Henry's Shorthand School
Ottawa, Ont.

On the May Civil Service Examination, this year, we passed more stenographic candidates than the other local business colleges combined.

It is a common occurrence for Henry-trained students to get 100% in Shorthand 100% in Typewriting, and 95% in Composition.

These subjects being the most difficult on this examination, our record of FIRST, SECOND and FOURTH places for the whole of Canada, is at once explained.

During the past two years, more than 235 students have come to us from other local business colleges.

Does it not prove that we have a superior school ?

Our instruction being individual, you may start at any time.

Mose Strader Burned to Death.

Mose Strader an old man living alone in a log shack north of Winchester was burned to death last Friday when his place was destroyed by fire. It is understood that when neighbors went to fight the fire that they believed that Strader was not at home and as the place seemed beyond saving, as strenuous efforts as might have been made were not used in fighting the fire. The old man was somewhat of a "character" and familiar to many in the township.

Official Figures

Official returns for the north half of Dundas in the campaign for prohibition by July 1st, 1916, show 1789 electors' signatures and 2316 signatures on the supplementary petition. 1738 voted at the last provincial election for the same district so the petitioners are over 100 per cent of these and over seventy-five per cent of the total number of the possible electorate.

Red Cross Tea, St. Valentine's Day.

Mrs. Lawson will give a St. Valentine's tea at her home on Monday, Feb. 14th, proceeds to be devoted to the purchase of "little comforts" for the boys from Chesterville and vicinity who have enlisted for overseas service.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all to be present at the tea and make it a financial success.

An energetic committee of young ladies have the programme in hand and in order that the gentlemen may grace the affair with their presence, tea will be served up to seven o'clock. From 4 o'clock.

Come—and bring your friends.

Hands Frozen and Face Cut.

George Casselman of Mountain township, had his hands considerably frozen and his face badly cut Monday night in an endeavor to stop his runaway horse. At Pitcher's corner north of town he ran into a blinding snow storm and could not see the road. At the turn the road was very slippery and getting a little farther over than intended his cutter turned around and he was upset in the ditch. The cutter was righted and he got in but the horse being excited ran east, eventually upsetting the cutter in the ditch again. Casselman held to the lines and was dragged quite a distance over the rough ice before letting the horse go. He attempted to follow it on foot but it was soon lost to view in the storm and Casselman made his way to W. J. Lynch's where he was cared for. The horse was not found until the next morning when it made its way to J. P. Kearns' barn, with the cutter still attached and very little damaged.

To Ladies and Gents:
Bald Headed Men and Women.

Remember Prof. Dorenwend of Toronto will as you will see advertised elsewhere in this paper be at the McCloskey House, Chesterville, on Wednesday, Feb. 16th, to fit baid men, who have lost their hair, so natural that you would think the hair grows out of the natural scalp. These Hair Toupees, so called, are a wonder of perfection, makes man years younger, protects the health, can be worn day and night and cannot come off unless the wearer desires it. Can be combed and brushed like the hair grown on the scalp. We have them in use by thousands of women, farmers, doctors, ministers and merchants. He has also ladies beautiful hair styles in human hair transformations, wavy fronts, and switches, which will make younger and handsomer effects on ladies' heads. On his last visit he was called out to fit people on the day he was advertised. This time he will sure be in the hotel from early morning until 10 o'clock at night. Remember Feb. 16th. Be sure and see him.

The Secours National.

Those who form the French Relief Association in Toronto deeply appreciate the help given them from Chesterville and vicinity, judging from the enthusiastic letters received by Mrs. Lawson. They speak of the magnificent donation of bedding and clothes, of the splendid warm clothing of the things being "just what are most needed."

We have shipped as follows:—1st, 1 bale, 2nd, 10 bales, 3rd. 3 bales, and today a large bale which was sent in by the Presbyterian ladies of Dunbar, which they valued at $62.45. This bale contained a large number of warm useful things in good repair and will be most acceptable.

We wish that it were possible to get more bedding—blankets, quilts, sheets, pillows, would be very gladly received. Surely we who are living in plenty and in comparative peace, can spare from our bounteous stores something for those who are homeless and hopeless, and to whom we owe, in great degree, the fact that we have even a measure of peace and comfort.

The Late John Henry Marselis.

Last Wednesday night at eleven o'clock Nation Valley parted with one more of her early pioneers, in the person of John H. Marselis. The late Mr. Marselis was born in the Township of Williamsburg, about two miles east of Morrisburg, on his father's farm, on the banks of the old St. Lawrence. (This farm had been held in the father's name since he was eight weeks old, he being the son of U. E. Loyalist parents, and getting his title from the British Government).

Mr. John H. Marselis was the youngest member of a family of eleven, the others being: George, Daniel, Silas, Liza Ann, Marcus, Catherine, Laney, Euphemia, Mary Jane and Adeline. The last two named are the only two left of that fine old family. The late Mr. Marselis started out to win his way when he was but a lad, working in the vicinity of his old home and over the line in Northern New York. Saving his earnings, he later bought the E½ of Lot 10 in the 2nd Concession of the Township of Winchester, making a good substantial payment, spot cash. Only six acres of this farm was cleared, the remaining fifty-five being very heavily timbered. In this little clearing Mr. Marselis erected a snug litlte house, stable, etc., and on the 27th day of March, 1877, he married Miss Hagar Merkley of Williamsburg Township, and together they commenced the building of the home they have shared ever since until they laid their burden down. Mrs. Marselis died on the 7th day of February, 1911, five years ago.

(It is interesting to note that last fall saw the last furrow of new land on this farm turned.)

To Mr. and Mrs. Marselis were born four daughters. The second and third died in childhood. The eldest, Emma C., at home, and the youngest, Nettie, (Mrs. John Robinson) of Hoasic, are with us still and have the sympathy of the community.

In politics Mr. Marselis was a Reformer. In religion he was brought up a Presbyterian, but when he settled on his new farm, there being no convenient place to worship he and his bride united with the Methodist brethren and with them they have since remained. Always taking an active interest in anything that concerned the community, he held the position of Sec'y-treas. on the trustee board for several terms. He was also at different times Superintendent of the Gray's Schoolhouse Sabbath School and a teacher in the same.

Mr. Marselis was always fond of children, resulting in their strong attachment to him. Many of these left behind will long cherish fond memories of the days when their late friend used to play with them when they were but little tots.

The late Mr. Marselis will be much missed in the neighborhood. Honest, frank, a hard worker, a good neighbor and a faithful friend, with ever a cheery word for each. Good-bye, "Till the day breaks and the shadows flee away."

Marvelville Boy Deserted To Get To The Front.

J. E. Hawes, aged 19, whose home is at Marvelville, twenty miles Ottawa, was one of five invalided soldiers who arrived at Elmhurst Home Saturday afternoon.

He enlisted with the 38 Battalion a year ago, and went to England with a draft. Owing to his age he was not allowed to accompany a draft for the front, but by "mixing" he managed to cross the Channell with others and got attached to No. 3 Company, 2nd Battalion. He was missed from his battalion in England and an order for his arrest as a deserter was issued.

Some time ago in carrying water he slipped on a firing platform and injured his side.

When he reached England he was placed under arrest, but was later freed and sent back to Canada.

Dick and Jimmy were spending a few days with their Grandmother, who spoils them as grandmothers will. Once they were saying their prayers, and little Jimmy vociferated his petition to the Heavenly Throne in a voice that could be heard a mile. He was telling the Divine Providence what he wanted for Christmas, and his enthusiasm in the cause got on his brother's nerves. "What are you praying for Christmas presents so loud for?" interrupted Dick. "The Lord ain't deaf." "No," whispered Jimmy, "but grandma is."

COUNTIES' COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Conclusion of January Session—No Action in Glen Nevis School Case—Grants to Patriotic Fund and 154th Regiment—High School Trustees and New P. S. Inspector For Dundas Appointed—By Laws Passed.

WEDNESDAY EVENING JAN. 26TH.

The Council resumed on Wednesday evening.

A letter was read from Murdoch McRae, Greenfield, applying for position of County Auditor.

The same was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Sangster presented a petition from Lancaster Township, praying detachment of certain specified territory from Williamstown High School District, to enable Fifth Form work to be carried on in said Township.

