

Council Seeking Low Rental Housing Project

SURVEY STARTS TODAY TO FIND TENANTS' NEEDS

A survey starting today will determine the housing needs of renters and may well determine whether a housing project will be undertaken under a federal-provincial partnership this year. Meeting with Iroquois Council were representatives of the federal and provincial government agencies concerned and the Ontario Hydro. The meeting was held in the Council Chambers Wednesday afternoon.

With the problem of providing houses for renters forced from apartments and houses which cannot be moved to the new townsite, brought to the fore as Hydro nears the end of moving operations here, a solution was sought by the local council.

The meeting yesterday afternoon saw a resolution passed by Council asking for the federal-provincial partnership to enter into the building of a possible 100 units. The survey will determine the exact needs of the renters and from this will be determined the type of units to be built, whether it being multiple, single or row type housing.

A. E. K. Bunnell, director of the housing branch, Department of Planning and Development, explained the rental housing project, with Harry Hustler of Ontario Hydro's property department, expressing interest on the Commission's behalf in a solution to the rental problem. It was intimated by the property chief that the Commission may provide serviced lots without charge, to assist in keeping the overall cost and rentals to a minimum.

To date, Hydro feels there will be from 60 to 80 families needing accommodation, over and above those who can be provided houses that have been moved to the new townsite. The hope was expressed by village council members that the project could be undertaken under the partnership to relieve the pressing situation.

It was pointed out on a question, by Reeve Lloyd Davis that the units, if built, would not be for sale but would be completely on a rental basis.

Rentals are based on the monthly net family income, under the scheme, on a progressive scale. That is to say, if the net family income goes up or down, so too does the rent. An example, within a few dollars, of the rent a family of five would pay, with a net family income of $200 per month would be approximately $41. A family of two with a net family income of $200 would pay approximately $44.00.

Survey Important

It was stressed that correct answers must be given by tenants when the survey is made so that a true picture of the needs of the renter can be arrived at. The questionnaire is completely confidential. The Post learned from a representative of Central Mortgage and Housing and the survey will be undertaken by Hydro with supervision from CMHC.

Questions asked are: Do you wish to be relocated in a rental housing project? Income, wage per month, family allowance, other income? Family composition: husband, wife, children? What rent you now pay? Does this include heat, light, kitchen appliances, other utilities? Would you be willing to pay approximately one-fifth of your family income for rent? Accommodation now enjoyed?

Explaining why little could have been said previously on the renter, Mr. Hustler pointed out there had not been any clear picture of what the needs of the rental group in the village would be. Now, he said, the picture was clear and a program could be undertaken. Later in the meeting it was stated the results of the survey would be known within three weeks, at which time further consideration would be given the rental housing project.

Red Cross Society Well On Way To Goal

To date the sum of $579.90 has been collected by the canvassers for the Red Cross. With a target of $800.00, we still have a little way to go, but under the circumstances, it is felt the citizens of Iroquois and the surrounding district have been most generous. We have until the end of March to get all returns in, so let's all keep trying.

FARM FORUM SERIES IS BROUGHT TO END

Mrs. Chas. McInnis

The St. Lawrence Seaway Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin O'Dell on Monday night for the final meeting of the 1955-56 series. Dr. H. H. Hannam, President of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and Roy Grant, of the Maritime Co-operative Services, reviewed the Farm Forum during the past sixteen years, presenting its past, present and future.

Before farm forums were organized farm organizations were few and far between but during the past sixteen years many things have been accomplished. We now have 22 commodity groups and combined, they form the Ontario Federation of Agriculture—then combining all groups of each province make up the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. This is the present situation but what about the future? They are now all working toward one final goal—experienced salesmanship and sale of their own produce.

