Ode to a Haggis

Martintown's Art Buckland performed the Ode to a Haggis with his usual flare and dramatics — as can be seen in this series of photos — at the annual Burns Night — MacCulloch Dancers extravaganza at the Maxville Sports Complex, Saturday night. The performance, which consisted of the chanting of the gaelic poem and the waving of a butcher knife, lasted about three minutes and ended with the ceremonical carving of the Haggis. Maxville parents may switch school support

by Pauline Ashton
News* Correspondent

Maxville parents are threatening to send their grades 7 and 8 children to Catholic schools if they are forced by SD&G County Board of Education to bus them to Tagwi Secondary School next fall.

Village parents lost a 10-year battle last week to keep Maxville Senior Public School open when trustees voted unamimously for closure by June.

The decision leaves the fate of 80 grade 7 and 8 students from the school up in the air until a board meeting Feb. 23, when recommendations for final placement will be considered.

Students will either be bused to Tagwi Secondary School near Avonmore, or an addition to Maxville Junior School would be built to keep them in the community.

Parents' spokesperson Sharon Johns told The News some parents are considering sending their children to Iona Academy in St. Raphaels or to St. Bernard separate school in Maxville; this would mean switching their tax payments to the Catholic board.

Both schools offer English language education to grade 8.

Chairman of the county board Joe Gunn said Tuesday, ''I hate to disrupt a community but I'll be glad to get those students out of the old school before someone is hurt. The building is unsafe''.

Maxville parents are hoping for an addition to the junior school, Mrs. Johns explained. They very badly want to keep grades 7 and 8 childen in the village, close to cultural and sports facilities. She says too many children these days feel ''alienated and without roots or a sense of responsibility for their own communities''.

''We hate the Tagwi solution,'' Mrs. Johns said, ''because preadolescent students are not really ready yet to cope with the pressures and demands of a large high school.''

But Mr. Gunn said, ''We've delayed final decision about Maxville students to be sure every avenue has been chased down. But it all boils down to money. We just don't have the extra money in our budget for an addition to the junior school.'' The feeling of the school board all along has been to send those students to Tagwi.

''There is no doubt in my mind that the best placement pedagogically for these students is Tagwi - the school has an excellent dedicated staff.''

Trustee Sesel Wert, an Avonmore farmer who represents the Maxville area, echoed Chairman Gunn's admiration for Tagwi. ''More Ontario scholars graduated from Tagwi last June, per capita, than from any other high school in our system.''

Mr. Wert commended Maxville parents for their long battle. ''I'm a farmer myself'', he said ''and proud of it. I hate to see rural areas undermined and I understand the frustration that goes with it - but we can only provide the facilities we can afford.''

Mrs. Johns, a former teacher herself, says her parent group is lying low for the present ''but from the phone calls I have been getting it is clear our feelings are still strong, adament, and vehement - that our children are not going to go to Tagwi.''

Superintendent of education H.K. MacLennan told The News that schools accommodating grades 7 to 12 were not at all unusual in other provinces, and in Britain and European countries.

''A great variety of programs can be offered in these schools,'' Mr. MacLennan pointed out, ''It seems that Ontario is the only province which set aside younger students into junior high schools or senior public schools.

Bits and Pieces to close due to lack of revenue

Administrators of the Bits and Pieces store have decided to close the local business because it hasn't generated enough revenue. One full-time and one part-time employee could be out of work as early as Friday.

The board of directors of the Glengarry Association for the Mentally Retarded (GAMR), which operates the store, decided at the Jan. 18 meeting, it wasn't feasible to keep the store open. Bits and Pieces carried children's clothing and toys.

''It just wasn't a money-making venture and the board of directors decided to close the store,'' said GAMR Executive Director Terry Brouillet, Monday.

Mr. Brouillet said he hoped the store could have generated enough revenue to cover the employees' salaries, but it did not, leaving the directors without a choice.

Rumors about the closure began circulating last month. At the time, however, Mr. Brouillet would not confirm them.

The store will remain open Thursdays and Fridays until all of its merchandise is sold.

Salaries for employees were partially paid through a grant from the Ministry of Community and Social Services.

Rare virus found to be cause of mysterious rash at Char-Lan

by Janet Clermont
Staff Writer

The mysterious rash that has infected several students at Char-Lan District High School in Williamstown over the past few weeks has been identified.

Dr. Robert Bourdeau, of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit, said Monday, the infection is called the parvo virus. In addition to the rash, the infection causes sneezing and coughing.

His advice to the students was to let the rash run its seven-day course.

''We don't want to alarm anyone. It is a benign virus and there is nothing to worry about.''

During the past three weeks, the rash has appeared between the elbow and wrist of the pupils. When the

Reward offered for Kathy Febrile

by Peter Conway
Senior Reporter

The family of a Glen Walter woman missing for three months has offered a $2,000 reward for any information which solves the mystery of her puzzling disappearance.

Twenty-year-old Kathy Febrile was last seen after leaving the Lakeview Inn in St. Anicet, Quebec, Oct. 25. She left the bar without her boyfriend, Bob Sangster of Lancaster and other friends after learning that it was a ''strip joint.''

When Mr. Sangster and his friends later left the bar, Miss Febrile and his car, equipped with a manual transmission, which Ms. Febrile presumably could not drive, were missing.

Ms. Febrile's strange disappearance continues to baffle family members and police, who haven't found any clues to explain what happened that evening.

Intensive searches organized by the family, investigations by a private detective and air searches have all been to no avail.

Const. Bob Condie of the Quebec Police Force, said Wednesday, new leads have led to dead ends.

Persons with any information that might assist police in their investigation to find Kathy Febrile, are asked to phone Const. Condie at 514-264-5384.

We're not to blame for arena woes: Councillors

by Lesley Cadham,
News* editor

Alexandria town council's ''gang of four'' is being blamed for a substantial decrease in funds raised by the Glengarry Sports Palace, Reeve John Cormier charged at the Jan. 26 council meeting.

Reeve Cormier was referring to comments made by Mayor J. P. Touchette during an interview with The Glengarry News, Jan. 19. The mayor stated that the arena will lose $50,000 this year. ''We don't run the bingo, we don't run the bar. It's that simple. Where we used to make a pile of money, this year we're going to have to raise taxes,'' he said.

Reeve Cormier and councillors Jim Baker, Fern Séguin and Larry Yaguchi asked that a commission of enquiry be formed to look into arena management in 1986. The Ministry of Municipal Affairs, after Touche Ross had completed an audit of the arena finances, determined that financial controls were lacking.

Several recommendations were made and last month, further improvements were suggested by the ministry.

''We were made to look like we are to blame for the deficit. It (the arena) has gone down but I feel it could be boosted. The board has kind of given up on it,'' said Reeve Cormier.

''The Lions (Club) were anxious to take over our bingo, but the board didn't want it. They could have made money,'' he added.

Mayor J. P. Touchette responded, ''None of us were singled out. And the Lions wanted all the proceeds from the bingo . . . The Lions wouldn't have given as much, the Glens (hockey team) give more. I stated the facts. I ran nobody down . . . those days are over,'' said the mayor before hastily moving on to the next matter of business.

Later, Councillor Séguin said, ''I want to support John. I won't stand for some of us being blamed. I'd feel a lot more comfortable if someone from the board could say that arrangements are being made to try to compensate for the loss. It's easy to sit down and let it happen.''

''We had no choice in the bingo,'' said Mayor Touchette.

Bingos had been operated under the Celebration 88 Awards presented

Charlottenburgh Township has paid tribute to 63 of its residents who have contributed to the community's sports and recreation programs over past years.

At a ceremony held Monday night at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, MP Norman Warner presented Celebration '88 Awards to the recipients, who were either nominated for the honors, or selected by members of the township's parks and recreation committee. The awards were given in conjunction with the Winter '88 Olympics.

Dwayne McRae was presented with the official's medal for 25 years of involvement with minor hockey as coach, referee, manager and past president. Mr. McRae is currently Chairman of District II of the Ottawa District Minor Hockey Association, a position he has held for the past six years.

The volunteer's medal went to Mrs. Diane Conroy. Mrs. Conroy, currently president of Charlottenburgh Minor Broomball, has been involved with this association and with the Char-Lan Figure Skating Club in various positions for the past six years. She has also been very successful in assisting both associations with fund-raising events.

Mr. Stanley Swerdfeger was awarded the Celebration '88 coach's medal. Mr. Swerdfeger has been a coach or an assistant for Char-Lan Minor Hockey for the past 11 years. He has held the same position in the township's minor soccer program for the past six eyars and was previously a coach in the Charlottenburgh Minor Softball Association.

The sponsor's award was given to the Williamstown Fire Department and was accepted by Fire Chief Bruce Mcdonell and Deputy-Chief Gary Sloan. The Fire Department has sponsored teams in both hockey and softball, as well as sponsoring annual special events for local residents. These include visits by Santa to the firehall, fun days and participation in parades. The Williamstown Bicentennial parade was organized by the fire department.

Winner of the male athletic medal was Bruno Major. Mr. Major has made headlines with his canoeing victories. In 1987 he won the provincial canoe championship, and with partner Maurice Sauvé, placed second in the national championships held in Saskatoon. Although he did not participate in these sports until after he was 40 years of age, Mr. Major has also become a reputable cross-country skier and a triathlon participant.

Cecilia Cornelissen received the female athletic award for her cross-country running feats. Last year Cecilia placed eighth in the Canadian National Cross Country Championships and is rated as one of the top ten female runners in Canada in the 3000 and 1500-metre events. She currently attends Bishop's University.

auspices of the Glengarry Sports Palace but the ministry ruled that only non-profit organizations or clubs would be permitted to raise money through bingos.

He told council the arena finances were down to $70,000 as of Jan. 25, a $30,000 drop in two weeks. "The ice can only be rented so many times. In the winter there's not much revenue coming in."

