Leading llamas

The ninth Canadian Llama Association held its first eastern conference at the O.E.T.I.O. on the weekend, and 120 individuals from around North America registered. Those attending came from Alabama, Vancouver area, P.E.I., Nova Scotia, Ontario, Alberta and B.C. These three llamas owned by Bryan Wilson of Serenity Arena were trained to draw a cart in three hours and led a parade along Highway 2 through Morrisburg. "We educated a lot of people and made them know we're not just one or two individuals crazy about llamas, there's a whole bunch of us," said organizer Jacqueline Porter. The conference was judged a great success.

Amalgamation concerns councillor Audrey Rooney

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—Councillor Audrey Rooney made her feelings known about amalgamation last Tuesday night at the council meeting here.

In a two-page letter to council, Rooney made it clear that she wanted Iroquois council, as well as the other three municipalities in South Dundas, too look at her concerns.

The accounting firm of Craig, Gareau, Keen, Despatie and Markell was hired to conduct a study (Phase 1) of the four municipalities and see if amalgamation would work and if they could save money by joining forces.

"In my opinion, I cannot in all honesty, stand in front of the ratepayers of Iroquois and justify this proposal to them," said Rooney.

"I am concerned that the estimate for personnel needed to administer this new municipality is somewhat lean," she said. "The (Phase 1) report assumes that the public works department will share staff from the administrative department. I feel this will not be viable as the administrative department is out to the bone already."

Another concern of Rooney's is the fact that the report is too vague in its information, thus the need for a Phase 2 study.

"It is easy to say we will combine all administrative offices into one to save money, that is a given. But, we also have to be concerned with the quality of services that will be delivered to the taxpayers when we look at this scenario, and is it economically viable to do so?"

"The savings from amalgamation in year one is $81,000 (approximately rounded off figure for Iroquois' share). This is approximately 22 mills, or $75 on their tax bill. It will cost the taxpayers approximately $50 for the amalgamation, thus reducing the savings to $25. That is only in the best case scenario. Will the taxpayers of Iroquois be willing to no doubt, give up their civic office, representatives on council, identity, access to information (re: by-law and building permits), dog licences renewal etc. to save $25 on their yearly taxes?

"Let's also consider that the analysis has not factored in the localized mill rate reductions or increases as the equalization formula has yet to be determined. This, to me, is a red flag to the citizens of Iroquois."

Through all the talk of amalgamation, Rooney says she has not heard much on alternatives to Councy Council and its cost to the municipalities.

"The Village of Iroquois pays to county board approximately $93,185 for transportation services," she said.

By looking after these roads themselves, Rooney feels that they can save a lot of money.

"I feel that Phase 2 is necessary because of the vagueness of Phase 1, but I would like to suggest that we also study the savings gained by eliminating some of our County services, and be responsible for them ourselves."

Three resolutions were adopted regarding the amalgamation study and they were: That Phase 2 of the amalgamation study continue; That we look into eliminating some services provided by County Council, mainly roads and the benefits of such; and That the possibility of combining insurance needs to be researched and imnplemented if possible.

Leafs coming to Morrisburg

December 7th, at 7 p.m., the Leafs old timers will take on the Morrisburg Lions Club in an effort to raise money for Morrisburg Minor Hockey and the Winchester Hospital.

Spectators are also encouraged to bring along canned goods or any non-perishable item for the House of Lazarus.

Dale Lewis has been working on this special fund-raiser for almost a year now, and he says after countless phone calls and faxes, it's finally a 'done deal'.

"I just wanted to see if I could do something like this," he said. "I wanted to raise money for minor hockey, but at the same time, I'd like to give Winchester Hospital a little bit too."

The food drive was an added touch, as Lewis feels that donating non-perishables could benefit the food bank, especially during the Christmas season.

"I couldn't have done any of this though without the help of the Morrisburg Lions Club," he added.

The Toronto Maple Leafs old timers haven't made a stop in Morrisburg for approximately 10 years, and Lewis feels that they will be warmly welcomed here.

"I'd like to get a full house," he says. "If we can make some money for these charities, I'll be happy."

The cost for the tickets is $10 for adults, and $5 for children. They will be on sale at many local stores throughout South Dundas—just ask.

S.O.S.S. Committee opposes R/O closure

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

INGLESIDE—Approximately 275 concerned members of the community gathered here at a school council meeting last Tuesday to marshall a plan of action against school closure.

The secondary school at Rothwell Osnabruck is on a time line for closure, along with Newington and Roxmore Public Schools as early as next September. In September, the SD & G Public School Board announced the possible closures as a way to deal with an expected $3 million cut in provincial transfer payment next year.