Dr. Hannam told us that farming is the only industry that puts their produce in other hands to sell—has little or no control over his goods and takes what they give him. Now what about the future? Well it remains with the farmer and can be made bright and profitable if they will stand behind the farm organizations—give them their whole-hearted support and urge on the government to give a marketing legislation whereby marketing agencies can be set up and under experienced salesmen help sell their own products, secure the highest prices—thus our final goal is reached.

The secretary would like to take this opportunity to say thank you very much to all the members and friends for their good attendance, the use of their homes and in general the splendid interest and all-round co-operation during the season all of which helped to make the forum a success.

On behalf of the St. Lawrence Seaway Farm Forum I would like also to extend to The Iroquois Post our sincere thanks for publishing the weekly reports. Publicity goes a long way towards success.

And so we close the book on another farm forum series and until next Fall we wish all a successful year in all your farming activities.

MATILDA COUPLE HAVE BEEN MARRIED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

On the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Percy McQuaig were pleasantly surprised when members of their family visited them to mark the occasion.

They were married by Rev. W. R. Johnson in Spencerville on March 11th, 1931, and have lived in the Brinston and Hulbert vicinity since that time. Mrs. McQuaig is the former Dorothy Thompson.

During the evening the couple received many lovely gifts. Accompanying the gifts were cards of congratulations from friends and relatives.

Lunch was served to end the enjoyable evening.

LARGEST MOVED. The Williamson Nursing Home is seen here an hour after it had been lifted from its foundation, on its way to the new townsite—a ¾-mile trek. The 15-room home was moved on rubber tired dollies, differing drastically from the Hartshorne House Mover method used on all other houses to date. Everything went as planned and the house is now on its new foundation.

Nursing Home Largest Yet Moved Into Townsite

House moving is no novelty in Iroquois any more but the moving of the Williamson Nursing Home provide its share in the way of making house moving history; the nursing home being the largest building Bill Hartshorne's crew have moved to date. The 15-room home was jacked up manually in sharp contrast to the system employed by the unique mover brought here from the States to move Seaway Valley homes. Thursday the dollies were rolled under the supporting beams and the three-quarter mile trek began.

It had been estimated four days would be required to make the move and the rehab and moving crews were right on the nose in their planning. Time was the only exceptional element involved because the large frame building rolled along smoothly and without a hitch in plans. Its arrival at the new site scored another "first" for "Bill" Hartshorne who is faced with the chore of moving all Seaway Valley homes pushed out of the way of the power project.

Ed. Williamson, along with his wife, Hildred and family, were evacuated to the former Dr. Chas. Haley home on Victoria Street where they will remain until the home is again ready to function as a nursing home, possibly within a month. Meanwhile, the five patients being cared for at the home were taken to the annex at Cornwall General Hospital to wait out their forced removal while necessary repairs and improvements are made.

The Williamsons have operated the nursing home here for the past five years and have built a fine reputation in the area for the splendid service provided patients. The Home is equipped to accommodate 12.

New Bell Building

Construction of the new Bell Telephone dial exchange is literally forging ahead and within the past two weeks the change has been from bare ground to a building almost complete outside. The outside brick walls are up and Bell plans when fulfilled, will provide the community not only with the most efficient telephone service possible but with an architecturally designed building planned to enhance the surrounding area.

Bell plans for the immediate future are to change the present magneto system to dial; the same treatment which will be afforded all the communities along the "front" affected by the power project.

October has been set as the completion date for the Bell project in Iroquois, just one of the many improvements brought about by progress and the power and seaway projects.

Homes Nearer Completion

Numerous new homes are rapidly nearing completion as contractors strive to finish homes started in the Fall and Winter, ready to embark on a Spring program of construction. As soon as the other two new towns near Cornwall are ready to receive house construction crews, many new homes will be built in these areas as well. One contractor told The Post he already had contracts to build homes in Town No. 2.

Model For Area

Iroquois may well be proud of the new undertaking parlors and chapel being built by the community's undertaker, W. E. Fitzsimmons. Mr. Fitzsimmons' new building is a model which may well set a new style for future chapels in the Valley.

