A good show

Heaps of praise is being lavished upon Winchester Centennial Committee co-chairmen Harry Keyes and Shirley Fawcett, praise that is justly deserved.

The nine days of activities were well organized, on time and well attended. There was something of interest for everyone.

The centennial celebrations were two years in the planning and it seemed like the days just flashed by, but of course it was all due to organization.

Harry and Shirley and the legion of volunteers who helped park cars at the Community Centre, organized games for children, distributed flyers, helped sell buttons and a million other things should take pride in their accomplishments.

Putting everything in its place, getting everyone to and fro on time and just rounding up volunteers is no small feat. It required countless hours of planning and foresight.

And even when they were frazzled and dazzled by all the events, both Harry and Shirley had time to do interviews for The Press, making our job that much easier.

The crowds were well behaved, the various acts exciting and interesting and even the weather was perfect, albeit a little humid.

But after all the hard work that went into the centennial celebrations, who would dare to rain on the parade?

One thing stood out above everything else during the past nine days — the community spirit of Winchester.

The people of Winchester should be proud of their community. Residents came out to support each and every event and many helped plan and organize. Homes and businesses were decorated and people dressed for the occasion even on the hottest days.

The small town spirit is alive and well in Winchester. Let's hope it does as well over the next 100 years.

The book of books

by Gordon C. Smyth

We hear a lot about the power of the subconscious. Thoughts knock at the door of every life. Once admitted, it is hard for the mind to dislodge them.

Even when we fancy that we have forgotten them, thoughts do not forget us. They reside in the abyss of the subconscious. In times of stress they emerge from the deeper self to help or hinder us in life's race. No wonder the Psalmist prayed, "Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O lord, my rock and my redeemer" (Psalm 19:14).

Centuries later the Divine Teacher emphasized the importance of rightness of heart. Jesus broke with the religious Establishment because he insisted that the truly devout life was born of an inner spirit which was not to be stifled by mere external forms and contemporary customs.

If the springs of life, individual and social, are found in deep spiritual realities; if the greatest dangers are those that beset the soul; should we not post a sentinel at the doors of our hearts, against anything that would usurp the places of the divine and imperishable? At the same time, should we not throw open those doors to welcome the transforming and redeeming power of the God and Father of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ?

I commend to you the August edition of The Reader's Digest. In it is a reprint of an article by the Very Rev. Angus J. MacQueen in the Globe and Mail. After a decade of study, the United Church of Canada is poised for an historic decision on a task force report called "Toward a Christian Understanding of Sexual Orientations, Lifestyles and Ministry." A vigorous controversy is already under way across the church and, indeed, the nation. It will culminate when the Church's General Council meets in Victoria, B.C., beginning Aug. 17.

Dr. MacQueen writes, in part, as follows, "Although the report refers to the Bible as our authority in 'faith and life', there are numerous places in which it is used as just another resource. Both the Old Testament and the New are explicit in their disapproval of such sexual 'sins' as fornication, adultery and homosexual acts, as well as incest and rape."

The former moderator continues, "The report is a capitulation to the permissive age. For religious thinkers, it is an unacceptable basis on which to decide what is morally right or theologically valid. As a Church, we owe more to those who look to us for counsel."

"Within the Bible," a prominent psychiatrist once remarked to an Ottawa friend of mine, the late Dr. A. Ian Burnett, "there is far more wisdom and help and guidance and truth concerning ourselves and the way of abundant life than there is in all the books of psychology."

What a tribute to the authority of the Book of books! What a challenge to clothe an ancient prayer with fresh significance!

"Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my rock and my redeemer."

Congratulations Winchester

The Editor:

On behalf of my fellow citizens, may I send my congratulations to Winchester's (100) Centennial. Last week I received a copy of the Winchester Press for Wed., June 1 and I was astonished to see a photo of myself with J.D. (Buck) Cairncross. I had the honor to present the Royal Canadian Legion with a plaque from Winchester, England (Royal British Legion). This was to help with the 100 years celebrations. This was my first visit to your lovely country. My only regret is that I did not get to Winchester, Ontario. Maybe next time.

As a "pin" collector, I would love to have a Winchester Centennial pin. Could you please let me know where I can apply for one and the cost plus the postage?

