PC candidate of over 10,000 votes was the highest majority given any PC candidate in Ontario and the second highest overall in the Province. The PCs outfought and out-organized the other parties in the Riding, but it ought not to be forgotten that the people of Grenville-Carleton soundly rebuked the Trudeau Government for the callous way they have treated unilingual public servants. That was the largest single local issue. Mr. Baker said that he hoped that the Trudeau Government and the country read the message in that vote because the problem must be rectified. There is no point in giving mere lip service to the Pearson Guarantees --the Public Servants will not buy any of Mr. Drury's guidelines unless there is assurance in the law of the land that bureaucrats will not ignore them.

The issue of bilingualism, particularly its implementation in the Public Service, was fought in Grenville-Carleton and it was fought responsibly. If the message from Grenville-Carleton is ignored, the Public Service will have been betrayed.

Matilda 4-H Meetings

The third meeting of the Matilda 4-H Homemaking Club was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Shaver on Oct. 14. We opened with the 4-H Pledge. The roll call was answered by 12 members. The minutes of the last meeting were read by Connie deJong.

Our demonstration was on kinds of cereals.

Our discussion was on how modern food processing transforms the basic grain into a variety of cereal products.

The collection amounted to $1.40. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

Our fourth meeting was also held at the home of Mrs. Bert Shaver, on Oct. 21. The meeting opened with the 4-H Pledge.

The roll call was answered by 13 members.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Thea Groniger.

We talked about going bowling after our books are completed.

Our discussion was on different kinds of flour and their uses.

Lois Barkley and Lynn Whitteker demonstrated bran muffins.

Thea classed these muffins. Connie deJong, Evonne Kolff and Linda Empey made muffins at home and brought them to the meeting.

We closed with the Lord's Prayer.

Surprise him with a Smith-Corona in December and he may surprise you with better grades in June.

After the holidays, your teenager faces a mighty tough year. That's when a Smith-Corona can start looking like the greatest Christmas present ever.

With our electric portable, for instance, he can learn to type twice as fast as writing by hand.

His spelling can improve too. (A typed word that's misspelled just begs to be corrected.)

Thinking can get a jolt also, because a typewriter can accept ideas as fast as they come up.

And then a quiet little miracle called Organization can occur. When that happens, pride, confidence and self-esteem can gain a toehold.

So with a little application (plus ability, needless to say) your teenager's schoolwork could very well improve. Only June will tell.

But why a Smith-Corona?

Because all typewriters are not the same, that's why.

We invite you to compare a Smith-Corona against any other typewriters to prove it.

Compare durability, portability, features.

Compare years of experience in actually "making" typewriters (especially electric portables).

No wonder more people in the world buy Smith-Corona Electric Portables than any other. And why you should too.

Our dealers are in the Yellow Pages.

Rising Cost Force Rate Increase

Based on rising trends in energy costs, rate increases for all Ontario Hydro customers were announced by Hydro Chairman George Gathercole.

Interim wholesale rates to municipal commissions will rise by an average of 8 per cent, while the average increase to direct industrial customers will be 12 per cent. Both of these increases are effective January 1, 1973. To retail customers (cottages, farms and rural residences), the average increase is 10 per cent and is effective on bills payable February 5, 1973. There has been no increase in rates to Ontario Hydro direct industrial and rural customers in the last two years, whereas there was an increase of 8 per cent in the interim rates to municipal electric utilities effective last July 1.

Mr. Gathercole cited inflation and resultant escalation in costs of equipment and supplies, interest rates, wages and salaries, fuels and anti-pollution measures as the causes of the raise.

The Province's 350 municipal utilities, 91 large industrial customers served directly by Ontario Hydro and some 600,000 rural consumers are affected.

Mr. Gathercole said the rate increases will not be sufficient alone to meet rising costs and that withdrawals will have to be made from the reserve fund. Generally speaking, this fund has been established to absorb the cost of such factors as variation in stream flows, major physical damage to plant, delays in bringing generating plants into service, and exchange risk on debts payable in foreign currency.

A year ago, Hydro advised its customers that in spite of intensive cost pressures, there would be a temporary deferment of a rate increase because of the state of the economy. With the improvement in economic conditions, an interim increase of 8 per cent to municipal commissions was made on July 1. But no increase was made at that time to the large industrial customers, whose contracts run from January 1 to December 31st, or to rural customers.