Outstanding principally by its size, the new chapel, undertaking parlors and private residence, blend architecturally into a building suggesting reverence. It is a tribute not only to the architect and builder, but to the owner as well.

Large homes are not numerous in the townsite but for a community of 1200, Iroquois will have its share. Reeve Lloyd and Mrs. Davis are looking fondly towards the day when they may move into their rambling home on Davis Drive. Councillor Jack Fetterly, garage operator Garnet Casselman, service station operator Clifton Davis, businessman Lenie Law and others are having large comfortable homes built. These will soon be ready for occupancy.

An exploratory approach has been made in the business section but it is not known for sketchy reports whether definite agreements have or have not been reached. Building of the new shopping centre will begin with the arrival of the necessary steel in May. Mud is anticipated to be the biggest factor in determining building and moving operations in the next month or so.

There are now less than forty homes to be moved to the townsite.

SHORT COURSE PLANNED BY W.I. SOUTH BRANCH

The South Mountain Branch of the Women's Institute met in the community rink house for their March meeting. The President, Mrs. Roy had charge of the meeting. The roll call was answered with Hints for Gardeners and there was an exchange of plant slips.

Mrs. T. W. Robinson and Mrs. J. Morrow reported that several calls had been made. Plans were made for the Short Course—sandwiches for all occasions—to be held April 18 to which all the ladies of the community are invited.

Mrs. Graham gave a history of our Institute, from 1914-1948.

Mrs. Gallagher, convener for Agriculture, had charge of the program which opened with community singing of Irish songs. Current events were given by Mrs. H. E. Barry, Mrs. A. Graham, Mrs. T. W. Robinson and Mrs. G. Cleland. Household hints were given by each of the members. Mrs. G. Mulholland read a paper on "A Tribute to a Cow". Mrs. Wm. McIntyre read a paper on Bush Farming at the lakehead. Mrs. Roy Graham gave a demonstration on planting a dish garden.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Herb McQuaig Observes 78th Birthday

Mrs. Herb McQuaig celebrated her 78th birthday with her immediate family, at her Brinston home. She was born on March 10th, 1878, in the Hulbert District where she has been very active among her many good friends and neighbors.

Mrs. McQuaig received many gifts and cards of congratulations.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY IN WESTERN PROVINCE

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Murdock, of Maidstone, Sask., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday, February 21st.

Mr. Murdock was born at Glen Stewart.

Owing to a heavy snowstorm they were unable to have their family celebration until the afternoon of the 23rd.

Mrs. Murdock attired in a silvery corded silk dress, wore a corsage of yellow roses, the gift of her husband.

The rooms were decorated with bouquets of golden mums and tulips. The lace draped table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, which was made and decorated by their daughter, Mrs. Helen Coulthard.

Many 'phone calls and telegrams were received from friends and relatives who were unable to be present. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock received several lovely gifts from members of the family and close friends.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Murdock's three sisters, Gertrude (Mrs. Barrack) of Cereal; Wilda (Mrs. Smith), of Calgary; Marion (Mrs. Dahl) of Edmonton; Mrs. W. C. Barrack, Cereal, Alta., and Mrs. Pearl Murdock, of Saskatoon.

Married at South Mountain

Mr. and Mrs. Murdock were married on February 21st, 1906, at South Mountain, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Grey. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. Burke of the South Mountain Methodist Church.

After two weeks' honeymoon the young couple settled at Groveton, where Mr. Murdock was manager of a cheese factory for three years.

Then they moved to Brinston where Mr. Murdock was employed in John Jackson's general store.

In 1911 they went west and home-stayed in the Cereal, Alta., district. In 1923 they moved to Maidstone.

Library News

H. G. D.

"PAPA'S WIFE" by Thyra Ferre Bjorn.

