Alexandria couple share $2.2 million 6/49 lottery prize

TORONTO—Alexandria couple Claire Cusson and Alain Vallee and a friend were in Toronto Tuesday collecting $2.2 million in winnings from the March 14 Loto 6/49 draw.

The couple will share the money with Diane Lebel of Lachute, a co-worker of Mr. Vallee's at CXA in Brownsburg, Que.

Lottery officials quoted the lucky trio as saying they will continue working for another year while they see how their investments fare.

The winning ticket was purchased at Tabagie St. Denis in Alexandria, the same place Jean Viau of Green Valley bought his Loto 6/49 ticket that netted $10.8 million in January 1986.

Mrs. Cusson-Vallee is employed by the Caisse Populaire in Alexandria. The couple reside on Lochiel Street East.

Mr. Vallee coaches ladies softball.

None of the winning trio was available for comment Tuesday.

Top citizen tries to refuse highest honor

by Lesley Cadham

When she heard she'd won the Alexandria Citizen of the Year Award, 82-year-old Mamie MacMillan went to town office to turn it down. It's not that she didn't appreciate the thought, but she didn't feel she'd done anything special to deserve it, she says. She just likes to help people.

The announcement that Miss MacMillan had won this honorary award came the evening of March 18 at the Alexandria Town Council meeting. At that moment, a local florist was deliverying a dozen long-stemmed roses and a letter of congratulations to this special lady.

"I was really surprised," she said, Tuesday. The Citizen of the Year Award is co-sponsored by Alexandria and the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce.

Miss MacMillan was chosen by a panel of six judges who recognized her efforts, countless hours of volunteer work and almost limitless compassion for other people.

According to her friends, of which she apparently has many, Miss MacMillan has been helping others all her life.

This alert and spry little woman still drives and uses her car to take people to doctor's appointments, the hairdresser, or shopping. Distance is no object. If someone has to go to Cornwall, Miss MacMillan volunteers to take her.

She also regularly visits the residents of Domaine Marie Goretti, Maxville Manor and other retirement and nursing homes and brings her oatmeal and sugar cookies as treats for these friends.

In the summer, Maxville Manor ladies count on seeing Miss MacMillan drive up to take them on their Wednesday shopping sprees, says a friend.

But in the winter, she puts the car away and if the weather's not too bad walks around town to visit friends and put in a few hours of volunteer work at Glengarry Memorial Hospital's auxiliary shop. With the arrival of this week's warmer weather, a friend of Miss MacMillan has shovelled out her car. She planned to re-instate insurance coverage, Tuesday.

She is also a member of the 39th United Christian Women (UCW) group.

According to friends, Miss MacMillan never accepts payment for her efforts; her reward is her health and her car, which enables her to continue helping people.

But she protests the award, saying, "There are a lot of people who do more than I do and I do these things because I want to. I don't deserve all this publicity."

Born in Glen Sandfield, Miss MacMillan came to Alexandria with parents Duncan and Christie in 1929.

Longevity runs in her family, her mother lived until age 102.

In 1979, Miss MacMillan retired from her 30-year position as office clerk with the Alexandria law firm of Macdonald and Aubry. She was about 75 years old, and it was time, she says.

A dinner to honor Miss MacMillan at the Glengarry Sports Palace will be held April 8 at 6:30 p.m.

The event, orginally anticipated to draw 100 people, was going to take place in the smaller Knights of Columbus Hall. The demand for tickets was so high, organizers changed the location and had another 100 tickets printed. They can be obtained at The Bootique, Town and Country Florists and from lawyer Pierre Aubry.

HONORED CITIZEN—Alexandrian Mamie MacMillan was chosen Citizen of the Year, March 18. She will be honored at a dinner, to be held at the Glengarry Sports Palace, April 8.

Court rules Milano fire deliberately set

The future of the former Milano Restaurant building on Alexandria's Main Street will likely be discussed during the regular town council meeting Tuesday night, Mayor J.P. Touchette said Tuesday.

The building was gutted by fire in February 1982 while the owner, Dionisios Scrivanos was vacationing in his native Greece. Though it was later determined that the fire had been deliberately set, no one was ever charged for the crime. Two insurance companies refused to pay Mr. Scrivanos' $140,000 claim.

The town cleaned the site of rotting food, adding the costs to the property's tax bill, and had the owner board-up the building, but did not force further action because the owner was taking legal action to collect on his insurance, Mayor Touchette said.

"We were trying to be fair and give a man a chance," he added. "He was always co-operative and did everything we asked him to do."

Following an eight-day Ontario Supreme Court trial last month, Mr. Justice Robert Montgomery found Mr. Scrivanos may have had a motive in the fire.

In a judgement delivered last week, the judge noted, despite the fact the owner was out of the country at the time of the fire, he was having financial difficulties and would have benefitted from a fire insurance claim.

As a result of the judgement, the insurers, IMG Insurance Management Group and Pilot Insurance Company, will not have to pay the claim.

Mayor Touchette confirmed town council has the authority, through its property standards committee, to force repair or demolition of the building, considered an eyesore to the downtown core for the past five years. In the extreme, the town could demolish the building itself, adding the full cost to the taxes. If the taxes were not paid, the town could later seize the land and sell it.

The mayor said he hoped the issue would not go that far and preferred to see Mr. Scrivanos clean up the site and rebuild.

"I don't know what his plans are," Mr. Touchette added. "At one time he asked us if we would let him open a temporary restaurant, with outside tables, until he was ablee to rebuild.

"I really don't think the building looks that bad. It's been boarded-up and repainted."

The mayor agreed it would not be difficult to sell the land and see someone else put up a new building in what remains a prosperous retail area, "but I hope it doesn't have to go that far.

"If all else fails, we will do whatever we have to do, obviously. I just hope he can do something first."

Wildcat at Carnation

by Janet Clermont

Carnation employees walked off the job illegally Friday to protest the recent lay-off of a senior worker.

About 27 employees participated in the 3 1/2-hour protest, which started because "the company did not lay-off workers by seniority," union spokesman Gilbert Gravel said Monday.

The Alexandria plant recently laid-off three senior employees, said Mr. Gravel.

he said the collective agreement at the plant stipulates "seniority will prevail if the person is capable of doing the work."

A statement released by Carnation Monday said "the order in which this lay-off was implemented reflected the company's need to prepare for the manufacture of product for a major new customer."

Carnation's contract with the unnamed Toronto food company will begin sometime in May, the unsigned statement added.

The company claims the new client will increase the factory's total volume by 10 per cent. Production had been declining in recent years.

"This new business should serve to reduce the severity of lay-offs that would have otherwise occurred in the future, the statement continued.

Mr. Gravel said the recent lay-offs were due to lack of work.

Carnation officials would not comment further on the strike.

Mr. Gravel said the membership decided to return to work and go through the steps of governing arbitration. He estimates the issue will be settled within a month.

Company and union officials met Monday and took steps to refer the dispute to binding arbitration.

Plant operations are now back to normal and Mr. Gravel said there will not be another illegal walk out.

Alexandria, Lancaster Twp. add $12,800

Hall of fame pledges total $21,000

by Lesley Cadham

The Town of Alexandria has pledged about $6,800 toward construction of the $325,000 Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame in Maxville. This latest pledge brings municipal contributions to more than $20,000.

Council voted to contribute $2 per capita during the next two years after a delegation led by hall of fame Chairman Angus H. McDonell attended the March 18 meeting to ask for support.

In a half-hour discussion, Mr. McDonell and Financial Secretary Bill Campbell told council, though a $150,000 grant has been requested from the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture, there has yet been no response. The ministry was pleased with the initial results of the board's effort to raise funds and has requested a progress report by the end of March.

Construction will not begin until notification has been received and the board hopes the hall will be open in 1988.

According to Mr. Campbell, operating costs are expected to run about $9,000 a year, but he says, "We do not intend to re-approach the municipalities for extra operating dollars."

Two anonymous Glengarrians have pledged a total of $25,000 which will be held in trust, with interest used with fundraising events to cover operating expenses.

When councillors seemed apprehensive about contributing to the hall, Mr. Campbell reminded them, this project is truly a "Glengarry thing" and should not be thought of as belonging to Maxville. The building will be constructed on a 100 x 60-foot piece of land on the grounds of the Kenyon Agricultural Society, site of the Glengarry Highland Games and Maxville Fair, because those events attract large crowds every year.

Lancaster Township also agreed to a $2 per capita contribution during the next two years to a total of about $6,000, March 18.

In addition, Maxville increased its pledge of $1,600 to $2,000 last week and Lochiel Township's contribution remains at about $6,000 over two years.

Though Kenyon Township has expressed strong support for the project, it has not yet approved any contributions, as previously reported. A resolution will be discussed at the next council meeting, March 31.

If the ministry comes through with funding, the board will appoint a team of 450 canvassers to collect donations from the county's residents.

CN changes tune, volume not dollars to determine railway line's future

by Janet Clermont

MONTREAL — The CN line through Glengarry may not be losing money, a railway spokesman said Monday.

Speaking from his Montreal office, CN's regional sales and services spokesman, Norm Paine, said the volume of business generated, and not the amount of money the line is losing, will determine the future of the Alexandria branch line.

This appears to contradict a statement from a public affairs spokesman last week. Ewa Jarmicka, speaking to The Glengarry News, insisted money would be the key deciding factor.

"Our mandate is to make money. When the time comes and if we see the line is losing money, the proposal will be sent to the Department of Transport to decide," she added at the time.

"Nobody said the line was losing a heck of a lot of money," Mr. Paine added, echoing statements he made during a meeting of Save the Rail Line Committee in Casselman, March 18.

During the meeting, Michael Cowley-Owen, chairman of the committee, questioned if the line was not losing money, then why was CN claiming the closure was an economic decision?

Train schedule changing again

by Lesley Cadham

Via Rail may give Glengarry travellers the shuffle again in June.

A March 10 letter to Mayor J. P. Touchette outlined proposed changes to the Montreal-Ottawa passenger rail line. If approved by Via, the new schedule would go into effect June 7.

The only major changes would be delayed departures of early-morning trains. The first train out of Alexandria to Montreal would leave 20 minutes later, at 8:14 a.m., arriving in the city at 9:24 a.m. Ottawa-bound passengers would board 16 minutes later, at 8:37 a.m., to arrive at their destination at 9:25 a.m.

In addition, the 3:15 train from Ottawa, which does not stop in Glengarry, would leave 15 minutes later and stop in Maxville at 4:12 p.m. The 5 p.m. train from Ottawa would no longer stop in Maxville.

According to Public Affairs Officer Marcel Bordeleau, Via is rescheduling departures so that all trains can make the Montreal-Ottawa run in two hours. There is only one track to accommodate trains travelling in both directions between Coteau Station, Que. and Ottawa. Often, the train is delayed on a side-track waiting for a freight train to pass.

Delaying the trains will mean missing rush-hour traffic, Mr. Bordeleau said Monday. He added, the Crown corporation hopes to boost occupancy through later departures.

This rescheduling would be the second in eight months. Attempting to reconcile a $600 million deficit, Via

Alexandria councillor revolts against town's "phony administration"

by Lesley Cadham

Alexandria Town Councillor Fern Séguin says his resignation last week from all council's committees was a revolt against "the political cesspool" of the town's "phony administration."

Mr. Séguin did not attend the March 18 council meeting but instructed Town Clerk Leo Poirier to make the announcement on his behalf. Mr. Séguin has resigned chairmanship of the fire and light committee, chairmanship of the special committee to hire a bylaw enforcement officer and two other council committees.

In an interview, Monday, the councillor said he resigned to make a point.

On Feb. 17, council agreed to review all boards, commissions and 10 committees containing members appointed by council, as well as members at large.

These included the boards of the Glengarry Sports Palace, Glengarry Memorial Hospital and the Raisin Region Conservation Authority.

The resolution stated those bodies be "subject to a complete and immediate review by the council of the Town of Alexandria."

But on March 12, Mayor J.P. Touchette, Reeve John Cormier and Deputy-Reeve Roger Lemieux met without council to carry out the review.

They decided that in October, the town will look for people interested in sitting on the various boards and committees as members at large. There were no changes to council's standing committees.

Mr. Séguin says he asked for the review because he wanted committees to be shuffled around. Though he was happy with his own committee, he felt Mr. Lemieux should not be "stuck with a little nothing committee," like the committee of the environment.

In addition, he says the finance committee should not be different from the seven other standing committees. It is made up of four, instead of three councillors.

Mr. Séguin, added, all members of boards and members at large should remain in a seat for only three years and anyone who has completed that time should vacate.

The councillor did not present these suggestions to council and on March 18, council approved a motion to limit the terms of members at large to six years. They also agreed the chairman of the committee of the environment should take over Alexandria's seat on the conservation authority board.

Mr. Séguin says he hopes other council members will resign from their committees pending changes.

According to Mayor Touchette, the three men reviewing the committees believed council members were happy with their committees. He added, councillors should sit on committees at least two years, to become familiar with them.

MPP Villeneuve pleased with signs that federal Tories will keep post offices open

MOOSE CREEK—The "vast majority" of rural post offices in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry counties threatened with closure as part of Canada Post Corporation's cost-cutting plan will now remain open, says local MPP Noble Villeneuve.