Mr. Gathercole said, "in recent years, after a long period of rate stability or decline, spiralling inflation has begun to effect electric costs and rates. Interest rates on borrowed capital, wages and salaries and the price of property, supplies and materials have been rising faster than savings resulting from rising consumption per customer and other economy measures.

"Because Hydro has to operate at cost, rate increases in recent years have had to follow the upward trend in cost of most other goods and services and wages and salaries. For example, between 1961 and 1971, the average cost per kilowatt-hour to municipal residential customers rose 18.6 per cent, but during the same period the consumer price index jumped 33.4 per cent and the average Ontario wage and salary increased 75.9 per cent."

To meet the increasing demand for power, he said Hydro is forced to build more thermal generating plants. Here Hydro is faced not only with rising fuel prices but also costly anti-pollution control measures.

"Inflation is the industry's most grievous problem. However, an analysis of prices of other energy sources also reveals a sharp upward trend. And taking into account its long history of rate stability, we believe electricity will continue to be a remarkable bargain," said Mr. Gathercole.

Dora DeJong received her R.N. Degree from the Ottawa Civic School of nursing. She is on staff at the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Slow Down and Take it Easy Best Advise for Winter Driving

Coping with the problems of winter driving begins with the proper servicing of your car to ensure that it is in top condition when you have to depend on its reliability.

This should include a complete brake check; engine tune-up; a good battery; good tread or snow tires; muffler, tailpipe, lights and windshield wipers in good condition; and anti-freeze in the washer.

But safe driving under winter conditions depend on your skill as a driver and your knowledge of how adverse conditions affect your ability to control your vehicle.

The first suggestion offered by all the experts is reduce your speed. Bad weather is doubly dangerous because it increases stopping distance while decreasing the distance you can see.

In fact, a vehicle travelling 20 mph can stop in 21 feet on dry pavement but in loosely packed snow it takes 60 feet or three times as far and on glare ice it will take 195 feet to stop - nine times as far.

Changing lanes or direction on ice is also hazardous. A manoeuvre that can be done safely at 60 mph on bare pavement can only be done safely on ice at between 12 and 15 mph.

And this is not restricted to the winter months, in the fall and spring an early morning frost can create a slippery film on the road surface that is every bit as dangerous as ice. In particular, watch for icy conditions on bridges, overpasses and in shady areas.

It also pays to remember that ice is more slippery at the freezing point than when it is colder.

Another bad weather problem is hydroplaning, when water on the road makes a cushion for your tires leaving no actual contact of the tires on the road surface. Here again the best defense is anticipation of this condition and a reduction in speed. While this condition can occur at any speed it is most common in the mid-50 mph range.

Driving through water can also cause problems with your brakes. Check traffic and when all is clear, try out your brakes. If they do not react the way they should, hold them on for short periods of time until the heat generated dries them out.

In winter skidding is always a problem but, in many circumstances, it is driver caused - by driving too fast, swerving suddenly or accelerating or decelerating too quickly. If you're caught in a skid, remember the three very important don'ts:

Don't panic!
Don't slam on your brakes!
Don't swing your steering wheel too far over!

Unexpected difficulties can be caused by a high wind or being passed by a heavy transport travelling at high speeds. Both hands on the wheel at all times is one of the best ways of keeping in control in an emergency of this kind.

Good visibility always is important. In winter, this means completely clearing all windows, your outside mirror and your tail-lights. Also the inside of your windshield since smoke and dust leave a vision-obscuring film.

Lights should be in good working order for they serve a dual purpose in bad weather by helping you to see where you are going and by making you more visible to other drivers.

If your windshield is getting dirty and the washer is in constant use, remember that your headlights are in even worse condition since they get more of the splash and spray.

In fog or mist, distance perception changes and everything looks farther away than it actually is, which is important to remember when passing. Both fog and snow reflect light so only low beams should be used under these conditions.

The colour of a car affects its visibility, with light, bright colours being easier to see in adverse conditions. If you drive a dark coloured car, turn on your parking lights or low beams.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO OWN THE FARM TO BE A SUCCESSFUL FARMER AND TO HAVE A GOOD LIFE

BUT YOU NEED TRAINING

Farming is big business today.