Here is a delightful book—fiction based on fact. "Papa" is Pastor Pontus Franzon, and his wife is Maria, who started out as the Pastor's maid, graduated to housekeeper, and finally became Mrs. Franzon. The very deep trust in God that Maria had even excelled that of her husband, and in many events in their lives, and that of their eight children this great faith is shown.

This would be a good book to read aloud—it is witty in spots, sad, too, in spots, but oh, so real to us all!

MATILDA W. I. MAKES DONATION TO RED CROSS DRIVE

The March meeting of Matilda Women's Institute was held in the Memorial Hall, Brinston. Mrs. Donnie Thompson, president, presiding with Mrs. Ruth Cooper as secretary.

The secretary read a letter of appreciation for favors received while in hospital, from Mrs. Mac Smyth. A donation of $25.00 was made to the Red Cross Society. The treasurer reported $78.40 balance after expenses, from the banquet served Matilda District Co-operative. A discussion re entertaining the district in their 50th anniversary, was laid over for future discussion in April.

Mrs. Wilbert Safford, convener of Historical Research committee took charge of a programme consisting of current events by Mrs. Harvey Barkley; paper by Mrs. Safford "Heritage of the Human Race"; vocal solo "Ireland Must Be Heaven" by Mrs. C. A. Strader, with Mrs. A. E. Bell as piano accompanist; display and explanation of antiques gathered from the members; by Mrs. C. N. Murphy and Mrs. Tom McGinn; vocal duet by Mrs. Oliver Smyth and Mrs. Allan Waddell, in costume, with Mrs. Bell as piano accompanist; roll call, answered by an axiom; musical quiz conducted by Mrs. C. N. Murphy, with Mrs. Safford and Mrs. McGinn tied as winners.

Mrs. George Johnston and Mrs. Ray Johnston, special hostesses, with their assistants, served luncheon.

ARRANGE SALE OF SAFETY SHOES

A decision to arrange sales outlets for safety shoes on the Power Project was the highlight of last week's Central Safety Committee meeting at Cornwall. A marked upswing in foot injuries on the job during the past two months prompted this action by the Central Committee.

Arrangements are being made this week with retail stores in Cornwall, Morrisburg, Iroquois and Prescott to carry safety shoes in several lines. These shoes and boots will be available to project workers at special prices.

Mrs. Roy Robinson is a patient in the Brockville General Hospital. Her many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

and settled in the Tebo Corner district where they have resided ever since.

They have two daughters, Helen, (Mrs. John Coulthard); Irene (Mrs. Freeman Reece), both of Maidstone; one son, Graydon of Calgary; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

A younger daughter, Doris, passed away in August, 1950.

Owing to blocked roads friends were unable to visit the couple but on Sunday afternoon, February 26, about thirty residents of Tebo Corner district called on them and they were presented with an electric standard lamp along with best wishes for continued health and happiness.

Montreal Firm Awarded Contract New Linen Mills

H. H. Caldwell, President of Caldwell Linen Mills Limited, announced that a construction contract has been awarded to Pentagon Construction Co. Ltd. of Montreal for the new plant of Caldwell Linen Mills Limited at Iroquois. This plant will replace the existing buildings now occupied by Caldwell for the manufacture of its line of huck and terry towelling. The new plant is necessary for the continued operation of this company because the present plant must be demolished to make way for the St. Lawrence Seaway. The new plant will be a single storey building 356 feet x 332 feet, having a floor area of 135,000 square feet. It will be located on a site between the relocated Canadian National Railways main line and Highway 401 to the north of the new Iroquois. All the most modern and up-to-date facilities will be incorporated in this new plant. It is expected that the buildings will be complete and ready for occupancy during the latter part of 1956.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Owing to several increases in the cost of newsprint during the last few years we are now obliged to change the rate of subscriptions to The Iroquois Post to $2.50 per year to any address in Canada and $3.50 per year to U.S.A. subscribers. The new rate becomes effective at the end of March.