My thanks again to yourselves and to Buck Cairncross of The Royal Canadian Legion 108 Branch, Winchester (who made the trip to Toronto meet me). Congratulations from "old" Winchester (England) to "new" Winchester (Canada).

. . . and again

The Editor

May I, on behalf of myself, my wife and the people of Winchester Township surrounding the Village of Winchester, extend our heartiest congratulations to all who had any part in organizing the centennial celebrations.

I was most impressed by how every event took place as scheduled and more importantly, how every event started on time from day one to day eight.

Congratulations Shirley and Harry for a job very well done. Also congratulations to the business community, and the residents for their part in making the town so beautiful for the celebrations.

It was a very historic occasion for the whole area and a very happy and enjoyable one for Doris and I, as we renewed so many old acquaintances and enjoyed all of the events.

Sincerely,
Gerald C. Holmes
Reeve, Winchester Township

One more time!

The Winchester Museum Committee wants to thank everyone who made the centennial museum a big success. The antiques and memorabilia loaned for the event brought back thousands of memories for the more than 900 visitors. They show there is a nucleus for a fine permanent museum to record 150 years of life in this village — our next project!

On an unrelated note, I would like to compliment centennial organizers for a well-rounded range of events. As the parent of four children, I was particularly impressed with the daily children's events during the week.

Thanks.

Gasoline will go up in price. A few years from now we shall have to use something else as fuel for automobiles. The question is, what? The United States government bureau of mines thinks that we shall get the requisite substitute from coal. In every city there will be "by-product coke ovens," which will extract from the coal a light oil available for the purpose. The coke can then be used in our furnaces and for other ordinary fuel purposes.

Cast into Lake Superior on May 29, a bottle containing a message, with a promise of a $25 reward was found floating close to shore in the St. Lawrence River at Morrisburg by Ennis McBurnie, of Ottawa. McBurnie may receive the award if he follows the instructions contained in the note which read: "This bottle was thrown into Lake Superior on May 29 from the yacht "Alva" by Jas. R. Coppins, Bank Ohio Corporation, Columbus, Ohio. There will be a $25 reward for the finder who communicates with the above person and states where it was found and on what date."

The date for the Official Opening of the 100 Club Community Park, formerly known as the Winchester Fair Grounds, has been set for Wed. Sept. 15, and the park committee is busy planning an elaborate program of fun and entertainment for the afternoon and evening of that date.

Considerable work has been done at the park during recent months. The grounds have been levelled, seeded and mowed; trees trimmed; a well drilled; roadways built; a softball diamond located, and a spacious pavilion erected.

Theatre days are far from over.

With bigger and better pictures being produced, the trend seems to be back to the movies. Last week's showing of "Old Yeller" was an extra fine example when more than 3,800 persons paid admission to see the popular Walt Disney production.

Standing-room-only was the order every night, and each night too the crowds stood in line at the ticket office, stretched out of the theatre and onto the street.

Saturday night was the biggest crowd, when more than 800 people crowded into the threatre. Seating capacity at the Winchester Theatre is just over 400.

Rev. W.R. Schamehorn, who has served this district faithfully for the past five years, is retiring and will preach his farewell sermon Sunday evening at 7:30 in Winchester Wesleyan Methodist Church.

Rev. Schamehorn has been in the ministry for the past 47 years during which time he served in many parts of Central Ontario and Quebec. In semi-retirement five years ago, he came to Winchester to serve the faithful in the district, only until such time as a new minister accepted the call.

