Only miracle can save Maxville Sr. School, supporters lose vote

Unless a miracle occurs, Maxville Senior School will close its doors on June 30, 1988, said SD&G County Board of Education Chairman Joe Gunn, April 29.

A motion to remove the school from the closure timeline, was defeated 7-3 in an unrecorded vote last week. Mr. Gunn did not vote.

"The death bells have tolled," he said.

The senior school has been under the threat of closure for some time. Built in 1914, parts of the building have fallen into disrepair and been condemned by the fire marshall. Every year, board administrators review the situation to determine whether the school should remain open and this year, they recommended closure, effective June 1988.

In March, the board tabled a four-part recommendation which, if accepted, would have prevented Maxville Senior School from closing. The facilities committee, who formulated the document, suggested funds for refurbishment be allocated in the 1987 budget and in future budgets.

The project's price tag would have been about $650,000.

But at the April 21 budget meeting, the finance and operations committee threw out that portion of the recommendation.

And last week, the board agreed to close the school next June. The facilities committee will hold a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. on May 20 at the board office to discuss the fate of the building. The future of the 80 senior school students is expected to be discussed during the next 16 or 17 months.

The smaller Maxville Public School may be renovated to accommodate the Grades seven and eight youths. This would cost about $250,000. Another alternative would be to transport the students to Tagwi High School in Avonmore.

This would mean students bused in from Alexandria and Laggan to take part in the Late French Immersion program, would have to travel even further from home.

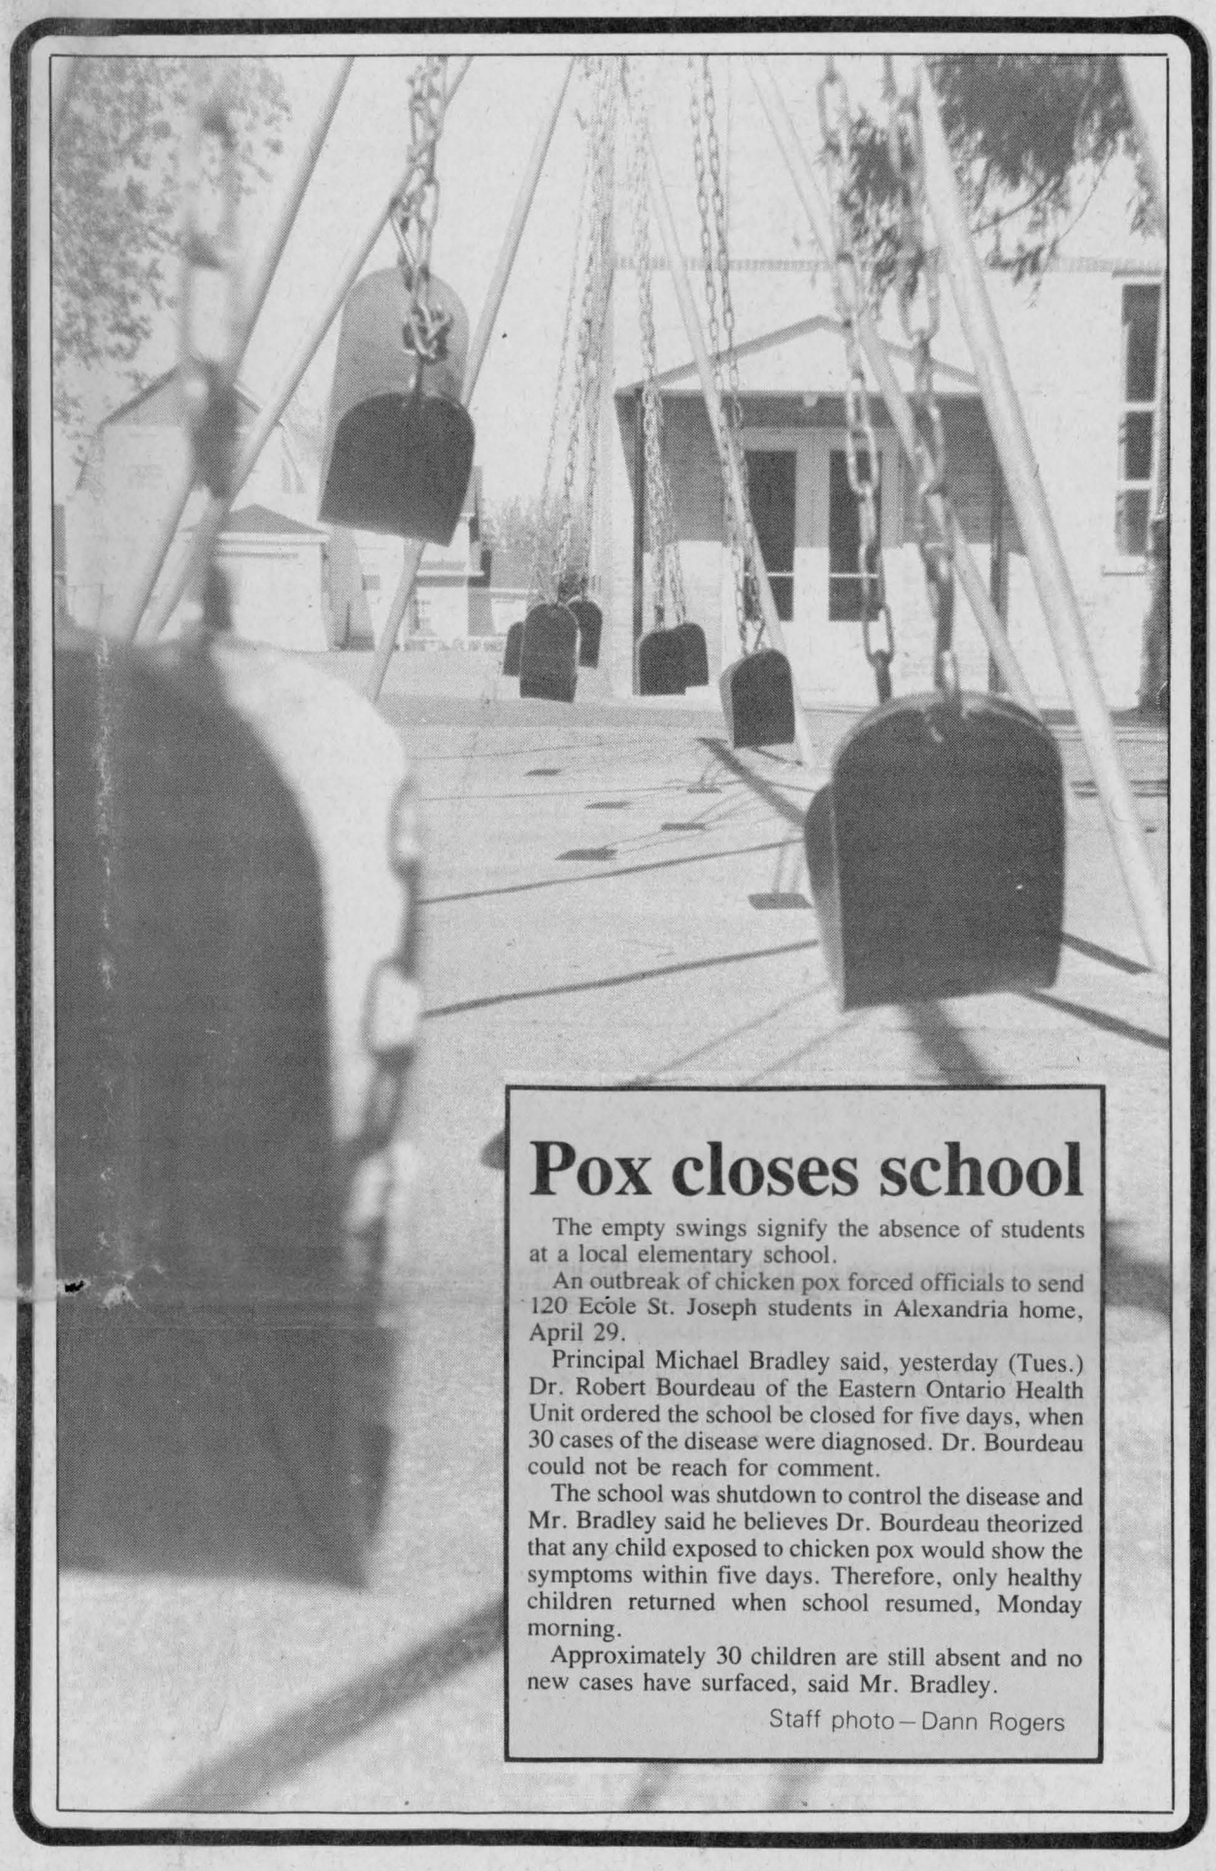
Kenyon Township Councillor Joan Siwick, spokesperson for concerned parents who have attended many board meetings to express concerns, said Thursday, her group will fight against a move to Tagwi.

She is concerned that Maxville Senior School youngsters, 12 to 14 years old, will have to make the long bus trip to Avonmore with the older high school students.

"Children already grow up too fast," she said.

She added, her group feels the children may not receive the personal treatment they receive in Maxville. "We'll fight to keep them in the community," she said. Mrs. Siwick was not surprised at the news of closure.

Mr. Gunn says he does not foresee receiving the funds required to renovate Maxville Senior School. "I don't think the board is willing to ask the public for $650,000."



Pox closes school

The empty swings signify the absence of students at a local elementary school.

An outbreak of chicken pox forced officials to send 120 Ecole St. Joseph students in Alexandria home, April 29.

Principal Michael Bradley said, yesterday (Tues.) Dr. Robert Bourdeau of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit ordered the school be closed for five days, when 30 cases of the disease were diagnosed. Dr. Bourdeau could not be reach for comment.

The school was shutdown to control the disease and Mr. Bradley said he believes Dr. Bourdeau theorized that any child exposed to chicken pox would show the symptoms within five days. Therefore, only healthy children returned when school resumed, Monday morning.

Approximately 30 children are still absent and no new cases have surfaced, said Mr. Bradley.

SD&G high school teachers accept two-year agreement

by Dann Rogers

CORNWALL—There will be no strike at area public high schools for at least the next 16 months.

High school teachers accepted a tentative agreement with the SD&G County Board of Education April 22 and the board ratified it April 28.

The agreement accepted by the two parties differs little from a previous contract meaning the Char-Lan Model will not be extended to other area high schools and the staffing procedure will remain the same.

Under the two-year agreement, ending Aug. 31, 1988, teachers, principals, vice-principals and department heads will receive a 4.8 per cent wage increase the first year and 4.8 per cent the second year. Department heads will not receive the second year increase.

The Char-Lan Model will continue at the Williamstown high school, where the day is broken up into five periods of 60 minutes each, as opposed to four classes of 72 minutes, and a 20-minute reading period in effect at other high schools.

Also, under this model, students have a supervised study period each day.

"We're pleased the Char-Lan Model was not implemented at other high schools. Parents' groups were very concerned with it and their lobbying efforts, in addition to the negotiations undertaken by the teachers, put a lid on it, hopefully forever," teachers' association president, Elaine Kennedy said Monday.

"The board needs more details on the cost and effect of the Char-Lan Model. It is an expensive way of staffing schools that would require about 30 more teachers throughout SD&G, costing an extra million dollars a year," she said.

"The independent study period would increase the need for teachers and it would turn out to be a real

School teachers to vote on tentative agreement

CORNWALL — Elementary school teachers will vote Monday on a second tentative agreement reached with the SD&G County Board of Education.

The first agreement was rejected by the teachers April 27 with 70 per cent opposed to the package. Of the 400 teachers eligible to vote, only 195 did so.

Negotiators for the board and teachers worked out the modified agreement Monday afternoon.

"It was really just a matter of dotting the I's and crossing the T's," Robert Whittaker, the board's chief negotiator said Tuesday.

If the teachers ratify the agreement, it will be presented to the board for approval Tuesday evening.

The main issues concern working conditions, retirement gratuities and administrative time, teachers' negotiator Lynda Laflèche said Tuesday.

Working conditions include the amount of preparation time teachers are allotted and the number of students in Kindergarten classes.

"The class sizes aren't equal and we would like to see that evened out," said Mrs. Laflèche.

Retirement gratuity is a sort of severance pay given to teachers when they finish teaching and the board wants to abolish it. The techers want to ensure it is maintained.

Administrative time concerns principals and vice-principals who teach and how much time they should spend on each responsibility.

SD&G schools get $1.7 million following Ontario throne speech

CORNWALL—Seven schools in SD&G will benefit from more than $1.7 million in provincial capital grants as part of an increased emphasis on education promised in the Ontario Government's throne speech last week.

The SD&G Roman Catholic Separate School Board learned Friday that it will receive $932,000 to fund four capital projects. Most of the money, $850,000, will fund a major expansion of St. Mary's Separate School in Chesterville. Director of education Gilles Metivier said Tuesday final plans had not been drawn for the school addition, but it is expected to include six classrooms and a library.

The expansion project, planned for several years, jumped to first place on the board's priority list because of substantial population growth in the area, Mr. Metivier explained. The Chesterville-Winchester area has grown as a bedroom community for Ottawa.

The project is also expected to involve renovations to the existing school building and the possible addition of a lunchroom.

The Ministry of Education has also approved grants of $40,000 to Ecole Ste. Marie in Green Valley and $24,000 to St. Andrew's School for roof replacement. Another $21,000 will be spent to replace the heating boiler at Ecole St. Joseph in Lancaster.

Mr. Metivier said school boards "never know from year to year" how much they may receive in funding for capital projects, but his own board had been hoping to see the Chesterville project approved for next year. The emphasis on education expressed in the Liberal government's throne speech probably speeded up the project by at least one year, he said.

"Certainly, I was pleased with the speech," he said. "It was refreshing in terms of education. It had to be music to the ears of educators throughout Ontario.

"It was excellent. We know we have one of the best education systems in the world. This has been corroborated by research. But even the best system needs updating and honing from time to time. The government has said it will strive to make our system even better."

He said the SD&G separate school board had already launched programs to emphasize skill development, particularly in the areas of science and technology, including about $500,000 for computers in elementary schools.

"There is increased computer usage," he said. "There's a major emphasis on science. We decided to make the move before (the throne speech). Certainly it is consistent with our own aspirations."

He said the separate board also welcomes the government's announced intention to include day care

FIRE DESTROYS FAMILY HOME—The home of John Perralte and his six children was destroyed by fire, Sunday afternoon. According to a family member, the fire started in the barn and strong winds carried the flames to the nearby house.

Dunvegan home destroyed by fire

DUNVEGAN—A Dunvegan family's home and barn were destroyed in a fire which may have been caused by faulty electrical wiring, Sunday afternoon.

John Perralte and his six children, of Concession 9, Lot 11, are staying with sister, Wanda Bigras. There was no insurance on the buildings, but Mr. Perralte hopes to rebuild. No damage estimate was available.

Mrs. Bigras, who spoke for her family, Tuesday, said the fire, which she believes was caused by faulty wiring, started in the barn about 50 feet from the house. Sister, Marjorie was minding the children, aged one to 12 years, in her father's absence. She noticed the flames and called the Alexandria Fire Department.

A diesel tractor parked beside the barn caught fire, and exploded and strong winds "blew the fire all over the place," said Mrs. Bigras.

"They (firemen) couldn't get it under control . . . our wells ran dry and more water had to be brought in by truck," she said.

Firemen arrived promptly, fought the blaze for about four hours, but Mrs. Bigras said, everything was so dry there wasn't much of a chance of saving the structures.

A trust fund was to have been established at Alexandria's Royal Bank, yesterday (Tues.). In addition, local residents are working to collect bedding and clothing for the family. If you would like to contribute in any way, call Mrs. McIlwain at 525-1093 or Mrs. Gowland at 525-3116.

The Glengarry Historical Society will be on the road again Thursday. At the 8 p.m. meeting at the Church-on-the-Hill, Buchanan and Thelma MacMillan will show slides of an African Safari.

The members were recently treated to travel journals of Australia and Iceland and they consider it more personal and exciting than sitting down with a copy of National Geographic.

Glengarry's 379 Squadron Exertion Team was one of 15 Air Cadet Squadrons competing in various activities at Trenton over the weekend.

Warrant Officer Two Ken Robinson led the team of Flight Sergeant Mich Lacelle., Sgt. Starr Hambleton, Cpl. Paul Lacelle and Leading Air Cadets Tracy Turton, Raymond Clancy, Marc Dubeau and Paul McGrath.

They won the Borden Ball trophy and participated in other activities, like volleyball, basketball, Canadian fitness, leadership exercises, range and drill.

John Ruttenberg, the accompanying officer, said the weekend was a success, the team performed well and all enjoyed meeting old friends and making new ones at this annual event.

More kudos for Mamie. Mamie MacMillan, that is, Alexandria's favorite little citizen of the year. People just love giving this gal awards.

Miss MacMillan was presented with a life membership certificate and a special achievement pin from the Glengarry Memorial Hospital Auxiliary. The presentations were made last week, during the auxiliary's regular April meeting, in honor of Volunteer Appreciation Week, by Vivian DaPrato, in the absense of President Lorette Scharf.

All teasing aside, we know the award was richly deserved. Miss MacMillan has contributed thousands of volunteer hours to the hospital.

In other business, auxiliary members are planning a strawberry tea, to be held in conjunction with Hospital Week, on May 9, from 2 to 5 p.m. in Alexander Hall. If you can handle the calories, be there. If you can't handle the calories, be first in line.

Getting back to calories for a moment, we hear auxiliary members couldn't leave their April meeting without cutting into a special cake over their coffee hour. The cake, also in honor of Volunteer Appreciation Week, was provided by the hospital staff. We hear it was beautifully decorated.