In a press release dated March 20, the Conservative MPP said, despite "encouraging signals from Ottawa," it is still important for individuals to maintain pressure on the federal government for preservation of rural post offices. Locally, Mr. Villeneuve has supported the efforts of federal MPs Don Boundria and Norman Warner in their efforts to change Canada Post policy on rural mail services.

"The signals from Ottawa in recent weeks have certainly been encouraging," said Mr. Villeneuve, "but we have to make sure that the will to follow up on those statements is there as well."

An all-party committee of federal MPs has stated its opposition to closing rural post offices and called on the federal government to ensure that local MPs and communities will be consulted first. Harve André, the federal cabinet minister responsbile for the post office, has said consultation may be appropriate, but will not amount to veto power.

Shifting populations over time may mean that Canada Post would like to close some rural offices, Mr. Villeneuve conceded, "but the government's commitment to allow for local input signals a far less heavy-handed approach than had been the case from post office bureaucrats.

"No other issue during my entire term has generated as many calls or letters as the potential closure of rural post offices," added the MPP. "Throughout Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry there is widespread vocal support in favor of keeping our existing rural post office system the way it is."

He said he was pleased to learn there will be no changes to rural mail delivery.

CN changes tune, volume

Mr. Cowley-Owen made a request to the CN spokesmen at the meeting for the traffic line statistics, specifically the line from Glen Robertson to Ottawa.

"If the line is losing money, let's find out how much and why," he said.

Mr. Paine said the statistics were not availabie.

The proposed abandonment of the line is included in one of a series of studies undertaken over the last few years and has not yet reached a proposal stage.

A CN internal memo dated Jan. 14 states CN executives presume the line will be "maintained for the next two years for future way freights only and regular traffic. Four freights will probably be discontinued by January 1988." It also states the line has been marked for abandonment as a cost-saving move in 1990.

A meeting is scheduled for Wednesday (tonight) at the Maxville Sports Complex at 8 p.m. to appoint sub-committees and officers of the Save the Line Committee.

Mr. Cowley-Owen is hoping to involve surrounding towns affected by the closure and "get busy on planning our stragedy and applying it."

Sixty people attended the meeting in Casselman, including 15 from Alexandria.

Mr. Paine said CN representatives will not attend future meetings held by the committee.

Fined $500 for assault

A Lancaster man was fined $500 Thursday in provincial court after pleading guilty to assault.

Michel Rose, 20, was charged Feb. 22 after OPP constables were called to break up a disturbance at the Commercial Hotel in Lancaster.

The accused asked the victim to go outside with him so they could talk. The victim refused and Mr. Rose left. The accused returned later and again asked the man to go outside. When he again refused, Mr. Rose grabbed him and dragged him outside, kicking and punching the victim. The man suffered a bloody nose.

Mr. Rose was given two months to pay his fine.

Train schedule . . .

cut the late evening trains from both cities and rescheduled some departures. Excursion rates were abolished and some return fares were increased by as much as 28 per cent.

Via is not expected to render a decision on the proposed schedule for several weeks, says Mr. Bordeleau.

Schedule changes will not coincide with the spring daylight time change, as they have in past years.

Charlottenburgh councillors protest action against Roth

by Sue Harrington

WILLIAMSTOWN — The proposed relocation of the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge continued to make news Wednesday at Charlottenburgh Township Council's regular meeting as members passed two resolutions pertaining to the issue.

Deputy-reeve Bob Roth, dismissed from the lodge committee by counties' council after he made public a secret report on possible new sites for the facility, was given full backing by his fellow councillors.

Councillors Paul Rozon Larry Gordon, and Carol-Ann Ross, presented a united front as they passed a resolution stating, "the Township of Charlottenburgh Council protests the disciplinary action taken against the Deputy-reeve Robert Roth on the grounds that other county officials were not disciplined for similar action."

The "similar action" refers to leaks to the media which council members claimed were made prior to Mr. Roth's release of the entire report.

Councillor Gordon, who moved the resolution, said "from what people have told me, Bob was not the only one to release information and the others were not even slapped on the hand. I feel they should be disciplined as well."

Mr. Roth said he found it "most offensive" that others had released "bits and pieces" of the report and claimed that Warden Keith Fawcett had given the name of one potential site, the Seafarer's Institute, during a broadcast on CJSS on Feb. 18, four days before he made his copy of the report public.

The deputy-reeve said the county-clerk had also released information and that Dr. Gerry Rosenquist of Morrisburg had been given a copy of the report.

Mrs. Ross said the person who had given the report to Dr. Rosenquist should also be disciplined. She said she suspected "personality preceded the issue" in this case.

Mrs. Ross said that she had been to two meetings at the lodge and felt "more political figures are beginning to see that the home should remain where it is."

A petition to keep the home at its present site has collected about 5,000 names. Mr. Roth feels counties council should at least consider the residents' request. He said though the present building may not be "up to scratch in the aesthetic sense," it is "clean, well-run and adequate."

Reeve Morgan Major, absent from the meeting because of illness, passed along information which indicated he supports maintaining the existing lodge.

Council then became the first official body to ask that the lodge be kept at the present location in the eastern end of Cornwall by passing a resolution requesting "the three united counties and the City of Cornwall work together to ensure that the current site known as the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge be maintained as a home for the aged."

Lagoon site subject at meeting

by Joanne Stevenson

WILLIAMSTOWN — The joint committee for the Green Valley sewer project will hold a public meeting June 3 to discuss the lagoon site and the rate structure to be levied.

On Monday night, a regular meeting of the committee had been scheduled, but an informal informative session took place instead because of the lack of a quorum.

Further progress in obtaining a suitable site for the lagoon was discussed. Four sites out of a possible seven had earlier been considered. Now, the committee has narrowed the choice to two possible sites, one on Conc. 7, the other on Conc. 8 in Lancaster Township. At its April 1 meeting, Lancaster Township council is expected to approve options on both properties.

Real estate appraisals were presented and the $500-900 per acre estimate was disputed.

Charlottenburgh Township administrator Jay Currier doubted property owners would settle for these prices for land upon which a sewage lagoon will be built.

Lancaster Township Clerk-treasurer Mike Samson was not as skeptical. "I feel we don't have a major problem."

Committee chairman Roch Major agreed with both of them, stating, "I'm not saying they are going to accept these prices," but he added the appraisals at least provide an estimate of the property's market value.

RATE STRUCTURE

Brian Boyd of A. J. Graham Engineering outlined possible rate structures and described the first option as the most "logical."

In it, the shared costs of the sewer works would be assessed by frontage, a uniform connection charge would be set and the cost of maintaining the treatment facilities would be reflected in the mill rate.

The second option would also link sewer costs to frontage. However, 50 per cent of the treatment costs would be included in the connection charge, with the mill rate absorbing the remaining treatment costs.

The third option would involve 50 per cent of the sewer costs determined by frontage and the remaining 50 per cent included in the connection charge. The treatment costs would be linked to the mill rate.

He estimated the total cost of the project at $1.9 million.

McKINNON ST.

Serge and Sylvie Prud'homme approached the committee with a petition containing eight signatures requesting the sewer services be extended to the McKinnon Subdivision on the Charlottenburgh Township side.

Reeve Major assured them the township would look into the possibility but foresaw no problems as long as the Ministry of the Environment grants approval.

Via Rail may close station

by Sybil Carello

MAXVILLE—Via Rail Services, looking closely at cost-cutting measures, will consider closing Maxville's railway station and replacing it with a protected shelter "approriate to the traffic," village officials were told at last week's council meeting.

Five people a day on average, use the service out of Maxville. Casselman, with slightly more passengers, has also been targetted for closure.

Christina Sirsly, Via Rail's regional director for sales and services, said if someone in the community is interested in acting as Via Rail's agent, "we could look at operating arrangements."

This option, described as an "attractive" one for Via Rail, has been taken in a number of communities, she said.

Although figures were not available, upgrading costs for some stations on the line represent "a very expensive proposition."

A lot of the stations need major repairs, she said.

"We have a certain amount of money to invest and that's bascially what we're restricted to," she added.

In 1985, when Via Rail took over passenger services from Canadian National and Canadian Pacific, stations were leased on a long-term basis. But a provision in the agreement allows Via Rail to return the property should it decide to discontinue station operations.

"We're at the stage now where we're ready to go to the Canadian Transport Commission and supply it with justification, from a traffic point of view and operating costs, said Mrs. Sirsly.

Council was also presented with preliminary plans for the proposed shelter at the meeting.

"It's not Union Station," observed Councillor Allan Douglas.

Council, in favor of saving the landmark facility, asked when the closure would take place.

"We don't intend to close the station until the commission gives approval," Mrs. Sirsly said, adding that Via Rail "will move forward on the application."

And, while council was told the application is not closing a door, closure of the station is Via Rail's "ultimate solution."

Furious feminists

The feminists are furious over a court decision last week that a woman's experience as a housewife and mother over a number of years should not be considered job experience in competing for employment.

Anyone who looks at the situation objectively has to reach the same conclusion. The judge was right.

The woman had placed second, thanks to her home experience, in a job competition, which virtually guaranteed she would be hired for the next opening. People who placed third and lower and believed they had better qualifications disagreed and appealed through the union, which eventually took the matter to court for a decision.

The experience of a good mother and housewife is certainly worth something. It tells prospective employers the person is dedicated, hard-working, ready to assume substantial responsibility and able to make quick decisions under stress. A good mother is likely to be an excellent employee.

But what about job skills? If the mother in question has 10 years experience nursing minor injuries and illnesses of her own children, is she ready to be a pediatrician? She may have devoted hundreds of hours to driving the children to sports activities and school and her husband to work, but does that make her a qualified bus driver?

When assessing the relative qualifications of applicants for employment, every employer must first look at their ability to do the job at hand. Anyone with related experience naturally has an advantage over those who do not.

In too many cases, as in this one, home experience just doesn't wash.

UIC and MPs' clout

Backbench Members of Parliament are no longer the ''nobodies'' once scorned by then Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau. Under new rules for the House of Commons, committees of MPs have considerable clout over government policy.

A recent example can be taken from an all-party committee that studied the recommendations contained in the controversial Forget Commission report on revamping the Unemployment Insurance Commission. The committee, dominated by Conservatives, rejected nearly all of Forget's recommendations, which included cutting $3 billion from the $12 billion system.

Instead, the MPs made a series of their own recommendations, displaying much more compassion, with a determination to equalize benefits in all regions of the country.

The committee wants to see the unemployment insurance scheme substantially improved and distanced from federal government bureaucracy. It calls for a social insurance or income support system instead of the pure insurance scheme favored by the Forget Commission that protects temporarily unemployed workers.

Among its recommendations:

•Pension income should not be deducted from jobless benefits.

•Lump sum payments for unemployed people who must travel great distances in search of jobs or want to start their own businesses.

•Equal benefits throughout Canada, with 50 weeks of benefits for 10 worked, which is now the case only in regions of chronically high unemployment. In other regions benefits stop after 35 weeks and you must work 14 weeks. As one MP reasoned, unemployed is unemployed, no matter where you live in this country.

•Reduce from 15 hours a week to six hours for 10 weeks the amount required for a part-time worker to be covered by unemployment insurance. This recommendation would primarily affect women.

•Allow people to collect benefits while attending school to gain a basic education, or to learn a trade or skill.

•Eliminate the two-week waiting period for maternity leave benefits, thereby extending them from the current 15 weeks to 17. Other recommendations are aimed at improving maternity benefits for premature birth and for illness during pregnancy.

The MPs have come up with a much more attractive approach to revamping the system than the Forget Commission. The fact that the committee was unanimous in all but one of its more than 100 recommendations is bound to give it a lot of clout with the government. The MPs, men and women who know their constituents and their problems much more intimately than bureaucrats, and who must answer to the people for the government's actions, should have the greatest influence.

That's what is starting to happen. It's long overdue.

Ottawa, red tape and red tulip capital of the nation

A FEW THOUGHTS
Joanne Stevenson

Red tape was probably invented in Ottawa. Everyone nurses a pet peeve or two and for me, it's that entire city! Although Ottawa looks lovely, with lush green spaces and impressive skyscrapers, the place is being strangled in red tape, multiplying faster than rabbits.

My husband, Dave, arrived home yesterday with a tale about an Ottawa police chase. Four squad cars were destroyed in an attempt to catch a lone speeder. That's typical in Ottawa where Mulroney's habit of using a paragraph when a sentence would do has become enshrined as government policy.

Frequent viewers of Ottawa television news may remember the issue of Ottawa garbage and the bureaucratic solution advocated. Because too much garbage was being hauled to the dump, civic politicians suggested each household be limited to three bags per collection. Not just any old garbage bag would suffice, either. These municipally-approved bags were only to be sold at city hall.

Anyone who has ever attempted to park anywhere in Ottawa without being towed away can easily see the connection between Ottawa and garbage.

Last weekend, we dared venture into the city, and driving along Industrial Road, we noticed a sign restricting right lane traffic during rush hour to cars with a minimum of three passengers. Violators are subject to a fine of $53.75.

How did some bureaucrat arrive at $53.75 as a suitable fine and how much overtime did the taxpayers have to pay him?

Do you remember when their municipal government wanted to tear up miles of recently-paved Ottawa road to resurface the ceremonial drive with a pinkish tinge?

This was proposed, no doubt, in order for visiting dignitaries entering the capital to look at the scene the same way the high-priced fat cats do, through rose-colored glasses.

Bus service can be an adventure, too. When I lived there, Ottawa Transpo followed the practice of changing bus routes every spring. For a week every year, one travelled back and forth to work on a wing and a prayer.

