Village hydro jumps 14.6%

(Staff) - Village hydro rates will take a dramatic jump Jan. 1, Chesterville council was told last Tuesday night.

Increases being charged to the village utility for raw power by Ontario Hydro mean residential rates will go up 14.6 per cent at the first of the year while Nestle (Canada) Ltd. will be hit with a 15.1 per cent increase and other commercial users will see their bills increase by 13.6 per cent.

With weighting factors for their respective percentage of use taken into consideration, this means an average increase of 14.9 per cent for the village utility.

Village council was informed two weeks ago that prices for raw power would be going up considerably in 1980, mainly because Anti-Inflation Board rollbacks which had cushioned increases in the past couple of years would no longer be in effect.

Raw power costs - passed directly from the provincial corporation to the village utility - are estimated to increase to $557,299 in 1980 from $456,720 in 1979.

The village received a $33,000 rollback on its 1978 bill, which softened the increase in its 1979 billing.

The village's operating budget for 1980 will be $50,000 which will include the $15,000 finance charge to pay for the borrowing of $78,000 to build a new power substation near the arena.

Contracts have already been awarded for the construction of the new station, which will serve the southern portion of the village. It is estimated the new substation will handle about 40 per cent of the village's demand in the first year and this will gradually be increased to 50 per cent as demand goes up.

The rate increases will affect three of the four blocks used in billing residential customers.

The first block, for the first 50 kilowatt hours used, will remain at $4; the second block, on the next 200 kwh will increase from $7.20 to $8; on the next 9,750 kwh it will go from $3.60 to $4.10, and for anything over 10,000 kwh the rate will go from $2.60 to $3.

The effects of the increase will be most noticeable in the first billing period after it goes into effect.

Demand, especially for those with electric heating, is usually highest in January and February.

Billing from Ontario Hydro was heaviest in February and March of 1979, with the provincial corporation charging the village $49,500 and $48,000 respectively, for power consumed during those two months.

The lowest billing of 1979 was in July, when only $20,000 was charged for power consumed in Chesterville.

Construction of the new substation will save the village four per cent on power channelled through it. This will average between $7,000 and $8,000 a year, according to clerk-treasurer Gary Thompson.

Mr. Thompson said the $20,000 that had been budgeted in 1979 for the construction of a 44 kilovolt line from the hydro mainline north of the village to the substation has been transferred to the 1980 budget so that the station can go into use as soon as construction is finished.

The contract for building the line has been awarded to Dundas Powerline Construction for $10,735. Bradney Associates Ltd., of Ottawa has been awarded the contract to build the station.

The station will include a disused transformer, purchased from hydro for $2,550, which will be moved from the station Main St. North to the arena location.

Total cost of the project will be $78,000 which includes the cost of purchasing easements, maintenance of the transformer and moving it to the new location. All of the cost will be debentured over 10 years, Mr. Thompson said.

Maude Harper again laid the wreath symbolic of Canadian motherhood at the Remembrance Day ceremony in Chesterville Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Harper is flanked by Rev. John Appelman of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church who read the lesson, taken from St. Paul's Letter to the Ephesians, and Rev. L.M. Ferguson of Trinity United Church, who delivered this year's Remembrance Day message. Rev. Ferguson noted that the sacrifices made by two generations of Canadian men and women in two world wars are symbolic of the price that must be paid to maintain our freedom. - staff photo -

Sacrifice ultimate truth of remembrance

(Staff) - Sacrifice stands as the ultimate truth of Remembrance Day, Rev. L.M. Ferguson said in his address at the annual observance at the cenotaph here Sunday afternoon.

Speaking to one of the largest Remembrance Day gatherings in recent years, Rev. Ferguson said, "Without sacrifice there is nothing: no country, no culture, no civilization, no religion.

"Only as individuals serve God and their fellowmen at real and sacrifice to themselves can truth, justice and freedom be established.

"As a free nation, how much do we owe to the sacrifice of others? Our inheritance from the past generations is both large and rich. Contrary to the opinions of some people, we owe a great deal to the men and women of earlier generations who toiled early and late and endured to make possible the richness of our natural and spiritual inheritance," he said.

Scattered around this country in its towns, cities and villages are the silent reminders of the debt owed to Canada's war dead and the tributes are made all the more poignant by the inherent nature of Canadians, Rev. Ferguson said.

"We have never been a warlike people. Separated by the Atlantic Ocean from Europe and the British Isles, we needed to give but scanty thought and attention to warfare. Our national tastes are averse to war. We did not believe that war was either a biological or moral necessity.

"As a growing nation we diligently cultivated the arts of peace. We believe in the school house and not the fort; in the book and not the bomb; in the home and not the arsenal; in free, happy industrious towns and cities and not in arms factories."

He asked if Canadians could grow complacent and forget what was bought so dearly for them by the blood of others.

"Many among us are trying to forget and are putting our sense of loyalty to Canada in cold storage. All too many of us have reverted to a life of selfish pleasure-seeking and are supporting a policy of selfishness, forgetful of the fearful sacrifices made in our behalf.

"Can our Silver Cross mothers, whose sons made the supreme sacrifice, ever forget this struggle and what it meant for them to give their dearest and best? They know too well the depth and height of sacrifice."

He said there is still a need for the spirit of heroism and sacrifice and the "deep undertone of our remembrance service" should stir the mind by way of deep and reverent recollection, rekindling the fires of patriotism.

Remembrance Day should also cause parents to instill these beliefs in their children, "to create in them and in ourselves a burning desire and holy passion to serve others in a large and

Detectors may become mandatory

(Staff) - Village council is studying a proposed bylaw which could make it mandatory for smoke detectors to be placed in all Chesterville homes.

The draft of the bylaw was prepared by councillor Carl Ward and presented at last Tuesday night's meeting.

The mandatory installation of smoke detectors in all rental units was part of Mr. Ward's election campaign last year and he told council that he has expanded his proposal to include all residences in the village.

The proposed bylaw, basically an amended version of one now in force in Ottawa, is being studied by council and the village volunteer fire department. No date was set Tuesday for its adoption.

Mr. Ward said in addition to Ottawa, several other municipalities have enacted similar bylaws.

"We have a responsibility to ensure public safety and if we can save just one life, then it will certainly be worth it," he said.

Clerk-treasurer Gary Thompson said he couldn't foresee much opposition to the proposal since "it's for the good of the community".

Mr. Ward's proposal is for a smoke detector that would sound an audible alarm to warn the occupants of a home of the presence of fire.

The bylaw states the detectors used on Chesterville homes must have the approval of the Underwriters' Laboratories of Canada and if electrically-powered, must also have the approval of the Canadian Standards Association.

It would require the installation of at least one detector in each residence and states that they must be kept in good working order.

Alarms would be required between each bedroom and the remainder of the building and in hallways connecting bedrooms with the rest of the residence.

The bylaw would also require the posting of directions for maintenance and care of the alarms and states they would be placed where they would be plainly seen by all occupants.

Enforcement of the bylaw would be up to the fire chief and his inspectors, who would be given the authority to enter and inspect any building to make sure the conditions of the bylaw were being met.

The proposal also sets out the course of action the fire chief would take if the bylaw was not being obeyed.

A letter would be sent to anyone who had not installed a properly working, approved detector and if after receipt of the letter a proper unit had still not been installed, a fine of up to $500 could be levied by summary conviction.

Mr. Ward said he would discuss the matter with the fire chief to see if the department could purchase large quantities of detectors so village homeowners could purchase their alarms at discount prices.

Council refuses reconsideration

Ingleside pool sunk again

OSNABRUCK CENTRE (Staff) - Osnabruck Township's controversial $1-million swimming pool received its coup de grace here last Tuesday night.

In a 3-2 vote, township council refused the request of recreation director Joe DuVall and pool committee representatives to take a survey of township residents to gauge public feeling on the proposal.

This was the second time in two weeks that council turned thumbs down on the idea of a public opinion poll and it marked the second time Reeve Stewart Hart vacated the chair to cast the decisive vote.

Deputy-reeve Garnet Ezard and councillor George Hehir sided with the reeve. They were opposed by councillor Fraser Cross and Frances Bird.

At a closed-door meeting Oct. 23 council voted 3-2 to cancel further investigation of the possibility of building an indoor pool next to Osnabruck District High School in Ingleside.

Council's decision followed hard on the heels of its promise that no action would be taken on the pool until residents of the township had been surveyed. That promise was delivered at a public meeting, Oct. 16 attended by about 150 township residents, most of whom opposed the concept of a pool.

Representatives of the consulting firm studying the practicality of the pool were at the public information meeting and told the gathering that the community could support such a facility which would house a 25-metre pool, therapeutic pool and viewing room.

Total cost of the pool was estimated $920,000 and the firm's representatives said funding could be divided among provincial grants, donations from the private sector and tax support from the township.

The recreation director told council last week he and the committee were "baffled" by council's decision to shelve any discussion on the proposal before the public had had a chance for any input.