Diane Lefebvre, Helene Quenneville and Joshua were mid-April visitors for nearly a week with Rene Quenneville in Baie Comeau.

While there, they; also met with Raymond Lewis, the Canadian Tire Store owner in the area. Many readers will remember Ray owned the Alexandria Canadian Tire for a number of years and was owner when the new store on Main Street South was constructed.

On their return flight, they had a three-hour stop-over in Mont-Joli, while Quebecair added a few screws and bolts on a wing of their Convair aircraft, which experience has shown can best be done on the ground.

From the We Blew It Again Dept., comes the following confessions:

Mac's Milk did not celebrate its fifth anniversary in Alexandria recently, as reported here last week. Ray Lemieux, the Silver Fox and renowned card champion who managed the store for some years, says it's been open at least eight years.

What we meant to say was Johnny Mac's Tavern in Martintown was five years old. Wrong name, wrong business, wrong town. Like they say, it's the thought that counts.

A belated happy birthday to Johnny Mac and Crew.

Those of you who pay close attention to our ads each week (that's everybody, right?) may have noticed a mild exaggeration in the ad for the Little Donut Shop on Main Street.

George Hambleton of Atmospheric Environment Services reports that April was five degrees milder than normal with a high of 28 and a low of minus 8.5.

Precipitation was below average with only 59 mm of rain falling this year as compared to an average of 75 mm. Snow falling on Glengarry ground totaled four cm, less than the normal accumulation of 10 cm.

facilities in all new schools in the future. "We welcome that move. Day care services already exist in some of our schools."

Public schools in SD&G joined in the windfall last week, too, with grants totalling $780,000 for three projects.

Most of the money, $610,000, will fund Phase 2 of a three-phase renovation project at Ecole Secondaire La Citadelle in Cornwall. Another $100,000 will pay for an elevator for the handicapped at the two-storey Seaway District High School in Iroquois. Renovations to meet requirements laid down by the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office at Winchester Public School will be funded by a $70,000 grant.

Rosaire Leger, director of education with the SD&G County Board of Education, said his board had been expecting the La Citadelle funding, but the other two grants came as a surprise.

"We're certainly pleased to get the extra $170,000," he said. "We could always use more, we could use a couple of million dollars more, but we have to be reasonable."

The government's first priority in spending, he explained, is to create new classrooms in areas of the province where there has been the greatest population growth. For most other school boards, including the two in SD&G, the biggest capital need is to repair existing schools.

"Most of other boards are faced with large renovation costs," said Mr. Leger. "The schools were built in the boom days and most are about the same age and need repair. We've taken a planned approach and I think we've done a pretty good job."

The throne speech was only a general statement of the government's intentions, said Mr. Leger, adding he was waiting to see specific plans. He said he was particularly pleased, however, with the emphasis placed on fundamental science and technology skills.

nightmare."

Board chairman Joe Gunn said Monday the Char-Lan Model was no longer an issue and was not sure how much extra it would cost to implement.

He did say the pilot project at Char-Lan would be continued and, if deemed advantageous, might be extended to other schools in the future.

The other main issue in the negotiations concerned component staffing, which involves a complicated formula for determining the number of teachers at each school.

The board wanted that formula removed from the collective agreement and a return to the previous system of pupil-teacher ratio (PTR). The teachers feel the formula equalizes workloads more efficiently than other staffing procedures.

"The board will continue to staff schools as it has done in the past. Component staffing will not be entirely in use but it will be studied during the next year," Bob Whittaker, the boards' personnel director and chief negotiator said Monday.

"We are pleased there have been no changes to staffing," said Mrs. Kennedy.

"The board assigns teachers to schools according to the PTR method and then the principal must allocate them according to component staffing guidelines.

"It ties the hands of the administration because it is a system which evens off the number of students each teacher deals with. We didn't want some sections of the school penalized because of other clauses which set a maximum of the number of students in some courses," she said.

Mr. Gunn said the board has agreed to set up a staffing allocation committee to study the ramifications of staffing procedures.

"We'll be meeting at least once a month to make sure this committee works," he said.

Another change in the collective agreement reduces the maximum number of students in general classes from 36 to 32.

"We were aiming to get that down to 30 students in general classes," said Mrs. Kennedy.

The maximum number of students in advanced classes remains at 36 and the limit for special education classes will stay at 24.

EDUCATION WEEK – Laggan Public School held an open house April 29 as part of Education Week. Two boys from Grade 2, Mathew MacDonald, left, and Kevin McDonald, were busy at work in Peter Steiche's computer class. Looking on is Mathew's mother, Anne MacDonald.

Passes dance teaching exam

MOOSE CREEK—Anna-Maria Valley of Moose Creek recently passed her Associate Teacher's Exam in Highland Dancing administered by the Scottish Dance Teachers' Alliance in Scotland.

The exam was given by A. MacKay of Scotland in Moose Creek on April 25.

Anna-Maria has received many medals and trophies from competitions in Canada, the United States and Scotland.

Her greatest achievement was placing fifth over all at the World's Highland Dance Competition in Scotland last August.

She was also first runner-up for the Ontario Championships in 1985 and 1986, and placed fourth runner-up for the Canadian Championships in 1985 and 1986.

The Grade 12 student at Tagwi High School plans to teach Highland Dancing at her home in Moose Creek.

Volunteer Service Awards snapped up by seven benevolent Glengarrians

Seven Glengarrians will be honored at the 1987 Volunteer Service Awards ceremony, to be held in Ottawa on May 14.

They will receive trillium lapel pins and certificates from the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture acknowledging five, 10 or 15 and more years of service with non-profit organizations. In addition, they will receive First-Day Covers of a new Canada Postage stamp which commemorates the work of volunteers across the country.

Marion Loewen of Dunvegan will be one of 310 Ontarians honored. Mrs. Loewen was nominated by the Glengarry Historical Society, of which she has been a member for about 20 years.

According to Corresponding Secretary Harriet MacKinnon, Mrs. Loewen was nominated because of her constant willingness to help in many of the society's functions. She lives near The Glengarry Museum at Dunvegan and often went over to let visitors in when no one else was around, says Mrs. MacKinnon.

Alexandrian Elizabeth Clingen and Williamstown's Archibald MacDonell were also named by the historical society, because they too, were always willing to pitch in and help. ''Sometimes it's the little things that can be overlooked, that really help out,'' says Mrs. MacKinnon.

Former Kirk Hill resident Amanda MacGillivray, Bruce Kennedy of Ottawa and Keith MacIntosh of Monkland also won awards for their benevolent service to the Glengarry Historical Society.

In addition, Williamstown resident Jeanne Andre, and Green Valley residents Margo Pepin, Roch Pepin and Claude Robinson were nominated by the Scouts of Canada Association and will be honored at the ceremony in May.

In a press release, the Honorable Lily Munro is quoted a saying, ''It's the caring and devotion of these volunteers and the organizations they represent that make our communities better places for all of us.''

Water rates to rise

Alexandria residents can expect a 7.7 per cent increase in water rates as of June 1.

Council approved the rate hike from $12 a month to almost $13, April 28.

HOPE STREET

Hope Street residents do not want a land developer to eliminate a street from the subdivision plan, according to a letter received at town hall about two weeks ago.

Ottawanne Ltd., owner and developer of the land between Glengarry District High School and Macdonald Boulevard and between Kincardine Street and McDougall Avenue, proposed removing the unconstructed Ronald Street fromthe plan. A site plan for the subdivision was approved 10 years ago.

Council sent out surveys to the residents of that area after tabling the firm's request at the March 31 meeting.

The letter, signed by 14 Hope Street dwellers also requested the developer erect a three-way stop-sign at the corner of Ronald and Hope streets. They also asked for a street light on the new street, between Hope and Macdonald Boulevard and stated they expected council to assure the first phase of Ottawanne's subdivision is complete before the company is permitted to continue with the second and third phases.

Phase two will involve the construction of a yet-to-be named crescent off McDougald Avenue, just north of Hwy. 34 and phase three will see an extension of Hope Street to McDougald. Trottier Crescent will have access to Hope and McDougald.

According to the town clerk, work in the second phase will not begin until phase three is completed.

What! No outhouse?

Sometimes it's not hard to figure out why country folk don't immediately warm up to city-slickers.

One city person, attending the Ontario Municipal Board hearing at Lancaster Township Hall on Thursday, asked Clerk-Treasurer Mike Samson the location of the washroom facilities.

Mr. Samson said. ''Just go to your right,'' and pointed to a door.

''You mean . . . outside?'' asked the shocked urbanite.

Shaking his head in disbelief, Mr. Samson was heard to remark, ''Ah, come on, we're out in the country, but we're not that bad!''

Is it any wonder Queen's Park doesn't understand rural Eastern Ontario?

Glengarry firms receive grants totalling $178,000

Two Montreal-based companies have been awarded federal grants totalling $178,000 to boost two Glengarry industries.

D&M Laurin Industries Ltd. has been awarded an $83,650 grant through the Industrial Regional Development Program to erect and furnish a plant in Alexandria's Industrial Park. The facility is expected to create 20 new jobs in the next three years and sales are forecasted at $4.6 million.

The total cost of the project will be $478,000 and the company will manufacture tractor cabs and industrial containers. Company officials were not available for comment.

Railtech Inc. has been awarded $95,000 to fund a $550,000 project to expand an existing Apple Hill plant. The expansion is expected to create 10 jobs within three years.

Railtech's products include architectural panelling, and panels for the interiors of trains and subway cars.

Construction has started to add 5,600 sq. ft. to the current 12,000 square-foot plant and is expected to be complete by the end of August.

The additional space will accommodate a ''cut-to-length-line,'' which will enable the manufacturer to custom-cut sheet metal from rolls. A new ''hot-press'' will allow the manufacturing of more sophisticated panelling, says Vice President Ken MacDonald.

The Department of Regional Industrial Expansion, under the Minister of State for Small Businesses and Tourism, provides direct financial assistance to Canadian Industries.

Lancaster Village to host Scottish heritage concert

LANCASTER — If you've been yearning for some of the stuff good old Highland Games are made of, Lancaster Village has a treat in store for you.

A Scottish heritage concert, to be held May 15 at the Oak Street Legion, will preclude the ''mini-Highland Games,'' and parade, to take place May 17. The festivities are in honor of the village's 100th birthday.

The Lancaster centennial committee will sponsor the events. Singing and dancing in traditional style will begin at 8 p.m. and finish about 10 p.m., May 15. There are no advance ticket sales, but tickets can be purchased at the door for $3. Space is limited.

According to Village Reeve Milton MacDonald, acts will include the MacCulloch dancers, Major J.T. MacKenzie and the Glengarry Pipe Band, the Lochiel Strings violin group, soloists Allan MacPhail and Rev. Bruce Ross. In addition, Alexandria Mayor J.P. Touchette will serenade the audience and may harmonize with Mr. MacDonald. Cornwall soloist Brian MacDonell will also perform and Ruth Anna MacPherson will accompany singers with her accordian.

On May 17, spectators can watch the caber toss at the smaller version of the annual Highland Games at Lancaster's recreation field. Events begin about 10 a.m. and will break in time for a parade, to commence from the fire hall at half-past noon. Again, the Glengarry Pipe Band and MacCulloch Dancers, as well as several other groups, will be featured. At 1 p.m., games will resume at the recreation field.

Glengarry Inter-Agency may reach out to assist seniors

Senior Citizens may soon be able to look to Glengarry Interagency for assistance, said Community and Neighborhood Support Services Program Administrator Eugene Legault, Monday.

A three-person organizing committee including Mr. Legault has met with Ministry of Community and Social Services officials twice since March. The ministry has already agreed to provide 70 per cent funding toward the home support program.

Services including gardening, lawn-cutting, work inside the home and transportation, may be available to seniors throughout the county at a nominal fee. And theprogram would likely expand to include other services, says Mr. Legault.

Because there is no public transportation in Glengarry, seniors often pay more than they can afford to go to doctor's appointments, shopping and visiting, he says.

In addition, some seniors are no longer capable of making necessary home repairs or maintaining their lawns, so properties deteriorate and values decline.

''We'd like to do something about that. It (the services) will give seniors a better perspective on life, by helping them do the things they can't,'' he explains.

Transportation may also be provided to bring seniors to a good, hot meal. This system would be the opposite of meals on wheels, a service which brings two hot meals into a home each week, at a minimal cost.

Mr. Legault says he would like to hire students for the summer, to get the project rolling. The organizing committee will meet with the ministry again on May 19 to discuss the next steps.

EDITORIALS/OPINION

Something's wrong

Two court stories appeared side-by-side on one inside page of The Toronto Star on Sunday. The first reported a man had been sentenced to jail for five months for illegally copying computer software and related manuals, defrauding the owners of more than $200.

The second story reported another man had been sentenced to one month in jail for assault causing bodily harm. He admitted badly beating his wife. He beat her head with a beer bottle, hit her with an ashtray, slapped her several times and threatened to kill her with a long knife and a carving fork.

The woman suffered many cuts and lacerations, her eyes were swollen and blackened and much of her body was badly bruised. The man admitted he had also beaten his wife several times in the past.

Something is seriously wrong with our justice system when computer fraud is considered more serious and deserving of at least five times the penalty than a vicious assault inflicted by a man on an all but defenseless woman.

Is a floppy disk worth more to society than a woman's right to be free from attack and the devastating fear of her husband?

In many cases, a man can expect to be dealt with much more harshly if he attacks an unknown woman on the street. The penalty should be at least as harsh for the man who preys repeatedly on a woman trapped in the same home.

No property, be it computer software or a used car, is as deserving of protection and respect from our judicial system as a human being's right to life and dignity.

Glengarry legend

Pipe Major John T. MacKenzie has become something of a Glengarry legend since settling in Maxville in 1971. He has become such an integral part of Scottish cultural and community affairs that it seems he has always been here. We tend to take him for granted.

That is not to say the man has not been appreciated. Thousands of Glengarrians take pride in the Glengarry Pipe Band, led and nurtured by Mr. MacKenzie. Others have contributed a great deal to the band's success over the years, but it is the MacKenzie touch that is most obvious.

We have known of his valuable contributions to the annual Glengarry Highland Games and to the Glengarry School of Piping and Drumming. Many people are also aware of his teaching efforts in the high schools.

There can be no doubt, Pipe Major John T. MacKenzie, a Glengarrian by choice rather than birth, has been adopted by a county community that has come to love him. We enjoy and admire his performances with the pipe band. Many are astounded by the level of dedication shown by the young people who benefit from his leadership and tutelage.

Still, most of us didn't fully appreciate just how valuable a resource we had in John T. MacKenzie until last month, when he received the Lamp of Learning Award, the highest honor that can be given a non-teacher by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation (OSSTF).

To begin with, our own J.T. is truly a rare bird, being one of perhaps only five people in the world with the legitimate militaary rank of pipe major, as opposed to the title of ''pipe major'' carried by others who lead pipe bands. He was personal piper to King George VI and Queen Elizabeth II and was a member of the pipe band that led the British Army through North Africa in World War II.

He retired from the British army and joined the Royal Canadian Air Force to help establish a pipe band at CFB Rockcliffe, retiring again to take up residence in Glengarry.

He started teaching piping in high schools in Alexandria and Roxborough in 1971 and so impressed the Ontario Ministry of Education that within five years piping was made a credit course.

The OSSTF reports J.T.'s nomination for the Lamp of Learning Award was accompanied by a ''flood'' of supporting letters from politicians, teachers, the public school board, cultural organizations and others who have come to know and appreciate the true worth of this remarkable man. He was described as ''living proof'' that one person can have a tremendous impact on a community; as a man who is able to bring to young people a realization of their potential and help them ''grasp it.''

One supporter called him a ''world class man,'' in reference to his rank, his experience and his skills. The same words could just as easily refer to a proud man's devotion to his community, to tradition and, above all, to the many young men and women he has helped mould and guide for a lifetime to come.

We're proud that our own J.T. has received at least part of the recognition he deserves and even prouder that he's part of Glengarry and will likely remain so for a good number of years to come.

Booing Montreal fans brought a hawk to his slugging best

RAMBLING REPORTER
Eugene Macdonald

Let sleeping dogs lie is a bit of advice that makes lots of sense. Down through the years we've observed countless instances that seemed to suggest you'll often be sorry you started something you couldn't finish.

Waken that dog and you could suffer a sleepless night harassed by his barking. Even worse, one could get bitten if one came too close to those threatening fangs.

That phrase has many applications that have nothing to do with dogs or other animals, we were thinking one night as we watched the Chicago Cubs clobber our baseball favorites, Les Expos de Montreal. The Expos had shown some good hitting and pitching to win five games after a dismal start. They had come home to play host under their long-looked-for new roof and along had come the lowly, hitless Cubs to win three straight games and pound Expo pitching that a week earlier had looked promising.

Montreal fans had been hoping the Cubs would be patsies in Olympic stadium.

Instead they refused to roll over and if Chicago bats were potent those braying fans busy booing a former Expo star, André Dawson, could thank themselves.

They had refused to let sleeping dogs lie. They had ignited the ire of ''the Hawk'' and his sleeping bat had come to life to lead his new ball team back to winning ways.

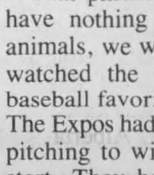
Dawson had not been hitting since starting the season with his new team, the Cubs, after ten years in an Expo uniform. You could count his hits on the fingers of one hand in his frist dozen games. Then came the booing of Montreal fans under the new dome and André caught fire. In a torrid weekend of three games he pounded out seven hits in 12 times at bat. He hit at a .583 pace with two home runs, three doubles, six runs scored and another six runs batted in.