The petition was referred to the Education Committee for consideration and report.

The Council then adjourned until 11 a. m. on Thursday.

THURSDAY MORNING

A resolution of condolence with the relatives of the late John K. McLean, Finch, a former member of Council, was passed, the same to be inscribed in the minutes and a copy forwarded to the widow of deceased.

A resolution of sympathy with John A. Gray, Reeve of Kenyon, who is prevented from being present owing to illness in his family, was passed.

The Council adjourned until 10 a. m. on Friday.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The report of the Committee on Communications was presented by the Chairmen, Mr. Chevrier.

The Committee reported that several unimportant letters had been referred to them. As these required no action they were ordered to be filled. They had also considered the request of the County Clerk, Belleville, and recommended that a resolution be passed and sent to the Provincial Secretary, favoring the proposed amendments to the Public Health Act.

The report was adopted.

The report of Mr. Johnston, Commissioner of McConnell's Bridge, was presented by him. He reported that the bridge was completed and accepted by himself and the engineer. The total cost had been $4008.57.

The Report was referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee for consideration and report.

The report of the Education Committee was presented by the chair-man, Mr. Adams.

The committee recommended the appointment of the following High School Trustees;

Williamstown—A. A. McLellan, Lancaster.

Alexandria—Duncan A. McDonald.

Cornwall—J. T. Kirkpatrick.

Morrisburg—S. P. Ryan.

Iroquois—L. N. Tanny.

Chesterville—Geo. H. Ellis.

Winchester—Thomas Irving.

Morewood—J. Wesley Smith.

Roxborough—Angus H. McMillan.

The committee had considered the resignation of V. K. Greer as I. P. S. for Dundas, and recommended the acceptance of same: also that J. W. Forester, M. A., of Smith Fall; be appointed to fill the vancany, subject to the ratification of the Minister of Education: that no action be taken on the letter from the Ontario Trustees' Association re appointment of delegates; that the U. P. Examinations be continued; that they had received a petition from the Township of Lancaster, asking for the detaching of certain specified territory from the Williamstown High School District, and as the matter had been dealt with adversely on two previous occasions by the Counties' Council, the committee could see no reason why they should depart from the ruling of last year's Council, and recommended that the prayer of the petitioners be not granted.

The council then adjourned until 1.30 p- m.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Some discussion took place on the clause in the Education Committee's report in respect to the Glengarry School case. Mr. Beckstead moved the adoption of the report, but Mr. Sangster wanted the matter left to the Glengarry members to decide.

Mr. Robertson said the same request was made in committee and had been refused, and the matter should not be given to the members of one county to deal with. A vote was taken, resulting in the adoption of the report by a majority of 19 to 10.

J. R. Simpson read the report of the Board of Management of the House of Refuge, giving detailed facts in connection with the value of effects, farm stock, produce, etc. At present there were 36 inmates—20 males and 16 females. The actual cost per day of inmates as to food alone was 15.60 cents; for all purposes the cost was 49.92 cents.

The report was adopted.

On motion of Messrs. Hamilton and Thompson, the following Board of Management were chosen for the House of Industry and Refuge for 1916: Messrs. Clark (Warden), Beckstead and Rombough.

Mr. McNaughton read the report of the Finance Committee. Accounts to the amount of $4,507.06 had been passed; House of Refuge expenditure aggregating $2,111.61 had been paid; and the committee made the following recommendations that W. J. Duncan of South Mountain and C. E. Cameron of Finch, be appointed auditors; that the Clerk and chairman of Finance Committee form the County Board of Audit; that $30 be granted to the Sick Children's Hospital and $25 to the Muskoka Hospital for Consumptives; that free pedlar's licenses be granted to Maggie Thomas, O. Markell, Jas. Keyes and A. H. Forbes; that the Treasurer's salary be $1,200 per year; that the grant to the Canadian Patriotic Fund be increased to $2,000 per month until the June session (it was $600 a month from June last until January of this year); that as the requirements of the 154th Overseas Battalion are not immediate and pressing, the matter of the grant be deferred until the June session.

Messrs. Hamilton and Thompson moved that the report be amended by inserting $1000 instead of $2000 to the Patriotic Fund. Mr. Sangster said such a precedure would make the counties look insignificant. Mr. Thompson said $1000 would be sufficient until June, and then they would grant $5000 if necessary. J. G. Adams, in a lengthy speech, referred to the immediate needs of funds. They must look at conditions as they prevailed to-day, not six months hence.

Mr. Meikle said that they had been informed by J. G. Harkness a few days ago that it required $1200 a month later. If they reduced the grant to $1000 where would the other $200 come from.

Messrs. Hermiston, Nolan, Sangster, Adams, Fisher and Beckstead took part in discussing the recommendation regarding the 154th Battalion grant. Messrs. Hermiston and Sangster moved that the report be amended so as to provide for a grant of $300 a month to the 154th until the June session. It was subsequently agreed to amend the report by granting $150 a month to the 154th until June, and, as so amended, the report was adopted.

The report of the Committee on Roads and Bridges was read by the chairman, Eli Merkley. The committee appointed F. Stidwill, C. E., as county engineer during the absence of Major W. H. Magwood, C. E., and expressed the hope that Major Magwood would return home safely after serving his country and King. W. J. Fisher was appointed delegate to the Good Roads convention. The following were appointed Commissioners on Bridges; Eli Merkley, Thomas Johnstone, J. W. Thompson, Wesley Hamilton, Thomas Sutherland. J. D. Rombough, D. A. McNaughton, P. A. Nolan, Alex. Cameron, Robert Mulholland, W. J. Fisher, J. E. Gray, George E. Earle.

The report of the Printing Committee was read by the Chairman, Mr. Campbell. The committee recommended the acceptance of the tender of The Freeholder for the printing of the minutes at $1.45 per page; and that the advertising of the Sheriff's notices of court sittings be awarded to the Cornwall Standard at $12 for the five courts.

Mr. Meikle thought the printing contract should be passed around. He was absent from the meeting, not knowing at what hour the committe had been called together. He moved that, as the Morrisburg Leader had also tendered at $1.43 per page, the contract be awarded to that paper and the report be so amended. Mr. Beckstead seconded the motion.

Mr. Meikle explained that the Leader Company was prepared to live up to the contract. The motion was lost and the report as presented was adopted.

VOLUNTEERS AT COE HILL BUILT A DRILL HALL.

Belleville, Feb. 6.--Coe Hill has manifested a great deal of Patriotic zeal recently. The village has thirty-one recruits of the 155th Battalion quartered in it, but did not have good enough drill accommodation, so the soldiers volunteered to build an extension to the Exhibition Hall at the Fair Grounds if the people would supply the lumber. This they did, and the recruits constructed a hall which is 65 feet by 45 feet, and has a hard-wood floor. On Friday night the hall was officially opened by a banquet, which was attended by three or four hundred people. Lieut.-Col. Adams, Commanding Officer of the regiment, was present.

Coe Hill has twenty-six men on service and thirty-one more now recruited for the Bay of Quinte Battalion, although it is only a small village. One family named Danford, of seven sons, has four drilling with the 155th; one, a member of the 39th Battalion, died while here, and one has to work the farm, with the help of the youngest, who is to young to enlist.

Rev. Mr. Herrington of North Hastings, Methodist minister, is the second minister of this denomination hereabouts to enlist within the last few months. The 155th Battalion is now over 600 men strong.

Boy Hit by Engine At Iroquois.

While attempting to cross the G. T. R. track at Victoria street Iroquois, on Wednesday evening, the midnight train struck Ralph Hanes, a fifteen year-old son of Esrom Hanes, of Hainsville, and a pupil of the I. H. S., who waa on his way to his boarding house, Thos. E. Fader's, just north of the track, smashing his leg below the knee and cutting the scalp and bruising his face, the latter injury being sustained presumably by the violence of the fall when the cow-catcher struck him. His torn boot would indicate that somehow his foot had caught in the rail which prevented him escaping the train. His cries and moans attracted Mrs. Fader, who rushed to his assistance. He was lying between the two tracks semi-conscious. in which state he remained when he was rushed to Dr. Johnston's surgery, where the bones of the leg were observed to be badly crushed but not so badly that amputation will be necessary. After dressing his wounds and keeping him over night as comfortable as possible, the Dr. took him to Cornwall Hospital Thursday morning where he is doing as well as could be expected. It was a very narrow escape from instant death for the boy, who is deeply sympathized with.--The News.