Mr. DuVall reminded reeve Hart and deputy-reeve Ezard of their statements supporting a public opinion poll or a referendum and said that the 150 at the meeting Oct. 16 who opposed the pool did not represent a true cross section of the township.

Osnabruck has a population of about 4,000 and Mr. DuVall said those at the meeting represented about five per cent of this.

The committee, made up of 14 township residents, would be willing to abide by the results of an opinion poll but it wanted a chance for the matter to be democratically decided.

Reeve Hart, who sponsored the original motion to cancel further study, said he was influenced not only by the opposition expressed at the Oct. 16 meeting but by the numberous telephone calls and letters he has since received. They were overwhelmingly opposed to the project, he told Mr. DuVall.

The recreation director was asked about a 600-name petition opposed to the pool which was displayed at the public meeting. He said he hadn't seen it and questioned its validity, saying it could have been biased in its approach to the question.

Mr. DuVall said committee members were willing to conduct the survey and would do so objectively.

He was backed by councillor Cross who said ratepayers should be given a say.

"We have to get the facts out and give the project a fair shot," Mr. Cross said.

Councillor Hehir said he would not allow his tax money to be used for a pool and if the issue were put to the residents of the township he would personally campaign against it and would be willing to fight the next election on the issue.

Deputy-reeve Ezard said he was worried about the tax burden the pool's maintenance would create after it had been built and the reeve said township residents are already worried about the high cost of new sewers being studied for Ingleside.

Mrs. Bird said she favored the pool because of the importance of recreational facilities in attracting prospective residents.

Board backs off

CORNWALL (Staff) - The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education has shelved further discussion on the proposed swimming pool for Osnabruck Township until the municipal council commits itself to definite plans.

The board's decision was reached Tuesday night on the recommendation of trustees Harry Gatward, Lloyd Markell and Rudolphe Villeneuve, who had been studying the matter on the board's behalf, since the proposed swimming pool would

MP Ed Lumley's

Parliamentary Report

Last week I mentioned that I would explain the passage of legislation in Parliament.

Since 99 per cent of the legislation passed is introduced by the government rather than by private members, I will concentrate my remarks in this area. The basic procedure is that a 'Bill' (which details the legislation) must receive three readings in the House of Commons, three readings in the Senate, and then go to the Governor-General for his formal signature (called Royal Assent) making it law.

Most bills are introduced first in the House of Commons. However, legislation requiring substantial hearings from the public is often introduced in the Senate to speed up the process.

The introduction of a bill in the House must be preceded by 48 hours' notice, which appears on the Order Paper of the House.

When the appropriate time arrives, the responsible government minister must then move for leave to introduce the bill, giving the bill's title and perhaps an explanation in a few sentences of its general purpose. Leave is almost invariably granted, and the bill is read the first time without any debate or amendment being permitted.

The second reading of a bill is normally its most important stage from the perspective of media coverage as it presents the first and best opportunity for full and lengthy discussion on the general intent of the legislation. Since the debate on the second reading is confined to the principle of the proposal any attempt to discuss details or to deal with the clauses point by point is usually ruled out of order by the Speaker.

If the majority of the House passes second reading, the House has thereby expressed its approval of the general aim of the bill.

The following stage, called the committee stage, is devoted to a discussion of the detailed provisions. To accomplish this, the bill now goes to one of the standing committees of Parliament. The committee discusses the bill clause by clause, usually calling the responsible minister and his officials to explain the details of the legislation. Often interested parties who will be directly affected by the legislation are also called to appear as witnesses. It is at this stage that members have the opportunity to amend specific clauses of the bill although the government is usually very reluctant to amend its legislation. Once all the clauses are passed the bill is then reported back to the House, with or without amendments..

Ways and means bills (money bills such as the budget bill) are refered to Committee of the Whole House (commonly called Committee of the Whole) rather than to a parliamentary committee.

This procedure is also used when all parties agree to pass legislation quickly such as the amendments to the Old Age Security Act described in last week's report. The procedures clause by clause debate in the Committee of the Whole are relatively the same, the only difference being that witnesses are not allowed to be called thus putting immense pressure on the minister or parliamentary secretary who are the only ones who may respond to questions.

sacrificial way, remembering that no nation, however powerful, is an island, nor can we live unto ourselves alone without suffering dire consequences."

Rev. Ferguson asked that the silence of the reflections of the remembrance service be broken by "proclaiming fearlessly and with full-blooded Canadian courage our debt to the past - which can only be paid by a sacrificial effort in support of a Canada worthy of those who in the hour of destiny flagged not nor failed, but poured out their blood in the last full measure of devotion."

Following his address, wreaths were laid at the cenotaph by Legionnaires and representatives of a number of village and area organizations.

Mrs. Maude Harper laid the wreath symbolic of Canadian motherhood; the wreath for the Village of Chesterville was laid by Reeve Jim Brannen; Winchester Township Deputy-Reeve Jim Sullivan for the province of Ontario; Branch president Wendall Harper for Royal Canadian Legion Branch 434; Mrs. Susie Cass for the Legion Women's Auxiliary; Allan Clements, Township of Winchester; Mrs. Verna Beckstead, Chesterville Senior Citizens' Club; Tom Rance for Nestle (Canada) Ltd.; Harold Nottell, IOOF; Bert VanKessel, Knights of Columbus; Mrs. Reg Shaver, Dundas Rebekah Lodge; Michael Blacquiere and Peter Vanderlyn, Boy Scouts; Emma Hearn and Karen Parker, Girl Guides and Brownies; Mrs. Velma Senn, Women's Institute; Mrs. Pat Molloy, Catholic Women's League; Mrs. Mildred Paul, United Church Women; Carolyn Sullivan and Kevin Fawcett, North Dundas District High School, and Al Kilby for the Chesterville Volunteer Fire Department.

have been located next to Osnabruck District High School in Ingleside.

They stated in their report that any board action be held in abeyance until such time as the township decides to take the matter up again.

At its meeting last week, council voted to postpone indefinitely any action on the proposed $1-million pool and turned down the requests of the 14-member pool committee and recreation director Joe DuVall for a public survey on the project.

The report presented to the board of education Tuesday night indicated that at some time in the future the township may take up the idea of a public survey but until the municipality commits itself to definite plans and conducts the survey to gauge public reaction, the board should stay out of the matter.

Challenge of Remembrance Day

MAPLE RIDGE (Staff) - November 11 is a day of challenge as well as of remembrance, F.M. Cass, Honorary Colonel of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders told students at North Dundas District High School during their Remembrance Day observance here Friday morning.

Mr. Cass told the assembly of students and teachers they have a great tradition to uphold and should use Remembrance Day as a time for renewing their efforts in meeting the challenge of handing on to future generations what the sacrifices of the past have won for them.

Mr. Cass asked the students to look at the situation in Iran and to reflect on what they have been told about Hitler's Europe.

"We don't have that in Canada and the United States and have you ever thought why?

"There are two very good reasons for it. We are the heirs of a very great tradition - the British tradition of freedom of speech and freedom of religion - and for over 1,000 years our civilization has fought to preserve these freedoms.

"In this century - Canada's century, as Sir Wilfred Laurier said - we fought two tremendous wars, the Great War - or First World War - and World War II, to protect these liberties."

Mr. Cass said the residents of the United Counties have never failed to answer the call to arms and in this, the oldest settled part of Ontario, they have had their own regiment since 1780.

To demonstrate his point, Mr. Cass held up his service medals, telling the students that the veterans they see decked out on Remembrance Day are visible reminders of those who "answered the call to defend our freedoms, our king and our country". These medals are evidence of this service and a reminder to us of those who didn't come back".

"The Glens are our regiment - your regiment - and they have been in existence since 1780. In World War I they were known as the 154th Battalion. In World War II they were the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, and platoons were raised in this county in Chesterville, Winchester and Morrisburg.

"We have a great history of loyalty to our traditions and to our country in this area but those of us who fought in World War II are getting fewer every year.

"It is up to you to carry on these traditions that our forefathers fought for us to have. The future is yours and how you use it and how you hand it on to others is up to you. But when I look back to 1780, I believe you are capable of doing so."

SLC offering English courses

(Staff) - A course in English as a second language will be given at North Dundas District High School beginning next Monday evening.

The course is being offered in response to demand from recently arrived Swiss and German immigrants who have purchased several area farms, Ray Smith, chairman of the Developmental Education Department of St. Lawrence College's Brockville campus said here last Thursday evening.

Mr. Smith made the statement at a meeting of the Chesterville Area Refugee Emergency Sponsorship (C.A.R.E.S.). Similar training would be available for the six-member Vietnamese refugee family the group plans to bring to the Chesterville area, he said.

The course at North Dundas will be given for two hours on Monday and Wednesday evenings and instruction will total 90 hours.

Cost of the program is $5 per person, which takes care of registration and all course materials. It also allows the program to become eligible for government grants, Mr. Smith said.

