Knox members quit church, U.C.W. folds

Store for the needy expected to close

by Pauline Ashton
News* correspondent

The congregation of Knox United Church in Lancaster has been torn apart over the issue of ordaining homosexuals into the ministry.

Four members of the United Church Women (UCW) in Lancaster executive resigned at an Aug. 31 meeting. After replacements could not be found, the UCW voted to disband. The Knox Bargain Centre, which is operated by the UCW, is scheduled to close later this month.

The Centre is a non-profit clothing store used by individuals in the community on low and fixed incomes.

And Sunday, a number of members of the 30-family congregation withdrew their church memberships. Eric Urquhart, leading services in the absence of the vacationing Rev. Donald Chisholm, was asked by withdrawing members to lead them in worship services on future Sundays.

Rev. Chisholm was contacted by The News, Tuesday, less than a day after his return from holidays. He said he had hardly been aware of the United Church's decision because he'd been without the use of newspapers, radio or television for the last month.

He also said that the problems within the Knox congregation was news to him and that members of his congregation he had spoken with Monday had not mentioned anything.

Rev. Chisholm preferred not to comment on the situation until he has investigated.

He added, however, he is concerned about the Knox church congregation, but he respects anyone's wishes to do what they want.

Mr. Urquhart explained to The News Monday, "We don't really want to leave our church. I agreed to lead services next Sunday but I can't tell you the time or place because I do not want to influence members of any other local congregations."

He said the dissident group wants to keep together and not join any other denomination.

"We hope there will soon be a movement in the United Church back to sanity — a reformation back to the good old days when right was right and wrong was wrong."

The upset has come in the wake of a decision taken last month at the United Church General Council meeting in Victoria that, "all persons regardless of their sexual orientation who profess faith in Jesus Christ are welcome to become full members of the church." All United Church members are eligible to be ordained into the ministry.

Mr. Urquhart pointed out that the Knox congregation decided when the issue was discussed last year "that people with homosexual orientation seek ways of healing and change — and that the church encourage the development of supportive ministries for this process — and that the church not ordain homosexuals till such healing was complete."

Mr. Urquhart's wife Sheila, secretary of the UCW, also resigned along with UCW President Joyce Lalonde, Sylvia Pilkington, convener of the Knox Bargain Centre run by the UCW on Lancaster's Main Street — and Diana Wakeley, social convener.

Knox UCW was effectively disbanded, Mrs. Urquhart told The Glengarry News "because no one wanted to take over and a new executive could not be elected.

"It was the saddest time of our lives," Mrs. Urquhart reported. The UCW issued a press release describing the dispersal of its $1,500 funds.

After its lease runs out at the end of September the Knox Bargain Centre will be closed and the proceeds of the closing sale will go to the Cornwall Joint Hospital Building Fund.

Funds on hand will be divided among the following community projects: The Children's Wish Fund, Hotel Dieu Palliative Care Unit, Agape food bank in Cornwall, Baldwin House for battered women, Canadian Bible Society and Lancaster Non-Profit Housing Corp.

Asked why the UCW took these actions while their minister, Rev. Chisholm, was on vacation, Mrs. Urquhart explained, "We have been thinking, talking, and praying about this problem for a long time, and when we said we were not staying if this decision was forced on us, we meant it.

"It was not just a matter of not getting our own way — I'm the one who does not have a church home, or a place to work and serve and share fellowship."

Mr. Urquhart said ordaining homosexuals into the church "is against all teaching — all life is male and

Six resignations to date over GAMR controversy

Yet another resignation to hit the Glengarry Association for the Mentally Retarded has increased the total number of employee and board member resignations to at least six.

The latest employee to leave the association is Residential Director Carol Lapensee. Her departure, which officially took place Sept. 2, is one of five to occur since the beginning of August. Executive Director Terry Brouillet tendered his resignation in May.

When contacted by The Glengarry News, Miss Lapensee confirmed that she tendered her resignation on Aug. 19. She also said she had been working for the association for eight years; as a residential director for the past year and three months and as residential manager for three years prior to that.

She refused to comment further.

Last month, The News learned that three of the association's five team leaders had resigned. Team leaders oversee the day to day operations of group homes for the developmentally handicapped and supervise the counsellors who work in the homes. The residential director supervises the team leaders.

At least one part-time counsellor had also resigned and it was rumored that other employees had left their jobs but this has yet to be confirmed.

Former team leader Shelley McLeod, who spoke with The News in mid-August said she resigned because of the threat of a more gruelling schedule and because of a power struggle between the board and staff. The final blow came when Executive Director Terry Brouillet resigned in May, she said.

The board of directors of the Glengarry Association for the Mentally Retarded, which was re-named the Glengarry Association for Community Living (GACL) earlier this year, remain silent about the resignations. The executive board was expected to meet yesterday (Tuesday) and there have been two or three executive meetings since The News published the first story about association resignations on Aug. 17, reported Second Vice-President Jim Baker.

Ministry of Community and Social Services Community Services manager Frank O'Brien said from his Ottawa office Tuesday that he had visited the GACL office a couple of times recently "at the request of the agency." During these visits, discus-

'Fishy' goings-on in Lancaster

Sunday's rainy weather may have kept attendance down at the Lancaster Fish and Game Club's National Walleye Championships held on the Labor Day weekend, but it didn't dampen the spirits of this year's 'Lady Pickerel', otherwise known as Therese Primeau of Cornwall. Therese was crowned and the amusing banner was draped over her by master of ceremonies Mike Masterman. For more on the derby, see the story on page 13.

Pot plants confiscated by police

About 200 marijuana plants valued at $30,000 to $40,000 were confiscated by Long Sault OPP in Roxborough Township Aug. 25.

William Cumberbatch, 36 and Tracey Watt, 32, both of Roxborough have been charged with cultivation of marijuana, trafficking and possession for the purpose of trafficking.

The two will appear in Cornwall District Court Sept. 16.

Police arrested the accused after searching a one-acre plot of land near Mr. Cumberbatch's residence where the illegal plants were found. A total of 13 kg of marijuana was seized and taken to the Long Sault detachment.

French literacy centre in town facing cutbacks

Alexandria's French literacy community centre, "A la P.A.G.E.", may have to reduce the number of its participants and full-time employees if more funding is not received from the provincial government.

Rejeanne St. Amand, the project's co-ordinator, said that "A la P.A.G.E." and Ontario's other 19 French literacy community centres will suffer because the province has not increased funds for the centres since 1986, when only two such programs existed province-wide.

Mrs. St. Amand said Tuesday that the local centre is hoping to enrol 50 participants and continue to employ three full-time instructors, but claims that the program will have to go part-time if the group does not receive additional money soon.

There is a definite need for such a program in Glengarry County, said Mrs. St. Amand. A survey conducted by the group last year indicated that 35 per cent of franco-Glengarrians were illiterate, translating into about 2,000 Glengarry residents.

She also said the centre is in need of extra funds because they are presently renting offices above the Maurice Lemieux accounting firm on Main Street South. It previously occupied space at the Centre Culturel "Les trois p'tits points...", free of charge.

The Ontario Ministry of Skills Development will be announcing later this week whether it intends to provide the additional funds.

"A public awareness campaign has been launched by the Ontario French literacy groups aimed at informing the community, political figures and French associations in order to publicly expose their poor financing," said Mrs. St. Amand.

Police learn driver of car in fatal crash

Further investigation into a two-car collision that claimed the lives of three area men Aug. 28 has revealed that Conrad Pomainville, 23, of Long Sault had been the driver of the vehicle.

Mr. Pomainville, Luc Racine, 24, of Casselman and Norman Thauvette, 22, of Moose Creek died after being thrown from the vehicle.

Police are waiting for the results of blood samples to determine whether the accident was alcohol related.

PCB warehouses in Glengarry pose no danger: MOE

By Lesley Cadham
News editor

The Ontario Ministry of the Environment (MOE) says there is no cause for alarm as a result of the storage of approximately 11,000 litres of high and low level PCBs stored in three locations in and around Glengarry.

MOE Area Supervisor Ron Robertson told The News Tuesday that PCB storage sites near Maxville, St. Isidore de Prescott and Vankleek Hill are well monitored by the ministry and meet with high PCB storage standards.

The Glengarry News looked into the sites as a result of the St-Basile-le-Grande, Que. disaster which occurred at the end of August.

A warehouse accommodating PCB waste went up in flames, producing a toxic cloud and forcing the evacuation of about 3,500 residents.

But the St-Basile incident has not yet forced the Cornwall branch of the MOE to increase standards.

"Probably something will come down the line eventually at the local level, in light of St-Basile. But we are still satisfied with the management practices in the district. We're in pretty good shape," said Mr. Robertson.

The Cornwall branch has jurisdiction over the three united counties and Prescott—Russell.

According to Mr. Robertson, the Bell Canada radio relay station on Cty. Rd. 22 near Maxville store only about two litres of high-level PCBs — a small quantity by MOE's definition. The PCBs are contained within tiny capacitors which are stored safely inside a drum.

And the Ontario Hydro facility near neighboring St. Isidore de Prescott is the storage site for 140 litres of high level PCBs contained in 14 capacitors and 28 drums of solid low-level PCB waste, amounting to about 5.6 cubic metres. A capacitor failed, spraying other capacitors: All contaminated units were removed and put in safe storage.

And 500 litres of high-level PCBs contained within 200 capacitors, 3,800 litres of low-level PCBs emptied from transformers and .8 cubic metres of low-level PCB solid waste are stored at the Hydro facility on Queen Street in Vankleek Hill.

Solid waste is generally gravel and soil which has been contaminated during a spill.

MOE distinguishes between high and low-level PCBs; High level PCBs are found in equipment, such as transformers and capacitors requiring PCBs to function. Low-level PCBs are found in equipment which does not require PCBs to function, but which has been somehow contaminated.

A high level would be about 650,000 parts per million of PCBs and a low level would be anything from 50 to 500 parts per million.

Companies planning to store PCBs are required to notify the MOE. The ministry evaluates the situation, inspects the storage site and is responsible for approving the storage. Periodical site inspections follow to ensure standards are being followed.

Maxville was last inspected in February, Vankleek Hill in May and St. Isidore in June.

PCB storage sites must be secure and in a location where the risk of

If you haven't yet been out to save the train, next week is as good a time as any to get involved. VIA seems to be very impressed with this group.

Historical Society

The Glengarry Historical Society has put forth its latest newsletter and reports that the next meeting will be held tomorrow night (Thursday) at 8 p.m. at the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum in Williamstown. The speaker will be John Witham, head of the historical research for Environment Canada and he will discuss the Trent-Severn Waterway. Apparently he'll touch on issues such as the "greenhouse effect."

George Hambleton of North Lancaster tells us that August temperatures were normal with an average high of 25.3C and an average low of 14C. The actual high reached 33.5C twice and the low was 5C. Rainfall was 50 per cent above normal at 112 mm with seven thunderstorms.

More resignations at GAMR

sion centered around future development of staff, he said.

Mr. O'Brien added the ministry does not have jurisdiction in employee/employer relations, but must ensure that programs funded by the ministry are delivered properly.

He was "helping to get things back on an even keel so they (association) can offer programs in the way they should," he said.

"Our concern is for the future. We're talking with the agency to ensure things go better in the future. Our approach is not to find fault with people for what happened in the past but how to make things work better in the future."

The ministry will work with the board to hire a new executive director, residential director and team leaders. Meanwhile, association accountant Ruth Deer remains in the position of executive director, a role she filled for nine weeks in 1986.

Former association president Anna Boisvenue was contacted by The News last week and Thursday said her one-year term as president ended when she was voted off the board in the election earlier this year. She chose not to stay on as past-president because "one voice couldn't be heard."

She wouldn't comment further on her statement but said she agreed with a statement made last month by former board member Brock Currie that the board interferes too much in daily operations.