Well, I recall the first afternoon of the bus route change. The bus drivers, it seems, are as inconvenienced and mystified by the annual change as the passengers.

We had just passed Paul Anka Drive, 10 minutes from home, when the bus came to an abrupt stop. The driver whipped out the official map of the new route while a crowd of passengers gathered around him and we all discussed which way to go next.

On the other hand, Ottawa truly is beautiful when the tulips are blooming.

Unfortunately, this institutionalized chaos sometimes filters down into commercial dealings.

One friend, who is toughing it out in Ottawa, ordered an imported car. Often these orders entail a lengthy waiting period. As the months passed by, the question, ''Did you get the car yet?'' began to irritate her.

In phone calls to and from the dealer, his response, ''in next month's shipment, I promise'' began to sound distressingly like, ''the cheque is in the mail.''

Finally, the right car arrived, but in the wrong color. Rather than risk premature aging awaiting the right car, she accepted the offer. However a tear starts to form every time she spies a blue car.

It's her own fault, of course. I told her to buy the car in Glengarry. Not only would it have arrived on time, it would have been blue too!

Those of you who enjoy Ottawa may feel insulted by this account. Ottawa does have a lot to offer both resident and visitor, the Experimental Farm, Rideau Canal and the Parliament Buildings.

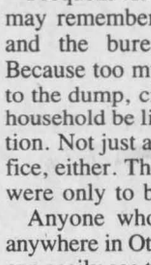
Number of drivers no excuse for insurance rates



SECOND LOOK
Phil Rutherford

If the Ontario New Democratic Party has its way, a proposal for a government takeover of automobile insurance will be a major issue in the next provincial election campaign.

The NDP, spurred on by soaring insurance premiums, points to government plans in British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, where comparable drivers may obtain similar coverage for half (or less) of what it would cost in Ontario.

In Ontario, with more than six million drivers creating a naturally higher risk than on the Prairies, insurance rates are probably going to be higher in any event, but that hardly excuses the painful bills we're now getting.

Is the Ontario system, with about 250 private companies competing for our automobile insurance, less efficient than government plans in the West? Are the private insurance corporations, with their understandable goal of making a profit for shareholders, gouging Ontario drivers unfairly?

Government-run automotive insurance plans are nothing new in this country. The first was established in Saskatchewan in 1946 under the leadership of the late Tommy Douglas and his CCF government of the day. The system is not perfect. Dealing with bureaucracies can be frustrating at times, but many people have found large insurance companies difficult to talk to, as well.

That's when the local agent, the private insurance industry's biggest selling point, comes in. A good agent will do the fighting for you and will ensure you are fairly dealt with in the event of an accident claim. Of course, there can be room for competing local agents in a government system, as well. They could sell the same insurance packages on a commission system similar to what exists between them and the private companies today. They would compete on service, with the best getting a larger share of Ontario's $2.8 billion auto insurance market.

In a recent report, The Toronto Star noted a 37-year-old trucker with a clean driving record in Regina pays $286 for insurance on his 1981 Chevrolet Impala. In Ontario, his bill would be closer to $700.

In researching insurance rates, The Star used a fictitious 27-year-old married male with a 1985 Chevrolet Celebrity used for pleasure driving and getting to work. He had been at fault in two accidents in three years, with claims totalling $2,000. For $1 million dollars in liability insurance and a $200 deductible on his collision and comprehensive, he would be paying $1,671 a year in Toronto. This was the lowest rate available from five major companies surveyed. With one more accident, his premium would jump to $3,051.

In Winnipeg he would pay $489, in Regina $659 and in Vancouver, $705.

In B.C. a driver over 25 with a 1984 Chevrolet Caprice Classic and no claims would pay $694. In Toronto, the bill would be anywhere between $803 and $1,036. In Ontario a 19-year-old male would have no choice but to pay an industry set premium of $3,695. In B.C. he would be paying the same $694 premium as the driver over 25. The three western insurance plans do not discriminate against drivers according to age, sex or marital status. Everyone pays the same rates.

Your insurance rates can drop as much as 40 per cent in the West if you have repeated years with no claims. Depending on which province you drive in, your premium may jump 30 per cent for each accident or $150 for the first claim and $250 for each subsequent claim, until the courts take your license away. In any event, your rate may return to normal

Tough vs. fluff

LOOK OUT
Dann Rogers

One of the seminars I attended at a journalists' convention last weekend was entitled: ''Small town newspapers, can you do your job and still have friends?''

The general consensus seemed to be if you were an outsider intent on being critical, objective and reporting some of the unsavory facts of life, forget about being popular.

But any journalist worth the ink in his pen isn't irked by being socially shunned. Many reporters feel marketability increases with the number of public figures who hate you.

If you're ticking people off, then you must be doing something right, goes the theory.

The problems start when advertisers threaten to boycott your newspaper because of the editorial content. It was the experience of some of the speakers at the convention that this tactic is employed most by merchants not familiar with the workings of a free press in a democratic society.

These business people tend to think the newspaper should only print fluffy, non-critical stories that present the town or their particular business in a favorable light.

If the newspaper takes the position that publishing hard news is in the best interest of the community, the advertiser withdraws his business.

Merchants in Glengarry haven't used this pressure tactic during my time at The News. I guess the lesson was learned years ago.

The only option any responsible newspaper has in this situation is to ride the advertiser out. Often the business person will only hurt himself by pulling the ad. And, on the other hand, if his sales do not decrease after discontinuing advertising, there seems to be little reason for him to have been in the paper in the first place.

Another common problem the small town editor faces is people telling him what has to go in the paper. One person told of how a merchant built a gingerbread model of the town and had it on display in his store.

The reporter went to the store, took a photo and it was in that week's paper. Three days later, another merchant called the paper and said they too had just built a gingerbread model of the town and wanted a picture of it in the paper.

The editor said he wasn't interested because the paper had just run a photo of the other gingerbread model in the previous edition.

The merchant was furious and accused the editor of playing favorites, saying that since he did it for one store he had to do it for the other.

But it doesn't work that way. The editor is responsible for producing a product that will inform and entertain his readers by providing them new information.

If he only caters to the whims of certain merchants he will be neglecting his responsibility and readership interest will wane. If he lets that happen, merchants will stop advertising because less people are reading the newspaper and he'll be out of a job. It's in everybody's best interest to be tough and not print fluff.

Into thin air

THAT'S LIFE
Lesley Cadham

The recently stepped up tactics to find missing children are food for thought. It's encouraging to see the faces of these youngsters plastered on milk cartons or hanging wanted-poster style in conspicuous locations all over the country.

It's an ingenious technique because it greatly increases the number of people searching for those children.

But don't ask me how many youngsters are missing. Figures are not available; something about not keeping records. The exact numbers aren't important anyway.

I am astounded that people can ''disappear'' at all and concerned about the lasting effect this loss has on the family.

I believe the most debilitating aspect of losing a cherished family member to this vacuum is living with the unknown, maybe never knowing, never finding out the truth. Imaginations can run wild while parents, siblings, sons and daughters search endlessly and despairingly for a loved one, or at least, for an answer. Often, the answer never presents itself.

Those left behind must go on with their lives, never knowing when to give up or whether to call off the search. And that's what really takes its toll.

Missing. I hate that word.

For years, I watched a friend dissolve into a sort of melancholia because she'd lost someone she treasured. She'd come home from work one beautiful summer day, looking forward to sitting and chatting with her mother, but she was never to see her again. Her mother was gone, without a trace. Neighbors hadn't noticed anything unusual that day and no valuables were missing.

During the course of the search, it became more and more reasonable to suspect the woman had literally vanished into thin air. I thought my friend would die.

Sadly, television shows depicting ingenious, infallible detectives who follow leads like bloodhounds follow plump rabbits, do not reflect the real world. People can disappear, whether they want to or not, and there is no magic wand or crystal ball to help investigators to find them. Det. Columbo, where are you when we need you?

Several years have passed since my friend came home to an empty house, but she hasn't given up.

I still see her scanning supermarket line-ups, searching in the darkest corners of restaurants and peering into cars halted for stoplights. Once she even followed a woman 10 blocks in downtown Montreal and cried when she found the woman was not her mother.

She often says if her mother was dead and buried in a grave, she'd be happier. She'd know where she was and she would be able to stop looking.

Gift show grandure

WORD SKETCH
Sybil Carello

"Come to the Montreal Spring Gift Show," my entrepreneur friend beseeched me.

"Gift show," I gasped. "You—you mean shopping?"

"Exactly," she beamed. "There'll be over 300 exhibitors—thousands of products to look at . . ."

Before she had a chance to finish the sentence, we were at Place Bonaventure, registered and tagged as official buyers.

Having a real store, needing real merchandise, my friend found it easy to slide into the role. It was not that simple for me. But, because I didn't want to discredit my friend or the tag I wore, I plunged into the guise with initial panache.

Half of me was dressed in the right stuff. Tailored wool pants, black pumps, and wallet handbag, suggested a no-nonsense business-like facade. The other half—Laura Ashley blouse, heavy antique brooch and Hollywood hair (pin wheel effect), along with uncontrollable bouncing eyes—suggested a rank amateur.

Impulsive outbursts such as "wow" and "look! strawberry potpourri! my favorite!" added little professional cachet to my borrowed persona.

In this wholsesale market place, impulse played a weak hand. Purchases had more to do with established precedents than personal gratification. Always, there was the question: "Will the public buy it?" And it, could be anything from a beeping key chain to a 125 year old Japanese Bonsai.*

And so began the shopping odyssey. We shopped and shopped, stopping long enough to munch on re-fuelling quiches, minestrone soups, smoked meat sandwiches and the odd chocolate-cherry doughnut.

Throughout all this munching, we shop-talked.

By late afternoon I was half-heartedly staggering up and down the maze of aisles, side-stepping hundreds of perfumed, coiffed, weighty people; body-checking those closer to my size. Gift products, representing Canada's multi-million dollar industry, flashed by in a blur of colors: toys, games, gourmet supplies, clothing fashions, furniture, stationery for every conceivable and inconceivable occasion, cosmetics, endless flotillas of silk plants and flowers, bathroom accessories, doodads, gimcracks, brass this and wicker that . . .

I knew I was exhausted when I asked a food kiosk clerk what sizes and colors the hot dogs came in and was there a minimum order policy? At one stop, mesmerized by a life-like, life-size, mechanical chimp gymnist executing perfect turns on a single high-bar, I heard myself say: I'll take 300 of those please. Luckily, no one took me seriously.

When next I looked into a mirror, I found it difficult to take myself seriously. My hair and showpiece brooch, hung at odd angles. Permanent bags had found a home in the knees of my wool pants. Under my left arm was a crumple of product brochures, some wearing coffee and an assortment of food-stains. I looked grouchy, tired, less professional than a cocker spaniel.

But I wasn't the only shop-worn casualty. All around me were visible signs of hobbling. Not surprisingly, most of the furniture exhibits became popular destinations. The long queue extending out from the revolutionary (ultra-comfortable) backless chair exhibit, was impenetrable. It was easy getting people to sit on the unusual Z-shaped chair; almost impossible dragging them off. I put up one heck of a struggle myself, but finally they shoved brochures at me, then just shoved me off.

By day's end, I had developed a nascent loathing for contemporary decor, particularly brass and wicker-ware; my heart yearned for the excitement and earthy ambience of a giant, uncloned flea market.

Save the Rail Line Committee tired of vague mumblings from CN officials

Maxville, Ont.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

I would like to take this opportunity to comment on several quotations attributed CN spokesperson, Ewa Jarminka, in The Glengarry News March 18 edition and on several statements made by Mr. Norm Paine and M. Jean-Guy Brodeur, both of CN, at a meeting in Casselman that same day.

First of all CN's mandate is not 'to make money.' It is regrettable that a Crown corporation, whose express purpose is to serve the people of Canada by providing adequate railway transportation, should become so caught up in free-enterprise rhetoric that it forgets its own mandate. It is insulting and I would add premature, for public servants to state that a public group, such as the 'Save the Line' committee, is wasting its time trying to remind CN of its mandate. Furthermore it is presumptuous to state that we are 'telling (CN) to stop thinking business' before we have even had a chance to speak.

The 'Save the Line" committee is not a 'protest' group looking for a free ride. We are well aware of the laws of economics. We do not expect CN to maintain the Glen Robertson to Ottawa line regardless of the expense, but to quote Mr. Paine, CN Regional Manager, Sales and Service 'nobody said the line is losing a heck of a lot of money.'

What we do expect is straight talk and straight dealing from CN instead of vague mumblings about 'rationalization' and the American model and the convenient use of incomplete statistics to prove CN's point.

As a public entity CN has a responsibility to involve us, the public, in serious discussions about its plans not least because we are its customers and its shareholders. (CN also has a responsibility to consult with VIA to whom it leases use of the line, which apparently it has not done.)

'When the time comes, and if we see the line losing money (the Canadian Transport Commission will be asked to close the line) says Ms. Jarminka. But internal CN documents suggest CN has already made up its mind and a survey of area businesses indicates CN stopped looking for local business at least two years ago.

So get serious CN, become a responsible corporate citizen, start some serious consultation with the public, take care of business and the public interest at the same time. Let's find innovative solutions to real problems. Let's find a way not just to keep the line limping along, but to make it pay . . . closing it sure won't.