Councillor Larry Yaguchi took the opportunity to report that funds raised through teen dances, held at the sports palace, had reached $15,000 over the last couple of years.

He added, the arena co-operated fully to make the dances successful and in his new role as Glengarry Sports Palace board member, he would represent the town and people to the best of his ability and would endeavor to make the arena a successful operation.

students went home after school, the rash would fade and then reappear once they arrived the next day.

Dr. Bourdeau said since there is so little written on the virus, it is difficult to determine how the rash manifested itself in the school. However, he said it had nothing to do with cleaning fluid or anything withn the school.

He said there is no specific treatment for the virus or means of prevention. However, he did say the risk of spreading the virus would be reduced if students washed their hands more frequently and covered their nose when sneezing.

"Younger people are more susceptible to the virus because older people have already been exposed at one point," said Mr. Bourdeau.

Principal Rick Forrester, said Monday, there have been no new reported cases.

"It has pretty well subsided," said Mr. Forrester.

Burns Night guests come to a halt after participating in the "grand march," a tradition in the annual event.

Annual Burns Night a smorgasbord of entertainment for Glengarrians

"We're here to honor Robbie Burns, not to bury him," jested Rev. Colin MacDonald at the start of the annual Burns Night-MacCulloch Dancers evening, Saturday.

Guest Speaker Rev. MacDonald apologized to William Shakespeare for bending the phrase, before educating the audience about the life of Scottish poet Robbie Burns, who was honored in an evening of song and dance at the Maxville Sports Complex.

Mr. Burns, born in January, 1759, died at the age of 37, shortly after the birth of a son.

"What poet, in any time or place, could have made an impact like that of Robbie Burns?" asked Rev. MacDonald, who shares with his wife the Glengarry East Pastoral Charge.

"He realized the beauty of the world, of a red rose, of time with the family, of a louse dancing unbeknownst on a woman's Sunday hat," he said.

Robbie strived for the commonality of human kind throughout the world. He understood differences in language, religious and ethnic traditions and political beliefs, and believed we are one with each other, said Rev. MacDonald.

Later, many favorable comments could be heard regarding the minister's tribute to the Scottish poet.

Head table guests were Rev. MacDonald and his wife, Rev. Pat Gale-MacDonald, Art Buckland, Alex and Rae MacCulloch, Lancaster Village Reeve Milton MacDonald, Sybil Cameron, and Angus H. McDonell.

After the Haggis was piped in, carred by MacCulloch Dancers Jennifer MacLachlan and Carolyn Rose, Mr. Buckland performed Ode to a Haggis. Reeve MacDonald proposed a toast to the ladies and later sang a Robbie Burns ballad, accompanied musically by Brigadoons' Bob Taylor.

After dinner, the Brigadoons entertained the audience, giving way to several rounds of entertainment by the MacCulloch Dancers and Glengarry Pipe Band.

The evening was topped off with a song by Anna Margaret MacDonald, Reeve MacDonald and Brigadoons' Denis Carr; Will Ye No Come Back Again, and Gabhaidh Sinn 'An Rathad Mor.

Lancaster Village Reeve Milton MacDonald sings a Robbie Burns ballad, accompanied by the music of Brigadoons' Bob Taylor.

MacCulloch Dancer Carolyn Rose was one of many dancers participating in the evening's events. Carolyn is doing the "Swords of Glengarry."

Secret to long life is never worrying about anything, says Maxville Manor resident

By Lesley Cadham,
News* editor

Rose Woodley sits in the sunlight-flooded lounge, looking serene and much younger than her 103 years. Her secret to longevity — and she doesn't hesitate to share it — is not to worry about anything.

Mrs. Woodley, a Maxville Manor resident for the last six years, kept her own apartment until she was well into her 90s. She celebrated her birthday yesterday (Tuesday) with her daughter Audrey Reid and family, also of Maxville. And all she asked for was a birthday cake.

Although her hearing is not what it used to be, Mrs. Woodley's eyesight is still excellent and allows her to pursue hobbies such as reading, knitting and creating lovely ceramic-ware.

Born in England, she moved to Montreal in her 20s. She and husband Arthur, who passed away in 1974, raised four children; two predeceased Mrs. Woodley and another daughter, Phyllis, lives in Toronto.

Mrs. Woodley's twin sister, who remained in England, passed away three years ago at age 100.

As a girl, Mrs. Woodley loved horses and frequently accompanied her father to horse auctions. When she married, she chose a man who was also interested in horses and who was in the cavalry during WW I. Once in Montreal, Mr. Woodley ran an estate of polo ponies.

Maxville Manor resident Rose Woodley celebrated her 103rd birthday yesterday (Tuesday). She still enjoys reading, knitting, and crafting ceramic wares. "It's good to be alive," she says.

Replacement of station roof a good omen to Save the Train committee

A $32,000 project to reconstruct the roof on the Alexandria train station began last week and is expected to be complete by the end of February.

The project will also include changes to accommodate handicapped commuters, such as widening the washroom doors and the main entrance for people confined to wheelchairs.

"The roof was in pretty bad shape. The wood structure had to be repaired and new shingles had to be laid," said VIA Rail Public Affairs Officer Marcel Bordeleau, Tuesday.

The contract was awarded to Valrive Construction of Valleyfield. According to Mr. Bordeleau, little interest was shown by local contractors.

Construction on the new roof was scheduled to start last fall, to be complete in January, but was delayed because VIA Rail had not secured a contractor for the project.

The topic of a new roof arose last August when Mr. Bordeleau attended a celebration commemorating the 70th birthday of the Alexandria train station.

He told the Save the Train committee, which organized the event, a new roof would be built in the near future.

The project provides a good omen for hard-working members of the Save the Train committee. It was learned last spring that CN Rail's Ottawa-Montreal rail line was designated to close sometime in the future. The committee, comprised of Glengarrians, was formed to help fight the closure of the rail link.

Thieves net $1,500 in cash and goods

A thief netted $870 cash following a theft during store hours at Alexandria's Mac's Milk, Friday night.

The male suspect walked into a storage room from a door located at the rear of the building and helped himself to the money, which was in a cabinet.

This was one of three thefts which occured in town over the weekend.

A chainsaw valued at $700 was stolen from a pick-up truck in the Alexandria Hotel parking lot, Saturday night.

Yvon Campeau, of RR3 Alexandria, left his truck for a few moments; his chainsaw was missing when he returned.

And police suspect youths are behind the theft of $22 in cash taken from the dressing room at the Glengarry Sports Palace, Friday night. The theft occured between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.

A thief smashed a window at Alexandria's Elgin TV Clinic and walked off with stolen merchandise valued at $930, Jan. 20.

The theft occured at about 3 a.m. The thief entered the building through the east window. Stolen were a guitar, microphone and amplifier. Damage to the window was estimated at $800.

The Alexandria Police Department is investigating the thefts.

Request approved

Alexandria town council has approved former town Clerk-Treasurer D.O. Collin's request for a down-zoning from Residential Phase 2 to Residential Phase 1, and endorsed a land severance.

Mr. Collin requested the re-zoning at the Jan. 26 council meeting, explaining he wants to sever the 12,000 square-foot lot.

He had approached council, Jan. 12, to request a re-zoning from R-2 to Residential Phase 3. R-1 accommodates single-family dwellings, R-2 permits duplexes, semi-datched dwellings and rooming and boarding houses and R-3 can accommodate row housing.

The property, owned by Mr. Collin's son, Philip, is zoned R-2 and not R-1, as reported in the Jan. 20 issue of The Glengarry News.

Mr. Collin explained he had reviewed the situation and decided if he re-zoned to R-3, he would have to create more housing by adding on to the two-storey building which currently exists. He described that building as "old and crumbling" and said it wouldn't make sense.

Council suggested he apply for R-1 with a special designation, because if the lot was severed, the newly-created lots would not quite meet the required frontage and side yard requirements. A special designation would exempt Mr. Collin from seeking a minor variance.

The land division committee, which ultimately approves land severances, would be asked to hold its decision until the new zoning is in effect.

Mr. Collin told council he had no immediate plans for the property, other than possibly selling it.

A public meeting to discuss the re-zoning will take place, March 8.

Nets minimal injuries

A Charlottenburgh Township woman suffered minimal injuries after her vehicle collided with a parked car on Cty. Rd. 17, Saturday night.

Eva Amell, 62, of RR 1 Williamstown, was driving west on Cty. Rd. 17 in her 1977 Plymouth when she drove off the roadway and collided with a vacant 1985 Ford parked on the shoulder.

Damage to Ms. Amell's vehicle was moderate, while there was light damage to the parked car.

Police say Ms. Amell has been charged with failing to drive in a marked lane.

Thieves net $80 in treats

Lancaster OPP are investigating a theft which occurred at the Dalkeith Recreation Centre, Friday night.

A thief netted $80 worth of merchandise from the confectionary stand inside the building.

Const. Peter Robertson of the Lancaster OPP is investigating.

Pressure still on townships

Though residents who live along the Kenyon-Charlottenburgh boundary road were relieved to hear the townships had reached an agreement regarding repairs to the road, they don't intend to take the pressure off.

Residents have called a meeting with township officials for Feb. 15, to be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Charlottenburgh Township office.

Flip Flockton, one of the organizers of the residents' campaign to obtain repairs to the "Glengarry roller coaster" said Friday, they are pleased with the progress but want to remind officials the pressure is still on.

Landowners along the boundary roads have been trying to get action for years and in a last desperate attempt, called a meeting in November with both township councils.

Residents complained that the road is too narrow, the surface is poor and vegetation blocks a driver's view when he is trying to back out of his driveway.

Two weeks ago, the municipalities finally agreed to close one railway crossing on the boundary road, which will enable them to look to the National Transportation of Canada Agency (formerly Canadian Transport Commission) and Canadian Pacific Railways for 85 per cent of the funding. The townships would share the remaining 15 per cent.

