Implications of Catholic initiatives worry SD&G board

By Pauline Ashton,
News correspondent

The possibility of student and facility transfers of French-language students from Ecole Regional de Glengarry to the Catholic school board's jurisdiction took on an explosive reality last week when SD&G public school board trustees discussed the issue.

The trustees' concerns stem from the Catholic board's request in December that 1,400 French-language students at Ecole Regional de Glengarry and Ecole Secondaire La Citadelle be transferred to their jurisdiction by September 1989 - and that a study be made to set up a Catholic English language secondary school at Tagwi to serve northern areas of the counties.

''We're in for a pack of trouble,'' warned trustee Sam McLeod. His outburst - ''we only react - we can't even protect our own system'', came during a sometimes emotionally charged discussion over the Catholic board's request.

Adding to the public board's concern is the possible organization of a third Frenmch school board in the area, mentioned by trustee chairman of FLEC (French Language Educational Committee), Charlemange Lamarche, when he spoke of ''keeping religious courses optional in any take over until the advent of a French board of education.''

The model for French school boards in Ontario calls for separate and Catholic sectors to allow for choices in religious education.

''First thing we know there will be a French board wanting to take over Glengarry District (shared now by French and English-language secondary students) - then what will we do with our English students flowing in from outlying areas like Laggan and Lancaster - bus them to Tagwi?'' trustee McLeod asked.

Eleven trustees voted for, and four against, an impact statement acknowledging the Catholic board's request for the jurisdiction transfer.

Chairman Joe Gunn emphasized that approval of the statement does not mean approval of the Catholic board's request.

It will be forwarded to the Ontario planning and implementation commission for study and recommendations before either board makes further decisions.

The statement details the Catholic board's plans for the transfer. The province's extension of funding to Catholic high schools legislated during the Liberal government's last term, allows for the redistribution of facilities and students between public and separate school boards.

But the general public's lack of information of the entire issue was an element trustee McLeod was concerned about.

''Nobody knows anything about it in the community - have we asked for public meetings and input?''

Chairman Joe Gunn said public discussion is the next step.

''Right now it is the Catholic board's ball game,'' he explained. ''They have asked for the transfer and we must react - there will be plenty

When Glen Roy resident Steven Crutcher isn't flying for Air Canada, he's kept busy looking after his wildlife sanctuary and his herd of Scottish Highland Cattle. Mr. Crutcher became involved with Scottish Highland Cattle about seven years ago and presently has about 40 of the animals on his farm.

Glen Roy pilot protector of birds, cattle

If you love something,
set it free,
if it comes back, it's yours,
if it doesn't, it never was.

by Peter Conway
Senior Reporter

At this time of year most migrating birds have long since arrived at their destinations in the sunny south. Air Canada pilot and Glen Roy bird fancier Steve Crutcher, however, knows three birds who only arrived just over a week ago — and not by winging it under their own steam. Mr. Crutcher rescued two loons and a great heron, both unable to migrate south for the winter by doing what any fellow flyer would do — he gave them a lift.

The birds, who's damaged feathers prevented them from flying south, had been staying in the bathtub at the home of a Nepean woman.

Mr. Crutcher became aware of the problem when the story was aired during a recent TV newscast and he arranged the free flight to Florida and the paperwork to get the birds across the border.

But coming to the rescue of winged creatures is nothing new; for 15 years he's cared for these feathered friends and he has worked to ensure the relationship is likely to last a long time.

He and his wife Dianne have built a wildlife sanctuary in their own backyard.

The haven, located on the Crutchers 100-acre farm, is spring-fed by 10 ponds and is home to as many as 3,000 full-winged birds each fall, during migration season.

''I've become very attached to these birds and instead of domestic ones, we decided to get involved with full-winged wild birds,'' Mr. Crutcher says.

The Crutchers moved to Glengarry from Ile Perrot, Que. in 1979. Glen Roy seemed the perfect area to establish a wildlife sanctuary.

''We didn't have many birds when we lived in Ile Perrot because of hunters. The local conservation people didn't seem to care if the birds were killed,'' he says.

Man-made ponds were built in a swamp area, which Mr. Crutcher says was ''useless land'' prior to excavation.

He says the return of the birds to his sanctuary depends on their gender.

''The basis for the whole sanctuary evolves around the female of the species. The females always attempt to return to where they learned to fly,'' he says.

And while some people keep their birds in cages, Mr. Crutcher says he prefers to see them in their natural beauty.

''It's awesome to see 2,000 birds flying towards you. The formation of swans is like the flight of a 747 coming at you. Someone that flies for a living can relate to this,'' he says.

Mr. Crutcher's sanctuary has also become a rehabilitation area for injured birds. He has an arrangement with the Montreal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (S.P.C.A.) which sees that injured water fowl are transported during the winter months. Their wings are clipped and after their new feathers grow, the birds are free to leave.

But it isn't only the wildlife sanctuary that keeps Mr. Crutcher and his wife busy between Air Canada flights. An article in Harrowsmith magazine seven years ago got him. He became interested in Scottish Highland Cattle after reading a magazine article seven years ago.

To the best of his knowledge, he's the only Scottish Highland Cattle farmer in Glengarry.

''Living here is paradise'' - Steve Crutcher

Scottish Highland CAttle have a reputation for turning scrub land into park land. What is now a grazing area for the animals, was once a bushy and isolated area on the Crutcher farm.

''They're brush cleaners. You couldn't walk in the area seven years ago before we got them. Now it's open and grassy because the cattle have removed the lower branches of trees.''

The cattle have become a marketable venture for the couple. Their beef is chemical-free upon sale to the consumer and the hides are made into rugs.

''A lot of ex-city people become involved with an ecology enterprise when they move to the country. Our enterprise turns out to be organic beef from the highland cattle,'' Mr. Crutcher says.

He chuckles when asked about his wife's role on the farm.

''Dianne is really the full-time farmer because I'm away flying. A lot of people move out of the city to get away from the pollution. For myself and Dianne, living here is paradise. We wouldn't want to live anywhere else,'' he says.

Steel plant closes doors, 12 jobless in Alexandria

Twelve people are unemployed after an Alexandria steel plant filed for bankruptcy and closed its doors, Thursday.

Petroson International Environment Inc., which also owns a steel plant north of Montreal, informed its employees at noon Thursday, it was closing down.

There are no immediate plans as to whether the company, which specializes in custom steel work, will re-open.

''I don't know all the details, but the company has filed for bankruptcy,'' plant Foreman Marcel Bourgon said, Monday.

One employee, who preferred not to be identified, said he and his co-workers have not received pay for the last two weeks of work.

The plant, located behind the Glengarry Sports Palace, opened in July.

Mr. Bourgon said there were plans to increase staff by as many as 25 employees after the Christmas holidays.

''They (management) feel bad about closing the plant because it has been productive. There was talk about increasing the staff because of new contracts we obtained,'' he says.

Management could not be reached for comment.

Former clerk miffed by council's zoning queries

by Lesley Cadham
News Editor

Former Town of Alexandria Clerk-Treasurer D. O. Collin has demanded an explanation from council regarding its request for a site plan prior to approving re-zoning for an Elgin Street property.

Mr. Collin, on behalf of his son Philip who owns property at 43 and 45 Elgin Street, attended the Jan. 12 council meeting to ask council what it wanted from him.

''I can't recall council ever asking applicants for zoning amendments to submit plans of buildings. I remember when council prided itself for treating everyone alike,'' he said. Mr. Collin wants to add one residential unit to an existing building.

Council received Mr. Collin's request for re-zoning from R-1 single dwelling to R-3 multiple dwelling last month but decided to defer the matter until after Mr. Collin had submitted a site plan.

Council members anticipated that problems would arise if they permitted the re-zoning. Another decision by council to allow re-zoning from R-1 to R-4 multiple dwelling on the same property in 1986 was overturned in February 1987, after Elgin Street residents brought the case to the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB).

Cold snap leaves Glengarrians in darkness

by Janet Clermont
Staff Writer

Thursday's cold-snap caused two power failures in Glengarry leaving about 400 residents in the dark for up to 4 1/2 hours.

Electricity went off in parts of Alexandria, Green Valley and Glen Norman at 7:30 a.m., and was restored by 11 a.m., Thursday morning.

Stuart MacDonald, PUC line supervisor said Friday, the cold weather caused the conductor in front of Glengarry Ford in Alexandria, to break down. The line feeds surrounding areas.

He said two years ago, the same conductor broke down and was either not repaired correctly or simply overlooked. When the cold weather hit Alexandria, too much stress was placed on the line and the conductor failed.

''We had problems repairing the line because it was so cold. It took us 1 1/2 hours just to repair it,'' said Mr. MacDonald.

About 265 Ecole Elda-Rouleau students were sent home because of the power disruption. Although electricity was restored in the early afternoon, Principal Lorraine Lanthier Monday said the building was far too cold.

The Glengarry Memorial Hospital lost no heat or electricity during the disruption, thanks to the back-up generator.

Another power failure occurred that evening at 7 p.m. and was restored by 9:30 p.m., affecting Dunvegan, Laggan and parts of Lochiel and Kenyon townships.

Mr. MacDonald said the disruption was caused by an electricity overload.

''People go home in the evenings and turn up their heat, milk their cows and cook. This time the electricity was used to the maximum and the fuse blew,'' he said.

The PUC will conduct volt and amp surveys to determine the present load. He said if the load was too extreme, additional lines would be implemented.

''The load grows every year because there are new houses being built, so it is hard to keep up,'' he said.

Tightening of sports palace controls advised

by Lesley Cadham,
News editor

Further recommendations ''to strengthen the financial and administrative controls'' of Glengarry Sports Palace operations were recently received by the board from Minister of Municipal Affairs John Eakins.

The recommendations came in a Nov. 5 letter, almost one year after the ministry delivered a 30-page document outlining recommendations to improve arena operations.

In 1986, the ministry hired the accounting firm of Touche Ross to complete an audit after Reeve John Cormier and councillors Fern Séguin, Jim Baker and Larry Yaguchi asked that a commission of enquirey be formed to look into arena management.

Auditors harshly criticized the arena's lack of financial controls and outlined recommendations. It identified problems and recommened solutions.

For example, internal controls were insufficent, leading to inadequate safeguarding of assets, and accounting records and financial information were lacking. Management did not comply with regulations covering bingo, lottery and bar operations and it was recommended the board confer with the governing ministry for guidance.

The Nov. 5 letter, addressed to the arena board, was presented to Alexandria town council after Councillor Fern Séguin called the ministry to request a copy.

Mr. Eakins wrote, ''We are pleased to note that the board has divested itself of operating bingos, selling Nevada tickets and the operating of the bar located in the sports palace. A major concern of the ministry was the financial controls necessary for the operation of these activities. The new arrangements have resolved many of the problems addressed in the report.

''However, in winding down certain activities, a number of adminstrative inconsistencies were noted.''

The minstries further recommendations include ensuring that Alexandria Clerk-Treasurer Leo Poirier, who has signing authority, initials and approves orignal documents before signing the arena's general accounting cheques. New cheques, clearly identifying the Town of Alexandria, should be ordered and Mr. Poirier should also be responsible for reconciling bank accounts each month, it was recommended.

It was also suggested that the arena enter into agreements with each service group operating bingos at the sports palace. The agreement should include rental and storage arrangements and indicate that the sports palace board is not responsible for cash left on the premises overnight.

In addition, the sports palace should not provide a change float; service clubs should provide their own and the arena board should return its $850 change float to the Town of Alexandria for deposit.

The person operating the bar should be required to formalize the existence and possession of $2,000 in cash and inventory, which belongs to the arena board. The bar operator should indemnify the arena against any respon-

Couple pleads guilty to knifing incident

Two Green Valley residents will be back in court for sentencing after pleading guilty to common assault and possession of a weapon, Thursday.

Serge Deguire, 21, and Ginette Binette, 21, pleaded in Alexandria Provincial Court.

Mr. Deguire and Miss Binette were both charged with common assault and Miss Binette is facing additional charges of possession of a weapon.

