PUZZLING PLATES—Lionel Aubin, Main Street South, was one of the early birds buying his 1968 licence plates, Saturday, but they might have got him into trouble with the law. It's illegal to wear your numbers upside down, but what does one do when they're made that way? The problem was solved at the local issuing office when the faulty plates were exchanged for normal ones. —Photo by Robert

Escaped Flaming Home In Cornwall

Former residents of Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Brunet and a son were forced to flee their Cornwall home early Tuesday morning when fire swept the bungalow at 1122 Fourth St. E.

The family was awakened about 1.30 a.m. by an apparent explosion in the basement. The bungalow filled with smoke and the occupants had time only to dress before fleeing in their bare feet.

Fire department officials said the basement was engulfed in flames. Firemen were on the scene for more than three hours fighting the stubborn blaze.

The family lost most of its household furnishings and clothing. Most of the loss is reportedly covered by insurance.

May Have Recount In Charlottenburgh Where Donald Thomson Elected By 4 Votes

Deputy-reeve Donald Thomson is reeve-elect of Charlottenburgh Township but his margin in Monday's voting was only four votes over Gerard Brunet of St. Raphael's.

Mr. Brunet has 14 days to decide whether he will ask a recount of the ballots. He was in contact with Township Clark-Treasurer R. E. Gagne yesterday, but had not made a decision.

The close race for the reeveship saw Thomson edge out Brunet, a former reeve of the township, 778 to 774.

Councillor George Shoniker was given an acclamation for the post of deputy-reeve.

In the seven-man contest for the three councillor seats Bruce Sova of Glen Roy, the only incumbent in the race, headed the poll with 718 votes. Also successful were Hugh Douglas, Williamstown, with 664 votes, and Adrian Gadbois, Glen Walter, with 632.

Runner-up was Lionel Baker, who polled 595 votes. Alex Lagroix had 394, Arthur Smith 269 and Edgar Stanley 159.

Clerk-Treasurer Gagne has checked the poll clerk's tallies of the vote and it is accurate with results tabulated Monday night. The sealed ballot boxes are locked in the township vault awaiting the recount by a judge if Mr. Brunet decides to request one.

Reeve Albert Faubert rolled up a majority of 188 in Monday's contest for the reeveship in Kenyon Township and he will head the council for another two-year term. He defeated Miles Campeau of Apple Hill, who garnered a respectable 388 votes to 576 for Mr. Faubert.

Ice Not Safe Enough

Ice on the Alexandria lake is not yet thick enough to be considered safe, reports Police Chief Cleroux. He suggests parents should keep children off the lake for the time being. It was a popular spot last weekend.

Firemen Fought Heavy Smoke As Western Tire Store Burned Out

Lyall Costello, owner of the Western Tire and Auto Supply store here, estimates his loss at about $50,000 following yesterday's fire which gutted the building. The entire stock was a complete write-off and the building suffered severe damage from fire, smoke and water.

The loss is partially covered by insurance, Mr. Costello reports.

Aided by the Lancaster brigade, firemen fought a stubborn battle against smoke to contain the blaze and prevent its spread through the business section. Through the cold nighttime hours they continued to pour water into the building to subdue fire imbedded in the thick brick walls.

The solid construction of the walls helped contain the flames which threatened the neighboring Barbara's store and McLeister's Stationery store, to south and north.

Tom Costello, father of the owner, managed to leave his upstairs apartment despite the heavy smoke which was fed by burning tires and batteries. He lost all his personal possessions.

Dicovered by passersby about 5.40 p.m. the fire is believed to have originated from a furnace explosion. Lights in the area had been out due to a transformer failure and it is theorized the flooded furnace exploded when power was restored.

Mr. Costello had been in the store until shortly before the fire was discovered. His entire Christmas stock was lost, in addition to his regular lines.

Five Bishops And 13 Priests Pictured In Historical Panels At St. Finnan's

Photographic panels, one containing the pictures of the five bishops who have headed this diocese, the other depicting 13 of the 17 priests who have ministered to St. Finnan's parish in its 131 year history, are to be unveiled in the centre vestibule of the Cathedral Friday night.

His Excellency Bishop Adolphe Proulx will unveil the two panels, removing the centennial flags and bunting now covering them. The bishop is to make a visit to the parish that evening, concelebrating the mass with the rector, Monsignor Donald Kerr. Immediately following the mass His Excellency will carry out the unveiling and later he will meet informally with members of the parish in Alexander Hall.

A centennial thought which germinated at the time of the centennial showing of old pictures in June by ladies of the town, the panels have been prepared by Robert of Alexandria, photographer.

In the panel on the east wall of the vestibule are pictured the five bishops who have served since founding of the diocese of Alexandria in 1890. They are:

Most Rev. Alexander Macdonell, DD, appointed July 18, 1890—died May 30, 1905.

Most Rev. William A. Macdonell, DD, appointed March 21, 1906—died Nov. 10, 1920.