Schools may be identified for closure when students may be accommodated in one or more other schools, students are within a reasonable transportation distance and comparable or better facilities are available. The three schools are identified due to an historic low enrollment, and if Roxmore is to stay open, repairs would have to be done.

Rothwell Osnabruck High School has an enrollment of 245, and the elementary school 307 students. The high school has three computer labs, science labs, athletic teams and its share of scholarship winners. In the last school year, it produced nine Ontario scholars.

In 1992, the school and township celebrated the construction of a new gymnasium, the Lancer Community Center, which is shared with the elementary school and used for community functions. Trustee Claude Shaver said there are no plans for relocation for staff or students.

Carrie Brittain, chair of the school council, led the information session which was also attended by Osnabruck trustee Bill Fleming and Cornwall Township trustee Claude Shaver.

Letters in support of retaining the school were read out, including one from Osnabruck Township, and MPP Noble Villeneuve who promised to relay concerns to the Board regarding the closure of the three rural schools.

A committee "Save our Secondary School" has been formed, and a petition is being circulated for the community to sign. As well as writing letters to trustees, their MPP, and the Minister of Education, friends of the school are encouraged to provide the School Council with a case to present to the Board.

"We want the alumnae to let us know what the school meant to them and how it prepared them for the future. We also want business to get involved and to write letters," she said.

"We feel losing the high school loses community appeal because there are numerous families who have moved here specifically because of the school," she explained.

"This is a self-contained community with a shopping center which has what we need. We have the school, the community center, churches. We don't want to lose that family feeling."

"As a family the emphasis has to be on the children. Education is so important these days, anything we can do to make it easier gives them more self-confidence and the better chance they have in life," she continued.

Established in the 1950's for the community which was moved from the shores of the St. Lawrence River in order to make way for the Seaway, Rothwell Osnabruck is one of a few schools in Ontario with a Kindergarten to OAC tradition, which in this case goes back 40 years.

Through activities like the Junior Band in Grades 8, 9 and 10, the school has the advantage of an easy transition between the middle years and high school. Through a program of peer helpers, secondary students help the elementary students.

"This school is unique, it gives us the opportunity to save a little of that stress," Brittain said. "If we can make that transition easier, we should."

Fleming pointed out the necessity of standing together "to keep the K-OAC concept alive. There are a few K-OAC schools in Ontario, and we

Residents complain over compost policy

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—The one-year trial period of garden compost no longer being picked up by village workers has at least two residents showing their disapproval.

Residents of the village received this information in their most recent hydro bills.

Carl VanCamp read a lengthy letter to council outlining his concerns, the main point being the fact that older residents of the village are paying taxes for services they're no longer receiving.

Councillor Art Roberts reminded VanCamp that this was just a trial period. He also mentioned that he hadn't heard many complaints as of last week.

Jim Millard addressed council as well, stating that the matter of transporting material to the compost area had not been well thought out.

"I was told that the village would no longer be collecting such material and I would have to get it to the community compost area on my own," stated Millard in a letter. "My complaint is that I do not feel I should have to use my own vehicle as a garbage truck, full of rotting plants."

Millard was concerned about how the elderly residents of the village, as well as those on fixed incomes, or those who didn't have a vehicle, would feel about the policy.

"While I resent paying taxes for garbage and compostables hauled away, it seems to be a sign of the times," said Millard.

"Let the taxpayer pay until it hurts, and then let him pay some more."

Tuesday, there was to be another meeting of Iroquois Council, addressing this issue. It was not known at press time, its decision on the matter.

have the best one. It's become a gem in the crown of our board."

He suggested the possibility of raising some money perhaps through a local tax levy, to partially affect the deficit.

Participants at the meeting complained that insufficient facts and figures to explain the cost saving have been made available to the public.

Osnabruck deputy reeve Bart Whitton said some factors are being ignored that might make a better informed decision, such as the building of a new sewage treatment plant and the lifting of a building freeze. "We feel we're on a bit of a roll and this has not been taken into consideration by whoever did the work for the school board."

Osnabruck councillor Fran Laflamme asked how Osnabruck and a corner of Roxborough Townships could solve one third of the problem. "Let's spread the misery around. If we could get through to Snobelen that if we need to lance a boil to cut the deficit we shouldn't take a chain saw."

A student who had attended the school from Kindergarten to OAC pleaded "you have to do something" to prevent the closure.

First on the committee's agenda is the gathering of figures on cost per student, proposed savings, and an outline of proposals to keep the school going.