"You're paying individuals money; why pay them if you feel you (board) want to do the job?" she asked.

But she also said, "They (board members) are all volunteers, working for nothing (no pay) and are all very dedicated. I know the board as a whole feels they're doing something sincere. They're honest people. They don't want to hurt the clients."

The GACL operates five group homes for the developmentally handicapped in Alexandria, Green Valley, North Lancaster and Glen Robertson.

spill is minimized. If a spill does occur, it must be capable of being easily contained. PCBs cannot be stored around combustible materials. PCBs are not in themselves combustible; they must be ignited by another source.

PCB storage containers at the Ontario Hydro facilities are grounded to prevent fire should lightning strike, said Mr. Robertson.

At the moment, only PCBs of up to 10,000 parts per million can be destroyed and only five companies in Ontario have the approved technology to take on the task.

Though it is not illegal to have well-maintained and functioning equipment containing PCBs in service, new installations of such equipment have been outlawed. Once it has been declared defective, it must be disposed of.

The Auxiliary: Providing care, comfort to patients

By Lesley Cadham
News editor

The Glengarry Memorial Hospital Auxiliary can no longer be represented by the image of a smocked woman wheeling a cart of magazines and candy from room to room. Today the benevolent organization, not bound by hospital walls, reaches out into the community, comforting those in distress and helping seniors to feel less isolated.

Many of the auxiliary's deeds go on behind the scenes; deeds which only patients, their families and other hospital personnel are aware of. But the auxiliary is there, each member working to ensure the welfare of patients and to help raise funds to purchase essential hospital equipment.

Pastoral care

Auxiliary President Vivian DaPrato is one of seven members of the pastoral care or "Christian caring" team. During a patient's hospitalization or in a time of crisis, Mrs. DaPrato helps to answer the emotional and spiritual needs of the patient and his family; a friend when one is needed.

She and three other members are on call in case of emergency.

TAP

Senior citizens are also accommodated; earlier this year, the auxiliary established "TAP" (Telephone Assurance Program) which provides seniors with a daily friendly telephone call.

TAP's purpose is to ensure the safety and well-being of elderly people living on their own. Each day, a TAP volunteer places a call to a senior at a pre-arranged hour. It there is no answer, a person designated by the senior is notified to investigate.

According to TAP committee chairperson Nora Ward, six volunteers are on the TAP committee and there are six seniors who currently use the service.

"Twelve people are thus communicating who might otherwise be very lonely," she says.

Mrs. Ward places calls from her apartment at Florence Villa. Physically limited by arthritis, she enjoys the task and hopes she fills a void in seniors' lives.

Continuing, Active Care

Continuing and Active Care, another aspect of auxiliary services means that volunteeers work one on one with patients, helping them to do everyday tasks or assisting them in physiotherapy. It requires a special type of person to work in this area and the auxiliary is proud to be able to provide such care, says Public Relations Chairperson Carmel Roy.

Continuing and Active Care volunteer Mary Harker says joining the auxiliary was a "wonderful way to get to know people from the area." She moved to Glengarry eight years ago and has been with the auxiliary for six of those years.

"It gives me a great sense of doing something for somebody; makes me feel good inside. Sometimes, you do something for a patient and they never forget it," she says, recalling a few occasions when she received flowers from patients or their families.

Candystripers

Teen volunteers, or "Candystrippers," are 25 strong within the auxiliary. They do everything from bringing sunshine into a patient's day to reading to patients. These volunteers are given first consideration when it comes time to award the Auxiliary Bursary, presented to a high school graduate pursuing a medically-related career. The most recent recipient was Lynn Jeaurond, a graduate of Glengarry District High School.

The gift shop, probably the most visible of the auxiliary's services, is also run by volunteers and is in part stocked by a craft committee which spends countless hours creating floral arrangements. Other members knit and sew at home to provide merchandise.

In the last five years, the auxiliary has supplied over $47,000 toward the purchase of hospital equipment, money raised through sales at the gift shop or through fundraising events.

Last year, the auxiliary was able to purchase a $13,400 sigmoidoscope used to examine intestines. Previously it had purchased a $32,000 x-ray machine and pulmonary function equipment at a cost of $1,800.

And recently, the auxiliary proudly donated $500 to the Maurice Grimes Lodge in Ottawa; a home away from home for patients who are receiving treatment in Ottawa and live too far away to commute.

Hospital Administrator Jerry Adams refers to the auxiliary as the group who "adds the finishing touches to patient care.

"They're a great bunch of people who provide a valuable service to hospital and patients. They do more than raise funds for equipment; they entertain patients and help them out when they're down," he says.

The auxiliary executive is comprised of: President Vivian DaPrato, Past-President Lorette Scharf, First Vice-President Kathy McGrath, Second Vice-President Sandra Lawson, Recording Secretary Ruth Deer, Corresponding Secretary Monique Sauve, Treasurer Albert Brewer and Assistant Treasurer Winnifred Binnie.

Joint committees are Pastoral Care and Non-Smoking, chaired by Vivian DaPrato, and TAP, chaired by Nora Ward.

Chairmen of standing committees are: Gift shop, Jels VanStokkom; nominating committee, Lorette Scharf; membership and public relations, Carmel Roy; program, Sandra Lawson; telephone, Monique Roy; archives, constitution and bylaws, Zoe Grant; teen volunteers, Kathy McGrath; continuing care, Ruth Bache; in memoriam, Isobel McDonald and volunteer services, Eleanor Denis.

If you are interested in being part of the hospital auxiliary, drop off your name at the gift shop in the front lobby.

Court Briefs

The following are the cases dealt with by Judge Reginald Levesque in Alexandria Provincial Court, Thursday, Sept. 1.

Guilty of theft

A Glen Walter man was sentenced to 45 days in jail after he was found guilty of theft.

Andre Fontaine, 19, was arrested by Lancaster OPP, Dec. 21, last year, following the theft of a tractor from a Glen Walter residence.

During Mr. Fontaine's trial, the victim testified she saw the accused standing near the tractor a short distance from her home, before he ran away from the scene.

The victim, who lived at Lot 24, first concession in Charlottenburgh Township, saw an individual leaving her property driving a tractor.

She got in her vehicle and observed the tractor in the ditch on Hwy. 2, about one-quarter of a mile from her home.

When she questioned Mr. Fontaine, he ran from the scene.

The woman phoned the police and the man was arrested a few hours later.

The accused has an extensive theft-related record and Judge Levesque issued a harsh warning while handing down his sentence.

"You have numerous convictions for theft and this is the worst record I have ever seen for a young man. That is an amazing accomplishment. Obviously, your punishment must fit the crime," Judge Levesque said.

Court was told all of Mr. Fontaine's thefts have been alcohol related and Judge Levesque told him he must try to correct the problem.

Fined for impaired driving

A North Lancaster man was fined $600 after pleading guilty to impaired driving.

Jean-Luc Desautels, 28, was arrested by Alexandria police in Alexandria Jan. 26, after he was stopped for speeding.

Mr. Desautels was southbound on Main Street and was clocked by police at 92 km in a 50 km zone. While he was questioned by the officer, the offender showed signs of impairment, his breath smelled of an alcoholic beverage and he was unsteady on his feet.

Mr. Desautels was taken to the Maxville OPP detachment for a breathalyzer test, which revealed readings of 145 and 150 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood.

The offender's licence was suspended for one year and he was given two months to pay the fine.

Sentencing delayed

An Alexandria man's sentence has been delayed until Jan. 5 because the judge wants to see an improvement in the offender's drinking problem.

Guy Robinson, of William Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of break and enter at a June 23 appearance in Alexandria provincial court.

Mr. Robinson's sentence was delayed a second time in provincial court Thursday. Judge Reginald Levesque said it was an unusual procedure for him to delay the man's sentence twice.

"I don't think I've ever done this before. But Mr. Robinson, I want you to show me you can deal with your alcohol problem and that is why I am delaying your sentence until January. I want further investigation on your drinking problem at that time," Judge Levesque said.

Mr. Robinson was charged May 6 in Alexandria after entering a residence and walking off with a .410-gauge shotgun and two shells.

He then drove to a field in Lochiel Township and used the gun for an attempted suicide.

The offender then walked back to Alexandria and was seen by an individual. The individual phoned the police, advising them Mr. Robinson was shot in the shoulder.

He was taken to Glengarry Memorial Hospital for treatment of a gunshot wound and spent two weeks in the hospital.

Ordered to keep peace

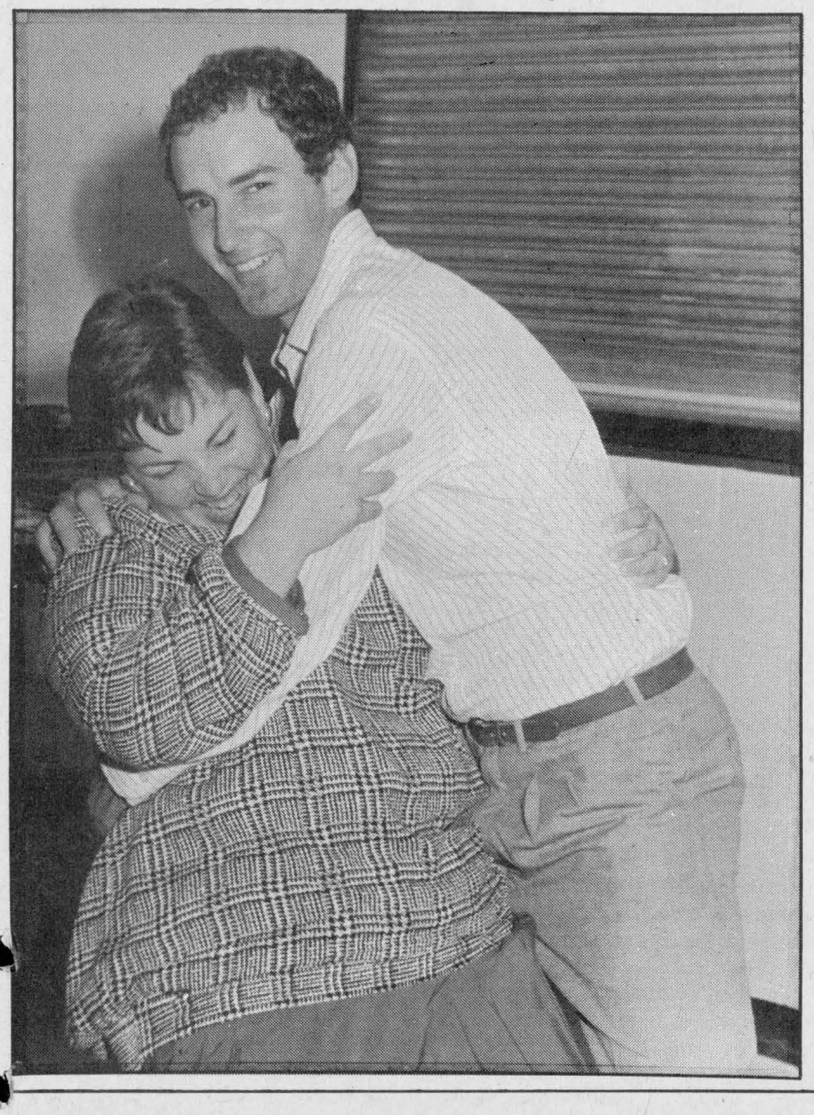
An RR2 Alexandria woman has been ordered to keep the peace for one year with three neighboring families after she harassed them with numerous phone calls earlier this year.

Juliette Montpetit was placed in a common-law peace bond by Judge Reginald Levesque, Thursday, and was ordered not to communicate with the three complainants.

Miss Montpetit was charged that between February of last year and April of this year, she made a number of harassing phone calls.