Township officials are looking into financial arrangements.

Council briefs

The regular meeting of Alexandria town council was held Jan. 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the town office. The following are items dealt with by council.

Town loses out on bankruptcy

The town will lose at least $2,300 as a result of the bankruptcy of Petroson, which opened a branch office in Alexandria last July. The steel plant closed its doors Jan. 14 and the town had not had the opportunity to collect business taxes.

In addition, town clerk-treasurer Leo Poirier said it's too late to take the company off the tax roll, so taxes owing for 1988 will also have to be written off.

Councillor Fern Séguin interjected during discussion, "It's our responsibility to the taxpayers to make sure their money is brought in."

He further commented that the first he'd heard of the plant's closure was through an article in The Glengarry News, much to his chagrin.

Manouvrier housing project

Dr. Frans Manouvrier, one of a few business partners who has been endeavoring to develop property just west of Canadian Tire, has been asked by council to submit another application for a zoning amendment and amendment to the Official Plan.

Due to the sewer and water situation in Alexandria, the Ministry of Municipal Affairs asked for more details regarding project plans.

Council held a closed meeting with J. L. Richards and Associates Planner Tom Kent just prior to the regular meeting to discuss the matter. J. L. Richards is updating the town's zoning bylaw and Official Plan.

Dr. Manouvrier had requested a re-designation of the land to Commercial and R-4 multiple dwellings.

The project would include 120 apartments for seniors and families and a small shopping plaza.

A public meeting will be held March 8.

Council approves re-zoning

Council agreed to a request from the owner of Helga's Senior Citizens Home for a re-zoning from R-1 single dwelling to Institutional-Special Designation.

Owner Helga Virsus, who currently accommodates four seniors, wants to increase the number of boarders to 10 or 12. The R-1 designation allows for only four people, unrelated by blood, marriage or adoption, to live together in the same dwelling. The designation of institutional, special designation, will permit Mrs. Virsus to operate a "domicilical home for the elderly" but will limit the number of boarders.

Mrs. Virsus apparently received the support of her neighbors through a petition, which was presented at council.

"That's all I needed to hear," said Councillor Archie McDougall, chairman of the planning committee.

The town has received notification from the Ministry of Transportation that subsidies for this year's work will be in the amount of $120,200. That's $45,900 for construction and $74,300 for maintenance.

Light for McDougald Avenue

Council did not act on a request by PHJ Building Supplies that a stronger street light be installed in front of the building, located on the north side of McDougald Avenue at the corner of Main Street.

However, Deputy-Reeve Roger Lemieux's request that a street light be erected on McDougald across from the train station received approval by council and the Public Utilities Commission has been notified.

The deputy-reeve felt the section of road was too dark and visitors stepping off the train would not be hit with a good first impression of the town.

Council to decide on members at large

Town council was flooded with applications for positions for members at large on the Glengarry Memorial Hospital board, Glengarry Sports Palace board, committee of adjustment and property standards committee.

Councillor Fern Séguin commented, he was surprised at the number of people submitting applications. Council will study the applications and make some decisions in a closed meeting just prior to the regular council meeting of Feb. 9.

Editorials/Opinion

Parliament must take another look at abortion

Canada's highest court has made it clear that the country's abortion law is unconstitutional, that it violates a pregnant woman's right to ''security of the person'' under the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. But there still remains an enormous vacuum of unanswered questions surrounding the legal and moral implications of abortion, divisive questions which now and finally warrant the full attention of the nation's legislators.

Emotions run high when abortion is discussed, because, as the Supreme Court has showed, there can be little room for compromise legislation, where both the rights of the living and the unborn can be upheld at the same time. And yet, surveys have shown that the majority of Canadians prefer this balance of rights, even though it has yet to be established that the fetus is a person and therefore subject to the same rights and privileges as a fully-grown adult.

While it's arguable under these standards whether abortion at the early stages of pregnancy may or may not constitute the taking of a life, it is undeniably the termination of the early stages of life. And in this area, legislators must rise above the shrill cries of pro and anti-abortion groups and come to grips with this most difficult question.

Justice Bertha Wilson, the most outspoken defender of the Supreme Court's decision, especially seemed to invite the government's further involvement in settling the difference between the rights of the living and the unborn.

Although hers was clearly the most pro-choice view, she conceded that the state could be justified in protecting the fetus in its later stages of development.

The precise point where protection becomes compelling ''should be left to the informed judgment of the legislature,'' she said, ''which is in a position to receive submissions on the subject from all the relevant disciplines.''

Three of the other Justices hinted in their decisions, a new law should be drawn up to replace the old one; a law that would be ''Constitution proof'' to attempt to ''balance'' the clear rights of the mother with the intangible rights of the unborn.

In the least, the government should take the learned advice of the justices and strike a task force of scientific and ethical inquiry into all aspects of reproductive issues — from abortion to surrogate parenthood. The results of this enquiry could be the springboard for a much more defined law, one that specifically addresses areas which have sparked emotional and divisive debates across the country.

If such an enquiry doesn't spur Parliament into action, it will provide both pro-choice and anti-abortion advocates an outlet for the emotional debate at a time when the legislators' hands have been tied by the higher court.

This may not end the arguing, but it will provide Canadians with the objective facts upon which to make informed judgments of their own. That's important, because as it stands, according to public opinion polls conducted since 1969, the majority of Canadians favor abortion under certain circumstances, namely if the mother's physical or mental health is endangered.

The rest are split between those who favor abortion for every woman who wants one and those who are against abortion under all circumstances. And yet, these are the two groups, who through loud and compelling public relations campaigns, attempt to sway the majority whose views are reflected in the abortion law struck down by the Supreme Court.

Abortion is not an issue that can be settled with a single Supreme Court decision. It cannot be relegated to the back pages of governmental committee reports or to the quiet corners of Parliament, muted in whispers.

Surely the essence of life and its beginnings and whether to terminate it demands much more significant leadership than politicians are currently willing to offer.

Method of waste disposal may be counties' only choice

The $21 million waste separation and refuse-derived fuel plant proposal that municipal representatives of five counties are keen to push is an innovative method of garbage disposal that warrants general support.

In essence, the plant makes functional use of garbage. It will consist of a plant which physically separates metals, glass and organic materials from remaining wastes. Metals are recycled and organic materials are composted and mixed with clay and peat moss to create topsoil. Glass, ceramics and other non-toxic materials such as construction wastes are placed in a specially engineered landfill site.

The project is still a long way from reality. But given the fact that Ministry of Environment guidelines are making it tougher for municipalities to expand present dumps, or indeed to continue to run them, the five counties may not be able to afford to turn away from this innovative proposal.

His gas buggy was too noisy so neighbors had him killed

RAMBLING REPORTER
Eugene Macdonald

A free-trade agreement could become reality in the near future opening the Canada-United States border to a two-way flow of goods and services. Only time will tell whether this wholesale removal of tariffs will be to our benefit.

Meantime, perhaps, we should be turning our thoughts to ways and means of stopping the free flow across our undefended border of another American import — violence. Theirs is a violent society and their neighbors to the north must willy nilly cope with violence in many forms, over the air waves, in their newspapers, in their literature and the outpourings of Hollywood.

The steady diet of violence served up in movies and on the television screen seems to be having a specially deleterious effect on U.S. society. Crimes of violence on this side of the border evidence the fact we too are prone to anti-social suggestion.

It can happen here and we had evidence of that only a few months ago when an Alexandria home was fire-bombed, the result of bad feelings between two youths.

Other facets of modern criminality, murder for hire and commando training courses, have surfaced not too far from Alexandria, with news this week of the arrest of five persons in the Rigaud area.

They are accused of the murder of a 19-year-old Ile Perrot youth in a contract killing last August.

Remie Lahaie, 19, was found dead under a tree near his home. He had been shot in the back, strangled with a wire, stabbed 14 times and finally had his throat slit.

All this, allegedly, because neighbors objected to his noisy car, a 1976 model Pontiac with a powerful engine and dual exhausts. When he refused to mend his ways, according to the police report, $2,000 was paid to have him killed.

Two men who ran a Rambo-style survival school at Rigaud are charged, with three members of an Ile Perrot family. The alleged killers operated the Mecca Survival Centre in Rigaud. It offered two-week combat and commando training courses under live fire.

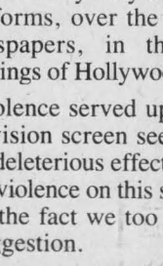
Police sources further reported one of the alleged killers was poisoned in a botched attempt to silence him. Presumably that led to a solution of the murder.

Right out of Hollywood or a cop series on television is this tale of a commando course, murder for hire and a fall-out among criminals. Every movie house carries these B-class thrillers or they are brought directly into your home via the idiot box. This murder on Ile Perrot demonstrates how susceptible is the human mind to such scenes of violence and how readily fiction can be translated into horrible reality.

Is there any hope that one day soon Americans will trade in their love for handguns and violence in favor of the outlook of a dove?

Hypocrisy in the system made court's ruling inevitable

AFTER THOUGHTS
Joe Banks



The word ''abortion'' seemed to be on minds and tongues of everybody following last week's historic decision striking down the federal law. All the old familiar arguments came to the fore, all the old emotions were heightened. Everybody, it seemed, had an opinion on abortion.

As a newspaperman keenly looking for the ''Great Truth,'' I listened to most of these comments, trying to ''objectively assess'' public opinion. It wasn't difficult. Just as the surveys say, most people are for abortion when the mother's life is endangered, and the rest are fervently for or against it.

In the course of my fact-finding mission, I spoke over the phone Saturday with my mother-in-law. After the usual assurances about the family's health and talk over dad's cottage project, I decided to ask her her opinion on abortion. Now at this point you might think I was baiting for an argument, but my intentions were purely in the interests of information.

Her qualifications are impeccable; she's a nurse who works in a medical centre in which three gynecologists ply their trade. One of them performs abortions.

