Winchester Man's Body Found on Railway Tracks

The village of Winchester was again shocked Tuesday morning to hear that the body of Hamlet O'Neil, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neil, of Winchester, had been found beside the C.P.R. tracks, near the cattle yards, presumably killed by a train. Nothing definite is yet known.

O'Neill accompanied Jack Van Bridger, Winchester, to the station at midnight where VanBridger was to meet a friend. O'Neill left the car for a walk and VanBridger thought he had decided to walk home. Engineer S. Deegan, of Smiths Falls, on a westbound freight, saw the body five hours later.

Coroner Dr. P. McLaughlin will conduct an inquest into the fatality Saturday afternoon at Winchester.

He is survived by his parents, six sisters and two brothers. He was employed by C. R. Robinson, baker, to deliver bread on the country routes, and was a pleasant, accommodating young man. His parents and friends are grief stricken over the accident. The funeral will be held this afternoon at two p.m. in Winchester United church.

Leafs Drop to Last Place As Two More Games Lost

CORNWALL DEFAULTS GAME TO CARDINAL

It is reported Cornwall Canadiens have defaults the game to Cardinal billed for Saturday night and put off when icy roads halted all traffic. hTe two-point gift lifts Cardina Cubs out of the cellar and drops the Leafs from third place. Tonight's game can put the Leafs back into a tie with the Cardinal team, and with Shi Harper reporting back for duty, the starchtown boys are going to have to step to stay ahead of the Leafs.

The Leafs failed to snap out of their streak of losses Tuesday night when they went down before the Cardinal Cubs in a free scoring game 9-6 on Cardinal ice. The loss dropped the Leafs into a tie for third place with the Cubs who haven't been able to climb out all season of the cellar position.

Cardinal scored twice in the opening of the first period and then alternated with the Leafs and the period ended at 3-2. In the second, Cardinal netted four goals on Chesterville, while the Leafs scored the last of the period, lagging 7-3. Cardinal added the first and last in the final period and the Leafls tucked three between with the final count 9-6.

Wylie got four points out of the scoring spree to top the evening's list as he scored three and an assist, four were tied with three points for second place. Levi Sorrell placed three pucks behind Fyke, Lamson earned three assists, Warrington scored three times on Carther and Dob Plantz accounted for two goals and an assist.

The teams:

Leafs—Goal, Fyke; defence, P. Plantz and McElroy; centre, F. Plantz wings, Warrington and Hitsman; subs Pyefinch, Robertson, H. Harper, McIntosh.

Cardinal—Goal, Carther ;defence, Pontbriand and Adams ;centre, Wylie, wings, Bowers and Little; subs, Sorrell, Lamson, McCallum, Pilon and Gamble.

This period saw a host of penalties. One five minute and four minors were assessed by Peterkin. Percy Plantz pulled the referee's feet from under him as he was banished, and his minor was boosted to five minutes. Prescott lost the advantage by taking four trips to the bench two of them but five seconds apart. Black, Windsor, Farmer and McConnell were the offenders.

The freakish third saw six goals, two for the Leafs and four for their guests. Percy Warrington earned his third point when he scored on a nice lone rush at 3.25. Black put Panthers up four minutes later on Bennett's assist and Bob Hitsman came back with the evener a minute later on Dob Plantz's pass. Newsome's goal at 15.08 was disputed by Leafs on the grounds two players were in the goal crease, but Peterkin allowed the score. Two minutes later, Bennett sent a knee-high drive in from left wing that Fyke claimed went through a hole in the side of the net. The hole was there all right and Shi Harper, handling the red light, told Peterkin the puck entered through the hole, but the count was allowed. Farmer drifted in for the last goal in the play that was perhaps unique in local ice history. Pud Plantz drew the only penalty of the 19½ minutes.

Breaks Against Chesterville And Prescott Wins 7-4

In a strange mixture of torn nets, a bum goal umpire and heated disputes, the Prescott-Leaf game here ended with the Leafs skating off the ice in protest 30 seconds before the end of time Thursday night to give the Prescott Panthers a 7-4 victory on their last scheduled appearance locally of the schedule. The protest was created by the goal judge over the Prescott nets, a Prescott citizen, who flickered his light incessantly in an effort to attract referee Arnie Peterkin's attention to the nets which had been pushed around. The local boys saw the light, naturally thought a goal was being called, and allowed Prescott to drift in on their nets to score. The Prescott goal was allowed and to cap the resulting dispute, the Leafs left the ice and would not return.

The game was a spotty affair, with brief periods of good hockey spattered by heavy checking and slashing. The Leafs were handicapped with injuries to Robertson, Warrington, and Shi Harper has had to lay off for several games to rest an injured spine.

The local boys went into the lead at 47 seconds but were down 2-1 at the end of the first period. The Panthers added another in the second with the Leafs also scoring for a 3-2 count. The Leafs evened the score in the third, Prescott went ahead, again the Leafs evened, only to have the Panthers come back with three in the last four minutes.

Bob Hitsman banged in Percy Warrington's rebound after a beautiful play inside the Panther's blue line after only 47 seconds. Frattura evened the count with Auclaire at nine minutes, and put his team up on a lone goal in the last minute. Prescott drew two of the three penalties in the period, Fisher and Frattura going to the bench, while Bill McElroy took the count for the Leafs.

Frattura put the Panthers up another notched with Newsome at 8.07 in the second, but Warrington annulled it at 12.05 on Dob Plantz's pass.

Reception and Presentation For Mr. and Mrs. R. Hummel

A delightful time was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Hummel on Monday evening when a number of friends, about 40, gathered at a reception for their son, Ronald C. Hummel, and his bride, the former Grace Casselman of Morrisburg. During the evening the presentation was made to the happy couple of flatware, a silver tray and a bride's book.