Several Vietnamese are attending similar classes along with members of other ethnic groups in Brockville. Fifteen nationalities are represented in one 17-member class, he said.

"We are preparing to help them learn basic English, not only at Brockville but in various centres throughout Leeds, Grenville and Dundas Counties, as needs dictate," Mr. Smith said.

Campus principal Una Ridley has already welcomed the first new Canadians to the English courses. Wong Khoan, Wong Yen and Chou Asang began studies in late October. Miss Ridley said there are plans to organize a one-day seminar in early December for volunteers who are working with new Canadians.

Khoan, Yen and Asang moved to Prescott Oct. 12 and are sponsored by a group of citizens there. Yen is Khoan's wife and she cares for their three children, 10, 9, and 5. Asang is Yen's brother. Both men have found employment.

At St. Lawrence they are learning basic English with the help of teaching master Anna Klaussen.

Mr. Smith said he is prepared to schedule more classes as needed, not only in Brockville but elsewhere throughout Leeds, Grenville and Dundas. Sponsoring groups interested in helping new Canadians sign up for English training should contact him at 345-0660, Extension 251. In Dundas County they should contact Lorna Bawden at 448-3551.

"It should be emphasized that these basic English courses are for all new Canadians," said Miss Ridley.

IN MEMORIAM

RUSSELL — In fond and loving memory of a dear grandson, Chris Russell who passed away Nov. 18, 1978.
One year has passed,
Since our great sorrow fell,
The shock that we received that day,
No one can ever tell.
God gave us strength to meet it,
And courage to hear the blow,
But what it meant to loose you
No one will ever know.
It's lonely here without you, Chris
We miss you more each day,
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
You bade no one a last farewell,
Not even said good bye
You were gone before we realized
And only God knows why.

Sadly missed and
Lovingly remembered by
Grandpa and Grandma Russell

RUSSELL — In loving memory of a very dear Great Grandson, Chris Russell who passed away Nov. 18, 1978.
If I had all the world to give,
I'd give it yes and more,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
And greet him at the door.
But all I can do, dear Chris,
Is go and tend your grave
And leave behind tokens of love,
To the best great grandson God ever made.

Always remembered and

IN MEMORIAM

RUSSELL — In fond and loving memory of a dear nephew Chris Russell who passed away Nov. 18, 1978.
He little thought when he left home,
He would no more return.
That he and death so soon would meet,
And leave us here to mourn.
We did not know what pain he had,
We did not see him die.
We only know God called him home,
And he never said good-bye.
Please God in Heaven above,
Tell him how much we miss him,
And we send him all our love.

(Special) - The current 4-H club, "Essential Edibles", is rapidly drawing near completion. The 4-H members of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry have been learning how to cook metrically for the last 2½ months.

They have learned about Canada's Food Guide and how it is important to them as young people. The members have talked about the importance of breakfast and made Metric Crispy Granola for that first meal of the day.

The Achievement Evenings are being held at the end of November and beginning of December. The following are the dates, locations and times for each county: -

Dundas County, Maple Ridge Public School, Chesterville, Thurs., Nov. 29, 7:30pm sharp.

Stormont County, Avonmore Recreation Centre, Avonmore, Thurs., Dec. 6, 7:30pm sharp.

At these evenings, all the members and leaders get together and see their accomplishments. These evenings are open to everyone. Why not come out and see what the 4-H members in your community have been doing? The skits and exhibits presented by the members will make for a fun and informative evening.

Norwegian merchant sailor pays tribute to war's forgotten heroes

(Staff) - Our national outpouring of remembrance of the dead in two world wars has passed by once again and in the annual observance of those who made the supreme sacrifice to keep this country free, there was one important group of men whose efforts in the Allied victory of World War II went largely unnoticed.

But last week Rotarians were given a first hand account of the contribution made by the members of the merchant marine in keeping open the lifelines to Britain in the darkest days of the war and how they, always in peril of a watery grave, moved the millions of tons of materiel and men that were so vital in the liberation of Hitler's Fortress Europe.

Kai Pederson, a radio officer in the Norwegian merchant marine, described how thousands of his countrymen ferried men and supplies between North America and the United Kingdom, and told what it was like to be fighting a war while his native country was occupied by the Germans and all contact between the exiled sailors and their families was cut off.

Mr. Pederson, a chief radio operator on several Norwegian merchantmen during the war, is a construction superintendent with Cunningham-Limp Construction, the building firm which is putting up an addition at the Nestle (Canada) Ltd. plant.

He described the seagoing tradition of Norway, which stretches back more than 1,000 years to the Viking longships, and told local Rotarians how this combined with an irony of history to work to the Allied advantage in the Second World War.

Norway, with a land area of only 125,000 square miles, has a jagged coastline stretching almost 2,100 miles along the western edge of the Scandinavian Peninsula. Since over 90 per cent of the country is uninhabitable, most of its population hugs to the coast which is protected from the buffeting storms of the North Sea by an archipelago of over 150,000 islands.

The calm coastal waters and deep fjords which jut inland are ideal for coastal traffic and have given the country a natural merchant marine, Mr. Pederson said.

With a strong seafaring tradition and a country which needs very few imports, it came about that the vast bulk of Norway's merchant fleet was engaged in foreign trade prior to World War II. Mr. Pederson estimated that in the years prior to the war more than half of the country's merchant shipping had never been in Norwegian waters and when Germany invaded Norway on April 9, 1940 over 1,000 of the country's 2,000 merchantmen were in foreign waters.

Norway was supposed to fall in a few days - as had Holland, Belgium and Denmark - but something went wrong with Hitler's "push button war" and after the initial shock over the invasion had worn off, Norway held out for 40 days before officially capitulating.

This allowed the royal family and the country's gold reserves to be evacuated and permitted the setting up of a government in exile in Britain, he said.

A German ruse to lure Norwegian shipping back into either its home ports or the nearest German-held ports failed when not one of the 1,024 ships under the Norewegian flag responded to the call.

Instead, the government in exile set up its own shipping company, taking over ownership of the ships at large from their owners in occupied Norway for the duration of the war. Mr. Pederson, who was on a merchantman bound from Boston to Rio de Janeiro when the Germans invaded, said most of them were immediately put to work hauling supplies to a beleaguered Britain.

Those were the darkest days of the war, when the invasion of the U.K. seemed imminent, and during the crucial Battle of Britan, Mr. Pederson estimated that 40 per cent of the oil shipped from the United States to Britain reached its destination in Norwegian ships.

But the merchantmen paid a heavy price.

The North Sea had become the private hunting ground of German submarine packs and even in convoy, tens of thousands of tons of Allied shipping fell prey to German torpedoes. Mr. Pederson said Norway last half her merchant fleet and between 3,000 and 4,000 sailors in these cross-ocean runs.

The stresses of war, coupled with long separations from their families, had a telling effect on even hardened sailors and Mr. Pederson described how the uncertainty of the long wait before they could go home altered many men's lives.

News of family and friends was hard to get out of the country and sometimes the sparse news was better left untold. Mr. Pederson said his home town of Bodoe became a "Norwegian Guernica" as Hitler's air force pounded the small town, leaving only one house standing. This was repeated in several other coastal communities and the Germans were quick with reprisal killings in answer to such spectacular underground successes as the destruction of the heavy water plant at Rjukan.

Sometimes, however, news came from the most unexpected sources, such as the time Mr. Pederson was sailing on an oil tanker between New Jersey and Greenock, Scotland. He was chief radio officer and struck up a conversation with a fellow officer who had come off watch. The other man described how he and several others had narrowly escaped from Norway in a fishing boat, after once having been stopped and interrogated by the Germans. They had almost reached Scotland when the engine on their small boat quit and the boat began slowly drifting back towards Norway. However, a young mechanic from the northern Norwegian city of Bergen was on board and he managed to get the motor running and they managed to make it to Scotland and safety.

Mr. Pederson said he was interested in the man's story because his brother was a mechanic and lived in Bergen. When he asked the second officer to describe the young mechanic, it turned out it was his brother and on his next trip to the U.K. he and Pederson were reunited for a brief time.

On another occasion, Mr. Pederson had shipped into the western British port of Liverpool and was walking down a crowded street when by accident he bumped into another of his brothers, who, he did not know, had also escaped from the German occupation and was enlisted in the Norwegian Army in exile.

Mr. Pederson's memories of World War II are now part of the Norwegian Maritime Museum in the capital city of Oslo, he said.

His log, which he compiled while serving on four ships during the course of the war, made a circuitous route back to Oslo and his contribution to the museum was the result of another coincidence.

He told the Rotarians that as chief radio officer, he had access to both long and short-wave radios on board the ships on which he served and as a diversion during the long hours of his early morning watch, he would listen to the news on short wave and then type it up for distribution to the news hungry crew.

He always kept one copy for himself and saved the hundreds of sheets he typed, filing them away for future reminiscence.