One of the families asked Bell Canada to trace the calls and it revealed that Miss Montpetit had made about 100 phone calls to the victims.

Tagwi's first graduates reunite in Maxville



The Maxville Sports Complex was buzzing with the happy sounds of people re-uniting for the first time in years, Saturday night. About 70 students and their husbands, wives and friends celebrated the 10th anniversary of Tagwi Secondary School's first graduating class. There were 120 guests in total. The proceeds from the event will go to the school for recreation equipment. On the left, Andy Blair of Maxville clowns around with former school mate Miriame Vallance of Avonmore. The two organized the event. At the right, Guylaine Thauvette of Kapuskasing, left, greets Doreen Jans-Epp of Kanata with a hug. Ms. Thauvette was Valedictorian in 1978.

Former area man plunges to death in Cornwall

A former Glengarry resident died Friday morning as a result of a fall from a second storey balcony in Cornwall.

Raymond Tyo, 41, was clinically dead when he reached Ottawa Civic Hospital Thursday, and was pronounced legally dead on Friday.

According to his brother Robert of Alexandria, Mr. Tyo fell from the balcony at his girlfriend's apartment on Carleton Street. The Cornwall Police Department is investigating.

Mr. Tyo is a Martintown native, the son of Paul Tyo, who still lives in the hamlet, and the late Lea Challette.

Mr. Tyo lived in Cornwall at the time of his death, having moved there three years ago, and is survived by his former wife Eileen Denis and four children: Raymond Jr., 22, Julie, 19, Allison, 21 and Tammy 14, all of Cornwall. Mr. Tyo also had three grandchildren.

Also mourning his death are three brothers and two sisters: Emile of Williamstown and Robert and Edmond of Alexandria, and two sisters, Madeleine of Lancaster and Pauline of Apple Hill. He was predeceased by another brother, Alex.

Burial was at St. William's Church cemetery in Martintown.

Pallbearers were Archie Willard Jr., Elmer Tyo, Edgar Mayer, Jacques Patenaude, Stephane Tyo and Frank Groves.

According to Robert Tyo, Raymond moved from Martintown to Monkland about six or seven years ago. He operated Monkland Sanitation Service for three or four years and had been employed as a driver for Permanent Concrete at the time of his death.

The investigation continues.

Car, trailer rolls into ditch

A Chateauguay woman suffered minor injuries when she lost control of her 1984 GMC van and rolled it and her trailer in tow into the north ditch of Hwy. 401.

Gertrude Dimitriu, 58, was westbound on Hwy. 401 on Sept. 2, 1988 at 5:40 p.m. when the accident occurred.

She was rushed by ambulance to Cornwall General Hospital where she was later released.

Constable Richard Champagne was the investigating officer. No charges were laid.

Avoided deer

A Summerstown man swerved to avoid a deer crossing his car path, but struck a nearby fence on Charlottenburgh's second concession on Sept. 2 at 11 p.m.

Robin Casgrain, 41, was uninjured from the accident, but his 1988 Toyota station wagon received moderate damage.

No charges were laid in the incident. Constable Roy McGrath investigated.

Alert checks

Lancaster OPP checked 147 vehicles in the Hwy. 2 area on September 5, and 16 vehicles elsewhere in the county on Labor Day.

The checks were at the detachment level and not part of the RIDE program. The checks resulted in two warnings being issued.

RIDE nabs one

The RIDE program nabbed one impaired driver and issued four 12-hour suspensions on Labor Day.

Boat thefts

Lancaster OPP are warning Glengarry boaters to remove any loose or valuable equipment from their vessels before leaving them. The detachment has received several recent reports of thefts from local boats.

Hit-and-run

Alexandria police are looking for a hit-and-run vehicle which struck a parked vehicle on Catherine Street on Sunday evening.

A 1985 Chevrolet pick-up truck owned by Gaetan Landriault of 106 Victoria Street was parked on the south side of Catherine Street, just east of Main Street. The estimate of damage is unknown.

Man charged

An Alexandria man was charged as a result of a two-car collision which occurred on Catherine Street near Dominion Street on Saturday morning.

Elie Massie, 89, of 22 St. Paul Street was charged with "pulling out from parked position not in safety" after he pulled out of a parking space and collided with a vehicle driven by Glen MacDonald, 29, of RR4 Alexandria.

Mr. Massie was driving a 1972 Chevrolet coupe and Mr. MacDonald a 1987 Pontiac 6000 sedan.

There were no injuries.

and female — and with the problem of AIDS, child abuse, child pornography — enough already — somewhere something in the world has gone whacky. It's too much."

Former UCW social convener Diana Wakeley told The News, Monday that "Knox congregation is a small hardworking group of 30 families and the whole thing is heartbreaking.

"I've been a member of the United Church for 35 years and no one at the upper levels of our church is listening to us," Mrs. Wakeley explained.

The other two churches in the charge, St. Andrew's in Bainsville and Salem in Summerstown have not recorded any resignations as yet over the issue.

"Although we are 100 per cent against the General Council decision — we are holding fast on St. Andrew's," spokesman Archie Robertson reported. Salem elder Frank Firth said his Summerstown congregation is holding together with a "wait and see" attitude.

In Alexandria, Rev. Colin MacDonald said the four-point charge of 250 families served by him and his wife Rev. Pat Gale-MacDonald, will discuss the problem at a meeting next week. Their charge includes the Church on the Hill in Alexandria, Dalhousie Mills, Glen Sandfield and East Hawkesbury churches.

Rev. Frank Bailey said his congregation in Maxville United Church will be holding a congregational meeting Sept. 7, to thrash out local feelings about the General Council decision.

Editorials/Opinion

Town obligated to pay for war memorial

The Corporation of the Town of Alexandria has both a moral and contractual obligation to completely fund the repairs needed at the Glengarry War Memorial. Anything less is an abrogation of responsibility and an insult to the memory of the Glengarrians who died for Canada in the first and second world wars.

Last week, a letter to the editor appeared in this newspaper eloquently encouraging county citizens to contribute funds to repair and improve the monument to Glengarry's war dead. A few private donations have since been forwarded to the war memorial committee, and the beginnings of a public campaign to pay for the repairs seems to be under way.

Expected to total $5,000, the repairs are urgently needed. Committee members and other officials who have examined the monument feel the stonework could not survive another winter of sleet storms.

But before a groundswell of private support gains momentum, the committee's assertions that Alexandria is responsible for such repairs should be addressed by town council.

Then the municipality should act.

The committee quite rightly points to details in the original deed showing the town has the historic responsibility to repair the monument. It clearly states the town "will keep and maintain the said lands and premises above described, together with the walls surrounding the same and the monument or memorial erected thereon, in neat and good condition and repair while the said monument or memorial remains upon the said lands including the removal of weeds and the cutting of grass."

The deed also states the monument "shall be and remain for all time as a memorial to the men of the County of Glengarry . . ." In other words, while the war memorial and the grounds were established to recognize Glengarry's war dead, the town had assumed responsibility for the maintenance of it. Indeed, over the years, the town has cut the grass and kept the area around the monument clean.

And so, simply, the terms of the contract should prevail.

From a legal viewpoint, the argument over just who must fund the repairs should end here. But town Mayor J. P. Touchette is prompting the cenotaph committee to seek private donations and funds from the other municipalities in Glengarry, mainly because he feels the town cannot finance the needed work alone.

That stance doesn't make sense. While it's true the town did not budget $5,000 this year for the repairs, surely this project would more appropriately be viewed as an emergency expense, and subject to emergency funding. Normally, municipalities allow for these unexpected costs (truck engine explodes, water main bursts, and several others) by drawing from its equipment reserve fund.

Besides, $5,000 is not such a great deal of money that the town cannot over-extend its budget by that amount, even if it chose to bypass the reserves option.

And this method of funding non-budgeted projects is not unprecedented. In 1987, the town didn't budget for new washrooms at Island Park at a cost of $24,000, a project hardly as important or as urgent as the repair of the cenotaph. Nor did it budget for others such as the new police cruiser and speed detector, items regarded as important but outside the sphere of housekeeping expenses.

But quite apart from the financial implications, it's highly disturbing that responsibility for the upkeep and repairs to the cenotaph has even become an issue. It is quickly taking on the dimensions of a first-class political football, to be kicked around until a breach-of-contract lawsuit is filed against the town, or worse, the monument topples because nobody wants to take the responsibility to repair it.

If town council leaves funding of this project up to individuals, private donors or other municipalities, it will be shirking its historic responsibility and essentially turning its back on the graves of the men from Glengarry who fought and died so future generations could live.

Morally, nothing could be more repugnant.

Making 'back to school' a safer phrase to use

Back to school.

It's a phrase that strikes fear and discontent into the hearts of kids filled to the brim with summer memories, and one that sends parents into fits of joy and relief.

But it also means that both students on their way to school and motorists have to re-adjust their driving and pedestrian habits. It's a time of year to be especially careful.

A little caution this Fall by everybody involved will make our communities safer places for both student and driver.

"IT'S COMMON KNOWLEDGE THAT I INTEND ON BEING MAYOR UNTIL THE YEAR 2000" — TOUCHETTE...

Fear of learning takes a back seat to fear of illiteracy

AFTER THOUGHTS
Joe Banks

I'd be willing to bet there's more than a few of us out there who shared the same feeling on the first day of school. Remember that knot deep down in the belly slowly tightening in anticipation of another anxiety-laden year of books, tests and an uncertain social standing in the school's popularity hierarchy?

We wanted to do well. And yet, we wondered if we had the brains to fulfill the expectations we, our teachers and parents assigned ourselves.

Today as grown-ups, those fears are stilled for the most part, replaced by the day-to-day anxieties of making a living. But there's good reason, as each new school year dawns, that some less tangible fears might remain. They are the fears of lost prospects and dashed dreams; the fear of illiteracy.

It's ironic that as youngsters we were afraid of the unknown school year that lay ahead. And yet without those years, we would have lived in infinitely greater fear, never really communicating with people other than through the spoken language; of never being able to read books, magazines, road maps or street signs.

But, we made it. We were ground through the system, and came out reading and writing the way we were supposed to. But there's increasing evidence that shows the so-called learneds in our society have good reason to fear the spiralling illiteracy rate, and that they have a stake in bringing it down.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation and the American Society of Newspaper Editors are so convinced they have a major stake in those numbers that they've declared Sept. 8 (tomorrow) National Newspaper Literacy Day, held in conjuction with World Literacy Day. Now you might be saying to yourself, "Well of course they're concerned. Fewer literates mean fewer readers and fewer advertisers." But the tentative fears being expressed by the industry go far deeper than lost readers. They rest in the concern for the impact on the economy, jobs and the future of the communities they serve.

In the U.S., 21 million adults cannot read at a "survival" level; an estimated 40 million cannot read bus schedules, job applications or the local newspaper. In Canada, 5 million adults can't read, write or use numbers well enough to meet the literacy demands of today — and one-third are high school graduates.

These numbers have been quoted before here, on occasion by the late News president Gene Macdonald. He regarded illiteracy as a growing cancer, the cure for which extended beyond the education systems and social programs thought to be the main allies in the war against illiteracy.

Gene knew that we couldn't just instruct the government to make people literate. The problem is far more complex than simply leading the horse to water. Solutions — if there are any — lay in revamping our view of education, the abilities of ordinary people and business involvement

Surely, educators and politicians must be finding it difficult to defend the status quo. If a complete restructuring of all school programs is not in order now, the fact still remains that too many young people aren't getting the education they will need to properly function in a rapidly changing workplace.

Indeed, business organizations are highly critical of the current programs. Jim Bennett of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business called the semester system an "abomination" and described the credit system as "ill-informed grazing from a smorgasbord of interesting but questionably useful options."