Card playing was enjoyed during the evening, and after Mr. Archie Black read the address and the presentation made by Mr. Sydney Morris, lunch was served, followed by dancing. During the evening Miss Marjorie Morris contributed a tap dancing number, with piano accompaniments by Miss Jean Colquhoun.

DID LIBERALS HAVE HAND IN THIS ALSO?

WHEN Leader R. B. Bennett of the Conservative party in the Commons wished to make a hurried trip from Montreal after attending the funeral of the late Lord Atholstan, he chartered a special train in an endeavour to arrive in time to join in a debate. Engine trouble developed on the run and the train did not arrive at the appointed hour. It must have reminded Mr. Bennett of the last special run he made for the premiership, when his arrival was very much delayed.

MOUNTAIN TOWNSHIP'S DEER.

DEER are said to have become so numerous in the Township of Mountain that an open season might be allowed with advantage for a year or two. The Cornwall Fish and Game Club has evidently become aware of this fact and at a recent meeting decided to memorialize the Minister of Game and Fisheries that an open season be allowed, but only for the residents of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Why the United Counties? Mountain Township has given the deer protection and why should the residents of Mountain township not be given the exclusive privilege of hunting them if it is given to anyone? We do not know that deer have become a nuisance in Mountain Township, and would much prefer to know they were going to be protected for many years to come than to have an open season.

"THIS IS THE HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT . . . . "

"WHEN the housewife buys a pair of shoes for junior, where does that money go?" the National Produced in Canada Association asks in a recent news release. It answers its own question in this way. "The money paid for the pair of shoes reimburses the farmer who supplied the hides for leather, the employees in the shoe factory where they were purchased, the employees who made the carton, the printer who set the identifying print on the box, the employees who made the ink used by the printer and right down to the lumberman who cut the wood from which the box was made. In reality, bearing in mind the inter-related industries, the price of that pair of shoes is eventually spread all over the country. Similarly, the same process follows when the housewife buys something which is produced outside of Canada which explains, in part, why approximately one out of every ten are on relief in Canada today."

THOSE AMERICAN PROGRAMMES

A GREAT TO-DO is being worked up by the press about the announced increase for radio licenses to come into effect with the new issue. The increase will be from four cents per week to five cents per week. It hardly seems worth worrying about. Of course, added to the howl is condemnation of the broadcasting of American programmes, with considerable American advertising tacked on to them.

The programmes added are good ones and the reception of them is improved when coming from Canadian stations, and we venture to say that hitherto these very same programmes were tuned in regularly by Canadian listeners, who now enjoy them more.

Several of the articles advertised are products of Canadian manufacture and while the advertising may be a bit lengthy, the revenue accruing has probably kept the increased price of radio licenses to the addition of a cent a week.

THE AGRICULTURAL REPRESENTATIVE'S LOCATION

LAST WEEK, for the second time in twenty years, an agricultural course in Morrisburg sponsored by the Department of Agriculture had to be abandoned owing to insufficient attendance of students to carry on the course successfully. This fact should give the Department of Agriculture cause for thought as to whether the Agricultural office has been well placed in Morrisburg. It is known to be the desire of the Department to have its district representative in as close touch with the farmers as possible, instucting and helping them in all the problems pertaining to their welfare. We have repeatedly heard farmers in this portion of Dundas wish they could get in touch more handily with the representative, and suggesting that for Dundas and West Stormont (which is the territory allotted for the representative's supervision) Chesterville is the logical place for him to reside.

With the Nestlé's plant here taking milk from a wider farming area than can possibly be served by Morrisburg, situated on the St. Lawrence, a very large number of farmers of necessity have to come to town and would be continually in touch with the District Representative of the Department of Agriculture. Chesterville is the centre of the finest farming section in Eastern Ontario, comprised of Dundas County and the western portion of Stormont County.

THE AUTOMOBILE AND SPEED.

THE PERTH COURIER comes out with a very sensible suggestion for stopping car accidents. It is generally agreed that the cause of the majority of accidents is too much speed. If that is the case, it seems only reasonable to apply the prevention to speed, that is, make cars so that dangerous speed cannot be used to the danger of life and limb. Speed has always been a talking point with salesmen selling cars, and a boasting point for the buyer when he has become an owner.

A car in irresponsible hands is more dangerous than a revolver in such hands and the remedy was sought in limiting the sale of revolvers. The sale of cars cannot be limited in the same way but we might go a little farther and limit the amount of speed a manufacturer may put in the engine of a car, that is not beyond engineering skill. The Courier suggests 40 or 45 miles per hour, and goes on to say:

"If all cars were made with these "limitations, there would be no need "for the competition between their "makers in producing more powerful "engines every year. The average car "driver doesn't need all that power at "his fingertips. All he needs is a "conveyance which takes him safely "and comfortably from one place to "another at a reasonable speed. No "one is ever in such a hurry that an "extra ten or fifteen miles an hour is "vital—but a decrease of ten or fif-"teen miles an hour is vital enough "to the safety of the traveller. It "may be argued that in the cases of "doctors, ambulance drivers and fire-"men a forced reduction of speed "might mean a great deal, but we "don't think it is necessary even for "these people to travel at dangerous "speeds, and in any case what is lost "to them or to the people they serve "would be compensated for a thou-"sand times by the increase in general "safety."

Officers Give Out Warning On Seed Oats Salesmen

Quebec's Agriculture Department has issued a warning to farmers against salesmen travelling the rural districts of the province with seed grain, particularly oats seed.

Agriculture Minister Bona Dassault said the salesmen were doing business with the farmers, though they had no permits, and were selling grain inferior to seed distributed by the Government.

