Miss Jane Dillen

Funeral services were conducted Monday for Miss Jane Dillen, one of Morrisburg's most civic minded residents from Fairbairn Funeral Home to St. James Anglican Church at 2 p.m. with Rev. Cyril W. Earle officiating. Miss Dillen died suddenly of a heart attack at her home, First Street, Thursday.

Born at Morrisburg, February 8, 1892, she was a daughter of the late Robert Johnston Dillen and his wife Sarah Gillespie.

Miss Dillen was one of the few women in the area to attain the position of chairman of the area convention of The Eastern Ontario District Women's Institute. She was past president of both local and area branches of the Women's Institute.

For 28 years she was employed as deputy registrar for Dundas County, until that office was discontinued.

Interested in all activities of the area, she was the first secretary of The Morrisburg - Williamsburg Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, when it was organized during World War II. During the first war, Morrisburg's Red Cross work was conducted by Mrs. George William Cook of Montreal and was associated with a Montreal group.

For many years she was convenor in charge of the sewing activities of the local Red Cross.

She was a member of the Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. A member of St. James Anglican Church, she was active in its various organizations.

Miss Dillen is survived by two sisters: Miss Sarah (Sadie) Dillen at Morrisburg and Mrs. Arthur Clay (Mary) of Toronto and a cousin, Mrs. Jack Bannister (Nellie) of Elora, Ont.

Pall bearers were: Carson Baker, Lawrence Coligan, Arthur Edgerton, Denis Gurnhill, Ruth Jarvis, Orval Millward.

The body was placed in the vault for spring burial in St. James Cemetery.

Mr. J. R. Coligan

J. R. Raymond Coligan, former council member and principal of Morrisburg Public School, died at Winchester Memorial Hospital on Sunday following an illness of several years.

Born at Morrisburg on May 2nd, 1900, he was a son of the late Thomas Coligan and his wife the former Margaret Daley. He received his education in Morrisburg schools, until at the age of 15 during the First World War, he joined the "Soldiers of the Soil" and worked on the estates of George William Cook and J. Wesley Allison.

He later completed his education and attended Ottawa Normal School. Prior to attending Normal School, while finishing his education at Morrisburg High School, he was night operator for the Bell Telephone Company. The switchboard was small in those days and he knew all the subscribers' names and numbers by heart. Many times he had to hitch up the horse and cutter and take urgent messages out to the country people during winter nights.

INTERESTED IN SPORTS

Mr. Coligan was keenly interested in horses and often occupied the judge's stand at races and fairs in both Canada and the United States. He was also interested in hockey and in earlier years coached a championship team here.

He was a charter member of the Morrisburg and District Canadian Club and was secretary - treasurer of that organization from 1937 to 1947. He was for many years a commissioner for Morrisburg's Hydro - Electric Power Commission system.

In 1938, in Toronto, he married the former Miriam Robinson of Moose Jaw, Sask., who survives. He is also survived by a son, Thomas Coligan of Morrisburg and by three grandchildren. One son, Richard, predeceased him in 199.

He leaves six brothers, Wilfred and Lawrence in Morrisburg; Gerald, Harold and Arthur at Prescott, and Bernard at Cardinal. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. James Laframboise (Patricia) at South Lancaster; Miss Marion Coligan here, and Sister Mary Melanie at Montreal.

Funeral service was held at St. Mary's Church, Morrisburg, where he was a devout member, on Wednesday at 10:00 a.m., with the Requiem Mass celebrated by the pastor, Rev. D. W. MacDonald.

Following the funeral service, the remains were placed in the vault until spring, when interment will be made in the family plot at St. Mary's cemetery.

Pall bearers were: Lorne Laurie, Roger Bouchard, Joe Bourrette, John Allison, Lloyd Barkley and Kenneth Carkner.

St. Peter's L.C.W.

Met Last Week

The Lutheran Church Women of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg met in the church hall on Wednesday, February 19th following the first Lenten Service of the season. The meeting opened with the Hymn "In the Cross of Christ I Glory". 18 members answered the roll with Mrs. C. McIntosh, president, presiding at the business meeting.

The meeting closed with the Missionary Benediction. Refreshments were served.

Local Couple Celebrate Their Fiftieth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sypes, of Lakeshore Drive, West, Morrisburg celebrated fifty years of marriage February 25th.

In 1919 at the home of the bride's parents in Finch Township, the couple were married. They honeymooned in Ottawa staying at the Alexandria Hotel. Because of the death of Sir Wilfred Laurier, accommodation was at a premium and Mr. and Mrs. Sypes were given a room on the fourth floor of the hotel. They had travelled by horse and cutter to the station at Berwick where they boarded the train for the Capital City.

En route to the city the cutter upset on a rocky road but the bride, bundled up in a new brown going-away coat, beaver hat and sable muff and stole suffered no ill effects.

For 12 years following their marriage, Mr. Sypes was the cheesemaker at the factory located at the "head of the locks" three miles west of Morrisburg. He then joined the Civil Service and for 30 years, worked on the locks, as he proudly noted, "without one day's loss".