On large Ontario farms there's a constant need for agricultural workers. But it's not the old-fashioned "Hired-Hand" life anymore. It's a well-paying lifetime career with rich benefits for the person who enjoys working with livestock, crops and machinery. And it's a healthy life -- especially for a growing family who can count on accommodation, food and a less frustrating pace of life.

To train men for this career, a ten week course to upgrade agricultural knowledge and skills is being offered at the KEMPTVILLE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURAL TECHNOLOGY beginning January 8, 1973.

To qualify you must be at least 18 years of age; 1 year out of school with a functional Grade 8 education, and be approved by a selection committee.

Also available are training allowances which can total up to $113 weekly for a man with 4 dependants, if approved by ARDA and Canada Manpower.

Why Wear A Poppy

"Please wear a poppy" the Lady said
And held one forth, but I shook my head.
Then I stopped and watched as she offered them there,
And her face was old and lined with care;
But beneath the scars the years had made,
There remained a smile that refused to fade.
A boy came whistling down the street
Bouncing along on carefree feet.
His smile was full of joy and fun;
"Lady" said he, "may I have one?"
When she'd pinned it on, he turned to say
"Why do we wear a poppy today?"
The lady smiled in her wistful way,
And answered "This is Remembrance Day
And the poppy there, is a symbol for
The gallant men who died in war.
And because they did, you and I are free.
That's why we wear a poppy, you see."
"I had a boy about your size
With golden hair and big blue eyes.
He loved to play and jump and shout,
Free as a bird he would chase about.
As the years went by he learned and grew
And became a man - as you will too.
He was fine and strong with a boyish smile
But he stayed with us such a little while.
Then war broke out and he went away.
I still remember his face that day
When he smiled at me and said goodbye
I'll be back soon, Mom, so please don't cry.
But the war went on and he had to stay
And all I could do was wait and pray.
His letters told of the awful fight
(I can see it still in my dreams at night)
With the tanks and guns and crude barbed wire
And the mines and bullets, the bombs and fire,
Till at last, at last the war was won.
And thats why we wear a poppy, son".
The small boy turned as if to go
Then said "Thanks lady, I'm glad to know.
That sure did sound like an awful fight;
But your son, did he come back alright?'
A tear rolled down each faded cheek;
She shook her head, but did not speak.
I walked away in a sort of shame
And if you were me, you'd have done the same.
For our thnaks, in giving, is oft delayed,
Our freedom was bought, though thousands paid.
So when we see a poppy worn,
Let us reflect on the burden borne
By those who gave their very all
When asked to answer their country's call
That we at home in peace might live;
Then wear a poppy! Remember --and give!

Knox P.Y.P.S. Met On Monday

The regular meeting of the P.Y.P.S. was held Monday evening, Nov. 6, with the President, Renee Barnhardt presiding and leading in the opening service of worship. The spirit song "It is God" to the tune of "Blow'in in the Wind" was sung, with leadership in the Scriptures being given by Mrs. Lorraine Norton. Gail Smollett gave leadership in prayer, reading from the Prayer of St. Francis. The Offering was received and dedicated.

Miss Anne Yee gave leadership in the study for the evening introducing the new study, entitled "Faith and Justice" and under the new format agreed upon at the last meeting. The reason we "do" things in a community was related to faith's purpose, and problems in this area were discussed in open forum and then in two groups. Mrs. Norton and Renee reported for the groups, and Miss Yee summarized the study introduction. Mrs. Norton and John Dewit were appointed to lead in the study at the December meeting. The spirit song "I Am the One" concluded this portion of the meeting.