Michael Cowley-Owen
chairman,
'Save the Line'
committee

Number of drivers no excuse for. . .

after one full year of good driving. In Ontario, your rates may not come down for three to five years.

The government plans are designed to break even, not make a profit. In profitable years, drivers are given rebates in the form of reduced insurance premiums. In bad years, the provincial taxpayer is called on to pick up the tab in the form of interest-free advances. But the system, after initial set-up costs, has taken relatively little from the provincial treasuries. Each has a commendable track record of carrying its own burden.

And they're financially solid. In Saskatchewan, the insurance fund had $45.8 million in cash reserves at the end of 1985, after giving $20 million back to drivers in rebates. Manitoba, which received $18 million from the province in its early years, now has reserves totalling $71.3 million. In B.C. the auto fund's cash reserves totalled $90.9 million, allowing rebates averaging $86 per driver.

In Ontario, insurance premiums, already much higher than with the three government-controlled plans, jumped a further 40 per cent in just two years. Meanwhile, in Saskatchewan, premiums increaased an average of 2.5 per cent in each of the last four years and no increase is expected in 1987. In Manitoba the average increase over the last five years was 1.7 per cent, with a nine per cent hike expected this year. In B.C. rebates amounted to a 6.5 per cent reduction last year. The Pacific provinee is planning a 4.5 per cent hike in 1987.

Free enterprise philosophy will kill free enterprise in the auto insurance industry. The message is clear, if you can't compete, get out of the market.

I recall my biggest thrill when living there. Walking down the street and, perpetual busybody that I am, peering through every window, I was surprised to recognize an illustrious personage in a basement barber shop.

None other than Robert Stanfield sat there being shorn of what little hair he still retained. Dave and "Bob" both have roots in Truro, Nova Scotia and I still regret not approaching him and telling him this information and adding, "My husband wears your underwear!"

Oh, you know what I mean.

Resident presented plaque at snowmobile dance

MARTINTOWN
Lorne MacDonald
528-4378

Has spring arrived other than just a date on the calendar? I set off to find some more reliable signs. As I strolled out of my driveway the air was fresh and free of wood smoke. The water is rolling down Vinegar Hill; that's a good sign.

As I reached the corner a group of the boys were washing their car at Remi's garage. It brought back memories of springs past. A sure sign of the season.

The roar of the water rushing over the dam could easily be heard as I crossed the road, heading westward. I paused on the bridge and stared at the old mill. I thought of all the changing seasons it has experienced compared to you or I. In a few weeks the ice will be off the river and canoes will be shooting the rapids. The races are always a welcome spring event.

Across the bridge at the conservation authority the crew were hard at work, repairing a tractor and equipment for the upcoming busy season. Up the street people were busy chipping away the ice and snow exposing the walkways and driveways. As I continued my stroll I wonder how far does this road go as I remembered the list of spring jobs the wife had waiting for me at home.

The Seaway Valley Snowmobile Association held its yearend dance last Saturday night. A plaque was presented to Marland Maloney of R.R.2 Martintown, for 15 years of dedicated trail building. Congratulations and keep up the good work Marland.

Pleads guilty to sexual assault

A Cornwall man will be sentenced April 23 for sexually assaulting a nine-year-old girl two years ago.

Daniel Harold Andrews, 22, pleaded guilty in Alexandria Provincial Court, Thursday. The assault took place in Lochiel Township in April and May, 1985 while Mr. Andrews was babysitting the child.

Police received information about the assault after the victim was interviewed by the Children's Aid Society last month. Mr. Andrews was charged last Thursday.

Court was told the accused twice fondled the child and on another occasion stared at the victim while she was taking a bath.

Judge Reginald Levesque ordered a pre-sentence report and placed a publication ban on any information that might identify the victim.

Robins sure sign of Spring

DUNVEGAN
Marion Loewen
527-2284

Spring really sprung, didn't it? It is the weather we waited for all winter and now that it's here, it almost seems too good to be true. Last week I saw my first robin. I'd heard about people seeing a robin, but then you wonder if it was one of the few who hate to travel.

You know, with all the reports on flying, maybe it isn't safe? However, this wasn't one robin, no, no, it was three! They were fat and shiny, and had beautiful red breasts. Definitely just arrived home from their winter holiday in the south. I told them welcome home and as they flew off, they dipped their left wing to let me know they were glad to be back.

W.I. HAD MEETING

A meeting of the Dunvegan WI was held Thursday. Joyce MacKinnon chaired the meeting while Isabel MacLeod recorded the minutes.

The roll call was to describe a WI member and this was answered with words including community-minded, conscientious, neighborly, busy and weary.

Marion Loewen gave a presentation on the WI organization and how it works throughout the world. The Federated Women's Institute of Canada belongs to the ACWW which is the world-wide organization. Through it, funds are donated to UNICEF for "Safe Water in the 80's" and to UNESCO for planting trees in the desert areas to help the land grow again.

The objectives of the WI are to help women acquire sound and approved home making skills, to discover and develop leadership, to identify and resolve needs and problems in the community, to promote the use of available resources materials and to help develop better informed, happier and more useful citizens. The club also provides money for scholarships, various seminars, publications, etc.

Lynda Heisma described the 4-H club. Discussions were held to help find ways of encouraging the members of 4-H to participate in obtaining funds to support the group. Mrs. Heisma mentioned that there would be an achievement night at the Glengarry District High School on April 8 at 7:30 p.m. At that time there will be an OPP constable to talk about street safety and the various 4-H Clubs would exhibit their work for the latest club session "Surviving with Style."

Girl Guides held Scottish lore camp

GLEN ROBERTSON
Kathy McGrath
874-2758

The Glen Robertson and Lancaster Guides, along with leaders Gail Vaillancourt and Louise Chadwick, held a Scottish lore camp over the weekend.

The girls participated in various activities dealing with Scottish history and folklore, as well as making handicrafts, which included a tartan berét and a tartan wall hanging. Outdoor activities included a sleigh ride and a two mile hike.

There was a wee bit of Irish tucked in there, also, as the girls made St. Patrick's Day tray favors and delivered them to the residents of the Ol' Presbytery.

The Highland District Guides and Brownies will be holding their annual hobby show this Saturday, March 28 at Elda Rouleau School in Alexandria. After the judging, there will be a public viewing from 1 to 4 p.m. Drop by and see some of the work these girls are doing.

Club 65 held its St. Patrick's Day card party on Tuesday, with the following winners: Claire Dumouchel, Donat Titley, Marguerite Carriere, Lil MacDonald, Maurice Lefebvre, Alcide Lalonde, Viola Hanley, Germaine LeBlanc, Jeanne-Mance Legault and Marie Claire Campeau. The skunk prize went to Henri LeBlanc and the door prize to Marguerite Carriere. Winners of the draw were Juliette Robinson and Brunelle McDonald.

In honor of St. Patrick's Day, some special prizes were awarded, with a cake going to Real Séguin and other prizes to Thèrése Lortie, Georgette St. Denis and Maurice Séguin. The next card party will be held on March 31 and a warm welcome is extended to all.

Lil MacDonald recently attended an Irish luncheon at St. Thomas More church in Verdun, put on by the women's club there. She was thrilled to be the winner of the draw prize, a beautiful hand made quilt.

Another lucky winner recently was Ron Valade who won a 1987 Chevy Cavalier in the Alexandria Lions Club annual car draw.

The baptism of little Genevieve Cholette, daughter of Richard and Anne Marie, took place on Sunday at St. Martin de Tours church. Attending the reception later were relatives and friends from Ottawa, Alexandria and area.

Jean-Marie and Cecile Lacombe, accompanied by Cecile's sister, Laura, and husband, Yvon Charbonneau, have returned from St. Petersburg, Florida where they spent the past two weeks.

MacLennan—Willard

Christmas wedding

A Christmas wedding took place in Glen Sandfield United Church on Dec. 27 at 7 p.m., when Charlene Dora Willard became the bride of Donald Erwin MacLennan. Rev. Karen Hincke officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Bessie MacLennan was at the organ and Mrs. Christena MacLachlan, aunt of the groom, read the scripture lesson.

The bride is the daughter of Francis and Shirley Willard of Alexandria and the groom is the son of Lloyd and Isobel MacLennan of Glen Sandfield.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother and father and her attendants were her sister, Elaine, as matron of honor, and the groom's sister, Gwen Vanek, Heather Willard, a cousin, and a friend Rita Hagen were the bridesmaids.

Earl MacLennan was the best man for his brother. The ushers were Kevin MacLachlan, cousin of the groom, Robert Willard, the bride's brother and Scott MacMillan, a friend of the groom. The ringbearer was Garry Vanek, a nephew of the groom.

After the ceremony the couple were piped out of the church by Pipe Major John T. MacKenzie.

A reception followed at the Bonnie Glen which was attended by many friends and relatives. The couple now reside in Red Deer, Alberta.

Residents enjoyed seeing Stanley McDonald interviewed on the program Regional Contact last Saturday. The subjects discussed were race-boat engines and shooting, two fields in which Mr. McDonald has excelled.

However, Mr. McDonald's reputation has spread beyond Eastern Ontario. In the London Free Press last week, in an article under the heading "Driving tests at age of 80 termed unfair," the following was written, "Stan McDonald, 92, of Maxville, one of Ontario's oldest drivers, said he's more careful on the road than he has ever been. 'You'll find that old people are more cautious, they don't drive as fast and they don't drive as much,' said McDonald who has racked up only 800 kilometres on a new car he bought last December."

Then on CBC radio on March 3, the following question was asked.

Where does the oldest driver in Ontario live? The answer. Maxville, and the driver, who else but Stanley McDonald.

The final meeting of the Maxville Smiling Survivors 4-H Club was held on March 3. Members learned about being independent, reaching goals and cooking and cleaning for themselves.

The club was sponsored by the Maxville Manor Residents' Council.

Achievement Night for the club is on April 8 at 7:30 p.m. at Glengarry District High School.

Pinky's going home

by Lesley Cadham

Pinky, the tiny Indian girl brought to Canada to undergo open-heart surgery, was to go home, Tuesday.

Seventeen-month-old Swetha "Pinky" Gupta was brought to this country by the Maxville-based Child Haven International, Feb. 21. She suffered from a congenital heart defect which could have eventually caused mental retardation or death.

Pinky spent about three weeks in the Ottawa Civic Hospital's Heart Institute and underwent surgery Mar. 3. Despite complications arising from pressure in her lungs, the infant pulled through and was transferred to Cornwall's Hotel Dieu Hospital, March 16. She was discharged, Monday.

According to Child Haven co-founder Bonnie Cappuccino, Pinky is slowly, but steadily improving. "She's not 100 per cent neurologically; she's moving around, but not walking. That will take time, but she's well on her way to recovery," says Mrs. Cappuccino, Tuesday. Tests have not determined if the child sustained brain damage when doctors stopped her heart during surgery.

Pinky's grandparents and friends of the family were overwhelmed by the love, kindness and hospitality displayed by staff at both hospitals, says Mrs. Cappuccino.

Pinky was to depart from Mirabel airport, Tuesday night, to begin the 22-hour journey to her home in Hyderabad, India. Mrs. Cappuccino will visit the infant when she goes overseas in May.

The extended stay in Ottawa has increased expenses to $20,000. Child Haven and support groups have already raised about $12,000 to pay Pinky's hospital expenses, airfare and other incidentals.

Glengarry 4-H Club studied horse show presentation

DALKEITH
Jean MacLennan
874-2385

Helen Hodgins, Heather and Rhonda of Shawville, Quebec, visited her mother, Tena MacLennan and Donald. They spent a day in Cornwall visiting Tena's sisters, Irene Irvine and Alberta Steele. On Wednesday, they visited with Joyce Lefaivre in Vankleek Hill.

On Sunday, Donald John MacLeod celebrated his 85th birthday. His family had a lovely open house for him and about 170 people registered and all had good wishes for Donald.

On March 20, Evangeliste Tessier turned 91 and on Sunday he went out to dinner with some family members.

* * *

Update '87 sounds like a very informative day. The agenda has been well advertised so support our local organizers and have a fun day.

Rodney and Janet Fraser of Ste. Anne de Prescott, spent March break with their grandparents Aggie and Neil MacLennan of Christmas Island, N.S.

Phyllis Terry spent the weekend with Velma and Henry Nicholson of Napanee.

Although the happy birthday balloons we found were not from Dalhousie, it was interesting to hear from Myrna MacGregor.

Ken and I took Scott and Ryan Weese home to Trenton on Friday. On Saturday we were joined by Marg and Mic McNiece from Bramalea. We also visited with Rhoda Stocker and Maureen in Belleville.

John Weese proudly told us that the Trenton and District Pipe Band had taken first place in Grade 3 competition at the Toronto Indoor Games held March 14. Both John Weese and Donna Munro of Belleville are members of the band.

4-H CLUB

The North Glengarry 4-H Horse Club held an organizational meeting March 3 to make plans for the coming year.

Officers elected were: President, Nancy Daigle; Vice-President, Alison MacGillivray; Secretary, Susan Daigle; Youth Rep, Flora Fraser and the News Reporter is Barbara MacLeod.

The first club meeting was held March 12 at Susan and Nancy Daigle's home where members studied show presentation. This included vaccinating, feeding, conditioning, tack organizaation and other important steps in preparing to show a horse. The next meeting will be held at Barbara MacLeod's on Thursday.