Most Rev. Felix Couturier, OP, DD, OBE, appointed June 30, 1921—died July 27, 1941.

Most Rev. Rosario Brodeur, DD, appointed July 27, 1941—retired Oct. 15, 1966.

Most Rev. Adolphe Proulx, DD, appointed June 16, 1967.

Of the 17 priests who have served as pastor, administrator or rector of the parish only pictures of the first four are missing from the panel on the west wall. There are memorial plaques for three of these in the Cathedral.

First priest appointed to the new parish in 1836 was Rev. John McDonald. He served until 1845. The list continues:

Rev. Denis Begley, 1845-51.

Rev. Alexander McDonald, 1851-53.

Rev. John McLachlan, 1853-56.

Rev. James Chisholm, 1856-66.

Rev. John S. O'Connor, 1866-79.

Rev. Alexander Macdonell, 1879-1905 (named first bishop in 1890).

Most Rev. William A. Macdonell (continued as pastor after consecration as second bishop in 1906).

Rev. A. L. McDonald, 1909-16, (first administrator).

Rev. C. F. Gauthier, 1916-22.

Rt. Rev. J. E. McRae, PA, 1922-24 (first rector).

Rev. John J. Macdonell, 1924-28.

Rt. Rev. Ewen J. Macdonald, PA, VG, MC, 1928-40.

Rt. Rev. W. J. Smith, DD, DP, 1940-44 (4th Bishop of Pembroke 1945).

Rt. Rev. Ranald J. MacDonald, DP, 1944-50.

Rev. John D. McPhail, 1951-65.

Rt. Rev. D. A. Kerr, DP, Feb. 1965.

Monsignors Ewen J. Macdonald and Kerr are shown in their chaplain's uniforms.

Mrs. Fred Evans Died In Saskatoon

A valued employee of the News Printing Company until her departure for Saskatchewan some 20 years ago, Mrs. Fred Evans died in hospital at Saskatoon, Thursday, Nov. 30th. In failing health for some time she was 67.

The former Madge Layland, Mrs. Evans was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Layland of Alexandria. She attended the local schools and later was employed for many years with this newspaper. A member of Alexandria United Church she was of a friendly disposition and word of her passing was received with regret by many in town and district.

Some 20 years ago she went to Saskatoon to marry Mr. Evans who survives as does one brother, George Layland of Winnipeg.

The funeral was held Monday in Saskatoon.

Retarded School Seeks Funds

Christmas decorations gaily decked the classrooms at the school for exceptional children on St. Paul St. when the executive of the Glengarry Association for the Mentally Retarded met for their November meeting. It was learned that the children are staging a concert with their parents as guests under the able supervision of Mrs. Alan McCaskill, principal and teacher of the English speaking children and Mrs. Paul Viau, teacher of the French speaking children. Later a Christmas party is planned.

To see that the children have a jolly good time Laurent Crevier generously donated $19.50 and Messrs. Leduc and Runions $5 each.

Anyone wishing to help along this good cause may send their donations to Angus R. McDonell, treasurer, Alexandria.

With the New Year fast approaching the Association would like to remind members that the yearly fees are now due. It also humbly solicits the interest of all Glengarrians at home or abroad. Single membership is $2, family $3.

The executive wishes to acknowledge its grateful appreciation of the following recent donations:

Glengarry Clubs of Ottawa and Montreal	$150
Mrs. Paul Viau	100

Glengarry Among Counties Seen As Bilingual Areas By B&B Commission

Glengarry is among five counties in Eastern Ontario in which bilingualism should be imposed under the "bilingual program suggested by the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism. There are three counties of West Quebec similarly designated.

The Commission suggests this move for any Ontario area having 10 per cent or more of its population French-speaking. Glengarry is estimated to be 47 percent French-speaking.

The eight—Carleton, Glengarry, Prescott, Russell, Stormont, Papineau, Gatineau and Pontiac—now have French or English lan-

Imitation Milk Now On Sale In U.S. Seen As Threat To Dairy Industry

The sale of imitation milk is an immediate threat to the dairy industry according to Osie Villeneuve who spoke at the annual meeting of the Glengarry Federation of Agriculture held at the High School here last Thursday night. Guest speaker Grant Wallace, head fieldman of the Federation of Agriculture in Ontario, agreed.

Imitation milk is now sold in 20 states of the United States and to date this product accounts for 10 percent of the sales in Nevada. It retails at five or six cents a quart less than natural milk. Mr. Villeneuve referred to the recent devaluation of the British pound which caused cheese for export to drop in price by 5¼ cents.

Santa Coming To North Lancaster

Santa Claus is coming to North Lancaster Friday, Dec. 22 when a parade will welcome him at 1.30 p.m.

Recreation Director John Chornabay Widely Qualified

Ice should be ready in the arena Monday or Tuesday, reports John Chornabay, Alexandria's new director of recreation and an official opening of the community centre is being planned for early January.