The salesmen were charging exorbitant prices for the seed "which does not have the quality it is advertised to have," the Minister asserted.

He pointed out that the Government, as a result of years of work by experts on experimental farms in Quebec provided farmers at lowest possible prices with grain best suited to Quebec's needs.

SOIL TESTING IS IMPORTANT.

Department and O.A.C. Co-operating in Work Solving Many Problems Crop Improvement.

AGRICULTURAL leaders of Canada have become increasingly worried in recent years over soil depletion and while conditions in Ontario are not nearly as grave as in some parts of the Canadian West, it is common knowledge that many Ontario farms have been mined until there is but little fertility remaining. The Ontario Department of Agriculture is fully alive to the danger with the result that the Department, through the O.A.C., is undertaking an enlarged programme of research and demonstration work in 1938 in soil fertility.

In discussing the situation, Dr. G. I. Christie, President of the O.A.C., Guelph, points out that many Ontario soils have been farmed more than 100 years. Some have been wisely handled and have become increasingly productive. But on the other hand, many have been thoroughly mined; soils have become poor, hard to work, and give low yielding crops.

"On other farms, while good practice has been followed, fertility has become unbalanced," says Dr. Christie. "One or more elements have been reduced in available quantities. It may be phosphate, potash or nitrogen. In many cases it has been found to be boron, manganese or magnesium. It is through recognition of these problems that O.A.C. has undertaken an extensive research programme."

Dr. Christie reviewed work done in Norfolk County by the Chemistry Department of O.A.C., which located soils suitable for growing flue-cured tobacco. The crop this year sold for some $15,000,000. Part of Brant and Oxford Counties are being surveyed for tobacco through the co-operation of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa.

In Durham and Northumberland, Ottawa and O.A.C. were conducting soil surveys to determine if possible balance of fertility and absence of important elements, said Dr. Christie. The Horticultural Division, Ottawa, under M. B. Davis, was establishing an orchard where definite experiments could be carried out over a number of years and serve as a centre of information for apple growers, with special attention paid to orchard management, fertilizing, pruning and handling of fruit.

As part of the soil programme, a soil testing laboratory was established at O.A.C. Last year over 3,500 samples of soil from all over the province were tested and recommendations made to the farmers. A serious situation in Waterloo County is being gradually corrected. Cereal crops were attacked by nematodes, small eel worms which form clusters on the roots and seriously interfere with growth and development of plants. The County Council leased a badly infested field for ten years where the O.A.C. is carrying out research work. Last year there were definite indications that balancing of fertility will correct the trouble and more work is planned for this year.

Pasture studies carried out by Ottawa and O.A.C. Chemistry Department have brought to light many new problems in Western and Eastern Ontario. Following up these surveys, the fields are fertilized and the cattle and sheep are used to check the results. These animals are being fed balanced rations this winter with special attention to mineral needs. These experiments are under way at Ailsa Craig, Holyrood and other points.

As a part of this work in the field, a special experiment is being carried out in Oxford County with a group of 35 farmers. The Agricultural Representative, Reg. Green, in co-operation with the Ontario Livestock Branch and O.A.C., has supplied minerals for the cattle and has made an accurate test of all milk produced and supplied to cheese factories. Results indicate largers returns of milk, and the condition of the animals has been improved generally.

Large areas of Ontario soils sometimes described as "fresh water" areas, are deficient in iodine. Horse breeders are finding that mares in foal must receive small quantities of iodine if joint ill and other similar diseases are to be avoided.

Brotherly Co-Operation.

During the water, a distinguished officer was sent by the War Cabinet to report on the possibility of conscription being enforned in Ireland.

In one coast village he asked a native: "Well, Pat, would you like to come and fight for your King and Country?"

Pat said he would not—he had a job. Asked what kind of a job, he replied: "I'm employed by the German Government; I'm layin' bombs in the harbour to blow up British shippin'."

The officer, seeing another man approaching, said: "Very well, I'll ask him."

"You needn't bother," said Pat; "he's me brother. He's got a job, too.

"Well, what's he doing?"

"He's employed by the British Government; he's pullin' the bombs out of the harbor that I'm layin' in."

About 1950?

"Great Scot, the house is rocking! Look out, it's going to fall down!"

"It's all right; it's only mother parking the plane on the roof."

Smiths Falls Hotel Damaged By Fire on Upper Floor

Fire of unknown origin breaking out on the top floor of the three-story Arlington Hotel, in the heart of the Smiths Falls business district, caused damage estimated at $2,500 Tuesday afternoon.

The blaze originated, it is believed, in a store room on the third floor and had gained considerable headway before the alarm was turned in. Using masks to combat dense clouds of smoke which filled the upper floor of the building, firemen succeeded in confining the flames to one bedroom and the attic, with slight fire damage to the corridor, but smoke and water caused considerable damage to walls and furnishings in other parts of the building. Loss is covered by insurance.

The building, property of Mrs. P. Hallinan, is well known as a district landmark and was erected in 1897.

The Trick.

Joe Rines, who broadcasts for a watch company, does a magic stunt to amuse his audiences. He calls a man up on the platform, borrows his hat, stirs eggs, flour and water in it, and says: "Would you like to see me pull out a watch?" The man says yes; Rines looks in the hat, mutters "Something wrong," and hands back the hat—which has a fine mess of eggs, flour and water in it. Then he leaves his helpless victim sitting there while the radiocast goes on. Afterward he gives him $10 for a new lid.

When this happened the other night, the victim said: "Whew! Ten dollars for a three-dollar hat?"

Rines nodded.

"My brother's on relief." said the man with the eggs in his hat. "Can he come next week?"

"'THE best-looking car on the street!' That's what all the neighbors say about our new Chevrolet. And that's what we think, too.