On Saturday the Green Valley Girl Guides went to Upper Canada Village in Morrisburg. They learned how the settlers lived and were able to cope with the bare essentials during this period of many hardships.

Some of the Guides sat down to the old petal sewing machine and stitched up a little envelope style purse made to slip onto a belt.

The other girls prepared a good old fashion home cooked meal. The big iron pot was hung over the coals and it wasn't long until wonderful aromas filled the kitchen. They even managed to bake a cake pioneer style.

All the Guides and Brownies have been very busy completing projects in hopes of receiving ribbons for their reward. On Saturday the district hobby show will be held at Elda Rouleau School. All entries should be in the school between 9 and 11 a.m. The judging will take place from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The public is welcome to view the exhibits from 1 to 4 p.m.

* * *

Congratulations to Louise St. Pierre and Jean Pierre Charbonneau who each won a car on Friday the 13th the day that Jean Pierre turned 18, what a birthday surprise!

Happy birthday to Paul Secours, 11 years old on the 19th from grandma and grandpa Secours and Lauzon and all your friends in Glen Norman; also best wishes to Artel Poirier, Shirley Secours, Lionel Gareau, Estelle Vallée, Susan Lalonde and John Paul Vachon.

Julie and Paul Vaillancourt have settled back into the university routine after spending a week at home with their parents and brother.

Richard and Claudette Vaillancourt were in Toronto last week attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Egg Producers Marketing Board. Son Jean made the trip with them and enjoyed a visit to the Ontario Science Centre, the place that gladdens the heart of every child.

Something that is around us and gladdens the heart of everyone is the beautiful sunshine weather we've been blessed with. And I hope it will last and shine down on George McKiel and Jean Bennette who will be united in the holy bonds of matrimony this coming weekend.

Village could be renamed Rebelstown

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-2279

Williamstown News? Does the above heading really say Williamstown? I thought for sure that by now everyone would know that our name has been changed to Rebelstown. At least that's what the sign says at the entrance to the village and I'm sure that if the fans present at the game Saturday night when the Rebels finally said good-bye to Winchester have a say, that's the way it will stay.

What a game! A 3-2 thriller in front of a very enthusiastic pro-Rebels crowd. What a crowd! it seemed as if everyone, young and old alike was there, spurring the boys on to victory.

On behalf of us all in Rebelstown, then, congratulations to our never-say-die Rebels and good luck to you in your up-coming series against Metcalfe.

He doesn't play for the Rebels; he doesn't even wear skates when he plays, but he does play hockey. Underwater hockey! Apparently John Van Baal and his team which play at the Kinsmen pool in Cornwall are off to Sault Ste. Marie to participate in the provincial championships of this little known adaptation of Canada's favorite sport.

I say ''little known'' simply because until yesterday I had no idea that such a thing as underwater hockey existed. For those of you man-enough to admit equal ignorance, underwater hockey is played with skin diving equipment (mask, snorkel, fins) and a short stick about 18'' long.

I am told that it's not exactly a spectator sport and this leads me to wonder whether it isn't just the thing for our children in the summer. After all, we have the rink on the Raisin River outside the firehall, and in summer it would be maintenance free! Good luck John!

Before we get into the summer activities, though, we still have the Char-Lan Minor Hockey Annual Meeting to attend. It will be held at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre on Monday beginning at 8 p.m. For all you hockey parents interested in the workings of the association, here is the chance for you to come out and see what it is all about. Your presence will be appreciated.

Five local broomball players brought honor to the area recently as they were part of a team representing Eastern Ontario at the London Winter Games. France Jalberrt, Laura Sabourin, Kendra Macintosh, Melissa MacDonald and France Bourget who were selected to make the team, returned home with gold medals after winning all their games. The girls were coached by Albert Jalbert and were augmented by others from Long Sault, Russell, Cornwall and Vankleek Hill.

Tommy Lauzon and David Chaddock attended the games in London as members of the boy's team from Eastern Ontario. They won silver medals. Congratulations to all!

And now a little relief for yon non-sporting types. Peter Green, who teaches at General Vanier in Cornwall, will be accompanying a group of exchange students from the incredibly-named town of ''100 mile House,'' B.C. as they tour our area on Friday.

I'm not even sure of the spelling of the above place, but Peter tells me it is located north of Kamloops in ''Cariboo country'' and that is the reason for the local jaunt. Stopping points along the way will include Fairfield, Fraserfield, the Bethune-Thompson House and the Manor House.

Birthday greetings go out this week to ''twins'' Mary Rose Pilon and Joshua Harrington who will both be 15 on Wednesday. At least Mary Rose is as spry as a teenager, even though, believe it or not, she will really be 81 on the 25th.

Mary Rose's husband Charlie suffered a stroke last Thursday and is back in hospital again. I've been told that the nurses say he is a ''fighter'' and we all hope that he will be able to fight his way back to recovery before too long.

Next door to the Pilons, at Clark and Eileen McDonell's things were busy during the March break as daughter Pam Boyle and family arrived from Aurora for a visit. Accompanying Pam on the trip were her daughters, Susan, Allison, and little Katie, who is six months old.

Meanwhile, around the corner and down the street at Cattanach's, there was cause for celebration. Congratulations to Norma and Bill who recently celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary. To mark the occasion, the family went out to dinner at the Motel Beaupré, according to daugher Christine who nipped down from Kingston for the event.

Others in attendance were daughter Donna Bougie, her husband Mike, and their daugher Laura; son Robert Cattanach and his wife Bonnie and Neil Cattanach. Bill's aunt Alice Cattanach attended from Bainsville, as did Norma's sister, Chris Crowe from Summerstown. Cousins of Bill's, Bob and Eleanor Cattanach who live in Niagara Falls were also in town for the big event.

With all this coat-shedding weather we've had lately, the heavies among us are no doubt suffering under the big coats they've used as camouflage all winter and are loathe to cast off for fear of unveiling all for all to see. Never mind, there are some empathic friends in Williamstown.

Called PALS, this group for fat-tipuffs who would be thinnifers, meets every Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre. The group is looking for new members, has a new scale, is open to both men and women, and, best of all, sells its memberships for just $3. Why waste the time driving to Cornwall when we've got it all right here.

Friends and neighbors of Sandra Lullwitz are invited to a shower which will be held in her honor on April 5 at 1 p.m. at St. Mary's Centre. Sandra will be marrying fiancé Dave Russell in May.

Is there anything sweeter than the smell of lilacs in the spring-time? Members of the Green Thumbs' Horticultural Society don't think so. They've invited George Kidd from The Lilac Society to speak at their next meeting which will be held on Monday at 8 p.m. at St. Mary's Hall. Members are reminded of the month's activity—decorating Easter eggs. New members are welcome to attend.

I'm beginning to think Emily MacDonald and Kay McDonald spend all their time studying the how-to's of champion bridge play. The ladies placed first again this week in Williamstown Bridge Club action. Angus and Mary McDonell were second, while Isobel Larocque and Alpheda Major took third spot.

After a brief closure, the Mill Restaurant has re-opened with a new decor, a new menu and a new proprietor. Good luck to Ed Latreille as he begins his new venture.

Branch 544 of the Royal Canadian Legion in Lancaster are having a big day on April 4 at 8 p.m. At that time the dedication of the new organ in the hall will take place. Walter Pilkington of the Legion invites all members and interested Williamstowners to attend the event. Music and refreshments will follow the dedication.

The euchre held last Thursday at St. Mary's and sponsored by the ladies of the Glen and Black River Roads was well attended. Twelve tables of players got into the action and when the playing was finished, Rita Seguin, Catharine MacDougall and Wilhelmina Cleary were the prize-winning ladies. Henry Struthers, Adrien Leroux and Artel Poirier were their counterparts for the gentlemen.

Louis Thomas won the door prize, while the 50-50 went to Hattie Struthers, Wilhelmina Cleary, Yvonne Leblanc, Raymond D'Aoust, Ileen Latreille, Eva Collette and Isobel Quail.

The next Open Euchre coming up is Thursday, at 8 p.m. at St. Mary's Centre. It will be sponsored by the Friendly Neighborhood Club.

The Ladies Division of the Williamstown Fair Board held a judges clinic at Char-Lan High School on Monday night. A first for the area, the clinic attracted some dozen ladies who came to learn the skills involved in the competent judging of foods and crafts at our local fairs.

Kathleen Ryan, Rural Organizational Specialist for the Ministry of Agriculture, spoke about the judges' roles and responsibilities, drawing from her audience the reasons why people exhibit at fairs and the reasons people have for wanting to be judges.

Lynn Lafave of Williamstown who has judged for several years at the Williamstown Fair, gave participants a practical look at how to judge baking, jams and pickles.

A lady with experience galore in judging local fairs, Georgina Wharry of Vankleek Hill showed her expertise in the judging of craft items, sewing, knitting, etc.

Following the lessons, those present were treated to a social hour, using the previously judged goodies as refreshments. Ladies division members acted as hostesses for the event.

Thanks is extended to Pat Ager, ladies division president, for all her work in setting up the clinic.

Bellefeuille captures pool tournament

Thirty-two men competed over five days last week in the annual pool tournament at the Alexandria Hotel.

This is one sport where solid experience counts for more than youth and physical conditioning.

The best shark of them all was Alexandria's Richard Bellefeuille who won the A Division championship, defeating runner-up Hubert Lapierre after a hard fight.

Younger competitors were well represented in the championship rounds by Green Valley's George Carriere, who went on to win the B Division championship, barely squeezing out runner-up J. P. Claude.

Hubert Lapierre lines up the cue ball in the final round, above, and Richard Bellefeuille, right, aims for the corner pocket. J. P. Claude shows his skill below and George Carriere aims to do better, below centre.

Never say die, Rebels oust Winchester, will meet Jets in final

by Peter Conway

WILLIAMSTOWN

Defenceman Kelly Primeau wasn't known for his offensive prowess this season with the Char-Lan Rebels.

After scoring only twice in the regular season, Primeau slapped home the most important goal of his Junior B hockey career Saturday night, sending the Rebels into the Alex Engilsh Division championship series against the Metcalfe Jets.

Primeau's tally early in the middle stanza proved to be the winner, as the Rebels edged Winchester 3-2 in an exciting contest at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre.

The series clincher came on the heels of one of the most dramatic comebacks in Junior B hockey in recent years. Friday night, at Winchester, it looked as if the defending Eastern Ontario Junior Hockey League champions might get an early vacation.

The Rebels rallied from a 6-3 deficit with just over 10 minutes left in regulation time, forcing a seventh game with a come-from-behind 8-6 win.

The Rebels came out flying in the early moments of Saturday's game. Kevin Poapst and veteran Mike Lapensee provided the Rebels with a 2-0 first-period advantage.

After Primeau's goal the Hawks chipped away at the lead. Scott Dexter trimmed the lead and Mark Smith drew Winchester to within one goal after two periods.

While the third period was scoreless, it still provided fans with entertaining hockey. Char-Lan's Kevin Buchan and Winchester's Barry Kennedy had superb outings between the pipes. Both were called upon to make key saves in the final stanza.

In Friday's win, the trio of Mike Lapensee, Kevin Poapst and Mike Jodoin put on a dazzling offensive show. With just over 10 minutes left and trailing 6-4, Lapensee drew the Rebels to within one goal. Then, with just under seven minutes left, Jodoin, on a beautiful three-way passing combination, capped the Char-Lan comeback.

Seconds later after the face-off, Jodoin, set up by Lapensee and Poapst, gave the Rebels the lead for good. Poapst iced the win with two minutes left in the game.

Kevin Poapst paced the Char-Lan attack with a hat trick and four assists, while Lapensee had two goals and four assists. Jodoin had a pair and one assist, while Frank Sinfield scored once. Trevor McClatchie, the top sniper in the Alex English Division this season, led Winchester with two goals and two assists, while Mark Smith, Scott Konink, Gord Shields and Todd Byrnes rounded out the scoring.

Last Wednesday night at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, Mark Smith's second goal, with 1:49 left in the second overtime period, lifted the Hawks to a 7-6 win and 3-2 series lead.

Frank Sinfield's second goal of the night, with 48 seconds left in the third period, sent the contest into overtime. Winchester had period leads of 3-1 and 4-2. The Hawks, late in the third period, had a 6-3 advantage before the Rebels staged a comeback.

Scott Konink and Don Larocque each had a pair for the Hawks, while Trevor McClatchie scored once.

Former Glens players in old timers' tourney

by Peter Conway

Some don't live in the area anymore. Some still play hockey, some don't. Some are sporting a few extra pounds around the waistline.

Nevertheless, former Alexandria Junior B Glens will be reunited this weekend in an old timers' hockey tournament at the Winchester Community Centre.

The eight-team tournament begins Friday night. Alexandria's opening game is Saturday morning at 9 a.m. against the Kemptville 73's. Other teams participating are the Winchester Hawks, Metcalfe Jets, Morrisburg Lions, Spencerville Bruins, Cardinal Broncos and Prescott.

The Alexandria club, coached by Gerry Simpson, will have Rene Lefebvre in goal, while the defence corps consists of Roch Lajoie, Ralph Humphries, Bruce MacCuaig, Mike McCormick, Michel Boisvenue and Morris McCormick.

Playing up front will be Rodney Shepherd, Brian Filion, Claude Roy, Garrett McGillis, Donnie Morris, Brian Reasbeck, Peter Filion, André Poirier and Robert Lajoie. Bruce Libbos and Raymond Poirier may also be in the lineup.