The two were arrested by Lancaster OPP, Sept. 12, following a heated argument at their Green Valley apartment. At one point during the disagreement, Mr. Deguire struck Miss Binette several times in the face. Miss Binette then went into the kitchen, retrieved a nine-inch butcher knife and stabbed Mr. Deguire in the interior area of the thigh, causing a two-inch deep wound. Police received a call shortly after the assault.

Mr. Deguire was taken to the Glengarry Memorial Hospital where he received six stitches.

Miss Binette was also treated for bruises and swelling on the left side of her head.

housing, rooming and boarding houses and converted dwelling houses.

Mr. Collin, on behalf of his son, had requested the R-4 re-zoning so that a four-unit apartment building could be constructed.

But despite neighbors' adamant objections that the building would decrease property values and increase noise and traffic, council approved the request. The neighbors appealed to the OMB to overturn the decision.

A hearing, attended by opposed Elgin Street residents, Mr. Collin and members of council, took place in January 1987 and one month later, the OMB decided not to allow the re-zoning.

And last week, six residents opposed to Mr. Collin's most recent request, attended the council meeting.

Mr. Collin was visibly upset as he said, "This amendment is going to be objected to. The proof of that is here. All the good neighbors of Elgin Street are going to oppose it, led by the crusader."

He went on to explain that he felt council had no right to ask him for a site plan this early in the game. He said he would submit a site plan when and if he or a new owner decided to build on the property.

"Council has no authority to ask me for this. They've never treated anyone like this before," he said adding, "Under what authority are you imposing these conditions?"

Mr. Collin told council they should have asked him whether the property conformed to the zoning bylaw, whether the addition of one residential unit would create traffic problems, or whether sewer, water and hydro could be provided.

Councillor Fern Séguin asked, "Is it not the right of council to ask what is going to go on the lot?"

Councillor Archie McDougall explained that council had requested the site plan because rezoning on that property had already been turned down once by the OMB. He said he had sent a copy of a plan submitted by Mr. Collin, to SD&G county planner Brian Weir and that Mr. Weir had deemed the plan unacceptable as it was.

"The treatment you received is no different than any other person in Alexandria. And as far as imposing anything, nothing has been imposed on you or any other person.

"This is a contentious issue and we're trying to find out what you plan to do. As far as lecturing us as far as what's legal or illegal . . . since Mr. Collin will not provide the information, I'm prepared to call a meeting (of the planning committee,)" said Mr. McDougall.

Mr. Collin interjected that he had provided information in a "hastily drawn up plan" to give council a rough idea. He admitted the plan did not meet zoning requirements and that he would provide another plan when he applied for a building permit.

"I'd like it recorded in the minutes that if and when we do erect, it will be one unit and will conform to the bylaw," he added.

of time for our needs and feelings to be made known."

Director of education Rosarie Leger said "much water will flow under the bridge before any transfer is approved by the Ministry of Education."

Trustee Art Buckland branded the Catholic board's requested transfer "aggressive" considering that "our board stands to lose teachers, students, and facilities to a school board that piled up a 25 per cent budget deficit last year."

Mr. Buckland called for amalgamation of school boards and suggested the question be put to the voters in this year's municipal elections.

"At this rate we could end up splitting our educational facilities and dollars among four boards; public, Catholic, Franch elementary and French secondary," he declared.

"We are being asked to approve a move by another board which will only build more walls, with one kind of student on one side and another kind of student on the other," Mr. Buckland said. "Can we really afford this kind of division?"

Trustee Bill Lasalle suggested "all eyes are on our area. We have been a model in Ontario for the harmonious cooperation between boards. But I just don't want to see anyone shoved around over this."

Trustee Susan Adams said "sharing is the key here. We've done it in the past and there is no reason to think it won't work again."

"Sooner or later we must get down to specifics," objected trustee McLeod. "If we hand over Glengarry District to some other board it would be ludicrous to transfer students from our far-flung rural areas to Tagwi - we must think of the ramifications of our actions on students in the future."

In an interview chairman Gunn, throwing his arms wide, described Tagwi secondary school as underutilized. "We've got 485 students there now. There is room for 1,100; we can gather in all the senior public students in the area and still have lots of room."

siblity for loss of cash or inventory.

Also, the ministry suggested the board correct an inconsistency regarding the bar cash, recorded in the town's accounts as $1,000, when it is actually $2,000. The minstry wrote that this discrepancy could be a result of unrecorded sales occurring over a period of time.

Alexandria Mayor J.P. Touchette said, Tuesday, "They (recommendations) have already been done."

"I'd like to add, we (arena) will lose $50,000 this year. We don't run the bingo, we don't run the bar. It's that simple.

"Where we used to make a pile of money, this year we're going to lose. We had a reserve of $210,000; we're down to $100,000 and we're going to have to raise taxes. But we'll know how much in May, when we know exactly where we stand," said the mayor.

Road not a priority for Charlottenburgh Twp.

by Sybil Carello
News Correspondent

Reconstruction of the Kenyon/Charlottenburgh Boundary Road, has been put on hold - again.

Charlottenburgh Township, which shares maintenance costs with Kenyon Township, has not listed the estimated $1 Million reconstruction project as a 1988 road works priority.

In a letter to Kenyon council, Charlottenburgh pointed out that "reconstruction of Charlottenburgh/Kenyon Boundary Road, is listed as a second priority, superseded by phase 2 road reconstruction of Glendale subdivision."

And, while Charlottenburgh has allocated an expenditure of $50,000 towards the Boundary Road project, their letter further stated: "...it is our intention at this time, to proceed with works (road) in order of priorities."

For years, residents of Kenyon's first concession have pleaded with the two townships to fix their road. Last November, a delegation of 45, armed with a 121-signature petition and a long list of grievances, met with the two councils.

The meeting ended on a hopeful note with both councils promising to look into a strategy for road improvement. Residents were told there would be a follow-up meeting in January.

In December, Kenyon passed a resolution committing $50,000 in municipal funds, to the project. This will be followed by a request for the same amount from the Ministry of Transportation and Comunications (MTC).

"We (council) have made this a priority" said Kenyon Clerk Mary McQuaig.

Kenyon's portion of the road, reconstructed five years ago, begins at Lot 24 and stretches into the Indian Lands. Charlottenburgh's segment, from Hwy. 34 to Lot 24, requires total reconstruction and is the source of most complaints. Dubbed the "Glengarry roller coaster" for obvious reasons, it is a morass of hills and valleys. At 40 feet wide, it is not wide enough for two trucks to pass, and has a washboard-type surface in places. Further, inadequate weed control creates a visibility problem for drivers backing out of their laneways.

Residents were particularly concerned about the safety of school bus passengers travelling down this stretch.

According to Charlottenburgh's letter - a response to Kenyon's December 14 correspondence on the issue - Charlottenburgh "will not be in a position to form an agreement to commit funds to this project" until they have a clearer picture of 1988 available subsidies.

"In other words," said Mrs. McQuaig at the January 12 meeting, "they're not going to commit tax dollars to this project; they'll only commit to this project if they can get MTC funding."

"And, they won't get a subsidy unless it's set as priority one" she added.

"What about their $50,000 allocation?" questioned councillor Don Besner.

"Only if they get a subsidy, and only after they do phase two of Glendale reconstruction," answered Mrs. McQuaig, adding that due to the size of that particular project, it would probably "be prioriatized over the next two or three years.

"That doesn't leave us in a very good position" said Mr. Besner.

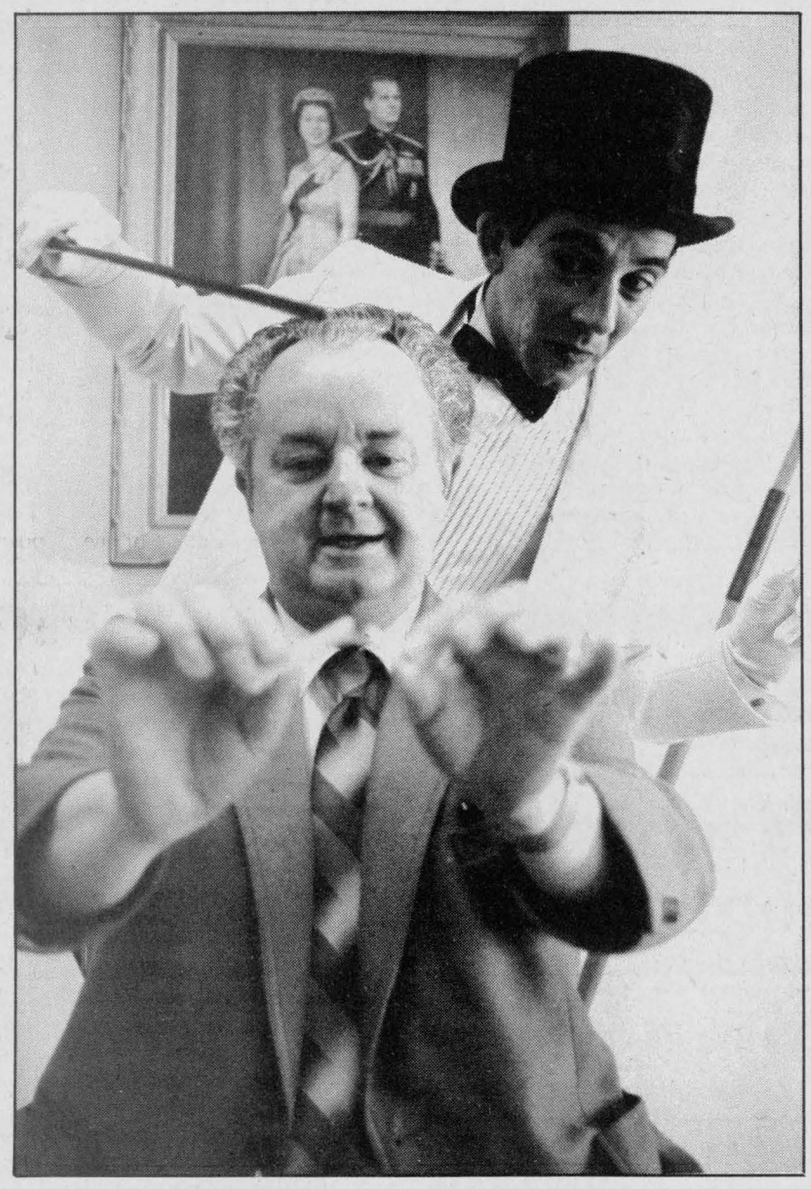
In November, Charlottenburgh Administrator, Jay Currier, said their municipality cannot afford to do the work without provincial subsidies. Their total roads construction budget for 1986, was only $506,000.

Kenyon's budget for 1986 was $531,900.

At the November ratepayer meeting, Kenyon Township Reeve Wilfred Vallance, told residents that boundary roads were a low priority with MTC. Earlier requests for a full funding by both councils have been unsuccessful.

Discussions will continue between the two councils at a closed meeting later this month.

Mr. Vallance told council members that perhaps something might be negotiated.



Breaking the habit

'Sir Nick O'Teen' and Alexandria Mayor J. P. Touchette joined forces temporarily last week to deliver a message — "Quit Smoking." Played by actor John Laprade, the character visited the town hall, Tuesday, to promote "Weedless Wednesday" which is today, Wed., Jan. 20. Sir Nick O'Teen represents a cigarette, and advises the mayor that he may be white on the outside but cigarettes "make me black on the inside." Mayor Touchette, a non-smoker, knew what to do with the cigarette. The actor is working for the Eastern Ontario Health Unit to promote national Non-Smoking Week and travelled throughout the area to warn young teenagers how dangerous he is to smokers and non-smokers. Roaming dogs killing livestock in Lochiel

Roaming dogs which are killing, and sometimes eating, livestock are becoming a problem in Lochiel Township, believes a resident of Eigg Road.

Donald Riley, who owns a farm, told The News, Tuesday, that 1 1/2 months ago, roaming dogs killed and partially consumed 14 of his rabbits. He also said that dogs have killed his chickens and geese in past years and he feels it's a serious situation.