Certainly newspapers have an interest in making more people literate. But without other like-minded business communities and people normally detached from the education system getting involved, our society will find its interests have long since eroded — and halt the machinery that makes it function.

P.S.: The Tri-County Literacy Council will be holding the grand opening of its new office at 8 Second Street in Cornwall at 7:30 p.m. Thursday The council, our main combatant in the fight against illiteracy in Glengarry, will also be hosting mall booths. Free hotdogs will be served at the office, and street clowns and street bands will entertain. Attend if you can, and support the council in its efforts.

Original gay report not actually accepted

To the editor:

I feel some clarification is needed concerning the article in The News of Aug. 31 "Church okays controversial gay report."

First, it must be made clear that the report, "Toward a Christian Understanding of Sexual Orientation, Lifestyles and Ministry" that was released in March has been received for information (i.e., shelved) by the General Council. The recommendations that were adopted by General Council were brought forward by a sessional committee at the General Council meeting in Victoria. These recommendations are radically different from the recommendations that were proposed in the original report in March. The recommendations of the original report have not been adopted.

What was meant by the statement "The system isn't broken, so it doesn't need to be fixed," was that the sessional committee at General Council upheld the present system of ordination and commissioning in the United Church of Canada. That system gives power and responsibility to, first, the local elders of a congregation either to accept or not accept people who feel called to the Ordered Ministry. After the local elders, the person then goes on to Presbytery for oversight and then to Conference for ordination/commissioning. General Council has never laid down specific guidelines as to who can or cannot be ordained or commissioned. Indeed, General Council has never been given that kind of power.

What I said was that the present system for ordaining and commissioning works well, and does not need to be tampered with, as the original report in March would have done.

I do not recall having said that the recommendations that were adopted by this General Council give a green light for practicing homosexuals to be ordained or commissioned in the United Church of Canada. In fact, the recommendations stop short of saying such a thing. Sections 3 and 4a, b, c of the recommendations state the following:

"All persons regardless of sexual orientation, who profess faith in Jesus Christ and obedience to Him are welcome to be or become full members of the Church. All members of the Church are eligible to be considered for the Ordered Ministry. All Christian people are called to a lifestyle patterned on obedience to Jesus Christ. That all congregations, presbyteries and conferences covenant to work out the implications of sexual orientation and lifestyles in the light of the Holy Scrip-

Till death do you part

THAT'S LIFE
Lesley Cadham

The scenes from yesterday's early-morning drive to work will probably, for some time to come, remain as vivid as if they'd been registered on canvas.

As I made my way past the already harvested fields, I couldn't help but notice tiny droplets which still partially covered the windows of passing cars. Yes, that undeniable September chill was already in the air, threatening winter and students, waiting for buses to transport them into the new school year were wearing heavier sweaters and jackets.

For a moment, I was transported back in time, to that days many years ago when my mother let go of my hand and encouraged me to follow a gaggle of giggling, chattering children into the school. I was more than a little distressed by the situation.

I'd never make it through the day with these youngsters, these faces I'd never seen before. They were strangers; not the friendly faces of my own friends at the playground. I wanted to go home. And at that moment, I wanted it more than anything in the world.

But somehow, I made it through the day and the days that followed turned into months and those months, into years. Before I knew it, I was following a disciplined line of men and women to the place where we would all collect the fruits of many years of labor: Our university degrees.

It's unbelievable how quickly those years passed. But they were great years; filled with carefree after-school walks to the park, basketball games and not so pleasurable, homework.

As young students, it was not our lot to worry about mortgages, escalating grocery bills or the cost of orthodontic braces. We concentrated on reading every tiny typewritten word in A Tale of Two Cities.

And for many of us, our biggest concern was finding a credible excuse to get out of math class.

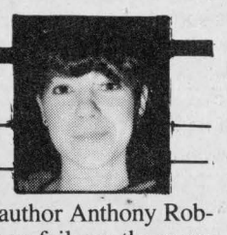
We were "browsing through time," as I've heard it said, looking for a purpose in life, looking to achieve goals we would be proud of.

To students who started school during the last week, savor these years. Make them count. Realize how lucky you are.

Before you know it, the responsibilities that go with post-education years will be yours to have to hold till death do you part.

The specter of fiscal success

WORD SKETCH
Sybil Carello



In his book, Unlimited Power, author Anthony Robbins claims there's no such thing as failure; there are only results.

Of course we know there are important, life-shaping lessons to be learned from falling in an undignified heap, 365 kilometres away from the finish line. And we know — how well we know — that humankind should be judged according to overall worth, not solely by the heft of its wallet.

But knowing this has never made any difference. We continue to use the latter, time-honored method to separate the winners from the losers. We sorta believe that song about no one loving you when you're down and out.

Most of us are familiar with the over-achiever, poised on the dizzying edge of success, ready to make all the required sacrifices.

But Gilbert Brim, psychologist and author of Losing and Winning: The Nature of Ambition in Everyday Life, argues that some people can become psychologically trapped by their own success. Expectations rise with each achievement. And at the top where their capacity hits the 90 to 100 per cent mark, life really takes on a frenetic spin.

Some of us not so aggressively attuned to the race might rationalize that other aspects of life, other levels of work-related ventures have just as much, if not more, intrinsic value. Yet the spectre of fiscal success in blazing neon lights continues to haunt many of us. It is a cultural pressure we cannot escape.

Success and money. It's become the religion of the 80's and 90's.

Actor Harrison Ford's top 10 movies pulled in $870 million at the box office, making him the single greatest money spinner in the business. Can we really believe him when he says: "I've tasted the fruits of success . . . It's a rich diet — but it's not fully satisfying, and it isn't always healthy to eat like that."

At social gatherings, we drag around our carefully constructed well-appointed shells.

What's in there? someone challenges, for the purpose of a comparative study.

I'm a pizza maker at Elio's, you reply. And because there is an overt display of eye-rolling, you feel compelled to defend your career choice. Sure, the money's not the greatest, you explain, but I like the gang I work with; I like the customers too. Then a genuine smile curls up the corners of your lips. What I really love, though, is the feeling I get each time I throw the dough up in the air. It spins — once, twice, three times — then I catch it, smooth as silk, on the back of my hand.

But the inquisitor has already dismissed you and gone in search of people wearing wing-tipped shoes and Cartier watches.

Big time writer James Michener puts it all in proper perspective. He says he like challenges; he doesn't mind defeats; he doesn't gloat over victories.

He just wants to be in the ballgame.

Letters

tures, according to their responsibilities as stated in the (United Church) Manual."

These words in no way give a green light for the ordination/commissioning of self-declared homosexuals. What the General Council has done is to give the responsibility back to the congregations, presbyteries and conferences, where it has always (rightly) been.

The General Council has gone on to say that the report that was released in March "does not reflect the present position of the United Church of Canada." Further, the General Council has directed the appropriate courts and divisions of the Church to "address the issue of our concern for pastoral care of individuals and groups in our United Church of Canada community who feel unheard, manipulated or estranged."

It is important to remember that the General Council has not endorsed the original report that sent shockwaves through the Church this spring. The General Council has tried to reach a compromise position. Whether it has succeeded in that remains to be seen. But I would ask that those who feel disappointed by the decision of the Council, not to act in haste. Our church is worth your patience and prayers.

Yours truly,
Rev. Colin MacDonald,

Self-serving view of reality

To the editor:

At the recent Williamstown Fair a free bulletin caught my interest. Its title was "Farming Canada's Forest." As one somewhat involved in wood, trees, reforestation and allied topics and having planted somewhere near half of the 10,000 trees that my better half and I have struggled to put into rocky acres in the past nine years, I'm ofted snared by catchy titles and booklets on the subject.

This time, as usual, the depth and content were a disappointment except as a thought stimulus. One premise particularly that the authors were arguing on behalf of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, struck a discordant note. They contend that the pure virgin stands of a single tree species often found by our forebears, can be compared directly to the modern practice of clear-cutting followed by replanting of conifers so preferred by the Pulp and Paper industry.

In the maritime area of my early years, on forest lands burned over, Nature would usually ensure an initial crop of birch. As humus built up from the birch leaf mould, spruce and balsam fir conifers would gradually overtake the birch which then would slowly die out.

Adjacent to our present farm in Breadalbane is an area which I'm told was burned over some 50 or 60 years ago. On this is a post fire growth of now maturing poplar which too has other species starting to crowd the shorter lived poplar. The humus from the poplar leaves is fulfilling its function.

For the paper companies to compare these natural regeneration cycles to their preferred method of clear cutting, followed by conifer planting, is a self-serving falsehood. The humus replacement cycle is completely ignored. Not only this but in the time taken to replant and for the conifers to reach soil holding size, erosion and severe leaching of nutrients will often occur, especially on the slopes. As if this were not enough, it is even implied that nurture growth such as supplied by the deciduous tree cycle should be discouraged by the use of chemical herbicides. This in spite of the concerns for the fouling of the water table and other environmental effects known and still unknown from use of these chemicals.

Totally ignored too is the matter of crop rotation. To follow corn with corn for year after year on a given plot requires ever increasing amounts of fertilizer, pesticides and herbicides and engenders higher and higher risk of natural predators, crop disaster and soil depletion. Surely it is likewise unreasonable to expect generation after generation of conifers from a given forest area without incurring similar risks. A corn crop disaster is on an annual time scale, a forest crop disaster is on a lifetime time scale. To promulgate false concepts of forest management is not a matter to be taken lightly.

How often free information from whatever source, Government or Industry or wherever turns out to give a warped, self serving view of reality.

Reader plans to buy Air Canada shares

To the editor:

I am appalled at the strategy of the Liberals and the NDP.

For years we have been trying to get the Canadian people to invest in their country. Now they have a chance to buy shares in Canada's national airline. The Liberals and NDP in their quest for power have condemned this.

I want the Canadian people to know I, Adrian Gadbois have $50,000 in RSP and as it comes due I will take shares in Air Canada. I am sure I will be making a good investment for myself and my country.

Miracles do happen

To the editor:

This should go under the "believe it or not" department.

My uncle had an IVP done at the hospital and it showed that he had a mass on one of his kidneys. He was admitted in Cornwall and underwent all kinds of tests. Different x-rays and ultra sound tests were carried out but they could not find the mass.

We believe in Saint Jude and we believe that he had something to do with it. The doctors don't understand what happened; we believe Saint Jude has performed another of his miracles.

I just wanted to let you know.

Sincerely,
C. Robidoux,
RR2, Apple Hill.

Council Briefs

A regular meeting of Charlottenburgh Township Council took place Aug. 29 in Williamstown. The following are among the items dealt with by council.

Cleary unable to attend

MPP John Cleary, who was invited to attend the Aug. 29 council meeting in order to have an "open discussion" with councillors on problems indigenous to Charlottenburgh, was unable to attend because of "prior commitments," according to Mr. Lapierre.

The clerk-treasurer said he had re-issued the invitation to Mr. Cleary for the Sept. 13 meeting.

Recreation Masterplan meeting

A public meeting to discuss the township's recreation masterplan will be held Sept. 15, according to Councillor Ross, who is a member of the municipality's recreation committee. The meeting will be held at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The full text of the masterplan draft report is available for public examination at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre and at the Williamstown Public Library.

LACAC coming to Charlottenburgh

The future of buildings with historical or architectural importance in the township will be more stable following council's decision to proceed with a bylaw which would set up a Local Architecture Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC).

The committee, to be comprised of both council members and lay persons from the community, will be chosen following advertisements which will be placed in local papers.

Marcel Lapierre, who said he is currently working on the cost of the committee to the municipality, reported he would "set everything in motion."

Referendum update

Clerk-treasurer Marcel Lapierre told council that the Ministry of Municipal Affairs advised the township to take its request for a referendum regarding increased French language services to its solicitors.

According to Mr. Lapierre the solicitors have replied that a bylaw is necessary before the question can appear on the November municipal election ballots.