The business meeting was opened with roll call and 12 members answering; the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report (Gwenn Smollett and Norman Ladouceur). The Calendar Project '73 was reported on by Gail Smollett and a report from the Toronto outing was given. Plans to see the rock-musical "God Spell" in Ottawa at a later date were considered. A change in the P.Y.P.S. constitution, relative to meeting notices was agreed upon and the Secretary and President to bring in a resolution at the December meeting. Crabapple jelly sales have been regular, and plans were made to sell same at the Shopping Centre. Banners for the Advent-Christmas season will be made by Gwenn Smollett, John and Margaret Dewit, under the leadership of the Rev. Hibbs and Mrs. Norton. Nursery Class needs were discussed for the church-school and the puzzle project" to be completed shortly. A letter from the Anglican Y.P.A., Cardinal, was read and the Secretary to acknowledge the invitation. The Recipe Project Book requires a variety of recipes from the congregation and will be worked on shortly. A game of basketball and broomball was discussed for the future, and Wesley Long, Bill Barnhardt, and the Minister to make arrangements. Plans for the annual Christmas Dinner, through the catering of the Knox Presbyterian Women, were discussed and the menu submitted for consideration, the date of Saturday, December 16th being agreed upon, at 5:30 p.m.

The Minister concluded the meeting with a short discussion on the meaning of "Remembrance Day '72" following which refreshments were served by N. Tompkins, Bill Barnhardt, Renee Barnhardt and Gail Smollett, the meeting closing with the Mizpah Benediction.

Lions Sponsor Editor's Night

by Lion Al Rogers

With fourty people present, and representatives from six of the seven clubs in Zone 30E, the Iroquois Lions Club sponsored a Bulletin Editor's night on Monday evening at the Civic Centre. There were representatives from Maxville, Cornwall, Finch, Morrisburg and Winchester.

The Bulletin Editor's workshop was geared to consider the content, format and publication of a newsworthy communication. Lion Al Rogers, who was in charge of the program, arranged a work sheet on content, outlining a general overview of local and international Lion news coverage. Lion Brian Gee, the co-editor, spoke on that attractiveness of a bulletin, with specific reference to its cover, and the techniques of appeal to be applied to its content.

Having then good content and attractive presentation, how do you produce a news bulletin? Zone Chairman Gerry Flucke of Winchester depicted the relative merits of several duplicating processes. Production often depends on what is available to use in the community, such as school or church facilities, and these are often available with mutually satisfactory arrangements. However it may be produced, the news bulletin is the pulse of a healthy club.

Lion Mahlon Zeron will host a "Farmers' Night" on Monday, November 20th at 7:00 p.m. at the Civic Centre, and each Lion is expected to have in attendance someone connected directly or indirectly with agriculture.

A correction should be made in reference to the Lions Christmas Party. It is now scheduled for the Civic Centre on Saturday, December 16th.

Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary - International Flights Daily

Autumn in many ways is an almost eerie time of year. Light begins to fade early, the air is cooler, people seem more anxious to get home at night. Yet recently, outside Ottawa, an entire traffic stream heading into the countryside began slowing to a crawl. Drivers, folding back their sun visors, craned their necks to squint into the west. Some pulled off the road and stood quietly, looking.

What they were watching was something almost symbolically special to many Canadians.

High above, like strange tracks across the sunset, a steadily moving V of Canada geese, those black silhouettes that are seldom seen, then suddenly, mysteriously pass overhead in their ancient formations. When they do, its an event, leaving many a mild case of wonder. And a vague desire to get closer to those impossibly remote figures overhead.

For anyone in Eastern Ontario who doesn't mind a short drive to the St. Lawrence River, that desire can be easily satisfied. One day last week more than 6,000 Canada Geese were feeding and resting at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary, a 7,000 acre reserve, 11 miles east of Morrisburg.

Here, it's possible to walk within feet of the feeding geese which include a resident flock of almost 2,000 which are a mixture of three species- the Giant Canada geese or maxima which are light-coloured often weighing more than 15 pounds; the greyish Atlantic Coast species and the smaller darker Interiors.

All day long squadrons of these majestic birds wheel in for landings or take off from the sanctuary whose boundaries include Upper Canada Village, an 18-hole golf course, beaches, an air strip, picnic areas, campsites, nature trails, museums and historic sites. Any spot in the sanctuary where there is grass is used by the geese for grazing ground.

Across the river in New York State is the Wilson Hill Game Management Area, also bordering on the 51 square mile Lake St. Lawrence created in 1958 with the completion of the Saunders-Moses power dam at Cornwall.