It will be a big day, reports Mr. Chornabay, but he isn't ready to furnish details until plans are more advanced.

The new condenser is now being installed in the ice-making equipment, the rink interior has been freshened up with paint and a new music and loudspeaker system has been installed. Ice will be retained possibly up to May 15th to make up for the time lost this fall.

The minor hockey program is all set, reports the recreation director and games will be played all day Saturday and on other days of the week to a limit of 12 hours. The director hopes to make up a hockey team of Junior B calibre, as well. It will be too late for league play this season but will book exhibition games. Also planned is mother and pre-school skating with lessons for the youngsters.

Ice time is now available for broomball and other activities and it will be leased on a first come, first served basis. Anyone interested should contact John Chornabay at the arena. The new phone number is 525-3600.

Hockey schools, referee schools and other activities are in the planning stage now and once the winter program has been firmed up the recreation director will start planning for spring and summer activities on the park and in the arena.

Mr. Chornabay has a wide range of qualifications for instructing athletes, gained at summer schools at several universities. He is qualified as a water skiing instructor, in coaching track and field, gymnastics, hockey, basketball, as a playground supervisor, a driver training instructor and youth guidance teacher and counsellor.

Born at Dauphin, Manitoba, 30 years ago, he attended High School at Timmins where in minor hockey play he was teamed with, or against, the "Big M", Frank Mahovlich, Stanley and others who later made the jump to NHL hockey. John played junior hockey in Timmins, in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, before coming to St. Joseph's School at Alfred, six years ago, to direct the athletic program there. He is also an avid golfer but arrived here too late in the season to try our fairways.

John is commuting from Alfred where his wife resides, while looking for an apartment here.

Car Damaged

A car driven by Maurice Choquette was damaged to the extent of some $700 last night when it struck a Glengarry Transport van at the corner of Elgin and Bishop Streets.

ON HOSPITAL STAFF—Dianne Levert, has joined the nursing staff of Glengarry Memorial Hospital after graduating from the Ottawa Civic Hospital School of Nursing. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Emile Levert of Alexandria.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

Old Folks At Home

The movement of people from farm to city and apartment living has had its greatest impact, possibly, on the old and aging. Almost a thing of the past are the big rambling homes that once housed not only a family but other kith and kin usually of an older generation.

The socialist state is taking responsibility for the welfare of its citizens from cradle to grave. If there are those who would prefer to retain responsibility for senior family members the high taxes required by government to finance these give-away programs may make it economically impossible to feed and house more than the immediate family.

So the trend is now well advanced to provision of publicly or privately-owned institutions where the old and infirm may live out their last years in the company of their confreres. In addition to the larger "homes" in Cornwall several privately run nursing homes have been opened in this area and they seem to fill a want.

As Stephen Foster so nostalgically expressed it in "Old, Black Joe", old folks like to linger among the scenes of their youth and this is the paramount thought behind the project to build Maxville Manor. Ninety-one beds are to be provided in a non-denominational home that will provide comfort and competent care for as many senior citizens.

It is an institution well suited to Maxville and this area, known for the longevity of our residents. Maxville Manor should serve a worthy purpose and this seems evident from the generous support the organizing committee is meeting in its canvass for funds. The Manor will cost in the neighborhood of $900,000 and of this impressive amount $100,000 must be raised by public subscription.

The canvass for funds is being carried out only in Maxville and the immediate area but there must be Glengarrians resident in other parts of the county and at a distance who will wish to donate to this project. Undoubtedly, too, there will be elderly people from other areas of the county and from a distance, who will want to use the fine facilities to be afforded in this home for senior citizens being built in Glengarry.

The committee asks for wide support in an advertisement in this issue and we have no doubt but that Glengarrians at home and away will see this project as a worthy one for Christmas giving. The objective is a sizable sum but a lot of donations in a moderate range should help put this campaign over the top.

Residents of the Maxville-Dunvegan area are responding generously, we hear. Surely many more Glengarrians will want to have a part in keeping our old folks at home.

Hard To Trim Government Services

In a move to help stall the inflationary spiral (one which many question) Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp boosted income tax rates and increased taxes on liquor and tobacco last week. In the same cause the Pearson government has promised to reduce spending, though it still threatens to introduce its costly national medicare scheme next July.

The difficulties any government must face in trying to trim even one small branch off the ever green, ever growing tree of bureaucracy is evidenced in a weekend story from Ottawa. There have been reports that Canada's radio voice abroad, the CBC International Service, might fall victim to the government's economy axe. The mere rumor has been enough to bring protests flowing into Ottawa, presumably as job holders in the overseas service rally support to discourage any thought of this government "service" being stopped.

One can sense the closing of ranks against any move to economy that entails loss of long established payrolls in the public service. The protests have come from the Canadian Labor Congress, the Canadian Union of Public Employees, the Canadian Broadcasting League and some Members of Parliament.