Two years ago he was listening to Radio Norway International on his short-wave set at his Huntingdon, PQ, home when he heard a program on ship's newspapers. He sent a few samples of his "newspapers" and the radio service devoted a half-hour program to them.

Radio Norway requested the rest of his log and has since turned them over to the Maritime Museum.

Raisin Auth. sponsors flood management seminar

MARTINTOWN (Special) - The Raisin Region Conservation Authority will sponsor a public seminar on flood plain management, Tues., Nov. 20, according to information and education advisory board chairman Dorothy Fawthrop.

Mrs. Fawthrop, who represents the village of Lancaster on the 14-member authority board, said that the seminar is a major initiative on the part of the authority in trying to maintain grass root involvement in the development and implementation of regional water management policy.

She said the seminar is intended to be "a two-way information exchange with the authority on both the giving and receiving ends."

Jay Currier, authority general manager, said the number of property owners in the Raisin Region who are affected by flooding under heavy flow conditions is difficult to estimate.

"What we know is that the number is in the thousands," he said. "This was backed up by the experience of those affected by the September 14 storm which left us with about six inches of rain in 12 hours.

Mr. Currier said the purpose of the seminar will be twofold.

"First, we want to make everyone aware of what flood plain management is all about. That includes both the authority's policy at present, and the provincial government's view of what they want to see done in the way of controlling development in flood prone areas. Secondly, we want input from municipalities and the general public on what policies they think are appropriate for this part of the province."

Under the Conservation Authorities Act, the authority has the power to designate flood prone areas and prevent filling or development in the designated area next to a river or stream. Up until now, only the St. Lawrence River has been directly affected by the regulations.

The seminar's theme speaker is to be Benjamin Franklin, mayor of Nepean. Mr. Franklin is expected to talk about the July 1 weekend flood in Nepean which resulted in extensive property damage, and his ideas on how such events could be avoided.

Other speakers include a consulting engineer, Ministry of Natural Resources officials and members and staff of other conservation authorities including the Grand River and the Rideau Valley.

Representing local interests on the panels will be Adrian Gadbois, reeve of Charlottenburgh Township, Lionel Grant, an area developer, and Larry Cotton, planner for the United Counties.

WDMH Gift Shoppe preparing for Christmas

WINCHESTER (Staff) - The Gift Shoppe at Winchester District Memorial Hospital is being decorated for Christmas by three members of the Women's Auxiliary, which operates the recently-opened shop located just off the hospital's lobby.

Adding a Christmas touch to the shop are gift shop committee chairman Kay Hearn of Chesterville, buyer Louise Sloan of Morrisburg and treasurer Millie McClatchie of Winchester.

The shop is staffed by volunteers from Chesterville, Winchester, Russell, Morrisburg and Iroquois. Some volunteers work weekly, some alternate weeks while others provide back-up service. The volunteers work two-hour shifts, and since the shop opened in April, have worked a total of 1400 hours. Anyone interested in helping in the shop should contact personnel conveners - Mary Hornsby, 774-5645 and Lil Lancaster, 774-2195.

The purpose of the shop is to provide a service to the patients, to the hospital staff and visitors, with all profits from sales being turned over the main auxiliary.

On display with the Christmas stock are hand-crafted items made by local people. Some of the knitted baby sets were displayed at the Region 9 Conference of the OHHA in Pembroke last September, where they gained many compliments. Anyone interested in this area of the shop should contact any committee member.

The shop is looking forward to a busy Chirstmas Season, starting Thurs. Nov. 15 with the bazaar and bake sale in the hospital lobby. This is the second time the bazaar has been held. It is open to the public from 1 to 8pm and from 10am to 1pm for patients and staff with extra volunteers being on duty to bring the patients down for their shopping.

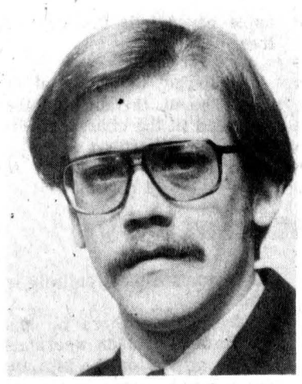
Osnabruck this week—— by Richard Waldroff



On Tuesday evening of last week I and another citizen of the township attended the regular monthly council meeting.

The purpose of our visit was to attempt to change our council's minds toward the conducting of a township-wide survey on the swimming pool project.

Council was advised that the pool committee was willing to volunteer its time and services to do this survey, but felt that its efforts must have the blessing of their elected officials.

Some of the arguments put forth for conducting the survey were that not all the ratepayers have had input at this time and this would give all a opportunity to do so.

The committee could not see the municipality allowing a possible $425,000 in grant money slip through their fingers without much input from the people.

Conducting this would allow the committee (whom council recognized as a working body) to see the job at which they are working completed to the end. The committee is prepared to accept the results as final.

On the other side of the argument, council stated that some of its members had received numerous phone calls and visits from ratepayers who were definitely not in favor of the pool. They claimed that there were petitions with many names on them, but I have not seen one. Council told us that anywhere they go the response is the same - negative. Some of council felt conducting a survey would just be bothering the people again.

I must commend council for sticking to the decision they made a time back, but I wonder if they are being fair to the committee who worked so hard and gave of themselves to offer such a project to the people.

I believe that there could have been two facts gained from such a survey, one being whether or not this project is of interest to the people and two possibly being "what project do the people want".

I firmly believe that input from all ratepayers is necessary in order to promote progress, prosperity and unity within our community. We must seek out some attraction that will encourage our assessment base to grow in order to keep our taxes down, because basic annual expenses continue to climb.

Basically what I am saying is that we must spend a dollar to make a dollar; we can not allow ourselves to stand still - the competition out there is too great.

Romping though the 'Bruck

A Chirstmas Tea and Bazaar will take place Sat., Nov. 17 at St. Peter's Anglican Church, Ingleside. The fee of $1.25 will be charged for tea. Everyone welcome from 2pm to 4pm.

Debbie and Lorne Robinson are now open in their new location at Long Sault. He & She Hairstyling will be at the side entrance at the Becker's Store there. For appointments call 534-2646.

Get Well wishes are extended to Larry Cryderman who is a patient at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Deepest sympathys are sent out to the Woods family on the loss of Walter.

The township Fire Deparments had a busy weekend past, with search and rescue calls. They sucessfully found two people who were lost in a bush near the ninth concession, and also on the same evening were able to assist in locating a downed plane near the woodlands beach area. Saturday evening got them out again to a fire which was smothered out before they arrived. Sunday saw the fire truck leave the hall once more in the evening, with a return visit early on Monday morning.

Anyone in the township with some extra time on their hands, and who would be interested in supervising programs for our youth at the schools in Newington and Ingleside is asked to contact Joe DuVall at 537-2351. These will be evening programs.

UCW's bazaar 2-4pm this Friday

(Special) - Mrs. Ruby Miltimore, leader of the Evening Unit of Trinity United Church U.C.W. welcomed 18 members to the November meeting.

Hymn 121 "O Jesus, King most Wonderful" was sung followed by roll call and minutes of last meeting.

Addie Campderros gave a report on several meetings held regarding the boat people.

Margaret Casselman reminded the members of the bazaar to be held Nov. 17 from 2-4pm. The Youth Group will have a booth at the bazaar this year.

Presbyterial meeting was to be held Nov. 13 at Lunenburg.

The pot luck supper is to be Dec. 6 at 7pm.

The members decided to buy 20 copies of the special edition of Mandate Magazine "He calls us to be his Church".

Evelyn Gillard reported having sent three get well and two sympathy cards for the month of October.

The worship service was conducted by Isobel Conley, Ruth Young, Lois Smith and Muriel Smith.

Mrs. Conley read the opening meditation with the theme "The International Year of the Child". The hymn "Everything is Beautiful" was sung followed by scripture and prayer by Ruth Young.

Muriel Smith read an article on "children's rights" and Lois Smith an article on "Our dependence on Interdependence". The responsive reading was "Children Learn What They Live" followed by Hymn 84 "He's Got The Whole World In His Hands".

A film was shown entitled "I'll Find a Way". This film concerned handicapped children and was very interesting and touching to all.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

A sing song was conducted by Muriel Smith and lunch served by the committee in charge.

Dundas ministers tour nursing home

WINCHESTER (Special) - The monthly meeting of Dundas County Ministerial Association, held at Winchester Monday morning, took the form of a tour of Dundas Manor Nursing Home.

Following the convening of the meeting in the library of the home, where coffee was enjoyed, Mrs. Cathy Yourts, RN, director of nursing at the home, gave an informational presentation on the administration of the institution.

This was followed by a tour of the premises and viewing of the facilities, conducted by John A.D. Alguire, administrator.

At the business meeting, chaired by the president, Canon Francis Gooch of Morrisburg, with Rev. Charles Burtch of Ingleside serving as secretary, items for consideration and discussion included hospital and school chaplaincies, nursing homes ministries, liaison with funeral directors and refugee relief.