DID GERMANS START FIRE IN HOUSE OF COMMONS AT OTTAWA ?

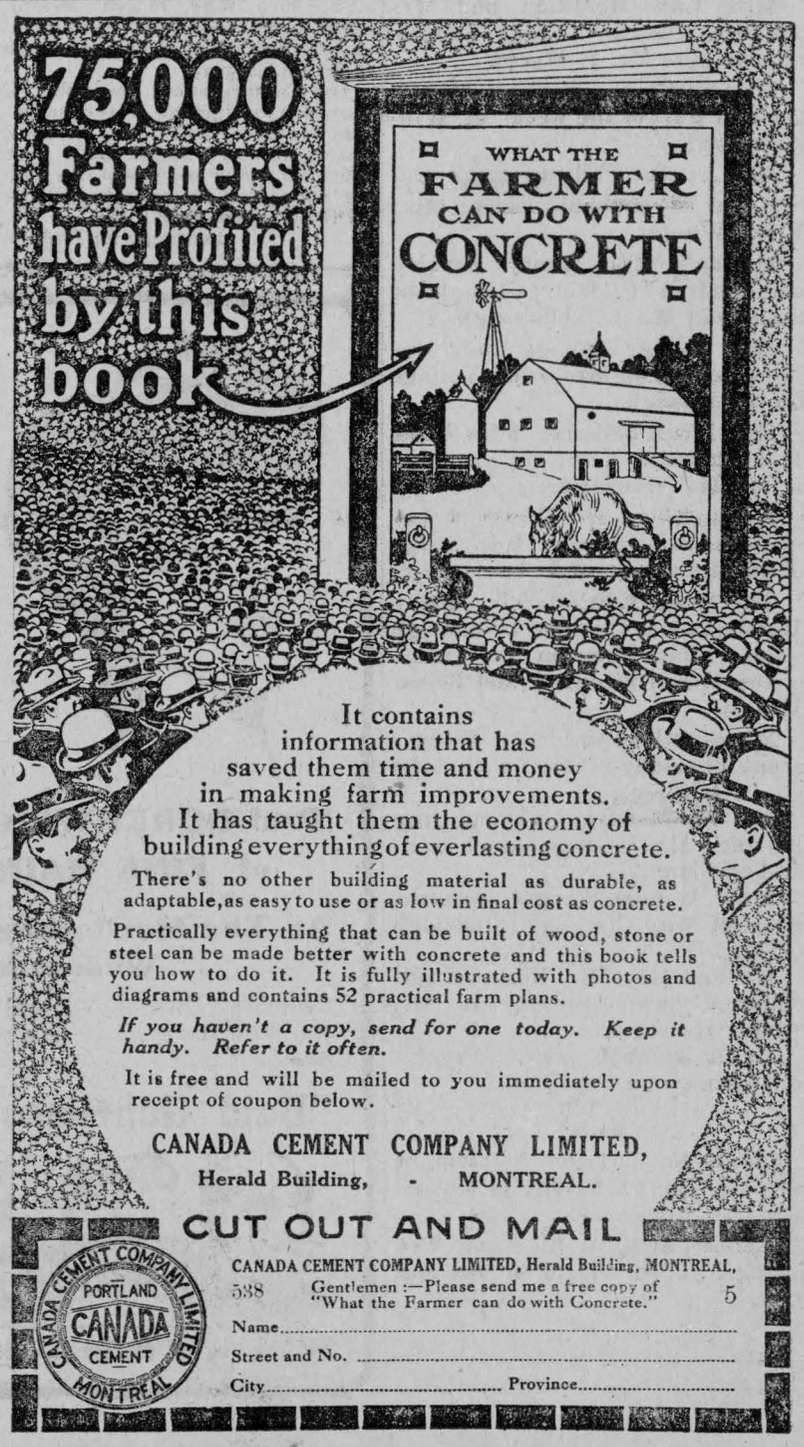

Toronto Globe.— Let there be no mistake about the situation. If the German agents in the United States see a way to injure Canada they will stop at nothing to compass their ends. Arson to them is a commonplace, and murder an incident in the day's work. The destruction of the Parliament Building may have been the result of accident, but the general belief at Ottawa is that it was the work of an incendiary. The testimony of Mr. Frank Glass, M. P.., which on first glance seems to exclude any other origin than the dropping of a cigar stub or a half-smoked cigarette by some careless member or visitor, does not altogether satisfy. Mr. Glass was at one of the stands in the reading-room looking over a newspaper file. "Presently," he says, 'I felt an unpleasant heat from behind and turned. I then noticed that smoke was coming from a pile of newspapers under the file desk behind me. It looked so simple, no flame or anything. I walked to the glass doors and called the policeman who is stationed at the entrance to the Speaker's chambers. "There's a little blaze here," I said not thinking the matter was very serious, and believing that he would smother it with his coat. Instead of that, he rushed in, looked at it, and then ran down the hall for an extinguisher. By the time he had returned the flames had of course broken out, and the moment he opened the door and threw on the chemical the smoke and fire burst out so suddenly that he was driven back."

The Providence Journal has earned the right to speak with authority about German plots. Much of the material which convinced the Government of the United States that Dernberg, von Papen, Boy-Ed Dumba, and other German and Austrian representatives and agents in the United States were using their position to organize industrial war, to plot the destruction of munition plants, to direct the operations of desperadoes like Horn, the bridge-wrecker, and Paul Koenig, who made preparations to blow up the Welland Canal, came from The Providence Journal. It has the most efficient anti-espionage equipment in the United States to-day. When The Journal states that three weeks ago it notified the Department of Justice at Washington that it had received, directly through employees of the German Embassy, information that the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa, Rideau Hall, and munition plants throughout the Dominion were to be made the next object of German attack The Globe places absolute reliance in the statement.

Col. Sherwood, head of the Dominion Police and of Canada's distinctly primitive secret service, says no warning was received from Providence. He missed the point. The authorities at Washington may have failed to notify the Government at Ottawa of the German threats in the mistaken belief that they were no more than threats. It is clearly the duty of the Government of Canada to ask the Department of Justice of the United States whether information such as that spoken of by The Journal was imparted to it, and, if so, why no steps were taken to put a friendly nation on guard against such a fiendish method of carrying on warfare.

The policeman was probably not absent more than twenty seconds, for it is inconceivable that Mr. Glass would stand inactive many seconds watching a smoulding heap of papers that threatened the safety of a great building without taking steps to call for additional help, When the policeman returned the flames had actually broken out, and when the chemical from the fire extinguisher was thrown on the pile of papers that had been only smouldering a few seconds before. "the smoke and fire burst out so suddenly" that the policeman and Mr. Glass were driven and the flames began to sweep through the building. Why this terrible exhibition of instantaneous energy? Was the thing that Mr. Glass saw so innocent and accidental as it seemed? The form of the stands and the position of the reading-room in relation to the Commons Chambers would almost inevitably lead an incendiary to choose it for the starting of a fire. There are hundreds of papers on file. A few petroleum wafers, such as were used in Belgium, hidden in several of the flies, and a match hurriedly applied to them, could not fail to cause a great blaze almost instantly. Entrance to the reading-room was limited to members of the House, to the staff of the Commons. and to persons having the entry to the library of Parliament, but there was ample opportunity for quick work by a practical incendiary,

The inquiry to be instituted by the Government should be of most searching nature. The possibility that the fire was the work of someone within the public service must not be dismissed as unworthy of consideration. There are still men of German birth in places of responsibility at Ottawa, and the fact that they seem to be good Canadians ought not to be regarded as conclusive evidence that they are. The Globe has no desire to fan the flames of race hatred but it does feel called upon to insist that no one of doubtful loyalty shall remain in a position where the temptation of Bernstorff's gold may prove too great for him. The tragedy at Ottawa brings home to the Canadian people, in a way perhaps nothing else could, the solemn truth that the Dominion is at war and that only unceasing vigilance will enable us to guard against the cowardly enemy within the gates whose weapons are the torch and the bomb.

