Post office open in rec centre

Dunvegan's temporary postal outlet opened in the hamlet's recreation centre last week. The outlet will offer limited postal service until Canada Post Corporation can find a suitable site for a post office. The outlet was forced to move earlier this month when postmistress Evelyn Viau took a leave of absence. The outlet was based out of her Dunvegan Road home.

Chamber hosts annual meeting

Terry Fox Run invites locals

Since 1982, the Terry Fox Run for Cancer Research has raised more than $22,000 in Alexandria. And while there's no run planned locally in 1999, Alexandrians can still help pad those numbers by participating in Cornwall's run Sunday, Sept. 19.

According to organizer Diane Moore, the Terry Fox Run gets under way at 10 a.m. at the bandshell in Cornwall's Lamoureux Park. The long route takes runners to the power dam along the bicycle trail while the short route runs east to St. Lawrence College. There will be opening ceremonies, a barbeque and a puppet show for children.

Pledge sheets are available in town at ScotiaBank, the Bank of Montreal and the Alexandria Post Office. Contact Karen Paavila of Alexandria at 525-1399 for more information.

Local woman falls to death

A Williamstown area woman died Saturday after falling three metres from a bed at a friend's Peterborough apartment loft.

Sarah Meyer, 22, became unconscious and suffered broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Meyer was enrolled in the second year of the Travel Merchandise program of Sir Sandford Fleming College.

She leaves behind parents Wiebe and Carolyn Meyer, brother Paul and sister Laura.

A wake will be held Wednesday (today) at Munro and Morris Funeral Home in Lancaster from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The funeral is Thursday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster.

MacSweyns seeking additional drain funds

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

The ever-growing cost of concluding the R.F. MacLennan Drain issue might take a leap forward in a few weeks.

Drainage Referee Delbert O'Brien promised Sept. 9 to decide whether North Glengarry Township should fork out more money to cover additional field restoration and tileage work.

During Thursday's Drainage Referee tribunal in Alexandria, O'Brien heard from lawyers representing the township and the MacSweyns as well as Howard Noble, chair of the Lochiel Ward Ratepayers Association.

The township and the association are opposed to two new funding requests by the MacSweyns.

During last spring's drain reconstruction, the MacSweyns spent $26,457 to hire contractors to back-fill the drain in order to make a level grade.

They want the township to recompense them for this amount and an additional $12,604 for using their own equipment.

Referee O'Brien had allocated $17,000 for soil rehabilitation in October 1998.

The township had received invoices from soil specialists, Dr. Richard Coote and Dr. Chang Wang, for a combined $7,665.

Both sides supplied witnesses that were cross-examined by township special counsel Connie Reeve, MacSweyn representative Allan O'Brien and Noble.

Noble's request to ask witnesses questions was not endorsed by Reeve or O'Brien .

During a presentation, sole witness Kent MacSweyn showed how the farm land had been altered and damaged during an earlier repair in 1987.

He said the clay tiles were "severed" by equipment running over the drain, which had been designed to allow machinery to cross over.

Clay tiles with trapped water inside will break the clay if the water freezes and expands.

But much of that tileage section that collects water run-off was "basically destroyed," he said.

While MacSweyn referred back to the 1987 work and earlier, referee O'Brien advised him to avoid using evidence preceding the 1998 tribunal.

Because of the concern over the previous effects of construction on the tileage, the MacSweyns want an expert to investigate the affected land to determine the extent of the damage they claim still exists.

The cost of a study and implementing its recommendations would be borne by the township, and subsequently, Lochiel ward ratepayers.

Township lawyer Reeve, however, made a point of illustrating the effectiveness of the drain.

She asked MacSweyn if there had been any tileage problems this summer since the drain was finished.

New plan approved in stages

By Derek Gordanier

Consultants will begin work this month on an official plan for North Glengarry Township but new zoning bylaws will await the new year.

The total cost of merging the four former townships' official plans and zoning regulations into one could brush $90,000.

"The advantage to developing an official plan for North Glengarry (is that it) ensures commonality of policies in rural areas," said Tom Kent of J.L. Richards & Associates Consulting.

Kenyon and Lochiel ward, for example, have different policies on severances.

Township suspends LACAC

By Derek Gordanier
News Editor

Township council Monday suspended its Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC) until "such time as council can gain confidence in it," according to a letter signed by Reeve Grant Crack.

The letter, dated Sept. 8, cites three instances where LACAC overstepped its mandate and calls for the suspension of the committee on the grounds that "members...have gone beyond the scope and intent" of Ontario Heritage Act legislation that grants them advisor status to North Glengarry Township council.

Recent committee actions that Crack said "council does not and would not have approved" are:

- putting public pressure on individual property owners;
- intervening in planning issues belonging to separate council committees;
- and side-stepping the committee's role as advisor in the registration of properties under the Ontario Heritage Act. (Crack cites the example of the registration of the Macdonald House, behind the Main Street ScotiaBank branch).

Further, the letter notifies the 12 members that the reeve "will be asking council to suspend the committee" at its Sept. 13 meeting.

Council voted 5-2 Monday to suspend LACAC and restructure the committee, but not without debate.

Kenyon ward Councillor Bill Franklin voted against the motion. He requested a meeting with LACAC members to clarify their role as as a committee of council.

"Sometimes its good for you not to like what you hear," he said, referring to opinions LACAC has offered on heritage properties in Alexandria. "There's a danger in having people tell you what you want to hear."

But Crack said the LACAC practice of publicizing committee matters before bringing them to council "shows a complete lack of respect for the process.

"Every other committee of council brings issues for council's final decision. We haven't had that yet."

Three councillors and two members of the public will make up the revamped LACAC that will work under "a clearly defined mandate," Crack said.

The issue came to a head this month over LACAC's handling of the Precious Blood Monastery. Two committee members wrote newspaper articles advising that the Poor Clare Nuns order that owns the building was seeking a demolition permit for the monastery.

In a letter to council, Alexandria realtor Margaret Mosher said LACAC members were using infor-

Clinics help stop march of rabies north

By Derek Gordanier
News Editor

The timing couldn't be better.

A week after the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources announced it must expand its rabies baiting program to contain an outbreak to Leeds-Grenville counties, the Eastern Ontario Health Unit is sponsoring a series of rabies immunization clinics in this region.

Rabies hasn't been recorded in Glengarry-Stormont-Dundas since 1997 but the outbreak in neighbouring Leeds-Grenville has raised awareness here of the need for immunization.

"The public is a little more aware now (of the rabies threat)," said Gisele Martin, the health unit's rabies prevention co-ordinator.

Ontario's Health Protection and Promotion Act requires annual rabies vaccinations for domestic animals but owners often neglect to immunize their pets.

The regional rabies scare may lead to a jump in the number of people who take advantage of the health unit's vaccination clinics in 1999, however.

Martin said the 1999 immunization program will protect animals against a virulent strain of raccoon rabies that cropped up in Leeds-Grenville earlier this summer.

"There's definitely no rabies in this area, but all warm-blooded animals are at risk (of the disease)," Martin said.

Clinics will be held throughout SDG and Prescott-Russell counties. Locally, clinics are scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 18 at Alexandria Veterinary Clinic, Glengarry Animal Hospital, Lancaster Veterinary Clinic, Martintown Animal Hospital and Williamstown Veterinary Clinic.

Appointments are not taken and animals must be restrained. The cost is $15 per dog or cat.

"It's a public service," Martin said. "The $15 is for cost-recovery. The veterinarians provide the service and the health unit pays for the promotion of it."

Veterinarian Ian MacNaughton of Martintown Animal Hospital said the publicity over rabies in eastern Ontario will probably mean an increase this year over the 300 people who attended his clinic in 1998.

"People are concerned, which is wise, because a lot of raccoons live close to people," he said.

Martintown suffered a rabies outbreak 10 years ago in which 16 cases were reported locally. According to MacNaughton, the disease tends to follow seven-year cycles. And although no rabies have been recorded in Glengarry yet, the county is close to the international bridge at Cornwall and raccoons have been known to hitch rides across the border on the underbellies of transport trucks.

"They've always been afraid of that (near border crossings)," said MacNaughton, who will offer his clinic at the town fire hall to accommodate larger crowds.

MNR announced Sept. 8 that it is expanding its aerial baiting program to include a 10-kilometre zone around Prescott and Brockville, where rabies was discovered in raccoons in July.

Raccoons ingest the bait and are thereby vaccinated against rabies, halting the advance of the disease. The disease is thought to have been introduced locally by animals that crossed over from the United States.

Township to restructure LACAC

mation on matters pending before council to advance personal agendas.

"Council, as the elected officials of the township...must accept culpability for the appalling actions taken in this matter, by people appointed by you," Mosher wrote.

Crack's letter, hand-delivered to LACAC last week by council liaison Johanne Wensink, came as a surprise to committee members.

"This council has trouble with activist committees," LACAC member Blair Williams said.

He said LACAC has advised council on four issues since its formation in 1998: the Priest's Mill annex, the Macdonald House, the Precious Blood Monastery and the IDA Drug Store parking lot.

"There seems to be a problem with (LACAC) raising the public consciousness about these issues," Williams added.

Dane Lanken, a LACAC member and president of the Glengarry Historical Society, said his group will proceed as a citizens committee, without council's sanction.

"The way LACAC works, it is supposed to be funded by the municipality that sets them up," Lanken said, "but North Glengarry would never give us any money. So we're not losing anything.

"I don't think we're losing council's ear," he said. "We gave four recommendations to council, none of which were followed, so I'm not sure we had council's ear anyway."

Lanken said members did not overstep their mandate and said Crack had blurred the distinction between LACAC members and their private occupations.

For example, Williams and Lanken both wrote newspaper articles publicizing the pending demolition of the monastery. But Lanken said they did not write the articles in their capacity as LACAC members.

"I suppose if they want to construe it that way they could," said Lanken, a journalist by trade.

"But all permits are public information. I wrote a story on the monastery. That's what I do for a living, I can't not do it."

Barriers going up around Priest's Mill annex until demolition date document for uniformity,' Kent said.

The township had budgeted $35,000 toward the work for 1999 but the remainder of the tab will be picked up next year.

As a result, council directed Kent to proceed with the official plan, but will defer the $28,400 price tag for new zoning bylaws until 2000.

"It looks like a considerable amount of money," said Councillor Bill Franklin. "But my concern is that if we're going to amalgamate, let's get on with it.

"There's anguish in the community by people who live on one side of a line and can't do the same thing as the people on another side," he added.

The J.L Richards & Associates estimates include the preparation of the two new documents, digital mapping, public consultation, population forecasts and an updated land use study.

The project is expected to wrap up by June 2000.

In other council news,

• Barriers will go up around the Priest's Mill annex on the recommendation of an engineer's report that deems the site as unsafe.

Property owner Ernie Sauer has until Oct. 2 to repair or demolish the building before the township moves in to complete the work itself.

Until that time, public safety is at risk from crumbling mortar and structural faults. Further electrical wires could be pulled down if a section of the building collapsed.

The engineer's report recommends that access be restricted to the site. Until now, council had roped off the area and erected warning signs.

In the event of an accident "I don't think that would be a solid defence that we had a ribbon up," said Deputy-reeve Kent MacSweyn.

• False alarms aren't only annoying; now they're going to cost you in North Glengarry Township.

Council approved a recommendation of its district fire chiefs Sept. 13 to recover costs for false alarms in the township.

Fire departments will issue a written warning in the event of a second false alarm and will bill the resident for costs in the event of a third incident.

The charges are on a rolling basis. After a year from the first offence, the record will be cleared.

Corrections

An article published in the Sept. 8 edition of The Glengarry News contained a number of errors.

The identity of the Maxville chief building official who approved the work of an apartment building in that village was not Dorothy Irvine. Irvine was Maxville chief building official several years after the work commenced.

Also, Maxville apartment building owner Conrad Lamadeleine is not suing the Township of North Glengarry.

The News regrets the errors and any inconvenience this might have caused to Conrad Lamadeleine and Dorothy Irvine.

The surname of the winners of Premier Exhibitor, Premier Breed, Breeder's Herd and Reserve Grand Champion at the Vankleek Hill Fair Holstein Show was Barton, not Nixon as published on page 3 in the Aug. 25 edition of the News, which regrets the error and any inconveniences this might have incurred.

Not enough raindrops to bring relief to dry wells

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

Although water levels in the Garry River watershed returned to normal last week, more precipitation is required for ground levels to rise.

"The situation has improved greatly. In Alexandria water levels are back to normal," said Raisin Region Conservation Authority General Manager Roger Houde.

But rainfall is not the only reason for increased water levels in Alexandria's Mill Pond. The conservation authority opened two dams at Middle Lake and Loch Garry earlier last week to allow more water to flow to the pond, Alexandria's water source.

Houde said the authority reported a drop in the two lakes after the dams were opened but according to Sept. 10 reports the water levels in the lakes have levelled off.

Sporadic droughts are a common factor every summer but this year's dry period was more than a regular summer drought.

"What we're seeing this year is not ordinary," said Houde.

Houde refers to this year's water levels report for the Garry River Watershed which approached an all-time low set in 1991.

"But things are getting better," he said, referring to forecasted rain for this week.

This week's rain will replenish the watershed, but more precipitation is needed for ground levels to return to normal and for well water to rise.

Houde said the number of private wells going dry is alarming this year.

"I can't remember ever seeing that," he said.

Home owners can control the problem by limiting water use but that option is not available to businesses such as dairy farmers, who rely on a water source for the production of milk. They must drill a new well or haul water.

Villeneuve Tank Lines owner George Villeneuve believes the dry spell is a normal phase and not reason why wells ran dry.