Mr. and Mrs. Sypes are the parents of nine children - five boys: Denzil, Ersel, Gordon, Donald and four girls: Lillian, Iva, Irma and Irene.

Mr. Sypes recalls the day when he was 11 years of age, a barefoot farmer lad, he stepped up on the platform to pay his fifty cents and become a member of the Liberal Association. He remembered Denator Dan Derbyshire who was the speaker at the campaign meeting taking him by the arm and saying "We want fellows like this", and

Mr. Sypes said, "I have been a member of the Liberal Association ever since that day".

On Friday, February 21, prior to their anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Sypes held open house when friends and family called upon them. Many gifts, flowers and congratulatory messages were received by the popular couple.

25th Anniversary For Popular Couple

About 100 friends and relatives gathered at the Legion Hall in Morrisburg on Tuesday, February 18th to honour Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Coulthart on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Twenty-five years ago, Ralph Coulthart, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Coulthart, of Morewood, was united in marriage at the Presbyterian Church in Cornwall, to Maise Eamer, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Eamer and the late Bernie Eamer. Change is necessary

It seems tragically true that violence is the price a nation must pay for change and progress.

Canadians have always been quietly — even smugly — proud of their history of evolution rather than revolution. Admittedly, there have been a few short frantic wars on Canadian soil, a number of comic-opera crises with Fenians, and a few prairie skirmishes with the Indians and Metis led by the pitiful prophet, Louis Riel — but generally speaking, Canada lapsed into the 20th century with a relatively peaceful past behind her.

In front of her, however, the days look anything but pacific and calm. The reserve that was traditional in Canadians has suddenly been widely displaced by a radicalism, a violence that is shaking Canada's present and threatening her future.

In Quebec, French-Canadian revolutionaries or madmen or both have terrorized a province with 60 bombs over the past year, finally lashing against the Montreal stock exchange — symbol of the financial domination of les Anglais.

In Montreal, too, a multi-million dollar computer became a symbol and scapegoat and as though it could be guilty of a fabricated racial discrimination, it was demolished by a mob of Negro and white university students.

Some Negroes, in Toronto and Halifax especially, banded together in Black Power brotherhood, importing hate from the United States in the form of Black Panther speakers, and pledge themselves uncompromisingly to somehow harm, to hurt Canada's "white society" and to wreak revenge for what they call Canada's "polite racism".

Realizing there are not enough Negroes in Canada to do much damage in a revolution, Black Power militants augment their threats by pledging to draw in Canadian Indians as allies.

As the average Canadian views all this in his newspaper or on television, his mind reels with consternation. What is causing this upsurge of violence that was unknown to his forefathers? What has he done to deserve this anger, to foment this unrest?

Has the Federal Government not offered concession after concession to French Canada? Have taxpayers not provided bigger and better universities for students, and haven't courses been liberalized? Haven't the doors been widened for colored immigrants from the West Indies, Britain and the United States, with an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 Negroes entering Canada in 1968? Isn't a comprehensive Federal inquiry being made into the economic and social conditions of the Canadian Indian?

As he dwells on all these improvements, the average citizen may grow indignant over the "ingratitude" of people, and become defensively hostile against further reform.

So long as people are kept in an iron grip, held by a tyranny that they have long been used to, there will be no great turmoil. But the moment that grip is released ever so slightly, the second the people experience a new freedom of movement, they will refuse to accept their past imprisonment passively, and will violently try to tear themselves free of the old restrictions.

In Russia, for example, the most bloody conflict occurred not during the worst periods of feudal tyranny, but after the czars began to grant a few "neagre liberties. Africa, too, was far more peaceful during the periods of dictatorial colonial control than after the introduction of internal freedoms.

Change is necessary. If a period of unrest and violence is the inevitable cost of transition, then we must pay — not happily, but stoically, bracing ourselves for the certain storm.

The French Canadian, the student, the Negro and Indian — all have one thing in common. They feel they have been starved of certain freedoms. After a period of starvation, it is normal for the victim, when food is first placed in front of him, to eat too hurriedly, too frenziedly. Realizing this, all we can do is try to stop them from gobbling down more than is good for them... or us.

Queen's Park Comment ::

By: DONALD C. MacDONALD

Housing has been much in the news since Paul Hellyer's travelling task force brought in its report last month.

But there are few signs that anything is really going to be done to make sure that Canada's growing population has a chance to obtain decent shelter at a price people can afford to pay.

Mostly when we talk of the housing shortage, we think of the big cities where costs are highest. But in Ontario at least, the problem is spreading to the smaller cities and towns. There are very few places in this province where the cost of housing hasn't gone up drastically in the last five years.

We simply cannot afford to let this situation go on and get worse.

The great disappointment over the Hellyer task force report stems from the fact that its many proposals don't get down to the basic cost problem: cost of land, of mortgages, of building.