Meanwhile, office staff has been busy photocopying the more than 800 copies of Charlottenburgh's resolution which council directed be sent to all other municipalities in Ontario.

Approves educational funding

Council approved a staff report recommending that employee Peggy Nickerson be reimbursed tuition fees for two AMCTO supported courses she will be attending at St. Lawrence College.

Ms. Nickerson will be refunded the monies upon successful completion of the courses.

To join R.A.P. for St. Lawrence

Charlottenburgh will participate in the Ministry of the Environment's Remedial Action Plan (R.A.P.) for the St. Lawrence River.

R.A.P. was set up following the designation by the International Joint Commission of 42 areas of concern in the Great Lakes Basin, of which the Lake St. Francis area of the St. Lawrence River is one.

Sept. 26 has been selected as the tentative date of a public meeting when Bob Helliar of the St. Lawrence R.A.P., will present a slide show and hold an open discussion on the program with those interested.

Phones to be installed on passenger trains

Glengarrians will soon be able to "reach out and touch someone" while travelling on the Montreal-Ottawa rail line.

VIA Rail Canada recently announced plans to install credit card cellular telephones aboard trains operating in the Quebec-Windsor corridor.

Installation is scheduled to begin in November and all cellular telephones are expected to be operational in time for the holiday season.

A three-year contract with Cantel Inc. was concluded after a trial period of several months, said Public Affairs Officer Richard Gauthier.

"During the trial period we found that people really enjoyed making phone calls while on the train. It was extremely popular," Mr. Gauthier said last week.

As a result of the agreement, 23 telephones will be installed in all VIA first class cars and 10 others in coach cars, so that each train will have a telephone.

Mr. Gauthier said four trains travelling the Ottawa-Montreal line will be equipped with a phone: from Alexandria to Ottawa at 8:50 a.m. and 6:57 p.m. and the train departing from Alexandria to Montreal at 8:03 a.m. and 6:07 p.m.

Customers will be able to make calls anywhere in the world. To make a call, users simply insert their American Express, Mastercard or Visa, wait for the dial tone and dial the number. The cost to the user will be $1.95 per minute, plus long distance charges and taxes.

Help us find a Jr. Citizen

There's one in every crowd.

Good kids, ones that exemplify the qualities of good citizenship are the target of a province-wide search for Junior Citizens.

Each year, the Ontario Junior Citizens program recognizes youngsters six to 18 years old for their courage, ingenuity, resourcefulness, initiative, leadership, fortitude and community service. But Glengarry's good kids need your nomination to be considered.

Since 1981, the Ontario Junior Citizens program has honored close to 100 children from across the province for their citizenship qualities.

The award recipients and their families will be honored at a testimonial luncheon in Toronto in March, received by Ontario Lieutenant Governor Lincoln Alexander and presented with a cheque for $200, gold lapel pins and family portraits with Mr. Alexander.

A Junior Citizen does not necessarily have to be a "super kid;" he or she could be the youngster who watches your toddlers, cuts your grass, runs errands for an elderly neighbor, coaches little league or is active in the community in hundreds of other ways. A Junior Citizen might be a youngster who has shown great courage in the face of disaster.

Maybe it's a kid who's willing to go that extra mile.

The Glengarry News will accept nominations until Oct. 31, 1988.

The program is co-ordinated by the Ontario Community Newspaper Association with the support of Canadian Airlines International.

Assistants to meet

The St. Lawrence Chapter Ontario Association of Registered Nurses' Assistants (OARNA) will be celebrating its 25th anniversary with an "Afternoon Tea" on Sept. 10 at the Hotel Dieu Hospital.

It will take place from 2-4 p.m. in the doctors dining room at no charge and there will be door prizes. All former and present RNAs are most welcome.

The next monthly meeting of OARNA is on Wednesday, Sept. 7 at the Winchester Memorial Hospital at 8 p.m. All RNAs are welcome.

Area couple marks gold anniversary

Patience and understanding coupled with a lot of love is what has kept Eldred and Beatrice Renaud together for the past 50 years.

The Alexandria couple celebrated their golden anniversary Aug. 6 by renewing their wedding vows at the church where they were married 50 years ago; the Sacred Heart Church in Alexandria. Father Roger Desrosiers officiated at the ceremony.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Renaud drove through town in a Model T Ford. A buffet was held at the Alexandria Pizzeria where several speeches were delivered and gifts presented. The celebration continued later that evening at the Knights of Columbus hall in Alexandria. Over 100 people attended.

The couple was presented with plaques from SD&G and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve and Alexandria Mayor J. P. Touchette and received certificates from Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, Liberal Leader John Turner and Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria.

The following day the two left on a 10-day trip to Quebec City, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Friends and relatives travelled from Martintown, Valleyfield, Cornwall, Montreal, Granby, Ottawa, Bowmanville and Lancaster.

The couple has two daughters, Germaine Campeau and Lorraine Bergeron, and two grandchildren.

NON-PROFIT SENIOR CITIZENS FACILITY owned and operated by a corporation that is directed by 11 non-profit community agencies.
This organization is dedicated to providing the finest care possible to our seniors.

S.O.S.

Maxville Manor is pleased to announce a "new" home support program known as SENIORS OUTREACH SERVICES (S.O.S.) There are five programs available to seniors residing within a 10-mile radius of Maxville Village. The services are co-ordinated through the Manor; and, with the help of the many talented and sincere volunteers of our community, these services are made possible.

The main purpose of the S.O.S. program is to help senior citizens remain independent in their own homes for as long as possible. Through co-ordinated efforts, Maxville Manor aims to increase the quality of life for its community members as this is an important component in the Continuum of Long Term Care.

TRANSPORTATION: Volunteer drivers are available to drive seniors for doctors or medical appointments, shopping, recreation, etc. Clients are charged a set rate/km.

VAN SERVICE: This will be available through the Manor for those with physical disabilities.

MEALS ON WHEELS: Hot, nutritious meals delivered at home. Flat rate/meal charge.

FRIENDLY VISITING: Social interaction on a one-to-one basis encourages friendship and companionship for many seniors living alone.

TELEPHONE REASSURANCE: Regular telephone contact ensures everyday well-being of a needy client.

VOLUNTEERS are responsible for the delivery of all such services. Without their help and dedication these programs would not be possible.

If you are interested in becoming a volunteer or client referrals, contact:

Salad tea planned by Glen Sandfield UCW

The Glen Sandfield UCW met Aug. 31 at the church, instead of in September because the president will be away. It was a "mostly business" meeting.

After Lorna Chapman welcomed the group, Eleanor Bickerstaff read a poem by Helen Steiner Rice called "Teach us how to Live." The president took her prayer from a book by Rev. Wm. Barkley. Nan Campbell read the scripture taken from Matthew 14:22-33. The meditative reading, "Keep looking up," was read by Bessie MacLennan. The devotional portion closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The members' purpose was followed by the minutes, ready by Christena MacLachlan. Margo MacRae gave an encouraging financial report. Business from the minutes, regarding blinds for the west church windows were discussed and Margo MacRae volunteered to get particulars. The hymn sing on Sunday (Sept. 4) was discussed and the outlook for a fine evening was very bright, everyone who was asked had accepted (for the special music).

Several ideas were presented to make the seating at the Salad Tea on Sept. 17 work more smoothly. The bazaar table will be upstairs with the bake table, but the post office table will remain on the stage. The price of admission was set at $2.50; children age six to 12, $1.50, and those under six years old will be admitted free.

It was decided by the group that Sept. 14, a Wednesday, would be the hall cleanup day; time 1 p.m.

Business concluded, the ladies formed a circle for the unison Mizpah benediction.

Recent weekend visitors with Ann and Ken McKenna were Anne McKenna and her husband Chris Meek of Toronto, Sine McKenna, Mary and Sandy McKenna and John Lamont, all of Montreal.

A thousand apologies Brigadoons; your music for the MacRaes Saturday night at the Bonnie Glen was simply wonderful. Why I dubbed you the Clansmen (now defunct) I'll never know! Excuse please!

By the way, this reporter will be away all during the week for the month of September. Please feel free to get in touch Saturdays or Sundays, to give me your news items. If you put them in Box 11 with my name on them anytime at all, I'll get them on the weekend. Thanks for your understanding.

Mildred MacPhee of Toronto and Greta MacMillan of Maxville Manor came over to the church on Wednesday afternoon for a brief visit with the UCW women. A pleasant surprise.

Valley book features county

Glengarry is one of eight places spotlighted in the latest book by Ottawa Valley author Joan Finnigan.

Finnigan's Guide to the Ottawa Valley features suggestions for day-long tours in the Ottawa Valley and focuses on historical sites.

Among the Glengarry locations mentioned is the Glengarry Pioneer Museum in Dunvegan which in the book is described as "one of the most gratifying museum complexes in the Ottawa Valley."

Williamstown sites take considerable space in the volume, with close-ups on the Loyalist and Nor'Westers Museum, Sir John Johnson's Manor House, Bethune-Thompson House and Fraserfield.

St. Raphael's and St. Andrews churches are also featured.

The book also takes a brief look at some of Glengarry's finer eateries.

The book also has historical sketches of famous Glengarrians of old and various historical anecdotes.

The other seven chapters focus on the Ottawa River, Lanark, Aylmer, Pontiac, Renfrew, the Opeongo line and Pembroke.

Its publishers, the Quarry Press of Kingston, describe it as an "unconventional travel book."

Released in July, it is 192 pages long and contains over 40 full-page photos and is now available in local bookstores.

Catching up on three weeks of news

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-2279

Missing a column every now and then isn't such a bad idea. Looking over the bits and pieces of news which have accumulated during the past few weeks, I see that almost every aspect of life in Williamstown is represented. With the waning of summer and the dawning of fall, we say goodbye to some and hello to others. We celebrate the milestones of life with our friends and help launch others setting off on new and unknown voyages. Some things stop and others start up — replacements for each other in our lives.

It's not going to be easy, mashing three weeks' news into a column this size, but I'll give it a whirl. And by the way, my clever sister told me I should take a leaf from Hans Christian Andersen and tell you that if you were very ''clever,'' you would have ''seen'' the Williamstown News last week!

When I decided to take holidays at the time I did, I really didn't look too closely at our social calendar, Williamstown. As a result, I missed out on several events of optimum importance: the Green Thumbs Flower Show, the big 90th, and the Museum's Wine and Cheese. To the organizers of the first and last of these events, my apologies for not attending, and to those of you who ate of the giant cake, a question: Any indigestion from the nuts and bolts and two-by-fours?

I did manage to re-enter the social swim in time for the send-off for Christine and Clifford Evans. Following a joint service for both of Rev. Evans' churches, the couple was presented with numerous gifts from various groups within the two charges. A lunch and social hour were then held in Irvine Hall with the overflow crowd sheltering under a marquee which had, fortunately, been set up outside. Though credit must go to the many people who helped with the event, I believe it was Carol Edwards and Sylvia Thomson who were the main organizers of this most memorable of occasions.

By the way, one of the gifts received by the Evans was a beautiful quilt made by the ladies of the church which featured the names of contributing members.

We wish Clifford and Christine the very best of luck on their re-location to Almonte, and hope that Mr. Evans' retirement will be interrupted by frequent journeys back to the pulpits of the St. Andrews'.

At the same time, we welcome Rev. Norma Beaumet and her husband Marcel, who moved into the manse last week. I'm told that Williamstown's cat population has increased with the new arrivals, bringing a new balance to the ever-waged canine-feline battle.

Meanwhile, next door to the manse, another new arrival has made his presence known. Young Master McDonald, names as yet to be finalized, (though I'm told that Scott is a contender), was born on Aug. 29 to Penny and Don. Congratulations to all (especially to big sister Sarah and big brother Lachlan!)