But though Lochiel Township Reeve Ron MacDonell said Friday he does not believe roaming dogs are a "major problem," the township has threatened dog owners with $50 fines and liability for damages if a dog is not licensed and is permitted to wander.

Fines are only $50, not $500 as reported by the township in last week's issue of The Glengarry News.

The township has warned, "owners or harborers of dogs are hereby reminded that it is illegal for dogs to be allowed to run at large within the township. Livestock and poultry have been recently killed or injured by dogs running at large and the owners or harborers are liable for the damages incurred."

Last spring, Emile Theoret of Lot 29, Concession 4, lost four pigs to roaming dogs. According to Mr. Theoret's wife, Lucille, one pig had been partially eaten, proving that the dogs were hungry and were not killing for fun. The pigs were valued at about $250 and the Theorets received about $200 in compensation from the township.

Reeve MacDonell believes some of the dogs are "dumped off" in the country. They're hungry, so they look for food, he said. On the other hand, some of the animals belong to Lochiel residents; but if they haven't been licensed, they cannot be identified.

He added, if a dog is chasing livestock, it can be destroyed.

Township clerk-treasurer Ray Charbonneau said taxpayers are the ones who pay for damage caused by the dogs. The township compensates people who have lost livestock and in some cases, an evaluator must be sent out to evaluate the loss.

In 1986, the township paid $850 in compensation and $265 in 1987.

Jailed for impaired driving

An Alexandria man was sentenced to 20 days in jail Thursday for impaired driving and is prohibited from driving a motor vehicle for one year.

Robert MacMillan, 37, of Lot 9 Conc. 7, Kenyon Township, pleaded guilty in Alexandria Provincial Court.

The accused was arrested by Alexandria Police Dec. 22, after the vehicle in which he was driving struck the car travelling ahead of it on Main Street.

When Mr. MacMillan stepped out of his vehicle, police detected the odor of alcohol on his breath. He was then taken to the Maxville OPP detachment for a breathalyser test which revealed readings of 270 mg of alcohol in 100 ml of blood.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $2,500. No one was injured.

Mr. MacMillan will serve his sentence intermittently, which will allow him to continue working.

The accused has no previous record.

Cornwall man to be sentenced

A Cornwall man charged with forgery and theft not exceeding $1,000 will be back in court for sentencing, Thursday.

James Bridgman, 23, pleaded guilty to the charges in Alexandria Provincial Court, last Thursday.

On Aug. 10 and Aug. 12, the accused cashed $650 in forged cheques at the Royal Bank in Alexandria. He made the cheques out to himself in the amount of $250, $250 and $150.

The debited account, in his mother's name, had been closed for five years.

The bank contacted Mr. Bridgman one week later, at which time he admitted he had forged the cheques.

Mr. Bridgman was charged with theft not exceeding $1,000 for failing to return an RCA video cassette player and three tapes to Theoret Video in Alexandria. He was awaiting arraignment on charges of forgery when he rented the equipment using false identification, Sept. 21. The equipment was valued at $710.

He was arrested by Cornwall police, Nov. 3.

Board of education tells health unit to butt out

The SD&G County Board of Education told the Eastern Ontario Health Unit to butt out of its schools, last week.

Board members were angry that health unit Director Dr. Robert Bourdeau had circulated anti-smoking propaganda in schools without the board's permission. County board of education Director Rosaire Leger pointed out it was against the board's policy to allow soliciting of students and the board voted to deny Dr. Bourdeau permission to continue to pass out materials in the schools.

The health unit had asked students to circulate petitions protesting the board's own smoking policy, which states that each school make its own decisions. Smoking has not been banned on county board of education property.

To celebrate the national non-smoking week, the health unit is currently offering prizes, such as ski trips and meals at McDonald's to students collecting the most signatures. Students were also asked to collect as many unsmoked cigarettes as they were able.

Trustee Susan Adams said, "This is not a smoking issue. It is an issue of not allowing outside groups to use our students for any cause — selling chocolate bars or collecting petitions."

And Trustee McLeod said, "Bourdeau is asking our students to take part in a contest directly in opposition to our policy on smoking. We should tell him to look after his own affairs."

But Trustee R. Hastings said he felt that Dr. Bourdeau was just trying to educate the students. His mistake was in not asking the board's permission, he said.

Lochiel officials appeal to Toronto for funding

Township of Lochiel officials are in Toronto, today, (Wed.) to appeal to the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for funding to repair Sandfield Street.

The township will request $70,000 - half of the projected cost - to rebuild the crumbling boundary road which they share with Alexandria; the municipalities have an agreement that funding for all work on that road will be shared equally.

Alexandria has budjeted for the amount and is not making a special trip to Toronto. (The project is scheduled for the spring.)

Township officials will also appeal to the ministry for funds to purchase a new grader; the old one has almost expired, township Reeve Ron MacDonell said, Friday.

Work stoppage lifted, apartments get go-ahead

Construction of a 12-unit apartment building in Maxville, halted two weeks ago by the Ontario Ministry of Municipal Affairs because of a zoning contravention and public health and environmental concerns, was given the go-ahead following the Jan. 12 council meeting.

Municipal Affairs Senior Planner, Tom Smart, asked council for two resolutions which will allow Nepean developer Dale Robinson, to proceed with the construction of the old community hall on Mechanic Street West.

The first resolution ensured council that Mr. Robinson will supply enough potable water for each unit, to the satisfaction of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit and Ontario Ministry of Environment (MOE) officials. Until this is the case, council will not issue an occupancy permit.

Mr. Robinson is aiming toward a May completion date for the 12-unit complex.

The second resolution directs County Planner Brian Weir to begin an immediate amendment and review of the official plan.

Under the existing official plan, the property in question, described as Block A, plan 32, is located in an industrially-zoned area. In the zoning bylaw, however, it is designated residential.

Earlier, council tried to amend the plan to accommodate the multiple-unit dwelling, but Municipal Affairs would "not support putting a residential use in the middle of an industrial area" without fully addressing the issue.

"It's premature and not good planning," Mr. Smart told council, warning of the "potential for a conflict between incompatible uses."

As to the health and environmental concerns, Mr. Robinson said a hydrology study, still under way, has yet to guarantee sufficient water services for the units. The first well drilled only produced about six gallons per minute, falling short of the 12-gallon requirement (one gallon per minute for each unit) for the size of the building.

Mr. Robinson also reminded council that the Ontario Water Resources Act stipulates where there are more than five units in a building, an engineer-proven well system must be in place, before MOE issues the required permit.

"Right now, we're in the process of drilling another well," he said, assuring council that he has committed time and money to the project. He said, however, he can't over-rule engineers; he can't say he's going to get so many gallons of water if they say otherwise.

But Mr. Smart said things could proceed if he provided council with written proof that the hydrology study will continue; and, if that fails, provide a holding tank and have water trucked in.

According to Reeve George Currier, villagers have been provided with this service for the last 30 years.

Mr. Smart told council some of the policies in the official plan, "don't make a lot of sense." For example, section 613 rules if an apartment has more than three dwelling units, it must be on full municipal services.

he said it was "dumb" to have such a policy when the village presently doesn't have full services. However, he added, since the village is moving toward having a communal sewer system and since the official plan is coming up for a five year review, it is one policy council should look at.

Village Clerk Connie Charbonneau said she and Mr. Weir, have noted a number of discrepancies between the zoning bylaw and the official plan.

"Your official plan is not bad; it's not the worst we've seen" said Mr. Smart.

He said a review is probably in order, and there may be funding available to offset the cost of such a project.

Icy roads net four mishaps, woman seriously injured

A Green Valley woman suffered serious injuries, but remains in satisfactory condition in a Cornwall hospital after she was involved in one of four motor vehicle accidents caused by Monday's icy conditions.

Jean D'arc Gareau, 51, was driving west on Cty. Rd. 18, one km east of Hwy. 34 in Lancaster Township, when she lost control of her 1982 Oldsmobile which skidded into the ditch and collided with a culvert.

Mrs. Gareau's vehicle was destroyed and she suffered major injuries.

Tammy Pilon, 19, was driving west at the intersection of Cty. Rd. 18 and Cty. Rd. 19, when she lost control and collided with a tree.

There was light damage to her 1986 Chevrolet and she wasn't injured in the mishap.

Michele Ouimet, 21, of 222 Military Rd. in Lancaster was driving west on Cty. Rd. 18, near Pine Hill, when she lost control of her 1984 Oldsmobile, colliding with a guide wire in the ditch.

Damage to Ms. Ouimet's vehicle was minor and she wasn't injured.

A Montreal man suffered minor injuries during a single vehicle accident early Tuesday morning.

Robert Bainville, 32, was driving east on Hwy. 401 when he lost control and rolled his tractor-trailer in the median.

His 1987 International was severely damaged and he wasn't injured in the mishap.

A Toronto man escaped injury after his vehicle slid into the south ditch on Hwy. 401, Jan. 16.

William Ford, 46, was headed eastbound towards Lancaster, when for no apparent reason his vehicle left the roadway.

The 1987 Volvo was destroyed in the accident.

A two-car collision involving a Cornwall man and an Apple Hill resident occurred in Kenyon Township, Jan. 13. No one was injured.

Michael Miller of Cornwall, was driving east on Cty. Rd. 4, and Theresa McRae was travelling west, when both vehicles entered a curb on the roadway. Ms. McRae applied her brakes and skidded into the eastbound lane, hitting Mr. Miller's vehicle.

Charlottenburgh briefs

A regular meeting of Charlottenburgh Township Council was held at the Township Hall in Williamstown, Tuesday, Jan. 12. The following are items dealt with by council.

Dump hours questioned

Effective Dec. 15, 1987 until April 1, 1988, the North Landfill Site on the seventh concession will operate between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday to Saturday.

Reports of site attendants leaving early before Christmas had been received, but Mr. Currier said that the site's contractor had given the men permission to go home at noon on Christmas eve.

Council felt that the Township Office should have been notified of the early closing.

Still seeking funds

"We need it and we need it bad," said Charlottenburgh's Reeve Morgan Major, referring to funding required by the township to implement its roads program.

Charlottenburgh's roads are currently ranked at the bottom of the list in terms of adequacy percentage throughout the province.

Mr. Currier said that MPP John Cleary has been asked to set up a meeting with Transportation Minister Ed Fulton in Toronto.

"When we go to Toronto, we'll have to be a little more forceful," said Mr. Major.

"When we go to Toronto we'll have to take about 2,000 residents with us," replied Councillor Ross.

Golf course step closer

Council approved re-zoning of property which will accommodate the Sherwood Golf Club, enabling the development of the facility to proceed. It will be located don Hwy. 2 opposite Treehaven. It is re-zoned open space park, from A1 to A2, rural agricultural prime and marginal. There were no objections from Charlottenburgh residents.

Results of Kraft Bridge inspection

Calling it an "issue which the roads dept. has been keeping an eye on," Jay Currier told council that some $200,000 will be required to "bring the Kraft bridge back to good standard."

A visual inspection by McNeely Engineering determined that repairs to the 25-year-old bridge should be done in 1989 or "soon after," following a more thorough $8,500 investigation, to be completed this year.

"We have not budgeted for this, but we don't have a big choice. We are almost forced to take corrective measures," said Mr. Currier.

Committee appointments completed

Council decided to re-appoint Carl Rines, Lloyd Rozon and Gilles Bourgon to the parks and recreation committee. Although it had received applications from three township residents for the three lay positions by the cut-off date of Nov. 30, council deferred a decision until the Jan. 12 meeting to allow one of the incumbents time to submit his application.

Lay members on the committee are paid $40 per meeting.

Don Ross will represent the Martintown Community Centre on the committee.

Unit efforts should be taken seriously

Smoking is a bad habit — dangerous, in fact given the latest mortality statistics reflecting the number of deaths attributable to smoking. It's one reason why it's difficult to comprehend the opposition the SD&G County Board of Education is showing toward total smoking bans on board premises, especially during this National Non-Smoking Week and today, Weedless Wednesday.