Hellyer says, for example, that the federal government doesn't need to put any more money into housing, just change the rules a bit. But raising the NHA mortgage limit to $35,000, while keeping the present mortgage interest rate, won't lower the price of houses. In fact, it will drive house costs up, just as it did the last time the NHA ceiling was lifted.

So this type of action doesn't help the average Ontario family.

It actively works against him. And since Mr. Hellyer has assured us that Ottawa will not increase its housing monies, the number of available NHA loans is actually reduced, and the majority of the homes built will be so expensive only those in the upper income levels will be able to afford them.

Mr. Hellyer's report admits that zooming land prices are a big reason why today's houses are so costly. But nowhere does he suggest the obvious counter-measures: a capital gains tax on unconscionable profit from land sales, and massive public purchases of urban land. Only in this way, can unwarranted land speculation be effectively eliminated.

It is hard to see how the worst features of urban housing shortage can be overcome without concerted government steps in the field of urban renewal and public housing. Yet the Hellyer study says we should discard this approach. If we did, we would surely be abandoning large numbers of families to a housing jungle where the odds would be 100-1 against their finding a roof over their head that they could afford.

Being as fair as I can, I can find little in this much publicised task force report which will come to grips with Canada's escalating housing shortage.

A lot of houses could have been built with the money it took to send the Hellyer roadshow around the country. It was a trip which, when one looks at the result, seems more and more like a Hellyer version of the Beatles' Magical Mystery Tour.

THE EASTER SEAL CAMPAIGN MERITS YOUR SUPPORT

The 1969 Easter Seals that signify help to crippled children, are being prepared for mailing to nearly 2,000,000 Ontario homes. The mailing of Easter Seals is one of the biggest voluntary projects undertaken in Ontario in the interest of children. In 230 cities, towns and villages members of Easter Seal service clubs such as Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, Kinsmen and others will see that appeal letters and Seals are sent to all residents in their community, inviting their contributions to help boys and girls who have a physical disability.

This year the Easter Seal campaign must rise at least $1,500,000 to guarantee that the care and treatment needed by more than 14,000 crippled children will continue on a full scale basis this year.

In the forty-seven year history of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and its association with service clubs, there have been thousands of children who have overcome their physical disabilities or have made such great improvement that they have carried on a normal existence. The public's support to the Eastern Seal campaign has made additional services and expansion of activities possible so that the Society, through its field offices, is continually reaching

THE ANNUAL MAPLE RON by Clarence F. Coons Farm Forester

In the next few weeks the sugar maple bush will become the centre of activity on hundreds of Ontario's farms. When the weather conditions are suitable, maple sap will flow in the millions of maples growing in Ontario. Maple sap flows out to help children who have a physical disability and need assistance. Rehabilitation for crippled children can very often be a lengthy and expensive programme, but when the results mean some children will eventually be independent in movement and speech, the time and cost is not important. It is most important to know that every Easter Seal gift will be a benefit to a crippled child.

Support the local Easter Seal service club's crippled children's appeal by sending a generous gift.

Saturday is the first day of March, and tradition has it that if that day is blustery, then we will have an early spring. (March will come in like a lion, out like a lamb).

flows best on mild sunny days following cold freezing nights.

Maple sap as it comes from the tree, is a sterile, clear liquid with a sweet taste. The volume of sap produced by a tree varies from year to year. Some trees have sweeter sap than others. Usually vigorous trees with deep broad crowns produce the sweetest sap. These trees are often found growing in fence rows and along roadsides.

The sap from a tree growing in a woodlot usually contains from 2 to 3 percent sugar. This means it takes from 28 to 43 gallons of maple sap to make one gallon of maple syrup.

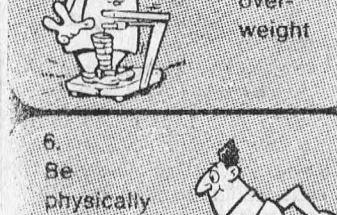

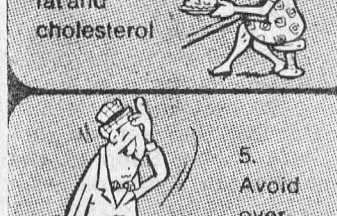

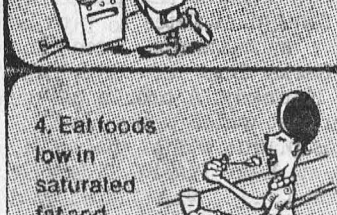

The maple sap is collected by boring a 7/16" hole about 3" deep into the white sapwood of the tree. A spile is inserted into the hole which will convey the sap into buckets or into plastic tubing lines.

When the sap arrives at the sugar house it is boiled in large evaporators until the sugar content rises to about 66 per cent. The maple syrup is then drawn off, filtered and packaged.

Early this spring hundreds of people will gather at the sugar houses to witness the annual boiling of maple sap and to buy some maple syrup.