''Who gets abortions?'' I asked matter-of-factly, self-assured in the misguided belief that I knew the answer before the question was asked. But I really wasn't that well prepared for what was to come.

''Number one; women who say the child is not their husband's,'' she lobbed back.

I was speechless, and I suppose I mumbled ''what?'' or some other expression of incredulousness.

Perhaps even out of disbelief, I chuckled.

''I'm not kidding,'' she said, responding seriously.

I bet myself that was one statistic that didn't make it into the mainline medical journals.

The others fell into categories that were less surprising: Students, career women who see an untimely pregnancy as a setback in life and unemployed women, low on the socio-economic scale.

Still reeling from her first answer, I sat down as she told me about a woman, very well dressed and obviously well-refined, who came into the office and asked the doctor for an abortion. Her reason: While she'd thought about having a baby some day, now wasn't the right time. It was more a matter of convenience than necessity.

Angered, my mom-in-law later asked the doctor why he decided to grant the abortion when the case was clearly non- life-threatening, as stated at the time in the Criminal Code.

The doctor answered that he sat on the child abuse committee under the umbrella of the city's Children's Aid chapter, and saw what often happened to unwanted children, both those from low and high income families.

We then talked about hospital abortion review committees, made up of three doctors. These boards were designed to ensure every legal abortion in Ontario must be approved, so an independent group of physicians could determine which were essential.

It was her opinion as a nurse that these committee members basically rubber-stamped every request that appeared in front of them, whether or not the case involved life-threatening situations.

Our discussion took me back to a similar debate with a doctor friend of mine who practises in Ottawa. He never sat on an abortion review committee but noted from his point of view it would take tremendous pressure to refuse abortions.

''Would you want to take responsibility for refusing a woman's request for an abortion?'' I recalled him saying. ''Who defines, 'life-threatening'?'' an allusion to the Criminal Code's former standard for allowing therapeutic abortions.

He too, was sensitive to the latest child abuse figures, as well as the numbers on child abandonment. Still, as he rationalized abortion, he confessed that there is no easy way out of a pregnancy, both for the woman involved or the doctor. Abortion hurts the conscience, too, and it seems there are many people out there who are simply unsure and frightened about what to do.

Surprise, surprise

THAT'S LIFE

Here's a horse of a different color.

Since I began reporting news from Alexandria Town Council, there have been several occasions on which homeowners wishing to re-zone or sever property have had to contend with petitions from neighbors who want to stop the process.

I almost fell off my chair at the last council meeting, when the clerk-treasurer announced that the neighbors of an Alexandria south woman had signed a petition in favor of her request for re-zoning.

The woman, Helga Virsus, owner of Helga's Senior Citizens Home, was permitted to operate the home under the Residential Phase 1 designation because she only accommodated four senior citizens. Under the zoning bylaw, only single-family dwellings are permitted.

The definition of ''family'' is one or more individuals whether or not related . . . who live together in one dwelling unit . . . provided that a family which is not related by blood, marriage or legal adoption shall not exceed four individuals.

Mrs. Virsus apparently hopes to increase the number of residents to 10 or 12 and now requires that her property receive a different designation. The town clerk will prepare a bylaw to re-designate the property to Institutional with a special designation. ''Special'' would mean Mrs. Virsus can only create a ''domicilical home for the elderly,'' and nothing else.

Read about it first

I thought I'd heard the end of that repetitious statement, ''I don't like to read about it in The Glengarry News, first,'' but I was wrong.

The speaker, of course, was Councillor Fern Séguin and he was speaking of the story about the bankruptcy of Petroson as reported in the Jan. 20 issue of The News. He said the town should have known about the company's problems before we did.

I support his opinion. Several calls to town office after News staff caught wind of the company's closure netted nothing more than statements such as, it was the first they'd heard of it. Mayor J. P. Touchette said it was news to him and he doubted we were correct.

The company laid off 12 employees from the plant here in Alexandria and umpteen more from the plant in Montreal. How could no one have known? Let's be serious.

The town is also out about $2,300 in taxes owed by Petroson. In addition, taxes owed for 1988 can apparently not be removed from the tax roll, so those taxes and last year's total of $2,300 will have to be written off.

Is it collecting?

WORD SKETCH
Sybil Carello

To varying degrees, most of us are packrats, sharing a kindred spirit with the North American rodent, commonly noted for its hoarding instincts.

A few things sharply distinguish us from these four-legged counterparts. Cars. Trucks. Flatbed trailers. U-hauls. Money. Having these items at our disposal allows us greater mobility.

Plus, it lets us haul more and even larger articles to our nests.

Last year, when I first wrote about this subject, I had just reached a saturation point. For example, I had in my possession, most of the all-occasion cards given to me during my lifetime. In the fruitless act of trying to find storage places for these memories, my hoarding instincts came to a halt. A serious review was in order.

Up to that point, I had mistakenly referred to the curious compulsive habit as collecting. But, as my friend (a real collector) smugly pointed out, there is a galaxy of difference between the art of collecting and the disorder of accumulating.

Collectors, he says, are creatures of selective tastes. Accumulators (packrats) have no discerning tastes; they love everything, they keep everything.

Here are some commonly uttered packrat phrases: ''I don't know what it is, but I love it!'' ''Yes, of course I know it's broken (chipped, scratched, bent, twisted, torn . . .) but I'll fix it . . . I'm good at these things.'' ''Hey, this will make a great gift for someone . . . if I decide to keep it.''

Almost always, packrats decide to keep it. Whatever it is.

Almost always, packrats never fix things.

It's true that as a packrat you may have flashing moments of intuition, moments when you actually remember (albeit vaguely) what you have squirrelled away in boxes, bags, cupboards, closets, attic drawers and basements. But the truth is that years often go by without seeing the same article twice. This is the first stage of overload. No longer do you merely look for things. Rummage is the operative word. At this stage your things begin to spill off shelves, out of containers or just pile up in corners.

Comes a time though, when packrats begin to lose their everyday necessary articles like toasters and telephone bills. Comes a time too, when packrats begin to misplace family members in the jumble.

It came to a shattering halt for me one day when, in answer to a question, I replied: ''It's in the junkroom.''

''Which one?'' asked my friend, the self-described minimalist.

It was here I began to see the real perils of a packrat, but what would I get rid of? ''Anything you don't love,'' my spartan friend advised. And lately that's exactly what I've been doing; single-mindedly banishing articles (packrat-like-things) from the nest, still waiting to come across the many, splendored things I swore to love and keep in some other time frame.

The News brings happy memories

To the editor:

A few weeks ago I received a parcel — a box of Christmas presents from home — from my parents, Donald and Helen McEwen, who recently moved to Campbellford from east of St. Elmo. Lovingly tucked in the bottom of the box was a November 8, 1987 copy of The Glengarry News. News from home!

Somehow, in the rush of Christmas and a trip back country skiing in the mountains, it got pushed aside. Until tonight, after a busy day at work and with a quiet evening to myself, I picked it up to read. And there it was, under "St. Elmo," the headline, "Historic Gordon Church closes for season." Closes for season? You mean it was OPEN? Read on . . .

Yes, open. For five special services this summer, including one to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Congregational log church next door.

My heart skipped a beat, a lump was in my throat. Because you see, those two places are very much part of "home" to me even though I've spent the last 11 years in Alberta. I was so happy to see that someone cared! Cared enough to see that they didn't fall into ruin after all!

I grew up just next door, in the beautiful house now owned by my cousin, Peter. My earliest memories include very special nights when we were shined up and got to sit in the front row at the log church with the other children and watch the "bride" open presents at her bridal shower. Oh, what fun when the goodies came — especially Mrs. MacIntosh's donut holes! The walk home down the road, later, under the elm trees and the stars (ah, those elms!) was special, too.

I was very little when I sang at one shower in the hall, Here Comes Peter Cottontail. I don't know which was most exciting — the prospect of singing in front of that "huge" crowd, or the new dress my mother so lovingly sewed for me. Other years I watched others sing and dance. I cherished those times because I felt those days in that old log church were numbered. For years it would sit idle. Sometimes my sister and I would slip in a loose window and pretend we were stars on the stage . . . It grieved me that the place was looking so ruined.

And then the Gordon Church. Although I was rarely in it, it still held charm for me. I can still feel the excitement, crouching in the grass, waiting for a wedding party to emerge. I can still feel the warm summer evenings, sitting on the steps with friends, watching the cars go by. I can still hear my dad telling the stories about the church's famous minister.

So now you see why I feel better now. Those precious parts of our "roots" will be there yet, perhaps for another 150 years.

Who do I have to thank for this? Whoever you are, I give you my joy across the miles.

Shame on Canada!

To the editor:

Lots of ink, tears and blood will flow as a result of last Thursday's decision of the Supreme Court of Canada on abortion law. Most of us are unable to react coherently to this shocking and unacceptable ruling.

Members of the High Court were certainly not spiritually inspired in their conclusion and strayed shamelessly from everybody's rights. How can these leaders bring our country to morally right standards if they only consider the selfish women's rights in this delicate issue? What about the fathers' rights, the parents' rights and most important of all, the fetuses' rights to have the chance to choose right or wrong as their parents, peers and rulers did?

Last Thursday's judgment of the Supreme Court represents a major obstacle in our natural fight for life as it opposes the sacredness of human life. I read that a country is considered highly civilized when it successfully accepts, cares for and helps its most helpless citizens. Aren't our millions of Canadian fetuses our most helpless and innocent citizens?

What next? Murders and mass killings will become as common as parties and reunions! Why not?

The criminal will take advantage of this legal right to answer the judges of Canada's courts with: "You cannot condemn me, imprison me or kill me since on Jan. 28, 1988, you gave legal permission to abortionists to kill unborn lives on the fancy of selfish women. So, in my mind and obviously in yours, killing is right, right your honor? . . ."