"The weather is not to blame, It's the farms that are getting bigger."

He said farm wells that never ran dry 15 years ago are running dry now because farmers are milking 100 cows compared to 30 cows.

But farmers like George MacLeod and Olla Newton, who operate a dairy farm in Dalkeith, feel the weather is the reason their well dried up, forcing them to haul water until a new well was drilled last week.

Mother Nature's effects are relevant to smaller hobby farmers as well.

Eddy and Lise Berry, who operate a small cow-calf farm in Dalkeith saw the creek their herd depends on for water go dry two weeks ago.

Since then, they have pumped water from their home well and hauled an average of 600 gallons a day to the herd.

Lise said they have never seen the creek dry up since they began pasturing their animals on the property more than 10 years ago.

Despite last week's rainfall, the creek remains dry. The Berrys are optimistic that their home well will provide for the herd until the creek flows again.

Glengarry could fare worse as some areas in Ontario report 30 to 40-years ground water level record lows.

Nonetheless, Houde said it will take time for ground water to replenish. If precipitation during the fall is plentiful, well water levels will be replenished for the spring. If not, water levels will start off at a lower level next spring increasing the possibility of low levels in summer.

Alexandria, Lancaster get phone access to 25,000 more people

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Much of Eastern Ontario will get closer Sept. 24 when Bell Canada expands its local phone calling area.

Both Alexandria area (525) and Lancaster (347) residents, which serves about 75 per cent of people in Glengarry, will now freely access five calling areas, and vise versa: Vankleek Hill (678), St. Eugene (674), Hawkesbury (632), L'Orginal (675) and Alfred (679).

These five exchanges in Prescott County have a combined population of 25,000.

Eliminating costly long-distance charges could increase commerce for Alexandria and Lancaster businesses from these communities.

"It can't hurt. It's a positive thing," said Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce president John Hope, who expects the subject to be discussed at the chamber's next meeting on Sept. 20.

Hope could not say if a larger calling zone would encourage people to look further afield for their shopping needs.

However, he said it should save businesses money spent on providing toll-free calling.

Roy's Pontiac Buick Cadillac has a toll-free number.

These improvements were available after Bell concluded a $200 million infrastructure development, which allowed it to designate 68 communities as regional business centres.

Bell chose Cornwall for this most eastern area of Ontario.

Alexandria and Lancaster get access to so many communities because these two exchanges are part of the business centre corridor, which links Cornwall to a larger customer base.

While the expansion is widely lauded by many, other Bell customers feel slighted.

The Maxville (527) and Martintown (528) exchanges are now able to call each other, but not the above exchanges.

Glen Robertson (874) will now access Cornwall's numerous exchanges, but not to much nearer areas, such as Vankleek Hill, which is a popular business, banking and shopping centre for many of these area residents.

Macdonald house move too costly

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Describing the relocation of the Macdonald Estate residence as "not economical", demolition could be the only option left to Scotiabank manager, Charles Leclair.

Leclair said demolition of the residence located next to the bank could occur quickly once a third condition is met by the executor of the Macdonald estate.

He would not elaborate on the nature of the condition.

"It could be tomorrow or could be next year before we can proceed."

Conditions

The other two conditions that will enable the bank to take ownership have been met: rezoning the land so it can be converted into a parking lot and approval of a demolition permit, if necessary.

Previously, an end-of-summer deadline had been imposed by Leclair for allowing someone to take ownership of the house free of charge, providing it would be moved.

However, despite numerous inquiries, Leclair said the costs of moving, disconnecting the hydro, buying a lot and building a foundation appear to be too high.

Leclair said some form of a non-profit organization is needed to raise money to off-set the costs.

Area rating hinders sense of community

The issue of area rating debts to former townships in an amalgamated municipality must be carefully considered.

The practice of area rating has proven to be a headache for North Glengarry Township council, first with the R.F. MacLennan Drain settlement and now, potentially, with an apartment complex in Maxville.

In instances such as these, amalgamation reveals its inherent inequalities. Power over grass-root affairs has been stripped from locals yet the consequences of those same affairs continue to fall squarely on residents' backs.

Residents of wards facing area-specific levies to satisfy pre-amalgamation obligations must wonder what benefit amalgamation was to them.

Settling the drain dispute, for example, is something Lochiel ward residents could have done as an autonomous municipality, since they now find themselves on the hook for the entire cost anyway. At least then the decision would have been made by the people directly affected.

Amalgamation scrubs away borders and replaces them with new ones. Tax revenues from the former municipalities now benefit the amalgamated township at large. The cost of a sidewalk in an urban area, for example, is borne equally by residents of the outlying rural area. And the reverse is true. Expenses are reduced because more people are sharing them. That's the philosophy behind amalgamation and the reason why municipalities pursue it in the first place.

Community is built when portions see themselves in their entirety

So given that revenues from an amalgamated municipality are thrown into one pot, where is the equality in reaching into individual pockets when a site specific matter requires a financial outlay?

The difference, according to council, lies in the time frame. Debts accrued after amalgamation are the responsibility of the township at large. Debts assumed prior to that are the burden of the wards.

Council is within its rights to pursue this policy. Area rating is a provision of the restructuring agreement that created North Glengarry Township, one to which the former municipalities are signatory.

But area rating is unfair. It wasn't done when townships were smaller entities, so why now when they are larger? As unpalatable as it may sound to ratepayers outside the affected area, the fair thing to do would be to spread costs across the tax base. Everyone takes a little hit so that one area isn't delivered a knock-out punch.

Today, three of North Glengarry's four wards are clear of a pending financial crisis. But who is to say another ward won't face similar trouble tomorrow? What goes around comes around. Setting a precedent now would chart a clear course for future dealings of this nature.

Penalizing one part of the township for the sake of the others can only injure the whole.

In Lochiel's case, one might argue the legal definition of a debt and a liability. Another might note that a drain settlement was never made until after amalgamation, making it a North Glengarry obligation.

But the larger issue is this: until North Glengarry Township stops viewing its parts and sees itself as a whole, it will never build a regional community - much less an identity.

LACAC's suspension sends wrong message

North Glengarry council's decision to suspend the Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC) has, attached to it, certain Orwellian connotations that could be interpreted as heavy-handed censorship.

Council and LACAC members were at odds, in part, over members going public with its findings and recommendations before council had an opportunity to see them. Reporting findings to council first is standard operating procedure for committees.

Suspension should be used only a last resort.

The grey area in all of this is the issue of gagging committee members so they cannot speak out as individuals. This is a serious issue which is difficult to resolve.

It is too bad the other members of council did not take Councillor Bill Franklin's suggestion that they and LACAC sit down and clarify the committee's operating procedures.

As it now stands there is yet another rift in the community between council and volunteers that might have been avoided. Both council and LACAC members have a point.

Suspending the committee only serves to poison the atmosphere in what should be an amicable relationship.

Government gift horse needs a dentist

ORIGINAL COPY

DEREK GORDANIER

Dealing with the federal government is a lot like banging your head against a brick wall: it feels soooooooo good when you stop.

Alas, relief seems a long way off for your friendly neighbourhood editor.

Until I can get the federal government to relent and admit that yes, damn it, Derek Gordanier is a married man, I don't foresee a break any time soon in the frosty relationship I am building with an endless string of bumbling bureaucrats.

That's right, folks. According to the Canadian government I'm a free-wheeling, devil-may-care bachelor despite the gold band on my left hand and photographs of our lovely church wedding that should indicate otherwise.

And my wife, again according to the government, is a single mother of two children. And no amount of photocopies of her name and mine on the same marriage certificate can convince Big Brother otherwise.

While the bachelor tag isn't so hard on a guy's ego, I'm certain my wife feels impugned by our government's low view of her domestic situation.

What a mess. And all because some desk jockey at Revenue Canada was in a hurry to break for lunch and made a typo on his computer.

Carrie and I were married in 1995. Our son Drake was born that same year and our daughter Veronica arrived on a bitingly cold day in February three years later.

We lived in domestic bliss, the prototypical millionaire's family (minus the million bucks, naturally).

If we had another .5 of a child, we'd be a completely average Canadian family - statistically speaking.

Perhaps what happened is my own fault. I probably should have known something was amiss. We began receiving fat Child Tax Benefit payments that seemed out of proportion to what our friends were getting.

Never ones to look a gift horse in the mouth, we quietly pocketed the money and counted our blessings.

Therein lies a lesson for you kiddies out there. When the federal government sends you a gift horse, by all means, look in its mouth. Heck, take it to a dentist if it means avoiding the headaches that I'm now enduring.

The reason for our windfall had to do with a mistake at RevCan. Someone had tagged us as single on our tax returns and Carrie was being paid the maximum child tax benefit as a single mother.

Only problem is, she's not a single mother. She's a married woman. Being a loyal Canadian taxpayer who loves hockey and drinks Molson, I immediately set out to correct the error, even though that meant refunding the money we were wrongly receiving.

Our best efforts have thus far been unsuccessful. We've mailed letters, we've telephoned bureaucrats, we even enlisted the assistance of our former MP in Leeds-Grenville (and when a reporter goes to a politician's office looking for help, you just know he's desperate). But nothing works. My wife and I have yet to convince the bureaucracy that we're not simply shacking up together.

It could be worse. A friend of mine was once told by the government that he was dead. He was away at college and his mother received a GST refund cheque addressed "To the estate of..."

It should be a simple matter to convince someone you're not dead. The evidence is pretty self-explanatory. But it turned out to be an ordeal.

Such is the confidence of bureaucrats in their systems that they'd sooner believe a voice on the phone is emanating from beyond the grave than admit one of their own has made a mistake.

Representative democracy on trial

FIRST PEERSON

GREG PEERENBOOM

The feeling of disillusionment I felt with two of our elected municipal politicians was too much to bear as I sat in the front row of last week's Drainage Referee Tribunal concerning the R.F MacLennan Drain in Alexandria.

Until now, I took a journalist's perspective on the developing story. But this column allows me to voice a private commentary.

Sitting in the front row, I was able to observe most of the major players engrossed in this troubled saga: the two most powerful politicians in North Glengarry – Reeve Grant Crack, who represented the municipality; and opposing him, Crack's former teacher, Deputy-reeve Kent MacSweyn, the sole witness for the MacSweyn family.

On either side of Crack were the township's lawyers: special counsel Connie Reeve and municipal solicitor Allan MacKinnon.

Beside MacSweyn's was his lawyer, Allan O'Brien.

Seated a few feet to my right was Lochiel Ward Ratepayers Association chair Howard Noble, who had been granted special status to ask questions on behalf of the association by Drainage Referee Delbert O'Brien.

Before the referee ruled on Noble's plea for special status, Reeve and Allan O'Brien were asked to give their approval or objection.

I expected O'Brien not to side with Noble and his association, which is trying to deflect the enormous costs of the drain settlement, and he did not disappoint.

But I was flabbergasted when the township instructed Reeve to oppose Noble's request to speak on behalf of taxpaying citizens. This was an attempt to deny a segment of the population its right to choose its form of representation.

One of this country's founding principles is that anyone who pays into the public purse should be allowed a voice or a vote.

Reeve Crack himself feels North Glengarry has been a victim of a similar scenario.

Crack has argued that Alexandria residents should not be taxed for the full cost of police services because they don't have full representation in the United Counties of SDG council, which has authority over policing.

Wisely, Referee O'Brien recognized that special status should be granted to the property tax payers that encompass the Lochiel association.

Officially, the township's lawyers do represent the Lochiel ratepayers, but council lost its role as protector in the eyes of Lochiel residents who are going to pick up the tab for settling the drain issue.

Another issue that has simmered for months now is the dual position of Kent MacSweyn as both a member of council and brother to Rondo, Barry and the estate of Ralph MacSweyn, the group which had launched the lawsuit against the township.

Certainly the Deputy-reeve is allowed a chance to act as a private individual in this affair; that is indisputable. But it was unsettling to watch him give testimony supporting the MacSweyn's claim for more money. Testimony that could influence the referee to order compensation, which could come from the same people he was elected to serve.

I'm not familiar enough with the Municipal Act to know whether or not MacSweyn can simultaneously act as a witness against the township while remaining its second-in-command.

But take the scenario at face value and it is disturbing, plain and simple.

The electorate deserves fairer treatment. The Deputy-reeve's dual role undermines the accountable government that North Glengarry council claims to strive for.

The result now is that many Lochiel residents equate their council with bad faith. No wonder some residents have created an organization of solidarity to protect itself from the actions of a council it helped to elect.

One of the most important objectives of local council is to ensure the well-being of its constituents. Failure to do so erodes trust.

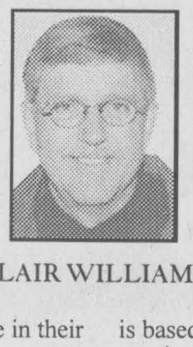
To make amends with the electorate, a temporary choice could be pursued. Kent MacSweyn does have the option of voluntarily suspending his role as Deputy-reeve.

As a first-hand witness of council for much of its 20-month term, the Deputy-reeve has shown to be one of its strongest members and, in my opinion, its most visionary.

Maybe MacSweyn should have looked down the road to see what the ramifications of his dual role has made on a great number of Lochiel residents.

Political reforms must begin locally

PUBLIC AFFAIRS



BLAIR WILLIAMS

A recent edition of the respected Economist magazine analyzed the health of the democratic process in several advanced countries, including Canada.

It found that the high opinion people once had of government has declined over the past four decades. People have become disillusioned with their politicians; there has been a decline in the level of trust in government; and in countries like Canada there has been a dramatic drop in the confidence people have in their Parliamentary institutions.