That should have been enough to impress on Montreal fandom the fact that their loss was Chicago's gain. But that batting spree seems to have brought André new life. At home against San Francisco Giants, last Wednesday, he hit for the cycle. His five hits in one game included a homer, triple, double and single. Not many ball players can boast that they hit for the cycle and we hope Dawson keeps hot right through the season. In most of those 10 years at Montreal he was a star outfielder and a steadying influence on the team. We thought he was demanding more money than he was worth this year but then aren't all the ball players doing the same thing?

Fans seem to have a built-in right to boo if they so desire. We never liked the boo birds and surely Expo fans have learned the hard way that it doesn't pay to boo Dawson.

Let sleeping dogs lie, we repeat; especially if they bite like a Hawk.

Dad, a simple man who stands tall in his children's eyes



SECOND LOOK
Phil Rutherford

I have started to write this column at least four times so far and at least four times I've ripped the paper from the typewriter and crumpled it into the garbage. Each time, I tried to start differently. Twice, I changed subject entirely. Nothing worked.

There's too much on my mind today, I guess. No matter how much I try to concentrate, my thoughts travel west to Perth, to home and to my father. Dad's 79 now, a relic by some people's standards; a priceless resource of local history and family anecdotes to others.

He's lived a full life and raised three sons and a daughter who all seem to be holding their own in the world. He's enjoyed the sight and laughter of four grandchildren and relaxed through 12 years of comfortable, if not prosperous retirement. He has always been there—solid, healthy, never changing. He was as constant as the earth he loved to garden and the meadows he picked clean of mushrooms.

All this changed a couple of years ago. His breathing became labored and he was racked by incessant coughing. He didn't have the strength he used to enjoy and his long country walks were abandoned. The doctors have an unpronounceable name for the disease that was destroying Dad's lungs. The name didn't matter much. We were told it was similar to emphysema and there was no cure. It could only get worse. A simple cold could lead to a life-threatening lung infection. They would do what they could to keep him comfortable.

There was my Dad, a man who had hardly ever seen the inside of a doctor's office, going through repeated tests; poking this, prodding that, taking ''pictures'' of something else. He became used to hospitals and came to appreciate the relief they offered. Twice we thought he might not come home.

But my father's a tough man, proud in a quiet fashion and toughened by years of hard work. The doctors might shove him into a hospital bed and stick needles and tubes into him, but he never felt sorry for himself. He wouldn't complain. He was usually ready with a smile and a laugh and, before long, he was home, seemingly unchanged again. It seemed he could always fight his way back.

But we could see the change. For the first time, we began to understand our father was getting old.

A couple of months ago Dad had a heart attack. It wasn't a massive coronary and, with a pacemaker inserted in the chest, he recovered quickly and went home again. He was still fighting.

On the weekend, he had a stroke. It was mild, as strokes go, the doctors said, but it left him unable to communicate for a while. He knew what he was saying, but nobody could understand. It must have been terrifying. By Monday his speech was coming back—a good sign, they said, but we were all left wondering what would come next. We knew we had been close to losing him.

I was an adult before I learned to appreciate my father. He never stood out in a crowd. He was a simple man, a factory worker, who struggled to raise a family on a meagre income. He wasn't the ''success'' the fathers of some of my friends seemed to be. He was no leader and made no claims to prominence in the community.

But with maturity I came to realize my father was a better man than many; a big man by any worthwhile measure. He worked for 51 years at the same job, taking whatever overtime he could, and went on to scrub floors at the post office and wash windows for others in order to bring home some more money. I've never had to work like my father did. I don't know if I could.

He was always a considerate man. I can't remember him ever criticizing someone else

Your Momma

LOOK OUT
Dann Rogers

You can disdain or scoff at every bourgeoise convention except for the one coming up this Sunday. Perhaps daughters have a different view of Mothers' Day, but every son born of the womb should prefer death to not letting his mommy know how much he loves her.

Feminists of course will denounce this affection as an instrusion on their love lives and Sigmund Freud got great mileage out of it for his Oedipus Complex theories.

This fast-paced, nuclear-powered world of ours just doesn't allow us to savor and appreciate all the wonderful things around us on a regular basis, so, thankfully, May 10 was enshrined as the day to pay hommage to Mom.

Nearly 75 years ago, the tireless efforts of one woman, Anna Jarvis, led to the official recognition of the unsung efforts of mothers everywhere.

Prior to that, a day for honoring mothers, known as ''Mothering Sunday,'' was observed in Victorian England. Falling in mid-Lent, this day was dedicated to worship Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ. During this time, children working as domestics were allowed to return to their families and visit their mother.

In North America, Julia Ward Howe made the first known suggestion for a Mother's Day in 1872. She suggested people observe a Mother's Day on June 2 as a day dedicated to peace.

But it wasn't until 1907, that Ms. Jarvis of West Virginia launched a widespread campaign for Mother's Day that eventually achieved national recognition and support.

Prior to her death, Anna's mother campaigned for a day honoring mothers to help bind a nation still bitterly divided after the American Civil War. Anna took on this labor of love in her mother's memory.

In the following years, Anna lobbied politicians, civic leaders and writers for support. Mark Twain got the bug and wrote, ''I do not know how many more anniversaries of Mother's Day I will see, but on those that I have remaining I will wear a white flower, the emblem of purity and my mother's love.''

Anna quit her job and memorializing mother became her life. In December, 1912, she incorporated herself as the Mother's Day International Association.

On May 10, 1913 the U.S. House of Representatives unanimously passed a resolution to make the observance of Mother's Day official. The president and all other officials of the federal government were required to wear a white carnation (Anna's mother's favorite flower) on the second Sunday in May in observance of Mother's Day.

Sex symbols

THAT'S LIFE
Lesley Cadham

Does Don Johnson turn you on? Does Mikhail Barishnikov make you wish you were Jessica Lange? Did you feel the need for a cold shower after watching Tom Cruise dance around the living room in his briefs?

An American magazine recently published an article featuring ten men the author believed were the world's sexiest bachelors. Among the chosen, in addition to the aforementioned, were Moonlighting's Bruce Willis, Tom Hanks of One Red Shoe, I'll Take Manhattan's Perry King, Corbin Bernsen of L.A. Law, Platoon's Charlie Sheen, singer Jon Bon Jovi and sports star Michael Jordan.

In my opinion, the author neglected to mention some very interesting men. Matt Dillon, who co-starred with Gene Hackman in Target, for instance. Tom Selleck, for another. And what about Rob Lowe, Andrew McCarthy and Mark Harmon?

My rhetorical question is: those men are the sexiest to whom?

I don't find Don Johnson attractive at all. Besides, my fingers would get caught in all that styling mousse. But women all over the world have fallen in love with this guy, or rather, and most importantly, they have fallen for the image he has created as a cop on Miami Vice. He's just too smooth. And, though his wardrobe is covetable, I doubt the real Miami vice officers wear white pants and jackets on the job. Postscript: Did you know the real vice squad operates for one year on the same amount of money spent to make one episode of Miami Vice?

Co-star Philip Michael Thomas, in my opinion, is twice as good looking but gets half the attention.

But Johnson was a shoo-in for mention in the article; I guess he's the hottest thing since John Travolta and, before that, Elvis Presley.

Last summer, I heard a youth asking his mom to take him shopping for the ''Don Johnson look.'' The other day, when I emerged from my office wearing a cotton blazer with severely padded shoulders, my visitor complimented me on my . . . well, I don't have to repeat myself.

I don't want to look like Johnson. Particularly being of the female gender. It would be unfortunate enough to be a man and be equated with this male sex symbol.

Incidentally, I've thrown the jacket away and, rumor has it, it was snapped up by one of the Ottawa Rough Riders who will use it for extra padding under his uniform this fall.

Sandfield Street needs sidewalk

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

The parents of Ecole Elda-Rouleau are very concerned about the safety of their children; especially those walking home at noon and at the end of the day.

When the weather is bad or for other reasons, many parents come to pick up their children. Cars are also parked on both sides. With this heavy traffic, the children have no choice but to walk partly on the street. At the end of the day nine buses head northbound on Sandfield Street and then turn on St. Paul Street. Our students are reminded every day to walk on the left hand side and cycle on the right.

But with no sidewalks plus the parked cars, where do you want them to walk, if it's not on the street?

In the past years there had been many occasions where this matter was discussed but with no result.

We, the school committee, are very concerned for the safety of our children. We hope that both municipal councils (Alexandria and Lochiel Township) concerned will be able to resolve this dangerous situation through a co-operative effort. The committee has decided to initiate a campaign to obtain action on this issue and hopes to achieve its goal with the support of the parents and residents of both municipalities.

Association not rolling in bucks

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

In the April 22 article on Apple Hill's police village status, your reporter stated, "The township recreation budget is usually between $35,000 and $40,000 annually, 20 per cent of which goes to Apple Hill."

This statement is totally incorrect.

In 1986, the four Kenyon Township recreation associations shared government grants which totalled $14,500, $8,500 from the township and $6,000 from the province. The Apple Hill recreation association actually received $3,625 in assistance , not the $8,000 implied in your article.

While last year's municipal recreation budget was approximately $40,000, government grants covered only 36 per cent. The rest was raised through the fundraising activities of scores of dedicated, hard working volunteers throughout the township.

To suggest that these groups receive over $8,000 a year in grants is both inaccurate and unfair. For now these volunteers must overcome the impression that "they're rolling in government bucks!"

On behalf of the Kenyon Municipal Recreation Committee, I would like to set the record straight and urge all residents of Kenyon to support their local recreation association.

Past foundation for peace

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

Peace is a complicated concept. Most people view peace as a state of living whereby open communication and trust can take place between the people themselves, and between the people and the government.

Another view defines peace as a state of 'no war', where the citizens of the country are muffled into obedient subjugation.

If the Canadian people and other people in the world want to continue their uphill desire to achieve the first type of peace, they must become well acquainted with the past. By doing so, they will discover that some megalomaniacs have always existed who want peace: mankind subjugatd to its will.

These megalomaniacs try to achieve this peaceful state sometimes by using violent and obvious methods; sometimes by using subversive and underhanded techniques.

It is only by knowing the past that people today can truly know what kind of peace is being offered. Having then acquired an in-depth knowledge of the past, peaceseekers can have the proper foundation from which their ideals can grow, without having the rest of mankind tumble into a mass of ensnaring traps.

Sex education no answer

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

I wish to take exception to your editorial of March 4, concerning the Aids situation. We have in recent years completely blurred the meaning between "love" and "lust."

What has caused this proliferation of sexually transmitted diseases is our desire to be sexually satisfied (lust), not a desire to truly "love" another human being. The effect this has on society is to lessen quite severely a respect for life.

Thus we are bombarded with the crimes against life such as: pornography, abortion, a revenge mentality (capital punishment) and of course a deluge of sexually transmitted diseases. The most recent one of course being AIDS.

To say that more sex education and the use of condoms is the answer is like throwing water on a grease fire. We are giving, to our young people especially, a license to be promiscuous.

What we are saying is that it is all right to use other people for our own sexual gratification as long as we are careful enough not to contract one of these dreaded diseases. All this does is make the condom manufacturers happy and try to help relieve our guilt feelings.

No, the greater sin is not having more sex education and not having ads for the proper use of condoms, it is our inability to curb our sexual appetites.

Dad, a simple man who stands tall...

and nothing upset him more than to overhear us running down a neighbor. I can't claim to have met the same standard in the years that followed.

He'd display his temper occasionally, but he almost never raised a hand to his children. I recall feeling his wrath the day I set fire to the woodshed but, even at that young age, I couldn't dispute the justification.

He never talked much about his own youth and his sports involvement, but one day he did explain why most of his fingers were bent and misshaped at the first knuckle. It was often painful catching a baseball without a mitt. During the World War I years and the early '20's, few boys had mitts. Fewer still bothered visiting the doctor for a broken finger. That wasn't "manly."

Others—uncles and a few of my father's old friends—had to describe to me the athlete of his youth. Dad was the eldest of six Rutherford brothers and all played hockey for the old Perth Blue Wings. Five played at the same time. My father played goal at first and later moved to leftwing, apparently holding his own against the best that could be thrown at him; and small town hockey was tough in those days. But if I had to depend on him to tell me, I never would have known. He wasn't known for bragging.

I know I have dragged this sentiment on far too long, already, but, you see, it's the best way I have of unloading the emotions of the moment. Dad and I were never good at communicating our feelings for each other. It always seemed embarrassing. But I know he will read this. He's always taken pride in my work and knowing that always made me feel prouder. This is my way of letting him know his children love and respect him, because of the kind of man and father he has been.

I'm hoping he'll be with us another 10 years, so my son, the youngest of his grandchildren, can get to know the man better. I'm already regretting my own missed opportunities. When my son grows to manhood, I will know I have been a good father if I stand half as tall in his eyes as my dad does in mine.

Superheroes

WORD SKETCH

Sybil Carello

I grew up during a time when young boys who-would-be-men, fashioned themselves, often with near-fatal results, after comic book and television heroes of the day.

By contrast, today's youngsters (between 9 and 12) seem to be leading a life of quietude with cerebral activities leading the way. There are exceptions, but these are a decided minority.

Back then, during those treacherous, ritualistic years, the survival of many of these cloned heroes became one of life's more puzzling mysteries.

Superheroes had been fun but a little out of their range as far as actual emulation went. Try as they might, and they did, much to everyone's alarm, they could not fly, breathe fire, crush rocks into diamonds or lift entire buildings with one hand.

Sergeant Nick Fury and his Howling Cammandos (a Marvel publication) was more accessible, epitomizing the real meaning of muscle and guts.

Fury had no super powers to speak of, but each issue saw his survival over impossible odds: land mines, grenades, artillery fire, knives, machetes, enemy-filled jungles. He could not, would not, be killed. Like the roadrunner-obsessed coyote, he was immune to disaster.

From the sidelines, we, of the opposite camp, watched with growing fascination as jack knives and sling-shots were wielded with warrior-like dexterity. B.B. guns and cap-firing pistols (out-lawed today) were part of the aresenal. Ropes were hung from trees so that Tarzan sequences could be carried out. Soapbox cars were built (often with the help of fathers) and raced at breakneck speeds.

Crude rafts were launched down creeks and lakes where fierce pirate battles broke out in a cacophony of blood curdles and shouts of mayhem.

Harmless garter snakes were rudely awakened, given the roles of giant killer pythons, and forced to take part in jungle games.

These would-be-heroes jumped and rolled, executed perfect pratfalls and lived each play session on the edge of danger. One either learned the skills, learned to be a hero, or became a familiar face in the emergency ward. But even this mishap carried its own rewards, and merited another level of awe and respec. The more stitches, the more distinction.

These were dangerous times, particularly for parents who could not stem the flow of excitement. And our warnings didn't count. In a perverse way, we were the enemy. Tagging along, which we did on occasion was always discouraged. No cry babies allowed.

Most of us were happy, if somewhat subdued in our net of safe play. Amid choruses of "Don't get dirty, hurt each other or break your toys", we'd set offf on a monotonous round of appropriate games for little girls. Co-ordinating paper cut-out clothes, riding our bikes within a designated area (hands always on the handlebars), nurturing a gaggle of ungrateful plastic dolls, or force-feeding and dressing the family pets after they had been securely lashed to play strollers, was not overly exciting, but it kept us busy.

Some of us however felt the first stirrings of uneasiness. As numerous Billy the Kids raced by on bikes, and Nick Furys planned intricate strategies for a long Saturday afternoon, a few of us began to chafe under our safety nets.

A few of us wanted to be heroes.

MAXVILLE
Gordon Winter
527-2888

Congratulations are extended to Evelyn and Gary Smith on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. A large crowd of relatives, friends and business associates turned out for a reception in the Angus Gray Hall to honor this couple on April 25. It was an indication of the high esteem in which Evelyn and Gary are held in the community.

A first occurred in the village on April 26 when the Rev. Artie and Gary Van Bruchem conducted the morning services in Maxville United and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Churches.

Mrs. Van Bruchem is the minister of the Apple Hill United Church and on this particular Sunday she exchanged pulpits with the Rev. Frank Bailey of Maxville. The Seaway Valley Presbytery of the United Church arranges this pulpit exchange once a year.

The Ban Bruchems are the first husband and wife team of ministers to live in Maxville and it was a pleasant occasion to have them preaching simultaneously in the two churches.

Helen and Donald McEwen of St. Elmo had members of their family home for visits. First came Brenda and Jim Milton and their daughters Sandra and Laura and later Marion and Lloyd Dunham with Julie and Brian visited. Both families live in Toronto.

Sympathy is extended to the Gordon Scott family in the death of his grandson, Allan Scott.

Students from two of our local schools earned honors in the recent Canada Quiz Championship Games. The quiz included knowledge of history, geography, French, English, social studies and current events. On April 22, Maxville Senior School and Tagwi Secondary School came first in the Intermediate I competition and in the Senior competition for Grades 11 to 13.

Congratulations are extended to the students, their teachers and their parents who probably played a part in the students' success in this competition.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Kitely, 4th Con. Roxborough, have returned home from California after spending three months there enjoying the summer weather and companionship with family members.

Sometimes residents of the village become a bit tired of being canvassed by boys and girls for a certain cause. Their reception would be more pleasant if they were assigned a certain street or district by their teachers. It would involve more organization but would pay off in better public relations.

His many friends in the village were shocked to learn of the death in Cornwall of Norman MacRae, after a short stay in hospital. While a resident here on Peter Street for about 20 years, Mr. MacRae was a considerate neighbor and a fine citizen. He served as councillor on the village board and was active in other organizations as well.

To his wife, Iris, daughter Lynn, and son, Lee, and their families, we extend sincere condolences.

Several from the village attended the pancake brunch in Vankleek Hill on April 26, sponsored by the cancer society. Upwards of 1,600 people enjoyed the food and hospitality extended by the society members and felt good about helping this worthy cause of raising money for the cancer lodges in Ottawa.