Most recently, the board resisted attempts by the Eastern Ontario Health unit to promote an anti-smoking campaign in the high schools. It involved a contest inviting students to gather up all the unused cigarettes they could and to circulate petitions which would urge the board to change its smoking policy. That policy states that each school is responsible for its own smoking policy; smoking has not been banned, however, on board of education property.

The initiatives angered board trustees, who felt the region's Medical Officer of Health Dr. Robert Bourdeau, was setting a precedent for other outside groups to prompt students to circulate petitions on their behalf. Still others said Dr. Bourdeau should ''look after his own affairs'' and refrain from interfering with the board's business.

Trustees were justified in expressing their concern that the unit was circumventing school board policy. That policy does not allow outside groups to use students for any cause — as one trustee noted, from selling chocolate bars or collecting petitions. Apart from this, the unit did not seek the board's permission to carry out the campaign in the schools.

There's no denying that the health unit could have been more circumspect. But the board's undue concerns over what really is an innocent promotional campaign distracts the public from the real issue — and that is, the board's unwillingness to show leadership in discouraging smoking on school property.

One would think that trustees whose duty it is to oversee the health education of SD&G students would welcome any efforts made by the medical officer of health, who only seeks to perform his own function as protectorate of the public's well being. He and the unit have an obligation to make people aware of the hazards around them and one of those include smoking.

The tactics and methods in this case might be open to argument, but given the groundswell of opposition to smoking in public places, the unit is showing it is prepared to be aggressive and innovative in its attack on cigarettes — and teenage smoking.

And an attack is needed. The unit is looking for money from the provincial health ministry to help sponsor a program of smoking innoculation for teenage girls in high schools in the five-county region. The greatest need for this type of program is among the female adolescent population. In fact, John Darbyshire, health promotion consultant for the health unit has said smoking among teenage girls is at ''epidemic proportions.''

With these plans in the works and considering the seriousness of the situation known, it will be essential for the board and the unit to work together.

The hazards of smoking have been well documented, and often. Its effect on adults is well known, but without a determined effort to educate young people through expert help and example, the school board risks nurturing a new generation of smokers.

Special dangers lurk for snowmobilers

It's the time of year when police warn snowmobile operators about the dangers prevalent in the countryside, on railway tracks and in towns. They are warnings which should be taken seriously.

Most people understand the danger involved in riding across an unfamiliar field where fences could be hidden. Or travelling on a railway right-of-way. And in the past few years serious accidents have become infrequent. But this is all the more reason for operators to feel concern now.

A driver using the railway right of way can easily collide with a train he neither sees or hears. Drivers are usually all bundled up, with limited vision and hearing. His own snow machine noise would probably impair his hearing enough that he would never hear a train.

Other dangers are caused when machines cut cables that knock out communications, track switches, hotboxes and dragging equipment indicators.

These are only a few of the dangers that exist for snowmobile operators. With more concern about trespassing by both the railway companies and private property owners, it is beginning to appear as if snowmobilers can only be truly secure on the trails of organized snowmachine clubs.

Is anyone interested in news through the day and night?

RAMBLING REPORTER

Eugene Macdonald

Will the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation be permitted to set up a 24-hour news channel or will the federal cabinet make broadcasting history by setting aside a decision of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission?

January 29 is the statutory deadline for the government to respond to that decision by the CRTC to award the news channel to the CBC. Cabinet has never before set aside a ruling on licensing by its broadcast regulators. But probably never before has a CRTC ruling stirred up the hornets' nest now faced by the cabinet.

In licensing the new CBC channel, the CRTC has turned down an all-news service application by Edmonton-based Allarcom and many Alberta Conservative MPs are vocal in their support for the Edmonton application. So, probably, are many other members of the Conservative caucus and cabinet who dislike the CBC approach to current events.

The Mulroney cabinet may decide to set aside the CRTC decision, but in doing so it will be dealing with the wrong question. Cabinet should be considering whether or not Canada needs an all-news TV service. And its decision should be negative.

Surely Canadians are getting all the news they can comfortably digest as television turns it on four times a day; with the start of daily programming, at noon, at night and again with The National. If that's not enough they can have radio news each hour on the hour and the printed word in various newspapers.

The news comes in a flood at all hours of the day but you have heard it all before on the earliest news reports. All others, whether televised or on radio, are word for word repetitions of the same news reports you heard an hour earlier.

What is a 24-hour cable TV news network going to provide but the same servings of news repeated 24 times rather than the present four times each day? These will be fleshed out with repeats of the weather forecasts, stock market quotations and anything else that can be classed as information. The day-long servings of news will hardly be interesting enough to keep one up through the early hours of morning.

We haven't been told yet whether we will be paying a few more cents on our cable bill for this day-long service, just as we are intended to finance The Sports Network and all those other cultural networks that were expected to finance themselves on pay-TV. Television viewers showed no interest in signing on for the pay-TV networks so the new approach will see us financing them, willy-nilly, by monthly additions to our bill for cable. Even if we could get along quite well without them.

Cable TV could get so expensive, a lot of viewers will disconnect. Then who will finance all these fine new channels?

May the Islanders never forget their own dream

AFTER THOUGHTS

Joe Banks

Prince Edward Islanders can chalk up one for progress now that they've voted to hook up to the mainland after the results of last week's plebiscite. A fancier of the rural life, however, may well ask whether the Islanders really know what they're getting into and what it means for the way of life for the smallest province's residents.

By a relatively slim margin, the Islanders voted in favor of a fixed link between New Brunswick and their own province. If the massive undertaking is ever completed, tourists and locals alike will never have to ride the island ferry again. A 100-year-old time-tested mode of transportation will have passed into memory.

The plebiscite divided Islanders in a way they've never been before, and the fight isn't over yet. Opponents of the link vow to carry on their struggle right up to and during the construction stages.

They insist a way of life is on the line.

As a two-time visitor to PEI, I sympathize with those who hope to protect what exists on the island, and all that the ferry has represented over the years. Islanders could be proud of their geographic independence from the rest of Canada but they had all the economic benefits of a province tied into Confederation. They seem freer, in many ways, of the influences, real or perceived, that affect those of us on the mainland.

A fixed link will change all that. That judgment does not come from idle speculation, but from experiences of a thousand communities across Canada which had to go through transitions in their transportation systems — and their way of life.

One need look no further than Alexandria, for example, to see how the decline of rail travel and the surge in public road-building affected community life here.

Since people are more mobile, they have the ability to travel distances to shop and do commerce over distances that our forefathers considered long and sometimes insurmountable. The train connected Alexandria with other communities but the town was much more reliant on itself and less dependent on the outside to service its needs. It wasn't long before people became a lot less dependant on each other and the seductive lure of the cities attracted young people.

Even the town's streets were built for another era, when horses and buggies were all that town planners had to accommodate. Today, motorists must carefully wind their way down what has to be one of Ontario's narrowest main streets. It's nobody's fault, but it's a very viable example, here, of how the changes in transportation systems affect us even today.

The people of PEI are hardly moving out of a horse and buggy transportation system, but the changes they face will nonetheless be considerable. Experts have pointed out it will open up the island to increased commerce and tourism, a prospect the merchants and hotel operators relish, but one with which residents are uneasy.

They, after all, already accept the tourists with a smiling tolerance, knowing they and their money only show up three months out of 12. The idea of opening up their precious gem on the edge of the Atlantic to more tourists, not to mention real estate speculators who know a fixed link will drive up land values practically overnight, might be more than they can accept.

The native Glengarrian can relate. I am not one, but I have lived and worked in enough small towns and communities to understand their quiet fear of uncontrollable change. Worse, they have a fear of change driven by the wishes of those with outside financial interests, progress for the good of a few already-wealthy industrialists or land barons.

It does no good to label these fears as irrational or unfounded, because they are not. Progress has its price, whether one more historic building is demolished or whether it's clear cutting and subdivision of a stand of magnificent pine trees.

Slowly, we're losing our ability to discern what elements of the past we should be preserving. A few dedicated individuals make noises of protest here and there, but by and large, the temptation of a more prosperous future leads people to believe it's all or nothing, that a happy compromise between what was and what can be is an impossible dream.

May the Islanders never have reason to regret their own dream.

Roads cared for

THAT'S LIFE

Lesley Cadham

The big question lurking in the minds of The News staff, roads department workers and most likely every person who lives in or around Dalkeith is, ''Who is Billy Gibb?''

Dalkeith isn't exactly a bustling metropolis in which people can live undetected for years; most residents know each other. But during the past week or so, several people from that vicinity have stopped in to let us know that they have never heard of Mr. Gibb.

Even staff at the Lochiel Township office have never heard of him and Township Clerk-Treasurer Ray Charbonneau says the man isn't listed in the tax rolls. They have been endeavoring to find Mr. Gibb.

We published a letter in the Jan. 6, 1988 issue of our newspaper in which the fellow complained about ''the people who are paid to see that roads are passable, especially when they are a sheet of ice.''

''We should all get together and see that they sand the roads. They don't give us much for our taxes, so the least they can do is sand the roads,'' he wrote, further suggesting ''they'' should be ousted.

To begin with, no one is quite sure which roads department he was speaking of, or who should be ousted.

Secondly, Mr. Gibb has forced The News to change its policy regarding letters to the editor. You may have noticed we now request that a telephone number accompany your letters so that if the need arises, we can confirm your identity. Either Mr. Gibb did not use his (or her) real name or he does not live in Dalkeith.

At any rate, the folks who tipped us off about this man also took a moment to mention the roads in their area are well-taken care of; plowed, salted and sanded, when needed.

Nice to hear someone say something flattering for a change.

I have to concur — not speaking specifically of Lochiel Township, but rather the entire county — that during the winter, the roads are not neglected.

For three years, I lived in a very highly-taxed area of Montreal. Rents weren't high; they were outrageous. But when it snowed, our area seemed to be the last on the city's snowplow list.

And after they'd plow, they'd leave six-foot piles of snow which were seldom picked up until three or four days later. Parking space during these times was non-existent. Roads were treacherous and driving became a game of chance.

After living through that, I have absolutely no complaints about the way the local roads departments care for the roads in the winter. Those fellows are out there, working at a moment's notice and possibly through the night while the rest of us are snuggled in our beds, to make sure that when we leave for work, the roads are clear and as safe as possible.

So Mr. Gibb, if you'd like to write another letter specifying which department is the target of your gripe, and if you'd care to include your phone number so we can verify your authenticity, we'd be pleased to publish it.

Hear the battle cry

WORD SKETCH

Sybil Carello

Kenyon's First concession, with its long history of disrepair, is not a priority in Charlottenburgh's books.

Reasons have run abound. But cost — almost a million dollars — and other priorities seem to consistently top up the list. Mostly, it's the cost. Road reconstruction is a voracious animal, eating into the meatiest portion of most rural municipal budgets. And residents complaining about the state of their road is not something new.

It's been a common battle cry around these Glengarry parts.

Kenyon Township has finally made the boundary road issue a tax-dollar priority, if $50,000 against a backdrop of $1 million can be considered a priority. In all fairness however, it is a start. And if the Ministry of Transportation and Communication matches the amount, a dent, however small, will have been made.

Charlottenburgh has allocated the same amount to the project, but unless MTC approves an equal subsidized amount, it will remain, for the time being, just a figure on a piece of paper.

Five years ago, Kenyon upgraded their section of the road; Lot 24 to the Indian Lands. It is Charlottenburgh's portion, from Hwy. 34 to Lot 24 which needs an immediate overhaul.

The road, particularly Charlottenburgh's section, known as the Glengarry Roller Coaster, is dangerous. There is no getting around that. In some areas, it is more dangerous than others. According to the law of averages, these danger zones left unattended, will only become more treacherous. Washboard-type road surfaces for instance, do not miraculously improve with age.

In good faith, and for many years, residents have turned to their respective, elected councils — the keepers of the boundary road. So far, all they have received for their concerted efforts is a rough ride. Their pleas and entreaties and their solid residential stand at last year's meeting on the issue, has only succeeded in getting the ball rolling slightly on one side of the fence.