The School Council plans to meet with the Finance and Facilities Committee on October 21 to present its case. During assessment of the three schools and community input over the next four to five months, the Board will arrive at a decision to be announced next April.

Water problems in Iroquois

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—The problem with water drainage on a Victoria Street property, has its owners up in arms about the flooding.

Jean and Lyle Mattice addressed Iroquois council last Tuesday night with their concerns about water not draining from their property since the natural drain ditch was filled in by Swank Construction last year.

Swank Construction, the contractor hired to build the Hustler Crescent Apartments, erected a cement wall behind the building to act as a barrier against flooding.

As a result, the Mattices' property—which abutts with the wall—is now on the receiving end of much of the water, and they felt it is up to the contractor to fix this drainage problem.

Lyle Mattice brought council's attention to the by-law passed in 1981 which states that ditches cannot be filled in without approval of the town foreman and a catch basin has to be installed at the property line.

"The water has no place to go except on my property. We'd like to know who authorized this (the filling of the ditch). It's not the taxpayers responsiblity to fix this. It's the contractor's," he said.

"If we come to an agreement, I had no intentions of signing it for two years. Until I see that whatever is done works."

Councillor Audrey Rooney—acting in Reeve Peter Swank's position due to conflict of interest—stated that they would look into the problem, and hopefully get a solution as soon as possible.

"We can't deny the fact that there is a problem, therefore we feel the contractor is responsible. I have no intention of the taxpayers footing the entire bill—if any of it. However if it would take getting it settled, I would be willing personally—if the contractor's willing—to share the expenses."

Practice under new management

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Patients who have not visited the optometrist's office here for some time may be surprised to see a new face.

While they are wrong to assume Dr. Norman Tenenbaum has retired, they are right to assume the office is under new management.

The new owner and manager Dr. Karen Salaj-Krajcovic, or Dr. Salaj, as she is familiarly known, has been practising here as an associate optometrist one day a week since January 1993. She took over the Morrisburg practice in September and now practices here Monday and Wednesday from 9 to 5 p.m. and Thursday from 1 to 7 p.m. However, she still sees patients on Tuesdays at Tenenbaum's Ottawa office at 233 Metcalfe Street.

Dr. Tenenbaum is now practising three days a week at his office in Ottawa, although he still sees patients in Morrisburg on Tuesday from 10 to 4.30 p.m.

Although she was raised in Montreal, Dr. Salaj was educated as one of a class of 60 graduates in Optometry at the University of Waterloo. She Glaucoma caused by excessive pressure within the eye results in damage to the nerve and progressive loss of vision. "Because it is progressive, and there is no pain it can be detected for a long time, thus we urge regular checkups for everyone," she said.

Dr. Salaj recommends screening for all ages, starting at age three, however, regular check-ups become more imperative with age.

Most optometrists are easy to book an appointment with during regular office hours. "Even if we're fully booked, if there's an urgent situation, you'll definitely get in. I don't leave anyone hanging," she added.

The event of losing or breaking one's glasses constitutes an emergency and emergency for many people, who may not have another pair. Problems with contact lenses must also be dealt with right away.

The 38 year-old optometrist practice in Morrisburg covers an extensive area from here west to Iroquois, east to Prescott and north to Winchester, although patients come here from as far as Metcalfe.

The case against VLT's

As the third reading of The Alcohol, Gaming and Charity Funding Public Interest Act draws near, provincial members should think twice before embarking on an action Ontario residents may regret.

Bill 75 proposes to establish an Alcohol and Gaming Commission of Ontario, by merging the Liquor License Board of Ontario, some of its regulatory functions, and the Gaming Control Commission.

Video lottery terminals are also proposed at selected locations across the province under the supervision of the Ontario Lottery Corporation, A video lottery terminal is a player operated electronic gaming terminal, similar to a slot machine in a commercial casino. However, the winning player gains a receipt which can be cashed rather than cash from a machine.

The government first intends to phase in VLT's for race tracks, secondly to set up 50 charity gaming halls to replace three-day Monte Carlo nights, and thirdly to extend VLTs to specially licensed bars and restaurants. The gaming halls would have 120-125 VLTs and 40 table games. With 3500 race tracks, 50 charity gaming halls, and 10-12,000 bars or restaurants, there could be as many as 20,000 VLT outlets province-wide.

Ten per cent of the revenue would go for operating costs to the race track owner, charity, or restaurant, two per cent to a problem gamblers fund, and the remainder would go to the province. While charities would gain an estimated $18,000,000 instead of the current $12,000,000 from Monte Carlo nights, the province would take in an estimated $180-185,000,000 from the charity halls alone.