Before leaving the area of St. Andrew's, young Jordan Lafave made an exciting discovery in the church flower beds last week. Jordan, while helping his mother, Lynn weed and water the flowers, found an old Canadian penny, dating back to 1876. As the coin was rather large and coated with mud, the Lafaves thought at first it was a quarter, and Jordan was told he would be able to spend it at the store. A wash-off revealed its true value.

I can't help wondering about the child who lost the coin so many years ago, and empathizing with him when he failed to produce his collection under the watchful eye of his Presbyterian father!

Digging for buried treasure was one of the games played at the Williamstown Library's wind-up party for the summer reading program, ''Let's Dig.''

Grand champion reader this summer was Megan Sloan with a total of 119 books. In the intermediate division, Grant Cumming was the winner with 49 books, while James Donnan was the winning senior.

Others who qualified for the end of season party by reading at least three books this summer, were: Kate MacIntyre, Eric Vande Nieuwegiessen, Patricia Robertson, Kim MacLachlan, Maria MacDonald, Kirsty MacDonald, Loes Vande Nieuwegiessen, Laura Rawnsley, Toni Achilles, Sarah Gordon, Simon Harrington, Jesse Lafave, Amanda McCue, Steven Doonan, David Small, Heather Smith, Sarah Meyer, Bobbie Jo Achilles, Christine Sloan, Kelly Giroux, Lisa Cooke, Sarah Harrington and Michael Johnson.

A couple of weddings took place in the last little while. Congratulations to Donna Anderson, daughter of Don and Anne Anderson, who was married to David MacLachlan, son of Wayne and Sharon MacLachlan, on August 20. Talk about the girl next door!

On Friday, at St. Mary's Church, Angela Major, daughter of Bruno and Karla Major, married David Fontaine, son of Wilfred and Delores Fontaine of Cornwall.

Congratulations too, to Jake and Margaret Leonard, formerly of Williamstown, who celebrated their 50th anniversary recently.

Mary-Rose Pilon, Clarice MacPherson, Pete and Alda Major, Charlie and Reta Heath, and Basil and Eileen Tait had a nice vacation this summer when they travelled to the Kitchener area. They were particularly impressed by St. Jacob's, located in Mennonite country. Apparently there are lovely crafts in the boutiques and a wonderful farmers' market, where one can spend time (and money).

Charlie's son John, daughter-in-law Trudy, and grandson, Niall from Montreal, visited with the Heaths recently.

Daphne MacDonald's summer visitors included Pauline McNish who came all the way from Georgia, Shirley Abrams from Ohio, and Shelley, Eric and John William New from Hamilton.

Visitors from Toronto included Lynn MacDonald, Allan Turner and Muriel McMillan.

Sympathy is extended to Alex McDonell and family on the death of Aileen McDonell which occurred on Aug. 21, following a struggle with cancer.

Picnic Grove's Simply Super Sophisticated Seamstresses participated in the Sewing Plus 4-H achievement night held recently at Glengarry District High School.

Carla Wood of the Picnic Grove Club was awarded a travel alarm clock for having completed 18 projects, while Ursula Vogel received a pin for six projects.

Other seamstresses who modelled their shirts included Karen Runions, Sarah Harrington, Johanna Harrington and Kathryn Blair.

Anne Donkers was the club's leader.

Two events are coming up for the Glengarry Community Club. On Sept. 12, the club will hold its regular monthly euchre at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre at 8 p.m.

On Sept. 14, the group will hold its annual bus trip, which this year, will be to Ottawa and will include a boat trip on the Rideau.

Sympathy is extended to the Pomainville, Racine and Thauvette families in our neighboring community of Moose Creek in the loss of their three sons. An extremely large crowd of friends and relatives called at the Munro Funeral Home to pay their respects to two of the boys who were killed in the accident. It was reported that the line-up into the funeral home was a block long at one time during the evening.

The memorial service for those buried in the Maxville Cemetery attracted a good representation to the United church a week ago last Sunday. The service was conducted by the Rev. Gary Van Bruchem, assisted by the Rev. Father Rejean Lebrun and Olive Shields, representing the Anglican church.

The floral tributes at the cemetery were a visual indication of the interest shown on this special day.

Some of those in attendance who have retained ties with the village for many years were Mr. and Mrs. Duncan MacLeod, Bill McDermid, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald MacEwen, Rhoda Stewart Calbeck, her daughter and son and her sister, Bessie MacLennan.

Would you like your children to learn the art of playing the Highland bagpipes? We have an excellent school at Maxville. This school was organized by Pipe Major John MacKenzie over 20 years ago and has a history of continued success. The school is now under the direction of Colin MacLellan who is chief instructor.

The fall term begins on Saturday, Sept. 24, and lessons will be held in Maxville Public School. Mr. MacLellan will teach beginners in the morning and if sufficient numbers enrol, there will be two classes, 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. An afternoon class will be taught at 1 p.m. for beginners who cannot come in the morning. Classes will be divided according to age and competence. All students should have a chanter with them for their first lesson. There are many chanters in the area and a few enquiries could possibly locate one for each student. Mr. MacLellan will also be teaching classes at different levels from 1-4 p.m. Older players, former pupils, and present pupils are all invited to return. A good enrolment means a vital school and ensures a continued membership in the Glengarry Pipe Band.

Drumming lessons will be given at all levels with Margaret St. John in charge. Margaret has had a very successful year as instructor. Beginning students should have drumsticks with them for their first lesson and be at the school at 1 p.m.

For further information call Colin MacLellan 527-3170 or Pres. Larose Graham, 525-4058.

Young at Heart euchre

Atthe senior citizens' euchre last week, familiar names appear in the list of winners but there is no sign of the king and queen. That they are giving others a chance to win may be an excuse but certainly isn't a reason.

Ann Michaud had top score for the ladies followed by Gladys Barton from Vankleek Hill and Myrle MacMillan from Apple Hill.

Laggan's John MacMaster led the men once again with Mac O'Byrne coming in with second highest score and Norbert Ryan taking third place.

Sarah Presley, Finch, had her tally card drawn for the door prize.

Pauline Ryan took home more money than her husband with two wins in the 50-50 draw. Other lucky winners were Diane Giroux of Green Valley, Ella MacLeod of Dunvegan, Bill MacMillan of Apple Hill, Jessie Renwick of Vankleek Hill, Nellie McMaster of Finch, Helen Jackson of Monkland and Grace Doth.

The next party will be on Sept. 12.

Dental assistant

Guylaine Souligny graduated recently from the Ontario Dental Nurses and Assistants Association course at Algonquin College. She is the daughter of Laurent and Helene Souligny of Moose Creek. She is now employed full-time at Dr. Guy Laplante's dental clinic in Casselman. She is also a graduate of Glengarry District High School.

Area farmer gets top honors

A Martintown dairy farmer has walked away from the Central Canada Exhibition (CCE) with three major prizes.

Donald Johnston received premier exhibitor honors in the Holstein division, as well as showing the top two animals from the same dam.

His cow Hawley Lancer Mame took the award for best two-year-old.

Mr. Johnston beat out about 100 other competitors at the CCE's Holstein show on Aug. 23.

Since the premier breeder prize goes to the exhibitor with the highest number of points, Mr. Johnston says that the win was not a total surprise.

"We knew we were having a good night," he recalls, "it was quite a thrill."

This is the first time Mr. Johnston has won an award at the CCE. He says that he has been competing for eight years.

GREEN VALLEY

Evelyne Secours
525-1350

School days, school days; here are the golden rule days; reading, and writing and arithmetic, and that's all about it, isn't it?

It ws so nice shopping this week, to see little children buying their school supplies, lunch boxes, and etc. For me they seemed anxious to go back and meet their friends and teachers, or even to take their bus. I wish you all a successful year. Oh yes, don't forget an ''apple'' for your teacher.

Marc Brunet paid me a visit with his mother Jocelyne on Thursday morning (Sept. 1) before starting school for the first time at Ste. Marie's School in Green Valley. I have another little friend who started his first year yesterday (Sept. 6) in St. Raphael's. Kristopher Hehn will be going on the bus. Hope you had a nice day.

Sympathy

To Diane Chénier proprietor of Domaine Maria Goretti, for the loss of her brother Norman Thauvette, who was accidently killed with two others in a car accident last weekend. Also condolences go out to the other families who lost their loved ones. Friends, relatives of this area, and Green Valley are deeply touched.

Just a thought

There is nothing really the matter with me. I'm as healthy as I can be, I have arthritis in both my knees, And when I talk, I talk with a wheeze. My pulse is weak and my blood is thin, But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in, Arch supports I have for my feet, Or I wouldn't be able to cross the street. Sleep is denied me, night after night, But every morning I find I'm alright, My memory is failing, my head's in a spin, But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in. The moral is this, as this tale I unfold, That for me and you who are growing old, It's better to say ''I'm fine'' with a grin, Than to let folks know the shape we are in.

Visiting

Royal, Shirley, Jeffrey and Kevin Secours of Pincourt spent Sunday visiting Isidore and Evelyne Secours and also paid a visit to Rolland and Theresa (Welscher) Bourdeau in Lancaster.

Get well

To our friend Artel Poirier of Green Valley our wishes go your way. Artel had surgery last week, and is home this week. Members of La Vie Montante are praying for you. See you soon.

Birth

To Johanne and Claude Poulin best wishes on the arrival of your son. Christian was baptized in Ste. Marie's Parish, Green Valley Aug. 28.

Reminders

Sept. 8: Scouts inscription in Green Valley at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 8: La Vie Montante: a day of study S.S. Canadian Martyr at Cornwall.

Sept. 11: Curry Hill harvest supper.

Sept. 15: Sessions on Menopause, Perpetuel Secours School, Alexandria.

Sept. 17: Pro-Life rally on Parliament Hill in Ottawa.

Sessions

Starting Sept. 15 there will be six sessions given on menopause at Perpetuel Secours School in Alexandria. For further information call Marthe Chénier at 525-3728.

Scouts

Are you interested in having your son be a scout? For more information, why not go tomorrow night (Thursday) with your son at 7:30 p.m. to Ste. Marie's School in Green Valley, where there will be a demonstration; they call it La Montée. Inscription will also be held after the ceremony.

Registration: Castors: 7, 8 years boys and girls. Louveteaux: 9-11 years. Eclaireurs: 12, 13 years.

The scouts were out on vacation in July when 22 Louveteaux and six animators accompanied them from July 15-18 at Charleston Lake. They say the lake was beautiful, the water clear and not polluted at all. They went swimming every day and made excursions through the woods. The animators that accompanied them were André Menard (captain), Médéric Brunet and Lise Larocque (animators). While there, a few received their official badges: Sylvain Brunet and François Viau received their sport badges and Joey Berniqué the expression badge.

A few others also received honors. Glen Robertson scouts also joined the troop. A good hand of applause to the animators for caring so much for those children. Keep up this good work. Children need so much guidance, good manners, so they can later take their responsibilities. Who knows, they may be our leaders of tomorrow, or just local boys who made good.

Anniversaries

To a brother who is far away in Brandon, Manitoba: Wishes go your way Réné and Mildred (Gareau) on your 40th wedding anniversary on Sept. 24. May the Lord be with you for a long, long time. Have a nice day. From friends and relatives of the area, especially Alexandria. ''Glengarry my Home.''

Congratulations

A former resident of the 9th of Lancaster and now of Green Valley has won the highest points in the newest exhibitor at the Martintown Flower show. She won for her arrangement of dried flowers and came in second.

Anglers tops

A Cornwall couple has won the 1988 National Walleye Championship held on the weekend by the Lancaster Fish and Game Club.

Jean Guy and Aline Campeau took home the first prize of $2,500 after hauling a hefty pickerel out of Lake St. Francis that weighed in at 9 lbs., 6 ozs. Aline caught the fish.