There were several valuable lessons to be learned at Vernon's Heritage Museum last Saturday afternoon. A glimpse at a crowd crammed into the former classroom, however, left little doubt most of those gathered for the special occasion had, long ago, learned those lessons in classrooms of yesteryear. "Teachers", introduced by master of ceremonies David Gray, on a program designed to salute surviving members of the area's first calf club and honor the memory of those deceased, included Mayor Bouwers, MPP Norm Sterling, MP Bill Tupper, museum archivist Elizabeth Stuart and John D. Campbell. The lessons? To begin with the mayor was enthusiastically applauded when he expressed the opinion that, unfortunately, the high calibre of education once taught in small schools had been lost in the system's option for huge, sprawling, impersonal learning factories. Lesson - Bigger not necessarily better! Dr. Tupper praised the accomplishments of the Historical Society and urged members; working closely with municipal government, to make identification and preservation of heritage homes a high priority goal. Lesson - Respect and honor those who blazed the trail. Norm (Sterling) complimented surviving members of the calf club, formed in co-operation with Metcalfe Agricultural Society and provincial governments more than a half-century ago, for perpetuating the memory of what may well have been the forerunner of today's busy, productive 4-H organization. Lesson - Community betterment. Miss Stuart paid touching tribute to the memory of Archie and Iris Stewart (victims of a tragic auto accident) whose untiring efforts and unselfish contributions to the museum will always be remembered. Elizabeth, a founding member of the Historical Society Museum, also made reference to a nostalgic word-picture of the area's past, "Tales of a Travelling Many", penned by Herb Stewart with his philosophic memories of Depression years. "We were all poor", he wrote, "but we didn't know it." Lesson - Count your blessings. John D. (Campbell), who introduced fellow calf club members present (Alvin Phair, John Loney, Gerald Morris, Jim Rowan, Ormond Craig and Ross McDiarmid) and, on their behalf, unveiled the attractive plaque, recalled the indomitable optimism and courage of farmers during the club's founding years. "We were selling our milk," he reminisced, "for 38¢ a hundred; pork for 3¢ a pound; and eggs 10¢ a dozen." Lesson - This generation living in the lap of luxury. M.C. Dave rang the 'Recess Bell' at 3:15 and pupils of long ago spent the balance of a beautiful August afternoon 'remembering'.

Not having been a calf club member, about the only thing we had in common with those cattlemen of the past was being, like them, a graduate of "Dirty Thirties School of Learning". Sadly, some of the values we learned at home, school and church during those years of want have changed drastically. We have vivid memories of having been assured doing a job exceptionally well always had its just reward. Don't really recall any specific reference to the word 'bonus', but it was always music to our ears to hear, at the end of the day - "son, you did such a good job I'm giving you an extra five cents." Guess that's what triggered such a 'mean' thought last Saturday afternoon when Mayor Al spoke so kindly of 'small schools'. Earlier in the week we had been astounded to learn Donald Lander, president of Canada Post, in recognition of performance excellence, was receiving a 'bonus' - something in the neighborhood of a $30,000 salary increase (from $175,000 to $205,000). Lander was one of five Crown Corporation heads to receive similar 'performance bonuses'. Bonus must surely have a different meaning in this age of computers. Financial bonuses must be handed out in direct proportion to the amount of 'red ink' used on the bottom line. Donald Lander's bonus sure would have bought an ample supply of John D. Campbell's eggs in 1932.

Since we seem to be living in the past this week it might be appropriate to toss out a question that has been pestering us for years. Many, many times, during our travels, we have visited Upper Canada Village and several other areas where residents have painstakingly kept alive beautiful memories of the past. The neat homes, immaculately-clean stores, quaint places of worship, tiny shops where skilled craftsmen (and women) ply their trades, and 'village folk' attired in the garb so familiar to our ancestors. Always, during those visits, we have to admire the attractive hair styling, and trim figures of the lovely ladies. Why is it that nowhere in those busy little settlements, have we ever been able to find even one 'beauty salon', 'Fitness Forum', 'Weight Loss Clinic' or 'Slim and Thin Class'? Guess maybe those beautiful ladies of long ago knew something our modern lassies haven't learned yet. Just thought we'd ask!

OMAF marks century of service

WINCHESTER — The village of Winchester and the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food have something in common — both are celebrating their centennial in 1988.

Unlike the village's incorporation, however, the establishment of a provincial ministry of agriculture was not hailed as a great event by everyone.

During the late 19th century, Ontario farmers provided three-fifths of the grain, one-half of the hay and roots, one- half of the sheep and cattle and more than two-thirds of the fruit, swine and dairy products in all of Canada.

The province was also undergoing a major transformation. In 1881, the Ontario Agricultural Commission revealed in its study, major problems in the agriculture sector.

Unequal quality of produce, exhausted soils, unimproved land and lack of quality scientific information were just the tip of the iceberg.

To combat these problems the government passed legislation to establish the Ontario Agricultural College and Experimental Farm in 1874, the Ontario Tile Drainage Act of 1878 and the creation of the Ontario Veterinarian College in 1879.