TAX TIPS QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

This income tax column has been prepared by the Ottawa District Office, Department of National Revenue, Taxation. The questions used are common ones, and the answers usually straightforward. However, unusual circumstances sometimes alter the answer. If your question isn't answered here or in the Income Tax Guide, phone Ottawa 992-5051, or write National Revenue, Taxation Ottawa 4, for free advice by K. L. Reid, District Director, Ottawa Taxation Office.

Q. I paid $1,500 in alimony to my former wife last year. Can I claim all of this or just the married exemption of $1,000?

A. Provided it qualifies under the Income Tax Act, you may deduct the whole $1,500. There is no dollar limit on the amount of alimony that may qualify for deduction from income.

Q. Is the reserve portion of a patronage dividend taxable?

A. Yes, both the cash and reserve portion must be included in income except in cases of consumer goods.

Q. My refund was delayed last year because I did not attach a proper receipt for tuition fees to my return. What kind of receipt is required and what should I say?

A. Most educational institutions in Canada issue a special receipt for income tax purposes and you should make sure that this is the one you attach to your return. This receipt will show the period covered by the tuition fees and will say what part of the fees qualifies for deduction. (Not all fees paid to educational institutions qualify). It does not matter when the fees were paid but you may not claim tuition fees covering a period longer than 12 months commencing in the taxation year. For example, if you have valid receipts for tuition fees covering the last half of 1967, the first and last halves of 1968 and the first half of 1969, you have a choice of claiming for 1968 either your tuition fees for the whole of 1968 or your fees for the last half of 1968 and the first half of 1969. You may not claim in 1968 tuition fees paid for 1967, even though you filed no return for 1967.

Q. Is it true that I may give to my son, who is farming with me, farm property to the value of $10,000 without attracting Gift Tax?

A. This is true in certain circumstances. There are many points to be considered in this regard and it may be wise to seek professional advice or submit the details to your Taxation Office.

Q. I am supporting a brother who is attending university. Can I claim him as a dependant?

A. If his income for 1968 was not more than $950 and no one else claims him as a dependant you may claim exemption for any amount you contributed to his support up to $550. If your father, or brothers and sisters are also contributing to his support and the total contributed is more than $550 you will have to agree among yourselves how the $550 exemption will be divided among you.

Pro athletes poor sports

Why don't professional athletes grow up?

As each week becomes memory, sports pages become filled with stories about threats to strike, pensions, arbitration and general defiance by professional athletes.

It's little wonder we have difficulty engaging a lawyer these days — most of them are working for professional athletes.

There's no sense pontificating on specific issues, namely major league baseball, hockey and football. Instead, let's generalize on the overall structure, and discuss the meat of the issue rather than fool around with the green beans.

The majority of pro athletes in the three abovementioned sports are paid above average salaries, that is, speaking comparatively with the people like you and I who are engaged in the world of business five days a week.

How many of us have engaged a lawyer to represent our financial interests when it comes to asking the boss for a raise? Granted, we do not have a black and white contractual agreement with our employers like a pro athlete, but most of us have an unwritten contract stating that we will be retained unless we do not do the work expected from us.

That's fair.

Before going any further, let's point out an important fact: age is not as important in our business positions. We don't have to worry about loss of a job after 40 because we can no longer skate quickly or toss a baseball 90 miles per hour.

But we are not paid on as high a salary scale for... let's say, 15 years.

Pro athletes do have this problem. They need security, in the form of a reasonable pension, when their playing days are ended. But should they ask for more than you or I? Most of us contribute to a pension scheme which will provide sufficient security at retirement. Most pro athletes will be relatively young men when they hang up their gear, and consequently, finding employment should not be a difficult task.

Most of them should be able to enter the world of business in any vocation they desire. Making the big buck for many years, they should be able to have a bank account which would allow them to either go into business on their own or with a partner.

And, this would strengthen our overall economic situation.

It's about time pro athletes realized they are in a choice position. Nobody is attempting to knife them — although the many player representatives, committees and legal eagles will bellow loud and long this is the case.

Owners and executives are the same in any big business. They are in it to make money. However, the majority of pro sport owners and executives are far more genuinely interested in the sport than are owners and executives of major corporations. The brass in pro sport are fans, and huge financial losses will not result in them closing down the company.

I've always enjoyed the story about Vince Lombardi when he was coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers.

His all-star centre, Jim Ringo, was due in the office to discuss contract, but instead of Ringo, a lawyer appeared.

Lombardi asked where Ringo was, and the lawyer explained that he was representing Mr. Ringo. Lombardi excused himself and went into his outer office, returning in 10 minutes later.

Looking the lawyer in the eyes, he asked: "Now, why are you here?"

The lawyer answered: "I'm here representing Mr. Ringo."

Lombardi said: "Ringo? Oh, hadn't you heard, Jim Ringo was traded 10 minutes ago."

Pro sport could do with a few more Vince Lombardi types right now.

BREWERS WELCOME NEW ORDER FORM

The Ontario Brewing Industry today enthusiastically endorsed the decision to eliminate signatures and addresses from purchase order slips as of Monday, February 24th.