"Just look at the thrilling streamline of the new all-steel body. And notice how, by rounding the radiator grille and adding those horizontal hood louvres, Chevrolet has modernized the whole effect.

"Then take the interior. It's so neat and 'tailored' it makes me think of our own living room . . . fine upholstery . . . lovely appointments . . . everything in taste.

And remember, Chevrolet reinforces all this beauty with roof, walls and floor of steel . . . with all windows of safety glass! "I don't know much about mechanical details but, I drive our Chevrolet and from a woman's point of view, nothing could be easier to handle or safer. Finally, (I look after the family budget), I'm sure nothing could be easier on the pocketbook!"

You, too, will be proud to own this new Chevrolet. Come to our showrooms today—see it, drive it, and compare prices before you buy.

Morrisburg C. I. Here Friday.

High School hockey seniors will entertain the Morrisburg Collegiate Institute team Friday night at the ute hockey team Friday night at the arena in the first of a home-and-home exhibition series between the two schools. K. L. Gauthier is handling the local boys who expect to take a fall from the St. Lawrence boys or know the reason why. They have been through some good practices and with plenty of material to choose from should give a good showing.

The line of the C.H.S. will include: Goal, Bill Maloley; H. Williamson, D. Smith, E. Moriarty, L. Helmer, J. O'Grady, J. Fulton, J. McNaule. O. Hoople, F. Foley, D. Fulton, H. Moriarty.

The visitors will be entertained to lunch before they return home, and the students hope for a good turn out so they can meet expenses. Pro Alford is expected to face the puck at 8.15, and one of the best 10 cents worth of hockey of the season is in store for the fans.

Cubs Tackle City League Team

With two wins and a tie under their belts in the last three starts, Bill Dixon's Cubs are taking on big meat Tuesday night when St. Malachy's, of the Ottawa City Junior League, come to town. Bill's boys took a win and a draw from Hy Bessin's Intermediates last week, and on Monday took Morewood seniors for a 5-0 loss here.

The Cubs are fast rounding into playdown shape for the series starting February 25th with Metcalfe, the winners to meet the St. Lawrence Junior champions. The City League team should give plenty of speedy opposition for the local boys, who will have at least three new faces on their line-up. Bill has been bolstering his team and still picks tough opposition to harden his boys.

Support has been next to nothing and the management has had to do some penny squeezing to keep the books balanced. These boys will be the seniors of the near future and they deserve help from the fans.

Cardinal on Last Appearance

Cardinal Cubs come to town tonight for the last scheduled game of the season on local ice, and the Leafs are in a do-or-die position, having won but one point in their last 11 starts. The Crown Brand boys won 9-6 in Monday's game in Cardinal to place them in a tie with the Leafs for third position, and the Leafs must win tonight to keep out of the cellar that the Cardinals have occupied long enough not to want to return to, so the game should give an interesting bit of hockey.

The Leafs believe they can snap out of their slump now for the playoffs and expect to down the Cubs to prove their contentions. A win keeps them in third place and Matt Flynn thinks his chargers are in fine fettle for a successful end-season drive to the races.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY OFFICERS.

At the annual meeting of the Horticultural Society, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Hon. Pres., O. L. King; Pres., P. S. Boyd; 1st Vice-Pres., G. J. Hunt; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. Jas. Hughes; Directors for two years — Mrs. G. J. Hunt, Miss E. McGee, Mrs. Jas. Hanna; W. N. Fulton, A. O. Robertson; Directors for one year—Mrs. W. M. Saucier, Mrs. M. Worry No. 1— The Tax Collector.

There's A Reason

There's a reason why you instinctively turn to the merchant who advertises when you want dependable merchandise at reasonable prices.

Advertising builds his sales, increases his business. The lower margin of profit on each sale is passed on to you.

When you see a local storekeeper's ad in the home town paper you can be sure he has considered the buyer's interest as well as his own.

—The Editor.

BusinessMen LIKE This Expense Item

Paying money out is always less pleasant than taking it in. Expense items are headaches for the business man, with one exception. Money paid for advertising is the single exception. It's the only expenditure a business executive will regard with pleasure, for he knows his money is being invested, not lost.

Advertising is an investment — something paid out today to assure more income tomorrow. Building demand for merchandise through advertising is just as important as buying goods. Advertising not only creates demand and builds goodwill; it makes money for the man who uses it.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

- By -

MISS HELEN LACEY, B.H.Sc.

WILL YOU BE MY VALENTINE?

IF YOU ARE HAVING A PARTY on or near St. Valentine' Day, you will want to plan your menu to suit the occasion. Happily many tasty dishes can be made with this idea in view. As in the colour scheme, red predominates, we have a variety of foods to use, such as tomatoes, cranberries, cherries, raspberries, red currants, beets, pimento, shrimps, ham and we can use paprika as a garnish for vegetables or eggs. With this large range of foods it should be easy to plan a Valentine menu.

INIDIVIDUAL CHERRY TARTS.

2 cups drained canned cherries
¾ cup cherry juice
½ cup sugar
¾ tablespoon cornstarch

Heat the cherries, juice and half the sugar to boiling. Use the top of a double boiler. Remove the cherries and add cornstarch mixed to a paste with a little cold water. Cook until is thickened. Add cherries and rest of sugar. Cool, then pour into individual tart shells. Top with whipped cream before serving.

VALENTINE CREAM SAUCE.

1 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup cherry juice

Whip the cream until thick. Add sugar and juice. Serve at once.

TOMATOES EN CASSEROLE ON TOAST.

2 Spanish onions
3 tablespoons butter
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cut onions in slices and fry a delicate brown in the butter. Add tomatoes, salt, paprika and pepper. Mix well. Put in baking dish and cook in a quick oven for an hour, stirring occasionally. Serve on slices of toast. This is a good winter time supper dish.