And, perhaps that is the main issue after all. Most of the residents live on the north side in Kenyon Township. Their tax dollars go to that municipality, even though Charlottenburgh is responsible for the portion of road they travel.

At last year's ratepayer meeting, some residents caught in the heat of argument even suggested paying taxes to Charlottenburgh. Anything, so long as their road is repaired.

What has to happen before serious steps are taken to solve this perennial problem? Let's all hope it won't be a serious accident.

Teach children to identify abuse

To the editor:

I commend the "concerned parent" who wrote of the cruelty of some children toward others at school. It's very easy to dismiss this problem if one's own children are not affected, or by suggesting that the victims "ask for it," or by thinking that because the problem is as old as schools themselves, that it is somehow a "natural" part of growing up.

The truth is that if left unchecked, it can be extremely damaging both to the tormentors and the victims. It is time that it is exposed as the ugly thing it is, just as parental child abuse has finally been "recognized" and dragged from the closet.

We may never know why some children are particularly sensitive to taunts and why even professionals are unable to help the cruelest of of children. However, the reaction of all the other children to these incidents may be the key to a solution. I realize that at most schools it would not be good for a student's image to play the hero and that it's "cool to be cruel" is more the norm than "cool to be kind." However, I believe that with lots of discussion and lots of hard work, attitudes and behavior can be changed.

If a concerted effort were made to teach these pupils how to identify an abusive situation — even the most subtle — to have empathy and compassion for those involved, and to have the courage and skills to intervene, these occurrences might be reduced in number and severity. The school boards could stress these learned responses in their courses on values and peer pressure. If they were directed at school leaders, it might prove to be particularly effective, as I've noticed that if the in-crowd tends to be especially mean at school, or in the classroom, the problem is aggravated, and if they happen to be more sympathetic the problem is less severe.

Of course, the real solution lies with the parents. There are many kind and decent people whose children are not emulating them simply because they never see them. The values are not being passed along, by precept or example. When we bury forever the silly myth that it's not the quantity of time spent with our children that counts, but the quality, and when we realize that what all children need most is a great deal of quality time with their parents, we'll all be helping to eradicate cruelty in the classroom.

Efficient road crews in Lochiel

To the editor:

Many of the residents of Lochiel Township were astounded to read the letter from a person by the name of Billy Gibb, in the January 6th issue of The Glengarry News. Since we cannot find his name in the telephone directory or in the post office, we take this opportunity of replying through this medium.

Actually, most of the taxpayers of Lochiel are quite satisfied with the work of the roads crew, which at most times is much superior to that of the county. In our particular area, when there is a snow storm, the plows are on the road very early in the morning, and with this winter's frequently icy conditions, the hills and corners have all been sanded or scabbled by the grader. In fact, stone dust is used, which is quite superior to sand and sometimes the entire road is made safe for driving by its use.

Since The News has such a wide circulation, it seemed a shame to us that your many readers would have such a terrible impression of our road crew, who are really quite efficient. We would like to assure other people that it is quite safe to drive on the roads of Lochiel without endangering their lives.

I have spoken to a number of people about the letter and that is the reason for this reply.

GTL trucks a familiar sight

To the editor:

I am wondering if the residents of Alexandria are aware of the ubuquitousness of the letters "GTL."

In downtown Montreal, hardly a day goes by when a GTL truck is not part of the traffic picture and in nearby Laval it is also a familiar sight on the streets.

It is impossible to go more than a few kilometres on the Trans-Canada Highway or Hwy. 401 without spotting a GTL truck.

On two recent occasions, as a television reporter was carrying out his assignment on a Montreal street, a GTL truck appeared in the background, travelling just slowly enough to steal the show.

Perhaps the words "Alexandria, Ont." should be just as conspicuously displayed on the side of the vehicles so that the town might be given the same prominence as the transport company obviously enjoys.

Miriam Camilla,
Laval, Que.

Post office delivers

To the editor:

In response to Bill MacLeod's disclosure of a letter taking six months to travel from St. Eugene, Ont. to the addressee, I feel compelled to agree with him.

This is definitely most unusual and I would not presume to explain the delay.

I would, however, emphasize the fact that mail coming into Dalkeith's post office is delivered as promptly and efficiently as possible.

Maureen Tessier,
postmistress,
Dalkeith, Ont.

Good Samaritan thanked

The editor
The Glengarry News:

I would like to thank the Good Samaritan who, at great risk to his own safety, stopped on Hwy. 34 near the trailer park at approximately 11 a.m. on Wed., Jan. 13. He helped me after my Chevette had skidded around and to the side of the slippery road due to the snowstorm and lack of visibility in the sudden white-outs.

I thank you for your patience and kindness while placing yourself alongside my car where at any moment the cars and trucks, with and without lights, could have blindly struck and killed us.

May you be blessed with good health, prosperity and happiness your entire lifetime for this good deed.

From the lady in distress.

Sincerely
Sandra Ruttenberg

Third day of the month thought to reflect month's weather

MAXVILLE
Gordon Winter
527-2888

The technicalities which were holding up the remodelling of the old community hall, which is to become a 12-unit apartment building, have now been overcome and it is still planned that the apartments will be ready for rental in May.

Faye and Bill Wright have had their family home. Son Michael, his wife Charilyn and daughter Jennalyn from Toronto, were here for a weekend and son Bill, his wife Cindy, Billy and Carey were here all last week.

We have been reading in other newspapers, articles concerning the airplane crash during the last Great War in which Flight Sgt. Jack McWilliams of Cornwall was killed. Another fatality in that crash on May 29, 1941 was that of Flying Officer David H. Sargent of Montreal.

F/O Sargent was the cousin of Isabel Frith Templeton, a native of Maxville. His mother was the daughter of David Munro of Dyer and she was a sister of Mrs. Frith.

January weather

There are old-time weather forecasters who believe that the third of the month determines the weather for the whole month. Jan. 3 was a lovely day. How does the month of January qualify?

And how about our January thaw? Were those mild days all we are going to get or can we expect a more extended period of mild weather before the end of the month?

Our fitness expert, Susan Cloutier, phoned to ask for this reminder for the two courses she gives in the village. Yesterday, Fun and Fitness, sponsored by the Red Cross, recommenced in the United Church Hall at 1:30 p.m. The aerobics programs on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. are under way at the Sports Complex.

Last Friday during the snowfall, a male purple finch appeared at our feeding station. It is a brownish, striped bird, about the size of a goldfinch, with a raspberry colored breast.

These finches should become more numerous now as the winter advances. The red polls should be the next ones to make an appearance.

Students from Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School were to have been at Maxville Senior School, Monday (Jan. 18) for a drama presentation. Students from the junior school will also be in attendance.

Today (Wed.) a program called "Lungs are for Life," sponsored by the Canadian Cancer Society, is being presented to all the students at the junior school.

The Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum will again be presenting "A Feather in Your Cap" to grades 3-6 at the junior school next Tuesday (Jan. 26).

Maxville Public School is getting ready for next year by conducting a kindergarten survey. Students who were born in 1983 or 1984 are the ones who should be registered. New parents to the community should contact the school at 527-2195 and ask for the particulars.

Farmers' Night

One of the most popular events of the Maxville and District Lions Club calendar is Farmers' Night, to be held Feb. 2. The special guest speaker will be Andy Brandt, interim leader of the provincial Progressive Conservative party. This promises to be a very informative evening and everyone is welcome.

So come out and enjoy an excellent dinner at 7:30 p.m., a popular speaker and an enjoyable evening.

Tickets are available at the Home Hardware store or at the John Deere agency. While you are at the hardware store, you are invited to sign up for the balance of the 50/50 draw.

The last three winners of the 50/50 draw were Pierre Guindon of Cornwall, Donald Clark of Dunvegan and Janice Andre of Maxville. Prizes have been about $100 each week.

Auld Lang Syne

For the last few weeks, there has not been space to do this update. I would be interested in receiving requests to write on any item that has been missed.

For the last two weeks, mention has been made of the topic of separation 80 years ago, of the three United Counties, was attempted three times.

In 1811, petitions were presented to the Legislative Assembly to separate Dundas County from SD&G and join it to Grenville County. This issue was short-lived.

In 1892, another attempt was made, this time to separate Glengarry from SD&G. Agitation centred in rapidly-growing Alexandria.

Opposition was led by Warden Alexander A. Stewart, reeve of Kenyon, Dr. Andrew Harkness of Lancaster and D. C. McRae of Bridge End. These men held rallies throughout the county and the separation movement was soon dropped.

Again in 1907, Alexandria pressed for separation. A vote was taken at the municipal elections on the first Monday in January, 1908. The contest was a bitter and hard-fought one. Separation was defeated by 280 votes. Alexandria voted in favor 458 to 2; Kenyon voted favorably, 478 to 414 and 181 were against and 13 for the separation in Maxville.

Thus was settled for all time, probably, the question of the separation of these three counties.

Fifty years ago, Eb MacNaughton Jr. was appointed teacher of the St. Elmo East school. Mr. MacNaughton's home farm south of Maxville is now owned by Hector Runions. For many years, he has been in the insurance business in Ottawa, where most of his five brothers also live.

50th anniversary

Edgar and Marie Tourangeau (Major) celebrated their 50th anniversary on October 23. Married in St. Finnan's Cathedral by the late Bishop Felix Couturier. They have five children: Colombe, Philip, Pauline, Robert and Carol. The couple also has eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

CNIB Advisory board elects new executive

There are 61 visually impaired people in Glengarry of which 45 have been registered as blind.

Local girl gets honorable mention in play competition

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-2279

A Williamstown girl received laurels in a competition for young Canadian playwrights recently. Cathy Gordon, daughter of Grace and Ralph Gordon, was one of three entrants out of 184 competitors, to receive an honorable mention for her play.

The competition, in co-operation with Montreal's Centaur Theatre was offered to students under 18.

Cathy is a Grade 12 student at Char-Lan.

Skating is out at the Raisin River rink these days, but within the confines of the Charlottenburgh arena, there is plenty of action. I'm sorry I missed all the excitement Saturday night during the Rebels game. Apparently the teams had an early breather, when, after about four minutes of play, a section of the boards broke. Talk about our hard-hitting Rebels!

If you would like to take in some good, fast, board-breaking hockey and have dinner out at the same time, plan to attend the Rebels game this Saturday night. It's hot dog night and all paid admission will receive a free hot dog and a small Coke. Game time is 7:45 p.m. against the Morrisburg Lions.

If football is your game, you may be interested in the following. The Rebels are having a Super Bowl Party on Jan. 31 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre. Time of the event is from 3:30-10 p.m. and it will feature a spaghetti supper and big-screen viewing of the game. There will also be cards and games to fill in the time before things get under way. To get your tickets, which are only $5 each, contact Rebels management.

I think I said it last year, but you probably wouldn't remember anyway. January is the month of pot luck suppers. Coming up tonight (Wed.) is the annual UCW meeting, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in Irvine Hall.

On Monday evening (Jan. 25) at 6 p.m., at St. Mary's Hall, the Green Thumbs Horticultural Society will hold its annual pot luck supper. 1988 memberships will be available at this meeting, as will the new yearbooks.

I can't help wondering about horticulturalists. Do you suppose "pot luck" to them means bringing along pots of still-growing edibles they have had good luck with?

Kidding aside, I am told this usually turns out to be a lovely spread. You are welcome to attend and join the Green Thumbs, one of our most active and interesting clubs.

Of course, when it comes to active, not much can beat our seniors. The Friendly Neighbors held their January birthday party on Thursday at St. Mary's Centre. There were four birthday girls, Kay McDonald, Eleanor Gibson, Alice Portant and Annette Chretien, and Edith Abrams made a lovely birthday cake for the occasion.

Florida Legroulx, Daphne MacDonald, Emery Brodeur and Austin Abrams were card winners. Edith Abrams won for under the cups, while lone hands went to Edmour Seguin and Vi Lauzon.

Ileen Latreille and Gilberte Marsh snapped up the door prizes, while the 50/50 winners were Kay McDonald, Ileen Latreille, Edmour Seguin, Germaine White and Vi Lauzon.