Compensation! For What.

Chesterville, Ont., Feb. 8, 1916.

Editor, The Record:

In last week's issue of your valued home paper there was raised the question of compensation to the hotel men whose liquor-selling privileges will be ended when Prohibition becomes law in Ontario. The following remarks may interest your readers:

1. Prohibition has to do not with hotel-keepers or the owners of hotel property but with bar-keepers. The hotel-keeper's business is honorable; that of the bar or liquor shop keeper is dishonourable and disreputable.

2. The authority to sell intoxicants is a privilege, not a right. Therefore it is not violating the principle of British fair play when public interest and public sentiment demand the cutting off of the bar or liquor shop keeper's licenses, for his rights are at an end when his privileges are withdrawn. Already hundreds of licenses have been cut off in our Province without payment of compensation to the hotel men and the public have not been charged with "theft" in so doing nor have the people been castigated as the "Devil's servants."

3. When compensation is demanded it ought to be from the bar and liquor shop keepers and not from the public who have to bear the burden of one hundred thousand dollars a day which the traffic entails. The barroom does not produce anything of value to the State. Every bar keeper is a parasite fed and clothed by the productive labor of others.

4. The human factor far outweighs the money interest. The lives of our citizens are of first importance. More than 17,000 (80 per cent) of the criminals in Ontario gaols and penitentiaries are such because of the liquor traffic and they have to be maintained by the public money. Then too, what about compensation for the wives, mothers, and children who have no proper homes, food, or clothing because of drink? Who will compensate the man whose farm or home property is mortgaged through drink? Who will compensate the Province for the degradation of the thousands of young men through drink? Who will replace to our Country the 5,000 lives that are yearly destroyed through drink? The British Empire to-day needs all her men. Why, indeed, should we compensate those barkeepers who are making men unfit for service in defence of British fair play?

And Compensation, forsooth! Compensation for drawing a venamous serpent's fangs? Compensation for breaking a ravaging wolf's teeth? Until compensation for agony and loss of life and property is paid us, there can be not a penny for the men who didn't care.

Petitioner for Prohibition.

Bowser's Bright Idea

But Mrs. Bowser Rubs It Away With a Sponge.

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

When Mr. Bowser came home the other evening he had a parcel in his coat pocket, and with the natural curiosity of a woman Mrs. Bowser reached for it, but he stepped back and said:

"You let it alone, and after dinner I will show it to you."

"It must be something precious," she replied.

"It is. There may be millions of dollars in it."

"Then I hope I may get a couple of dollars out of it to buy myself a new hat."

After dinner as Mr. Bowser walked to and fro in the sitting room he looked like a man who had something very important to communicate, but it was five minutes before he got around to say:

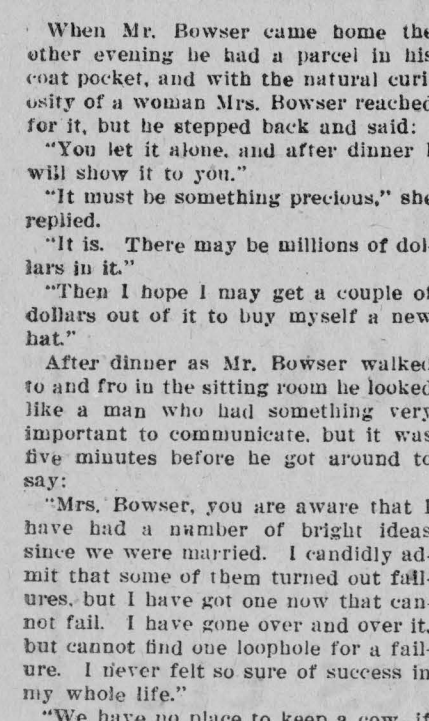

"Mrs. Bowser, you are aware that I have had a number of bright ideas since we were married. I candidly admit that some of them turned out failures, but I have got one now that cannot fail. I have gone over and over it, but cannot find one loophole for a failure. I never felt so sure of success in my whole life."

"We have no place to keep a cow, if you are thinking of buying one," she quietly replied.

"Cow! Cow! Who is talking about a cow? Don't start off with sarcasm or I'll close my mouth."

"Well, whatever it is I shall be glad to hear it."

Mr. Bowser took three or four more turns around the room and then reached in his pocket for the parcel. He was very deliberate untying the string around it, and Mrs. Bowser began to think there might be diamonds in it when he cast the wrapper aside and placed a sponge on the stand before her. It was rather a large sponge and a coarse one, and the cost of it might be guessed at about 10 cents.

"A sponge?" queried Mrs. Bowser as she poked her finger into it.

"Just a sponge," chuckled Mr. Bowser.

"It's too coarse for a bath sponge."

Mr. Bowser's face fairly beamed as he chuckled and sat down, and he kept her in suspense for thirty seconds before he said:

"You do not connect that sponge with my bright idea, and yet it is the foundation of it. I do not blame you for not catching on at once, for the sharpest men would be puzzled over it. That sponge, Mrs. Bowser, is likely to be the foundation of a great fortune."

"Well, don't dodge around, but tell me plainly about your bright idea."

"I will do so, and I think you will say that I have struck the right thing at last. Mrs. Bowser, you have read and heard of the submarines used in this war?"

"Of course."

"You know, then, that they appear close to a ship and plunk a torpedo into her side. A yawning hole is the result, and in from five to fifteen minutes that unfortunate ship is at the bottom of the sea. You have also read of ships striking floating mines and being damaged so that they sank almost immediately. You have also read of collisions between ships and one or both going down as the result."

"Yes, I have heard of these unfortunate things," replied Mrs. Bowser.

"Supposing I had a scheme to save every crippled ship in future?" was asked, with a proper gesture to make the words dramatic.

"You can't have, Mr. Bowser."

"There it lies before you."

"This is only a sponge. I hope you are not losing your good sense."

"Mrs. Bowser, my scheme is as simple as a stick of gum and will prove so effective that I will wager my life on it. The ships sink because the water rushes in, don't they?

"Of course. Well, in my scheme the water rushing in makes no difference. It will be taken up as fast as it rushes in. The ship may be crippled somewhat, but she won't sink, and no lives will be lost. How much water will this sponge absorb?"

"I should say half a pint at least."

"Now, then, to keep you in suspense no longer, here is the idea. I put in the hold fifty tons of dry sponges, and her cargo can be stored on top of that. As the water rushes in at the hole that has been made the sponges absorb it, and the danger of foundering is thus avoided. It is one of the simplest schemes in the world, and it is a wonder that it was not in use a hundred years ago. Now, then, find fault with it if you can."

It was like all others of Mr. Bowser's schemes, all moonshine, and after a gesture of despair Mrs. Bowser said:

"Let us figure a little."

"Of what use to figure?" replied Mr. Bowser as a frown came to his face.

"All schemes have to be figured on. Our druggist once told me that the coarsest of sponges cost about a dollar a pound at wholesale. You propose to put in fifty tons into the hold of a ship. What will be the cost of such a cargo? It will be $100,000, according to my figures."

Mr. Bowser's face turned red and his jaw fell, but he let her go on.

"How much water will fifty tons of dry sponges absorb? I cannot give you the figures exactly, but it must be thousands of barrels—enough to sink a ship as if her cargo was lead."

"Hold on—hold on, right there!" exclaimed Mr. Bowser. "I told you the sponges were there to absorb the water as it rushed in."

"But the water is in the ship, isn't it?" asked Mrs. Bowser. "What difference does it make whether the water is in the sponges or sloshing around loose, so to say? The weight is the same, and it will be the weight that will sink her. You must see the point."

"I don't see anything of the kind!" was shouted. "I have told you twice over that the sponges would take up the water as fast as it came in."

"So you have, my dear, but it will make no difference where that water is if it is in the hold. Fifty tons of wet sponges would at least be equal to thirty or forty tons of iron. Can't you see that, Mr. Bowser?"