Eastern Ontario Seed Fair plans are complete for Kemptville

Carman C. Tennant, Agricultural Representative, Greenville County

Our County Seed Fair takes place on Friday and Saturday, March 23rd and 24th. The site will be Room 109 of the Provincial Government Office Building at Kemptville. This is the storehouse of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Adjoining rooms have been made available for the seed judging competition and for the program of addresses, through the kindness of officials of other Departments. Since this space is all on the ground floor, as well as being well lighted and heated, it is considered that we are well set as far as location is concerned.

All exhibits are to be received and put in place during the forenoon of the first day (Friday). We realize that this also is the date of the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeding Association, which takes place at the Unit Headquarters and at the K.A.S. Judging pavilion. Our exhibitors who wish to attend the inspection of the new laboratory building of the E.O.C.B.A. can make their plans so as to have their exhibits in place here by 11.00 a.m.

We are quite pleased with the interest shown to date in the Seed Fair, and it is expected that the number of entries will be at least up to average. The judging will take place on Friday afternoon with D. L. Parks, of the Field Husbandry Department, Kemptville Agricultural School, judging all classes.

A seed judging competition is to take place on Saturday morning at 10.00 a.m. with registration of contestants 15 minutes earlier. Since the date was purposely set to make it more convenient for contestants who may be attending school, we hope that they may respond in goodly numbers.

An interesting program of addresses has been arranged for Saturday afternoon at 2.00 o'clock. A period has been set aside for the reports of delegates to the Eastern Ontario Crop Conference, and for this report of our delegate to the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Convention in Toronto in late January. Three speakers have accepted an invitation to speak on subjects which should be of timely interest. Garnet Ralph, Richmond, a young farmer who has won distinction in the production and exhibiting of cereal and forage crops will outline his methods. We will have the opportunity of hearing for the first time Dr. W. R. Childers, a plant breeder on the staff of the Division of Forage Crops, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. It is expected that he will bring us up-to-date on grass and legume varieties. Another interesting feature will be a talk on the value of the honeybee in the pollination of legumes, by Victor Mesley of Kemptville.

The auction sale of ten-bushel lots of Commercial No. 1 Oats will take place at 4.00 p.m. Saturday, with W. H. Finnerty doing the selling. Varieties offered will be Rodney, Lanark, Roxton and Erban. This will be a good opportunity to buy seed covered by a Control Sample Certificate.

Several educational exhibits will be on display, and there will be an identification contest which is open to all.

Powdered inoculants for all kinds of legume seeds will be available at cost at the Fair.

The Ottawa Valley Seed Fair is to be held at Shawville, Quebec, on April 4-5 and 6.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeding Association will have added interest this year because of the new laboratory building, which is being completed at the Association's headquarters. This will be well worth seeing—and a building of which the members can be proud. Lunch will be served to all.

The speaker at the annual meeting, which takes place at 2.00 p.m. in the Judging Pavilion at the Kemptville Agricultural School, will be Dr. J. O. Amquist, Professor of Dairy Husbandry Pennsylvania State College. His subjects will be: "Suggestions for Reducing Breeding Troubles", and "The Ten Commandments for Obtaining a High Breeding Efficiency."

A local organization which is showing a great deal of life and vigor is the Kemptville Horticultural Society. A meeting of the executive will be held on Wednesday evening, March 21st, at which the chairman of the various committees will report. It is understood that the seasons program includes the holding of two shows, a Tulip Show in May, and the regular flower show in August, along with projects inclined toward town beautification.

New members are joining up continually, and are ready to do their share in carrying out the objectives of the Association. Interest is at a new high, and it can be anticipated that much worthy work may be done during the season.

The first of a series of open meetings at which matters of prime interest will be discussed is to be held in the North Grenville District High School Auditorium on March 28th at 8.00 p.m.