The Economist found that in Canada the proportion of people who think government doesn't care what they think rose from 45 per cent in 1968 to 67 per cent in 1993. The number who expressed confidence in political parties fell from 30 per cent in 1979 to 11 per cent in 1999. Confidence in the House of Commons fell from 49 per cent in 1974 to 21 per cent in 1996. Between 1986 and 1996 the number of Canadians who were satisfied with government fell from 51 per cent to 34.

The question is why? Why has there been this decline in support for politicians and political institutions? And can we maintain a progressive society when our public institutions are held in such low regard?

Of course many people have become disenchanted because they no longer see a worthwhile role for government. Cynics claim that there has been too much government expansion, public programs haven't done the job, and the private sector can do things better and cheaper. Governments, they argue, have given us high taxes and huge public debts and are therefore part of the problem not the solution.

But the mistrust of Canadians is based on something deeper than changing economic times and anti-government sentiment.

Many see a political process that isn't working properly. It is a process that is remote, unrepresentative and dominated by political elites.

People see a system in which elected members of Parliament are overwhelmed and controlled by the tight grip of the Prime Minister (or Premier) and his office.

They don't see their elected MP's freely representing grass roots opinion or developing policies in the interest of ordinary people. Everything is controlled from the leader's office.

People see power being abused and money wasted on an appointed Senate, for example, that is filled with party faithful and friends of the PM. The Senate, which is supposed to be a serious law-making institution, isn't chosen by the people, doesn't represent them and is not in any sense responsible.

People see an election system rigged in favor of leaders in power. They get to choose the election date and this gives them the right to schedule the vote when it most favors them. They use the public purse to pay for propaganda and election goodies when they know an election is going to be called. They get to personally approve or reject party candidates chosen at the local level. All of this simply places too much power at the center.

When people express their deepening displeasure with politics and government, they are signaling the need for democratic reform. There is evidence that disenchantment will only be cured when government is brought closer to the people. As a first step in Canada, this means a reduction in the power of leaders and the party elites.

In the search for a renewed political process the place to start is at the local level. In municipal politics there is no tradition of concentrated power in one individual or office and local politics are free of disciplined parties under the thumb of leaders. It is possible to involve people and to bring them closer to government at the local level.

If Canadians want a political process that is more open and consensual, less adversarial and elite driven, they should be asking local politicians to lead the way.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

More than money involved in the R.F. MacLennan drain settlement

To the editor,

After nearly two and half decades of bickering and contradictory sworn testimony in drainage tribunal hearings, it is doubtful whether anyone could decipher the absolute truth in the controversy surrounding the R.F. MacLennan drain.

There was nothing new about this story when writing it for the Ontario Farmer. Week after week people took opposing views as to the "facts" on an issue or story, entirely convinced they were right. Rarely however do you see elected politicians intimidated into paying well over half a million dollars (drainage repairs, hearings and compensation) of our money.

One wonders if they read the same documentation I did, or talked to the people involved, or have any sense for farm economics. A maximum $12,000 would have tiled the 20 acres and cleaned the portion of the ditch running through it. That's 1999 costs, which those of us, who drain have to pay ourselves.

Lochiel Township understood that an open ditch is all any council, anywhere, anytime, is responsible for. If someone wants a covered drain; they pay and are responsible for the construction. This isn't rocket science.

One wishes that the participants who met in Ottawa to decide on the amount of compensation of our money would at least get their stories straight. Del O'Brien, the former MacSweyn lawyer, then the referee who awarded the $170,000 repair, and the mediator during the $200,000 talks, gave entirely different stories to what others had said or written, during my interview with him.

He completely refuted Reeve Grant Crack's statement that the old Lochiel Township had requested that he be referee in this case. He stated for the record that the request that he be referee in this case came from the lawyer representing North Glengarry. Crack's statements about what Lochiel supposedly did or did not want is irrelevant. It was his decision to make.

O'Brien also gave a contradictory story to Crack's claim that if he did not pay the $200,000 he would have to pay more if they went to arbitration. The subtle point left out is that no one was officially suing anyone here. He approached O'Brien to be mediator, but was forced to agree by O'Brien that if the talks failed they would have to abide by an arbitration decision, since O'Brien could no longer have served as referee in this case. There was no need for mediated talks, or any talks, in the first place.

There is also a severe discrepancy between O'Brien and the MacSweyn's as to what work O'Brien did or did not do when he was their lawyer. In his interview, O'Brien was adamant that the only work he did for the MacSweyn's was to help prepare for a 1991 drainage tribunal hearing, which did not take place.

That work is acknowledged by the MacSweyn's in their written documentation, but they also credit O'Brien for doing far more. In 1992 "Mr. O'Brien attempts to broker a deal involving the federal government, the provincial government, OMAF and Lochiel Township," they write. This deal was supposedly recommended by the township lawyer but no action was taken by the township.

The point is not who is or is not telling the truth. Nobody cares. The point is all these inventive storytellers met and felt compelled to spend $200,000 of our money. No one should pay a penny.

Council also forgot to interview the person who did the latest $170,000 "fixing" on the drain. How he wasn't let to do the project - because of harassment - as designed. How, in his opinion, "it's not going to last five years." Sound familiar?

There is something far worse than wasted money that has happened here. In Crack's attempt to settle and apologize, rather than leave alone, he has for the official record, called some honourable people, now deceased, or who have lived in 20 years of terrors, liars.

The courageous people who refuted the MacSweyns claim and intimidation will not have their honor besmirched. Glengarry will see to that.

CCVS holds reunion on Thanksgiving

To the editor,

Labour Day weekend behind us, another school year begins. Hundreds of Cornwall and area children will rejoin their friends and teachers to resume their learning. For adolescents, the high school becomes their focal point where students form new relationships, get involved with sports and other activities, and begin their search to discover more about life. The memories of events and friendships during one's high school career last a lifetime.

So, it is not surprising when an opportunity to re-live high school life comes around there are plenty of takers, especially when the school is 193 years old! I'm speaking of the upcoming CCVS reunion on Thanksgiving weekend. CCVS is recognized as the oldest continuously operating school in the province, dating back to one room grammar school under the tutelage of Reverend John Strachan. At the time of writing over 2,000 CCVS alumni have registered, including one who graduated 70 years ago in 1929. Speculation is there will be at least 4,000 former students and staff attend the reunion, and perhaps even more.

A lifelong friend, and fellow CCVS alumnus Charles Wilkins (1965) will be attending the reunion to be held on October 8, 9, 10th, 1999. Charles is a resident of Thunder Bay and is an accomplished author of many books and articles: the latest being "The Circus at the Edge of the Earth", which will be available in paperback at reunion time.

Many events are being organized for the reunion including a Wine and Cheese and the "Dances of the Decades" on the Saturday night at the Civic Complex. I commend Judy Bobka and the Reunion Organizing Committee for the great work they have done with their mammoth task. I can't think of a better way to reflect on the years of the past as we head into a new millennium.

To demolish is shameful

To the editor,

As a concerned citizen who has lived in Glengarry for nearly two decades I would like to comment on the Monastery of the Precious Blood.

When I listen to old timers reminisce about the important events in their lives, the Monastery is more often than not brought up in the conversation. This building is wrapped up in people's memories as a place where parishioners, rich and poor, contributed to the welfare of the nuns of the Precious Blood and the nuns in turn looked after the the spiritual needs of their people.

To my mind, this is a perfect example of people helping people in a healthy, caring community. Let's not sully this memory by the demolition of such an important monument. Tearing down the monastery would be leaving a legacy of which we would all be ashamed.

As a community (the Roman Catholic Church, The Poor Clares, other churches, North Glengarry council, volunteer organizations and individuals) let us work together to help the Poor Clares find a solution to their dilemma - a solution that preserves this beautiful building.

Sincerely,
Jean Williams

Businesses stung by fake govt. cheques

POLICE BRIEFS

North Glengarry Police Services acting Chief, Sergeant Mike Mulhearn is warning local businesses to be wary of customers brandishing Quebec government cheques.

Sgt. Mulhearn said two Alexandria businesses were stung recently by a man who used a Quebec government cheque, valued at $1,375.

"He made a large purchase and then got the balance of about $500 to $1,000 back," Sgt. Mulhearn said.

Last week, the cheques were identified by banks as counterfeit.

Sgt. Mulhearn said the business owners accepted the cheques because the man provided adequate identification, which also turned out to be false. The ID included a driver's licence and social insurance number.

"This guy is pretty sophisticated."

The individual is described as white, five foot, eight inches tall with shoulder length hair and a tattoo on his left wrist.

Sgt. Mulhearn advises everyone not to trust cheques from strangers, especially when automated bank machines are readily available.

Another $7 million in pot

The massive marijuana eradication operation that swept across Glengarry two weeks ago has uncovered a street value of $7 million worth of pot from plots in Dundas County.

"It was a continuation of the same program," said Pierre Dubois, community relations officer at the Hawkesbury Ontario Provincial Police detachment.

About 7,000 plants were seized.

Dubois said the search and turf procedure was much the same in Dundas as it was in Glengarry.

It involved members of the OPP Ottawa/Kingston Drug Unit, regular duty officers, auxiliary and cadets.

Overhead an OPP helicopter combed the area for suspicious looking growth.

Awaits bail hearing

A Martintown man is waiting for a Sept. 15 bail hearing after being charged with two counts of break and enter.

John Andrew Johnston, 30, was incarcerated Aug. 28 when the OPP stopped a motor vehicle.

Johnston was wanted on a Canada-wide warrant for parole violation.

Further investigation by Const. George Tyo led to break and enter charges stemming from two incidents in South Glengarry and North Stormont townships between Aug. 20 and Aug. 25.

Collision leads to charge

An Alexandria woman was charged following a two motor vehicle collision at the intersection of County Roads 18 and 27.

Jamie Malyon of Cornwall was eastbound on County Road 18 when his 1996 Chevrolet was struck on the passenger side by a southbound 1986 Honda, which was exiting Chapel Road onto County Road 27, said SDG OPP Const. Hugh McClements.

Both vehicles sustained severe damage.

Charged with failing to yield to traffic on a thru highway was Brandi V. Rombough, 19.

Neither driver was injured.

Car heavily vandalized

About $2,500 worth of damage was caused during the night of Sept. 11 to a 1997 626 that was parked in the driveway of a Glen Walter residence.

"Someone was upset," Const. Hugh McClements said

"The owner approached the car and saw it had been scratched from front to back," he said.

"Both sides and the rear quarter panel had been booted in."

There are no suspects.

Gas station worker hurt

A North Lancaster gas bar owner was injured Sept. 9 after being struck by a car.

Luc Decoeur, 30, of North Lancaster was standing beside the pumps when a 1994 Intrepid, driven by Suzanne Carignan, 45, of Valleyfield, Que. pulled up and struck him.

Decoeur suffered injuries to a leg and his back. One of the pumps was knocked over.

Investigating is Const. Chris Legere.

Don't send money

OPP are warning Glengarry residents to beware of a potentially bogus company based in Australia.

Residents have complained about receiving letters from a company which asks them to send money in order to receive a "free" gift.

The OPP Lancaster detachment warns people, that if it sounds too good to be true, it is.

If anyone has fallen into this trap or would like more information on how to deal with this ploy, call PhoneBusters at 1-888-495-8501 or your local OPP detachment at 1-888-310-1122.

OPP phone survey

The OPP will be conducting a telephone survey in SDG during the next week to find out how the community feels about neighbourhood safety and the service provided by the OPP.

The information obtained will help the OPP and the SDG Police Services Board to help meet the public's concerns.

Random calls will be made throughout the united counties. All calls will be completed between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. on weekdays and 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. on weekends.

Trailer load of steel stolen

This week Crime Stoppers is asking your help in identifying the people responsible for the theft of a trailer from a parking lot in Curry Hill.

The incident occurred between 5p.m., Sept. 10 and 12 a.m., Sept. 13. Culprits stole a red, 1999 Thruway trailer with Ontario plates T96 234, valued at $40,000.

The trailer has a four-axle air ride with red racks and white wheels with a black tarp, covering the steel were the words written "Samuel Steel" in white.

The trailer contained four coils of galvanized steel. A tractor was used to haul away the trailer.

MacSweyns seek further drain compensation

MacSweyn said there had been no problems yet, but he added the summer had been unusually dry and was a poor indicator.

Drain designer, engineer John Spriet and work site inspector Wray Ramsay testified on behalf of the township.

Spriet confirmed the new drain was built with "no deficiencies, that it was functioning from top to bottom."

Ramsay said that 27 tile connections had been made and no broken tiles were found in the field.

O'Brien asked the referee that a tileage expert be appointed and paid for by the township to investigate the condition of the tiles and then order any subsequent repairs.

O'Brien added during his summation that this tribunal represented the MacSweyn's last chance for redress.

Also at issue was the soil rehabilitation and if the $17,000 was to be the final sum allocated for this task.

A considerable amount of ground was used because MacSweyn said the 1987 work lowered the field elevation next to the drain by about three feet.

Before the drain was reconstructed in 1975, the field was flat.

That is why the MacSweyns requested the contractors to fill in the lowered portion during last spring's reconstruction.

Spriet confirmed that about 4,600 cubic metres was filled to meet the level proposed by the soil specialists, about 900 more than recommended.

Under questioning by O'Brien, he said there were at least two cross-sections which were below the proposed grade. Some cross section profiles were also higher than the minimum.

At the heart of the issue was the location of retrieving fill material to bring the elevation back to the 1975 level.

The MacSweyns requested that a number of sites, which Reeve called "rock piles", were used.

Originally, the soil specialists recommended that a knoll located nearer to the drain was to be used.

However, MacSweyn said the family's knowledge of the land warned them the knoll contained a high percentage of rocks.

The soil report also recommended that other sites determined by the MacSweyns could be considered.