"I can see that you want to discourage me, as you always do," he muttered. "I have dropped upon a good thing, a great thing, the greatest thing I ever ran up against, and you are trying to knock it to pieces. If I had married the right woman"—

"But you didn't, Mr. Bowser. You married the woman who won't let you make a donkey of yourself if she can help it. You jump to conclusions instead of stopping to figure a little. Why, man, you are thinking of sinking the crippled ship instead of saving her. The scheme must be to keep the water out altogether. It is the water that fills the hold of a ship and carries her down."

Mr. Bowser sat in silence for a time and gritted his teeth now and then, and by and by he spoke.

"I still believe in the plan of the sponges, but how would it do to put in fifty tons of cork slabs? Cork will not absorb water to any extent; therefore it will keep the fluid from rushing in. Come to think of it, perhaps that is the best scheme of the two."

Mrs. Bowser smiled and appeared to be thinking over the cork plan, and Mr. Bowser was growing impatient when she said:

"Do you think you could find a ship owner who would go to the expense of buying either cork or the sponges? In time the sponges would rot and be worthless and the cork would mildew and decay."

"He'd be a queer man to let his ship go to the bottom when she might be saved," sulkily replied the man with the great idea.

"But I have shown you that the sponges would only help to sink her, and, as for the cork, if there was a great rent in her side the slabs would surely float out as well as portions of the other cargo. You must see that for yourself, Mr. Bowser. If I have not made it plain to you, then consult some man whose common sense you can trust. Men have got rich through schemes, but they have been practical schemes. You must have common sense as the basis."

"That is to say that I lack common sense, Mrs. Bowser!"

"It is to say that your schemes are visionary and impracticable. You get a thought and jump instead of taking time to think it well over. It isn't late yet, and let's go to the moving pictures for an hour."

"We might see a picture of a ship loaded with sponges or cork going down like a lump of lead," was the reply as Mr. Bowser walked down the hall and left the house.

He was full of chagrin and vexation, and he wanted to work it off. He therefore walked over to the family butcher and opened the door and shouted:

"Jones, you are a liar and a swindler! Your meat is tougher than an old rhinoceros, and there is more bone than meat! Blast your eyes, I will never trade a cent's worth with you again, and I'll send you to state prison if I can!"

Saying which, Mr. Bowser immediately felt better, and after hitting a stray dog a blow with his cane he walked back home and sat down and lighted his first cigar and remarked to Mrs. Bowser that all signs indicated a mild winter.

CURBING THE DRINKERS.

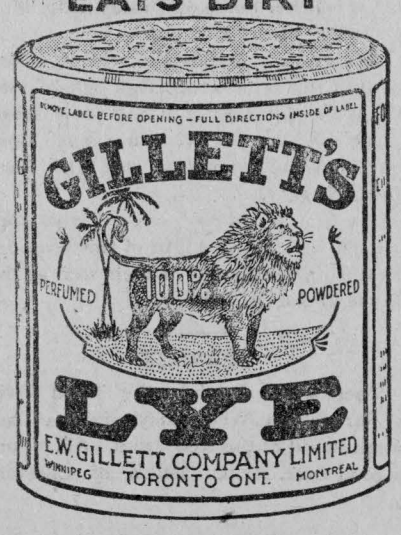

The New Scheme That Is Being Tried In Parts of Sweden.

The "Stockholm system" of allowing each citizen only a fixed quantity of spirituous drink, which was inaugurated just after the war started, has now been extended to thirty-one of the hundred districts in Sweden. The system which is now in operation was devised by Dr. Ivan Bratt. It allows every citizen in good standing to buy one liter and no more of spirituous liquor every five days.

To make this plan feasible each person is provided with a small book resembling a commutation railroad ticket, from which a coupon is torn every time the consumer buys his liter of whisky, brandy, cognac, punch, schnapps or whatever kind of alcoholic beverage he fancies. At the same time his book is stamped with the date of the purchase, so that it is clear to the dealer when he made his last purchase. Without showing his book no citizen of Stockholm has the remotest chance of obtaining a bottle of liquor anywhere in the city.

It is true that in some cases, however, exceptions are made. If one can persuade the authorities that on account of his social position and the demands of constant entertainment one liter every five days is totally inadequate and if the authorities are convinced that such a person can be trusted with more liquor without abusing the privilege conferred upon him he is then given a special license to purchase two, three or more liters, according to the circumstances. On the other hand, if the person is a drunkard, has a police record or has in any other way incurred the displeasure of the authorities he is allowed no liquor at all.

TRANSLATORS' BLUNDERS.

"Lord, Kick Us Out, Softly, Softly!" as a Nunc Dimittis.

During the present year the following advertisement appeared in The London Times: "Jack F. G.—If you are not in khaki by the 20th I shall cut you dead.—Ethel M."

The Berlin correspondent of The Cologne Gazette was so greatly struck by this ghastly threat that he telegraphed the following version to his paper as a sample of the brutal English methods of recruiting:

"If you are not in khaki by the 20th I shall hack you to death."

The translation of hymns into barbaric languages and dialects is a ticklish business. "Go Labor on," in the language of the Congo, became "Go blunder on," but it was sung with equal gusto for months before the missionaries discovered the error.

Physical and spiritual ideas are a good deal mixed in the cannibal islands, and food and life are interchangeable terms. So when the missionaries translated "Wonderful Words of Life" they found that the natives sang and understood it as "Wonderful words of stomach!"

For some time the missionaries found that the closing hymn was sung rather charily. A good many of the congregation sang "Lord, dismiss us with Thy blessing" in a distinctly chirping and weakly voice. What could it mean?

They found out presently that the literal translation of the well-known words of dismissal conveyed to the native ear not what they intended, but "Lord, kick us out, softly, softly!"

But translators can be wilfully in error. A certain law society in Edinburgh bought a baronial mansion for their offices and headquarters. The motto over the gate was "Olin amrte, nunc arte," which, literally rendered, means, "Once by war, now by skill."

When George IV. visited Edinburgh Sir Walter Scott was showman. The King observed the motto over the gate of the law society and asked its meaning. Sir Walter replied: "It means, your Majesty, 'Once robbers, now thieves.'"

Facts About Bloodhounds.

No real reason exists for the common belief that the bloodhound is a fierce animal, ready to tear the person whom it may be tracking to pieces. It is, on the contrary, rather noted for its gentleness, even seeming timid, unless specially trained to attack.

The origin of the breed, according to Count Le Couteulx de Canteleu, the greatest living authority on the subject, is from St. Hubert of St. Hubert's Abbey in the Ardennes. It dates from the earliest ages, and the breed certainly existed in the time of the Gauls.

As regards the name bloodhound, the Count Le Couteulx believes that when fox-hunting in something like its present form was instituted it was found that the sleuth-hound was not fast enough for the purpose, and the present foxhound was evolved from various material, and about this time it became usual, in speaking of the old hound of the country, to call him a bloodhound, meaning the hound of pure blood (as might be said of a blooded horse) to distinguish him from the new hound or foxhound. There is only one breed of pure, genuine bloodhounds, and that is the English.

Big Medical Fees.

Half a dozen doctors are now being paid £5,000 a year by the Admiralty. Private practice is not forbidden, but duties.

On one occasion the late King Edward asked one of his medical attendants what a first-rate medical man would make, and was told that £15,000 a year would hit the mark. But the King's informant added that a big barrister would beat that by £10,000.

It is on record that for a journey to Petrograd to vaccinate the Empress Catherine II., the great Dr. Dimsdale received £10,000, an annuity of £500, and a Russian title. And much more recently, the Czar paid £15,000 to a Moscow doctor for two days' attendance.

But the biggest medical fee on record was paid to Dr. Gale, the blind medical electrician, for a few weeks' successful treatment of a millionaire's leg. He got £50,000.

Eels have been provided by nature with an apparatus to protect their eyes which is like a pair of spectacles.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. At any drug store.

FIVE ACRES OF GEESE, INCLUDING "HATE" GOOSE.

"Jack" Miner of Kingsville, Ont., the man who yearly entertains more "guests" than any other man in Canada, spoke at Toronto Saturday night. Mr. Miner's guests are wild geese, and they come to see him in thousands every spring. Mr. Miner's association with wild geese and a long and careful study of their habits have given him an intense admiration for the goose. After his address anyone who has been called a goose can feel complimented, and not insulted.