Migrant geese that passed through in the spring heading towards their nesting grounds around Hudson Bay, are now on their way south to Chesapeake and Delaware Bays for the winter. The migrants will come and go from late September until mid-December. The situation is often beak-to-beak during this period and especially at the daily feeding time when one-half to three-quarters of a ton of corn is doled out to the feathered crowd. That's the time to be on hand, perhaps with your family, for a close look at the birds.

The visit may start you discovering some other things about these "majestic" creatures. Things like, they eat not only grass but mushrooms, floating mats of water weeds and apples. Orchards in the area have no windfalls, just a few apple cores. One of their favourite dishes is also white Dutch clover. Canada geese are a crowd-loving flock, enjoy a good party of other geese and make dutiful parents. In fact, their family habits are faintly familiar. Before nesting, paired-off ganders and geese avoid the rest of the group and honeymoon in a territory that the male stakes out. When all the families are in the middle of child-rearing its also possible to notice particular geese trailed by several groups of goslings they are "baby-sitting" while the other parents are out for a stroll.

During the nesting period, its also not uncommon to see those ganders eyeing or flirting with other geese, even though the species are famous for lifetime devotion to their mates. The goose society is free of harems and other forms of grouping, but biologists have recently noted some previously undetected "playing around" on the part of some ganders who are otherwise solid married men. In the event of death, widows and widowers left behind often "remarry" after a suitable period of mourning. And death can come in a variety of ways, one of which is lead-poisoning. Biologists and ammunition companies have been working on the problem and one company has developed soft iron shot which causes little wear to gun barrels because it's wrapped in a thicker-than-usual polyethylene sleeve split down one side. The shot can then scatter after leaving the barrel. Other experimental shots - combinations of lead dust and iron - are also being tried. Here, the lead content is small enough to prevent poisoning but enough to prevent gun barrel wear. The ideal shot, of course, would be gold instead of lead. The reason it isn't used, is too obvious.

One Ministry of Natural Resources naturalist who was recently working with Kemptville District Biologist Harry McLeod at the sanctuary, also had a quotable experience with Canada geese during a banding session. While holding one goose, his sun glasses fell out of his shirt pocket. The geese, who were standing around in a rather belligerent mood watching their friends being unceremoniously man-handled during banding, immediately moved in on the sun glasses. By the time the naturalist got to them, they were just so much broken glass and plastic covered by muddy webbed footmarks. He swears they did it on purpose.

Centre Danny O'Shea, now under contract with the St. Louis Blues for the N.H.L., has been returned to the Chicago Black Hawks under the terms of the original agreement.

Ottawa Rough Riders made a silly move in adding Hugh McKinnis to their back field. However, in order to obtain slippery Hugh, Ottawa lost a good football player in full back Bob Houmard. Now both are gone.

Rick Cassata must be considered the Riders No. 1 quarter back. After all, he has won 70 percent of the games he has handled; not a bad average in any man's league. Why all the criticism of Cassata?

How foolish! Yes, security guards and police were unable to control several wing-dings called exuberant fans from Queens when they pulled down the goal-posts at Landsdown Park Sept. 17th, following the Golden Gaels win over Carleton Ravens. Perhaps these "fans" fall in this category - The psychiatrist screamed at his patient lying on the couch "lets get one thing straight fella! I'm the doctor: you're the nut" Of the 8,000 at the game, there must have been several "nuts" in the gathering - Sportsmanship?

Baseball recently lost a great competor in the name of Eddie Waitkus, a first baseman for 11 years with Chicago and Philadelphia in the N.L. and Baltimore of the A.L. who died in Boston on Sept. 15th.

The C.F.L. and Montreal Alouettes in particular, lost a fine leader in the retirement of co-captain Pierre Desjardins.

Muhammad Ali (Cassius Clay) the former World Heavyweight Boxing Champion, had to be restrained prior to his fight with Floyd Patterson on Sept. 20th. When Smokin Joe Frasier was introduced in the ring, Ali made gestures to take Big Joe on for a session. It would have been a better battle than what the 17,000 Madison Square Gardens fans took in with Yappy Ali and Old man Patterson.

Compliments are extended to Iroquois Canadian Legion Branch 370 for a well organized Zone Cribbage Tournament held on Sept. 23rd.