CHERRY CAKE.

½ cup butter
1 cup finely granulated sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
2 cups flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup maraschino cherries cut in halves
2 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, then yolks of eggs well beaten. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Add cherries and juice. Bake in a moderate oven one hour. Remove from oven and sprinkle with finely granulated sugar while hot. No icing is necessary.

STRAWBERRY BAVARIAN CREAM.

2 tablespoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup fruit juice
1½ cups canned drained berries
1½ cups cream

Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolves in boiling fruit juice. Add fruit. Chill, stirring occasionally. When the mixture begins to thicken, beat until foamy and fold in cream whipped stiff. Turn into a mold moistened with cold water. Chill until firm. Unmold on a serving plate and garnish with whipped cream. For St. Valentine's Day if you have a heart-shaped mold be sure to use it.

FRIED APPLE RINGS.

Wipe three red apples and cut in thick slices without peeling or coring. Fry in butter or pork fat until tender. Serve with pork chops, baked ham or rib roast of pork.

When planning a Valentine salad garnish with slices of pickled beets, cut in heart shapes.

* * * *

For a children's Valentine party, cut sugar cookies in heart shapes, and garnish with a small piece of cherry in the centre. Shortbread may be cut in heart shapes, too, but it is too rich for the children.

* * * *

A little chopped pimento added to salad dressing will give it a pink colour. Use with vegetable, meat or fish salads.

* * * *

Serve salads frequently as they contain considerable amounts of vitamins. Most salads require chewing, which helps to keep the teeth in good condition.

* * * *

When using left-overs, plan to disguise them. Soufflés and croquettes and fritters are excellent methods of disguising left-over meats and vegetables. A cheese or tomato sauce often helps to complete the disguise.

Agreed.

"I am sorry, madam," said the butcher, firmly, "but I can't give you any further credit. Your bill is bigger now than it should be."

"Yes, I know that," replied the customer. "If you make it out for what it should be I'll pay you."

Appointed to Father's Post As Solicitor For Township

K, D. Lawson, M.A., of Chesterville, was appointed township solicitor, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father, by Winchester township council which met at Morewood Monday under Reeve W. J. McConnell.

Mr. Lawson was instructed to prepare a by-law for the closing of the Cass bridge over the Nation river a few hundred yards west of the new structure on Highway No. 31. An order-in-council of the Provincial Government informed the board that the road formerly maintained by the Provincial Department of Highways, from the old bridge south to the village of Winchester Springs, had reverted to the municipality who would be responsible for its upkeep.

Letters were read by the clerk from the families of Howard H. Nesbitt and W. B. Lawson thanking members and officers of council for their kindness during recent bereavements. The members congratulated Reeve McConnell on his appointment as chairman of Agriculture at Counties' Council. Mr. McConnell said he was a delegate from that Council, with Reeve Rod MacLeod, of Lancaster, and Reeve J. L. MacDonald, of Cornwall Township, to the annual convention of the Ontario Agricultural Convention in Toronto. The Reeve, Deputy Reeve Thomas J. Ralph and H. J. Cummings, of Ormond, road superintendent, were named delegates to the Good Roads Convention, with the Clerk as alternate.

The Clerk was instructed to join the Ontario Municipal Association, and council adjourned to meet at Chesterville on the first Monday in March. Other members of the board present were Councillors James C. McGregor, of Ormond; William McCloskey and E. B. McMillan, both of Chesterville.

An Auction Sale Where Buyers Blithely Purchase Packages That Contain They Know Not What—In the Hopes of Landing a Fortune

C.P.R. Staff Bulletin.

Imagine an auction sale where buyers blithely pay several dollars for a collection of rags and then get something really valuable for half as much; where purchasers never know what they bought until hours later; where the best-looking parcels may contain the most worthless things.

That description applies to nothing but the annual auction sale when the company disposes of unclaimed articles found on company property or checked over company lines.

The sale is really a remarkable indication of the absent-mindedness of the travelling public, who persists in leaving behind in trains and boats such personal things as watches, rubbers, umbrellas, money, heavily lensed glasses and false teeth. Handbags and trunks checked over company lines and unclaimed at the destination are also sold.

Probably the excitement that reigns at such sales is largely due to the mystery of unopened packages, the low prices, and the possibility of getting something of considerable value.

There is, in fact, real ground for the hope that an expenditure of a dollar or two might bring a parcel of real worth. There are innumerable true stories about sums of money, valuable old paintings, and expensive equipment being found in dingy looking parcels.

The auctioneer usually plays on the desires of purchasers by telling a story about an unexpected windfall made by a previous buyer. One auctioneer who handled company sales for years had a favourite story along this line that always put his crowd in good humour and in the proper frame of mind for a little speculation.

It was at a sale like this that So-and-so paid two dolars for a large box a few years ago, he would relate. When he got the box home he found it contained an Egyptian mummy that he sold to a museum for $500. The museum management found the mummy had eyes made of valuable jewels and sold it to a collector for $10,000. And, believe it or not, ladies and gentlemen, the private collector discovered the mummy had diamond teeth and he made a profit of $50,000 in selling it to the British Museum, where you can see it today.

While many buyers get slightly more than their money's worth, once in a while they draw a blank like the large parcel for which a patriotic Canadian paid several dollars during the height of war hatred. To his disgust the parcel contained a fine picture of the leader of the enemy forces.

No one, not even the auctioneer nor the company employees who may be present to protect the company's interest during the sale, knows what the parcels contain.

When things are found on trains, boats, or other company property, a form is filled out explaining the time and place of finding and other details concerning the article, for a quick and ready reference if the owner applies. After a certain time has passed, the article is packed away with others to be sold. Boxes have no mark to identify what they might contain.