Nielsen scores hat trick in Tyke House League win

Ryan Nielsen scored a hat trick, sparking Fern Campeau and Fils to a 3-1 victory over Canadian Tire Saturday in a Tyke House League contest at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Canadian Tire's lone goal was scored by Nicolas Prieur.

The two clubs met in a recent outing and Fern Campeau and Fils nipped Canadian Tire 2-1. Donald Roy and Daniel Boisvenue were the marksmen for the winners, while Michel Quesnel replied for Canadian Tire.

Marc Leroux scored the winner as Masson Insurance nipped Top Valu 3-2. Also scoring was Stephane Davidson with a pair.

Dominic Diotte scored both goals for Top Valu.

Stephane Davidson scored a pair of markers as Masson Insurance nipped Curry Hill Lumber 4-3. Lucien Lefebvre and Rodney Lobb also scored for the winners.

In another game, MacDonald's Grocery skated to a 3-1 win over Top Valu. Kirk Pennell scored twice for the winners, while Grant Davio tallied once.

Marc Lavigne tallied for Top Valu.

Sylvain Lavigne, Eric Lobb and Alain Borris scored two goals each as Winemakers Corner posted a 7-5 win over OPP. Kevin McKinnon completed the scoring for the winners.

Matthew Steiche tallied twice for OPP, while singles went to Greg Larocque, Christian Leblanc and Caroline Jeaurond.

Luc Titley and Daniel Lauzon fired four goals each as Deguire Plumbing defeated Picher 9-3. Billy Tuppert rounded out the scoring.

Darcy MacDonell led Picher with a pair of markers, while Sylvain Lortie completed the scoring.

Maxville rink wins bonspiel

The annual ladies' Macdonell Trophy Spiel, held last Wednesday in Alexandria, saw Maxville's Jean MacCuaig walk away with top honors. Her rink consisted of Cynthia Jeaurond, Elizabeth Marjerrison and Barbara Quinn. Patch Macdonell presented her trophy to the Maxville rink.

One point behind was Cornwall's Queena Scott rink, along with teammates Betty Graham, Cherry Clarke, and Barb Levaguer.

One-game high went to the Vankleek Hill team of Linda Burwash, Carole McIntyre, Phyllis Orr and Lil Leduc while the one-game runner up was captured by the team of Corona Guertin of Hawkesbury, along with Flo Tarzi, Yvette Blain and Claire Nezan.

Twelve teams participated in the event which was convened by Karen MacLeod and Peggy Lafave.

Entertainment in the late afternoon was supplied by fiddlers Linda MacNaughton, Edna Moran, Rosalie Howes and Doreen Howes on the piano.

Expos won't win title, but will surprise fans

SPORTS

Peter Conway

The boys of summer will be back at it soon.

In past seasons, a lot of interest had been drummed up by baseball fans rooting for the Montreal Expos. The Expos were labelled the "Team of the '80's." So much for that thought. With the exception of 1981, the club has come up short each year.

The Expos had won the hearts of baseball fans from coast to coast. The past couple of seasons for Expo rooters, well, have been major disappointments. Although the club had injuries to key members last year, it is unlikely the club could have competed with the World Series champion New York Mets anyway.

Now, with Andre Dawson's recent signing with the Chicago Cubs as a free agent, and Tim Raines still unsigned, Expo faithful must be wondering what kind of squad management will be putting on the field opening day. The start of the major league season is only 12 days away.

There's no doubt the club's chances of staying in the hunt for first place has diminished with the exit of Dawson and probable loss of Raines.

I think Dawson and Raines are exceptional ball players. But, let's face it. Dawson, with a history of battered knees, won't be playing that much longer. He will be sorely missed as a team leader, an important ingredient for any club.

But, he certainly wasn't worth the big bucks he was demanding. The salary offered by the Expos wasn't all that shabby. There are a lot of pro athletes who would jump at the salary Dawson is making with the Cubs now.

I'm still not convinced the Expos can get along without a Tim Raines in the lineup. In winning the batting title last season, he proved he's one of the top players in the game.

There's no doubt he should be rewarded for being one of the top stars. But, we must still keep everything in perspective. No ball player, or any athlete is worth two million bucks a year.

The salary scale in professional sports has gone out of whack in recent years. Owners at one time, were content to pay free agents big bucks for jumping from club to club.

Now, all of a sudden, the owners realize their bank accounts aren't as healthy as they once were. It isn't as easy for an agent to peddle his product from owner to owner, as in the past.

In Raines' case, the Expos have offered him a fair contract. He, along with his agent, rejected all the offers from the club. So, he can't re-sign with the Expos, if he changes his tune, until May 1.

It's hard to imagine watching the Montreal Expos without Dawson or Raines on the field. There is still a chance, however, that Raines could sign with the club.

He's told everyone in the media he won't be back in Montreal. But, there aren't too many clubs knocking on his front door for his services.

Mr. Raines is only 27. Like everyone else, he has to feed his family. If he doesn't agree to another club's offer, don't be surprised to see him in his familiar left-field position with the Expos this summer.

ENTERTAINING SERIES

The Border Hockey League final series between St. Raphael's and Laggan should be one of the most entertaining in recent years.

The past five years has seen St. Raphael's win championships with little competition from opposing clubs.

Mallory Franklin, however, has assembled a club that possibly could dethrone St. Raphael's this year. Both clubs have talented players. Goaltending shouldn't be a problem in the series.

What it comes down to is which club really wants to win the series? Who is the hungriest squad? Depending on who you root for, Sunday's game was entertaining and the same brand of hockey should highlight the rest of the series.

The series is tied 1-1 and the best-of-seven affair resumes Thursday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Game time is 9:30 p.m. The fourth game is Sunday at 1 p.m.

BIG SAVE—Jason Poirier was scrambling to stop the puck during a Novice House League tournament Monday at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Poirier steers the puck into the corner as teammates and opponents race towards it.

Metcalfe sweeps past pesky Glens' squad

by Peter Conway

To no one's surprise, Metcalfe Jets disposed of the Alexandria Glens four straight in the best-of-seven Alex English Division semi-final series that ended last week. But, it wasn't easy for the pennant-winning Jets.

The stubborn Glens came up with a strong effort Wednesday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace, falling short in a 5-3 decision.

Metcalfe now meets the Char-Lan Rebels for the Alex English Division championship. The opening game is tonight (Wed.) at Metcalfe.

The Glens trailed 1-0 after the opening stanza and 3-1 after two periods. Roch Lajoie's club closed the gap to 4-3 in the third period.

Any thought of a Glens' comeback was put to rest in the final minute. With a sixth attacker on the ice, Metcalfe's Mike Upton stripped Leonard Séguin at the Glens' blueline and fired the puck into the open net. It was Upton's second goal of the night. He was clearly the best Metcalfe player in the series.

Peter Holmes, Mike Fournier and Rob Melenhorst were the other Metcalfe marksmen.

Leonard Séguin paced the Glens with two goals and James Robinson scored once.

GLENS' NOTES: The series loss marked the end of Stephen Stewart's Junior B career with the Glens after five seasons.

Although he wasn't a prolific scorer around the net, there probably wasn't a more dedicated player with the club than Stewart. Time and time again this season, he chose to play with injuries, rather than sit in the stands.

Stewart is the only player the Glens lose to graduation. Should the league continue with over-aged skaters next season, the candidates would be Leonard Séguin, Daniel Brunet, Jean-Luc Menard and Mike Stickler. Two over-aged players have been permitted the past two seasons.

The club is likely to lose other players who'll attend college or university, however.

Navan Grads advanced to Metro Division final against Ottawa Canadians after eliminating the Ottawa West Golden Knights 5-4 Sunday night.

Rebels oust Winchester

Todd Byrnes had four assists.

Kirk Barkley led Winchester with a hat trick, Winchester led 2-1 after the opening stanza and 4-1 after two periods. Don Larocque, Mark Smith and Scott Dexter completed the scoring.

Char-Lan's goals came off the sticks of Gary Theoret, Mike Lapensee and Brent Laplante.

REBELS' NOTES

The Alex English final series opener is tonight (Wed.) at the Metcalfe Community Centre. The second game is Friday night at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre with an 8:15 p.m. start.

The third game is Sunday at Metcalfe at 7:15 p.m., but the contest could be moved ahead to a matinee 2:15 p.m. start. The fourth game returns to Williamstown Tuesday night.

Although the two aren't flashy on the ice, Brent Laplante and Ronnie Lefebvre dished out a number of stiff bodychecks in Game 6 Friday night.

The turning point in the game came in the second period when Mike Jodoin was assessed a five-minute major for slashing. The Rebels weathered the storm, thanks largely to goaler Kevin Buchan.

Also igniting the Rebels in their furious comeback Friday was Winchester's talented, but moody sniper, Trevor McClatchie. After Winchester's fifth and sixth goals, he taunted the Rebels' bench, pointing to the players with a "we're number one" gesture.

The move backfired as the Rebels stormed the Winchester zone the final 10 minutes of the contest.

Wins title

LONDON—An Eastern Ontario broomball squad came away with a gold medal recently at the Ontario Winter Games at London.

The champions posted an undefeated record in the round-robin tournament. Players on the team from Williamstown area were France Jalbert, Laura Sabourin, Kendra Macintosh, France Bourget and Melissa MacDonald.

The members of the team were selected through a draft system and chosen from Cornwall, Russell, Vankleek Hill, Williamstown and Long Sault.

The midget-aged (14 and 15) girls team opened the tourney with a 2-0 win over Kapuskasing. In the next two games, they beat Seaforth 3-1 and 1-0.

In semi-final action, the tourney champions posted a 5-0 win over Kapuskasing and then won the championship following an easy 6-0 win over Seaforth.

Champagne scores pair

WILLIAMSTOWN—Rick Champagne and Laurent Decoeur each fired hat tricks, sparking the Canaries to a 9-8 win over the Crows in an old timers' game Sunday.

Gerry Maurice chipped in with a pair of goals, while a single went to Stan Swerdfeger.

Bruce Munro, Dan Cameron and Stuart Hall led the Crows with two goals each, while Glenn Masleck and George Alguire rounded out the scoring.

Cabers to perform at Lancaster

by Peter Conway

LANCASTER—The first Highland Games in Glengarry were held in 1840 in the village of Lancaster.

So, while the village celebrates its centennial this year, it's only fitting that Scottish heavy events be part of the festivities.

The Glengarry Cabers Club will be staging its spring meet May 17, at Lancaster Recreation Park, it was announced Monday night during an organizational meeting at the Lancaster Legion.

Plans are being finalized to have the athletes, organizers and local entertainers parade from the Lancaster Fire Hall to the site of the heavy events.

Local athletes expected to compete are Ian Sandilands, Robin Thomson, Ron MacDonell, Roddie McLeod, Bill and Paul Lang. Also expected to be invited are Syracuse's John McDonald and Pat Lynn, Dave Harrinton, a former Canadian champion in heavy events, Jim Macaphee of Nova Scotia and Ottawa's George Chiappa.

Acting as judges will be Finlay McDonell, Donald J. MacDonald, Lloyd Kennedy and Doug Fales.

Lancaster Reeve Milton MacDonald and Councillor Ron Sinnott, along with Angus H. McDonell and Dan Snider are co-organizers of the event.

Organizers are expected to invite the Glengarry Pipe Band, MacCulloch Dancers and the Optimist and Legion Cornwall Pipe Band to provide entertainment for the day.

The heavy events program will begin at 10 a.m. Athletes will be competing in the caber toss, sheaf toss, light hammer, 28 and 56-pound for distance, 56-pound for height, heavy hammer and the stone throw.

Finlay McDonell, deputy-reeve of Kenyon Township has issued a challenge to his counterpart Charlie Sangster of Lancaster Township, to take part in the celebrity sheaf toss. The event is open to area politicians and organizers are hoping for a large turnout of participants.

Mr. McDonell also told caber club members at the meeting that Loch Garry was an available site for the fall meet.

Clubs needed for Cup

An organizational meeting for this year's Glengarry News Cup will be held Thursday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Anyone wishing to enter a team in the tournament should be present at the meeting which begins at 8 p.m.

Border Hockey League final tied

The Border Hockey League final could be a long affair.

After Laggan skated to an impressive 6-2 win in the opener last Thursday night, defending champion St. Raphael's bounced back with an important 6-1 win Sunday to tie the best-of-seven series.

St. Raphael's opened up a 2-0 lead after one period and led 5-0 after two periods of play. Grant Crack and Kennedy MacDonald paced the winners with two goals each, while singles went to Leo Seguin and Frank St. Pierre. St. Pierre, Seguin and Carter MacDonald chipped in with two assists each. Ron MacDonald and Norman Seguin picked up single helpers.

Laggan's lone goal came off the stick of Danny MacDougall.

In Thursday's game at Williamstown, Laggan led 2-0 after the opening period. Laggan completed its scoring in the middle stanza with four goals.

Murray MacDonald led the attack with two goals and an assist, while Dwayne Spink, Bill Dewit, Andy Sangster and Neil Sandilands scored once each. Spink and Sandilands had two assists each.

Grant Crack paced St. Raphael's with one goal and an assist, while Norman Seguin rounded out the scoring.

The third game of the series is set for 9i:30 p.m. Thursday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace. The fourth game is Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m. at the Sports Palace.