"Canada has established an enviable reputation in this field and it would be little short of criminal to walk out and abandon it," Donald MacDonald, acting CLC president, said in a telegram to Mr. Martin and State Secretary Judy LaMarsh.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) suggested the government should "prune the branches rather than cut down the whole tree" if it was trying to save some money.

A source in the international service said it is unlikely that Washington and London "will be very pleased" if Canada closes down her foreign broadcasts. The 20-odd short-wave frequencies now assigned by Canada might be snapped up by other countries holding less sympathy with free world points of view.

We doubt that CLC President Donald MacDonald or his NDP confreres know any more than do we what kind of reputation the CBC overseas service has earned abroad. We have a hazy idea this was a wartime propaganda machine, perhaps of some use twenty five years ago to counteract Mr. Goebbels' propaganda in a Western Europe that had been overrun by Hitler's armies. That war was won more than two decades ago and we see no cogent reason why a peace-loving nation like Canada should be now filling the overseas airwaves with propaganda sympathetic to "the free world point of view" or any other.

Cost of this international service is reported to run about $3,250,000 a year and that should be reason enough to shut down the short-waved torrent of words and music. The protests against extinction appear to be the firings of our entrenched bureaucracy which zealously guards the jobs of every civil servant from a purely selfish or socialistic standpoint.

It is much easier for a government to impose extra taxes on a long-suffering public than to practise economies that involve the loss of soft jobs in the civil service.

Too Late For A Good Game

The 1967 Grey Cup game is now history and Hamilton's Tiger Cats well merited their victory over Regina after a strong finish in the Eastern section of the Canadian Football League. The Ticats were "up" for the big game as they were for the Eastern finals against Ottawa and when one team is riding high its opposition may end up looking worse on the scoreboard than it deserved.

The treacherous footing on Lansdowne Park had to be contended with by both teams but perhaps it was more help to that huge defensive wall of Hamilton's. The slippery surface must have held down the rushing of George Reed through the line; it made it impossible for ball carriers to turn the corners and it must have limited Quarterback Ron Lancaster's effective scrambling tactics which were seldom used. The pass was the most effective piece of artillery Saturday and Ticats' Joe Zuger was having a good day with his receivers.

It was bitterly cold in the new stand at Lansdowne Park, we hear, and those faithful fans deserved a better-played, more exciting brand of football than the icy field allowed. This should be an argument for ending the season earlier as many have suggested. The Canadian climate is better fitted to outdoor hockey than football in December and we see only two alternates for CFL owners if the Grey Cup game is to remain a spectacular. The date will have to be moved back to early November or team owners will have to provide covered fields such as the multimillion dollar dome in Houston, Texas. We see no possibility of the latter.

League officials argue they cannot open the CFL season any earlier because many of their fans are away on holidays and totally uninterested in football through July and August. It should be possible, though, to have teams play oftener than once a week. A more compact schedule could be worked out if television did not insist on the Saturday and Sunday programming. More variety in TV fare on the weekends would be relished by a lot of viewers totally uninterested in football.

Another aspect of Grey Cup week that threatens its future is the hooliganism the host city must put up with. Vancouver had near riots to contend with and Ottawa this year seems to have escaped lightly. A few store windows were smashed, traffic was often a shambles and some street fights broke out according to news reports. Local youths are usually to blame, but that is no consolation to the store owner who suffers loss or to the police who have had all leaves cancelled and who may be on duty around the clock to cope with the Grey Cup crowds.

It's Toronto's turn next year and if Grey Cup week becomes more bother than it's worth the event may some day run out of host cities.

The Fur Trade

The fur trade formed the advancing frontier of European civilization as it swept across the northern half of the continent to the Pacific. Ultimately, the fur trade also represented a retreating frontier for the civilization of the Indians, who had more furs than they could use; they eagerly exchanged them for European goods such as guns and metal tools.

The fur trade led to cultural and racial interchange as well as commodity exchange. French traders and coureurs de bois married Indian women along the St. Lawrence River, around the Great Lakes and across the northwest, wherever they were trading. English and Scottish traders were not permanently posted to Canada and did not live away from their posts to the same extent as the French traders. Even so, many of them intermarried with the Indians of the Hudson Bay area, the prairies and the far west. But many of them left their children behind to be raised as Indians. Trading alliances formed and broke among Indian tribes, and between Indians and white. Wars were fought over the lucrative fur trade as the rivalry grew between English and French, between white and Indian, between the Hudson's Bay Co. and the North-west Co.

The organization of the fur trade reflects this bitter political and corporate competition. It also reflects the harsh living conditions and the high cost of transporting heavy trade goods and supplies up the rivers of the eastern Canadian drainage basins. These problems were conquered with an organization based on tough central authority and fortified outposts. The trading posts aimed to dominate their territories completely. They discouraged the encroachment of settlers on the wilderness, except in areas where the trading posts wanted agricultural support for themselves.