Woe is our nation! But let us keep hope as only the righteous will survive in our corrupting world! Prayer is the only solution — God is Love, Life and the only Supreme Judge!

A firm believer in love and life forever,

Diane Roy,

Electric heat contributes to power shortages

To the editor:

Regarding a recent Rambling Reporter column These are strange times to be in the electrical power business. Lay experts such as editors, housewives and janitors can read the reports and comment on the fact that Quebec was on the verge of power shortage, while Ontario and New York were themselves struggling to meet the demand on their systems during the recent cold snap.

At the peak power demand condition of about 27.5 gigawatts, Quebec was less than a gigawatt away from its present peak generating cabability. Surely we are headed for real trouble in the next few years and yet little sense of urgency is apparent at the political level. Since all the major electrical utilities in Canada are provincially owned except for Alberta and P.E.I., politics prevail.

It takes a number of years to build a new generating plant with the long transmission lines from Baie James even if no environmental studies are made. At even a 2 1/2 per cent load growth, Quebec alone will need more than five gigawatts plus the one gigawatt committed to New York by 1995. That is two or three good-sized generating stations such as available at Baie James and the Lower Churchill River in Labrador.

Meanwhile, the Canadian electrical industry, the senior engineering staff of all major utilities, the consulting engineering firms and the university engineering studies programs have all been seriously reduced in the past 10 years. The power glut of the late seventies, the golden handshakes of the early eighties for senior staff over 55, the drying up of Third World money for consultants, have all had their effect. Even the government-sponsored conversion to electric heating, an ill-advised program for this climate, has contributed to the now apparent power shortage at peak demand situation.

Maybe, just maybe, a bad recession which now seems a possibility, might ease the situation in Eastern Canada and Northeastern U.S. in the near term, but we are headed for some very serious problems before new facilities come on line, most certainly before 1995. We'd better get used to the idea of rotating power cuts at -30°C, they're coming.

CBC should be privatized

To the editor:

The federal cabinet recently put on hold the CBC's expansion into all-news cable TV. That's a welcome measure but cabinet avoided addressing the real issue.

Why is the government in the broadcasting business at all?

The hundreds of other free enterprise broadcasting stations in Canada didn't need the three-quarters of a billion taxpayers' dollars that the CBC got as a subsidy last year. With a $30 billion annual federal government deficit, we taxpayers can't afford it.

The federal government should privatize the CBC by selling shares to the employees, managers and the general public and guarantee control of the network to Canadians. We would still have a national radio and television network but it would be owned directly by Canadians and taxpayers would be relieved of a heavy burden.

It's time to put the CBC where it really belongs — in the free enterprise sector.

'Abduction' rumor blown out of proportion say police

Rumors that an Alexandria elementary school student was recently abducted by people travelling in a mysterious vehicle have been "blown out of proportion", an Alexandria policeman says.

The Alexandria Police Department received a complaint two weeks ago that a child was seen talking to two youths, who were sitting in a red truck, parked on Main Street in front of Perpetuel-Secours School.

The police investigation revealed the conversation was friendly and no criminal act was involved.

"The truck and the youths have been identified and our investigation determined no effort was made to have the child abducted," said Alexandria Const. Paul Deveau, Tuesday afternoon.

Const. Deveau said further investigation revealed that the driver had left the two youths alone in the truck for a few moments.

He said an innocent conservation followed between an 11-year-old child who was passing by, and the two occupants.

Mysterious rash is childhood viral illness

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-2279

It's been a week of word-eating, readers. First of all my apologies go out to Char-Lan High School for hinting that the mysterious rash afflicting local youths originated in the classroom. Diagnosis was never a strength of mine, and I am indebted to the Health Unit and Penny Cavell for being able to call the rash what it is: fifth disease, a childhood viral illness. Now there is just one question remaining. What are the other four.?

I'd also like to explain that last week's column read like a bad dream because the surgeons over at The News removed a chunk of writing from my comments on dogs. Space in the paper has been tight these days and some of us are going to have to pare things down a bit in order to fit all the news in. Now this does not mean that your items are not important. It is just that I am going to have to learn to write them without all this preamble, so that you can read more news in less words.

In a follow-up to the mangled dog story, I heard from a reader who was very upset about the way that dogs were running loose in the area. She mentioned instances of dogs destroying livestock, children's pets, etc. and left me with a good quote to pass on to you, "If you love your dog you will know where he is at all times."

It turns out Janis Pasco was home making plans. Janis will marry longtime boyfriend Robert Prevost, April 2, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster.

On Feb. 13, a mixed party will be held for Janis and Robert at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Glen Walter.

Edgar Prevost, Charlottenburgh councillor, has had a busy year. First one son, then another getting married, stepping in to fill the seat on council, and now having a spot of hospitalization. Good luck, Edgar!

Cornwall's Glen Theatre is once again presenting its annual musical and once again, some locals are giving our city cousins a hand. Appearing in "Hello Dolly" are Tiffany Stones and Heather Pasco, both seasoned veterans of Char-Lan's production of "Anne of Green Gables."

"Hello Dolly" will be presented Feb. 11, 12, 13 and 18, 19 and 20 at Aultsville Hall. For tickets, call 937-0043.

And by the way, Char-Lan's popular music teacher, Luc Groulx, is the Music Director of "Dolly."

On Feb. 13 a St. Valentine's dance will be held at Branch 544 of the Legion in Lancaster, beginning at 9 p.m. This dance is being held in honor of Williamstown's Anson Raymond who succumbed to cancer last year. * * *

it seems that February can also lay claim to a number of local residents' birthdays. February 6th, in particular, seems to be a most popular day. Adding another year of wisdom this Saturday will be twins Elizabeth Chatfield and Arnold Flipsen; Betty Nysten and Lloyd Rozon. Happy birthday to you all and to young Derek Werely who celebrates on the 5th.

Thelma Dupuis hosted a bunch of eager Beavers at her place on Saturday. The boys, members of the Lancaster Beavers, were to have gone to Klondike Days in Cornwall for a day of outdoor winter activities. When the event was cancelled because of the unseasonal weather, Thelma offered the helping hand and along with Beaver leaders and volunteer parents, saved the day for the youngsters. The boys skated on the Dupuis' pond and ate outdoors among the cedars in true scouting fashion.

The Glengarry Community Club will hold a pot luck luncheon at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre at noon today (Wed.). Bring all your friends to enjoy the good cooking. An afternoon of cards and birthday celebrations will follow.

Bridge Club winners this week were Garry O'Connell and Garnet MacDougall, who tied with Leonard and Kay MacLachlan for first place. Margaret Kennedy and Albert MacDonald were second, while Maurice Lagroix and Charlie Abrams came third.

The Williamstown Green Thumbs Horticultural Society ate in splendor last Monday at the group's annual pot luck supper. I'm told the array of foods was both varied and colorful (much like a good garden) and that Father Charles' cat enjoyed the evening immensely.

Memberships were taken and the new yearbooks were distributed. Thanks to Gordon Light who designed and executed the beautiful handpainted covers on the books; roses it is this year.

Don't forget to attend the Fair Board Dinner on Saturday at 7:30 at St. Mary's Centre. Can't wait to see who the new secretary-treasurer of the fair will be!

Thieves walk away with railway ties

Lancaster OPP is investigating a theft of railway ties which were taken from the Canadian Pacific line near the Williamstown Fairground recently.

The ties are valued at about $7,500 and police would like to remind everyone that ties are available by contacting Canadian Pacific or Canadian National officials in Smiths Falls and Belleville respectively.

Failure to do so could result in charges of theft.

Old-fashioned fun

The mood was set for Club 65's sleigh ride, Jan. 24, as lazy flakes drifted to the ground most of the afternoon. The ride started out from the Glen Robertson Social Centre and when the outdoor fun was over, the club held a dinner and dance attended by about 150 people.

No tulips or Easter bunny

GLEN NORMAN

With the beautiful mild weather over the weekend, one almost expected to see the Easter bunny or tulips popping through the mucky soil.

Speaking of bunnies, I made my first wild meat pie on Sunday; a combination of one lone rabbit and a partridge; mmm delicious!

On Sunday night my nephew, Bob, alias Elmer Fudd, decided to sleep out in the bush in his sleeping bag, upon some evergreen boughs. True, the weather was mild but the howling wind made me shiver at the thought of it. On this starless night I think he was hoping that a couple of rabbits would crawl in with him, and then he could have another meat pie.

Two area residences threatened by fire last week

MAXVILLE
Gordon Winter
527-2888

Fires

Two residences were seriously threatened by fires last week. The one owned by Doreen and Allan Merrick on the 5th Concession of Roxborough was saved, thanks to the efficient services of the Moose Creek Fire Department. The attic and upper story received considerable damage. The fire is thought to have started in the chimney, on one of the coldest nights of the year.

Mr. Merrick gave much credit to one of his dogs in awakening the family before the fire alarm went off. He also wishes to sincerely thank the Moose Creek volunteer firemen who saved the house. They had to travel a considerable distance to this country home which is on the former Ivan Willard farm.

Then, last Wednesday, the home of Bertha King at the end of Mechanic St. W., received considerable interior damage from a fire which apparently started in the back shed. This is also the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Hughes and daughter. Mrs. Hughes is Mrs. King's daughter.

The Maxville Fire Department was quickly on the scene and prevented the fire from completely destroying the house.

Margaret and Tom Turpin of Ottawa were weekend visitors with Mrs. Turpin's brother, Linden Kippen.

Eileen Colbourne was in Detroit to attend the funeral of her brother, Donald Matsche. Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Colbourne and other members of the family.

Ronald Villeneuve of Dalhousie, N.B., was able to take a couple of days off, while on a business trip, to visit his mother, Mrs. O. F. Villeneuve.

Wayne and Jennifer Scott, Angela and Kendall from Barrie were home for a few days with Wayne's parents, Murdena and Eldred.