Reeve questioned why the MacSweyns would pick other locations which were farther and therefore more costly to complete the filling in.

Both sides argued over the extent of work that should be compensated.

MacSweyn said they had to use their equipment because there wasn't time to find an additional contractor to perform important work.

Otherwise, top soil, dredged up by the contractors, might have been used as subsoil.

Reeve said it isn't fair that MacSweyns should be able to claim an hourly rate comparable to the contractors. She said expenses should only reflect fuel and wear and tear, as the equipment was operated by regular staff and family member.

If fully compensated, the total cost to Lochiel ratepayers including the settlement, drain reconstruction and legal fees would be at least $300,000.

Residents back ratepayers association

Support is still strong and could be growing for the Lochiel Ward Ratepayers Association after a well-attended Aug. 28 general meeting at the Dalkeith Optimist Hall.

"We had a show of hands to continue," said association president Howard Noble.

"We had a lot of new faces that didn't show up at the first meeting," Noble said.

"And a lot of them dropped off donations before they left."

The association is creating "a war chest". The money will allow it to launch a lawsuit against the township, which plans to levy all costs of drain settlement on the tax bills of Lochiel property owners.

The association had decided to pursue an application under Rule 14.

The association's retaining lawyer Christopher Tzekas estimated the chance of victory to be between 80 to 90 per cent.

The executive will continue fund raising after a majority of about 60 people voted at the Aug. 3 meeting to secure another $20,000.

The association needs $30,000 in case it loses its fight and is forced to pay the township's legal costs.

Association secretary Dorothy Irvine recommended that ratepayers not push ahead with a lawsuit if funding isn't sufficient

The association wants township council to spread the costs throughout the entire municipality, a move that would considerably lower the bill to individual ratepayers.

Although the issue has been well-documented in the local media during the past couple of months, Noble said some residents want more information on it.

Another meeting was held Sept. 7 in Glen Robertson.

Club members perform well at horse show

Congratulations to Lori St. Denis on winning one of the Holstein Association Scholarships. These generous scholarships are offered every year to our 4-H members and should be applied for. Through these monies, many farm related companies and associations support the 4-H program and our youth. It is good to see one of our local members taking advantage of these to help fulfill her career dreams.

***

A little belated but congratulations are also in order for members of Glengarry who showed their horses in the Regional Horse Show in South Mountain in August. Heather and Rosemary Huxted from the North Glengarry Horse Club showed in the Senior class and took second and third place respectively. Shayla Loos, who attended the South Glengarry Club took second place in the Intermediate Level while Chelsey McPherson from the North Glengarry Club took second place in Junior in her first year in 4-H. Well done to everyone and congratulations for keeping Glengarry on the map!

There are two French Leadership Camps being offered in October. These are open to any members of 4-H, either French or English. It is a good opportunity to enjoy 4-H and practice French. If it is not your first language. The Junior Camp (10 to 13) will be held Oct. 2 and 3 at the Alfred College at a cost of $45 per participant. The Senior Camp will take place on Oct.. 8 to 10 at a cost of $70. These camps are a great opportunity to learn presentation, and leadership skills while learning about francophone culture and mingling with young people of the same age from around Ontario. Some applications have been sent out, but if you are interested and haven't received one, call Margo at 347-7298.

In honour of the Canadian Agriculture and Food Celebration, there will be a Family Fun Fest on the Farm in Ottawa on Oct. 17, 1999. Festivities will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and everyone is invited to come and enjoy the fun. There will be a pancake breakfast in the morning and lots of livestock and other exhibitors to participate and enjoy. There is a garden to harvest to donate to the Ottawa Food Bank, as well as time to wander through the Ornamental Gardens Arboretum and get some tips from a Master Gardener. There will be an agricultural activity centre, Dairy Olympics and toy tractor obstacles races. 4-H will be a part of this event, but we are also being asked to show our volunteer spirit and help to work at a number of the activities. Even here, there is something for everyone! You could volunteer to help with the pancake breakfast either serving or cleaning up, or aid in the farm tours, activity center or with the vegetable picking. We are also invited to help with grooming and handling of the livestock, either dairy, beef, goat, sheep or other. Your guess is as good as mine as to what this category is. All volunteers will received an orientation session and meals will be provided. This is a great opportunity to enjoy the day and show off some of your 4-H skills and knowledge. The deadline is Sept. 17 for volunteers, so get back to me as soon as possible. Let's make a group and we can go and have fun together!

We have a report from Laura MacMillan about the North Glengarry Dairy Club. Our final meeting of the year was held at Jim and LeeAnn Vallance's farm south of Maxville on Aug. 26. Jim talked about his heifer barn, invited us to go swimming and treated us to a barbecue afterwards. A good time was had by all who attended. A special thanks to Jim and LeeAnn for hosting the meeting!

Wheelbarrow of flowers marked tea time

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT
347-2207, FAX 347-1297

Mother Nature has been extending summer for us to enjoy some fine days as mid September comes along. The Blue Jays' noisy cries pierce the air as they move from tree to tree. The ravens are just as noisy but more social, as they gather in groups on lawns and prance about before taking off again. My favorite, the Kingfisher, dashes up and down the river, dropping rapidly to grab his prey right beside the Heron who stands motionless on a submerged log in the shallow water.

***

It was Tea on the Wharf time again, on Aug. 25, for residents of South Lancaster, and the response to the invitation was even greater than last year.

A wheelbarrow full of wild flowers marked the entrance to the event as approximately 60 residents laden with lawn chairs, cups, a variety of hot and cold teas and, of course, some sweeties, came to join in the fun.

Two young volunteers, Tracey and Kelli Lalonde were on hand to help as everyone settled down for a pleasant afternoon of good weather, gay chatter and a great opportunity to meet newcomers and catch up on news.

In the background the delight and enthusiasm of young swimmers and of those fishing, all of whom enjoyed the sweets, added pleasure to the gathering.

This year's invitation was passed from neighbor to neighbor and was intended for all the residents of South Lancaster. So, next August, look for your invite, a Y2K invitation that is. If you don't see it, or want any information, call any of the following: Jeannine 347-7744, Eileen 345-2677 or Hariette 347-1842.

Try this in your neighborhood, or on your street. You will be glad that you did!

In fact the Neighbors of Treehaven did just that, for the second summer BBQ on Saturday. Most of our neighbors gathered at the attractive home of Doug and Keitha Fraser. Those who couldnít make it were certainly missed.

The weather was perfect, with a nice refreshing breeze that kept the bugs away. It was a perfect chance to meet our new neighbors, Linda and Jack Villeneuve, and the Burns family, complete with mom and dad, Tracey and Denis, and their children, Tosha and Tory, who were probably the youngest family present.

Jim and Gera Leblanc's daughter, Michelle, brought her very cute son Justin, not yet 2. He and all of the younger children had a great time as did their parents and grandparents.

We all seem to lead busy lives so it is fun to have a chance to socialize and get to know each other a little better. Point in case is one of my neighbors who always waves from his van as I walk my dogs along the causeway. Being of short stature and always watching my dogs as cars pass I never really see him. So it took part of the evening to realize who this person was. I actually asked him where he lived!

The best part of the evening was seeing the Coopers. Bill hasn't been well so how nice it was to see him and Agnes sitting amongst friends and having a good time.

Jim and Cheryl Larivierre and their family take comfort in being able to remember Marty by helping other children through an annual golf tournament.

This year's turnout was wonderful and thanks are sent to everyone who helped make it so successful: the sponsors and donors, the golfers, those who came to dinner, the staff at the Heritage Golf Club, and to special helpers, Jean Jodouin and Mary Ann Danaher.

Most importantly, $1,450 was raised through the generosity of family, friends and neighbors of the Larivierres. This was donated, you may remember, to The Children's Treatment Centre.

Congratulations to the following winners: Lowest Score, 62, went to the team of Pasquale Mongillo, Shannon Mongillo, Kevin Byam and Grace Byam. Runners Up were Ron MacDonald, Susan MacDonald, Paul Chisolm and Cynthia Marcino. Lynn MacDonell had the Longest Drive for ladies and that prize for the men went to Adam Lefebvre. Fred Klazinga was closet to the pin. A draw for a weekend at the Glen House Resort near Gananoque was won by Brian MacGregor.

When Hector Landry of Lancaster Freshmart tells someone that they have the winning ticket, he really means it! Jill Proctor can vouch for that. Jill won a color TV, as Hector promised, at the Sixth Annual Lancaster Freshmart Golf Tournament on Sunday.

The Heritage Golf Club is a great asset in our community for these events and it was a fine day for 144 players to have fun, win prizes and enjoy a good meal.

Luc Secour won best putter title in the putting contest and that skill won him $1000. A trip to Deerhurst in Haliburton was won by Art Brunet. Congratulations to all. Hector tells me that any proceeds go to charities. It is a popular event and it seems that the only problem is keeping it from growing too large. Last year's tournament saw 192 players.

So, Hector, are you considering selling lotto tickets?

I never really got into the habit of making pickles or preserves as many of my friends do. But the delicious smell coming from the kitchen of my neighbor Linda was downright amazing as she was doing her batches of relish and pickles recently and it brought back pleasant memories of childhood.

Jeannette Billard of Amandale Bay also enjoys preserving and did just that on the Labor Day Week-end . Coming from Ottawa to join in the fun were Jeanette's guests Elaine Forbes and Jeanne Young. Jeannette says that it was a hot time for all!

ST. RAPHAEL'S AND THEREABOUTS

ANNA-MARGARET
MacDONALD, 525-1174

Another Alpha program is being planned for anyone who would like to upgrade their knowledge of the Christian faith. Opening date is Sept. 22 at Shalom House.

It is an evening program from 6:30 to 7:30 and includes supper as part of the deal.

Main highlights of the program is an excellent video presentation delivered by a dynamic and humorous speaker so there is no chance of anyone having to listen to any dull lectures.

Alpha is for everyone, especially geared to people interested in learning more about Christianity. Topics include why and how should I read the Bible, why and how do I pray, Does God heal to-day, How can I overcome evil, etc.

Small group sessions follow the video so anyone can discuss any issues one might have.

St. Raphael's Parish offers the program free of charge, except for the meal. There is a $5 charge for the manual. Contact myself at 525-1174 or Shalom House at 347-2391.

Tournament

Six teams took part in the softball tournament held in St. Raphael's on the holiday weekend.

Pic's Sport Shop of Alexandria was the A winner with the Camerons of Glen Roy as runner-up.

The Camerons took the B honors with the MacCullochs in the runner-up category.

In the C group, Chatelaine's team defeated Martintown.

Bernie MacCulloch and Lee MacIntyre were in charge of the tournament with Helen MacDonald, Mary MacKenzie and Ron Lajoie as assistants.

The tournament netted $455 in aid of the St. Raphael's Ruins.

Thoughts turn home on a stranded train

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

Monday, 11:25 a.m. GMT. Sitting on a marooned train in Cardiff Central Station. Trying to think about Glengarry, Canada. Trying to write this column during pit stops. Forgive me if this reads like a swaying, hurtling train.

***

Those of us who have reached ages described as "ripe" and "old" by the adjectively challenged, have received plenty of invitations in our lives. But how many among us have received an invitation to "Invitation"?

The answer is about 700, or the number of you faithful who turn to this column week after week. For you are all invited to a special unveiling ceremony of "Invitation - the quilt of belonging," being held Friday, Sept. 24, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the old township hall in Williamstown.

Not that the quilt is anywhere near complete. This is a three-year project, remember. But the first quilt blocks are in, and the research rooms are up and running, and you are invited to come along and check out the progress so far.

And meet with friends and neighbours and those whose philosophies mesh with the quilt makers.

"With the blocks representing all the different peoples who make up Canada's population, the quilt symbolizes our glowing success in achieving a national harmony in diversity," says Invitations' press release.

Following the unveiling, about which it is whispered a special dignitary may be on hand with scissors or other unveiling tools, a wine and cheese evening will be held.

***

First block to have been totally completed and submitted was, appropriately, the Scottish one, which was made by Nancy Woollven of Williamstown.

This block features an embroided thistle in the middle, surrounded by appliqued swatches of different tartans, representing more than 20 clans.

The Swedish block, a beautiful embroided wreath of flowers dancing around a painted wooden pony, was done by Brit Lepa of Summerstown.

***

It is to be hoped that as many of you as possible will come out on the 24th to show your support for, and interest in, the giant quilt project that is bringing national attention to South Glengarry.

***

The Welsh countryside is like something out of a travelogue -with no bits cut out and left on the editing room floor. In the fields the hay bales lie encased in black, not white, plastic sleeves. No big round bales here, as far as this old eye can see.

The hills are green and rolling and the little balls, which must be sheep, seem strategically placed on th hill-sides.

But what's this? Pulling into Pontypool, at the spot where pastoral merges with urban, a golden arch mars the scene. Mickee Dee infection is invasive.

***

News from Williamstown Public. Those of you with children at the school will already have heard about the new staff members, the new school hours, the call for volunteers, etc.

But those of you who are merely curious to learn who is teaching what, here is the run-down: Natalie Corneau (K), Cathy Kinloch (1), Charlene Syrduk (2), Michelle O'Connor (3), Lyn Anderson(4), Nicole Beaulieu (Primary French), Ainar Smieltnieks (5), Rosemary Sookman (6), Susan MacDonald (Principal and 6), Lynn Macdonell (Junior French).

Intermediate Division: Lise Houde, Cathy McIntyre, Lynn Macdonell.

Resource: Cheryl Lariviere. Educational Assistants: Grace Burns, Wendy McDonald and Vivian Trudel. Secretary: Andree Hunter.