These autocratic outposts strengthened their rule over the wilderness when the two rival fur-trading companies merged, but eventually, slowly and grudgingly they yielded their grip as the fur supply dwindled and the frontiers of heavy settlement moved westward. Industrialization followed, quickened by gold rushes, the advent of steam powered transportation, and the formation of strong central government provided by the Act of Union and Confederation.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

SCHOOL LIBRARIES

St. Raphael's
Nov. 24/67

The editor,
Glengarry News,

Your editorial re a public library, is very timely. The Department of Education spends millions of dollars yearly on schools, school buildings, text books, teachers' salaries, etc.—all paid for by public taxes. Many taxpayers support these schools over long periods of time and receive nothing in return —having no children of school age. It would seem fair that the one way in which they could be compensated would be in the use of the school library. I have not seen the Alexandria High School library, but I have been in the Williamstown High School library. And there I saw many books that I would have had great pleasure in reading. It probably would not be possible to stock recent fiction. Many of the best sellers are pure rubbish anyway. But making good books available to the public is surely a very worthwhile project.

To acquire the habit of reading is to add to one's life enjoyment, knowledge and a sure proof against boredom.

Is there any grant, provincial or federal, to make such a plan possible?

Sincerely,
Willa McDonald.

MORE ABOUT HUNTERS

656 Thorncrest Ave.
Dorval, Que.

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

I would like to add my fervent support to Mrs. Patricia Turcott's campaign.

My husband and I bought a farm in Glengarry last year to enjoy the country, peace, quiet and the wildlife. The only wild life we have seen to date is a species I would gladly see exterminated—namely hunters.

Before anyone jumps on me as an outsider from the city, I will have my say on these issues. My maternal ancestors were among the county's earliest settlers—I think this makes me somewhat "better" than an outsider. On the second point, it seems to me that any intelligent person would agree that it is better to have a farm by Ed.

WITH OUR

STAY WAY FROM OUR DOOR

The weatherman pulled a fast one on your Rambling Reporter, Sunday morning; but we're not letting him get away with it.

He had us mad Saturday afternoon when he whipped up vagrant breezes that littered the sidewalk at our office door with just about all the flotsam and jetsam he could gather up around town. It was a real mess and we could visualize people pointing a finger or two at the poor editor who keeps harping on clean-up but who obviously can't keep his own doorstep neat and tidy.

The street cleaners had been at work through the morning brushing clean the sidewalks and curbs and we had been pleased to note how neat Main Street was for the weekend. They had scarcely hung up their brooms when up came the breezes to poke and pry in lanes and crevasses, whispering no doubt to every particle of paper instructions to congregate at the newspaper office. Seems every one of 'em obeyed.

The office front and across the street at Proulx's Men's Wear have been favorite places for litter to loiter. We had been hoping the empty lot next door would make a difference but it seems the vagrant breezes haven't heard that Stedmans is in a new location.

So irked were we by that Saturday mess we determined to take the weatherman to task in this column. Maybe he got a clue cause when we drifted down to the office Sunday the litter was nowhere to be seen. Two inches of white carpeting had blotted out the eyesore.

We call that sloppy housekeeping, pushing the mess under a rug, and we'd just as soon the weatherman kept both litter and snow from our door.

Some businessmen buy cheque-writing devices, others marry them.

LET'S HAVE LOTS OF LIGHTS

That's a mighty attractive tree fronting the town hall and it would be nice to see a few more of those 30-footers spotted along the street, festooned in the lights of Christmas.

Quite a few Alexandria homes had their outdoor lighting up last weekend and no doubt there'll be a lot more Christmas lights coloring the outdoors by tonight. The calendar keeps reminding there's little more than two weeks to go.

Isn't it warming to see a home or business place sporting those colorful outdoor lights? To us it signifies that a fellow citizen is so full of the spirit of Christmas goodfellowship that he can no longer contain it. It's a display of community spirit, too. The entire town takes on a new aura of friendliness when the December nights are so colorfully lit up.

Let's have a record number of homes decorated this yuletide. It will be a colorful warming way of bidding adieu to our centennial year.

And talking of Christmas reminds one there's not too much talk of Christmas or plans for welcoming Santa Claus to our town. The Board of Trade has been more than a little moribund in recent years and we have yet to hear that the merchants are getting together to organize Santa's visit.

There's still time for town council to get something going if no other group shows initiative.

Our blasé younger generation may not put too much stock in Santa Claus but they'll miss him if he doesn't show up.

Two kinds of men who never amount to much—those who cannot do what they are told, and those who can do nothing else.

INTERVIEW OR INQUISITION

Seldom do we find time to follow so-called public affairs interviews as conducted on TV but in several we've seen our sympathy has been with the person being interviewed. With all those studio lights glaring down on him he's not likely to be too composed in his thinking out loud and the practised interviewer too often seems out to take advantage of him.

In all the uproar over the remark about "rotten" management in the CBC, reminds The Printed Word, no one seems to have considered the type of TV program on which it was made.