"I figured it was about eight pounds," Aline said of the fish which, she said, took five to 10 minutes to land. It was her first year competing at the derby with her husband.

The fish was caught on a white spinner and worm, and was landed just minutes after the two-day event began Saturday morning.

Placing a close second was another husband and wife team, Mark and Susan Flaro with a catch of 9 lbs., 0.4 ozs. They received a boat and motor.

Third was the team of Bill Gallant and Donald Taylor, with a catch of 8 lbs., 15.2 ozs. Les and Chris Wert finished fourth with a 8lb., 14.8 ozs. catch.

In the junior and senior division, William and Chris Latreille won with a catch of 7 lbs., 7.7 ozs.

The derby, which permitted the use of live bait this year, drew 87 teams. Almost all of the 99 fish caught had to be kept alive and were later released. Those too injured to be released were turned over to the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Club spokesman Ian Macintosh said teams and profits from beer sales were down this year.

"We had lousy weather. But conservation activities may be down somewhat due to decreased beer sales and profits at the event."

All profits from the annual event go toward funding various conservation projects for the club. Entry fees pay for the thousands of dollars in prizes given to runners-up and all other competitors who caught fish.

Throughout the two-day event, rain persisted making conditions less than ideal for angling. If held off just long enough on Sunday afternoon, to allow the presentations to go ahead.

Therese Primeau of Cornwall was crowned 'Lady Pickerel' and received $300 of prizes.

Mike Masterman, sales representative for Labatt, acted as master of ceremonies.

This is the eighth year the club and Budweiser has run the event.

Participants needed for flotilla

The eighth annual Terry Fox Flotilla will be held Sept. 19 at Charlottenburgh Park.

The event raises money for the Canadian Cancer Society and consists of 10 miles of canoeing from Charlottenburgh Park to Summerstown and back.

Organizers have introduced a shorter six-mile course this year for inexperienced canoeists.

Pledge sheets can be picked up at Sauvé Real Estate in Alexandria.

The flotilla begins at 1 p.m.

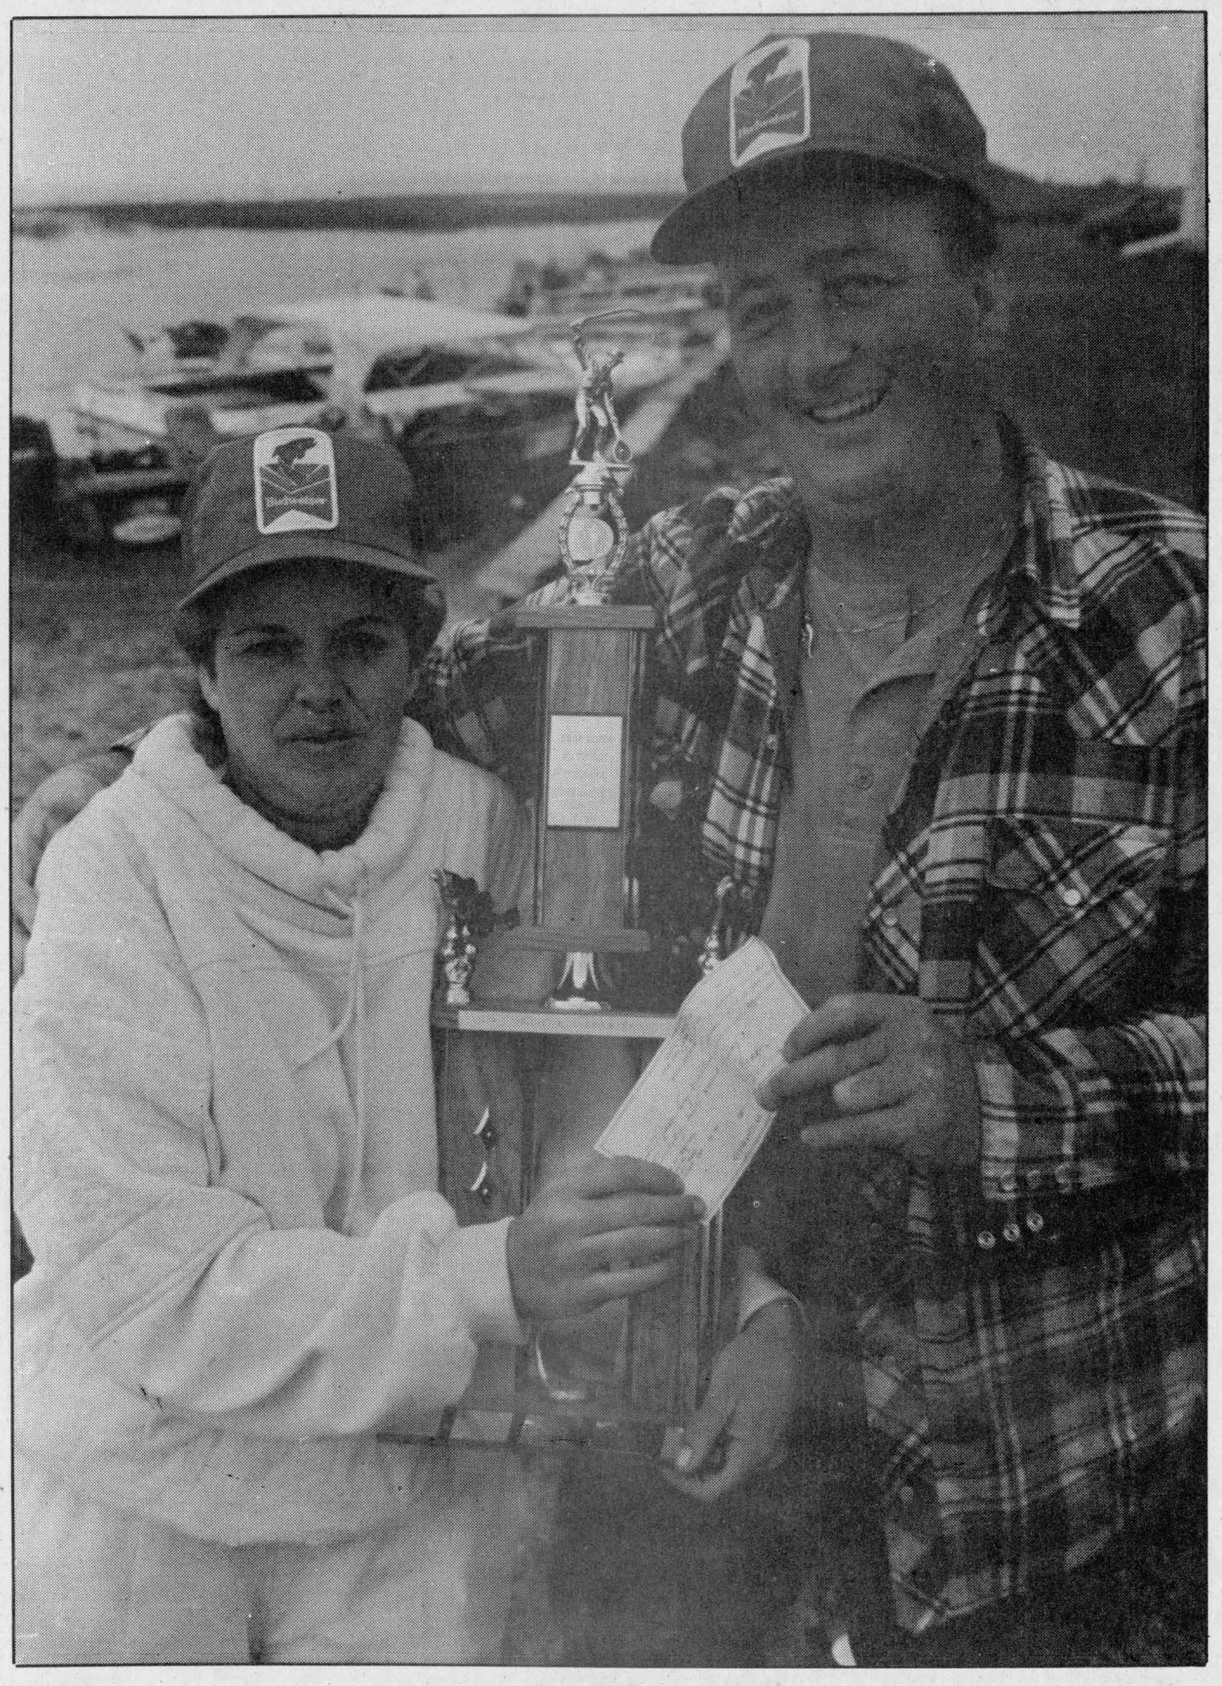
Rebels open training camp

The Char-Lan Junior B Rebels Hockey Club kicks off its 1988-'89 training camp with a dryland session at Char-Lan High School, Saturday.

Any interested players are asked to attend the 10 a.m. session. The first on-ice practice is next Wednesday night (Sept. 14) at 9 p.m. at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre.

The following sessions are Sept. 17 from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. and Sept. 18 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Further information can be obtained by contacting Rebel's Manager John Chafee at 347-3650.



A whale of a smile

Aline and Jean Guy Campeau had good reason to be happy Sunday; the Cornwall couple placed first in this year's National Walleye Championships held on Lake St. Francis on the weekend. Aline caught the winning fish, which weighed in at 9 lbs., 6 ozs., just minutes after the derby opened on Saturday. The team took home $2,500 and a trophy for landing the prize. The fish was released live after the weigh-in.

New coach

By Peter Conway
Sports editor

Glengarry native Blair MacDonald will be back behind the bench in pro hockey this season.

MacDonald, 34, signed a one-year contract with the Pittsburgh Penguins last week and will coach the NHL club's affiliate team Muskegon Lumberjacks of the International Hockey League.

MacDonald, a former World Hockey Association and National Hockey League player, coached the American Hockey League's Fredericton Express last season. He guided the Express to the Calder Cup final, before bowing to champion Hershey Bears in the best-of-seven series.

MacDonald will attend the Penguins' training camp this month, before heading to Muskegon for the Lumberjacks' training camp.

A Cornwall player who has Glengarry ties could be skating for MacDonald's club this season if his attempt to earn a spot on the Penguins' roster fails. Randy Taylor, the grandson of Marjorie Shepherd-MacKinnon of Alexandria, played last season in Muskegon and will be attending Pittsburgh's training camp.

Blair's brother, Tony, has signed on to scout for the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League this season.

Along with his scouting duties for the Kings, Tony will continue as head scout of the Ontario Hockey League's Windsor Compuware Spitfires.

Blair and Tony are the sons of Mervyn and Anna Margaret MacDonald of Green Valley.

Reschedule auto races

The weather hasn't been very cooperative to racing enthusiasts the past two Sundays at Cornwall Motor Speedway.

After both programs were washed out by rain, track officials hope to stage the Player's Classic this Sunday afternoon. Officials expect a big crowd for the 50-lap Syracuse qualifier. The Semi-pro and Duke Stock races will be held.

Racing at the oval dirt track the next three weeks will be held Sunday afternoons at 2 p.m. Sunday's program concludes with a demolition derby.

The Sept. 18 program features the Cam-II Series race, a 50-lapper for modifieds and the Duke Stock championship race.

The Sept. 25 program is the Fireball Enduro 200, which has been rescheduled after it was washed out two weeks ago.

The final race for the points standing in the Miller Super Series will be staged this Sunday.

Kingston driver Pat O'Brien leads the Miller Super Series while Alexandria's Ovide Doiron is second and Laurent Ladouceur fourth.

O'Brien has locked up the track championship at Cornwall Motor Speedway. Ladouceur is second, while Doiron is fourth.

Two other local drivers have enjoyed success this season. Ron Valade will finish as the top rookie in the modified class, while Marc Lalonde finishes in ninth position

Hay released

A Lochiel native and one of the most popular players with the Canadian Football League's Calgary Stampeders has lost his job.