***

Whoops! I eat my words (mmm). I've just seen some big round bales as we pull into Hereford. The plastic is still black, however.

***

Hours of opening at WPS have been changed. Students are now starting school at 8:30 a.m. and finishing at 3 p.m.

A wild adjustment for some.

***

A reminder this Saturday, Sept. 18, to haul your fur babies over to the firehall for their annual discounted rabies shot.

Check the ad in this paper for times and other particulars.

***

By now some of you will have discovered that the Williamstown Library has new hours.

The change means that there will be an additional hour of opening time, bringing the branch back up to 15 hours a week- where it was before the provincial grant cut-backs of a few years ago.

Effective yesterday the new hours are: Tuesday to Friday (inclusive) 2 to 4 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.; Saturday 10 to 12 noon.

***

You still have the opportunity to receive Internet training at the Williamstown Library.

On-site facilitator Kaylin Sloan will be accepting bookings for Thursdays (3:30 to 9 p.m.) or Saturdays (10 a.m. to 1 p.m.) until Oct. 2.

For more information, please call 347-3397.

So guess where I am now? The apple doesn't fall far from the tree, nor the librarian far from the books. I am sitting in the public library in a little place called Hay-on-Wye on the Wales/England border.

Hay-on-Wye is the book capital of the world, with more than 30 stores (and a castle) packed to the rafters with every type of book imaginable. Everyone here (resident and visitor) is a bibliophile so it is easy to find common interests and the conversation flows easily.

I've just met a man named John MacMillan who has my father's ears -even if he does come from Oregon. John is retired newspaperman and is on the library board in his hometown, as well as sharing my name -what a co-incidence!!

***

Speaking of sharing names, Lydia Bryan became Mrs. Robert McGaughey in a "fairy tale" wedding at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in Cornwall, on Aug. 21.

The bride was wearing a white dress featuring a pearl-beaded bodice with a layered tuile skirt and train, edged with satin ribbon.

Maid of honour for her sister was Sylvia Bryan, with the bride's sister-in-law Rachel Bryan and Liz Nurse, acting as bridesmaids. They were wearing navy gowns, and carried red roses.

Flower girls were Katrina Pyne and Alexandra Nurse.

Acting as best man was the groom's brother, David McGaughey. Ushers were Luke Bryan and Andy Minty.

Following a reception at the Porto Bello Restaurant, the couple left on a honeymoon in the Laurentians.

They are residing in Cornwall.

A reminder of the giant community yard sale this Saturday, Sept. 18, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the St. Mary's Centre. For table rentals, please call 347-2803.

September is a good time to travel in the U.K. it seems.

At the airport in Mirabel, another local couple was setting off for a month of travel, primarily in canal boats. I'd tell you their names if I could, but unfortunately they are faces from the arena or somewhere, and the names are not attached.

Brian and Janet Keefe are over here too, somewhere, having left the day before us. And Norma and Ken MacDonald are also either here (in Wales), or arriving shortly.

Silly as it seems, it is comforting to know that folks from home are not too far away.

This year's Apples and Arts Tour is taking place on Sept. 25 and 26, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The Manor House is an addition to the 1999 circuit, and will feature the photography of Soren Suse and the painting of Susan Jephcott.

Esther Bryan will be on hand at the old township hall, where if you missed the unveiling and wine and cheese of the evening before, you will be able to have a gawk at the "Invitation" quilt.

Janet Keefe will be at "Snail Pace Pottery" at her home on the Summerstown Station Road.

And the Arstads - Linda and Doug - will be at the Crucible Foundry on County Rd. 17.

Plan to at least visit the artists on the local stretch even if you can't get to see all 14 sites and the more than 25 artists in SDG.

Congratulations and best wishes to all.

During the week on CJOH-TV newscast there was a picture of Sharon Scharfe as she arrived home from East Timor where she had been observing the independence ballot. What a relief to see her home when that country is in such turmoil. Sharon is the daughter of Ken and Carol (Hay, Brodie Rd.) of Ramsayville.

After a hot, dry spell we finally had rain over last weekend and on during the week. Douglas Irvine, Irvine Road keeps a tab on a daily basis and gave me this report: May 1999 – 43 mm; June, 84 mm; July 99 mm; Aug. 43 mm; Sept (to Sept 12) 86 mm.

He comments that there is quite a variation in the area – even within the Lochiel ward. Pastures and lawns are looking so much nicer this weekend.

The report is not to compete with George Hambleton but it is of local interest!

The Laggan Square Dancers have arranged to have square and round dancing at the former Lochiel Township Hall, Lochiel Road on the first Wednesday of each month. GLEN ROBERTSON

COLETTE SAUVÉ
874-2076

A large group of people gathered at the cemetery in the Glen for a memorial service last Sunday.

Prayers for the deceased by Father Eric Robichaud were followed by the laying of a beautiful wreath at the foot of the cross by Tracey Sauvé Théoret and Valérie Pepin. The procession marched down on Chisholm St. to the church.

The wreath as well as the lovely flower arrangement in the church was the work of mother and daughter, Antonia and Betty Ann Den Otter. Animated by our youth, games were played outside for the children and a delicious lunch was served and attended by about 100. André Larocque was the lucky 50/50 winner.

Father Eric will be starting his pastoral visits in Glen Sandfield this week.

Cup tourney celebrates GSL 75th

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Special events marking the 75th anniversary of the Glengarry Soccer League are not over yet.

The GSL is forging ahead with a special round-robin tournament pitting the five former municipalities of the Town of Alexandria and the townships of Kenyon, Lochiel, Lancaster and Charlottenburgh, said Jamie MacDonald of the Atlantic Hotel, which is sponsoring the event.

"It's called the Glengarry Cup of Soccer," MacDonald said. "It's the first time we've done this."

He said each team must be composed of players who reside in that geographic area.

Play begins Thursday with Kenyon taking on Alexandria, followed by Lochiel against Lancaster. The first game always begins at 8 p.m. All matches are at Alexandria Island Park.

The second round goes Friday and features Alexandria versus Lochiel in the first tilt and then Lancaster playing Charlottenburgh.

After playing four games each, the last place squad drops out. The remaining four square off in the semifinals.

Scheduling for the next three rounds and the semifinal has yet to be determined. However, the final is set for Oct. 7.

Players needed for volleyball

The recreational volleyball program offered weekly at Glengarry District High School has put out the call for players.

Games are held Thursdays every week from 8 to 10 p.m. at GDHS. The program is co-ed and open to all ages. The program requires about 30 players to form enough teams.

For more information, call 525-5139.

Old Blades require goalies

The Old Blades Hockey League is recruiting area goaltenders for its sixth season of action locally.

The Old Blades, formed in 1992, is intended for players 50 years of age and older, but goalies of any age are welcome to play.

Teams play games out of the Glengarry Sports Palace in Alexandria on Mondays at 11:30 a.m. and Thursdays at 1 p.m. Games are 90 minutes long on a straight-time clock and there are slapshot and body contact restrictions.

For information, contact Ross Greer at 525-1714.

Hearts make it to Cup final

Alexandria is represented among 44 of the top Ontario Soccer Association-sanctioned teams from across the province that will gather at The Coffee Time Soccer Centre in Vaughn, Ontario to challenge for the Ontario Cup.

The Glengarry Hearts under-18 girls' team have advanced to the Cup finals and will take on the Scarborough Azzurri Hurricanes at 10 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 19 in their age division.

To track the home team's results, the Ontario Cup offers a web site at http:/www.soccer.on.ca/

Core group of Glens are back

By Sandra Berry
News Reporter

The Alexandria Glens have managed to keep the core of its team members for the 1999-2000 season, with 11 rookies returning.

Although many of the players are young, coach Marc Sauvé is confident the team can make headway in the St. Lawrence division standings of the Eastern Ontario Junior B and earn a play-off berth this year, something the team didn't achieve in 1998.

"The core of the team remains. We have to look at improving the team," says Sauvé who is coaching the Glens for a fourth consecutive year.

He says this year's challenge will be to properly complete the team. Sauvé doesn't seem concerned with the relative young age of his players, who are 17 years-old on average.

One of the Glens' advantages is the high rate of returning players which Sauvé feels will benefit the team's overall performance.

"The team is young but most of the players have one year of experience."

Returning veterans

Compared to 1998-99, more veterans have returned, 11 compared to six. "We're starting of with a good number (of veterans)," says Sauvé.

Goalie: Patrice Vaillancourt is returning this year.

Defencemen: Green Valley native Simon Ménard who inherited the "C" from brother Marc last year, will be one of four veterans returning to the blue line.

Michel Quesnel will be playing his third season with the Glens, accompanied by Jean-Gérard Bériault and 16-year-old Philip Blanchard of Embrun.

Forward: Ghislain Valade of Glen Norman will be shooting to score along with Eric Leroux, Yves Ruest , Joel Quesnel, Dominic Décoeur and Luc Lanthier of Alexandria.

It is still uncertain whether Stéphane Boisvenue and Chancey Lajoie, age 21, will be returning this year.

If Lajoie does not return the oldest players will be 20 years-old.

Departing veterans

Scott Neilson of Alexandria has played for the Glens for the past four years but will not be returning this year due to medical reasons.

He was advised by his doctor to stop playing contact sports after he suffered an injury to the sternum last year.

Alexandria's Jason Poirier is leaving to skate and study in Peterborough this year.

Last years' top scorer Jean Desrochers of Dalhousie, Que. will be playing for the Cornwall Colts.

Trevor Cunning of Vankleek Hill is still in training camp with the Ontario Hockey League, the Ottawa 67's and it is uncertain whether he will earn a roster spot.

Rookies to be signed

Sauvé says a good proportion of the players who showed up for training camp were from the area.

"About 50 per cent were from Alexandria, 25 per cent from Vankleek Hill and another 25 per cent from Cornwall."

The coach was impressed with the performance of the players that showed up. Steven Owens, 15, and Steven Stewart are local players that stood out for Sauvé.

As to who will make up the Glens new crop of rookies, Sauvé says it's too early to tell.

He will be choosing the rookies based on characteristics the team veterans lack.

For example, Sauvé will be looking at rookie forwards that posess more body weight than speed.

"The veteran forward line is fast, but we need more weight," he says.

The Glens are holding an inter-squad match tonight at 8 p.m. at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

He says 90 per cent of the team will be finalized following Friday's exhibition game against the Clarence Creek Beavers at the Billy Gebbie Arena at 8:30 p.m.

"Players will have the news by the weekend."

Rebels loaded with veterans

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

The Char-Lan Jr. B Rebels have a strong nucleus of players returning from last year's team at this month's training camp.

"We've got 10 coming back," said general manager John Chafee. "That's pretty good for Jr. B hockey, especially now that players don't stick around home for very long. It's a good start."

Among the 10 are four veterans with at least two years with the club: centre Ian McConnell, centre/left wing Chris Corput, defenceman Al Lapierre and goalie Tim McCuaig.

Joining them are six sophomores: rearguards Kerry MacDonald, Pat Smith, Stephane Mainville, left wingers Luc Lapierre, Chris Malyon, centre Nick Dube and right winger Stephen Alguire.

Left winger Mike Rankin has also expressed interest, but will likely see only limited ice time, because of school and work obligations in Belleville.

And it doesn't stop there.

Coming back as an overage players after a two-year absence is right winger Tim Corput, who has finished his post-secondary education.

"That's great news," Chafee said.

Two years ago, Corput scored 12 goals, assisted on 19 others for 31 points. The big and rough cornerman also accumulated 123 penalty minutes.

With these players, Chafee said the team already has at least two sets of defence pairings, two battle-tested forward lines and one experienced goalie, so exceeding last year's first round exit in the St. Lawrence Division of the Eastern Ontario Jr. B Hockey League is a definite possibility.

That leaves openings for nine players to be signed. The league allows 20 to dress, 21 to be signed.

Among the tryouts this year, Chafee singled out 16-year-old blueliner, Ryan Major, who didn't survive the cut with the Jr. A Cornwall Colts.

The rest of the newcomers come mostly from Cornwall and South Glengarry.

Major stands a good chance of making the Ontario Hockey League Ottawa 67's if he continues to progress.

Players not expected back are 16-year-old Major Junior prospect, left wing Graham Charbonneau, who is trying to land a spot on the OHL Soo

Supporters thanked by co-ordinators

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

Walter and Stephanie Chopp can't help but feel good as they finish their final active year as co-builders of Glengarry Golf and Country Club's junior golf program.

"We've managed to put together one of the best junior programs in the Ottawa Valley," Walter Chopp says with assurance.

When Chopp says "we" he isn't only talking about himself and his wife. He is including a long list of golf club members and even non-members in Alexandria and area.

The Chopps are so proud – and thankful to its supporters – of the club's junior program, they had to share it with the local media.

The juniors' success wasn't always the story. During the first half of the 1990s, the club was "in proverbial last place" in St. Lawrence Valley junior league competition, Walter Chopp said.

"But we've been in first the last three years, and could've been first in the last four," he said, adding the club could have won in 1996 if the score was played in the current gross format.