Bantam Glens capture St. Isidore tourney

Alexandria Bantam Glens defeated Casselman 6-3 in the championship game of St. Isidore's tournament with their best offensive effort in the last few weeks. Roch Levac and Eric MacSweyn sparkled for the local squad with two goals each, while Andrew Sauvé and Serge Bellefeuille completed the scoring.

In the opening game of the tournament, the Glens beat the host team St. Isidore 5-3. Roch Levac, Andrew Sauvé, Serge Bellefeuille, Eric MacSweyn and Denis MacDonald tallied.

The second game saw the Glens facing NGS and they had to wait to the second overtime period to see Serge Bellefeuille score in a 2-1 win for Alexandria. Previously, Luc Francoeur had given a lead to the Glens on an angled shot before Jason Flanagan tied it in the third. Richard Chevrier was between the pipes for that game.

Thursday night the Glens doubled Char-Lan 4-2 to eliminate them from the double knockout playoffs system.

Jason Palmer, Alain Rochon, Serge Bellefeuille and Stephane Nadeau provided the scoring for the Glens, while Todd Cameron and Eddy Swerdfeger answered for Char-Lan. Next playoff game for the bantams should be against South Stormont later this week.

One win from championship

CORNWALL — The Alexandria Knights of Columbus Novice squad is one win away from the league championship.

The local squad skated to a 4-1 win over Cornwall on the road last Thursday night and can win the title tonight (Wed.) on home ice.

Alexandria came out flying as Karl Hehn set up Martin Boisvenue for the game's first goal after only 19 seconds of play.

Boisvenue sparked the attack with a hat trick, while Joel Menard completed the scoring. Karl Heln had a pair of asists, while Steven St. Denis had a single helper.

Bob Boisvenue's squad won the A title at the South Stormont tournament over the weekend. In the championship contest, Alexandria won 5-2 against the host club with Martin Boisvenue leading the way with a hat trick. Singles went to Stephane Boisvenue and Eric Hagen.

In other tourney games, the champs beat Ottawa Pinecrest 4-2 and Athens 9-0.

Hydro facilities not in bad shape

MAXVILLE — Hydro contractor Bernard Robertson of D.B. Robertson & Son, assured Maxville Council last week that the village's hydro electrical system is "as good as any other place."

Concerned over a hydro consultant's costly recommendation to completely overhaul village utilities, council asked Mr. Robertson, a former employee of the village, for a second opinion.

Mr. Robertson pointed out a lot of the side streets have been done "piece by piece," as the budget allowed.

It's the way Ontario Hydro does it, he said, adding it would be too costly to upgrade all at once.

The village's Main Street utility lines were changed in 1974, he said, noting the life span of new service is about 20 years. But Catherine Street west and Mechanic Street west and east should be done this year, he stressed.

Some of the hydro poles, particularly the costlier yellow pines ordered by the previous council from South Carolina, are in bad shape, he said. The paint seals in the moisture and the pole rots, he explained, adding he didn't know on whose recommendation the poles were ordered.

Councillor Allan Douglas suggested Mr. Robertson assess the most urgent upgrading, so council could budget accordingly for the year.

Mr. Robertson estimated a cost of $8,000 for Mechanic Street, provided no poles are involved.

He told council poles are about $300 each and rebuilt transformers with a two-year guarantee, cost about $900.

OFFICER NAMED

Council appointed Ubald Cardinal as the village bylaw enforcement officer and zoning administrator.

Host families for European exchange students needed

Host families are needed for two European students coming to this area as part of an international exchange program for the 1987-88 school year.

The students are placed through ASSE (American Scandinavian Student Exchange). Two ASSE students are currently staying with local families and enjoying life in Glengarry.

The students arrive in mid-August and leave when the school year has ended. They are fluent in English, fully insured, have their own spending money and expect to bear their share of household responsibilities and be included in normal family activities.

Host families are needed for: Mari Ohenoja, 16, a girl from Finland, whose father is a geologist and her mother a nurse. Her hobbies include swimming, reading, listening to music, cooking and horseback riding.

Her father's job takes the family to different parts of the world and Mari was born in Canada; also for Yvonne Johansson, 18, a girl from Sweden.

Her father is manager of a cheese factory and her mother is an administrator. Yvonne's hobbies include singing, sports, aerobics and playing the guitar. She would like to spend the next school year in an area in Ontario where she can practice her French.

If anyone is interested in becoming an ASSE host family or would like more information, they are asked to contact Mrs. Duke van der Werf at 347-3362.

Township refuses to do maintenance

by Sybil Carello

MOOSE CREEK — Roxborough Township refuses to have anything to do with road maintenance in a small Moose Creek subdivision until roads are upgraded to Ministry of Transportation and Communications'(MTC) specifications.

Although the township has agreed to carry out snow removal service on a half hour contractual basis, in Bloomington Estates, off Hwy. 138, it refuses to take over the roads without MTC subsidies.

Council's hesitation is based on another subdivision incident in the township. Roxborough Gardens, off Hwy. 43, did not complete upgrading of its roads. The township ended up taking over the roads without MTC funding.

Council even expressed hesitancy on the subject of snow removal when subdivision representative Bill Freeland addressed council on the matter at a recent meeting.

Mr. Freeland wanted a commitment for continued snow removal service.

But Road Superintendent Gordon Campbell maintained, "You (Mr. Freeland) can get anyone to blow it (snow) out."

So far, snow removal has cost the development owner $680, compared to last year's $500.

Council says the five year-old subdivision's developer has not lived up to an agreement with the township, requiring upgrading of roads.

Villeneuve says abortion on Liberal agenda

MOOSE CREEK—Ontario's Liberal government is committed to increasing access to abortion services in the province, but is delaying the action until after the next general election, expected later this year, SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve charged last week.

In a press release dated March 20, the Conservative MPP said both Premier David Peterson and Health Minister Murray Elston are committed to providing greater access to abortions. Mr. Elston has decried the fact that about 5,000 Ontario women obtained illegal abortions or left the province for the service in 1986 because they could not be accommodated by hospitals.

A commission created by the Health Minister to study the issue of therapeutic abortion services issued a report in January calling upon the government to allow general practitioners to perform abortions and to approve the establishment of travelling abortion services and regional abortion clinics associated with hospitals. Currently, legal abortions have to be performed in hospitals after approval by therapeutic abortion committees.

Mr. Villenueve, who says he opposes abortion on moral grounds, insists the health minister's decision to consult with hospitals is only a tactic by the Liberals to delay planned actions until after the next election.

"If he's been able to go this far, then it's obvious that there is both cabinet approval and approval from David Peterson," says Mr. Villeneuve. "Everthing that the Liberals are doing right now is geared toward making David Peterson look good in the polls. The old Trudeau strategists are firmly in control."

OBITUARIES

Sidney MacDonald

His many friends in Muskoka and Parry Sound Districts, as well as in his home county of Glengarry, were shocked to learn of the sudden death at Huntsville, Ont., on Wednesday, March 4, of Sidney MacDonald, who for almost 20 years had been Agricultural Representative in the two districts for the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. He had also worked in ten of the Eastern Ontario counties.

He was born at Kirk Hill in 1927, a son of the late Lorne MacDonald and Mary Netta MacLeod, and was predeceased by them, as well as by his stepmother, Annie Lothian, and a brother, Donald. He is survived by his wife, the former Muriel Heagle of Campbellford and two sons, Lorne of Dalkeith and Ian, of Guelph, one sister Margaret, Mrs. Charles Anderson, of Winchester, and two brothers, Kenneth and Campbell MacDonald of Dalkeith.

After receiving his education in the local schools, he attended Ontario Agricultural College, where he graduated in 1950 with an Honors Bachelor of Science in Agriculture, specializing in Animal Husbandry. He later took summer courses in Management and Marketing. While at Guelph, he won the Grand Championship Showmanship in 1950 and was also on the College Dairy Judging Team the same year.

He retired from his work with OMAF in 1983, but kept his connection with the farming community by continuing as Advertising Manager for the Northern Feeder and Stocker Sales Association. He was a member of the Ontario Institute of Agrologists, a past president of the Northern Ontario Branch, and also a member of the Agricultural Institute of Canada.

Sidney was also active in his community, a member and representative elder of Trinity United Church where he also sang in the choir, president of the Horticultural Society, past president of the Rotary Club and a member of the Masonic Lodge.

His funeral at Trinity was conducted by his minister, Rev. John Brown, assisted by Rev. Dorothy Wilson, Presbytery representative. Special music was provided by the combined choirs of Trinity and St. Mary's and organ offerings by Kenneth McDowell, including the MacDonald Lament. Pallbearers were Ross Gilbert, James Gray, Donald Hartwick, John Humphrey, Gordon Jennings, and Gordon Mitchell. Burial will be later at Kirk Hill United Church cemetery.

Albert Rochon

Albert Rochon, formerly of Alexandria, died at Port Colbourne on March 12 at the age of 75.

He was the son of the late Peter and Rose Picard. He is survived by wife, Pauline Massie and four sons: Leo of Port Colbourne, Jean-Guy of Prescott, Gerard and Rejean, both of Alexandria.

He is also survived by three daughters: Betty (Mrs. Radolphe Maheu of Hamner, Bibianne Rochon and Yvonne (Mrs. Normand St.-Onge) both of Montreal.

Surviving brothers and sisters are: René of Alexandria, Mrs. Laura Belanger and Mrs. Exilda Bague, both of Montreal.

He also leaves several grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

The funeral was held at the Sacred Heart Church on March 16 and the honorary pallbearers were Leo, Gerald, Jean-Guy and Rejean Rochon, Rudolphe Maheu and Normand St-Onge. Officating clergyman was Father Roger Desrosiers.

Burial will take place in the spring at the parish cemetery.

Jeanne MacDonald

An esteemed resident of South Lancaster through most of her lifetime, Mrs. A. D. D. (Buster) MacDonald died at Cornwall General Hospital Monday. She had been in failing health for some time and her death followed a stroke suffered late last week.

She was born at Montreal, the daughter Jeanne, of George Dubois and his wife, Corinne Dansereau. Following her marriage to Mr. MacDonald in 1937 they had resided at South Lancaster until moving to Cornwall some eight years ago. She was the last surviving member of her family.

The funeral will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday from the Wilson Funeral Home in Cornwall to St. Columban's Church in Cornwall.

Burial will follow in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Lancaster.

William Campbell

The sudden death of William (Bill) Campbell of Alexandria, occurred March 14 as the result of a heart attack. He was 56.

A native of the Dunvegan area he had in recent years served as caretaker at St. Finnan's cemetery here.

He is survived by Wilda Nixon, one son Barry of Ottawa and one brother, Beverly Campbell of Montreal.

Rev. Gordon Fresque of Kenyon Church, Dunvegan, conducted the funeral service in the Morris Funeral Home on March 17.

Spring interment will be in Kenyon Presbyterian Church cemetery, Dunvegan.

Senior citizen Steve Pefanis wins award for outstanding pilot achievement

by Nick M-Wolochiatuk

SUMMERSTOWN—"When I was 12 years old I finally got close enough to an airplane to touch it. Some of my schoolmates and I managed to get to the small airfield at Witbank. I still have a picture of the small monoplane that had flown all the way from London."

Those are the words of Mr. Sarandi "Steve" Pefanis, winner of this year's Stefan Toczyski Memorial Award for outstanding pilot achievement.

Mr. Pefanis soloed from Cornwall Regional Airport at the age of 69.

"Age was no problem to me," he says. "It wasn't an impossible thing. I was physically fit: The MOT (Ministry of Transport) made sure I had enough tests and doctor's examinations to certify that."

Instructor Roger Joanette knew his student was ready for his first solo flight last June.

New experiences are not an uncommon event in the life of this native of South Africa. When he took an early retirement from his position as a chemical enginner at Dupont's Montreal facility, he and his wife were attracted to Glengarry by a cedared hillside west of the Bonnie Glen.

He and his family arrived in Canada by means of a passenger-carrying freighter in 1953. Since then, he has worked with Dupont in Kingston and Montreal. Six months were spent in the Dominican Republic.

Reminiscing about some of his early experiences with aircraft, Mr. Pefanis tells about his very first flight.

"It was in a DeHavilland DH 82 Tiger Moth, an open cockpit little trainer with two sets of wings. Open cockpits were fine for South Africa, but I hear that the Canadian-built ones had full canopies. It had a stick between your knees, not like the wheel control column of today's Cessnas. Lots of wood and fabric, too, not aluminum.

"Flight instruction programs are an important part of our business," said Cathy Small of Cornwall Aviation Limited. "When Mr. Pefanis soloed, he lost his shirt to us," she continued with a twinkle in her eye.

"We carry on an old aviation tradition. On the wall you can see a piece of almost 200 different shirts that pilots wore on the day of their solo flights. They used to cut off the end of their tie, but not many are wearing ties these days."

Pinned to the wall of the airport reception room are scraps of cloth bearing the name, date and aircraft registration letters of the successful student pilots.

Many local pilots have used the airfield that became a true airport at Summerstown as a stepping-stone to their careers in aviation.

"Jim Baxter now flies with Air Canada," she said. "Kevin Beaulne got his private, then commercial, then instructor's certificates here. Then he flew for Pem-Air. Now he's flying Merlins with Eastern Air Services. Stan Johns instructed here, and now he's with Pem-Air, too. Glen Priestly is an inspector with the MOT."