In 1888 Ontario, the rural population outnumbered the urban dwellers by more than three to one, yet William Ralph Meredith, leader of the Conservative opposition at the time, challenged the bill which established OMAF.

He objected on the grounds that the public service could cope with most of the agricultural work and if there were only seven ministers to handle the administration of the United States of America, certainly eight ministers were not needed in Ontario alone.

While he was quick to agree with Oliver Mowat, the Premier of Ontario about the importance of the industry, he protested the "proposed increase of public expenditure by the cost of the additional minister and his accompanying staff, for if there was one thing more than another calculated to bring trouble upon the people of this country was that they were over- governed."

Mowat justified the need for a minister of agriculture saying there had been a tremendous increase in the population and no corresponding increase in the number of ministers and cited the great increase in the workload of the ministry.

C.F. Fraser, a member of the governing Liberal party pointed out staff would not be increased due to the creation of a new ministry since the staff of the Bureau of Ministries and its chief, Mr. Blue would simply work for the new minister.

He noted the only increase in expenditure would be the new minister's salary — a whopping $4,000 per year.

The bill was read and passed for a third time on March 20, 1888 and received Royal assent from Lieutenant-Governor Sir Alexander Campbell on March 23. On May 1, Charles Drury was appointed as the first Ontario Minister of Agriculture.

CHANGES

Since that time the ministry has expanded and improved its services to keep up with modern day demand.

Dundas County was one of the first counties in the province to establish an agricultural representative office in Morrisburg in June 1907. Because it was such a new endeavor many of the agricultural representatives were teachers and educators.

"There were only six counties in the province that experimented with agricultural representative offices," said current representative Bob Humphries. "They were helping farmers and teaching children. We're very proud of that in this office."

In addition to serving Dundas County, the representative helped farmers in Stormont County until an office was established there in 1944. The Dundas County office moved to Winchester in July, 1962.

Since its inception 13 people have served as the county agricultural representative.

A report prepared by W. C. Caldwell from November, 1920 to October 1921 indicates the representative led a busy life.

Caldwell travelled 9,200 miles during the year, received 1,420 letters, wrote 1,243, mailed 4,900 circular letters, answered 1,136 telephone calls, received 1,475 visitors at the office, distributed 200 bulletins and reports and hosted 65 meetings.

In addition he surveyed drains, gave advice to farmers on pruning orchards, tested milk and gave demonstrations to schoolchildren.

"They worked very hard and much longer hours than we do today," said Humphries. "The agricultural representatives were very special people. They had an agriculture degree and not many people went to university back then."

In spite of their higher education, Humphries said there was a lot of skepticism among farmers when William Munro arrived on the scene as the first agricultural representative. His tenure lasted until 1909 when he was replaced by A.D. Campbell. In 1912, E.P. Bradt arrived and stayed until he was replaced by F.A. Wiggins in 1919.

W.C. Caldwell served from 1919 to 1923, followed by A.E. Springstead (1923-1929), J.A. Simpson (1929-1934), H.W. Graham (1934-1956), D.M. Rutherford (1956-1958), E.K. Pearson (1958- 1965), W.D. Keyes (1965-1972), T.W. Clapp (1972-1978), R.A. Humphries (1978 to present).

There have been many changes within the farming industry over the last 100 years most notably the number and size of the average farm.

At present there are 450 commercial farms in Dundas county, down from approximately 1,600, 20 years ago. In 1911 there were 212,108 farms in Ontario averaging 104.5 acres. In 1966 the number of farms overall had dropped to 109,887 but the average size increased to 162 acres.

"We are increasing agriculture production with a smaller number of farms," said Humphries. "Consumers are not running out of food."

Part of the upswing in agricultural production is due to the electrification of rural areas before and after World War II.

"The modernization of rural areas was the beginning of the wave of change," said Humphries. "Farmers are now looking to computers for business management but it all goes back to electricity.

"It was one of the most important things in the history of agriculture. Electricity enabled farmers to cool the milk and light the barn. We in the agricultural representative branch have had to move quite rapidly to keep up with changes on the farm."