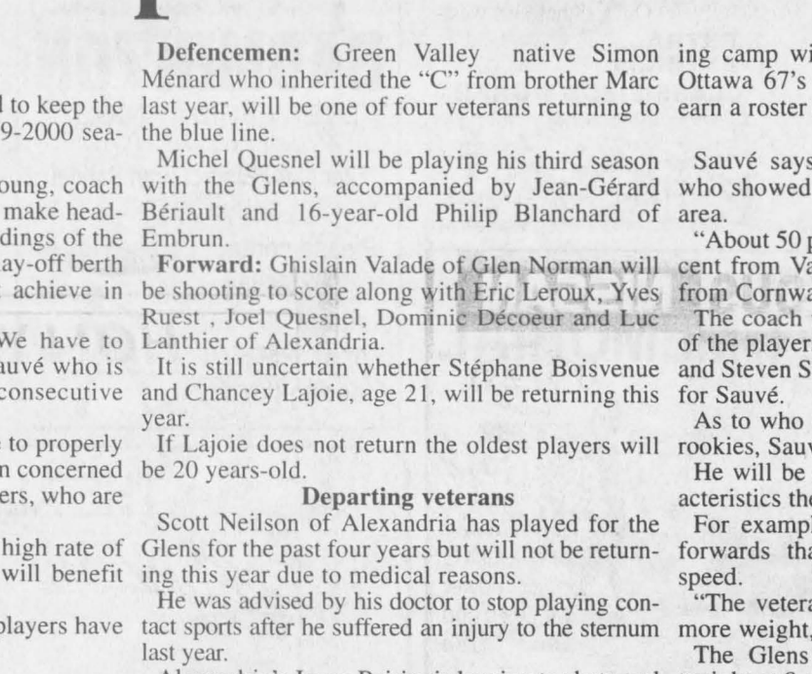
Chopp singled out Maurice Bellefeuille, 15, and Mark Spencer as two rising juniors who realistically have a chance to qualify for the Canadian Junior Championships over the next few years.

"How we came to emerge as the best is pretty significant," Walter said.

The juniors began their successful climb, of all places, in Florida, where the Chopps spend time during the winter.

Chopp happened across a golf school for university scholarship players in Lakeland. There he observed the coaches working with their players.

He was in particular impressed with the players' cool demeanor. There was no evidence of unsportsmanlike or unruly behaviour.



Stephanie and Walter Chopp will now sit back and enjoy the fruits of their labour after their involvement helped to improve the junior golf program at the Glengarry Golf and Country Club.
Staff photo - Greg Peerenboom

One of the coaches told him these players are the product of disciplined junior programs. Tantrums at any age are not tolerated.

"If they do it once, they're off the golf team," one of the coaches told Chopp, who was allowed to tag along during an 18-hole practice round.

Inspired, Chopp, who was already well into his mid-60s, was determined to upgrade the Glengarry club's junior program.

Luckily for the club, Chopp had at his disposal a lifetime of organizational skills.

With Stephanie as girls' co-ordinator, Chopp, now the chief junior golf co-ordinator, set on his journey.

One of the first tasks was to develop an organizational document.

"My son took a look at one time and said it was the same that (U.S.college teams) use," Chopp said.

Under the chief co-ordinator, he created, in addition to the post Stephanie held, eight other permanent positions: chief instructor, internal play co-ordinator, registrar, administrator, fundraising co-ordinator, transportation co-ordinator, handicap co-ordinator and tournament co-ordinator.

In addition, he tagged on alternate chief co-ordinator, the role he assumed this year.

The junior program was given 34 tasks to complete each year. Each position also had each of its tasks spelled out.

With a solid framework in place, Chopp and his team began one of its most important assignments.

"We had to get the community involved," he said.

Without the dozens of bodies and the financial backing, the program would not be where it is today, he said.

"It takes a village to make a people," Chopp said.

"It was a community effort," Stephanie added.

Walter said dozens of Alexandria and area businesses donated freely to help pay for the costs of offering free entry into tournaments.

"We wanted to have it so not one kid would have to pay. There are a lot of parents who can not afford it," Walter said.

Once the players are on the course grounds, a platoon of coaches take over.

"We have a lot of people who are reasonably good. They're not necessarily great players but they really know the golf swing," Chopp said.

Eventually each player is evaluated for strengths and weaknesses.

"We then pair each player with a coach who could show them how to correct problems," Walter said.

"Some of the older players help out the younger ones," she said, adding that someone like Maurice Bellefeuille is regarded as "something like a god" to the newer players.

"It really is a sight to see."

Stephanie notes the girls are separated from the boys to give them equal measuring sticks.

The girls' division has so improved that two members were recognized by the Canadian Golf Association.

Jodie Poirier and Cindy Radford were given professional lessons worth $50 and $100 each.

In addition to instructors, Walter said it takes a virtual army of other volunteers to ensure the juniors are able to compete in as many tournaments as possible.

"You have to have total commitment," Stephanie added.

The Chopps made a point of recognizing the most active volunteers: Dan Watson, Mike Cooney, Nicholas Prieur, Joel Michaud, Denis Levert, Marie Andree Ouimet, Lynn Wallis, Luc Poirier, Bob Graham, Dave

Rec centre eyes used ice chiller

By Greg Peerenboom
News Reporter

A broken down freezer unit at the South Glengarry Recreation Centre has sent the Char-Lan Rebels Junior B club on a nomadic existence for at least the near future.

"It's going to be a couple of weeks before we get a new one put in," said Marc Giroux, rec centre employee.

Giroux said it might be possible to have the ice sooner if a used chiller proves feasible.

"We're just waiting for a cost," he said.

The rec centre could save a considerable amount of money, as a new chiller would cost about $70,000 to $80,000, Giroux said.

The used chiller is about three years old and was installed at the Lansdowne Park arena in Ottawa.

"They replaced it because they needed a bigger one," Giroux said.

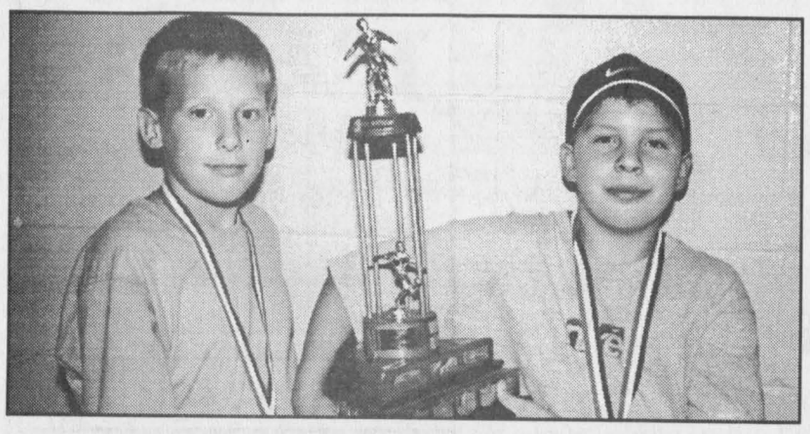
Williamstown's chiller ceased functioning after the ammonia started to leak into the brine.

"It's like a car radiator," he said.

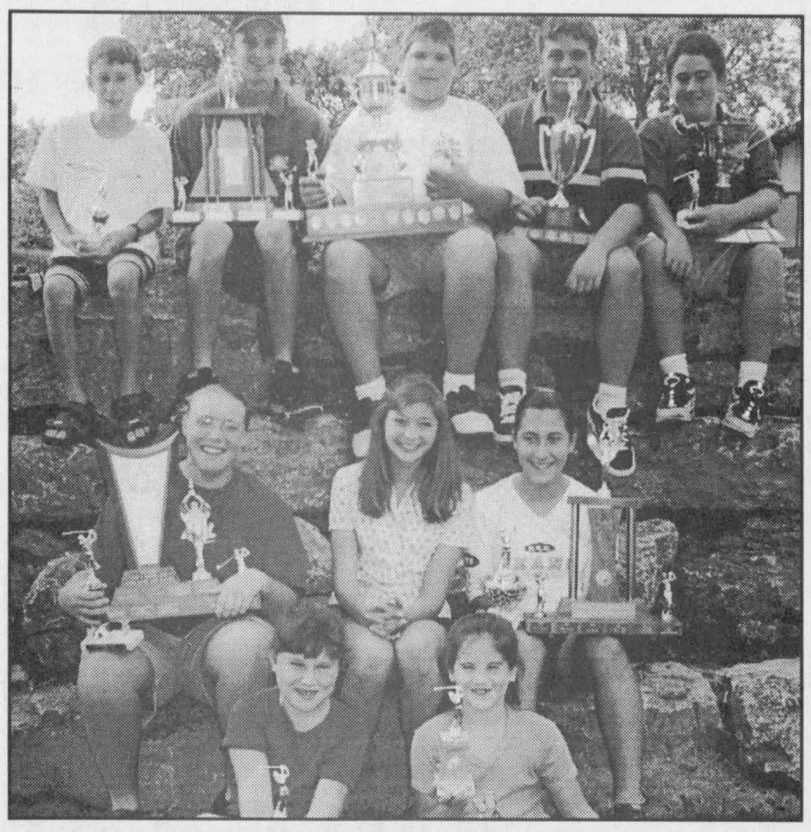
The break-down wasn't entirely unexpected, as the chiller has a life expectancy of about 25 years.

"It was going into its 25th year."

With home ice unavailable, the Rebels had to reschedule their first tryouts to Long Sault for Sept. 11 and Sept. 12 and Bob Turner Centre on Sept. 13 and the Civic Complex on Sept. 14 in Cornwall.



Winning as best halfbacks were Michael MacLeoid and Scott McPherson.



The Glengarry Golf and Country Club held its junior banquet recently and the following members won awards: bottom row, left, best swings, Kelly-Ann Hutchison and Emily Major; middle row, from left, junior girls club champ Cindy Radford, $50 CGA pro golf lesson recipient Jodie Poirier, matchplay champ Amy Menard; top row, from left, best swing Adam Charlebois, club champ Mark Spencer, golfer of the year Maurice Bellefeuille, junior boys club champ Matthew Poirier and bantam champ Matthew Cooney.

GSL awards

The Glengarry Soccer League held its annual banquet Sept. 10 for its minor divisions at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Winning for best goaler were Hadie St. Denis, Daniel Vallance, Andrew Wensink, Christine Ladouceur, Andrew Vallance and Danielle Major. Missing is Jessica Moffatt. Staff Photos - Greg Peerenboom

Mission over for co-ordinators

Graham, Stephen Decaire, Rick Duchesneau, Rick Latreille, Greg Cruickshank and Richard Burns.

These lovers of the game are the reason the juniors are now competing against the best young players in prestigious Ottawa Valley Golf Association tournaments.

The Chopps plan to be less directly involved now, but they're confident their past work and a helping hand from the community might one day produce, Walter said, "a Mike Weir or Richard Zokol."

Char-Lan Rebels auditioning talent

Right winger Rod Wilson is at school in Peterborough, left wing Jean Greggain has been claimed by Ottawa University.

Chafee and head coach Claude (Red) Dupuis do have a leadership void to fill, however.

Eric Fontaine, captain of the Rebels for three straight years, has retired from playing competitive hockey. But don't expect the Rebs to miss him.

"He's coming back as an assistant coach," Chafee said. He will team with Rick McCullough.

Father Gerry Fontaine is now the trainer. He is replacing departing Bob Zuluski, whose son, former assistant captain D.J. Zuluski, has retired.

Chafee and Dupuis will pare down the team to 25 or 26 bodies by Thursday as the Rebels prepare for their first exhibition in Massena, N.Y. at 7:30 p.m.

The ice-making problems at South Glengarry Recreation Centre are not expected to be remedied for at least two weeks. (See related story this page).

As usual, the Rebels travel to Alexandria to meet their cross-county rivals, the Glens, for the season opener Sept. 24 at 8:30 p.m.

Chafee admits the beginning of the season will be a little more work and expense for the club.

Their "home opener" will be played Sept. 25 at the Long Sault arena against the Morrisburg Lions. Game time is 2 p.m.

Blazers drop final to Cumberland

In the Division 1 Belleville Labour Day Tournament the Alexandria Pizzeria 15U Girls Blazers Team lost the championship game 4-3 in the final minute of the extra overtime period to the Cumberland Cobras.

In the final, played an hour after the semi-final, the Blazers found themselves coming from behind. Cumberland scored early in the first half on a corner kick while the Blazers waited until the last minute of the first half when Shannon Grant sent a hard shot to the left side of the Cumberland net after receiving a well-placed chip shot from Michelle Higgins.

Speciality situations allowed Cumberland to score on a direct kick and a penalty kick with five minutes remaining in regulation time.

Each Cumberland score was countered by a Blazers goal. Jenny Larkin responded with a direct kick to the top left corner while Michelle Hickley neatly headed in a corner kick from Jenny Larkin with 3 minutes to go to send the game into extra time.

An hour earlier the Blazers had scraped by Kanata Wildcats in an overtime match that ended tied at 1-1. It was only after each team had used 10 shooters each in penalty kicks that Green Valley's Mandy Taylor made the difference. In regulation time Michelle Higgins had sent a solid drive to the top of the net from 25 metres while falling.

Jenny Larkin, Amélie Palmer and Shannon Grant had also scored during the penalty kicks to keep Blazers in the game.

The three regulation tournament matches saw the Alexandria Pizzeria girls defeat Chelsea 1-0 with Shannon Grant providing the only scoring on a converted corner kick which she headed in, tie Kanata 0-0 and also tie Cumberland 1-1 with a Jenny Larkin direct kick from 20 metres with less than a minute to play.