His many friends are pleased to have Kenny Urquhart back home after a stay in a Kingston hospital. His treatments there were successful and Kenny is feeling much better.

The next euchre will be held on Monday.

MANOR EUCHRE

Two nights later, the Maxville Manor Auxiliary started its euchre parties which will be held every second Wednesday evening at the Manor until further notice.

Edith Howes from Kirk Hill played true to form and came out the lady winner followed by Margaret Cadieux, Greenfield and Gloria Snow, Moose Creek. George Essery, Moose Creek was the top male player followed by Norman MacLeod, Dunvegan and John McMaster, Laggan.

In the Auld Lang Syne column, two weeks ago, John M. Arkinstall was recognized for his contribution to the development of Climax timothy.

For this work, the late Mr. Arkinstall was named more recently to the Agricultural Hall of Fame and his portrait hangs in the hall at the Agricultural Museum at Milton. Mrs. Arkinstall and sons Stewart and Douglas reside on the Arkinstall farms, north of Athol.

Fifty years ago, Margaret A. Morrow graduated from Kemptville Agricultural School in the Homemakers' Class. She is the sister of Howard, Clifford of Perth and Ida, Ottawa.

Also, fifty years ago, J. Domina Villeneuve sold his butcher shop to his brother, Benny who would be assisted by Domina's brother-in-law, Bill Cleary.

The butcher shop was on the southwest corner of Main and Mechanic Street West and has been long gone. Benny Villeneuve is still active and a real store-house of tales of events of years ago.

Bill Cleary was the father of Gwen Morris, a recently retired teacher from Maxville Public School.

A FIRST AT MANOR

Sue McDonald, the activities director said they were born, but Homer MacLeod, a resident who was in charge for three weeks previously correctly said they were hatched.

Thirteen chickens, of every color imaginable, made their appearance two weeks ago at the Manor, much to the delight of the residents and staff members. This was a new experience for many of them and a revival of old memories for others.

The chickens were kept at the Manor for a few days and received almost constant attention and much cuddling. They are now being reared on a nearby farm.

A certain resident by the name of Jim has been accused of starting a rumor that there was a crow's egg in the incubator. And he looked quite smug when the last chick to hatch was a jet black one. Jim will have the last laugh, if that chick begins to caw.

This is a final reminder for the Mothers' Day Tea at Maxville Manor next Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. There will also be a display of the work of local artists. All those interested in the manor and in the work of the Auxiliary are cordially invited to attend this event and to lend their support to the Auxiliary.

This coming Saturday is Charter Night for the Maxville and District Lions Club. This 23rd anniversary celebration will feature Dr. B. Esche, a cancer specialist from the Cancer Clinic of the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Following dinner, music for dancing will be supplied by Mostly Country. Everyone is invited to this popular event. Tickets are available from any Lion member or at the Home Hardware.

Two big reasons for the success of the Lions' fundraising projects are Rene and his father, Romeo Aubin. These two men are super salesmen who work hard on the 50-50 draw, the Easter bunnies sales and are always ready to sell tickets for anything that comes along. For all their help, the Maxville and District Lions Club says "thanks a million."

Neighbors seek donations for victims of Sunday fire

DUNVEGAN
Marion Loewen
527-2284

Last week I reported that we pulled the birdfeeders. Then the nasty weather came. Well, those grosbeaks were mad at us! There were four of them came and sat on the verandah railing and peered in the window at John, and told him what they thought of him for doing such a dastardly deed.

I think it's time they start living on what they can find, because in a little while they would be telling us what we can do, and what we must not do—according to the bird world. Anyway, there was still some on the ground, so they didn't starve.

Evelyn will take care of it until it is ready to go to the meeting.

MOTHER'S DAY

When I grew up it was still the time for verses and songs about 'Mother.' Songs like Mother, the Queen of my Heart, and That Silver-haired Sweetheart of Mine, and then there was the one Rocking Alone in an old Rocking Chair. By the way, I've forgotten the words to that one, so if anyone knows the words, I'd be eternally grateful to have them. Then there was the verse I learned in school about the old lady who was afraid to cross the street, until a boy out of the crowd coming from school stopped to take her across.

Does anyone remember "She's Somebody's Mother"? He told his chums, "She's somebody's mother, boys, you know, For all she's aged and poor and slow, And I hope some fellow will lend a hand to help my mother, you understand, if ever she's poor and old and grey, when her own dear boy is far away." It is moralizing, and I know we are told that that is passé, but I think there should be a little more of it today. Happy Mother's Day!

MARTINTOWN

Congratulations to Johnny Mac's Tavern on its fifth anniversary. The hotel has seen a lot of change in the last half-decade, what with a name change and restoration. John and his staff can be proud of their accomplishments. Keep up the good work gang!

From congratulations to a business celebrating a fifth anniversary in Martintown, I say welcome to a new business. My good friends Johnny and Elaine Flaro have started a new business herein known as J. Flaro Bulldozing. So for all your bulldozing needs, give our good friend Johnn Ben a call.

A big thank you to the six people who showed up for the work bee held last Saturday at the Martintown Community Centre. Thanks to Anita and James Goudie, Murray Hamilton, John McKim, Don Ross and yours truly. Despite the disappointing turnout, we managed to complete a fair amount of work. Hopefully next time we request assistance we will receive a better response!

Tonight is the Mother's Day Turkey Bingo at the community centre. Hopefully we will have as good a response to this as we did at our ham bingo. Don't forget our regular bingos at the community centre on the first and third Wednesday of every month.

Speaking of Mother's Day, which is Sunday, I would like to tip my hat to all the mothers in the world and especially my mother Hazel MacDonald and my mother-in-law, Karen Pedersen.

And last but not least, my wife and the mother in our household, Lisa. I don't know what Cole and I would do without this beautiful person who looks after us. Thanks mom! Every day should be Mother's Day.

GRASS FIRE

The Martintown Fire Department would like to remind all residents that "every spring brings a number of grass fires, most of which are intentionally set. Grass fires often get out of control and create large property losses and fire protection cost at your tax dollar expense.

Someone found liable of starting a grass fire that requires fire protection may be charged and assessed costs.

Last Sunday night was a sad one for we Maple Leaf fans. For a team that wasn't even supposed to make the playoffs, they did pretty well. True blue Leaf fans like John Delaney, Jackie MacDonell, Don Ross and myself can be proud of our team and take comfort in the fact that they are all still young. The strange thing I noticed is there hasn't been as many people laughing at my Leaf sweater lately as there was back in December! Just wait until next year.

Congratulations to Denise Dorie, daughter of Lionel and Marcella Dorie, who took first place in both the senior typing class and the open senior electronic class recently. There were four schools participating. Denise is a student of Glengarry District High School.

There was a lot of excitement recently concerning hockey. Paul Hehn and Joel Menard were chosen most improved players of the Novice travelling team. Karl had a tryout in Athens for the Triple A and was accepted.

There will be a tournament coming up soon in Athens. Also making the team were Martin Boisvenue and Julien Oetelaar.

I suppose everyone living on gravel roads have the same complaint. Dust as thick as hair on a dog's back is not an exaggeration. It sure would be nice if our crew could eliminate it as well as they do the snow. A little dampening-down would lower the dust and raise our spirits fellows!

Happy belated anniversary to Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Quesnel who reached their 26th.

Auction goer lands chocolate cookies for $7

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-2279

How nice you all are to me! Here I am, week after week, probably dishing out all sorts of errors and omissions in this column, and yet I never seem to hear a complaint from any of you. I have for instance, just learned that the ''do'' last week at St. Andrew's in which I described the after supper auctioning of ''leftovers,'' was in fact a pioneer supper reminiscent of those of Williamstown's founders, and the auction afterwards was of boxes of ''foodstuffs'' which were disguised by wrappings and trappings and were offered to the highest bidder in the manner of the old box lunches.

I'm told that the fun of the evening came when the boxes were unwrapped and the unsuspecting purchaser found that he had spent $7 buying half a dozen chocolate chip cookies or some equally extravagant item. Best deal of the night was reported to be serveral pounds of perch fillets which went for a song because of their insignificant wrappings. Just goes to show: you can't judge a correspondent by her raincoat!

I wasn't trying to be unfriendly or anything last week, but for some reason the Friendly Neighbor Club's news got left behind. So here it is now, and though it is a trifle ''mature,'' perhaps, it may be that those of you who are mentioned in it will see your names with pleasurable surprise, having forgotten all about the event described below.

At its April Birthday party, Edith Major, Stella Lapierre, Viola Pilon, Rene Geneau, Delia Lafrance, Lillian Rabin, and Ed O'Brien were honored by members of the Friendly Neighbor Club. Isobel Quail was the birthday cake baker.

Prizes were in abundance and lucky members receiving them included ladies' euchre winners Marie Menard and Eleanor Gibson and gents Emery Brodeur and John King. Even the skunks got in on the givings—Eleanor Gibson and Martin Van Sleeuwen.

Germaine White, Florence St. Onge, Emery Brodeur and Viola Lauzon all won door prizes, while lucky Beatrice Labelle cornered two 50-50 draws. Angus McDonell, Emma Gagnon, Edith Abrams and Stella Lapierre also won for the 50-50. Marie Menard and Maurice Chretien were lone hand winners.

A little more recently, (some of the sharper among you may actually have a few flashbacks of this event) was the Friendly Neighbor's Open Euchre.

Winners here were Ann Lalonde, Emma Gagnon, Germaine Whie, Norman MacLeod, Louis Thomas and Henry Struthers. Skunks went to Alda Major and Roger Pilon.

Is she Irish? Beatrice Labelle, I mean. Once again she won twice in the 50-50! Emma Gagnon, Eva Collette, Germaine White and Edith Major also were lucky. Door prizes went to Marie Seguin and Hector Leblanc.

And now we come to an event recent enough that everyone will be able to remember, the club's pot luck lunch held Thursday. There were 42 members and guests attending. Rev. Clifford Evans asked the blessing.

Once again there were prizes. Eleanor Gibson won the special draw for some beautiful flowers, while Mary Rose Pilon, Alice Portant, Florida Legroulx, and Henry Struthers won door prizes.

GREEN THUMBS

Another club which has been maligned recently in this column is the Green Thumb Horticultural Society whose report on the lilac meeting was pruned to the core through no fault but my own verbosity. In order that such a drastic thing does not happen this month, I'll be short and sweet as I tell you that at their Monday meeting held at St. Mary's Hall, Green Thumb members heard all about roses.

Jack Dikland, who is the head gardener at Upper Canada Village Gardens, and an expert with some 35 years of experience, told those present about the different classes of roses and which varieties to purchase to withstand our area's weather. He also gave advice on the planting of roses and gave demonstrations on how to prune them.

I don't know if the ''Rose of Sharon'' will be amongst them, but an interesting display of quilts will greet visitors to the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum when it re-opens for the season on May 16. The exhibit of quilts is from the Ottawa Valley Quilters' Guild and will be in Williamstown until the 24 of June.

New curator at the museum this year is Deborah Emerton, known to most of us locally as the Bethune-Thompson House lady. She is succeeding Janis Pasco who will be entering the full-time labour force upon her graduation from Queen's. Debbie welcomes all of you to see the exhibit and all the museum pieces you might have missed on previous visits. If asked to recount the museum's contents from memory, how many could you get?

Opening hours for the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum are Sunday to Friday, 1:30 to 5:30 and Saturdays and holidays, 10:30 to 5:30.

If he had lived in Loyalist times, I'm sure Bruno Major would have been in big demand as a voyageur. Once again Bruno has claimed awards for his canoeing.

This time the race was on the Upper Jock River in Goulbourn Township, and Bruno and partner Maurice Sauvé led the pack in the men's open class. Gary Atchison and Dave Thompson were fifth in the same class.

After the pairs race came a solo race over the same 10 km stretch, and Bruno captured first a little ahead of partner Maurice. Gary placed fourth and Dave was sixth. All in all an excellent showing for our 1987 paddlers.

I'm told that this canoe fever can drag a man into delirium so addictive is it. Apparently there was one entrant in the Upper Jock Race who took to his craft with his leg broken, his cast protected by all sorts of plastic swathings and other things. Hope he had a handicap!

Speaking of awards, the Char-Lan Minor Hockey presentations went off well last Friday. Association members cooked some 800 hot dogs for players and their families and plaudits must be given to all those male chefs whose performances rivalled McDonalds' employees of the month's.

Rebels awards night will be held this Saturday at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 a.m., with the presentations beginning about 9:30. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Saturday afternoon, though, you will no doubt want to take in the Spring Tea and Bake Sale which will be held at St. Mary's Hall from 2 to 4 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Ladies Guild of St. Mary's, which has a long history of excellence in this particular field. You are all most warmly welcome to attend.

Believe it or not, sometimes I actually read other newspapers. It was while taking one such devious glance last week that I chanced to see the pictures of two local ladies who are among the best when it comes to the fine art of coloring pictures of giant Easter eggs. Congratulations to Caroline Blacker and Nina Craig who were prizewinners in the recent contest sponsored by Cornwall's Brookdale Mall.

If you happened to miss the soccer registration at the hockey awards night on Friday, you can still sign up your sons and daughters this Saturday at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. The fees are $10 per child or $18 per family. Penalty for late registration will see you paying $18 per child and $28 per family. Silly way to waste your money, now isn't it?

Ten young people from the area were confirmed as membes of St. Andrew's United Church during the Easter Sunday service. They were: Wendy Woollven, Becky MacNaughton, Heather Swerdfeger, Marsha King-Rochon, Adam Kubelka, Christina Rogers, Sandra Stewart, Judy Moore, Ian Page and Shane McDonell.

EDUCATION WEEK

Williamstown Public School celebrated Education Week with a wide array of special activities. Students jumped-rope-for-heart, met Maxville Seniors for the basketball championships, listened to story-telling by Daphne Howells of the Cornwall Public Library, listened to a piano recital given by Miss Major and Mrs. Wheeler, and to the neighboring Char-Lan band which performed at the assembly.

Highlight of the week was the school's open house which drew a large crowd on Wednesday night. Parents and friends meandered through the classrooms and on to the gym to view the ingenious science projects wrought by every student in Grades 6 to 8.

Winner of the best project over-all was Becky MacNaughton of Grade 7, who made a study of that most fascinating of refrigerator specimens—mould. Becky received a plaque for her efforts.

Lisa Sloan with the ''Acid Rain Story'' was first in Grade 8, winning a medal. Second with ''Fruits of the Fields'' were Johanna Harrington and Andrea Johann, while Catherine Hodgins study of mirrors won her third place.

Second place in Grade 7 went to two projects: Laurie Legault's ''Cotton'' and Adam Guest and partner Jeff Robertson's ''Popcorn.'' Innes Fraser and David McDonald were third with a study of herbs.

From Grade 6, Robbie Prevost's project about solar heating was awarded the first place medal. Eric Kubelka was second with a look at ''color.'' Third went to Norman Lauzon whose project was about the Commodore 64.

Students from Williamstown Public who are performing in the Kinsman Music Festival later this month had a sort of dry run as they sang their festival songs for the open house crowd.

From all reports it was a successful night.

400 attend concerts at Laggan Public School

LAGGAN — It may not have been the National Arts Centre or Place des Arts, but the students of Laggan Public School felt they had hit the big time last week when they performed before two capacity audiences.

Tuesday night pupils from Pre-Kindergarten through Grade 4 performed in dramatic skits, music and song. The older students in Grades 5 through 8 staged a similar performance Thursday night. All of it was under the direction of Dave Irwin, Grade 3-4 teacher, who heads the school's music and drama program. Mr. Irwin previously served as music consultant with the SD&G County Board of Education.

Many of the parents and friends in attendance said they were impressed with the students' ability to perform in French, as well as English.

Numerous props and backdrops were also used, prepared by senior students under the direction of school volunteer Irene Booth.

All of the students were involved and impressed the large audiences with their performances. They all seemed to enjoy their roles.

As always, one or two emerged from the crowd as "stars." The top performances on Tuesday came from Mathew Steiche and Flora Ann Fraser in Jonah-Man Jazz. The star of Thursday's show had to be Steven Robinson, who filled his lead role in "Trail '98" to near flawless perfection.

The roles were as varied as the children who filled them, including space astronauts, white rabbits, cheese pies, little pigs, a bad wolf, a hungry cat, Jonah, a king and his royal family and more.

The audience was drawn into the performance, with Mr. Irwin leading the crowd in song and exercise.

Entitled "Spring into Education," the two public performances highlighted Education Week at Laggan Public School.

Pipe-Major John T. MacKenzie honored in Toronto for years of dedication and service to Glengarry-Stormont youth

by Jack Hutton

Once he was personal piper to the Royal Household, a favorite of King George VI and his young daughters.

On April 25—thousands of miles from Buckingham Palace—Pipe-Major John T. MacKenzie was honored at a Toronto ceremony for sharing the art of piping with hundreds of young people in Eastern Ontario.

The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation awarded its annual Lamp of Learning—the highest honor it can pay to a non-teacher—to Pipe-Major MacKenzie who has become a legend since retiring in SD&G.

Pipe-Major MacKenzie, who served as personal piper to both King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, began teaching piping to local public high school students after he retired to Maxville in 1971. The results so impressed the Ontario Ministry of Education that in 1976 it made piping an Ontario credit course.

Mr. MacKenzie, known literally across the continent as "J.T.," is also credited with sparking more interest in the area's Scottish heritage.

The nomination for Mr. MacKenzie was accompanied by a flood of supporting letters, including one from SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve.

"The Lamp of Learning honors individuals who have made young people a priority in a distinguished way, and no one fits that description bettern than Pipe-Major MacKenzie," said Rod Albert, president of the 35,000-member OSSTF. "He is living proof that one individual can have a far-reaching influence upon an entire community."