"This is another very progressive step in modernizing our merchandising methods and one that will be welcomed by our customers," a spokesman for Brewers Retail said. The Company operates 362 Brewers Retail stores in the Province of Ontario.

The Brewing Industry is rushing a new, simplified purchase order slip into print — eliminating the space for name and address. The new slip will mean speedier customer service at beer stores throughout the Province. Customers will indicate only the brand or brands selected and the amount of the purchase. Use of the new slips will enable the purchaser to choose at leisure from over 30 brands of Canadian produced beer and ale carried at Brewers Retail Stores and permit cashiers to complete orders without confusion and delay.

It is expected that the majority of Brewers Retail Stores in the Province will be equipped with the new, simplified slips by Monday, February 24th.

Ont. Hydro Gears For a Long Strike

Ontario Hydro's supervisory staff is growing accustomed to filling chairs left vacant by striking union workers — and is digging in for a prolonged strike.

Last week, in what the union calls a "rotational strike", but which has taken on the appearance of a general strike against the publicly-owned provincial power Commission, the union pulled its membership off the job in generating stations which account for more than 80 per cent of Ontario Hydro's capacity.

But despite the intensified walk-out, supervisory personnel maintained a steady supply of power to the Commission's more than two million customers.

Barring unforeseen circumstances, such as sudden and adverse weather changes or major equipment failure, the supervisors anticipate few problems in maintaining the power flow over Ontario Hydro's massive transmission network.

The Niagara Region continues to be the hardest hit in the current harassment campaign, with workers being pulled off the job at least six times since February 3 when the strike started.

During the week workers were called out in the five largest of Ontario Hydro's seven administrative regions, and affected 52 generating stations.

The province-wide walk-out included union personnel at the giant Lakeview generating station on Metro Toronto's western outskirts, but supervisory personnel successfully operated four of its eight units, and on Friday, with the operating experience gained, brought a fifth unit on the line.

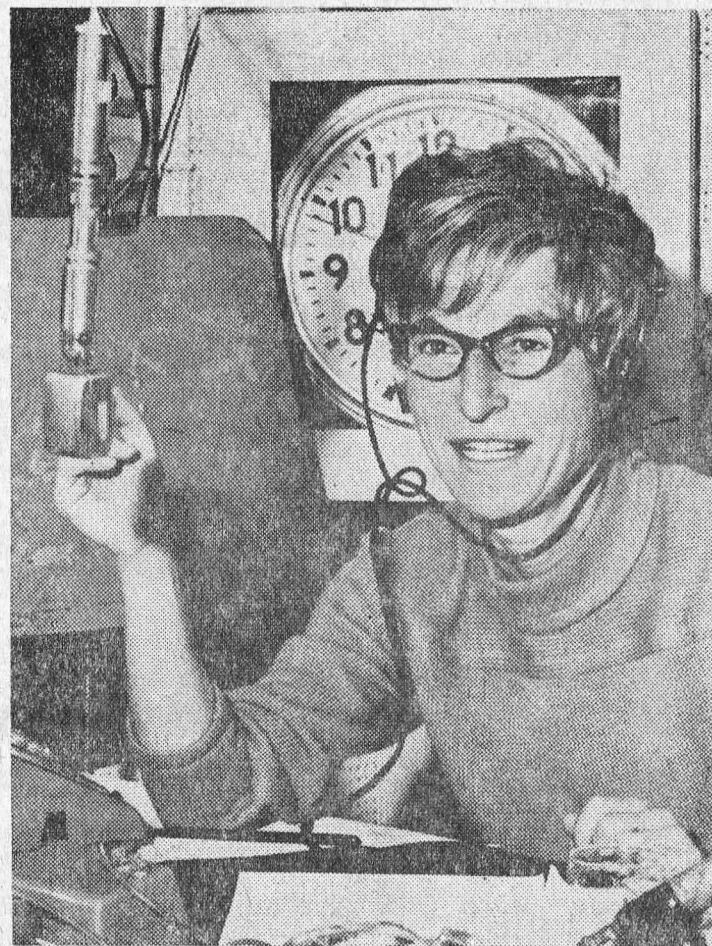

Workers were pulled out of regional offices in the two remaining regions Friday, leaving all seven regions and Ontario Hydro's Head Office in downtown Toronto affected by strike action.

Almost every day since the strike the Commission's multi-million-dollar computer complex has been hit in one or more areas of its operation.

During the week, while supervisors manned stations, Ontario's chief conciliation officer called the two parties together in a bid to bring about a settlement.

Negotiations were scheduled to resume again Wednesday (February 26).

ICE MACHINE IS GIFT TO C.N.B.

Ice will help bring vision to blind Canadians. This week, the Eye Bank of Canada in Ontario was presented with an ice making machine, a gift from four Toronto Lions Clubs. "The machine fills many of our requirements and will expand our capabilities," said Dr. George Thompson, Chairman of the Eye Bank. "The ice will be used to fill the shipping containers in which the eyes travel to all parts of the province. Also there are various experiments where eyes must be kept at a low temperature for some time," Dr. Thompson added.