In the playoffs, the 15U Girls Blazers waited until the last 15 minutes before scoring 3 quick goals to defeat South Nepean 3-0 in a game played at the Cornwall Optimist field on Wednesday, September 8. Blazers counters were: Josée MacDonald, Marissa Hickley and Michelle Higgins. The return game with South Nepean is today, Wednesday, Sept. 15, in South Nepean.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF PAT CALFACACOS (nee Bridgman)
WHO PASSED AWAY
SEPTEMBER 13, 1994
It is sad to walk the road alone
Instead of side by side
But to all there comes a moment
When the way of life divides
She gave us years of happiness
Then came sorrow and tears
But she left us beautiful memories
We will cherish through the years
The way she talked, the smile she wore
And all the thousand things so dear
We loved about her while she lived
Haven't gone with her from here
They're planted deep in memory's garden
And watered daily with our tears
To keep them ever fresh and vivid
Through all the coming years
Our lips cannot tell how we miss her
Our heart can not tell what to say
God alone knows how we miss her
In a family that is lonesome today
She had a cheery smile, a pleasant way
A helping hand to all she knew
She was so kind, so generous and true
On earth she nobly did her best
Grant her God, Heavenly rest.
MOM, DAD, BET, TOM,
STEVE and JASON 37-1p

In Memoriam

LEROUX, Lionel (Gidou) –In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away Sept. 12, 1998.
He had a cheery smile, a pleasant way,
A helping hand to all he knew;
He was so kind, so generous and true.
On earth he nobly did his best,
Grant him, Jesus, heavenly rest.
– Always remembered by Martin, Josee and Sarah 37-1p

LAJOIE, Denis –In loving memory of a dear husband, father, and grandfather who passed away Sept. 18, 1998.
Deep in our hearts you are fondly remembered.
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name.
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection.
Always will love you in death the same
– Lovingly remembered by wife Carole, and family 37-1p

RANGER – In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Kathleen, who passed away September 12, 1996.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well.
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
– Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Lorraine, son-in-law Gordon, grandsons, Ryan and Eric. 37-1p

RANGER – In loving memory of a dear mother, Kathleen, who passed away Sept. 12, 1996.

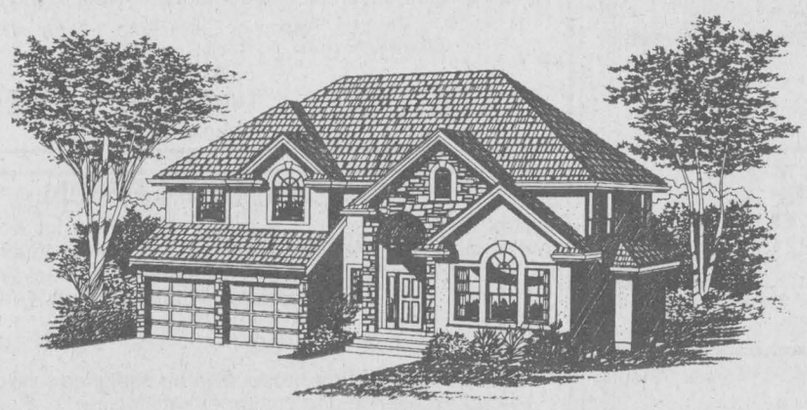
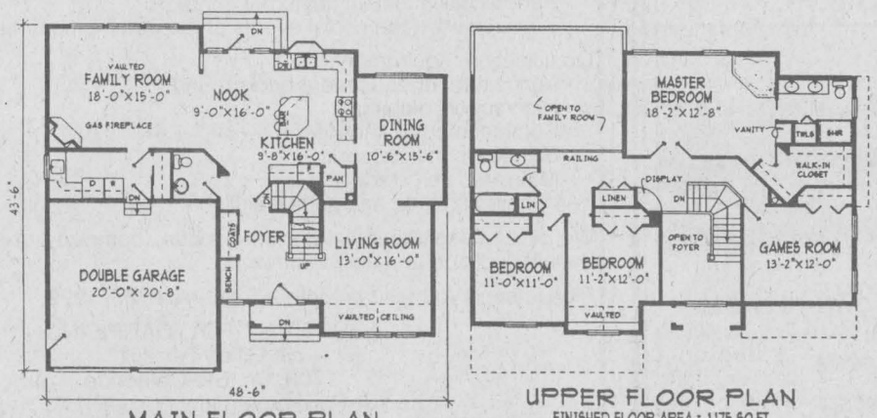
TWO STOREY





Plan No. BT-127

CLASSIC ELEGANCE

A steep pitched roof with gable accents, decorative stone detailing, palladian style feature windows and a dramatic high arched entranceway combine to create a stately traditional style facade.

A spacious living room boasts a feature window and a vaulted ceiling. The dining room is also a good size, and can be closed off from the kitchen area via a sliding pocket door. An open plan for the kitchen and family room area provides a comfortable area for less formal gatherings. The cook in the family will enjoy a gourmet style kitchen complete with ample cupboard and counter space, a walk-in pantry, and a work island. The family room, open to the second storey, boasts a vaulted ceiling and receives plenty of natural light from windows all along the rear.

Upstairs, a luxurious master bedroom features a four piece ensuite, plus a swirl tub located in the bedroom itself.

An unfinished basement awaits your own creative touch.

Plans for BT-127 may be obtained for $545.00 for a package of five complete sets of working prints and $45.00 for each additional set of the same plan. Allow $20.00 extra to cover the cost of courier and handling. B.C. residents add 7% PST to plan total. All Canadian residents add 7% GST to plan total plus courier.

This is one of our new designs. Many innovative plans are now available in our NEW catalogue: Two Storeys over 2500 sq.ft., which is available for $8.51 including postage and handling and the GST.

Abundant rain brings relief for area wells

Glen Sandfield

LORNA CHAPMAN
874-2408

* * *

There will be a GEPC charge wide joint service in St. Andrew's United Church (The Round Church) at 11 a.m. on Sept. 26. All other three services will be cancelled that Sunday.

* * *

Congratulations and many happy returns are extended to Bessie MacLennan, Lloyd MacLennan, Clifford MacDonald and Isabel MacLennan on their recent birthdays.

* * *

We received the sad news that my grandson Freddie Chapman, 23, of Vancouver met an untimely death in Vancouver, B.C. last week. He was the son of Charles (Gus) and Judy Chapman Meketich.

* * *

Last Sunday the Glen Sandfield United Church choir presented their annual Labour Day Sunday evening hymn sing. The UCW members provided the delicious light lunch afterwards. Bill Connors played the pump organ for the singing of the congregational hymns and Bessie MacLennan accompanied the choir numbers on the electronic organ. The Rev. Dr. Frank Bailey conducted the service.

The congregation was small due to the fact that it was held on the same night as the soccer championship game, but their enthusiasm made up for the small turn-out. Fiona Fraser and Doyenne MacDougall joined the choir for this service. The singing of the favourite hymns, which had been chosen earlier by some members of the choir and the congregation, was a delight. The group expressed their enjoyment of the service during the fellowship time afterward. Many thanks to all those who helped to make this such a special occasion.

* * *

Doris Spencer, Lorna Chapman, Margo and Arnold MacRae, Lloyd and Isabel MacLennan and Eleanor Bickerstaff were among the area people who bused up to the Hull Casino last Tuesday. Several returned as winners though most of them really were not that lucky. But, win or lose, all claimed to have enjoyed their day at the casino.

On Saturday, Aug. 31 I found that the well water coming into the house was rust coloured with earth. I was draining the bottom of the well. This was the first time since purchasing the property in 1959 that we have had water problems. Our spring-fed well had never gone dry and here it was gasping after our long and unusually hot, dry summer. It is 58 feet deep and we have heard of two wells both over 100 feet deep that had gone dry. People have had to sink new wells and streams that had never gone totally dry, became just trickles or disappeared all together. Fortunately our three rain barrels were full but after three days two were only half full. It went fast! The MacRaes kindly brought me a 500 gallon tank of water which is sitting in the driveway; and my barrels are full again after five days of that blessed rain we've had.

Shades of the ice storm! Heating water and carrying it upstairs to the bathroom to wash; carrying buckets up to flush made me remember how it was that January. However, there was "no" heating problem.

Since the rain the well seems to have made a recovery but I am going carefully in my use of water now, only flushing when absolutely necessary and using the rainwater. We take the briefest of showers and use bottled water for drinking, even though the well water has cleared up nicely. We take our water supplies here in Canada for granted because they have never failed. This is a lesson for all of us, we were in the middle of a drought and we found that our water is precious. Have we learned not to waste it? Or will we go merrily along running water down the drains as though there is an infinite supply? There's not, you know, as I found out last week! I for one have been warned and I will heed it. Our well has come back but I will continue to ration water.

Rinsing the soap off the dishes in rain water leaves no spots or streaks when they drain dry and that's a plus. Hand washing lingerie takes less water. Using water twice, such as using rinse to wash floors and washing water can be used for any number of cleaning jobs. We did it during the ice storm and shouldn't we be doing something now before we lose our water supply for good?

Some parts of the world now have little potable water that used to have a plentiful supply of good water. Weather patterns seem to be changing. Could this be in our future too? Think about it!

Aug. 21 was a busy day in the village with Alma Umphrey's auction sale attracting a large crowd. Thus, the Maxville Fire Fighters were out to collect donations for muscular dystrophy. Motorists willingly stopped to drop their contributions into the boots the members used for that purpose.

A total of $1,400 was raised and thanks go to all the contributors as well as to the members of our fire department for volunteering their time.

Several of our young people are now settled in their new niches at university or college. Cindy Scott has chosen to attend Laurentian U. in Sudbury as did her sister Nancy. Now that she has graduated from there, Nancy is studying in Buffalo, N.Y. to be a teacher while living in Fort Erie, across the Niagara River in Ontario. They are daughters of Angele and Richard.

Allison and Hugh Wilson have their oldest three children settled. Ian has returned from out West and is attending Lakehead University in Thunder Bay. Younger daughter Jennifer is continuing her studies in physiotherapy at the University of Toronto while her sister, Cynthia is now a physiotherapist and is working in Texas.

Kathleen Jack, the first of the four daughters of Lynda and Peter is attending St. Lawrence College in Kingston.

Kelli Munro, daughter of Brenda and Dale, is attending Loyalist College in Belleville and plans to be a nurse. Lindsay McIntosh, daughter of Betty and Neil is also there for her second year and is studying tourism.

We are always happy to have former residents back for a visit. Sheila and Elgin Montgomery with son, Rylan, were here recently. As well, the former Juanita Golden with her husband Tony Cinquina from California have been visiting friends here. Catherine (McDonald) Leadbetter from Edmonton has been here too, renewing friendships made since her childhood.

I wrote about how well the children on our street played so well together and gave credit to Lynne Laflamme for being such a versatile babysitter. Unfortunately, Lynne's surname appeared in print as Laframboise.

Hugh Fisher phoned to identify the barn raising photograph that was printed in the Sept. 1 issue of the Glengarry News. The barn is at Athol on the farm of Lorraine Villeneuve which is rented by her brother-in-law, Andre. The barn has been enlarged since it was originally built.

Hugh's father, Andrew, is the worker wearing a straw hat and standing on the ladder. Hugh has the original and can identify others.

The next time you visit Upper Canada Village, check out the initials carved into the logs of the school house. When a student at that school when it was at Athol, Andrew carved A.F. for generations to see.

The executive of the Glengarry School of Piping and Drumming is making plans for the opening of the fall term on Sept. 25 at the public school. Parents are being asked to consider the school for their children's fall activities. There are classes for those under 12, for teenagers and adults. A beginning piping student requires a chanter of which there are many available and fingers long enough to reach the scale. Beginning drummers require drum sticks and a pad. Beginners must all be sufficiently mature to understand the time signatures.

Beginners will meet at 9 for one hour and are asked to register by phone with one of those listed below.

All levels of piping and drumming are taught including piobaireachd and solo competition.

All of last year's students will be contacted for the times of their lessons.

The Glengarry Pipe band depends on our young people to take the places of those moving away so it is important that all classes be well filled.

This summer there were three bands – Grade III, IV and V. The latter two were made up entirely of the school's students and this speaks well for both the students and their teachers.

One of the following may be contacted for complete information: Lucy McIntosh 938-0816, Francine McDonald 347-2511, Susan Reasbeck 347-7741, Janet MacCrimmon 525-1184, Myrna Fraser 528-4491 or Helen McKay 527-3035.

St. Bernard School has two fundraisers coming up. If you shop at M&M meat shop in Cornwall, give the number 80 to the clerk and the school will receive a contribution.

Also, the Kellogg's Company will contribute when you collect the UPC codes on their cereals, egg waffles and snack bars.

The members of the Parents' Committee will appreciate your co-operation.

Householders are receiving the results of the drinking water tests conducted this summer. The reports to some have indicated good results, while others are concerned that their water has bacteria in it.

As I see it, with our sewers, there should be no pollution from human waste getting into water in drilled wells. At the same time, some samples are indicating a high count of undefined bacteria and I am wondering how they can get into a drilled well, providing all pipes are in good condition. I feel that these people should receive explanations with their systems examined before their wells are condemned or at least rated poor.

Next week I will try to make space for the S.O.S. trip to Ottawa, and the results of the euchre, 500 and bridge parties. Next Monday, it will be the 500 party in the Anglican Church Hall.

•In honor of five birthdays and a BCTV camera crew from Vancouver, Alexandria Mayor Jean-Paul Touchette crooned at the Domaine Marie Goretti senior citizen's home on Sept. 12. He sang some old favorites (such as Ave Maria) for the birthday recipients, and the latest Save the Train song, A Little Bit of Heaven, for the documentary BCTV is doing on Alexandria's efforts to save VIA RAIL. The people celebrating birthdays in September were volunteer Margaret Tremblay, 62, and residents Janet O'Shea, 95, Elzear Dumong, 88, Millie McIntosh, 87, and Mabel Ross, 84.

The Raven's Rock
HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

"Beware of MacDonell! beware of his wrath!/In friendship or foray, oh cross not his path!/He knoweth no bounds to his love or his hate,/ And the wind of his claymore is blasting as fate/Like the hill-cat who springs from her lair in the rock /He leaps on the foe – there is death in the shock./ And the birds of the air shall be gorged with their prey/When the Chief of Glengarry comes down to the fray,/With his war-cry, The Rock of the Raven." – Ogilvie's Highland Minstrelsy.