Mr. MacKenzie, who began playing the pipes as an eight-year-old in Scotland, was a member of the Scots Guard Pipe Band which led the British Eighth Army on a victory march through Tripoli and and Tunis. Following the war, he transferred to the RCAF and commanded the Rockcliffe Pipe Band in Ottawa. In 1971, he retired and moved to Maxville where his influence was swiftly felt as a piper, a teacher and a friend to scores of young people who sought out his talents.

Elaine Kennedy, president of OSSTF's District 21, wrote to the Lamp of Learning judges: "Pipe-Major MacKenzie's talent, diligence, patience, example, sense of humor and intuition in seeing the best in young people have enabled him to bring about astounding changes in the rural life of Glengarry and Stormont counties in particular." In particular, she added, Mr. MacKenzie shares the same goal as the classroom teacher: "To bring adolescents to the knowledge of their potential and to help them grasp it."

Doug Hill, an English teacher at Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School, and producer of the annual Glengarry Show, noted that the arrival of Pipe-Major MacKenzie in Maxville put the small village onto a world stage.

"Pipe-Major John Thomas MacKenzie is a world-class man," he wrote. "In the whole world there are perhaps five holders of the rank of pipe-major, as distinguished from those who are called Pipe-Majors because they lead a pipe band. For him to reside in the little village of Maxville and take on the task of developing Scottish piping for the high school students of the area is equivalent to Stephen Spielberg's becoming manager of the local cablevision company or Margaret Atwood moving in to become the local writing teacher."

Walter Stewart, president of the Glengarry Pipe Band Association, described Pipe-Major MacKenzie as "the driving force behind the Glengarry Pipe Band and the Glengarry School of Piping for the past 20 years."

Other nominators included the Glengarry Highland Games, Gerald A. Walsh, Cornwall's commissioner of development, the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education, the Glengarry Historical Society. the Glengarry Club of Ottawa, the MacCulloch School of Dancing, Maxville Manor, the Picnic Grove Women's Institute, the school committee of Glengarry District High School and several former colleagues or students.

THANK YOU J.T. – Pipe-Major John T. MacKenzie of Maxville, centre, received the 1987 Lamp of Learning from the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation April 25 – the highest honor the Federation can pay a non-teacher. At the Toronto ceremony were, left to right, David Moss, a Cornwall teacher and Provincial Councillor for OSSTF's District 21; Mr. MacKenzie's daughter, Janice MacLennan; Pipe-Major MacKenzie; OSSTF President Rod Albert; and Joe Gunn, chairman of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Board of Education.

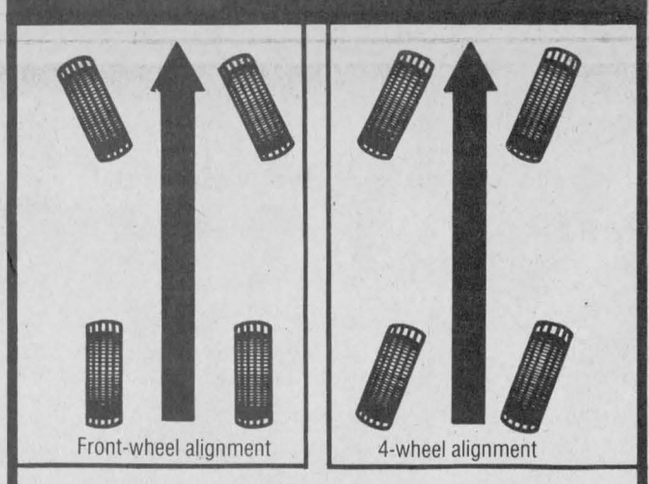
Straight answers on Wheel Alignment

Does your car need a 4-wheel alignment?



Ask yourself these questions...

Yes No

- Does your car have front-wheel drive?
- Does it have independent rear-wheel suspension?
- Is it a 1980 model year or later?
- Does the steering wheel seem to be on an angle, even after a front-wheel alignment?
- Does the car feel like it's traveling at an angle while all four wheels are going straight?
- Are the rear tires wearing unevenly?
- Does the car pull to one side?
- Is provision for rear-wheel alignment mentioned in your owner's manual?

If you checked yes to any one of the questions above, chances are all four wheels should be checked for misalignment. See us today!

You're likely familiar with the need for front-wheel alignment. But you may not realize that many cars need rear-wheel alignment, too. If you have a front-wheel drive vehicle or a car with independent rear-wheel suspension, it may need a rear-wheel alignment. Let us explain.

The front wheels steer your vehicle. But the thrust, or direction of travel for the vehicle, is determined by the rear axle. This is true even for front-wheel drive models. Therefore, if the rear axle is aligned correctly, the thrust line will match the centre line exactly (see arrows in above illustrations).

After a 4-wheel alignment, all four wheels on your car will be parallel. Handling performance will be improved and tire tread wear will be decreased.

Seniors apartments to be built in Alexandria

Alexandria Town Council has agreed in principle to the rezoning of land to accommodate senior citizens' apartments and general occupancy condominiums, April 21.

Former Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Denis Ethier, who owns 32 acres of land in northeastern Alexandria with sons Marc and Carl, attended the meeting to discuss the designation of land, currently zoned Residential Holding. Consultant Larry Cotton of the Winchester firm of Larry Cotton and Associates accompanied Mr. Ethier.

Council spent more than half an hour discussing the zoning of a small piece of property for "luxury condominiums."

Councillor Archie McDougall wanted the term defined, but when a definition was not forthcoming, councillors proceeded to consider the words "apartments" or "townhouses." They finally settled on "multiple residential units."

Another small piece of land is expected to be zoned R-4 with a special designation. It would only be used for the construction of senior citizens' apartments. If it is not, the zoning will be R-1, to accommodate single-family dwellings.

Council is expected to vote on these issues at its May 12 meeting. Constructon may begin as early as next spring.

Named top driver

For the second time in three years, Green Valley's Jean Robert Bourbonnais has been named driver-of-the-year in the Ottawa Valley Drag Racing Association.

Bourbonnais received the Jim Tanner Memorial Cup Award over the weekend for the past winter's snowmobile drag racing campaign throughout Ontario and Quebec.

Bourbonnais drove a 340 snowmobile in the super modified class, competing in the light and heavyweight categories. The lightweight category is made up of machines with a minimum weight of 220 pounds, while the heavyweight category consists of machines with a minimum weight of 320 pounds.

He also competed in the light and heavyweight categories in the 440 super modified class with his smaller 340 model.

Competing in the Ottawa Valley Drag Racing Association, he finished first overall in the 340 heavyweight class and second in the lightweight class the past season.

In the 440 class, he finished second in the heavyweight and third in the lightweight classes.

Bourbonnais also competed in the Quebec Regional Championships in February, in St. Jerome. While representing the Ottawa Valley Drag Racing Association, he swept first-place titles in the 340 and 440 classes. In the open class with all models parcitipating, he placed third overall.

Competing at the Kawartha Cup in the World Series in Peterborough last January, he placed fourth in the heavyweight and a close second in the lightweight categories.

MARC LALONDE

Former health minister says much needed in Ontario health promotion

CORNWALL — Honorable Marc Lalonde, speaking at a blue ribbon health promotion conference in Cornwall on Friday, organized by the Eastern Ontario Public Health Unit stated that the challenge of health promotion has never been more attractive.

It involves the individual as well as the whole political process, and is one which local and regional communities can do most to define and deal with.

However, the former minister of national health and welfare and author of A New Perspective on the Health of Canadian (1974), a landmark document in the development of health care in Canada and abroad, made six points of warning regarding future developments in the field:

*Health promotion is not a substitute for good health care and government should not use it as cost-control mechanism;

*It is still, unfortunately, a poor cousin in the health promotion family;

*There is a danger of a unilateral approach with almost total emphasis on lifestyle and almost nothing else;

*We need vigorous and coordinated action on many fronts;

*Our objective in health promotion must be realistic and should account for such factors as the slow pace of change within bureaucracies and the long lead time required for changes to be made in the environment;

*Because of these time factors it is important to have definite targets with carefully developed time tables and action plans.

Students must start summer job search

TORONTO—Summer jobs help shape the future career choices, said Ontario Progressive Conservative Leader Larry Grossman last week.

''Industry, business and all levels of government have numerous opportunites for students who will reach out and take advantage of what's offered,'' he says.

''Early spring is the time to find out wwhat programs are available, and to get your applications in,'' he advises Ontario's young people.

Mr. Grossman, who as treasurer, appointed Ken Dryden special commissioner to examine youth employment, spoke at a forum on job hunting held at a secondary school in his riding. Here are some of the job hunting tips for students discussed at the forum:

*Before you fill in applications decide what you want. Everyone has something to offer;

*Ask your friends and family for ideas on where to look for work;

*Visit Canada Employment Centres, and the Canada Employment Centres for Students that are opened during the spring and summer to help young people find work. These centres provide both long and short-term jobs, and access to job programs provided by both the Government of Canada and the province. Centres list jobs on bulletin boards. Job counsellors are on hand to provide advice and encouragement;

*The Government of Canada also provides opportunites under Career Oriented Summer Employment Program, Summer Employment Experience Development, Work Orientation Workshops, the special constable program, and the National Defence cadet and reserve program;

*Find out abut Ontario's three summer employment programs—Experience '87, Student Venture Capital and the Ontario Summer Employment Program. Two of these programs provide a unique approach to summer jobs.

Committee bottling spirit

LANCASTER — The Village of Lancaster has arranged to have a cheery little centennial momento sold in the local liquor store.

It's a bottle of Brights white table wine, but the label features Lancaster's crest. Reeve Milton MacDonald says the centennial committee deserves the credit and the wine will probably be featured at centennial events throughout the year.

It's only available at the Lancaster liquor store.

Reverend John Bethune arrived in Glengarry County 200 years ago

by Mabel MacLean

WILLIAMSTOWN — Two centuries ago, on May 6, 1787, the Reverend John Bethune arrived in Glengarry from Montreal. He was the only Church of Scotland minister in the newly-settled Loyalist townships on the north side of the St. Lawrence River.

He ministered to Presbyterians in the area and as far west as Elizabethtown, east to Coteau, north to the Ottawa River and South into Dundee, Fort Covington, for 28 years.

Rev. Bethune was born on the Isle of Skye in 1751, son of Angus Bethune of Colbost and Christena Campbell, into a family which had produced four consecutive generations of surgeons beginning with his great great grandfather whom a Mackenzie family tree names as Farquhar Bethune, physician to the McLeod of Skye.

He graduated from King's College, Aberdeen, with an M.A. degree. No record of his ordination as a Presbyterian minister can be found; but it is stated that he was a licentiate of the Church of Scotland when he left Skye in 1772 or '73 with his parents for North Carolina.

As there is no mention of his father in America, it is presumed that he died on shipboard en route. His mother remained in North Carolina until her death in 1783.

At the beginning of the American Revolution the Rev. Bethune joined the loyalist army as Chaplain to a regiment composed of former officers and men of Scottish regiments who had settled in the English colonies in America. He was taken prisoner at the Battle of Moore's Creek in 1776.

After some time in prison where he endured many hardships he was exchanged, made his way to Nova Scotia, then to Montreal; then served as Chaplain to the Royal Highland Emigrants (the 84th Regiment) until the end of the war.

In 1782, he was married to Veronique Wadden whose father, John Etienne Wadden, a Swiss gentleman and one of the partners in the first North West Company formed in 1779, was murdered "in the Indian Country."

The year 1783 saw his regiment on garrison duty at Carleton Island, near Kingston, where his first son was born. After the end of the war he lived at Montreal where he attended church services held jointly by the Anglicans and Presbyterians in a chapel loaned to them by the Recollett Fathers.

He organized the Church of Scotland members into a separate congregation which held its first service on March 12, 1786. This congregation was the beginning of Saint Gabriel Street Church.

In May of the next year, the Rev. Bethune left Montreal after receiving a grant of Lots 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17, 3rd Concession Front or from the Lake, Royal Township No. 1; then part of the Province of Quebec. The United Empire Loyalist settlers in the area were, for the most part, Scottish Presbyterians who had asked Governor Haldimand to be settled according to religion after they left barracks in Montreal and district in June of 1784 where they had been billeted over the winter.

They were disbanded members of the 1st Battalion, King's Royal Regiment, New York. Many of them had been tenants on Sir William Johnson's lands in the Mohawk Valley in the English colony of New York before the revolution, having emigrated to America in 1772-74. The Rev. Bethune, on half pay as a retired Chaplain and with an annual grant of 50 pounds from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, and whatever the settlers could give to his stipend—often in the form of produce from their farms settled among them until his death.

Early historians assert that the Rev. Bethune lived "on the Front," meaning the 1st Concession Front, until 1804 when he moved to Williamstown. The terms of a Loyalist grant for land were ". . . having taken the oaths, and made and signed the declaration required by the instructions, he is hereby authorized to settle and improve the said Lot without delay; and being settled thereon, he shall receive a Patent, Grant or Deed of Concession, at the expiration of twelve months from the date hereof to enable him to hold an inheritable or assignable estate in the said Lot."

Lots 13-17 received a patent in January 1805—Crown to Rev. John Bethune—were willed by him to his wife who sold them in 1828 to their son Donald Bethune; so it is evident that he fulfilled the terms of the agreement and settle on one of these lots where he would be close to Williamstown, his headquarters.

Over the years, "3rd Concession" has apparently been omitted; and so the place of his residence became "on the Front." There is no record of his owning land in the 1st Concession. If he had lived there, the church at "the Front of Charlottenburgh;" would, logically, have become his main church. Adding to the confusion could be the fact that Angus Bethune, a disbanded K.R.R.N.Y. member who had lived in Duane's Bush, N.Y. received part of Lot 19, 1st Concession Front as his U.E.L. grant.

With a minister now among them, and a start having been made on clearing their land, the settlers turned their attention to church building. Churches were built at Williamstown, Lancaster and Cornwall in 1787, where 200th Anniversary services are being held this year. While a Presbyterian congregation (which did not separate from Williamstown until 1877) probably existed at "the Front of Charlottenburgh;" their deed for an acre of land for a church and burying ground was not registered until 1804

This, plus the absence of records until 1877, makes it impossible to state when the first church was built at Summerstown. However, going on the theology that "a church is people," they, too are celebrating a 200th anniversary.

The Presbyterians at Martintown did not have a church there until 1811 when the Rev. Bethune entered into an agreement to purchase the building earlier erected by the Congregational Church. Burial records, show they were, however, part of the congregation at Williamstown from 1787.

In 1804 the Rev. Bethune purchased the West half of Lot 50 from Peter Ferguson and moved to Williamstown. This house, still standing and known as the Bethune-Thompson house, is at present being restored by the Ontario Heritage Foundation. After the death of the Rev. Bethune, his widow sold the house to David Thompson, the explorer.

The Rev. Bethune travelled by foot, canoe, horseback, steamboat; baptizing, marrying and burying thousands of people. After the Canada Act of 1793 restricted the right to solemnize marriages of Protestants to Church of England clergy he could not perform that rite for several years.

He was accused by Lt. Gov. Simcoe of being the author of a petition to repeal the Act. The governor later retracted in part his remarks and the Act was repealed; so, once again, the children and grandchildren of his old friends were married by him. During his lifetime, he had only one Kirk Session, at Williamstown, with Elders on the Board from the affiliated churches. This meant that Communion Services were held only at St. Andrew's.

The good relations which always existed between the Rev. Bethune and the Roman Catholic priests at St. Andrew's West, St. Regis and St. Raphael's are legendary. They often substituted for each other at christenings, weddings and funerals if one or the other were not available. Their parishioners helped each other at building "bees" for their churches. During the War of 1812-15 it is reported that Rev. Bethune and Father Alexander MacDonell of St. Raphael's, led the army across the frozen St. Lawrence River to attack Ogdensburg, N.Y.

The Rev. and Mrs. Bethune raised a family of six sons and three daughters. Mrs. Bethune died at Montreal in 1846; the Rev. John at Williamstown on September 23, 1815.

OMB approves Green Valley triplex

by Joanne Stevenson

NORTH LANCASTER — The Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) has given Helene Beriault the go-ahead to construct a triplex on Lancaster Street in Green Valley. The judges at the OMB hearing, held Thursday at Lancaster Township municipal hall, dismissed the appeal of the two objectors, Ambrose MacDonell and Leo Seguin.

A bylaw creating a site-specific exception will allow construction of a multi-residential building of a maximum three units of a minimum 700 square feet each.

In dismissing the appeal, the judges noted they were satisfied sufficient controls were in place to monitor the size of the proposed triplex.

In order to obtain the necessary permits, Mrs. Beriault must comply with health and building regulations.

THE OBJECTIONS

The objectors, who were not represented by legal counsel, were asked to detail their objections.

Mr. MacDonell worried the triplex would lower the market value of surrounding homes. He noted Lancaster Street contained single family dwellings and feared the construction of a new triplex could lead to similar structures on the street, eliminating the single family nature of the neighborhood.

An increase in traffic and noise may occur, he added. He said the quality of Green Valley wells and septic tanks are already a matter of concern and a multi-unit building may create more problems.

Lawyer Paul Syrduk, representing Mrs. Beriault, asked Mr. MacDonell if he had solicited any expert real estate advice or spoken with the engineers of the Green Valley sewer project to substantiate his claims.

"No," he replied.

Judge Colin Charron then interjected, "This concern you have about lower retail value is just a gut feeling?"

"Yes," Mr. MacDonell said.

Leo Seguin repeated some of Mr. MacDonell's objections and explained he had circulated a petition signed by 25 Green Valley residents. Mr. Syrduk noted two people had later withdrawn their objections.

The petition objected to the triplex being zoned, "general, resdidential" and expressed the fear construction of the building might lead to similar rezonings to multi-residential units once the sewer system had been completed.