The Friendly Neighbors will hold an open euchre on Jan. 28 at 8 p.m. at St. Mary's Centre. Everyone is welcome to attend.

The community was saddened at the passing of Charlie Pilon, which occurred last Tuesday (Jan. 12). Charlie had been battling back after several bouts of illness during the past year, but had re-entered hospital about a week before his death.

Our sympathy is extended to his wife, Mary Rose and his many children and grandchildren.

Out of respect to Mr. Pilon who was one of its founding members, the Glengarry Community Club's weekly card meeting was cancelled on Jan. 13.

The club's monthly euchre was held on Jan. 11 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre. Prize winners for the ladies were Mary Rose Pilon, Joyce Lalonde and Mrs. Myrtle MacMillan. For the gentlemen, Mr. Brazeau, Henry Struthers and Bill McMath were the luckies.

Alex Lalonde won the door prize, while the 50/50 went to Violet Lauzon, Alda Major, Mrs. Giroux, Beatrice MacDonald and Dorothy Roy.

Club member George Heath is a patient in the hospital. Our thoughts are with him at this time.

Weekend guests with Garnet and Edna MacDougall were their daughter, Karen MacDougall and her husband, Don Theil of Calgary.

Karen is employed by the Dept. of Health and Welfare, in the New Horizons program for senior citizens. She is also an official volunteer with the upcoming winter Olympics in Calgary.

Pat Ager, past-president of the Ladies Division of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society, is seeking your help. Pat is looking for anyone who is interested in sponsoring a class (or two or three) at the Williamstown Fair this summer. If you would like to donate a prize for, say, the best loaf of bread, the best quilt, the best needlework picture, give Pat a call. Perhaps you would like to sponsor a new class in memory of someone who was formerly active in the fair. Your generosity would be greatly appreciated.

Don't believe everything you hear

I goofed again! Well sort of. Last week I mistakenly reported that Ann and John McKim were the proud new parents of a baby boy. Wrong again stork-breath. A reader gave me the information which had been on a local radio station stating the McKims had a boy. I was unable to contact the McKims to confirm this; I took for granted that everything was so when I should have remembered the old saying, don't believe everything you hear! My apologies and sincere congratulations to the McKims on the birth of their daughter Sarah.

So near yet so far

Last week I mentioned that this past weekend being the last chance to donate to the Robbie Pratt Fund. Our target was $1,500 but as of Monday morning we had only raised $1,270 which is only a mere $230 short of our goal. We have therefore decided to leave it open until Feb. 1 to try and realize our goal. I know we can do it.

Martintown lost a good friend

Martintown as well as all Glengarry lost a kind friend with the passing away of Paul Lefebvre (Chez Paul). A nicer man you wouldn't meet anywhere; Paul had one of the best-run establishments in the province of Quebec. Our sincere condolences to the family; he will be missed.

Robbie Burns Night

The MacCulloch Dancers are hosting Burns Night on Sat., Jan. 30 at the Maxville Sports Complex. Dinner and dance tickets are $17.50 per person and The Brigadoons, Milton MacDonald, The Glengarry Pipe Band and the MacCulloch Dancers will be featured. The guest speaker will be Rev. Colin MacDonald. In Martintown, tickets can be obtained from Art Buckland at 528-4261 or from Rae MacCulloch at 528-4307.

* * *

While speaking of the MacCullochs, Lindsay, son of Rae and Alex spent the holidays with family and friends. Lindsay is presently living in Nassau, California where he is employed with a firm from Montreal.

Be true to your school

1988 marks the 35th anniversary of the three-room school here in Martintown. No longer are eight grades crammed into one classroom, no more tripping through the snow to that little shack out back. To commemorate this day, Martintown Public School will hold a reunion, May 21. Anyone who attended the school is invited to attend. Hopefully we all can spread the news through word of mouth and this column will have more details as time rolls on. I should mention that regardless of whether you attended the one-room school house or the present one, your participation is requested. I'm eagerly awaiting this reunion and will be bringing you all the details as they become finalized.

Calling all bridge players

Every Monday afternoon at 1 p.m. in the seniors room at the community centre, a bridge party takes place. Everyone is invited to attend.

The next regular bi-monthly bingo at the community centre will take place on Mon., Feb. 1. The bingos are held the first and third Mondays of the month. For information or hall rental call 528-4801 or 931-2069.

Accountant

Mary Weese (nee MacLennan received her Certified Management Accountant's designation at the annual convocation of the Society of Management Accountants in Toronto, Nov. 21. Mary, the daughter of Ken and Jean MacLennan of Dalkeith, is a graduate of Loyalist CAAT in Belleville and of Glengarry District High School.

Date set for Snowarama

A few more inches of snow is needed in Glengarry County to hold the annual Timmy's Snowarama, Sunday.

The Alexandria Lions Club, which is organizing the event, is hoping snowmobilers will participate in the 68-mile trek to help raise money for the Easter Seals Society.

If there is not enough snow, the event will be postponed until Jan. 30.

Last year Glengarry raised $3,000 for Easter Seals; 24 riders participated.

Registration will take place beginning at 9 a.m., Sunday, at Cathy's Bar-B-Q in Alexandria. The trek will begin shortly afterward and will continue on to Maxville, through Martintown, on to Summerstown Station and finish at Robin's Place in North Lancaster.

Walkers are also urged to participate. In addition the Lions Club is calling on all riders of three and four wheelers to join in the snowarama.

A meal will be provided for all participants in North Lancaster.

Pledge sheets are available from Lions Club members, at Shepherd's Motors and R & R Sports and Sales.

GLEN SANDFIELD
Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Mary Miller, Della MacDonald, Nan Campbell and Lorna Chapman accompanied Wanda Hay to the Villa Mont-Joie, in Lachute for the "Afternoon Coffee," with the Lachute Christian Women's Club as hostesses, Jan. 11. The activities included a fashion show featuring winter coats and ski wear by designer Monette Rhême of Lachute. Several outfits suitable for boat cruises were also shown; her sportswear is mostly in whites and lovely pastel colors, and all are made to measure.

The guest speaker was the director of Women's Ministeries in Montreal, Cheryl Smith. She talked about designer originals referring to each person as an individual; God's one-of-a-kind, unlike any other person on earth.

Each humble piece of clay (us) is molded by God, the Master Potter, into a special design, unique to us. Holly Roebuck from Vankleek Hill was guest soloist. She sang Psalm 84, and We Shall Behold Him and her lovely clear soprano voice was a delight. We were pleasantly surprised to learn she is the niece of Betty Brown, who was our neighbor for many years. The next monthly meeting will be held Feb. 1. All are invited and are sure to receive a warm welcome. Just in passing, there were 104 ladies present. Contact me or Mrs. Sidney Hay for more information.

A recent visitor with Joe and Henrietta O'Neill and children was Joe's mother, Mrs. Alma O'Neill from St. Elgin. They enjoyed several pleasant days together.

Glen Sandfield church held its annual meeting Jan. 17, after morning worship, with Rev. Colin MacDonald as chairman and Arnold MacRae as secretary. There were 18 present. Several items of business were discussed, one being the nomination of Kevin MacLachlan to the session. A tentatively busy summer is planned, with the church roof and windows needing painting, the heating system requiring updating and the pews needing a coat of varnish. If you are interested in helping, call any member of the board. Many thanks to Margo MacRae and Janet MacMillan for refreshments.

It is difficult to get a column out if no one shares their news with me. Weekend sweep vaults Rebels into top spot

The Char-Lan Rebels vaulted into first place in the St. Lawrence divisional race, after three consecutive wins over the weekend.

The Rebels are now four points ahead of the Alexandria Glens.

The Rebels defeated the Prescott Falcons, 5-3 Friday, then topped the Metcalfe Jets 12-5, Saturday and hung a 5-1 decision on the Kemptville 73's, Sunday.

Rebels' Manager John Chafee said his team played an excellent three games.

"I am very pleased with the outcome. We gave up only nine goals in the three games and that's pretty good for Junior B hockey," said Chafee.

Derick Beryd scored the game opener during the first stanza, Sunday night, giving Kemptville a 1-0 lead.

The Rebels fired three consecutive goals in the second period and two in the third, ending the game with a 5-1 advantage.

Kevin Poapst scored a pair for the Rebels, while Darryl Menard, Roddy MacKenzie and Kevin Renwick tallied singles.

The Rebels topped the Metcalfe Jets 12-5, at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, Saturday.

Chris Villeneuve and Kevin Poapst fired a hat trick each, clinching the victory for the Rebels. Mike Jodoin and Kevin Chafee added a pair each, while Roddy MacKenzie and Larry Frappier tallied singles.

The Jets kept pace with the Rebels in the first stanza which ended in a 3-3 draw. The Rebels broke away in the second period, scoring five goals.

Single goals for the Metcalfe team came from Rod Laurin, Brian Cornish, Sam Zattolo, Mike Thebarge and Don Gamble.

"It was a total team effort. The recent changes have proved to be more effective," said Chafee.

During the past few weeks, the forward lines were changed and the club's penalties have been kept to a minimum.

The Rebels defeated Prescott, the top team in the Rideau Division, Friday night.

Mike Jodoin led the Rebels with three goals, while Kevin Poapst and Chris Villeneuve tallied singles and picked up three assists each.

The first and second stanza ended in a 2-1 advantage for the Rebels. The team scored three goals in the third period to clinch the victory.

Jeff Boyce fired a pair for the Prescott team, while Mike Jarswood added a single.

Mr. Chafee said he is confident his team will continue to maintain first place to set the pace in the league standings.

"The team is on a winning streak," he said.

Rebels notes

The players chosen to play in the all-star game in Prescott are goaler Kevin Buchan, defencemen Herbie Seguin and Larry Frappier and forwards Kevin Poapst, Mike Jodoin and Roddy MacKenzie.

The game is scheduled to take place in Prescott on Feb. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

The St. Hubert offence player of Saturday's game was Kevin Poapst, while the defence player was Larry Frappier.

Girls enjoying hockey

by Janet Clermont, Staff Writer

Hockey is no longer just a man's sport — at least not in Alexandria.

A girls hockey team was formed in Alexandria for the first time, a few weeks ago. While most youngsters are busy with piano lessons or figure skating, the 11 members of the Alexandria Minor Hockey Girls practise slapshots and engage in body-checks.

Coach Margie Laferriere began organizing the team in mid-December after she discovered the Cornwall Women's Hockey Association had a team for girls ages 10 and under.

"I don't want anyone to think I'm separating the girls from the boys permanently. I feel strongly that the girls should continue in the boys league," she said.

Mrs. Laferriere said that more girls are playing hockey this year than in previous years. In 1985, two girls joined hockey teams and in the following year, three girls participated in the sport. During 1987, the number of girls involved increased to 11 in Alexandria.

"A lot of the girls wished to play in the past but lacked the incentive," said Mrs. Laferriere.

She boasts that girls can play hockey as well as the boys, if not better.

"I find that the girls learn faster. I think a lot of the difference is that the male domination yields some of the boys to concentrate on controlled hockey."

Gilles Joanette, instructor at the annual Glengarry Hockey School, agreed the girls can play as well as the boys with the proper amount of training.

"Sometimes the instructors and the counsellors don't even realize which are the girls."

Mr. Joanette said the only problem with girls playing against the boys is they may not always respect each other.

"They are going to laugh if a girl hits a boy and he falls down and vice-versa."

Mr. Joanette said so far, there have been no problems with them getting along. He said the girls are out to have fun just like the boys and if they can play as well, why stop them?

However, Mrs. Laferriere feels there is still discrimination against the girls.

"The old saying, to beat around the bush is; 'she can't play she'll get hurt'. I feel that with this in mind, the game would not be fun. The girls take care of themselves and know the consequences in playing a contact sport."

Girls hockey team member Sara Cooper, 10, said she prefers playing hockey with the girls.

"The girls pass to me more often. The boys will pass to someone else instead of me," she said.

However, team member Tara Barton, 10, said she prefers to play with boys "who can skate."

Tara has been playing hockey for about three years. In the past she has travelled down to the rink at Laggan Public School just to skate with the boys.