Its stated intents are to supply stable funding to charities, stimulate the hospitality industry, and to tighten controls over an expanding gambling industry, and on the surface the government's aims seem justifiable. Notwithstanding its need to increase revenue, there are too many negatives to endorse this legislation. The V.LT. habit is reported to be extremely addictive, hurting most those who can least afford to part with their hard earned cash, welfare cheque, or bank account, as the case may be.

A Calgary gentleman recently wrote to praise Morrisburg Council's opposition to VLT's in the Village, and explained why. The province of Alberta gained $540,000,000 in one year from only 6,000 VLT's, but attendance at Gamblers Anonymous tripled in two years, with 60 per cent reported as VLT addicts. He also reported wrecked lives, careers and homes.

The province of Ontario could benefit from Morrisburg Council's caution. Rather than jump on the bandwagon as other provinces have done, Ontario should look elsewhere to fatten its cash cow. C.T.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Laurie Day

The Morrisburg-Williamsburg Industrial Commission held its third meeting in Morrisburg, with discussions about an industry appreciation night, and the possibility of hosting an Eastern Ontario industry workshop. Members discussed having the night for local industries but questions surrounding who, and how many to invite, were debated. Tentatively, the appreciation evening was set for sometime in January.

Renovations were completed at the St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Williamsburg, as it was the home of a newly installed elevator, the first church in the area to have one. Church councillor, Lyle Van Allen, said the elevator had been needed for some time, because of the unusual construction of the church. The basement is ground level and the church is upstairs, which made it difficult to carry caskets up to the church, and some members of the congregation found it difficult to climb the stairs each week.

Three ladies escaped injury when the car they were in was trapped on the train tracks north of Iroquois on the Brinston Road. The Via Rail passenger train sliced off the front end of the 1985 Dodge Aries driven by May Serviss of Ingleside, who was not injured. Passengers Nellie Stillson of Ingleside and Agnes Casselman of Dixon's Corners alsi escaped injury. There was approximately $1,000 damage done to the train.

A pretty wedding took place October 2nd which appeared in the October 29th issue of The Leader. Angela Lafortune, daughter of Marion and the late Ernest Lafortune, was united in marriage to Lee Allan Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hess of Morrisburg. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Father F. O'Connor, and the altar was covered with baskets of yellow mums for the occasion.

The Morrisburg Lions Club was successful in obtaining the concession rights at the Community Centre as their tender was the most favorable received by council. The canteen would be opened as soon as renovations to the arena lobby were completed, and power restored to the canteen.

The main item of concern at the Morrisburg Public School Committee meeting was the lack of safety patrols at major traffic crossings. Mr. Peters gave the committee a brief history of the patrol system and explained that the main reason it ceased to exist was general lack of interest on the students' part, plus the fact that they were not obeyed by older students and were often the object of verbal abuse.

Headlines in the October 14th issue of The Leader read: MHS Track Team Places Second in Area Meet. The Morrisburg High School track team made a better showing in Metcalfe that it had in the past 10 years, finishing second behind Osgoode. Some of the winners on the team were Paul Hill, second in the boys division; and Bryan Dawley and Jack Notman, second and third for the senior boys. A highlight of the day was the sweep of first two places in the senior mile by Jim Scott and Andy Henophy. Top boys included Paul Hill, Tom Whelan, Brian McIntosh and Roger Barnhart, and leading the junior girls were Patty Farrell, Bonnie Casselman, Carol Hart, Debbie Scott and Jane Meyer. Lee Tuttle and Don Mabo led the intermediate boys and the intermediate girls included Terry Wells, Sandy Scott, Anne Marie Young, Sylvia Casselman, Sybil Adams and Jane Meyer. Top senior athletes were Bryan Dawley and Jack Notman and the girls were Brenda Whittaker, Kathy Rice, Carole Johnston, Kathy Edgerton and Ruth Ann Garlough.

The return of "Nigger", the black cocker spaniel who accompanied Fred Babcock on the day of his disappearance almost two weeks earlier, triggered another extensive search of the bush surrounding his farm home, but no sign of the 85-year-old man was found.

The October 12th edition of The Leader reported Gary Gillespie had been elected president of the newly-formed Morrisburg Model Kings Plane Club.

Installation of dial telephones in Morrisburg homes had started, but the new instruments would not work well until the actual cutover. The change to dial operation was not to take place until the spring.