It is good to see Jessie Christie out again after her hospital stay. The shut-ins who Jessie visits and helps are doubly appreciative of her presence, once again.

We cannot claim her as a native but all of Maxville is very proud to have Jessie Woodley, a Manor resident and member of the community at the age of 103. Congratulations and very best wishes go out to Mrs. Woodley and thanks go to Manor staff who keep her so well and looking much younger than her years might dictate.

Mrs. Woodley had the distinction of having a twin sister, living in England, at the age of 100. Her daughter Audrey and Bill Reid live on Fair Street.

Carole Williams was in Toronto last weekend to attend the wedding of her niece, Anne Pethick. High school examinations kept the rest of the family home in Maxville.

Muskrats sighted

A reader phoned in to report a muskrat at their bird feeding station. The muskrat was enjoying the spilled seed.

There have been other reports of muskrats travelling about, so to find the reasons, Maxville's well known trapper Angus MacRae was consulted.

First of all, the muskrat population is high this year, they live in crowded dens, and are swarming with lice. The weaker and smaller muskrats are being forced out during the fighting and are looking for food and shelter.

Mr. MacRae reports that the ones we see are the small, thin ones. Their tracks on the snow show small footprints which surround straight lines made by their dragging tails.

Stanley McDonald had three American friends visitng a few days ago. It might have been termed a social call but the talk centred around racing boats and their motors, it is suspected. Mr. McDonald, age 93, still maintains his reputation as an expert on this subject.

Two couples were able to enjoy a week's holiday away. Martha and Donald MacLean have been in Jamaica and Donna and Murray McEwen in Mexico.

The village of Canmore, Alta. is in the news with the advent of the Olympic Games in that region. The Rev. Charles Gordon preached there many years ago and the United Church is called the Ralph Connor Memorial Church in his honor. It is interesting how both Glengarry and the West lay claim to this well known, early Canadian author.

Jim and Allan

We are pleased to know that publisher Joe Banks enjoyed his visit in Maxville. Because Jim MacEwen was not ''at home'' at the feedstore, we were unable to visit him. If we had, it would have been clear to Joe that MacEwen Feed and Fertilizer Inc. is strictly Jim's operation. While Allan operates MacEwen Fuels Ltd. The village is indebted to Jim, too, as a major employer.

As predicted, but somewhat earlier than expected, the red polls are visiting the bird feeders now. They are small and brown and the males in particular possess bright red caps and splashes of red on the breast.

A hawk has been hovering around our feeding station. It is probably a red-tailed hawk which should have migrated farther south but has stayed around because of our open winter and abundance of small birds. It took a sweep at a woodpecker while being watched, but fortunately for the woodpecker, missed!

Ken and Barbara Birtch from the grocery store sent sandwiches and coffee to the firemen while the Manor kitchen staff sent the same along with desserts. How is that for community spirit?

Circle your calendar for Sunday, Feb. 14 for a great Valentine's Day breakfast, to be prepared by the members of the Maxville and District Lions Club.

It will be at the Maxville Sports Complex and will be served from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Of course, everyone is welcome, so treat your Valentine to an event at which the Lions will do all the work.

Waste management

The first meeting of the public liaison committee for the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan was held last Thursday evening in Martintown. Representing the citizens of Maxville on this committee are Michael Cowley-Owen and Gordon Winter with Ross Conners one of the representatives from Roxborough township.

It is the purpose of this Committee to take the concerns and ideas of Maxville residents to the meetings and to keep residents posted on developments at the same time. Invitations are extended to interested persons to contact representatives during the course of the planning period, which is expected to extend over at least 1 1/2 years.

Sympathy extended

GLEN SANDFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. François Latulippe and Mr. and Mrs. Laurier drove up to Limoges recently to visit Mr. and Mrs. Richard Latulippe and family in Limoges.

A reminder to McCrimmon WI ladies that Wednesday's meeting is in the church on the Curry Hill Road.

A house key for a ''bird lock'' was found on the road near Glen Sandfield and can be retrieved at the Chapman home.

Carnival on weekend

DUNVEGAN

Mary MacCaskill
527-2855

No, we had no column last week. It was gratifying to have so many people phone to tell me they missed it, but it would be more gratifying to have items to report each week. Do take a moment to call with your news. Thanks.

Dunvegan's answer to Winterlude comes in the form of the Dunvegan Recreation Association (DRA) carnival. A skiing day kicks things off, Friday, at Mont Rigaud from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday morning, from 8:30-11 a.m., a pancake breakfast will be served at the WI hall in Dunegan. Admission to adults is $2, children under age 12, $1. In the afternoon from 2-4 p.m., there will be skiing if there is snow. If you like cross-country skiing, come out to Robb and Joyce Cutts' farm, one mile east of the village. Then, on Sunday if the Rideau canal is open, a bus will arrive in Dunvegan at Leblanc's barbershop at 11 a.m. to go to Ottawa for walking or skating on the canal. It will return at 4 p.m. The cost is $1 for DRA members, $2 for non-members. But hurry! There's only room on the bus for 50 people, so call Mary Anne MacRae at 527-5774 or Linda Wightman at 525-1412 to reserve your seat. Membership in the DRA may be obtained at the pancake breakfast.

Some sad news. Harold Cameron passed away Jan. 24. Condolences are extended to his family.

Lots of birthdays this week. Ian Lundie celebrated a ''round-figure'' birthday, Jan. 14. Son Marshall, daughter Fiona and Scott Kennedy were all home to help dad celebrate his day.

The weekend before her birthday Leigh and Betty Zeitz of Pembroke came to Dunvegan and stayed with the Loewen's, especially for Marion's mom's birthday. Barb and Yvon Ladouceur, Gabriel and Joseph were also there for the festivities. Mrs. Hampel received letters or cards from Prime Minister Mulroney, Rt. Hon. J. Turner, Rt. Hon. Don Boudria and Hon. N. Villeneuve.

Sarah Viau was 11 years old on Jan. 13 — our youngest birthday to report this week. Her brother, Chris, also celebrated a birthday on Jan. 27.

* * *

''Little Willie'' MacLeod of Skye celebrated his special day last Friday. His sister Catherine MacRae held a dinner party, Friday, in his honor. Guests were his wife Maude, Mary Fraser, Rhoda MacRae and James Campbell.

Grant turned down

The SD&G County Board of Education recently turned down a request last week from Cornwall Public Library for a yearly grant.

At the Jan. 12 meeting, the board reasoned that it ''would not be appropriate for the board of education to levy taxes for purposes other than the direct delivery of our educational programs.'' Members suggested the library appeal to SD&G Counties Council for funds.

The library is facing a $36,000 shortfall in revenue this year due to the withdrawal of a service contract by the SD&G County Library Board. This could result in membership fees to non-city residents and the library is considering a rate of $30 a year per household or $20 a year for an individual membership.

In a letter to the school board, the Cornwall Public Library Board noted that ''one especially distressing situation is the possibility that children living in the counties but attending schools in the city may be denied use of books from the city library.''

FROM THE SIDELINES

Peter Conway

Showcasing talent

John Shorey isn't well known to many people in Glengarry, but the president of the Rideau-St. Lawrence Divisions may have won a few popularity votes among the loop's managers.

Mr. Shorey recently came up with the idea of staging an all-star game between St. Lawrence and Rideau Divisions top players. The game is set for Saturday at Prescott's Leo Boivin Community Centre.

The concept of staging an inter-divisional all-star game isn't new in Junior B hockey. But it's been a number of years since the event was organized by the Eastern Ontario Junior B League.

As far as I'm concerned, staging an all-star contest is a great idea. The game will showcase both divisions top talent while Peter DeRooy (Glens) and Dave Hanson (Rebels) handle the coaching duties.

Glengarry's two Junior B squads will be represented by 10 skaters. Chosen from the Junior B Glens are goaler Daniel Brunet, defenceman Luc Decoeur and forwards Leonard Seguin and Mike Sauvé.

Representing the Char-Lan Rebels are goaler Kevin Buchan, defencemen Herb Seguin and Larry Frappier and forwards Mike Jodoin, Roddy MacKenzie and Kevin Poapst.

It shouldn't come as a surprise to anyone that the Rebels and Glens dominated the St. Lawrence squad with the most selections.

Both clubs have battled for first place since the season began last October. Rebels' Manager John Chafee, and Claude Roy, his counterpart with the Glens, both deserve a lot of credit for their off-ice work in securing talent for their respective squads.

The players from the two local clubs are worthy representatives for the all-star contest. There should be plenty of firepower from snipers Mike Jodoin, Kevin Poapst, Roddy MacKenzie, Leonard Seguin and Mike Sauvé.

Daniel Brunet and Kevin Buchan should produce solid goaltending, while Luc Decoeur, Herb Seguin and Larry Frappier should provide both goalers with ample assistance on the blueline.

So, if you're a Junior B hockey fan, Prescott is the place to be Saturday night. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

More firings on way

Coach Doug Carpenter was bounced by the New Jersey Devils last week and other coaches around the National Hockey league must be looking over their shoulders and wondering when they'll get their pink slips.

It isn't a surprise that Carpenter got the axe. The Devils have been in a terrible slump lately and will likely miss the playoffs.