"This donation by the Lions is another example of their important participation in prevention of blindness programs. The Lions assist many blind and potential blind people directly and also through projects of this type. In the future, they will become more involved in the work of the Eye Bank," Dr. Thompson added.

"We welcome their assistance." The main objective of the Eye Bank is to supply donor eyes to doctors who perform the delicate corneal transplant operation.

Through this method, many Canadians have had sight restored. Right now, the need for eyes is it an easy w

desperate. There are forty people who are ready at a moment's notice to enter the hospital for the sight restoring operation. Some are already in hospital waiting for donor eyes.

Report from the Ontario Legislature

The third week of the winter Session was once more a week of Throne Speech Debate. However, the standing Committees of the House were much in evidence and Members kept busy in the Committees examining the matters referred by the House. The Public Accounts, Health and Agriculture Committees have had weekly hearings and Members have been gaining a good deal of knowledge of current developments.

During this week, the Government began to introduce new legislation of which to date there has been very little in this Session. A Bill with respect to use of animals for research has raised a considerable outcry and will assuredly receive careful scrutiny when it is considered in Committee. Another interesting Bill is that designed to do away with the traditional and honoured Provincial office and of the Attorney-General replacing it with the office and title of Minister of Justice. This would seem to be only to keep pace with Quebec where such action was taken some time ago. A number of legal Bills were also given first reading including those to authorize the 1970 revisions of Provincial Statutes and Regulations and a most complicated Bill to change in many respects the equally complicated law on mechanics' liens. Still another

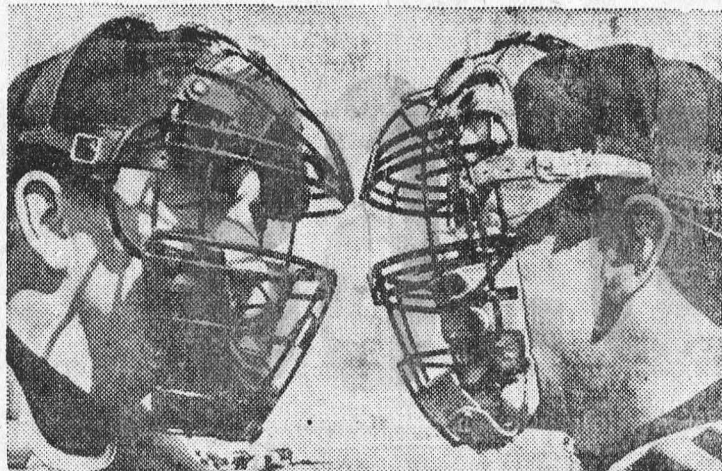

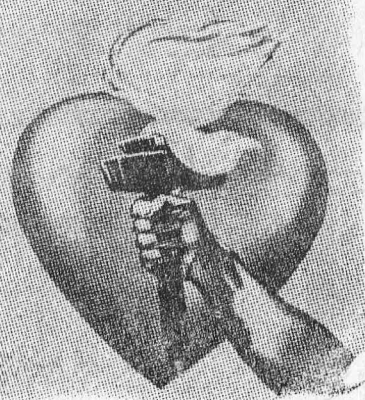

Bill with respect to registration of partnerships was stated by the Attorney-General to be the forerunner of computerized registrations in Ontario of title documents of every kind and which would be centralized in Toronto.

At the first of this week occurred the official opening of the new Government office complex situated between the Whitney Block and Bay Street and connected by tunnel and walkway to all existing Queen's Parks buildings. The new buildings are of most modern architecture and decor and provide air conditioned working space of first quality for several thousand Ontario Public Servants. But despite this over thirty million dollar building program, there are still more Provincial Government Departments scattered across Metro Toronto than there are houses at Queen's Park.

This week also produced the completion of a large loan negotiated for Ontario in West Germany which is a rather unexpected departure by the Government from the usual sources in Montreal, Toronto and New York. According to the Provincial Treasurer the interest rate being paid on this loan is a full one per cent lower than that which would have been charged on a loan from the traditional money markets here in America. This, of course, makes good sense to our hand-pressed Ontario taxpayer.

Doris Clark

A 'fan' writes

DEAR DORIS— Please send me your leaflet which gives you the various things you have to do ahead of a wedding. Like lining up minister, reception place, invitations the whole bit. Ten cents enclosed.

Doris, I want to compliment you on how you help people. You solve all problems in the light of love and never is there a touch of bitterness in your answers to unhappy people. You seem to pull out of people the smallest light of hope and make it grow, no matter how dark things may be.

A Fan Of Yours

DEAR FAN— Now I'm all puffed up! Might I return the thought that you have a very nice way of praising a gal? The new leaflet about weddings is called "Wedding Count Down," and it is on its way to you.

DEAR DORIS— My boy friend and I just broke up. I've been made terribly unhappy before and I never want it to happen again. I don't have much opportunity to meet eligible men. I'm only 19 but I feel that I'll never find anyone who will love me.