Seen And heard Around the town

Ryan Vickers of Ingleside is one lucky—or brilliant—lad. He was chosen out of 50,000 people to be on the game show, "Wheel of Fortune". His mom Joan called The Leader to pass on the good news. Ryan had sent his postcard to Toronto and out of 50,000, he was one of about 260 to be chosen for an audition there. He was sent a letter of confirmation Friday, but he won't know for some time, just when he will be appearing on the show. Sandy Sharky of Cool FM radio station in Ottawa and another man whom Joan couldn't remember, were the other two people from Eastern Ontario to be chosen for the show. Congratulations to Ryan, and we'll pass on more information to you as soon as Ryan tells us how he did on the show. Hopefully, says mom, he'll be able to pay his way through university.

Art Martell called to tell us that the Lions Club is sending another four 45-gallon drums of pull tabs to Alcoa, the Aluminum Company of Canada. The money made from this aluminum goes towards the purchase of wheelchairs. So far, Art figures that the Lions Club has been able to purchase two wheel chairs. Now, that may not seem like many, but consider this: it takes about four and a half million tabs for the purchase of just one chair. Approximately 7-9 million tabs have been sent so far from Morrisburg and the area.

Cathy Thompson is one lucky chick. She was very surprised Friday, when she received a phone call from Dr. Zajacz's office stating hubby Jerry had won the bird draw. After Thanksgiving dinner at the Thompsons in Cardinal, everyone declared it was the most delicious home grown turkey ever!

Teresa Waclawik, the artist who painted Vancouver's Best Loved Mural on the Starlight Cinema, has a caricature mural at Upper Canada Playhouse with less than 10 spaces remaining. The mural has an Odonto toothbrush theme and features friends of the Playhouse who have volunteered to have their faces drawn. Dr. Gerry Rosenquist, Brenda King, Doug Grenkie, and other local notables are among those depicted. Anyone wanting to be immortalized for this special fundraiser may call the Playhouse at 543-3713. The sitting fee is $75 with $25 going to the Playhouse. A tax receipt is available upon request.

Last week, eight local golfers travelled to Mount Tremblant to take on the Giant Golf Course. The course lived up to its reputation as none of Morrisburg's finest golfers broke 90. In fact, one fellow even admitted to losing 12 balls during his round of 106. Don't worry Suds, Santa Claus usually leaves balls in your stocking at Christmas. That way, you'll have a head start on next season.

Lyle Schell cut his hockey season short last week. According to sources he got his skate caught in a rut, turned, and...pop goes the kneecap. Seems he separated the patella, and he'll be sidelined for a few weeks. But like the terminator...he will be back.

The October 16th issue of The Leader reported that having been appointed to Trinity Lutheran Church in Hamilton Rev. Mehlenbacher was to preach his farewell sermon in St. Paul's, Morrisburg, on October 25th.

At a well-attended meeting held in the Town Hall on October 14th, the Morrisburg Golf Club elected officers for the ensuing year. Honorary presidents were Dr. M.W. Locke, Mr. George H. Challies, M.L.A., Col. AC Casselman MP and Arthur Flynn. Mr. J.H. Meikle became president and Grace D. Merkley, vice president. Several suitable sites were discussed as a location for a golf course and the executive committee was to meet with the town council to see if suitable arrangements would be made with regard to securing a site. As soon as this was accomplished, another meeting was to be called and plans were to be laid for the preparation of a suitable ground. A great deal of enthusiasm was shown by the attendance at the meeting.

The car of vegetables and fruit to be shipped to the Canadian West was being filled. Trucks were gathering donations in the Township of Williamsburg and the Village of Morrisburg. It required a great deal of organization to cover such a wide area and if anyone had been missed, they were asked to get in touch with their minister. It was not the intention that anyone be missed in this goodwill offering to those in need.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bowman, Williamsburg, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on October 11. Mr. and Mrs. A Sweet celebrated their 55th anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. B.L. Carr.

Headlines in the October 15th issue of The Leader read: Former Morrisburg boy adds new invention to his radio record. Associated with Dr. Lee DeForest, Roy A. Weagant had contributed a number of improvements in the radio field and his most recent invention, a method of eliminating static interference was perhaps his most important and interesting patented idea. Born in Morrisburg in 1881, he was a graduate of McGill University in 1905. He entered the service of the Marconi Company in 1912, and in 1920, was appointed chief engineer of the Radio Corporation of America.

Stewart Ford, D.C., Ph.T.D., Morrisburg Chiropractor, announced that he had installed new Electro-Magnetic Baths.

W. Marsh and Son had a Davenport Suite, consisting of three pieces, listed for sale at $135. The suite included a large davenport, which opened into a comfortable bed, a large arm rocker and a chair to match. It was upholstered in English tapestry and has polished walnut frames.