Interview programs may masquerade as public affairs programs, but by and large they are entertainment. It is usual for the interviewer to attempt to create an informal and confidential atmosphere, spurious if his audience is as large as he hopes it is, and then to proceed, with all the skill and artistry he can muster, to lead his guest into talking as he or she

Christmas Mailing Information At Local Office

Before giving you the Christmas mailing information, I wish to express to the publisher of The Glengarry News my sincere thanks and appreciation for publishing the message Mail Early For Christmas which appeared in his newspaper last year. The results obtained were to our greatest expectations and improved the service in the local Post Office. I also wish to thank all patrons of the Alexandria Post Office for the wonderful cooperation which they showed during last Christmas period.

Your cooperation is again solicited this year in purchasing your Christmas stamps as far in advance as possible in order to avoid undue congestion at the Post Office wickets.

The rates applicable for Christmas cards unsealed and containing no written message are:

3 cents: Canada, United States, its Territories and Possessions, other Countries of North, Central and South America, The West Indies and Spain.

4 cents: To all other Countries.

To eliminate delays or non-deliveries of first class mail and Christmas cards, patrons should use correct and complete addresses. Here are a few points to retain when addressing a letter or a card, the right name of the addressee, the street address, Post Office box number, apartment number and the place.

The mailing deadline dates for Christmas cards are as follows:

To distant points in Canada and United States, before December 8th.

To other out of town points in Canada, before December 13th.

Local delivery, before December 17th.

There will be no mail delivery on Christmas Day.

If for some reasons or other you might think your Christmas cards won't reach their destination by Christmas, remember you can always use first class mail which will expedite delivery.

The mail received in bundles over the counter should be segregated as much as possible by the mailer. For this purpose Christmas Green and White Speed Labels will be supplied to all patrons during the the period 2nd to 8th December. Patrons who might require extra labels should ask for those at the Post Office wickets. The labels read Christmas cards 3 cents "In Town" and "Out of Town", also First Class Mail "In Town" and "Out of Town". So if you mail bundles of cards or letters always use Christmas Labels to identify your bundles.

I wish to remind all patrons that we still have the Centennial Stamp Box at the Post Office. This is a beautiful container for Stamps and it is a souvenir of the Centennial Year. The container is sold at $2.43 which is the face value of stamps on the container. The sale of the Stamp Box will cease on the 31st December 1967.

The Post Office Staff and myself wish to thank all patrons for the cooperation which we are sure will be to our expectations.

J. C. Jacques Joly,

cared for than abandoned, with buildings in ruin. What does the future hold for Glengarry a once lovely, prosperous area that has slipped into sad, seedy depression? Do not scoff at the city dweller who will put care and devotion into his farm, and badly needed funds into the economy.

When it became obvious that our farm must be as busy as Main Street during our absence, we put up "No Trespassing" signs. If a sign is to be effective, it must be read with intelligence; to read, the reader must be sober. Judging from the number of beer and liquor bottles left around our property, these hunters are drunken morons.

As Mrs. Turcott has pointed out, the non-hunter is helpless. How do you hold the hunters while you get to a phone? If you take their names and licence numbers and they go—then it's your word against theirs. We know what that's worth in the eyes of the law!

If a hunter kills me, it's an accident. If I kill a hunter, it's manslaughter. What is justice?

I hold the administration of this county responsible for this situation. Had we settled in the Ozarks or the Kentucky hills, where a gun is the substitute for law, order, intelligence and literacy, we would have expected this mess. I was naive enough to expect something better of Ontario.

Who are these savage killers anyway? Do they represent the majority of residents? If not, why are they allowed to make life hell for all the others. Don't tell me the hunting season is short. There were four hunters, in July, shooting blackbirds almost at our front door. We heard shots in our woods in February. These are only two examples.

Hopefully, the day may come when our gun laws will be strict. Any law that enables any idiot to own a gun (and seemingly they all do) is as sick as the people it serves.

I will defend my stand on another point. By now, someone has snarled at me "Do you eat steak"? Yes, I do, I can also see the difference between a species bred, raised, housed and fed by man, as opposed to the wild species which are completely on their own.

I am not a violent person; I loathe killing for pleasure or vengeance. What am I to do if the law is on the side of violence, slaughter and savagery? Must I hide inside in fear?

I suggest that all non-hunters get moving and do something. Surely an organized majority could improve on this situation.

If reason and fairness cannot prevail; if the local administration refuse to deal with this problem; what is the alternative? Maybe Mrs. Turcott has the answer. Hunters beware—stay off our land.

Yours truly,
Lyall Hargrave,
(Mrs. Douglas Hargrave)

would in private conversation. The next morning the victim on the pin finds that it is not possible to talk off-the-record when a national audience is listening.

Sometimes the techniques creak a little and it becomes obvious that the interviewer is trying to trap his guest into statements that are indiscreet, unwise or controversial.

The public seems to respond to this type of entertainment and the more outrageous the remarks, the more the titillation. Whether the public, by watching this type of show, gets a better insight into what is going on in the world, or even a true idea of the opinion of the person interviewed, is doubtful.