Even my former boy friend told me that I have many complexes and that there is no reason why I should feel the way I do. I thought that by computer dating I might find someone who feels and thinks the way I do.

I would like your opinion as to whether it is worth trying or if I'm just being silly and immature to want to do this?

Shy And Solitary

DEAR S. AND S.— Computer dating? It has its hazards.

True, we need friends with common interests, but there is something about personality that you can't put down on paper. No matter how fancy the computer, two match-up cards are a poor substitute for flesh-and-blood contact. And a person could be taken for a terrible ride.

You'll do better at finding kindred spirits by joining something, or a couple of somethings. It may take more nerve to break into a new group than to fill out a form, but it's results you want.

Go on. The first move is the hardest. Visit your local Y.W.C.A. and read over the so-called activities program, for a start.

DEAR DORIS— You seem to so readily acquire information on all sorts of requests. I wonder if you could help me.

I had an accident a while ago and people tell me I could have my face fixed with plastic surgery. I have saved money for the operation, but where?

Worried

DEAR WORRIED— I like that "so readily." It might surprise you to know the lengths we go to here, to unearth obscure facts when readers need them!

Plastic surgery is making beauties out of uglies. Why not you? Ask your family doctor to refer you to a plastic surgeon in your area. (Or give your right name and address when you write to me again, and I'll see what I can do).

DEAR DORIS— It burns me up when my daughter-in-law makes me slow down. I go into her kitchen and ask to do a job, and she just tells me to sit down and talk to her. Doesn't want to "tire me."

I'm not so blessed old. Only 64, still do all my own housework. Why should she put me on the shelf?

Still Smoldering

DEAR SMOLDERING— Simmer down. Your private complex about ageing is showing. Remember that your D.I.L. needs her own excuses to manage her kitchen herself. Smile and relax.

You've got your work to do at home. Why not enjoy being pampered when you go visiting? You are only on the shelf if you ask you are.

The Generation Gap

When the planners began work on a children's hospital in Ottawa they discovered a rather startling imbalance in age groups.

They found that the so-called golden Triangle, described roughly by cutting off Eastern Ontario by a line between Deep River and Gananoque, contained some 400,000 children. By 1972, when half the population will be under 21, there will be a half million children. More will be joining the population at a rate of 15,000 to 20,000 a year.

The conclusion that a special children's hospital should be built was strengthened by comparing the figures. The region had 30 general and maternity hospitals — but not one for children. Less than 15 per cent of available hospital beds are reserved for children. In other words, 45 per cent of the population gets 15 per cent of the beds.

While planning is based on Eastern Ontario statistics it takes into account that residents of Western Quebec will also use the new hospital. At present about 10 per cent of child patients in Ottawa hospitals are from Quebec.

Everybody has heard of dramatic appeals for emergency treatment of young heart victims. Many of these are flown to the United States and many more must be sent to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. That hospital handles about 200 admissions a year from Eastern Ontario. Doctors connected with the new children's hospital say many more require the special care only available in such a hospital but went without it because of the lack of the facility closed to home.

Since the planners confirmed justification for the hospital in the population figures, they have projected their statistics into the future. They expect close to 15,000 admissions each year — more than 2,500 of them from outside the Ottawa area. More than 40,000 outpatients and 20,000 emergency cases will also be handled. Outpatients numbers should climb to 75,000 by 1978.

Outpatients at the Montreal Children's Hospital increased from 30,000 to 150,000 in 10 years, say the planners.

While architects' plans move ahead, the growing army of volunteers is helping raise the $4,000,000 in donations needed to make the $21,000,000 hospital a reality for 1973.

RESEARCH GRANT AVAILABLE

A grant for research on Ontario's Game Fisheries will be made available to biologists and graduate biology students by The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

Mr. J.P.G. Kemp, President of Molson's Brewery (Ontario) Limited, announced that his company will provide a one thousand dollar grant in 1969 to the applicant selected by the Federation to carry the research will be directed to the study of problems to which anglers have long sought answers, said the Federation's President, Dr. R.D. Longmore of Sudbury. He added that the program will also provide valuable information on which the Federation can base recommendations to the Government to improve their fish management programs.

The Federation's Technical Advisory Committee, which is composed of University Biology Professors, will review the applications and decide if the program submitted by the applicant is such as to qualify for the grant. The first grant will be available for 1969 and the successful applicant will be announced in April. Applications have been drawn up by the Committee and will be distributed to universities this month.

All about those students

My mind is so scrambled right now that I'll be lucky if I can write three understandable sentences.

I've been trying to explain to my daughter, in an hour or so, such things as Marxism and Communism, why the Russian and Chinese types are different, where Fidel Castro fits in, why, where and when the nation of Israel was created, and why the Jews, notably non-belligerent for about 15 centuries, have a chip the size of a brick on their shoulders these days.