Devotions were conducted by the program convener, Rev. Howard D. Smith of Winchester, who also introduced the Manor personnel. Thanks to Mr. Alguire and Mrs. Yourts were expressed by the president.

Members were present from Winchester, Chesterville, Morrisburg, Ingleside, Vernon, Brinston and Inkerman.

Dear Ann Landers:

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you can locate a letter you ran a while back about inherited money and how it can ruin a person's life. It was from a kid whose brother was named Jerry. They lived in Scarsdale. Please try to find that letter. I would mean a great deal to me right now. Thank you very much.

—Another "Jerry"
(Beverly Hills, Calif.)

Dear Jerry: I found the letter, and here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: I heard you say in a radio interview that kids who have a steady income as the result of an inheritance often become loafers and bums. I couldn't agree with you more, because I am a loafer and my brother is a bum.

I am 21. My brother Jerry is 25. Since my 16th birthday I have been going downhill. Jerry is in worse shape. He has let a pack of leeches live off him and calls himself "popular." Our troubles began with inherited money. I'm sure our grandfather believed he was doing us a favor. He was a poor boy and had to work hard. He didn't want our lives to be as rough as his.

Dad died when he was 44 - an alcoholic who never was able to stick to anything. His father's money wrecked his life. Dad got married when he was 19, and he never had to work. So he drank, gambled and ran around.

Now, Grandpa's money is ruining a couple more lives. I envy kids who have to make it on their own. They seem to have time for everything. I have NO time, and I'm not doing a darned thing. Keep talking sense, Ann. Maybe someone will listen.

—Silly And Stupid In Scarsdale

I replied:

Dear Scarsdale: You don't sound silly and stupid to me. You sound like a guy who needs help and knows it. What you are saying is that you were deprived of motivation early in life because everything was handed to you.

I suggest you use some of Grandpa's dough to buy some first-class therapy. Too much leisure time and lots of unearned money can be a lethal combination. With some solid direction, you might find your way. Good luck to you and your brother. I wish you well.

And now, having printed that letter and my response, I hope you will forgive me if I take this opportunity to add a word or two to parents and grandparents who are busy setting up trust funds for their children and grandchildren as an alternative to "giving it to the government."

You would be doing those kids a far bigger favor if you left just enough to insure them a fine education - and the rest to a worthy charity. If you would like the names of some fine institutions that need money, just ask me.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 25, pretty, and considered sensible. Last year I fell madly in love with a 28-year-old dreamboat. This guy is so terrific, so bright, so gorgeous, so tender, so everything, I'm really nuts about him.

We dated steadily and I was sure he'd ask me to marry him. Well, last night he suggested I date others to make sure I'm as much in love with him as I think. I'm devastated and can't figure it out. Can you?

—Daisy

Dear Daisy: What Dreamboat is saying is this: "I would like to take out other women because I'm unsure of my feeling for you."

Don't fight it, Honey. When a love affair is lopsided, it's a bummer.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 50 cents and a long, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Nurses challenged to prepare for the '80s

The Editor:

In the October 16, 1979 issue of The Toronto Globe and Mail there appeared an article entitled "Nurse of the Eighties?".

Behind the story is Shirley Wheatley who recently set up office in her own home and thus became the first nurse practitioner working independently. Even though she strives for independence, she has a keen sense of responsibility toward the professional association - so much so that she became the president-elect of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario for the 1979-1981 term.

Shirley Wheatley has been invited by the Seaway Chapter of the RNAO to meet with all registered nurses of the chapter area and explain what a professional association is all about, why it is needed, and above all, why it is crucial that every nurse lend his or her support to the professional association. There is strength in numbers! Furthermore, to belong means to be informed, to be heard, to step up and be counted, so that future development of nursing is not left to a few to decide.

It is unfortunate or perhaps even pathetic that out of approximately 1200 nurses of this area only 230 have felt it necessary to join the ranks of RNAO and all Registered Nurses reap the benefits of the efforts of a few. We overlook the fact that the input of so many nurses could be welded into one strong voice - that of a professional association.

In our time, changes take place very swiftly. Change is a necessary ingredient of growth. But one has to examine change factors closely to insure intelligent decision making. Whether to support or challenge a proposal for change requires a well-informed person. It goes without saying that a professional association can supply all the information needed, provided one belongs and is actively involved with that association.

Mr. Editor, we challenge all nurses to take time out and come and listen and argue, if they must, with Shirley Wheatley at Jack Lee's Tues., Nov. 20, at 8pm, or 6pm if they wish to dine prior to the meeting.

We guarantee Shirley Wheatley will stimulate their interest in the future of nursing. Who knows - they might even want to join the minority!

Children entertain at CWL meeting

(Special) - The Nov. 7 meeting of St. Mary's Catholic Womens League was held at St. Mary's School.

Rev. J. Appelman opened the meeting with the CWL prayer. The president, Mrs. P. Molloy, welcomed the members and guests and conducted the business part of the meeting.

This year being the Year of the Child, the roll call was "Name a way to teach our children to become good citizens".

With the resignation of Mrs. Mary Chisholm as secretary a nomination for Mrs. Priscilla Roberge was made by Mrs. Joanne Lewis to fill this office.

After accepting the nomination Mrs. Roberge proceeded to read the minutes and correspondence. During the course of the business meeting it was decided to donate $500 to the C.A.R.E.S. committee toward the sponsorship of a Vietnamese refugee family on behalf of the CWL.

At the conclusion of the business meeting Rev. Julian Phalen a visiting missionary, gave a short meaningful talk on parents, and children with an interesting analogy - that the apple never falls far from the tree.

Following the Year of the Child Theme, the meeting then continued in the charge of Mrs. Karen Graham and Mrs. Jeanette Holmes convener for this month's topic, Community Life.

The children of St. Mary's grade five proceeded to entertain the members and guests with square dancing, singing as a choir four different songs in four different languages, Dutch, English, French and Afrikaans, followed by a short play "The Dinner Guest".

The children showed great effort and discipline and well deserved the standing ovation given to them at the finale. A very pleasant evening ended with a delicious lunch served by Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Holmes and their committee.

Craft demonstration at UCV

(Special) - If you thought leather was just for shoes and handbags, you'll be surprised by a demonstration to be held at the Village Store at Upper Canada Village Sat., Nov. 24 and Sun., Nov. 25.

Representatives of Hinterland Handcrafts will be present to demonstrate the carving, shaping and colouring that goes into the production of leather jewelry.

From facilities in the Bancroft area, the company produces such things as butterflies, flowers and animals almost entirely by hand.

The Village Store is open from 9am to 5pm on weekends, and the display on the 24th and 25th is sure to prove interesting for many area people.

Gerald Jans top producer

Gerald Jans, Moose Creek, is congratulated by Holstein-Friesian fieldman Grant Smith on winning the Ontario Harvestore Award for high herd average in Stormont County last year. Mr. Jans had a composition BCA of 166.5 on 29 records. At left is Campbell Murray who received a longtime production award for 90,000 kilograms of milk and at right is Elwood Craig of Cherry Vale Farms, Finch, who received a Superior Production Award and a longtime award for 60,000 kg.

James Campbell of Maxville carried home a large collection of silverware from the Stormont Holstein Club awards night for his strong showing at the county Black and White Show this year. With Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and daughter, Patti, are at left, club president Campbell Murray and Allison Fawcett, Winchester, fourth vice-president of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada.

Other trophy winners from the county Black and White Show were from left, Campbell Murray, Murrayholm Farms, Reserve Junior Champion; Gerald and Christina Jans, Junior Champion, and Stan McBain and Hugh Carruthers of Delhu Holsteins for Grand Champion Male and Most Points for New Exhibitor.

AVONMORE (Staff) - The progress of the Holstein breed in Eastern Ontario was demonstrated here Friday night at the annual awards banquet of the Stormont Holstein Breeders Club when AgRep Dale Miller pointed out that the five herd averages which had won awards for production in 1974 would not even have qualified this year.

"This says much for our breeders and for the kind of cattle we have in Stormont," Mr. Miller said.

Gerald and Christina Jans of Moose Creek were presented with the award for the highest composite herd average in the county on Record of Production or Supervised DHIA with a composite BCA of 166.5 on 29 records.

Runner-up was Cherry Vale Farms, RR2 Finch, with a BCA of 160.5 on 32 records; Dalton Ouderkirk of RR2 Lunenburg had a composite figure of 154 on 18 records, good for third place; fourth-highest was John J. Jans of Avonmore, with a BCA of 147 on 53 records, and Howard Morrow of Maxville had a BCA of 146.5 on 18 records for the county's fifth-highest average.

Mr. Miller said further proof of the worth of Stormont's cattle was the fact that in the past 1½ years more than 100 Holsteins from the county have been sold for export.

Club president Campbell Murray of Martintown told the breeders they had consigned the largest number of cattle for the spring calf sale at Fawcett's Sale Arena in Winchester, with their contributions bringing a total of $21,350 for a $1,650 average.