MAXVILLE MANOR
Drive for Capital Funds
The Directors of Maxville Manor have organized a drive for funds to assist in establishing a home for senior citizens in Maxville. This 91-bed non-denominational home is presently under construction. During the past two weeks residents of Maxville and immediate district have been personally asked to support this campaign, but no canvass is planned for other communities.
The objective in this drive is $100,000. Gifts of $1,000 will be recognized by the placing of a name plate with the donor's name inscribed thereon on a bedroom door. Gifts of $100 - $500 will be recognized by the inscription of names on a plaque which will be placed in a position of prominence in the Manor's lobby. Brochures are available on request. You or some member of your family may be among those to benefit in years to come.
We ask for your generous support. No subscription is too small and all contributions are deductible for income tax purposes.
All contributions may be sent to

Minor Hockey Notes

by Mrs. Mervyn MacDonald

Committee chairmen were appointed at the meeting of the Alexandria District Minor Hockey Association held Tuesday night at the Hub Restaurant.

Assisting president Gerry Dextras as first vice-president will be Mrs. Duncan Morris, replacing Melvin Aubry.

Joseph McGillis will be equipment chairman, Mrs. Adrian Filion, director of the ways and means committee, Jack Libbos in charge of coaches and referees and Mrs. Mervyn MacDonald is publicity director. The secretary, Mrs. Pat Libbos, is handling registration.

Instead of the Association purchasing sweaters, or soliciting the donation of same from the local merchants, for the younger players, material has been obtained in different colors and some of the local ladies are making vests for the players to wear over their own hockey sweaters.

Since at the time this column is being written there is still no guarantee there will be minor hockey on December 9th, final registration will take place at the Alexandria Community Centre on December 15th. Meanwhile boys can register any day at Jack's Shoe Repair Shop on Main Street.

Mr. Chornabay, Alexandria's Recreation Director, feels that it would be beneficial to hold a referees' clinic in Alexandria. If enough people interested in refereeing will contact him at the community centre, Tel. 525-3600, he will arrange to have a clinic organized.

LAKE SURFACE A NATURAL—Saturday night's snowfall wasn't quite as heavy as local ski-dooers would have liked but the Alexandria lake provided just the surface they required and Sunday's mild weather was also to their liking. It is estimated some 35 town and area residents have taken to this winter sport and there are plans to organize a club here. Mrs. L. McDonell Greenfield, Died

A highly esteemed resident of Greenfield, Mrs. Leonard McDonell died Saturday, Dec. 2nd, in Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, following a brief illness.

A daughter of the late J. F. McNally and his wife, Mary McInnes of Ottawa, Mrs. McDonell taught school at SS No. 11, Indian Lands, SS No. 9 in the 4th Kenyon and SS No. 23 Greenfield prior to her marriage to Leonard McDonell. On many occasions she had been called on to compose addresses for social or other events in the community.

To mourn, she leaves her husband Leonard McDonell, two daughters and three sons: Beth (Mrs. Stewart Manley) of Ottawa, Mary (Mrs. Thomas Grady) of Berwick, John and Allan of Ottawa and Peter at home. She also leaves seven grandchildren.

Imitation . . .

ation to speak on the topic "The future of farming and farm organizations in Ontario" Mr. Wallace peered into the future and forecast many changes in agriculture. Forty-five percent of Ontario farmers are 51 years or older and in 15 years they will be inactive.

He agreed with Mr. Villeneuve that a threat from imitation products faced the farmer but both men felt that farmers would win out over these problems through improved techniques of production and efficiency. There will be much larger farm operators on fewer farms producing at a much greater rate than at present. Some day soon, Mr. Wallace stated, the province of Ontario will provide more bushels of corn than the Prairie Provinces produce in grain and one day the yield of 300 bushels of grain to the acre will be a reality.

He also expressed a certainty that farmers will in the future speak through one organization and he believed that the two present groups will disappear, making way for a united farm front. The Federation failed not because it achieved nothing but because it did not inform the farmer on the back concession of its gains for agriculture. The Farmers' Union was an outgrowth of this lack of communication.

Mr. Wallace feared that the growth of cities was eating up too much good agricultural soil. A lot on the outskirts of a large centre sold at $10,000 and the sale of such farm land was beneficial to the owner. He pointed to India which exported food thirty years ago and now had millions lacking sufficient nutrition.

Reports were given by Glengarry Federation of Agriculture: Fraser Campbell; Holstein Breeders, William Fraser; Ayrshire Breeders, J. Y. Humphries; Soil and Crop Improvement Association, Milk Marketing Committee, Gerard Massie; Plowmen's Association, John A. Mitchell; St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society, D. C. Murray; Stor Dun Glen Coop Medical Service, Fraser Campbell.

Michael Elliott, a newly appointed fieldman for the counties of Russell, Prescott, Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry was introduced. George Kinloch, Martintown, president.