In The Saw Grass

AS MR. RUTLEDGE climbed into the wagon he spoke to a young man who stood beside the front wheel.

"John," he said, "I want you to go down to the slough and get Her Royal Highness—she and her shoats broke out of the pen last night. She's probably in the saw grass somewhere near the creek. Be sure to take a pitchfork with you — the Tamworths are too big to trifle with when they're out of sorts.

John Warner, with the faded sleeves of his shirt rolled up above his massive, sun-browned forearms, stood eyeing the straggling line of a flock of crows.

"Mr. Rutledge," he replied abstractedly, "did you ever notice that crows generally fly in bunches of three or five or seven? Nine times out of ten a small bunch will be one of those numbers!"

The man in the wagon was annoyed. "Never mind the crows. Be sure to find Royal and her litter — take some feed and the fork, and you won't have any trouble. Remember the fork—and do it now!"

"Yes, sir," said John a little absently, "I'll start in just a minute."

The farmer drove away, not without a feeling of uneasiness. He had had experience with John Warner's "just a minute," but, after all, the young fellow could hardly bungle his task of bringing up the Tamworths.

For several minutes after his employer had disappeared, Warner stood looking after the crows. Presently his glance came back to earth and he walked toward the stable.

"Three, five or seven." he repeated to himself. "I wonder if the rascals can count? They are smart enough for most anything. Well, here goes for Royal."

He entered the granary and filled a sack a third full of grain. With the sack over his shoulder, he swung off sturdily in the direction of the slough; and not until he had covered half the distance that separated him from his destination did he remember what Mr. Rutledge had said about the wisdom of taking a pitchfork. Then he hesitated.

"Shucks'" he said to himself cheerfully. "What's the use? Royal is as tame as a sheep. I'll take this club to hurry her up with. Mr. Rutledge is the most suspicious man about somethings I ever worked for!"

From beside the track left by the hay wagons of the previous fall he picked up a heavy, four-foot stave, which had evidently long lain exposed to sun and rain. With that in his hand and with the sack of bran on his shoulder, he presently entered the slough, where the saw grass was waist high.

Her Royal Highness might have taken wings and sailed away with the crows for any sign that she gave of her presence. John advanced cautiously, calling from time to time:

'Poo—oog! Poo—oog!"

He pushed his way forward until he was halfway across the slough where the saw grass was deepest. Suddenly from his left there came a squeal and a grunt—the first in the strident soprano of a very young shoat, the second in the guttural contralto of Her Royal Highness. John had a fleeting vision of several small animals vanishing into the saw grass; and in the same instant he beheld the huge Tamworth, with her eyes aglow and her head down and swaying from side to side as she charged. By moving with lightning quickness he succeeded in dropping the sack from his shoulder and bringing the stave down with a tremendous thwack across the pig's ears.

Undoubtedy that blow, into which John put every ounce of his great strength, saved his life, for it sent the charging animal to her knees and gave him time to turn and run. The stave had snapped with the force of the blow—a blow that would have put a lesser antagonist out of the fight for all time. Her Royal Highness, however, came of a strain that traces its lineage back to the wild boar of Europe, and that has been known to produce hogs that weighed more than half a ton. Her fighting blood was up; plainly she considered the young man's presence in the slough as a menace to the safety of her shoats—and the mother love of a hog is as much to be feared as is that of a grizzly.

At a gait that surprised even himself, John raced through the grass and over hummocks. He was one of the best runners, jumpers and weight lifters of the neighbourhood, and now fear released within him capacities for speed of which he had never dreamed. Once he stumbled, but the sound of a huge body striking the soggy ground with a massive impact close behind him spurred him to catch his balance. And still he knew only too well that the Tamworth would eventualy run him down—she was a "bacon hog," with all the length of limb implied by that technical phrase.

Straight ahead was the black rivulet that formed the heart of the slough; and as John Warner bore down upon it with flying strides, his eye caught something that caused him to swerve. Close to the edge of the creek stood a clay culvert pipe with its huge bore pointed toward the sky like that of a mortar. Almost at his heels came the hog. With a final terrific burst of speed, the young man reached the tile and leaped into it.

In the same instant Her Royal Highness thundered by, wheeled and came back. Although he could not see her, he could follow her movements by her furious grunts and puffing sighs, as she came close to his hiding place and thrust her nose against the ground.

Inside, he crouched with his knees against one side of the tile and his back braced against the other. His head came almost level with the top but it was not from that direction that he feared attack. True to her instincts, the hog had thrust her snout close to the lower edge of the pipe and was trying to root him out.

John raised himself cautiously until his eyes were above the rim of the tile Ten feet away, peering out with twinkling eyes from the clumps of saw grass, he saw Royal's babies observing the proceedings with great interest. Within arm's reach reared the massive back of the sow herself. Fumbling on the ground, the young man found a fragment of hardened clay, which he cast at the group of spectators. It struck one of them on the ear and brought forth a shrill squeal of pain and fright. Wheeling, Her Royal Highness raced across to her babies, but before John could profit by her absence she was back at her task of overturning his shelter.

He drew his jackknife from his pocket presently and with its longest blade succeeded in prodding her snout when she thrust it against the base of the tile. She squealed in rage and amazement, then backed off and stood a little distance away emitting muffled snorts. After that came silence.

Presently John looked out. The sow and her litter were ten feet away, intent on grubbing out the treasures of the black, sticky mire land. He stood up; but instantly Her Royal Highness charged, and almost overthrew him and his shelter. Warner dropped back and braced himself; and the sow, after three or four minutes of futile effort, retuned to her task of rooting out dainties.