Of course, geese are not the only bird friends of Mr. Miner. He knows 'em all. He defended the sparrow, pointing out that the English sparrow was the only one destructive, and that "God didn't place the English sparrowsin Canada.

"Do birds come back?" he said, and then proved that they did. He told of catching wild ducks and labeling them with a band around the leg. The ducks came back next year and reports were received of some that were shot in the far south. He told of the winged missionary the bird that carries a verse of Scripture on the band of its leg to the hunter in Missouri who shot it.

The story of making the "goose home" was remarkable. Many years ago Mr. Miner bought wild geese and placed them in the big ponds near his home. Wild geese on the road north and south stopped to associate with their friends in the pond. They remembered the place, and came back in the following years, always bringing more. Now there are sometimes "five acres of geese and you can't see a spot where you could put another." He told of the lessons in sacrifices that could be learned from the sacrifices of geese, and illustrated aptly by the story of two geese which were called "Damon" and "Pythias" because of their devotion to each other "Damon" was wounded in the wing. Mr, Miner, to save the bird; cut the wing at the joint with the result that the bird was unable to fly south at the accustomed time. Another big goose came down and refused to leave, but kept the injured goose company not only all season, but never left him for two years, when the injured bird died.

There was also a remarkable story of "paternal affection and duty." A big gander known as "Jack Johnson" had a sick wife. Mr. Miner took "Lady Johnson" to the cow stable to give her treatment. While there she died, "and for three years old Jack blamed the cow for his wife's death, and attacked her at every opportunity." He never left with the other birds to go south' but remained. Mr. Miner was obliged to sell the cow because of the "hate" of the goose.

The lecture was illustrated by moving pictures showing the geese in their native haunts at the big pond. Incidentally "Jack Johnson" was shown giving the old cow battle.

BOX OF EXPLOSIVES FOUND AT WINGHAM

Wingham, Feb. 6.—The arrest of one Adolph Schatte, a German band-master having passports which, it is said, show that he had recently been in Belgium and Constantinople, and the finding of a mysterious box containing seventy pieces of explosive were two events which have aroused considerable interest here.

Schatt's arrest, it is said, was ordered by Col. Sherwood, head of the Dominion Police, on charges of espionage.

Schatte, besides his passports, had several drawings and a sheaf of letters, all of which will be forwarded for inspection by the Dominion Police at Ottawa. Meanwhile he has been placed in the custody of the soldiers of the 161st Battalion. Provincial Constable G. A. Phippen began to-day to trace the man's movements before coming here. Schatte's passports set forth that he was born in Rawitzch, Germany, on October 31, 1888 and had seen active service with the 32nd Mounted Regiment. According to his own story, he reached Canada by way of Belgium and Constantinople.

The mysterious box of explosives which was found at the railway station here, arrived at Wingham in a car of household effects which came from Saskatchewan to Mr. A. Anderson one of the high scoool teachers here. Mr. Anderson assumed his duties here some months ago, but had his goods sent on only recently. The box was carefully hidd n away beneath the other things, and an effort is to be made to find out how it got there. Some railway officials think it may have been placed in the car at Toronto, while others are confident it was put in the car at the place of shipment in the west. The box weighs forty pounds, and because it bore no address attracted attention. Provincial Constable Phippen made some experiments, and when convinced that the box contained explosives took precautions against injury to himsesf and property. The military authorities are co-operating with the police in an effort to trace the box and its contents.

The Time To Act.

The old saying has it "there is no time like the present." That this applies with telling force to the selection of good dairy cows, will be admitted by every thoughtful dairyman. Selection may be made on the evidence of certain well known external indications of good milking qualities with special attention paid to the udder, loin, skin, barrel, etc.

But no matter how skilled the expert judge of dairy 'quality' in a cow may be, he is not infallible as to the amount of hard cash that any one cow in the herd will earn in a year. He may be, the ordinary dairy farmer, too, may be considerably mistaken in his judgment. One system will give him accurate results, that of selection of dairy records. It is easy to weigh and sample, it is easy to weigh and sample, it is easy to add up a few figures for each cow, it is easy to compare such totals, and it is eminently satisfactory to know for certain which cows are best to keep and breed from.

Now is the time to act, prepare to keep records all season; write the dairy division Ottawa, for free milk record forms, either 3 times per month, or daily. You will never regret it.

Adolph Schatte, a German bandmaster was arrested at Wingham. and a mysterious box of explosives was discovered there in the railway station.

That Week End Trip

Really it is a troublesome thing to pack up one's clothes for a short visit, perhaps more troublesome than to pack them for a long trip. A year or two ago, when skirts were scant and bodices filmy, one could get a week end wardrobe into a suit case without trouble. But now, when skirts are full and collars are high, sleeves are long and the fashionable fabrics are rather clumsy, the getting of enough clothes into the kind of luggage one is supposed to carry on a week end visit is something of a problem.

Week end trunks, which are large enough to hold a good many clothes and yet small enough for a porter to carry, small enough, too, to be stowed in an automobile, are useful for the short visit. But, lacking one of these, a big suit case and a small leather bag will do.

The woman who travels with little luggage must beware too many con venient cases. Attractive they may be, but they take up room that is often needed for clothes. Tissue paper answers the purpose of protecting one's frocks and takes less room than many of the rather cumbersome cases.

Take a thin negligee, a pair of the lightest sort of bedroom slippers—heel less cretonne or silk mules are a good choice—and lingerie that takes up little room. Really in this way a good deal of space may be saved. It is too bad, so far as the week end visitor is concerned, that petticoats have returned to style, for space must be left for a petti coat to wear with one's evening frock. However, this need not be bulky. The taffeta petticoat may be worn under the street frock or suit.

Lingerie, stockings, necessary toilet articles and nightwear need not take up much room. The only shoes needed are a pair of evening slippers in addition to the street boots worn, unless sport shoes of some sort are needed.

It is quite possible to wear a serge frock under a big coat—a serge frock that will serve for morning and luncheon, for walking and motoring. Or a three piece suit may take the place of the frock and coat. One's hostess can always provide an extra coat for motoring, if necessary.

If carefully packed, lingerie, night things and toilet articles can all be stowed in the small bag. This leaves the suit case for shoes and frocks.

Use plenty of tissue paper in packing the evening frock. Stuff out the sleeves and bodice with it and place a roll of paper under the folds necessary to get the garment into the suit case. And don't pack the frock down with many things on top of it, especially if it is taffeta. A satin evening frock is a far wiser choice for the week end traveler.

A sweater, blouse and sport skirt can be placed first in the suit case, with the evening frock on top. Even in these days of full skirts a frock of satin and georgette crepe can be packed in small compass. And neither the crepe nor the satin wrinkles readily.

Most week end visits are made at short distances, and if one's bags are packed at the last moment before starting forth and unpacked at the first moment after arriving at one's destination the clothes need not be long confined. They should be immediately shaken out and placed on hangers.

On a piece of endive place alternately segments of orange from which the inner skin is removed, and similarly shaped pieces of tart apple. Dress with French dressing.

Avocados or alligator pears make a delicious salad cut in cubes and served with a well seasoned French dressing on crisp white lettuce leaves.

Three or four pieces of canned asparagus, drained and chilled, served on a lettuce leaf with French dressing, to which a chopped sweet green pepper has been added, make another good salad that is not much trouble.

Roast Duck.

For the roast duck or duckling, as the case may be, there is nothing nicer than a good savory bread stuffing, though many people like an oyster or some other fancy dressing. For the savory bread stuffing take the day before it is needed a loaf of baker's bread and with a sharp knife cut off very thinly the crust of the entire loaf. Then break the bread into pieces and put it into a square of cheesecloth, tie it up and hang it in the air.

When ready to make the stuffing, crumb the bread fine and add to it the juice of a large onion, pepper, salt, a quarter pound of butter cut into small pieces, a teaspoonful of powdered sage, a dash of mace, a little sweet basil, a little sweet marjoram, a gill of cream and one beaten egg. Mix the dressing thoroughly; if it seems a little dry add nothing more, as the butter and meat juices will moisten it sufficiently.

A Sunny Morning Face.

A principle of psychology which every mother should know is that the last thought before going to sleep makes the deepest impression. The last thought is sure to be the first waking thought. A child should never be punished just before going to bed if you wish to create in him a joyous disposition. A happy bedtime will mean a sunny morning face.