Stormont breeder James Campbell of Maxville brought home the Grand Champion of Show rosette from the Maxville Spring Show, one of the largest Holstein shows in Canada, this year and the county further distinguished itself when its 4-H members captured the E.W. Burton Trophy for the Grand Champion group of three calves at the Ottawa Winter Fair, Mr. Murray said.

Breed fieldman Grant Smith says he can "see nothing but a bright future for the Holstein breed", demonstrated by the "number of enthusiastic young people who are keenly breeding these cattle".

Record prices - such as the $24,500 paid for the top selling animals at the EBI Fall Special Sale Nov. 5 - are an indication of the success of the breed as dairymen take increasing advantage of the amount of information available to them.

"It is fortunate that in this time of competition we have such records as our complete sire analysis and that these young breeders have the information and are anxious to use it," Mr. Smith said.

Competition and rewards for excellence are important to the continuing development of the breed, he added.

The showring helps develop the animal's type and production awards increase efforts in the milkhouse, he said.

Trophies for this year's showring competition were also handed out Friday night.

James Campbell was the big winner at this year's Black and White Show, winning the Crysler Royal Bank Awards as Premier Breeder and Exhibitor; the Maxville Master Feeds Trophy for Grand Champion Female; MacEwen Fuels Award for Reserve Grand Champion Female; Ingleside Bank of Montreal Award for first-place two-year-old; Cornwall Royal Bank Award for Best Uddered Cow, and the Finch Bank of Montreal Award for Breeder's Herd.

The Avonmore Bank of Nova Scotia Award for Junior Champion Female was presented to Gerald and Christina Jans, who also received the Ontario Harvestore Systems Ltd. Award for High Herd Composite BCA.

Delhu Holsteins of Crysler received the Daco Laboratories Award for Grand Champion Male and the Holstein Club Trophy as newest exhibitor with most points at Newington this year.

Murrayholm Farms received the Cornwall Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce Award for exhibiting the Reserve Junior Champion Female at Newington.

OFA convention farmer's parliament

(Special) - The 43rd annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture will be held in Toronto, at the Downtown Holiday Inn, Nov. 27 - 29.

The OFA convention is the province's "Parliament of Farmers". It provides the organization's 23,000 individual members, through their more than 450 delegates, with the opportunity to initiate policy directions and express their concerns, hopes and plans for the coming year.

The theme is "Challenges in the 80's". The close of the decade is going to bring new challenges for the agricultural industry — especially in the areas of energy, political and social pressures, and markets for agricultural products.

Speakers and sessions at the convention will deal with each of these issues, to help prepare Ontario's farmers for the challenges of food production in the years ahead.

Present at the convention will be farmers from across the province, representatives from the industry and from both federal and provincial governments. A panel on Tuesday night, Nov. 27,

Present at the convention will be farmers from across the province, representatives from the industry and from both federal and provincial governments. A panel on Tuesday night, Nov. 27, will look at the North American energy situation. Prof. Bob Southwell, University of Guelph, will be one of the panel members.

FROM THE RECORD
THURS., NOV. 17, 1939

Yesterday, M. Thomas Allen, president; Harold Durant, vice-president, and W.H. Casselman, secretary, of the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society, visited the home of Orrin Dillabough of Morewood, and in recognition of outstanding services to the society in particular and to agriculture in general, presented Mr. Dillabough with a beautiful Agricultural Service Diploma prepared by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Mr. Dillabough has been a director of the society since its inception, rarely missing a meeting and always giving cheerfully of his time and ability to further the cause of agriculture in this district.

The attendance at the Remembrance Day supper under the auspices of the Men's Association of Trinity United Church, Monday evening, was considerably larger than usual for this event, but with the ample margin of good things to eat everyone was satisfactorily served. The concert in the auditorium was under the direction of R.D. Dillabough, who in his opening remarks, expressed much pleasure that the whole program was to be given by local talent. Vocal music was supplied by an octette consisting of Misses Marion Casselman and Gertrude Weegar, Mrs. George Merkley, Mrs. T.A. Smirle, Messrs. O.L. King, Milton Shaver, Frank Casselman and Arthur Casselman under the direction of Mrs. P.J. Gilroy.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. James Hughes, president of the local branch of the Women's Institute; Miss E. McGee, secretary, and Mrs. Lyle Marcellus, first vice-president, were among those entertained by the Lady Tweedsmuir at Government House, Ottawa, when there were 278 present from 85 branches. The Governor-General and Lady Tweedsmuir received, and the guests witnessed a movie of the visit of Their Majesties to Canada.

With a few days of cold weather, the water backed up by the Nestle dam in the Nation here has frozen over and early yesterday the more venturesome youngsters were trying out their skates. Snow which fell the first of the week (the third fall of the season) gave realistic winter effects, but today all is changed, as a warm breeze from the southeast has ruined the ice and taken the snow.

Three men were badly hurt when the scaffold collapsed at the new plant of the Chateau Cheese company being erected at Berwick, on Saturday. Ed. Cassidy of Chesterville, and Abe Ouderkirk and Allan Kearns of Berwick were on the scaffold when it broke and threw them to the ground. A fourth workman, Archie McMillan, also fell but was not hurt.

FROM THE RECORD
THURS., NOV. 17, 1949

The haunting notes of the Last Post echoed across the town to sharpen the debt we owe to our dead and living veterans of the great World War, Sunday. Remembrance Day has passed for another year but faith has been renewed in a fitting manner. As a fitting conclusion to Sunday's service and parade, the Legion marched up Main to John Street and lined up in front of the home of one of their ill members, Veteran Wm. "Billy" Fyke. President W. Gould entered and paid his respects to the sick man and then dismissed the squad.

Chesterville Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion met in the Library on Tuesday night to discuss plans for the coming winter season. New president William Gould presided with Secretary Hubert McCloskey at the book. New members to the number of 48 were listed on the rolls for the year and their interest was evident from the lively discussion that arose. The Legion is on the lookout for suitable quarters for their club rooms. Among the suggestions offered was to make use of the old Scout Hall in the rear of the Fire Station.

Monday last saw the opening of the deer hunting season. The usual large group of Chesterville hunters left on Saturday and Sunday for points north and north-west full of hope, faith and confidence. Reports are slow coming back as to their luck but one club reports good luck the first day out with two in the bag.

Last Monday Junior hockey enthusiastics met in Russell to pull together a league for the winter season. Representatives from Chesterville, Russell, Winchester and Finch were on hand. In the election of officers, Bill Hall was named president with W.F. Workman Hon.-President, Alf. Jarvis vice-president and Keith Russell as secretary-treasurer. Four teams will be in the league this year as Finch has joined the junior ranks with a team. There is a possibility that Metcalfe will swell the number to five but that will be decided here in Chesterville Monday night.

The Chesterville Branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia installed its new manager, Mr. Arnold McLaggen, last week. Mr. and Mrs. McLaggen are natives of the Maritimes, coming here from Sackville, N.B. They have two children, a daughter attending Mount Allison University, and a son, a student at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Eugene Wouters of the Boyne was in Toronto last Saturday evening and decided to take in the "Share the Wealth" radio show. In the course of the evening, Mr. Wouters found he had one of the lucky numbers called and was able to collect a small reward.

FROM THE RECORD
THURS., NOV. 12, 1959

Remembrance Day was solemnly observed here last Sunday. Service at the Cenotaph was impressive and striking and the colourful parade made a brave show on the lovely Fall afternoon. The weather finally turned fine and bright for the first time in three weeks. Father J.J. Collins, P.P., St. Mary's Church, addressed the quiet crowd as they stood in reverence at the monument. He stressed the need for lasting peace and prayed that sacrifices of our young men and women would realize the common truth: Peace and love must start among individuals before it can be nation and world wide.

A serious accident almost occurred Tuesday morning at the office of the Winchester Press. As it was, a large double window was shattered and the composure of the editor was badly shaken. A large tank truck loaded with 40 tons of acid was bowling north on Main Street in Winchester. As it passed the Press office, it appeared to flip a stone out from under a tire. The rock, about twice the size of a man's fist, flew through the front window of the newspaper office and whipped by editor Reg. Workman, just as he vassed the corner of his counter. The office was showered with glass and considerable confusion reigned in the back shop until it was discovered why the editor was so excited. But Raistrick, Press employee, took off after the tank truck and flagged it down west of Winchester.

Nearly 500 persons, representing all the farm groups in the county of Stormont, attended the annual banquet sponsored by the various farm organizations and Cornwall Kiwanis Club Saturday night at the Oasis Pavilion to honor the county's 4-H members. Top winners in each of the clubs were as follows: Avonmore, Kenneth Ferguson; Berwick, Bryan Meldrum; Cornwall Centre, Campbell Murray; Ingleside, Jean Pollock; Newington Junior, Hope Simmons; Newington Senior, Heather Simmons; Strathmore, James Daniels; Sandringham, Douglas McLennan. the farmer's wife

by wyn thompson

I like November. It is the quiet month. Colors are muted, haze stands over the bushes, shadows fall long on the fields. The air is dreamy. It is a curious time, a waiting time between the excitement of October and the first snowfall.