Chesterville United hosts UCW Rally

CHESTERVILLE—The Chesterville United Church Women hosted the UCW Fall Rally for Region 3, Seaway Valley Presbyterial, on Wednesday, October 2, 1996.

Refreshments were offered by the Chesterville ladies as the women gathered and browsed through a display of books arranged by Joan McEwan and Lois Johnson.

Reitta Hillis, who arranged the event, welcomed all present and read a poem on "October". Marion Finniss welcomed all on behalf of the Chesterville UCW.

A joyful time of singing, led by Louise Shaw with Joan McEwan at the piano, set the tempo for the worship period, led by Margaret Holmes. She based her thoughts on 1 John 4:7-19 and focussed on the true meaning of the word "love" rather than on our casual overuse of it.

She concluded by pointing out that "to Know love is to Know God". Louise Shaw sang "Walk With Me" as an appropriate emphasis to the theme of the service.

Greetings were extended by Louise Shaw, President of the Seaway Valley Presbyterial United Church Women. The next Presbyterial meeting will be held at Long Sault on November 12, 1996.

A number of books and videos from the book table were reviewed by Joan McEwan and Lois Johnson to help buyers in their choices. A financial report was given by Edith Jenkins.

Guest speaker, Judith Matheson, was introduced by Carol McDermott.

After a potluck luncheon, the afternoon session was uplifted once more by a period of song. Carol McDermott gave highlights of Summer Event held at Bishops University. The theme was "walk with me".

Judith Matheson shared more thoughts on pastoral care with emphasis on the necessity of a spiritual focus.

Williamsburg W.I.

WILLIAMSBURG—The Williamsburg Women's Institute held its October meeting on October 8th, at the Township building.

President Isobel Williams opened the meeting with a welcome to everyone. Fourteen members answered roll call by quoting a sign or myth used to forecast weather.

After the business session, Ruth Alguire introduced the guest speaker, Peter Brunt, and his son Tristan.

Peter runs a Deer Farm at the corner of highway #2 and Lightning St. First a video of the Deer was shown and then Peter gave a very interesting talk about the Deer Farming Industry.

The current estimated value of the industry in Ontario is approximately $40 million. Peter raises both the Fallow and White-Tail deer. Deer meat is a healthful red meat, low in fat and calories and rich in protein.

It is grown on farms under the most natural conditions and is government inspected to ensure a tender, high quality product.

Deer antlers, which Peter and Tristan brought were a soft velvet which is used extensively for different medicines.

Peter and Tristan brought biscuits, cheese and some very tasty salami; and tea plus a variety of breads and cakes were served by Norma Harriman and Audrey Casselman.

Valedictory address has audience laughing, crying

IROQUOIS—Seaway District High School commencement was held Friday here with a packed house of parents, students and friends.

There were 97 graduates, 13 of whom were Ontario Scholars. Nikki Melki, Marie Anne O'Brien, Jonathan Saunders, Brandon Boivin, Sara Martel, Jon Domanko, Tammy Henderson, Sheri Kenny, Jaime Notman, Amy Cooper, Mathew Charbot, Anson Chan and Greta Wemerman were this year's scholars.

Principal Doug Murray told the audience that 73 per cent of Seaway's graduating class continued with post secondary education: 19 per cent to university, 51 per cent to colleges, three per cent to private schools. There were 21 per cent of the students who found employment, and just six per cent doing other things.

Ottawa University and St. Lawrence College were the most popular schools chosen by Seaway students. Queens and Loyalist were next most popular.

The most popular areas of study chosen were general arts and science, humanities and social sciences.

Valedictorian address

From laughter to tears, she delivered an inspiring, yet thoughtful address.

"I can't believe I'm up here about to tell you everything you've every wanted to know about...COWS...oops, wrong speech."

Henderson said she could remember leaving home for McGill, feeling anxious and scared.

"It was an emotional time. For the last three days before I left, you could say anything to me and I would start to cry. I can remember saying goodbye to my grandma, and I gave her a hug and said, "I'll miss you," as tears streamed down my face and she said, "Tam...just look at this as a growing experience...it will all work out in the end," and I said to her, "But I don't want to grow!

"Well, here we are, in the midst of change and growth. We must always set goals even a little higher than expected, and go after them. We must always keep an optimistic attitude about out lives and the future, even it it does seem grim.

"Remember, anything worth having is worth waiting for. Live each moment to the fullest and make every experience worthwhile. Change and grow knowing that it will all work out in the end. Take every opportunity to grow and learn. Be yourself and never change just to please others. Never forget the past and always look forward to the future. And remember, yesterday is history, tomorrow is a mystery, today is a gift. That's why we call it the present."