J.T. Hay, 33, was released Friday after the Stampeders lost to the Argonauts the previous night in Toronto.

Hay, a veteran place kicker with the Stampeders, is the club's all-time points leader. He began his CFL career with the Ottawa Rough Riders and after a brief stint, was dealt to the Stampeders.

Hay kicked for the Glengarry District High School Gaels football team and then graduated to the Ottawa Sooners of the Ontario Junior Football League.

He is the son of Anna Margaret and the late Alex Hay of Lochiel.

Wins title

The Heart of Glengary women's soccer team capped off an outstanding season in Cornwall, Sunday, winning the Cornwall and District Soccer League championship.

Coached by Glen McMillan, the Hearts blanked Seaway 5-0 in the championship contest. Bonnie McLeod sparked the offensive attack with a pair of goals, while singles went to Mary Nixon, Marnie McRae and Peggy Campbell.

Colleen Kennedy was flawless between the pipes to earn the shutout.

FROM THE SIDELINES

Peter Conway

CFL, Lafleur, Green Valley

A few thoughts as the cool weather arrives for the real football season and the start of another long, tedious National Hockey League season.

The way the Ottawa Rough Riders have performed, maybe they should trade leagues with Ottawa's other football club, the Bootleggers of the Empire Football League. Geez, I'm sure the Bootleggers can't do any worse on the field compared to what the Riders have accomplished, which is absolutely nothing.

I would have enjoyed to see Gretzky, Mike Bossy and Guy Lafleur on the same line with the Los Angeles Kings. It would have been a treat to see the Great One feeding Bossy and Lafleur around the net. Never mind the crap about Lafleur being washed up. If Harold Snepts, Jay Miller, Willi Plett and Mel Bridgman can still hang on to National Hockey League jobs, watching Lafleur make a comeback isn't that ridiculous. At least Lafleur can still skate, which is a lot more than I can say for these other duds.

The best one-liner I've heard over the Wayne Gretzky deal to L.A.? At the recent Beach Boys Ottawa concert, held on a cool, wet evening, lead singer Mike Love reminded the crowd that Canada was getting even with the United States with frigid temperatures in August. Thank goodness the Beach Boys warmed up the evening with a superb concert.

As the Canadian Football League continues its fight for survival, here's a thought for some teams. Perhaps if some clubs wouldn't airlift players in and out of practices after losses, maybe fans would get to know the roster. It used to be that most starting players were fixtures and known by the community. These days, it's difficult to identify players with a club because they may be in camp for a game or a few hours.

With hockey season approaching, I keep hearing rumors St. Raphael's won't be back for another season in the Border Hockey League. The grapevine says a squad out of Green Valley will join the loop this season.

The recent controversy in the Glengarry Soccer League which upset some parents, coaches and league officials, raises this question: Is the Glengarry Soccer League a recreational loop? Or, is it win at all costs?

Whether it was the league's fault for not noting the over-aged player's birthdate, or the league's decision to move the player up a division, it isn't the important issue in this matter.

The Glengarry Soccer League, especially at the minor level, should be a recreational loop. It is the kids who should be enjoying themselves with encouragement from parents.

There will be differences from parents and coaches over league rulings, no matter what the decision is. But remember, it's the kids who are performing on the field. It shouldn't be the parents.

It's great to see a healthy crowd out for the senior playoffs in the Glengarry Soccer League. Most of the residents from the hamlets of Glen Nevis and Greenfield were on hand to root for their respective clubs in the recent men's semi-final series.

Powerlifter Raymond Gibbs will be travelling to Australia in the future for the World Powerlifting Championships. Any person wishing to make a donation to assist Raymond with his expenses, can do so at the Atlantic Hotel.

Raymond is a local athlete and deserves encouragement from fellow Glengarrians. Go get 'em Raymond!

Senior men

The Glengarry Stars drew first blood in the men's senior final with a 2-1 win over defending-champion Greenfield in Lochiel, Friday night.

Andy Meth scored the game's first goal for the Stars on a penalty shot, while Rob Starkauskas tallied the winner in the second half.

Frank Morris trimmed the Stars' lead to 2-1 late in the contest with a penalty shot tally.

Greenfield earned a berth in the final following a 3-2 decision over Glen Nevis in the deciding game of the semi-final series.

Scoring for Greenfield were Herb Maley, Donnie Morris and Benny Philips.

John Wood and Glen Campbell were the marksmen for Glen Nevis.

In the second game of the series, Greenfield received a shutout from David Wensink in a 1-0 thriller over Glen Nevis.

Willie Kippen notched the winner in the dying moments of regulation

Six athletes to be inducted

by Peter Conway
Sports editor

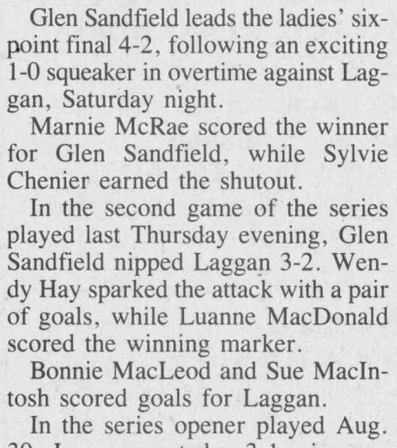
Six athletes share the spotlight tonight (Wednesday) when they will be inducted into the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame.

The six candidates selected by the hall of fame directors represent various areas of Glengarry and in diversified achievements from a world championship lacrosse club of the 1890s, to the current exploits of a local athlete in powerlifting.

The head table guest speaker at this year's induction dinner at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre is J. J. Clarke, popular weatherman at CJOH television.

The Williamstown athletic family name of Sullivan heads the first of six inductees. The Sullivans have been prominent in Glengarry Sports history and Jerry Sullivan will be enshrined into the sports hall.

Sullivan was a member of the world champion Cornwall Lacrosse Club in the 1890s.



J. J. Clarke

Another local lacrosse star playing with the same Cornwall team from the Lancaster area, also deserves a niche in the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame.

"Centennial" Grant was considered one of the all-time great lacrosse players in this country.

Classed as one of the top powerlifters in the world is Maxville's John Baxter. Baxter, a blind athlete, holds Canadian and world records in powerlifting and field events.

Rifle shooting in Glengarry is a long gone sport, but a Glengarrian reached a lofty level of fame. William "Bill" Ewing, who settled in the McCrimmon area in 1955, was rated one of the top marksmen in rifle competitions. He was a Canadian champion at the prestigious Bisley (England) rifle competition.

Alexandria's inductee is Dave Lalonde. He was a journeyman class player in hockey and lacrosse. In curling, he was an enthusiast, both as a player and builder.

The same can be said about Lalonde in lawn bowling. In retirement he was still active until illness prevented his long standing support.

Complying with a request from younger sports fans that a member of their generation be among those inducted, the hall of fame directors believe Greenfield's Gerald McDonald will be a popular choice.

Vegetable picking finishes the garden

Fall is in the air and the trees are gradually taking on their autumn splendor. Mornings are extremely nippy and moms will be bundling their youngsters off to school in the early morning freshness and meeting them in the afternoon, with sweaters and coats slung over their arms or shoved inside their bookbags. Some will probably forget them at school, so be sure to name-tag all loose articles. To all moms, children and teachers, have a wonderful year!

Labor Day weekend was a good time for veggie-picking in the garden. I pulled out all my beets and spent most of one day washing, boiling and skinning them. My onions and potatoes are all out and all that remains are a mess of cucumbers, a couple of rows of carrots and would you believe after picking beans to exhaustion there are still some blossoms and bean-producing plants.

If you are tired of boiling, cubing, mashing, or slicing carrots why not try something a little different, such as "dill carrot pickles." Fill pint jars with slivered carrots, add one clove garlic, two teaspoons salt, one tablespoon sugar, a quarter teaspoon horseradish, one-eighth teaspoon alum and a half-cup vinegar. Drop a piece of dill in bottom and top of jar, fill jar with boiling water. Turn jars upside-down overnight. Let stand a day or two before using.

André, Mary and Lisa Lacelle attended the annual party Saturday evening at the Valley Lake Campground in Bonville at the invitation of Emile and Georgina Socque. Carol Ouimet and family of Alexandria were there, as Mr. Ouimet was one of the entertainers.

Henry and Thelma Johnson were recent visitors in Ottawa at their daughter's home.

* * *

John Lacelle is now a resident of Chateau Gardens in Lancaster. We hope he adjusts well to his new surroundings.

* * *

We wish a speedy recovery to Mrs. Lorette Sabourin who is in an Ottawa hospital for eye surgery.

A very happy birthday wish to my sister Anita Brunet, Sept. 7 and to Alice Dubeau who celebrates tomorrow (Thursday).

If anyone missed the Glengarry presentation on folklore Monday evening on Channel 18 WNPI-WNPE, it will be shown again on Sunday, Sept. 11 at 4:30 p.m. on the same station. Mr. Cavin's half-hour of folklore brings you down to Donaldson MacLeod's schoolhouse at McCrimmon where you'll hear a wee bit of the Gaelic taught by Donald Rankin, Gaelic solos by Milton MacDonald and Sine McKenna. You'll see Rae MacCulloch and her dancers and you'll hear the fine violin music of the Glengarry Strathspey.

The North Lancaster Park committee is pleased to announce the official opening of the new village ball park on Sunday (Sept. 11). A hearty welcome is extended to all as the opening ceremony starts at noon when special guests MP Don Boudria and MPP Noble Villeneuve along with the township council and presidents of our sponsoring clubs will unveil the Wintario plaque and community sign.

This inauguration coincides with the annual day-long ball tournament which starts at 9 a.m. In the afternoon will be featured pony rides for the children and a corn roast for everyone to enjoy.

Cards of Thanks

To the many people who supported
ALEXANDRIA AVIATION LIMITED at their Annual Fly-in Breakfast held
August 21, 1988
I, as president, would like to give a special thanks to the following:
The many people who came for breakfast and the ones who stayed for a while to enjoy an airplane ride.
The numerous cooks who prepared the wonderful breakfast you all enjoyed.
The many volunteers who performed so well the many related tasks so necessary for a successful breakfast.
The crew from Herb's who cut all the grass making our airport more appealing to the more than 80 pilots who flew in for a wonderful breakfast.
The Air Cadets and their officers who did so many jobs so well, especially the cleanup detail.
The VIPs responsible for ordering the food, phoning all the volunteers, rotating the cooks and keeping the raw materials coming, etc.
The many pilots who volunteered their time and aircraft so people could enjoy an airplane ride and see their home from the air.
Once again, thank all of you very, very much.
Doug Baxter,

Playful performance

Alexandria and area children were treated to a performance by "Franscisco" Steven Kerwin of Toronto last Wednesday (Aug. 31) at the Alexandria library. About 20 youngsters and a handful of parents were captivated by his songs and jokes, a display to add a nice flavor to summer's end.

Couple wins award

Randolph, VT. (May, 1988) — Richard and Patricia Kerr of Dalkeith, owners of Sunworks in Hawkesbury, recently received a national award for excellence in business management from Vermont Castings, Inc., the nation's largest manufacturer of wood stoves.

The Vermont Castings' award for business excellence recognizes dealers who consistently have maintained the highest standards of excellence in customer and community service, business management and consumer education in the area of safe and efficient solid fuel heating.

"In presenting this award to our dealers, we honor those who have excelled in areas we find as important as sales, namely consumer safety and education, and superior business management." said Edmond Abrain, Vermont Castings' president in a recent press release. "This is just another example of the importance we place on fostering a positive, productive relationship with our dealers."

Award ceremonies were held recently at the annual Wood Heating Alliance Show (WHA) in Baltimore, Maryland.