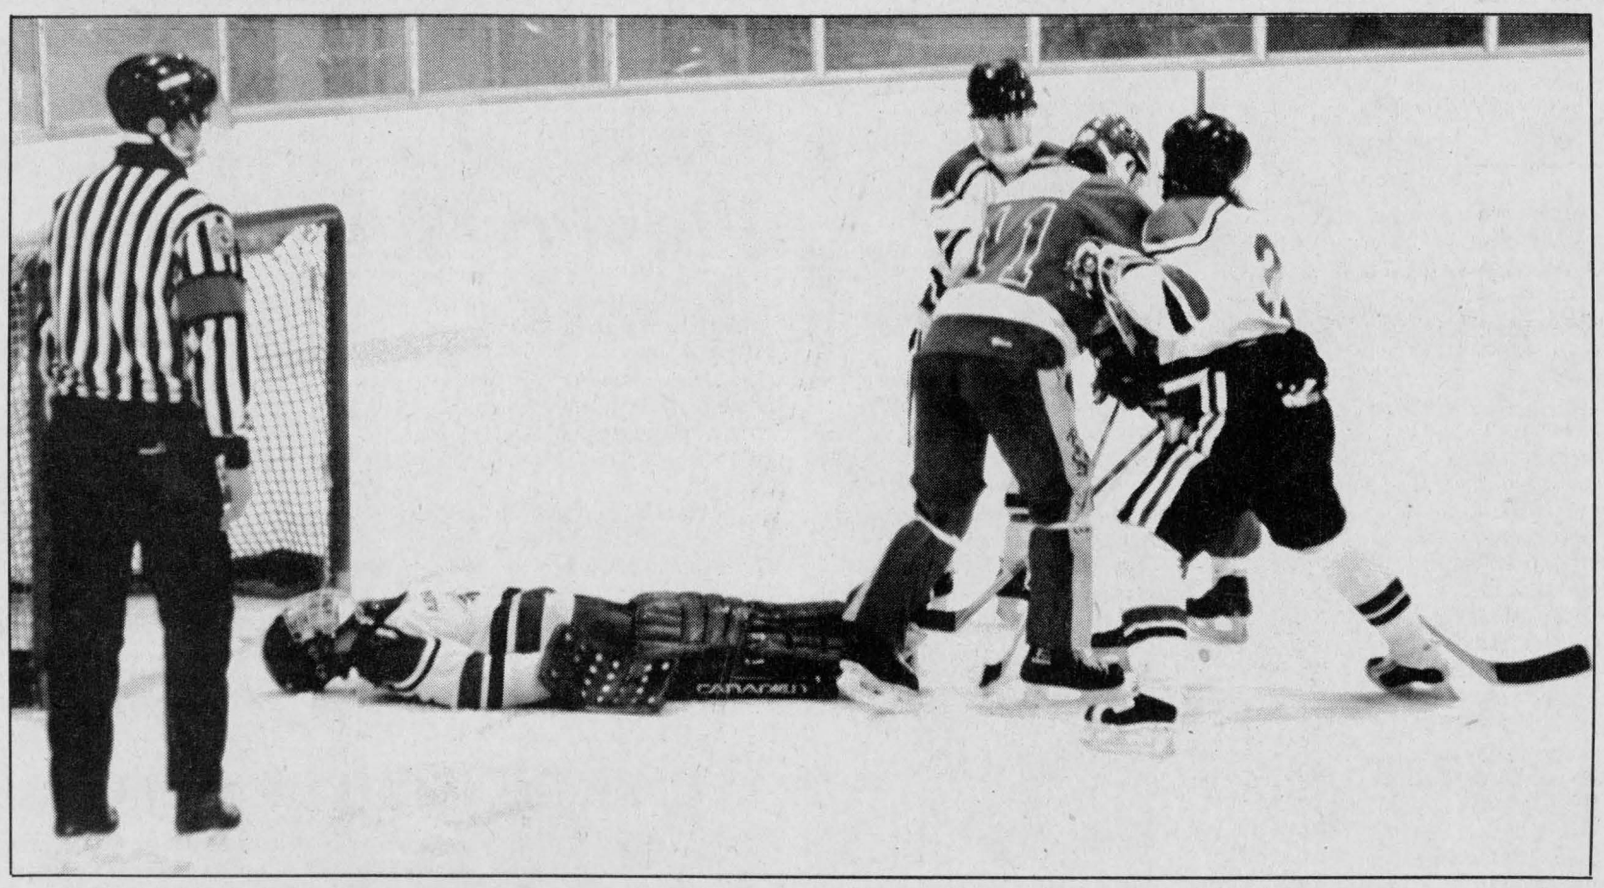
The Devils got off to a quick start this season, battling for top spot in the Patrick Division, up until Christmas. But when a team starts to struggle the way the Devils have the past month, it usually spells the end of the coach.

It's too bad for Carpenter. He's a nice guy behind the bench and off the ice.

With the Toronto Maple Leafs struggling, it won't be a surprise if club owner Harold Ballard replaces Coach John Brophy in the not-too-distant future.

Is Herb Brooks secure in Minnesota? The North Stars have been near the bottom of the ladder among the 21 NHL teams most of the season.

Doug Carpenter isn't likely to be the only coach looking for employment when this season is over.



No, Glens' goalie Danny Brunet has not been caught napping, he's just holding on to the puck until the action dies down. The Glens squeezed by the Char-Lan Rebels 7-6, at the Glengarry Sports Palace, Friday night.

Jr. B Glens share top spot following weekend sweep

by Janet Clermont,
Staff Writer

The Alexandria Junior B Glens swept a pair of games over the weekend and are now tied for first place in the St. Lawrence Division pennant race.

The Glens skated to an 8-6 victory over the Westport Rideaus on the road Sunday and squeezed past the Char-Lan Rebels, 7-6, at the Glengarry Sports Palace, Friday night.

Coach Peter DeRooy now is confident the Glens can vault into top spot in the league standings.

"Like I said a few weeks ago, all we needed was a winning streak to get back into the race for first place."

Westport jumped into an early lead in the first period which ended in a 2-1 advantage for the Rideaus. The Glens fired four consecutive goals in the second stanza to grab a 5-3 lead over Westport. Both clubs kept pace in the third period, scoring three goals each.

Andrew Meth and Mike Sauvé led the Glens' attack with a pair of goals each. Single markers went to Glen Campbell, Andrew McCormick, Leonard Seguin and Luc Decoeur.

Jeff Nicholson tallied a pair for Westport, while Tom Prydel, Jeff Snow, Peter Thurston and Shawn Hall added singles.

Kevin Kamensky and John Dullaghan fired a pair of goals to lift the Glens to their victory over the Char-Lan Rebels.

Alexandria scored three goals in the first stanza, leaving the visitors at a 3-1 disadvantage. The Glens maintained a two-point lead in the second period which ended 5-3.

Single markers for the Glens went to Glen Campbell, André Lapensée and Andrew McCormick.

Kevin Poapst and Mike Jodoin led the scoring for the Rebels, while Darrin Menard and Herb Seguin tallied singles.

DeRooy attributed his club's weekend victories to solid defence, excellent goaltending and supportive fans.

"There was a good crowd out on Friday night and I think that really helped the boys. They enjoy playing in front of 300 people, rather than 60."

Glens notes

The Glens will travel to play the Brockville Braves tonight (Wednesday) and square off with the Cardinal-Spencerville Broncos, Friday, at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Rebels share first place following loss

by Janet Clermont
Staff Writer

The Char-Lan Rebels' four-point lead in the St. Lawrence Division standings, has slipped away after the team lost a 7-6 squeaker to the Alexandria Junior B Glens at the Glengarry Sports Palace, Friday night.

The Rebels are now tied with Alexandria after the Glens defeated the Westport Rideaus on the road, Sunday.

Although the Rebels lost the game, Manager John Chafee praised his team's effort. He said the Rebels outshot the Glens 43 to 29.

"Our defence and goaltending was good. When you outshoot a team 2 to 1, you deserve a better fate than to lose by one goal, but if the other team's goalie is good, he's gonna get you."

Chafee said the Glen's goalie, Danny Brunet, made several key saves which attributed to the Glens' victory.

The Glens took an early lead in the first stanza, scoring three consecutive goals for a 3-1 advantage. The Rebels tied the score 3-3 by the middle of the second period, but the Glens broke away and fired four consecutive goals midway in the third stanza. The Rebels came alive a little too late and scored three goals to narrow the score to 7-6 in the dying moments.

Kevin Poapst led the Rebels with a pair of goals and three assists. Mike Jodoin tallied a pair, while Darrin Menard and Herb Seguin added singles.

Kevin Kamensky and John Dullaghan led the scoring attack for the Glens with a pair of goals each. Glen Campbell, Andre Lapensee and Andrew McCormick tallied singles.

Although Chafee had high hopes for Friday night's game, he is hoping to turn the tables when the clubs meet again Feb. 11 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre.

"It is going to be a key game. It could decide first place," he said.

Rebels Notes

The Rebels will battle it out with the Kemptville 73's on the road, Sunday.

Fans looking for a ride to the Junior B all-star game in Prescott, Saturday, can hop on a bus leaving Cornwall at 5:30 p.m. from the Fifth Wheel Truck Stop. Seats are $5 per person. For more information call John Chafee at 932-9173.

Menard scores hat trick in women's sponge puck

by Bruce Howells

Sylvie Menard fired three goals to lift Paul's to a 9-1 victory over Torque in the ladies sponge puck game, Jan. 27.

Torque kept pace with Paul's until the third stanza when the winners scored five consecutive goals.

Karen Smith fired two goals, while Cheryl Wightman, Tina Michaud and Cathy Lunan tallied singles.

Sylvie Major scored the lone goal for Torque.

Art Benton downed GTL 5-2 in the opening game.

Chris Ladouceur led the way for Art Benton with two goals, while Debbie Nadon, Ginette Lalonde and Donna McGregor added singles. Joanne Ward, Joan Filion, Barb Benton and Kathy Geurin each had one assist.

Lori Trottier and Donna Clark replied for GTL with Henrietta MacSweyn assisting on both goals.

Tapis Richard maintained its two-point, first-place lead after a 3-0 victory over Gareau's Sunoco.

Scoring singles for Tapis Richard were Sue McIntosh, Sue Decoste and Louise Laferriere. Assists went to Brenda Golden and Anne McPherson. Sue Borris recorded the shutout.

An honorable mention for sportsmanship goes out to Sylvie Seguin, goaler for GTL. During a net scramble, the referee was not in a position to see whether the puck had crossed the line. Ms. Seguin said the shot was good, which upped Benton's lead to 4-2.