Glens in second place

by Janet Clermont, Staff Writer

The Alexandria Junior B Glens split a pair of games on the weekend, losing 7-5 to Winchester Sunday, and defeating the Kemptville 73's 5-4 Friday night.

The Glens now find themselves in second place in the St. Lawrence Divisional race, four points behind the Char-Lan Rebels.

However, Coach Peter DeRooy remains confident that his squad will once again take top spot.

"We are going to have to rely on help from other teams though. We can't go on winning one and losing one. What the team needs now is a string of wins," he said.

The Glens kept pace with the Winchester Hawks in the first period, which ended in a 1-1 draw in Sunday's game. The Hawks broke away in the second stanza, scoring four goals to end the period to grab a 5-3 advantage.

Single goals for the Hawks came off the sticks of Don Laroche, Brad Holmes, Scott Barnes, Chris Wiley, Sean Beckstead, Kirk Barkley and Jeff Holmes.

Glen Campbell led the Glens with three goals. Eric Danis and Ron Collier tallied singles, while John Dullaghan chipped in with four assists.

"It could have gone either way but the other team just played better. That's just the way it goes in Junior B hockey," said DeRooy.

He said his team's defence played well during Sunday's game but came up a little short.

John Dullaghan fired a hat trick, leading the Glens to a 5-4 squeaker over the Kemptville 73's, at the Kemptville Community Centre, Sunday night.

The Glens were down 4-1 during the second period but the team came alive with four straight goals for the win.

Mike Sauvé and Glen Campbell tallied singles for the Glens.

Ken Martura added a pair for Kemptville, while Rob Percival and Derick Rantoul chipped in with one goal each.

DeRooy said he is hoping more fans will come out to watch the Glens play.

"The boys enjoy playing in front of a full rink," he added.

Glens notes

Players chosen for a league all-star game are defenceman Luc Decoeur, goaler Daniel Brunet, left-wing Mike Sauvé and centre Leonard Seguin. DeRooy and Char-Lan's Dave Hansen will coach the team.

The game will be held in Prescott, Feb. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

The Glens host the Morrisburg Lions Friday at 8:30, then travel to play the Navan Grads, Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Skiers have heart

When the Glengarry Cross-Country Ski Club stages its annual ski loppet, Feb. 7, the event will be more than just another outing for skiers.

There'll be a little extra incentive for skiers when they hit the trail. The Glengarry Chapter of the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation hopes to raise money for heart research through the event.

For the first time, participants will be encouraged to obtain sponsors so money can be raised to help kick off the heart and stroke fundraising campaign in Glengarry.

Pledge sheets can be picked up at Sauvé Real Estate, The Glengarry News and from members of the Glengarry Cross-Country Ski Club.

The cost per participant is $3 for non-members but skiers who present pledge sheets during registration, can participate for free.

February is heart month and organizers hope there's a healthy number of skiers that enter the loppet.

The event usually attracts from 80 to 100 participants each year. The course for men is 17 km in length, while women must trek 10 km and youngsters 5 km.

Although the loppet is still competitive for some skiers, it's hoped by organizers that the event becomes an enjoyable and fun affair for everyone involved.

A mass start at 1 p.m. (Feb. 7) kicks off the loppet at the Alexandria Fire Hall. All participants that complete the course will receive a certificate for their efforts.

So, if Mother Nature can co-operate the next couple of weeks with some much-needed snow, organizers will heave a huge sigh of relief

Heart disease and stroke is the leading killer in this country. Every bit of money collected from events such as this loppet improves the odds of preventing deaths. Research funds are needed to help medical researchers determine the causes and prevention of heart attack and stroke, and improve the care and rehabilitation of victims.

Whether you're a skier or spectator, the loppet should be an enjoyable outing for everyone. Further information can be obtained by contacting Maurice Sauvé at 525-2940.

Can't please everyone

In this business, keeping everyone happy becomes an impossible task. There are two Junior B clubs in the county, and we try to give both of them equal coverage.

Glens' supporters are upset if their team's game isn't on the front page of the sports section and Char-Lan fans in Williamstown feel their club isn't treated fairly at times.

Well, all I can say to management of both clubs and their fans is, we try to keep all parties happy, but sometimes it isn't quite good enough.

A case in point was last week when I heard through the grapevine that some Glens' fans weren't pleased because there was a photo from a Rebels' game and none from the Glens' game.

I didn't hear any complaints when we ran photos of the Glens' games for two straight weeks.

I feel we've been fair to both clubs and although our new Sports Reporter Janet Clermont is new on the Glengarry sports scene, she's doing a capable job and to the best of her ability.

So, rather than complain because a rival club's photo is published, perhaps management should worry over the welfare of their own club.

Like I said earlier, we can't please everyone in this business.

Draw closer

The Alexandria and District Minor Hockey fundraising draw is three weeks away and minor hockey officials are hoping ticket sellers bring the tickets to the Glengarry Sports Palace soon.

The draw will be held at noon, Feb. 6 at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Parents are asked to bring the tickets to the Glengarry Sports Palace no later than Feb. 5.

The top prize winner will receive $500, while the second and third-place winners receive $250 each.

Tickets can be given to coaches or can be dropped off at the canteen at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Midgets off to Silver Stick

The Alexandria Midget Glens will travel to Sarnia this weekend to participate in the Silver Stick Tournament, a first in the club's history.

The Glens will compete against 20 other teams from the States and Canada.

The Glens will battle it out with teams from Canada and the U.S.

Coach Jacques Lajoie said he is confident the team will do well in the tournament.

"I am very confident because the team is playing as a team and not as individual players," he said.

The Glens were selected because of their success in 1987; the team won six out of eight league tournaments.

The competition will entail a three-game round-robin, played in all five divisions. Over 100 teams will be present.

Sealtest squad posts win

Alexandria Sealtest of the Novice House League, skated to a 4-2 win over Long Sault in an exhibition game, Jan. 7.

DRA holds curling bonspiel

DUNVEGAN
Mary MacCaskill
527-2855

The Dunvegan Recreation Association (DRA) held an immensely successful curling bonspiel, last Saturday, at the Maxville Curling Club.

Twenty-eight teams participated in the all-day event, which started at 9 a.m.

Following a roast beef supper hosted by the women of the curling club, prizes were distributed for the bonspiel. The winning team was skipped by Elizabeth Marjerrison with team members Gwen Arkinstall, Cathy Arkinstall and Julie Addison. Second place winners were: skip, Roger Jeaurond and his team, Norman MacLeod, Elizabeth Barton and Diane Lefebvre. The follow-up team was comprised of Don Bond as skip and team members Jerry Heinsma, Carol Heinsma and Sarah Yerlitz.

The team with the most points scored against it was skipped by Lori MacGregor with Leslie Clark, Donna Addison and Susan Arkinstall. Sandra MacMaster won the door prize; a wall plaque handcrafted and donated by Catherine McIlwain. Congratulations to all the winners.

At the annual meeting of the DRA at the Maxville Curling Club, Saturday evening, the new executive was chosen for the upcoming year. The new executive members are: president, Mary Anne MacRae; vice-president, James Joyce; secretary, Donna Addison and treasurer, Evelyn Viau. The past president is Jack Fraser. The new DRA directors are: Douglas Clark, Jan Geddes, Catherine McIlwain, Heather McIntosh, Sheila Whealon and Linda Wightman.

Visiting with the Calders over the holidays were Peggy's mom and dad, Mr. and Mrs. Racey of Montreal, and Bill's brother Murray and Didi, Pierre and Andrea.

Bill and Betty Cousineau had all their children home recently. Daughter Donna and Terry Green spent ten days with mom and dad over the holidays. Daughter Brenda and Mervin Sloane, Emily and Brittany of Apple Hill stopped in on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve as did son Barrie of Cornwall and daughter Marilyn, Justin and Scott of Winchester.

All this company didn't phase Bill and Betty one bit. Two Sundays ago, they were in Ottawa to visit Betty's brother Robert Lavigne and Denise, and Brenda, Mervin and youngsters were back visiting last Sunday at Betty and Bill's.

If you like collecting things why not collect for a good cause? The Evangelical School for the Deaf in Porto Rico need labels from any food item produced by the Campbell Company. Right now the school is saving labels so they can get a van. You may send any labels you have to Lynda Heinsma of RR1, Dunvegan.

Bowling

According to the TV show "Switchback," bowling is in this year. So if you want to be part of the trendsetting crowd, why not join the DRA-sponsored bowl on Sat., Jan. 30 at 8 p.m. at the Alexandria Lanes. Please let Linda Wightman, 525-1412, or Lynda Heinsma, 524-2299, know by Monday, Jan. 25 so the lanes can be reserved.

* * *

We were well into our January thaw this past week. For motorists, it made the side roads slippery as snow-packed roads turned to water. For pedestrians, it made walking treacherous and for me, it meant water dripping down my neck as I unlocked the barn door. But, you can forget the weather once you've dashed out to the bookmobile and back home again to curl up with a good read. It'll be in McCrimmon and Dunvegan tomorrow (Thursday).

October wedding

Janice and Wilfrid Montreuil of South Lancaster are pleased to announce the marriage of their daughter, Wendy, to Ralph Bourdon on Oct. 10. Ralph is the son of Daniel and Fleurette Bourdon, also of South Lancaster. The couple was married at St. Joseph's Church in Lancaster and will reside in the village.

Helpful hint

To clean your kettle and the bottom of your double boiler, boil some vinegar instead of water, now and then. Rinse well and boil some water again before using your kettle or double boiler for cooking. You'll not only clean them, you'll also eliminate the smell of cigarette smoke from your home.

Gordon Church WMS elects 1988 executive officers

ST. ELMO
W MacKinnon

A hearty welcome home to John Billinghurst of St. Elmo west, after a week as a patient in the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKay of St. Elmo east on the weekend (Jan. 9-10) were Mr. and Mrs. George Brown of Ottawa and David and Noble Candline of Ottawa.

The January meeting of the WMS of Gordon Church, St. Elmo, was held at the Maxville Manor on Jan. 12, at 8 p.m. Vice-president Shirley MacGregor conducted the meeting in the absence of President Margaret Billinghurst. Assisting in the worship service were Joanne MacLennan, Kathleen McKay and Helen Lavigne. Shirley MacGregor gave a meditation on the theme "A new doorway for the New Year." The secretary-treasurer, Helen Lavigne, presented the minutes of the previous meeting and read the correspondence. She presented the treasurer's report for the year 1987.

Joanne MacLennan was appointed to represent the St. Elmo WMS at the annual meeting of the Glengarry Presbyterial of the WMS, which was to be held in St. John's Church, Cornwall yesterday (Tuesday).

The president asked Dr. Wallace MacKinnon to preside for the annual election of the officers for Gordon Church WMS for the year 1988. The officers were elected as follows: Past President — Margaret Billinghurst; President — Kathleen McKay; Vice-president — Shirley MacGregor; Secretary-treasurer — Helen Lavigne; Glad Tidings sec. — Elsie McKinnon; Friendship and Service Convenor — Etta Urquhart; Social Committee — Doris Fisher and Kay Fjarlie.

The officers were installed with prayer by Dr. MacKinnon. A fellowship hour with refreshments followed the close of the meeting.

Inviting the new and the old

GLEN NORMAN
Mary Lacelle

Ken Moore spent Sunday visting his dad in Grenville, while Muriel Moore visited there earlier in the week.

John Kenny of Hawkesbury and Russell Gauley of Vankleek Hill, long-time friends of the Moores, dropped in at the Davidson-Moore residence for a nice visit this past week.

Mrs. O'Shea is always pleased with little chit-chats and friendly faces of family and friends too numerous to mention; she has no time to be lonesome.

Special thanks to Father Witold, who visits on a regular weekly basis, saying mass and administering Holy Communion. The residents appreciate his taking time to do this, knowing what a busy schedule he has.

The Secours thought a nice way for new neighbors to meet each other, would be to invite the new and the old to their home. On Sunday afternoon six couples got acquainted under the warm hospitality of Evelyne and Isidore.