No one can be at his best morally and spiritually unless he is at his best physically. No child can be improved morally by being injured physically. To send a child away from the table hungry or to send him supperless to bed is a relic of barbarism. A happy bedtime and a happy mealtime are the right of every child.

The Military Cross.

The Military Cross, designed expressly for the present war, is of silverfi and is 1⅝ in. square. The Imperial Crown is borne on each of the four arms, and His Majesty's cipher appears in the centre on a small raised cross surmounting the larger one. The decoration is a most effective one, different from any other in use, and most creditable to its designer, Mr. H. F. Burke, C.V.O., C.B., F.S.A., Norroy King of Arms.

It is suspended from a ribbon 1¾ inches wide, having a central band of dark purple with white on either side, and is intended for captains, commissioned officers of a lower grade, or warrant officers in the British Army or Indian or Colonial military forces. As in the case of other decorations, many of these crosses have been awarded for life-saving under the enemy's fire.

THE VEILED FUTURE

THE YEAR upon which we are entering is dark with mystery—we cannot forecast the events of a single day of it.

A new year naturally arouses anxious thought, but the disastrous war now raging adds to the prevalent anxicty as to what 1916 has in store for us.

Exposed to these uncertainties, is it not important that we should protect our homes and business enterprises with "the one thing sure"—life insurance ?

Protected by Mutual policies the home is kept intact though the husband dies, the business is held together though the partner passes away.

There are no bonds or treaties in the world more binding than life insurance policies—no policies more immutable than those issued by

The aim of The Mutual Life is to give the largest amount of protection at the lowest possible cost.

Last week Private Ford Harper of the 154th Battalion found a ten dollar bill taking a spin on the ice near his place, and directly came and advertised for the owner. A few hours after The Record was issued last Thursday the owner appeared in another member of the 154th, whose home is at Hoasic, who had lost the money. Lost business is lost money and it can be secured just as easily by advertising regularly in The Record.

"French Roll."

A good many children can play in this game. One player is called the buyer. The rest form a line in front of him and take hold of each other. The first in the line is called the baker, the last the French roll. Those between are supposed to be the oven.

When they are in place the buyer says to the baker, "Give me my French roll." The baker replies, "It is at the back of the oven." The buyer goes to fetch it, when the French roll begins running from the back of the oven and comes up to the baker, calling all the while, "Who runs? Who runs?"

The buyer must run after him, but if the French roll gets first to the top of the line he becomes baker, and the last in the line is French roll. If, however, the buyer catches the French roll the French roll becomes buyer, and the buyer takes the place of the baker.

An Alphabet Game.

The best place to play this game is at the table. Somebody begins by saying, "I had for dinner an apple;" the next person says, "I had for dinner an apple and a beet;" the third declares he "had for dinner an apple, a beet and some celery." Each player contributes the name of something to eat beginning with the next letter of the alphabet in order, and he must repeat everything that has been mentioned up to that point in the game. By the time the company has reached "z" there are, of course, twenty-six names to remember, and it is quite likely that most of the players will have missed and have fallen out of the game.

A New Year's Jumble.

The words have been jumbled to form other words. For example, No. 1 is New Year's day.

1. The next holiday after Csristmas—Yes wade yarn.
2. The time when Mr. New Year arrives—Dim thing.
3. An old man with a scythe—He trim fate.
4. What takes place when the new year comes—Ben gill grin.
5. The name of our century—Cute wiry tenth ten.

Answer.—1, New Year's day; 2, midnight; 3, Father Time; 4, bell ringing; 5, twentieth century.

A Queer Tree.

The sneeze-wood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its odd name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently. The dust of its wood has just the same affect as the strongest snuff, and is so irritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planing it. If a piece of wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneeze-wood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable makes its wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

WIFE FOR TWENTY SHILLINGS

A Newfoundland Dog Was Thrown in to Make a Bargain.

It was long a popular belief among the ignorant in England that a man sold his wife at public auction such a sale had all the legality of a regular divorce. The latest case of the kind on record occurred in 1832.

John Thompson, a farmer, had been married for three years and he and his wife agreed to separate. Thompson brought his wife into the town of Carlisle and by the bellman announced he was about to sell her.

At midday Thompson placed his wife on a large oak chair with a rope or halter of straw about her neck. He then made this announcement: "Gentlemen, I have to offer to your notice my wife, Mary Anne Thompson, otherwise Williams, whom I mean to sell to the highest and fairest bidder. It is her wish as well as mine to part forever.

"She has been to me only a born serpent. I took her for my comfort, the good of my home; but she became my tormentor, a domestic curse, a night invasion and a daily devil.

"I speak truth from my heart when I say: May God deliver us from troublesome wives and frolicsome women! Avoid them as you would a mad dog, a roaring lion, a loaded pistol, cholera morbus, Mount Etna, or any other pestilential thing in Nature.

"Now I have shown you of her dark faults and failings, I will introduce the bright and sunny side of her, and explain her qualifications and goodness. She can read novels and milk cows, she can laugh and weep with the same ease that you could take a glass of ale when thirsty. Indeed, gentlemen, she reminds me of what the poet says of women in general:

Heaven gave to women the peculiar grace
To laugh, to weep, to cheat the human race.

"She can make butter and scold the maid, she can sing Moore's melodies and plait her folds and caps; she cannot make rum, gin, or whisky, but she is a good judge of the quality of each from long experience in tasting them. I therefore offer her, with all her perfections and imperfections, for the sum of fifty shillings."

The woman was finally sold to one Henry Mears for the sum of twenty shillings and a Newfoundland dog. Man and wife parted in perfect good temper, Mears and the woman going one way, Thompson and the dog another.

The "Lord Sahib."

The late Sir George White was wonderful in the way of taking exercise, and when Commander-in-Chief in India used to run his staff off their legs when going for exercise round the various roads in the neighborhood of Simla. There is a tunnel by which the main road goes through the hillside at one spot, but it is so narrow that a policeman is stationed at each end to keep the traffic going alternately one way or the other.

On the occasion of a large garden-party, according to Sir Robert Baden-Powell, in his book, "Indian Memories (Jenkins), when all the rank and fashion of Simla in their rickshaws were about to pass through the tunnel, the policeman stopped them and held up the traffic, for the news had spread that the Lord Sahib was coming through. The "Lord Sahib" is the title given by the natives both to the Viceroy and to the Commander-in-Chief.

Everybody waited expectantly to see one or the other of these magnates riding through with all his glittering staff, instead of which there came from the tunnel a single, solitary figure—a tall, thin man in a singlet and flannels, running in more senses than one, and not a little startled to find himself in the presence of Simla's society, collected as if to receive him. It was Sir George White.

A Kitchener Tale.

Lord Kitchener's reticence about the military secrets of the war is proverbial. A civilian friend, however, was bent on extracting from the silent War Minister a confidential opinion about the recent developments of the campaign. Accordingly, he invited "K. of K." to dine with him informally one evening. But throughout the meal he could not make up his mind to tackle his guest directly on the point, and all indirect suggestions failed. After dinner mine host escorted Lord Kitchener back to the War Office. There, mustering his courage, he decided to take the bull by the horns, and, turning to the War Minister, boldly inquired:

"Well, what's the latest about the war?"

"We'll get an evening paper," said "K. of K."

Escaped Three Times.

Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, who recently received the birthday greetings of a grateful Empire, has three times escaped death by little short of a miracle. In 1880, when lieutenant on the Monarch, he volunteered to rescue the crew of a wrecked steamer off Gibraltar, but his boat was capsized and he swam ashore only after a terrific struggle. His second escape was from the ill-fated Victoria. The third and narrowest escape was during the Boxer rising, when he was shot through the lung, yet maintained a running fight against overwhelming odds for five days.

Notes For The Beauty Seeker

Beauty is rather an indefinite thing at best. What spells beauty to some eyes means nothing at all to others. Every one seeks it, yet no one can exactly define it. It is, after all, more a matter of comparison perhaps than anything else, for the village belle who is ravishingly lovely in the midst of her plain companions may seem gawky and without charm when placed in the midst of city beauties.