Fifteen minutes passed, equal in strain and intensity to any fifteen hours of the young man's previous experience. He was half a mile from the farmhouse. The nearest hog-proof fence was at least a quarter of a mile away—and the sow and her babies circled him, as if they had been tied to the drain pipe by a long cord. He could stand up now without producing more than a warning rumble of grunts; but he knew that any dash for freedom that he might attempt would be hopeless.

"If I had the pitchfork—or even a stout club!" he muttered. "But with nothing—"

No, he had nothing — except his earthenware fortress. In it he was safe. In it—

And then, as he considered his position with painful intentness, something came into his mind that brought a faint grin to his face.

"I've got to stay in this tile—but the tile doesn't have to stay here!" he said to himself. "If I can lift it—"

He stooped and hooked his hands under the edge of the tile, then straightened slowly to his feet and with great effort staggered a few steps forward.

Two things conspired to make him drop the conduit: first, the weight of the pipe, and, second, a headlong charge from the Tamworth. With vicious guttural protests, she circled the tile into which he had disappeared. Five minutes passed before she returned to her babies and her rooting, and then the performance was repeated. The veins stood out on the young man's neck and forehead as he stumbled forward and again dropped his rampart just in time to save himself from the long jaws of the hog.

The trip from the barn to the slough had taken fifteen minutes. The return journey occupied the better part of two hours—two hours of the hardest work that John Warner had ever done. The Tamworth kept close to his heels; she charged when she thought she saw an opening, but for the most part she contented herself with a threatening and murderous surveillance. Through the saw grass and up the long slope of the meadow the strange procession passed, and the young man with the culvert tile stopped oftener and oftener to rest. At last they reached the fence that surrounded the farmyard. John dropped his tile close to the five-board gate and precipitately climbed over.

Mr. Rutledge had just driven in. He watched this strange proceeding with keen, questioning gray eyes. Then he laughed.

"Well, John," he said, "I see you brought her — or she brought you. Now, if you'll fetch that fork, we'll get her back into the pen!"

A cameraman, working for the educational department of a film company, met an old farmer in town and said:

"I've just been taking some moving pictures of life out on your farm."

"Did you catch any of my men in motion?" asked the old farmer curiously.

"Sure I did."

The farmer shook his head reflectively, then commented: "Movies are a wonderful thing!"

SHOEING THE HORSE.

Interesting Facts About Our Dominion of Canada.

IRON SHOES are nailed to the horny casing of the foot of the horse to protect the extremity of the limb. While that protection is unnecessary under natural conditions, the horny casing is found to wear away and break, especially in moist climates, where the animal is subjected to hard work of any kind. Without shoeing we could have neither the fleet racers nor the heavy and powerful horses of the present day.

The ancients covered the hoofs of their horses with socks or sandals, but the iron shoe was used before the Christian era, although it was not commonly known until the fifth century nor was it in regular use until the middle ages. It was only in the nineteenth century that horse-shoeing was introduced in Japan, where the former practice was to attach to the horses' feet slippers of straw, which were renewed when necessary.

Despite the sophistication of the modern mind, we still cling to the superstition that to find a cast horseshoe brings luck to the finder and that to nail up a horseshoe on a door keeps bewitchment away from the house and brings good fortune to it.

Using horseshoes for a game of quoits is an old custm still in use today. An announcement at Sheffield England, says that a firm is shipping hundreds of tons of old horseshoes to China to be made into razor blades for export to Britain.

At present there are about three million horses in Canada. The Horse Family budget must have called for twelve million shoes at that rate.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

TONSILS AND ADENOIDS.

AT the back of the mouth, on either side of the palate, are the tonsils; above and at the back of the nose, the adenoids are placed. The tonsils and adenoids are alike in that they are lymphatic glands, and all lymphatic glands are a first line of defence or barrier against germs which attempt to gain entrance into the body.

Enlargement of the tonsils and adenoids shows that germs have invaded these glands, and that, as a result, the glands have become enlarged in their effort to deal with the invaders. If the glands succeed in this, then they return to their normal size and state. If, however, they are not wholly successful, the gland remains enlarged, and instead of being a barrier to germs it becomes a focus of germ life, and there is a possibility that the infection will spread to the surrounding parts.

Enlarged tonsils and adenoids may do harm simply through mechanical obstruction and pressure. The entrance of the tube draining the middle ear into the throat may be blocked and so cause deafness. Mouth-breathing occurs when adenoids block the normal air-way of the nose, and the condition may lead to deformity of the teeth, mouth and nose. If the tonsils also are greatly enlarged, breathing may be so difficult as to produce deformity of the chest.

Much more serious are the ill effects of infected tonsils and adenoids. Middle ear disease, sinus disease, chronic colds, sore throats may follow the spread of the infection to the adjacent parts, and these in turn may proceed to mastoid disease and meningitis. Such foci of infection as diseased tonsils and adenoids injure the general health; the child may fail to grow normally, and he may be underweight, pale, listless and easily tired.

The decision as to whether or not tonsils and adenoids are so enlarged or diseased as to require to be removed should be made by the doctor who examines the child and studies his history. There is no doubt that diseased tonsils should be removed, and this before they have done any harm.

There are few things which are more beneficial to a child's health than the removal of tonsils and adenoids when their removal is indicated. Not only does this procedure correct many cases of mouth-breathing, discharging ears, deafness, sore throats and coughs, but it is a real preventive measure for rheumatic fever if removal is carried out before the first attack. This last also means the prevention of heart disease which commonly follows on rheumatic fever.

ALONG THE AIR WAVES

BY "ETHERITE"

GEORGE YOUNG BECOMES SATISTICIAN.