Mary and André Lacelle had a nice visit with Mary's brother Joe of Sorel, at the home of parents Joe and Ella Bergeron of Williamstown.

My nephew Bob Brunet is pretty good at laundering clothes but hasn't much experience with drying temperatures. The little darling shrank my angora sweater so much, that a six-year-old would have to suck in her stomach to be able to squeeze into it.

* * *

Happy birthday to my niece Lisa Quesnel, age 18 today (Wed.) and to my daughter Lisa who will be 19 years old on Jan. 25. Since it's all in the family, do you suppose I could mention Kino, our Samoyed Husky, who will be 11 years old on Jan. 24?

Obituaries

Zina Demoulin

The funeral of Lillie Alexina (Zina) Demoulin of LaSalle, Quebec followed her death, Dec. 11, at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Montreal. She was the wife of the late John E. Demoulin.

Born at Bainsville, Concession 1, Lot 10, she had been a resident of the Montreal area since 1937. She was the eldest daughter of the late Thos. M. Ross and his wife, the late Maude Young. She was educated at the local Public School, Williamstown High School and Cornwall Commercial College.

She is survived by her son Merle and his wife Jean, grandson Brian and granddaughter Dawn of Chateauguay, two sisters, Mary (Mrs. Graham Thompson) of Bainsville, Lita (Mrs. Lyle Gibson) of Cornwall. She was predeceased by her brother, John M. Ross of Bainsville.

The service was held on Dec. 15 in the chapel of McArthur Bros. and MacNeil Funeral Home, Lancaster. Rev. Donald Chisholm officiated. Interment was in St. Andrew's United Church Cemetery in Williamstown.

Clifford Kinnear

A resident of Maxville Manor for many years, Clifford Kinnear died January 11 in Glengarry Memorial Hospital. A native of the Monkland area, he was aged 83.

He was predeceased by two sisters, Mabel and Edith, and three brothers: Austin, Stanley and Calvin. Several nieces and nephews survive.

The funeral service was held January 13 in the Munro Funeral Home in Maxville. Spring interment will be in Gravel Hill cemetery.

Glengarry Playhouse set to present 'creepy' comedy

The Glengarry Playhouse is revving up to present its second production — a "creepy crawly" comedy — Feb. 5.

Monk Ferris' "A Fine Monster You Are," produced and directed by Mary Densley, will feature the talent of Al Brewer, Anne Lamb and Bev Blaauwbroek, who appeared in last fall's production, "Relatively Speaking." Also on stage will be Inge Mittman, Manfred Schmidt, Devin Lamb, Gerhard Mittman and the "monster," most of whom are making their acting debuts.

Take a batty old lady who is looking for excitement, her grim housekeeper, a desperate college graduate and a medical man of odd dedication. Put them in an old Victorian mansion with a terrible secret, add two young intruders, a man with some peculiar gifts, a fabulous jewel with its horrible guardian and the stage is set for what could be one of the funniest plays imagineable.

The play will run at Glengarry District High School for two nights, Feb. 5 and 6, beginning at 8 p.m. Admission is $3 for senior students and $4 for others and tickets are available through Mrs. Densley at 525-4164 or Al Brewer at 525-4602, or from any member of the cast. Entrance to the cafetorium is by way of the south door by the greenhouse.

The backstage crew is managed by Michael Sabourin and members are working hard to surprise spectators with special effects.

Maxville arena to host annual Burns night

by Angus H. McDonell

Christmas and New Year's festivities are over and yuletide decorations have been stored for another year. And apart from hockey and curling, the 1988 program of various entertainments is about to be launched.

In our youth, the first attraction in January was of heritage stripe. That was a carnival staged by our French compatriots featuring horse racing on the "pond," which now bears the lofty tag of Alexandria Lake.

The centre area of the pond was marked by evergreen trees with "keep out" signs posted. This was a safety precaution because Clem Depratto was harvesting ice for next summer sales as there were no refrigerators at that time.

Circling the square was a track where Baptiste Sauvé trained his trotting horses, especially champion Honest Joe, for the Western Quebec ice race circuit from Hull to Valleyfield.

Following a lull in carnivals, the custom was revived some 25 years ago by the local Richelieu Club. A week-long Mardi Gras program that included skidoo races, replaced the long-gone horse racing sport. It is regretted that French heritage of a winter carnival has fallen by the wayside. However, as editorialized in last Glengarry News issue it was suggested a rekindling of a winter festival would be welcome.

But there was another pioneer heritage celebration during the latter part of January by Scottish descendants; they celebrated the anniversary of Scotland's historic poet Robbie Burns.

The founders of Glengarry, historians have recorded, on or about Jan. 25, would assemble in pioneer hamlets spending an evening of singing, music and if space was available, in folklore dancing.

When Alexandria became a boom town about 100 years ago, it became the custom to stage a Burns dinner in the spacious dining of a local hotel featuring a guest speaker from Montreal or Ottawa.

Two World Wars and a decade of depression years caused fluctuations in staging entertainment commemorating the birth of Robbie Burns. However, there was always rejuvenation and during the past years, Rae MacCulloch ably supported by members of her family, sponsored a Burns Night of class entertainment. Appreciation of this rating is evidenced by ticket sell-outs.

Prospects of continuity already appears assured for the forthcoming anniversary of Robbie Burns and the 33rd year of Rae (Grant) MacCulloch's role in highland and folklore dance teaching and as a stage director. This annual Burns Night-MacCulloch Dancers extravaganza will be held in the Maxville and District Sports Complex community hall, Sat., Jan. 30.

In keeping with the Glengarry tradition of inviting noted guests has been carried out by requesting the presence of Rev. Colin MacDonald and his wife Rev. Pat-Gale MacDonald, Ministers of the Glengarry East Pastoral Charge that includes Alexandria United Church, Dalhousie Mills, Glen Sandfield and East Hawkesbury.

Further program details will be released in next week's News. In view of the fact dinner seating is limited it is advisable to secure tickets in advance.

Dunvegan WI held supper

The Dunvegan Branch WI met at their hall for the annual Christmas meeting and dinner, Dec. 22.

After a festive Christmas supper, a short meeting was held, at which time two letters of thanks were read. One from the Regional School at Smiths Falls, informing us that the donation of money was received and used for the benefit of the residents at Christmas and for the purchase of a toaster for the section that received our Christmas donation. Another letter was from ARC Industries thanking the branch for the annual dinner that is brought to the workshop in November and served to the workers. The president Ann Stewart welcomed everyone, especially the guests.

When the business meeting closed, it was on with the festivities. The chairman of the program committee, Isabel MacLeod, acted as emcee. Elizabeth Stewart and Dorothy Fresque led the carol singing. A number of readings were given and Mrs. Dan MacRae shared some jokes, one of which was about an elderly woman who, while doing her Christmas shopping, asked the clerk if they had any of that aftershave called "Old Spouse." To pair people off for a contest, cards were distributed with the picture cut in half. When everyone found the other half of their picture, the teams paired up and papers were given out bearing the word Christmas. Teams had to make as many words as possible from those letters; one team constructed 78 words.

On the back of the cards a message was written and each team in turn read their message, some of which were: "To forget all your troubles, just wear a pair of shoes that are two sizes too small," "Never try to borrow trouble — especially at today's interest rates" and "When a man puts his foot down it usually means his wife has finished vacuuming under his chair."

A jar of candy was passed around and each made a guess as to the number inside. Mary Fraser won the jar by guessing the exact number — 69.

Jean Clark, well known for her ability in the monologue department, gave a hilarious account of a woman who, when television was a new toy, was so enamored with what we now call "soaps," almost pushed some guests out the door because they were disturbing her during her program.

The evening finished with a visit from Santa and Mrs. Claus who distributed the gifts.

Cadets enjoy Operation Cold Horse II

Air Cadets from Glengarry and Peterborough joined together at Camp Petawawa for the second 'Operation Cold Horse,' on the weekend.

The highlight was the Saturday afternoon lecture on perimeter defence of a camp site by Warrant Officer (WO) Ben Lemarble from 450 Chinook Squadron, CFB Uplands. 'Perimeter defence' is a set of procedures to defend a mobile camp in a hostile environment for a short period of time. The Cadets had a chance to practise their new knowledge.

'Operation Cold Colt' on Saturday night saw 15 senior cadets camp out in -28°C weather and set up a defence for their camp site. To test their set-up, five regular force soldiers, also on exercise at Camp Petawawa and dressed in winter white gear, made a mock attack on the camp. The mini-exercise was greatly enjoyed by the cadets, some of whom are on their fourth winter exercise. The first two survival courses were held at the Glengarry farm of Capt. Bruce Marr.

Capt. Marr, commanding officer (CO) of the detachment, was assisted by Capt. Reg Cooke, CO of 379 Squadron and Capt. Dave Pontefract, CO of 534 Raider Squadron of Peterborough. WO Mark Leckner served as wing commander of two squadrons. WO S. Cooke was squadron commander of the 'Mustangs' with R. Sturgeon and Glenn Hood as flight commanders. WO M. Hetzler served as squadron commander of the 'Raiders' with McNab and J. Marr as his flight commanders.

The 379 Padre, Rev. Don Chisholm, was in charge of the supply operation which equipped the 89 cadets and eight staff members with more than $1,000 worth of cold weather gear and snowshoes each.

Saturday morning lessons included how to wear the gear for best protection, set up tents, light stoves and use snowshoes.

While the senior cadets camped out Saturday night, a social evening was held in the barracks common room. Many friendships made at last year's combined exercise were renewed and new friends found.

Sunday morning saw the Cadets out early, in -25°C weather with a 10 km wind for competition between flights. Cadets in groups of six had to cover a 2 1/2-km course on snowshoes, hauling a tent and stove on a toboggan. On the triangular course, the teams had to to twice set up the tent, light the stove and boil water, strike the tent and pack it onto the toboggan and proceed on their way. Capt. Marr was impressed with the keenness in the races and the co-operation during the entire weekend.

Cadet exercises are used to teach leadership techniques

Air Canada Captain Richard Loyer is the newest staff member of 379. He will teach both flying subjects and drill and will strengthen the Squadron's bilingual program.

Young people aged 13 to 18 are invited to join the Squadron at their weekly Thursday parades, held at GDHS at 7 p.m. A new indoctrination course is now open.

A variety of exercises is planned for the coming year, including gliding in May, when each Cadet has a chance to try a glider flight at the Alexandria Airport.

Graduate

Pierre and Suzanne Patenaude are pleased to announce the recent graduation of their daughter, Julie, who has received a nursing diploma from St. Lawrence College in Cornwall. She is currently employed as a Registered Nurse at Toronto Western Hospital.

Phone net starts when power net fails

GREEN VALLEY

Evelyne Secours
525-1350

A telephone network between neighbors, Jan. 14, was most enjoyable during the power outage. It started at 7:30 a.m. and lasted till 11 a.m. Everyone was getting phone calls, advising each other what to do, and how to prepare if the power failure lasted much longer.

Children had another holiday; they were able to go and skate on the local rink, but those who didn't have a wood stove during the power interruption must have been miserable, what with a temperature of 28° below zero. Thanks to Hydro for good service on such a frosty morning.

My apologies go to Nancy VanPutten concerning the article she gave me to include in last week's column. Nancy wanted to thank customers for their kindness and wish them a Happy New Year and I was not aware that I am not permitted to relay thanks from one person to another. During editing, the column was altered to make it acceptable for publication. Nancy, I'm sorry if this caused you any embarrassment.

Even though this may seem like old news, it is news just the same. Besides all their children and their families that live in the area, Alex and Agatha Lauzon had company over the Christmas holidays from out of town. Their son Bruce came down from Whitby for a day, Danny was home from Toronto for a few days, as were Robbie who is in Ottawa attending Carleton University and Glenn who lives and works in Chesterville.

A few birthdays to mention: Sandra Lea celebrated her birthday, Monday (Jan. 18), Gordie tells me you're turning 30 years old. Also Tabitha and Sabina McPhail will be three years old on Wednesday. Happy birthday girls!