Henderson was thanked by her peers with a standing ovation as she dried her tears.

R/O boasts nine Ontario Scholars

Principal Susan Lopez shared her pride of the 57 graduates accomplishments and her hope they would remember and cherish the lessons they had learned at Rothwell-Osnabruck, both in and out of the classroom.

Valedictorian Josh VanderVeen recalled memories of school from kindergarten through Grade Nine initiation or "Slave day", and beyond. Highlights included the visit of the CJOH news team, break time at the "Leacock Canadian Reading Room," and ongoing friendships through the years. Not the least was the learning process, "even though at times we didn't care to and even times we tried not to but when you have teachers as RO has it is very hard not to learn."

Teachers who will never be forgotten include "Mr. Glenn whose corny joke kept us laughing in physics and chemistry, or Mr. Marin whose long flowing locks of hair were the pride and joy of his life."

Then there was Mr. Meldrum "who was always willing to express his love for certain political figures and Mr. Thompson who expressed much love for the Ottawa Roughriders and the Montreal Canadians. We had Mr. Santowski who in a quiet and almost friendly way tortured students with his constant bombardment of homework."

Each of the 57 graduates will have a different future. Already they have "stepped out of these old shoes and gone separate ways, some to colleges, some to universities, and some to the workforce."

While some graduates will work with their hands and minds and become farmers, mechanics, doctors or builders, some will work less with their hands and become scientists, engineers, and business people, or "some won't work at all. . .and go into politics," he said.

The RO graduates have already spent a couple of months getting used to their lives outside the school, and have already grown nostalgic over times past. But not all graduates remember school with fondness, and "that is why this school is special. Those who go here and those who have come from here were shocked to hear the news that this high school is slated to be closed as early as next year," he said.

The possibility of school closure is a concern to graduates who hope this will never happen.

Among OAC graduates were nine Ontario scholars who achieved an average of 80 per cent on their best six "OAC" subjects: Ann-Marie Bourgon, Holly Branscombe, Sara-Dawn Crites, Christine DeJong, Sara Eamon, Donna ter Horst, Angela Thompson, Joshua VanderVeen, and Steven Willard.

Nation Valley Snowmobile Club receives $32,500 grant

The winter season will soon be upon us, and with it, the intrepid snowmobilers will be looking for some action.

After two seasons of existence, the Nation Valley Snowmobile Association had an increase of membership last year by 42 per cent. Up from 477 in its first years of operation, last year the NVSA had 678 members.

Out of 62 applications, NVSA came in second in obtaining Development Funding of $32,500 for the purchase of a new groomer.

The Association and its member clubs have worked hard to improve the quality of snowmobiling in the area. With the second groomer on the snow this winter, they hope to improve the trails that much more.

The Nation Valley Snowmobile Association, which operates snowmobile trails in this area, is among 42 community-based snowmobile clubs that have been selected to share Trail Development Grants totalling $634,000.

The grants, made by the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs, will lever an additional $1.5 million in matching funds onto local snowmobile trails for the 1996-97 season.

The infusion of this total of $2.1 million in new development dollars will help boost snowbelt economies by creating new jobs and by fostering the growth of the $650 million annual economic impact of snowmobiling in Ontario.

Funded from the world's largest user-pay trail permit system, the OFSC Development Grants will provide up to 50 per cent of the capital funding for 20 industrial grooming tractors, 23 grooming drags and 63 bridges. These funds are tangible evidence of the OFSC mandate to put Trail Permit revenues back into club hands, and are geared to significantly improve strategic trail links within the 46,000 km OFSC snowmobile trail network.

"We have selected this year's recipients in key areas of Ontario where OFSC dollars will have the greatest impact on the quality of our provincial trail system," commented Bert A. Grant, OFSC president. "While at the same time, providing much needed impetus to the local winter economy."

The grants are an integral part of the OFSC Trail Funding Formula which provides equitable distribution of provincial Trail Permit revenues to clubs who demonstrate a combination of greatest need and least ability to generate funds from other sources. By committing a carefully selected and limited number of larger capital grants to these clubs, the OFSC hopes to help create better local snowmobile trails and to stimulate new winter employment, economic growth and more community partnerships.

"Ontario's 294 snowmobile clubs are composed of thousands of local volunteers who, together, invest the equivalent of over $14 million annually into trail maintenance, grooming, and operations," said Grant. "These grants are just one more way to prove the growing importance of organized snowmobiling to Ontario's economy."

The Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs is dedicated to providing strong leadership and support to member clubs to establish and maintain quality snowmobile trails which are used in a safe and environmentally responsible manner to further the enjoyment or organized snowmobiling.

Junior B Lions' losing skid stops at five against Hawks

JEFF BARCLAY
Leader Staff

Within the first five minutes of the game it was 3-0 for Char Lan and those goals all came within a minute of each other.

The Lions tried to get back on their feet when Rick Hess scored for the Lions getting help from Jason Lavallee. That was all the scoring the Lions would do for the first period, though Char Lan would go on to score three more before the period ended.

The Lions' second goal of the second period came with just over eight minutes remaining when Stefane Champagne netted one, assisted by Rob Darling and Justin Beckstead.

The Lions last goal of the game came with under seven minutes remaining in the second as Rick Hess got one with assists going to Chris Van Beilen and Justin Beckstead.

Char Lan would go on to fill the Lions net an amazing 11 more times before the final buzzer saved the Lions from this gruesome attack, ending 21-4.

The hawks tied it up as Chris Bailey got one by Lions netminder Troy Sayeau, the assist went to Jason Harper.

The second period was scoreless. In the third the Hawks took the lead at the 18:11 mark as Mike Hutt got by Sayeau assisted by Chris Bailey.

The Lions tied it up with just over 16 minute remaining in the game when Rob Darling tucked one by the Hawks goalie assisted by Stefane Champagne.

With only 28 seconds left on the clock the Lions sealed their first victory as Jason Santamore scored with an assist from Ryan Warner.

Successful hunt

Coligan tags first moose after seven years trying

MORRISBURG—It was the first one he's ever seen. Imagine the feeling when he actually tagged it.

Local hunter Steve Coligan was in Chapleau (near Wawa) last week, along with four other guys, where he got his first moose Saturday afternoon after seven years of trying.

"It was the first one I've ever seen," he said. I actually saw three. The cow and the calf were eating and then I heard a snap. When I looked up I saw the bull sitting up on the ridge."

"One shot with a 308 was all it took."

After a four-and-a-half-hour ordeal, Coligan and Leo Lafortune, Steve Casselman, Danny Cassell and Steve Burd finally got the moose back to camp.

"It was half way up the mountain," he said. "I bet it'll dress about 750 pounds."

Besides the hunt, the gang enjoyed the fishing. Lafortune said that they had a nice shore lunch after a two-hour fish where they caught 21 pike.

"Incredible," said Lafortune, looking a little worse for wear, as were the rest of the guys.

"But I have to say, this hunt was the most strenuous one." —Laurie Day

Just Another Day

Laurie Day

Thanksgiving was a wonderful day this year. After reading that it was supposed to rain for four days straight—Sunday being included—we sure did get a great day.

I loaded up my camera, and the dog (got a new baby...more later) and the hubby, and away we went to Mom and Dad's place. Wee Bro and his girlfriend, and Grandma were also there.

Mom sure whizzed up a great meal. 'Cept she called me at home later that night to say she forgot to serve the cabbage salad and the jello salad.

Gee Mom, I really don't think any of us missed it. There was way too much other stuff to gorge!

Yup. We got another canine friend. That episode with "Big Ben" a while ago didn't last long. Seems he was just a lost hobo. He took off about a week later.

Friday, I saw an ad in the paper for Siberian Huskies so Larry called. We went out there a few hours later, but left without one.

I begged, pleaded, cried and whined, but said the final decision was up to him. After all, it was going to be 'his' dog.

"Too bad it wasn't male," he says.

"Ah Lar, Lacey won't mind her. She'll love her like her own after a while. Besides, how can you resist that darling little face, and those huge blue eyes just begging you to take her."

Didn't take much coaxing, because within two hours of leaving the kennel, we were back and ready to take on a new pup.

Finally, after almost a year of looking for a Siberian that we both liked, we found one. I'll have to stop in and show Steph at the Press, since she's been with me on all my adventures to find one.

As for Lacey? She's adjusting to the new addition, but she sure licks her lips a lot.

I was talking to a friend of mine the other day and she told me something that I can't quite get off my mind.

And it makes a lot of sense.

She told me that you might just as well give people flowers when they're alive, because they'll be able to appreciate it more.

Ever since her husband died over 25 years ago, instead of taking flowers to his grave, she donates to a charity.

To further make her point, she told about the time she was on her way home from a funeral when she came across a truck which was loaded down with flowers.

"You won't believe this," she says, "but I followed that truck for a little bit, and it turned down toward the dump!"

That was just a little point to ponder—told to me by Beatrice Riddell.

Have you called your florist yet?