George Young, bon vivant of the CBC "National Sing Song" and perennial enterpreneur of the Saturday night classic, "Let's All Go to the Music Hall," has just finished an imposing table of statistics which proves conclusively that he would have to multiply his travelling itinerary by twenty-eight to equal the mileage covered by his voice since the "National Sing Song went on the air. By the same method he would have to have travelled forty-two times as much to catch up with his voice coverage on ''Let's All Go to the Music Hall."

George, in person, has journeyed just over six thousand miles since he became the CBC's most travelled impressario. He has been seen by and he had conquered 50,000 Canadians who made up the audiences of his travelling broadcasts of the "Sing Song." He has been heard by hundreds of thousands more in Canada and the United States.

The "Sing Song" was broadcast twenty weeks in Toronto before taking to the road. After that, the programme chalked up twenty-eight more weeks and George came home. He hardly had time to catch his breath before he stepped up to the microphone to introduce the sixty-ninth programme of the "Music Hall" show and that made over 248,000 miles for the songs of the London variety stage which he and his company have presented to the national audience for the past four seasons. "That's as far as I have figured it," admitted George, and everybody breathed a sigh of relief.

"CANADA-1938"

Headlining the musical portion of the "Canada-1938" coast to coast broadcast, Friday, February 11th, at 10 p.m., E.S.T., will be a new song by A. C. Parker, Canadian song-writer who makes his home in Weyburn, Saskatchewan. Russ Titus and the Imperial Tobacco orchestra will be heard in Parker's song, "My Home in Saskatchewan." Lovers of sweet and tuneful music will be given a rare treat as the entire ensemble presents a special arrangement of an old favourite, "On the Riviera" Also included will be "Ten Pretty Girls" and the gay song, "You're a Sweetheart." As a grand finale, the entire company will offer a pot-pourri of airs from Broadway's hit musical show of the week as selected by Lionel Shapiro.

Walter Bowles, "Canada 1938" Roving Radio Reporter — will speak of British Columbia from Victoria. He was scheduled from there last Friday but technical difficulties intruded, and his talk was not heard. Imperial Tobacco considers its series would be incomplete without this story and is holding Mr. Bowles over in Victoria an extra week so he may broadcast from there on the 11th. It is interesting to note that this is the first accident on the series which has seen the Roving Radio Reporter broadcast from every province of the Dominion.

Opening his kit-bag of Broadway gleanings, Lionel Shapiro will provide his audience with choice news-bits of show people in the news and who make news.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Jno. J. Rady and family desire to express their appreciation for the sympathy and many kind acts on the death of the husband and father.

Aged Winchester Resident Fatally Injured in Fall on Ice

Loving tribute to his memory was paid on Wednesday afternoon by the large attendance at the funeral service held in the United church, conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. S. Atchison, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. John McKay, of Ottawa. Choosing Act xxvi:16 for a text, Rev. Mr. Atchison showed how the late Mr. Scott through his love for Jesus Christ had loyally supported his church, and been a great help in extending God's Kingdom on earth

Mrs. P. Durant sang "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer," with F. Johnston at the organ.

The honourary pall-bearers were Messrs. J. L. Mill, C. B. Timmins, A. A. Casselman, J. D. Stewart, Elliott and F. F. Davidson. The acting bearers were Messrs. Albert Johnston, H. L. Flora, John Fader, Ken. Ault, Eldon Fennell and Dr. A. Sherwood. Interment took place in Maple Ridge cemetery.

Thomas Adam Scott, postmaster of Wincheser since 1913, died Monday as a result of injuries received Sunday morning when he slipped on the icy pavement and suffered a severe concussion of the brain. Mr. Scott, who was 79 years of age, was going to the Sunday morning service at the United church, which is directly across from his home, when the accident occurred.

He was a son of the late William L. Scott, and his wife, the former Elizabeth Wilson, both natives of Scotland, who came to the vicinity of Chesterville in 1854. Mr. Scott was born here and went to Winchester when quite young. As a young man, he was an apprentice as a cooper to the late J. H. Tory, and learned the trade. In 1877, he became superintendent of the M. F. Beach Company lumber yards. He held this position until 1913, when he was appointed postmaster.

Mr. Scott was one of the most prominent churchmen of the town. He saw the inception of St. Paul's Presbyterian church at Winchester and was a member of the board of managers. He had represented the congregation as a delegate at three assemblies of the Presbyterian church.

When union took place, Mr. Scott joined the Winchester United church. At the time of his death, he was also a member of the official board.

He took an active interest in municipal affairs. He was elected councillor in 1893, and had served as councillor on several other occasions. He was a member of the high school board for seven years and during his term of office the new high school was erected and opened.

In fraternal circles, he was a member of Henderson Lodge No. 383, A. F. and A. M., and had been chaplain of the lodge for more than 25 years. He was also a charter member of the local Odd Fellows' Lodge and a member of the 100 Club.

Trinity United Congregation Holds Annual Meeting

With reports from all branches of its activities at the annual congregational meeting of Trinity United church held last Friday night, it was shown that the church is in a very flourishing condition. With the pastor, Rev. R. C. Tait, presiding, the treasurer, C. T. Fulton, submitted his annual report showing that the givings of the congregation for ordinary church support and for missionary and maintenance had reached almost $3700, which with a very substantial amount raised by the Ladies' Aid left the finances in a satisfactory condition.

Reports from all the other interests of the work were just as encouraging, all of which was summed up by Clerk of Session G. J. Hunt, when he tendered the thanks and appreciation of the congregation for the fine work accomplished by the pastor, so ably assisted by Mrs. Tait.

Messrs. William Shay, George I. Smith, Angus Smith and Edwin Forward were elected to the Board of Stewards to fill vacancies caused by the expiration of regular terms. Following the business session, refreshment were served and a social half hour spent.