To help with the changes, Howard Giles at the Winchester OMAF office has been giving computer lessons to farmers for the past five winters. Computers help farmers balance their budget and manage their farms.

"Our office is putting a tremendous emphasis on farm financial management, sharpening the financial skills of farmers," said Humphries. "It has been determined by the province that there is a great gap, or a missed component in the farmer's make-up. They are great machinists or animal genetists but many don't know how to handle the money borrowed from banks.

"Our branch has a mandate to improve that knowledge although it isn't really new. Agricultural representatives were talking about finance in the 1920s."

The lack of sound financial knowledge was one of the biggest crises facing farmers in recent years and while the worst looks to be over, Humphries says the problem hasn't disappeared completely.

Representatives at the OMAF office spend much of their time on farm advisory calls, which Humphries says is his favorite part of the job.

"There is no greater thrill than making farm calls," he said. "That way I get to go right to the farm business, see what the farmer is doing. Perhaps he has some new equipment or cattle or a new computer."

The six full-time employees at the local OMAF office consider themselves on the front line of the agriculture business. Humphries says they do a bit of everything and have a team of specialists on call to handle major problems.

"We have a steady stream of traffic through this office which tells me people must like what they got on their first trip."

The office administers programs out of Toronto such as Farm Start which is absorbing an increasing amount of time. Humphries says many of the programs are a reaction to changing farm conditions and consumer trends.

"We are also prepared to talk to the non-farming public," said Humphries. "Sometimes people call us with horticulture problems or they want to know if lawn spray will hurt their dog. We've been on Main Street for 26 years and we must have 3,000 to 4,000 people come through our doors annually but many people don't know what we do."

The office staff assists students with school projects, helps families with farm transfers or sales and lends an ear and an objective opinion to farm decision-making.

Part of the ministry's responsibility is to monitor consumer trends such as the growing public preference for organically grown foods. OMAF staff attends meetings and keeps farmers up to date with changes.

"OMAF keeps reacting to concerns of farmers and the people of Ontario," said Humphries. "Agriculture today is really big stuff. There are so many complex issues. Ontario Hydro is working with OMAF to conserve energy and we are working on water conservation. Today's farmer is a very well read individual. Every time we turn around something is affecting us."

Dundas County is one of the best agriculture areas east of Toronto. Approximately 70 per cent of farm output falls into the dairy industry. According to the 1986 Agriculture Profile census 36 farms in Dundas County have a gross value of agriculture products sold of $500,000 or more. Eighty-two fell between $250,000 and $499,999. The gross value of products sold on all farms was $163,828,300. Total farm capital was $844,376,500.

"I think we're the number one agriculture county east of Toronto and we are very lucky we have a concentrated milk industry which is very profitable," said Humphries.

For me?

Isabella Farlinger accepts a bouquet, tiara and other awards as she is crowned Dundas Dairy Princess 1988/89. It was the 30th anniversary of the competition and though some rain showers caused a minor interruption, a large crowd gathered in Centennial Park to see last year's Princess, Colleen Acres, pass the title to Farlinger. Press Photo—O'Connor

Isabella Farlinger crowned Dundas Dairy Princess

WINCHESTER — The on-again off-again rain caused a few delays and some cancellations but it could not wipe the smile from 18-year-old Isabella Farlinger's face as she was crowned Dundas County Dairy Princess for 1988/89.

"It's an honor. I went in it hoping to have a good time, meet new people and get to work with members of the milk marketing board," said the somewhat shocked Grade 13 student of Seaway District High School, "I'm sure this will help me throughout my life."

In the next year she will be visiting schools, speaking to senior citizens and working the 'banquet circuit'.

"It may mean giving up some other activities that I enjoy doing," says the new princess, but she added it would be worthwhile.

It was the contest's 30th anniversary and about 300 people crowded into a damp Centennial Park to hear the contestants' speeches and entertainment by the Acres Family and the Singing Farmers of Vankleek Hill. Paul Meldrum, host of CJOH's Valley Farmer was master of ceremonies.

There was also a surplus of Dairy Princesses on hand.

Sitting on stage with the contestants was Colleen Acres, the 1987/88 Dairy Princess, and Andrea Lange, last year's Ontario Dairy Princess.