Scott McPherson and Marc Legault were the top scorers for the Hawks with six points each. Matthew Steiche chipped in with four markers and Tim Walker and Billy Tuppert added two each.

The Hawks bounced back to oust the short-handed Lakers 42-12

In Memoriam

CUMMING, Christena — In loving memory of a dear friend who passed away January 25, 1977.
Each time I see your picture,
You seem to smile and say,
Don't cry, I'm only sleeping
We'll meet again some day.
And when I'm sad and lonely,
And everything goes wrong,
I hear you whisper softly,
Cheer up and carry on.
Looking back with memories
Upon the path you trod,
I bless the hours I had with you,
And leave the rest with God.
—Always in my thoughts, Kevin. 5-1p

A Message to Grain Farmers
Special Canadian Grains Program–1987 Extension.

The federal government has announced the 1987 extension of the Special Canadian Grains Program.

The subsidy war between the United States and the European Economic Community is continuing to financially affect Canadian farmers. This program will help offset the low world prices of 1987 grain, oilseed and special crops caused by this subsidy war.

For crops produced in 1987, this special assistance has been increased to $1.1 billion. Also increased is the number of eligible crops. The grain, oilseed and special crops included in the program are listed below.

1 Farmers who applied for a payment under the Special Canadian Grains Program last year have been mailed application forms this year. Other farmers can obtain forms by calling the toll-free number, or by contacting:

- Agriculture Canada regional offices
- Farm Credit Corporation offices
- Offices of Members of Parliament
- Elevator agents
- Producer associations
- Provincial extension offices.

A separate application form will be distributed to honey producers in mid-February.

2 A first installment payment covering about three-quarters of each farmer's total entitlement will be made before March 31, 1988. Final payments will be made by the end of June.

Farmers who do not receive a first installment payment will receive their total payment in June.

3 The application deadline is March 16th, 1988.

To be eligible for the assistance, all farmers must submit an application form. They must be postmarked no later than March 16, 1988.

If you need more information, call toll-free between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., EST:

Rehabilitation will be offered to handicapped pre-school children

Handicapped pre-school children living in the counties of Prescott-Russell, Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, are expected to be able to obtain rehabilitation services in their own communities by the spring.

The Hawkesbury and District General Hospital will receive $256,000 in annual operating funds to establish the program.

"The goal of the program is the treatment of handicapped children up to six years old and to offer the families support, which is non-existent at the moment," says Johanne Laferriere, public relations coordinator at the hospital. "We're aiming for next spring to start the program. We're hoping it's a mobile program which will be held in community centres, such as hospitals or other government agencies needing services of the program."

The program will be administered by the Hawkesbury and District General Hospital; program staff will be hired by the hospitals, but staff will travel to communities in need of services.

The program will support two teams; one for Prescott-Russell and the other for SD&G. Each team is expected to have a physio, occupational and speech therapist.

"The program will also have formal contact with the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario, the Crippled Children's Hospital both in Ottawa — the Eastern Ontario Health Unit and other agencies working with handicapped children," adds Miss Laferriere.

Services will be offered in both English and French throughout the five counties.

The program was recommended by the District Health Council of Eastern Ontario, and was endorsed by community groups, agencies and organizations in the five counties.

Busy year ahead for crop association

by Glen Smith,
Agric. Rep.

1988 is now upon us and if the past two weeks are an indication of what lies ahead, it promises to be a busy year.

Special Grains Programs, Grain Stabilization, Farm-Start and Land Stewardship: all have the interest of many producers. There are also numerous seminars and workshops for Farm Business Management, Dairy and Crop Management, etc., being held in the next three months, which many will want to attend.

The Glengarry Crop Improvement Association recognizes individuals who have shown genuine concern for and who have made an outstanding contribution to the general welfare of agriculture within their communities.

This Award of Merit is presented annually at the Crop Improvement Association annual meeting. The 1987 Award of Merit recipient was John Peters of Martintown. John was born in Holland in 1922 and immigrated to Canada in 1953 with his wife Elizabeth. Their first years in Canada were spent at Stittsville, Kemptville, Alexandria and Martintown. In 1960, John and Elizabeth purchased a dairy farm in Martintown and, with his wife and family of five boys and one girl, developed an excellent herd of Holstein cattle and were very successful in the area of crop production. John has been very active in all farm organizations, director of the UCO in Cornwall, a director of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society (Williamstown Fair) for 10 years, Past-President of the Glengarry Crop Improvement Association and Past-President of the Glengarry Holstein Club. John has been an exhibitor of feed and forage at many of our local and regional fairs and shows. He has also participated in a number of crop projects on his farm. John was presented with the Award of Merit Dec. 16 at the Glengarry Crop Improvement annual meeting, in recognition of his contribution to agriculture and his community.

Coming events

The Farm Machinery Show will be held in Toronto on Feb. 3, 4 and 5.

The Glengarry Federation of Agriculture annual meeting will take place Feb. 8, at the Alexandria Curling Club.

The Glengarry Eastern Breeders Incorporated annual meeting will take place Feb. 10, beginning at 11 a.m. at the Bonnie Glen.

And on Feb. 18, the Glengarry Dairy Herd Improvement Corporation will hold its annual meeting at 10:30 a.m. at the Bonnie Glen. The guest speaker will be Neil Petreny, director of field services for the corporation.

Funds available

Don't pay any attention to the story that the money was used up for the Ontario Farm Management, Safety and Repairs program. The $50 million has not been extended and as of Jan. 14, there was still $17 million remaining. Applicants who made applications in December in January may have been confused when they were told the money had been exhausted for this fiscal year; but approved applicants will receive their payment after April 1. I suggest you submit your application as soon as possible.

Publications available

Land Stewardship Program applications are available at the OMAF office. Fiedl Crop Recommendations, Guide to Chemical Weed Control and Corn Hybrid Report 1988 are also available.

A newly-appointed committee to the district Land Stewardship Program is encouraging farmers to submit applications for funds as soon as possible.

The $40 million program provides financial incentives to Ontario farmers who adopt management practices which improve the health of soils.

A four-member committee which will communicate with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food (OMAF) was appointed, Jan. 18. Members are Archie Robertson, chairman, Jim Vallance, James Sangster and Robert Decaire.

Richelieu donation

The Alexandria Richelieu Club donated $600 to the Centre culturel "Les trois p'tits points...", Thursday. About $200 will contribute to the Centre's St. Valentine's brunch, Feb. 14. Roughly $400 will be used in "La culture à la portée de nos jeunes" project, which brings artists to perform in the french schools in Alexandria and the region. Richelieu Club President Robert Lessard presented the cheques to Francine Richer, left, of the Centre's personnel committee and Program coordinator Renelle Charron.

Adults pick up business skills

by Lesley Cadham,
News* editor

For Christine Walker, re-entering the work force wasn't an easy step forward. She'd spent 15 years at home, raising her children, and she admits she was frightened about the prospect of going out into the world and competing with younger adults.

And though this Kenyon Township woman had worked in data processing before getting married, she knew a lot had changed; she'd need to re-educate herself.

Three years ago, she entered the Alternative School's Adult Business Re-entry program at Char-Lan District High School to upgrade her skills in computer programming and accounting. Today, she is a computer resource person at Char-Lan and teaches students to use computers to augment their education.

Three years ago, Christine Walker was a student in the Alternative School's Adult Business Re-entry program out of Char-Lan High School. Today, she shows Char-Lan students how to use computers to augment the learning experience.

The Adult Business Re-entry program has operated out of Char-Lan for about 7 1/2 years. It is geared toward people aged 17-65 who may not have completed high school and who want to gain a practical skill which would allow them to re-enter the work force.

Students spend eight to nine weeks in the classroom and another eight to nine weeks in the work force; the employment portion of the program is arranged by the Alternative School. Often, employers keep the students on after the program has been completed and some hire the students for permanent positions.

According to teacher Irv Francis, the majority of students who join the program are women who have left the labor force to raise a family.

And though the program is offered in a high school setting, Mr. Francis ensures it is not like going back to high school.

"Adults are intimidated by the high school system. It's difficult for them to come back to high school because they feel uncomfortable sitting in a classroom with Grade 10 kids.

"This is nothing like high school. I never teach a formal lesson; it's more like a tutorial and they can go at their own speed," says Mr. Francis.

He also explains that there is little need for the adults to mingle with the students. The classroom is equipped with a coffee machine and refrigerator and the cafeteria opens early to allow adults to buy their lunches before the younger students break for noon-hour.

Business re-entry students can choose from 13 subjects, such as typing, office practice, computer courses, accounting, marketing, law, word processing and shorthand. Students are awarded two regular high school credits for each subject completed and two credits for the eight to nine weeks in the work force.

In addition, one high school credit is awarded for every year a student has been out of school to a maximum of 20 credits. Successful students receive a Grade 12 high school leaving certificate from the Province of Ontario and another certificate from the Alternative School.

No one has ever failed this course, says Mr. Francis, adding, "When I tell people they can't fail, it seems to remove a lot of anxiety."

He provides a relaxed atmosphere and says most of his students end up teaching themselves and helping each other. His role becomes that of a tutor in case students have questions they cannot solve.

Mr. Francis also verses students on obtaining employment, dressing appropriately and preparing for a job interview and on how to answer questions during an interview.

There is no charge for the Adult Business Re-entry program and the majority of students are not paid while in the program. However, some funds are available to qualified students for child care and mileage expenses.

The program operates five days a week from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. but hours are somewhat flexible to allow parents to get children off to school or to handle personal business.

Classes begin Feb. 4 and more information is available by calling Mr. Francis at 347-2441. Last semester, 15 students were enrolled in the program.

"Some students look back to their high school years and say, 'I've never done well,' but they can do well here. They're annoyed when their marks go below 90 because they're doing so well and they've never done well (in the classroom) before."