By the time the famous Dr. Samuel Johnson visited the Highlands in 1773, twenty-seven years after the clans had been broken at Culloden, his romantic idea of finding "the noble savage" was shattered. He described, almost sadly, what he had actually discovered: "The clans retain little now of their original character, their ferocity is softened, their military ardour is extinguished, their dignity of independence is depressed, their contempt of government subdued and their reverence for their chiefs abated. Of what they had before...there remains only their language and their poverty."

There is no doubt that the end of the old bloodthirsty way of life in the Highlands was an improvement, but much that was admirable had also disappeared. The baby had been thrown out with the bathwater.

Before heraldry was introduced to Britain by the Norman French in the 12th century (and in some areas for centuries after), Highlanders identified themselves with a plant badge, a shouted sluag-ghairm (slogan or war-cry), a particular wild creature, a special place in the clan territory or other emblem. These ancient tribal symbols were eventually incorporated into heraldic crests and coats-of-arms. (Although tartans were associated with the Highland Scots from the earliest times they did not represent individual clans until the late 18th century).

A personal coat-of-arms belongs to one individual only and is inherited by the eldest heir. Younger members of the line can use the same basic design, but officially differenced for each individual. In Scotland, the legal authority for the creation or changing of armorial bearings rests with the Lord Lyon, King of Arms. Clansmen, bearers of the same name or others claiming membership in the clan are only entitled to wear an approved clan badge or crest, generally bearing a single symbol and the clan motto.

The MacDonalds or MacDonells of Glengarry, as all those of Clan Donald, claim descent from Somerled, King of the Isles, in the 12th century. The Lordship of the Isles remained independant for more than 200 years.

The clan plant badge is heather. In olden times, anyone wearing it was immediately identified as a MacDonald or as a supporter of the clan. Other clans adopted other plants as their emblems.

The raven was generally considered a bird of ill-omen in the Gaelic world but to Clan Donald of Glengarry it was revered as a good-luck symbol. Perched on the cliff overlooking the chiefs' stronghold of Invergarry Castle it is still the slogan or war-cry of the clan – The Raven's Rock, Creagan an Fhithich, as represented on the chief's coat-of-arms, on the clan badge and on the crest of The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders.

The chief's patronymic is always Mac 'ic (Mhic) Alasdair, The Son of Alexander's Son. It comes before any other title.

Many pipe tunes are associated with the clan: Glengarry's Salute, Barrisdale's Salute, Kilchrist, Glengarry's March, Glengarry's Lament, Lament for Alasdair Dearg and Lament for Donald of Laggan.

Among the cadet or tacksmen family names which came to Canada two centuries ago and are still recognized here in Glengarry are Aberchalder, Crowlin, Cullachie, Greenfield, Leek, Lundie, Sandaig and Scotus.

There are many septs or family names connected with the Glengarry clan. Among them are Alexander (a Lowland rendering of Alasdair); MacGillis, (Mac Gille Iosa), Son of the Servant of Jesus (an ancient Gaelic surname associated with the Church, including some, but not all, Gillises); Kennedy, (MacUalraig), a clan which came to Lochaber in the 16th century and were among the most loyal followers of Glengarry; and MacLellan (Mac Gill' Fhaolain), Son of the Servant of St Fillan.

The principal Highland surnames in Glengarry, Ontario, in 1852 were: MacDonald and MacDonell (3,228), MacMillan (545), MacDougall (541), MacRae (456), MacLeod (437), Grant (415), Cameron (399), MacGillis (369), Kennedy (333) and MacLennan (322).

(All Highland family names were originally spelled in Gaelic. There are many variations in the English versions in which they are now commonly written. For example, over 100 different spellings of MacMillan, MacMhaolain, have been recorded in English).

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

Photographer finds many of her subjects around hamlet home

ARTS SCENE

LORNA FOREMAN, 347-1338

Art doesn't necessarily have to serve any purpose except to enjoy. But the art of Carolyn Pottie of Glen Sandfield is spiritual and inspires and lends hope.

Working out of her home studio, Carolyn combines her love of nature photography with inspirational messages to produce, under the name "Living Waters", gifts that offer peace of mind.

"I have always taken photographs." Carolyn said. "But it has only been a year since I started concentrating on nature. I was given a camera about 25 years ago and I still use the same one. It is all manual and I am self-taught."

"For four and half years I was part owner of Pilon's Bakery in Vankleek Hill." she explained. "Then I worked for the Red Cross as a Home Health Aid throughout Glengarry. Also, I was involved with palliative care."

Sometimes life takes over and changes direction for you.

"A series of incidents occurred," Carolyn said. "That made me wonder just what was going on. I had just got married and when I was due to go back to work, I came down with the flu. Added to that, I suffered a slight injury that once again stymied my return. Then my husband had a health emergency and I stayed to take care of him. At one point I went to my church and asked God just what I was supposed to do. Obviously a door was closed and then I decided that I would open another and pay attention to my photography."

Carolyn enrolled in the Small Business Owners Course at St. Lawrence College.

"It was hard work." Carolyn admitted. "I had to learn all the aspects of business that I had carefully avoided when I owned the Bakery. Even computer accounting. We learned how to put together a business plan and after graduating, we had to keep to the plan for at least the first nine months: no new plans, nothing that isn't written in our plan."

It seems to be working. Living Waters produces small, medium and large size photographs all having scripture written on them whether on the image itself, or the matting. She uses a most unique marketing tool for photography - home parties.

They can be either at the host's home or Carolyn's studio.

"I like that system." Carolyn said. "Instead of having a substantial inventory out on consignment in various art galleries or appropriate shops, this is immediate."

Carolyn has other ideas as well.

"I am thinking of producing cards, posters, T-shirts and inspirational books." Carolyn said. "Together with a friend who writes poetry, I will produce the photographs to accompany each poem."

Carolyn Pottie of Glen Sandfield sits surrounded by some of the inspiration for her interesting work. The photographs include quotes from scripture appropriate to her images.

"At first it was difficult to discipline myself," Carolyn admitted. "But now I carry my camera everywhere I go and feel that I am working. As my studio is totally separate from the rest of the house, once I am in it, I work."

Surrounding Carolyn's home are gardens and lots of bird feeders. This is where she gets so many of her images. While I was interviewing her, a gorgeous hummingbird kept buzzing the screen window inches away from my head.

"I've been waiting for that perfect hummingbird photograph." Carolyn said. "The other morning I stood outside talking to the hummingbird." My husband Bill wanted to know who I was talking to. He didn't blink an eye when I said a bird."

Carolyn has work at the Ottawa Valley Artists Association Gallery in Hawkesbury and will be participating in the Tri-County Craft Show in Cornwall this fall.

"I want to offer peace and hope to people whether they are old, infirm or fearful under stress." Carolyn said.

Carolyn can be reached at 874-2939.

Orchard apples provide for lunch, breakfast and dessert

COUNTRY COOKING CORNER

CAROL KLOOS

I look forward to apple picking season every year! It is just delightful, on a beautiful sunny day, to walk among the heavily apple-laden trees. I love to snap off the fat, juicy-looking apples that catch my eye! But, all too soon the bags are filled and heavy.

The best thing to do, I find, is to take your time and enjoy the simplicity of the whole outing. The first thing to do is to pick myself a snappy apple to sink my teeth into while we go around filling our bag.

I know you will enjoy these beautiful recipes!

Country Apple Coffee Cake

1 1/2 c. sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 tsp. salt
2 1/4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 c. sugar
1 egg, beaten
1/2 c. milk
1/4 c. butter, melted
1 1/2 c. chopped, peeled apples

•Sift dry ingredients. Combine egg, milk, melted butter and apples. Add to dry ingredients and stir only enough to moisten. Turn into greased 8 inch square pan.

Topping:–1/4 c. brown sugar, firmly packed
–2 tbsp. flour
–1/2 tsp. cinnamon
–2 tbsp. butter

•Mix dry ingredients, cut in butter and sprinkle over batter. Bake at 350°F until knife inserted in centre comes out clean. (About 30 minutes).

Are you always in search for something different? This is something entirely out of the ordinary and quite impressive!

Apple Ball Apple Sauce

For a variation from the usual applesauce, make apple balls with a "melon-baller". Cook the rest of the apple, not formed into balls, as usual. Simmer the balls in a little orange juice to which you have added some bright red jelly such as strawberry or current. Save the juice for another dessert. Combine the little red balls with the usual applesauce you have made and you have a festive dessert, with some left over for topping another dessert another day.

All you "sweet lovers" out there. Here is an excellent recipe for apple muffins.

Apple Muffins - With Brown Sugar Sauce

1 tbsp. butter, softened
1 egg, lightly beaten
1 c. brown sugar
1 c. flour
2 tbsp. hot apple juice or boiling water
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. vanilla
1 c. peeled and chopped tart apples
1/2 c. chopped and walnuts or pecans

•Preheat oven to 350°F. Grease muffin cups or use paper liners. Combine all ingredients in the order given. Fill muffin cups 3/4 full, and bake until done, about 20-25 minutes.

Brown Sugar Sauce:–1 c. brown sugar
–2 tbsp. flour
–1/2 c. hot apple juice or water
–4 tbsp. butter
–1 tsp. vanilla

•Combine all ingredients and cook over medium heat until thick. Serve hot over muffins. Make 1 doz.

Food Value For Apples: When apples are eaten frequently, they make an important contribution to the diet. The natural sugar in the fruit is ready for immediate absorption to supply the body with energy. Apples also provide stimulating juices and bulk, which aid in good digestion and intestinal activity. In addition, they contain valuable minerals and vitamins, though the vitamin content varies with the variety of apple, storage conditions and the way the fruit is served. Because of their natural crispness, raw apple help stimulate the gums and clean teeth.

Use plump, Greek pita breads, cut in half. Serve with an assortment of toasted coconut, toasted nuts, bean sprouts, chopped up lettuce leaves, chopped green onions. Serve on the side or add this to apple mixture.

Apple-Cheesy Pitas With Curry

2/3 c. mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 tsp. curry powder (or to your taste)
2 tsp. lemon juice
1 pkg. shredded cheddar cheese
2 red apples, unpeeled and chopped
2 green apples, unpeeled and chopped
2 large pitas (Greek)

•Mix filling ingredients. Stuff into pita halves. 4 servings.

This is an easy-to-do little recipe that is a great side-dish that I serve with pork. It's also great with ham or sausages.

Simple Sautéed Apple Rings

2 tbsp. butter
1 tbsp. brown sugar
1/8 tsp. cinnamon
3 medium apples, cored and cut in rings.

•Combine butter, sugar and cinnamon. Heat until mixture begins to bubble. Add apples and sauté over medium heat until tender, (3 to 4 min. each side). Makes 12 apple rings.

Tips and Hints of the Week:–A delectable way to preserve basil: chop fine, mix with an equal volume of grated parmesan cheese, refrigerate two to three days to let flavours blend, then freeze. Keeps well, makes lovely gifts, tastes great spread on fresh tomato slices and is delicious in pesto.

–In your freezer, resist the impulse to place food on top of your ice cub trays. Juices from raw meats and poultry could drip down into the trays and contaminate the ice. So, double-wrap all meats, store on bottom of freezer. Don't overpack freezer, leave room for air to circulate, (especially along vent along back of freezer)!

–When recipe calls for sifted flour, sift before you measure. Never pack the flour down by banging the cup on the table.

Happy Cooking

DUNVEGAN

PEGGI CALDER, 527-5293

The "Rural Ride" picture on page 4 of last week's News was an important occasion to members of the Dunvegan Orange Lodge, not the pleasure ride it was made out to be.

Dolphie MacPhee, left, and Donald Rory Campbell were in full uniform for the Orange Walk some time in the 30's. Held yearly on July 12, this ceremony celebrates the victory of the Protestant cause in the Battle of the Boyne, and one of the riders would portray King William III on his white horse.

The white or grey horses were often washed down with buttermilk to bring out their white colour.

By Friday, Sept. 3 the DRA hall had sprouted a red mail box and a Canada Post sign.

Following Labour Day, the mail was ready as usual (with just a little bit of confusion), and renovations continued last week to bring the temporary site up to Post Office standards.

The condolences of the community go out to Joyce Grier following the loss September 1 of her husband Richard. A well-attended memorial service was held at Kenyon Presbyterian Church on Saturday.

Eulogies by two nephews, Peter Grier and Colin Bergh, celebrated Richard's irreverent sense of humour, his determination, his appreciation of the country life and his gentlemanly demeanor.

I must say that I will never forget having Richard tip his hat to me – just a small gesture from gentler times that have almost disappeared.

Thursday night seven members of Dunvegan WI drove to Morrisburg for a delightful dinner and theatre evening.

Dinner was served by the Christian Reform church group in Williamsburg and before going on to the theatre, members enjoyed a sightseeing tour through the residential area of Morrisburg where there are quite a few huge new homes.

The Upper Canada Playhouse production of "Sylvia" was excellent and gave everyone at least a month's worth of laughs. Sylvia was a stray dog that had been brought home by a jaded executive and we were all trying to guess how they would get a dog to sit still for a full performance.

The part was played perfectly by an energetic young actress. I loved her rendition of "barking" when there was someone at the door. She yelled "Hey, hey, hey!" and it quite made sense.

Last week Velma Franklin was invited over to son Mark's for an evening pool party of a different nature.

A young porcupine was out in the middle of the pool standing in a puddle of water on the pool cover and was quite upset and more than a bit confused at the situation it had found itself in. And it was not amused to be caught in the beam of a flashlight.

They left a board across the pool up to the side, and in the morning a wet trail of footprints was all that was left of the unusual visitor.