Indian summer brings such warm days that no one wants to believe in winter. It is a time of enchantment, when the air is blue with smoke and due, to whatever reason you like, this past weekend saw me pick a bouquet of wild asters and yellow goldenrod, some clovers and a few dandelions. No, we have no allergies!

The last leaves have been taken care of, but I recall that when I first became a farmer's wife everyone burned their leaves- town and country folk alike in a lovely, sweet-smelling bonfire. But times have changed.

Some leaves are hoarded for mulch or compost, which is fine it seems to me. But, others are crammed and crammed into garbage bags and carted off to the dump...and then burned???

Country living has changed a great deal during my lifetime. The addition of freezers has changed the pattern of food preservation. Formerly everything had to be canned or pickled or made into relishes or preserves. Only the stout root vegetables would survive storage in a root cellar or cool fruit closet.

Now most homemakers look forward to the winter ahead with well stocked freezers so they may have corn on the cob on New Year's Day or strawberry shortcake in February. And if they get short, the local supermarket provides frozen peaches in December and cauliflower in March.

Instead of preserving everything, I confine my efforts to those family favorites...baby dills, apple jelly, and pepper relish. And aren't we spoiled...now really?

Another change has good and bad features, as do so many things in this world. Take the kitchen range...it was a comfortable friend. In winter it heated the whole kitchen while the Sunday roast cooked. Beans could simmer all night on the back plates. In summer and a quick fire would cook meals on the top of the stove without causing too much heat. Cedar was stored for just such quick fires.

Then the old kitchen range all but vanished, to be revived again a few years ago by a group of young people, and now it seems to be firmly entrenched in many households as a most efficient energy converter. A bank manager friend and his wife use one and he is a collector of some note having many valuable stoves in his possession.

However, they do have a back-up electric range, as do many of the new generation, tucked away in an inconspicuous spot for use in the very hot weather. And they do have central heating.

So in most homes, it is a far cry from the good old days, although the majority of us are conscious of energy-conservation as we never have been before and this is good. For we have developed into a throw-away society!

However, this still is the age of the push button and the good features are many. No kindling of wood before one can have a cup of tea, no ashes spilling over the floors, no blackening of the hands as well as the stovepipes. I will admit that the old kitchen range had personality, although there was certainly nothing streamlined about it with its fancy metal framework all around the edge and the oven door.

And, it cooked meat to any king's taste. As for baked beans- dark with molasses and strips of side pork - well, nothing could equal them. The warming shelf at the back was always sweet with savory, sage and mint. I would certainly not give up my modern electric wall oven and counter top elements with the buttons to flick and the electric clock-timer. But, I feel happy when I walk into a kitchen with a range to sidle up to, especially on winter days.

Central heating is certainly more reliable about not letting all the pipes freeze and burst, but the old kitchen range was a centre of family living. Kids' mittens were pinned on the clothes line over the reservoir, boots and shoes steamed away under the oven door. A rack behind the stove dried winter wearing apparel.

I expect my viewpoint stems from the belief that in every area of living the past, as well as the present, has some value. What woman doesn't wish she now possessed grandmother's quilts and comforters, old pine furniture, hooked rugs, and coal oil lamps? What antique dealer doesn't wish the same thing?

Maybe because our country is relatively young, some people still feel they have to change always. Whatever is the fashion must be better than what we have. This has always been true as Canadiana was replaced by Victorian, and so on. But often now as we take a late afternoon drive we remark at the number of split rail fences that are going in. Are we now returning to pioneer days?

November is almost over and as I said before I like November but, there are a few things I could have done without: hourly doom and goom reports on the state of the economy. Attempts to bring the government down. Description after description of Ottawa area traffic snarl-ups. Hourly reports on the health of the Shah. Fouled-up telephone service coupled with ever-increasing rates. Such massive oil profits! And so on...

Okay December and winter, do your worst. I am ready. As I write this column the forecast is for rain with the possiblitiy of wet snow but it won't amount to much. The first real snow usually comes the first week in December, a prelude to winter which officially begins around the twenty-first. But, I always could be wrong!

the editor's notebook

Councillor Carl Ward will probably be the target of a lot of complaints over hs proposed bylaw for the mandatory installation of smoke detectors in all Chesterville homes. Many homeowners will undoubtedly look at the proposal as another unwarranted government intrusion into their privacy, but Mr. Ward's proposal is no more of an intrusion than such bylaws as enforced sewer connections, compliance with the village's building code and a host of other regulations that control our daily lives.

We have a responsibility to ourselves and to others to ensure that all reasonable precautions are taken for our safety. It has been proven countless times that smoke detectors lead to the early discovery of fires, saving priceless lives and millions of dollars worth of property and if the homeowner opposes the installation of a detector on the grounds that his home is his castle, then he must also consider that those who share his roof - his wife and children - have a right to all reasonable measures for their protection. He must also think of the rights of relatives and friends, as well as babysitters, who might be staying overnight. He must also give serious thought to homes which adjoin his and which have a right to be protected from damage or destruction caused by a fire in his home. He must also think of the volunteer firefighters who risk their lives in his home. He must also think of the volunteer firefighters who risk their lives every time they answer a fire call. It is better that they be given a fighting chance to bring a blaze under control in its earliest stages rather than having to risk life and limb by entering a burning building to search for survivors.

Councillor Ward's proposal is designed to help put an end to these tragedies and provides the means for meeting the obligations we have to ourselves and to others.

The occupation of the United States embassy in Iran may turn out to be a well-disguised blessing for Americans, in spite of the dangerous international tensions that have been created by the lunatic Ayatllah Khomeini and his hordes of radical "students". With President Jimmy Carter announcing that in retaliation for the hostage-taking, involving more than 60 American embassy employees, the United States will no longer purchase oil from Iran. Americans may be forced into conserving their energy supplies. About 10 per cent of American oil imports - 700,000 barrels a day - come from Iranian oilfields, and the sudden drying up of this supply will force the U.S. either to pay higher prices on the spot market or cut consumption by a corresponding amount.

Mr. Carter's response is the only acceptable one he could have made. Now it is up to Americans in general to respond in a like manner. Once they are over the hump of the oil shortage, they can then take other, appropriate retaliatory measures, such as shutting off the flow of $500-million worth of grain to Iran and forcing the ayatollah and his minions to contemplate whether they want food or crude.

Peewee Flyers off on wrong foot

(Special) - Chesterville's Peewee Flyers started the regular schedule of the Carleton-Dundas Minor Hockey League on the wrong foot, suffering losses to Winchester Ault's Friday and to Metcalfe Mustangs Sunday.

On Friday night, goalie Grant Groves fell victim to a couple of weak goals, while a less-than-stellar performance by the Flyer defence allowed Ault's to capitalize on the many Flyer mistakes in a 6-2 victory.

Winchester's trio of Brent Carkner, John Guy, and Mark Cross showed the way, popping five of Winchester's six tallies, while Kevin Mills also chipped in a goal.

Mike Harper fired two first-period Flyer goals, one assisted by Kirk Barkley. Chesterville was outshot 22-17.

Sunday night, Flyers travelled to Metcalfe for a game with the Mustangs.

It turned out to be classic battle, with wide-open play and great goaltending at either end. Flyers opened the scoring at 7:16 of the initial period as Damian Laflamme put away a Kent Smith pass, Mustangs came back with two second-period markers to go up 2-1, as Jeff Baird and Don Gamble scored.

Flyers' captain Mike Van-Delst brought Chesterville even early in the third from Lafalmme. With 4:17 left, Mustangs Gamble added his second goal to give Metcalfe a 3-2 lead. Flyers couldn't capitalize in the remaining time and came away on the short end of an exciting game. Groves handled 26 shots to Chesterville's 25 drives on Metcalfe goalie's.

Lions atop Junior B standings

MORRISBURG (Staff) - Morrisburg Lions are now the only unbeaten team in the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League's two southern divisions following last week's 10-game schedule.

The Lions continued to score goals by the bagful as they racked up wins over Athens and Kemptville to remain alone at the top of the St. Lawrence Division standings, one point ahead of Char-Lan, which suffered its first loss of the campaign Saturday night.

Morrisburg humbled Athens 9-1 Friday night and doubled Kemptville 8-4 Sunday afternoon to run their undefeated string to five games.

In Friday night's game Athens drew first blood, getting a powerplay goal from Tim Hart at 13:57 of the first period, but a little over four minutes later Tom Hodgson scored his first goal of the season to tie the score. One minute later Hodgson got his second and rounded out the classic hat trick at 4:58 of the second. David Myers made it 4-1 at 15:14 and the Lions pumped in five more in the final period to complete the route.