The girl who lives close to nature inherits a large part of Mother Earth's rich dowry of beauty. Nature bestows on its children gratis all the complexion lotions and hair tonics which the beauty doctors prescribe for large fees The trouble is that city dwellers are so far away from nature's heart that they have no idea of the gifts she is willing to bestow. They depend on creams powder and rouges to do for them what nature would gladly do if they would allow her.

If city women would only forswear the artificialities and rely on nature to supply their needs they would find their complexious rejuvenated. Complexions grow old before their time with the constant application of powders and rouges. To free them from this bondage of cosmetics means to restore natural loveliness again.

Beautiful complexions are only possible where health abounds. A clear skin is, as a rule, the result of good circulation, and in order that the blood may flow freely plenty of outdoor exercise is necessary. Hours in the open air are a part of nature's beauty treatment, which is the reason why the country maid has the advantage of her city sister.

Two of the finest skin tonics in nature's storehouse are rainwater and milk. When the rainy days come, instead of sitting down and bewailing the awful weather, just thank your lucky stars for the splendid tonic you are obtaining free of charge and put out all the receptacles handy to catch as much of it as possible. Keep a big bottle just for this purpose and into it pour the rainwater as you catch it. Use it on your face whenever you wash, and you will notice how it softens and clears the skin. Rainwater is wonderful for the hair also, and one woman with the most exquisite head of hair imaginable declares that she owes it entirely to the fact that she only uses rainwater with which to wash her hair.

Milk is a splendid skin tonic and has the effect of imparting its own color to the skin on which it is used. The only drawback to the constant usage of milk is that it is apt to grow a soft down on some faces. Those who use cold cream with impunity will find that milk has much the same effect, only more so.

lined with the same material. The hip fullness extends around the back, and with the skirt is worn a modish blouse of flesh colored crepe de chine. Striped velvet, uncut corduroys and contrasting plaids are favorites for this model.

Russian Pancakes.

Set a sponge with four cupfuls of flour, half a compressed yeast cake and milk enough for a stiff dough. Let rise over night, and in the morning add three tablespoonfuls of butter, four eggs, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and the grated rind of a lemon. Mix thoroughly. Form into balls with orange marmalade, about a teaspoonful, in the middle. Let rise again and fry in fat

GIVE US MEN.

By the Bishop of Exeter.

The following has been pronounced one of the most beautiful poems of the war:

Give us men!
Men from every rank,
Fresh and free and frank;
Men of thougnt and reading,
Men of light and leading,
Men of royal breeding,
The nation's welfare speeding;
Men of faith and not of faction;
Men of lofty aim and action;
Give us men—I say again,
Give us men!

Give us men!
Strong and stalwart ones;
Men whom highest hope inspires,
Men whom purest honor fires,
Men who trample Self beneath them,
Men who make their country wreath them
As her noble sons,
Worthy of their sires!
Men who never shame their mothers,
Men who never fail their brothers,
True, however false are others;
Give us men! I say again—again
Give us men!

Give us men!
Men who, when the tempest gathers,
Grasp the standard of their fathers
In the thickest fight;
Men who strike for home and altar
(Let the crowds cringe and falter),
True as truth, though lorn and lonely,
Tender as the brave are only;
Men who tread where saints have trod,
God defend the right!
Men for Country—Home—and God;
Give us men! I say again—again
Give us men!

Mystery of Stonehenge.

Stonehenge, on Salisbury Plain, which has lately been sold by auction, was at one time counted among the four wonders of England.

As long ago as the twelfth century Henry of Huntingdon classed it thus, and even in these days of marvels it still ranks as one of our greatest "show places," and one of the undecyded riddles of the world.

Why and how it was erected has always been a matter of dispute and puzzle among historians and archaeologists. No one knows when it came into being or what people built it.

It has been attributed to the Phœnicians, the Druids, the Saxons, and the Danes, by various authorities, while the object of it is equally uncertain. It has been "recognized" as a temple of the sun, a temple of serpent worship, a shrine of Buddha, a gallows, and a calendar in stone for the measurement of the solar year. The general belief nowadays is that it was a place of burial during the bronze age.

How these huge masses of stone—the largest stands about 23ft. out of the ground—were in primitive times placed in position or brought the many miles which are between Salisbury Plain and the nearest seashore has never been satisfactorily explained. The labor involved must have been stupendous.

Plenty of Help.

The Militia Department at Ottawa has a vast quantity of work, but it is not short of help. A very large staff is engaged on the casualty and record office work, but the department needs no more help as it is said there are over 1,000 applicants for positions on the waiting lists, mostly young ladies anxious t serve their country in some capacity.

The Heintsman Co. Piano is without a peer in its class.

It Is Made In Canada.

Yet, that does not constitute our appeal for its favor. Too many inferior articles are being sold to-day whose only merits are that they are made in Canada. The Heintzman & Co. has maintained its own standard of excellenee for 60 years.

There are several styles; all can be examined and tried in our show rooms. Write or call in for illustrated catalogue. Easy terms of payment can be arranged.

THE VEILED FUTURE

THE YEAR upon which we are entering is dark with mystery—we cannot forecast the events of a single day of it.

A new year naturally arouses anxious thought, but the disastrous war now raging adds to the prevalent anxicty as to what 1916 has in store for us.

Exposed to these uncertainties, is it not important that we should protect our homes and business enterprises with "the one thing sure"—life insurance ?

Protected by Mutual policies the home is kept intact though the husband dies, the business is held together though the partner passes away.

There are no bonds or treaties in the world more binding than life insurance policies—no policies more immutable than those issued by

The aim of The Mutual Life is to give the largest amount of protection at the lowest possible cost.

It is being suggested that one use for the 26,000,000 gallons of vodka in stock in Russia, because of the ban on that ardent spirit, would be to employ it as fuel for motor cars. The idea may be all right, but what would happen if an automobile charged with vodka ran away.

Lieut.-Col. Charles A. Low, who is recruiting the 146th Battalion at Kingston has had to issue an order to his men that they must not use insulting remarks to those who have not enlisted. It has been brought to his attention that munition workers in the Locomotive Works have been jeered at as slackers and remarks have been made relating to "yellow," "cold feet," etc. This practice, the commanding officer says, must be discontinued.

Met Strange Death.

Bellefonte, Pa., Jan. 28.—Victims of petromortis, Wm. H. Noll and his bride of a few days, were found dead in Noll's garage yesterday. Mrs. Noll was sitting in their automobile and the husband was standing alongside the car leaning over the door. Both were dead for some hours. They were last seen alive last night when after a drive Noll ran the car into the garage. The authorities say they were overcome by the fumes of gasoline and asphyxiated.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of Mrs. Lawrence Merkley, who departed this life January 28th, 1915.

Short and sudden was the call,
Of one so dearly loved by all,
The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought her end was near,
And only those who loved can tell,
The pain at not saying a last farewell

P. L. Merkley and family.

Canadian Relatives Can Obtain Photographs of Graves.

London, Jan. 20--Chaplain Captain Moffitt, attached to a Canadian battalion writes from the front pointing out the value of the work of the Graves Registration Commission, which will send a photograph of any grave to a mother, wife or other near relative. Application should be made to the chaplain attached to the dead man's unit, giving the name, rank and number, with the date of his death.

Every chaplain officiating at the burial is required, under a general order, to send by post all particulars to the head of the commission, Captain Moffitt adds. In easily accessible places photographs are taken as soon as the grave is completed, and can be sent immediately upon application.

No more than you can eat enough in one day to last you a week, can a business man advertise enough in one week to last a year.

It would be a fine thing to see a large staff of employees trooping into the big factory building at the north end of town to take part in the manufacture of shells.

Those who harvested their ice supply before this week are certainly in luck. The quality was good then and of a nice thickness.

Prescott is one of the numerous Canadian towns which have shared in the prosperity that follows in the wake of the war contracts. For some time past "made in Prescott" shrapnel shells have been going across the Atlantic to the allies, and now the big Wiser distillery in the Fort Town has been awarded a contract to supply 600,000 gallons of alcohol for use in the manufacture of high explosives. The distillery will be operated night and day until the order is filled. The product will be shipped to Renfrew where the explosives are being manufactured.