Mainsville WMS plans two quiltings

The Mainsville United W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. Morton Adams on Wednesday evening for the March meeting with nine members and one visitor present. Mrs. Irwin Adams had charge and opened the meeting with hymn 182; scripture readings were given by the group with silent prayer, questions and discussion.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, also roll call and collection was taken, and Mrs. H. Adams took charge of the business. She read a letter on the Colombo Plan and asked the members to decide on the price and quilting of two quilts, one will be quilted at her home on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

The group read parts from "The Vanishing Race" and lecture by Dr. McKay. Mrs. Mort Adams read a short poem, "A Missionary (Prairie Preacher)"; hymn 310 was sung and the Mizpah Benediction was repeated in unison. A mission contest was conducted by Mrs. Smith, Mrs. L. Scott being the winner.

Many factors enter fishing success successive seasons

J. D. McKee
Rideau District

Many anglers, tourist resort operators and other interested people have noted that the catch of fish in a particular lake or area for a particular species of fish varies from year to year. The catch may be excellent in some years, average or poor in others. The reason for this variation has often been discussed, and has been attributed to numerous causes, including the weather during the fishing season, the amount of food available in the lake, over-fishing, and so on. These factors, and others probably all have some more or less important connection with fishing success, but it is known that one of the main factors contributing to fishing success is reproduction which occurred several years previous.

Many of our game fish are four years old before they reach legal size. It is doubtful if many of our fish such as bass or pickerel have a life span longer than 10 to 15 years. Probably they become wiser as they grow older, and younger fish are easier to catch than nine-or-10-year-old veterans. In the natural environment, perfect conditions for spawning and incubation of the eggs very seldom, if ever, occur. These ideal conditions would include the correct water temperatures from before spawning time until after the eggs hatch, control of foods or changes in water levels, control of winds that wash away eggs or bury them in silt, as well as suitable locations for spawning, and protection of the eggs from predators. These conditions, especially those of temperatures and foods, vary from year to year, and determine the success of spawning and hatching. In bass hatcheries, these factors are regulated as much as possible to ensure a good hatch, but a change in water temperature which cannot be readily controlled has a very serious effect on incubating fish eggs, much to the dismay of hatchery personnel.

The bulk of the anglers' catch in any one season usually consists of fish from two or three age groups. If, because of adverse weather and other conditions, the spawning and hatching success of a fish species is poor for, say, three years in a row, then it is to be expected that there will be a poor supply of four, five and six-year-old fish four years later. During the years when these age groups should supply most of the anglers' catch, fishing success will be particularly poor. A very successful hatch, on the other hand, will show up in improved supplies of fish years later and when these fish enter the anglers' catch, fishing success naturally is much improved.

An extreme example of this is demonstrated in a study carried out over a number of years in a part of Lake Michigan where yellow pickerel are fished commercially. The annual catch of pickerel in this area averaged 91,000 pounds from 1929 to 1945. In 1945 it fell to only 21,000 pounds, but large numbers of small pickerel were observed. In 1947, 1948, 1949 and 1950 the annual catches were 262,000 pounds, 572,000 pounds, 1,063,000 pounds and 1,294,000 pounds respectively.

This enormous increase in catch was proved to be the result of a very successful spawning and hatching season in 1943, and more than 90% of the increased catches of 1947, 1948, 1949 and 1950 were pickerel that had hatched in 1943. Since that time the annual catch has again dropped to 500,000 pounds in 1951 and to 300,000 pounds in 1952. It may be many, many years before such a successful hatch occurs again.

It can be concluded, therefore, that stocking with hatchery reared fish that would be of much more value in years of poor natural reproduction than in years when conditions for reproduction were good.

NHA SMALL HOUSE DESIGNS—Wilson and Newton, Toronto architects, have designed this attractive 1½-story house to provide ample room for the growing family. An interesting exterior pattern is created by the full length living room window overlooking the planting area while a corner window on the opposite side of the entrance balances the effect and ensures a bright, sunny interior.