Judge Charron pointed out to Mr. Seguin a similar public notification process would be required before any property was re-zoned.

Mr. Syrduk asked Mr. Seguin if he realized all the single family units are already zoned "general residential?"

No, he had not, he said.

Thus the wording in the petition is rather redundant, said Mr. Syrduk.

Hubert Carriere, who lives next to the Seguin property, said he liked the displayed sketch of the proposed triplex, which resembles a large single family split level.

His concerns centred around the possibility of over-crowding. would the triplex cause a parking problem on Lancaster Street? Was provision made for additional bicycles, barbeques and other everyday accessories owned by three families living in one building?

Planner Daphne Wrestham explained there was ample room on the half acre lot to accomodate the driveway and still conform to the yard requirements of the township's bylaw.

Mr. Carriere remained sceptical about fitting wells, an existing storage shed, an existing driveway, the required septic system, parking for six cars and the building all on the one lot.

Mrs. Wreatham assured him Mrs. Beriault's plans must conform to government standards before the necessary permits can be issued.

EXPLANATION

Mrs. Beriault explained the triplex would only take up 1,400 square feet with half of the house containing two levels. The building would consist of two units with two bedrooms and one unit with one bedroom.

REACTION

Reaction to the board's decision to grant Mrs. Beriault the special exemption did not meet with much opposition from the objectors.

Mr. MacDonell was satisfied their concerns had been addressed and sufficient explanations offered.

"I understand more now. We didn't have any design. I'm pleased with what she intends to do," he said.

He criticized township council, saying it could have provided more information or shown more concern about the objections.

"None of them live in Green Valley. They don't understand our worries about a triplex because they are used to plenty of open space. You don't worry about parking if you live on 400 acres," he said.

Nonetheless, he congratulated Mrs. Beriault and hoped the situation would not cause any hard feelings.

Leo Seguin echoed his comments.

"If she builds what she promises, it should be okay," he said.

"We proved our point. She has to keep it reasonable. She has to go by the standards to get the proper permits."

Mrs. Beriault stated she was "very pleased" at the outcome and, while plans are not definite, she expects construction to start early in the fall.

She added the three units will be small and doubts large families would rent the facilities and cause problems for the neighbors.

Mrs. Beriault, who now lives north of Alexandria, admits she regrets that some neighbors had remained unconvinced after she had spoken with them and displayed a picture of the proposed building.

Perhaps, she noted, a little more communication and information could have avoided lawyer's fees and the need for the OMB hearing.

ASSE seeking host families

ASSE International Student Exchange Programs (ASSE) is seeking local families to host Scandinavian, French, Spanish, German, Dutch, British, Swiss, Australian and American boys and girls, 15 to 18 years of age, coming to this area for the upcoming high school year. The foreign exchange students learn about Canada through living as part of a family, attending high school and sharing their own culture and language with their newly adopted Canadian families.

The exchange students arrive from their home country in August and return at the end of the school year in June. Each ASSE student is fully insured, brings his or her own personal spending money and expects to bear his or her share of household responsibilities, as well as being included in normal family activities and lifestyles.

The students are fluent in English, well screened and qualified by ASSE. Families may select the youngsters of their choice from extensive student applications, family photos and biographical essays. Students and families are encouraged to begin corresponding with one another prior to the students' arrival.

The students are sponsored by ASSE, a non-profit, public benefit organization, affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish Departments of Education and co-oporating with provincial Ministries of Education.

Families who would like to share their lives with a foreign teenager and experience the rewards of this enriching opportunity should contact ASSE's local Representative: Mrs. Dukke Van Der Werf, 347-3362.

Charlottenburgh ends year in black

WILLIAMSTOWN—Charlottenburgh Township Council received its financial statements for 1986 last week. The report, prepared by Blakey Craig Viscount, chartered accountants, showed that the township finished the year with a non-budgeted surplus of $105,288.

"This is just outstanding news," said Reeve Morgan Major. "The surplus means that our reserves are looking better and the township is in a much stronger financial situation."

During the 1986 financial year, township reserves grew from $271,527 to $472,815. Some of the increase in reserves had been budgeted for.

Chief administrator James Currier said the township had been critized in the past by the province for not having adequate reserves.

"We will certainly be sending the right message to provincial officials, along with our financial report this year." he said.

The financial statements report that the township had total expenditures for the year of $2.57 million. Total expenditures for 1985 were $2.9 milion. Last week, council approved 1987 budget estimates in the amount of $5.6 million which call for a 3.31 per cent tax increase, the lowest for the township in 10 years.

Total property tax revenues for the 1986 financial year were $3,220,228. Out of this amount the school boards and United Counties receives $2,135,758, or 66 per cent. The remaining one-third of property taxes were used for township purposes.

The township also receives grants from the federal and provincial governments and from other municipalities which totaled $1.1 million.

Dalkeith doctor travels world but doesn't forget to plant trees

by Patricia MacGillis

Dr. Howard Scott Mitchell of Dalkeith has helped start a medical school in Africa and undertaken a reforestation project near his home.

His spirited optimism has been felt by people all over the county and in many parts of the the world.

"He did a lot for this part of the country," said Vincent McPherson referring to Dr. Mitchell. "He's a great humanitarian; he took people to the hospital in Montreal during the night. Anyone who knew him was so much richer for knowing him," he commented. Mr. McPherson is a long-time friend and former hired man of Dr. Mitchell's.

Dr. Mitchell lives in quiet retirement in Dalkeith with his wife, Evelyn. He was born in 1904 in Huron County, son of a successful farmer. He graduated from Queen's University as a medical doctor in 1927 and was the Gold Medalist in medicine.

His postgraduate internship was taken at a Montreal hospital; there he worked his way up to become a lecturer and, at the same time, developed a private practice.

"I started my practice in the heights of the depression. I made house calls for 50 cents and often times I didn't get paid at all," he remembers.

He was superintendent of the Children's Memorial Hospital from 1930 until 1935. From 1935 to 1940 he practised in pediatrics and internal medicine.

"I never charged big fees," he said. "I even lost some patients because of this. I have never been interested in amassing wealth," he stated.

From 1940 until 1945 Dr. Mitchell served in the Royal Canadian Medical Corps, in charge of an Army Medical Division. He went to England and then to Italy when the invasion started there. "I was glad to take part and help," he said.

In 1945 he started the allergy clinic at the Montreal General Hospital. After resigning in 1965, Dr. Friedman and Dr. Gold took control. Under their leadership and due to their hard work the clinic has received international recognition for research in the fields of allergy and immunology.

It has become a world famous organization with a large staff of highly trained scientists.

IN KENYA

In 1968 Dr. Mitchell was one of a team of specialists sent by McGill University to assist in establishing a university faculty of medicine in Kenya. They inaugurated a medical school. The undertaking took 2 1/2 years and was successful.

The native people are operating it now. The project was headed by the World Health Organization (WHO) and the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) funded it.

The doctor enjoyed being in Africa. He made many friends there and still communicates with them.

After returning to Canada he retired from private practice.

Dr. Mitchell moved to the Dalkeith area in 1954. That year he bought 250 acres of land. Four generations of Campbells had farmed the land before him. He had a large stone engraved with the words: "Glenoban, a Campbell home for several generations."

REFORESTATION WORK

Being a man very interested in conservation and reforestation he reforested sections of the property that had limited agricultural possibilities.

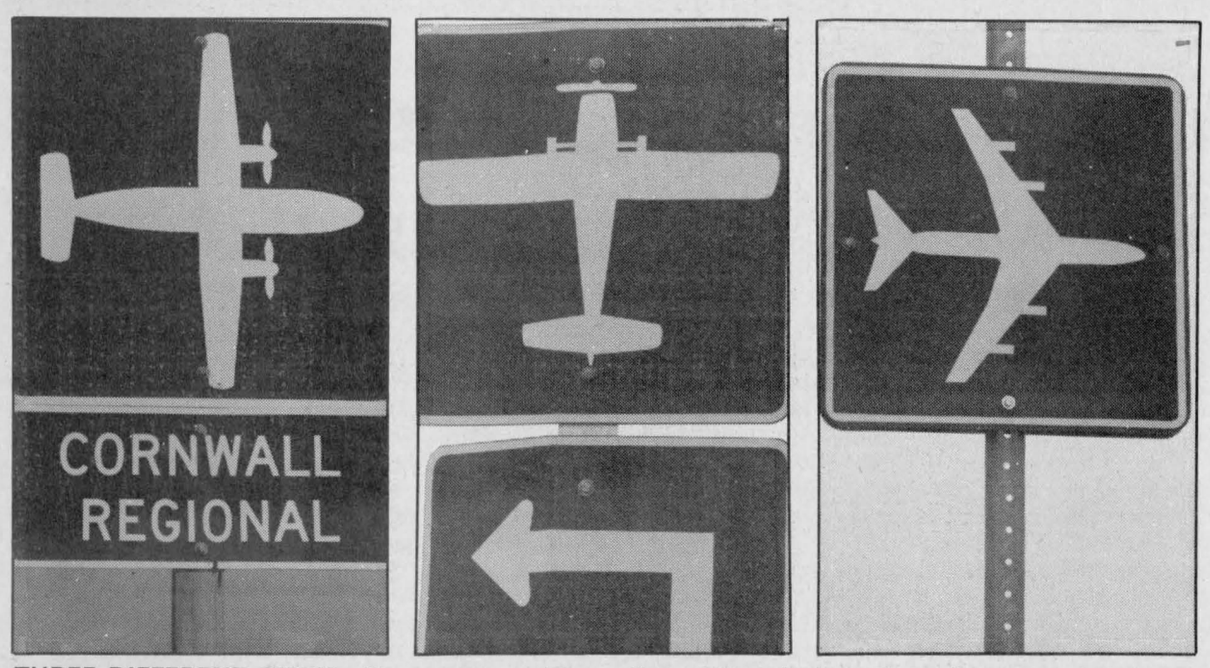
In 1955, 2,000 red pine were planted and in the following year 5,000 Norway spruce. During the same year Dr. Mitchell bought 50 acres of land to be used as rough pasture.

In 1966, Dr. Mitchell continued his reforestation project. After seeking help from the Department of Lands and Forests, he had 10 acres of land planted with red pine and white spruce. This was done through an agreement under the Woodlands Improvement Act.

A new agreement was prepared in 1970 so that another 98 acres were planted with white spruce and red pine.

Improvement cutting has taken place yielding fuelwood, pulpwood and sawlogs under the direction of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Dr. Mitchell has contributed in his own quiet yet determined way to the world at large, not simply a man of medicine but also a man of the forest.



THREE DIFFERENT SIGNS—Glengarry motorists are directed to the local airports by three decidedly different signs, suggesting a surprisingly wide range of facilities. Cornwall Regional Airport at Summerstown has changed its nearby highway signs (left) to reflect improvements in its facilities and services. Because Pem-Air now flies a commuter airline route to Brockville and Toronto, the Summerstown area roads are signed with the silhouette of a small airliner, like the DHC Dash 8, Fairchild F-27 Friendship, or Pem-Air's Piper PA-31 Navajo. Both Cornwall Regional and Alexandria Airport are also signed with a representation of the single-engine private aircraft built by Beechcraft, Cessna and Piper. The modest turf airstrip north-east of Alexandria would surely be declared the winner if there were a sign contest. Nearby Hwy. 34 sports a sign depicting a silhouette similar to a 350-passenger Boeing 747. If one of those "Jumbo Jets" attempted to land at that 1,740 foot airstrip, the furrows would be long and deep. Alexandria's airstrip is suffering through its annual closure, due to soft runway conditions. In contrast, it's business-as-usual at Cornwall Regional, thanks to its well-paved 3,500-foot runway.

Williamstown area automotive artist takes the bugs out of cars

by Sue Harrington

WILLIAMSTOWN — People who build additions to their houses usually do so in order to make a new rec room, an up-to-the-minute kitchen, or a cosy den. Seldom do they build showcase rooms for "bugs."

But Monique and Russell Major of Williamstown have recently added an extension specifically for their collection of centipedes, beetles, crickets, frogs, snails, lobsters, shrimp, and other insectivores and creatures of the deep sea world. They even have whales!

By now you are beginning to smell a rat, which is something the Majors don't have amongst their world of beasties, and it's time to set you straight. What Monique and Russell do have in their new extension are glass showcases full of automotive art, which, laughs Russell "is how you take the bugs out of cars."

The hobby started for Russell in 1967 when he made his first creature, a crocodile, out of old car parts. Pleased with his effirts, Russie, as he is known around Williamstown, plunged into the new art form with enthusiasm.

His wife Monique remembers the many drives on weekends to various scrapyards where the family, including son Bernard would search for just the right piece from just the right model of just the right year suitable as a leg for this animal or an antenna for that.

For in his hobby, Russie is truly an artist. Automotive art kits do not hang on craft shop walls, or even grace gas station waiting rooms. There are no how-to booklets, plans or blueprints available. Everything is totally origional. How does he do it?

"First I look at pictures of the animal I want to make," says Russie. Then I decide what automotive part would best suit its features. Then I go hunting."

He points to a very smug looking frog sitting in a showcase in a just about to jump posture. "It took me three years to find the bumperette to make him, says Russell. I like to have people who think they know cars guess what part I've used. Sometimes I can really stump them," he laughs.

Some of the parts he uses date back to 1936. He reels off a list of them on this and that creature, and I, not knowing cars, think that I wouldn't know what they look like even when used in their original form. "I often use push rods for legs. That way the insect will look as though it's in motion."

Amidst the jungle of lower forms, a man and woman stand. They look somewhat tribal, probably African. They were GM rocker motor boots and own planetary gear sets as their lifelines. Monique laughs at them and says, "There's Russie and me with the bugs."

When Russell finds the parts he needs to begin work on a new species or sub-species, he first has a lot of cleaning to do. He prefers not to paint his creations, leaving them in "their original state." The trick to his art is his expertise at welding, by which means the animal is formed out of the sum of the parts into the one-piece critter it becomes.

"I was always taking things apart as a child," says Russie. "i wanted to see how everything worked." He never had any formal art education.

"My father was always making things," replied Russie, but they were more in the nature of practical inventions."

"Yes, like the snow remover he made," said Monique.

In 1969 and again in 1970, the Majors packed up their works of art and headed to Toronto where they were displayed at the CNE. "Believe it or not our display was right next to one by General Motors," laughs Monique.

An attempt to travel to the World's Fair was foiled, the Majors feel by not having the right contacts at the right time. "We missed going to Japan by 3 months", moans Monique. A scrapbook which they keep tells it all. It includes letters in reply to their requests for inclusion in Canadian displays.

The exposure the Majors received in Toronto and elsewhere has brought many requets for orders and offers of purchase. But Russie stresses that nothing is for sale. "My things have no commercial value," he states. "They are just something that is fun for me to do."

Monique tells of the time a would-be buyer could not be dissuaded. She whispered to Russie to put an exhorbitant price on the item he coveted in the hopes that he would go away. "So we did," she laughs, "and what does the fellow do? Whips out his cheque book!"

Monique is a craftsperson in her own right. She has a deft hand with a saw and has made several window sill animals out of wood. Like the rooster which sits in her kitchen. She also had a lot to do with the new addition, cutting and installing the tongue and groove wainscotting.

The Majors house itself is of local interest. Built in 1841, it was once the shop of Fabien Major, the tailor of Williamstown. Monique keeps a collection of his old irons on display for interest sake. Dotted on the walls are old calendars of local establishments of yesteryear, which Monique has had framed and which tell the tale of village life where such a thing as automotive art would be as unthinkable as Tennyson's Locksley Hall visions once were.

Perhaps Russie's pièce de résistance was the little car he created for the bi-centennial parade in Williamstown in 1984. It began life as an Austin mini and Russie trimmed it down until it was just eight feet in length. He hammed it up a bit, putting skunks on the windshield wipers. He and Monique dressed up in bicentennial costumes and craeted quite a stir.

The majors hope that Russell's art works will provide inspiration for young people "looking for something to do." They say they would welcome small groups of students, possibly from area art classes who would like to see the results of some creative recycling.

AUTOMOTIVE ARTIST— Russell Major of Williamstown is an artist who uses automotive parts to make animal figurines. The body of the lobster is made of inserts from connecting rods, the pincers are clutch forks, the legs are push rods and the tail is the oil drip leader of a rocker shaft. The ears of the elephant are selectors from an automatic transmission and the tusk is a vent window crank.

Heart and Stroke Foundation sponsors cooking courses

Part of the recipe for a healthier life will be served up next week when the Alexandria chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation holds cooking courses.

The courses, designed to teach people how to cook tempting meals low in calories, fat, sodium and cholesterol, run weekly from May 19 to June 16 and cost $30.

The deadline for registration is May 15 and course organizers are Linda Vickers (525-1943) and Janie MacDiarmid (938-8933).

The course, "Cooking for a Healthy Heart," is geared for the general public.

Many researchers agree there is a definite relationship between what people eat and heart disease, cancer, high blood pressure and various other diseases.

The five-week course will teach participants how to improve the nutritional quality of their families' meals, how to modify favorite recipes, plan menus, lose weight and how to entertain and eat out in new and healthy ways.