Bible Society Campaign in Full Swing

At the annual meeting of the Iroquois Branch of the Canadian Bible Society, Ambert Brown was elected President and Henry Sauve as Vice-President. Ed Casentree accepted again the office of Secretary and Jean Van Camp is the Treasurer.

The luncheon meeting was held at Iroquois United Church on Sunday, Nov. 5, where 18 canvassers heard an excellent and informal talk by the Rev. T.H. Bridle, President of the Ottawa and District Bible Society.

One of the greatest ways to evangelize is through the work of the Canadian Bible Society, an organization that has the support of all the churches and denominations in the cause of spreading the Christian Gospel.

When your canvasser calls, you already know his or her purpose, and the greatness of the work that you are invited to share in, as you are able. An official receipt will be issued for whatever amount you wish to offer.

Iroquois and its community has achieved a fine record of response to the needs of others, and your witness to and spread of the Gospel is deeply appreciated both by the local Society and far, far beyond.

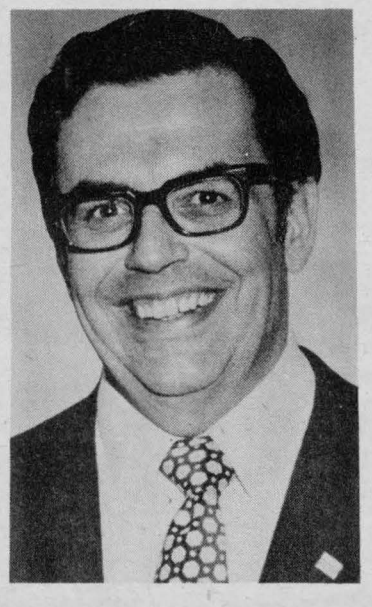
To The Editor

Mr. Editor:

I followed with delight and pride the cast and director of "Treachery and Triumph" to Southminster United Church, Ottawa, to witness again another fine presentation of the Crucifixion story. The production was a remarkably moving experience that was well received by an appreciative audience.

May I personally and enthusiastically recommend that the people of Iroquois and community NOT miss the opportunity of seeing the final production of "Treachery and Triumph" at Iroquois United Church on Sunday, Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Sincerely,
Allan Rogers



To The People Of Grenville-Carleton

I am grateful to the people of Grenville-Carleton who worked and voted for me. I will do everything in my power to honour this trust throughout the whole of the Riding.

In order to fulfill an election promise we are in the process of establishing a Constituency office in Nepean, the exact location of which will be announced within a few days.

I would like to announce the appointment of Mr. Donald B. Hutcheson, C.L.U. as my Parliamentary Executive Assistant who will assist me in expediting Constituency matters.

We have retained the Campaign office telephone number 225-5633 through which I or, in my absence, Mr. Hutcheson can be reached during normal business hours, effective November 13th. My own telephone numbers are also listed in the directory. I intend to visit all areas of the Riding on a regular announced schedule to conduct Constituency business.

I look forward to my work in Parliament on your behalf.

Sincerely,

Walter Baker, M.P.

Bishop Greenwood Here Sunday

The retired Anglican Bishop of the Yukon, Rt. Rev. Tom Greenwood will visit the Parish of Iroquois on Sunday, November 12 to take part in the morning services of worship, and, with Mrs. Greenwood to be our special guests at a Parish Every Member Supper Party to be held at 5:30 p.m.

Bishop Greenwood visited St. John's two years ago for Confirmation, and he is very active throughout the Diocese of Ottawa and in the city of Ottawa where he and his wife have "retired".

In 1955, when the Anglican Rector of Iroquois, Rev. Allan Rogers was on a six week mission to Cassiar, B.C., he met Bishop Greenwood at Whitehorse, and visited the famed old log Cathedral of the Yukon.

Sunday morning our guest will preach at South Mountain at 9:30 a.m. and at St. John's at 11 a.m. It is probable that Bishop Greenwood may wish to attend and take part in the Memorial Service at the Civic Centre at 2:30 p.m.

At 5:30 p.m., Bishop and Mrs. Greenwood will launch an Every Member Supper Party to be followed by the Yukon Story as told with slides by Bishop Greenwood. Anglicans from Iroquois, Dixon's and South Mountain are invited to bring their families and a bit of Pot-Luck to share for supper Sunday evening at St. John's.