The combined living and dining room extends the full width of the house with a door opening out on the rear garden. Storage space is no problem here for, in addition to the generous cupboards in all three bedrooms, there is a coat closet in the entrance hall and a linen cupboard upstairs. The two complete bathrooms add a touch of luxury to this economical design.

The floor area of this house is 1,195 square feet and the cubic measurement is 18,265 cubic feet. Exterior dimensions are 30 feet two inches by 24 feet 10 inches. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 301, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Compressed air 'flows' concrete under ship canals to powerhouse

Sixty tons of cement is being blown under two canals and is sent a distance of about a third of a mile every hour during concrete placing operations on the main dam and powerhouse at Ontario Hydro's St. Lawrence Power Project. This interesting method of moving cement in the busy work area, without men and vehicles for conventional transportation, will continue for the next four years, and was adopted by Iroquois Constructors, the powerhouse contractor.

Cement moving is carried out effectively and almost inconspicuously with an eight-inch steel pipe and air pressure. The pipe descends under the ship channels, curves several times and ascends, finally leading into two big storage silos adjacent to the large concrete batching and mixing plant, some 1800 feet from the source of entering the pipe and where the blowing occurs. Air under pressure of 35 to 40 pounds per square inch literally whisks the cement along the pipe passageway.

Significant feature of this blowing operation is the fact that so much cement, about 1400 bags on the average per hour, is moved rapidly and without adding more traffic to this bustling work sector. This is a decided advantage because a great number of vehicles and much manpower would be required to keep replenishing the supply of cement in the storage silos. The supply is swiftly depleted during concrete mixing and placing operations, especially when there are large pours, continuing for several hours.

With this long pipe system it is possible to keep the cement figuratively flowing to keep up with the consumption at the big concrete plant. The pipe system is scientifically designed with all factors considered for smooth movement of cement. Engineering studies were made of the distance, the number of bends and curves, the height that the pipe climbed and the friction that had to be overcome in an eight-inch pipe. These things had to be determined so sufficient air pressure would be exerted to allow for all these factors.

Only visible sign that cement is being moved into the area is the string of railway dump cars lined up every day on the siding in front of the single storage near old No. 2 highway. The railway cars are bringing the estimated 200,000 tons of cement to the area that will be used in making concrete for the Ontario Hydro half of the main power structure.

These railway cars unload directly into the screw conveyor beneath the siding track and the cement is pushed into a bucket conveyor and taken up to the top of the storage silo. The screw conveyor functions like the interior of a meat chopper or food grinder and the bucket conveyor consists of a series of buckets on an endless chain, the buckets picking up the cement at the bottom of the chain and dumping it when the top is reached.

When cement blowing operations commence, the bulk cement drops from the silo into a pipe below. Here the cement enters a screw conveyor which carries it through the pipe from a 200 h.p. water-cooled air compressor. The operator maintains 35 to 40 pounds pressure and the cement is carried along by the force of this air stream nearly 1800 feet through the eight-inch pipe to the mixing plant silos near the powerhouse site.

Trained operators like Alex. MacDonald, the plant operator, and Abraham Keeksner, operator assistant, check the pressure constantly against a build-up in the line because the cement takes ten right-angle turns and ascends a total height of 50 feet during its course to the storage silos. When a build-up occurs, the operator immediately cuts off the cement feeding into the line, thereby allowing the full

WHAT'S NEW

The Mysterious North

Picture, if you can, miles of pink mountains, each peak an Everest, and the whole range a veritable Himalaya. Then the rose-pink mountains waver—and after that they wobble. Next thing you know, they have vanished. That's a northern mirage.

All this and more—much more, you read in Pierre Berton's fantasia of the mysterious north. Only it is not fantasia but fact. Up here they have only recently found islands bigger than Prince Edward Island and not previously on any map.

You exult that this is your own Canada when you read of the Sikan-na Chief River, you thrill over the Headless Valley, you are somberly entertained when, at the end of the book, Berton flies over "The Land of Feast and Famine" to the lonely, empty barrens, and to Canada's least-visited public park, the Thelon Game Sanctuary, haunt of the mysterious musk ox.