Winchester Hawks had their unbeaten string snapped at two Friday night when they dropped a 7-5 decision to Smiths Falls but the Hawks rebounded on their home ice Sunday afternoon in front of 300 fans to humiliate Brockville 9-2 behind the three goals of Barry Casselman and Al Frappier's pair.

Peter Marriner opened the scoring at 1:21 and Casselman got the first of his three at 6:36. Frappier made it 3-0 at 17:53 and Al McLean gave the Hawks a four-goal bulge going into the middle frame with a goal 12 seconds from the end of the period.

Rob Prophet scored Brockville's first goal at 7:28 of the second but Doug Coleman got that back 57 seconds later to round out the second-period scoring.

Darrell Shelp made it 6-1 at :53 of the third and Casselman sandwiched a goal by Brockville's Paul Moore for his second and third goals of the afternoon to make it 8-2 before Frappier beat Rick Beckstead to wrap it up at 17:08.

Last Thursday Mike Mandell, the illusionist, entertained us with his spell-binding feats that baffled our senses.

Those who were chosen from the audience to participate in the show were both mystified and stupefied by the illusive effects he created. The proceeds from the show went towards UNICEF. Special thanks to our Students' Council for again bringing Mr. Mandell to us.

We held our Remembrance Day Service last Friday. Much appreciation to the chaplains for their conduction of the service.

The Band, Glee Club, Mr. Mackenzie's Piping students, and the Apple Hill and Finch Legions added extra honor to the ceremony. Poetry winners were Luc Briere, Lyall Bush and Monique Mahoney, whose efforts were read to the assembly.

The Theatre Arts 3 class put on a play last Friday afternoon in front of an enthusiastic audience of elementary school pupils from Roxborough.

The children's response made all of the time and efforts that went into the play seem worthwhile. The play will be presented to others as the theatre class travels to various local schools next week.

The grapefruit and orange sale being held by the school band will soon be coming to a close as will the candles and candy-cane sale being held by the Outdoor Club.

Linda VanderWeilen's winning season in cross-country running was capped off by her fine victory in the Midget Girls' 3000m race at the OFSSA (All-Ontario) Championships in Kingston on Nov. 3.

She also won the SD&G and EOSSA Championships.

Her successful season in cross-country is a great indication of what is to be expected of Linda in track next spring. We are all proud of Linda!

The girls' basketball teams finished off their schedules with Char-Lan last Monday. Thanks to Mr. Desrosier, Seniors' coach, and Mr. Peters, Juniors' coach for coaching these fine teams.

The senior and junior boys' basketball team tryouts got under way as did the Midget Girls' last week.

CDMHL requests restrictions be re-evaluated

(Staff) - Carleton Dundas Minor Hockey League will ask the Ottawa District Minor Hockey Association to lift all restrictions regarding the number of boys from Crysler permitted to sign cards in Chesterville.

CDMHL officials met last Monday night and that very subject was the major topic of discussion.

A letter has been written by the league and it will be forwarded to ODMHA chairman Frank Libera. Copies will also be sent to Dalton Gadbois, chairman of ODMHA Zone 2, and Bud Parker, chairman of ODMHA Zone 1.

The ODMHA recently permitted Chesterville to sign two boys from Crysler for each division to A division cards.

The Carleton Dundas MHL now says it wants the ODMHA to re-evaluate its position because it could create an imbalance within their league.

Carleton Dundas MHL has member associations in Metcalfe and District, Winchester and District, Russell, Kemptville and District and Morrisburg along with Chesterville and District.

A portion of the letter signed by Carleton Dundas MHL president Ken McClatchie of Winchester says, "It is quite clear to us as a league and I am sure they have made their position clear to the ODMHAC, that this is the route Crysler and Chesterville intend to follow. By amalgamating in this fashion, an imbalance is being created in our league as only two players from the Crysler MHA may at present be carded to play in the A Division. This leaves the remainder of the Crysler boys to play in our B Division (House League)."

"This B Division of the CDMHL was established to provide more hockey and better hockey for those boys who do not get the opportunity to play in our A Division, I think we all agree that this House League concept is both important and beneficial to all the boys who play in it."

"The CDMHL and its member associations does not wish to jeopardize our B Division by allowing A players from Crysler to play at this level. However, as Chesterville is a member of our league, it is important to us that we provide hockey for their boys."

"Since time is of the essence and we are all in the minor hockey for the boys and betterment of the sport, the CDMHL requests for this year only, until a decision has been reached by the ODMHAC on the rezoning proposal initiated by Crysler and Chesterville MHA's, that all boys from Crysler may play hockey in Chesterville and at the level for which they are best suited. We ask that no restrictions be imposed regarding the number of boys from Crysler permitted to sing cards in Chesterville."

"Again let me emphasize that time is of the essence as we must proceed with our scheduling. We want to get our league under way but we are willing to sacrifice our B Division in the process."

Atom Flyers off to a flying start

(Special) - The Chesterville Atom A Flyers opened the season with two exhibition games against the Russell Warriors.

The first game, played at Chesterville Nov. 2, resulted in the local lads trouncing Russell 9-0. On the return match at Russell, Nov. 6, Chesterville blanked Russell 6-0.

The season opener Nov. 9 had the Winchester squad coming to Chesterville. The game ended 5-0 in Chesterville's favor. Rookie John Mackler was the Chesterville star with a hat trick, scoring one unassisted goal, and assists going to Jeff Barkley and Kevin McLeod on the other two. Singles went to Ross Giles, assisted by Donnie Marcellus, and Danny Dubois, assisted by Jamie Cheney.

The second league game of the season was played in Metcalfe against the Mustangs Nov. 11. The Flyers squeezed by the Mustangs with a score of 2-1. Almost the entire game was played in Metcalfe's end of the rink and Mustang goalie Steve Demers was the star in keeping Chesterville from winning by a much larger margin. The Flyers went ahead in the first period on a goal scored by Danny Dubois assisted by Bobby VanDelst.

Although Chesterville held the territorial advantage throughout the second period, Mustang Brent Johnston tied the score with 1:21 remaining. Chesterville kept up the pressure and this resulted in a goal by Jeff Barkley assisted by Jeff Countryman at 3:30 of the third. The rest of the period saw Chesterville with many scoring opportunities only to be stopped by Demers.

The Flyers are off to a "flying" start with goalies Kevin Edgerton and Chuck Droppo having one goal against them in four games.

The next league game will be held this coming Friday at 6pm when Metcalfe comes to town.

Fitness results from NDDHS

MAPLE RIDGE (Staff) - According to results of the Canada Fitness Test given to each physical education student at North Dundas District High School in September, only eight are in excellent condition.

Six of the students in excellent physical condition were girls with three in level three, two in level two and one in level one. There was one boy in level one and one in level four regarded as being in excellent condition after taking the tests for muscular endurance, power and agility.

After a 12-minute run to check cardiovascular (heart and lung) endurance, five girls and 34 boys were rated as being in excellent condition.

In the cardiovascular test, the highest percentage of those rated as "poor" were girls in levels one through four and the highest percentage rated fair to good were boys. Boys also rated better in the "excellent" category, with 34 receiving top marks. Only five girls were rated "excellent".

The accompanying chart is the results of the fitness tests completed at NDDHS.

Makings of a fur coat

Jack Lannin of Chesterville displays the three raccoons he shot last Tuesday morning on the Keith Droppo farm on the Forward Road. Mr. Lannin said the animals, weighing about 20 lbs. apiece, were attracted by the newly-harvested corn and were on the transom of a hydro pole when he shot them. He skinned them that night and will sell the pelts on the fur market where they could bring anywhere from $20 to $80 each.

Maroon collects third straight CTHL victory

(Staff) - The Maroon scoring machine was well oiled for action last Wednesday night as it turned loose on Red for a third straight victory in the Chesterville Town Hockey League.

Maroon pumped in six consecutive goals in the second and third periods of last week's second game to dump Red 8-3. Blue took a firmer grip on second place in the standings with a 3-1 decision over Green in the early contest.

The two top teams and the two trailers will face-off against each other tonight for the first time of the season. Blue and Maroon play at 9pm while Blue and Green square off at 10pm.

Next Wednesday, Blue and Red play the early game as Green and Maroon meet in the nightcap.

In last Wednesday's regular double-header, Phil Groves was the offensive hero of the game for Blue. He scored what proved to be the winning goal with 7:40 to play in the first period and he notched the insurance goal at 6:10 of the third.

Barry Lajoie had given Blue an early lead and Brian Gunnel had replied for Green in the middle frame to reduce the Blue lead to 2-1.

of action. They trailed 3-2 at one time.

Maroon turned on the burners midway through the second frame against Red and never looked back. The teams split a pair of first period goals and Maroon led 5-3 after two frames

Garry Gallinger got a pair of goals in a losing effort as Dave Richards fired a single marker.

Bill Hallan counted the first two Maroon goals and Dave Cross got the third. Dave Carkenr chipped in with two straight as did Barry Sullivan before Neil Beckstead closed out the attack with a last minute marker.