Holland imported Gouda, with its slightly salty flavour, is a perfect foil for the spinach and tender rice in this risotto variation.

Dutch Tricolour Risotto

AN appetising combination of cheese, spinach and rice, this risotto will convert the spinach-haters in the family, and still provide a total nutrition package. Serve with a green salad for a simple supper.

- 2 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup finely chopped onions
- 1 cup unwashed raw rice
- 2 cups chicken stock, boiling hot
- salt and pepper
- 1 pound fresh spinach
- 1 cup grated imported Holland Gouda cheese

Melt butter over low heat and slowly fry onions until soft and transparent but not browned (about 5 minutes). Add rice and stir over moderate heat 2 or 3 minutes until thoroughly coated with butter and opaque. This cooks the floury coating and prevents sticking. Pour in hot chicken stock and season with salt and pepper. If using chicken stock cubes, add less salt. Stir until simmering, then cover tightly and allow to simmer undisturbed for 15 to 18 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed. Loosen and fluff rice lightly with a fork. Rice should be 'al dente', or tender but firm.

While rice is cooking, prepare spinach. Trim off thick stems, wash out any trace of grit and drop into boiling water by the handful. Boil slowly for 2 to 3 minutes until limp. Drain in a colander and run cold water over to stop the cooking and preserve the green colour. Drain again and press out as much water as possible. Chop finely.

Season spinach with salt and pepper. Using 2 forks, toss in spinach and then grated imported Holland Gouda cheese. Never use a spoon as it will mash the rice. Taste for seasoning and heat slowly to melt cheese and heat spinach. Serve.

Serves 4 as a meal or 6 as an accompaniment.

Our Hallowe'en Success

Family grouping is when different classes work together, like a family. In our group, some grade two's and three's put their thoughts together. We put on our witches' caps and planned a scary party!

Our group discussed the different things needed. We divided into four groups - invitations, costumes, decorations, and baking. We worked hard for nine hours (one hour a day).

Everything was finally settled for our party! Over twenty guests came to the head witch's cave in St. Mary's School, Morrisburg. By the expressions, we could tell our parents enjoyed our party!

We even had school-made cupcakes and yummy witches' brew! by Eighteen Little Witches.

Smiley

Even more airily, I said, "Yes, he can. Tell him. For once in your life, woman, do what you're told." She did.

But her wrath mounted steadily. Five minutes later she was on the blower to N.D.P. headquarters, telling them they could put a sign on our lawn.

I didn't give a diddle. A lawn is only a lawn, and a sign is only a sign. But, though I was polite, I was a little cheesed when two NDP characters showed up at the door, ostensibly to thank us. Not only did they try to sell me on socialism, or at least what passes for it in this country, but they drank all my beer and ate all my cheese. Their idea of socialism, I guess.

Next morning, I was a bit startled to walk out and see four signs on the lawn, two Liberal, two NDP. Right there and then, I almost decided to vote the straight Tory ticket.

There were the usual needles from neighbours and colleagues. "A house divided against itself, eh, Smiley?" And "What are you tryna do, Smiley, get out the vote?"

I coolly ignored the jibes, but secretly wondered whether there was material for a column in it. That's the way a columnist thinks, so watch what you say when I'm around. I decided there wasn't. And, as you can see, I was right.

Perhaps this column should be headed, "How Not To Write a Column". But you see, I did, and you read it. At least, I hope you did. Surely three or four of you did. If you didn't, write me and explain why.

Nature Trailers

A.Y. Jackson, last surviving member of the celebrated Ontario landscape artists known as The Group of Seven, who was 90 years old October 3rd, 1972, had a picturesque little lake in Killarney Wilderness Area named in his honour. The lake was chosen by the ministry of natural resources because of its beauty, enhanced by clear blue water and a rugged red granite shoreline. Accessible by portage trail, it is near the George Lake campgrounds. No inventory has been made of the lake but it is believed to contain rainbow trout and perch. It is known locally as Bass Lake.

A household with an income of $15,000 or more typically receives 13 pieces of mail per week which is almost twice the national average and nearly three times the amount of mail received by families earning under $5,000.