Although obviously the love of his life is the Yukon area, Berton makes a big detour to "Lands Forsaken and Seas Forlorn." So he goes to Baffin Island first, learns Baffin is the fourth largest island in the world, tells of the paradox of Bylot Island which is across from Pond Inlet, and yet has produced a tree trunk remains on a treeless terrain, and then finally he moves on to the Chubb Crater. This world's largest crater was only found as recently as 1950.

He sees the Cadillacs and cocktail bars before he rides Canada's newest railroad, the Quebec North Shore and Labrador, to the iron fields. Here, winter never quite surrenders to summer. Yet "Labrador is no closer to the Arctic than Northern Saskatchewan or the warm valleys of British Columbia" and Knob Lake is on a latitude with Dublin and Liverpool.

Make no mistake about it; Pierre Berton has given us a great book. This is a fine volume to send somebody as a present, someone who might be curious about the empire of the permafrost. It could be dangerous to send "The Mysterious North" to an ignorant and impressionable American who like as not would figure Aklavik was only a morning's musing by dog-team from Ottawa. This is a book about Canadians and by Canadians for Canadians. In its own field it is superb, and really interesting.

The Story of L. M. Montgomery

This is the first biography of Lucy Maud Montgomery, creator of Anne of Green Gables, who is one of the few Canadian women writers to become internationally known. The biographer is Hilda M. Ridley, who has contributed to many periodicals.

Anne of Green Gables, written in 1908, had a prospective audience of teen-aged girls, but turned out to have almost universal appeal and has twice been filmed. L. M. Montgomery's power to enchant lay in the fact that she depicted the thoughts of an imaginative child and the adolescent dreams of a growing girl, and children and healthy-minded adolescents are much the same everywhere.

Miss Ridley presents the background of the author's youth and creative period, from childhood in her grandparents' home in Cavendish, Prince Edward Island, to her marriage to the Rev. Ewan Macdonald of the Presbyterian Church at Leaskdale, Ont., and, finally, to her successful publication of over 20 books which were widely read by a generation now mature. Whether our Canadian teen-agers still read them with as much pleasure is a point we will leave undecided, but most certainly Anne became an established character of fiction, read in almost every European language, evidenced by the willingness of a British firm to publish an English edition of Miss Ridley's biography.

Prince Edward Island owes to L. M. Montgomery the acquisition of its main tourist attraction, Green Gables, the last of which was published in 1942, shortly after the author's death.

Miss Ridley has shown in this all too brief biography, sincerity and warmth. We would like to read more about the gradual development of L. M. Montgomery's mind to the point where she is spoken of as ranking with Louisa M. Alcott.

New packaging ideas Cheesemakers' meeting

A one-day spring conference for cheesemakers in the Eastern part of Ontario is planned for March 27th at the Dairy Division of the Kemptonville Agricultural School. Plans for the conference have been made by officials of the Milk Products Board of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and the K.A.S., in collaboration with the executive of the Ontario Cheese Manufacturers' Association.

The morning session will be devoted largely to a demonstration of a new method of packaging cheese for retail sale. This method, which has been used for several years on poultry and meat, is proving readily adaptable to many types of cheese.

The afternoon session will feature addresses by government and industry representatives and will include talks on dairy waste disposal, changes in cheese marketing and a discussion of factors involved in flavour development during ripening of cheese. The conference will conclude with a cheese scoring contest in which cheesemakers will have a chance to test their judging ability against the dairy produce graders of the Canada Department of Agriculture.

Prescott, spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Levere and family were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Byrd, Mountain Station.

Mrs. George Rylance was a caller at Mrs. Henry Boyd's on Sunday.

We all join in sending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. J. Alton Miller, of Lancaster, on the birth of a son. Mr. Miller was a former Glen Stewart boy.