From there we wandered to Mahatma Ghandi, the Congo, nationalism in Africa, separatism in Canada, the Black Power movement in the States, growing anti-semitism among Negroes, and her biology test on the dissection of rats, which takes place tomorrow morning.

Golly, it would be nice to have once again a little girl, who asked such simple questions, "Dad, does God have to go to the bathroom?"

It all began with a discussion of the student militants at universities. She is appalled at the violence of the hard core of "pacifists" who, lurking in the forefront of all the young idealists and the middle-aged "liberals," deliberately resort to violence in their efforts to catch headlines, be martyrs, and destroy an idea which has taken almost 1,000 years to build — The University.

Thankfully, we agreed that violence begets violence, and that neither of us wants any part of the whole stupid business.

Admittedly, the universities are sitting ducks. Over the years, they have grown as sleepy and fat and insolent as an old tom-cat who has been "fixed".

They have almost taken pride in their administrative inefficiency, their moribund traditions, their cosiness with The Establishment. Write a letter to a university. Three weeks later you will receive a reply, either a form letter or something completely alien to what you asked.

And admittedly, students, universally, have always been among the vanguard of rebels against the system, political or social. That's because they are idealistic, want action, and are inclined to see things in blacks and whites (or today, blacks and reds).

But the fact remains that the universities, over the years, have become the only truly free centres (albeit timid) of sound criticism of society and its ills, in addition to their normal function of teaching people to think and/or learn a professional skill.

And another fact remains. The universities, on the whole, under pressure from within and without, have made a tremendous effort to rouse themselves from their stately torpor and scramble into the twentieth century. Even though it's two-thirds over.

In the process, they have leaned over backwards to free themselves of the rigid, puritan traditions of even 20 years ago. When I was there, living in nien's residence, we were allowed to bring girls into the place once a year, on a Sunday afternoon, for a heavily chaperoned cocoa and cookie party in the common room. Now, wow!

I'm not advocating a return to those days, when university men and women were treated like bright juveniles who were basically sex-fiends and alcoholics.

But I am dismayed to see these once-great institutions cowering and cringing under the attacks of malcontented, Marxist wolf-cubs who represent a fraction of student opinion.

As Mordecai Richler pointed out recently, the real yuk of the whole affair is that while the student activists endorse anything, up to the burning of buildings, they are scared stiff lest they get a police record, which would be a serious detriment when they try to get a job in the system they are trying to destroy.

The solution? Kick out the hard-nosed boys and girls, for whom democracy is a sham anyway. Sock it to them with the law when they disturb the peace or commit vandalism. And get back to the business of educating, or teaching to think, the vast majority who want those things.

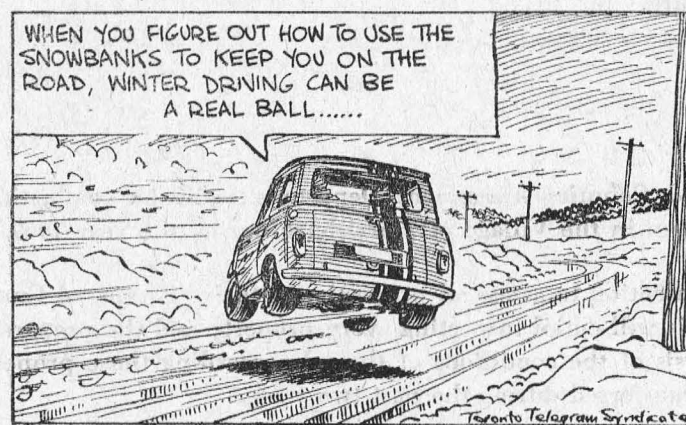

So now I'm a fascist, and a tool of the imperialistic press. I knew it at heart.

PLANNING IS IMPORTANT!

A successful farmer has to do a lot of planning.

While you're making plans for the work to be done on your farm this year, don't forget that

- an accident with your tractor
- a personal accident or sickness, or
- a liability claim

would upset all the plans you're making now.

CIA's FARM FAMILY PROTECTION PLAN can help you meet the costs of many emergencies. For information, call:

STUDENT POWER. From coast to coast in Canada university students have forgotten the role of the pacifist and have adopted a militant approach to the educational system. The students have over-run universities and have gone so far as to create millions of dollars worth of damage to the institutions as well as battling with police. Photo

Assessment Department, United Counties, Stormont Dundas and Glengarry, P. O. Box 219, Cornwall Ontario

To the Ratepayers of the Village of Morrisburg.

Dear Ratepayer:

The United Counties Assessment Department will be conducting a re-assessment program in the Village of Morrisburg during the year 1969.

It is our intention to assess all properties at their "Estimated Current Market Value". This will entail inspecting every property and the preparation of a detailed analysis of the conditions of the sale regarding those properties which have been transferred during the past two years.

The purpose of this re-assessment program is to ensure a "Fair" and "Equitable" tax base, and in this regard I request the co-operation of every property owner, when the assessor makes his inspection.

Yours very truly,

B. G. EASTWOOD, M.I.M.A., Assessment commissioner.