Acres is now preparing for this year's Ontario contest in August, held at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Win or lose she says her year as Dundas Princess has been valuable, teaching her, "a lot about myself, how to handle different situations and a lot about other people."

Appearances were also made by some Dairy Princesses of the past 30 years.

Stella (Fawcett) Rose, the first Dundas County Dairy Princess, said today's competition was nothing like hers.

There was only one other contestant running. A few men came down from Toronto for the interview and "all emphasis was put on milking."

Saturday's judging was based on interviews and the public speeches. Appearance, personality and extra-curricular activities were also considered.

Farlinger's speech concentrated on milk advertising while runner-up Tracy Henderson spoke about life on a dairy farm.

But a special effort was put in by Martine Thurler. As she began her speech on the history of Aults, the rain started pouring. Crowds ran for shelter or huddled under the spruce in the middle of the park, but Thurler kept plugging away.

Thurler and Debbie Cooper finished as second runners up.

All contestants won an assortment of gifts from area businesses and cheques of $50 for all participants, $75 for the first runner up and $100 for the winner.

Farlinger was also presented a tiara from Fawcett's Jewellers, a silver trophy from the Toronto Dominion Bank, a rose bowl from the Royal Bank and roses from Durant's Flowers.

Her first duty comes later this month when she and Acres will be handing out ribbons at the Dundas County Holstein show in South Mountain.

They will also be selling milk for the Eastern Ontario Milk Committee at the Exhibition in Ottawa.

She officially becomes Dundas Dairy Princess on Sept. 1, with the first of two workshops to prepare for the Ontario contest.

But Farlinger is taking everything step by step.

"I'll just let that time come. I'm sure it will come soon enough."

OFFIRR interest break slashed 60%

Farmers left with larger loans to pay off

WINCHESTER — Farmers would have taken out smaller loans this year if they knew the provincial government planned to reduce their interest break, says the president of the Dundas Federation of Agriculture.

"It is entirely possible," said Max Sabey, area farmers would have borrowed less money in 1988 if they were warned the Ministry of Agriculture and Food would cut back the interest support under the government's Ontario Farm Family Interest Rate Reduction (OFFIRR) program.

Introduced two years ago, the program was set up to help financially troubled farmers by reducing the interest rate taxed onto loans.

However, Jane Jeffrey, OFFIRR program co-ordinator, said the program was slated to run for only three years before being phased out.

Jeffrey said the high interest rates in the late 1970s and early 1980s led the government to introduce the OFFIRR program to help farmers pay back bank loans.

Farmers were given 100 per cent (five per cent rate reduction) assistance the first year.

The second year was to see the rate reduction reduced to 70 per cent but it stayed at the 100 per cent rate.

Jeffrey said farmers were forewarned the government would reduce their assistance to 40 per cent (about two per cent rate reduction) for this year.

Next year the program will no longer exist, leaving farmers with no assistance in paying off their loans, Jeffrey said. There is a possibility the government will replace OFFIRR with another program to assist financially troubled farmers, Jeffrey added.

"The need for it (OFFIRR program) has died," she said.

Jeffrey said the Farm Assistance Branch, which administers the program, has received letters from farmers stating they need the assistance in paying off loans.

Others, those Jeffrey described as not informed with the government's declared intention to phase out the program, wrote "how can you do this (reduce rate reduction assistance from 100 per cent to 40 per cent) to us?"

"I guess some farmers interpreted it (OFFIRR program) wrong," said Jeffrey.

"There was never any indication (from the government) that farmers would get 100 per cent" assistance from the program, Jeffrey said.

However, Sabey said farmers expected to receive the five per cent break (100 per cent assistance) in their interest rates this year.

But the announcement a few months back by the Minister of Agriculture and Food Jack Riddell, that the provincial government decided to reduce the maximum support to two per cent from five per cent has left farmers with larger than anticipated loans to pay off, Sabey noted.

Sabey said farmers should have been told at the beginning of the year, before taking out their loans, the government planned to take a bite out of the OFFIRR program.

Farmers decide how much they can afford to borrow by knowing what the total amount owed will be when the interest rate is added on, Sabey said. Therefore, Sabey suggested, farmers in certain situations may have borrowed less if they knew at the time they would be receiving a smaller break in the interest on their loans.