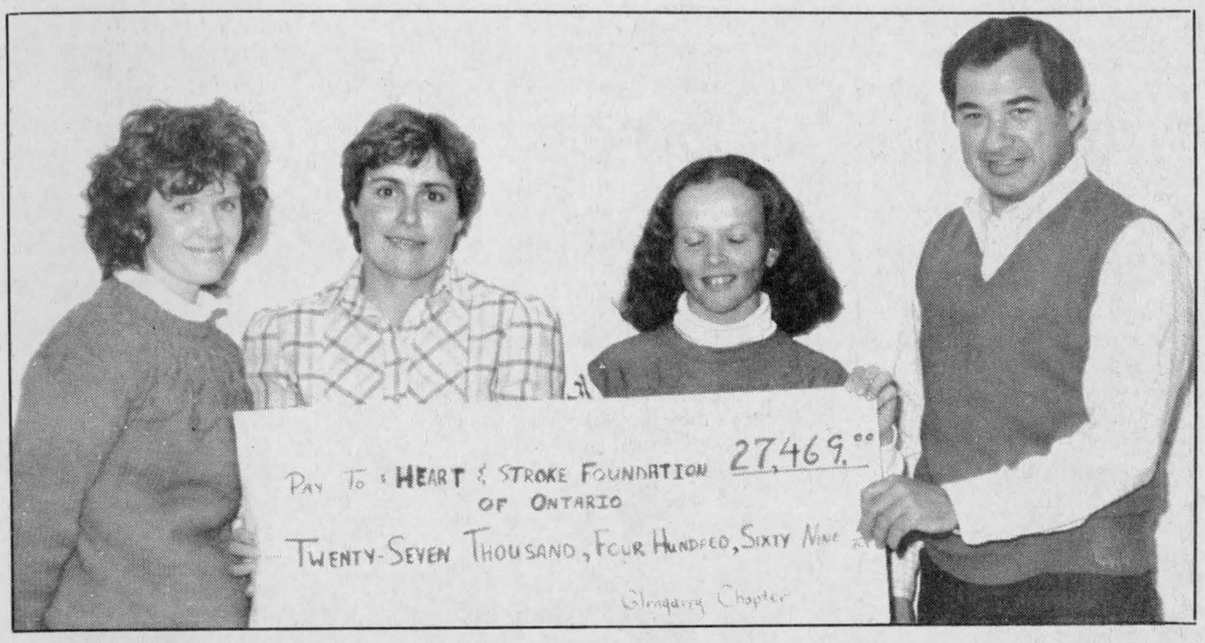
Meals will be demonstrated and sampled in each class and participants will be supplied with recipes.

"People can prevent heart disease in the future by modifying their lifestyles today," says Mrs. Vickers.

A minimum of 12 people and maximum of 25 are needed to start the course.

In other Heart and Stroke Foundation news, the annual meeting will be held May 25 at Alexander Hall. Dr. Ghislain Marleau, medical adviser to the chapter, will give a CPR (cardiopulminary resuscitation) presentation at the meeting.

The local chapter is also seeking volunteers to sit on its board of directors as members-at-large to help begin planning for next year's campaign.



SUCCESSFUL CAMPAIGN—This year's Glengarry Chapter of the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation was a huge success. Money raised from the campaign was just over $27,000. The target goal was $20,000. Holding the cheque are campaign area leaders, from left, Hazel MacDonald, Annie St. Denis, Margie Laferriere and Don Kannon.

GFA members taking message to local schools

The Glengarry Federation of Agriculture held its regular monthly meeting, August 27 with six members present.

The group said there is a positive role that farm organizations can take in the classroom. The federation has decided to look into providing material for local schools during Agri-food week in October.

The flood problem in local creeks has come under the jurisdiction of the South Nation River and Raisin Region Conservation Authority. About $25,000 is available for flood projects, but the municipalities must apply to the authorities which provide funds based on needs.

Approximately 32 per cent of available funds are obtained through levies to member municipalities; 68 per cent is provided by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resouces.

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture has arranged to meet with livestock commodity boards and associations, the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture (OMAF) and University of Guelph personnel today (Wed.).

It is an initial step toward the development of an overall strategy to deal with challenges from the "animal welfarif." These are people who support animal welfare.

Also, two places are reserved at the Bio-Ethics '87 symposium in Montreal. August's Symposium '87 in Montreal will deal with modern methods of rearing animals.

The next meeting will be held May 25 at 8 p.m. in the OMAF boardroom.

Neighbors oppose plan for quarry near Martintown

by Sue Harrington

WILLIAMSTOWN — Blasting was confined to the theoretical Wednesday night as a crowd of some 30 people gathered at the Charlottenburgh Township Hall to discuss a proposal by Les Cruickshank, president of Cruickshank Construction Limited of Morrisburg, to re-open an old quarry three kilometres southwest of Martintown.

The meeting, explained Steve Rivers of Ainley Associates, a Belleville-based planning company, was called to allow public comments and hear concerns on the development, which would require a rezoning of Lots 9 and 10 on Concessions 6 and 7 from rural agricultural to extractive industrial.

Most people attending were in fierce opposition to the quarry. Dairy farmers like the Thomsons—Robin, Donald, and Don—all expressed concerns such an operation would have on agriculture in the township. "There aren't too many farmers left in Charlottenburgh now," said Donald. "This will put them in further jeopardy.

Robin Thomson, who lives just east of the quarry, presented a 75-name petition opposing the operation to council. "We don't need a quarry," said Mr. Thomson. "We have enough around here already."

His main concern was with water supply for cattle. He said water was a "major problem" in the area and 170 head of cattle drink a lot of it each day. "I'm afraid that our wells will dry up."

Deputy-Reeve Bob Roth questioned Roger Woeller, a hydro-geology expert who accompanied Mr. Cruickshank to the meeting. Mr. Roth wanted to know whether unexpected water problems had ever occurred in similar operations. Mr. Woeller replied that there had been none to his knowledge in the 25 cases he had been involved ion. But he conceded, "dealing with nature, irregularities can occur."

Don Thomson was concerned with the effects blasting might have on cattle. He mentioned a case several years ago where one of his cows lost a calf a few days after being frightened by a blast at the Trans-Canada Pipeline. In making application for the rezoning, Mr. Cruickshank claimed there would be one blast per day during a 15-day period in the spring and fall.

The effect of the blasting on the Trans-Canada Pipeline was a major concern of Nancy Knight of the Glen Falloch Road. She listed decreases in house values, dangers to children and preservation of the natural environment as reasons for her opposition to the proposed quarry.

Mrs. Knight also queried the legality of the application, saying that Mr. Cruickshank had signed as being the "registered owner" of the land in question, when in fact it was owned by someone else.

Mike Togneri, also of the Glen Falloch, asked Mr. Cruickshank point blank whether or not he was the owner of the land. Mr. Cruickshank's lawyer indicated that the rightful owner of the property was, in fact, Douglas Murray.

At this admission, Deputy-reeve Bob Roth asked if the application was valid, and councillors recessed to discuss the problem: Upon their return Reeve Morgan Major said that they would have to seek legal advice on the issue and would be able to comment "in a week or so."

The meeting continued with Ken Emond, Don McIntosh, Henry Kinloch, Mike Hymus, and Norm Sawinski all airing concerns about the effects the quarry would have.

Mike McInnes, lawyer for Mr. Cruickshank, said he would write letters to the pipeline firm asking them for information about their pumping station located near the site, in attempt to assuage residents' concerns about explosions.

Reeve Major stated he thought "we've had a good discussion on this" at the conclusion of the meeting.

Agricultural Societies in District One are invited to send two people to a Judge School being held in early May at Kemptville College. This two day workshop will include sessions on foods, clothing and crafts. The cost for the program will be $40 per participant.

VOLUNTEER WEEK

April 26 to May 2 marks National Volunteer Week. It's a time to recognize the many people who give their time and skills to their communities. Many of our rural organizations simply would not exist without the participation of volunteers.

Who is the typical Canadian Volunteer? The 1981 census figures indicate that 2.7 million people volunteer. This represents 10 per cent of the population. Of these volunteers, 46 per cent are male and 54 per cent are female and are between 25 to 44 years of age, are married, employed and well educated. They spend 137 hours per year doing volunteer work.

Is your organization looking for volunteers? Why not follow these rules for good recruitment:

—Do specific recruiting, rather than general, whenever possible.

—Go to people whose interests match your organization's needs.

—Actively seek out the skills your organization needs.

—Be honest—don't cover up or downplay the task as unimportant, "Anybody can do it" syndrome. (Why should I want to do it if anybody else could?!?).

—Recruit year around—plant the seeds early, "Can't you be approached this November when our elections are being held?"

—Use many different recruitment techniques.

—Treat the job as an opportunity, not as a task that the person ought to be concerned or involved with (guilt).

—Use the entire community.

FARM SAFETY

The Stormont 4-H Farm Safety Club will hold it's Achievement Program, May 5 at the OMAF boardroom, Avonmore, at 8 p.m.

The members are organizing the program. It will feature guest speakers and member displays focussing on various farm safety topics. Members will also be receiving their project completion awards. Door prizes will be drawn and refreshments will be served. All welcome.

To the Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Township of Lochiel

We have examined the statement of continuity of trust funds of the Corporation of the Township of Lochiel for the year ended December 31, 1986 and the balance sheet of the trust funds as at that date. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly the continuity of trust funds of the Township for the year ended December 31, 1986 and the financial position of the trust funds as at that date in accordance with accounting principles disclosed in note 1 to the financial statements applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

DECEMBER 31, 1986

1. ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The consolidated financial statements of the Municipality are the representation of management prepared in accordance with accounting policies prescribed for Ontario municipalities by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs. Since precise determination of many assets and liabilities is dependent upon future events, the preparation of periodic financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates and approximations. These have been made using careful judgments.

(a) BASIS OF CONSOLIDATION

These consolidated statements reflect the assets, liabilities, sources of financing and expenditures of the revenue fund, capital fund, reserve funds and reserves and include the activities of all committees of Council and the following local board which is under the control of council:

Township of Lochiel Recreation Board

All interfund assets and liabilities and sources of financing and expenditures have been eliminated with the exception of loans or advances between reserve funds and any other fund of the Municipality and the resulting interest income and expenditures.

(ii) Non-consolidated entity

The entity which is not consolidated is:

Glengarry Sports Palace

(iii) Accounting for Counties and School Boards transactions

The taxation, other revenues, expenditures, assets and liabilities with respect to the operations of the School Boards and the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry are not reflected in the municipal fund balances of these financial statements. Overlevies (underlevies) are reported on the Consolidated Balance Sheet as "other current liabilities" ("restricted other current assets").

(iv) Trust funds and their related operations administered by the Municipality are not consolidated but are reported separately on the "Trust Funds Statement of Continuity and Balance Sheet".

(b) BASIS OF ACCOUNTING

(i) Sources of financing and expenditures are reported on the accrual basis of accounting with the exception of principal and interest charges on long-term liabilities which are charged against operations in the periods which they are paid.

(ii) The accrual basis of accounting recognizes revenues as they become available and measurable; expenditures are recognized as they are incurred and measurable as a result of receipt of goods or services and the creation of a legal obligation to pay.

(iii) Fixed Assets

The historical cost and accumulated depreciation for fixed assets are not recorded for municipal purposes. Fixed assets are reported as an expenditure on the Consolidated Statement of Operations in the year of acquisition.

(iv) Capital outlay to be recovered in future years.

"Capital outlay to be recovered in future years", which represents the outstanding principal portion of unmatured long-term liabilities for municipal expenditures or capital funds transferred to other organizations, is reported on the "Consolidated Balance Sheet".

2. OPERATIONS OF SCHOOL BOARDS AND THE UNITED COUNTIES OF STORMONT, DUNDAS AND GLENGARRY

Further to note 1 (a)(iii), the taxation, other revenues, expenditures and overlevies (underlevies) of the school boards and the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry are comprised of the following:

Taxes written-off	(673)	(139)
	603 241	123 050
Requisitions	596 933	121 905
Supplementary taxes	6 587	1 329
Taxes written-off	(673)	(139)
	602 847	123 095

MPs oppose prescription drug price increases

DON BOUDRIA
Glengarry-Prescott-Russell

The government's amendments to the Patent Act (Bill C-22), which will significantly change the Canadian pharmaceutical industry and result in large increases to new prescription drugs, recently returned to the House of Commons for debate.

Liberal Members of Parliament are opposed to Bill C-22 and have been fighting to defeat it since the legislation was introduced to parliament in November 1986.

The amendments to the Patent Act will repeal a 1969 Law, which obliged pharmaceutical manufacturers holding drug patents to allow other firms to produce the patented drug at a cheaper price.

The government's amendments will allow drug companies to protect their patents for a 10-year period. The result will be a reduction in competition in the industry and an increase in profits for foreign brand-name drug companies operating in Canada.

Liberal MPs oppose the amendments for a variety of reasons. One of them is that Canadians, particularly those who can least afford it, will be forced to pay higher drug prices.

Experts predict that because of a reduction in competition in the pharmaceutical industry, Canadians will be forced to pay $650 million more for drugs in 1995 than they pay today.

In 1968, Canada's drug prices were the highest in the world. Today, thanks to the changes introduced to the Patent Act in 1969, Canadian drug prices are among the world's lowest.

If the government is successful in passing the new amendments in Parliament, Canadians will once again be forced to pay scandalously high drug prices.

The Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, Harvie Andre, says that drug prices will not increase because the Patented Medicines Review Board will keep prices down. The board's job, however, is only to ensure that prices are reasonable which it defines as comparable to international prices. And U.S. drug prices are already two to five times higher than drug prices in Canada.

The system of drug pricing introduced almost 20 years ago saved Canadians billions of dollars and was the envy of countries throughout the world. Liberal Members of Parliament will continue to oppose the government's attempt to turn back the clock at the expense of Canadian consumers.

Tobacco advertising ban introduced

NORM WARNER, MP
Stormont-Dundas

Health and Welfare Minister Jake Epp announced last week his intention to introduce legislation banning tobacco advertising and promotion in Canada and strengthened his commitment to the National Program to Reduce Tobacco Use.

This tough new legislation would ban all forms of advertising and promotion of tobacco products available in Canada. Other provisions in the Act would ensure that strongly worded, prominent health warnings are included on packaging for tobacco products, that toxic substances in tobacco are reported to federal authorities and listed prominently on packaging and that manufacturers and importers report production, importation and sales figures for their products.

CANADA DAY

1987 marks the 40th anniversary of the declaration of Canadian citizenship and the focus of Canada Day will be What it Means to be a Canadian. Community groups receiving SEED money grants are being encouraged to develop projects and celebrations in conjunction with the concept of citizenship and to apply it in a local and national context.

Anyone wishing to organize activities should write to: Canada Day Committee of Ontario, 25 St. Clair Avenue East, Toronto, Ontario M4T 1M2 (call collect 416-973-1320).

Villeneuve supports new hay venture

TORONTO — At a time when prices for many crops are at depressed levels, Noble Villeneuve, Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry MPP, says there is an increasing demand worldwide for Ontario hay.

"Ontario hay producers have been selling into the Florida, Georgia and South Carolina markets and have had enquiries from as far away as Saudi Arabia, Venezuela, Scotland and Ireland," says Mr. Villeneuve, "but the biggest problem to date is that Ontario can't meet the demand because we lack facilities to collect, compact and distribute the hay."

Mr. Villeneuve supports government asistance to help the province's Hay Producers Association with capital costs to develop a pilot hay packaging and distribution system. If the pilot project succeeds, other packaging and distribution facilities could be constructed around the province.

The MPP believes a meeting between the Hay Producers Association and Agriculture and Food Deputy Minister Clay Switzer and his officials on April 2 was a limited success.

"The Ministry of Agriculture and Food is certainly aware of the potential hay markets and is willing to help in a variety of ways. The big problem is that the Ministry has no capital grants program—the major component of the hay producers request," he said.

At this point, Mr. Villeneuve is still optimistic: "In my view the pilot project describes a manufacturing facility which would qualify for funding from the Eastern Ontario Development Corporation (EODC). and one thing we all know is that the EODC has had some difficulty in finding worthwhile projects in Eastern Ontario to support.

The Conservative MPP hopes the project can be under way by October, given prompt action from the province.

"Both my colleague, Jean Poirier (MPP, Prescott-Russell), who has joined in supporting the project, and I have some more lobbying to do, but I think we will be successful in the long run," Mr. Villeneuve feels.

Border Hockey League holding awards night

The Border Hockey League will be handing out silverware to its top performers Saturday night at Chez Paul in Dalhousie.

The league's annual awards night will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. A dance begins at 9 p.m. and trophy presentations will be held at about 10:30 p.m.

The awards night is open to players, coaches and the public. Laggan won this year's championship, ousting St. Raphael's in an exciting seven-game series.

Brophy outcoached

SPORTS

The Montreal Expos have been picked by everyone, or almost everyone, to finish last this season in the National League East Division.

You really can't blame baseball people for thinking that way. Jeff Reardon and André Dawson are gone. Up until last Friday, there had been the remote possibility that Tim Raines might not suit up for the Expos this season.

But after there were no takers in the free-agency market, happily for the club and their fans, Raines signed a new three-year deal.

Raines and his bat sparked the Expos to a pair of weekend victories over the defending World Series champion New York Mets. I'm sure there are mixed emotions about Raines returning to the Expos' fold. Some must be delighted he's back, while others are angry he went through the free-agent market and turned his back on the club.

Count me in, however, as one of the people who's glad he's back in a Montreal uniform.

In recent years, a lot of Expo supporters have turned the cheek and started rooting for the Toronto Blue Jays. Sure, a lot have jumped on the Blue Jay bandwagon because of their success the past couple of seasons. I hope both of the Canadian teams have successful campaigns.

For the Expos, it's been an uphill battle the last six years. In the early 80's, they were supposed to win it all. Baseball writers around North America felt they had all the right ingredients to win the World Series. But they didn't win it all.

The closest the Expos came was in 1981, winning the Eastern Division title. Expos faithful can remember the Los Angeles Dodgers ousting the club on Rick Monday's homer to win the National League penant.

This year's team may not have the talent it had in the early '80's, but it's a competitive and scrappy bunch of individuals. The club is team-oriented. The addition of Raines in the lineup means Montreal and the rest of the fans around the league, can watch one of the top players perform again.