Not all the scraps of cloth are from shirt-tails. Some are from blouses, bearing names such as Joy, Astrid, Bonnie, Sue and Dianne.

"Irene LaFrance is an MOT inspector in Winnipeg," added Mrs. Small. "Marie Vincent was an instructor with us, and now she's an MOT airways inspector."

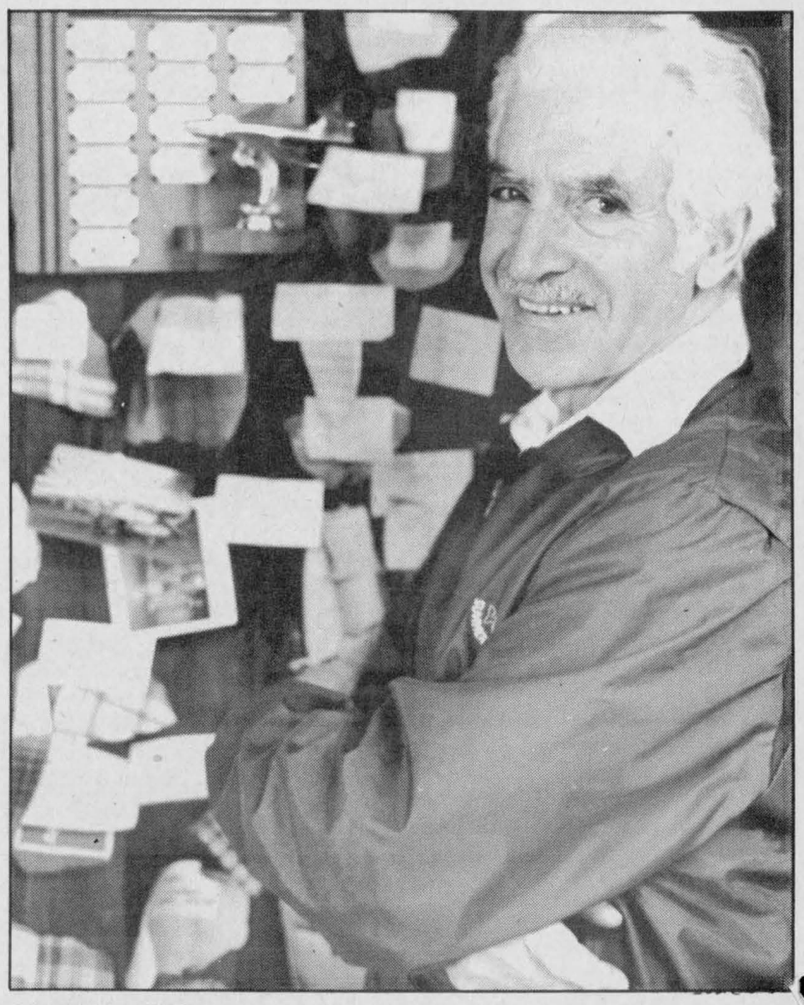
Mr. Pefanis was eager to put in his words of encouragement for the local aviation scene.

"Not enough people know about it," he said. "They need to be exposed to aviation directly. Flying is not an impossible thing, even at my age. I was just one of the students in the class. Sure, I had to work hard at it, but I wanted it.

"Having a good airport so close to home is really important. I might even try to get my instructor's certificate. I just wish Cornwall had a bit more air traffic so I could get more traffic experience."

The writing is on the wall. Stefan Toczyski, the late founder of the local airfield, had the same wish as that ambitious little 12-year-old who finally got to touch a real airplane.

"It's not impossible. You have to work at it."



SOLOING SENIOR—About 200 pilots have soloed from Cornwall Regional Airport in Summerstown since its flight instruction program was established seven years ago. At age 69, Steve Pefanis is the oldest to do so. Photo by Nick M-Wolochatiuk

St. Raphael's CWL plan annual banquet

ST. RAPHAEL'S—Plans for the annual St. Raphael's CWL banquet and meeting were finalized at the March 9 meeting.

The banquet will be held at St. Raphael's Parish Centre on April 27. A 6 p.m. mass will get the evening's program under way.

There will be an advance sale of the $7 banquet tickets ending April 24.

President Donna Schofield chaired the meeting. A scripture reading by Betty McDonald was followed by the minutes of the previous meeting read by Donna MacDonald.

The president announced a recent bake sale to assist our seminarian netted $225 and proceeds of $75 from a craft and bake sale in late '86 are being donated to St. Joseph's Secondary School as a bursary for its first graduation exercises in June.

Lenten prayer booklets were distributed to all parishioners prior to Lent.

Christian Family Life convener Bernice Lamarche will make home visitations with the parents of a newborn child and present them with a booklet entitled "Your Child's Baptism—New Life."

Resolutions convener Anna Margaret MacDonald had two recommendations:

- That CWL try to obtain help for the deaf in the area by offering lip reading courses;
- That CWL assist and support the research team at Carleton University that is challenging the preferential news indices.

Therese Valade, spiritual life convener, recommended each member say the League Prayer every morning, that we make a special effort to attend mass more often during Lent and that we not forget devotion to St. Joseph.

Mary MacGillis, education convener, asked members to bring in Catholic newspapers and magazines for our reading exchange table that has been set up at the back of the church.

Communications convener Betty McDonald stated the battle against pornography must continue. There is ample evidence around us of the terrible dangers posed by this evil.

The fifth annual seminar of Canadians for Decency on Obscenity, Violence and the Future of Society, held in Toronto in February has passed on several suggestions.

Members will try to implement them in the upcoming months.

ARC Industries and Life Skills strive to make clients more independent

by Lesley Cadham

The warehouse buzzes with lively talk and laughter while the workers seal packages and boxes. There is a camaraderie among them. At 4 p.m., everyone heads for a waiting bus to take them home. Another day at Alexandria's ARC Industries is over.

ARC, operating under the umbrella of the Glengarry Association for the Mentally Retarded (GAMR), is a training facility for developmentally handicapped adults, as well as a business.

When a client is accepted at ARC, a personal program plan is developed to set up goals and lay out a course of trainng to meet the individual's needs. The aim is to teach the client a marketable skill, such as packaging products or operating sealing equipment. Progress is monitored weekly.

Manager Gord Wright says ARC currently holds contracts with several companies for such work as duplicating flyers and sealing packages of tape and bolts.

ARC is often contracted to assemble pin badges and Mr. Wright says the company will take on any job it is equipped for. In the summer, some clients are bused to area farms to help with light farm work.

Though ARC's clients are paid for their eight-hour work day, they are not considered employees, he said. Above and beyond weekly wages, which supplement disability pensions, clients receive incentive rewards.

They are paid small sums immediately after doing a job correctly, to motivate them to continue the good work. A pay cheque is not necessarily an incentive because several days can intervene between the completion of a job and payment. Clients don't always make the connection, he says.

There are 48 full-time and part-time clients, handled by an admission and discharge committee. Four supervisor-counsellors and one truck driver are also employed by ARC.

On the south side of the Don Johnson Buiding on Macdonald Blvd. is a training facility of a different calibre. Life Skills, also operating under GAMR, provides training in the areas of preparing food, washing dishes, doing laundry, handling money and hand-crafting. Life Skills also teaches community awareness; how to use the post office and bank, how to shop and how to observe traffic lights and safety signs.

The skills are intended to make clients as independent as possible.

In one room, six clients are busily stuffing rolls of cellophane tape into small cardboard containers. Next door, one woman is hooking a rug, while another is sorting blocks. These motions help to develop motor and eye-hand co-ordination, says Manager Dawna Miller, who has been with Life Skills since 1981.

According to Miss Miller, the program was developed to meet the needs of GAMR's clients. ARC Industries taught work skills and Harmony Glen School educated youngsters, but there was nothing to help developmentally handicapped individuals learn basic living skills.

Since its debut, the number of clients had doubled and currently stands at 33. There are four full-time and four part-time instructors.

Clients are divided into four groups, according to their levels of functioning. Every day the groups rotate to spend a few hours in each workshop.

Miss Miller says it's satisfying to witness the pride clients display when they've learned new skills.

Both ARC Industries and Life Skills are funded through GAMR by the Ministry of Community and Social Services. GAMR receives 80 per cent funding through that ministry.

In addition, the ministry has recently allocated $18,000 to ARC Industries for the purchase of a new truck, to be used for pickups and deliveries

TRAINING FOR LIFE—Life Skills client Wayne Michaud learns to toast bread. Life Skills teaches developmentally handicapped persons to be more independent by taking on everyday tasks.

Charlottenburgh Twp. names new land planner

WILLIAMSTOWN — Charlottenburgh Township Council introduced its new land use planner during its regular meeting Wednesday night. Paul Stanton of Orleans has been hired by the township at a starting salary of $29,000.

Mr. Stanton, who has a degree in Urban Economic Geography from Queen's University and a Master's in Urban and Regional Planning from the University of Ottawa, began work March 16 at the township hall after answering an advertisement for the position in late November.

He was last employed by Statistics Canada in Ottawa and prior to that lived and worked in Edmonton and Vancouver.

Mr. Stanton said he accepted the job in order to get back into a career in planning. He felt his recent experience as a member of the Economic and Industrial Development Committee for Cumberland Township would be an asset in his new role as township planner.

Raising standards for new subdivisions, development proposals, and a good review of the official plan for Charlottenburgh Township are among his priorities at the moment.

The new planner, who is married and has two young daughters, hopes to move to the area as soon as possible.

Those who need training the most often lack the basic skills they need to get started. The Ontario Basic Skills program prepares adults for a better future in Ontario's workplace. Free courses in three important areas are offered at most community colleges and sometimes through employer associations and unions.

Basic Skills for a better future.

TRAINING READINESS: Counsellors help trainees identify the kind of jobs they want and the starting point for a training plan that meets career objectives.

ACADEMIC UPGRADING: Courses provide up to grade 12 level in reading and writing, mathematics, science, and computer skills.

JOB SEARCH: Classes deal with how to write a resume, fill out applications, do well at interviews, and follow up on job leads. Trainees are taught how to compete in today's tough job market.

If you, or someone you know, wants to start the Ontario Basic Skills Program, contact the Ontario Basic Skills Office at your local community college, or call the toll-free HOTLINE at the number below.

In Memoriam

McINTEE, Patrick—In loving memory of a dear father who passed away on March 29, 1983.
We little thought when you left home,
You would never more return,
That soon in death you would sleep
And leave us here alone.
Quickly and quietly came the call,
Your sudden death surprised us all.
Your golden heart stopped beating;
Two working hands at rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the best.
It seems you left us yesterday,
The wound is still so sore,
For every day throughout the years
We seem to miss you more.
So many things have happened
Since you were called away,
So many things to share with you,
Had you been left to stay.
—Your family, John, Ann, Rita, Terry, Robert and Pat. Jr. 12-1p

Lancaster Twp. supports sports hall of fame

by Joanne Stevenson

NORTH LANCASTER—It didn't take any convincing for Lancaster Township Council to decide to extend financial support to the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame. In a short discussion held prior to the arrival of the hall of fame delegation, council agreed a grant of $2 per capita over two years was reasonable.

After council listened to presentations made by Angus H. McDonell and Bill Campbell, a resolution approving a $6,600 grant for the building fund was passed.

In thanking the council, Mr. Campbell remarked, "this is the first council we've visited who'd already made up their minds."

FIRE PROTECTION

Months of communication between Riviere Beaudette and Lancaster Township councils have ended with Riviere Beaudette's refusal to change its present fire protection service to the township.

Councillor Richard Vaillancourt had asked the neighboring Quebec municipality be contacted to see if it could provide "first call" fire protection service to the area of the township bordered by Curry Hill Road and the Quebec boundary.

If Riviere Beaudette had agreed, fire insurance rates to the residents affected would have been reduced due to close proximity to a fire hall.

However, correspondence from Riviere Beaudette indicated the municipality is willing to continue its present level of service, i.e. answering the second call after the Lancaster Village fire department has been notified.

GLEN STOR DUN LODGE

During a brief discussion about the future of the Glen Stor Dun Lodge, council generally felt efforts should be made to retain the seniors facility at its present site, east of Cornwall.

Counties council is currently investigating re-locating to either Ingleside or Morrisburg.

An Ontario Municipal Board hearing regarding Helene Beriault's rezoning request to permit construction of a triplex in Green Valley will take place April 30 at the township hall.

Two fined for impaired

Two men received fines totalling $1,250 Thursday in Alexandria Provincial Court after pleading guilty to impaired driving.

Robert Clifford Hope, 25, of Williamstown was fined $500. He was charged March 6 in Charlottenburgh Township.

Mr. Hope was travelling on Cty. Rd. 18, when an OPP constable watched him turn wide onto Cty. Rd. 27, going on to the shoulder twice.

After the accused was stopped, he moved slowly, smelled of alcohol, and bumped into the constable while walking to the police cruiser.

Mr. Hope was taken to Lancaster OPP for a breathalyzer test and his readings were 160 and 150 mgs. of alcohol in 100 mls. of blood.

His license was suspended for one year and he was given 30 days to pay his fine.

Francis Bonneville, 52, of Cornwall, was fined $750. He was charged March 11 in Charlottenburgh Township.

Court was told an OPP constable saw Mr. Bonneville's car swerve twice and hit the shoulder once on Hwy. 2.

Mr. Bonneville had difficulty producing his driver's licence for police, his speech was slurred and his eyes were red and watery.

His licence was suspended for one year.