Aside from the reduced government support catching farmers off guard, Sabey said the OFFIRR program should have retained its maximum five per cent rate reduction because "conditions (for farmers) have not changed that much."

Sabey said he is "not optimistic" with the possibility of convincing the Ontario government to boost the rate reduction back up to five per cent.

Bob Humphries, Dundas County Agricultural Representative, has heard the farmers' displeasure with Riddell's announcement.

"The reaction to me personally (from farmers) is negative," Humphries said.

"The ones that comment, those that read the newspaper, are quite vocal. They have given me a blast."

In his own defence, Humphries said he is "not a policy-maker. I roll with the rules."

Asked why the government decided to lower the level of interest rate assistance after farmers took out loans they thought would receive a five per reduction in their interest rate, Humphries said: "I don't understand how policy is made (by the Ontario government)."

Humphires said 210 Dundas farmers received loans under the OFFIRR program this year.

Car wash set for Saturday

by Alison Kelly

METCALFE — The busy summer for the Metcalfe 4-H Club began with a meeting at Kemptville Agricultural College on June 21. The club studied crops there.

A second meeting was held to help improve judging skills on fleece, hay, dairy, etc. These skills were reviewed at the meeting on July 19 at Linda Campbell's. We will help in the upcoming Judging Night in Richmond, Wed., Aug. 10. Here all members must compete.

Aug. 2, at leader Blair Dow's home, the members decided that as a fundraiser, they would hold a car wash at Drummond's Gas Bar near Greely on Sat., Aug. 13 from 10am to 2pm.

The next meeting for this club will be Aug. 23 at the home of Steven Hill.

Where one we love is sleeping
And never will be forgot.

Notice of the passing of a Zoning Bylaw by the Township of Osgoode

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Township of Osgoode passed Bylaw 101-1988 on the 2nd day of August, 1988 under section 34 of the Planning Act, 1983.

AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or agency may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board in respect of the bylaw by filing with the clerk of the Township of Osgoode not later than the 6th day of September, 1988 a notice of appeal setting out the objection to the bylaw and the reasons in support of the objection.

AN EXPLANATORY NOTE of the purpose and effect of the bylaw, describing the lands to which the bylaw applies, and a key map showing the location of the lands to which the bylaw applies (or, alternatively, an explanation as to why a key map is not provided) are attached. The complete bylaw is available for inspection in my office during regular office hours.

Dated at the Township of Osgoode, this 10th day of August, 1988.

Wayne Robinson
Clerk
Township of Osgoode

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Purpose and effect of bylaw

The proposed Zoning Bylaw Amendment would delete all of the provisions relating to the size, location and types of signs which are permitted under the existing Zoning Bylaw.

Council has adopted a separate Sign Bylaw to control the size, location and types of signs which can be erected in the township. Consequently, the sign provisions in the zoning bylaw are no longer needed and are to be deleted in order to avoid confusion.

This amendment does not affect any particular site but rather applies to the entire township.

Mr. W. Robinson, Clerk, may be contacted for further information at 821-1107.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Purpose and effect of bylaw

The proposed Zoning Bylaw Amendment would add provisions to the Zoning Bylaw which would permit an apartment unit within a single family dwelling in all zones in which a single family dwelling is permitted as a principal use. A subsidiary apartment would not be permitted in an accessory dwelling.

The purpose of the amendment is to permit an apartment unit in a single family dwelling without substantially altering the physical character or appearance of the single family dwelling.

This amendment does not affect any particular property but rather applies to the entire township.

This amendment has been prepared concurrently with an enabling Official Plan Amendment.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Purpose and effect of bylaw

The proposed Zoning Bylaw Amendment would add provisions to the Zoning Bylaw to permit "bed and breakfast" accommodation in a single family dwelling in all zones in which a single family dwelling is permitted as a principal use. "Bed and breakfast" accommodation would not be permitted in an accessory single family dwelling.

The amendment would limit the "bed and breakfast" accommodation to a maximum of two guest rooms not exceeding a total of 35 m² and would require one parking space per guest room.

The proposed amendment would also define larger operations as a "guest house" which could only be established by amendment to the zoning bylaw.

This amendment does not affect any particular site but rather has general application to the entire township.

This amendment has been prepared concurrently with an enabling Official Plan Amendment.