Raines won the National League batting title last season. He is an exciting ball player.

Attendance has declined dramatically the past few seasons at the Olympic Stadium. Montreal sports fans are very fickle. As long as their team is winning, everyone is on the bandwagon.

Montreal fans are fortunate they have a successful professional franchise in the Montreal Canadiens. But, I wouldn't have wanted to be in the forum Saturday night had the Nordiques been leading 5-1 after two periods. The chorus of boos would have been louder than the organist.

I hope that Raines' return generates some interest among Montreal fans and they come out to support the club. The Expos probably won't win the East title this season, but they should be competitive and provide an entertaining brand of baseball in the newly-covered stadium.

POOR LEAFS

There must be a number of Leaf fans with their heads down this week. It seems as if it's been forever that the Leafs won the Stanley Cup.

A couple of staunch Leaf fans (Darrell Hay, Bill Allison) must have been thinking ahead to the Edmonton series after Pal Hal's troops led Detroit 3-1 in the best-of-seven Norris final.

But, give the Red Wings credit for staging the comeback. The Leafs have nothing to be ashamed of. They were hampered by injuries to key people like Tom Fergus, Gary Leeman and Mark Osborne. The Leafs can use that as an excuse, but the major reason in the Leafs' exit boils down to John Brophy being outcoached by Red Wings' mentor Jacques Demers.

Brophy wore out a number of players, rather than using his bench. Demers used mostly everyone on the bench, keeping his troops fresh for the third period.

Brophy, despite the injuries, got the most out of the available talent he had to work with. But, it was Detroit's depth that won it in the end.

UNBELIEVABLE BUDGET

In the hard-to-believe department, big bucks are spent on producing a winner in junior hockey in Humboldt, Saskatchewan.

Humboldt is hosting the Centennial Cup, the national Junior A championship, this week.

In Sunday's Ottawa Herald, it said in a story that Humboldt's annual budget is $350,000 and their players are paid $200 per week.

Talk about trying to buy a national championship!

New loop

It appears the Alexandria Men's Fastball League will become a thing of the past.

At an organizational meeting Monday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace, more than enough interest was shown by local players to start up a softball league this year.

While some people had hoped for a fastball league, it appears organizers are swaying towards a softball circuit.

"We'll have enough players for a ball league," says Alain Giroux, a co-organizer of the league. "I called a lot of people and asked them about playing in a fastball league and some interest was shown, but more interest was shown in a softball league."

One team official attended the meeting, hoping to enter the squad in the league, but organizers are expected to form at least four teams through a drafting system.

"We want the league to be fun and not too competitive and that's why a draft will be held.

League set

The Alexandria Women's Ball Hockey League kicks off its season tomorrow night (Thurs.) at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

The league consists of six teams again this season. The majority of the schedule will be played Thursdays while some contests will be played Monday nights.

Teams in the circuit are Mike Gibbs, GTL, Tapis Richard, Bob's Hotel, Chez Paul and Shepherd Motors. The games are from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. Thursday nights.

MVPs— The Char-Lan Minor Hockey League held its awards night Friday and the players pictured above were selected MVPs for their respective leagues. The winners, from left are: back row, Kyle MacDonell, Terry Farrell, Brent Riddell and Adam Lefebvre; front row, Trevor Bowles and Serge Picard.

STEPPING DOWN – The Canadian Association for Sports Heritage held its annual general meeting over the weekend in Fredericton, New Brunswick. Angus H. McDonell, has represented the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame as a delegate at the meetings the past six years. Mr. McDonell has decided to step down from his position and will be replaced by Jim Hill of Williamstown. Seated beside Mr. McDonell is past-president Heather Harris. Standing behind Miss Harris is new-president Tom West and Mr. Hill.

Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame plays role in C.A.S.H.

by Peter Conway

Although the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame still hasn't become reality, it has been an active member the past six years in the Canadian Association for Sports Heritage (C.A.S.H.).

A new, but familiar face will represent the local sports hall of fame in the future at the C.A.S.H. annual general meetings.

At the association's meeting in Fredericton, New Brunswick, over the weekend, Angus H. McDonell informed C.A.S.H.'s new president Tom West he was stepping down as Glengarry's delegate. Jim Hill, of Williamstown, a member of the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame executive, succeeds Mr. McDonell. Mr. Hill attended the meeting with Mr. McDonell over the weekend.

Although Mr. McDonell has relinquished his position as a delegate, he will continue to play an active role in the association as an individual member.

"I've enjoyed my six years representing the Glengarry Sports Hall of fame through the Canadian Association for Sports Heritage," says Mr. McDonell. "I've met so many nice people from Cape Breton to British Columbia through the association."

Mr. McDonell says the decision to become a member of C.A.S.H. six years ago, was a worthy and important factor in giving credibility to the local sports hall of fame.

"In joining C.A.S.H., the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame received recognition and prestige. This has been reflected in the interest shown by the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture in our application for a building grant. Maintaining the heritage was another creditable factor in joining the association," says Mr. McDonell.

It was a trip to Hamilton seven years ago that swayed Mr. McDonell and fellow members on the hall of fame executive to join C.A.S.H.

"I made a special trip and met Bill McBride, curator of the Canadian Football League Hall of Fame and Museum. I wanted to know what to do and what not to do concerning the constitution of a sports hall of fame. He recommended we join C.A.S.H. and the next year we joined the association. I've had six pleasant years being involved with the association."

Contrary to what some people may think, a sports hall of fame building is more than just a structure filled with photos.

"We now know over the years that a sports hall of fame is much more than a wall of photos," says Mr. McDonell. "It's heritage, not only in sports figures, but with builders and founders of people in the Glengarry Highland Games, that rates today among the best Games in the world."

Tom West, curator of the Canada Sports Hall of Fame in Toronto, was elected the new president of C.A.S.H., succeeding Heather Harris. Miss Harris will remain on the executive as past president, while Marg Sandison, of the Saskatchewan Sports Hall of Fame stays on as treasurer.

The Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame Induction Dinner is set for July 8 at the Glengarry Sports Palace. The affair usually draws about 350 to 450 people. Last year's tickets were $15 per person. Tickets at Saskatchewan's and the Canada Sports Hall of Fame dinners are $50 and $150 per person respectively.

When Jim Hill was asked to give a report on the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame, he received a few chuckles from fellow members when announcing the ticket price for Glengarry's dinner was only $15.

A number of sports halls of fame across the country, however, are provincially funded. The Hockey Hall of Fame in Toronto has an annual budget of $300,000. The hall if funded by the National Hockey League and provincial grants.

Banner season

It was quite a season for the Alexandria Knights of Columbus Novice team in the Lower St. Lawrence Hockey League.

In 62 games this season, the club posted an impressive 47-13-2 won-loss record. Bob Boisvenue's team won the regular-season pennant and also captured the playoff championship.

Three of his players still haven't hung up their skates this season. Martin Boisvenue, Julien Oetelaar and Karl Hehn have earned spots on the Eastern Ontario Express Novice all-star squad. The team will play out of Athens and participate in exhibition games and three tournaments up until July 1.

Coach Boisvenue is pleased with the selection of the three local players to the team. He is particularly pleased with Hehn's selection.

"I'm really glad Karl made the team," Boisvenue says. "He's one player at our try-outs last fall that some people didn't expect to make the team. He surprised a lot of people when he earned a position on the team. His hard work in the practices really paid off for him and his parents gave him a lot of support."

Glengarry Golf Club hopes to boast new membership

by Peter Conway

Glengarrians and people in the area will have an 18-hole golf course next year.

If you're hoping to purchase a membership at the Glengarry Golf and Country Club in the near future, you had better get one while you can.

Walter Chopp, director of planning at the local club, says memberships may become a rare commodity after the 1987 golfing season.

"We're hoping people in Glengarry and the surrounding counties get involved by purchasing memberships this season," Mr. Chopp says. "In addition to that, we have received many queries from people in the West Island area (Montreal suburb), displaying interest and eagerness to buy shares and memberships."

Mr. Chopp says the club is also offering corporate shares to local businesses.

"At the present time, the membership director (Betty Campbell) is holding discussions with the business community in Alexandria for the purpose of selling them corporate shares. The response to date has been very positive and encouraging."

While the club's major thrust this season is to acquire more members, the sale of shares has also been encouraging.

"The sale of shares is progressing quite well and there are only about 120 shares left," he says.

The club offered 515 treasury shares to the public last year and it's expected that the remainder will be sold in 1987.

Mr. Chopp said the new course will be ready next season and the expansion program is on schedule. He says it's important that people in the area don't wait too long to purchase shares and memberships.

"People have to realize that the Glengarry Golf and Country Club is but an hour's drive from communities on the West Island. The club provides very attractive golfing facilities at very affordable membership fees. It is important for local golfers to purchase memberships and shares this year, so that they aren't disappointed if they aren't available in the near future."

Mr. Chopp, however, is confident that membership will grow this season at the club.

"With the interest shown from outside the Glengarry community about our golfing facilities, it isn't beyond the realm of possibility that within a short period of time, our membership level will be achieved," Mr. Chopp says.

Memberships and shares can be purchased through Glengarry Golf and Country Club Manager Hubert Lapierre.

Broomball loop hands out trophies

WILLIAMSTOWN—The Char-Lan Minor Broomball League honored its players with its awards banquet Sunday afternoon at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre.

The recreational league involved 60 players the past winter. It was also a special campaign for some of the players from the league. There were players from Williamstown and area that were either part of the midget boys and girls teams that captured gold and silver medals respectively in London at the Ontario Winter Games, and gold medals from the provincial bantam championships in Sudbury.

The Junior division regular season and playoff championships went to Columbia Finishing Mills, ousting C&R Farm Services. Michael Henstock was a one-man wrecking crew in the scoring parade. He finished with 45 goals and 20 assists, while David Chaddock was next with 24 goals and 17 assists.

The Peewee Division championship went to Lafave Auto, defeating Munro Feeds in the final series.

The scoring title in the Peewee Division went to Laurie Legault. She scored 16 goals and had a pair of assists. The runnerup was Brent Lauzon with seven goals and two assists.

The most valuable player award in the Junior Division was awarded to Michael Henstock and Stephen Flipsen as co-winners, while the same honor in the Peewee Division was shared by Glenda Lauzon and Brent Lauzon.

The most improved players in the Junior Division were Sasha Grant and Haley Flaro. The Peewee Division winners were Jody McIntyre and Chantal Valade.

The top junior goaler was Gillian Chaddock, while the Peewee recipient was David Conroy. The top defenceman award in the Junior Division was shared by Julie Flaro and Julie MacDonald, while the winners in the Peewee Division were Shelley McGillivary and Cathy Pilon.

The most sportsmanlike award winners in the Junior Division were Melissa MacDonald and Chantal Quenneville. The Peewee recipients were Joanne Legault and Kelly Lariviere.

The top rookies were Damien Lafave and Greg Avery in the Peewee Division, while the Junior winner was Cherry Proctor.

The league's Memorial Award was presented to Scott Rombough.

Receives hockey awards

Gilles and Michel Lajoie of Varennes, Quebec received hockey awards, in the 1986-87 hockey season.

Gilles, who is 17, plays goalie with the "Red Machine," led his team to victory in the regional championship in Delson. The team also took honors in a local midget tournament.

Meanwhile, younger brother Michel 13, received honors from the local Optimist Club as the Youth of the Year in Peewee hockey and also won the most useful and most sportsmanlike player of the year.

Gilles and Michel are the sons of Raymond Lajoie and the former Lorraine Proulx of Varennes, formerly of Alexandria.

They are the grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Proulx and of Mrs. Dorina Lajoie of Alexandria. The family are frequent visitors to Alexandria.

PUBLIC REVIEW OF AN ENVIRONMENTAL STUDY REPORT

FOR A SEWERAGE COLLECTION AND TREATMENT SYSTEM FOR

THE VILLAGE OF MAXVILLE

The Village of Maxville is planning to construct a municipal sewerage collection and treatment system comprised of gravity sewers, pumping stations, force mains, and a lagoon treatment facility.

In its planning of the project, the Village has considered many alternatives and has received comments on the proposed project and its alternatives from a number of public bodies and private citizens. All comments have been considered in the development of the project planning. The summerized account of the project planning considerations is set out in the Environmental Study Report, and the Addendum to the Environmental Study Report. It is pointed out that the Addendum has not previously been subjected to public review.

The legislated Regulations applying to this project have been revised, effective April 9, 1987, with the effect that the Hearing under the Ontario Water Resources Act, which formerly was mandatory is now not required. Concerns which formerly would have been addressed under the Ontario Waters Resources Act, are now to be dealt with under the Environmental Assessment Act.

For this project, and concerns related to this project, it has become desirable to conduct an additional public review of matters relatd to Envornmental Assessment.

Accordingly, the purposes of this Public Notice are to advise the public as follows:

1. You are advised that the Village intends to proceed with planning for implementation of the project undertaking in accordance with the Environmental Study Report and its Addendum.

2. You are advised that the Village intends to proceed with an application to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval of the project financing. Notification of the public will be made in accordance with the requirements of The Municipal Act.

3. You are advised that the Village has scheduled an Open House Information Meeting at the Maxville Recreation Centre from 4:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on May 20, 1987. Staff of the Ministry of the Environment and the Consulting Engineer will be in attendance. A summarized presentation of the Environmental Study Report and Addendum will be made at 7:30 p.m., and the balance of the meeting will be informal question/answer sessions. The purpose of this meeting is to inform interested parties on the various considerations that have been made during the preparation of this Enviromental Study Report and Addendum. The Envornmental Study Report and Addendum is available for public examination and review at least up until 12:00 noon on June 12, 1987 at the following locations:

Municipal Office
8 Main St., South
Village of Maxville

A. J. Graham Engineering Consultants Ltd.
2724 Fenton Road
City of Gloucester

4. You are advised that the Village will receive any written comments upon the proposed project and the Environmental Study Report up until 12:00 noon on June 12, 1987. If any comments received are deemed to be objections or deemed to be requests for an Environmental Assessment hearing, the Village will forward to the Ministry of the Environment, all documentation relevant to the objection or request, for the Ministry's decision on the matter. If the Minister decides that a hearing is required to resolve any issues, you will be notified in accordance with the requirements of the Environmental Assessment Act and if the Minister decides that a hearing is not required, the project planning will continue without further Enviromental Assessment proceedings.

Ontario renews awards for outstanding renovations

TORONTO — The Ontario Ministry of Housing is inviting home owners and building industry professionals to submit entries for the 1987 Ontario Renews Awards, which will honor innovative and appealaing renovations to existing buildings.

"Home renovation is one of Ontario's most significant growth industries," Housing Minister Alvin Curling says. "More than $5.5 billion was spent during the past year on housing renovations in Ontario."

He noted that nearly three-quarters of those buildings required for housing in Ontario in the year 2001 have already been built.

"That is why it is essential we find ways to improve the quality and longevity of our existing housing stock, and where possible, add to the number of living units," Mr. Curling says. "The Ontario Renews Awards is one of the best ways we have to encourage and recognize outstanding achievements in renovation."

Now in its seventh year, the awards are open to home owners, renovators, architects, builders, landscape architects, designers, developers and municipalities across Ontario.

There are eight award categories with four reserved for home owner renovation projects of varying sizes. Larger-scale projects, such as apartment building renovations, can be entered in one of three categories. A final category is reserved for large-scale, non-residential renovations.

A key goal this year is to encourage greater participation by the average home owner. Imaginative do-it-yourself projects will be encouraged for the awards program.

"Any home owner who has completed, or will soon complete, a renovation project should enter," says Mr. Curling. "We will be looking for quality and creativity, not necessarily how extensive it is or how much money it cost,"

Deadline for entering the Ontario Renews Awards is July 10. Projects completed or nearing completion within the previous three years of the entry deadline are eligible.

A panel of independent judges will select the best projects, and the winners wil be announced at a special ceremony in the fall.

Winners in each category will received 'The Carpenter,' a limited edition bronze sculpture created for ORA. Runners-up will be presented with honorable mention certificates.

For more information on the Ontario Renews Awards, contact: Ontario Renews Awards, Ministry of Housing, Housing Conservation Unit, 777 Bay Street, Toronto, Ontario, M5G 2E5, (416) 584-6514.

VOLUNTEERS APPRECIATED – Maxville Manor held a Volunteer Recognition Evening last Thursday, honoring 44 people with pins for five years service or more. Coordinator Sue MacDonald said the manor wouldn't be able to provide many of the services it does without the help of these volunteers.

Committee to raise funds

WILLIAMSTOWN — Charlottenburgh Council announced appointment of five township residents to the St. Raphael's Ruins Committee at its regular meeting April 14.

When council made its committee appointments for 1987 in January it had received no applications for the St. Raphael's Committee. Apparently those members previously serving on the committee had not realized that they had to re-apply to be considered for inclusion on this year's Ruins Committee.

Subsequent applications were received by the township with the following people indicating a willingness to serve: Michael Lazor, Anna Margaret MacDonald, Godfrey O'Connor, Maurice O'Connor, and Ewen Kennedy.

This year the group will be instructed to "raise funds to help offset operational costs," according to Councillor Larry Gordon, who along with Deputy-reeve Bob Roth will sit as township appointees

Correction—MacCulloch

Due to a typographical error, one name was omitted from a recent report on the death of John Allan (Jack) MacCulloch of Glen Roy.

In listing the survivors, the obituary should have read as follows: "Seven children survive—Brian of Winnipeg; Patricia of Greenfield; Sandra of Winnipeg; Cathy of Glen Robertson and Robert, Kellie and Patrick of Glen Roy.

We apologize to the MacCulloch family for the error and, in particular, to Robert MacCulloch, whose name was not included.