BENOIT—CRAGG

The marriage of Marilyn Cragg, daughter of Mrs. Bertram H. Cragg of Montreal and the late Doctor Cragg and Dr. Paul Benoit, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Benoit of Ottawa, took place at St. Malachy's Church, Montreal, on October 7th, 1967, at eleven o'clock. Msgr. D. A. Kerr of Alexandria, officiated and Jean Bonhomme was soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by Dr. Philip Hill of Montreal, and wore a floor-length gown of candlelight white poult de soie in traditional style. Her headdress was a full-length lace mantilla and she carried a bouquet of white and gold gladioli and lemon-yellow orchids.

Miss Gail Cragg was maid of honor for her sister.

Dr. Brian Benoit was best man and the ushers were Pierre and David Benoit, all of Ottawa.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. C. K. Carpenter, Chateauguay, Que., and later Dr. and Mrs. Benoit left for a trip to Mont Tremblant. For travelling the bride chose a light blue ensemble with burgundy accessories and orchid corsage.

They will reside in Montreal.

The bride is a great granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Chisholm, Lochiel.

guage minorities of more than 10 per cent.

In one of its key recommendations, the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism suggests municipal, judicial and educational services and facilities be available in both languages.

Priority of Bilingualism. it says, should be given to welfare officials, municipal hospital staffs and police.

"But in due course," it says, "French-speaking and English-speaking citizens can expect to be served in their own language and, wherever possible by someone who understands their culture."

Part of the cost of establishing bilingual services, it says should come from the federal government which it says "has important responsibilities in all bilingual districts."

The recommendations have already been anticipated by the Ontario government which suggested programs to accommodate bilingual areas in studies prepared for the recent Confederation of Tomorrow Conference.

The Ottawa-St. Lawrence region of Ontario, the royal commission says, is among the most bilingual areas of Canada with its large minority-language groups.

But the "French density" of the region fluctuates from six per cent in Renfrew County to 83 per cent in Prescott County.

And it says most of the French Canadians here have retained their mother tongue and says "assimilation appears to be negligible in the counties of Prescott and Russell where they are solidly in the majority."

The bilingual district program would have to be supported by both the federal and provincial governments and the commission suggests all their offices there be staffed with employees able to provide services in either language.

"This does not mean that all the members of the staff must be bilingual—a certain number of bilingual employees will suffice to guarantee these services," the report says.

Among the special needs it has found in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence region "is a secondary school system in the minority language."

This recommendation has also been anticipated by the Ontario government which has agreed to the establishment of French high schools here and has appointed a committee to plan their development.

AVONMORE

CENTENNIAL DINNER HELD

An address by Nick Kaneb, Mayor of Cornwall, and a panel discussion of local leaders stressed the same theme at a dinner held last Wednesday night under the sponsorship of the Avonmore and District Centennial Committee. The dinner was held in St. James United Church hall and was attended by nearly 100 citizens.

Mr. Kaneb remarked that the spirit which Centennial Year exemplifies should continue to be part of the Canadian outlook on life. Centennial year, he said, "must not be permitted to be just the end of 100 years but rather the beginning of a new century, a new era, and a new outlook".

Mr. Kaneb was introduced by Dr. W. M. Stevenson and thanked by Mrs. Maldwyn Watkins.

Alex Gilbert, Centennial commissioner in the area and manager of the Cornwall Board of Trade, outlined the importance of a small group which gives active leadership in seeking community betterment in all possible ways. Such a group is particularly valuable when government agencies have to be approached and dealt with, a necessary task at times, and one which is almost impossible for a single individual to accomplish.

The theme of community revitalization was the chief topic of a panel composed of Glenn McMillan, moderator; Mrs. E. L. Filion, representating the Avonmore Women's Institute; M. F. McRae, one of the village trustees; Burns McIntyre, president of the Avonmore District Chamber of Commerce, and Sesel Wert, a member of the Township Public School Board.

The panel came out strongly on the theme of improved participation in local affairs. Mr. McRae indicated it is often difficult to find men to serve as village trustees. Mrs. Filion made a plea for younger women to take more interest in the Institute, which has many calls on its members which they find increasingly difficult to fill.

The impact of numerous changes on the community was mentioned by Mr. Wert whose talk reflected changing times when he told the audience that children like school these days; quite a change from the earlier days of one-room schools, heated by wood stoves. Mr. McIntyre sought a renewal of the community in a continuation of the spirit of Centennial Year.

C. E. Blair, reeve of the Township of Roxborough, addressed the meeting, suggesting that it is time for Roxborough to exert itself. A road from Avonmore to Highway No. 2 should be energetically sought, not only by the councillors but by the citizens of Avonmore and Roxborough, as a whole, he suggested.

The toast to Canada was proposed by Dr. D. G. Bennett and replied to on behalf of the youth of Avonmore by Miss Jean Barkley.

Rev. Donald W. Pipe, chairman of the Avonmore and District Centennial Committee, was chairman of the evening's program.
